A large and appreciative audience assembled in the Trinity Hall, Old Hill, on Thursday evening, April 2nd, the occasion being the twenty-first concert arranged by the Old Hill Musical Society, conductor, Mr. A. H. Bassano. A special feature of the concert was the performance of Mr. A. R. Gaul's sacred cantata, "The Prince of Peace," this being the first time of performance in the Birmingham district. The work met with a most flattering reception. "The Prince of Peace" is an octave above "Ruth," the first of the series, being the most modern both in style and treatment of the whole set. Mr. Gaul has felt the influence of the time, and perceived the trend of modern music; so his new work is more closely knit, combines the continuous treatment while preserving the older vocal forms, and exhibits a freedom in advance of his preceding productions. The choral writing is very grateful for the singers, and the choruses concluding each part are the most scholarly of all. Every care is paid to detail, and the directions given in places should enable conductors to realize the composer's intentions to the full.

BIRMINGHAM DAILY MAIL.

"THE PRINCE OF PEACE."—The composer's preface states that the cantata completes a long-cherished idea, namely, that of writing a series of works agreeing in number with the notes of the diatonic scale. To this order belong the cantatas:—1, "Ruth"; 2, "The Holy City"; 3, "Passion Service"; 4, "Joan of Arc"; 5, "The Ten Virgins"; 6, "Israel in the Wilderness"; 7, "Una"; 8, "The Prince of Peace." Much prominence is given to the soli, and these have a melodic as well as a declamatory structure for their basis of a captivating kind. Admirably written for the voice, enhanced by charm of rhythm and picturesque accompaniments, these manifold soli form a distinct treasure of their own. The part-writing is conceived in Mr. Gaul's best vein, and here he shows a master hand in treatment and beauty of melody. The part-writing in this work is more elaborate and academic than in his previous cantatas; and contrapuntal and fugal devices figure strongly in some of the choruses. The choruses in plain harmony and the unaccompanied choruses are among the finest examples of his prolific pen. An important number is the chorus, "Praise the Lord" (unaccompanied), for double choir, in four and eight parts. The instrumental interludes comprise an "Eastern Dance" and an "Intermezzo" of picturesque colouring. There is a quaintness in these instrumental pieces which will strongly appeal to the listener. The whole work reveals sound musicianship, the outcome of long years' experience.

Vocal Score, paper cover	price 2s. 6d.
„ paper boards	„ 3s. 6d.
„ scarlet cloth	„ 4s. 6d.
Voice parts, for the use of Choral Societies	each „ 1s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	„ 1s. 6d.
Words only	per 100 „ 5s. 6d.

Band Parts (the loan of) on application to the Composer, Gillott Lodge, Edgbaston.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOW READY.

SELECTED PIANOFORTE STUDIES

PROGRESSIVELY ARRANGED

BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

IN TWO SETS (EIGHT BOOKS).

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

THE present collection of Studies is designed to provide teachers with a short course of Pianoforte Technique adapted to the needs of the average pupil, the intention being to spare the teacher the labour of choosing a sufficiently varied selection from the large mass of material existing, and at the same time to ensure that the different departments of technique shall be undertaken in the order which experience has proved to be the most beneficial.

The Studies are grouped in two Sets, and are so arranged that the different Books in which they are contained may be taken in consecutive order, but pupils who are already further advanced than the elementary stage represented by Set I. may commence at once with Set II., which will be found to be complete in itself, and to illustrate all the essential elements of technique.

Where additional studies are desired, or studies on certain subjects which are not touched upon in this series, the larger collection, published under the title of "Progressive Studies" (from which the present examples have been selected), is of course available.

London, 1903.

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH BOOK.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED, AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

NOVELLO'S EDITION OF

BACH'S CHURCH CANTATAS.

A STRONGHOLD SURE	- - - - -	Ein' feste Burg.
BIDE WITH US	- - - - -	Bleib bei uns.
GOD GOETH UP WITH SHOUTING	- - - - -	Gott fähret auf mit Jauchzen.
GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD	- - - - -	Also hat Gott die Welt geliebt.
GOD'S TIME IS THE BEST	- - - - -	Gottes Zeit ist die allerbeste Zeit.
JESUS, NOW WILL WE PRAISE THEE	- - - - -	Jesu, nun sei gepreiset.
MY SPIRIT WAS IN HEAVINESS	- - - - -	Ich hatte viel Bekümmerniss.
O LIGHT EVERLASTING	- - - - -	O ewiges Feuer.
SLEEPERS, WAKE!	- - - - -	Wachet auf.
THE LORD IS A SUN AND SHIELD	- - - - -	Gott, der Herr, ist Sonn' und Schild.
THOU GUIDE OF ISRAEL	- - - - -	Du Hirte Israel, höre.
WHEN WILL GOD RECALL MY SPIRIT?	- - - - -	Liebster Gott, wann werd' ich sterben.

The wonderful individuality of these Church Cantatas. . . . An undreamt-of wealth of new phenomena meets our gaze on all sides; grand tone-pictures in new, strange, and diversified forms, single ideas of stalwart growth, and of free and noble birth; poetic inspirations of such unspeakable depth, that we are impressed with an unearthly awe.—SPITTA'S Life of Bach.

ONE SHILLING EACH.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

THE BALLAD OF THE VICTORIA CROSS SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY HAROLD BEGBIETHE MUSIC COMPOSED BY ALICIA ADÉLAÏDE NEEDHAM.

THREE SONGS FOR SOLDIERS

No. 1.

Dedicated, by permission, to H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT.
"MIGHT I MARCH THROUGH LIFE AGAIN"
(E. FITZBALL).
In Three Keys.

No. 2.

To Field-Marshal SIR GEORGE S. WHITE, V.C.
"THE GORDONS"
(B. MALCOLM RAMSEY).
In Three Keys.

No. 3.

To EARL ROBERTS, V.C., Commander-in-Chief of the British Army.
"BAD LUCK TO THEIR MARCHING"
(CHARLES LEVER).
In Three Keys.COMPOSED BY
ALICIA ADÉLAÏDE NEEDHAM.

Price Two Shillings each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

A REVERIE OF THE EAST SONG

FOR SOPRANO OR TENOR

THE POEM WRITTEN BY OWEN SEAMAN

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SUITE ESPAGNOLE

FOR

ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

HENRY E. GEEHL.

String Parts, 6s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published. In separate numbers.

THREE DANCES

(In Canon throughout)

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

No. 1. Gavotte No. 2. Minuet No. 3. Waltz

COMPOSED BY

BATTISON HAYNES.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

FOUR NOVELLETEN

FOR

STRING ORCHESTRA, TAMBOURINE, AND TRIANGLE

COMPOSED BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

(Op. 52.)

ARRANGEMENTS FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

Price Two Shillings each.

In the Press.

FULL SCORES, each 2s. 6d.

Parts: No. 1, 3s.; No. 2, 2s. 9d.; No. 3, 2s. 9d.; No. 4, 4s. 3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EDUCATION IN ACCORDANCE WITH NATURAL LAW

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE CONSIDERATION OF PARENTS,
TEACHERS, AND SOCIAL REFORMERS

BY

CHARLES B. INGHAM.

"This thoughtful little book."—Times."A closely-reasoned indictment of existing educational methods. A book which may be studied with advantage by every educated parent."—Daily News.

Price Three Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PATERSON AND SONS,

26, CASTLE STREET, BERNERS STREET, W.

IMPORTANT WORKS FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

BONNY KILMENY

A CANTATA FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

The Words adapted and arranged for the most part from Hogg's
"Queen's Wake" by J. M. C.THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY HAMISH MACCUNN.Staff Notation, 2s. net; Choruses only, Staff Notation, with Piano
Accompaniment, 1s. net. Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. net.

Harmonium Part (in lieu of Wind Instruments), 3s. net.

Words, 3s. per 100. Full Score (MS.). Orchestral Parts (Printed).

THE SOLOS ARE FOR SOPRANO, TENOR, AND BARITONE.

Duration of performance, one hour.

THE STRATHEARN SERIES OF PART-MUSIC

58 Nos. in Staff and in Sol-fa. Includes compositions by H. MACCUNN,
W. A. BARRATT, H. A. LAMBETH, WM. WALLACE, F. PETERSON, & C.

Catalogues, with Contents of above Series, sent free on application.

PATERSON AND SONS,

26, CASTLE ST., BERNERS ST., W.; 27, GEORGE ST., EDINBURGH.

FRANKLIN PETERSON'S Popular Text Books:
ELEMENTS of MUSIC. Seventh Edition. Bound, net 1s.INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF THEORY. A sequel to the "Elements of Music," and intended to prepare the student for Professor Prout's Series of Theoretical Works. Bound, net 1s. 6d.PIANIST'S HANDBOOK. A Theoretical Companion to Practice.
Two Parts, each bound, net 1s. 6d.

CATECHISM of MUSIC. Bound, net 2s.

AUGENER and Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

EBENEZER PROUT'S WORKS ON MUSIC.
Bound, each net, 5s.

HARMONY: Its Theory and Practice. Fifteenth Edition.

COUNTERPOINT: Strict and Free. Seventh Edition.

DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT AND CANON. Third Edition.

FUGUE. Fourth Edition.

FUGAL ANALYSIS. Third Edition.

MUSICAL FORM. Fourth Edition.

APPLIED FORMS. Third Edition.

THE ORCHESTRA.

Vol. I.—"The Technique of the Instruments." Third Edition.

Vol. II.—"Orchestral Combination." Second Edition.

AUGENER and Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

SIR W. STERNDAL BENNETT.

ORATORIO.

The Woman of Samaria (Sol-fa, 1s.) ... 4 0

CANTATAS.

The May Queen (Sol-fa, 6d.) ... 1 0
International Exhibition Ode (1862) ... 1 0

SONGS.

Twelve Songs, Op. 23 and 35, 8vo, paper cover, 1s.;
cloth, 2s. 6d.; or, singly, folio ... each 1 6
O meadow clad (in D or F) (May Queen) ... 1 6
With the carol in the tree ... 1 6
Art thou greater than our father Jacob? (Woman of Samaria) ... 1 6
O Lord, Thou hast searched me out (Ditto) ... 1 6
His salvation is nigh (in B or G) (Ditto) ... 1 6
Whosoever drinketh of this water (Ditto) ... 1 6

DUETS.

Four Duets for two Sopranos. 8vo, 1s.; or, singly, folio, each 1 6
Can I not find thee? (May Queen) ... 1 6

TRIOS.

The hawthorn in the glade. S.T.B. (May Queen) ... 1 6
With a laugh as we go round. s.s.s. (Folio, 1s. 6d.) ... 8vo 0 4
(Sol-fa, 2d.)
Remember now thy Creator. Ladies' voices ... 0 3
Cast thy bread upon the waters. Ladies' voices (Sol-fa, 1d.) ... 0 3

ANTHEMS AND CHORUSES.

A collection of 8 Anthems and 10 Hymn Tunes ... 3 6 or, singly:—
Remember now thy Creator ... 0 3
Great is our Lord ... 0 3
The fool hath said in his heart ... 0 4
O, that I knew where to find Him (Sol-fa, 1½d.) ... 0 3
Ditto (Welsh words) (Sol-fa, 1½d.) ... 0 3
In Thee, O Lord ... 0 3
Lord, who shall dwell in Thy tabernacle? ... 0 8
Now, my God, let, I beseech Thee ... 0 8
Lord, to Thee our song we raise ... 0 2
Ten Hymns ... 0 6

From "THE WOMAN OF SAMARIA."

God is a Spirit. Quartet (unaccompanied). (Sol-fa, 2d.) ... 0 6
Ditto, ditto. (A.T.T.B.) ... 0 6
Ditto, ditto. As an Anthem. Arranged by Dr. Steggall ... 2 0
Ditto (Latin words). Ave Maria ... 0 6
Blessed be the Lord God. Chorus ... 0 6
Therefore with joy (Sol-fa, 3d.) ... 0 6
Therefore they shall come ... 0 6
Come, O Israel ... 0 4
Abide with me ... 0 6
Now we believe ... 0 4
I will call upon the Lord ... 0 6
And blessed be the Lord ... 0 6
Whosoever drinketh of this water. Arr. by Dr. Steggall folio 2 0
His salvation is nigh ... 2 0

PART-SONGS.

Come, live with me ... 0 4
Hark! their notes the hautboys swell ... 0 3
Ill-fated boy! begone ... 0 3
Wake with a smile ... 0 4
With a laugh as we go round (Sol-fa, 1½d.) ... 0 4

PIANOFORTE SOLOS.

Admired Melodies from The May Queen, by W. H. Callcott ... 2 0
Capriccio (The May Queen) ... 1 6
Overture (The May Queen) ... 1 6
The hawthorn in the glade, by G. A. Osborne ... 1 6
O meadow, clad in early green, by W. C. Masters ... 1 6
With a laugh as we go round, by G. A. Osborne ... 1 6
Blessed be the Lord (Woman of Samaria) ... 0 9
O Lord, Thou hast searched me out (Ditto) ... 0 9
Whosoever drinketh of this water (Ditto) ... 0 9
Select subjects from The Woman of Samaria, by W. H. Callcott, 2 Books ... each 2 6
Twelve Songs, Op. 23, 35, each gd.; or, 2 Books ... 3 0

PIANOFORTE DUETS.

The Overture, May Queen ... 3 0
Select subjects from The Woman of Samaria, by W. H. Callcott, 2 Books ... each 3 0
Accompts. for Flute, Violin, and Violoncello ... 0 6

ORGAN MUSIC.

Four Select Movements from The Woman of Samaria.
Arranged by Dr. G. M. Garrett:—
No. 1. Whosoever drinketh of this water ... 1 6
2. O Lord, Thou hast searched me out ... 1 6
3. God is a Spirit ... 1 6
4. I will call upon the Lord, and Blessed be the Lord God of Israel ... 2 0

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

ARENSKY, A.—4th Suite. For Two Pianofortes (4 hands).
Op. 62 ... net 11 0
BACH.—Chromatische Fantasie, interpreted by BUSONI ... 3 0
— 4 Etudes for the Left Hand, by J. PHILIPP ... 3 0
BALAKIREW, M.—Overture, "King Lear." For Orchestra:—
Full Score ... net 12 6
BERLIOZ.—Trauermarsch. For Orchestra. Op. 18, No. 3:—
Full Score ... net 4 0
— Trojanischer Marsch. For Orchestra:—
Full Score ... net 6 0
— Träumerei and Caprice. Romanze, for Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 8 ... net 1 6
FLUGEL, E.—Three Pianoforte Pieces. Op. 60. 1. Erinnerung, 3s.; 2. Neues Hoffen, 4s.; 3. Entsagung ... 3 0
— Walzer, in C major. For Pianoforte. Op. 61 ... net 1 6
GLAZOUNOW, A.—Marche sur un thème russe. For Orchestra. Op. 76:—
Full Score ... net 3 6 | Orchestral Parts ... net 10 0
Pianoforte Duet ... net 1 6
— 7th Symphony (F). For Orchestra. Op. 77:—
Full Score ... net 16 0 | Orchestral Parts ... net 36 0
Pianoforte Duet ... net 6 0
GODARD, B.—Symphonie orientale. For Orchestra. Op. 84:—
1. Wüstenbild. Score, 7s. net; Parts ... net 8 0
2. Chinoiserie. Score, 8s. net; Orchestral Parts ... net 10 0
HEUBNER, K.—Quartet in E minor. For Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello ... Parts, net 8 0
HEUSER, E.—Three Pianoforte Pieces. Op. 40. 1. Intermezzo, 3s.; 2. Impromptu, 3s.; Canzonetta ... 3 0
HOLBROOKE, J.—Kleine Suite. For Pianoforte. Op. 18 net 2 0
KAHN, R.—Sonata in F. For Violoncello and Pianoforte.
Op. 37 ... net 6 0
LISZT.—Songs arranged for Pianoforte Solo:—
Ueber allen Gipfeln ist Ruh ... 2 0
Der Fischerknabe ... 3 0
Du bist wie eine Blume ... 2 0
Oh! quand je dors ... 3 0
Nimm einen Strahl der Sonne ... 2 0
Schwebe, schwebe, blaues Auge ... 2 0
Kling leise mein Lied (Ständchen) ... 4 0
Ich möchte hingehn ... 4 0
Wieder mücht ich dir begegnen ... 2 0
Die stille Wasserrose ... 3 0
Die drei Zigeuner ... 4 0
Bist du mild wie ein Lufthauch ... 3 0
NOVACEK.—Scherzo from String Quartet, arranged for Pianoforte by BUSONI ... 3 0
POLDINI, E.—"Dekameron." For Pianoforte. Op. 38.
4. Italienisches Nachtstück, 5s.; 5. Fantastisches Stück ... 0 0
RIMSKY-KORSAKOW.—"Nuit sur le Mont Triglav." 3rd Act
"Mlada." For Orchestra:—
Full Score ... net 21 0 | Parts ... net 40 0
ROCHLICH, E.—"Erinnerungen." Five Pianoforte Pieces.
Op. 12. 1. Ave Maria; 2. Cornamus; 3. Elegia; 4. Tarantella; 5. Epilogo ... 5 0
RUBINSTEIN.—Romanze. For Pianoforte and Viola. Op. 14 ... 3 0
— The same. For Harmonium and Pianoforte ... 3 0
SAINT-SAËNS, C.—Second Concerto. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 119 ... net 10 0
SCHUMANN, C.—Concertstücke. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 20. 1. Romanze, 5s.; 2. Mazurka ... 5 0 SCHUMANN, G.—Variationen und Doppelfuge über ein lustiges Thema. Op. 30:—
Full Score ... net 22 6
SCHYTTÉ.—Three Pianoforte Pieces. Op. 128. 1. Gavotte, 2s.;
2. Valse, 3s.; 3. Galop ... 1 0
— Two Impromptus. For Pianoforte. Op. 130. 1. A major, 4s.;
2. C major ... 3 0
— Puppengeschichten. For Pianoforte (Ten Pieces). Op. 116
net 4 0
SELMER, J.—"Prometheus." Symphonic Poem for Orchestra.
Op. 50. Full Score ... net 22 0
SINDING, C.—Sérénade. For Pianoforte. Op. 33, No. 4 ... 1 3
— Quatre morceaux de Salon. For Pianoforte. Op. 54.
1. Etude in G, 1s. 6d. net; 2. Rondeletto, 1s. 6d. net;
3. Sérénade, 1s. 6d. net; 4. Tempo di Valse ... net 2 0
SINIGAGLIA, L.—Three Romantic Pieces for Pianoforte and Violin. Op. 13. 1. Cavatine; 2. Intermezzo; 3. Erinnerung each 3 0
— Concerto. For Violin and Pianoforte Op. 20 ... net 6 0 SOKOLOV, N.—Suite, "Les Cygnes sauvages." For Pianoforte Duet. Op. 40A ... net 9 0
STRAUSS, R.—"Also sprach Zarathustra." Op. 30:—
Pianoforte Score ... net 10 0
SVENDSEN, J. S.—"Carneval en Paris." For Pianoforte
Solo. Op. 9 ... net 6 0
TANÉIÉW, A. S.—2nd Symphony (B minor). For Orchestra.
Op. 21:—
Full Score ... net 24 0
— Réverie. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 23 ... 2 6
— Arabesque. For Clarinet and Pianoforte. Op. 24 ... 2 0
TSCHÉREPNINE, N.—String Quartet. Op. 11:—
Score and Parts ... net 11 0
ZOLOTAREFF, B.—Rhapsodie hébraïque. For Orchestra.
Op. 7:—
Full Score ... net 15 0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

Just Published.

THE MALE VOICE CHANT-BOOK

A COLLECTION OF
THREE-PART (A.T.B.) CHANTS
ADAPTED TO THE BOOK OF PSALMS.

Price Three Shillings.
In Cloth, 4s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

TUBAL CAIN BALLAD

FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

CHARLES MACKAY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

THOMAS F. DUNHILL.
(Op. 15.)

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW ORGAN COMPOSITION

By DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY.

INTRODUCTION, VARIATIONS, AND FUGUE

ON THE

"ADESTE FIDELES"

FOR THE ORGAN

BY

ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY
(MUS.D., OXON.).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

NEW SONG

FOR BASS OR BARITONE

BY

JOSEPH H. ADAMS.

THE SPIRIT OF THE STORM

See, how the lightnings flash!
Hark how the thunder crashes!
Over the doomed barque the angry billow dashes!
Vainly for help men pray,
Cowering in wild dismay:
All hope is flown; they sadly own, the mighty deep I sway!

Price Two Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

AN EASY SETTING
OF THE

OFFICE FOR HOLY COMMUNION

(IN D)

By STRETTON SWANN, Mus.B., F.R.C.O.

THE VINCENT MUSIC COMPANY, Limited.
Price Sixpence.

A Specimen Copy, post-free, from the COMPOSER, 181, Longley Road, Tooting, S.W.

Just Published. In separate form.

VALE BOHEMIENNE

(No. 1 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

VALE RUSTIQUE

(No. 2 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

VALE DE LA REINE

(No. 3 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

VALE MAURESQUE

(No. 4 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

Arranged for the Pianoforte by
THE COMPOSER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

HERE'S A HEALTH UNTO HIS MAJESTY

A NEW VERSION

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

A. PERCEVAL GRAVES

THE MUSIC ARRANGED BY

ALEXANDER C. MACKENZIE.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE DREAM OF GERONTIUS

By EDWARD ELGAR.

BOOK OF WORDS

With Analytical and Descriptive Notes and 76 Musical

Examples by

A. J. JAEGER.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published

ORCHESTRAL INTERLUDE

(WITH TENOR SOLO AD LIB.)

MAIDENHOOD AND DREAMS OF LOVE

FROM

"SLEEPING BEAUTY"

COMPOSED BY

F. H. COWEN.

FULL SCORE.

Price Five Shillings.

String Parts, 3s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 5s. 9d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ROMANZA

FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

HENRY E. GEEHL.

Price Two Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW CANTATAS AND OPERETTAS FOR SCHOOLS AND CLASSES.

JUST PUBLISHED.

SONS OF THE EMPIRE

CANTATA

(WITH OR WITHOUT ACTION)
FOR JUNIOR SCHOOLS AND CLASSES

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

MARY BRADFORD WHITING

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

THOMAS FACER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, price Sixpence.

CAPTAIN REECE

NAUTICAL BALLAD

FOR SOLI AND CHORUS OF BOYS

LIBRETTO BY

W. S. GILBERT

MUSIC BY

T. ARTHUR BURTON.

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, price Sixpence.

VOGELWEID, THE MINNESINGER

A Poem by LONGFELLOW

SET TO MUSIC FOR CHILDREN'S VOICES

BY GEORGE RATHBONE.

Price, One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 6d.

THE KALENDAR

(THE STORY OF THE MONTHS)

A CANTATA FOR SCHOOLS AND CLASSES

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

ELISABETH FORRESTER

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

J. CLIFFE FORRESTER.

Price Two Shillings.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d.

KING THRUSHBEARD

AN OPERETTA IN TWO ACTS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

WORDS BY

CLAUDE AVELING

MUSIC BY

ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

Price Two Shillings.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, price 9d.

THE ENCHANTED ISLAND

AN OPERETTA FOR SCHOOLS AND CLASSES

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

PERCY E. FLETCHER.

Price Two Shillings.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, price 9d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOVELLO'S

MUSIC FOR MILITARY BAND

ARRANGED BY

DAN GODFREY, Jun., GEORGE MILLER, Mus. Bac.,
AND OTHERS.

	s.	d.		s.	d.
BENDALL, WILFRED.—Pas Seul	5	0	HOFMANN, H.—"Kirmess" (Rustic Pictures). Book II.	15	0
COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—Four Characteristic Waltzes ...	15	0	MACKENZIE, A. C.—"Benedictus" (from "Six Pieces for
COWEN, F. H.—Four English Dances (in the Olden Style) ...	15	0	Violin")	5	0
Coronation March	10	6	Ballet Music ("Colomba")	15	0
CRESER, WILLIAM.—Wedding March	3	6	Courante ("Ravenswood")	12	0
ELGAR, EDWARD.—Chanson de Matin	3	6	Funeral March ("The Story of Sayid")	3	6
Chanson de Nuit	3	6	"The Empire Flag"	5	0
Imperial March	9	0	MACPHERSON, STEWART.—Orchestral Ballad	15	0
Mazurka	5	0	MILLER, GEORGE.—Solemn March	3	6
Sérénade Mauresque	5	0	MOLIQUE.—March ("Abraham")	7	6
Contrasts (The Gavotte, A.D. 1700 and 1900) ...	5	0	MORLEY, CH.—Emperor Gavotte ("Cornflower") ...	2	6
Meditation ("Light of Life") (In the Press) ...	5	0	OUSELEY.—March ("St. Polycarp")	7	6
ELVEY, G. J.—Festal March	5	0	POPULAR PART-SONGS	7	6
FANING, EATON.—"The Queen's Song"	7	6	RAMEAU.—Gavotte	4	6
Song of the Vikings	5	0	ROECKEL, J. L.—Graceful Dance	7	6
FORD, ERNEST.—Grand Valse ("Faust" Ballet) ...	10	6	SIX HYMN TUNES (composed for Commemorations of Queen
Scène Bacchanale ("Faust" Ballet)	15	0	Victoria's Long Reign)	4	6
GERMAN, EDWARD.—Bourrée and Gigue ("Much Ado about			SMART, HENRY.—Festive March in D	7	6
Nothing")	12	0	SPINDLER, FRITZ.—"Husarenritt"	7	6
Coronation March ("Henry VIII.")	7	6	SPOHR.—"Calvary" (Selection)	7	6
Gipsy Suite (Four Characteristic Dances)	15	0	SULLIVAN, A.—"In Memoriam" Overture	10	0
Harvest Dance (from "The Seasons")	10	0	Onward, Christian Soldiers	2	6
Masque (Three Dances from "As you like it" Music) ...	15	0	Ditto. For Brass Band	2	6
Overture to "Richard III."	12	0	THREE SACRED PIECES, viz.:—
Three Dances ("Henry VIII.")	15	0	"Blessed be the God and Father"	S. S. WESLEY
GLINKA.—Polonaise ("Life for the Czar")	12	0	"O Gladsome Light" ("Golden Legend") A. S. SULLIVAN
GOUNOD.—Judea ("Mors et Vita")	3	0	March ("Occasional Oratorio")	HANDEL
Ditto. (For Brass Band)	2	0	TSCHAIKOWSKY.—Marche Militaire	15	0
"Mors et Vita" (Selection)	15	0	WAREING, H. W.—Summergold Gavotte	7	6
Marche Solennelle	7	6	WENDT, TH.—Air de Ballet with Intermezzo	7	6
Six Sacred Pieces	10	0	WEST, JOHN E.—Maypole Dance	7	6
"The Redemption" (Selection)	15	0	Commemoration March	9	0
HAYNES, BATTISON.—Westwood Gavotte	5	0	ZIMMERMANN, AGNES.—March	7	6
HIGGS, H. M.—"Our Queen" (Quick March)	5	0	SIX CLASSICAL PIECES for SMALL Military Band ...	3	0
HOFMANN, H.—"Kirmess" (Rustic Pictures). Book I.	15	0	THE MILITARY CHURCH PARADE SERVICE BOOK ...	1	0

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE JUNIOR VIOLINIST

EDITED BY

C. EGERTON LOWE.

CONTENTS.

BOOK I.—SEVENTEEN MELODIES. Price 1s. 6d.

ARRANGED FOR THE VIOLIN IN THE FIRST POSITION, WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT.

1. Greeting	Mendelssohn	10. Cradle Song	Schubert
2. My little Tree	Randegger	11. Stars that on your wondrous way	Stainer
3. A Soldier's Life	Stainer	12. Autumn Song	Mendelssohn
4. Children at play	Mozart	13. A Child's Evensong	Stainer
5. Stars	Randegger	14. Golden slumbers kiss your eyes	17th Century
6. Longing for the Spring	Mozart	15. Father, whate'er of earthly bliss	Barnby
7. The Miller's Flowers	Schubert	16. Song of the Zephyr	Pearson
8. Lazy Sheep	Moffat	17. Contentment	Mozart
9. A Riddle	Moffat

BOOK II.—TWELVE MELODIES. Price 1s. 6d.

ARRANGED FOR THE VIOLIN IN THE FIRST POSITION, WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT.

18. Sleep, Baby dear	Gatty	24. Hour by Hour	Stainer
19. The White Dove	Barnby	25. The Bells of Christmas	A. Richards
20. The Swing	Pearson	26. Land to the leeward, ho!	Parry
21. The Four Seasons	Clay	27. Under the Greenwood Tree	temp. Charles I.
22. The River	Sullivan	28. Joan, to the Maypole	temp. Charles II.
23. A May Song	Mendelssohn	29. Safely through another week	Clay

BOOK III.—TEN MELODIES. Price 1s. 6d.

ARRANGED FOR THE VIOLIN IN THE FIRST POSITION, WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT.

30. The Quiet Mind	Smart	35. Hey Baloo	Schumann
31. Swing Song	Barnby	36. Woodland Voices	A. Richards
32. The Good Shepherd	Stainer	37. Hey-ho-heh	A. Richards
33. Spring	Arne	38. The Lily of the Valley	Tours
34. A Song of Peace	Smart	39. Ride a Cock-Horse	Facer

BOOK IV.—ELEVEN MELODIES. Price 1s. 6d.

ARRANGED FOR THE VIOLIN IN THE FIRST POSITION, WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT.

40. Christmas Bells	Gade	46. Welcome to Spring	Mendelssohn
41. To a Violet	Stainer	47. The light is fading	Foster
42. May Song	Mendelssohn	48. Evening Song	Mendelssohn
43. Alone	Mendelssohn	49. The Arethusa	Shield
44. Our Ship at Sea	Elliot Button	50. Let the hills resound	B. Richards
45. Caro mio ben	Giordani

BOOK V.—SONATA IN C MAJOR. For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	Mozart	1s. 6d.
VI.—EIGHT SONGS WITHOUT WORDS. Arranged for Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	Mendelssohn	2s. 0d.
VII.—SONATA IN F MAJOR. For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	Mozart	1s. 0d.
VIII.—PHANTASIESTÜCKE, Op. 73. For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	Schumann	1s. 0d.
IX.—SONATA IN E MINOR. For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	Mozart	1s. 0d.
X.—THREE PIECES (Funeral March, Prelude in E minor, and Waltz in B minor). Arranged for Violin (First to Fifth Position) and Pianoforte	Chopin	1s. 0d.
XI.—THREE ROMANCES, Op. 94 For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	Schumann	1s. 0d.
XII.—SIX DUETS FOR TWO VIOLINS, Op. 8. (First Position)	Pleyel	1s. 0d.
XIII.—SIX DUETS FOR TWO VIOLINS, Op. 48. (First to Third Position)	Pleyel	1s. 0d.
XIV.—SCALES AND ARPEGGI	C. Egerton Lowe	1s. 6d.
XV.—SIX SONATINAS FOR VIOLIN. (First to Fourth Position.) Nos. 1 to 3	Weber	1s. 6d.
XVI.—SIX SONATINAS FOR VIOLIN. (First to Fourth Position.) Nos. 4 to 6	Weber	1s. 6d.
XVII.—Nos. I.—IV. of EIGHT MOVEMENTS, from the String Quartets. Arranged for Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte (with 2nd Violin ad lib.)	Mozart	2s. 0d.
XVIII.—Nos. V.—VIII. of EIGHT MOVEMENTS, from the String Quartets. Arranged for Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte (with 2nd Violin ad lib.)	Mozart	2s. 0d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

A

MODERN SCHOOL for the VIOLIN

BY

AUGUST WILHELMJ

AND

JAMES BROWN.

No. 19.

PRELUDE AND FUGUE

IN G MINOR

BY

J. S. BACH
FOR VIOLIN SOLO.

Price Two Shillings.

No. 29.

BALLADE AND POLONAISE

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

HENRI VIEUXTEMPS.

(Op. 38.)

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SIX

HIGHLAND DANCES

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

JOHN B. McEWEN.

Price Two Shillings each.

No.

1. In D minor. $\frac{4}{4}$, Adagio; Vivace; Poco meno mosso.
2. In F. $\frac{3}{4}$, Allegretto; $\frac{3}{4}$, Poco Adagio.
3. In D minor. $\frac{6}{8}$, Allegro con molto moto; $\frac{3}{4}$, Meno mosso, un poco rubato.
4. In D. $\frac{3}{4}$, Andante con molto espressione; $\frac{2}{4}$, Allegro di molto.
5. In D minor. $\frac{4}{4}$, Allegro molto marcato; Largamente, con gran espressione.
6. In D. $\frac{4}{4}$, Con moto; Meno mosso, molto espressivo.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

FESTIVAL SETTINGS

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS

WITH ACCOMPANIMENTS FOR ORGAN AND ORCHESTRA

Barnby, J. (in E flat).....	8d.	Selby, B. Luard (in A).....	6d.
Bennett, G. J. (in A).....	6d.	Stainer, Sir John (in A).....	6d.
Bridge, Sir J. F. (in G).....	6d.	Stainer, Sir John (in B flat).....	6d.
Calkin, J. Baptiste (in G)....	6d.	Stanford, Sir C. Villiers (in A).....	6d.
Fanning, Eaton (in C).....	6d.	Steggall, Dr. (in C).....	6d.
Gadsby, Henry (in C).....	6d.	Tours, Berthold (in F).....	4d.
Lloyd, C. H. (in F).....	6d.	Tours, Berthold (in D).....	6d.
Mann, A. H., Dr. (in E).....	1s.	Williams, C. L. (in F major).....	4d.
Martin, Sir George C. (in C).....	6d.	Wood, W. G. (in B flat).....	6d.
Martin, Sir George C. (in A).....	6d.

Cantate and Deus (in C), Dr. Steggall, 6d.

The above may also be performed either with strings and organ accompaniment, or with organ only, when necessary.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY Limited.

RHAPSODY

ON MARCH THEMES

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

ARRANGEMENT FOR PIANOFORTE DUET

BY

ARTHUR E. GRIMSHAW.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.
String Parts, 5s.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

EIN KINDERFEST

TEN LITTLE PIECES

FOR THE PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

ARNOLD KRUG.

(Op. 109.)

CONTENTS.

BOOK 1.
Jacky on horseback.
Lizzie dances.
Dolly's boating trip.
Playing at soldiers.
Tea-time.

BOOK 2.
Smashing pots.
Dance.
Jacky shaking the plum tree.
A bicycle ride.
Farewell.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each Book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE TEMPLE

AN ORATORIO

WORDS SELECTED FROM THE BIBLE

AND SET TO MUSIC FOR

SOPRANO, TENOR, AND BARITONE SOLI, CHORUS, ORCHESTRA AND ORGAN

BY

H. WALFORD DAVIES.

(OF 14.)

PRICE FOUR SHILLINGS.
Paper Boards, 5s.; Cloth, gilt, 6s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

PRELUDE AND FUGUE

VARIATIONS ON THE TUNE "ST. LUKE"

FANTASIA

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

E. H. THORNE.

Price Two Shillings each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SUITE IN F

"LADY RADNOR'S SUITE"

FOR

STRING ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Score, 4s. 6d.; String Parts, 5s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited..

A SET OF SIX LOVE-LYRICS

FOR CONTRALTO OR BARITONE.

- No. 1. Gulls in an Aëry Morrice.
 " 2. Geraldine.
 " 3. Fill a Glass with Golden Wine.
 " 4. The Shadow of Dawn.
 " 5. The Nightingale and the Rose.
 " 6. When you are old.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
W. E. HENLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
WILLIAM H. BELL.

Price Three Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW SONGS BY JOSEPH H. ADAMS.

MY KINGDOM.

Angel of dreams, in hope's glad paradise—
 Rose of the roses, star of all the skies,
 Love of my life, till life and love are o'er,
 Your heart to be my kingdom evermore:

THE GENTLE SHEPHERD.

Shepherd of the flock, with unchanging love,
 Seek thy wandering sheep, weary though the way
 Lead them safely home, when afar they roam,
 Fondly guard their rest at the close of day.

SUN OF MY SOUL.

Sun of my soul, Thou Saviour dear,
 It is not night if Thou be near:

In Keys to suit all voices.
 Price Two Shillings each net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS Book 133.

TWO-PART SONGS (WITHOUT ACCOMPANIMENT).

CONTENTS.

A Bird Song	Roland Rogers
All among the barley	Elizabeth Stirling
All seek for rest	F. Abt
Autumn woods	T. Murby
Bells at eve	F. Abt
Come, ever smiling liberty	Handel
Come to me, gentle sleep	H. W. Schartau
Evening song	Mendelssohn
In the distance	F. Abt
Joyful echoes	L. Streabbog
Playtime's golden hours	A. W. Ketälbey
The Bell March	J. Brabham
The Fountain	H. Elliot Button
The Lord is my Shepherd	H. Smart
The Mountaineer	A. W. Ketälbey
The Sabbath morn	Mendelssohn
Welcome thou, whose deeds conspire	Handel
Work and play	Myles B. Foster

Price Fourpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Fourpence.

An edition of each piece with accompaniment can be obtained.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

LA SIRÈNE VALE CAPRICE

FOR THE PIANOFORTE
COMPOSED BY
EATON FANING.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ALBUM OF TWELVE SONGS COMPOSED BY W. STERDALE BENNETT.

CONTENTS.

No.	Op. 23.	No.	Op. 35.
1.	Musing on the roaring ocean.	7.	Indian love.
2.	May dew.	8.	Winter's gone.
3.	Forget me not.	9.	Dawn, gentle flower.
4.	To Chloe (in sickness).	10.	Castle Gordon.
5.	The past.	11.	As lonesome through the woods.
6.	Gentle zephyr.	12.	Sing, maiden, sing.

Price 1s. complete; Cloth, 2s. 6d.; or, singly, folio, 1s. 6d. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS. (EDITED BY W. G. McNAUGHT.)

Just Published.
Book 65.

TEN OLD ENGLISH SONGS (GRADE II.)

BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

Where the bee sucks... ..	Arne
Under the greenwood tree	Old English
Joan, to the Maypole... ..	Old English
Golden slumbers kiss your eyes	Old English
Full fathom five (Solo and s.s.a.)	Purcell
The children are singing (Two-part Chorus). Arr. by A. M. Wakefield	Arne
Spring	17th Century
The Vicar of Bray	17th Century
Begone! dull care	16th Century
The three Ravens	16th Century

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Sixpence.
 Tonic Sol-fa (B) Edition, Threepence.

BOOK 117. SEVEN UNISON SONGS (GRADE II.)

BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

My Dove	A. Medley
Violet Land	H. S. Roberts
Excelsior!	Lindsay
Poor Humpty Dumpty	A. Medley
The Bumble Bee's Buzz	R. H. Macdonald
Will you walk a little faster (Words by Lewis Carroll)	A. C. Mackenzie
Things of beauty

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Sixpence.
 Tonic Sol-fa (B) Edition, Threepence.

BOOK 127. FIVE FOUR-PART SONGS FOR S.S.A.A. (GRADE II.)

BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

Where are the swallows	H. Hiles
You spotted snakes	G. A. Macfarren
Welcome to this place	Bishop
Summer Eve	Hutton
The Fairies' Song	Bishop

Price Ninepence.
 Tonic Sol-fa, Fourpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MUSICAL OPINION (2d.; order everywhere).—
 Send 4d. for new number to 35, Shoe Lane, London, E.C.
 About 250 cols. interesting Reading and Advertisements. Founded 1876.

Just Published.

THE RECITAL SERIES

OF

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN

Edited by EDWIN H. LEMARE.

No. 25.

SECOND ANDANTINO IN D FLAT

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

No. 26.

FANTASIA IN F

COMPOSED BY

JOHN FRANCIS BARNETT.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

No. 27.

CANZONA

COMPOSED BY

H. A. WHEELDON.

Price Two Shillings.

No. 28.

ELEGIAC ROMANCE

COMPOSED BY

JOHN IRELAND.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Sung by Mr. H. PLUNKET GREENE.

ENGLISH LYRICS

SET TO MUSIC BY

C. H. H. PARRY.

SIXTH SET—JUST PUBLISHED.

- | | |
|--|-------------------|
| 1. When comes my Gwen | E. O. Jones. |
| 2. And yet I love her till I die | Anon. |
| 3. Love is a bable | Anon. |
| 4. I'm weaving sweet violets .. | Alfred P. Graves. |
| 5. At the hour the long day ends .. | Alfred P. Graves. |
| 6. Under the Greenwood Tree | Shakespeare. |

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SIX RUSSIAN SONGS

- | | |
|--|----------------|
| 1. A Ball-room meeting (Count A. Tolstoi) | P. Tchaikovsky |
| 2. Regret (D. Rathaus) | P. Tchaikovsky |
| 3. Silent Sorrow (A. Koltsov) | A. Dargomijsky |
| 4. An Eastern Song (A. Poushkin) | A. Dargomijsky |
| 5. A Rose in Autumn (N. Aksakov) | M. Balakirev |
| 6. Dearest little Maiden (Folk-Song) | A. Dargomijsky |

SELECTED, AND THE WORDS TRANSLATED, BY

ROSA NEWMARCH.

Price Two Shillings net, complete.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

FOUR CONCERTI GROSSI

FOR STRINGS

COMPOSED BY

G. F. HANDEL.

No. 1, in B minor.
" 2, " E minor.No. 3, in B flat.
" 4, " A minor.PIANOFORTE TRANSCRIPTION BY
GIUSEPPE MARTUCCI

Price Two Shillings each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE MORNING SERVICE

SET TO MUSIC IN THE KEY OF A

BY

JOHN E. WEST.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS	4d.
BENEDICTUS	4d.
JUBILATE DEO	3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MARCH

ON SCOTCH AIRS

FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO

COMPOSED BY

PERCY E. FLETCHER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

POSTHUMOUS WORKS BY

JOHANNES BRAHMS

ELEVEN CHORAL PRELUDES

FOR THE ORGAN

(Op. 122)

IN TWO BOOKS.

BOOK I.—Price Four Shillings net.
BOOK II.—Price Four Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

FROM GRIEG TO BRAHMS

STUDIES OF SOME MODERN COMPOSERS
AND THEIR ART

BY

DANIEL GREGORY MASON.

In a series of essays on Grieg, Dvorák, Saint-Saëns, Franck, Tchaikowsky, and Brahms, Mr. Mason has undertaken to show how each man has brought to his work his own particular temperament and conception of his art, how each has contributed some special quality of expression or beauty to modern music. While the purpose of the book is thus chiefly biographical, the author has considered in an introductory essay, "The Appreciation of Music," and a concluding essay, "The meaning of Music," points of more general interest, such as the process by which music has developed and the place of the art among men's other activities.

Mr. Mason's method is indicated by a sentence in the preface:—"Music may be hard to understand, but musicians are men." So clearly is the human aspect of the subject presented throughout that the book will interest all music-lovers, whether or not they have a technical knowledge of the art. Each essay is accompanied by a portrait of the musician written of and a brief bibliography of those of his works which best illustrate the points touched on in the essay.

Price, cloth, gilt, Six Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Demy 8vo, 390 pp., cloth, gilt lettered on back, price 4s. 6d.
Words only, 1s. 6d.

The Accompanying Harmonies, prepared by W. G. A. SHEBBEARE.
Super Royal 8vo, price 3s. 6d., cloth.

A MANUAL OF PLAINSONG

FOR DIVINE SERVICE

CONTAINING

THE CANTICLES NOTED THE PSALTER NOTED

TO GREGORIAN TONES

TOGETHER WITH THE LITANY AND RESPONSES

A NEW EDITION

PREPARED BY

H. B. BRIGGS AND W. H. FRERE

UNDER THE GENERAL SUPERINTENDENCE OF

JOHN STAINER

(Late President of the Plainsong and Mediæval Music Society).

PREFACE.

THE first edition of The Psalter Noted was published in 1849 under the supervision of the late Rev. Thomas Helmore, and secured for the Gregorian Tones a general recognition of their appropriateness for Divine worship. Subsequently Mr. Helmore's scheme was enlarged by the issue of The Canticles Noted, of A Brief Directory, and of three Appendixes to the Psalter; and the whole collection was issued in one volume under the title of A Manual of Plainsong. The Manual had also two companion books, one of Words only, containing The Canticles and Psalter Accented, the other a collection of Accompanying Harmonies. Thus complete provision was made for the musical performance of the regular services of the Prayer Book. Practical objections, however, to the monotony of the recitation of several Psalms to one Tone without the relief of Antiphons, added to certain difficulties in the pointing, led to the issue of other Psalters which have competed with The Psalter Noted, but without obtaining, any of them, a marked supremacy; and nothing has been issued which covers the whole field so completely as Mr. Helmore's Manual.

Study of the art of Plainsong during the last half century has, however, undergone something like a revolution; on every branch of the question new light has been thrown, and not least upon the principles of pointing. In consequence of repeated demands for a new edition of the Manual, the work of revision was entrusted to the late Sir John Stainer. He readily undertook the task, and called into collaboration Mr. H. B. Briggs and the Rev. W. H. Frere, with the result that before his death he had passed for the press the greater part of the revised proofs prepared by them for the new edition. He had also devoted much time to the consideration, with Mr. Shebbeare, of the Organ Accompaniments, so that the complete work may be considered as his last contribution to the music of the English Church.

His was not the only loss that this book had to undergo in the course of revision, for on the eve of its completion, Mr. Briggs was suddenly called to his rest. So the foregoing words which he had written about Sir John Stainer have now become his own epitaph. Without competing with Sir John Stainer in the wider domain of Church Music he had, in the narrower department of Plainsong, an influence and a competence which were unrivalled; and whatever merits this book may have are due almost entirely to him.

The Manual thus appears in a New Edition, revised in accordance with modern standards of taste and science; it does not cover quite so large a field as formerly, for it contains no music for the Holy Communion; but it has the same counterparts as before in the shape of The Canticles and Psalter Accented, and The Accompanying Harmonies prepared by Mr. Shebbeare, which include accompaniments for the Responses, Te Deum and Litany, as well as for the Tones.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Now Ready. Price, paper, 1s.

THE VILLAGE TUNE BOOK

CONTAINING

ONE HUNDRED POPULAR HYMN TUNES.

EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.

The one hundred hymn-tunes forming this collection have been selected from various sources, old and new. As the earliest can be traced to the year 1551, and the most recent was composed in 1901, they cover a period of three-and-a-half centuries.

In selecting these tunes, care has been taken to provide for all the metres in general use, and the index of first lines may be found useful as a guide to the selection of suitable tunes for particular hymns.

Clergymen and Organists of most Village Churches will find all they need in this collection, and thus be saved the trouble of searching through overladen volumes; therefore, its practical utility, no less than its varied contents, will, it is hoped, render this book of one hundred hymn-tunes acceptable for use in Divine Service and also in the home circle.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 724.—Vol. 44.
Registered for transmission abroad.

JUNE 1, 1903.

Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.
Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC, TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
Patron: HIS MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, K.G.
Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

MIDSUMMER HALF-TERM begins Monday, June 15. Entrance Examination, Wednesday, June 10, at 3.
FORTNIGHTLY CONCERTS, Saturdays, June 13 and 27, at 8.
ORCHESTRAL CONCERT, at Queen's Hall, Friday, June 26, at 8.
METROPOLITAN EXAMINATION for LICENTIATESHIP (L.R.A.M.). Last day for entry for September Examination, June 30.
Prospectus, Entrance Forms, and all further information of—
F. W. RENAULT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC. PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bart., D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P.

MIDSUMMER HALF-TERM will commence on Thursday, June 18.
Syllabus and official Entry Forms may be obtained from
FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD OF THE

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC AND ROYAL COLLEGE OF
MUSIC FOR LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS (SYLLABUS A).
Held annually in March and April at all Centres, and in London and district in November and December also. Entries for the November-December Examinations close October 9, 1903.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS (SYLLABUS B).
Held three times a year—viz., March-April, June-July, and October-November.

Entries for the October-November Examinations close October 7, 1903.

Copies of Syllabus A and B will be sent Post-free on application to the Secretary.

Theory papers set in Local Centre and School Examinations in 1896 to 1902 inclusive, can be obtained on application. Price 3d. per set, per year, Post-free.

The Board gives annually Six Exhibitions tenable for two years.
JAMES MUIR, Secretary.

14, Hanover Square, London, W.
Telegraphic address: "Associa, London."

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

Three LECTURES on Choir Training (with Illustrations) will be delivered by H. W. Richards, Esq., Mus.B., on Saturdays, June 6, 13, and 20, at 3.30. Non-Members' Tickets, 2s. 6d. for the course.

The next F.R.C.O. Examination begins on July 13, 1903. The Solo-Playing Tests are:—Fantasia and Toccata in D minor, C. V. Stanford (Houghton & Co.). Choral Prelude in G-flat major, "Allein Gott in der Höh sei Ehr," Bach (Peters, Vol. 6, p. 12) (Novello & Co.; Augener & Co.). Fugue on the name of Bach, No. 2, Schumann (Novello & Co.; Augener & Co.).

The A.R.C.O. Examination begins on July 20.
All candidates, including those claiming exemption from fee, must send in their names for FELLOWSHIP by June 25; ASSOCIATE-SHIP by June 29. In the case of NEW MEMBERS, proposal forms duly filled up must be sent in before June 10. No names will be entered after the above dates.

The College Library is open daily from 10 to 5. On Saturdays the College is open from 10 to 1.

Members desiring practice on the College organ may obtain particulars on application.

The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, can be hired for Concerts, Meetings, &c.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

CRYSTAL PALACE. HANDEL FESTIVAL.

(Under the Patronage of H.M. THE KING and QUEEN ALEXANDRA.)

SATURDAY, JUNE 20, at 12 Noon,
GRAND REHEARSAL.

TUESDAY, JUNE 23, at 2 o'clock,
"MESSIAH."

THURSDAY, JUNE 25, at 2 o'clock,
SELECTION.

SATURDAY, JUNE 27, at 2 o'clock,
"ISRAEL IN EGYPT."

Madame ALBANI, Miss MARGUERITE MACINTYRE,
Madame CLARA SAMUELL and Madame ELLA RUSSELL.
Madame CLARA BUTT.

Mr. BEN DAVIES, Mr. JOHN COATES, and Mr. CHARLES SAUNDERS.

Mr. SANTLEY, Mr. KENNERLEY RUMFORD, Mr. ANDREW BLACK, and Mr. WATKIN MILLS.

Solo Organist: Sir WALTER PARRATT.

Organist to the Festival: Mr. WALTER W. HEDGCOCK.

Musical Director: Dr. AUGUST MANNS.

Conductor: Dr. FREDERICK COWEN.

CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA, 4,000.

Tickets on sale at the Crystal Palace; and Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 and 81, Queen Street (E.C.).

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC. Managed by the Corporation of the City of London.

Principal: WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS, Mus. D., Dub., F.S.A., Hon. R.A.M.
Pupils can enter at any time.

Individual tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. Within three minutes of Ludgate Hill, Fleet Street, and Blackfriars Stations (District Railway).

110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships, giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Fencing, and Opera. Lady superintendent has charge of all ladies attending the school. Prospectus and form of entry free on application to
H. SAXE WYNDHAM,
Victoria Embankment, E.C. Secretary.

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Visitor ... EDWARD ELGAR, Mus. Doc.

Principal ... GRANVILLE BANTOCK.

SESSION 1902-03.

The Session consists of Autumn Term (September 15 to December 20), Winter Term (January 19 to April 4), Summer Term (April 6 to June 20). Instruction in all branches of music. Students' Choir, Students' Orchestra, Fortnightly Rehearsals, Students' Concerts.

Prospectus and further information may be obtained from

ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

ROYAL MANCHESTER COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Patroness: HER MAJESTY QUEEN ALEXANDRA.
President: Sir W. H. HOULDSWORTH, Bart., M.P.
Principal: Dr. ADOLPH BRODSKY.

The HALF-TERM begins on Tuesday, June 9. Entrance Examination on the previous day.

Candidates apply on a Printed Form, obtainable from the Registrar. Special Houses of Residence recommended for Students.

Students are required to enter upon a complete Course of Musical Instruction, and are not admitted for a shorter period than one year.

Fee for the year £30, payable in instalments of £10 at the beginning of each term.

The prospectus, with Scholarship information and Diploma Regulations, on application.

STANLEY WITHERS, Registrar.

HUGO GÖRLITZ,

119, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.
Telegrams—Hugonotas, London. Telephone—4013 Gerrard.

RICHARD STRAUSS FESTIVAL,

Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ.

RICHARD STRAUSS

AND THE ENTIRE PERMANENT AMSTERDAM ORCHESTRA
(Conductor: Professor WILHELM MENDELBERG).

FOUR EVENING CONCERTS AT ST. JAMES'S HALL.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JUNE 3, 1903.

THURSDAY EVENING, JUNE 4, 1903.

FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 5, 1903.

TUESDAY EVENING, JUNE 9, 1903.

AND

A SPECIAL MATINÉE,

ON MONDAY AFTERNOON, JUNE 8, TO INTRODUCE
MR. RICHARD PLATT (the American Pianist).

SEATS NOW READY.—Season Tickets for the four Evening Concerts,
2 Guineas, £1 11s. 6d., and 1 Guinea. Single Tickets, 12s. 6d., 10s. 6d.,
7s. 6d., and 5s.

KUBELIK SEASON, 1903.

Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ.

WILHELM BACKHAUS TOUR, AUTUMN, 1903.

Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ.

WILHELM BACKHAUS

Miss ALICE HOLLÄNDER (Contralto)

Mr. JOHN HARRISON (the new English Tenor)

Miss LILIAN FOULIS (the Scottish Violinist)

Mr. PAUL GRÜMMER (Violoncellist)

Mr. WILHELM GRÜMMER (Accompanist)

CHAPPELL GRAND PIANOFORTE.

For Vacant Dates, apply to Hugo Görlitz, 119, New Bond St., W.

MR. HUGO GÖRLITZ is Agent for the Leading Artists of the World, and Sole Agent for

KUBELIK WILHELM BACKHAUS

MARTHA CUNNINGHAM ALICE HOLLÄNDER

JOHN HARRISON (the new English Tenor)

LILIAN FOULIS (Violinist) PAUL GRÜMMER (Violoncellist)

THE AMSTERDAM ORCHESTRA

RICHARD STRAUSS, Etc.

KUBELIK AUTUMN TOUR

(Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ)

OCTOBER 3 TO NOVEMBER 21.

119, New Bond Street, W.

RICHARD WAGNER FESTIVAL PLAYS,

PRINCE REGENTEN THEATRE, MUNICH.

Official British Agency—HUGO GÖRLITZ, 119, New Bond St., W.

JOHN HARRISON (the New English Tenor)

(PUPIL OF MADAME AMY SHERWIN)

At the LONDON BALLAD CONCERTS, Saturday Afternoon.

March 7, 1903.

The Daily Telegraph says: "A remarkably successful first appearance at these concerts was achieved by Mr. John Harrison, a tenor vocalist hailing from Lancashire, who possesses an organ of genuinely agreeable quality and of adequate range. His renderings of Goring Thomas's 'O vision entrancing' and Balfe's 'Come into the garden, Maud,' were notable for fullness of expression and good phrasing, while the excellent style in which the songs were delivered assisted towards establishing the new-comer in high favour. He was warmly and deservedly applauded."

JOHN HARRISON.

The Standard says: "One of the notable successes of the afternoon was won by Mr. John Harrison, the tenor who is steadily making his way to the front rank of vocalists. Mr. Harrison puts a great amount of work into his singing without in the least resorting to undue force or exaggeration. He has attained the art of knowing his limitations, with the result that he never attempts a note beyond the compass of his natural voice."

JOHN HARRISON.

The Star says: "Another feature of interest was the second appearance of Mr. John Harrison, the new tenor, who made such a successful debut recently. His success was again very marked. The sympathetic quality of his voice, his admirable production, his perfect enunciation, and his spontaneous expression seem to point to an exceptionally brilliant future. Songs like 'Come into the garden, Maud' and Adams's 'Nirvana' make no great demands on interpretative ability; it can only be said that his interpretations were quite artistic. He is to be heard in the summer at the Strauss Festival."

JOHN HARRISON.

The Daily Express says: "Mr. John Harrison is the possessor of a beautiful voice, which has changed from baritone into tenor. His success was emphatic. He achieved quite a triumph with his second song, 'Come into the garden, Maud.' His voice is beautifully clear, he sings naturally, and is undoubtedly a great acquisition to our list tenors."

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Under the immediate Patronage of
THEIR MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTIES THE KING & QUEEN.

A

GRAND EVENING CONCERT

Will be given by STUDENTS of

THE ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC, THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC,

AND THE ROYAL NORMAL COLLEGE AND ACADEMY OF MUSIC FOR THE BLIND,

ON THURSDAY, JULY 2, 1903, AT 8 P.M.,

IN AID OF THE FUNDS OF THE

ROYAL NORMAL COLLEGE AND ACADEMY OF MUSIC FOR THE BLIND,

Founded 1872. UPPER NORWOOD, S.E.

Under Royal and Distinguished Patronage.

Chairman: The Right Hon. Jas. A. Campbell, LL.D., M.P.

Vice-Chairman: Sir John M. Stirling-Maxwell, Bart., M.P.

Hon. Treasurer: The Right Hon. Lord Stalbridge.

Hon. Secretary: F. C. Van Duzer, Esq.

MADAME ALBANI WILL SING.

THE PROGRAMME WILL INCLUDE:—"Britannia" Overture (Mackenzie); Ode, "Blest Pair of Sirens" (Parry); Organ Concerto in B flat (Handel); Five-part Glee "Oh, the Summer Night" (Cummings); Concerto for Four Pianos in A Minor (Bach); Madrigal "As Vesta was" (Weelkes); Concert Overture for Organ (Hollins); Quartet for Female Voices "The Lord is my Shepherd" (Schubert); Suite for Pianoforte, Op. 200 (Raff); and "The Revenge" (Stanford).

Conductors: Sir ALEXANDER MACKENZIE, Sir HUBERT H. PARRY, Sir CHARLES STANFORD, Dr. W. H. CUMMINGS, and Dr. F. J. CAMPBELL.

Organist: Mr. ALFRED HOLLINS.

TICKETS: Boxes, £5 5s., £3 3s., £2 2s.; Stalls, 10s. 6d.;
Arena, 7s. 6d.; Balcony, Reserved, 5s., Unreserved, 3s.; Admission, 1s.
To be obtained of any Member of the Ladies' Committee; The Royal Albert Hall; The College, Upper Norwood, S.E.; and usual Agents.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

LONDON.

(Under the direction of The Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)
INCORPORATED 1891.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

President: THE MOST HON. THE MARQUIS OF ANGLESEY.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L. (Principal).

GEORGE PRIOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon. (Registrar).

J. M. BENTLEY, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M. (Chairman).

W. E. THOMAS, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

CHARLES R. FISHER, Mus. Doc., F.G.C.M.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W. Terms moderate.

Director of Studies: CHURCHILL SIBLEY, Mus. D.

POSTAL CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS

(THEORETICAL).

Lessons in preparation for the College Diplomas of A.Mus.V.C.M., L.Mus.V.C.M., and F.V.C.M. (Theory), to students unable to attend personally, are given at the rate of £1 11s. 6d. per term (prepaid), the course including all subjects required for these diplomas respectively.

Special preparation for Degrees in Music, including Matriculation subjects.

Metropolitan Examinations in all subjects, including the Diplomas of A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., also for the Teachers' Professional Diploma in the Art of Teaching, July, 1903.

Local Theoretical Examination, July 2, 1903.

Practical Examinations are now being held at the various Centres.

Holder of the Victoria College Vocal Scholarship, 1901: Miss Lotti

L. Wakelin, L.R.A.M.; 1902: Miss Audrey Willows, L.V.C.M.

Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for competition.

Local Secretaries required for towns not represented.

All communications to be addressed as usual to the Central Office,

11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

NATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC, LIM.

Patron: THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH.

Warden: DR. TINDALL, A.T.C.L.

EXAMINATIONS, Local, 4 grades, Diplomas, Medals, and Teachers' Certificates, granting Professorships of N.C.M., June and July, London and Provinces. LESSONS, Personal and Postal.

W. J. MOSS, 5, Seho Street, W.C.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE OF SOUTH WALES AND MONMOUTHSHIRE, CARDIFF.

The Council of the College invites applications for the post of Lecturer in the Department of Music.

Applicants must hold a Degree in Music from some University in the United Kingdom.

Further particulars may be obtained from the undersigned, to whom twenty-five copies of application, with testimonials, must be sent not later than Monday, June 15, 1903.

J. AUSTIN JENKINS, B.A.,

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, CARDIFF.
May 19, 1903.

REGISTRAR.

LLANDUDNO CHAIR EISTEDDFOD. NEW YEARS' DAY, 1904.

In Memory of Dr. JOSEPH PARRY.

MUSICAL COMPOSITION for Mixed Voices. PRIZE £10.

Adjudicator: J. H. ROBERTS, Esq., Mus. Bac., Cantab.

For Words, &c., apply to the Secretary, THOMAS WM. FRANCIS, Apsley House, Llandudno.

THE MADRIGAL SOCIETY

(FOUNDED 1741).

THE MADRIGAL SOCIETY offers TWO PRIZES, being the "Molineux Prize" of TEN POUNDS, with the Society's Medal, and the "Society's Prize" of FIVE POUNDS, for the best and second best APPROVED MADRIGALS, in not less than four, nor more than six parts, the upper part or parts to be for one or two Treble Voices.

The character of the Composition to be in accordance with that of Madrigals of the best style and form, with imitative Part-Writing; not a mere Part-Song or harmonised Melody.

The following conditions must be complied with, viz. :—

1. That the Alto and Tenor parts be written in their respective clefs;
2. That the signature be repeated at the head of each page at least;
3. That the intended "Tempo" be clearly indicated;
4. That the words, to be selected by the Composer, be written out in full on a fly-leaf at the beginning;
5. That not more than one Composition be submitted by each competitor, which must not be in the composer's autograph.

The Madrigals to be delivered, addressed to the Secretary of the Madrigal Society, Woodside, Caterham, Surrey, on or before October 1, 1903, each Composition having a device or motto affixed thereto, with the Composer's name in a sealed envelope bearing a corresponding mark.

The Award of the Judges will be made known at the meeting of the Society in December, 1903.

J. EDWARD STREET, Hon. Secretary.

Caterham, Surrey, April 1, 1903.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in Durham in March (testamur only) and September.

For particulars, with copies of former Examination Papers, apply to the Secretary of Examinations, or to Dr. Arnes, Durham.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

President: The Very Rev. FRANCIS PIGOU, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examination, in June and July, 1903, at the following Centres: London, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow, and Belfast.

Annual Membership Subscription, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.

Free register for Organists requiring appointments.

For new Calendar and further particulars, apply to

Dr. LEWIS, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

NATIONAL CONSERVATOIRE

INST., 1895. OF MUSIC, LTD. INCOR., 1900.

174, WARDOUR STREET, W.

Board of Examiners:

Warden: Professor ALEXANDER PHIPPS, Mus. Bac.

CHARLES CHAMBERS, Mus. Doc., Cantab. JACQUES HAAKMAN.

TITO MATTEL. T. W. HAYDOCK, Mus. Doc.

J. W. JACKSON, Mus.D., F.R.C.O. D. C. JONES, Mus.D., F.R.C.O.

H. J. HENNIKER, Mus.D., Cantab. RALPH HORNER, Mus.D., Dunelm.

D. J. JENNINGS, Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O. G. HAYLOCK, Mus. Doc.

The LOCAL EXAMINATIONS are of practical and educational utility, by which both Pupils and Teachers derive much valuable information, and are an incentive to the progress of Students.

The PROFESSIONAL DIPLOMAS are of a high standard, and a guarantee of qualification (either as a Teacher or Performer).

Next EXAMINATION (all Towns), June and July. Medals awarded.

Syllabus for Diplomas (Associate, Lic., and Fellow), apply, Registrar.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS ETHEL BARNARD (Soprano)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Singing Lessons given.
20, Priory Court Mansions, West Hampstead.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano).

"A powerful voice of great range."—Coventry Herald.
Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)

Oratorios and Concerts.
Burley Road, Leeds.

MADAME ANNIE HAYMAN (Soprano)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Thorncliffe, Lowfield Road, Stockport.

MISS ANNIE MAPPLEBECK (Soprano).

Concerts, Oratorios.
32, Burlington Crescent, Goole, Yorkshire.

MISS BERYL CLIVE (Contralto)

14, Gladsmuir Road, Whitehall Park, N.

MISS EDITH CRAWFORD (Contralto)

Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Glencairn, Cane Hill, Purley, Surrey.

MISS KATE GREGORY

(The new Yorkshire Contralto)
(Professional Pupil of Albert Jowett, Esq., Yorkshire Training College of Music, Leeds).
Oratorios and Ballad Concerts.
Terms, apply, Doncaster.

MISS GERTRUDE HEY (Contralto)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Lawn Side, Clarendon Road, Whalley Range, Manchester.

MADAME HURLE-HOBBS (Contralto)

Oratorios, Recitals, Concerts, &c.
Address, 37, Briar Walk, Upper Edmonton, London, N.

MADAME RUTH ROEBUCK (Contralto).

Oratorios, Recitals, Concerts, &c.
64, Bay Street, Blackburn.

MR. JOHN MALON (Tenor).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c., including Elgar's "Dream of Gerontius."
Terms, Randolph Street, Stockport.

MR. ILIFFE MANTON (Tenor).

"Gave Gounod's aria 'Lend me your aid' in fine style."—Islington Gazette, April 23, 1903.

"Heard to good advantage in Gounod's 'Lend me your aid.'"—Hornsey Journal, April 25, 1903.

"Articulation and expression being of the best."—Muswell Hill Times, April 24, 1903.

Concerts, &c. Address, 213, Ebury Street, S.W.

MR. WILLIAM D. VINCENT (Tenor)

"Old Italian School."
Concerts, &c., address, 167, Tachbrook Street, Belgrave Road, S.W.

MR. FRED AIRETON (Baritone)

Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.
Address, Mr. F. Aireton, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. AND MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS

(Baritone, Soprano, and Elocutionists).
Concerts, Lyrical Recitals. Pupils (Resident, &c.). Sharon, Ealing, W.

MR. JOSEPH BURLEY (Bass-Baritone Soloist)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
24, New Bond Street, Leicester.

STROH VIOLIN SOLOIST.

FRANCIS G. CONSTANTINE

Professional communications only, 92, Albany St., Regent's Pk., N.W.

BEATRICE E. KENT (Lyric Authoress).

Apply, 155, Rye Lane, Peckham, S.E.
"We are Sweethearts," "Lady Spring," "The Gift of Cupid," &c.

MISS EMILY VAUGHAN (Soprano), L.R.A.M.,
Medallist, Society of Arts, will sing for Expense Fees at Concerts, At Homes, &c. Fernside, 44, Craven Park, Harlesden, N.W.

MR. WILLIAM WILD (Tenor), of the "Sir Charles and Lady Hallé South African Concert Tour, 1895"; of the London (Queen's Hall) Concerts; of the Richter and Manchester Gentlemen's Concerts. Pupil of Andrew Black, Esq. Terms, &c., Grosvenor Square, Stalybridge, near Manchester.

MISS FLORENCE BOWNESS

(SOPRANO).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Apply, Scout House, Newchurch, near Manchester.

MADAME

MARIANNE FENNA

(SOPRANO). Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Singing Lessons given.
10, Maitland Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.
MISS AMY SARGENT

A.R.A.M. (SOPRANO),
8, Middleton Road, Camden Road, N.

MISS SYDNEY BUSHNELL

(CONTRALTO).

Care of Mdme. Susannah Cole, 5, Portsdown Road, Maida Vale, W.

MISS KATHERINE HAWKINS

(CONTRALTO), L.R.A.M.

For Oratorios, Ballad and Chamber Concerts.
Bryn-tirion, Sutton Court Road, Sutton, Surrey.

MISS FLORENCE HOOLE

(CONTRALTO).

For Oratorio, Ballads, &c. 78, Broadhurst Gardens, N.W.

MISS ADELAIDE LAMBE

(CONTRALTO).

Queen's Hall and Crystal Palace Concerts, &c.
Address, Holmwood, Roxborough Park, Harrow.

MISS FREDRICA RICHARDSON

(CONTRALTO)

"THE CRUSADERS."—"Her solos were excellent."—Hatfield Musical Society.

"MARTYR OF ANTIOCH" (BARNET).—Miss Richardson, who is the happy possessor of a rich contralto voice, has mastered the art of clear enunciation; therefore it is needless to say her solos were well received."—Barnet Press.

"An excellent programme had been arranged, comprising many of the compositions of Dr. Frederic Cowen. Their exposition was entrusted to Miss Fredrica Richardson, a contralto of rare attainments, the composer playing the accompaniments. 'The promise of Life' was given in a manner rarely heard."—Midland Evening News.

"Fine voice, excellent style, and great finesse."—Express and Star.
BRIGHTON.—"Among the vocalists the chief honours were carried off by Miss Fredrica Richardson, who has lately achieved considerable success. She possesses a well-cultured voice, and directs it with artistic discretion, her low notes being exceptionally well sustained."—Brighton and Hove Society.

BRISTOL.—"Her singing was characterized by much tenderness and artistic expression, and she created such a favourable impression that the delighted audience recalled her twice."—Bristol Mercury.
Address, 8, Park Avenue, Willesden Green, N.W.

MR. SAMUEL MASTERS

(TENOR)

61, Alexandra Road, Wimbledon, S.W.

RECENT PRESS NOTICES.

HUDDERSFIELD CHORAL SOCIETY.

"HIAWATHA."—"Mr. Masters sang in good voice and method, and with telling effect, the solo 'He had seen, he said, a water.' He also gave admirable renderings of the solos conveying the departing messages of the 'Black-robed chief, the Prophet.'"—Huddersfield Weekly Herald, March 7, 1903.

"Mr. Samuel Masters sang the tenor solo music very correctly. He gave a very accurate, tasteful, and well-phrased interpretation of that exacting but beautiful song, 'Onaway! awake, beloved.'"—Huddersfield Examiner, March 7, 1903.

STAFFORD CHORAL UNION.

"JUDAS MACCABEUS."—"A feature of the concert was the singing of Mr. Samuel Masters, who was in splendid voice and surpassed all his previous triumphs. He sang the most difficult and florid passages with perfect ease, strict regard to time, and well-judged expression. The reception which followed his rendering of the beautiful air, 'How vain is man,' which, by the way, is usually omitted, was flattering in the extreme. Mr. Masters also gave 'Sound an alarm' in stirring style, and had encores been permitted he would certainly have had to respond."—Staffordshire Advertiser, April 4, 1903.

MR. S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR'S RECITAL.

"The famous solo from Hiawatha, 'Onaway! awake, beloved!' was sung by Mr. Samuel Masters. His pure, powerful, flexible tones were the admiration of all listeners, and twice was he loudly recalled. Later, Mr. Masters sang three exquisite songs, 'How shall I woo thee?' 'O, set the sails,' and 'The forest flowers are faded all.' The first and third of these are particularly pleasing, and Mr. Masters treated them with a delicacy, skill, and tact which showed him in fullest sympathy with the composer's muse."—Streatham News, February 7, 1903.

LEICESTER NEW MUSICAL SOCIETY.

"THE BRIDE OF DUNKERRON."—"Mr. Samuel Masters took the tenor parts in this cantata. The beautiful solo, 'The full moon is beaming above the blue deep,' he sang with great expression, and had to bow his acknowledgments to an encore. In the duet, 'Hark, those spirit voices,' in which Dunkerron and the Sea-Maiden declare their devotion to each other, he displayed great dramatic power, and sang with a spirit and vigour that did the fullest justice to this delightful number."—Leicester Daily Post, March 27, 1903.

THE "ECCELES" CONCERT.

BLACKBURN.—"Mr. Samuel Masters, tenor, possesses a splendid vocal organ, of good range, with a clear, full tone of splendid quality. His best contribution was 'Stars of the Summer Night' (Hatton). Also sang 'Lend me your aid' (Gounod) and 'Macgregor's Gathering' (Lee). Both songs gave Mr. Masters plenty of scope for his robust voice."—Blackburn Times, March 7, 1903.

MR. FRANCIS GLYNN

(TENOR),

High Elms, Burgh Heath Road, Epsom.

MR. HENRY PLEVY

(TENOR)

Solo Tenor, Christ Church, Lancaster Gate.

BANBURY PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—"HIAWATHA."—"Mr. Henry Plevy has an excellent voice, with good compass and style, and he gave 'Onaway! awake,' with the greatest acceptance, his singing being characterized by feeling and expressiveness throughout. It was a admirable effort. . . . His other numbers were also well delivered, and his high notes rang out well in 'Then the black-robe chief, which was ably sung.'"—Guardian.

WIMBORNE.—"ST. PAUL."—" . . . Sang the tenor portions throughout with much ability. 'Be thou faithful' was remarkably well rendered, and the duets . . . were also amongst the most pleasing solo numbers."—County Chronicle.

Address: 30, Hamilton Gardens, N.W.

MR. JOS. REED

(PRINCIPAL TENOR),

Trinity College, Cambridge.

Tenor, Madame Clara Butt's Tours, October, 1900; Spring, 1902.

Vacant dates. 55, Chesterton Road, Cambridge.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS

(TENOR)

For vacant dates, apply 105, North Side, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. JOHN BROWNING

(BARITONE),

Soloist, Leeds Musical Festivals and of the leading English, Scotch, and Irish Concerts. Extensive repertoire of over 100 works.

Season 1902/3, has sung Baritone Solos in sixty works ("Elijah" 12 times, "Messiah" 10), and at forty Miscellaneous Concerts.

Booking for Next Season—

Address, Marlbro' Grove, Leeds.

MR. HUGH SPENCER

(BASS-BARITONE)

For Concerts, Oratorios, Festivals, &c.

"Mr. Spencer's splendid choice of songs was even surpassed by the taste and musical perfection of their vocalization."—Ashton-under-Lyne Herald, Dec. 6, 1902.

For terms, &c., address, Vocalist, Coldhurst, Oldham; or, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MR. ROBERT RADFORD

(BASSO)

Of the Norwich Triennial Festivals, Queen's Hall Orchestral Concerts,

Messrs. Boosey's Ballad Concerts, the Patti Concerts, &c.

DVORAK'S "STABAT MATER" (NOTTINGHAM).—SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY.—"Mr. Robert Radford achieved a triumph. His glorious bass voice was employed with artistic effect in the quartettes and concerted music generally, and his treatment of 'Fac ut Ardeat' was marked by superb dignity. The lower notes which were called upon, down to E flat, were as rich and distinct as an organ pedal."—Nottingham Daily Guardian, March, 1903.

"MESSIAH" (CHELTENHAM).—MUSICAL FESTIVAL SOCIETY.—"The most completely successful of the soloists was Mr. Robert Radford, who sang with perfect ease and well-sustained power the elaborate and florid bass music. He gave a splendid rendering of 'Why do the nations,' but his most brilliant achievement was 'The trumpet shall sound,' the obligato to which was flawlessly played by Mr. Solomon."—Cheltenham Chronicle, April, 1903.

HARRISON CONCERT (FREE TRADE HALL, MANCHESTER).—"Lover of ballad music who attended the Harrison Concert in the Free Trade Hall could not fail to be struck with the singing of Mr. Robert Radford. The audience seemed inclined to be severely critical, and therefore the fact that Mr. Radford roused such enthusiasm as to secure the only double encore of the evening stands to his undying credit. His voice is a real bass, one of those rare sonorous organs which remind you of Signor Foli at his best. It is beautifully resonant in the upper and middle registers, and merges, as the deeper notes are obtained, into a glorious sonority of clear and penetrating power. His success was the feature of the evening."—Manchester Evening Chronicle, December, 1902.

HARRISON CONCERT (ABERDEEN).—"The lion's share of the honours of the evening fell to the bass, Mr. Robert Radford, who is the possessor of a magnificent voice of great compass, of flexible and musical quality, and even from top to bottom. Mr. Radford pleased the audience so well that at his two appearances he had to sing no less than five songs. Of these the best was perhaps the recitative and aria 'She alone charmeth my sadness,' from Gounod's 'Irene.' It was beautifully sung, no less in the dramatic recitative than in the suave and graceful aria—a really splendid effort."—Aberdeen Free Press, December, 1902.

"Mr. Robert Radford made a triumphant first appearance in Bristol. He is the fortunate possessor of a remarkable voice—strong, full, rich, and resonant. Every note, from the topmost to the lowest of his unusual compass, is good, and he seems to do everything with enviable ease. The more robust pieces were sung with grand power, and the tender ones with delightful expression. His enunciation of the words was always most distinct. No wonder the audience was roused to enthusiasm and recalled the singer again and again. Mr. Radford will undoubtedly come to Bristol again."—Bristol Times, February, 1903.

NEW ADDRESS:

8, HOLMDALE ROAD, WEST HAMPSTEAD, N.W.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS,
48, DYNE ROAD, BRONDESUR, N.W.
Telegrams:—SOLOIST, LONDON.

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL

(BARITONE).

(Westminster Abbey)

Mr. HENRY J. WOOD (Conductor, Queen's Hall Concerts) writes:—

"I, Langham Place, W., Feb. 14, 1901.

"Mr. Montague Borwell is an excellent vocalist.

"He has been most successful both at Queen's Hall, and at my Nottingham and Wolverhampton Concerts, in most difficult and trying rôles, and I consider him one of the most reliable and painstaking baritone vocalists now before the public.

"HENRY J. WOOD."

"ELIJAH."—TONBRIDGE.—"Mr. Montague Borwell was a perfect exponent of the fiery Prophet. He is the nearest approach to Santley I have heard for a long time. The dramatic instinct, the necessary sarcasm, and the devotional spirit of the Prophet were all there. The great air, 'Is not His Word,' being sung with much spirit, the top F rang as resonantly as a bell. The beautiful air, 'It is enough,' was splendidly sung, and Mr. Borwell had to repeatedly bow his acknowledgments."—Tonbridge Free Press.

"ELIJAH."—STOURBRIDGE.—"Mr. Montague Borwell sang the part of Elijah with fine dramatic expression. His taunts to the Priests of Baal were marked with bitter sarcasm, his appearances to Ahab with dignity, his lament on his betrayal by the people and his invocation to God were most impressive."—Country Express.

"FAUST" (BERLIOZ).—BALLYMONEY.—"Mr. Montague Borwell gave a very dramatic exposition of the part throughout. . . . His rendering of the Serenade was simply splendid, whilst his enunciation throughout the whole work was perfect."—Colevaine Constitution.

"FAUST" (GOUNOD).—SOUTHEND.—"The pick of the principals was Mr. Montague Borwell, whose singing, both technically and artistically, was admirable. . . . His rendering of the Cavatina, and Valentine's death scene being beyond reproach."—Observer.

AND

MISS WINIFRED MARWOOD

(Mrs. Montague Borwell—SOPRANO).

"ELIJAH."—WEYBRIDGE.—"Possessing a soprano voice of fine quality and wide compass, Miss Winifred Marwood maintained a very high standard of excellence in the whole of her contributions, of which perhaps 'Hear ye, Israel,' was the most effective."—Surrey Advertiser.

"ELIJAH."—TONBRIDGE.—"Miss Winifred Marwood made a great impression by her rendering of 'Hear ye, Israel.' It was sung as it should be—prayerfully, and not shouted to the people."—Tonbridge Free Press.

"HIAWATHA."—WEYBRIDGE.—"Miss Winifred Marwood, a soprano of wide range and pleasing method, and Mr. Montague Borwell, a resonant baritone, took the solos in the second scene, and their treatment of the deeply pathetic picture left little to be desired."—Surrey Advertiser.

"L'ALLEGRO."—BRIGHTON.—"Miss Winifred Marwood, who made her first appearance at the Society's Concerts, sang the soprano solos, and showed the possession of a voice of bright, clear, and resonant quality, with a cultured and finished style of vocalization. She achieved conspicuous success in her rendering of 'Sweet bird, that shun'st the noise of folly,' for which she had to acknowledge the enthusiastic applause of a delighted audience."—Daily News, London, 48, Dyne Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MR. ARTHUR WALENN

(BARITONE)

Of the Albert Hall, Queen's Hall, St. James's Hall Popular Concerts, Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts, Walenn Chamber Concerts, &c.

20, Ashworth Mansions, Elgin Avenue, London, W.

MR. JAMES COLEMAN

(BASS)

(Vicar-Choral, Lichfield Cathedral).

RECENT PRESS NOTICES.

"LAST JUDGMENT."—"Mr. James Coleman maintained his high reputation, and the air 'Thus saith the Lord' afforded opportunities of displaying the grand quality and power of his voice."—Derby Mercury, April 1, 1903.

"Land of hope and glory" (Elgar), by Mr. James Coleman and chorus, was evidently considered the song of the evening. The applause was enthusiastic, and notwithstanding Mr. Molineux's silent but pathetic protest, which he made to the audience watch in hand, an encore was insisted upon."—Midland Herald, March 28, 1903.

"ROSE MAIDEN."—"Of Mr. James Coleman it is only necessary to say that he was in form and delighted the audience. Indeed, in the second half his songs roused the audience to an enthusiastic pitch."—Staffordshire Chronicle, February 14, 1903.

"The Messiah."—"Of the work of Mr. James Coleman it would be hard to speak in too great praise. He tackled the many difficult passages in masterly manner."—Nottingham Daily Guardian, January 23, 1903.

Terms and vacant dates, apply, The Cathedral, Lichfield.

MISS ELLEN CHILDS

(CHROMATIC HARPIST).

Having studied in Paris under the direction of the Inventor, Miss Childs is prepared to give LESSONS on the NEW CHROMATIC HARP (without pedals). For terms, apply, 170, Belsize Road, N.W.; or, care of Messrs. Pleyell, Wolff, Lyon and Co., 79-80, Baker Street, Portman Square, W.

SIR A. C. MACKENZIE'S CANADIAN TOUR.

MR.

CHARLES FRY

IN THE

"DREAM OF JUBAL."

(A. C. MACKENZIE AND JOSEPH BENNETT.)

LONDON, ONTARIO.

"Mr. Charles Fry made an impression that will long remain with those who were so fortunate as to hear him. The audience were made to feel the part Mr. Fry was interpreting. At no time was the theme sacrificed in dramatic effort."—Daily Free Press.

TORONTO—STATE CONCERT.

"The reciter displayed elocutionary powers of a high order, and captured the audience."

"The distinguished English reader Mr. Charles Fry has a beautiful speaking voice and a most expressive mode of utterance. He is never monotonous, and has the knack of blending his words with the orchestral setting in the most delightful way."—The News.

"Mr. Charles Fry is a prince of elocutionists, and delivered his lines in a most dramatic manner with absolute perfection of enunciation."—The Mail and Empire.

"The success of this production depends much on the reciter, and Mr. Charles Fry received an ovation for the splendid work he did in this part."—Evening Telegram.

"Mr. Charles Fry is a most expressive reciter, and his expository interludes were most acceptable to the audience."—Globe.

"The 'Dream of Jubal' was a decided novelty, and it proved a no less decided success. Mr. Charles Fry did his part so superbly that one might well imagine it had been written for him. It was a revelation of the possibilities of elocution."—Daily Star.

OTTAWA.

"It is only necessary to state that Mr. Charles Fry's performance was a thoroughly artistic success."—Evening Journal.

"The story is recited to an orchestral accompaniment, and Mr. Charles Fry recites it in a dramatic manner, full of fire and feeling."—The Citizen.

MONTREAL.

"The recitation of the poem was given by Mr. Charles Fry, by whom the natural pastoral beauty of the lines was finely brought out, as well as that of a more dramatic nature."—Gazette.

"Mr. Charles Fry is intensely dramatic in this work, and holds the attention in spite of one's self."—Daily Witness.

"Mr. Charles Fry was admirable as the Narrator, and recited his lines most beautifully, being dramatic without exaggeration."—Daily Star.

"The splendid recital of Sir Alexander Mackenzie's 'Dream of Jubal' in the Windsor Hall last night will never be forgotten by those who were there."—Daily Herald.

"In consequence of its success on the Wednesday night the 'Dream of Jubal' was repeated at Montreal on the Saturday following."

MENDELSSOHN'S "ATHALIE" (over 120 performances)
MENDELSSOHN'S "ANTIGONE" AND "CEDIPUS"

SCHUMANN'S "MANFRED" and other works with accompanied recitation.

22, Albion Road, South Hampstead, N.W.

MISS
MARGUERITE SWALE
PREPARES VOCALISTS for Oratorio, Opera, German Lieder, and Ballads.

VOICE PRODUCTION AND SINGING.

Recommended by distinguished Artists.

F., 120, Great Portland Street, W.

Of immediate assistance to Singers and Speakers.

"SILENT" VOCAL PRACTICE.

Six Correspondence Interviews—Fee, £2 2s.

BARNARD BAYLIS, I.S.M.,

5, Prince's Street, Cavendish Square, W.

MR. GEORGE F. BLACK

Professional Tuner, Expert, &c., of Pianofortes.

Dealer in all kinds of Musical Instruments.

42, Hubert Grove, Stockwell, London, S.W.

LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS,
POLYTECHNIC, 309, REGENT ST., W.

PRINCIPAL: MR. JAMES BATES.

Thoroughly trained, experienced SOLO BOYS, holding positions as Solo Boys at forty London Churches, can be strongly recommended for Church Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.

CHORUS AND LEADING BOYS also available for all kinds of concerted music.

A branch for the preparation and general education of scholars (resident or day) for Cathedral or other Choristships is now open. School and practising rooms, 80, Cambridge Terrace, Hyde Park, W.

Full particulars of The Secretary, 7, Blomfield Crescent, Upper Westbourne Terrace, Hyde Park, W. Telegrams—"Musicmane, London." Telephone—1074, Western.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Boys, personally trained and thoroughly reliable, for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, vacant dates, and further particulars, address, Mr. Henry J. Dutton, 17, Alpha Rd., New Cross, S.E.

MR. TANN'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. W. R. B. TANN, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Saviour's Church, Paddington, is prepared to supply well-trained Solo Boys for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

A number of excellent Chorus Boys also available.

For terms and vacant dates, address, Mr. W. R. B. Tann, 55, Warwick Road, Maida Vale, W.

LONDON CONCERT & CHOIR AGENCY.

SOLOISTS AND CHORUS VOICES for Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Glee and Madrigal Societies At Homes, Banquets, &c.

MR. JAMES BATES, Polytechnic, Regent Street, W.

ŠEVČÍK'S NEW VIOLIN METHOD.

HERR HEINRICH DITTMAR (Violinist)

Pupil of Professor Ševčík (Master of KUBELIK—KOCIÂN—Miss MARIE HALL).

"I certify herewith, that Herr Heinrich Dittmar, Violinist, of Harrogate, England, studied with me during the years 1901-1902, and has entirely acquired my teaching method, and is able to teach the Violin according to this method.

"Signed, OTOKAR ŠEVČÍK."

LESSONS given in this System in London, and in Leeds, York, and Harrogate. For Prospectus, &c., address, 12, Tavistock Road, Westbourne Park, London, W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. Eastfield House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS.

Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Pos. Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities. Diplomats of L.R.A.M., A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O., and A.R.C.O.; Appointments at College and School of Music, and as English Cathedral and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of seven hundred. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ARNOTT, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, Organist to The Honble. Society of Gray's Inn, PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Examinations, and receives Pupils for Pianoforte, Organ, Singing; also, Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition, personally or by correspondence. Scores revised and compositions scored. All letters to The Common Room, Gray's Inn.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., Mus. Bac., Dunelm, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or, at 60, Berners Street, W. Schools attended. Address, 289, High Road, Lee, S.E.

ARTHUR T. FROGGATT, Mus.D., T.C.D., gives LESSONS by POST, and prepares for all genuine examinations. 2, Hampden Villas, Hythe.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., is now making a SPECIALITY of PREPARING CANDIDATES by CORRESPONDENCE for University, Royal College of Organists, and other musical Exams. LARGE NUMBER of PAST SUCCESSES. Moderate terms. PERSONAL LESSONS in THEORY and ORGAN (for R.C.O. exams.) are given either at Streatham or in London. 52, Buckleigh Road, Streatham, S.W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Latest successes, Mus. Bac., Oxford and Durham, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., &c. Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY, Mus.D., Oxon., 13, Roseleigh Avenue, Highbury, N., continues to PREPARE CANDIDATES for the various Theoretical Examinations. Music of any description revised or arranged. LESSONS in COMPOSITION, by post if desired.

DR. ATHELSTAN G. IGGULDEN, Mus. Doc. (Dunelm), F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS and prepares for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by post. The Dingle, Reigate, Surrey.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM and ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: OXFORD FIRST MUS. BAC., May, 1903; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1903; DURHAM, 1902, 1901, 1900, and all previous years; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1902; OXFORD MUS. BAC., 1902, 1901, &c.; L.R.A.M. (Composition and Pianoforte), 1902, 1901, &c.; A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, Composition, and Pianoforte Teaching); CAMBRIDGE and DUBLIN, MUS. BAC.; L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M.; L.T.C.L., A.T.C.L., and Special Certificates, 1902, 1901, &c.; Senior Associated Board. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Terms moderate. MSS. corrected for Publication.

Analyses of Classical Works for Examinations.

70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

DR. MARCHANT, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Author of "500 Fugue Subjects and Answers," Novello's Primers, No. 35), &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Musical Examinations by Post. 10, Glebe Crescent, Stirling, N.B.

MR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus.B., F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., makes a SPECIALITY of COACHING for DEGREES. L.R.A.M., 1897-1903, FORTY-ONE SUCCESSES; A.R.C.M., 1897-1903, ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTEEN SUCCESSES. Equally good results in R.C.O. and other Examinations. Address—Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

MR. HERBERT C. MORRIS, F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M. A.R.C.M., PREPARES CANDIDATES for R.C.O. Examinations by correspondence. 9 A.R.C.O. successes and 7 F.R.C.O. successes during the past four years. Address, The Close, St. David's, Pembrokehire.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, London, Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., Personally or by Correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and all other Examinations. Classes. 25, Palliser Road, West Kensington, W.

DR. TAYLOR, F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L., gives LESSONS, and Prepares for bona fide Musical Examinations, personally or (Theory) by Post. Eastgate House, Stafford.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac. (Durham, 1892), L.Mus.T.C.L. (1888), COACHES for EXAMS. Prospectus, &c., 58, Comiston Road, Edinburgh.

VOICES TRAINED, and SIGHT-SINGING and the PIANOFORTE TAUGHT, by Mr. W. A. FROST (Vicar-Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral and Teacher of Alto Singing at the Royal College of Music), at his residence, 16, Amwell Street, Myddleton Square, E.C. Latest successes of his pupils: Bass appointed at All Souls', Langham Place, and Alto Pupil at the Royal College made an A.R.C.M.

TRAINING OF TENORS.—DAVIDSON PALMER'S METHOD. Inquiries as to LESSONS, &c., should be addressed to Mr. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., 11, Grazebrook Road, Stoke Newington, N.

MR. HAYDN GROVER, Alto Specialist. For ENGAGEMENTS and LESSONS, address, 33, Rathbone Pl., W.

THE ORGANIST of an important Parish Church on the West Coast of Scotland has a VACANCY for a Young Gentleman desiring to qualify for the Musical Profession. Exceptional facilities for studying Choir-training. Fine Organ. Premium required. Apply, R.C.M., Novello and Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

THE ORGANIST of Carlisle Cathedral has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Address, Edward G. Mercer, M.A., 6, Spencer Street, Carlisle.

THE ORGANIST of the Foundling Hospital has a VACANCY for a PUPIL-ASSISTANT. One able to play a plain Service preferred. Apply, by letter, to Mr. Davan Wetton, 8, Marlborough Place, N.W.

HARPENDEN, Herts.—St. George's School. Head Master, Rev. R. H. Wix, M.A. Fees, £60 & £50. Reduction to boys with good voices. Private chapel. Organist, Mr. J. Farrant, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Large buildings and grounds. Very healthy and bracing place.

ST. GEORGE'S CHOIR SCHOOL, WINDSOR CASTLE.—A TRIAL OF VOICES will be held in June, to fill one or more VACANCIES among the Choristers of St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle. The School is confined to the Sons of Gentlemen, and is preparatory for the Public Schools. Candidates should be between the ages of 8 and 10½. Successful Candidates join the School in September. For particulars, apply to H. F. W. Deane, Esq., M.A., F.S.A., St. George's School, Windsor Castle.

SOPRANO, with full, high, well-trained Voice, desires POST as SOLOIST in Church in London. Salary not less than £20. E. L., 25, Lichfield Road, Cricklewood, N.W.

ALTO WANTED, for Holy Trinity Church, Knightsbridge, S.W. £12. Good reader essential. Apply to the Organist.

ALTO WANTED, for St. Stephen's, Putney. £12. Also LEADING BOY, £4. Apply, A. R. Saunders, F.R.C.O., 18, West Side, Wandsworth Common, S.W.

ALTOS (Two) WANTED, for Wimbledon. Communicants. £10 per annum. Apply, by letter, H. W. R., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

MALE ALTO (temporary) WANTED, for Roman Catholic Church in the City. Good reader essential. Salary, £15 to £20. Apply, C. H. B., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

BARITONE desires ENGAGEMENTS (Concerts, At Homes). Well up in German Lieder. For terms, please address, Milton, 409, Romford Road, Forest Gate, E.

ST. ANNE'S, SOHO.—VACANCY for a BASS (not Baritone). £20. Light duties. Write, Precentor, 28, Soho Square, W.

CHOIRMASTER and ORGANIST WANTED, for St. Aidan's, South Shields. £50. Good Organ. Pop. of town 100,000, near Newcastle, Sunderland, Tynemouth, &c., must be good in voice-production, capable choir-trainer. Apply, Vicar, St. Aidan's Vicarage, South Shields.

ORGANIST WANTED, for Parish Church within two miles of Marble Arch. Full Anglican Choral Service; 3-manual organ. Usual Sunday Services and week-day practices. Good churchman and regular communicant essential. Must be fully competent accompanist and performer. Salary from £70. Apply, by letter, with references (not testimonials), to Vicar, Chas. Taylor & Co.'s Advertisement Offices, 154 to 157, Fleet Street, E.C.

ORGANIST-CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for Holy Trinity, Darwen. Large church. Good 3-manual instrument (JARDINE'S, 1887). Churchman. Stipend, £40 to £50. Address, with references, the Vicar.

WANSTEAD PARISH CHURCH, Essex.—ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED. Simple Sunday Services; two Practices a week. Salary £30, by endowment. Residence in neighbourhood essential. Apply, in writing, to Churchwarden, Wardenhurst, Wanstead, N.E.

NANTWICH PARISH CHURCH.—WANTED, September 29, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Salary, £80. Address, with particulars of qualifications, &c., enclosing testimonials (copies only), The Rector, Nantwich.

AN ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER is REQUIRED for St. Peter's Church, Belfast. Three-Manual Organ just erected by NORMAN and BEARD. Salary, £60. Apply to Rev. H. R. Brett, 8, Chichester Terrace, Belfast.

MIDDLE PARISH CHURCH, PAISLEY.—WANTED, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Salary, £50 per annum. Applications with testimonials, stating age, training, and experience, to be lodged with William Peattie, 2, Gilmour Street, Paisley, not later than June 8, 1903.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER REQUIRED, end September, for West-End Nonconformist Church. New 3-manual WILLIS Organ. For full particulars, apply to J. Milton Watkins, Esq., King's Weigh House Church, Duke Street, Grosvenor Square, W.

CHOIR EXCHANGE.—CHURCH POSITIONS secured for Organists and Singers in the United States and Canada. APPOINTMENTS, to be filled on or before September 1, 1903, NOW VACANT in Massachusetts; Minnesota; New York State; New Jersey; and Province of Quebec; California, $1000; Honolulu, $1200; Michigan, $800.

MUSIC PUBLISHING AGENCY.—Publishers found for Composers' Manuscripts. Write The John E. Webster Company, 5, East 14th Street, New York.

ORGANIST would DEPUTIZE for two or three Sundays in August. Used to Full Choral Celebrations. "Services," Anthems, Gregorian and Anglican Chants. Terms to suit. Sea-side town preferred. F. H., 43, White Hart Lane, Barnes.

ORGANIST, St. Stephen's, Guernsey, desires EXCHANGE of HOUSE and DUTIES for August, with Organist in England.

ORGANIST (late of St. Andrew's, Surbiton) desires ENGAGEMENT. Recitals. Would DEPUTIZE. A 782, Shelley's, Gracechurch Street, E.C.

ORGANIST is willing to DEPUTIZE at churches in or near London during the summer months. Moderate terms. Apply, C. S., care of A. Rombach, 21, Cross St., Hatton Garden, E.C.

SEASIDE (South).—Will take DUTY three Sundays in August, in return for APARTMENTS. Will pay small sum for attendance. A. Carnall, Penge, S.E.

EVERY ORGANIST should send for DINHAM, BLYTH & CO.'S Specimens and Price List (free) for Lithographing Anthems, Kyries, Hymn Tunes, &c., from twenty-four Copies and upwards. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

CONDUCTOR WANTED for the ST. CECILIA AND VOCAL UNION, Blackburn (Founded 1875), having a Chorus of over 200 Voices.

REHEARSALS (October to April) on Wednesday from 7.30 to 9.30 p.m.

TWO CONCERTS each Season with BAND selected from the HALLÉ ORCHESTRA.

Applications, stating age, qualifications, and fee required, to be sent, not later than June 15, to the Honorary Secretary,

T. J. BACKHOUSE, 27, Victoria Street, Blackburn.

ACCOMPANIST, COACH, certificated, highly recommended (GOLD MEDALIST, 3 musical degrees), pupil of well-known masters. Visits suburbs, country (if possible to return same day). Perfect sight-reader (MS., Score); theorist; improvises. SONGS TRANPOSED AT SIGHT. Brilliant pianist. Memorized Concert repertoire—200 solos. Terms very moderate (per hour). V. S., Holmes's, 2, Chapel Place, Cavendish Square.

ACCOMPANIST, for Concert Tours, At Homes, Concerts, Coaching. Also Private Pianoforte Pupils. Address, Ethel May Robinson, L.R.A.M., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

WANTED, ENGAGEMENT as DOUBLE-BASS (preferred) or 'CELLO, June to September (in good Orchestra only), in southern watering place. H. B., care of 1, Carr St., Lincoln.

KETTLEDRUMS.—PLAYER (Voluntary) REQUIRED for St. Saviour's Collegiate Church, S.E. Sundays at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Apply, Dr. A. Madeley Richardson.

TUNERS.—"The Hardcastle Patent Pianoforte Touch Regulator." For Students and Practising purposes. J. Hardcastle, 20, Maitland Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

PARTNERSHIP.—VIOLINIST, with 10 years' experience, will establish an Academy in good neighbourhood in September, and desires to meet a few good Teachers (vocal and instrumental) who are seeking a connection. Write for particulars to A. Bench, 266, King Street, Hammersmith, London, W.

YOUNG LADY ASSISTANT REQUIRED, at once. Send refs. and photo, S. Hermitage & Sons, Eastbourne.

DIRECTOR and SECRETARY REQUIRED, for new Company exploiting valuable patents (musical). Huge success. Every investigation. Address, D. S., Box 3,365, Postal Dept., Daily Telegraph, Fleet Street, E.C.

ASSISTANT WANTED, for Sheet Music Department in large business (Scotland). Send Photo and copy testimonials, and state age, experience, and salary required, to No. 2,027, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE.—Experienced TRAVELLER, calling on all Musicians in the United Kingdom, would like to REPRESENT good Pianoforte Firm, on Commission. Highest references. H. L., care of Saward, Baker, and Co., 188, Strand, W.C.

A YOUNG LADY, good reader and musician (studied in Germany), desires a POSITION in a Music Warehouse, or as Accompanist to Musical Societies. Address, A., care of W. H. Smith and Son, Bookstall, Hendon Station, London, N.W.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE. Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber, from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell and Son's, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

Trinity College London (INST. 1872).

President:

THE RIGHT HON. LORD COLERIDGE, M.A., K.C.

Warden: EDMUND H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

Tuesday, June 23, at 8 o'clock, STUDENTS' ORCHESTRAL CONCERT at QUEEN'S HALL, Langham Place, W. Conductor: Dr. E. H. TURPIN.

Special Classes in the Art of Teaching as applied to Music.

School of Pianoforte Technique, under the direction of Mr. G. E. Bambridge, F.T.C.L., F.R.A.M. In the Virgil Clavier Department, Mr. Bambridge is assisted by Mr. Albert Bate, Mr. C. Stiebeler Cook, and Mrs. Halkett.

June 1 is the last day of entry for:—

One INSTRUMENTAL SCHOLARSHIP, tenable for three years, of the annual value of £80;

One COMPOSITION SCHOLARSHIP, tenable for three years, of the annual value of £40; and

Two EXHIBITIONS, each tenable for one year.

EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC FOR TEACHERS.

The next Higher Examinations of the College will be held on Monday, July 20, and following days. The last day of entry is June 20.

Candidates may enter under the newly-revised scheme (Pamphlet C) or under the regulations issued in 1902 (Pamphlet C) at their option.

The recommended text books on teaching are named in the regulations, which may be had, together with forms of entry and other necessary particulars, on application.

The Examination in the Art of Teaching is also open to all present holders of Diplomas and Higher Certificates on payment of an Examination Fee of One Guinea.

Classes Prospectus, including that for the Junior School and the revised regulations for Scholarships, may be had from the undersigned.

By order, SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PRODUCED AT THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,

APRIL 30, 1903.

(See page 422.)

WAR AND PEACE

A SYMPHONIC ODE

FOR

SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

HOLDE SIRENEN
(ZU EINER FEIERLICHEN MUSIK)

ODE

VON

MILTON

FÜR CHOR UND ORCHESTER IN MUSIK GESETZT

VON

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Deutsche Übersetzung von WALTHER JOSEPHSON.

Preis, Mark 2.50.
Chorstimmen, Mark 3.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

John Broadwood & Sons'

LIMITED,

NEW SHORT OVERSTRUNG GRAND

105 GUINEAS.

"MULTUM IN PARVO."

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET, LONDON, W.

THE LONDON MUSIC SCHOOL

(LONDON ORGAN SCHOOL).

Established 1865.

22, PRINCES STREET, CAVENTISH Sq., W. (close to Oxford Circus).
Director and Principal: T. H. YORKE TROTTER, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon.

The School is open daily from 9 a.m. till 9 p.m., and provides a THOROUGH EDUCATION for PROFESSIONAL and AMATEUR MUSICIANS. Lessons may begin on any date, and a single subject taken if desired.

PRIVATE LESSONS are given in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition; Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, Violin, Viola, Violoncello and Double-Bass; all Wind and other Orchestral Instruments; Choir Training, Elocution and Stage Deportment, Modern Languages, &c.

DAY AND EVENING CLASSES are held in Harmony and Counterpoint Musical Dictation, Quartet and Ensemble Playing, and in Elocution (Mr. Charles Fry), and Modern Languages.

The School has a Full Orchestra, a String Orchestra, and two Choral Classes.

The CONCERT ORGAN and two other three-manual Instruments are available for practice.

Prospectus on application to the Secretary.

No. 61, Novello's Music Primers and Educational Series.

THE VIOLA

BY

BERTHOLD TOURS

EDITED BY ALFRED GIBSON.

Price Two Shillings. Paper boards, 2s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BOSWORTH EDITION.

RICHARD STRAUSS.

The most popular Song of this famous composer is "SERENADE" ("STÄNDCHEN").

Now ready, with English words by PAUL ENGLAND.

In three keys (Medium B to G sharp).

ADOLF JENSEN

TWO SONGS

1. "BLITHELY SOUND MY GAY PANDERO."

("Klinge, Klinge, mein Pandero.")

In two keys.

2. "MURMURING BREEZES."

("Gentle Zephyrs.")

In four keys.

The above Songs are worthy of the attention of all Vocalists and Professors of Singing. They are in truth pearls of song.

ŠEVČÍK VIOLIN METHOD.

The greatest Artists now use Opus 1, "SCHOOL OF VIOLIN TECHNIQS" for daily study. The result of a little daily work devoted to them will surprise any Violinist. See also "SCHOOL OF BOWING TECHNIC."

Full Prospectus sent post-free on application to the Publishers.

A. D'AMBROSIO.

TWO MOST CHARMING WORKS FOR THE VIOLIN

Now being played by all the Celebrated Artists.

No. 1. Aubade. No. 2. Réverie.

Four Shillings each.

BOSWORTH AND CO., 5, PRINCES ST., OXFORD ST., W.
And at LEIPZIG, PARIS, VIENNA.

THOMAS ATTWOOD WALMISLEY

(1814—1856.)

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

JUNE 1, 1903.

TRINITY COLLEGE,
CAMBRIDGE.

Not the least interesting incident in the eventful reign of Henry VIII. was the foundation by that monarch of Trinity College, Cambridge, in the year 1546. Various foundations of earlier date—King's Hall, founded by Edward III. in 1336, Michael House, dating from 1323, Physwick's Hostel, and some minor hostels—were absorbed into the new College. A sixteenth century plan of the city shows a confused and inconvenient mass of buildings which were reduced into something like order by Thomas Nevile, Master from 1593 to 1615, with the result that the Great Court of Trinity is now 'the fairest site in Cambridge.' The Great Gate is a fine specimen of the gateway-towers characteristic of Cambridge architecture, and moreover it is the first in order of date. The arrangement of a large and a small gate side by side is an unusual feature, and the flanking turrets give this portal a dignity well befitting the largest college at either of the chief English Universities. The fountain in the centre of the Great Court is a beautiful specimen of Renaissance work, built by Nevile three hundred years ago; it is supplied with water from a field 1,834 yards from the College.

THE ARMS OF TRINITY COLLEGE.

(From Mr. John Willis Clark's 'Concise Guide to Cambridge.' By permission of the publishers, Messrs. Macmillan and Bowes.)

It seems curious that, in so mathematical a University as Cambridge, none of the angles of the Great Court of its chief college should be right-angles, and that no side is of the same length as the side opposite to it; but so extensive is the ground covered by the site that it is not surprising to learn that few Trinity men can run round it while the clock is striking twelve, even although the clock strikes twice, first on the big bell and afterwards on a smaller one. In attempting this feat the swift-footed undergraduate would have to pass under the windows of rooms once occupied by Sir Isaac Newton, Lord Macaulay, and William Makepeace Thackeray. The Master's Lodge (shown in our illustration on p. 373) is also the official residence of the King, the Visitor of the College, when His Majesty honours Cambridge with his presence; moreover, it serves as the Judge's lodgings. The Master's Lodge was restored by Mr. Beresford-Hope, during the regime of Dr. Whewell, a most distinguished Master of Trinity. His doctrine 'Of the plurality of worlds' was said by an epigrammist to be intended to prove that—

Through all infinity, there was nothing so great as the Master of Trinity

The stately Hall, also built by Nevile, is copied from that of the Middle Temple both in dimensions and ornament. The open roof and the carved woodwork of the screen are striking features of this magnificent apartment. At the end is a music-gallery. In former times the successful prizemen of the year used to be called up to receive their rewards between the courses of the Commemoration Dinner, and we are told that on these occasions 'a band was stationed in the music-gallery, which played "Rule, Britannia" and "See, the conquering hero comes" alternately. Those apparently were the only two tunes which the musicians knew.'

THE GREAT GATE.

(Photo by Messrs. Stearn, Cambridge.)

The College evidently favoured music in olden times, as among the 'Extraordinarie Charges' in the Senior Bursar's accounts of 1595-6 are these payments:—

Imprimis, for a sett of newe vialls	viii ^{li} .
Item for viall strings & mending the Colledge Instrumentes	xij ^s .
Item for a Sackbutt and the Carriage	iii ^{li} .

Beyond the Hall is Nevile's Court, built at the sole expense of Dr. Nevile about 1612 in a florid style of Jacobean architecture. Here Byron had his rooms, and one of the poet's undergraduate freaks was to clothe with surplices the four statues representing Divinity, Law, Physics, and Mathematics. In this Court is the Library, a noble building designed by Sir Christopher Wren, its general plan evidently being suggested to the great architect by the Library of St. Mark, Venice. On entering the Library one cannot fail to be impressed with its fine proportions,—200 feet long, 42 feet wide, and 37 feet high—the lighting, and the general effect produced by a combination of books, bookcases, and statuary. Every book-lover will endorse the statement that 'a more noble repository of books it would be hard to find.' Wren not only designed the building, but also the arrangement of the bookcases. As he quaintly puts it in a letter explaining his design: 'The disposition of the shelues both along the walls and breaking out from the walls must needes proue very convenient and gracefull, and the best way for the students will be to haue a litle square table in each Celle with 2 chaires.' The bookcases, made by a Cambridge carpenter under Wren's supervision, are of Norway oak, and the wreaths of fruit, flowers, and arabesques were carved in lime wood by Grinling Gibbons. The busts which form a striking feature of the room are of former members of the College, Roubiliac contributing no fewer than ten. Thorwaldsen's imposing statue of Lord Byron at once attracts attention. It was refused admission into Westminster Abbey, for which it was intended, and after lying about twelve years in the Custom House the statue ultimately found its way into the Library of Trinity, of which College the author of 'Childe Harold' was one of its most famous students.

It is of course impossible within present limitations even to mention a tithe of the treasures contained in this Library. A choice few only can be referred to. One of the most precious possessions is the Tripartitum Psalterium Eadwini ('The Canterbury Psalter'), circa 1150, in the wooden boards of its original binding. The volume measures 18 by 13 inches and contains 285 folios. The decorations and illustrations of this manuscript are most magnificent. Each Psalm is illustrated by an oblong picture extending across the page. The figures are drawn with the pen, and the outlines washed with colour, the principal colours used being blue, green, vermilion, and brown; no gold is employed. Eadwin the scribe—who furnishes his own portrait at the end of the volume—set out with the intention of originality in his designs; but after the first seven Psalms he seems to have found the task too exacting, and he abandoned it in favour of simpler methods. Indeed, nearly all the illustrations are (most probably) copied from the famous 'Utrecht Psalter,' now believed to have been written in France (near Rheims) in the 9th century.

By the kind permission of the librarian of Trinity College, the Rev. Dr. Sinker, we give on the opposite page a photographic facsimile, specially taken for this article, of the illumination illustrating Psalm cl. The size of the original is about 11 by 6 inches. It will be observed that the full orchestra mentioned in the text of this Pæan Psalm is well represented in the picture. Everything seems to be going at a most vigorous fortissimo. The organ, in the centre, is so much at the 'full' that the blowers, blowing their best, can hardly keep the wind in! The admonitions of the pair of organists to the quartet of blowers may be prompted by rivalry in that they (the organists) do not wish to let the trumpeters, the cymbalists, the lutenists, the harpists and the rest of the players have it all their own way in making a joyful noise. The organ portion of this imaginative design has appeared over and over again, often very badly engraved, in various histories of music and organ treatises, but always separated from its interesting context.

Here is also a vellum Roll of Carols, 6 ft. 7 in. long by 7 inches wide. Its thirteen compositions, of the 15th century, may have been the work of one man, and he John Dunstable. The notation is that known as 'black void,' with triangular-headed notes written on a red five-line stave. No. 7 is the famous Agincourt Song, which may be assigned to the year of the Battle of Agincourt, 1415. It begins thus:—

*Deo gracias anglia
redde pro victoria.*

Our kyng went forth to normandy wyth grace and myth of chyualry, ther God for hym wrouth meruelowsly.
Qwerfore yngland may cal and cry.

Deo gracias (etc.).

If the music shows the counterpoint in a very early and rudimentary condition, this specimen is of special value as a link in the history of English creative music.

Turning for the moment from music to literature, one is fascinated with the Milton manuscript volumé preserved in the Library. This most precious book contains the first idea of 'Paradise Lost'—not, however, cast in the form of an epic poem as we now know it, but sketched as a tragedy upon the Greek model, each of the five acts closing with a chorus. Moreover, it shows that Milton also had an idea of writing a succession of sacred dramas after FACSIMILE OF THE ILLUMINATION ILLUSTRATING PSALM CL.

FROM THE CANTERBURY PSALTER IN THE LIBRARY OF TRINITY COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.
Photographed by Messrs. Mason and Basché, Cambridge.

circles beyond the confines of Cambridge—that we venture to make some gleanings from his instructive pages. It appears that the Statutes required the College to maintain ten singing boys (pueri Symphoniaci qui Choristæ nominentur). In olden days the emoluments of the Chorista were considerable, and the authorities put so liberal an interpretation upon the term singing-boy that they were in the habit of electing into vacant choristerships students who had taken their Bachelor's degree! The Conclusion Book of that time frequently contains a curious expression, viz., 'a drie chorister,' which, as Mr. Gerard F. Cobb says, 'points to the conclusion that the Choristæ of that period were Abuses were not confined to filling up the boys' places by men singers. During the Mastership of Hinchliffe (1768-89), who was also Bishop of Peterborough, a bad singer in the College Choir was tolerated because he had a vote for Peterborough! This gave rise to the following squib:—

A sing-man and yet not sing!
How justify your patron's bounty?
Forgive me; you mistake the thing:
My voice is in another county!

It should not be forgotten that worthy Thomas Mace was a singing-man at Trinity, as indeed, in later years, was Mr. Edward Lloyd.

The Hall.

The Master's Lodge.

THE GREAT COURT.

(Photo by Messrs. Stearn, Cambridge.)

not all 'pueri symphoniaci' as the Statutes required. At one time the Seniority evidently suffered some qualms of conscience in this matter, as a Conclusion dated March 29, 1613, reads:—

That whereas we have agreed upon an order never hereafter to choose any drye quirister into a quirister's place: yet for this once and no more, we have dispensed with this order and have chosen Thos. Ritcher (sic) drye quirister.

On May 3 'Richard' ('Ritcher' of the above 'Conclusion') was ordered—

Actually to come in St* Wilson's place, and Peake chosen in to be quirister potentia to sing in ye meantime, and if his voice hold to enjoye it, till it fayle.

* 'St,' i.e., 'Sir' was the vernacular prefix then used to imply that a Bachelor's Degree had been taken.

In regard to the organ there is no need to go farther back than 1594, when one Hughe Rose was paid the sum of 'vj^{li} xiijs iiiij^d for the organe.' An interesting entry in the Senior Bursar's accounts in 1596 reads: 'Item a Cornett bought for ye Chappell, xx^s' In 1610 John Yorke received the sum of xl^{li} for repairing and improving 'the ould orgaine and for making the newe chaire orgaine.' 'Mr. Dallam' appeared on the scene in 1635, but he seems only to have overhauled, repaired and tuned the instrument. The enforced idleness of the organ-blower during the period of the Civil War is amusingly recorded in the accounts (for 1643) thus:—

To Chambers for not blowing ye organs a whole year..... xl^s

In 1663 another familiar name appears in the records:—

To Mr. Leusemore for removing his owne organ.

This was George Loosemore, organist of the College, who probably lent an organ of his own or one constructed by his brother. Tamar, of Peterborough, a local organ-builder of more

Perchance the authorities regretted a payment (in 1637)—

To him that should keepe dogges out of y^e Chappell xxvj^s. viij^d.

THE HALL.

(Photo by Messrs. Stearn, Cambridge.)

than East Anglian repute, built a new organ in 1662-3; a Conclusion of that date reads:—

Agreed.—That six-score pounds be layd out upon a Chaire-Organ in order to a Faire one.

Tamar also supplied a real live vox humana to the Chapel in the person of his son, as the Conclusion of December 16, 1662, sheweth.

Agreed.—That young Tamar, son of the organ-maker, be admitted into the next Chorister's place which shall be void, and that he be in the meane time allowed such profits as belong unto a Chorister.

In 1675, Tamar received an extra payment for Mending the Organ when eaten with Ratts, although a short time previously the accounts showed a charge—

For a Ratt trapp for the Chappell 00. 01. 04

Father Smith was the parent of the present organ. This great artist's name is first met with in the records of the year 1686, after he had made his reputation with the Temple Church and other important organs. No specification of Smith's first organ that he built for Trinity has been preserved. For some reason or another it was not erected till 1694. The price paid for it was about equal to £600 at the present value of money. The accounts of 1693-4 give this information in regard to the inauguration ceremony:—

For Symphonys, one at y^e opening of y^e new Organ, and y^e other on Trin. Sunday at 10 a time 01. 00. 00.

Twelve years afterwards the organ-screen was moved about seventeen feet eastwards, and so remained till 1870, when it was restored to its original position, where it now stands. This removal (in 1706) necessitated the taking down of the organ, and gave an opportunity of ordering a new and more adequate instrument at a reputed cost of £1,000, from the workshop of Father Smith. To quote the words of Mr. Cobb, 'this second Smith organ is undoubtedly the legitimate progenitor of our present instrument, however much the line of its descent may be blurred and complicated by intervening alterations, and it possesses a special historical interest as having been the result of his latest and maturest efforts.'

It is not necessary to trace the history of the organ in detail from Father Smith's time; suffice it to say that since the year 1836 the instrument has been in the hands of Messrs. William Hill and Son, who in 1889 restored and brought it up to date as a four-manual organ of sixty-seven sounding stops—of which six are by Father Smith—and 3,702 pipes. The original Father Smith case remains, except that the exigencies of 'more stops' necessitated adding to the width of the case in the two flanking 'towers' with the adjacent 'flats.' Dr. Gray, the organist, sits between the east choir organ and the main portion of the instrument at which he so ably presides.

The list of organists of Trinity College contains some good names. It may serve to start from the Restoration, when Dr. George Loosemore was appointed. He composed—

Graces, of the Collects for the Day, made to be sung on Feast-Days in Trinity College hall in Cambridge by the Clerks and Choristers.

The MS. of these 'Graces' is in the College Library. Charles Quarles—not an ideal name for euphonious expression—went to York Minster, and later on Trinity proved to be a stepping-stone for James Kent to Winchester. Charles Quarles, who was contemporary with Purcell, composed a nice little Minuet in G minor, which may be found in Vincent Novello's 'Select Organ Pieces' (No. 90). We may pass on to two well-known names—Dr. John Randall and Dr. Clarke-Whitfield (organists in succession); the former was also organist of King's, the latter of St. John's—in fact, for more than a century, until 1856, the organist of Trinity had always another string to his bow in being chief-musician of either King's or St. John's. William Beale, composer of the popular madrigal 'Come, let us join the roundelay,' succeeded Clarke-Whitfield.

Thomas Attwood Walmisley, one of the most distinguished holders of the office of organist, was appointed in 1833 at the age of nineteen! Like Dr. John Randall, Walmisley was also Professor of Music in the University. His beautiful Evening Service in D minor (which he very nearly burned), and his masterly anthem 'If the Lord Himself,' take high rank among the classics of English Church music. Walmisley died at the early age of forty-two at Hastings, in 1856, and is buried in Fairlight Churchyard. A brass erected to his memory upon the initiative of Sir Charles Stanford, one of his successors at Trinity, occupies a fitting place in the antechapel. At one period of his life, when he discharged the duties of John Pratt in addition to his own, Walmisley played at no fewer than eight services every Sunday. Here is his time-table:—

St. John's College	a.m.
Trinity	7.15
King's	8.0
St. Mary's Church	9.30
					10.30
University Sermon (at St. Mary's)	p.m.
					2.0
King's	3.15
St. John's	5.0
Trinity	6.15

The portrait of Professor Walmisley, which forms one of our Special Supplements, is from an oil painting by the late Mr. Harraden in the possession of the Royal Academy of Music, and is reproduced by special permission of the

THE LIBRARY.

(Photo by Messrs. Stearn, Cambridge.)

Committee of Management of that Institution. Dr. John Larkin Hopkins, composer of the popular Te Deum in G, held the office from 1856 to 1873. In the latter year

Sir Charles Villiers Stanford, an undergraduate at Queens', aged twenty, began his memorable reign of nearly a full score of years. The far-reaching influence which the young organist exerted upon the musical life of the University is known and read of all men. The details are set forth in the Biographical Sketch of Sir Charles which appeared in THE MUSICAL TIMES of December, 1898, and therefore they need not be recapitulated here. It should, however, be mentioned that 'Stanford in B flat,' one of the his first breath on December 23, 1855. He is a grandson of Jonathan Gray, a well-known amateur in York, to whom, on the subject of chanting, reference was recently made in these columns (March issue, p. 174). Although Alan Gray was intended for the legal profession he became a music pupil of the late Dr. E. G. Monk. In due time he went 'up' to Cambridge as an undergraduate of Trinity. During the occasional absences of the then organist (Sir Charles Stanford) he played the services in the best known and appreciated of modern services, and recently scored by the composer for full orchestra, was first sung in Trinity College Chapel in the year 1879. Sir Charles Stanford was the third organist of Trinity to hold the Professorship of Music in the University.

THE CHAPEL, LOOKING WEST, SHOWING ROUBILIAC'S STATUE OF SIR ISAAC NEWTON IN THE ANTE-CHAPEL.

(Photo by Messrs. Stearn, Cambridge.)

The present organist of Trinity College is Dr. Alan Gray, a native of York, where he drew College Chapel. He took the degree of LL.B. in 1877, and that of LL.M. in 1883, and in the same year was appointed organist and music-master of Wellington College. Three years later he qualified for the degree of Mus. B., and in 1889, of Mus. D. Upon the resignation of Sir Charles Stanford in 1892, Dr. Gray succeeded to the post of organist of his old College, and became conductor of the University Musical Society; both these appointments he still holds. His compositions include :—

The Widow of Zarephath (a reading with choral exposition), produced in York Minster, May, 1888. Cantatas, &c.: Arethusa (Shelley), Leeds Festival, 1892; The Legend of the Rock Buoy Bell, Hovingham Festival, 1893; The Vision of Belshazzar, the same, 1893; Milton's version of Psalm vii. (Mus. D. exercise); The Song of Redemption (formerly An Easter Ode) for soli, chorus, and orchestra, composed in 1892 and performed at the Leeds Festival of 1898; Odysseus among the Phalacians, for soli, chorus, and orchestra (MS.); Festival Te Deum, with orchestra (1895); Overture for full orchestra; Piano-forte quartet; String quartet; Sonata for pianoforte and violin and pianoforte alone; Four sonatas (1889); Fantasia and other works for the organ; Church Services in F and A; Anthems, songs, and various smaller works. (The foregoing list is mostly compiled from Messrs. Brown and Stratton's invaluable 'British Musical Biography'.)

DR. ALAN GRAY.

ORGANIST OF TRINITY COLLEGE.

(Photo by Mr. J. Palmer Clarke, Cambridge.)

Finally, what can be said to adequately describe the impressiveness of a Sunday evening service in Trinity College Chapel? Gathered together in that classic sanctuary is a white-robed throng who, in the full flush of their early manhood, are uplifting their voices in a hymn, the strains of which reach the ear as of the sound of many waters. Is there an Isaac Newton, a George Herbert, a Dryden, a Macaulay, a Tennyson, a Thackeray, or a future Prime Minister in that vast assembly of the flower of England's youth? Time alone can answer that question; and in leaving this pleasant spot, with associations rich in splendid intellectual achievement, one experiences a thrill of emotion such as may find expression in the words of one of Trinity's famous poets :—

I could not print

Ground where the grass had yielded to the steps
Of generations of illustrious men, Unmoved.

MUSIC AT THE ROYAL ACADEMY.

In going round the exhibition at Burlington House, I picked out nearly forty works of art that had some connection with the sister art, Music, but of these more than a quarter were in the form of sculpture. The musician, especially in his most primitive type, affords many appropriate motives for sculpturesque treatment. It is an almost universal rule that as musical instruments became more highly developed from an acoustical and practical point of view, they lost the picturesque beauty which they possessed in the earlier stages of their development, and it is not surprising to find the long-since obsolete lyre still in high favour with sculptors and painters.

A comprehensive view of archaic music is afforded by a group designed by Mr. Paul R. Montford for the Cardiff Town Hall, representing 'Music and Poetry' (1,719.) In it the pan-pipes, the classical lyre, the bardic harp, and the viol, all make their appearance. That most poetical of instruments, the lyre, appears several times. 'Orpheus descending into Hades' is the subject of a bronze statuette by Mr. Sydney March (1,743) and he appears furnished with a very elementary form of instrument—a pair of antelope's horns fixed in the shell of a tortoise making its framework, upon which but three strings are stretched. A more advanced type is seen in Mr. Horace Montford's bronze statue, 'A Hymn to Demeter' (1,720), for it has seven strings, and is played with a plectrum. A very elementary form of wind instrument, a sort of flageolet without holes or keys, apparently Oriental in origin, is seen in Mr. Onslow Whiting's clever statuette 'A Young Minstrel' (1,817), but we go yet farther back to an anomaly which is still the subject of much silly sentimentalizing in Mr. W. J. McLean's bronze statuette 'The murmur of the shell' (1,788). This, like Miss Edith C. Maryon's portrait-group of Sir Rennell Rodd's little daughters, entitled 'Listen' (1,872), is an instance of what is styled 'the music of Nature.' A much more sophisticated phase of music is suggested by Miss Mary G. Houston's leather medallion of 'St. Cecilia' (1,730), who, as in Mr. Fred Appleyard's oil painting of the Saint (65), is represented handling one of the early portable organs which have been popularly associated with her ever since Raphael painted his famous picture. Church music is also illustrated in Miss Ellen M. Rope's panel in low relief for an organ chamber (1,864), which reminds one of Della Robbia's 'Singing Boys,' and bears the appropriate motto, 'Sing we merrily unto God our strength.'

In this connection may be mentioned what is one of the most musically interesting things in the exhibition, Mr. Henry Pegram's design for a memorial to Sir John Stainer (1,814), a relief not unlike that which Mr. Goscombe John designed in Sullivan's memory a year ago. Not only is the medallion portrait an admirable one, reflecting all that was best in a singularly sympathetic personality, but the imagery of the whole design is dignified and appropriate, the leading motive being suggested by the text, 'I saw the Lord,' which is of course associated with Stainer's name through his well-known anthem. Before leaving the sculptures, Miss Dorothy Rope's silver relief, 'Sumer is icumen in' (1,870) should be mentioned, since its title is derived from the ancient round which Britons cherish as a proof of their early supremacy in music.

When we turn to the paintings we find the lyre is again prominent. In Mrs. E. Normand's picture, 'The Sirens' (472), a lyre of classical type, with six strings, is associated with a double pipe; and in the President's 'Cave of the Storm Nymphs' (160) one of the sea-maidens who—sing

Their light songs to the listening ocean caves is accompanying herself on a seven-stringed lyre.

A rather later stage of development is illustrated by the Egyptian harp in Mr. Sydney Muschamp's 'Thisbe: Malicious wall, thus lovers to divide' (362), a new and interesting version of the old story, and another archaic type of stringed instrument is the nine-stringed 'crwth' in Mr. Henry Ryland's water-colour 'Summer Music' (914). We are taken into a region of pure fantasy in Mr. Alfred Ward's 'Horns of Elfland, faintly blowing' (735), in which the music is supplied by a quintet of 'Bach' trumpets of the most primeval type, being in fact formed of the stamens of lilies, blown by five fascinating nymphs to a select audience of one young gentleman.

'Beware' (692), by Mr. Horace van Ruith, introduces us incidentally to mediæval music. The subject is the appearance to a young monk of a charming young lady masquerading under the habit of a palmer—an instance of St. Anthony's temptation, or else of the ballad of Edwin and Angelina. The ecclesiastic thus agreeably, if dangerously, interrupted in his work is engaged upon the production of a magnificent service-book, with square notes and illuminated initials, a superb folio, over which wealthy collectors would madly contend at Sotheby's. The denouement is left to the imagination, but one is haunted by the impression that the volume will be left incomplete. With this glimpse of the middle ages we pass from antiquity to comparatively modern times. Mr. Frank Dicksee's 'A Duet' (154) introduces, as an accompaniment to the voice, a lute, made beautiful by inlay of mother-of-pearl, and (apparently) a dulcimer. The former instrument, which obsolete as it is is constantly being perpetuated by poets and painters, also makes its appearance in the symbolical picture by Mr. Sigismund Goetze, 'Vox Humana' (664), in which there is found among the suitors of Dame Nature a minstrel thrumming a lute. A near relation of the lute, the mandolin, is found in Mrs. Seymour Lucas's 'Our Grandmothers' (516). As however the instrument is being plucked by the player's fingers, and not by a plectrum, it may be intended for a species of lute. It is associated with a keyboard instrument, apparently a spinet. A spinet, decorated by elaborate paintings on the flap which hangs down below the keyboard, is a prominent feature of Mr. J. H. F. Bacon's smartly painted picture 'A Romance' (111). A more homely kind of music is suggested by Mr. Seymour Lucas's picture of a young caroller (67), singing from an oblong song-book in the familiar sheepskin binding:—

God rest ye merry, gentlemen,
Let nothing you dismay.

He is accompanied by a very respectable little orchestra of two violins and two flageolets of the same period and type as that with which 'Mr. Thomas Greeting, Gent.,' used to instruct Mrs. Pepys.

All the other instruments I noticed are practically such as are in use nowadays, though the setting is frequently an antique one. In Mr. Stephen Lewin's 'Their favourite song' (332), a girl in Stuart costume is singing to the accompaniment of violin and violoncello, and on the seat is an instrument of the chitarrone type. Mrs. Stanhope Forbes's brilliant and powerful picture, 'On a fine day' (394) must also be mentioned here, for these merry girls are singing from sheer lightness of heart, as they race along hand-and-hand in the open country.

We come much nearer to the present day in Mr. Isaac Snowman's 'The children's hour' (80), but this picture seems to involve an anachronism, for while the costumes are of the 18th century the instrument is a quite modern type of pianoforte. A similar motive is that of the adjoining picture, 'A Hornpipe: Margaret and Janet, daughters of D. Robertson Macdonald, Esq.' (81), by Miss M. E. Gray, but here the children are as modern as the pianoforte. The grand pianoforte figures in Mr. J. Young Hunter's little picture, 'The Nightingale' (553), which takes us back to early Victorian times, though the heavy 'ebonized' case suggests a Teutonic abomination of a more recent period. In Catherine M. Wood's elaborate piece of still life, 'Interior' (638), a violin laid on the chair and music resting on the table, amid crowds of bric-à-brac, suggest that the owner practises in very perilous surroundings, and that he can hardly risk attempting an allegro con brio unless his belongings are heavily insured against breakage. Perhaps however he has not got beyond the second position, and a mild andante.

Military music is of course represented, seeing that we have not yet quite got over our warlike fever. In Mr. Seymour Lucas's 'Standard-Bearer' (180) the big drum serves a peaceful purpose, but in Mr. Godfrey Merry's water-colour 'The King's Guard' (820), the military band is in full play, while an ad libitum additional accompaniment is furnished by an energetic juvenile whistler. In 'The Black Watch on the trek' (930), by Mr. W. Skeoch Cumming, the stirring sound of the bagpipes has penetrated into South Africa, and is apparently evolving mixed feelings from the inhabitants, though as yet they have not begun to take refuge in flight.

By way of contrast attention may be called to two studies of belfries. Sir Edward Poynter's 'Bells of St. Mark's Campanile' (101) is of course highly interesting as a record of the recently ruined tower and landmark, and with it may be compared a pen-and-ink drawing by Mr. H. H. Statham, 'In a belfry: ringing-in the New Year' (1,350).

Finally, if we turn aside into the architectural room, that peaceful little backwater from the stream commonly followed by visitors, we may as well cast a glance at Mr. J. A. Hughes's pretty design for a decorative panel, 'Music' (1,666), and at Mr. Reginald Blomfield's refined and dignified music room in Renaissance style at 'Hatchlands,' Guildford (1,652).

HERBERT THOMPSON.

WILLIAM STERNDALÉ BENNETT (1816—1875).

(Continued from page 309.)

The 'Three Musical Sketches' (The Lake, the Millstream, and the Fountain)—that trio of charming pieces for the pianoforte—were published in 1836, and dedicated to his friend, J. W. Davison. A reviewer in the Musical World said:—

The whole composition deserves the attention of an advanced player, and the last movement [The Fountain] is original as well as delightful, which may be a recommendation in these days of mere difficulty without adequate reward: of horse labour, with husks and chaff for your pains.

'Husks and chaff' are not an unknown quantity in the present day, but our criticism is now more kid-gloved and of less stability. The exquisite grace of the Naiades overture is acknowledged by all who can appreciate refinement in expression and finished workmanship. Its poetic import, however, has variously worked upon the imaginations of programme annotators. Take for instance the pizzicato episode: here are two interpretations of its meaning:—

The splashing of large water drops tossed from the wavelets, which assume the human shape of the Naiades, Fairy bells tinkling their gladness.

Again, the lovely melody of the second subject is said to represent—

The love looks of the damsels of the deep, whereby they allure mortals to destruction.

It is as though some water deity sang while floating on the bosom of a stream restless from past disturbance.

Upon his return from Leipzig (in 1837) Bennett was appointed to a professorship at his Alma Mater, and entered upon a busy professional life in London. In October of the following year he again found his way to Leipzig, where he played at the Gewandhaus his Fourth Pianoforte Concerto (in F minor) containing the Barcarolle. The middle movement was originally a 'Pastorale,' but as Mendelssohn, to whom the composer played the work, did not take to it, Bennett substituted the Barcarolle. This boat-song, one of his most familiar compositions, was written at Grantchester, near Cambridge, its conception being suggested by the sedgy windings of the Granta. The programme of an orchestral concert given by him in London on May 25, 1838, shows that he played his

ROBERT BENNETT.

FATHER OF SIR W. STERNDALÉ BENNETT, AND ORGANIST OF SHEFFIELD PARISH CHURCH FROM 1811—1819.

(From the original painting by Wageman, reproduced by kind permission of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Case.)

Caprice (for pianoforte and orchestra), then designated 'L'Hilarité.' The orchestral concerts given by him were annual events, and at that of June 25, 1844, Mendelssohn conducted the orchestra and played with the concert-giver the former composer's Andante con variazioni in B flat for two performers on one pianoforte (Op. 83a). Bennett played the Rondo from his Concertstück (MS.) for pianoforte on that occasion, and the lady students of the Royal Academy of Music sang Mendelssohn's Motet 'Laude Pueri.'

Shortly before this concert Bennett was married—at Southampton, on April 9, 1844—to Miss Mary Anne Wood, only daughter of Commander James Wood, R.N. The Musical Examiner duly recorded the event in these fatherly words, penned by the editor, Mr. J. W. Davison: 'The bride is accomplished, beautiful, and good. Our prayers for the happiness of this union are hearty and sincere.' The joy of his marriage and the affection of his friends helped to soften the disappointment Bennett experienced earlier in the year in not being elected to the Professorship of Music in the University of Edinburgh. The candidature was the cause of much lively writing in the daily and musical press, and many a dull moment may be brightened by turning to the pages of the Musical Examiner to see what 'J. W. D.,' the doughty champion of 'W. S. B.,' had to say on the subject. One of the candidates he calls:—

Mr.-Doctor Concerto-organ Gauntlett . . . a musico-philosophico-legal salamander—a kind of polyhedric and multi-coloured jack-a-lantern, whose infinity of surfaces and infinity of tints, by a perpetuity of motion admirable to think upon, bear the semblance of one surface and one tint—so to speak, a many-hued teetotum in full spin.

This well spun-out sentence is of a style which even the impressionist critic of the present day would find it hard to beat. The contest lasted six months, and in the end Hugh Pearson (afterwards Hugo Pierson) was appointed to the Professorship. Mr. Davison characterized Mr. Pearson's election as 'a job, glaringly unlawful, outrageously dishonest,' against which legal proceedings should be taken. 'O that we had a thousand pounds,' he editorially said, 'to venture on the issue.'

Not the least gratifying of the testimonials Sterndale Bennett received in his candidature for the Reid chair was the following from his friend Mendelssohn, written in his usual good English:—

Berlin, December 17, 1843.

MY DEAR FRIEND,—I hear that you proclaimed yourself a Candidate for the musical Professorship at Edinburgh, and that a testimonial which I might send could possibly be of use to you with the Authorities at the University. Now while I think of writing such a testimonial for you I feel proud and ashamed at the same time—proud, because I think of all the honour you have done to your art, your country, and yourself, and because it is on such a brother-artist that I am to give an opinion; and ashamed, because I have always followed your career, your compositions, your successes, with so true an interest, that I feel as if it was my own cause, and as if I was myself the Candidate for such a place.

But there is one point of view from which I might be excused in venturing to give still an opinion, while all good and true musicians are unanimous about the subject: perhaps the Council of the University might like to know what we German people think of you, how we consider you. And then, I may tell them, that if the prejudice which formerly prevailed in this country against the musical talent of your Country has now subsided, it is chiefly owing to you, to your compositions, to your personal residence in Germany.

Your Overtures, your Concertos, your vocal as well as instrumental Compositions, are reckoned by our best and severest authorities amongst the first standard works of the present musical period. The public feel never tired in listening to, while the musicians feel never tired in performing, your Compositions; and since they took root in the minds of the true amateurs, my countrymen became aware that music is the same in England as in Germany, as everywhere; and so by your successes here you destroyed that prejudice which nobody could ever have destroyed but a true genius. This is a service you have done to English as well as German musicians, and I am sure that your countrymen will not acknowledge it less readily than mine have already done.

Shall I still add, that the Science in your works is as great as their thoughts are elegant and fanciful—that we consider your performance on the Piano as masterly as your Conducting of an Orchestra? That all this is the general judgment of the best musicians here, as well as my own personal sincere opinion? Let me only add that I wish you success from my whole heart, and that I shall be truly happy to hear that you have met with it.

Always yours, sincerely and truly,

FELIX MENDELSSOHN BARTHOLDY.

To W. Sterndale Bennett, Esq.

The life of a pianoforte teacher so much in request as Bennett left him little time for composition. Wearied by the daily round of lesson-giving, he would feel little inclination to court his creative muse except perhaps at holiday times, and then he was probably glad to get away from music. But he must have kept up his pianoforte playing, as in addition to his annual orchestral concerts, at which he played one or more concertos, he gave year after year a series of 'Classical Chamber Concerts' and 'Performances of Classical Pianoforte Music.' A large number of the programmes of these highly artistic music-makings, covering a period of twelve years, now before us, show Bennett's refined and eclectic taste. For instance, Bach's clavier concertos, violin sonatas, and selections from the '48,' then almost novelties, and other lesser-known works of the great masters were conscientiously set before the favoured listeners in the Hanover Square Rooms. The pianist's lovely touch added a special charm to his poetic intuitiveness, and vocal music of a high order—e.g., the Liederkreis of Beethoven—gave variety and interest to these very enjoyable afternoons of music.

We may pass on to the year 1849, an eventful one, as it witnessed the inception of the Bach Society, founded by Sterndale Bennett. The history of this important organization in propagating the music of Bach in England has been so fully set forth by the present writer in these columns that details may be dispensed with*; suffice it to say that Bennett conducted the first performance in England of the 'St. Matthew Passion' on April 6, 1854, and that he threw himself unreservedly into the Bach cause with hardly less enthusiasm than did old Sam Wesley half-a-century earlier.

A great honour was paid to Bennett and to English musicianship in the year 1853, when the Directors of the famous Gewandhaus concerts at Leipzig invited the subject of this sketch to become the conductor of their famous concerts.

* 'Bach's Music in England,' THE MUSICAL TIMES, September to December, 1896.

No similar distinction has come this way before or since. It is no wonder that he was 'completely overwhelmed with the feelings of joy and pride in the receipt of such a testimony of friendship and good feeling,' but after careful consideration of the matter, he felt it his duty to remain in England, though 'it was his fondest wish to go to Leipzig.'

The Gewandhaus invitation may have prompted the directors of the Philharmonic Society to appoint Bennett conductor of their concerts after the Wagner fiasco of 1855. At all events he was elected to the post and held it for ten years, from 1856-1866. The first Philharmonic concert he conducted—April 14, 1856—was made memorable by the first appearance in England of Madame Schumann, who played Beethoven's Pianoforte Concerto in E flat. Nothing could be more appropriate than that Schumann's English friend should take so prominent a part in the introduction of this great artist to an English audience. During the same eventful season he conducted the first performance in this country of Schumann's 'Paradise and the Peri'—Philharmonic concert of June 23, 1856—when Jenny Lind sang the soprano solos. It was a 'command' performance, and Queen Victoria honoured the concert with her presence. Her Majesty was accompanied by the Prince Consort, the Prince of Wales (now King Edward VII.), the Princess Royal and Prince Frederick William of Prussia (afterwards Emperor and Empress of Germany), Princess Alice, and a large suite, all of whom remained till the conclusion of the concert—in fact the event was in the nature of a State visit, the Court newsmen recording that the Royal party 'occupied six carriages.'

'Paradise and the Peri,' however, failed to meet with the approval of Mr. Davison. He wrote in The Times that 'a less "dainty dish" was assuredly never "set before the Queen."' He also began a leading article in the Musical World with these words:—

ROBERT SCHUMANN has had his innings, and been bowled out—like Richard Wagner. Paradise and the Peri has gone to the tomb of the Lohengrins.

In spite of this anti-Schumannism on the part of 'J. W. D.' and other London critics, Bennett continued to favour his good friend of the Leipzig days, Schumann's Symphony in C being first played in England on May 30, 1864, under his (Bennett's) direction. For the Jubilee concert of the Philharmonic Society he specially composed his own picturesque overture 'Paradise and the Peri.' By-the-way, has that gone to the tomb of the forgotten?

On the death of Thomas Attwood Walmisley (in 1856) Bennett was elected Professor of Music in the University of Cambridge, and received the degree of Doctor of Music, honoris causa. A course of four lectures delivered by him, in April, 1858, at the London Institution is a little-known incident in his career. We have before us the prospectus of these discourses. The first is entitled 'On the state of music in English private society'; its syllabus reads:—

Is England a Musical Nation?—The great Public Musical Societies now existing—The large number of Amateurs assisting in Public Musical Entertainments—What is done for Music at Home?—Is good Music to be ever inseparable from state and ceremony, and always to include the penalties of hot rooms and late hours?

These interrogatories furnish food for thought even in our own times. The second lecture was on the subject of 'The visits of illustrious foreign musicians to England—Handel, Mozart, Haydn, Clementi, Dussek, Spohr, Rossini, Weber, Hummel, and Mendelssohn, with musical illustrations'—an interesting theme, though the absence of Wagner's name strikes us as being remarkable. But he was not then 'illustrious.'

[F. G. E.]

(To be continued.)

Occasional Notes.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS OF THE DAY TO:—

Edward Elgar	- - - - -	June 2.
Paul Felix Weingartner	- - - - -	" 2.
Charles Steggall	- - - - -	" 3.
Arthur Somervell	- - - - -	" 5.
Siegfried Wagner	- - - - -	" 6.
Madame Frickenhaus	- - - - -	" 7.
Madame Clara Novello (Countess Gigliucci)	- - - - -	" 10.
Charles Ainslie Barry	- - - - -	" 10.
Richard Strauss	- - - - -	" 11.
Edward Grieg	- - - - -	" 15.
Charles Wood	- - - - -	" 15.
William Shakespeare	- - - - -	" 16.
Alfred James Hopkins	- - - - -	" 17.
Frank J. Sawyer	- - - - -	" 19.
A. Herbert Brewer	- - - - -	" 21.
Karl Reinecke	- - - - -	" 23.
Miss Maude Valerie White	- - - - -	" 23.
Julian Marshall	- - - - -	" 24.
Plunket Greene	- - - - -	" 24.
Edward Bunnett	- - - - -	" 26.
Miss Fanny Davies	- - - - -	" 27.
Joseph Joachim	- - - - -	" 28.

The King's Private Band will be disbanded at the end of September. Such, in effect, is the official announcement of a decision that must cause regret at the giving up of an artistic feature of Court life, and one that is rich in historical interest. As this, however, is not the first time that the King's Band has ceased to be, we may hope for its resuscitation at some future time. Sir Walter Parratt will still retain his ancient office of Master of the King's Musick. In our next, or in an early issue, we hope to give some historical particulars of the King's Band during various reigns, stretching back to that of Edward IV.

Sir Alexander Mackenzie's second Canadian letter (printed on p. 385) will be read with interest not only in the Mother Country, but in the Daughter Dominion. In a private letter covering his public communication, Sir Alexander refers to the fact that Mr. Charles Fry, in addition to the part he took in the 'Dream of Jubal,' gave musical and other recitations during the illness of the tenor vocalist (Mr. Virgo). He also says: 'Winnipeg (three days) was again a record—4,000 in the Hall on the last evening. But you shall hear all about that in Vol. III. for July, also a final remark or two by way of summing up, which I hope to write at home in peace. It has been an astonishing experience for me. Receptions and invitations are much more numerous than I can cope with. Up to the moment of writing I have done my work with remarkable ease and comfort.'

Sir Alexander Mackenzie has for the second time while on 'the other side' received an honorary degree, as the McGill University in the city of Montreal has conferred upon him that of D.C.L.

An interesting essay, or even book, could be written on composers in search of a good libretto. Many have sought, but few have found. Weber was fortunate with the text of 'Der Freischütz,' Cherubini with 'The Water-carrier,' Gounod with 'Faust,' and Bizet with 'Carmen,' but the list of failures is far in excess of that of good fortunes. Among the composers who never got exactly what they wanted may be counted Mendelssohn. We know from Devrient's 'Recollections' how fastidious he (Mendelssohn) was in the matter of a subject, even at the outset of his short career; while of 'Loreley,' which he left unfinished, we read that 'the libretto was far from satisfying him.' Two hitherto unpublished letters of his concerning the subject of opera have just been brought to light by Dr. Fritz Volbach. They were addressed to Schott at Mayence: the one is dated December 28, 1841, the other January 6, 1842. Schott had evidently sounded Mendelssohn as to an opera for the Paris Académie Royale. The composer feels that he is not the man for such a task, yet if Schott will use his influence with Scribe to prepare a book, he (Mendelssohn) will undertake to write the music—yet not until he has seen the book. Later on, as we know, Scribe's libretto of 'The Tempest' was sent to him, but he was dissatisfied with it, and music to 'The Tempest' was never written by Mendelssohn.

The statement has often been made that Dr. Arne, at the performance of his 'Judith,' Covent Garden Theatre, February 26, 1773, 'was the introducer of female voices into oratorio choruses.' But an Irish correspondent draws our attention to an instance of the employment of female chorus-singers sixteen years previous to the Arne reference. He writes:—

Lord Mornington, when drawing up the rules of the Dublin Musical Academy in 1757, insisted upon having 'Lady Vocal Performers' in the choruses. The ladies—called so in the prospectus, and not 'female singers'—were a great attraction at the Academy concerts of 1758 and 1759; and at a concert given in 1768 a 'grand chorus, in which ladies of prime fashion assisted,' vociferated in 'God save great George our King.'

Edvard Grieg will celebrate his 60th birthday on the 15th inst. On that day will be handed over to him a sum of money for a fund to be disposed of by the Norwegian composer as he thinks fit. Statesmen, consuls, merchants, and many distinguished musicians are interesting themselves in the matter. Contributions may be forwarded to John Griegs Verlag, Bergen, Norway.

'The human voice is really the foundation of all music.'—

WAGNER.

This truism, uttered by the great master of the orchestra, appears at the head of a circular issued by Mr. Henry J. Wood, our great English orchestral conductor. Mr. Wood proposes to form a select choir of one hundred voices bearing his name. The following extracts from the circular—which is really cast in the form of a manifesto—will suffice to explain the scope of the scheme:—

This choir is constituted for the practice and public performance of the masterpieces (ancient and modern) in choral singing which of late years have suffered a neglect that is much deplored. On every side, amongst those who love and appreciate this beautiful music, regret is frequently expressed that such a state of disregard should be allowed to continue, and hope is indulged in that the time is at hand when some public effort should be made to satisfy what is undeniably, for this great Metropolis, a public demand.

The project now undertaken by Mr. Henry J. Wood is designed to provide London with a truly representative Choir trained with high aims, and ended if possible with an enthusiasm and an esprit de corps that will gain for it a permanent usefulness to music in that special branch of the art to which its energies will be devoted.

The raison d'être of such a choir is thus set forth by the founder:—

In founding this select choir, Mr. Henry J. Wood is but carrying out a long-cherished design. He has been for seventeen years entirely a vocal teacher, and is as earnestly devoted to vocal art as to orchestral. A student of an instrument, if properly taught, is taken through a technical course which embodies the chief difficulties likely to be met with in the best classics; thus should it be in the training of a choir, and the whole body of members should be treated as a band of instrumentalists, in the conviction that perfection of ensemble is dependent on the excellence of the individuals.

To those who, by going hither and thither, make themselves acquainted with the excellence of choral technique in the country—even in out-of-the-way places—it is deplorable that London should be so much behind the Provinces in this respect. Good work is done by the Magpie, Madrigal Society, under Mr. Lionel Benson, but that is a private Society. It is no use mincing matters, but in oratorio, for instance,—that essentially English heritage—many a north-country choir, perchance under an obscure conductor, would put to shame the choral singing that is heard in London. The secretary of Mr. H. J. Wood's choir is Mr. C. W. James, 25A, Norfolk Crescent, Hyde Park, W., to whom all inquiries should be addressed.

The Zeitschrift der Internationalen Musikgesellschaft has still some leeway to make up in regard to the accurate spelling of English words. In the issue for May, reference is made to articles which appeared in these columns as follows: 'Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge founded by bequest of Viscount Fitzwilliam,' and that 'Vincent Novello printed a volume of excerpts from music in Librarx, called Fitzwilliam Musik.' A certain nom de plume seems to have baffled a Leipzig compositor, for it appears as 'Dotted Croched.' But the Fatherland has no monopoly in these typographical topsy-turvydoms; a leading London newspaper recently informed us that Sir Herbert Oakeley was 'ordinary comopser to His Majesty in Scotland'!

The Allgemeiner Deutscher Musikverein will hold this year's Festival at Basle on June 12-15. Lovers of novelties may be glad to bear these dates in mind. The most important events appear to be:—

A Violin Concerto by R. Pahnke; 'The Drunken Song' from Nietzsche's 'Zarathustra,' set for men's chorus by Fritz Delius; 'The Witch's Song,' by Wildenbruch, with melodramatic music by Max Schillings; 'Odysseus's Journey,' symphonic poem by Ernst Böhe; 'Caenis,' for alto solo, men's chorus, and orchestra, by Hans Huber; 'Hymn to the Sun,' for soli, chorus, and orchestra, by Friedrich E. Koch; 'Raffael,' two 'Stimmungsbilder' for chorus, organ, and orchestra, by Fritz Volbach; two symphonic movements by Ernest Bloch; 'Proteus,' symphonic poem by R. Louis, &c.

Amongst other works not exactly new, but only little known so far, may be mentioned Liszt's 'Graner Festmesse'; Mahler's astounding Second Symphony, with soprano and alto soli, and choral finale; Richard Strauss's bass song with orchestral accompaniment, 'Das Thal,' and the 'Hymne' for 16-part unaccompanied chorus (dedicated, by-the-way, to Professor Julius Butts, of Düsseldorf, the translator of Elgar's 'Gerontius'); E. Jaques-Dalcroze's overture 'Sancho Pansa'; and so on—almost ad infinitum!

How is it that no English composers join this Society? We have mentioned Mr. Delius's name, but he is scarcely an English composer, though born here. Swiss, French, and Belgian composers have joined the Verein's ranks, and their works receive every chance of performance. The amount of the subscription is a mere trifle.

Mr. Walter Macfarren, who has been a professor of the pianoforte at the Royal Academy of Music for upwards of fifty years, has, we understand, intimated his intention of relinquishing that position at the end of the present term and of thereafter devoting himself to private tuition. Mr. Macfarren will however retain his seat on the Committee of Management, and thus continue his connection with the Institution with which he has been so closely associated throughout the greater part of his life.

Former organ students of the Royal Academy of Music will learn with regret that Dr. Charles Steggall retired from the chief Professorship of the organ at the end of last term. As Dr. Steggall entered the Institution as a student in June, 1847, he has been connected with the 'old place' in Tenterden Street for nearly fifty-six years. Not a few of the Doctor's pupils will pleasurably recall those interesting organ lessons given in his own house at Notting Hill thirty years ago, before there was an organ at the Academy. Mornings thus spent in his company—receiving the benefit of his instruction, hearing him give other students their lessons, and profiting by the general information he was always so ready to impart—stand out as red-letter days in one's student life. All who came under his influence will have kindly thoughts for the venerable professor in the eventide of his long and useful career.

Mr. Arthur O'Leary intends, we understand, to resign his appointment as Professor of the pianoforte at the Royal Academy, which he has held for half-a-century; but he will not relinquish his private teaching.

Each of the above three Professors, by reason of his long service at the Academy, may fully claim to be, in the words of the late Mr. J. W. Davison,

An old Tenterdenstreetanoversquaronian.

Dr. August Manns finds that the rheumatism in his arm will prevent him from conducting any part of the approaching Handel Festival, therefore the whole duty will devolve upon Dr. Frederic H. Cowen, as Mr. Henry J. Wood, who had been appointed joint-conductor with Dr. Cowen, finds himself unable to take part in the great music-making. This will be Dr. Cowen's first Handel Festival, and he intends to have three orchestral rehearsals—an excellent innovation. Dr. Manns made his debut in this conductorship in 1883; his baton has therefore held sway at seven Festivals. Dr. Cowen is bringing up a contingent of 220 voices from Sheffield, and lusty singers from other places will help to swell the full chorus. The dates for the Festival are:—

Saturday, June 20,	Full Rehearsal.
Tuesday „ 23,	Messiah.
Thursday „ 25,	Selection.
Saturday „ 27,	Israel in Egypt.

The place, of course, the Crystal Palace.

This is from the report of an organ recital in a certain Town Hall:—

The storm, as usual, and as it well deserves, elicited a very storm of applause, and the concluding 'vox humana' portions were repeated just to still the tumult.

THE MUSICAL ZEAL OF A COUNTRY GENTLEMAN.

A STUDY AT BRIDLINGTON.

Bridlington, now in great repute as a watering-place on the East coast, has a history. It is said to be the site of a Roman station: it can certainly boast of a fine church, the outward and visible sign of an Augustinian priory of immense wealth founded in the reign of Henry I. In the year 1643, Henrietta, queen of Charles I., landed there from Holland with arms and ammunition bought with the crown jewels, wherefore Bridlington was cannonaded for giving her refuge. Its splendid bay, affording good shelter and anchorage for wind-bound vessels, and stretching north to Flamborough Head, reminds us of the late Mr. Davison's playful description of Sir George Grove, whom he called 'Sir Flamborough Head, Bart.'

Five miles inland from Bridlington is Thorpe Hall, in the village of Rudstone, of which Mr. A. W. M. Bosville, D.L., became the squire when he was about a fortnight old. One Sunday morning at Rudstone Church in the early seventies, no organist appeared. Master Bosville, then aged seven, took the service,—after a fashion—but it was by no means his last attempt. In due time he went to Eton and became a pupil of the late Sir Joseph Barnby. He confesses that he took more interest in chatting with Barnby about the Royal Choral Society and in repeated visits to the organ-loft of Eton College Chapel than in the harmony exercises set by his master. As an undergraduate at Magdalen College, Oxford, Mr. Bosville frequently gave entertainments à la Corney Grain, reaping rich reward in the favour of his fellows. Upon attaining his majority and settling down at Thorpe Hall, the young squire made music one of his hobbies. Mechanics, too, have for him a strong fascination. He designed the mechanical part of a four-manual electric organ in Rudstone Church, which he plays at all the three services on Sunday. He started a surpliced choir which now numbers thirty-six voices, and in engaging servants he favours those musically inclined—for instance, an alto gardener, a tenor groom, or a bass butler. Eleven years ago he organized a festival of church choirs from the tiny villages round about Rudstone and held in the church there. This initial effort developed into a festival of choirs covering a wider area and held, in 1893, at the Priory Church, Bridlington, 'fiddles, clarinets, and drums reinforcing the organ in the accompaniments.' In rehearsing the scattered choirs and in organizing this festival Mr. Bosville travelled 'about 300 miles in the dog-cart.'

So successful was the church choir festival that a bank clerk at Bridlington suggested that something permanent should be its outcome. The result was the formation of the Bridlington Musical Society, with Mr. Bosville as conductor, which gave its first concert on May 10, 1894, when the 'Hymn of Praise' and the 'Tannhäuser' Overture, &c., were performed, and for which a full orchestra was engaged. In the following year (1895) this second music-making took the title—and not without justification—of the Bridlington Musical Festival. It has now become an annual affair (except last year, when Mr. Bosville was High Sheriff of Yorkshire), and has steadily grown in importance, in earnest attainment, and encouraging results. Our special correspondent in Yorkshire has for some years past given detailed notices of these Festivals, therefore it is only necessary to mention some of the works that have been given between 1894 and 1901:—

A. W. M. BOSVILLE, ESQ., D.L.

(From an oil painting by Mr. Harris Brown.)

Choral works: 'Elijah,' 'Hymn of Praise,' 'Walpurgis Night,' 'Lauda Sion,' 'Golden Legend,' 'The Revenge' and 'Te Deum' (Stanford), Verdi's 'Requiem,' 'Song of Destiny' (Brahms), 'Spectre's Bride' and 'Stabat Mater' (Dvorák), 'Black Knight' (Elgar), 'Hiawatha Trilogy' and 'Forsaken Merman' (Somervell), 'Spinning Chorus' and Senta's Ballad (Wagner).

Symphonies: C minor, 'Pastoral,' and No. 8 (Beethoven) and 'Pathetic' (Tchaikovsky).

Overtures: 'Leonora,' 'Egmont,' 'Coriolan,' 'Flying Dutchman,' 'Meistersinger,' 'Midsummer Night's Dream,' 'Hebrides,' 'Le Carnaval Romain,' 'Parsifal,' 'Tannhäuser,' 'Lohengrin' (Overture and Prelude to Act III.), Wotan's 'Abschied Walkuren Ritt,' in addition to other orchestral works—e.g., Grieg's 'Peer Gynt' Suite, &c.

Local creative talent has been fostered in works composed specially for the Festival by Mr. John Camidge, organist of Beverley Minster, Mr. J. W. Hudson, Mr. Arthur C. Edwards, and Mr. G. T. Patman. The eclectic nature of the selection above enumerated coincides with the thoroughness and completeness which characterize Mr. Bosville's methods: he spares no trouble or expense to do and to get the best that is possible.

Not only does Mr. Bosville conduct and engineer the Bridlington Festival, but he writes those original, genial and unconventional programme annotations that have more than once been quoted in these columns. In one of the books (1897) he devotes a page to the setting forth of his annotational methods. It may be given as another specimen of Mr. Bosville's humour:—

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

The contents of this Programme having been submitted for analysis, a copy of the report furnished by the Analyst is appended.

[Copy.]

The sample submitted to me contains the following percentages of constituent parts:—

Extract of Dictionary	2.023
Essence of other people's Programmes	5.312
Clue furnished by a celebrated detective musical litterateur	1.005
Insoluble padding	73.522
Orthographical corrections by the Writer's Wife	18.137
Original matter001
		100.000

REMARKS.—The very slight trace of original matter, and the comparative high orthographical purity, render the sample suitable as an early textbook for dictation. The large percentage of insoluble padding can be rendered innocuous by the addition of Sodium Chloride (1 gr.) which will assist assimilation.

(Signed) The Writer's Literary Conscience.
(Private Analyst.)

THORPE, April, 1897.

The Bridlington Musical Society—that is to say, the Festival choir—consists of 170 voices. Each member pays a nominal subscription and finds his or her own music. There is a fine esprit de corps among these good singers of the East Riding. They pride themselves upon being independent of outside vocal help, and under Mr. Bosville's spirited leadership they succeed in overcoming difficulties in a manner highly creditable to all concerned. A watering-place like Bridlington leads a more or less dormouse existence during the dreary months of winter compared with its activities in 'the season'; and therefore the bright hour or two in each week devoted to the necessary rehearsals for the great event in the spring must be exceedingly welcome to those musically disposed.

The ninth Bridlington Musical Festival took place in the People's Palace on the afternoon and evening of April 28. The principal vocalists were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Mrs. Bosville, Mrs. Burrell, Mr. Gregory Hast, Mr. J. Campbell McInnes, and Mr. Francis Harford. The band consisted of seventy performers, and, of course, Mr. Bosville conducted. A special feature of interest was the performance—for the first time in its complete form in England—of the 'De Profundis' Psalm (Op. 49), for soli, chorus, and orchestra, by Josef Nešvera, whose portrait we give—a musician born sixty years ago at Proskoles, in Bohemia, and now Capellmeister of the Cathedral at Olmütz, Moravia. This little-known work is not only charged with sincerity of purpose, but one feels that it is impregnated with that emotional feeling so deep-rooted in the Bohemian temperament. A beautiful contralto solo received an excellent rendering by Mrs. Burrell, and Mr. Francis Harford specially distinguished himself in the bass solos assigned to him. The concluding section of this 'De Profundis' consists of a finely developed movement for soli and chorus, in which the composer employs some effective climaxes, the deft introduction of a Plain Song intonation adding to its effectiveness. Mrs. Bosville

JOSEF NEŠVERA.

—who most heartily supports her husband in his musical hobby—then sang 'Let the bright seraphim' with true Handelian fervour to the trumpet obligato of Mr. M. Hemingway. Two orchestral pieces followed—Mr. Arthur Hervey's inspiring 'Youth' Overture, and the 'Peer Gynt' Suite of Grieg. Dr. Harford Lloyd's melodious cantata 'Hero and Leander' seemed to be particularly enjoyable to all who took part, more especially perhaps to the youthful son of the conductor, the bass drummer of the orchestra, for whom Dr. Lloyd had written 'specially for this occasion only' a bass drum part that G. M. Bosville played to perfection. Mr. G. T. Patman, organist of Bridlington Priory Church, provided a Festival Novelty in the form of an orchestral suite on the subject of 'Cinderella,' a brightly-scored and imaginative work that is unusually full of promise as an Opus 1. A selection from 'Die Meistersinger' (including the Overture) concluded the afternoon concert.

The evening fare consisted of the Overture followed by the bass scena (well sung by Mr. Harford) from Act II. of Weber's 'Euryanthe'; Beethoven's Fourth Symphony; and Dvorák's 'Spectre's Bride.' In the last-named work that excellent artist Miss Agnes Nicholls did full justice to the soprano music, and Mr. Gregory Hast and Mr. Campbell McInnes rendered efficient aid. The inevitable discrepancy between band and chorus manifested itself—inevitable because of the lack of sufficient combined rehearsal. The chorus were a very intelligent body of people, and with a little more stiffening of the tone and a more razor-like edge of sharpness of attack they will do still better in the future. The good work of these Bridlington folk, as shown at the recent Festival, deserves all encouragement and sympathy. It is not often that the tastes of a country gentleman take this form, and although Mr. Bosville would scorn to be regarded as a philanthropist in his musical propaganda, yet his influence and his well-directed efforts distinctly, if unconsciously to himself, lie in that direction. It is easy enough to pay the bill—many a squire could do that, if he only would—but to give such whole-hearted devotion to the cause of art is as rare as it is in the highest degree praiseworthy.

DOTTED CROCHET.

SIR ALEXANDER MACKENZIE ON HIS CANADIAN TOUR.

LETTER II.*

TO THE EDITOR OF THE MUSICAL TIMES.

DEAR SIR,—En route from Montreal, the Canadian Metropolis to Winnipeg, the Metropolis of the Canadian Northwest, as the crow flies a railway journey of 1,500 miles, through a moving panorama of forest, mountain crag, lakes,—beautiful Lake Superior illumined by a full-orbed sun out of a blue sky which glints upon its rippling waters—I find leisure at last to review the musical results of the past fortnight, which embrace the Festivals given in the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

This is not so easy a task as I had anticipated, considering that I have conducted eighteen concerts and a like number of rehearsals in the short space of fourteen days, and without the help of a set of programme books it is extremely difficult to recall the varied incidents and experiences it has been my lot to meet with during that time. Happily fortune has smiled upon our efforts from the commencement of this second and most important section of Festivals, and I am able frankly and honestly to say that the successes everywhere met with have been not only of the most encouraging kind, but considering the gigantic proportions of the scheme probably unique. This result is mainly due to two factors: the generous and ungrudging support and active co-operation of the musical profession, and a warm-hearted and enthusiastic support on the part of a Canadian people who have filled the largest buildings in the country on every occasion. Of the social events and hospitalities so amiably extended to me in each city I may not speak, since so purely personal attentions hardly enter into the purpose of this letter. Suffice it to say the many marks of kindness shown me have been much beyond my deserts and positively overwhelming in their cordiality.

At Hamilton on Easter Sunday, April 12, I met the excellent Chicago Symphony Orchestra, whose conductor, Mr. Adolph Rosenbecker, handed over to me his baton, and moreover gave me his invaluable personal assistance in the most willing and self-sacrificing manner. The manager of the Orchestra,

* Sir Alexander's first letter appeared in the May issue, p. 317.

Mr. Charles Beech, also accompanied us, and did yeoman service in helping to relieve the strain upon nerves and body which naturally enough attended the continuous exertions upon all concerned.

Of the Orchestra itself I shall have nothing but pleasant recollections. Their performances among other things of Stanford's 'Irish' and Cowen's 'Scandinavian' Symphonies and my own Rhapsodies were admirable, and the orchestral items of the programmes, which as you know were performed in this country for the first time, were presented by this Orchestra. The result, I have no hesitation in saying, is that our native music has not only been cordially received, but enthusiastically appreciated by the audiences, and I would take this opportunity of expressing my thanks for the eminent services which the Chicago Symphony Orchestra have rendered to a school of music which, I almost regret to say, had been hitherto unfamiliar to them.

It will serve my purpose better if I now enumerate separately the choral performances which took place in each town, since a mere general statement would hardly do justice to their importance or give your readers a fair idea of the interest awakened or the amount of preparation bestowed upon these Festivals. At 'bonnie' Hamilton—I use the word advisedly—the campaign began with Cowen's 'Coronation Ode,' Parry's 'St. Cecilia's Day,' and my own 'Cotter's Saturday Night,' the first of these works being conducted by Dr. C. L. M. Harris. He had provided an excellently trained choir of over two hundred singers called together specially for our purpose. The Festivals were given in the Drill Hall, seating some three thousand people, this large auditorium being quite filled. Next in order was Brantford, where I found another capital chorus of two hundred voices, which like the choruses in Hamilton, Woodstock, and London, were specially formed and trained for this present Cycle. Elgar's 'The Banner of St. George' had a spirited rendering here; 'St. Cecilia's Day' was also good.

Wednesday, April 15, was a memorable day for us all, worthy a special note with reference to activity in covering the ground. We were taken by special train to London after the previous evening's performance, arriving at 2.0 o'clock in the morning. The hour of 9.30 a.m. saw us rehearsing in the theatre there my 'Dream of Jubal.' At 12.30 we started by another special train to give an afternoon performance at Woodstock, where the 'Cotter's Saturday Night' was performed. On our arrival at Woodstock there ought to have been a full rehearsal previous to the performance at 3.0 o'clock, but I preferred being merciful to the orchestra, and held it with the accompaniment of a pianoforte, in order to allow the instrumentalists some reasonable time for refreshment, without which no man can work.

Incidentally I may observe upon that occasion I had to deprive myself of the pleasures of the table provided by the Mayor of Woodstock, who received us, together with the leading citizens. I had, however, to leave these hospitable gentlemen and proceed to the theatre, where I rehearsed until the inflowing tide of an eager public told me to desist. In spite of the hurry I had little fear of the result, for did I not mark that the members of the choir wore badges of 'Mackenzie' Tartan and were eager to follow their chief? All went well, thanks to the preliminary efforts of Mr. J. H. Chadfield, and we sped to our cars on our return 'special' to London for the evening's Festival Concert there. The choral works were 'The Death of Minnehaha' and the first performance of 'Jubal.' Here I found a large chorus of excellent material and tone, prepared by Mr. Roselle Pococke.

Everything went well, except for the fact that the eagerness of the choir on one occasion caused it to make a 'bolt.' I had every reason indeed to be thoroughly satisfied, and here I may say any weaknesses found in these newly-formed choirs may be excused by their zeal and the novelty of the situation in which they were placed and the works they had to perform. The difficulties overcome by these good people in the smaller places compared most favourably with the efforts of the choirs which have had the advantage of frequent public appearances. All honour to those who have done such excellent work!

After this exacting day the artists, together with Mr. Harriss and myself, were invited by Mr. Adam Beck, the Mayor of London, to a reception and supper, luxurious in its appointments. This brilliant function was another proof of the great interest taken by the municipal authorities of the towns we have been privileged to visit. I must add that one feature of the various choral bodies is that all classes meet shoulder to shoulder in a common cause. I reached my sleeping compartment at two in the morning. At what hour the train started deponent sayeth not, for I awoke six hours later to find myself quite ready for work in the city of Toronto.

The Festival here consisted of four concerts, which took place in a magnificent building called Massey Hall, seating over 4,000 people—with stage accommodation for 500 voices and Orchestra—which was completely filled at each of the three evening performances. The first night's programme was selected from my own compositions, the choral work being Joseph Bennett's 'Dream of Jubal.' I was doubly honoured by the presence of His Excellency The Earl of Minto, Governor-General, and the Countess of Minto, who had journeyed expressly from Ottawa to inaugurate the series of Concerts, thus showing their active and personal interest in the prosperity of this musical movement. Indeed, I know their Excellencies have from the outset of our tour displayed the keenest desire to aid its success in every possible way, even to attending the banquet given by the Festival Committee at Toronto, which took place after the first concert, with Mr. Albert Nordheimer in the Chair.

Mr. Ben Davies now joined our forces, appearing for the first time in my work, Mr. Charles Fry also taking his familiar part in the 'Dream of Jubal' with his accustomed success. The second night brought a most successful performance of 'The Golden Legend,' conducted by Dr. Torrington; also Stanford's 'Battle of the Baltic,' under the direction of the same baton, the soloists being Miss Ethel Wood, Miss Mary Louise Clary, and my old friends Ben Davies and Watkin Mills. The two latter vocalists are established favourites here, while Miss Wood was most successful in her admirable singing of the part of Elsie. The chorus on these two nights distinguished themselves by vigorous and intelligent singing, reflecting infinite credit upon the Toronto Festival chorus-conductor, Dr. F. H. Torrington, who has been established here for many years, and to whom this city owes much for his musical enthusiasm.

I had, comparatively speaking, a holiday on this occasion, as I was only called upon to conduct my Suite 'London day by day.' After a morning rehearsal we gave an afternoon concert of instrumental and vocal works, at which were introduced and much appreciated Corder's 'Prospero' Overture, the Ballade from Cliffe's C minor Symphony, Stanford's 'Irish' Rhapsody, Cowen's 'Scandinavian' Symphony, and vocal pieces to orchestral accompaniment, ending with the 'Cricket on the hearth'

Overture. The concluding concert took place on the same evening, with the assistance of a newly-formed choir of three hundred voices, entitled The National Chorus, trained by Dr. Albert Ham, who pleased me exceedingly in a finished performance of the 'Cotter's Saturday Night.' No less successful was the rendering of Elgar's 'Banner of St. George,' under the direction of Dr. Ham, who had devoted much time and care to these works, and who must have been gratified by the appreciation bestowed by the large audience which attended this 'National Night.' Madame Blauvelt made her first appearance on this occasion in Elgar's work, and won hearty appreciation from a brilliant audience.

We left for Ottawa immediately after this concert. Here we again met on the following afternoon for rehearsal in the Russell Theatre, a really beautiful Opera House seating 2,300 people. On Monday we had ample time to rehearse Elgar's 'Coronation Ode' and Charles Harriss's Coronation Mass 'Edward VII.' The latter was given in the Capital for the first time; in the evening the chief works consisted of the 'Death of Minnehaha' and the 'Dream of Jubal.' The Ottawa Choral Society, an old-established body led by Mr. J. Edgar Birch (who conducted Coleridge-Taylor's work), is a fine choir, who were ambitious to do honour to the works they had to perform, otherwise they could hardly have coped so successfully with the exacting task entrusted to them. The Mass was conducted by the composer himself, the director and founder of this long chain of really important musical events in so young a country. This is his second Mass, written as its title denotes for the occasion; the first one, as I mentioned in my former letter, having been performed at Halifax. The one under present consideration is a marked advance upon his Festival Mass, and shows much skilful and effective choral-writing, and is particularly distinguished for melodic gifts amply displayed throughout the entire work. The soloists were Miss Millicent Brennan, a young and promising Canadian soprano, Miss Clary, and Messrs. Wilfrid Virgo and Watkin Mills, who contributed greatly to a success which must have gratified this energetic and talented musician.

I have great satisfaction in the recollection of a remarkably good performance of Elgar's 'Coronation Ode,' and of which, as I am informed by one who had previously taken part in it in England, the entire rendering would bear most favourable comparison with English performances of the work. The Festival here may be said to have been a brilliant success (even the matinée performance on the afternoon of the second day being exceedingly well attended), and the presence of their Excellencies, who remained to offer their warm congratulations to Mr. Harriss and myself, gave distinction and encouragement to everyone participating on both sides of the footlights.

The beautiful city of Montreal was reached the next day at noon, when our company proceeded at once to the Windsor Hall for rehearsal. I had again to deal with two different choirs, namely, the Oratorio Society, conducted by Mr. Horace Reyner, and a new Festival Chorus which had been gathered together and partly trained by my friend Mr. Harriss. The latter body was already on the platform anxiously awaiting our arrival, so I immediately proceeded to rehearse the choral numbers in 'Jubal,' which was performed with the success which has invariably attended it throughout the tour. Between the rehearsal and performance I attended a reception which had been prepared in my honour by the authorities of the Victoria College of the University of McGill, Dr. Peterson, Principal of McGill, and Miss Clara Lichtenstein, the Lady Superintendent, presenting me to the numerous invited guests. On the second night the Coronation Mass 'Edward VII.' by Harriss was given, and, the composer-conductor secured an excellent performance of his work. The event must have been gratifying to him, as twenty years ago he came from England to this city to fill the post of Organist of the Cathedral, fresh from Tenbury, where under Sir Frederick Gore Ouseley he became imbued with the best traditions of English Cathedral Music, a training which without doubt enabled him to do much towards the elevation of Church music in his adopted country at a time when it was considerably below the mark it has now reached in Canada.

The second part of the programme contained Coleridge-Taylor's 'Death of Minnehaha,' under the direction of Mr. Reyner, who introduced this work in a most worthy manner. This concert proved to be of abnormal length; but the very large audience, which not only filled the place but crowded the passages, remained to hear and applaud the three orchestral numbers which brought the concert to a close at 11.30 p.m., my suggestion to curtail the evening's entertainment being overruled. The professional musicians of the city entertained us at supper afterwards, Mr. R. R. Stevenson presiding, the Vice-Chairman being Mr. Percy J. Illsley. During the evening a graceful tribute was paid to British composers by the French musician M. Couture, and mutual congratulations were exchanged until 'cockcrow'!

The matinée on the third day (with an instrumental and vocal programme) was again well attended. In the evening I conducted bright performances of Cowen's 'Coronation Ode' and Parry's 'St. Cecilia's Day,' admirably sung by the Montreal Oratorio Society; and this Society, under Mr. Reyner's baton, nominally brought the Festival in this city to a close with Elgar's 'The Banner of St. George.' The musical proceedings in Montreal were originally intended to end here, but the Fates had decided otherwise, for it was found necessary to give two additional concerts, on the day following (April 25), and in spite of the fact that only one day's notice of this extension could be given in the local press the house was completely filled again on both occasions. Luckily Mr. Charles Fry was able to postpone his departure for England and thus appear in my 'Dream of Jubal,' a second performance of which in this city had been requested. Orchestra and chorus being now thoroughly familiar with the work, I could not have desired a better or more sympathetic rendering of it, and on my regretfully taking leave of the chorus, I had an opportunity of expressing the complete satisfaction and pleasure it gave me. I had also to part with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, which had served us so faithfully during what was in all probability the most exacting fortnight's work ever undertaken, and I was more than gratified to be received on my entrance at the beginning of the evening in good old German fashion with a 'Tusch' (or flourish) from these hard-worked gentlemen, who furthermore capped their efforts by a delicate rendering of the orchestral accompaniment of the Cantata above mentioned. The finish of the Festival here was a scene of enthusiasm. Needless to say that such well-known artists as Madame Blauvelt, Ben Davies, Watkin Mills, and Charles Fry have been everywhere received as their great reputation deserves. The younger vocalists who accompanied me, and who have done the lion's share of the fatiguing work, had still to make their mark, and it is particularly gratifying to place on record that they have each and all been uniformly successful. Miss Ethel Wood (who made a distinct impression in the 'Golden Legend' and 'Jubal'), Mr. Wilfrid Virgo, and Mr. Reginald Davidson may be indeed warmly congratulated; nor may I forget the services of Mr. Reyner, whose accomplishments as Chorus Director of the Montreal Oratorio Society have earned my appreciation and thanks.

Here ends satisfactorily the second section of the Festivals which cover the Provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, and Ontario, and we are now about to enter the granary of the great Northwest, known as the Province of Manitoba, with Winnipeg as its Metropolis. I hope in a third letter for your next issue to give you as satisfactory a report of our doings there and in British Columbia, to which I may be tempted to add some general remarks of my interesting musical and other experiences connected with this pleasurable, novel, and instructive tour.

Our already sufficiently long journey has been unfortunately extended by another day, on account of an accident to one of the Canadian Pacific trains ahead of us, and, oddly enough, we were 'held up' for the entire night at a station called 'Mackenzie!' This contretemps cancels a reception offered us by his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, Sir Daniel Macmillan, which was to have taken place at Government House this afternoon, as well as my first choral rehearsal this evening; however, a little additional pressure upon the forces I have to deal with will doubtless overcome the difficulty of this temporary check.

Yours faithfully,

A. C. MACKENZIE.

Posted (en route) at Moose-jaw,
May 2, 1903.

DR. AUGUST MANNS.

Honour to whom honour is due! On Tuesday, the 12th ult., the University of Oxford conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Music upon the much revered August Manns. Oxford so rarely confers this distinction, that its bestowal upon the venerable conductor who has done so much for English music during his long life is all the more significant and gratifying. Therefore the natural congratulations consequent upon the event must be shared equally by the University and Dr. Manns. Through the kindness of the Professor of Music (Sir Hubert Parry) we are enabled to give the Latin speech delivered by him in presenting the 'snow-clad' musician to the Vice-Chancellor. Sir Hubert has also supplied an English version of the well-expressed oration, for the elegant Latin of which he was mainly indebted to Dr. Bussell, of Brasenose.

INSIGNISSIME VICE-CANCELLARIE,—

Praesento tibi hunc praestantissimum virum, Augustum Manns, si quis alius optime meritum de Republicâ Musicorum. Is enim est qui per novem lustra pro virili parte ita studiis incubuerit ut ceteris fere omnibus in Arte Musicâ, laboribus, peritiâ, diligentia, antecellat.

Quinquaginta abhinc annis cum ad has oras appulisset, Handelium imitatus, Teutonicum illum Nestora, et paene noster evasit et civis Anglicus. In Aula Vitrea choragus constitutus est, concentusque symphoniacos, adhuc inauditos, promovebat. Moderabatur argumento, ut ita dixerim, 'baculino,' magnae cetervae hominum peritissimorum, ubi ex disparibus sonis inter se certantium organorum dulcissima exoritur harmonia. Hujus enim sollertiâ audiendus erat bellicus ille 'strepitus litui clangorque tubarum,' tibiae quoque cum fistulâ exilis et queribunda dulcedo; necnon illecebroso vox fidium; ut vere laudaretur 'Entheus ad rabiem corripuisse lyram.' Et haec omnia adeo accurate distincta et temperata et ad cyanea et daedala μέλη accommodata et ad unius arbitri nutum obtemperantia, ut paene omnium consensu optimus interpres et veterum et recentium Musicorum rite adjudicatus sit. Primus enim ad Britannos attulit (toto, ut aiunt, orbe divisos) Schubertum et Schumannum, quorum opera insignissima sine hujus auxilio jacerent ignota et sine honore; 'carent quia vate sacro.' Profuit etiam nostratium ingeniis et pluribus juvenum in causâ erat cur magno animo Polyhymniae se dicarent. Neque alter magis melius indigenum segnitiam in arte Musica excussit, excitavit, arrexuit, non passus molli torpere verno et tantummodo in deliciis habere κραιβήν illam repetitam, sed et peregrina et nova semper indagare studuit, ne quid alicunde optimi immerito sileretur.

Et haec omnia per quadraginta quinque annos adeo sedulus artis melioris nuntius, adeo fidelis in interpretando, adeo diligens et simplex et candidus amicus virorum, ut ita dicam, mercurialium, ut vix alius magis reverentiâ et amore inter cives suos floruerit. Quem igitur, vir insignissime, tibi praesento, ut in gradum Doctoris in Arte Musicâ adhibeatur, honoris causâ.

DISTINGUISHED VICE-CHANCELLOR,—

I present to you this most pre-eminent man, August Manns, who has rendered such conspicuous artistic service and has laboured so strenuously for the good of music for nearly half-a-century, that in energy, skill, and devotion, he stands second to none. Since his arrival in England, fifty years ago, he has, like the Teutonic Nestor, Handel, made himself almost one of us, and a member of our English fraternity. When appointed Musical Director at the Crystal Palace he instituted Symphony Concerts, of merit hitherto almost unheard of. By judicious application of the 'Argument by the stick,' so to speak, he brought under his sway a large force of skilled artists, raising sweetest harmony from the discordant sounds of conflicting bodies. To his efforts we are indebted for that 'Trumpet's loud clangour,' that plaintive sweetness of the flute and pipe, and those enticing strains of strings: and his interpretations showed such excellent clearness of balance, such a genius for the sweetness of varied song, and such perfect obedience to the master mind, that he is universally acknowledged to be one of the finest exponents of the ancient and modern masterpieces. It was he who first made known to English audiences (as they say, 'enjoying splendid isolation') Schubert and Schumann, whose greatest works might be still unknown and unhonoured but for his efforts, and for the lack of the divine sympathy of the interpreter. Our native talent, too, he always encouraged, and spurred on many a young composer to pursue his art with enthusiasm. No one has done more to rouse and stimulate the love of music in England, nor would he suffer fusty traditions and 'damnable iteration,' but would always endeavour to keep in touch with new works by foreign composers, being anxious that no good work, from whatever source, should be undeservedly neglected.

For forty-five years has he remained a zealous apostle of his noble art, so true to its traditions and so loyal and so sincere a friend of the versatile among men, that it is difficult to exaggerate the affection and esteem in which he is universally held.

This most distinguished man I therefore present to you that he may be admitted to the degree of Doctor of Music, honoris causâ.

The paper read at the seventh meeting of the Musical Association, held on the 12th ult., was contributed by Dr. A. Madeley Richardson, who took for his subject 'The influence of the organ in musical history.'

HONOURING DR. COWARD AT SHEFFIELD.

BY ONE WHO WAS THERE.

'A Musical Festival stands or falls by its chorus.' Thus spake Mr. Willoughby Firth at a brilliant function which took place in the stately rooms of the Town Hall, Sheffield, on Tuesday evening, the 19th ult. The Lord Mayor (Alderman J. Wycliffe Wilson) and the Lady Mayoress had issued invitations 'to meet His Grace the Duke of Norfolk, E.M., K.G., the Lady Mary Howard, and the Officers and Committee of the Sheffield Musical Union, on the occasion of a Presentation to Henry Coward, Esq., Mus. Doc. Oxon.' The memorable event was one of Civic import, as the five-hundred guests assembled to do honour to Dr. Coward at the bidding of Sheffield's Chief Citizen included three ex-Lord Mayors and the Master Cutler (Mr. J. A. Hobson), the holder of an ancient and honourable office dating back to 1624.

The Lord Mayor in opening the proceedings said he felt it an honour to preside on such an occasion, and to have had the opportunity of inviting to the Town Hall so many of his fellow-citizens to do honour to Dr. Coward. He had known and respected him for many years. The Doctor was a wonderful example of what energy and determination could do. He had accomplished everything to which he had set his hand, and he threw his whole soul into all his work. His popularity in connection with the Musical Union was known to them all, while as chorus-master of the Sheffield Musical Festival he excelled himself. The Lord Mayor then referred to the philanthropic side of Dr. Coward's musical work in Sheffield, and concluded by saying that he was glad to do his best in paying honour to whom honour was due.

The presentation gifts took the following four-fold form:—

A full-length portrait of Dr. Coward, in the full robes of a Doctor of Music, painted by Mr. James Moore, President of the Sheffield Society of Artists.

The full-scores, handsomely bound in morocco, of Sir Hubert Parry's 'Job'; Dr. Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius,' 'Coronation Ode,' and the National Anthem (as arranged by him); and Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha Trilogy.' The five volumes contained the portraits and autograph signatures of their respective composers.

An album containing the names of the subscribers.

A silver tea-urn (for Mrs. Coward).

The Duke of Norfolk, much to his regret, as expressed in a cordial letter highly appreciative of Dr. Coward's achievements, was unavoidably absent owing to his enforced presence in London as President of a Royal Commission. But the Duke had deputed the act of unveiling the portrait to his sister, the Lady Mary Howard, who in a few gracefully expressed words presented the chief of the four gifts to the 'master chorus-master.' Mr. Willoughby Firth, President of the Sheffield Musical Union, and the indefatigable Honorary Secretary of the Sheffield Festival, handed to Dr. Coward the five full-scores enumerated above. In doing so Mr. Firth referred to the work accomplished by Dr. Coward outside Sheffield. 'It was quite apparent,' he said, 'that owing to his energy, enthusiasm, and determination not to be content with anything but the very best, choral singing had obtained a new lease of life.' He thought there were signs throughout the country that choral singing would be finer in the future than it had been in the past ten years, because every Musical Festival now was paying more attention to the training of its chorus.

A tiny little maiden, Miss Frances M. Burrows, daughter of the esteemed honorary secretary of the Musical Union, then handed the album to Dr. Coward; and Mr. J. H. Lawson, the genial treasurer, discharged a similar pleasant duty in the matter of transferring the silver tea-urn into the possession of Mrs. Coward.

In returning thanks, Dr. Coward—who met with a most enthusiastic reception—said it would be as futile to attempt to give expression to his feelings as 'to try and empty Redmires dam with a tea-spoon,' a local impossibility which greatly amused the audience. After referring to various incidents in his career, the gratified recipient of the presentation went on to say that he had dreamed many things, but he had never dreamed of such an honour as was being paid to him that evening. He regarded the event as of more than personal importance. If it were simply a thing which only affected himself, he would think very little of it, but it affected the city. It showed that the Musical Union—'formed twenty-seven years ago by a set of mad enthusiasts'—had gone another step forward, and that one branch of the city's music was in a healthy state. They had now entered upon a further stage in their career, and the committee proposed to give every concert with a first-class band, first-class principals, a larger chorus, and better singing! His concluding words were, 'Thanks! heartfelt thanks! unutterable thanks!'

THE PRESENTATION PORTRAIT OF DR. COWARD.

(Photographic reduction by Mr. Jasper Redfern, Sheffield.)

Mrs. J. H. Lawson, the hon. secretary of the Presentation Fund, and whose organizing zeal calls for full recognition and congratulation, read letters of regret from Sir Hubert Parry and Dr. Elgar at their enforced absence, and the company then adjourned to the handsome Council Chamber to enjoy the hospitality of the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress. A selection of music subsequently followed. This part of the proceedings concluded with a very remarkable impromptu rendering, by the members of the Choral Union, of Sullivan's 'O gladsome light.' It was sung spontaneously, without rehearsal, and from memory, in a manner which not only thrilled those who listened, but which testified to the supremacy of Sheffield in regard to choral excellence, and to the choir-training masterfulness of the hero of the evening.

THE JOACHIM QUARTET.

The Joachim Quartet—Dr. Joachim, Professors Carl Halir, Emmanuel Wirth, Robert Hausmann—have again visited these shores and given further proof of their artistic earnestness and perfect ensemble. Dignity and delicacy are happily combined in their interpretations, and the beautiful phrasing to which they have accustomed us is a marked feature of their performances. A fine example of these characteristics presented itself on the 12th ult., when Mozart's lovely Quintet in C major (Köchel, No. 515) was presented, in which the Quartet had the valued co-operation of Mr. Alfred Gibson as second viola. Mr. Alfred Hobday and Mr. Percy Such have also lent their aid as extra came to England, while still but a boy, and played Beethoven's Violin Concerto at a concert of the Philharmonic Society, and since then he has held the first place not only in right of his magnificent powers as a virtuoso, but in the hearts and affection of all who have known him. . . . It would not be becoming in me to praise Dr. Joachim in his presence, nor would anything that I can say add to the unique position which he holds as a master in his own art to be ranked as the equal of the giant composers whose works he interprets. In the single-minded devotion with which he has given his whole life to the pursuit of the lofty ideal from which he has never swerved, he stands as a conspicuous example to all artists of whatever profession. I ask you to honour the toast of 'Music,' and the name of Dr. Joachim.

Dr. Joachim.

Professor Robert Hausmann.

Professor Emmanuel Wirth.

Professor Carl Halir.

THE JOACHIM QUARTET.

players of repute, and on the 14th ult. (a Brahms programme) Mr. Leonard Borwick found full scope for his pianoforte artistry in being associated with the players on stringed instruments. As a guest at the Royal Academy Banquet held at Burlington House on the 2nd ult., Dr. Joachim was called upon to respond to the toast of 'Music.' In proposing the toast the President (Sir Edward Poynter) said:—

The presence of many distinguished leaders in the profession of music leads me to my present toast in honour of that great art, which, in its capacity for calling up the highest emotions, is perhaps the greatest of all. I come to this toast with the more certainty of its cordial acceptance because we are honoured to-night with the presence of a guest who holds a place in the public regard such as has perhaps never been given so warmly or so continuously to any of the great artists who have visited our country. It is now fifty-nine years since Dr. Joachim first

Dr. Joachim, who was very warmly received by the distinguished audience, said in reply:—

I am quite touched by the manner in which you received the kind, warm-hearted words of Sir Edward. I have been often enough in England to know the importance of this meeting and its distinguished President. Allow me to express my sincere, heartfelt thanks. It is a real sorrow to me always when I return to London to miss that great and refined man, Lord Leighton, whom no one that had the happiness of knowing can ever forget. How it cheered me to see him at my first appearances! I owe a great debt of gratitude to him. But not to him alone. The musical public in England has certainly, from my boyhood to my present age, been everything that is most encouraging to me. And this is something to cherish, if I think how much England always did to promote the culture of music, even before Handel's time, to whom it was made a dear home. The influence of Purcell and English spirit is traceable in the German composer's great music. Haydn and Beethoven held in great esteem the inexhaustible mine of England, Scotland, and Ireland's Folk-tunes, of which they have set so many. England helped these great geniuses, it helped Weber, it was the first to recognise Mendelssohn's greatness, and, in fact, it always was ready to see and to acknowledge the genius of our great composers from Bach and Handel to Schumann, Wagner, and Brahms, and I am happy to say this bears good fruit. So much musical talent springs up here of supreme merit. You have many fine composers. I cannot do justice to all of them, but I cannot refrain from naming Parry, Stanford, and Elgar. Two of them are here, and I am proud to say are my personal friends. It would be presumptuous in me, Sir Edward, to try to speak of the arts of painting, sculpture, and architecture in this august assembly. I will only say that I have always loved them, and tried to understand what is great from my early youth. In my early days I had once a most delightful dream. I dreamt I was in Paradise; it presented itself in the shape of a landscape by Claude Lorraine, and under a lovely tree Raphael was lying, whilst Mozart in the branches of the tree plucked beautiful fruit, which he threw into Raphael's lap. I possess a sketch of it, which a friend painted for me. I can never hear Mozart's music without thinking of Raphael, and when I see Michael Angelo's sculpture I always have Beethoven in mind. I am glad to see that this does not seem too personal, but you have shown so much indulgence to me that you will excuse it on account of my love for the fine arts. Once more accept the expression of my sincere gratitude for your generous appreciation.

Church and Organ Music.

THE 'IMAGINARY BAR' IN CHANTING.

The term 'imaginary bar' appears to have been invented by Dr. Stephen Elvey (1805-1860), formerly organist of New and St. John's Colleges, Oxford, not so well known perhaps as his brother, the late Sir G. J. Elvey, of Windsor. In the year 1856, Dr. Stephen Elvey issued 'The Psalter, or Canticles and Psalms of David, pointed for chanting, upon a new principle, with explanations and directions.' The Preface to the first edition of this epoch-making publication is signed 'E. M.,' these initials being, in the opinion of Mr. John S. Bumpus, those of the Rev. E. Miller, of New College. But it is with the prefatory 'Explanations and directions' of the editor that we have to do.

After stating his views in regard to the rendering of the rhythmical portion of the chant, Dr. Stephen Elvey goes on to explain his methods in dealing with the crux of chanting in these words, wherein will be found the term 'imaginary bar':—

The most difficult parts of the verse to chant well, and upon which so very much depends, are those which fall on the first note of each part of the chant, called the reciting-note; and the joining on of these parts nicely to the following bar appears to constitute the chief difficulty.

To meet, or overcome, this difficulty, the last accented syllable on the recitation-note will be always distinguished in a particular manner,—First, because it will warn the singer that he is near the end of the recitation-note; secondly, because it will join it on better to the following bar, and make the whole of the chant sound as one, viz., make the recitation and metrical parts as much alike as may be.

It is particularly worthy of remark, that the last accented syllable should, according to this method, form the commencement of an imaginary bar at the end of the recitation-note. This appears to take off the sudden change from the recitation-note to the metrical part, and is the principle which the author has endeavoured to carry out in pointing the Psalter.

All parts of verses, before arriving at the last accented syllable, are to be deliberately and distinctly enunciated, just as if they were well read, instead of chanted.

The reader may be referred to the Psalter for the detailed setting forth with music-type examples of the method; suffice it to say that Dr. Elvey employs four kinds of type and a special typographical sign to form his imaginary barrings:—

1. Capital letters when the word is to occupy the time of a semibreve, or whole bar.
2. Capital letters followed by another syllable in small letters equal to a dotted minim, followed by a crotchet.
3. Black letters equal to a minim.
4. Italics, 'where the word, or syllable, is to be accented, but not dwell on, and the syllables which follow it are to be chanted as they would be read.'
5. For the syncopations, which come so naturally in chanting—as in good reading—Dr. Elvey used a sign which can best be explained by an example from his Psalter:—

PSALM lxxviii., v. 62.

He delivered their power — | into ' cap | tivity:

and their beauty — | into ' the | ene ' my's | hand.

He adds in explanation of the above music-type example:—

It may be remarked that this is the reverse of No. 2, No. 2 being a dotted minim and a crotchet, while this is a crotchet and a dotted minim.

Exactly, and this is a very important factor in good chanting, as it promotes naturalness in the rendering of the matchless prose of the Psalms.

The foregoing remarks in continuation of those in our March issue (p. 174) may serve for the present as a further instalment of the history of the pointed Psalter.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS—A SUGGESTION.

Mr. H. W. Richards, organist of Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, is announced to give a course of 'three educational lectures' at the Royal College of Organists on the afternoons of the 6th, 13th, and 20th inst. As these discourses are given under the auspices of the College, may they not be regarded as an indication that 'the powers-that-be' of that Institution intend to give church choir-training its proper place in their Examinations? We hope it is. To show facility in performing exceedingly difficult organ pieces, or to be able to read an unfigured bass that has all the appearance of being disfigured, are all very well in their way as technical achievements. But considering that by far the majority of organ appointments carry with them the important office of choirmaster, the prime qualification of a chief musician in a church should surely be that of skill in training a choir to sing with devotional feeling, and to show taste in accompanying that shall not offend, but be in harmony with the sacredness of the office he holds. Worshippers may escape the closing voluntary—they often do—but they may suffer much, ay, and lose much, if the musical service is lacking in devotional fervour and poetic interpretation, even though the organist may be able to write certain letters after his name. We venture to think—and others who have the well-being of church music at heart think the same—that the Royal College of Organists should re-adjust its examination methods, and in so doing make choir-training and organ accompaniments the chief requirements for the diplomas, even if less practical tests have to be relinquished. We shall be glad to have the opinions of some of our readers on this important subject.

PURCELL'S ANTHEMS AND SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE.

We are sorry that our remarks on Sir Frederick Bridge's Gresham Lecture delivered on February 27 should have given rise to anything in the way of a controversy concerning the correctness of Purcell's anthems, a subject upon which there should be no possible difference of opinion, and in which all musicians are or should be interested. We cannot help feeling that Sir Frederick Bridge, with less than his habitual courtesy, made certain charges against Vincent Novello, whose memory and honour we considered it our duty to protect. On the occasion in question Sir Frederick said: 'It is dreadful to see how Vincent Novello treated this anthem' ('O sing unto the Lord'), without any qualifying statement as to the source from which the edition was prepared. Since the date of his lecture Sir Frederick has, we repeat, paid due tribute to the zeal of Purcell's editor by stating 'I yield to no one in appreciation of what Vincent Novello did.'

In discussing the anthem 'O sing unto the Lord,' the Gresham Professor charged Vincent Novello with certain maltreatments classified under seven heads. Of these, Nos. 1, 2, and 7 (referring to the Symphonies) are now withdrawn, because it has been proved that Novello had no opportunity of seeing either the Gostling MS., upon which Sir Frederick based his charges, or any MS. except the copyist's copy from which he worked. The charges made under the headings Nos. 3 to 6 may to some extent be met by stating that Novello—having nothing before him but that copyist's copy—doubtless thought he was justified in making certain alterations in it, on the ground that, not being an autograph, it was in his judgment wrong in certain places. If he had had the transcript to which Sir Frederick has been granted access, he might have acted differently.

Upon reconsideration we feel that the inaccuracies in Sir Frederick Bridge's explanation, to which we referred in our last issue, are not important enough to be vital to the main question, therefore we wish to withdraw a statement which has apparently given rise to some misunderstanding.

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

At the annual Festival of the Sons of the Clergy held on the 13th ult., the music included Sir Frederick Bridge's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis and a Motet composed by Sir Charles Stanford for the occasion, being a setting of Bishop Heber's words 'The Lord of Might from Sinai's brow,' for chorus, organ, and orchestra. Sullivan's In Memoriam Overture and Beethoven's Hallelujah Chorus respectively began and ended a service which was rendered with its usual reverence under the guiding hand of Sir George Martin.

The annual Festival of the London Gregorian Association will be held at St. Paul's Cathedral on Thursday, the 4th inst., at 7.30 p.m., with Dr. Warwick Jordan at the organ.

On the afternoon of Trinity Sunday (the 7th inst.) Bach's Church cantata 'O Light Everlasting' will be sung at the Temple Church, under the direction of Dr. Walford Davies, who will preside at the organ. There will be no sermon, except that Bach will be the preacher, and he one of a very eloquent type.

The Festival Service of the Association of Church Choirs in the Rural Deanery of Holborn will take place in St. Giles'-in-the-fields on the 25th inst., at 8 o'clock. The organist, Mr. G. E. Dunn, will preside at the organ, and Mr. F. A. W. Docker will conduct.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Mr. H. W. Richards, Christ Church, Lancaster Gate (re-opening of the organ upon its reconstruction by Messrs. Norman and Beard).—Bénédiction Nuptiale, Saint-Saëns, and Finale from an overture, Schumann.

Dr. A. H. Mann, Congregational Church, Middlelegate Street, Yarmouth.—Concerto in G, Matthew Camidge.

Mr. T. H. Collinson, Cathedral Church of St. Mary, Edinburgh.—Larghetto in F sharp minor, S. S. Wesley.

Mr. William Reed, Chalmers Church, Quebec.—Minuet and Trio, Faurès.

Mr. J. E. P. Aldous, Ascension Church, Hamilton, Ontario.—Fantasia in D minor, Sir Robert Stewart.

Mr. Chastey Hector, St. Michael's, Handsworth.—Allegro in A, Edward J. Hopkins.

Mr. Thomas J. Crawford, St. Michael's, Chester Square.—Imperial March, Elgar.

Mr. Harvey Grace, St. Alphege Church, Southwark.—Allegretto in E flat, Wolstenholme.

Mr. R. Meyrick Roberts, St. Cybi's, Holyhead.—Suite Gothique, Boellmann.

Mr. F. G. H. Moore, Hanover Street Baptist Church, Dunedin, N.Z.—March on a theme by Handel, Guilman.

Mr. R. W. Strickland, College Street Chapel, Northampton.—Fantasia on the hymn-tune 'St. Mary,' C. E. Stephens.

Mr. G. Bernard Gilbert, Public Hall, Canning Town.—Minuet in C, Henry Smart.

Dr. Alex Reid, St. Paul's, Canterbury.—Fantasia on the Sicilian Mariners' Hymn, 'Lux.'

Mr. Franklyn Mountford, St. James's Church, Handsworth, Birmingham.—Overture in E minor, Morandi.

Mr. F. Walton Evans, St. Michael-the-Archangel, Alcombe.—Invocation in B flat, Guilman.

Mr. H. C. J. Churchill, Queen's Hall (annual meeting of the Tonic Sol-fa College).—Andante in D, Silas, and Allegretto in E flat, Wolstenholme.

Mr. Herbert A. Bennett, St. Luke's, Great Crosby.—Festive March, Henry Smart.

Mr. W. Henry Maxfield, St. John-the-Evangelist, Altrincham.—Andante grazioso in D, Henry Smart.

Mr. W. Wolstenholme, All Saints', Norfolk Square.—Fantasia and Toccata, Stanford, and Choral Song and Fugue, S. S. Wesley.

Mr. E. H. Thorne has continued to give during the past month his instructive 'Bach Organ Recitals' at St. Anne's Church, Soho, his renderings of the Choral Preludes being a marked feature of these admirable performances.

ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. F. A. Burgess, St. Michael's Church, Observatory, Cape Town.

Mr. J. Chaplyn Denny, Parish Church, Hadlow.

Mr. Frank Grant, Wren Road Congregational Church, Camberwell.

Mr. N. F. Byng Johnson, St. Alkmund's Church, Derby. Miss E. F. Salisbury, Church of St. Peter and St. Paul, Marlborough.

Mr. W. Scott, Holy Trinity, Walton Breck, Liverpool. Miss May Tallant, Swiss Church, Bloomsbury.

Mr. Arthur F. Warner, Holy Trinity Church, Bramley, Guildford.

FOUR-PART SONG.

Words by THOMAS CHATTERTON (1752—1770).

Composed by JOHN E. WEST.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK

Con moto moderato. ♩ = 84.

SOPRANO. ff
A - way . . to the woodlands, a -

ALTO. ff
A - way . . to the woodlands, a -

TENOR. ff
A - way . . to the woodlands, a - way ! . . . a -

BASS. ff
A - way . . to the woodlands, a - way ! . . . a -

PIANO. f Con moto moderato. ♩ = 84. ff
(For practice only.)

p poco stac.
- way ! . . The shepherds are form-ing a p poco stac.

- way ! . . The shepherds are form-ing a ring,

p poco stac.
- way ! . . The shepherds are form-ing a ring,

p poco stac.
- way ! . . The shepherds are form-ing a ring,

p poco stac.

Copyright, 1903, by Novello and Company, Limited.

cres.
ring, To dance to the hon-our of May, And wel - come the

cres.
To dance to the hon-our of May, And wel - come the

cres.
To dance to the hon-our of May, And wel - come the

cres.
To dance to the hon-our of May, And wel - come the

cres.
plea - sures of Spring, wel - come the plea - sures of Spring. And

cres.
plea - sures of Spring, wel - come the plea - sures of Spring. And

cres.
plea - sures of Spring, wel - come the plea - sures of Spring. And

cres.
plea - sures of Spring, wel - come the plea - sures of Spring.

cres.
plea - sures of Spring, wel - come the plea - sures of Spring.

poco stac.
shepherdess labours a grace, And shines in her Sunday's ar-ray,

poco stac.
shepherdess labours a grace, And shines, and shines in her

poco stac.
And shepherdess la-bours a grace, And shines, shines in her

poco stac.
And shepherdess la-bours a grace, And shines,

poco stac.
And shepherdess la-bours a grace, And shines,

and shines in her Sunday's ar - ray,

Sunday's ar - ray, and shines in her Sun day's ar - ray, in her

Sunday's ar - ray, and shines in her Sunday's ar - ray, her Sunday's ar - ray, shines in her Sunday's ar - ray, in her Sunday's ar - ray, shines in her

dim. 3

shines in her Sunday's ar-ray,

dim. 3

Sun-day's ar-ray,

dim. 3

shines in her Sun-day's ar-ray,

dim. 3

Sun-day's ar-ray,

dim. 3

And bears in the bloom of her face The

poco stac. p

And bears in the bloom of her face The

poco stac. p

And bears in the bloom of her face The

poco stac. p

And bears in the bloom of her face The

poco stac. p

And bears in the bloom of her face The

The image shows a page from a musical score for the song "The Beau-Ties of May." It features five staves. The first four staves are vocal parts, each with a treble clef and a key signature of three sharps (F#, C#, G#). The fifth staff is the piano accompaniment, with a bass clef and the same key signature. The music is in 3/4 time. The lyrics are written below the vocal staves. The score includes dynamic markings such as cres., f, and mp, and articulation marks like accents and slurs. The lyrics are: "charms and the beau-ties of May, the charms and the beau ties of May, And charms and the beau-ties of May, the charms and the beau ties of May, And bears charms and the beau-ties of May, the charms and the beau-ties of May, And".

cres. charms and the beau-ties of May, the charms and the beau ties of May, And cres. charms and the beau-ties of May, the charms and the beau ties of May, And cres. charms and the beau-ties of May, the charms and the beau ties of May, And bears cres. charms and the beau-ties of May, the charms and the beau-ties of May, And cres. charms and the beau-ties of May, the charms and the beau-ties of May, And cres. poco stac. f cres. ff poco rit.

bears in the bloom of her face The charms and the beauties of May, the charms, the charms and the cres. poco stac. f cres. ff poco rit.

bears in the bloom of her face The charms and the beauties of May, the charms, the charms and the cres. f cres. ff poco rit.

in the bloom of her face The charms, . . the charms, the charms and the cres. poco stac. f pesante. cres. ff poco rit.

bears in the bloom of her face The charms and the beauties of May, the charms . . and the cres. poco stac. f cres. ff poco rit.

beau - ties of May. A beau - ties of May. A beau - ties of May. A - way . . to the woodlands, a - way!

beau - ties of May. A - way . . to the woodlands, a - way!

way . . to the woodlands, a - way!

way . . to the woodlands, a - way!

And join with the am - or-ous

And join with the am - or-ous

And

p poco stac.

p poco stac.

p poco stac.

p poco stac.

(4)

No. 36.

CANTIONES SACRÆ.

Price 2d.

Ave Verum

MOTET

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

(Op. 2, No. 1.)

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Largo. SOPRANI.

p legato.

A - ve ve - rum cor - pus, na - tum Ex Ma - ri - a Vir - gi -
 Je - su, Word of God In - car - nate, Of the Vir - gin Ma - ry

Largo.

ORGANO.

ppp

dim.

- ne, Ve - re pas - sum, im - mo - la - tum In cru - ce pro ho - mi - ne.
 born, On the Cross Thy sa - cred Bod - y For us men with nails was torn.

SOPRANI.

A - ve ve - rum cor - pus, na - tum Ex Ma - ri - a Vir - gi -
 Je - su, Word of God In - car - nate, Of the Vir - gin Ma - ry

A - ve ve - rum cor - pus, na - tum Ex Ma - ri - a Vir - gi -
 Je - su, Word of God In - car - nate, Of the Vir - gin Ma - ry

A - ve ve - rum cor - pus, na - tum Ex Ma - ri - a Vir - gi -
 Je - su, Word of God In - car - nate, Of the Vir - gin Ma - ry

A - ve ve - rum cor - pus, na - tum Ex Ma - ri - a Vir - gi -
 Je - su, Word of God In - car - nate, Of the Vir - gin Ma - ry

A - ve ve - rum cor - pus, na - tum Ex Ma - ri - a Vir - gi -
 Je - su, Word of God In - car - nate, Of the Vir - gin Ma - ry

A - ve ve - rum cor - pus, na - tum Ex Ma - ri - a Vir - gi -
 Je - su, Word of God In - car - nate, Of the Vir - gin Ma - ry

A - ve ve - rum cor - pus, na - tum Ex Ma - ri - a Vir - gi -
 Je - su, Word of God In - car - nate, Of the Vir - gin Ma - ry

A - ve ve - rum cor - pus, na - tum Ex Ma - ri - a Vir - gi -
 Je - su, Word of God In - car - nate, Of the Vir - gin Ma - ry

A - ve ve - rum cor - pus, na - tum Ex Ma - ri - a Vir - gi -
 Je - su, Word of God In - car - nate, Of the Vir - gin Ma - ry

A - ve ve - rum cor - pus, na - tum Ex Ma - ri - a Vir - gi -
 Je - su, Word of God In - car - nate, Of the Vir - gin Ma - ry

A - ve ve - rum cor - pus, na - tum Ex Ma - ri - a Vir - gi -
 Je - su, Word of God In - car - nate, Of the Vir - gin Ma - ry

A - ve ve - rum cor - pus, na - tum Ex Ma - ri - a Vir - gi -
 Je - su, Word of God In - car - nate, Of the Vir - gin Ma - ry

A - ve ve - rum cor - pus, na - tum Ex Ma - ri - a Vir - gi -
 Je - su, Word of God In - car - nate, Of the Vir - gin Ma - ry

A - ve ve - rum cor - pus, na - tum Ex Ma - ri - a Vir - gi -
 Je - su, Word of God In - car - nate, Of the Vir - gin Ma - ry

Copyright, 1902, by Novello and Company, Limited.

(1)

ne, Ve - re pas-sum, im - mo - la - tum In cru - ce pro ho - mi - ne, born, On the Cross Thy sa - cred Bod - y For us men with nails was torn.

ne, Ve - re pas-sum, im - mo - la - tum In cru - ce pro ho - mi - ne, born, On the Cross Thy sa - cred Bod - y For us men with nails was torn.

ne, Ve - re pas-sum, im - mo - la - tum In cru - ce pro ho - mi - ne, born, On the Cross Thy sa - cred Bod - y For us men with nails was torn.

ne, Ve - re pas-sum, im - mo - la - tum In cru - ce pro ho - mi - ne, born, On the Cross Thy sa - cred Bod - y For us men with nails was torn.

The first system consists of four vocal staves and a piano accompaniment. The vocal parts are in treble clef with a key signature of one sharp (F#). The piano accompaniment is in bass clef. The lyrics are: "ne, Ve - re pas-sum, im - mo - la - tum In cru - ce pro ho - mi - ne, born, On the Cross Thy sa - cred Bod - y For us men with nails was torn." The music is written in a simple, homophonic style.

SOPRANI. cres.

Cu - jus la - tus per - fo - ra - tum Ve - ro flu - xit san - gui - Cleanse us, by the blood and wa - ter Stream-ing from Thy pier - ed

cres.

senza Ped.

The second system features a Soprano part and piano accompaniment. The Soprano part is in treble clef with a key signature of one sharp. The piano accompaniment is in bass clef. The lyrics are: "Cu - jus la - tus per - fo - ra - tum Ve - ro flu - xit san - gui - Cleanse us, by the blood and wa - ter Stream-ing from Thy pier - ed". The music includes a crescendo marking and a "senza Ped." instruction.

ne; E - sto no - bis præ - gu - sta - tum, Mor - tis in ex - a - mi - ne.
Side; Feed us with Thy Bod - y bro - ken, Now, and in death's a - go - ny!

f p

f dim.

The third system continues the vocal and piano parts. The vocal parts are in treble clef with a key signature of one sharp. The piano accompaniment is in bass clef. The lyrics are: "ne; E - sto no - bis præ - gu - sta - tum, Mor - tis in ex - a - mi - ne. Side; Feed us with Thy Bod - y bro - ken, Now, and in death's a - go - ny!". The music includes dynamic markings of f (forte) and p (piano), and a dim. (diminuendo) marking.

cres.

pp Cu - jus la - tus per - fo - ra - tum Ve - ro flu - xit san - gui - Cleanse us, by the blood and wa - ter Stream - ing from Thy pierc - ed

cres.

pp Cu - jus la - tus per - fo - ra - tum Ve - ro flu - xit san - gui - Cleanse us, by the blood and wa - ter Stream - ing from Thy pierc - ed

cres.

pp Cu - jus la - tus per - fo - ra - tum Ve - ro flu - xit san - gui - Cleanse us, by the blood and wa - ter Stream - ing from Thy pierc - ed

pp cres.

Cu - jus la - tus per - fo - ra - tum Ve - ro flu - xit san - gui -
 Cleanse us, by the blood and wa - ter Stream - ing from Thy pierc - ed

pp cres.

Ped.

f rit.

- ne; E - sto no - bis præ - gu - sta - tum, Mor - tis in ex - a - mi - Side; Feed us with Thy Bod - y bro - ken; Now, and in death's a - go -

f rit.

- ne; E - sto no - bis præ - gu - sta - tum, . . Mor - tis in ex - a - mi - Side; Feed us with Thy Bod - y bro - ken, . . Now, and in death's a - go -

f rit.

- ne; E - sto no - bis præ - gu - sta - tum, Mor - tis in ex - a - mi -
 Side; Feed us with Thy Bod - y bro - ken, Now, and in death's a - go -

f rit.

- ne; E - sto no - bis præ - gu - sta - tum, Mor - tis in ex - a - mi -
 Side; Feed us with Thy Bod - y bro - ken, Now, and in death's a - go -

f rit.

Più lento. pp

ne. O cle - mens, O
 ny! O Je - su, O

Più lento. pp

ne. O pi - e, O
 ny! O Je - su, O

Più lento. pp

ne. O cle - mens, O
 ny! O Je - su, O

Più lento. pp

ne. O pi - e, O
 ny! O Je - su, O

Più lento. pp dim.

f pp

dul - cis Je - su, Fi - li Ma - ri - - æ.
 Je - su, hear us, Son . . of Ma - ry.

f pp

dul - cis Je - su, Fi - li Ma - ri - - æ, Ma - ri - - æ.
 Je - su, hear us, Son . . of Ma - ry, of Ma - - ry.

f pp

dul - cis Je - su, Fi - li Ma - ri - - æ, Ma - ri - - æ.
 Je - su, hear us, Son . . of Ma - ry, of Ma - - ry.

f pp

dul - cis Je - su, Fi - li Ma - ri - - æ, Ma - ri - - æ.
 Je - su, hear us, Son . . of Ma - ry, of Ma - - ry.

p poco stac.

And join with the am - or - ous train : 'Tis trea - son to la - bour to - train : 'Tis trea - son to la - bour to - day,

train : 'Tis trea - son to la - bour to - day,

p poco stac.

join in the am - or - ous train : 'Tis trea - son to la - bour to - day, day, Now Bac - chus and Cu - pid must reign, Bac - chus and Cu - pid must

Now Bac - chus and Cu - pid must reign, Bac - chus and Cu - pid must

Now Bac - chus and Cu - pid must reign, Bac - chus and Cu - pid must Now Bac - chus and Cu - pid must reign, Bac - chus and Cu - pid must poco stac. cres.

reign. With gar - lands of prim - ros - es made, And crown'd . .

poco stac. cres.

reign. With gar - lands of prim - ros - es made, And crown'd, and poco stac. cres.

reign. With gar - lands of prim - ros - es made, And p poco stac. cres.

reign. With gar - lands of prim - ros - es made, And f mp cres. poco stac.

May, Through woodland, and mea-dow, and shade, We'll dance to the hon-our of May, we'll f mp cres. poco stac.

May, Through woodland, and mea-dow, and shade, We'll dance to the hon-our of May, we'll f mp cres.

May, Through wood - - - land, and meadow, and shade, We'll dance, . . we'll f mp cres. poco stac. pesante. f

May, Through woodland, and mea-dow, and shade, We'll dance to the hon-our of May, we'll f mp cres. poco stac. f

cres. ff poco rit.

dance, we'll dance to the hon - - our of May.

cres. ff poco rit.

dance, we'll dance . . . to the hon - - our of May.

cres. ff poco rit.

dance, we'll dance to the hon - - our of May.

pesante. cres. ff poco rit.

dance to the hon - - our of May.

cres. ff poco rit.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

FOUNDED IN 1844.

THE MUSICAL TIMES is the oldest English journal devoted to music and musicians; moreover, its existence has exceeded that of any other musical journal issued, or that has ever been issued, in this country. Founded in the year 1844, it first appeared in the form of a modest sheet of eight pages; but in the intervening fifty-eight years it has, like Topsy, "grewed," and every issue now consists of seventy-two pages.

Quantity, however, is not the summum bonum of a musical journal—quality should occupy the first place. If the quality test can be put to the proof by mentioning the names of contributors, THE MUSICAL TIMES has no reason to fear the result. The following are some of the writers during recent years:—

C. A. Barry, Joseph Bennett, Vernon Blackburn, Rev. Francis L. Cohen, Frederick Corder, Henry Coward, F. H. Cowen, W. H. Cummings, W. H. Hadow, Edward Heron-Allen, A. J. Hipkins, Arthur Johnstone, A. Kalisch, H. E. Krehbiel, Robin Legge, Otto Lessmann, Charles Maclean, J. A. Fuller Maitland, W. G. McNaught, E. Mandyczewski, F. Niecks, Ebenezer Prout, W. Barclay Squire, J. S. Shedlock, J. F. R. Stainer, Franklin Taylor, Herbert Thompson and F. Gilbert Webb.

Biography has been made a special feature during the past five years. Upwards of fifty biographical sketches, with special supplement portraits, have appeared since July, 1897. These articles have been received with much favour both at home and abroad, and in Britain beyond the seas. English and foreign musicians of eminence, contemporary and bygone, have been included in this large gallery of MUSICAL TIMES Biographical Sketches: the subjoined list of names speaks for itself.

Illustrations have become an important and almost indispensable adjunct of present-day periodicals. This much appreciated feature has of late been considerably developed in the pages of THE MUSICAL TIMES. A series of articles on English Cathedral and College Chapels has furnished scope for the pictorial embellishment of the descriptive matter relating to these interesting subjects. This Cathedral series will be continued, and also the articles on important musical libraries, public and private.

The survey under the heading Church and Organ Music has been greatly extended. The aim has been to provide matter that shall be both interesting and of practical helpfulness to those who officiate in "Quires and places where they sing" and play.

The old-established characteristics of THE MUSICAL TIMES have been brought up to date. The "Occasional Notes," or leaderettes—as they are sometimes fancifully termed—cover a wide range of subjects. The monthly letters of such distinguished writers as Mr. H. E. Krehbiel, of New York, and Dr. Eusebius Mandyczewski, of Vienna, need no commendation; and the periodical records of music-makings in various centres of musical activity are supplied by the leading writers on music in the Provinces. A somewhat new feature, and one that is steadily growing in usefulness, is the section headed "Answers to Correspondents." No pains will be spared in furnishing satisfactory replies to the questions asked, even though the interrogations be, as they often are, posers.

Reference may be made to the music—anthems or part-songs—appearing month by month, and to other well-known features of this old-established journal. THE MUSICAL TIMES has a large circle of friends and well-wishers in various parts of the world; and the many gratifying tokens of appreciation that are constantly being received, not only by letter but by frequent quotation in the Press, act as a stimulus to the Editor to increase the brightness of its pages and to make the paper more acceptable in the future even than in the past.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

WITH SPECIAL PORTRAITS THAT HAVE APPEARED IN

THE MUSICAL TIMES

BETWEEN JULY, 1897, AND APRIL, 1903.

MADAME ALBANI.
DR. ARNE.
PROFESSOR ARMES.
THOMAS ATTWOOD.
DR. BLOW.
DR. BOYCE.
SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE.
DR. BRODSKY.
DR. HENRY COWARD.
DR. F. H. COWEN.
J. B. CRAMER.
DR. CROFT.
DR. W. H. CUMMINGS.
MR. EDWARD DANNREUTHER.
MR. BEN DAVIES.
DR. EDWARD ELGAR.
DR. EATON FANING.
MR. ALFRED GIBSON.
SIR JOHN GOSS.

DR. GREENE.
SIR GEORGE GROVE, C.B.
MR. GEORGE HENSCHEL.
DR. HENRY HILES.
MR. A. J. HIPKINS.
MR. ALFRED HOLLINS.
DR. E. J. HOPKINS.
DR. JOACHIM.
PROF. KARL KLINDWORTH.
DR. C. H. LLOYD.
MR. EDWARD LLOYD.
MR. WALTER MACFARREN.
SIR ALEXANDER MACKENZIE.
DR. MCNAUGHT.
MR. AUGUST MANNS.
SIR GEORGE C. MARTIN.
PROF. NIECKS.
PROF. HORATIO PARKER.
SIR WALTER PARRATT.

SIR HUBERT PARRY, BART.
PROFESSOR PROUT.
MR. ALBERTO RANDEGGER.
DR. HANS RICHTER.
MR. GEORGE RISELEY.
M. EMILE SAURET.
HENRY SMART.
SIR JOHN STAINER.
SIR CHARLES STANFORD.
RICHARD STRAUSS.
SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
MR. FRANKLIN TAYLOR.
MR. JOHN THOMAS.
REV. PRECENTOR TROUTBECK.
VERDI.
SAMUEL WESLEY.
DR. S. S. WESLEY.
HERR AUGUST WILHELMJ.
HENRY WILLIS.

THE MUSICAL TIMES is published on the 1st of every month. Price 4d. Annual Subscription, post free, five shillings.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

A HUGE JOKE!

A number of London and Provincial papers recently gave publicity to the astounding news that a pupil at the Graz School of Music had discovered a complete and finished full score of Schubert's 'Unfinished' Symphony! Touching details were given of the sensational find: how the aforesaid youth had helped an old woman who had, from sheer exhaustion, fallen down in the street; how he had tended and goodnaturefully led her to her humble home. After this stirring exposition in Act I. of the drama, came the marvellous development and the terrific climax: the aged, trembling dame showed her young friend, the good Samaritan, a bundle of old music paper which she said she had found in the house of a capellmeister in whose service she had been. After his death, we read, nobody had bothered about these manuscripts, wherefore she had annexed them; and when the lucky youth turned them over, he came across a volume yellow with age, and gnawed by mice, on the first sheet of which was written 'Franz to his Anselmo.' The music proved to be that of the 'Unfinished' Symphony by Franz Schubert! In feverish excitement the youth turned over the leaves of the precious tome when lo! and behold, there met his enraptured gaze the Scherzo and Finale of the most marvellous Torso amongst musical masterpieces, in other words the long lost 'finish' of the heavenly 'Unfinished' Symphony.

A pretty tale and one that must have thrilled everybody who read—and believed it. It was offered to us for publication, together with other sensational news of a different kind. We were suspicious, and in endeavouring to trace the story to its fons et origo we soon found that the Paris Ménestrel, which was named as its source, had been beautifully taken in by the Leipzig Signale. The story appeared there plausibly enough, with full details.

The very next paragraph, however, contained a preposterous tale of a Russian lady pianist bribing the Berlin critics by purchasing in a noted Conditorei no less than seventy-five dozen Berlin Pfannkuchen (dough-nuts)! and sending each critic half-a-dozen, 'none of which were returned,' &c., &c.

Then we scrutinized the paper more closely, and noticed the date of publication: April 1! A clue, indeed; whereupon we dived deeper into the mysterious depths of this remarkable publication. The result? Ridiculous tales of preposterous, vain-glorious speeches that have been delivered by Richard Strauss; nonsensical, impossible titles of two new symphonic poems by the same great musician; details of pieces of music with the most absurd 'programmes'; reviews of silly hypothetical books, e.g., 'Richard Wagner and Animals; two volumes, each of 600 pp.; vol. i. Mammals and Birds; vol. ii. Reptiles and Fishes.' And what shall be said of the advertisements? All were in keeping with the nature of the news and criticisms. This was enough, and we turned once more to the title-page, where we found the following notice:—

Every year one of these numbers appears, and each time on April 1, to show our esteemed readers the lighter side of the musical world.

This explained all. We had before us an 'April Fool's' number of a sedate-enough paper under normal conditions. The whole of the contents consisted of a budget of nonsense. This had been taken quite seriously by a number of Foreign and English papers, which were caught napping by the wonderful ways of the German press when dealing, on April 1, with 'the lighter side of the musical world.'

Reviews.

Schumann. By Annie W. Paterson. The Master Musicians Series. Edited by Frederick J. Crowest. [J. M. Dent and Company.]

This, the latest contribution to Messrs. Dent's series of musical monographs, deals with the career of a very remarkable man of whom the last word has yet to be said. In compiling this memoir the authoress, Dr. Annie Paterson, has aimed at supplying 'an accurate character sketch,' and in so doing 'to let the great tone-poet speak to the reader through his own thoughts and mental aspects as displayed so vividly in his various writings and letters.' Thus it has come to pass that more than half (the second portion) of the book is devoted to the consideration of 'The Man' and 'The Musician and Writer,' and the remainder (91 pages out of 215) to biography per se. The result is a readable book that succeeds in portraying the life-work of the composer to whom in no small degree was given the power to charm by his music.

In a book intended for English readers we should like to have seen some reference to the history of Schumann's music in England, with which the name of Dr. August Manns will ever be honourably associated. The statement (on p. 119) that Madame Schumann did not visit these shores between 1856 and 1865 needs correction, as she played in London in the years 1857 and 1859. The 'Queen's Private Band' is curiously given (on p. 58) as 'the Windsor private band.' Some illustrations and facsimiles, to the number of eight, add to the interest of the volume.

A Vade mecum for Singing-Teachers and Pupils. By Salvatore Marchesi. [G. Schirmer, New York.]

Into a booklet of fifty pages Cavaliere Marchesi has contrived to compress many interesting and thoughtful explanations and arguments connected with the art of singing. The style of the work is crisp, readable, and attractive. The author girds mercilessly at the charlatanism that has brought the scientific study of voice-production into something very like contempt. He believes that pupils should have 'some general anatomico-physiological notions concerning the vocal organs,' and that teachers, in addition to theoretical knowledge, must have 'instinctive intuition, penetrating reflection, and long experience.' He says that female voices are more difficult to cultivate than male voices, and that therefore the number of deluded young men is far less than that of young women who have been and are led astray, but 'the inhuman deception goes on every day and everywhere.'

As to method, it is emphatically asserted that difficulties must be overcome in 'a natural and progressive order'—a platitude, for no one would intentionally contend for any other order. The first exercise should be sung on a slightly darkened A (Italian), and no words should be sung 'until the voice is sufficiently developed in power and flexibility and equalized throughout its compass, and until the registers are nearly blended and the vocal mechanism has acquired sufficient facility.' We commend these irreproachable first principles to the embryo Melbas and Santleys who, after a term or two of twenty minutes once-a-week lessons at a singing-while-you-wait 'School of Music,' cater for public attention. After the darkened A, adequate vocalises follow to perfect the blending of registers. The author condemns the 'smiling' mouth so often recommended: it is 'absolutely contrary to the laws of acoustics.' He says that the lips are 'intended' (if design rather than evolution is admitted one might recall other and fonder theories of intention) to give final shape to the sound. As to breathing it is best to allow it to take care of itself. Every intentional preparation or effort made in order to draw air into the lungs hinders the freedom of the natural process. Normal, healthy breathing is 'diaphragmatic,' which is explained as involving the pushing down of the abdomen to make room for the lungs. Lateral breathing, that is the sideways extension of the ribs, is condemned. The stroke of the glottis is discussed in a short chapter.

It is duly urged that inasmuch as volume of tone is dependent upon amplitude of vibration, the development of the potential elasticity of the vocal cords must be an object of practice. In dealing with resonance, some acoustical laws relating to the diffusion of vibrations are explained in terms open to criticism. Registers are asserted to arise not as usually understood from the varied behaviour of the vocal cords, but 'exclusively from the co-operation of the different resonators of the vocal instrument.' It is roundly stated that 'No modification can be detected in the physical structure or physiological activity of the glottis as a vibrator that could account for the different timbre of the sound in a change of register.' If this is right then exeunt Garcia, Seiler, Behnke! The author deals rather fully with the classification of voices. One may take exception to the manner of the explanations (as when it is said that at the period of puberty the larynx rises a few lines); and at the representation (without remark) of the compass of the various classes of tenor and alto voices an octave too high. A chapter on 'How to practise' is followed by one on 'Analysis'—that is, sight-singing—in which it is casually observed, as though it were a matter of course, that 'students that wish to learn singing, especially women, are usually not musical' (1). The last chapter, which is on 'Style,' is doleful and pessimistic. We live in hopelessly degenerating times, so far as the teaching of singing is concerned. Reaction may come after the lowest point has been reached: so we are to get worse before we shall get better. We are sorry that so eminent a teacher as Cavaliere Marchesi, with his half-century of experience, has no more comfort to give us. As it is, we may be thankful for his book, written as he says with the feeling of a man accomplishing a sacred duty, and we may hope that it will assist to arrest the alleged fatal decline of the divine art of song.

Six Russian Songs. Selected and translated by Rosa Newmarch.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

English vocalists are greatly indebted to Mrs. Newmarch for her excellent translations of Russian songs, and especially of those comprised in the above selection, which consists of 'A Ball-room meeting' and 'Regret' by Tschaikovsky; 'Silent Sorrow,' 'An Eastern song,' and 'Dearest little maiden,' by Dargomijsky; and 'A rose in autumn,' by M. Balakirev. These will doubtless be familiar to many of our readers, for they have been charmingly sung at several concerts by Mrs. Henry J. Wood, but those who are unfamiliar with them should hasten to make their intimate acquaintance. They possess a character of their own, and afford rare opportunities for cultured singers to touch the hearts of their listeners.

Dear Home. Love's Message. I asked the Swallows. That Song of old. Cherished Dreams, and The Roses of Palestine. English words by Paul England. Music by Eduard Lassen.

Two Songs for Contralto. Two Songs for Baritone. By Helen Agnes MacWhirter.

[Bosworth and Co.]

Herr Lassen's style is too well known by vocalists to need description, but it should be said that its best attributes will be found in the above group of songs. The most important are the first and last of the list, the former a graceful expression of home memories, cherished and revered, and the latter an effective setting of words of tragic character.

Miss MacWhirter's two songs for contralto comprise settings of Heine's 'Seraphine' and E. Nesbit's 'Cradle Song,' which respectively have German and English words only. Both are very well written and pleasing, the accompaniments possessing considerable musical interest. The words of the baritone songs are 'The faded violet,' by Shelley, and 'A lassie I ken,' by McEwen. The music to these is unpretentious but expressive, and sung consecutively the songs would afford effective contrast.

Obituary.

LUIGI ARDITI.

On May-Day, at his residence at Hove, the death took place of the well-known operatic conductor LUIGI ARDITI, in his eightieth year. Born at Crescentino, Piedmont, Arditi studied at the Milan Conservatoire as a violinist. He tried his hand at composition, but the outcome of that phase of his career may be summed up in 'Il Bacio,' a long-established favourite vocal waltz, the strains of which are typical of its genial composer. In 1858, Arditi made London his headquarters, but he led a roving life in conducting Italian opera in one European city after another, in addition to operatic tours in the United States under Mapleson. A man who retires from public life is soon forgotten; but it should be remembered that Arditi conducted the first performances in England of the following works, which we place in chronological order: Gounod's 'Faust,' Her Majesty's Theatre, June 11, 1863; Schumann's E flat (Rhenish) Symphony, Arditi's Promenade Concerts, Her Majesty's Theatre, December 4, 1865; Wagner's 'Flying Dutchman,'—the first performance of any one of Wagner's operas in this country, be it noted—Drury Lane Theatre, July 23, 1870; Mascagni's 'Cavalleria Rusticana,' Shaftesbury Theatre, October 19, 1891; and Humperdinck's 'Hänsel und Gretel,' Daly's Theatre, December 26, 1894.

Alderman THOMAS DYSON, J.P., for thirty years a Lay Clerk in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and formerly Mayor of the royal borough, died, we regret to record, on May 1, aged seventy-seven. In 1850 he began his vicar-choral career as a tenor singer at Canterbury Cathedral, and four years later migrated to Windsor. The late Mr. Dyson started the well-known pianoforte and music business of Messrs. Dyson and Sons nearly forty years ago.

Mr. THOMAS LAWRENCE FORBES, a well-known amateur organist in Hampstead, died at his residence, 8, Lancaster Road, on the 9th ult., aged 70.

Madame SIBYL SANDERSON, the celebrated American opera singer, a native of San Francisco, died at Paris on the 16th ult., aged 39.

The death of Mr. JULIUS SELIGMANN, of Glasgow, is noticed by our Glasgow correspondent on page 409.

THE BEETHOVEN FESTIVAL.

A special feature of last month was the Beethoven Festival organized by Professor Johann Kruse at Queen's Hall, which extended from the 16th to the 25th ult., and embraced the Nine Symphonies, the principal Overtures, the Violin Concerto, the Pianoforte Concerto in E flat, Op. 73, some of the best examples of the chamber music, and famous vocal excerpts. The soloists engaged were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Mr. Ben Davies, Professor Kruse's Quartet Party and Herr Reisenauer.

The chief interest, however, in the event and that which specially justified the Festival was the engagement of Herr Felix Weingartner as conductor, of whose readings of the Symphonies rumour had spoken in terms of lavish praise. This for the most part was fully justified. The German conductor secured a series of remarkably finished and virile interpretations—the balance of tone, clearness of phrasing, and attention to the minutest details being beyond praise. The only fault was an unbending preciseness in rhythm which in certain movements became irritating to sensitive ears, and a certain loss of the ruggedness and the spirit of unconventionality so characteristic of Beethoven, but this very excessive rhythmic precision naturally appealed to the majority, and the performances were invariably followed by enthusiastic applause. The chorus in the Ninth Symphony was supplied by the Dulwich Philharmonic Society, and the solo vocalists engaged were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Muriel Foster, Mr. William Green, and Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies.

MORECAMBE MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Four thousand competitors, an audience of considerably over six thousand at the concluding concert, prodigious crowding and enthusiasm with no disagreeable incidents, these points may serve to convey some preliminary idea of the thirteenth Morecambe Festival, held on April 29 and the three ensuing days. No one having any acquaintance with the best of the musical meetings in the North of England would be likely to suppose that the immense popular success of the competitions was obtained by prescribing pieces of a second-rate order; but as this might be thought by persons who do not happen to know anything about the musical movement in the North, it seems advisable to mention at once the selections in the more important of the open classes:—

Challenge Shield Class, for choirs of fifty voices, or thereabouts:—Madrigal, 'So saith my fair' (Marenzio); four-part song, 'Dim-lit Woods' (Brahms); six-part song, 'Dirge of Darthula' (Brahms); four-part song, 'Weary wind of the West' (Elgar). Class for smaller mixed-voice choirs:—'Cynthia, thy song' (Croce), 'The Falcon' (Brahms). Female-voice choirs:—'Love song' (Brahms), Chorus of Sirens, from 'Song of Arganthy' (Corder). Male-voice choirs:—'Sunset' (Percy Pitt), 'Battle Song' (Schumann). String orchestras:—'Elégie' in D, from Tchaikovsky's 'Sérénade.'

Full orchestra:—Andante con moto from Unfinished Symphony (Schubert) and Prelude to third act of 'Lohengrin,' arranged for concert performance, with theme of Bridal Chorus as coda.

In the Shield class the competition was keen, and the extremely high standard was exemplified not only in the performance of the winning choir. The friendly rivalry of the three neighbouring sea-side places—Morecambe, Blackpool, and Southport—once more produced a gorgeous feast of song. But though the Lancastrian madrigal societies all sang in a manner worthy of their high reputation, they this time found themselves in the presence of formidable rivals from a distance, and the Shield ultimately fell to Hanley. If Leeds and Sheffield possess the best choirs in the country on the grand scale (say 250 voices), to those four madrigal choirs of 50 voices or so—Morecambe, Blackpool, Southport, and Hanley—a corresponding place of eminence may with tolerable confidence be assigned. All four choirs have a very high standard of general efficiency, with fine vocal material, thorough discipline, and a guiding musical intelligence that avoids all serious mistakes. From none of them does one ever hear a bad fault of intonation, a confused entry, an inept crescendo, dull phrasing or heavy rhythm. In the extremely difficult matter of maintaining the exact pitch in long unaccompanied pieces it is hard to say which is the strongest. They are all capable of it, with luck, and each of them has achieved it on a good many occasions. One notes the curious point that Blackpool, if they lose pitch at all, nearly always go a little sharp, and the others, in the like case, a little flat. Other special points that suggest themselves after repeated hearings are that Morecambe is pre-eminent in artistic repose and in the faculty of penetrating the secret of different styles, and Blackpool in smartness and the virtuoso qualities. These words are used without the slightest intention of a sneer. The Blackpool singers have a certain peculiar alertness which they naturally and legitimately cultivate, and if the prize were adjudged simply for sheer tunefulness, unanimity in the phrasing, and such qualities, they would always be likely to win it. But while Blackpool is pre-eminent in qualities that appeal to the voice expert, a person primarily interested in the due drawing forth of the composer's meaning would be likely to prefer Morecambe. In the other two choirs, Southport and Hanley, it is all-round efficiency, or high average, rather than any differentiating point of excellence, that challenges attention.

The special qualities of Morecambe were illustrated in the Thursday concert. In association with Mr. Plunket Greene they sang the 'Vätergruft' by Cornelius, and 'Landerkennung' by Grieg, catching the weird atmosphere of the former piece and meeting with entire success all the difficulties presented by the sustained pianissimo, the strange and wonderful modulations, and the German text—the original language being used in order not to disturb the vowel harmonies. This represents one of Mr. R. G. W. Howson's boldest ventures, but the result was a performance of the short but wonderfully original and interesting composition that has probably not been surpassed in this country.

In the orchestral classes Nelson and Colne still easily held their own against all comers, Nelson winning the full orchestra and Colne the string orchestra prize. The Colne orchestra was associated with the festival choir in Elgar's 'The Banner of St. George,' and the two played together the 'Lohengrin' selection under the conductorship of Mr. Corder, at the Saturday concert. That piece was encored, and rather unfortunately, for it went very well the first and not so well the second time. But the standard of the orchestral playing on the whole could only be considered astonishingly high, for one remembered that the performers were mostly working men from small manufacturing towns in North Lancashire. In rehearsing and performing his cantata Dr. Elgar did not find it necessary to make much allowance for the amateur status of the instrumentalists.

Wednesday was devoted to choirs of children and Girls' Friendly Societies, and Thursday to the local competitions, the standard of which was declared by Dr. McNaught to be equal to the standard in the open classes of seven years ago. The prize-winners in open competitions, besides those already mentioned, were, for female-voice choirs, Blackpool Glee and Madrigal Society (conductor, Mr. H. Whittaker); for small mixed-voice choirs, Barrow Madrigal Society (conductor, Mrs. Bourne); for male-voice choirs, Southport Vocal Union (conductor, Mr. J. C. Clark). The Novello Prize for the greatest total of marks fell to Blackpool. In the open classes for instrumental chamber music, groups led by Mr. Bertram Lewis were successful, and Mr. Bleasdale's Lancaster forces gained an award in the small orchestra class.

Of new features in this year's Festival there was no lack. The association of Mr. Plunket Greene and the Morecambe choir at the Thursday concert was new, and so was the formation of a large-scale choir with contingents from Blackpool, Kendal, Morecambe, and Southport, who, together with the Colne orchestra, performed Dr. Elgar's 'The Banner of St. George,' under the composer's direction. These forces were brought together on Friday night for rehearsal, and were afterwards entertained to a 'Festessen,' quite in the German style, by the Executive. Another complete novelty was Dr. Elgar's part-song 'Weary wind of the West,' heard in public for the first time on the last day of the Festival; and on an unprecedented scale, if not of an unwonted kind, was the competition in the Shield class, where the adjudicators had to deal with no fewer than eleven choirs. The behaviour of the enormous masses of competitors and listeners was in accord with the excellent record of former years. The management of a musical festival in which 4,000 competitors take part is no easy matter, and this year it was universally admitted that the work had been once more admirably well done. Besides the solution of tactical problems presented by the manœuvring of the enormous bodies of singers and players who take part in the proceedings, one notes on the part of the executive an endeavour to perfect numerous secondary but still important points. Though probably all the members of the committee had an honourable share in the work, one may, without making invidious distinctions, mention two names, Mr. R. G. W. Howson as the leading spirit in purely musical matters, and Canon Gorton as the tactful chairman.

The adjudicators were a committee of four. Mr. John Acton, of the Royal Manchester College of Music, represented expert knowledge of voice production, and Mr. Frederick Corder, Curator of the Royal Academy of Music, orchestral technique. Dr. McNaught brought his unrivalled experience of competitions to bear on the problem of putting through the multifarious business of the day, and Dr. Elgar was the presiding genius.

COMPETITIONS.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENTS.)

CARLISLE.

The eighth annual series of competitions and concerts constituting the Carlisle and District Musical Festival was held on April 22 and 23. The first day was devoted to the children's school choirs and the girls-in-business choirs. Eleven of the former and no fewer than eighteen of the latter competed. The Penrith children gained the chief prize, which consisted of a challenge shield. No money prizes were offered in any section of the competitions. The choirs of girls-in-business sang remarkably well. Altogether the singing during the day was agreeably tuneful. The children united to perform the cantata 'The Spider and the Fly' (Bridge), under Dr. McNaught, who adjudicated throughout.

On the second day the adult choirs competed. There were forty entries. It was evident from many of the performances that the art of choir-training is studied in this district with marked success. A choir from Charlotte Street Congregational Church, under Mr. T. P. Dowell, gave beautiful performances, and other choirs were not far behind. The concert programme included Bach's 'O Light Everlasting,' a fine performance of which was given by the united choirs. The new organist of the Cathedral, Mr. A. G. Mercer, greatly assisted the proceedings. It was a great advantage to the Festival to have so competent a musician ready to meet every demand. Miss Edna Thornton and Mr. Denham Price sang at the concerts.

WESTMORLAND MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

The fact that the Festival and competitions held at Kendal on April 23, 24, and 25 formed the eighteenth of these events points to the comparative antiquity of the institution; and when one reflects on the number of festivals more or less on the same plan that have sprung up during the past eighteen years, it is possible to realize how much is owing to the enterprise of Miss Wakefield. Having regard to the energy with which these competitions have been managed, there seems to be little room left for fresh development, and in truth the Festival we are considering presented but few novel features. As regards the competitions, the chief novelty was one for wood-wind or horn soloists, the instruments available being piccolo, flute, clarinet, oboe, bassoon, and horn. There was a satisfactory response, a flute, a clarinet, and two oboes appearing before the judge, Mr. T. T. Noble, of York, and it is to be hoped that the ultimate result may be an encouragement to these neglected instruments. Village orchestras again came forward, and two attempted Schubert's Fifth (B flat) Symphony with considerable success. The folk-song competition, begun last year, was also resumed with good results, Mr. F. Kidson, of Leeds, a specialist in this matter, disqualifying some excellent songs as having been published, but finding three excellent ones well worthy of prizes—'Poor old Horse,' 'Swarth Fell Rocks,' and 'The Cartmel Hunting Song.'

The madrigal singing, always a feature at Kendal, was if anything even better than usual, Pearsall's 'Why weeps my lady love?' being sung to something approaching perfection by choirs from Yealand and Sedbergh. A further prominence was given to the madrigal in the programme of the first evening concert, the bulk of which consisted of a series of eighteen madrigals, from Edwards's 'In going to my lonely bed' to modern examples by Parry and Stanford. The idea was an excellent one in the abstract, as illustrating the wealth of material that exists in one of the most typical branches of native music, and it was practically justified by a series of really fine performances, in which a large chorus, formed out of ten of the chief competing choirs, took part under the direction of Mr. George Rathbone, the choirmaster of the Festival.

So high a standard is raised by the highly-trained choirs which have for years past taken part in these Festivals, that it was well to establish a special class for them with a test of a searching and extensive character. Elgar's 'My love dwells in a northern land' was the set piece, the other being chosen at the discretion of the judge, Dr. McNaught, from the various works prepared for the second concert. The result of this select competition was that Sedbergh won the first prize, Windermere being second out of the nine that took part.

The choral works from which this selection was to be made were Somervell's setting of Wordsworth's 'Power of Sound' (first heard at one of these Festivals in 1895) and Elgar's 'Coronation Ode,' both of which were performed with great spirit under Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's energetic conductorship. At the same concert the orchestra, composed of members of the Hallé Orchestra, showed its excellent quality in two movements from Dvorák's 'New World' Symphony, with which, as might be expected, Mr. Coleridge-Taylor showed himself to be in complete sympathy.

The children's competitions on the final day were on familiar lines, of the same practical nature as usual, and terminated in a concert at which 500 juveniles united their voices, with an effect that had a charm quite its own, in a very pleasing cantata written for the occasion by Mr. Rathbone, 'Vogelweid the Minnesinger,' a piece which is attractive in its tunefulness, and at the same time has some of the distinction which an unobtrusive musicianship can afford. Madame Liza Lehmann's cantata, 'Once upon a time' was another interesting feature of this juveniles' concert, Mr. Banks's adult Kendal choir providing the choruses.

The principals who took part in the three concerts were Miss Lydia Nervil, Miss Mary Wilson, Mr. Gervase Elwes, Mr. Pedro de Zulueta, and Mr. Plunket Greene, with Miss Marie Hall as solo violinist, and Miss Gertrude Kingston elocutionist. The prizes, which according to the wholesome rule prevailing at Kendal consist of certificates and medals, money being given only towards actual expenses, were distributed by Lady Mary Lygon, who in Worcestershire and in New South Wales has done such good work for popular music that her appearance was especially appropriate.

MID-SOMERSET.—SHEPTON MALLET.

This young institution showed signs of abundant life at its second annual meeting at Shepton Mallet on April 29 and 30. It is worked chiefly and with inspiring energy by its founder, Mrs. Mansel, of Wincanton. Although the competitions occupied two days, two adjudicators, Dr. Somervell and Mr. George Rathbone, were kept busy working separately nearly all the time. Many sections were devoted to the children, who, after competing, united to perform the cantata 'Vogelweid the Minnesinger' (Rathbone), under the direction of the composer. More than a dozen adult choirs entered the various sections, and in the evening combined to give a performance of Schubert's 'Song of Miriam.'

SPILSBY.

In this somewhat remote corner of Lincolnshire Mrs. Massingberd has succeeded in rousing some enthusiasm for musical study by organizing annual competitions which this year were held on April 27 and 28. About a dozen villages sent in school choirs and choral societies. The singing generally was satisfactory, some of it being really excellent. An adult choir from Horncastle was a good object-lesson for many of the other choirs. It was one of the most promising features of the proceedings that so many choirs of average capacity came to learn what there is to do and how to do it. At an evening concert the best choirs united to perform Somervell's 'Power of Sound.' Dr. McNaught and the Rev. H. Dams, of Carlisle Cathedral, adjudicated.

YORK.

The Yorkshire Choral and Instrumental Competitions were held on the 6th and 7th ult. at York. These competitions were instituted by Miss Mary Egerton, who still takes an active part in promoting the scheme. The educative effect of the gathering and the constant public criticism of the performances is proved by the excellence of the school singing. There was seldom a note out of tune, and the purity and sweetness of tone of the children's voices was a subject of general remark, and of high praise from the choral adjudicator, Dr. McNaught. The same high standard was happily evident in the choral society section. Monk Fryston, under Mr. D. Morris, and the Centenary Chapel Choir (York) under Mr. Rymer, gave first-rate performances of the test-pieces in the different sections in which they were awarded prizes. The Centenary Choir could pit themselves creditably against the best small choirs in the kingdom. A strong feature of the York gathering is the excellence of the ensemble chamber music playing. The entries for piano-forte trio and for string orchestra were not numerous, but their performances were exceedingly interesting. Mr. A. Bent, of the Royal College, adjudicated in this section; Mr. Noble, the Cathedral organist, took great interest in the proceedings. His string orchestra performed Purcell's suite, and he conducted a performance by the combined choirs of Elgar's 'My love dwells in a northern land.'

MALVERN.

The eighth annual Madresfield Musical Competition took place at Malvern on the 5th and 6th ult. This scheme was inspired by Lady Mary Lygon, and it still enjoys the advantage of her active co-operation. The first day was devoted to the children and the church choirs. On the second day there were forty-six entries from adult choirs, quartets (instrumental and vocal), &c. Some of the choral singing elicited great praise from the adjudicators, Mr. A. H. Brewer and Mr. Granville Bantock. Dr. Elgar, who was present, also publicly stated that in his opinion the standard was higher than it had been. The Festival closed with an evening concert at which a fine performance of Elgar's 'Coronation Ode' was given by a band and chorus of about three hundred performers, the composer himself conducting.

PONTEFRAC.

The debt which popular music, in the highest sense of the expression, owes to the individual efforts of enlightened amateurs is not easily exaggerated. The competitions which are doing so much to raise the standard of both taste and performance, more especially in the agricultural districts of the North of England, have in nearly every case been started and organized by amateur effort.

It has now reached Pontefract, a town whose familiar 'Pomfret cakes,' so soothing to the vocal cords, give it an obvious connection with the vocal art. Here, owing to the energetic initiative of a local amateur, Mr. F. S. Hatchard, seconded by another very capable amateur musician in Mr. C. D. Atkinson, a series of competitions has just been established. How good a start it made may be understood from the bare fact that there were 153 entries, and that the event covered three days, May 12, 13, and 14. There can be little doubt that the entries will increase on a future occasion, and many more will submit themselves to the practical, kindly, and often amusing criticism of Dr. McNaught, who was wisely chosen help give the event a favourable start.

Though the entries were very numerous for a beginning, the weak spot was in the classes for concerted music, choral societies, choirs, madrigals, male-voice choirs, and the like, which form of course the most important side of these gatherings. After the close contest between two small choral societies from Monk Fryston and Normanton respectively, on the final day, it will be surprising if other societies do not desire to join in the fray. The singing by these choirs of 'How lovely are the messengers' and part-songs by Edward German and Garrett was remarkably good, and the brilliant success with which the former Society went through a rather prolonged test in sight-reading furnished the high-water mark of the Festival. There was, too, some excellent singing on the part of adult soloists of each kind of voice, the vocalization of the sopranos and contraltos being especially good, but a prevalent fault arose from the habit of many to assume a style of pronunciation which was no doubt thought refined, but which disguised the broad vowel sounds native to Yorkshire, and which are so particularly effective for vocal purposes.

The school children turned up well, and did some work which, if not always satisfactory in itself, was of an intensely practical nature, and calculated to be of the greatest possible assistance to future advancement. To put it plainly, false intonation was rampant and forced tone was frequent, giving one the impression that the standard of schools in the district might be higher, and that teaching might be on better lines. But it is precisely to this end that these competitions are organized, and if we may judge from the experience of other centres, the opportunity offered at Pontefract of raising a higher standard by comparison of results, and by listening to the advice of a thoroughly competent expert, should in the course of a year or so produce a marked improvement.

The concerts associated with the competitions were given under the conductorship of Mr. C. D. Atkinson.

The Morecambe Festival is reported on p. 403.

THE FEIS CEOIL.

The Feis Ceoil (Irish Musical Festival) which, held in Dublin, began on the 18th ult. and continued throughout the week, has been one of the most successful yet held. The general standard in all the competitions was very good, and on the whole showed improvement on former Festivals. The first evening was devoted to a concert of Irish music and some of the prize compositions. Of the latter, Mr. C. S. Craddock's anthem 'All Thy works praise Thee, O Lord' deserves special mention. Signor Esposito's Second Irish Rhapsody for Violin was magnificently played by Mr. John Dunn. Mr. Hamilton Harty's fine song 'The rose's madness,' well sung by Mr. E. Gordon Cleather, was one of the most interesting items of the concert. Several Irish melodies arranged for chorus by Jozé, Seymour, and Rogers were sung by a large choir specially organized for the occasion, and conducted by Dr. T. R. G. Jozé.

Tuesday's concert consisted of the prize cantata 'Connla of the golden hair,' words and music by Mr. W. Harvey Pélissier, and 'Deirdre,' words by T. W. Rolleston and music by Signor Esposito, which won the prize at the first Feis Ceoil.

The competitions of Thursday were exceedingly interesting, being devoted to the choral competitions of the Commercial Choirs (mixed voices, six entries, and male voices, two entries), the members of each choir being bona fide employees of the firm in whose name the choir is entered. The winners (mixed voices) were (1) Messrs. Monson, Robinson and Co.'s Choir, conductor, Mr. Lowther Campbell; (2) Messrs. Dollard's Printing Works Choir, conductor, Mr. A. Keene; (3) Messrs. Arnott and Co.'s Choir, conductor, Mr. Theodore Logier. The successful male-voice choir was the Freeman's Journal Choir. These competitions are the most important work yet accomplished by the Feis. This is only the second year in which prizes have been offered for commercial choirs, but the result so far has been most encouraging. The majority of the choirs displayed really good choral singing, that of the three prize choirs being of a high order. The evening's competitions included ladies' and mixed choirs (for choirs which had not before won prizes at the Feis). The successful ladies' choirs were (1) Mr. Loretto's Choir, Sligo; (2) Loretto Abbey, Dalkey, conductor, Mr. S. S. Myerscough; highly commended, the Dublin Laundry Co.'s Choir, conductor, Mr. R. O'Dwyer. The successful Mixed choirs were (1) Mr. Loretto's Sligo Choir; (2) the Thomastown Musical Society, conductor, Mr. A. Ranalow. The enterprise of these two choirs in coming such long distances to compete is most praiseworthy—Sligo being 134 miles, and Thomastown, co. Kilkenny, 90 miles from Dublin.

On Friday, in the Ladies' Choirs, Division I., the highest class (eight entries). The prizes were won by the Irish Ladies' Choir, conductor, Madame Cosslett-Heller; Dublin Glee Singers, conductor, Mr. Joseph Seymour; and Loretto Abbey Choir, Rathfarnham, conductor, Mr. S. Myerscough.

At the evening orchestral competition the successful orchestra was also that of Loretto Abbey, conducted by Mr. S. Myerscough. This band is almost entirely composed of the young lady pupils of that Institution.

The prize-winners in vocal and instrumental solos competitions are too numerous to mention. The judges were Signor Denza (pianoforte), Mr. John Dunn (strings), and Mr. Franklin Taylor (pianoforte).

THE ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

The first production of Sir Hubert Parry's Symphonic Ode 'War and Peace' on April 30 at the Albert Hall is a distinctive event in the annals of the Royal Choral Society. Written expressly for this Society, its chief strength as will be surmised lies in its choruses, and these are so virile that there results a composition that should travel throughout the length and breadth of the land; for the music is thoroughly singable, and possesses the directness of utterance and exuberance that always appeal to choral organizations. The libretto, written mainly by Sir Hubert Parry himself, and with no small literary skill, voices not only the sentiments engendered by the late war, but also expresses the feelings which must ever be paramount when nations forsake sweet reasonableness for the sword. The opening chorus 'Strike now' at once arrests attention, and the Marching Song of Peace is a fine example of choral-writing, but the most beautiful portion is the Dirge 'Blow trumpets, solemnly, sadly blow,' in which dignity, tenderness, and manly resignation are impressively expressed in music in which there is the salt of tears. The bass solo, as dictated by the spirit of the text, is declamatory in style, but the tenor number 'After tumult, rest' is essentially lyrical in character and is very melodious. The beautifully written quartet is a memorable number, and some brilliant effects are produced in those portions in which the soprano soloist sings above the chorus parts.

The soloists were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Madame Kirkby Lunn, Mr. William Green and Mr. Andrew Black, all of whom sang very finely. It is scarcely necessary to add that the choristers were manifestly determined to do their best under the energetic direction of the composer, who was twice recalled to the platform at the close of the performance.

The evening's music terminated with Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise,' conducted by Sir Frederick Bridge.

THE ROYAL OPERA.

Apart from the performances of the Ring (noticed separately) there is little to place on record up to the time of going to press. The season proper began on the 4th ult. with Wagner's 'Lohengrin,' in which Madame Bolska made her debut here as Elsa, but with qualified success. Herr Kraus was acceptable in the name part, and Herr Müller and Fräulein Reil created a favourable impression respectively as Telramund and Ortrud. Herr Lohse conducted with his usual skill, but it was noticeable that he did not keep his orchestra as much in subjection to the voices as did Dr. Richter. The first operas, sung in Italian,—'Pagliacci' and 'Cavalleria Rusticana'—were mounted on the 8th ult., and conducted by Signor Mancinelli. In the former Mdle. Charlotte Wyns made her first appearance in England, but with only moderate success. The other characters were played by M. Salignac, Signor Pini-Corsi, Herr Reiss, and Mr. Laurence Rea, a remarkable mixture of nationalities! The part of Turiddu in 'Cavalleria' introduced another new-comer, Signor Dianni, an efficient if not a remarkable artist. Mdle. Strakosch embodied Santuzza sympathetically, but the greatest success was achieved by Frau Hertzner Deppe, who appeared as Lolla and showed great vocal and dramatic ability.

The second week of the season was practically a repetition of the first, the only notable event being the extremely vivacious impersonation of Nedda in 'Pagliacci' by Frau Fritzy Scheff, but the selections for the third week comprised 'Roméo et Juliette,' 'Lohengrin,' 'Rigoletto,' 'Faust,' 'Die Walküre,' and 'Il Barbiere di Siviglia.' The title-parts in the first-named work were respectively sustained by M. Salignac and Madame Suzanne Adams, and a fresh artist of moderate abilities, M. Fassin, from Brussels, made his debut as Tybalt. As Lohengrin, Herr Anthes confirmed the good impression he had made on his first appearance as Siegfried on the 15th ult., and Frau Knupfer Egli as Elsa also increased the highly favourable opinion she elicited on her appearance in the part on the 14th ult., when she took Madame Bolska's place at short notice. It only remains to add that great improvement has been noticeable in the stage management.

THE 'RING DES NIBELUNGEN' AT COVENT GARDEN.

Performances of the 'Ring' were given at Her Majesty's Theatre in 1882 under the direction of Angelo Neumann, and at that time there were Wagnerites and anti-Wagnerites, the latter preponderating. It was a bold enterprise on the part of the German impresario, and carried out with considerable artistic success; financially, however, it was unsuccessful. The results of the three Cycles given last month at Covent Garden under Dr. Richter's memorable conductorship were, however, satisfactory in every way. Times have changed: the true worshippers of Wagner have mightily increased in number, and in addition the lip worshippers, who invariably follow art-movement when they find it gaining ground; of these some honestly try to like what they do not thoroughly understand, others merely pretend to do so. Neumann sowed the seed; Richter now reaps a fruitful harvest, towards which, however, by the Richter concerts he contributed materially.

The second of the three Covent Garden cycles was the most important, for Ternina was the Brünnhilde, Van Rooy, except in 'Das Rheingold,' the Wotan, Van Dyck the Siegfried, while Krause, if not at all points an ideal Siegfried, deserves very high praise. Mention must be made of Fräulein Fremstadt, who appeared for the first time here last season, but having scarcely recovered from illness did not then render full justice to herself; as Fricka she created a most favourable impression both in her singing and acting. Madame Kirkby Lunn sang the Erda music with skill and dignity, and as Waltraute in the 'Götterdämmerung' she displayed dramatic power. Herr Reiss was the Mime, and his impersonation of the designing dwarf was clever and characteristic. Traces of Ternina's recent illness were at moments perceptible, but they were at once forgotten; her Brünnhilde was unparalleled for heroic grandeur and at times tenderness. The fine new scenery by British artists (Messrs. Harry Brooke, Bruce Smith, Hawes Craven, and W. Telbin) for 'Das Rheingold' and 'Götterdämmerung' was a veritable feast for the eye.

Last, but by no means least, we must refer to the instrumental music. In this Dr. Richter surpassed himself, and the orchestral playing was truly magnificent. The eminent conductor modestly declined to appear before the curtain at the close of the work; but throughout the three Cycles the audience cordially applauded his successive appearances at the conductor's desk.

THE PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

At the fourth concert (at the Queen's Hall, on the 14th ult.) the honours were carried off, in spite of important novelties, by the old masters: Cherubini, represented by his splendid 'Anacreon' Overture, Beethoven by his Symphony in A, and Haydn by his Violoncello Concerto in D. The two orchestral masterpieces were very finely rendered under Dr. Cowen's direction, and the solo part in the Concerto was played with beautiful tone and finish, albeit in too modern a vein, by M. Arnold Földesy. An interesting event of the evening was the first appearance in England as a pianist of Mr. Edward MacDowell, one of the most prominent of American composers and Professor at the Columbia Conservatory, New York. He chose to be heard in his second Concerto (Op. 23), which was first performed in England at the Crystal Palace Saturday Concert of April 7, 1900, with Madame Carreno as soloist. The composition is comparatively an early work and shows the influence of the Fatherland, where Mr. MacDowell received the greater part of his musical education. The most pleasing portion is the middle section, written in rondo form, full of vivacity, and furnished with a highly effective part for the pianoforte. The programme was completed with Mr. Frederic Cliffe's Scena 'The Triumph of Alcestis,' originally produced at the Norwich Festival last autumn, when the vocal part was sung, as at the concert under notice, by Madame Clara Butt and conducted by the composer.

London Concerts, Recitals, &c.

The Handel Society is to be commended for including Sir Hubert Parry's cantata 'A song of darkness and light' at its concert given on the 20th ult., at St. James's Hall, and to be congratulated on the excellence of the performance under the inspiring direction of the composer. Miss Agnes Nicholls sang the soprano solos with charm and brilliancy, and the choral and orchestral portions were rendered with spirit and intelligence. The second part of the evening was devoted to Brahms's 'Academic' overture, Humperdinck's cantata 'Die Wallfahrt nach Kevlaar' and his 'Humoreske' for orchestra, all of which were ably given under the baton of Mr. J. S. Liddle, the Society's conductor.

Mr. Julian Clifford showed greater skill as a pianist than as a composer at his orchestral concert on the 6th ult. at Queen's Hall, his playing in M. Saint-Saëns's Pianoforte Concerto in C minor being distinguished by crispness and delicacy of touch. His most successful composition was an Orchestral Suite in D, a work consisting of four movements of bright character. An orchestral ballad and a Concertstück in E minor for pianoforte and orchestra are praiseworthy achievements, but deficient in originality. Mrs. Julian Clifford sang with taste and refinement, and Dr. Cowen and Mr. Dan Godfrey junr. were the conductors.

Mr. Edward Iles deserves the warmest praise for his vocal recitals of songs by living British composers, for our creative artists receive little encouragement to write music of the highest class. On the 2nd ult., at Bechstein Hall, the afternoon was devoted to the best examples by Dr. Frederic H. Cowen, who played the accompaniments, and on the 15th ult. an excellent selection was made from the 'English Lyrics' of Sir Hubert Parry. Many of these are beautiful, and deserve to be far better known. On this occasion Mr. Iles was assisted by Miss Florence MacNaughton, who is gifted with a fine voice and is a student of the Royal College of Music.

Mr. Josef Holbrooke's programme at his second chamber concert at Steinway Hall on the 7th ult. contained some little-known and interesting music, notably his Quintet for Horn and Strings (Op. 43), in which expressive themes are treated in a terse and musicianly manner. A 'Trio Fantasia' for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello by Mr. Alfred H. Barley also deserves praise for its originality of design, and there was much merit in the Pianoforte Sonata (No. 2, in G minor) by Mr. J. D. Davis.

Dr. Wüllner's weekly vocal recitals during the past month at St. James's and Queen's Halls have been greatly enjoyed by admirers of German Lieder, his singing, although deficient in vocal skill, being always dramatic and instinct with keen perception of subtleties.

Signorina Giulia Ravogli, assisted by Madame Alice Esty and Miss Jenny Taggart, and the Leeds Choral Union, conducted by Mr. Alfred Benton, gave a performance in concert form of Gluck's 'Orfeo' on the 18th ult. at St. James's Hall. The Italian prima donna sang the music of the name part with her wonted intensity, and the choral portions were splendidly rendered by the Leeds choristers, who later in the evening were heard in two sections of Dr. Elgar's 'Songs from the Bavarian Highlands,' and in the finale of Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise.'

The Chaplin Trio at a concert on the 12th ult. at Steinway Hall played for the first time in London a Pianoforte Trio in A minor (Op. 30) by the late Emile Bernard, who died in Paris last year. If the trio is not a great work, it is well written and agreeable music, and excellently interpreted as it was by the Chaplin Trio it gave manifest pleasure. The interest of the evening was enhanced by the singing of Mr. Robert Maitland.

Herr Rudolf Schwintscher concluded a series of four pianoforte recitals at St. James's Hall on the 19th ult. His readings of the classics showed intelligence, but he marred them by indulgence in exaggeration of impassioned passages. On the 12th ult. he brought forward a sonata in C for pianoforte and violoncello in three movements, of which the second, an expressive adagio, based upon a beautiful melody, proved to be the best. The violoncello part was well interpreted by Mr. Herbert Withers.

Mr. Phillip Newbury reappeared in England after eight years' absence on the 5th ult. at Queen's Hall. His remarkably fine tenor voice has been improved by study and experience in Australia, but he has still somewhat to learn in the subtleties of his art.

A very successful debut was made at St. James's Hall on the 4th ult. by Miss Madeline Payne, a young English pianist, for many years a pupil at the Guildhall School of Music and subsequently of Mr. Michael Hambourg. Miss Payne has yet much to learn, but her playing is distinguished by clearness of phrasing and a vivacity that make it engaging. She gave a second recital on the 18th ult. in the presence of a large audience.

Mr. Frederic Lamond, the Scotch pianist, began a series of four pianoforte recitals at the Bechstein Hall on April 24. His programmes were entirely devoted to the masterpieces of Beethoven, whose music he interpreted in a powerful and virile manner, if somewhat lacking in tenderness and charm.

M. Zacharewitsch, a young violinist, created a very favourable impression on his first appearance in England on the 20th ult. at Bechstein Hall. He played with great assurance and brilliancy, and his readings were most intelligent.

Considerable interest was evinced in the first appearance on the 11th ult. of M. Edwin Grasse, a blind violinist, at the Bechstein Hall. He produced a beautiful tone from his instrument, phrased with breadth and clearness, and played with an intensity of expression which seemed to be increased by his affliction.

The East Finchley and Muswell Hill Musical Society gave a performance of Mackenzie's cantata 'The Bride' and C. H. Lloyd's 'Hero and Leander' in the New Lecture Hall, East Finchley, on April 30. These works were creditably given with orchestral accompaniment, under the capable direction of Mr. George R. Ceiley. The solo vocalists were Madame Grace Wike, Mr. Henry Turnpenny, and Mr. Arthur Barlow.

Amongst an enormous number of concerts and recitals may be recorded the violin recitals of M. Kreisler, on the 9th and 15th ult. at St. James's Hall; M. Hoffmann's pianoforte recitals on the 11th and 21st ult. at St. James's Hall; Miss Kingston Neele's concert at the Salle Erard on the 23rd ult.; Mr. Disraeli's vocal recital, 12th ult., Steinway Hall; and Mr. Meux's vocal recital, 13th ult., at Bechstein Hall.

MUSIC IN BELFAST.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

An Irish Harp Festival on the 8th and 9th ult. had probably more interest for the antiquary than the musician. None of the music performed was out of the usual routine of Irish National melodies. Although full of beauty, these tunes do not seem to lend themselves to the developments with which great composers have glorified and idealized the national melodies of Hungary, Bavaria, Russia, &c. Perhaps it is because the great composer capable of making immortal music out of Irish themes has not yet appeared. The principal instrument used was the Irish harp which, considering its limited capabilities, was really wonderfully fine in tone and expression under the delicate touch of Owen Lloyd and Miss Florence Kerin—to name only two of the performers.

Of the Irish pipes the less said the better, save that they are considerably less excruciating than the Scots variety. Real Irish National dances (solo, duo, and quatuor) varied the performance, and the difficult steps and figures executed by graceful young people of both sexes were really very pretty. An interesting feature on this occasion was the fact that most of the numerous Irish harps used were made in Belfast by Mr. McFall, who follows the best models and produces instruments of great power and purity of tone.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Several choral concerts have been given in the suburbs. On April 27 the Selby Hill Choral and Orchestral Society gave a performance of Cowen's 'St. John's Eve' in the Selby Oak Institute. The principals were Miss Rosina Buckmann, Miss K. Brooks, and Messrs. A. H. Quance, T. E. Davis, and A. E. Walker. The chorus was efficient, and a small orchestra, led by Mr. Wilfred Stratton, was reinforced by Mr. Leonard Lyon at the pianoforte. This was the Society's first public essay, and under Mr. Wymark Stratton's careful direction the concert went off well. On April 30 the St. James's Choral Society, Handsworth, gave a concert at the Council House, Soho Road. The programme comprised Harford Lloyd's 'Hero and Leander' and Elgar's 'The Banner of St. George.' The soloists were Miss Aimée Wathen and Mr. Edward J. Lidbury. A miscellaneous selection followed, when the clever young violoncellist Mr. Montague Pollack made his last appearance prior to undergoing a course of study under Professor Becker at Frankfurt. Miss Cleobury was the pianist, Mr. E. H. Melling the organist, and Mr. Franklyn Mountford ably conducted.

On April 27 the first choral rehearsal for the approaching Festival was held in the Masonic Hall. Mr. R. H. Wilson, of Manchester, the new chorus-master, had been engaged for some time in testing and selecting the singers. The veteran bass Mr. William Pountney is once more in the chorus, vigorous as ever. Mr. Wilson had a great reception, and if folk feel a little sore at the small part Birmingham is to play in its own Festival there is a conviction that chorus-master and conductor being in complete accord, no falling off will occur this time in the choral work. Bach's Mass in B minor is the first composition taken in hand.

The fourth annual meeting of the City Choral Society was held on the 4th ult., under the presidency of the Lord Mayor of Birmingham (Alderman H. Rogers). The concerts have yielded a profit, and encouraged by their success the Society propose to include Liszt's 'St. Elisabeth' in their next season's programme.

A notable addition has recently been made to the organs of Birmingham. The Highgate Baptist Chapel has now one of the most up-to-date three-manual organs, by Messrs Ingram, Hope-Jones, and Co. The manual compass extends to five octaves, and all the stops go through. Mr. Hope-Jones gave an explanatory lecture to a large audience, and the next evening Mr. C. W. Perkins, the city organist, gave a recital, displaying the powers of the instrument. The choir assisted, and vocal solos were given by Miss Rosina Buckmann.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Bristol Choral Society gave its last concert for the season on April 25, at Colston Hall, and presented Dr. Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius' and 'Coronation Ode.' Choir and band numbered upwards of 500, Mr. H. Lewis being leader of the orchestra and Mr. G. Herbert Riseley at the organ. The principal vocalists in the former work were Miss Muriel Foster, Mr. W. Green, and Mr. D. Price. In the latter these were joined by Miss Amy Perry. Miss Adela Verne played M. Paderewski's 'Polish Fantasia,' and was well supported by the band. Mr. George Riseley directed a concert which afforded the utmost gratification to the hearers.

The second annual choral festival of the Bristol District Psalmody Association was held in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association on April 29. The Association has a membership of about 400, drawn from choirs at Bath, Frome, Chippenham, Gloucester, and Radstock, in addition to Bristol. Mr. F. Stone conducted the performance, which consisted of anthems and vocal and instrumental solos.

St. John's Choral Society on the 5th ult. gave an interesting concert in the Parish Hall, Redland, under the direction of Mr. A. E. Hill (organist of St. John's Church). The programme comprised Weber's 'Preciosa,' Gade's 'Spring's Message,' and a miscellaneous selection. Miss Edith Evans, Miss Elsie Thomas, Mrs. W. R. Baker, Mrs. E. Linnett, and the Rev. R. M. Wade Smith were the principal vocalists. A small but efficient orchestra was led by Mr. Harold Bernard.

There was a large attendance at Russell Town Congregational Church on the 6th ult., when the Choral Society connected with the district gave a concert. The choral portions of the programme, consisting mainly of choruses from Handel's oratorios, were creditably rendered under the direction of Mr. A. J. Rees. Miss Maude England and Mr. F. Frost contributed sacred songs.

A Festival of parish choirs was held in Bristol Cathedral on the 7th ult., the choirs being in connection with the local Church Choral Union. The building was crowded, as in addition to 500 singers—the collective strength of twenty-two choirs—there was a large general congregation. The conductor was Mr. John Barrett, and Mr. Hubert Hunt was at the organ. The last gathering of the kind (under the auspices of the Bristol Church Choral Union) was held in October, 1898. Since then the movement lay dormant, but it has been revived, and it is intended to make the scheme extend to the whole diocese. The Festival was highly successful, and the anthems chosen were very effective. The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis were sung to settings by Dr. G. M. Garrett; and the anthems were Rea's 'My soul truly waiteth still upon God' and Ouseley's 'It came even to pass.'

The Weston-super-Mare Philharmonic Society, at its concert in the Pavilion at Knightstone on the 14th ult., under the direction of Mr. Edward Cook, of Bristol, gave an excellent rendering of Mr. S. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha.' Miss Edith Evans, Mr. Charles Saunders, and Mr. Montague Worlock were the soloists, and there was an orchestra composed chiefly of Bristol players, with Mr. F. S. Gardner as principal first violin. There were about one hundred and fifty in the choir, and the choruses were delivered with capital effect, with the result that the singing evoked much enthusiasm.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Glee and Madrigal Union on the 2nd ult. gave their second and last concert for this season. The Union was assisted by Miss Jose Florac (soprano), Herr Bast (violinist), and Signor Esposito (solo pianist). Mr. C. W. Wilson played the accompaniments.

On the 6th ult. the University College (Stephen's Green) Choral Society gave a performance of Gadsby's 'Columbus,' under the conductorship of Mr. Robert Dwyer.

The Trinity College Choral Society gave on the 14th ult. a performance of 'Acis and Galatea' and Bridge's 'Forging of the Anchor.' The soloists were Miss Agnes Treacy, Mr. Dan Jones, and Mr. Thomas Marchant. An amateur orchestra lately started in connection with this Society made its debut on this occasion, playing, besides the accompaniments to both works, the B flat Symphony of Haydn, Mr. Charles Marchant conducting.

The Feis Ceoil is noticed separately on p. 405.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The annual concert of Mr. Winram's Pupils' Orchestra, which took place on April 24, can only be characterized as a brilliant success, and as an achievement on the part of the teacher. Obviously a labour of love, no pains, no care is spared in the training of the young string players who form the bulk of the Orchestra, the result being that in quality of tone, beauty of phrasing, unanimity of bowing, and combined dash and delicacy they leave nothing to be desired. The programme included the C minor Symphony of Beethoven, the 'Don Giovanni' and 'Semiramide' Overtures, pieces by Massenet and Brahms, and a charming 'Legend' for orchestra by W. B. Moonie, a young local composer who is doing good work.

Beautiful and excellent in every respect was the performance of Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' in St. Mary's Cathedral on April 28, under the able conductorship of Mr. T. H. Collinson. The choral work was admirable, and showed most painstaking preparation on the part of the talented choirmaster. An excellent orchestra, led by Mr. H. Dambmann, combined with the organ in a fine reading of the accompaniments.

The Edinburgh Sunday Society has issued its balance-sheet, and shows that during the season it has given twenty Sunday evening concerts and band performances. In addition to the harmless pleasure it has afforded to many, the substantial sum of £86 10s. 5d. has been distributed among certain of the most deserving local charities.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The visit on the 8th ult. of the Joachim Quartet under the auspices of the Choral and Orchestral Union was in all respects a complete success. The better to suit the performance of chamber music in St. Andrew's Great Hall, the management had erected the platform in the centre of the room, and the result was entirely satisfactory. Three quartets comprised the programme, viz., Mozart in G major, Brahms in B flat major, and Beethoven in A minor (Op. 132), and while all three were played in that masterly way one expects from such a combination of artists, the Mozart number met with most general acceptance.

THE LATE MR. JULIUS SELIGMANN.

We regret to record the death of Mr. Julius Seligmann, the doyen of the musical profession in Glasgow, which took place on the 4th ult. Mr. Seligmann was the son of a stockbroker in Hamburg, in which city he was born in 1817. His early professional life was spent as a teacher of violin and pianoforte in his native city, and as a member of the Duke of Brunswick's private orchestra. He was also associated with a Musical Festival at Schwerin of which Mendelssohn was conductor. After the great fire in Hamburg in 1842 Mr. Seligmann came to Scotland and settled in Glasgow, where he soon took a leading position as a teacher and conductor. He was the first conductor of the Glasgow Choral Union, and under his baton were given the initial performances of 'Elijah' in Glasgow and Edinburgh. Moreover, he was one of the founders of the Glasgow Society of Musicians, and for fourteen years remained its president. A musician of high attainments and ripe experience, he was also a well-read man in many departments of literature, and the personal charm of his manner and the high tone of his life as a man gained for him not only the affection of his brother musicians, but the respect of the entire community. By his death Glasgow loses one of the few men who can speak at first hand of the early beginnings of musical life in the city. His passing away is mourned by his widow and his only son, Mr. H. A. L. Seligmann, a well-known teacher of singing in Glasgow.

MUSIC IN GLOUCESTER AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Two successful concerts were given in the Stroud Subscription Rooms on April 23 in aid of funds for a new organ in the parish church. A feature of the afternoon performance was the rendering of several part-songs by the Gloucester Orpheus Society, under the direction of Mr. A. Herbert Brewer. Each item was re-demanded. In the evening the Stroud Ladies' Choir, an organization formed by Mr. Tidman, made its first appearance; and on the 5th ult. the choir gave a successful concert. The ladies showed they had been well trained, and as more confidence is acquired we may expect a more ambitious programme.

The last concert of the season of the Gloucester Choral Society was as usual generously arranged for by the president, Mr. Joseph Bennett, and proved a great attraction. The principals were Miss Perceval Allen, Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies, Mr. James Capener (vocalists), and Mr. Tivadar Nachez, Miss Gertrude Ess and Miss Madeline Payne (instrumentalists). The chorus made one very notable contribution to the programme by a most creditable rendering of Bach's seldom-heard cantata (or part of cantata) for eight voices 'Now hath salvation and strength.' It was performed at the special request of the president, and the choir came triumphantly out of the admittedly severe test.

Great praise is due to Tewkesbury in general and to Mr. G. Watson in particular for the good performances of 'Hiawatha's Wedding Feast,' 'Death of Minnehaha,' and 'Hiawatha's Departure' given on April 30 by the Philharmonic Society. The Society is to be congratulated on giving Coleridge-Taylor's work in its entirety. The soloists were Miss Serpell, Mr. Gwilym Richards and Mr. Montague Borwell, and band and chorus numbered eighty performers.

The last concert of the season given by the Cheltenham Philharmonic Society on the 20th ult. was of special interest, because there was performed for the first time in this country a legend entitled 'Christophorus,' by Josef Rheinberger. It is written for soprano, tenor and bass soli, chorus and full orchestra. It proved a pleasing work of no great difficulty, and was very well received. Mr. Phillips, the able and energetic conductor, secured a good performance. At the same concert the orchestra played Mendelssohn's 'Hebrides' Overture and Beethoven's Symphony No. 7; and the programme included selections from Elgar's 'Songs from the Bavarian Highlands' for chorus and orchestra. The concert was certainly the best of the season, and there was a large attendance.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The fourth Annual Festival of the Liverpool Church Choir Association occurred in St. George's Hall on April 28, when the huge auditorium was as usual densely crowded. This admirably-managed organization, with its two-fold objective—firstly, 'to promote the practice and study of standard Church music,' and secondly, 'to hold combined Church choir festivals in St. George's Hall'—has made itself a power in Liverpool, and it is not too much to say that it is beginning to have a far-reaching effect not only in the city churches, but in those of the suburbs and district generally. The chorus, as before, was 650 in number, and the soloists were Master Frederick Ashford (Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, London), Mr. Harold Yates (St. Nicholas Parish Church, Liverpool), Mr. Albert Monaghan and Mr. Wm. Dawson (both of York Minster). The programme contained Haydn's motet 'The Arm of the Lord,' Stainer's Te Deum in E flat, Monks's anthem 'The day is past and over,' the Nicene Creed from Gounod's 'Messe Solennelle,' Stanford's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat, Wesley's beautiful unaccompanied anthem 'O Lord, my God,' and Sullivan's 'Who is like unto Thee?' Mr. H. A. Branscombe is deserving of warm congratulations on the successful accomplishment of his task as conductor. Dr. Peace presided with his usual skill at the organ, while first and second trumpets, tenor and bass trombones and kettledrums were again employed.

The music given in St. George's Hall at the above-mentioned Festival of the Church Choir Association was again sung on the 20th ult. by seven other combined choirs. The conductor was Mr. W. Scott, the organist Mr. T. B. Banks, and the venue Holy Trinity Church Schools, Walton Breck.

The performance under Dr. Richter's direction of Cyril Meir-Scott's 'Heroic' Orchestral Suite No. 2, which occurred in January of last year, induces an interest in any new creation of that young and promising composer, and his incidental music to the recent performance of the Theocritus idyll 'Gorgo and Praxinoë' at University College was marked by considerable art and resourcefulness.

The Liver Choral Society's concert took place on April 23, when the first portion of the programme was given over to a well-balanced performance of Van Bree's cantata 'St. Cecilia's Day,' the soloist being Miss Grace Collins. The chief feature of the second part was a new and pleasing Suite for strings by the Society's conductor, Mr. J. F. Leopold.

A most enjoyable concert was given on the 14th ult. at the College of Music. The chief feature was an admirably blithe performance of Sterndale Bennett's 'May Queen,' with Mrs. Newham, Miss Annie Herriott, Mr. H. Roughton and Mr. William Hopwood as principals, whilst Mr. W. I. Argent conducted with his customary tact. The Birkenhead Glee and Madrigal Society has just concluded a most successful season under the able direction of Mr. Walter Baker. Lately there has been a decided revival in the interest taken in glee-singing in this district.

MUSIC IN NORWICH AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A very pleasant concert was given by the Norwich Philharmonic Society, under the direction of their conductor Dr. Bates, at St. Andrew's Hall on April 30. Mendelssohn's 'Hebrides' Overture and Beethoven's 'Pastoral' Symphony were well rendered, and Miss Ethel Barns and Miss Mary Noverre played Spohr's Concerto No. 2, in B minor, for two violins and orchestra. Mr. Lane Wilson, who made a welcome first appearance in Norwich, was the vocalist.

The last of the popular Saturday organ recitals, under the management of Dr. Bunnett, was held at St. Andrew's Hall on April 25, when the Mayor and Corporation were present, and the Festival Chorus and Philharmonic Society assisted. Dr. Bunnett's 130th Psalm—Mr. H. Sawford Dye singing the tenor solo—was included in the programme. The attendance at these recitals during the past season has been upwards of 20,000 persons, an increase of twenty-five per cent.

The report of the last Norfolk and Norwich Musical Festival was presented at a meeting of the general committee held on the 2nd ult. Notwithstanding the fact of its being Coronation year, an increased attendance was again reported, and the gross receipts exceeded those at any Festival for nearly forty years. The balance (£175) was retained towards the expenses to be incurred prior to the next Festival. The committee are to be commended for including works by no fewer than ten British composers in the programme.

The local musical season concluded with an excellent concert at St. Andrew's Hall on the 11th ult. by Mr. Arthur Bent's Orchestra, mainly composed of lady and gentlemen amateurs, reinforced in the brass and wood-wind department by some London players. Sir Charles Villiers Stanford came expressly to Norwich to conduct his 'Irish' Symphony and Beethoven's Violin Concerto, the solo instrument being played with excellent technique, skill, and refinement by Mr. Arthur Bent. Miss Kate Anderson was the vocalist, and the concert, which ranked as the most enjoyable since the Triennial Festival, concluded with Ponchielli's 'Dance of the Hours.' After the performance Sir Charles Stanford received from the local members of the Orchestra a silver bowl as an acknowledgment of his kindness. Mr. Bent deserves the warmest congratulations for presenting so excellent a programme, and for his services in promoting orchestral music in the district.

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The East Bridgford Choral Society gave a careful performance of Barnby's 'Rebekah' on April 24. The solos were taken by Miss Gertrude Crisp, Mr. Gwilym Richards, and Mr. William Oaksford; Mr. Herbert Oaksford conducted.

The Mansfield Harmonic Society finished their season's work on April 28, when the chief feature of the programme was Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise.' The soloists were Miss Gleeson White, Miss Ethel Meggit and Mr. Seth Hughes. Mr. R. W. Liddle, organist of Southwell Cathedral, conducted. Haydn's 'Creation' was rendered by the Quorn Musical Society on April 29. Miss Florence Smart, Mr. Alfred Page, and Mr. Montague Borwell undertook the solos, and Mr. Vincent Dearden was the conductor.

At Derby on the 5th ult. Mr. Harold Henry's Orchestral Society concluded its eleventh season with a concert in which the members of the orchestra had the assistance of the Duffield Choral Society, by this means considerably enhancing their attractive programme. The orchestral numbers included Beethoven's 'King Stephen' Overture, Bizet's 'L'Arlésienne' Suite, German's 'Nell Gwyn' Overture, and Cowen's 'Language of flowers' Suite. The soloists were Miss Edith Hayes and Mr. Herbert Gammidge, and Mr. Sydney T. Sadler conducted. The choral numbers included 'The Revels,' from Macfarren's 'May-Day,' and Cowen's 'Bridal' Chorus, besides the chorus to 'Land of Hope and Glory,' in which Mr. Gammidge took the solo.

The Workshop Musical Society, under the direction of Mr. Hamilton White, closed its second season with a performance of 'Elijah' on the 7th ult. The soloists were Madame Moulds, Miss Lilian Payne, Mr. Vincent Ward, and Mr. John Browning.

Foreign Notes.

BERLIN.

Dr. Hans Richter, who was invited to take part in the unveiling of the Wagner monument, has written a letter to the committee in which he gives his reasons for declining that invitation. It appears that he is not in sympathy with the scheme; he considers the Festspielhaus at Bayreuth erected by Wagner his real monument; moreover, many details do not meet with his approval. A reply has been sent by the committee expressing a hope that the worthy Doctor will not form any opinion until the details of the inauguration, now being carefully considered, are officially made known. This is not the place to discuss the attitude of Dr. Richter; but it will certainly cause general regret if the eminent conductor who was so closely associated with Wagner, and who directed the first performance of the 'Ring' at Bayreuth, should not be present at the unveiling. Felix Mottl for similar reasons has, it appears, also declined the invitation addressed to him.

BRUNSWICK.

The Litolf publishing firm has recently celebrated the seventy-fifth anniversary of its existence, and at the same time the day on which, fifty years ago, the present proprietor, Th. Litolf, became its head.

BUDAPEST.

The Philharmonic Society here was established in 1853. The first concert, which took place on November 20 of that year, was given under the direction of Franz Erkel, the national Hungarian composer, whose opera 'Hunyady Laszló,' produced in the year 1844, achieved popularity. Wagner's 'Tannhäuser' Overture was performed at the second concert. Many eminent men appeared from time to time as conductors of the Society: Wagner, Liszt, Levi, Goldmark, Strauss, &c. Erkel died in 1893, and his son Alexander, for a time in conjunction with Stefan Kerner, succeeded him, but he died in 1900. At the recent jubilee festival the graves of these musicians were visited, immortelles being placed on them. The festival programmes included a 'Hymn,' a Festal Overture, an Opera by F. Erkel, and a Symphonic Poem, 'Zriny,' specially written for the occasion by Carl Goldmark, and conducted by him; also Beethoven's Choral Symphony.

COPENHAGEN.

The programme of the final concert of the sixty-seventh season of the Musical Union included the choral work 'Dornröslein' by Peter Arnold Heise, a noted composer of vocal music who died in 1879. The cantata in question had not been performed as a whole for twenty years.

Another concert, which took place a few days previously at the Old Fellow Palace, was given for the purpose of raising a fund in order to erect a monument to J. P. E. Hartmann—known in this country as the father-in-law of Gade. Of his music, however, little if any has been performed here. He died in 1900 at the advanced age of 95. The King and royal family, in addition to the Emperor of Germany, were present at the concert. At the last of the Palace concerts—now in their eighth season—a cantata by Lange-Müller was revived.

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN.

The 'Hoch' Conservatorium will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of its foundation on the 20th and 21st of the present month. It was opened in 1878, with Joachim Raff as principal, and with an able teaching staff which included Clara Schumann, Julius Stockhausen, and Bernhard Cossmann. Raff died in 1882, and in the following year the present director, Dr. Bernhard Scholz, assumed office. A festival chorus from his pen is to be performed at the great competition of thirty-four choral societies to be held here in the presence of the Emperor on the 2nd inst.; also the choral setting of the poem 'Siegesgesang nach der Varusschlacht,' by Georg Messner, artillery officer at Breslau, which won the prize.

MANNHEIM.

The festival (April 12-14) given to inaugurate the new Festhalle passed off successfully. The correspondent of the Allgemeine Musik Zeitung, however, complains of the medley of the opening programme. It opened with the 'Meistersinger' Overture, played by the combined orchestras of Mannheim and Carlsruhe, after which two songs by Beethoven and Schubert, fine in themselves, seemed to him out of place, and still more so Liszt's Pianoforte Sonata in B minor, although admirably interpreted by Signor Busoni. At one of the chamber concerts five Lieder by Hugo Wolf were sung by Frau Jeanette Grumbacher-de-Jong and Professor Johannes Messchaert, and their inclusion in the programme was most appropriate, seeing that 'Corregidor,' the opera by the late gifted composer, was produced in Mannheim in 1896.

PARIS.

Edvard Grieg during his recent visit to the French capital conducted his 'Peer Gynt' Suite, No. 1, his cantata 'Vor der Klosterpforte,' and other works at the Colonne concert of April 19. There were a few cries of 'A bas Grieg' from the gallery, a revenge for a somewhat strong statement made a year or two ago by the composer in reference to the Dreyfus affaire, but those cries soon became inaudible in consequence of the cordial applause meted out by the rest of the audience. Composers, as past history shows, would do wisely not to mix politics with music; but the harm done to Grieg in this instance was not serious. He, however, must have taken the hostile cries a little to heart, for in a letter to the manager of the house of Pleyel, in reference to a chamber concert arranged to be given on the 27th ult., he speaks of the joy which he will experience in meeting the Parisian public on a 'scène plus intime après avoir pris contact avec lui au Théâtre du Châtelet.' The Pleyel concert, by-the-way, was very successful.

M. Alfred Bruneau, the composer of 'Le Rêve,' 'L'Attaque du Moulin,' 'Messidor,' and 'L'Ouragan,' has succeeded M. Luigini as conductor at the Opéra-Comique. M. Massenet's 'Werther' continues to draw large audiences. The première of MM. Bisson and Chaumet's 'La petite maison' was expected at the end of the month just elapsed.

The performances of Berlioz's 'Damnation de Faust' commenced at the Théâtre Sarah-Bernhardt on the 7th ult. M. Raoul Gunsbourg, who prepared it for the stage, has divided it into five acts and ten tableaux: La gloire; La foi; Le jeu, la boisson; L'amour païen; L'amour chaste; L'abandon; La nature; La course à l'abîme; Damnation; and Rédemption. M. Pouglin in Le Ménestral describes it as a curious spectacle, but complains that in some of the most effective of the tableaux the ear listens with diminished attention, the eye being so much occupied. Alvarez impersonated Faust, Renaud Méphisphèles, Chalmir Brander, and Madame Calvé Marguerite. Owing to her unfortunate accident however her part was subsequently taken by Mlle. Lafargue.

M. Alexandre Guilmant, the distinguished organist, will again give his historical organ recitals at the Trocadéro Palace every Monday afternoon up to July 20.

WIESBADEN.

The four operas 'Oberon,' 'La Dame Blanche,' 'L'Africaine,' and 'Armide' have been selected for the festival performances which take place on the 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th inst. Special adaptations of these works have been prepared for the theatre here.

Miscellaneous.

The annual meeting of the Tonic Sol-fa College was held in the Queen's Hall on the 11th ult., Mr. W. Johnson Galloway, M.P., presiding. A programme of music was performed by a choir of 400 voices from the Henry Purcell Choral Society, the Northern Polytechnic Institute Choir, the Plaistow and Tate Institute Choral Societies, the South London Choral Association, the West Ham Choral Society, and the West London Choral Association, conducted by Mr. Leonard C. Venables. A choir of boys from St. Saviour's School, Walthamstow, was put through an interesting series of tests, one of which was the singing at first sight of a part-song, in the staff notation, written for the occasion by Mr. W. S. Desborough. The annual holiday course for music teachers will be held at the College Buildings, Earlsam Grove, Forest Gate, from July 13 to August 11.

The accounts of the Norwich Musical Festival held last autumn show a credit balance of £175, which amount is to be kept in hand. The gross receipts are set down as totalling £5,403 6s. 11d.; the payments, £5,228 6s. 11d. Of the latter, the two largest items of expenditure were: to the principal vocal performers, £1,423 16s.; to the orchestral players, £1,138 15s. 9d.; and to the chorus, £463 6s. 3d. The smallest but one item on the debit side of the balance sheet is that of 'musical composers,' who received £47 5s., exactly £9 8s. 6d. more than the doorkeepers and carriage attendants!

Messrs. Bell have in preparation a new Series dealing with the Great Composers, to be uniform with their 'Miniature Series of Painters.' The following volumes have been already arranged: 'Handel,' by Dr. W. H. Cummings; 'Mozart,' by Professor Ebenezer Prout; 'Beethoven,' by Mr. J. S. Shedlock; 'Mendelssohn,' by Mr. Vernon Blackburn; and 'Sullivan,' by Mr. Saxe-Wyndham. The volumes will be illustrated with portraits, facsimiles of MSS., &c., and will deal in a popular manner with the lives and works of the masters.

The annual festival of the Church of England Schools took place at the Crystal Palace on the 16th ult., when Church Sunday School choirs numbering 4,500 children and 500 adults, drawn from 100 London Sunday Schools, gave performances of anthems, hymns, and sacred songs under the direction of Mr. R. J. Mines. Mr. F. W. Belchamber presided at the organ.

The St. James's (Hatcham) Choral Society gave a concert in the National Schools on the 13th ult. under the direction of Mr. A. E. Davies, when Mendelssohn's 'Hear my prayer,' Stainer's 'Daughter of Jairus,' and a miscellaneous selection were performed, including the part-songs 'A Slumber Song,' F. N. Löhr, and 'The Chase,' Edward German.

A meeting has recently been held at Newcastle-on-Tyne to promote a memorial to the late Dr. William Rea, who did so much for music in that city, and to which he devoted the greater part of his life-work (forty years) with unstinted enthusiasm. Mr. J. Dick, 11, Osborne Terrace, Newcastle-on-Tyne, will give all particulars.

Country and Colonial News.

BRIEFLY SUMMARIZED.

AVR.—The third annual Choir Festival Service of the Presbytery Choir Union was held in Mauchline Parish Church on the 16th ult. Sixteen choirs, comprising 300 voices, took part under the direction of Mr. Henry Graves, Mr. J. Doak presiding at the organ. The anthem was Elvey's 'I was glad.'

BARNSTAPLE.—The Musical Festival Society gave two concerts in the Music Hall on April 22. In the afternoon Elgar's 'Coronation Ode' and a Thanksgiving Anthem 'O praise the Lord' by Dr. H. J. Edwards were performed, the last-named work being given for the first time. The composition is described as possessing much interest and variety and the orchestration as masterly, the work in fact of a conscientious and serious musician. This was conducted by the composer, and the 'Ode' by Mr. J. J. Gardiner, who also directed the orchestra in an excellent performance of Grieg's Pianoforte Concerto in A minor, in which Dr. Edwards displayed great ability as the soloist. The vocalists were Madame Sobrino, Miss Jessie King, Mr. Samuel Masters, and Mr. S. J. Bishop. In the evening, Sullivan's 'Martyr of Antioch' was given. A miscellaneous selection included the new 'Pageant March' of Dr. Edwards, who conducted throughout.

BASINGSTOKE.—The Choral Society gave its second concert this season on April 28, when Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' was performed. The band and chorus numbered 120 performers, and the solo vocalists were Miss Beatrice Spencer, Miss May Hayden, Mr. C. Starkey, and Mr. Dalton Baker. Mr. Charles Griffiths led the orchestra, and Mr. H. E. Powell conducted as usual.

BATH.—The Orpheus Society gave their annual concert at the Assembly Rooms on April 27, when the programme included a number of glees and part-songs, among which may be mentioned Stainer's 'Bind my brows,' Abt's 'Ave Maria,' Spofforth's 'Come, bounteous May,' Cooke's 'Strike the lyre,' Horsley's 'Come, gentle Zephyr,' and the dramatic chorus by L. de Rille 'The Martyrs of the Arena.' Miss Amy Simpson, Mr. J. Ellis, Mr. Harrison and Mr. C. T. Marriner contributed vocal solos, and Mr. J. W. Duys violin solos. Mr. H. J. Davis conducted.

BATTLE.—The Choral Society gave its second concert on the 7th ult. at the Drill Hall. The programme included Stanford's 'The Revenge,' of which the chorus, assisted by an efficient orchestra, gave a most spirited rendering; and two part-songs: 'The Vikings,' Eaton Fanning, and 'A Lullaby of Life,' by Henry Leslie. As the Society has been in existence only a few months, this performance reflected much credit on all concerned. The soloists were Miss Elsie Scruby and Mr. F. G. Langham (vocalists), Miss Alice Allwork (violin), and Mrs. Charles Pigott (harp). Mr. Bertram Weller, organist of the parish church, conducted.

BERKELEY.—The Choral Society's second concert of the season was held in the Town Hall on the 6th ult., when 'King Harold' by F. Cunningham Woods was performed, followed by a miscellaneous second part. The solo vocalists were Miss Eveline Gerrish and Mr. C. Eynon-Morgan. The Rev. A. Shankland was solo violin, and Mr. George S. Evans conducted.

BISHOP'S STORTFORD.—The Musical Union gave a performance of Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' on April 29 in the Great Hall. In the singing of the choruses the choir displayed good attack and much enthusiasm. The solo vocalists were Miss Stanley Lucas, Miss Eleanor Druce, Mr. Harry Stubbs and Mr. R. E. Miles, the soprano being especially successful. Mr. A. Eaglefield Hull conducted.

BRUTON.—The Choral Society gave their eighth annual concert on the 9th ult., when the 'Wedding Feast' and the 'Death of Minnehaha' from Coleridge-Taylor's

'Hiawatha' were performed. Both chorus and orchestra acquitted themselves well, and the principal vocalists were Miss Eureka Truscott, Mr. E. T. Morgan, and Mr. F. Aubrey Millward. Miss Heginbotham led the orchestra and Mr. Rowland Hughes conducted.

CALNE.—The Calne Musical Society brought its seventeenth season to a close on the 12th ult. by a most successful performance of Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding Feast' and the 'Death of Minnehaha,' preceded by a short miscellaneous part. The chorus sang vigorously and well. The soprano solos—and, in the absence of a tenor, the air 'Onaway! awake, beloved!'—were entrusted to Miss Clara Smith of the Royal College of Music, who threw herself into the music she had to interpret with highly satisfactory results. Mr. Dan Price gave an excellent rendering of the bass solos, and Mr. J. W. Duys, who ably led the orchestra, played the 'Fantasie Caprice' of Vieuxtemps for violin in excellent style and refinement. Mr. W. R. Pulein is to be congratulated upon the success of the concert and the Society he so ably conducts.

CAPE TOWN.—The programme of Mrs. John T. McKay's popular chamber concert in the Dutch Reformed Hall on April 22 included Weber's Quintet in B flat, Schumann's Etudes Symphoniques, cleverly played by Miss Grace Batchelder (Mrs. W. Deane), Max Bruch's Romanze in A minor for violin by Herr Karl Metzler, and the Andante from Goltermann's A minor Concerto for violoncello by Herr Hans Endler. The vocalists were Miss Agnes Whitehead and Mr. D. Keay.

CHESTERFIELD.—The Orchestral Society presented an interesting programme at their concert in the Stephenson Memorial Hall on April 22, under the able direction of Mr. H. N. Biggin. It included Schubert's Symphony in C major (No. 7), a selection from the 'Flying Dutchman,' Tchaikovsky's 'Danses Caracteristiques' and 'Danse des Mirlitons,' Massenet's 'Dernier Sommeil de la Vierge,' and Sullivan's music to the 'Merchant of Venice.' Madame Marriott was the vocalist and Mr. Percy Such solo violoncello. Mr. J. H. Parker led the orchestra.

ELY.—A very successful rendering of 'Israel in Egypt' took place on the 5th ult. The Cathedral Choir, the Ely Musical Society, in addition to singers from Cambridge and Bury, rendered Handel's music with excellent effect to the accompaniment of a full orchestra. The soloists were Miss Evans, Miss Napier (both from the Royal College of Music), Mr. Read (a remarkably good tenor from Trinity College, Cambridge), and the bass duet was sung by two members of the Cathedral Choir. Dr. A. W. Wilson, organist of the Cathedral, conducted, and Dr. Alan Gray, of Cambridge, rendered valuable assistance at the organ. The work was preceded by a hymn, collects, and a lesson read most impressively by the Dean. The whole arrangements, with which the Precentor, the Rev. J. H. Crosby, had not a little to do, were carried out most satisfactorily.

GRAHAMSTOWN.—Mrs. W. Deane gave an historical recital of pianoforte music in the Town Hall on April 4, when her programme included excerpts from the classical composers extending from Orlando Gibbons, Purcell, and Scarlatti to Liszt, Tchaikovsky and Grieg. The recital was well attended by students and others.

HANLEY.—The Hanley Cauldon Vocal Society gave a concert at the Victoria Hall on the 18th ult., when an interesting programme consisting mainly of part-music was provided. It included 'Hymn to Music,' Dudley Buck, 'The Shepherd's lament,' H. Smart, 'Dim-lit woods,' Brahms, 'Weary wind of the West,' Elgar, 'The Lord is my Shepherd,' H. Smart, 'Dirge of Darthula,' Brahms, 'The river floweth strong,' R. Rogers, and 'So saith my fair,' Marenzio. The interest of this programme was enhanced by the fact that several of these part-songs were the test-pieces in which the choir had won the challenge shield at Morecambe on the 2nd ult. Mr. John James was the skilful conductor.

HERTFORD.—Barnett's 'Ancient Mariner' was performed by the choir and orchestra of the East Herts School of Music, under the able conductorship of Mr. J. L. Gregory, on April 30. The work received a very adequate rendering, and the soloists were Miss Amy Sargent, Miss Lucie Johnstone, Mr. Harry Stubbs, and Mr. R. E. Miles.

HORSHAM.—The Horsham Musical Society gave its last concert of the season on the 13th ult., when Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' was performed in the Assembly Rooms. Miss Maggie Purvis, Madame Himing, Mr. Henry Beaumont, and Mr. Daniel Price were the principal vocalists. The band and chorus numbered 100 performers, and useful assistance was given by Mr. R. Harris at the organ and by Miss Laura Sapey, the accompanist of the Society. Mr. W. M. Quirke was leader of the orchestra, and Mr. A. P. Whitaker conducted.

ILFRACOMBE.—The Choral Society performed Gaul's 'Joan of Arc' at its final concert on the 5th ult. The choir displayed much animation and excellent expression, and the orchestra contributed materially to the success of the performance. The solo vocalists were Miss Eureka Truscott, Mr. Albert Collings and Mr. Kevern Batten. Dr. G. T. Gardiner conducted.

KESWICK.—Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' was excellently performed by the Choral Society in the Pavilion on April 30. Madame Sadler Fogg, Miss Alice Bertenshaw, Mr. William Wild, and Mr. Cuthbert Allan were the principal vocalists, and valuable help was given by Miss Isabel Pope, Miss Constance Banks, Miss Tyson, and Messrs. Hall and Beadle. The leader of the band was Mr. F. W. Schofield, and Mr. P. T. Freeman conducted.

KETTERING.—The Choral Society gave a successful performance of Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' in the Victoria Hall on April 28. The choir sang with much spirit throughout, notably in 'Stone him to death' and 'Rise up, arise,' and there was a complete orchestra augmented professionally by London players. The solo vocalists were Miss Maggie Purvis, Madame Amy Dewhurst, Mr. Henry Brearley, and Mr. Henry Bailey. The conductor, Mr. H. G. Gotch, may be congratulated on the success resulting from his labours.

MINEHEAD.—A Festival Service was held at St. Michael's Parish Church on April 22, when Prout's 'Hundredth Psalm' and 'The Heavens are telling' were sung. There was an orchestra numbering thirty performers, and the choir comprised members of musical bodies in Minehead and Alcombe, including the choirboys of St. Michael's and St. Andrew's churches. Mr. H. T. Gilberthorpe, organist of Dunster Church, presided at the organ, and Mr. Walter Evans, organist of the Parish Church, conducted.

RIPON.—The annual concert of the Ripon and Wakefield Diocesan Training College took place in the Common Room of the College on the 11th ult., when Mozart's 'Requiem' and Cowen's 'Rose Maiden' were sung with full orchestral accompaniment under the direction of Mr. C. H. Moody. The choir—numbering one hundred voices—did brilliant work, and principals and orchestra acquitted themselves with distinction.

SHIFNAL.—The Choral Society gave Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' at the Town Hall on April 20 with a band and chorus of eighty performers. Every credit is due to Mr. Malcolm Alison for the admirable work he has done in training the choir, who sang with much spirit and good expression. The solo vocalists were Miss Alice Porter, Miss Kate Trevor, Mr. T. G. Boulton, and Mr. Frederic Morris, and the orchestra was led by Mr. T. E. Clarke.

STAMFORD.—The recently resuscitated Musical Society gave a performance in the Corn Exchange on the 7th ult. of Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' and Macfarren's 'May Day.' The choir displayed good tone and excellent precision, and there was an efficient orchestra led by Mr. W. H. Burrows. Miss Florence Robinson and Mr. G. F. Sands were the solo vocalists. In the interval Mr. Harold Parsons, the conductor, was presented with a silver-mounted ivory baton as a token of appreciation of his enthusiastic work for the Society.

ST. ALBANS.—The Musical Society associated with the St. Albans Congregational Church gave an excellent performance of Gaul's 'Joan of Arc' on April 23. The singing of the choir reflected great credit on their conductor and trainer, Mr. Gordon Williams, and the solo parts were well sung by Miss Agnes Walker, Mr. W. D. Vincent, and Mr. William Burt. Miss Ethel Buttenshaw presided at the pianoforte, and Mr. R. Thompson at the organ.

STOURBRIDGE.—A new musical society has been formed recently, under the title of 'The Stourbridge Clef Club.' Its main object is to provide for its members concerts at which chamber music shall receive adequate interpretation by competent professional players, and the opening concert was held in March. At the second concert, held in April, the programme was supplied by Mr. De Jong (flute), Mr. Arthur Cooke (pianoforte), Mr. Montague Pollack (violinello), and Mr. Walter Lawley, an excellent tenor. Mr. Arthur Woodall accompanied.

SUTTON.—The 'Occasional' Choir of St. Barnabas' Church gave a creditable rendering of Stainer's Cantata 'The Daughter of Jairus' on April 23, whereby the choir showed the results of their excellent training by Mr. Ernest J. Downer. The soloists were Miss Gattrell, Mr. Ford, and Mr. S. Beaumont. Mr. H. Keynes ably presided at the organ. A concert of chamber music was given in the Public Hall on the 6th ult., when the chief features of interest were a Sonata in MS. for Pianoforte and Violin by Wolstenholme, and a Suite for the same instruments by Eduard Schütt, played by Miss Emmie Lord and Miss Daisy Hansell, who also contributed solos for their respective instruments. Mr. Randell Jackson was the vocalist and Miss Louie Brooks recited.

TIMPERLEY.—The Vocal Society gave their last concert of the season on April 27, when Sterndale Bennett's 'May Queen' and a miscellaneous selection were given. The latter included the part-songs 'O my love's like a red, red rose,' by Dr. G. M. Garrett, and Pinsuti's 'Good-night, beloved'; also the march and chorus from 'Tannhäuser.' The performance was conducted by Mr. Mozart Sheaves.

WINDSOR.—The Windsor and Eton Choral Society gave their second concert of the season at the Albert Institute on the 11th ult., when Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' was performed. The choir sang with spirit throughout, and were efficiently supported by the orchestra consisting of members of the Windsor and Eton Orchestral Society. The solo vocalists were Miss Helen Kirkpatrick, Miss May Hawker, Mr. Wilfred Kearton, and Mr. Campbell McInnes, and the performance was directed by Sir Walter Parratt with his accustomed care and skill.

WORCESTER.—The Musical Society gave their second concert of the season in the Public Hall on April 21, when the prominent features of the programme were Sir Alexander Mackenzie's cantata 'The Bride,' and Dr. Iliffe's choral ballad 'The Power of Song.' The choir sang with much spirit and excellent expression, reflecting great credit on their trainer and conductor, Mr. W. Mann Dyson. A novelty was forthcoming in Mr. Harold Watt's Orchestral Suite in four movements, which was sympathetically performed by the orchestra conducted by the composer. The music is said to contain graceful and pleasing melody, and the Suite is cleverly orchestrated. Madame Siviter and Mr. G. F. Pardoe were the vocalists, and Mr. W. Henry Dyson played the Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso for Violin by Saint-Saëns.

YORK.—Mr. T. Tertius Noble has been presented by the members of the York Symphony Orchestra with an old print of York (framed), Cave's 'History of York,' and Halpenny's 'History of York.' The presentation took place after a rehearsal on the 5th ult., that date being both the conductor's birthday and the fifth anniversary of his founding of the Orchestra.

Answers to Correspondents.

QUIDNUNC.—(1) For glees, not difficult, for two tenors and two basses, try:—'The Chapel' and 'The Sabbath Call' (Kreutzer), 'The long day closes' (Sullivan), 'Maiden, listen' (C. F. Adam), 'Thuringian Volkslied' (Abt), 'Lovely night' (Chwatal), 'The two roses' (Werner), 'Spring's delights' (Müller), 'Come away' (Schäfer), and 'The homeward watch' (Henry Smart). (2) We will endeavour to carry out your suggestion in the matter of the organ specification.

TYMPANIST.—So far as we can discover the orchestral instruments that have entered into the nomenclature of London thoroughfares are the Horn (Horn Park, Lee), the Harp (Harp Lane, Lower Thames Street), and the Triangle, of which there are two, one in Hackney, the other in North Kensington. Trump Street, Cheapside, is the nearest approach to a certain instrument of the brass family.

CUMBRIAN.—The following songs for baritone or bass may meet with your approval:—'The Sword Song' from 'Caractacus' (Elgar); 'English Lyrics,' third and sixth sets (Hubert Parry); 'Don Juan's Serenade' (Tschaiikovsky); 'The Knight's Leap' (Parratt); 'Loyal Death' and 'Unbeloved' (Stainer); 'Rage, thou angry storm' (Benedict); 'Blow, blow, thou winter wind' (Sarjeant).

F. E. S.—Here are some classical songs for a tenor voice:—'Adelaide' (Beethoven); Twelve Songs from the Oratorios (Handel); Twenty Songs for Tenor (Schubert); 'Il mio tesoro' and 'Dalla sua pace' from 'Don Giovanni' (Mozart); 'Lend me your aid,' from 'Irene' (Gounod); 'Onaway! awake beloved!' and 'Sweet evenings come and go, love' (S. Coleridge-Taylor).

C. W. S.—The complete score of Arne's 'Comus' can only be obtained through a second-hand bookseller, but some of the songs have been reprinted in modern editions—especially 'Echoes of olden times,' edited by Miss Mary Carmichael; and Mr. A. H. Brown has arranged the overture for the organ. Two songs, 'By the gaily circling glass,' and 'By dimpled brook' are issued by Messrs. Augener.

J. P.—(1) Each of the first four petitions of the Litany should be sung by priest and choir alternately. (2) No, it is not true that anyone who has passed the degree of Mus. B. can, after the lapse of two years, obtain that of Mus. D. by 'paying £10 and so escape further examination.' What would the Secretary of the Union of Graduates in Music say to the mere thought of such a thing?

KITTY.—The article by Liszt in the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik to which you refer was on Robert Franz, the song composer. He (Franz) published his Albumblatt for pianoforte—his first and only composition for that instrument, as you say—on his seventieth birthday. We will search for the actual date of the article and send it to you.

S. P. D.—(1) See Four Duets for two sopranos (or two tenors), by Cherubini, published by Messrs. Novello. (2) We cannot differentiate between the musical examinations at the various Universities in regard to degrees of difficulty. The difficulty is to get a degree. (3) No antiquarian value; you might be able to dispose of it for sixpence, or less.

REX.—Your old barrel-organ, with the six mechanical figures of wood, the beautifully inlaid case, the mother-of-pearl tablet, which plays eleven tunes, is probably of more interest as a curiosity than value as a marketable commodity. The instrument was doubtless imported from Italy, thus accounting for the Italian and English names upon it, neither of which is known.

F. D.—You are quite right. Strike the G sharp first, and then begin the shake on the A (Chopin's Nocturne in B, Op. 32). As Mr. Dannreuther in his invaluable primer on 'Musical Ornamentation' states: 'Melodic outlines are not to be disturbed.'

MAC.—(1) It is hardly necessary to advise you to act cautiously, but you might spend £100 on 'doing it up' and the thing would then be worth £50. (2) You have not got it quite correctly. It is this: A certain Scotch divine, a Doctor of Divinity, had a fancy for playing the violin; this recreative muse earned him the sobriquet of 'Fiddle, D.D.'

FRANÇOIS.—How could I get good concert engagements? you ask. The initial difficulty is to get any kind of concert engagement of a remunerative kind. Judging from the shoals of concerts given in London the outlook is not very promising, unless one happens to be a Paderewski, a Kubelik, or a Marie Hall.

S. W. H.—(1) As to the best style of organ pedals this is a matter of fancy, organists and organ-builders being divided in opinion on that point. (2) Mr. L. C. Venables's 'Choral and Orchestral Societies' (Curwen) will help you, though the subject of conducting is practical rather than theoretical.

LEEDS.—Slurs (in music) are often used in a very arbitrary manner. In modern publications they are supposed to represent the finesse of phrasing, but, as in the point raised by you (the triplet), there is often a lack of consistency.

S. S.—"Four-and-a-half" is rather young to begin the serious study of music, though much depends on the general health and natural gifts of a child as to the time at which he should be started on his musical career. We assume your question refers to the keyboard instrument.

G. R.—It is advisable, though not absolutely necessary, to use one side of the paper only in writing music intended for publication, as, in cases of urgency, delay is thereby avoided by permitting the MS. to be distributed among double the number of engravers or compositors.

GUILIELMUS.—Damp may turn the keys yellow, therefore it is good to keep the lid of the pianoforte open, if not continually, in order that the keys may be exposed to the air. See a valuable little book issued by Messrs. Broadwood entitled 'Information concerning pianofortes.'

PETER.—The only chance of getting analyses of the works you mention would be to procure the programme-books of the Monday and Saturday Popular Concerts containing them. Perhaps Messrs. Chappell & Co. could supply you upon application to them.

J. W.—The Psalms offer the fullest scope for expressive treatment in the chanting thereof. The expression indications in the Psalter you name should be taken in a general sense, and not be rigidly followed without due regard to the sentiment of a particular verse, or verses.

ONE IN DOUBT.—Strictly speaking, the term Diapason normal is a pitch which gives 435 vibrations at 15° Cent. (59° Fahrenheit) for the A above middle C; but it is rather loosely applied to instruments below the high English pitch without complying with mathematical conditions.

H. G. C.—Batiste's Andante in G was originally composed for the organ, and is easily procurable. The various other forms in which it appears are therefore arrangements, or derangements.

CHORAL.—'The Musical Directory' published by Messrs. Rudall, Carte and Co. is the book you require: its cost would not make serious demands upon your purse.

HISTORICUS.—Mr. Fuller Maitland's 'English Music in the Nineteenth Century' (Grant Richards) will probably be useful to you.

LARGO.—'How to read music' (J. Curwen & Sons) gives a 'pronouncing list' of the names of leading foreign musical composers, performers, and works.

E. J. D.—So far as we can discover there was not any National Anthem in England, or even in Scotland, previous to that in use at the present day.

F. L. B.—See 'A practical treatise on organ building,' by F. E. Robertson (Sampson Low).

AN OLD SUBSCRIBER.—The voice should be rested, and it may be advisable to consult a reliable throat specialist.

F. H.—We have never heard of the method.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., LIMITED.

BARNBY, J.—"Sweet and Low." A Lullaby, arranged for T.T.B.B. (No. 359. "The Orpheus.") 2d.BELL, W. H.—"I loved a lass." Four-part Song. (No. 916. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.BERLIOZ, HECTOR—"Thou must leave Thy lowly dwelling." Chorus, from "L'enfance du Christ." English words by PAUL ENGLAND. (No. 723. The Musical Times.) 1½d.BROOKE, HAROLD L.—"What shall I give thee?" Song for Tenor. The words written by WALTER E. GROGAN. 2s.BUCK, P. C.—"The Lord is King." Anthem, for Bass Solo and Chorus. 3d.BUTTON, H. ELLIOT—"Lo! the day of rest declineth." Anthem, for Soprano Solo and Chorus. (No. 120. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.CHATFIELD, ALFRED—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E flat. 4d.COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—Four Novelletten (Op. 52), for Strings, Tambourine, and Triangle. No. 1 in A. Score, 2s. 6d.; 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello, 6d.; Basso, 6d.; Tambourine and Triangle, 3d.

—Ditto. No. 2 in C. Score, 2s. 6d.; 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello, 6d.; Basso, 6d.; Tambourine and Triangle, 3d.

—Ditto. No. 3 in A minor. Score, 2s. 6d.; 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello, 6d.; Basso, 6d.; Tambourine and Triangle, 3d.

—Ditto. No. 4 in D. Score, 2s. 6d.; 1st Violin, 1s.; 2nd Violin, 1s.; Viola, 1s.; Violoncello, 6d.; Basso, 6d.; Tambourine and Triangle, 3d.

—Valse Bohémienne. For Violin and Pianoforte. (No. 1 of Four Characteristic Waltzes.) 1s. 6d.

—Valse Rustique. For Violin and Pianoforte. (No. 2 of Four Characteristic Waltzes.) 1s. 6d.

—Valse de la Reine. For Violin and Pianoforte. (No. 3 of Four Characteristic Waltzes.) 1s. 6d.

—Valse Mauresque. For Violin and Pianoforte. (No. 4 of Four Characteristic Waltzes.) 1s. 6d.

CRASTON, EDWARD S.—"The Lord ordereth a good man's going." Anthem. 3d.DAVIES, H. WALFORD—Te Deum in G. (Temple Chant Setting.) 2d.

—Benedictus in G. (Temple Chant Setting.) 2d.

—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G. (Temple Chant Setting.) 2d.

DAVIES, R. OSWALD—A Litany for the use of Children. Adapted from A Litany of Loretto, by MARTINI. 1d.D'ARCY, MAY—"Ave Maria." Sacred Song. For Contralto or Baritone. Latin words. 2s.FARRANT, RICHARD—"Hide not Thou Thy face." Anthem for Lent or General Use. Edited by JOHN E. WEST. (No. 123. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.FLETCHER, PERCY E.—"The old year's vision." An Operetta or Cantata for Schools and Classes. The words written by HETTIE M. HAWKINS. Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, 1s. 6d.FORD, THOMAS—"Almighty God, Who hast me brought." Anthem for morning or general use. (No. 122. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.GAUL, A. R.—"The Prince of Peace." Book of words, 5s. per 100.GEEHL, HENRY E.—Polonaise in A minor for Violin and Pianoforte. 2s.GOUNOD, CH.—"I am Alpha and Omega," from "Death and Life." (No. 766. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

HARRISON, S. A.—"God save our Sovereign Lord." Four verses to National Anthem. On card, 1d.HERVEY, ARTHUR—"Youth." A Concert Overture for Full Orchestra. Full Score, 10s. 6d.HOLLOWAY, FRANK—Twelve Hymn Tunes and Twelve Chants. 6d.LIAOFF, A.—Fugue in G minor, from the Pianoforte Works, Op. 3, No. 3. Arranged for Organ by JOHN E. WEST. (No. 67. Organ Arrangements, edited by GEORGE C. MARTIN.) 1s.MASSER, J. T.—Te Deum laudamus in G. 3d.MOFFATT, ALFRED—Twelve Transcriptions, for Two Violins and Pianoforte. In Two Books. Book 1, Nos. 1—6, 2s.; Book 2, Nos. 7—12, 2s.MONK, M. J.—"How dreadful is this place." (No. 124. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.MOZART—Eight Movements from the String Quartets, arranged for Violin (1st to 3rd Position) and Pianoforte (with a 2nd Violin ad lib.). Nos. 1—4. (Book 17. The Junior Violinist, edited by C. EGERTON LOWE.) 2s.—Eight Movements from the String Quartets, arranged for Violin (1st to 3rd Position) and Pianoforte (with a 2nd Violin ad lib.). Nos. 5—8. (Book 18. The Junior Violinist, edited by C. EGERTON LOWE.) 2s.POINTER, JOHN—"I loved a lass, a fair one." Song for Tenor. The words written by GEORGE WITHER. 2s.POWELL, J. BADEN—"Hail! Festal Day," No. 5. For Ascension. Words only, 1s. 6d. per 100.PUBLIC SCHOOL HYMN BOOK.—Edited by a Committee of the Headmasters' Conference. Music Edition, cloth, 3s.; Words only, cloth, 1s. 3d.PULLEIN, JOHN—"Lilian." Four-Part Song. (No. 909. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 132. Contains the following Music in both Notations: "The Song of the Spider." Unison Song, by J. FREDERICK BRIDGE. "Night Song," arranged for S.S.A. (unaccompanied), composed by FRANZ ABT. "Spring" (unaccompanied Two-part Song), by GERSBACH. 1½d.SCHOOL SONGS—Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo; B. Voice parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation. A. B.

No. 744. Now May again. Chorus for S.S.A.A. .. MENDELSSOHN 1½d. 1d.

Book III. Five Trios for S.S.A. (Grade 2), by various composers .. — 4d.

,, 127. Five Four-part Songs (Grade 2), by various composers .. — 4d.

SMITH, BOYTON—Meditation. For Violin (or Violoncello) and Pianoforte. 2s.STANFORD, C. VILLIERS—The Office for the Holy Communion, from the Service in B flat. Full Score, 6s.TONIC SOL-FA SERIES—Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT:—

No. 1315. Phœbe. (No. 6 of Six Elizabethan Pastorals) .. C. V. STANFORD 1d.

,, 1316. I loved a lass .. W. H. BELL 1½d.

,, 1318. Hail, gladdening Light, Evensong Anthem .. GEORGE C. MARTIN 2d.

WEST, JOHN E.—Pastoral Melody and Lament. (No. 311. Original Compositions for the Organ.) 1s.

—Festal Commemoration. (No. 312. Original Compositions for the Organ.) 1s. 6d.

—"Away to the Woodlands." Four-part Song. (No. 724. The Musical Times.) 1½d.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Trinity College, Cambridge (Illustrated)	369
Music at the Royal Academy of Arts	377
William Sterndale Bennett (with Portrait)	379
Occasional Notes	381
The Musical Zeal of a Country Gentleman (with Portrait)	383
Sir Alexander Mackenzie on his Canadian Tour	385
Dr. August Manns	388
Honouring Dr. Coward at Sheffield (with Portrait)	389
The Joachim Quartet (Illustrated)	390
Church and Organ Music	391
A Huge Joke	401
Reviews	401
Obituary	402
Beethoven Festival	402
Morecambe Musical Festival	403
Competitions	404
Feis Ceoil	405
Royal Choral Society	406
Royal Opera	406
'Ring des Nibelungen' at Covent Garden	406
Philharmonic Society	406
London Concerts, Recitals, &c.	407
Music in Belfast	407
Birmingham	408
Bristol and District	408
Dublin	408
Edinburgh	408
Glasgow	409
Gloucester and District	409
Liverpool and District	409
Norwich and District	410
Nottingham and District	410
Foreign Notes	410
Miscellaneous	411
Country and Colonial News	412
Answers to Correspondents	414
Four-Part Song—'Away to the woodlands.'—John E. West	393

TWO extra Supplements are issued with the present number:—

1. Portrait of Professor Thomas Attwood Walmisley, from the portrait in the Royal Academy of Music.
2. Motet, Ave verum (Jesu, Word of God Incarnate), by Edward Elgar.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines
Three Lines
For every additional Line
Half a Column
A Column
A Page

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in their proper positions,
Advertisements for the next issue should reach
the Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.,
NOT LATER than JUNE 22.

Recently Published.

SONATA FOR ORGAN

(No. 2, in D major)

BY

PERCY C. BUCK.

Price Three Shillings.

BREITKOPF AND HÄRTEL, 54, Great Marlborough Street.

W. HENRY THOMAS'S ORGAN RECITAL, at St. George's Church, Tufnell Park, N., on Wednesday,
June 24, at 8 p.m., in aid of Organ Fund, assisted by his Vocal Pupils
Miss Edith Cox and Mr. Frank Virgo. Admission free.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

PUBLISHED ON THE 1ST OF EVERY MONTH. Price 1½d.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, INCLUDING POSTAGE, 2S.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW FOR JUNE

CONTAINS:—

GENERAL NOTES.
ELEMENTARY STATE-AIDED SCHOOLS AND SINGING.
LESSONS ON THE RUDIMENTS OF MUSIC. By W. G. McNAUGHT.
THE HARMONIZATION OF MELODIES IN FOUR VOCAL PARTS. By CUTHBERT HARRIS.
THEORY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
TONIC SOL-FA COLLEGE ANNUAL MEETINGS.
RECENT MUSIC COMPETITIONS.
"O BLITHE NEW-COMER." TONIC SOL-FA COLLEGE SIGHT-TEST.
SIGHT-TESTS USED AT HUNSTANTON AND PONTEFRACT.
EAR-TEST USED AT MORECAMBE.
GIRLS' CLUBS SINGING COMPETITION.
CAPE COLONY SCHOOL CHOIR COMPETITION, 1903.
SCHOOL COMPETITION IN THE UNITED STATES.
"PRINCESS ZARA" AT PERTH.
PERFORMANCE OF "KING BELBOUS" AT BIRKENHEAD.
SECONDARY SCHOOL MUSIC.
MANCHESTER JUVENILE CHORAL FESTIVAL.
SCHOOL CONCERT OF SCOTTISH SONG.
SCHOOL CONCERT LECTURE ON SCHUBERT AND HIS MUSIC.
LIST OF PIECES SELECTED AS TESTS AT RECENT CHILDREN'S COMPETITIONS.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

THE JUNE NUMBER CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC:—

"THE ROSE AND THE BOY." For S.S.A. (Unaccompanied). By WERNER.
"LAY OF THE IMPRISONED HUNTSMAN." Unison Song. By F.
SCHUBERT.
"SWEET SPRING." } Two-part Songs (Unaccompanied).
"FIELD FLOWERS." }

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THERE will shortly be VACANCIES in a CHOIR
SCHOOL in the Country. Board, lodging, and good education free. Boys must have good voices, and be from 10 to 12 years old.
Evelyn, Countess of Craven, Ashdown Park, Shrivvenham.

WANTED, well-trained SOPRANOS and ALTOS.

Thorough knowledge of German indispensable. Write, W. O.
36, Porchester Road, W.

ALTO and TENOR WANTED, for St. Jude's
Upper Chelsea. Salary, £70 per annum. Communicants. Duties light. Letters only, to John Ireland, 62, Limerston St., Chelsea, S.W.

TENOR (£12 a year) WANTED, for Parish Church.
Apply, R. Sinclair, 45, Wimbledon Hill.

CHICHESTER CATHEDRAL.—LAY-VICAR
(Bass) WANTED at once. Applications and testimonials to be sent to F. J. W. Crowe, Esq., Marsden, Chichester, by June 6.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH, Holborn.—There will be a VACANCY for an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER about the end of June. Applications to be sent to The Rector.

WANTED, immediately, first-class TUNER. Permanency for good man. The Thanet Music Stores, Queen Street, Margate.

WANTED, thoroughly efficient REPAIRER. All particulars and references to The Thanet Music Stores, Queen Street, Margate.

ONE, Two, and Three-manual and Pedal
AMERICAN ORGANS at bargain prices for cash. A 70-guinea
ESTAY for 30 guineas; a 120-guinea for 45 guineas; a 400-guinea
3-manual and pedal MASON and HAMLIN. Also several large Organs and Harmoniums by Bell, Smith, Karn, Alexandre, &c., at one-third usual prices. Every instrument fully warranted. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Stagg and Sons, 56, Red Lion Street, Holborn. Established 1867.

SCORING for ORCHESTRA, ARRANGING,
TRANSPOSING, COPYING, LITHOGRAPHING, and all kinds of Musical Work. LANE-FROST, Avonley, Hatcham, London.

FOR SALE.—ALEXANDRE, Copy of MUSTEL,
16 stops, Drawing-room Model, magnificent instrument, perfect condition. No use to owner. £30. Seen by appointment. Evans.
Brook Lea, Ormskirk.

VIOLIN (by FLORENTIUS, pupil of AMATI) for SALE.
Great sacrifice. Apply, M. E., 44, Tantallon Rd., Balham, S.W.

Sung by MISS EDITH EVANS and MADAME AMY DEWHURST, &c.
DIVINE COMPASSION. ED. OXENFORD and J. J. JONES. Price Two Shillings.

"... has composed the music with distinct originality." "To those who like a sacred song well removed from the commonplace,
'Divine Compassion' can be confidently recommended."—Bath Herald.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, Limited.

MODERN-BUILT ORGANS for SALE.—Two Manuals CC to G, and Pedals CCC to F (R.C.O.), £125, complete. Also larger instruments. Apply, EUSTACE INGRAM, Organ Builder, 361, Liverpool Road, N.

ORGAN for SALE.—A small CHAMBER ORGAN, in perfect order, with spotted metal pipes, in a mahogany case. Stopped Diapason, open Diapason, and Principal, with 1½ octaves of pedals enclosed in a Swell. Apply, C. H. Walker, 25, Manchester Street, Manchester Square, London, W.

ORGANS for SALE.—Several well-finished ORGANS, one- and two-manuals, in perfect order, cheap. C. H. Walker—late (32 years) Organist and Choirmaster, St. Mary Magdalen Church, Munster Square—25, Manchester St., London, W.

THREE-MANUAL ORGAN, 26 stops; Two- Manual Organ, 17 stops. Several others, suitable for Church, &c. Special manufacturers of the celebrated Victoria Model Organs, &c., suitable for Mission Churches, Students, &c., with two manuals and full-compass pedals, from 50 guineas. W. E. Richardson and Sons, of London, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

CHURCH ORGANS.—Two fine-toned modern Two-manual ORGANS:—No. 1. Twelve stops, R.C.O. pedals; £150. No. 2. Fourteen stops; handsome oak case, spotted metal pipes; £200. Warranted for ten years. Organist, 24, Endsleigh Gardens, Gordon Square, London, W.C.

CHURCH ORGAN (Two manuals).—Contains eighteen stops, 654 speaking pipes, four couplers, and three composition pedals. Price £160. This organ, now standing in a Parish Church, must be sold at once to make room for large organ now being built. Great bargain. Organist, 24, Endsleigh Gardens, Gordon Square, London, W.C.

ORGAN for SALE.—Two manuals, pedals, and bourdons; 12 stops, CC to G. Williams, 2, St. Jude's Villas, Meeting House Lane, Peckham, S.E. Organs tuned and repaired.

ORGAN (Three-Manual, Reeds), £40. Suitable for chamber or small hall. 26 stops, 5 composition pedals; 4-ft. 6-in. square. J. G., 112, High Street, Camden Town, N.W.

RELIABLE SECOND-HAND ORGANS for SALE. Full particulars and designs on application to Gray and Davison, 6, Pratt Street, London, N.W., Organ Builders to Her late Majesty the Queen and Prince Consort.

ORGANS for SALE or HIRE; or, payable in five years.—Three new superior high-class ORGANS ready for delivery at £150, £200, £260; and Three Second-hand Organs at £20, £35, £60. Price List with specifications for building organs from £100 to £2,000. Alterations, repairs, and tuning. Alfred Monk, Organ Works, 556, Holloway Road.

9 GUINEAS.—AMERICAN ORGAN (list price, 20 guineas), 11 stops, including two knee-stops and the beautiful solo stops, voix celeste and vox humana; two octave couplers, handsome high case; in use about four months; twenty years' warranty; easy terms arranged. Packing and carriage free both ways on approval. Full price paid will be allowed within three years if exchanged for a higher-class instrument. D'Almaine and Co. (established 118 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

DOUBLE-MANUAL TRAYSER HARMONIUM (Walnut Case) for SALE. In splendid condition. 20 stops. Cost £80 when new; now, £20 to immediate purchaser. J. B., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

FOR SALE.—Two Sets of PEDAL OPEN PIPES; also Six One- and Two-Manual ORGANS, from £5. White and Senteance, Grantham.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—ORGANISTS can PRACTISE on the Grand four-manual Organ by WILLIS (blown by hydraulic engines controlled from keyboard) in the Concert Hall of the Hampstead Conservatoire. The Hall is warmed by hot water. Specification of the organ, and terms of practice on application to the Secretary, Hampstead Conservatoire, Swiss Cottage, N.W.

N.B.—The Conservatoire is eight minutes by rail from Baker Street, Metropolitan Railway. Trains every ten minutes.

ORGAN PRACTICE AT HOME.—RUMMENS' Organ Pedal Attachment for Pianos. Norman & Beard, Norwich.

ERARD small BOUDOIR GRAND PIANO.—7 octaves, full trichord. Been only slightly used; condition as new. 45 gns.; list price 165 gns. View at Mr. Fieldwick's, organist of St. John's (Cromer House), Putney.

15 GUINEAS.—PIANO, "DUCHESS" MODEL, by D'ALMAINE, solid iron frames to top, Upright Grand (list price, 30 guineas); full compass, full trichord, French check action, &c.; in handsomely carved case, four feet two inches in height; in use only six months; sent on approval, carriage paid both ways, to any part of the United Kingdom; twenty years' warranty; easy terms arranged; full price paid will be allowed if exchanged for a higher-class instrument within three years. D'Almaine and Co. (established 118 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

GUITAR for SALE (PANORMO, 1835). Apply by letter, enclosing stamped envelope, to E., 21, Wilmington Square, W.C.

EAST HAM URBAN DISTRICT COUNCIL.—LETTING TOWN HALL, &c.—The above-named Council are prepared to receive applications from persons desirous of Hiring the Large Hall or the Minor Hall, at the Town Hall, East Ham, for Bazaars, Concerts, Exhibitions, Balls, &c., for the ensuing season. The Large Hall accommodates 924 persons and the Small Hall about 300.

Any further particulars relating to Fees, &c., can be obtained on application to the undersigned, at the Town Hall, East Ham, E.

By Order,

C. E. WILSON,

Clerk to the Council.

BRADFORD.—For SALE, MUSIC BUSINESS. Stock including Pianos, Sheet Music, Small Goods, Fixtures, Mirrors, &c. About £175, at valuation. No goodwill. Wilson & Co., 176, Manningham Lane, Bradford.

PIANO VAN FOR SALE.—To carry one Upright Piano or Small Grand. Two wheels. Good condition. Cheap. Apply, F. H. & Co., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

AWARDED MEDAL OF HONOUR AT THE INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION, LONDON, 1885.

RUMMENS' ORGAN PEDALS FOR PIANOFORTES

INVALUABLE FOR HOME PRACTICE OF ORGAN MUSIC.

Testimonials from Sir GEORGE MARTIN, Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, and many leading Organists.

For particulars, &c., apply, NORMAN & BEARD, Organ Works, Norwich.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

HUGH SWANTON,

THE LEADING EXPERT IN ORGAN-BLOWING.

APPARATUS FOR BLOWING ORGANS BY WATER GAS, AND ELECTRICITY.

INSTALLATIONS IN OPERATION AT—

St. Paul's Cathedral (London).

Dublin (St. Patrick's Cathedral).

Genoa, Norwich, Llandaff, Dundalk Cathedrals, &c., &c.

CONSULTATIONS FREE.

A DAINY BROCHURE, full of interest and Illustrated, will be forwarded on request.

62, WHITEHORSE STREET, STEPNEY, LONDON, E.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

SHEET MUSIC.

REMAINDER OF STOCK
FOR DISPOSAL.

NO REASONABLE OFFER REFUSED.

STOCKLEY AND SABIN,

123, COLMORE ROW, BIRMINGHAM.

Revised Edition. Price 6s.

PARR'S PSALMODY. 402 Tunes in above 100 Metres; 345 Chants; with various Responses, &c. Being in all 771 Pieces, with Memoirs of the Composers.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ANTHEMS FOR TRINITYTIDE.

I AM ALPHA AND OMEGA

FROM "DEATH AND LIFE."

COMPOSED BY

CH. GOUNOD.

Price Fourpence.

LIGHT OF THE WORLD

FINAL CHORUS FROM THE "LIGHT OF LIFE."

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Threepence.

BEHOLD, GOD IS GREAT

COMPOSED BY

E. W. NAYLOR.

Price Fourpence.

O JOYFUL LIGHT

COMPOSED BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price Fourpence.

I AM ALPHA AND OMEGA

COMPOSED BY

J. VARLEY ROBERTS.

Price Threepence.

COMPLETE LIST.

*Almighty and everlasting God...	...	Gibbons	14d.
Ascribe unto the Lord	...	S. S. Wesley	8d.
Behold, God is great	...	E. W. Naylor	4d.
Beloved, if God so loved us	...	J. Barnby	14d.
Beloved, let us love one another	...	Gerard F. Cobb	14d.
Be ye all of one mind	...	Arthur E. Godfrey	3d.
*Blessed is the man	...	John Goss	4d.
Blessing and glory	...	Boyce	14d.
Blessing, glory	...	Bach	6d.
*God came from Teman	...	C. Steggall	4d.
*God so loved the world	...	Matthew Kingdon	14d.
Grant, O Lord	...	Mozart	14d.
*Hail, gladdening Light	...	J. T. Field	2d.
Hail, gladdening Light	...	G. C. Martin	4d.
He in tears that soweth (S.S.A.) in Key of A	...	F. Hiller	14d.
He in tears that soweth (S.S.A.) in Key of A flat	...	F. Hiller	14d.
*Holy, holy, holy	...	Crotch	3d.
*How goodly are Thy tents	...	F. Ouseley	14d.
*How lovely are Thy dwellings	...	Spohr	14d.
I am Alpha and Omega	...	Ch. Gounod	4d.
*I am Alpha and Omega	...	J. Stainer	14d.
I am Alpha and Omega	...	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
I beheld, and lo!	...	Blow	6d.
I know that the Lord is great	...	F. Ouseley	14d.
I saw the Lord	...	J. Stainer	6d.
I will magnify	...	J. Shaw	3d.
I will sing of Thy power	...	Greene	4d.
*I will sing of Thy power	...	A. Sullivan	14d.
I will sing unto the Lord	...	H. Wareing	3d.
In humble faith	...	G. Garrett	1d.
*In Jewry is God known	...	J. Clarke-Whitfield	14d.
In sweet consent	...	E. H. Thorne	3d.
In the fear of the Lord	...	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
Let the peace of God	...	J. Stainer	4d.
Light of the world	...	E. Elgar	3d.
*Lord of all power and might	...	William Mason	14d.
Ditto (men's voices)	...	J. Barnby	2d.
*Lord, we pray Thee	...	J. Varley Roberts	14d.
O Father blest	...	J. Barnby	3d.
O joyful Light	...	B. Tours	4d.
*O Lord, my trust	...	King Hall	14d.
O taste and see	...	J. Goss	3d.
*O taste and see	...	A. Sullivan	14d.
O taste and see	...	A. H. Mann	3d.
O where shall wisdom be found?	...	Boyce	6d.
Ponder my words, O Lord	...	Arnold D. Culley	14d.
*Praise His awful Name	...	Spohr	2d.
Rejoice in the Lord	...	G. C. Martin	6d.
*See what love hath the Father	...	Mendelssohn	14d.
Sing to the Lord	...	Mendelssohn	8d.
*Stand up and bless	...	J. Goss	4d.
Teach me Thy way	...	W. H. Gladstone	14d.
*The Lord hath been mindful	...	S. S. Wesley	3d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd	...	G. A. Macfarren	14d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd	...	J. Shaw	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion	...	H. Hiles	6d.
Thou shalt shew me the path of life	...	Alan Gray	14d.
We have heard with our ears	...	H. Aldrich	1s.
Whatsoever is born of God	...	H. Oakeley	3d.
Who can comprehend Thee	...	Mozart	3d.

* Anthems marked thus (*) may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CANTIONES SACRÆ

MUSICAL SETTINGS

OF

THE ROMAN LITURGY

EDITED BY

Dom SAMUEL GREGORY OULD

MONK OF THE ORDER OF ST. BENEDICT.

33. ADESTE FIDELES. The complete Text (8 verses), with a Prelude by Dr. F. E. Gladstone, and varied Accompaniments by H. B. Collins, Dom Samuel G. Ould, Sir Walter Parratt, Sir C. Hubert H. Parry, Dr. C. W. Pearce, William Sewell, Dr. A. E. Tozer, and S. P. Waddington 1s.
4. ADORAMUS TE, CHRISTE .. Mozart 2d.
22. ADOREMUS (FOR BENEDICTION) .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.
2. ADOREMUS (MOTET) .. C. W. Pearce 6d.
10. ALMA REDEMPTORIS MATER W. Sewell 2d.
27. AVE MARIS STELLA S. P. Waddington 6d.
11. AVE REGINA CÆLORUM W. Sewell 2d.
36. AVE VERUM .. E. Elgar 2d.
26. BENEDICTA ET VENERABILIS .. F. E. Gladstone 6d.
6. BENEDICTION SERVICE (UNISON) S. Ould 3d.
9. BENEDICTION SERVICE (UNISON) J. E. West 3d.
32. BENEDICTION SERVICE A. Zimmermann 2d.
29. COMPLINE HYMN .. S. Ould 3d.
3. DEUS MISEREATUR .. F. E. Gladstone 6d.
12. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. A. E. Tozer 2d.
30. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. E. Silas 2d.
34. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. Gounod 2d.
17. HÆC DIES .. F. E. Gladstone 3d.
7. HODIE SANCTUS BENEDICTUS P. Phillips 4d.
20. LITANY OF LORETTO .. F. E. Gladstone 6d.
23. MAGNIFICAT IN A .. F. E. Gladstone 8d.
1. MAGNIFICAT IN B FLAT .. E. Silas 6d.
28. MAGNIFICAT IN D .. E. Silas 1s.
31. MAGNIFICAT IN E FLAT .. W. Sewell 4d.
15. MISERERE IN F .. F. E. Gladstone 3d.
16. MISERERE IN F SHARP MINOR F. E. Gladstone 6d.
25. MISERERE (GREGORIAN CHANT) V. Novello 3d.
19. O SALUTARIS HOSTIA .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.
8. REGINA CÆLI .. W. Sewell 2d.
14. RESPONSES AT MASS AND OFFICE .. Harmonized by S. Ould 3d.
35. SALVATOR MUNDI .. Dr. John Blow 4d.
13. SALVE, REGINA .. Schubert 2d.
5. SALVE, REGINA .. W. Sewell 2d.
24. SALVE, REGINA .. R. L. de Pearsall 3d.
18. SALVE, REGINA .. S. P. Waddington 4d.
21. TANTUM ERGO .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.
37. VIRGAM VIRTUTIS TUÆ LEONARDO LEO 4d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE "LUTE" SERIES.

ANTHEMS FOR TRINITYTIDE.

- 124a Almighty God, Who has promised ... H. Elliot Button 1d.
- 124b Grant to us, Lord ... H. Elliot Button 1d.
- *7b Let Thy merciful ears ... A. R. Gaul 14d.
- 22 O God, Who hast prepared ... A. R. Gaul 2d.
- 69 Teach me Thy way ... Frank L. Moir 3d.
- 124c We humbly beseech Thee ... H. Elliott Button 1d.

Those marked thus * are also published in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MUSIC SUITABLE FOR USE AT THE SERVICE OF HOLY MATRIMONY.

ANTHEMS, HYMNS, &c.

	s.	d.
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord ... E. G. Monk	1	6
Blessed are they that fear the Lord ... George Elvey	0	1
Tonic Sol-fa ...	0	1
Except the Lord build the house ... F. A. G. Ouseley	0	6
Father, now Thy grace extending ... Willem Coenen	0	3
Father of Life ... Samuel J. Gilbert	0	3
Father of Life (Hymn) ... Jas. Turle	0	3
Father of Life (Hymn) ... W. Creser	1	6
For the flame of love is as Fire ... A. C. Mackenzie	0	4
Give the King Thy judgments ... S. S. Wesley	0	4
God be merciful unto us ... S. S. Wesley	0	3
Holy Ghost, to earth descending ... Antonin Dvorák	0	4
My God, I thank Thee ... E. H. Lemare	0	3
Now is the earth with God's glory rejoicing (Hymn) J. Stainer	0	1
(Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.)
O God of Grace (Hymn) ... J. Stainer	0	1
(Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.)
O God of Wisdom (Hymn) ... Willem Coenen	0	2
O God, Thou art worthy ... Arthur Sullivan	0	4
Tonic Sol-fa ...	0	1
O Perfect Love (Anthem) ... J. Barnby	0	3
Tonic Sol-fa ...	0	1
Ditto (Arranged as a Two-part Chorus). Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined ...	0	1
Ditto (Hymn) ... J. Barnby	0	1
Ditto (Hymn) ... G. J. Bennett	0	1
Ditto (Anthem) ... H. Elliot Button	0	1
Ditto (Anthem) ... Charles L. Naylor	0	2
Protect them, Almighty. Chorus ... J. Barnby	0	3
The Blessing of the Lord ... A. C. Mackenzie	0	3
The Blessing of the Lord ... J. Frederick Bridge	0	2
The Lord bless you ... J. Barnby	0	3
Tonic Sol-fa ...	0	2
The voice that breathed o'er Eden (Hymn) ... J. B. Dykes	0	1
There was a marriage in Cana of Galilee ... J. Stainer	0	3
The Service for the Solemnization of Holy Matrimony, as used at Westminster Abbey, with a special Anthem composed by J. Frederick Bridge ...	0	6
Music for the Marriage Service. Edited by Rev. J. Baden-Powell	0	2

ORGAN MUSIC.

A Wedding Piece ... A. C. Mackenzie	1	0
Benedictus (A. C. Mackenzie) Arr. by C. Palmer and J. B. Lott	1	6
Bridal Chorus ("Lohengrin," Wagner) ... W. Creser	1	0
Grand March ("Lohengrin," Act III., Wagner) ... W. Creser	1	0
Largo (Handel) ... Arranged by G. C. Martin	1	6
March in "Athalie" (Mendelssohn) Arranged by Ch. Steggall	1	6
March in "Athalie" ... Arranged by W. T. Best	2	0
March in B flat ... E. Silas	1	0
March in "Tannhäuser" (Wagner) ... Arranged by F. Archer	2	0
Nuptial March ... B. Luard Selby	1	0
Processional Wedding March ... Henry R. Bird	1	0
The Bride's March ("Rebekah," J. Barnby, Arr. by James Shaw	1	0
Wedding March ... Composed by W. Creser	1	6
Wedding March (Gounod), No. 1. Arranged by G. C. Martin	2	0
Wedding March, No. 2 ... Charles Gounod	2	0
Wedding March (Mendelssohn) ... Arranged by W. T. Best	2	0
Wedding March ... Arranged by C. E. Willing	1	0

THE VILLAGE ORGANIST.—BOOK 17.

1. Wedding March ... A. Guilmant.
2. Ditto ... Mendelssohn.
3. Bridal Chorus ("Lohengrin") ... Wagner.
4. Be thou faithful ("St. Paul") ... Mendelssohn.
5. Wedding Procession ... H. Hofmann.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

MAGNIFICAT
AND NUNC DIMITTISFROM THE
SERVICE IN B FLATBY
C. VILLIERS STANFORD.

(Op. 10.)

FULL SCORE.

Price Five Shillings.

String Parts, 2s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Organ, 5s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Seventh Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat.

By WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Demy 8vo., price 6d. Tonic Sol-fa, 4d.
Words only, 10s. per 100.

A FLOWER SERVICE

FOR CHILDREN

EDITED BY

F. A. J. HERVEY, M.A.

Containing a short form of Service with the necessary music, a selection of suitable Hymns by the Bishop of Ripon, the Rev. S. Childs Clarke, the Rev. W. St. Hill Bourne, and others, with Tunes specially composed by Sir John Stainer, John E. West, J. H. Maunder, Canon Hervey, a hitherto unpublished tune by Gounod, other tunes by Myles B. Foster, the late Rev. J. B. Dykes, Sir J. Barnby, Dr. G. M. Garrett, &c., and written by the Rev. S. Childs Clarke and set to music by

A LITANY

SIR JOHN STAINER.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

WHAT CAN I GIVE JESUS?

HYMN FOR A CHILDREN'S FLOWER SERVICE

WORDS BY

ARTHUR C. BENSON

MUSIC BY

ARTHUR M. GOODHART.

Price One Penny. Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TEN HYMNS (SET I.)

WITH TUNES

FOR USE IN SCHOOLS AND FOR CHILDREN'S FESTIVALS.
(Suitable also for Flower Services or Sunday School Festivals.)

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR SULLIVAN, JOHN STAINER, GEORGE ELVEY,
A. M. GOODHART, J. H. MAUNDER, and H. D. WETTON.

EDITED BY W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

Staff Notation, price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.

TEN HYMNS (SET II.)

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

G. C. MARTIN, F. H. COWEN, J. LANGRAN, S. SMITH, A. SULLIVAN,
J. STAINER, and OTHERS.

EDITED BY W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

Staff Notation, price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.
Words only, Five Shillings per 100, each Set.

TEN HYMNS (SET III.)

NATIONAL HYMNS AND TUNES FOR CHILDREN'S USE.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

G. C. MARTIN, H. WALFORD DAVIES, J. H. MAUNDER,
J. BARNBY, FREDERICK CLAY, C. HARFORD LLOYD, JOHN E. WEST,
H. DAVAN WETTON, B. TOURS.

EDITED BY W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

The Ten Hymns, complete, price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.
Words only, Three Shillings per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TWO VESPER HYMNS

ON CARDS

Set to Music by H. T. WELCH.

No. 1. GRANT US, LORD, THY PEACE.

No. 2. LORD, WITH HUMBLE HEARTS WE PRAY.

Price One Penny each; Sixpence per Dozen.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Fifth Edition.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in E flat. By ALFRED
J. DYE. Voices only, 3d.; Organ copy, 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES. — "Messiah,"
"Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

THOMAS ATTWOOD WALMISLEY.

SERVICES.

		s.	d.
Te Deum, Jubilate, and Sanctus, in C .. Folio	2	0
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, in C .. „	2	0
Te Deum, Jubilate, Sanctus, Kyrie, Creed, in F .. Folio	4	0
Cantate Domino and Deus misereatur, in F .. „	2	6
Te Deum, Jubilate, and Sanctus, in B flat .. „	3	0
Morning and Evening Service in D .. 8vo	1	6

Or, singly :—

Te Deum, 4d.; Benedictus, 4d.; Kyrie, Nicene Creed, Sanctus, 4d.; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, 4d.

Te Deum, Benedictus, Sanctus, Kyrie, and Creed, in D Folio	3	6
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, in D minor .. 8vo	0	4
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis (double choir), in B flat Folio	2	6
Sanctus, in D; also, Sanctus in A, from Beet- hoven Folio	0	6

ANTHEMS, &c.

Behold, O God, our Defender Folio	1	6
Blessed is he that considereth the poor .. „	1	3
Father of Heaven 8vo	0	3
(Sol-fa, 1½d.)
Hear, O Thou Shepherd of Israel.. .. „	0	4
If the Lord Himself „	0	6
Not unto us, O Lord „	0	1½

(Sol-fa, 1d.)

Welsh Words, 2d. Sol-fa, 1d.

O give thanks unto the Lord Folio	1	9
O God, the King of Glory „	1	0
Ponder my words „	1	0
Praise the Lord 8vo	0	1½
Remember, O Lord „	0	4
The Lord shall comfort Zion Folio	3	6
From all that dwell below the skies. Hymn	8vo	0 1½

PART-SONGS.

Slow, slow, fresh fount „	0	3
Sweete floweres, ye were too faire „	0	1½

(Sol-fa, 1½d.)

SONG.

Chatelar to Mary Queen of Scots „	1	0
---	---	---

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

COMPOSITIONS

BY ALAN GRAY.

CANTATAS.

s. d.

Arethusa „	1	0
A Song of Redemption „	1	6
The Legend of the Rock-buoy Bell „	1	0
The Widow of Zarephath „	2	0

ANTHEMS.

I heard a voice from heaven „	0	1½
O God, Whose nature „	0	1½
The Angel of the Lord „	0	1½
Thou shalt shew me the path of life „	0	1½

PART-SONG.

The rover .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) „	0	1½
--	---	----

SONG.

Eleu Loro ("Where shall the lover rest?") „	2	0
---	---	---

ORGAN.

Fantasia on the ancient melody "O Filii et Filia"	2	6
Fantasia in D minor „	1	6
Four Sonatas complete	10	6
Or, separately: Nos. 1 and 2, each, 2s. 6d.;
Nos. 3 and 4 each	3	6
Three Intermezzi „	1	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE

VILLAGE ORGANIST

A SERIES OF PIECES FOR CHURCH AND GENERAL USE

EDITED BY

F. CUNNINGHAM WOODS.

Book 32.

1. Alla Marcia (C major) „	Myles B. Foster
2. Prayer, from "Rienzi" (B flat major) „	Wagner
3. Moderato Grazioso (G minor) „	H. A. J. Campbell
4. Rondo Minuetto (F major) „	J. Warriner
5. Bourrée (C major) „	Bach
6. Minuet and Trio (G major) „	Cuthbert Harris

Book 33.

1. Minuetto (A minor) „	A. W. Marchant
2. Andante, from "Bilder aus Osten" (B minor) „	Schumann
3. Allegretto Maestoso (C major) „	W. Metcalfe
4. Andante, from Violin Concerto (C major) „	Mendelssohn
5. Allegretto Cantabile (B flat major) „	R. H. Bellairs
6. Marche Solennelle (E minor) „	Schubert

Book 34.

1. Harvest Song (B flat major) „	John E. West
2. Tempo di Minuetto (E flat major) „	Beethoven
3. Andante Semplice (G major) „	Roland Rogers
4. March (C major) „	Schumann
5. Andante con dolcezza (A major) „	Franco Leoni
6. "Here, yet awhile" ("St. Matthew" Passion) (C minor) „	Bach
7. Dona nobis Pacem (G major) „	H. Elliot Button

Price One Shilling each Book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PRODUCED AT THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,
APRIL 30, 1903.

WAR AND PEACE

A SYMPHONIC ODE

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

VOCAL SCORE, PRICE THREE SHILLINGS.

Full Score and Wind Parts, MS. String Parts (in the Press).

THE TIMES.

It was far easier to realize and enjoy the beautiful Ode performed for the first time at the Albert Hall on Thursday night than it is to put into words a record of the impression it made. Sir Hubert Parry's music is always straightforward, vigorous, and masterly in design; but he has seldom given us a work so easy to follow at a first hearing, and yet so intricate in the development of its themes as "War and Peace," an ode set to remarkably fine words. . . . the words and music seem to have grown up together, and the first impression, the musical picture of Hate and Pride, is more definitely produced by the prelude for orchestra than by the words sung by the baritone soloist. . . . The texture of the choral writing is amazingly rich; and in the orchestration—so far as it could be properly heard in the Albert Hall—there are numerous touches of genius, notably a reiterated phrase on the horn in an accompaniment to a beautiful passage, "Out of the reach of cares and fears," occurring in the Dirge.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

Written for a choral society, we naturally find in "War and Peace" a liberal allowance of choral music, each chorus dealing independently with its own particular subject, as also do the solos. So far this is the old fashion, and, in our opinion, the best fashion. . . . His music is always interesting, often beautiful, and effective in a high degree. This fully appears in the "Peace" section where number after number, by directness of expression and freedom from unnecessary complication, carries not only sensuous pleasure but intelligent conviction. . . . The composer excels, as we all know, in elegiac music. He has the touch which calls for tears, and in the present case we are disposed to dwell lovingly upon such tender and sympathetic strains as those of the Dirge, "Out of the reach of cares and fears," of the tenor solo, "After tumult, rest," and of the final ensemble, with its long-drawn and touching ending. For these, and others like them, "War and Peace" will live. They plead an exalted argument in the language of beauty, without which all art is worse than a tinkling cymbal.

PALM MALL GAZETTE.

Let us at the outset give the composer all words of praise, from a general apart from a distinctive and individualized point of view. His libretto is strenuous and full of determination. He does not attempt to write what Matthew Arnold once called "poetical poetry." His is rather the art of the rhetorician, so far as the words are concerned; and we are bound to add that the same point of view steals into his music. That music is, nevertheless, altogether excellent. . . . There is really much genuine emotion in the end of the first chorus, "Strike now." The chorus for female voices, "Be strong, O brothers," is a piece of work that shows Sir Hubert Parry in one of his genuinely exalted moods, in which his really elevated emotion is exactly and precisely related to his profoundly felt technical accomplishment. . . . Later, there was a special note of courageous nobility in the chorus, "Hands together"; the tenor solo, "After tumult, rest," is a peculiarly beautiful number, the end possessing a fine and fresh quality of feeling. Towards the end there was an odd little reminiscence of Gounod, which, however, came to be forgotten in the final chorus, which is in the best sense musically significant and sincerely felt.

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN.

Sir Hubert Parry is a master of contrapuntal forms, and in that direction shows his power, especially in the latter part of his symphonic ode. The orchestration is both delicate and rich in colour, qualities which are at once revealed in the lengthy introduction.

GUARDIAN.

The bass solo in the prologue, descriptive of the fallen angels Pride and Hate, joint authors of war, is a lurid and powerful piece of declamation, and its climax at the words "And all the splendid panoply of war," where the swinging march-tune first bursts upon the ear, is a dramatic touch of the finest quality. Admirably expressive, too, is the contralto solo "Aye, let hate and pride conspire," and it is rich in phrases of eloquent and pathetic beauty. Almost the finest section in the whole work is the Dirge; above a slow-moving figure in the accompaniment the chorus sing a series of solemn diatonic chords, then the soprano voice takes up the lament, and the chorus enter once more with a hymn-like phrase, accompanied by a mysterious figure on the horn, the whole passage being most touching in its manly simplicity. . . . There is a charming melody at the words, "O for that day when all men's hearts shall beat," which in its outline irresistibly recalls the immortal tune which adorns the last pages of "Blest Pair of Sirens," and on it the composer constructs a short fugato with wholly delightful effect. Then the prayer returns, and the words "Grant us thy peace" are softly breathed by alternate quartet and chorus in solemn antiphony. The whole passage is devoid alike of new rhythmic devices and of recondite harmonies, and is a striking instance of the sublime effect that a master hand can produce by the simplest possible means. Speaking of the Ode as a whole, we may point to the striking skill with which the two fundamental motives, in ever varying forms and settings are made to permeate almost every bar of the music, and thus to convey that sense of unity which is so essential to the best works of art.

YORKSHIRE DAILY POST.

The composer has been his own librettist, and while the diction of his poem shows a literary instinct and poetic feeling entitling it to consideration on its own merits, it furnishes also, as might be expected, a fertile and suggestive theme for musical treatment. A very slight acquaintance with Dr. Parry's character enables one to recognise his individuality in the high aspiration towards all that makes for righteousness, and in the love for his fellow men and the optimistic belief in their capacity for goodness that colour the poem. In that it presents a series of moods, even more than a series of pictures, its fitness for a musical setting is obvious. . . . The nobility of thought in this Ode may be imagined, even from this hasty summary of its leading features, and this characteristic seems to be reproduced in the music, which is vigorous and masculine, yet tender and sympathetic, and makes one, after perusing it, eager for an opportunity of hearing the work.

BIRMINGHAM DAILY MAIL.

The Ode opens with a lengthy orchestral intrada, containing the chief leading motive which predominates throughout the work. This prelude lends itself to rich orchestral colouring. . . . The chorus that follows the bass song is for male voices, vigorous and stirring, and of virile power. . . . The section "Comradeship" is expressed in a chorus for female voices of great dramatic intensity, and is finely written. The section of the Dirge is a chorus in four parts, with soprano solo, and here the composer shows his majestic and powerful vein that always characterizes his orchestral accompaniments. The final section of the War, the "Home Coming" is eloquently dealt with in a chorus and soprano solo, "Ring the tidings far and wide," full of varied contrast and impressiveness. The Peace section is preceded by an orchestral prelude, after which there is the tenor solo, "After tumult, rest," a truly lyrical and finely-written number, enhanced by delightful harmonic changes. This is followed by a quartet, "Sing the glories of peace," with important solo passages, constructed in a tuneful and captivating manner. The next number is a choral march, "Forward through the glimmering darkness," one of the most stirring sections of the entire work. . . . The Ode concludes with a chorus and quartet, "Grant us Thy peace," in which eight-part writing strongly figures, the accompaniment being built upon the chief motive of the prelude.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED

AND

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

THE PRINCE OF PEACE

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND
ORCHESTRA

THE WORDS SELECTED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE

AND THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"No man knows better than Mr. Gaul how to write for voices. . . 'Thou art the King of Glory,' a singularly fine chorus, worthy of any composer, living or dead. . . Throughout the work we have spontaneity, elegance, attractiveness, in short, a never-ending charm. This cantata, which completes the octave of Mr. Gaul's cantatas, we hold to be the best. If it prove less popular than the composer's 'The Holy City,' we shall be surprised. Mr. Gaul was engaged on this, his latest work, for about three years, and we believe that all who hear it will agree that the time was very profitably spent."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"In every way worthy the great reputation and experience of its composer. . . Is indeed a work of a very unusual character, and most probably destined to become more popular than any of his other compositions. . . Worthy the study of choral societies of every grade."—North Staffordshire Sentinel.

"Admirably written for the voice, enhanced by charm of rhythm and picturesque accompaniments."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

Vocal Score, paper cover	s. d.
" paper boards	2 6
" scarlet cloth	3 0
Voice Parts, for the use of Choral Societies...	each	4 0
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	1 0
Words only	per 100	5 0

Band Parts (the loan of) on application to the Composer,
Gillott Lodge, Edgbaston.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PATERSON AND SONS,

26, CASTLE STREET, BERNERS STREET, W.

IMPORTANT WORKS FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

BONNY KILMENY

A CANTATA FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

The Words adapted and arranged for the most part from Hogg's
"Queen's Wake" by J. M. C.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

HAMISH MACCUNN.

Staff Notation, 2s. net; Choruses only, Staff Notation, with Piano
Accompaniment, 1s. net. Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. net.

Harmonium Part (in lieu of Wind Instruments), 3s. net.

Words, 3s. per 100. Full Score (MS.). Orchestral Parts (Printed).

THE SOLOS ARE FOR SOPRANO, TENOR, AND BARITONE.

Duration of performance, one hour.

THE STRATHEARN SERIES OF PART-MUSIC

58 Nos. in Staff and in Sol-fa. Includes compositions by H. MACCUNN,
W. A. BARRATT, H. A. LAMBETH, WM. WALLACE, F. PETERSON, & C.

Catalogues, with Contents of above Series, sent free on application.

PATERSON AND SONS.

26, CASTLE ST., BERNERS ST., W.; 27, GEORGE ST., EDINBURGH.

Second Edition.

NARCISSUS AND ECHO

CANTATA FOR CHORUS, SOLI, AND ORCHESTRA

Price 3s.; Choral Parts, 1s. each. Also,

"GOD IS OUR REFUGE" (Ps. 46)

For Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Price 1s.

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN C. SUCH,

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

TUBAL CAIN

BALLAD

FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

CHARLES MACKAY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

THOMAS F. DUNHILL.

(Op. 15.)

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

NOVELLO'S CHEAP EDITION

OF

THE CHORUSES ONLY

OF

CANTATAS, ORATORIOS, AND OPERAS.

BACH.—"Passion" (St. Matthew)	s. d.
BEETHOVEN.—"Mount of Olives"	...	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0 6
		(Tonic Sol-fa)	0 6
BENNETT.—"The May Queen"	...	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1 0
ELGAR.—"King Olaf"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	1 6
— "The Dream of Gerontius"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	1 6
GLUCK.—"Orpheus"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	1 0
GRAUN, C. H.—"The Passion" ("Der Tod Jesu")	1 0
HANDEL.—"Messiah"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0 8
— "Solomon"	1 6
— "Judas Maccabæus"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0 8
— "Saul"	1 0
— "Hercules"	1 0
— "L'Allegro, il Penseroso, ed il Moderato"	1 0
— "Samson"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0 8
HAYDN.—"The Creation"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0 8
— "The Seasons"	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1 0
MACFARREN, G. A.—"May Day"	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0 6
MACKENZIE, A. C.—"The Dream of Jubal"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	1 0
MEDELSSOHN.—"Elijah"	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1 0
— "St. Paul"	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1 0
— "Hymn of Praise" ("Lobgesang")	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0 6
MOZART.—"Twelfth Mass"	0 8
PARRY, C. H. H.—"Judith"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	2 0
— "Job"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	1 6
ROSSINI.—"Stabat Mater"	Paper boards, 1s.)	0 6
SPOHR.—"The Last Judgment"	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0 6
VERDI.—"Il Trovatore"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	1 0
WAGNER.—"The Flying Dutchman"	2 0
— "Tannhäuser"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	1 0
WEBER.—"Der Freischütz"	1 0
— "Preciosa"	0 6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EDUCATION IN ACCORDANCE WITH NATURAL LAW

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE CONSIDERATION OF PARENTS,
TEACHERS AND SOCIAL REFORMERS

BY

CHARLES B. INGHAM.

"This thoughtful little book."—Times.

"A closely-reasoned indictment of existing educational methods. A book which may be studied with advantage by every educated parent."—Daily News.

Price Three Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE JUNIOR VIOLINIST

EDITED BY

C. EGERTON LOWE.

CONTENTS.

Book		S. D.
1.	SEVENTEEN MELODIES. Arranged for the Violin in the First Position, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	I 6
2.	TWELVE MELODIES. Arranged for the Violin in the First Position, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	I 6
3.	TEN MELODIES. Arranged for the Violin in the First Position, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	I 6
4.	ELEVEN MELODIES. Arranged for the Violin in the First Position, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	I 6
5.	SONATA IN C MAJOR (MOZART). For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
6.	EIGHT SONGS WITHOUT WORDS (MENDELSSOHN). Arranged for Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	2 0
7.	SONATA IN F MAJOR (MOZART). For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
8.	PHANTASIESTÜCKE, Op. 73 (SCHUMANN). For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
9.	SONATA IN E MINOR (MOZART). For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
10.	THREE PIECES:—Funeral March, Prelude in E minor, and Waltz in B minor (CHOPIN). Arranged for Violin (First to Fifth Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
11.	THREE ROMANCES, Op. 94 (SCHUMANN). For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
12.	SIX DUETS FOR TWO VIOLINS, Op. 8 (PLEYEL). First Position	I 6
13.	SIX DUETS FOR TWO VIOLINS, Op. 48 (PLEYEL). First to Third Position	I 6
14.	SCALES AND ARPEGGI (C. EGERTON LOWE)	I 6
15.	SIX SONATINAS FOR VIOLIN (WEBER). Nos. 1 to 3. First to Fourth Position	I 6
16.	SIX SONATINAS FOR VIOLIN (WEBER). Nos. 4 to 6. First to Fourth Position	I 6
17.	EIGHT MOVEMENTS, from the String Quartets (MOZART). Arranged for Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte (with 2nd Violin ad lib.). Nos. 1 to 4	2 0
18.	EIGHT MOVEMENTS, from the String Quartets (MOZART). Arranged for Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte (with 2nd Violin ad lib.). Nos. 5 to 8	2 0

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

POLONAISE

IN A MINOR

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

HENRY E. GEEHL.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

ROMANZA

FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

HENRY E. GEEHL.

Price Two Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published. In separate numbers.

THREE DANCES

(In Canon throughout)

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

No. 1. Gavotte No. 2. Minuet No. 3. Waltz.

COMPOSED BY

BATTISON HAYNES.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published. In separate form.

VALSE BOHEMIENNE

(No. 1 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

VALSE RUSTIQUE

(No. 2 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

VALSE DE LA REINE

(No. 3 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

VALSE MAURESQUE

(No. 4 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

Arranged for Violin and Pianoforte by THE COMPOSER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SIX

HIGHLAND DANCES

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

JOHN B. McEWEN.

Price Two Shillings each.

- No.
1. In D minor. $\frac{4}{4}$, Adagio; Vivace; Poco meno mosso.
 2. In F. $\frac{2}{4}$, Allegretto; $\frac{3}{8}$, Poco Adagio.
 3. In D minor. $\frac{6}{8}$, Allegro con molto moto; $\frac{3}{4}$, Meno mosso, un poco rubato.
 4. In D. $\frac{3}{4}$, Andante con molto espressione; $\frac{2}{4}$, Allegro di molto.
 5. In D minor. $\frac{4}{4}$, Allegro molto marcato; Largamente, con gran espressione.
 6. In D. $\frac{4}{4}$, Con moto; Meno mosso, molto espressivo.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED. IN SEPARATE NUMBERS.

SEVEN PIECES

FOR THE PIANOFORTE

- | | |
|-----------------------|--------------------------|
| 1. Si Oiseau j'étais. | 4. Entschwendenes Glück. |
| 2. Dors-tu, ma vie? | 5. Toccata. |
| 3. Poème d'Amour. | 6. Quatrième Impromptu. |
| | 7. Wiegenlied. |

COMPOSED BY

ADOLPHE HENSELT

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

VLADIMIR DE PACHMANN.

Nos. 1, 2, and 7, 1s. 6d. each; Nos. 3, 4, 5, 6, 2s. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE JUNIOR VIOLINIST

Edited by C. EGERTON LOWE.

Book 17.

Nos. 1—4 of

EIGHT MOVEMENTS

FROM THE STRING QUARTETS
OF

MOZART.

ARRANGED FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

(With a 2nd Violin ad lib.)
(First to Third Position).

Price Two Shillings.

Book 18.

Nos. 5—8 of

EIGHT MOVEMENTS

FROM THE STRING QUARTETS
OF

MOZART.

ARRANGED FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

(With a 2nd Violin ad lib.)
(First to Third Position).

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published in Two Books.

TWELVE
TRANSCRIPTIONSFOR
TWO VIOLINS AND PIANOFORTEBY
ALFRED MOFFAT.

CONTENTS.

BOOK I.

Gavotta	Gluck	Lento	Handel
Preludio and Giga	Corelli	Arioso	Siprutini
Song without words	Mendelssohn	Bourrée	Handel
Prayer	Beethoven	Song	Schubert
Gavotta	Léclair	Lento	Gluck
Corrente	Corelli	Menuetto	Haydn

Price 2s. each Book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Auction Rooms, specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers,
7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights.
Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

Just Published.

FOUR NOVELLETEN

FOR STRING ORCHESTRA, TAMBOURINE, AND TRIANGLE

COMPOSED BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

(Op. 52.)

Full Score	each	2s. 6d.
Parts, No. 1	"	2s. 9d.
" No. 2	"	2s. 9d.
" No. 3	"	2s. 9d.
" No. 4	"	4s. 3d.

Arrangements for Violin and Pianoforte, each 2s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EVENTIDE

MELODY

FOR STRINGS AND HARP (Organ or Harmonium ad lib.)

FROM

SUITE IN D MINOR

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE J. BENNETT.

Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	1s. 6d.
Ditto for Organ	1s. 6d.
Score	2s. 6d.
Parts	3s. 3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SUITE ESPAGNOLE

FOR

ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

HENRY E. GEEHL.

String Parts, 6s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SUITE IN F

"LADY RADNOR'S SUITE"

FOR

STRING ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Score, 4s. 6d.; String Parts, 5s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

ORCHESTRAL INTERLUDE

(WITH TENOR SOLO AD LIB.)

MAIDENHOOD AND DREAMS OF LOVE

FROM

"SLEEPING BEAUTY"

COMPOSED BY

F. H. COWEN.

Full Score	5s. 6d.
String Parts	3s. 6d.
Wind Parts	5s. 9d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

VALUABLE VIOLINS.

MESSRS. PUTTICK & SIMPSON'S

NEXT AUCTION SALE

OF

VALUABLE VIOLINS

WILL TAKE PLACE ON

FRIDAY, JUNE 5.

AMATEURS AND OTHERS HAVING SUITABLE SPECIMENS FOR INCLUSION ARE

RESPECTFULLY REQUESTED TO APPLY TO

MESSRS. PUTTICK & SIMPSON,

ESTABLISHED 1794.

47, LEICESTER SQUARE, LONDON, W.C.

NOVELLO'S

MUSIC FOR MILITARY BAND

ARRANGED BY

DAN GODFREY, Jun., GEORGE MILLER, Mus. Bac.,
AND OTHERS.

	s.	d.		s.	d.
BENDALL, WILFRED.—Pas Seul	5	0	HOFMANN, H.—"Kirmess" (Rustic Pictures). Book II.	15	0
COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—Four Characteristic Waltzes ...	15	0	MACKENZIE, A. C.—"Benedictus" (from "Six Pieces for	5	0
COWEN, F. H.—Four English Dances (in the Olden Style) ...	15	0	Violin")	15	0
—Coronation March	10	6	—Ballet Music ("Colomba")	12	0
CRISER, WILLIAM.—Wedding March	3	6	—Courante ("Ravenswood")	3	6
ELGAR, EDWARD.—Chanson de Matin	3	6	—Funeral March ("The Story of Sayid")	5	0
—Chanson de Nuit	3	6	—"The Empire Flag"	5	0
—Imperial March	9	0	MACPHERSON, STEWART.—Orchestral Ballad	15	0
—Mazurka	5	0	MILLER, GEORGE.—Solemn March	3	6
—Sérénade Mauresque	5	0	MOLIQUE.—March ("Abraham")	2	6
—Contrasts (The Gavotte, A.D. 1700 and 1900) ...	5	0	MORLEY, CH.—Emperor Gavotte ("Cornflower") ...	2	6
—Meditation ("Light of Life") (In the Press) ...	5	0	OUSELEY.—March ("St. Polycarp")	7	6
ELVEY, G. J.—Festal March	5	0	POPULAR PART-SONGS	7	6
FANING, EATON.—"The Queen's Song"	7	6	RAMEAU.—Gavotte	4	6
—Song of the Vikings	5	0	ROECKEL, J. L.—Graceful Dance	7	6
FORD, ERNEST.—Grand Valse ("Faust" Ballet) ...	10	6	SIX HYMN TUNES (composed for Commemorations of Queen
—Scène Bacchanale ("Faust" Ballet)	15	0	Victoria's Long Reign)	4	6
GERMAN, EDWARD.—Bourrée and Gigue ("Much Ado about			SMART, HENRY.—Festive March in D	7	6
Nothing")	12	0	SPINDLER, FRITZ.—"Husarenritt"	7	6
—Coronation March ("Henry VIII.")	7	6	SPOHR.—"Calvary" (Selection)	7	6
—Gipsy Suite (Four Characteristic Dances)	15	0	SULLIVAN, A.—"In Memoriam" Overture	10	0
—Harvest Dance (from "The Seasons")	10	0	—Onward, Christian Soldiers	2	6
—Masque (Three Dances from "As you like it" Music) ...	15	0	—Ditto. For Brass Band	2	6
—Overture to "Richard III."	12	0	THREE SACRED PIECES, viz.:—	7	6
—Three Dances ("Henry VIII.")	15	0	"Blessed be the God and Father"	S. S. WESLEY
GLINKA.—Polonaise ("Life for the Czar")	12	0	"O Gladsome Light" ("Golden Legend") A. S. SULLIVAN
GOUNOD.—Judex ("Mors et Vita")	3	0	March ("Occasional Oratorio")	HANDEL
—Ditto. (For Brass Band)	2	0	TSCHAIKOWSKY.—Marche Militaire	15	0
—"Mors et Vita" (Selection)	15	0	WAREING, H. W.—Summergold Gavotte	7	6
—Marche Solennelle	7	6	WENDT, TH.—Air de Ballet with Intermezzo	7	6
—Six Sacred Pieces	10	6	WEST, JOHN E.—Maypole Dance	7	6
—"The Redemption" (Selection)	15	0	—Commemoration March	9	0
HAYNES, BATTISON.—Westwood Gavotte	5	0	ZIMMERMANN, AGNES.—March	7	6
HIGGS, H. M.—"Our Queen" (Quick March)	5	0	SIX CLASSICAL PIECES for SMALL Military Band ...	3	0
HOFMANN, H.—"Kirmess" (Rustic Pictures). Book I.	15	0	THE MILITARY CHURCH PARADE SERVICE BOOK ...	1	0

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY LIMITED

NOW READY.

SELECTED PIANOFORTE STUDIES

PROGRESSIVELY ARRANGED

BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

IN TWO SETS (EIGHT BOOKS).

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

THE present collection of Studies is designed to provide teachers with a short course of Pianoforte Technique adapted to the needs of the average pupil, the intention being to spare the teacher the labour of choosing a sufficiently varied selection from the large mass of material existing, and at the same time to ensure that the different departments of technique shall be undertaken in the order which experience has proved to be the most beneficial.

The Studies are grouped in two Sets, and are so arranged that the different Books in which they are contained may be taken in consecutive order, but pupils who are already further advanced than the elementary stage represented by Set I. may commence at once with Set II., which will be found to be complete in itself, and to illustrate all the essential elements of technique.

Where additional studies are desired, or studies on certain subjects which are not touched upon in this series, the larger collection, published under the title of "Progressive Studies" (from which the present examples have been selected), is of course available.

London, 1903.

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH BOOK.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED, AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

POSTHUMOUS WORKS BY

JOHANNES BRAHMS

ELEVEN CHORAL-PRELUDES
FOR THE ORGAN

(Op. 122)

IN TWO BOOKS.

BOOK I.—Price Four Shillings net.

BOOK II.—Price Four Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORCHESTRAL WORKS

COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

String	Wind	Full
Parts.	Parts.	Score.
s. d.	s. d.	s. d.

BENEDICTUS	1	6	2	0	5	0
"BURNS," 2nd Scotch Rhapsody ...	3	6	6	6	5	0
"COLOMBA," Prelude	2	0	4	9	4	0
Do. Ballet Music and Rustic March	4	0	9	3	10	6
CONCERTO FOR VIOLIN	6	6	10	3	21	0
HIGHLAND BALLAD	2	6	4	0	—	—
"JASON," Intermezzo	2	0	5	3	7	6
"LA BELLE DAME SANS MERCI" ...	5	6	11	9	7	6
"THE LITTLE MINISTER," Overture	4	6	10	0	—	—
Do. Three Dances	4	6	11	0	—	—
Do. Three Dances (Small Orchestra)	4	6	7	0	—	—
"MANFRED," "Astarte"	3	0	—	—	—	—
Do. Pastorale	4	0	—	—	—	—
Do. "The Flight of the Spirits" ...	5	0	—	—	—	—
MORRIS DANCE	2	6	—	—	—	—
PIROCH SUITE (Violin Solo and Orchestra)	6	6	11	6	—	—
PROCESSIONAL MARCH	2	6	—	—	—	—
"RAVENSWOOD" MUSIC (Prelude and 1st,	—	—	—	—	—	—
2nd, and 3rd Entr'actes)	8	6	—	—	—	—
Do. COURANTE (3rd Entr'acte) ...	2	0	6	0	—	—
RHAPSODIE ECOSSAISE (No. 1) ...	3	6	8	0	5	0
"STORY OF SAYID," Solemn March	1	6	3	9	—	—
"TWELFTH NIGHT," Overture ...	6	6	12	0	12	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

FOUR CONCERTI GROSSI

FOR STRINGS

COMPOSED BY

G. F. HANDEL.

No. 1, in B minor.
,, 2, ,, E minor.No. 3, in B flat.
,, 4, ,, A minor.PIANOFORTE TRANSCRIPTION BY
GIUSEPPE MARTUCCI

Price Two Shillings each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

FROM GRIEG TO BRAHMS

STUDIES OF SOME MODERN COMPOSERS
AND THEIR ART

BY

DANIEL GREGORY MASON.

In a series of essays on Grieg, Dvorák, Saint-Saëns, Franck, Tschaiikowsky, and Brahms, Mr. Mason has undertaken to show how each man has brought to his work his own particular temperament and conception of his art, how each has contributed some special quality of expression or beauty to modern music. While the purpose of the book is thus chiefly biographical, the author has considered in an introductory essay, "The Appreciation of Music," and a concluding essay, "The meaning of Music," points of more general interest, such as the process by which music has developed and the place of the art among men's other activities.

Mr. Mason's method is indicated by a sentence in the preface:—"Music may be hard to understand, but musicians are men." So clearly is the human aspect of the subject presented throughout that the book will interest all music-lovers, whether or not they have a technical knowledge of the art. Each essay is accompanied by a portrait of the musician written of and a brief bibliography of those of his works which best illustrate the points touched on in the essay.

Price, cloth, gilt, Six Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE BALLAD OF THE VICTORIA CROSS SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY HAROLD BEGBIE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ALICIA ADÉLAÏDE NEEDHAM.

THREE

SONGS FOR SOLDIERS

No. 1.

Dedicated, by permission, to H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT.
"MIGHT I MARCH THROUGH LIFE AGAIN"

(E. FITZBALL).

In Three Keys.

No. 2.

To Field-Marshal SIR GEORGE S. WHITE, V.C.

"THE GORDONS"

(B. MALCOLM RAMSEY).

In Three Keys.

No. 3.

To EARL ROBERTS, V.C., Commander-in-Chief of the British Army.

"BAD LUCK TO THEIR MARCHING"

(CHARLES LEVER).

In Three Keys.

COMPOSED BY

ALICIA ADÉLAÏDE NEEDHAM.

Price Two Shillings each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

A REVERIE OF THE EAST SONG

FOR SOPRANO OR TENOR

THE POEM WRITTEN BY
OWEN SEAMAN

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW SONGS

BY

JOSEPH H. ADAMS.

MY KINGDOM.

Angel of dreams, in hope's glad paradise—

Rose of the roses, star of all the skies,

Love of my life, till life and love are o'er,

Your heart to be my kingdom evermore:

THE GENTLE SHEPHERD.

Shepherd of the flock, with unchanging love,

Seek thy wandering sheep, weary though the way

Lead them safely home, when afar they roam,

Fondly guard their rest at the close of day.

SUN OF MY SOUL.

Sun of my soul, Thou Saviour dear,

It is not night if Thou be near:

In Keys to suit all voices.

Price Two Shillings each net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

HERE'S A HEALTH UNTO HIS MAJESTY

A NEW VERSION

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

A. PERCEVAL GRAVES

THE MUSIC ARRANGED BY

ALEXANDER C. MACKENZIE.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

A SET OF

SIX LOVE-LYRICS

FOR CONTRALTO OR BARITONE.

No. 1. Gulls in an Aëry Morric

" 2. Geraldine.

" 3. Fill a Glass with Golden Wine.

" 4. The Shadow of Dawn

" 5. The Nightingale and the Rose.

" 6. When you are old.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

W. E. HENLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

WILLIAM H. BELL.

Price Three Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SIX AMERICAN LYRICS

FOR

CONTRALTO OR BARITONE

COMPOSED BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

1. O thou, mine other, stronger part.

2. O praise me not.

3. Her love.

4. The dark eye has left us.

5. O ship, that sailest slowly on.

6. Beat, beat, drums.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Sung by MR. H. PLUNKET GREENE.

ENGLISH LYRICS

SET TO MUSIC BY

C. H. H. PARRY.

SIXTH SET—JUST PUBLISHED.

1. When comes my Gwen E. O. Jones.

2. And yet I love her till I die Anon.

3. Love is a bable Anon.

4. I'm weaving sweet violets .. Alfred P. Graves.

5. At the hour the long day ends .. Alfred P. Graves.

6. Under the Greenwood Tree Shakespeare.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

WHAT SHALL I GIVE THEE?

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
WALTER E. GROGANTHE MUSIC COMPOSED BY HAROLD L. BROOKE.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

NEW SONG

FOR BASS OR BARITONE

BY

JOSEPH H. ADAMS.

THE SPIRIT OF THE STORM

See, how the lightnings flash!

Hark how the thunder crashes!

Over the doomed barque the angry billow dashes!

Vainly for help men pray,

Cowering in wild dismay;

All hope is flown; they sadly own, the mighty deep I sway!

Price Two Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SIX

RUSSIAN SONGS

- | | |
|---|----------------|
| 1. A Ball-room meeting (Count A. Tolstoi) ... | P. Tchaikovsky |
| 2. Regret (D. Rathaus) ... | P. Tchaikovsky |
| 3. Silent Sorrow (A. Koltsov) ... | A. Dargomijsky |
| 4. An Eastern Song (A. Poushkin) ... | A. Dargomijsky |
| 5. A Rose in Autumn (N. Aksakov) ... | M. Balakirev |
| 6. Dearest little Maiden (Folk-Song) ... | A. Dargomijsky |

SELECTED, AND THE WORDS TRANSLATED, BY
ROSA NEWMARCH.

Price Two Shillings net, complete.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS

Book 133.

TWO-PART SONGS

(WITHOUT ACCOMPANIMENT).

CONTENTS.

A Bird Song ...	Roland Rogers
All among the barley ...	Elizabeth Stirling
All seek for rest ...	F. Abt
Autumn woods ...	T. Murby
Bells at eve ...	F. Abt
Come, ever smiling liberty ...	Handel
Come to me, gentle sleep ...	H. W. Schartau
Evening song ...	Mendelssohn
In the distance ...	F. Abt
Joyful echoes ...	L. Streabbog
Playtime's golden hours ...	A. W. Ketelbey
The Bell March ...	J. Brabham
The Fountain ...	H. Elliot Button
The Lord is my Shepherd ...	H. Smart
The Mountaineer ...	A. W. Ketelbey
The Sabbath morn ...	Mendelssohn
Welcome thou, whose deeds conspire ...	Handel
Work and play ...	Myles B. Foster

Price Fourpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Fourpence.

An edition of each piece with accompaniment can be obtained.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW HUMOROUS PART-SONG.

A FROG HE WOULD A-WOOING GO. By

A. B. ALLEN, Composer of "Dickory dock." Price 2d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS.

(EDITED BY W. G. McNAUGHT.)

Just Published.

Book 65.

TEN

OLD ENGLISH SONGS

(GRADE II.)

BY

VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

Where the bee sucks...	Arne
Under the greenwood tree ...	Old English
Joan, to the Maypole...	Old English
Golden slumbers kiss your eyes ...	Old English
Full fathom five (Solo and s.s.a.) ...	Purcell
The children are singing (Two-part Chorus). Arr. by A. M. Wakefield
Spring ...	Arne
The Vicar of Bray ...	17th Century
Begone! dull care ...	17th Century
The three Ravens ...	16th Century

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa (B) Edition, Threepence.

Book 117.

SEVEN

UNISON SONGS

(GRADE II.)

BY

VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

My Dove ...	A. Medley
Violet Land ...	H. S. Roberts
Excelsior! ...	Lindsay
Poor Humpty Dumpty ...	A. Medley
The Bumble Bee's Buzz ...
Will you walk a little faster (Words by Lewis Carroll) R. H. Macdonald
Things of beauty ...	A. C. Mackenzie

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa (B) Edition, Threepence.

Book 127.

FIVE

FOUR-PART SONGS

FOR S.S.A.A.

(GRADE II.)

BY

VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

Where are the swallows ...	H. Hiles
You spotted snakes ...	G. A. Macfarren
Welcome to this place ...	Bishop
Summer Eve ...	Hatton
The Fairies' Song ...	Bishop

Price Ninepence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Fourpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MARCH

ON SCOTCH AIRS

FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO

COMPOSED BY

PERCY E. FLETCHER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TO TEACHERS, L.R.A.M. Candidates, and Others. Recently issued. A book of twelve graded papers in the Theory of Music (and Elementary Harmony), forming a systematic course of preparation invaluable to Examination Candidates. Copies 1s. 3d. post free, from GEORGE FRITCHARD, Mus.B., 13, Park Avenue, Longsight, Manchester.

MUSICAL OPINION (2d.; order everywhere).—
Send 4d. for new number to 35, Shoe Lane, London, E.C.
About 250 cols. interesting Reading and Advertisements. Founded 1876.

PUBLIC SCHOOL HYMN BOOK.

JUST PUBLISHED. IN TWO EDITIONS.
THE PUBLIC SCHOOL HYMN BOOK.

Price, Hymns only, 1s. 3d.
Hymns with Tunes, 3s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Demy 8vo, Cloth, Gilt, 456 pages. Price 5s.

HYMN TUNES AND LITANIES

(276)

COMPOSED BY

REV. J. B. DYKES, MUS. DOC.

COLLECTED FROM VARIOUS SOURCES

INCLUDING

MANY HITHERTO UNPUBLISHED.

EXTRACT FROM INTRODUCTION.

The Rev. J. B. Dykes was well known to most people as a writer of beautiful hymn-tunes, but it will come as a surprise to some to find that he had written such a large number as this volume contains.

On looking through the book one is struck by the many tunes that are known and loved by all religious-minded persons—tunes so successfully wedded to the words, that it would be difficult, if not impossible, to get on without them. . . . They are "on the lips of thousands," and are associated with the most solemn moments of life. But because Dr. Dykes was happy in expressing emotions in a way that was intelligible to the masses, we must not overlook the real difficulty and merit of discovering a musical way to the hearts of men—for not every great composer has been successful with hymn-tunes.

The world is richer for Dr. Dykes's music, and his memory deserves to be loved and honoured by all those who, like himself, strive to follow in the footsteps of the Divine Master.

GEORGE C. MARTIN.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE DREAM OF GERONTIUS

By EDWARD ELGAR.

BOOK OF WORDS

With Analytical and Descriptive Notes and 76 Musical

Examples by

A. J. JAEGER.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

FRANKLIN PETERSON'S Popular Text Books:

ELEMENTS of Music. Seventh Edition. Bound, net 1s.

INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF THEORY. A sequel to the "Elements of Music," and intended to prepare the student for Professor Prout's Series of Theoretical Works. Bound, net 1s. 6d.

PIANIST'S HANDBOOK. A Theoretical Companion to Practice. Two Parts, each bound, net 1s. 6d.

CATECHISM of MUSIC. Bound, net 2s.

AUGENER AND Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

Ebenezer Prout's WORKS ON MUSIC.

Bound, each net, 5s.

HARMONY: Its Theory and Practice. Fifteenth Edition.

COUNTERPOINT: Strict and Free. Seventh Edition.

DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT AND CANON. Third Edition.

FUGUE. Fourth Edition.

FUGAL ANALYSIS. Third Edition.

MUSICAL FORM. Fourth Edition.

APPLIED FORMS. Third Edition.

THE ORCHESTRA.

Vol. I.—"The Technique of the Instruments." Third Edition.

Vol. II.—"Orchestral Combination." Second Edition.

AUGENER AND Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
AKIMENKO.—Elegie. For Violoncello and Piano. Op. 17 net	1	6
—Nocturne. For Horn and Piano. Op. 18	1	6
ARENSKY, A.—4th Suite. For Two Pianofortes (4 hands). Op. 62	11	0
ARTIBOUCHEFF, WIHTOL, LIADOW, RIMSKY-KORSAKOW, SOKOLOV, GLAZOUNOW.—Variations sur un thème russe. For Orchestra:—
Full Score—	net 6	0
Piano. Op. 110	14	0
ASHTON, A.—Sonata (E flat minor). For Piano. Op. 101	2	0
—Romanze and Tarantella. For Piano. Op. 110	5	0
BALAKIREW, M.—Overture, "King Lear." For Orchestra:—
Full Score—	net 5	0
6th Mazurka. For Piano. Op. 110	10	0
—Tyrolienne. For Piano. Op. 110	2	0
—5th Valse. For Piano. Op. 110	4	0
BLUMENFELD, F.—Ballade. For Piano. Op. 34	2	0
BRAHMS, J.—Adagio from Op. 8. For Harmonium and Piano. Op. 110	2	0
BRUNEAU, E.—Quatuor. For Flute, Oboe, Horn, and Piano. Op. 110	10	0
D'AMBROSIO.—Cavatine. For Violin and Piano. Op. 13	3	0
—Novelletten. For Violin and Piano. Op. 16	2	0
—Aubade. For Violin and Piano. Op. 17	4	0
—Rêverie. For Violin and Piano. Op. 18	4	0
DEBUSSY, C.—"La Damoselle elue." For Orchestra:—
Full Score—	net 15	0
DRDLA.—Serenade. For Piano and Violin	25	0
DUBOIS, T.—Thème varié, transcribed for Two Pianofortes (4 hands)	3	0
—Cantilène. For Violin and Horn (or Violoncello), with Piano. Op. 114	5	0
FRANCK, C.—Allegretto from Symphony (D minor). For Violin and Piano. Op. 114	5	0
FRIEDELMANN, C.—Slavische Rhapsodie. For Orchestra. Op. 114	8	0
FRÖBERGER, J. J.—Works for Organ and Piano, edited by GUIDO ADLER:—
Vol. I. 25 Toccatas, 18 Capriccios, 6 Canzonen, 8 Fantasien, 15 Ricercare	14	0
GLIERE, R.—Ballade. For Violoncello and Piano. Op. 4	1	6
GODOWSKY.—50 Studien über die Studien von F. CHOPIN. each, net	2	0
No. 1. Op. 10, No. 1. I. C major (diatonisch).
" 3. Op. 10, No. 2. I. A minor (für die linke Hand allein).
" 4. " " II. A minor (Ignis fatuus).
" 8. Op. 10, No. 5. I. G flat major (Schwarze Tasten).
" 9. " " II. C major (Weisse Tasten).
" 10. " " III. A minor (Tarentella. Weisse Tasten).
" 11. " " IV. A major (Capriccio. Weisse und schwarze Tasten).
" 14. Op. 10, No. 7. I. C major (Toccata).
" 15. " " II. G flat major (Nocturne).
" 16. Op. 10, No. 8. F major.
" 17. Op. 10, No. 9. I. C sharp minor.
" 18. " " II. F minor (Nachahmung von Op. 25, No. 2).
" 19. Op. 10, No. 10. I. D major.
" 21. Op. 10, No. 11. A major (für die linke Hand allein).
" 23. Op. 25, No. 1. I. A flat major (für die linke Hand allein).
" 24. " " II. A flat major (Wie vierhändig).
" 26. Op. 25, No. 2. I. F minor.
" 27. " " II. F minor (Valse).
" 28. " " III. F minor (a) für die rechte Hand; (b) in Oktaven.
" 32. Op. 25, No. 4. F minor (Polonaise).
" 46. Op. posth., No. 3. G major (Menuetto).
" 48. Op. 10, No. 11 and Op. 25, No. 3. F major (2 etuden vereinig).
GOENS, D. VAN.—2nd Concerte. For Violoncello and Piano. Op. 30	8	0
—Cantilène from ditto. For Violoncello and Piano. Op. 30	2	0
—The same. For Violin and Piano. Op. 30	2	0
HANSEN, T.—Sonata. For Cornet and Piano. Op. 18	3	0
HAYDN, J.—Six Trios. Arranged for Flute and Piano by R. TILMETZ. In Two Books	2	0
HOLLANDER.—Sonata. For Piano and Violin. Op. 59	8	0
HOLLANDER, G.—Andante cantabile. For Violin and Piano. Op. 60	4	0
—The same. For Flute and Piano. Op. 60	4	0
JOACHIM, J.—Overture, "Henry IV." Arranged by BRAHMS for Two Pianofortes (4 hands)	24	0
KARBULKA, J.—Trois morceaux. For Piano and Violin. Op. 23. I. Chanson du soir; 2. Mélodie; 3. Gavotte	2	0
KRUG, A.—Idyllen. Five Pieces, for Piano. Op. 118	6	0
KUHLAU, F.—Drei Fantasien. For Flute and Piano. Op. 118	2	0
LALO.—"Arlequin." Esquisse humoristique. For Orchestra:—
Full Score—	net 12	0
LEE UEN, A. VAN.—Polka caractéristique. For Flute and Piano. Op. 3	4	0
LUIGINI.—Elégie. For Piano and Violoncello	6	0
—The same. For Piano, Violin, and Violoncello	2	6
SINDING.—Five Etudes. For Piano. Op. 58:—
Nos. 1, 2, 4, each, net 1s. 9d.; Nos. 3 and 5	1	6

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE RECITAL SERIES

OF

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN

Edited by EDWIN H. LEMARE.

No. 25.

SECOND ANDANTINO IN D FLAT

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

No. 26.

FANTASIA IN F

COMPOSED BY

JOHN FRANCIS BARNETT.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

No. 27.

CANZONA

COMPOSED BY

H. A. WHEELDON.

Price Two Shillings.

No. 28.

ELEGIAC ROMANCE

COMPOSED BY

JOHN IRELAND.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SELECTED AS TEST-PIECE FOR THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS' EXAMINATION FOR FELLOWSHIP.

CHORAL PRELUDE

"ALLEIN GOTT IN DER HÖH SEI EHR"

(In 6-8 time, in G major)

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

J. S. BACH.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

CHANSON D'ÉTÉ

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

YOUTH

A CONCERT OVERTURE FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR HERVEY.

Full Score, 10s. 6d.; String Parts, 6s.; Wind Parts, 17s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW ORGAN COMPOSITION

By DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY.

INTRODUCTION, VARIATIONS, AND FUGUE

ON THE

"ADESTE FIDELES"

FOR THE ORGAN

BY

ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY

(MUS.D., OXON.).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

PASTORAL MELODY

AND LAMENT

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Shilling.

FESTAL COMMEMORATION

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

PRELUDE AND FUGUE VARIATIONS ON THE TUNE "ST. LUKE"

FANTASIA

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

E. H. THORNE.

Price Two Shillings each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE MUSIC STUDENT'S MANUSCRIPT NOTE BOOK

AND

PRACTICE REGISTER

ARRANGED BY

C. EGERTON LOWE.

PREFACE.

This book is intended to meet the convenience of Teachers who wish to record clearly for a pupil's guidance the work to be prepared for each lesson or a series. The column headed "Time" is added for the purpose of indicating the number of minutes to be given to the daily practice of each separate subject. (This column is for the Teacher to fill up.)

A few pages of music paper have been inserted for the purpose of writing out turns, trills, &c., and blank pages have been left at the end on which it is suggested that a list of pieces studied should be kept or other memoranda made. The book will be found suitable for students of any instrument.

Price Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHAPPELL & CO.'S

LATEST BALLAD CONCERT SUCCESSES.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS NET EACH.

MAUDE VALÉRIE WHITE.

"LAND OF THE ALMOND BLOSSOM."
 "APRIL'S LADY."
 "CANZONE DI TAORMINA."
 "SLUMBER SONG" (Buon Riposo).

FLORENCE AYLWARD.

"THE SILENT RIVER."
 "LOVE'S BENEDICTION."
 "BETWEEN THE HEATHER AND THE SEA."

FRANCES ALLITSEN.

"THE SOVEREIGNTY OF GOD."
 "ON THE RIVER."

FRANCO LEONI.

"IN SYMPATHY."
 "THE BIRTH OF MORN" (1s. 6d. net).
 "THE RETORT."

FRANK LAMBERT.

"GOD'S GARDEN."
 "COME CLOSE, BELOVED" (1s. 6d. net).
 "FORETHOUGHT" (1s. 6d. net).
 "O LET ME WEEP" (1s. 6d. net).

HERBERT BUNNING.

"HUMILITY."
 "LOVE'S POWER."

GUY D'HARDELOT.

"BECAUSE."
 "I KNOW A LOVELY GARDEN."
 "AFTERWARDS, LOVE."

TERESA DEL RIEGO.

"LA VIE EST VAIN" (A Song of Life).
 "THE WAKING OF SPRING."
 "WISHES."

NOEL JOHNSON.

"A PROTEST."
 "SPRING FLOWERS."
 "PURPLE PANSIES."

HERMANN LÖHR.

"NELSON'S GONE A-SAILING."
 "SO FAIR A FLOWER."
 "AT SET OF SUN."

GEORGE H. CLUTSAM.

"VANITY FAIR."
 "A CRADLE SONG."
 "RITORNELLO."

PAUL A. RUBENS.

"A CROWN FOR EACH CROSS."

W. H. SQUIRE.

"THE JOLLY SAILOR."

NEW & POPULAR INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

FOUR DANCES ... from "Merrie England." ... By EDWARD GERMAN.
 Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net; Pianoforte Duet, price 3s. net;
 Pianoforte and Violin, price 3s. net.

THREE DANCES ... from "Nell Gwyn." ... By EDWARD GERMAN.
 Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net; Pianoforte Duet, price 3s. net;
 Pianoforte and Violin, price 3s. net.

FLOWER SUITE OF THREE DANCES ... By R. K. BENYON.
 (No. 1. Dance of the Roses. No. 2. Dance of the Pansies. No. 3. Dance of the Daisies.)
 Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net.

SIX MINIATURE DANCES ... By J. M. CAPEL.
 Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net.

TARANTELLA, for the Pianoforte ... By MEREDITH BALL.
 Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net.

RÉPONSE A MANON ... By ERNEST GILLET.
 Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net; Pianoforte and Violin, price 2s. 6d. net.

PENDANT LE BAL, Intermezzo. ... By ERNEST GILLET.
 Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net; Pianoforte and Violin, price 2s. 6d. net.

CHAPPELL & CO., LTD., 50, New Bond St., London, W.
 AND MAY BE HAD OF ALL MUSICSELLERS.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 725.—Vol. 44.
Registered for transmission abroad.

JULY 1, 1903.

Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.
Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC, TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
Patron: HIS MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, K.G.
Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

FORTNIGHTLY CONCERT, Saturday, July 11, at 8.
CHAMBER CONCERT, at St. James's Hall, Thursday, July 23, at 3.
DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES, at Queen's Hall, Friday, July 24,
at 3.
METROPOLITAN EXAMINATION FOR LICENTIATESHIP
(L.R.A.M.). Syllabus now ready.
Prospectus, Entrance Forms, and all further information of—
F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC. PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bart., D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P.

The NEXT TERM will commence on Thursday, September 24.
Entrance Examination, Monday, September 21.
Syllabus and official Entry Forms may be obtained from
FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC. Managed by the Corporation of the City of London.

Principal: WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS, Mus. D., Dub., F.S.A., Hon. R.A.M.
Pupils can enter at any time.

Individual tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. Within three minutes of Ludgate Hill, Fleet Street, and Blackfriars Stations (District Railway).

110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships, giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Fencing, and Opera. Lady superintendent has charge of all ladies attending the school. Prospectus and form of entry free on application to H. SAXE WYNDHAM,
Victoria Embankment, E.C. Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The College Library is open daily from 10 to 5. On Saturdays the College is open from 10 to 1.

Members desiring practice on the College organ may obtain particulars on application.

The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, can be hired for Concerts,
Meetings, &c.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.
Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

ROYAL MANCHESTER COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Patroness: HER MAJESTY QUEEN ALEXANDRA.
President: Sir W. H. HOULDSWORTH, Bart., M.P.
Principal: Dr. ADOLPH BRODSKY.

The New College YEAR opens on Tuesday, September 29.
Candidates apply on a Printed Form, obtainable from the Registrar.
Special Houses of Residence recommended for Students.

Students are required to enter upon a complete Course of Musical Instruction, and are not admitted for a shorter period than one year.
Fee for the year £30, payable in instalments of £10 at the beginning of each term.

The prospectus, with Scholarship information and Diploma Regulations, on application.

STANLEY WITHERS, Registrar.
New Professor of the Pianoforte: Mr. Arthur Friedheim.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in Durham in March (testamur only) and September.
For particulars, with copies of former Examination Papers, apply to the Secretary of Examinations, or to Dr. Armes, Durham.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD

OF THE

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC AND ROYAL COLLEGE OF
MUSIC FOR LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS (SYLLABUS A).
Held annually in March and April at all Centres, and in London and district in November and December also. Entries for the November-December Examinations close October 9, 1903.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS (SYLLABUS B).
Held three times a year—viz., March-April, June-July, and October-November.

Entries for the October-November Examinations close October 7, 1903.

Copies of Syllabus A and B will be sent Post-free on application to the Secretary.

Theory papers set in Local Centre and School Examinations in 1896 to 1902 inclusive, can be obtained on application. Price 3d. per set, per year, Post-free.

The Board gives annually Six Exhibitions tenable for two years.
JAMES MUIR, Secretary.

14, Hanover Square, London, W.
Telegraphic address: "Associa, London."

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Visitor EDWARD ELGAR, Mus. Doc.
Principal GRANVILLE BANTOCK.

SESSION 1902-03.

The Session consists of Autumn Term (September 15 to December 20), Winter Term (January 19 to April 4), Summer Term (April 6 to June 20). Instruction in all branches of music. Students' Choir, Students' Orchestra, Fortnightly Rehearsals, Students' Concerts.

Prospectus and further information may be obtained from
ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

A MAGNIFICENT

FOUR-MANUAL ORGAN FOR SALE.

BEEN BUILT FIVE YEARS.

TUBULAR PNEUMATIC ACTION THROUGHOUT.
WOULD SUIT LARGE CHURCH OR HALL.

SPECIFICATION:—

CHOIR.		SWELL (continued).
Dulciana.	} grooved.	Stopped Diapason.	} grooved.
Viola.		Voix Celeste
Lieblich Gedact		Salicional
Clarabella		Gemshorn.
Bassoon.		Piccolo.
Flute.		Mixture, 3 ranks.
Piccolo.		Contra Fagotto, 16 ft.
GREAT.		CORNEOPEAN.
Double Open Diapason, 16 ft.		Oboe.
(1) Open Diapason.		Clarion.
(2) Open Diapason.		Tremulant.
Gamba.		SOLO.
Stopped Diapason.		Tuba, 9-inch pressure.
Principal.		Vox Humana.
Flute.		Harmonic Flute.
Fifteenth.		Clarinet.
Mixture, 3 ranks.		Tremulant.
Contra Posaune, 16 ft.		PEDALS.
Trumpet.		Bourdon.
Clarion.		Open Diapason.
SWELL.		Bass Flute.
Lieblich Bourdon, 16 ft.		Violoncello.
Open Diapason.		Sub Bass.
Violin Diapason.		Bombard.

There are nine couplers and six pneumatic composition pistons.
The case is of oak.

Price as it stands, £800; or, £900 re-erected—exclusive of carriage.
Apply, Carew, Woolhanger Manor, Parracombe, North Devon.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

LONDON.

(Under the direction of The Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)
INCORPORATED 1891.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

President: THE MOST HON. THE MARQUIS OF ANGLESEY.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L. (Principal).

GEORGE PRIOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon. (Registrar).

J. M. BENTLEY, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M. (Chairman).

W. E. THOMAS, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

CHARLES R. FISHER, Mus. Doc., F.G.C.M.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W. Terms moderate.

Director of Studies: CHURCHILL SIBLEY, Mus.D.

POSTAL CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS

(THEORETICAL).

Lessons in preparation for the College Diplomas of A.Mus.V.C.M., L.Mus.V.C.M., and F.V.C.M. (Theory), to students unable to attend personally, are given at the rate of £1 11s. 6d. per term (prepaid), the course including all subjects required for these diplomas respectively.

Special preparation for Degrees in Music, including Matriculation subjects.

Metropolitan Examinations in all subjects, including the Diplomas of A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., also for the Teachers' Professional Diploma in the Art of Teaching, July, 1903.

Local Theoretical Examination, July 2, 1903.

Practical Examinations are now being held at the various Centres.

Holder of the Victoria College Vocal Scholarship, 1901: Miss Lotti L. Wakelin, L.R.A.M.; 1902, Miss Audrey Willows, L.V.C.M. Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for competition.

Local Secretaries required for towns not represented.

All communications to be addressed as usual to the Central Office,

11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

President: The Very Rev. FRANCIS PIGOU, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examination, in June and July, 1903, at the following Centres: London, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow, and Belfast.

Annual Membership Subscription, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.

Free register for Organists requiring appointments.

For new Calendar and further particulars, apply to

Dr. LEWIS, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

NATIONAL CONSERVATOIRE

INST., 1895. OF MUSIC, LTD. INCOR., 1900.

174, WARDOUR STREET, W.

Board of Examiners:

Warden: Professor ALEXANDER PHIPPS, Mus. Bac.

CHARLES CHAMBERS, Mus. Doc., Cantab. JACQUES HAAMMAN.

TITO MATTEI. T. W. HAYDOCK, Mus. Doc.

J. W. JACKSON, Mus.D., F.R.C.O. D. C. JONES, Mus.D., F.R.C.O.

H. J. HENNIKER, Mus.D., Cantab. RALPH HORNER, Mus.D., Dunelm.

D. J. JENNINGS, Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O. G. HAVELOCK, Mus. Doc.

The LOCAL EXAMINATIONS are of practical and educational utility, by which both Pupils and Teachers derive much valuable information, and are an incentive to the progress of Students.

The PROFESSIONAL DIPLOMAS are of a high standard, and a guarantee of qualification (either as a Teacher or Performer).

Next EXAMINATION (all Towns), July and September. Medals awarded.

Syllabus for Diplomas (Associate, Lic., and Fellow), apply, Registrar.

APOLLO PIANO PLAYER.THE POPE AND THE APOLLO.

The following letter has been received from the Apollo Company, Ltd.:—

To the Editor of THE MUSICAL TIMES, Ltd.

DEAR SIR,—On June 7th, our Mr. C. H. Wagener, Director-General of the Apollo Companies, New York, Boston, and Chicago, in conjunction with Mr. Spencer Lorraine, Managing Director of the Apollo Co., London, had a private audience with His Holiness Pope Leo XIII., in his apartments at the Vatican, on which occasion an Apollo attached to a Melville Clark Piano was played before His Holiness and a number of Church dignitaries. The Pope expressed himself delighted with the Instrument, pronouncing it to be "Molto miracoloso," which means "most wonderful miracle." The Apollo and Melville Clark Piano remained in the private apartments of His Holiness, being his property. The Apollo is the ONLY Piano Player which has been played before His Holiness, and is the ONLY Piano Player in his apartments at the Vatican.

We remain, yours faithfully,

Apollo House,
119, Regent Street, London, W.

THE APOLLO CO., LTD.

HUGO GÖRLITZ,

119, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Telegrams—Hugonotas, London.

Telephone—4013 Gerrard.

KUBELIK SEASON, 1903.

Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ.

WILHELM BACKHAUS TOUR, AUTUMN, 1903.

Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ.

WILHELM BACKHAUS

Miss ALICE HOLLÄNDER (Contralto)

Mr. JOHN HARRISON (the new English Tenor)

Miss LILIAN FOULIS (the Scottish Violinist)

Mr. PAUL GRÜMMER (Violoncellist)

Mr. WILHELM GRÜMMER (Accompanist)

CHAPPELL GRAND PIANOFORTE.

For Vacant Dates, apply to HUGO GÖRLITZ, 119, New Bond St., W.

Mr. HUGO GÖRLITZ is Agent for the Leading Artists of the World, and Sole Agent for

KUBELIK WILHELM BACKHAUS

MARTHA CUNNINGHAM ALICE HOLLÄNDER

JOHN HARRISON (the new English Tenor)

LILIAN FOULIS (Violinist) PAUL GRÜMMER (Violoncellist)

THE AMSTERDAM ORCHESTRA

RICHARD STRAUSS, Etc.

KUBELIK AUTUMN TOUR

(Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ)

OCTOBER 3 TO NOVEMBER 21.

119, New Bond Street, W.

RICHARD WAGNER FESTIVAL PLAYS,

PRINCE REGENTEN THEATRE, MUNICH.

Official British Agency—HUGO GÖRLITZ, 119, New Bond St., W.

RICHARD STRAUSS FESTIVAL.JOHN HARRISON'S SUCCESS.

THE TIMES says:

"The first of the songs were sung in German, with capital expression, by Mr. John Harrison: is a 'Friedenszerählung.'"

THE STANDARD says:

"The two principal tenor solos were finely sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE DAILY NEWS says:

"Mr. Harrison, the tenor, sang with a sense of dramatic emphasis one had not expected from him, and at the same time the quality of his voice was good."

THE MORNING POST says:

"Of two tenor songs, one 'The Vision of Peace,' the other from the last act, both are modelled on Wagner; the second is the more striking. The orchestration in the first is heavy, so that the vocalist has a hard fight. Mr. John Harrison sang both extremely well."

THE DAILY GRAPHIC says:

"Two of them well sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE WESTMINSTER GAZETTE says:

"The solo parts of which were taken in first-rate style by Mr. John Harrison."

THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN says:

"Two long solos allotted to the hero were sung by Mr. John Harrison, who earned great applause by his beautiful voice and method, and his sincere and refined dramatic expression. His performances stamp him as an artist of the first rank."

THE GLOBE says:

"Two tenor solos, well sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE STAR says:

"Both were sung with conspicuous beauty of voice and expression by Mr. John Harrison, who thereby showed himself more than equal to the severest of artistic tasks."

MR. JOHN HARRISON is a Pupil of
MADAME AMY SHERWIN.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano).

Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)

Oratorios and Concerts.
Burley Road, Leeds.

MADAME ANNIE HAYMAN (Soprano)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Thorncliffe, Lowfield Road, Stockport.

MISS BERYL CLIVE (Contralto)

14, Gladsmuir Road, Whitehall Park, N.

MISS EDITH CRAWFORD (Contralto)

Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Glencairn, Cane Hill, Purley, Surrey.

MISS KATE GREGORY

(The new Yorkshire Concert)
(Professional Pupil of Albert Jowett, Esq., Yorkshire Training College of Music, Leeds).
Oratorios and Ballad Concerts.
Terms, apply, Doncaster.

MISS GERTRUDE HEY (Contralto)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Lawn Side, Clarendon Road, Whalley Range, Manchester.

MADAME HURLE-HOBBS (Contralto)

Oratorios, Recitals, Concerts, &c.
Address, 37, Briar Walk, Upper Edmonton, London, N.

MADAME RUTH ROEBUCK (Contralto).

Oratorios, Recitals, Concerts, &c.
64, Bay Street, Blackburn.

MR. WILLIAM D. VINCENT (Tenor)

"Old Italian School."
Concerts, &c., address, 167, Tachbrook Street, Belgrave Road, S.W.

MR. AND MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS

(Baritone, Soprano, and Elocutionists).
Concerts, Lyrical Recitals. Pupils (Resident, &c.). Sharon, Ealing, W.

MR. HARRY REYNOLDS (Basso),

Oratorios, Concerts, Recitals, &c.
Robinson Road, Mapperley, Nottingham.

STROH VIOLIN SOLOIST.

FRANCIS G. CONSTANTINE

Professional communications only, 92, Albany St., Regent's Pk., N.W.

MR. WILLIAM WILD (Tenor), of the "Sir Charles and Lady Hallé South African Concert Tour, 1895"; of the London (Queen's Hall) Concerts; of the Richter and Manchester Gentlemen's Concerts. Pupil of Andrew Black, Esq. Terms, &c., Grosvenor Square, Stalybridge, near Manchester.

MISS FLORENCE BOWNESS

(SOPRANO).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Apply, Scout House, Newchurch, near Manchester.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

MISS AMY SARGENT

A.R.C.M. (SOPRANO).
8, Middleton Road, Camden Road, N.

MISS SYDNEY BUSHNELL

(CONTRALTO).
Care of Mdme. Susannah Cole, 5, Portsdown Road, Maida Vale, W.

MR. FRANCIS GLYNN

(TENOR).
High Elms, Burgh Heath Road, Epsom.

MR. HENRY PLEVY

(TENOR)
(Of the Beethoven Festival, Queen's Hall Choral and Crystal Palace Concerts.)

Solo Tenor, Christ Church, Lancaster Gate.
BANBURY PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—"Hiawatha."—"Mr. Henry Plevy has an excellent voice, with good compass and style, and he gave 'Onaway! awake,' with the greatest acceptance, his singing being characterized by feeling and expressiveness throughout. It was an admirable effort. . . . His other numbers were also well delivered, and his high notes rang out well in 'Then the black-robe chief,' which was ably sung."—Guardian.

Works performed this season are:—"Messiah," "Elijah," "Redemption," "St. Paul," "Hymn of Praise," "Coronation Ode," "Creation," "Sleeping Beauty," "Hiawatha," "Acis and Galatea," "Last Judgment," "Ivanhoe," "May Queen," "Crusaders," "Rebekah," "Holy City," "Columbus," "Martyr of Antioch."
Address: 30, Hamilton Gardens, N.W.

MISS MIRIAM EDWARDS

A.R.C.M. (SOPRANO).

Of Queen's Hall, London, and Provincial Concerts.

"I have great pleasure in stating that Miss Miriam Edwards, who has studied for some time under me, possesses a brilliant and most sympathetic voice, which she uses with great skill and judgment."—WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE.

" . . . Miss Miriam Edwards's voice is a brilliant soprano of great flexibility, admirably trained. The songs given were excerpts from Handel, Mozart, Grieg, and Bemberg. For particular distinction we have to mention her exquisite rendering of Mozart's 'L'amero.'"
Birmingham Daily Mail.

" . . . Miss Miriam Edwards was the vocalist, and in the first part of the programme gave a beautiful rendering of Mozart's 'Voi che sapete' ('Nozze di Figaro'), accompanied by the orchestra. Possessed of a full voice, together with an ease and naturalness of manner, she gave a very faithful interpretation of the piece, and was recalled in consequence. . . . An aria, 'Una Voce,' from 'Il Barbiera,' by Rossini, affords perhaps greater scope for the vocal powers of Miss Edwards than the first item. She sang it with excellent effect, and threw into it a characteristic vigour that fully confirmed her previous success. She was again accompanied by the orchestra, and subjected to an encore."—Durham Advertiser.

" . . . Miss Miriam Edwards made her debut before a Newcastle audience, and from every point of view it was extremely successful, and highly flattering to the debutante herself. Her first effort, Handel's 'Lusinghe più care,' she sang with delightful taste and artistic finish, but it was perhaps in Mozart's 'L'amero' ('Il Re Pastore') that she was heard to greatest advantage. Here she displayed a wealth of tone, power, and expression which thoroughly cemented her ability in the confidence of her critical audience. Two remaining items by Grieg and Bemberg were happily rendered, and at the conclusion, Miss Edwards was deservedly awarded a thorough ovation."—Newcastle Daily Journal.

" . . . Miss Miriam Edwards is quite new to us, but she has a magnificent voice. She displayed unsurpassable qualities as a mistress of vocal art. In all her songs she evinced purity of voice, method, and intelligence of a high order."—Free Press.

" . . . Miss Miriam Edwards is a soprano of exceptional tone on the lower register, and she was accorded a very flattering reception."—The North Star.

" . . . The songs of that talented vocalist, Miss Miriam Edwards, call for special mention. As it has been our pleasure to previously remark, she possesses a voice of rare quality and training, and her rendering on Thursday night of 'Scenes that are brightest' was the finest item of the evening."—The Leader.

" . . . The vocalist was Miss Miriam Edwards, a soprano of exceptional ability, who avoided English in both her songs, Handel's 'Lusinghe più care' (for including which she deserved thanks) and Bemberg's 'Nymphes et Sylvains.' She sang very artistically, and met with general appreciation."—The Nottingham Daily Express.

"The soloist, Miss Miriam Edwards, was in splendid voice. She was very powerful in her lower register, and rendered her songs with admirable taste."—North-Eastern Daily Gazette.

For terms and vacant dates, the usual agents, or Tanworth House, Wednesbury, Staffs.

MISS LILLIE WORMALD

SOPRANO (Gold Medalist)

OF THE
HALLÉ AND LIVERPOOL PHILHARMONIC CONCERTS, ETC.

LIVERPOOL PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

Conductor: Dr. COWEN. THIRD SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT.

Extract from the Liverpool Courier, November 12, 1902.

"The great treat of the miscellaneous portion of the programme was the exquisitely dainty singing by Miss Lillie Wormald of the 'Couplets du Mysoli,' from David's 'La Perle du Brésil.'"

BIRMINGHAM CHAMBER CONCERT.

Extract from the Birmingham Post, December 18, 1902.

"The singer's success could only be described as brilliant; no weaker term would be adequate."

Extract from the Birmingham Daily Mail, May 22, 1903.

"Miss Lillie Wormald possesses a lovely rich voice, which almost proved too voluminous for the hall."

HUDDERSFIELD SUBSCRIPTION CONCERTS.

Extract from the Huddersfield Daily Chronicle, March 11, 1903.

"The vocalist was Miss Lillie Wormald, a soprano singer who has mounted the ladder of musical fame very quickly. That her rise has been deservedly successful everyone who heard her on Tuesday night will unhesitatingly admit. Above everything she did her rendering of Acqua's brilliant song, 'Villanelle,' stood out prominently. The difficult cadenza was sung in magnificent fashion, and her trills were purity itself."

"ELIJAH," FALKIRK.

Extract from the Falkirk Mail, April 11, 1903.

"Miss Lillie Wormald displayed artistic spirit and powers of declamation, and brought sympathy and fine expressiveness to bear on the interpretation of her numbers."

For terms and vacant dates apply—

MISS LILLIE WORMALD,

18, Hartington Road,
Chorlton-cum-Hardy, Manchester.

MISS MAUD SANTLEY

(CONTRALTO)

(Of the Royal Albert Hall, the Queen's Hall, London Ballad Concerts, the Harrison (Adelina Patti and Melba) Concert Tours, the Symphony Concerts, Belgium, &c.).

... but with two such exceptional artists as Madame Melba and Miss Maud Santley, some slight tapering off at the other end of the list might be forgiven. Madame Melba... Miss Maud Santley came next in popularity, her powerful voice with its marvellous volume and sustaining calibre delighting the auditors, and had repeatedly to concede encores."—Birmingham Daily Argus, Oct. 3, 1899.

"Miss Maud Santley has a fine, rich voice, and sang with much power and beautiful quality of tone."—Birmingham Daily Gazette, Oct. 3, 1899.

"Miss Maud Santley, who created so marked an impression at Messrs. Harrison's Concert last year, again achieved an artistic success."—Birmingham Daily Mail, Oct. 3, 1899.

"A distinct success was scored by Miss Maud Santley, a contralto of singular purity and considerable volume."—Liverpool Courier, Oct. 5, 1899.

"Miss Maud Santley, a contralto of considerable range and finished method."—Liverpool Daily Post, Oct. 5, 1899.

"Miss Maud Santley sang with artistic style and much verve Saint-Saëns's aria, 'Amour! viens aider.'"—Newcastle Daily Leader, Oct. 7, 1899.

"Richness, combined with more than ordinary volume, and a gifted mobility, were the characteristics of Miss Maud Santley's contralto voice."—Newcastle Daily Journal, Oct. 7, 1899.

"Miss Maud Santley gave 'Amour! viens aider,' from 'Samson and Delilah,' in which the richness and purity of her mellow contralto voice were brilliantly exhibited. Her rendering of the song was heartily encored, as was also her other number."—Aberdeen Journal, Oct. 10, 1899.

"The possessor of an organ of exquisite timbre and considerable power."—Glasgow Daily Record, Oct. 13, 1899.

"Miss Maud Santley was in splendid voice, and achieved much success, and rendered Saint-Saëns's 'Amour! viens aider' with abundant spirit and in a full and sweet tone."—Scotsman, Oct. 13, 1899.

"Has a superb contralto voice, and sings with fine expression."—Middlesbrough Northern Echo, Oct. 17, 1899.

"Miss Maud Santley charmed the audience with a highly-finished rendering of the aria 'Amour! viens aider.'... suited her splendid voice admirably, with the result that she had to contribute another song."—North Star, Oct. 17, 1899.

"Miss Maud Santley was a fitting companion of Madame Melba, and sang with high vocal quality."—Bradford Observer, Oct. 18, 1899.

Repertoire of all standard oratorios and works, including: "The Dream of Gerontius" and "Sea Pictures" (Elgar), and "Samson and Delilah" (Saint-Saëns). For vacant dates, address, 60, Margaret Street, Cavendish Square, London, W.

MR. JOS. REED

(PRINCIPAL TENOR),
Trinity College, Cambridge.

Tenor, Madame Clara Butt's Tours, October, 1900; Spring, 1902.
Vacant dates. 55, Chesterton Road, Cambridge.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS

(TENOR)

For vacant dates, apply 105, North Side, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. JOHN BROWNING

(BARITONE)

Soloist, Leeds Musical Festivals and of the leading English, Scotch, and Irish Concerts. Extensive répertoire of over 100 works.
Season 1902/3, has sung Baritone Solos in sixty works ("Elijah" 12 times, "Messiah" 10), and at forty Miscellaneous Concerts.

Booking for Next Season—
Address, Marlbro' Grove, Leeds.

MR. ARTHUR WALENN

(BARITONE)

Of the Albert Hall, Queen's Hall, St. James's Hall Popular Concerts, Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts, Walenn Chamber Concerts, &c.
20, Ashworth Mansions, Elgin Avenue, London, W.

MR. SAMUEL FIELDEN

(BASSO-CANTANTE)

"He possesses a fine bass voice of exceptional compass and power, and he gave his songs with characteristic vigour and true vocal art."—Tadmorden District News.

"Mr. S. Fielden met with considerable favour."—Portsmouth Evening News.

For terms and vacant dates, address, The Cathedral, Chichester.

MISS ELLEN CHILDS

(CHROMATIC HARPIST).

Having studied in Paris under the direction of the Inventor, Miss Childs is prepared to give LESSONS on the NEW CHROMATIC HARP (without pedals). For terms, apply, 170, Belsize Road, N.W.; or, care of Messrs. Playell, Wolff, Lyon and Co., 79-80, Baker Street, Portman Square, W.

MR. GEORGE F. BLACK

Professional Tuner, Expert, &c., of Pianofortes.
Dealer in all kinds of Musical Instruments.
42, Hubert Grove, Stockwell, London, S.W.

MR. JAMES COLEMAN

(BASS)

(Vicar-Choral, Lichfield Cathedral).

RECENT PRESS NOTICES.

STAFFORD.—"Mr. Coleman's contributions were 'The Deathless Army' and 'Revenge! Timotheus cries.' He possesses a powerful and well-trained voice, and those present were not slow to show their appreciation. His first effort was loudly greeted, but he simply acknowledged the plaudits with a bow. However, the audience were not to be denied upon his second appearance, and in response to their enthusiastic demands he sang 'The Veteran's Song.'"—Staffordshire Advertiser, May 30, 1903.

"LAST JUDGMENT."—"Mr. James Coleman maintained his high reputation, and the air 'Thus saith the Lord' afforded opportunities of displaying the grand quality and power of his voice."—Derby Mercury, April 1, 1903.

"Land of hope and glory" (Elgar), by Mr. James Coleman and chorus, was evidently considered the song of the evening. The applause was enthusiastic, and notwithstanding Mr. Molineaux's silent but pathetic protest, which he made to the audience watch in hand, an encore was insisted upon."—Midland Herald, March 28, 1903.

Terms and vacant dates, apply, The Cathedral, Lichfield.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS,

48, DYNE ROAD, BRONDESURY, N.W.
Telegrams:—SOLOIST, LONDON.

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL

(BARITONE).

(Westminster Abbey)

Mr. HENRY J. WOOD (Conductor, Queen's Hall Concerts) writes:—

"I, Langham Place, W., Feb. 14, 1901.

"Mr. Montague Borwell is an excellent vocalist.

"He has been most successful both at Queen's Hall, and at my Nottingham and Wolverhampton Concerts, in most difficult and trying rôles, and I consider him one of the most reliable and painstaking baritone vocalists now before the public.

"HENRY J. WOOD."

"ELIJAH."—TONBRIDGE.—"Mr. Montague Borwell was a perfect exponent of the fiery Prophet. He is the nearest approach to Santley I have heard for a long time. The dramatic instinct, the necessary sarcasm, and the devotional spirit of the Prophet were all there. The great air, 'Is not His Word,' being sung with much spirit, the top F rang as resonantly as a bell. The beautiful air, 'It is enough,' was splendidly sung, and Mr. Borwell had to repeatedly bow his acknowledgments."—Tonbridge Free Press.

"ELIJAH."—STOURBRIDGE.—"Mr. Montague Borwell sang the part of Elijah with fine dramatic expression. His taunts to the Priests of Baal were marked with bitter sarcasm, his appearances to Ahab with dignity, his lament on his betrayal by the people and his invocation to God were most impressive."—Country Express.

"FAUST." (BERLIOZ).—BALYMONY.—"Mr. Montague Borwell gave a very dramatic exposition of the part throughout. His rendering of the Serenade was simply splendid, whilst his enunciation throughout the whole work was perfect."—Coleraine Constitution.

"FAUST" (GOUNOD).—SOUTHEND.—"The pick of the principals was Mr. Montague Borwell, whose singing, both technically and artistically, was admirable. His rendering of the Cavatina, and Valentine's death scene being beyond reproach."—Observer.

AND

MISS WINIFRED MARWOOD

(Mrs. Montague Borwell—SOPRANO).

"ELIJAH."—WEYBRIDGE.—"Possessing a soprano voice of fine quality and wide compass, Miss Winifred Marwood maintained a very high standard of excellence in the whole of her contributions, of which perhaps 'Hear ye, Israel,' was the most effective."—Surrey Advertiser.

"ELIJAH."—TONBRIDGE.—"Miss Winifred Marwood made a great impression by her rendering of 'Hear ye, Israel.' It was sung as it should be—prayerfully, and not shouted to the people."—Tonbridge Free Press.

"HIAWATHA."—WEYBRIDGE.—"Miss Winifred Marwood, a soprano of wide range and pleasing method, and Mr. Montague Borwell, a resonant baritone, took the solos in the second scene, and their treatment of the deeply pathetic picture left little to be desired."—Surrey Advertiser.

"L'ALLEGRO."—BRIGHTON.—"Miss Winifred Marwood, who made her first appearance at the Society's Concerts, sang the soprano solos, and showed the possession of a voice of bright, clear, and resonant quality, with a cultured and finished style of vocalization. She achieved conspicuous success in her rendering of 'Sweet bird, that shun'st the noise of folly,' for which she had to acknowledge the enthusiastic applause of a delighted audience."—Daily News, London.

48, Dyne Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MISS

MARGUERITE SWALE

PREPARES VOCALISTS for Oratorio, Opera, German Lieder, and Ballads.

VOICE PRODUCTION AND SINGING.

Recommended by distinguished Artists.

F., 120, Great Portland Street, W.

MR. ROBERT RADFORD

(BASSO)

Of the Norwich Triennial Festivals, Queen's Hall Orchestral Concerts, Messrs. Boosey's Ballad Concerts, the Patti Concerts, &c.

DVORÁK'S "STABAT MATER" (NOTTINGHAM).—SACRED HARMONY SOCIETY.—"Mr. Robert Radford achieved a triumph. His glorious bass voice was employed with artistic effect in the quartettes and concerted music generally, and his treatment of 'Fac ut Ardeat' was marked by superb dignity. The lower notes which were called upon, down to E flat, were as rich and distinct as an organ pedal."—Nottingham Daily Guardian, March, 1903.

"MESSIAH" (CHELTENHAM).—MUSICAL FESTIVAL SOCIETY.—"The most completely successful of the soloists was Mr. Robert Radford, who sang with perfect ease and well-sustained power the elaborate and florid bass music. He gave a splendid rendering of 'Why do the nations,' but his most brilliant achievement was 'The trumpet shall sound,' the obbligato to which was flawlessly played by Mr. Solomon."—Cheltenham Chronicle, April, 1903.

HARRISON CONCERT (FREE TRADE HALL, MANCHESTER).—"Lovers of ballad music who attended the Harrison Concert in the Free Trade Hall could not fail to be struck with the singing of Mr. Robert Radford. The audience seemed inclined to be severely critical, and therefore the fact that Mr. Radford roused such enthusiasm as to secure the only double encore of the evening stands to his undying credit. His voice is a real bass, one of those rare sonorous organs which remind you of Signor Foli at his best. It is beautifully resonant in the upper and middle registers, and merges, as the deeper notes are obtained, into a glorious sonority of clear and penetrating power. His success was the feature of the evening."—Manchester Evening Chronicle, December, 1902.

HARRISON CONCERT (ABERDEEN).—"The lion's share of the honours of the evening fell to the bass, Mr. Robert Radford, who is the possessor of a magnificent voice of great compass, of flexible and musical quality, and even from top to bottom. Mr. Radford pleased the audience so well that at his two appearances he had to sing no less than five songs. Of these the best was perhaps the recitative and aria 'She alone charmeth my sadness,' from Gounod's 'Irene.' It was beautifully sung, no less in the dramatic recitative than in the suave and graceful aria—a really splendid effort."—Aberdeen Free Press, December, 1902.

"Mr. Robert Radford made a triumphant first appearance in Bristol. He is the fortunate possessor of a remarkable voice—strong, full, rich, and resonant. Every note, from the topmost to the lowest of his unusual compass, is good, and he seems to do everything with enviable ease. The more robust pieces were sung with grand power, and the tender ones with delightful expression. His enunciation of the words was always most distinct. No wonder the audience was roused to enthusiasm and recalled the singer again and again. Mr. Radford will undoubtedly come to Bristol again."—Bristol Times, February, 1903.

NEW ADDRESS:

8, HOLMDALE ROAD, WEST HAMPSTEAD, N.W.

MR. WHITNEY TEW

60, JERMYN STREET, ST. JAMES'S, S.W.

Telephone—2243 Gerrard. Telegrams—"Vocally," London.

MR. WHITNEY TEW

CAN ACCEPT

ENGAGEMENTS for Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes,

And can take a few Pupils in Voice Production and the Art of Singing.

NEW COLLEGE OF MUSIC, LIM.

Patron: THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH.

Warden: DR. TINDALL, A.T.C.L.

SPECIAL EXAMINATION, July 14. For Diplomas, and for Singers and their Pupils. Medals and Certificates awarded. Apply before July 10.

W. J. MOSS, 5, Soho Street, W.C.

LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS,

POLYTECHNIC, 309, REGENT ST., W.

PRINCIPAL: MR. JAMES BATES.

Thoroughly trained, experienced SOLO BOYS, holding positions as Solo Boys at forty London Churches, can be strongly recommended for Church Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.

CHORUS AND LEADING BOYS also available for all kinds of concerted music.

A branch for the preparation and general education of scholars (resident or day) for Cathedral or other Chorisherships is now open. School and practising rooms, 80, Cambridge Terrace, Hyde Park, W.

Full particulars of The Secretary, 7, Blomfield Crescent, Upper Westbourne Terrace, Hyde Park, W. Telegrams—"Musicmane, London." Telephone—1074, Western.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Boys, personally trained and thoroughly reliable, for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, vacant dates, and further particulars, address, Mr. Henry J. Dutton, 17, Alpha Rd., New Cross, S.E.

MR. TANN'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. W. R. B. TANN, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Saviour's Church, Paddington, is prepared to supply well-trained Solo Boys for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

A number of excellent Chorus Boys also available.

For terms and vacant dates, address, Mr. W. R. B. Tann, 55, Warwick Road, Maida Vale, W.

THE LONDON WIND QUINTETTE

AUTUMN TOUR, 1903

Will begin on OCTOBER 12, 1903. Applications for Vacant Dates ("On Tour" or otherwise) should be sent without delay to the Director—

Mr. EMILE GILMER, 26, Old Bond Street, London, W.

LONDON CONCERT & CHOIR AGENCY.

SOLOISTS and CHORUS VOICES for Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Glee and Madrigal Societies. At Homes, Banquets, &c. Mr. JAMES BATES, Polytechnic, Regent Street, W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. Eastfield House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS.

Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities. Diplomas of L.R.A.M., A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O., and A.R.C.O.; Appointments at College and School of Music, and as English Cathedral and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of seven hundred and fifty. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ARNOTT, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, Organist to The Honble. Society of Gray's Inn, PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Examinations, and receives Pupils for Pianoforte, Organ, Singing; also, Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition, personally or by correspondence. Scores revised and compositions scored. All letters to The Common Room, Gray's Inn.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., Mus. Bac., Dunelm, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or, at 60, Berners Street, W. Schools attended. Address, 289, High Road, Lee, S.E.

ARTHUR T. FROGGATT, Mus.D., T.C.D., gives LESSONS by POST, and prepares for all genuine examinations. 2, Hampden Villas, Hythe.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., is now making a SPECIALITY OF PREPARING CANDIDATES by CORRESPONDENCE for University, Royal College of Organists, and other musical Exams. LARGE NUMBER OF PAST SUCCESSES. Moderate terms. PERSONAL LESSONS in THEORY and ORGAN (for R.C.O. exams) are given either at Streatham or in London. 52, Buckleigh Road, Streatham, S.W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Latest successes, Mus. Bac., Oxford and Durham, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., &c. Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY, Mus.D., Oxon., 13, Roseleigh Avenue, Highbury, N., continues to PREPARE CANDIDATES for the various Theoretical Examinations. Music of any description revised or arranged. LESSONS in COMPOSITION, by post if desired.

DR. ATHELSTAN G. IGGULDEN, Mus. Doc. (Dunelm), F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS and prepares for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by post. The Dingle, Reigate, Surrey.

DR. TAYLOR, F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L., gives LESSONS, and Prepares for bona fide Musical Examinations, personally or (Theory) by Post. Eastgate House, Stafford.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM and ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: OXFORD FIRST MUS. BAC., May, 1903; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1903; DURHAM, 1902, 1901, 1900, and all previous years; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1902; OXFORD MUS. BAC., 1902, 1901, &c.; L.R.A.M. (Composition and Pianoforte), 1902, 1901, &c.; A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, Composition, and Pianoforte Teaching); CAMBRIDGE and DUBLIN, MUS. BAC.; L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M.; L.T.C.L., A.T.C.L., and Special Certificates, 1902, 1901, &c.; Senior Associated Board Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Terms moderate. MSS. corrected for Publication.

Analyse of Classical Works for Examinations.
70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

DR. MARCHANT, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Author of "500 Fugue Subjects and Answers," Novello's Primers, No. 35), &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Musical Examinations by Post. 10, Glebe Crescent, Stirling, N.B.

MR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus.B., F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., makes a SPECIALITY of COACHING for DEGREES. L.R.A.M., 1897-1903, FORTY-ONE SUCCESSSES; A.R.C.M., 1897-1903, ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTEEN SUCCESSSES. Equally good results in R.C.O. and other Examinations. Address—Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

MR. HERBERT C. MORRIS, F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., PREPARES CANDIDATES for R.C.O. Examinations by correspondence. 9 A.R.C.O. successes and 7 F.R.C.O. successes during the past four years. Address, The Close, St. David's, Pembrokeshire.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Doc., Dnnelm, A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond., Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., Personally or by Correspondence. Preparation for University R.C.O., and all other Examinations. Classes. 25, Falliser Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac. (Durham, 1892), L.Mus.T.C.L. (1888), COACHES for EXAMS. Prospectus, &c., 58, Comiston Road, Edinburgh.

TRAINING OF TENORS.—MR. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS at his residence and at the West-End. For terms, &c., address, 11, Grazebrook Road, Stoke Newington, N. Full information concerning MR. DAVIDSON PALMER'S METHOD is contained in his pamphlet, "The Tenor Voice and Its Training." Price 1s., post-free, from the AUTHOR, at the above address; or from JOSEPH WILLIAMS, Ltd., 32, Great Portland Street, W.

VOICES TRAINED, and SIGHT-SINGING and the PIANOFORTE TAUGHT, by Mr. W. A. FROST (Vicar-Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral), at his residence, 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C. Many of his pupils have obtained Cathedral and other choir appointments. Latest successes (Altos) at Holy Trinity, Knightsbridge, and St. James's, Garlick Hill.

DR. WARWICK JORDAN, F.R.C.O. (Examiner to The Royal College of Organists; Professor of Organ and Harmony at The Guildhall School of Music; Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Stephen's, Lewisham; Hon. Organist and Director of the Choir of the London Gregorian Choral Association, &c., &c.), has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Magnificent Organ. Hydraulic blowing. Daily Choral Services. Choral Celebration and Anthem every Sunday. Two Choirs. Address, Grafton House, Lewisham High Road, S.E.

THE ORGANIST of an English Cathedral is prepared to receive a talented Youth as ARTICLED PUPIL at a half the usual premium. Address, Minster, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

VACATION-PUPIL, Switzerland.—Careful preparation for Musical Degree, &c. Inclusive terms: board, lodging, and tuition, £9 per month. C. Stanley Wise, Mus.B., Cantab., Chexenex, Vaud, Suisse.

HARPENDEN, Herts.—St. George's School. Head Master, Rev. R. H. Wix, M.A. Fees, £60 & £50. Reduction to boys with good voices. Private chapel. Organist, Mr. J. Farrant, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Large buildings and grounds. Very healthy and bracing place.

DOVER COLLEGE CHAPEL.—CHORAL SCHOLARSHIP VACANT, reducing expenses to £45. Particulars of Rev. A. H. Stevens, M.A., Mus. Bac.

WANTED, well-trained SOPRANOS and ALTOS for high-class Concert work. Thorough knowledge of German indispensable. Write, W.O., 42, Westbourne Park Road, Bayswater.

LIGHT OPERA.—WANTED, good AMATEUR VOCALISTS to complete company at Stoke Newington. Letter, Conductor, 8, St. Mark's Villas, St. Mark's Road, N.E.

TENOR WANTED, for Church in Hammersmith. £10. Write, Guy C. Ambrose, 35, Stratford Road, Kensington.

SOLO TENOR.—Sunday Evening Choir. £10. References. Address, Choirmaster, Guards' Chapel, Wellington Barracks, S.W.

TENOR WANTED, for Presbyterian Church, Richmond, Surrey. £10 per annum. Must be good reader. Very musical service. Apply, in writing, to R. P. Hart, 7, Ulva Road, Putney, S.W.

VOLUNTARY TENORS and BASSES WANTED, for West-End Church. Write, Organist, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, two Gentlemen, TENOR and BARI- TONE or BASS (amateurs), to make quartet with two ladies. Out-door tour (July and August). References exchanged. For full particulars apply to Tour, 57, Selhurst Road, South Norwood.

WANTED, LEADING BASS.—Choral Service (Anglican). Salary, £6 per annum. Apply, Friday, 8.30, Christ Church, Endell Street, W.C.

BASS (not Baritone) WANTED, for a West-Sub- urban Church. Powerful voice. £12. Address, C. M., Novello and Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

LAY-CLERK (Bass or Baritone) REQUIRED, for St. Saviour's Collegiate Church. Two Sunday Services. Evensong daily at 5.0. Rehearsals Monday and Friday evenings. Apply, Dr. A. Madeley Richardson.

TENOR seeks ENGAGEMENT Sunday mornings. Small stipend. W., 149, Fulham Road, S.W.

TENOR-DEPUTY (accurate reader), ODD SER- VICES attended for expenses. Diaphragm, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

BASS (not Baritone), well known in the North- Eastern Counties, invites Communications from Agents with a view to arranging ENGAGEMENTS. Could hold himself ready to act as Substitute should occasion arise. Oratorios a speciality. Press Notices, &c., on application. Apply, Box 22, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST (under Choirmaster) WANTED, at once, for Presbyterian Church, Richmond, Surrey. Salary, £20 per annum. Good executant essential. Apply by letter, enclosing testimonials, to R. P. Hart, 7, Ulva Road, Putney, S.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for St. Jude's Church, Englefield Green, in the Parish of Egham, 21 miles from London. Salary, £35 per annum. Address, with references and testimonials, The Vicar, Egham, Surrey.

ORGANIST is willing to DEPUTIZE at churches in or near London during the summer months. Moderate terms. C. S., care of A. Rombach, 21, Cross St., Hatton Garden, E.C.

THE PROFESSOR of the ORGAN at one of the principal Continental Conservatoires would be willing to DEPUTIZE at an important London Church during August. 11 years' experience as an English Church Organist. Apply, Mus. Bac. Oxon., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (30), A.R.C.O., desires new APPOINTMENT. Good organ essential. Excellent testimonials. Experienced. Address, Composer, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST (Lady) wishes for HOLIDAY POST for July, August, or September; July preferred. Apply to Organist, St. Mary's, Tissington, Ashbourne, Derbyshire.

ASSISTANT-ORGANIST (Voluntary) wants an APPOINTMENT in London. W. R., 3, Harmsworth Street, Kennington, S.E.

MR. H. L. BALFOUR, Organist of the Royal Choral Society; and Organist and Choirmaster of Holy Trinity Church, Sloane Street, will give an ORGAN RECITAL every Saturday, at 4 o'clock, on the grand organ of above-mentioned Church, in aid of the Church Decoration Fund.

EVERY ORGANIST should send for DINHAM, BLYTH & CO.'S Specimens and Price List (free) for Lithographing Anthems, Kyries, Hymn Tunes, &c., from twenty-four Copies and upwards. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

CONDUCTOR (experienced), Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., with good critiques, will undertake Musical Direction of a prosperous Choral or Orchestral Society in or near London. Small honorarium. S.F.Z., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

LADY, L.R.A.M. (Pianist), holding highest awards. Bronze, Silver Medalist, and Certificate Royal Academy of Music, desires VISITING TEACHER'S ENGAGEMENT, in or near London. L. 536, Messrs. Deacon's, Leadenhall Street, E.C.

ACCOMPANIST, COACH, certifi., highly recom. (Gold Med.), 3 mus. degrees, pupil of well-known masters. Perfect sight-reader (MS., Score); theorist; improvises. Songs transposed at sight. Brilliant pianist. Memorized Concert repertoire—200 solos. Terms moderate. V. S., Holmes's, 2, Chapel Place, Cavendish Sq.

WANTED, by experienced Lady VIOLINIST (L.R.A.M.), TEACHING in good School. Very successful in Preparing Pupils for Associated Board and other Examinations. W. M., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

CHOIR EXCHANGE.—CHURCH POSITIONS secured for Organists and Singers in the United States and Canada. APPOINTMENTS, to be filled on or before September 1, 1903, NOW VACANT in Honolulu (Organistship and Teaching), $100; California, $1000; Michigan, $600 and $800; Connecticut; Maryland; Georgia and Minnesota, $300 to $500.

MUSIC PUBLISHING AGENCY.—Publishers found for Composers' Manuscripts. Write The John E. Webster Company, 5, East 14th Street, New York.

MRS. HARRISON (late of Penrith) TRANPOSES
MUSIC, clearly and correctly. 33d. per page, including paper and postage. Thornton Gate, Rossall Beach, Fleetwood.

MANUSCRIPTS revised. Melodies written from dictation, harmonised, orchestrated, or arranged for brass and brass-reed bands. Practical lessons in Composition, orally or by post. Terms moderate. Highest references. W. J. G., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

LADY wishes to DISPOSE OF a high-class PIANOFORTE-TEACHING CONNECTION in and near Huddersfield. Miss Hazelwood Jones, Mount Edgerton, Huddersfield.

INDIA.—TUNER and REPAIRER WANTED, age about 22. Apply by letter to S. Harraden and Co., 11, Rose Street, Newgate Street, London, E.C.

TUNER WANTED, for Scotland.—Permanency to good man. Send photo, copies testimonials, and state salary required to 20, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, MANAGER for branch business.
Must be good Tuner and Salesman. Apply by letter, 304, Romford Road, Forest Gate, E.

MANAGER WANTED FOR ABROAD.—Must be smart Salesman of Pianos, understand Sheet Music and Small Goods, and have knowledge of Book-keeping. Also ASSISTANT with good all-round knowledge of the Trade. Liberal salaries, with free quarters, in both cases. Address, giving fullest particulars and enclosing photo, Nemo, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, at once, a capable ASSISTANT, either Lady or Gentleman. Must have a good knowledge of the trade, be a good salesman, and of good address. Apply Alderson and Brentnall, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

MUSIC SALESMAN, WANTED, for Scotland.—
Send photo, copies testimonials, and state salary required to 27, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG GENTLEMAN (26; height, 5 ft. 6 in.; of good address and appearance), Disengaged, requires a Berth as JUNIOR ASSISTANT in a good Music Establishment. Western or southern counties preferred. Has a fair and satisfactory knowledge of sheet music, catalogues, small goods, as assistant pianoforte salesman; also, can do a little pianoforte tuning. Very willing, energetic, and full of ambition. Salary moderate. E. E., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO BE SOLD.—Old-Established PIANOFORTE,
ORGAN, and GENERAL MUSIC BUSINESS. Large Tuning Connection. Near great military centre. Letters to X., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

10/6 OFFERED to person suggesting any locality (if chosen) where there is an opening for small well-conducted music business. Write fully. Z., Novello, 1, Berners St.

35 VOLUMES ANTIQUARIAN SOCIETY
MADRIGALS (WILBYE, CROCE, MORLEY, GIBBONS, PURCELL). Price, 15s. the lot. Studio, 12, Gipsy Hill, S.E.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE.
Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber, from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell and Son's, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

FOR SALE.—MASON AND HAMLIN three-manual
AMERICAN ORGAN, fitted with College of Organists pedals, 24 stops, and composition pedals. Handsome pipe top, equal to new. Hydraulic engine to blower, worked by ordinary house-service pressure. To be sold at great sacrifice owing to removal of owner. Original cost about £480; will accept £80 cash. P. W. Britton, 30, St. Mary's Road, Peckham.

ORGAN (Chamber).—Three manuals, pedal; 20 stops. Good condition. Sell £150, as removing. Entertain Mustel Organ part exchange. 72, Park Road, Norbiton, Surrey.

ORGAN for SALE.—Three manuals, 24 stops (19 stops, 61 pipes; 5 stops, 49 pipes). Pedal Organ: 2 stops, 8 feet and 16 feet open. 6 couplers. Address, Organ, care of Edgar Smith, The Library, Hailsham, Sussex.

LARGE modern 3-manual CHURCH ORGAN.
Full compass; 41 stops. Immediate sale, £250. Full particulars, EUSTACE INGRAM, 361, Liverpool Road, London, N.

ORGANS for SALE or HIRE; or, payable in five years.—Two new superior high-class ORGANS at £200 and £260, on view. Three Second-hand Organs, at £25, £35, £60. Price Lists, with specifications for building Organs, from £100 to £2,000. Alterations, additions, repairs. Tuners sent to all parts of the United Kingdom. Alfred Monk, Organ Works, 556, Holloway Road, London, N.

ORGAN for SALE.—Small CHAMBER
ORGAN. One manual, 3 stops; open diapason, 8 feet; stop diapason, 8 feet. Principal, 4 feet. Blown by both hand and feet, compass $4\frac{1}{2}$ octaves, C to F. $1\frac{1}{2}$ octaves of pedals, general swell. In handsome mahogany case, decorated gilt pipes in front. Height, 8 ft. 6 in.; width, 5 ft. 9 in.; depth, 2 ft. 4 in. Mahogany stool. Apply, A. E. T., Wymondley Lodge, Leamington Spa.

MODERN-BUILT ORGANS for SALE.—Two Manuals CC to G, and Pedals CCC to F (R.C.O.), £125, complete. Also larger instruments. Apply, EUSTACE INGRAM, Organ Builder, 361, Liverpool Road, N.

THREE-MANUAL ORGAN, 26 stops; Two-
Manual Organ, 17 stops. Several others, suitable for Church, &c. Special manufacturers of the celebrated Victoria Model Organs, &c., suitable for Mission Churches, Students, &c., with two manuals and full-compass pedals, from 50 guineas. W. E. Richardson and Sons, of London, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

9 GUINEAS.—AMERICAN ORGAN (list price,
20 guineas), 11 stops, including two knee-stops and the beautiful solo stops, voix celeste and vox humana; two octave couplers, handsome high case; in use about four months; twenty years' warranty; easy terms arranged. Packing and carriage free both ways on approval. Full price paid will be allowed within three years if exchanged for a higher-class instrument. D'Almaine and Co. (established 118 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—ORGANISTS can PRAC-
TISE on the Grand four-manual Organ by WILLIS (blown by hydraulic engines controlled from keyboard) in the Concert Hall of the Hampstead Conservatoire. The Hall is warmed by hot water. Specification of the organ, and terms of practice on application to the Secretary, Hampstead Conservatoire, Swiss Cottage, N.W.
N.B.—The Conservatoire is eight minutes by rail from Baker Street, Metropolitan Railway. Trains every ten minutes.

ORGAN PRACTICE AT HOME.—RUMMENS'
Organ Pedal Attachment for Pianos. Norman & Beard, Norwich.

ORGAN PRACTICE. Three manuals and pedals:
One Shilling per hour. 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

BECHSTEIN small BOUDOIR GRAND PIANO.
 $7\frac{1}{2}$ octaves, steel frame, overstrung. Beautiful condition; been slightly used. 57 gns.; cost 120 gns. View at Mr. Fieldwick's, Organist of St. John's (Cromer House), Putney.

NOVELLO'S

Music Primers & Educational Series

EDITED BY

SIR JOHN STAINER AND SIR C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

RECENT NUMBERS.

			s. d.
41.	Examples in Strict Counterpoint. Part I.	Gordon Saunders	3 0
41A.	Do. Do. Part II.	Gordon Saunders	3 0
42.	Summary of Musical History ...	C. H. H. Parry	2 0
43.	Musical Gestures ...	J. F. Bridge	2 0
43A.	Rudiments in Rhyme ...	J. F. Bridge	0 9
44.	Basses and Melodies ...	Ralph Dunstan	2 6
45.	First Steps at the Pianoforte ...	Francesco Berger	2 6
46.	A Dictionary of Pianists and Composers for the Pianoforte	E. Pauer	2 0
47.	Organ Pedal Technique. Part I.	B. W. Horner	2 0
47A.	Organ Pedal Technique. Part II.	B. W. Horner	2 0
48.	Twelve Trios by Albrechtsberger ...	A. W. Marchant	1 6
49.	Fifty Three-part Studies (Both Notations)	J. E. Vernham	1 6
50.	Choral Society Vocalisation ...	J. Stainer	2 0
50A.	Do. The Exercises Adapted and Arranged for Female Voices ...	A. W. Marchant	1 6
51.	Two-part Solfege ...	James Higgs	1 0
52.	History of the Pianoforte ...	A. J. Hopkins	2 6
53.	Scales and Arpeggios ...	Franklin Taylor	2 0
54.	Sonata Form ...	W. H. Hadow	2 6
55.	A Dictionary of Violin Makers ...	C. Stainer	2 6
56.	Analysis of Bach's 48 Preludes and Fugues (or, in Four Parts, 1s. each) ...	F. Illife	3 0
57.	350 Questions on the Form and Tonality of Beethoven's Pianoforte Sonatas (Appendix to "Analysis of Form")	H. A. Harding	0 6
58.	First Steps in the Harmonisation of Melodies	J. E. Vernham	1 0
59.*	"Braille" Music Notation ...	Edward Watson	7 6
60.	Five-part Harmony ...	F. E. Gladstone	2 0
61.	The Viola ...	Berthold Tours	2 0

* Published in paper boards only.

Any number in this series may be had strongly bound in boards, price 6d. each extra, with the exception of Nos. 5, 26, 37, 37A, and 56, which are 1s. each extra.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Trinity College London (Inst. 1872).

President:

THE RIGHT HON. LORD COLERIDGE, M.A., K.C.

Warden:

EDMUND H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

MICHAELMAS TERM BEGINS ON SEPTEMBER 25.

The College provides complete and systematic instruction and training in every recognised musical subject for all classes of Musical Students. The fee for full-course students is £10 per term. In the Junior School, to which pupils are admitted up to the age of 15, the fee is £4 4s. per term for the full course.

The tuition of the College will serve as a preparative for all Public Examinations in the Theory and Practice of Music, including the Examinations for University Degrees. Students can enter for the Course or for special subjects.

The College Orchestra and Choir and the various Ensemble Classes are for Students and Non-Students.

Courses of Lectures on Musical History, Form, Choir Training, and the Art of Teaching are given during the Term.

Special Classes in the ART OF TEACHING, as applied to Music.

SCHOOL OF PIANOFORTE TECHNIQUE,

Under the direction of Mr. G. E. Bambridge, F.T.C.L., F.R.A.M.

The Virgil Clavier Department.

In this branch Mr. Bambridge is assisted by Mr. Albert Bate, Mr. C. Stiebler Cook, and Mrs. Halkett.

Open Scholarships of the annual value of £80 each and two Exhibitions for both sexes are awarded each year.

Classes Prospectus, including that for the Junior School and the regulations for Scholarships, may be had from the undersigned.

By order, SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

Just Published.

HOLDE SIRENEN (ZU EINER FEIERLICHEN MUSIK)

ODE

VON

MILTON

FÜR CHOR UND ORCHESTER IN MUSIK GESETZT

VON

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Deutsche Übersetzung von WALTHER JOSEPHSON.

Preis, Mark 2.50.
Chorstimmen, Mark 3.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THIRD EDITION, REVISED.

BEETHOVEN AND HIS NINE SYMPHONIES

BY

GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

PRICE, CLOTH, GILT, SIX SHILLINGS.

"I recognise it, without the smallest hesitation, as one of the most important and valuable among recent contributions to musical literature. . . . The best informed of professional musicians may learn a great deal about the master-works of Beethoven from Sir George Grove, whose wide reading and acute perceptiveness have enabled him to marshal an astonishing array of facts, and whose intimate acquaintance with the spirit of the master has qualified him to throw light upon pages which, to many, are still obscure. . . . I must be satisfied with the remarks already made, earnestly recommending all who recognise Beethoven's greatness as shown in his immortal Symphonies to obtain Sir George Grove's volume, and walk in the luminous paths through which he is ready to conduct all who trust his guidance."—Daily Telegraph.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

John Broadwood & Sons'

LIMITED,

NEW SHORT OVERSTRUNG GRAND

105 GUINEAS.

'MULTUM IN PARVO.'

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET, LONDON, W.

THE LONDON MUSIC SCHOOL

(LONDON ORGAN SCHOOL).

Established 1865.

22, PRINCES STREET, CAVENDISH SQ., W. (close to Oxford Circus).
Director and Principal: T. H. YORKE TROTTER, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon.

The School is open daily from 9 a.m. till 9 p.m., and provides a THOROUGH EDUCATION for PROFESSIONAL and AMATEUR MUSICIANS. Lessons may begin on any date, and a single subject taken if desired.

PRIVATE LESSONS are given in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition; Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, Violin, Viola, Violoncello and Double-Bass; all Wind and other Orchestral Instruments; Choir Training, Elocution and Stage Deportment, Modern Languages, &c. DAY AND EVENING CLASSES are held in Harmony and Counterpoint Musical Dictation, Quartet and Ensemble Playing, and in Elocution (Mr. Charles Fry), and Modern Languages.

The School has a Full Orchestra, a String Orchestra, and two Choral Classes.

The CONCERT ORGAN and two other three-manual Instruments are available for practice.

Prospectus on application to the Secretary.

No. 6r, Novello's Music Primers and Educational Series.

THE VIOLA

BY

BERTHOLD TOURS

EDITED BY ALFRED GIBSON.

Price Two Shillings. Paper boards, 2s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BOSWORTH EDITION.

NEW VALUABLE MATERIAL FOR VIOLIN STUDENTS.

EMIL KROSS

ALBUM OF STUDIES.

In Three Parts. 1s. 6d. each.

A Selection of rapidly advancing Studies by the most celebrated masters (including Spohr, Campagnoli, Kreutzer, Corelli, Fiorillo, Rode), in graded progression, thoroughly revised according to modern technical principles, with directions as to Fingering, and Explanatory Notes.

PRACTICAL TEACHING MATERIAL.
FOR SOLO VIOLIN.

In Four Books. 1s. 8d. each.

A Collection of celebrated Solo pieces of the old and new Masters, revised, bowed, and fingered.

FOR TWO VIOLINS.

In Six Books. 2s. 6d. each.

A progressively-graded Selection from the most approved Duets by celebrated Masters, in five stages, forming a supplement to every Violin Method, and leading up to thorough proficiency in Duet-playing.

MR. EMIL KROSS, the celebrated Author and Arranger of so many important Violin Works, gives in the above a number of revisions of Studies, Solos, and Arrangements for Violin, such as have not appeared for many years. These additions to Mr. Kross's splendid "Gradus ad Parnassum" are of the very greatest value, and will be heartily welcomed by every Teacher and Student of the Violin.

BOSWORTH AND CO., 5, PRINCES ST., OXFORD ST., W.
And at LEIPZIG, VIENNA, and PARIS.

Est à vous
H. Berlioz

THE FIRST CYCLE OF MUSICAL FESTIVALS (For the Key to the

[July 1, 1903.]

LS OF THE DOMINION OF CANADA.

its, see page 453.)

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

JULY 1, 1903.

BERLIOZ IN ENGLAND.

A CENTENARY RETROSPECT.

One hundred years have come and gone since this Hector Berlioz (his first name is omitted in nearly all the dictionaries) made his entry into the world. He was born at Côte Saint-André, a small town near Grenoble, France, on December 11, 1803. Berlioz père, a country doctor, wished his son to follow the medical profession, but all to no purpose. At the age of eighteen, Hector was sent to Paris as a medical student, but the unpleasant experiences of the dissecting-room so repelled the imaginative young man that he took to the healing art for that of music. He entered the Conservatoire de Musique and died under Lesueur for composition. (The only instrument Berlioz could play was the clarinet!) His parents entirely disapproved of his change of vocation on the part of their son. A violent quarrel with the 'old people' at home resulted in a stoppage of supplies, which compelled the wilful young man to earn a scanty livelihood by singing in the chorus of an obscure Parisian theatre. A Bohemian side-light on those early days is furnished in the Musical World of December 15, 1837. The extract is specially interesting as being one of the earliest references to Berlioz in an English musical journal. It forms part of an article entitled 'Music in Paris in 1837 (Ella's Musical Sketches, MS.).' Ella, by-the-way, does not give the name of his informant:—

The early history of Berlioz is romantic and may not be void of interest to the reader. He was first known to my informant as a chorister in a minor theatre; his reserved manners made him unsocial and unpopular with his comrades; by the musicians of the band he was remarked as eccentric in appearance, always proficient in his duties, and yet anxious to elude particular notice. My informant from motives of curiosity sought the acquaintance of this recluse, and one day adjourned to a neighbouring cafetaminet to discuss divers matters on music and sip the beverage of a 'Demie tasse.' The humble chorister produced from his pocket a bundle of MS. scores of descriptive overtures and dramatic scenes, and amidst the fumes of tobacco, the rattle of billiards and dominoes, endeavoured by singing the motivi of the various movements to interest his companion. When he arrived at a particular passage, the sedate and sullen chorister, having waxed warm and earnest in his gesticulations, exclaimed 'Voilà! le climax!' and down went his fist, smashing all the crockery upon the table.

A hot-headed and unconventional a pupil as Berlioz was regarded with little favour by the masters—that be at the Conservatoire, in fact Cherubini, the director, positively hated him. During his studentship he composed the 'Symphonie Fantastique' and the 'Overture des Francs Juges,' two works which, as Mr. Dannreuther has well said, 'are more than sufficient to show that he was already the master of his masters, Cherubini of course excepted.' Moreover, he was repeatedly plucked in the examinations for prizes in composition! But in 1828 he took the second, and finally (in 1830) the first prize—the 'Prix de Rome,' the blue-ribbon of the famous French music-school. At the end of his three years' sojourn in Rome, Berlioz returned to Paris where, finding it difficult to obtain a means of existence by composition, he took to writing articles in the newspapers and gave occasional concerts. His contributions to the Journal des Débats afforded full scope for the exercise of his remarkable literary gifts, and he had the additional advantage—not always in the Cabman: Cab, sir?

Old Gentleman: My friend, I can see that you are speaking, but I cannot hear a word you say. I have just come from a concert given by Monsieur Berlioz.

(From Charivari.)

equipment of musical critics—of possessing a technical knowledge of the subject upon which he wrote.

As a composer and as a man Berlioz was not popular in Paris, nor indeed in France. No man was more abused or caricatured, and his compositions were regarded as the outcome of a more or less disordered brain. He endeavoured to obtain a Professorship at the Conservatoire, but in vain; the only posts with which his distinguished name and his Alma Mater are officially associated were the appointments of Conservateur (1839-1850) and Librarian (1852-1869). His compositions are too well known—and we may add appreciated—to need further reference, and his writings—which include the 'Treatise on Instrumentation,' a branch of the art in which he was so consummate a master—possess quite a literary charm. After a strenuous existence of sixty-five years, Hector Berlioz died at Paris, March 8, 1869.

Much of an In Memoriam nature will be written about Berlioz during the remaining months of this centenary year. Not a little of this will recapitulate what is well known concerning him biographically, and there will be put forward a certain amount of impressionist criticism that is of doubtful value. Therefore we venture to strike out a new path, one that should have special interest for English readers, in giving some information concerning the visits of the eminent French composer to the land of 'Rule, Britannia,' where he was received with hardly less enthusiasm than his German contemporary Mendelssohn.

By his marriage with Miss Harriet Smithson (1800-1854), the distinguished Irish actress in Shakespearean parts, Berlioz became closely connected with these isles. The marriage took place at the British Embassy, Paris, on October 3, 1833, one of the signatories to the register being Franz Liszt, as will be seen from the subjoined official copy of the marriage certificate, specially procured for the purpose of this article.

(Page 120.)

Marriages solemnized in the House of His Britannic Majesty's Embassy at the Court of France in the year 1833.

Mr. LOUIS HECTOR BERLIOZ of the Town of Côte Saint André in the Department of Isère France—Bachelor, and HARRIET CONSTANCE SMITHSON of the Parish of Ennis in the County of Clare Ireland—Spinster, were married in this House by Licence this third day of October in the year one thousand eight hundred and thirty-three

By me M. H. LUSCOMBE, Chaplain.

This marriage was solemnized between us { L. H. BERLIOZ
H. C. SMITHSON

In the presence of { BERTHE STRITCH JACQUES HENNER
ROBERT COOPER F. LISZT

No. 359.

I A. P. Inglis Esq^{re} His Britannic Majesty's Consul-General at Paris do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and faithful Copy of an Entry in the Register Book of Embassy Marriages kept at the British Consulate at Paris in France.

Witness my Hand and Seal, this seventeenth day of June 1903.

A. P. INGLIS
Consul-General
Paris.

The Court Journal of October 12 rather cruelly refers to the ill-fated union in these words:—

Miss Smithson was married last week, in Paris, to Delrioz (sic), the musical composer. We trust this marriage will insure the happiness of an amiable young woman, as well as secure us against her re-appearance on the English boards.

An amusing incident of those Parisian days is recorded by Harriet Smithson's fellow countryman, the genial and witty George Alexander Osborne, who in a most interesting paper on his friend Hector Berlioz said*:—

Miss Smithson was much admired and sought after. I remember being at a public ball [at Paris], and while walking with her leaning on my arm, we were stopped by Mdlle. George, the great French tragedian, who took my other arm, making me look like an urn with two handles as we paced up and down the room. Many were the winks and nods I received, one gentleman loudly remarking, 'Look at that monopoliser of tragedy.'

There is considerable risk attending any statement as to the first performance of a Berlioz composition in England. But the Societa Armonica deserve credit for their enterprise in introducing the master's works to English audiences. The programme of the concert given on March 30, 1840, included—

Overture—Des Francs Juges (first time of performance) Berlioz.

On June 1, 1840, the same Society performed the 'Waverley' Overture, and later in the year (December) the 'King Lear' Overture was heard for the first time in this country at some concerts given at the Princess's Theatre. The 'Francs Juges' Overture was also performed by the 'unrivalled band of sixty wind instruments, conducted by Mr. Godfrey,' at the 'Promenades Musicales' given at the Surrey Gardens in May and June, 1841. These performances by outsiders doubtless drew the attention of the Philharmonic Society's directors to the existence of the French composer, then thirty-eight years of age, as the programme of the Philharmonic concert of March 15, 1841 (conducted by Charles Lucas), included—

* 'Musical Association Proceedings,' February 3, 1879.

Overture—Benvenuto Cellini (first time of performance in London) Berlioz.

These records of early performances prepare the way for giving an account of the first visit of Hector Berlioz to England.

Berlioz arrived in London on November 6, 1847, two days after the death of Mendelssohn. He was engaged by Jullien to conduct a season soon became as valueless as the paper on which they were written. Berlioz, however, viewed the whole thing through the rosiest coloured spectacles. Writing to a St. Petersburg friend on November 10, 1847, soon after his arrival in London, he says* :—

You can have no idea of my existence in that infernal city [Paris], which pretends to be the centre of art. I have just escaped from it, I am glad to say. Here I am in England with an independent position, financially speaking, such as I never hoped to attain. I am entrusted with the direction of the orchestra of

THE HOUSE IN WHICH HECTOR BERLIOZ WAS BORN.

(From the Musical Museum of Mr. Nicholas Manskopf, Frankfurt-on-the-Main.)

of English Opera at Drury Lane Theatre. The agreement between the impresario and the composer (printed in full in Mr. Joseph Bennett's monograph on Berlioz, p. 84) informs us that Berlioz was to be remunerated at the rate of £400 for three months' services, &c., while a companion 'treaty' stipulated for a grand opera from the pen of the composer-conductor for which he was to receive the sum of £800 on the completion of seventy performances. In a manner typically Jullienesque these documents the Grand English Opera about to open at Drury Lane in a month's time; more than that, I am engaged for four concerts to consist exclusively of my works; and, in the third place, to write an opera in three acts destined for the season of 1848 . . . The Director [Jullien] is prepared for any sacrifice, and will look to the second year only to recoup himself. . . . The chorus and orchestra are splendid. We shall not begin my concerts until January; I think they will go well. Jullien, our

* The extracts from the London correspondence are mainly taken from the 'Life and Letters of Berlioz.' Translated from the French by H. Mainwaring Dunstan. London: Remington & Co. 1882.

Director, is a bold and intelligent man who knows London and the English people better than anybody. He has already made his fortune, and has taken it into his head to make mine. I am going to let him do it, because, to achieve it, he is anxious only to employ those means which are sanctioned by art and good taste. But I have no great faith in his success.

The sentence last quoted was all too prophetic, as we shall presently see. In another letter—written to Morel in Paris, and dated '76, Harley Street, November 30, 1847'—Berlioz gives some interesting glimpses of London life in these words:—

... We shall not begin for a week yet. 'The Bride of Lammermoor' cannot fail to go well with Madame Gras and [Sims] Reeves. Reeves has a sweet, natural voice, and sings as well as the fearful English language will let him.

... The orchestra is superb, and, except for a certain want of precision in the wind instruments, a better one could not be found anywhere. We have 120 chorus-singers, who are also very good. Everybody welcomed me very warmly when Jullien, at one of his promenade concerts, played the 'Invitation à la valse.' The orchestra gave me an ovation, and the public insisted upon a repetition of—Weber!*

... I am horribly bored in the charming rooms taken for me by Jullien. I have, moreover, received any number of invitations since my arrival, and your friend, M. Grimblot... has introduced me to his club; but God only knows the amusement to be extracted from an English club. Macready gave a magnificent dinner in my honour a week ago. He is a charming man, and, in private life, devoid of all pretension.

The opera season opened (at Drury Lane) on December 6 with Donizetti's 'Lucia di Lammermoor,' sung in English, in which Sims Reeves—described as 'the new tenor'—at once made his mark, and gave great satisfaction to Berlioz. From a notice of the performance contributed by 'D. R.' (Desmond Ryan) to the Musical World of December 11, 1847, we extract the following:—

The orchestra was heard to great advantage in Beethoven's Overture to 'Leonora,' which, wherefore we could not discover, preceded Donizetti's opera, M. Berlioz, deeply versed in the scores of Beethoven, directing it with wonderful animation.

The new conductor, M. Hector Berlioz, established on Monday night his continental fame as one of the greatest living chefs d'orchestre. The highly efficient and artistic manner in which he ruled the mass of instrumentalists under his baton was deserving of all praise. His conducting was marked with great decision and energy, and he exhibited that spirit and animation which proved him a true enthusiast in his art. It was hardly possible for M. Jullien to have selected a more able and competent chef than M. Hector Berlioz.

In a second letter to Morel, Berlioz waxes enthusiastic about his first appearance before an English audience. He says:—

I must tell you that the inauguration of our Grand Opera was an immense success; the entire English press combined to praise us. . . . Reeves is a priceless discovery for Jullien. He has a charming voice, of an essentially refined and sympathetic character; he is a very good musician, his face is very expressive, and he acts with all the national vigour of an Irishman. On my appearance in the orchestra the whole house gave me a most cordial reception. To begin with, we played the lovely 'Leonora' Overture (No. 1) by Beethoven superbly.

... I am going to begin rehearsing my symphonies six weeks in advance, as soon as the orchestral parts and the score of 'Harold' reach me.

The next letter to Morel—dated 'London, January 14, 1848'—tells of hard work, the influenza, the pricking of the Jullien bubble, and the disillusionment of Berlioz:—

I am working here like a mill-horse, rehearsing every day from noon until four o'clock in the afternoon, and conducting at the opera from seven o'clock till ten at night. We only ceased rehearsing the day before yesterday, and I am just beginning to recover from an attack of influenza, which made me rather anxious so long as I was exposed to the fatigue and the draughts of the theatre.

You have doubtless already heard of the horrible mess in which Jullien is involved, and all of us with him. Nevertheless, as it is important that his credit in Paris should be damaged as little as possible, do not mention to anybody what I am going to tell you. His loss of fortune is not due to the Drury Lane enterprise; it was all gone before that commenced, and he no doubt reckoned upon large receipts to pull him through. He is just as reckless as when you knew him; he has not the remotest idea of the necessities of a lyric theatre, nor even of those plainly incidental to thoroughly good musical performances. He opened his theatre without a single score belonging to him, and with the exception of Balfe's opera, which he has been compelled to have copied, we are living just now upon the good nature of Lumley's agents, who lend us the orchestral parts of the operas we perform.

At the present time Jullien is on tour in the provinces, making a lot of money by his promenade concerts. At the theatre here our nightly receipts amount to a respectable total, and, to make a long story short, after having been made to consent to a reduction of one-third of our salaries, we are not receiving any pay at all. The chorus, the orchestra, and the workmen only are paid every week to keep the theatre going. Jullien, however, sold his music-selling business in Regent Street a fortnight ago for two hundred thousand francs, but I cannot succeed in getting paid, and the leading actors and actresses, the scene-painter, the chorus and ballet masters, the stage-manager—in short, everybody is in the same plight that I am. Can you understand such a state of things? Nevertheless, he protests that we shall not be losers, so we go on. . . .

My concert is still announced for the 7th of February. I have not cared about having any fresh rehearsals for the last few days, but, come what may, I shall resume them next Thursday. We are now in great hopes that the theatre will not be closed, thanks to a loan arranged by a music publisher for Mr. Gye, who is Jullien's representative during his absence.

If Jullien does not pay us when he comes back, I shall endeavour to come to some arrangement with Mr. Lumley, and give my concerts at Her Majesty's, because there is an advantageous position ready to my hand here, the position left vacant by the death of poor Mendelssohn. Everybody is telling me so from morning to night, and the press and the performers are alike well disposed towards me. The two rehearsals I have had of 'Harold,' the 'Carnaval Romain,' and two parts of 'Faust,' have already made them open their eyes and ears, so that I have every reason to believe that I ought to make a good position for myself here.

* This promenade concert took place at Drury Lane Theatre on November 16, 1847, when Weber's 'Invitation à la valse,' in its orchestrated form by Berlioz, was announced as for 'the first time,' the reference being of course to England.

BERLIOZ CONDUCTING A CONCERT OF THE PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY, PARIS.

CARICATURE BY GUSTAVE DORÉ, DRAWN AT THE AGE OF 17.

(From Le Journal pour rire.)

Further London experiences as interesting as they are amusing are related in the following letter to M. Alexis Lwoff, of St. Petersburg, composer of the Russian National Anthem. The date of this communication is 'London, January 29, 1848':—

Talking of idiots, if you only knew into what a nest of them I have fallen here! God only knows who directs the director of this unfortunate theatre! It is called the Royal Academy of Music, the Grand English Opera, and ever since it opened, that is to say for two months, I have done nothing but conduct Donizetti and Balfe, 'Lucia,' 'Linda di Chamounix,' and 'The Maid of Honour' [Balfe]. We had a superb orchestra, but our director has taken the cream of it with him into the provinces, where he is giving popular concerts, and we have to content ourselves with what he did not want, and keep the ball rolling all the same.

I hear arguments about music, the public, and the artists which would make the four strings of your violin break with anger, if they could only hear them. I have to listen to English lady singers, who would make the hair of your bow twist itself into a knot.

I am engaged here also for four concerts, and shall give the first next week, the 7th of February. We have not yet been able to get the whole orchestra together once for rehearsal. These gentlemen come and go when they please—some in the middle of the rehearsal, others before a fourth part is finished. On the first day I had no French horns at all; on the second I had three, on the third I had two, who went away after the fourth piece. That is the way they have in this country of understanding subordination.

I have been ill and confined to my bed for the last five days with a violent attack of bronchitis, brought on by anger, disgust, and annoyance. And yet there is so much to be done here, for the public are both attentive and intelligent, and really appreciate serious music.

I have heard poor Mendelssohn's last oratorio, Elijah. It is magnificently grand, and indescribably sumptuous in harmony.

Berlioz relates the following characteristic anecdote of Jullien. The possibility of producing Gluck's 'Iphigenia in Tauris' was under discussion, and Berlioz was asked to give an outline of the characters, plot, scenery, dresses, &c. When he stated that in Act 4 Pylades enters with a helmet on his head, Jullien exclaimed in an ecstasy of delight: 'A helmet? We are saved! I shall order a gilt helmet from Paris, with a coronet of pearls and a tuft of ostrich feathers as long as my arm, and we shall have forty representations.' No wonder that Berlioz exclaimed 'Pro-di-gious!'

We may now leave Jullien (who soon found his way into the Bankruptcy Court) and refer to the first concert given by Berlioz in England. This event took place at Drury Lane Theatre on the evening of February 7, 1848. Here is the one-man (and the great man) programme:—

PART I.

Overture to the Carnival of Rome.

Romance 'The Young Shepherd' (words by M. de Vere).

Miss Miran.

Harold in Italy—symphony in four parts, with solo on the Tenor, performed by Mr. Hill.

PART II.

The first and second acts of the lyrical drama of 'Faust.' Soloists: Mr. Sims Reeves, Mr. Gregg, and Mr. Weiss.

PART III.

Cavatina (Benvenuto Cellini)

Madame Dorus Gras.

Chorus of Souls in Purgatory (Requiem).

Funeral Oration and Apotheosis; being the Finale of the Triumphal Symphony composed for double Orchestra and Chorus expressly by order of the French Government, on the removal of the remains of the victims of July; and on the inauguration of the Column of the Bastille.

The solo part performed by Herr Koenig on the alto trombone.

The following notice of this initial concert from the Musical World of February 12, 1848, speaks for itself. After stating that 'the reception awarded to M. Berlioz by the English public was highly flattering, and his success as brilliant and decided as his most enthusiastic disciples could have desired,' the critic (in all probability Mr. J. W. Davison) goes on to say:—

The band and chorus, conducted by M. Berlioz, erected upon the stage, numbered about two hundred and fifty performers, who exerted themselves with unparalleled zeal to testify their respect for the composer whose works they were interpreting; and a more perfect and magnificent performance was perhaps never listened to. The band was as one instrument, upon the strings and pipes of which the conductor seemed to be playing. By the way, we may mention here that M. Berlioz fully realized his continental celebrity as a chef d'orchestre; his beating was emphatic and intelligible, and the mass of instrumentalists followed the slightest indication of his baton, the minutest shade of expression which he desired to obtain, with marvellous accuracy. The solo singers, Madame Dorus Gras, Messrs. Sims Reeves, Weiss, and Gregg, exerted themselves with praiseworthy zeal.

Not a little of the unusual excellence of this performance is due to the highly favourable impression which M. Berlioz has known how to produce among the members of his orchestra; by his polished and courteous manners; no conductor that ever entered an orchestra was more affable in his demeanour, or more gentlemanly in his conduct. M. Berlioz respects and loves his orchestra; and herein he shows himself a man of head no less than heart; for without the means of expression how could a composer communicate his genius to the world? The orchestra is the voice which the dumb musician is compelled to borrow in order to tell mankind of the great thoughts that stir within him, of the impressions he receives from natural phenomena, of the movements of his heart and being, under the ever-changing influence of passion. None understands this better than M. Berlioz—who has given so many proofs of being a poet and a philosopher.

Berlioz's own account of his concert may now be given. It is taken from a letter addressed to his friend Auguste Morel, and dated 'London, February 12, 1848':—

Not until to-day have I had time to write to you. My concert came off last Monday with brilliant success; the performance was a magnificent display of animation, power, and precision. We had five rehearsals for the orchestra, and eighteen for the chorus. My music has taken with the English public like a match to gunpowder; I was recalled after the concert. As usual everywhere, the 'Marche Hongroise' and the 'Scène des Sylphes' were encored. Everybody of note in the musical world was at Drury Lane on the occasion, and the majority of the prominent artists came and congratulated me after the concert was over. They did not expect anything of the sort; they anticipated diabolical, incomprehensible, and harsh music, devoid of charm. We shall see what line our Paris critics will take now. Davison himself wrote an article for The Times, half of which was shut out for want of space, but the portion that did appear has produced an effect. I do not know what he really thinks; with opinions such as his, there is no knowing [!]. Old Hogarth, of the Daily News, was in a most comical state of agitation. 'My blood is all on fire,' he said to me; 'never in my life have I

Although Berlioz failed to 'catch' his salary he certainly did not 'catch it' from the music critics of the London press, who, for a wonder, seem to have been well disposed to the new man and his novel methods. He further writes (from London) apropos of his concert and the English press:—

Life in London is even more absorbing than in Paris; everything is in proportion to the immense size of the place.

I get up at noon; at one o'clock come visitors, friends, new acquaintances, and artists furnished

MADAME BERLIOZ.

(From a scarce print in the Musical Museum of Mr. Nicholas Manskopf, Frankfort-on-the-Main.)

been excited by music in this way.' I am casting about now to find out how I can give my second concert. As Jullien is no longer paying his musicians or his chorus-singers, I dare not expose myself to the danger of finding them fail me at the last moment. Last night, after 'Figaro,' the desertion began. The French horns gave me notice that they would not appear again. And my salary is wandering about the country—Heaven only knows whether I shall ever catch it!

with introductions. Whether I like it or not, I lose three good hours in this way. From four to six I work; if I am not invited anywhere, I go out then and dine at some distance from my lodgings. I read the papers, and after that the hour for theatres and concerts arrives, and I stay listening to music of one sort or another until eleven o'clock. Three or four of us then betake ourselves together somewhere, and smoke until two in the morning. You know, more or less, all about the unexpected and tumultuous success of my concert at Drury Lane. In a few hours it disconcerted all conjectures, favourable or hostile, and overthrew the whole fabric of theories as regards my music which had been constructed here upon the preposterous Continental criticisms. The whole of the English press, thank goodness, has pronounced in my favour with extraordinary warmth, and, except Davison and Gruneisen, I did not know a single critic.

It is different now; the principal among them have called upon me, and have written to me, and there is frequent and cordial communication between us. It is a long time since I felt so truly pleased as I did when I read the article in the Atlas, which I sent to Brandus, and which he has not had translated. It is by Mr. Holmes, the author of a 'Life of Mozart,' very popular here. Mr. Holmes came with the idea that he should hear harsh and stupid music, nonsense, &c., &c.

You would have been very pleased with this great victory, I assure you. We must now pursue the enemy, and not fall asleep at Capua

The criticism of Edward Holmes which so greatly pleased Berlioz speaks well for his intuitiveness and outspokenness. It is much too long to be quoted in full, but the opening paragraph must be given as showing the generous spirit in which it was written, and also that there were competent musical critics in London half-a-century ago:—

CONCERT OF HECTOR BERLIOZ.

Since the first production of 'Fidelio' in England we have listened to nothing with such excitement and enthusiasm as to some of the compositions of M. Berlioz, performed in his very interesting concert on Monday at Drury Lane. The discovery of a new pen in the art, exercised in the highest and most serious departments of music, with all the grave intention of a Beethoven or a Gluck, and in this lofty and independent walk realising effects which delight the imagination and warm the sympathies of the hearer, is no slight event. We the more cordially acknowledge the powerful impression made upon us by this first hearing of the compositions of M. Berlioz, because we went among the most mistrusting and infidel of the audience. Detraction and false criticism in professional whispers and newspaper paragraphs had predisposed us to expect a critical penance on the occasion; and this, coupled with a somewhat pardonable unwillingness hastily to believe in original genius, or that the implements of the great German masters had passed in reversion to a Frenchman, rendered us anticipative of anything but pleasure. Surprise and gratification were complete, as all these prejudices were dispersed before the beautiful, the original and poetical effects of the music; and we can only say that if Berlioz is not Beethoven—he who can maintain such an activity of attention during four hours by the frequency of original and interesting conceptions, must be a worthy follower of that master, and a poet-musician of no common stamp. We left the house with an earnest desire to hear the whole of the music again, and as soon as possible. . . (Atlas, February 12, 1848).

A continuation of the letter of March 15, 1848—interrupted by the Atlas extract—furnishes us inter alia with Berlioz's opinion of the Philharmonic Society:—

The directors of Covent Garden want to arrange a Shakespearian concert, composed of 'Romeo,' 'King Lear,' the 'Ballade sur la mort d'Ophélie,' and 'The Tempest.' We had a meeting on the subject the day before yesterday, and I then told them that I would not consent to organize the performance on any terms whatever, unless they guaranteed me fifteen days' study for the voices, and four rehearsals for the orchestra. They are now seeing how they can manage this.

The season of the Philharmonic Society commenced the day before yesterday. They played a symphony by Hesse (the organist of Breslau), very well written, very cold, and very useless; another in A [the Italian Symphony] by Mendelssohn, admirable, magnificent, and in my opinion, very superior to the one, also in A [the Scotch], which was given in Paris. The orchestra is very good; except in regard to a few of the wind instruments, no fault can be found with it, and Costa conducts it perfectly. Nobody would believe that the Society have not invited me to contribute to its concerts, but it is nevertheless true. It is said that they will be driven to do so by the newspapers and their own committee. But I shall be very cautious about putting myself in the velvet paws of the pig-headed old men who manage that institution.

He then refers to the possibility of a permanent residence in England. What if this had come to pass?—

If I were to begin to write about all these trivialities I should take up too much of your time, and you can very easily imagine them. Briefly, I shall remain here as long as I can, because it takes a long time to make a position for oneself. Fortunately, circumstances are in my favour. Sooner or later the position will come, and I am told that it will be a solid one.

Berlioz gave his second concert—this time at the Hanover Square Rooms—on the afternoon of June 29, 1848. The programme included a repetition of the 'Harold in Italy' Symphony—that distinguished artist Mr. Hill (uncle of the Messrs. Hill, of New Bond Street) again performing the viola obbligato—the 'Carnaval Romaine' Overture, selections from 'Faust,' some songs, and Weber's 'Invitation à la valse,' orchestrated by Berlioz. The newspapers had not to report the prevalence of empty benches—and London contained only half the population it does now; on the contrary, we learn that 'the audience was crowded with well-known amateurs and professors of music; scarcely anyone eminent as a lover or practitioner of the art was absent.' Nothing could be more appreciative than the criticisms passed upon this second concert, and Berlioz seems to have approached very closely to Mendelssohn in winning the hearts of the English people.

It is interesting to find him as a specially invited guest at the annual dinner of the Royal Society of Musicians held on February 22, 1848. Moreover, he was honoured with a special toast. To quote from the account of the banquet in the Morning Post:—

The health of the celebrated Hector Barlioz (sic) was drunk amidst the cheers of the room. He replied in French that the honour conferred upon him by such a meeting was as heart-cheering as it was unexpected; that he had been received by the artistes of England with almost fraternal affection, and that his brethren of the press had warmly held forth to him the warm hand of fellowship.

We find that he did not disdain to conduct his Hungarian March ('Faust') at a concert given by the Amateur Musical Society, and that he attended the concerts of the Sacred Harmonic Society and Musical Union—in fact he seems to have entered con amore into the musical life of the Metropolis in the eventful season of 1848.

Chopin was here—most probably he and Berlioz met—as were also Thalberg and Charles Hallé. The Illustrated London News of February 12, 1848, contained a portrait of Berlioz, and the letterpress accompanying it referred to him as ‘an excellent classic scholar, a choice wit, and full of fine enthusiasm.’

Berlioz remained in London for a period of eight months. A pleasant au revoir found expression in the Musical World of July 8, 1848:—

Hector Berlioz returns to Paris, covered with laurels acquired in ‘unmusical England,’ early in the next week. Berlioz came here unknown and unrecommended, except by the glory of his name; he leaves behind him many friends, who will ever be anxious to hear of his progress, and will look forward with sincere pleasure to his next appearance in London.

How different from the farewell (in 1855) to Wagner!

That Berlioz was highly gratified and deeply sensible of the kindness shown to him in England is recorded in a letter written by him to the Morning Post of July 10, 1848, and which we quote from the English translation furnished by the Athenæum five days later:—

Sir,—Allow me to avail myself of your journal to express in a few words sentiments natural after the reception I have met with in London.

I am about to return into the country which they call France, and which after all is mine. I am going to see in what manner an artist can live there, or how long a time it will require for him to die in the midst of the ruins under which the flower is crushed and buried. But of whatsoever length be the suffering which awaits me, I shall preserve to the last the most grateful recollection of your intelligent and attentive public, and of our brothers of the Press, who have so nobly and constantly supported me. I am doubly happy to have been able to admire among them the excellent qualities of goodness, talent, intelligent attention combined with honesty in criticism: they are the evident tokens of a real love for Music, and to the friends of this noble art, now so poor, promise for it a future by inspiring them with a certain assurance that you will not allow it to perish.—The personal question is here only a secondary one; for you may believe me I love music better than my music—and I wish that more frequent opportunities of proving this had been granted to me.

Yes, our muse, afrighted by all the fearful clamours which echo from one corner of the Continent to the other, seems to me secure of an asylum in England; and the hospitality will be all the more splendid in proportion as the host best recollects that one of her sons is the greatest of poets—that Music is one of the divers forms of poetry, and that on the same liberty as Shakespeare has employed in his immortal conceptions depends the development of the music of the Future. Farewell, then, all you who have treated me so cordially. I leave you with pain of heart, repeating involuntarily the sad words of the father of Hamlet, ‘Adieu! adieu! remember me.’

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

The remaining visits of Berlioz to England will be treated of in subsequent issues. We are indebted to Mr. Nicholas Manskopf for kindly lending us, from his Musical Museum, Frankfort-on-the-Main, three of our Berlioz illustrations and the signature which accompanies the Special Supplement portrait.

F. G. E.

THE APOSTLES.

In the April issue of THE MUSICAL TIMES (page 228) an outline was given of the libretto of Dr. Elgar's new oratorio composed for the approaching Birmingham Festival, with a promise of furnishing some details of the music at a future time; this promise we are now able to fulfil.

In laying out his oratorio the composer has had in view the fact that the chorus is an intellectual force, and not a body of people more or less interested in what is going on who are merely called upon to utter reflective commentaries on the action.

The work is written, as is usual with Dr. Elgar, on the leit motif plan. The composer, as in his previous oratorio, has utilized—or perhaps it would be more accurate to say has reflected—the spirit of some of the Gregorian tones. An example of this will be found in the theme representative of the Apostles themselves, taken from the Gradual ‘Constitues eos,’ in which power is promised to them and to their successors for all time. It stands thus in its original form:—

but resulting from its Elgaristic metamorphosis it becomes:—

(Chorus.) The Lord hath cho - sen them, They shall be named the Priests of the Lord,

The Prologue—beginning with the words ‘The Spirit of the Lord is upon me’—opens with a short orchestral introduction, in which the following theme, inseparably connected throughout the work with the foregoing idea, is prominent. Here it is:—

The prayer of Christ is always suggested by this mystic succession of chords :—

The Gospel has its own representative motif :—

and the Promise—'the earth bringeth forth her bud, &c., so the Lord will cause righteousness and praise to spring forth'—has the following theme :—

This is amplified and ultimately reaches its fullest development when the establishment of the Church is assured.

The other characters — Peter, Judas, Mary Magdalene, &c. — have their own individual themes, and the whole oratorio is knit together with that suggestiveness which we have been led to expect from Dr. Elgar's previous creations.

An interesting addition has to be made to the article in our last issue on Trinity College, Cambridge. The Milton treasures in the Library have been enriched by the presentation of the autograph score of Sir Hubert Parry's 'Blest pair of Sirens,' the gift of the composer. It bears the following subscription :

Finished, Jan. 7, 1887. Written at Wilton and in London. C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

THE LAST CHAPTER.

In the reading of the music of the past, in the appreciation of it, and in the criticism of it, there always enters an element which engrosses me exceedingly and which may be regarded from a many points of view. That element has many facets; it may be considered as belonging in a sense to the beginning, to the middle, or to the end of musical transition from one school to another. For with the study of each musical chapter you may note how strange a confusion combines together the end of the last and the beginning of the new; that element is the mysterious continuity of thought which is perpetual, but which in its parts is separated by different thought, emotion and rule, into different chapters. The shepherd who watched the stars on the plains of Shinar conceived a rudimentary idea of the rhythm of the firmament which translated itself to his pulses, and which thereby evolved a certain musical conception of the most rudimentary kind—musical nevertheless. But the 'music of the spheres' involved his own personal creation; and one may, in a spirit of gentle reasoning, suppose that his own share in the originality of the combination was united to the thought of the musician who came after, so that, link by half-link, the great message of music has swept its slow way down the arches of Time, each link supported by the half-link that had gone before, until we begin to recognize that any last chapter in music represents part of the past and part of the future. The thought is not without its illuminating quality; for it contains the elemental significance of the effect of the past upon the present and of the effect of the present upon the future. In other words—and the phrase does not in any way disturb any definite theories upon the value and position of modernity in music—the last chapter in the generation of any great school of music does not call for the word Finis to be written against it upon the advent of any composer, or upon the really historical completion of any great musical school; that ultimate point comes when, midway in the new prophet's career and teaching, he has finished with the past, when, even as Columbus, he has definitely set his sails towards the West, when he is for an artistic El Dorado. But that, for the moment, is another story.

The time comes then when the modern musician, who has learned so much from a former time, who has interwoven past influences into his novel no less than into his future, leaves that past; and, as always happens with creative musicians, he has little enough gratitude for the great assistant geniuses who have helped him along towards his renewal of life. The marching progress of music is very much like the marching progress of any science, art or literary chapter. It depends so much upon the things that are done; and yet it is so often persuaded completely to deny its ancestry. When a new genius sets forth upon his career, he usually, in the pride of youth, intentionally tries to forget his generation, and yet he remembers it for the sake of its accomplishment. He looks forward; yet is he held by the trammels of the past. And therefore, in some mysterious way, the past, using angels' wings—wings possibly beating unto exhaustion—spreads its influence over him, and for a time he is restrained and hushed. He is merely in leash. He, in a word, is only among those who desire to complete the last chapter; and his youthful views of the past naturally influence his desire for the future. Then, slowly arising from the things that have gone before, he begins to note a wonderful dream, a dream unthought of, undesired perhaps, but nevertheless most certain of its appearance, rising out of his brain. With pulses of life all quickened, with a desire inflamed, the dream, he understands, must be realized in action. The last chapter, so far as the new artist is concerned, has been completed; the new chapter is to commence. Let it not be thought that this is any merely incidental occurrence, any fanciful linking of generation with generation. The history of music teaches so much through every succession of family to family. The theory may be tested as a truth from every point of view.

Take, for a single instance, the career of Beethoven. He was indeed destined to complete a symphonic chapter, even as Mozart was destined to complete an operatic chapter before him. Yet, upon carefully gauging the matter, you will find that Beethoven had to hark back upon the past before he could begin to complete his chapter. Again this was a case of the link and the half-link; again the new genius, in the act of spreading forth glorious wings towards the future, was compelled to use all the flight already accomplished by the dreadful past; and, with that, the future genius completes his own chapter, before another such arises to overlap his work and to start away upon a new dayspring. We should not, however, forget that the advent of great genius is also the occasion of the spreading of a private school of impostors who, recognising in part this theory of the 'last chapter,' are very ready to rise upon such waxen wings as those of Dædalus, upon which the sun has but to shine in order to melt their ambitions and to send them flying to ruin by the simplest of mundane laws.

The tragedy of the completion of a final chapter in music rests in the irrevocable struggle of a new greatness striving with a double influence—a struggle so often marked on the one side by human suffering and human pain, on the other by human neglect and human contempt. There are ingenious scientific arrangements—to be, for a moment, frivolous—in any magic-lantern effects, whereby you will find that a new pictorial subject very gradually effaces the old, and that there is a moment when there seems to be almost a struggle between that which is passing and that which is to be novel to the spectator. It is at this midway point—if one may at once transfer the simile to the art of music—where the last chapter begins, and the old chapter reaches its end. In the mingling of types there is often a terrible confusion; and it is at this point that the cheaper and more popular forms of music step in and, for a moment, in the confusion of things, make an unthinking multitude applaud the effects of cheapness. To return, nevertheless, to the more serious point of the subject, one finds that music is so much a matter of period and of interval, in its immediate significance and effect, that the fading out of a past spirit and the beginning of a new thought become so identified that they constitute in themselves the final, the ultimate, the dying thought of a generation. My point may be explained even more definitely. Music is the counterpart, in its progress, of human life. But generations overlap one another; the old men do not die in their ripeness just because the young men are advancing towards their middle age. The last chapter is not always a definite severance between the past and the future. The summer leaves have half the freshness of spring upon them, even though the spring has died; the autumn gold is half casketed in the green of the summer. Winter is the chapter that is the last of the aforegone things, and the first of the things that are to be. Palestrina had the monastic spirit with him, and his spirit turned to a sort of solemn triviality. The spirit of Mozart and of Gluck languished towards Bellini and Donizetti. Purcell and Handel spent themselves in Bishop. Thus, link and half-link, the last chapter is completed; but because there is ever a new half-link the continuity of music goes on, just as sun and half-sun make up our summer and our winter.

VERNON BLACKBURN.

Occasional Notes.

The Nave of Truro Cathedral is to be consecrated on Wednesday, the 15th inst., when the Prince of Wales (Duke of Cornwall) and the Princess of Wales intend to honour the ceremony with their presence. There will be three full choral services during the day, at which the music will be under the direction of Dr. M. J. Monk, Organist of the Cathedral, with Dr. D. J. Wood, Organist of Exeter Cathedral, at the organ. We hope to give an account of the event in our August issue, when Truro will form one of the illustrated articles in our Cathedral Series from the pen of 'Dotted Crotchet.'

Hans von Bülow had a caustic tongue. On one occasion after playing at a concert he was presented with a laurel wreath. This token of appreciation he at once deposited under the pianoforte, stating that while he was very much obliged, he was not a vegetarian! Another story of his wit is related in the 'Life and Letters of Sir George Grove,' noticed in another column. At St. Louis the redoubtable Hans gave a concert at which a dreadful screaming soprano preceded him. As a little prelude to his solo, Hans played the recitative from the Choral Symphony 'O friends, not these tones!' 'Just like him,' says Grove.

Dr. Walther Josephson, the conductor of the Duisburg Gesangverein and of the Musical Festival referred to on page 478, was born at Barmen, Rhenish Prussia, on April 16, 1868. The son of a Protestant clergyman, he studied art and literature at the Berlin University, and musical history with Philipp Spitta, the famous biographer of Bach. Professors Reinhold Succo and Johann Schulz were his teachers of composition and pianoforte. In 1893 he accepted the post of conductor of the Oratorio Society, and organist of the Evangelical Church at Insterburg, East Prussia. He remained for six years in that little town on the Russian Frontier, and during that period founded the Lithuanian Musical Festivals. In 1899 he exchanged the east of the Empire for the west, by accepting the conductorship of the leading Choral Society of Duisburg on the Rhine. Here he will be read with interest by reason of their gratifying nature:—

Dr. Josephson undoubtedly deserved well of his audience by introducing this composition, since he was not only responsible for the poetic German translation, but also for the first performance of this valuable work in Germany. The venture succeeded completely: the work achieved a striking success (durchschlagenden Erfolg). A laurel wreath was proof to the jubilantly applauded composer that it is not difficult for Germans to accept the good from whatever direction it comes. (Generalanzeiger.)

The work, which had been rehearsed by the chorus with exceptional care and appreciation, met with an enthusiastic reception. The composer, a fresh, elastic gentleman of fifty-five, was greatly honoured, and he was presented with a splendid laurel wreath as a memento of the Duisburg Festival. (Duisburger Zeitung.)

The work made a powerful impression, and we can only thank Dr. Josephson that he has acquainted us with this pearl amongst English compositions. The great applause with which the composer was greeted was thoroughly justified. (Rhein- und Ruhr Zeitung.)

DR. WALTHER JOSEPHSON.

CONDUCTOR OF THE DUISBURG GESANGVEREIN AND OF THE RECENT MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

labours amid more congenial surroundings and within easy access to such well-known art centres as Düsseldorf and Cologne. He has already conducted two musical Festivals in Duisburg,—one in 1901, the other in May last—while every winter he performs with his Gesangverein a number of important works by old and modern masters. In 1901 he was appointed Königlich Musikdirector. That Dr. Walther Josephson is alive to the importance of moving with the times is proved by his having secured the first performances in Germany of Bruckner's posthumous Ninth Symphony, and Sir Hubert Parry's 'Blest pair of Sirens,' of which latter he has made an excellent German translation.

The following extracts from German newspapers on the first performance in the Fatherland of Sir Hubert Parry's 'Blest pair of Sirens' and the work itself

A charming story is told in connection with the late Sophie Schloss (since 1850 Frau Gurau), one of the most distinguished singers in Germany, who recently died at the age of eighty-one. At the Lower Rhine Musical Festival of 1836, at which 'St. Paul' was produced, her father Herr Schloss, although a perfect stranger to the composer, importuned Mendelssohn to hear his little daughter sing. He said that it depended entirely upon his (Mendelssohn's) verdict whether his little girl should be educated as a singer or not. When the child, aged fourteen, was led into the room where the composer of 'St. Paul' was seated, she was terribly nervous, the colour of her cheeks rapidly changing from red to white. Mendelssohn was quick to perceive her state of mind. Kindly stroking the head of the little maiden, he said to her in tones of encouragement: 'Now, what will you sing to me?' The dark eyes brightened and the youthful face smiled as she replied: 'Auf Flügeln des Gesanges' ('On wings of song'). 'Really!' said he, 'Well then, let us take flight together.' He then seated himself at the pianoforte and accompanied her in his own composition, while she, encouraged by the confidence he had inspired in her, poured forth the lovely tones of her rich contralto voice, filling the room with their beauty. As Mendelssohn withdrew his hands from the instrument he said to her: 'That was excellent! You have a golden voice, and must positively become a great singer.' Sophie soon afterwards entered the Paris Conservatoire, where she became the favourite pupil of Bordogni, studying with ardent zeal, and fired by the ambition that she might 'soon be able to sing something tolerably good to him'—the kind stranger-composer who to the end of his life was one of her best friends.

The draft programme of the Birmingham Musical Festival (to be held on October 13, 14, 15 and 16) has been issued. Dr. Hans Richter retains his post as conductor, and Mr. R. H. Wilson, of the Hallé Choir, Manchester, will make his first appearance at Birmingham as chorus-master of the Festival. The scheme will include 'Elijah' (Mendelssohn); 'Messiah' (Handel); Mass in B minor (Bach); Psalm xlii. (Liszt); Te Deum (Bruckner), first performance in England; 'Voyage of Maeldune' (Stanford); Symphonies by Mozart, Beethoven, and Berlioz; and 'The Apostles' (Elgar), composed expressly for this Festival.

Sir Alexander Mackenzie contributes (on p. 456) the third and last of his graphic and interesting letters on his Canadian tour. That it has been an unqualified success is evident to all concerned and to sundry others who have watched the course of events from afar. The Cycle of the Musical Festivals has not only accomplished good all round, but it has created an untold interest in music throughout the Dominion. Canada is full of musical possibilities, and the visit of Sir Alexander has been the means of putting life into many new organizations, and doubtless has kindled fresh enthusiasm in previously existing societies whose excellent work he has not omitted to cordially acknowledge in these columns.

Yours sincerely
Charles A. E. Harriss

The untiring zeal of Mr. Charles A. E. Harriss, of Ottawa—who devoted two whole years to perfecting the arrangements—calls for acknowledgment in terms of highest appreciation, and he thoroughly deserves all the kudos which resulted from his splendid organization of the scheme. To Sir Alexander Mackenzie heartiest thanks are due,—with a special chord of gratitude on the part of his 'brither' British composers—together with felicitations on his splendid achievement. Sir Alexander has said very little in his letters about his own compositions, but we have means of knowing that he scored heavily in the heartiness with which they were everywhere received. Finally, the stack of Canadian newspapers lying on our table forms a full chorus of appreciative testimony, free from any discordant note, to the manner and matter of the scheme so admirably organized by Mr. Harriss, and conducted with so much tact, efficiency and enthusiasm by the genial Principal of the Royal Academy of Music. We give as one of our Special Supplements a portrait group of those who so ably co-operated in carrying out the preliminary details of the Festivals. The following is the key to this pictorial representation of good men and true:—

(Unless otherwise stated—Hon. Sec., &c.,—the names are those of Associate-Conductors.)

- A. [His Excellency The Right Hon. THE EARL OF MINTO, G.C.M.G., P.C., J.P., LL.D., Governor-General, President.
- B. SIR ALEXANDER CAMPBELL MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M., Conductor.
- C. CHARLES A. E. HARRISS, Director of Festivals.
1. Roselle Pocock, London, Ont.
2. Martin W. McEwan, B.C.L., Hon. Sec., Brantford, Ont.
3. Arthur J. Forward, Hon. Treasurer, Ottawa.
4. J. Harold Brown, Moncton, N.B.
5. H. K. Jordan, Brantford, Ont.
6. Edgar J. Birch, Ottawa.
7. J. J. Jones, Hon. Sec., New Westminster, Man.
8. James F. Morrissey, Hon. Sec., Hamilton, Ont.
9. Alex. R. Irwin, Hon. Sec., Brandon, B.C.
10. Henry N. P. Chesley, Hon. Sec., Ottawa.
11. E. Howard Russell, B.A., Victoria, B.C.
12. F. Dyke, Vancouver, B.C.
13. Edward J. Chadfield, Mus.B. Oxon., Woodstock, Ont.
14. R. G. Allan, Hon. Sec., St. John, N.B.
15. Geo. Phillips, Hon. Sec., Victoria, B.C.
16. L. H. J. Minchin, M.A., Hon. Sec., Winnipeg, Man.
17. Rhys Thomas, Winnipeg, Man.
18. Bruce Carey, Hon. Treasurer, Hamilton, Ont.
19. C. L. M. Harris, Mus. D., Hamilton, Ont.
20. A. E. White, New Westminster, B.C.
21. Horace W. Reyner, Mus. B., Montreal.
22. A. S. Clarke, Hon. Sec., Halifax, N.S.
23. F. B. Fenwick, Brandon, Man.
24. Stewart Houston, B.A., Hon. Sec., Toronto.
25. C. H. Porter, Halifax, N.S.
26. J. J. Dawson, Hon. Sec., Woodstock, Ont.
27. A. Watts, Hon. Sec., New Westminster, B.C.
28. G. H. Findlay, Hon. Sec., Montreal.
29. Herbert Taylor, Victoria, B.C.
30. Albert Ham, Mus. D., Oxon., Toronto.
31. A. E. Holstead, Hon. Sec., Moncton, N.B.
32. J. J. Goulet, Montreal.
33. F. H. Torrington, Mus. D., Toronto.
34. James S. Ford, St. John, N.B.
35. J. H. Smith, Vancouver, B.C.
36. J. Arthur Paquet, Quebec.
37. Arthur Dorey, Festival accompanist, Ottawa.
38. Arthur Lavigne, Hon. Sec., Quebec.
39. F. H. Blair, Montreal.
40. E. Ricketts, Hon. Sec., Vancouver, B.C.

A slight correction has to be made in the information furnished on p. 309 of our last issue. Sir Alexander received the honorary degree of Doctor of Music from the University of Toronto, not that of LL.D. from Trinity University in that city.

The letter from Mr. J. C. Clarke (who is the conductor of one of the best male-voice choirs in the country) which we print on page 482, deserves the serious attention of the authorities responsible for the choice of music used at Welsh Eisteddfodau. The fondness of Welsh male choirs for realistic and picturesque music of a rather low art-value is remarkable. The hurly-burly of a battle with its moans and gasps of the wounded, the roaring of lions,—if not the wagging of their tails—earthquakes, hurricanes, catastrophes, are the subject-matter over which the fervent Welsh choralist loves to vent his tense emotionalism and to tear his passion to tatters. It is often magnificent and thrilling, but is it quite music? The evolution of this situation is interesting. Most of the existing English compositions of the best class for male voices have been influenced in their style and, what is of more importance, their choice of resource by Cathedral traditions. The top part is almost invariably only possible for a high male alto, a class of voice not at all common in Wales. Hence Welsh choirs have been hard pressed to find varied music to suit their T.T.B.B. constitution. In this stress they were led to use adaptations of pieces selected from the ample repertory supplied by well-known French composers for the innumerable male-voice choirs in France, and they soon found that this dramatic and nervous music was suited to their peculiar genius. The next step was for Welsh composers to imitate more or less successfully this style of composition. The question now is, should Welsh choirs continue to lavish their splendid natural capacity on music for which musicians generally have little respect, and the practice of which tends to render them incapable of performing the finest music and unable to pit themselves against the best English male choirs?

The reference in last month's issue to Herr Josef Nešvera, and the performance of his 'De Profundis' at the Bridlington Musical Festival (page 383), has elicited from the composer the following letter addressed to Messrs. Novello:—

ESTEEMED SIRS,—THE MUSICAL TIMES of June having printed my portrait and a very kind criticism of my 'De Profundis' may I beg of you to be good enough to convey to the Editor as well as to 'Herr Dotted Crotchet' my sincerely felt thanks for their kindness. Altogether the accounts about my work received from England have made me so happy that I have made up my mind to make the acquaintance of that good country as soon as possible. Our newspapers printed translations of the accounts of the Festival at Bridlington.

Thanking you most heartily for your kind interest on behalf of my work, I am,

With highest esteem,

Your gratefully devoted

JOSEF NEŠVERA.

During his visit to London for the Festival of which his music formed the chief feature and attraction, Herr Richard Strauss found time for a visit to the Royal College of Music. It was, to be exact, on the afternoon of Tuesday, June 9, and the interest of the visit was concentrated in the performances of the students' orchestra, which, under the composer's own direction, played his symphonic poem 'Tod und Verklärung.' Though it had been rehearsed but once by Sir Charles Stanford, it was played with a zest and precision, and with a fine quality of tone-colour, that obviously astonished as well as pleased the composer. On such an occasion compliments are apt to be of a somewhat perfunctory character, but there could in this case be small doubt of the genuineness of the praise which Herr Strauss bestowed, and which, if it may without indiscretion be made public, he afterwards reiterated in conversation, going so far as to affirm that he had never before heard so fine a performance from a students' orchestra. Considering the exacting nature of the music, this was high praise, but it was by no means undeserved. Afterwards, under Sir Charles Stanford's conductorship, the band was heard in Wagner's 'Huldigungsmarsch,' which gave Strauss an opportunity of judging of the ensemble better than when he was at the conductor's desk.

The absence of an overture to 'Israel in Egypt' has led to various expedients in supplying a want that is not felt in Handel's other oratorios. THE MUSICAL TIMES of April, 1870, contains the following information concerning a performance of 'Israel' by the Windsor and Eton Amateur Choral Society, conducted by the late Dr. G. J. Elvey:—

The opening recitative was preceded by an introductory symphony composed by Dr. Elvey, we believe for a portion of his musical degree.

Handelian enthusiasm finds a votary so far north as the Shetland Isles. We hear of a gentleman who came all the way from Lerwick in order to sing in the chorus at the recent Handel Festival. Dr. Manns did not regard him as 'a rash intruder,' but as a rational Scot who would pursue the 'even tenor of his ways' in helping to 'swell the full chorus.'

Echoes of a luncheon-table at the Handel Festival:—

That wherever Handel got it from, its there!

That the soprano leads were not so good as the Leeds sopranos.

That 2,000 Yorkshire singers could—(but this sentence had better remain like Schubert's B minor Symphony).

A tablet has been affixed to the house Fleischmannsgasse 451, Vienna, in which the composer Gustav Albert Lortzing lived between 1846-49. An interesting letter of his, by-the-way, has recently been published. It was written, evidently from this address, by the composer to his brother on November 10, 1847. Lortzing had just received the news of the death of Mendelssohn, which deeply impressed him. At that period he was conductor at the An der Wien theatre, and was rehearsing the choruses to 'Antigone' for a performance to be given in honour of Mendelssohn, who was expected to come and conduct his 'Elijah.' Lortzing writes:— 'Now we must give the work ["Antigone"] without him! He will listen to it from above, but how it will please him we shall never know.'

Colonial enterprise in music is spreading. Following closely upon certain events in Canada comes the news of a Festival to be held at Wellington, New Zealand, in October next, 'not only in the general interests of choral music, but also as a suitable mode of commemorating Mr. Robert Parker's twenty-fifth year of musical work in Wellington.' The draft scheme includes the performance of the following works:—

Golden Legend, Elijah, Hiawatha's Wedding Feast and Death of Minnehaha, The Desert, Blest pair of Sirens, Edipus at Colonus, Suite in F for Strings (Parry), Stanford's Last Post, in addition to compositions by Elgar, &c.

Mr. H. A. Parker is the secretary of the Festival, to which not a few in the old country will heartily wish all success.

Dr. Henry Hiles, who framed the conditions for the establishment of the Faculty of Music in the Victoria University of Manchester, and has for several years been the acting Professor at that Institution, has responded to the invitation of the Council of the University of New Zealand to undertake the supervision of the exercises submitted by all candidates for degrees in music in that University across the seas.

The conclusion of the Biographical Sketch of Sir Sterndale Bennett is unavoidably held over till our August issue.

A FASCINATING BIOGRAPHY.*

'It could not have been better done' is the impression one receives while reading this delightful 'Life' of 'G'—an impression that is deepened as one page after another is perused, and confirmed when the book is regretfully put down, but to be taken up and read through again. Mr. Graves has not only told the life-story of Sir George Grove with consummate masterfulness, but in such a manner as to revivify that remarkable personality.

What a wonderful career it was! Engineer—working in pattern and fitting shops at Glasgow as a common mechanic, building lighthouses, and making railways; Secretary of the Society of Arts and the Crystal Palace; Biblical student, profound and enthusiastic; Founder of the Palestine Exploration Fund; Programme-annotator; Editor of Macmillan's Magazine and frequent contributor to the periodical press; first Director of the Royal College of Music; and last, but by no means least, Editor of the 'Dictionary of Music and Musicians,' familiarly known as 'Grove.' To these varied pursuits must be added the authorship of the volume 'Beethoven and his Nine Symphonies' and of a Geography Primer; also his interest in Chinese porcelain, and other hobbies. Versatile to a degree, his life, one long record of hard work and highly charged with industrious endeavour, was one worthy of all emulation.

We are not altogether surprised to learn that as a child he was lively and at times exceedingly mischievous. An early instance of his ever-bubbling humour is recorded in an act of boyish mischief whereby an al fresco lecture at school was completely demoralized by Master George's 'stealthy application of a burning-glass to the trousers of a stooping schoolmate'! Music soon entered into his life. The periodical visits of the Grove family—who seventy years ago resided where Wandsworth Road Railway Station now stands—to the concerts of the Sacred Harmonic Society furnish a pleasant picture of youthful enjoyment. We quote from Mr. Graves's narrative:—

The house-key was hidden under the gate, and supper left out for them on their return, which was seldom before eleven, for they footed it both ways. To secure good places in the 3s. unreserved seats, they had to be there long before the doors were opened, and then there was a regular hurdle-race over the benches to the front row. The interval before the performance began was spent in examining the score or watching the players come in—Perry the leader, Lindley and old 'Drag.' (Dragonetti), the famous double-bass player. Throughout the oratorio 'G.' acted as expounder and commentator, never failing to signal attention to his favourite passages. Those were golden evenings of halcyon days; they used to sing nearly the whole way back to Clapham—a habit which led to the memorable comment of a friendly policeman near the turnpike on the Wandsworth Road. The Groves had fallen in with a noisy party from a neighbouring inn, and the policeman who followed to keep them from being molested and walked part of the way with them, thus delivered his soul on the subject of music: 'Well, Sir, some likes the pihanny, and some likes the flute, and some likes various sorts of instruments; but as for me, Sir, I like the wocal. Indeed, Sir, I may say I'm a hog at the wocal!'

His knowledge of the Bible was such as to draw from Dean Stanley the remark 'that Grove was the best Old Testament theologian he knew.' All this is fully brought out in the book under notice. His power of observation and fondness for comparisons is exemplified in the following extract from a letter to a correspondent. He says:—

Did you ever notice that at the first enumeration of the inhabitants of the world (Gen. iv. 20, 21, 22) they are divided into three great sections—herdsmen, musicians, and engineers? It struck me as very interesting when I first observed it.

Turning to the musical interests of Sir George Grove's varied career, it is perhaps not surprising to learn that when he first heard Beethoven's Choral Symphony (under Berlioz, in 1852) he 'could make very little of it.' Not until he began his official connection with the Crystal Palace did the musical instincts within him began to blossom and bring forth fruit abundantly in the valuable analytical programmes so worthily associated with his name. The Beethoven references in the book are very interesting. For instance, at one time he thought of compiling a 'Beethoven Dictionary.' This from a letter: 'Every now and then I get terribly impatient to begin the second edition of my article on Beethoven in the Dictionary as a separate volume. I look forward greatly to it. I will have all the portraits, views of spots, houses, etc., facsimiles of writing and music. By degrees, perhaps, I may do the same with Mendelssohn and Schubert.' Yes! Beethoven, Mendelssohn, and Schubert were his triumvirate, Schubert being the predominant partner; no wonder that he was amused and pleased at the fitness of things when in walking along the streets of the City he espied the collocation 'Shoobert and Grove, wine bottlers.' 'What a horrible bore you must think me,' he wrote on one of his innumerable postcards, 'but Schubert is my existence.'

We get some pleasant reminiscences of musicians. Here are two of Costa. 'Costa's friend, Captain Lyon—an old Queen's messenger who lived with him—had broken his leg, and on one occasion I asked him if he was getting better. "Oh, yes," said Costa, "he will walk on crotchets." 'At a rehearsal of "Lohengrin" Costa said: "Bring back the man with the goose." From Costa to Brahms is a great step, but the stories concerning the latter are equally entertaining. The first was told to Grove by Dr. Joachim:—

Brahms was at W——'s house at Coblenz. W—— is a great amateur of wine, and brought up some very special vintage and set it before Brahms, saying, 'Now, Herr Brahms, this wine must be drunk with great consideration. It is the same thing among wines that you are among composers.' On which Brahms at once remarked: 'Do you happen to have Bach in your cellar? If so, bring him up at once.'

Another, related by Dr. Mandyczewski, is typically Brahmsian:—

A lady at Hanover wanted to make him play at an evening party, but he wouldn't. First he got her to stand in the curve of the grand piano while he stood at the keyboard, leaning across the lid so that it could not be opened, and talking hard to her all the time. And when at last she did get the lid opened, he at once struck the low C with his left hand and a high C sharp with his right, and said, 'How can I play on a piano that is so fearfully out of tune?'

The following extracts relate to his valued colleagues at the Royal College of Music:—

Parry's 'Blest Pair'—a noble work, which improves every time.

I must leave off [writing a letter] for Parratt is looking over my shoulder with a horrid expression of countenance (you know how fiendish he can look when he chooses).

The latter in fun, of course. And this leads us to give some examples of Grove's humour. His stories, jokes, and the like were highly amusing, and how he enjoyed telling them! 'Laughter holding both his sides' was a not inconsiderable quantity in his personality. The 'Life' bristles with specimens of 'the lighter side,' extracted from his numerous note-books and recounted from personal recollection. At one time it appears he actually contemplated making a collection—for an article or book—of jeux d'esprit. We learn that the abbreviation for the General Railway Station, Chester (which, by-the-way, Grove helped to build), was 'G. S.,' but this a Chester tradesman took to mean 'Julius Cæsar'! Sir Joseph Paxton once remarked that something had made 'his blood broil'; and an agitator holding forth in Knowle Park, Sevenoaks, referred to the 'pelebium blood' of the owners. A Spurgeon anecdote tells of how the great preacher once sought the retirement of Sir George's private room at the Crystal Palace in order to 'have a smoke.' 'Then you do not mind an occasional cigar, Mr. Spurgeon,' said the genial secretary. 'Oh, yes I do, young man,' he replied, 'it is the regular cigar that I like.' We read of the lady who, after a most impressive performance at a Crystal Palace concert, said: 'You might have heard a mouse drop'; of the Englishman who, wishing to say the proper thing in bidding good-bye to a Frenchman, said: 'Au reservoir,' to which Monsieur replied: 'Tanks!'; of the captain of a steamer in the East who is said to have shouted:—

* The Life and Letters of Sir George Grove, C.B., Hon. D.C.L. (Durham), Hon. LL.D. (Glasgow). Formerly Director of the Royal College of Music. By Charles L. Graves. London: Macmillan and Co., Ltd. 1903.

Ease her, stop her,
Who's for Joppa?

And then the Irish bull: 'A man defending marriage with a deceased wife's sister said, "I am not myself a marrying man, but if I were, my wife should certainly be one of them";' and finally the 'Limerick':—

There was a musician at Rio,
Who attempted to play Hummel's Trio;
But his skill was so scanty,
He played it Andante,
Instead of Allegro con Brio.

It must not however be assumed that frivolity was the outstanding feature of Grove's life, much as he enjoyed refined humour. No, not at all. Many deeper notes are sounded in this largely autobiographic volume. 'Get all the education you can,' said he in effect to some school children at Sydenham, 'and then never miss a chance of helping others.' Says his friend the Rev. William Addis, who records this: 'It was a lesson which he, if ever a man did, faithfully practised throughout his long life'; and this is perfectly true. To a former Royal College student who was feeling despondent about her literary work he wrote: 'It's dogged does it.' In these four words he preached the lesson of self-help which he had learned so well in fructifying his own natural gifts. This from a letter written on a Sunday in August:—

What a lovely day it has been to-day. I went to a church where I had only been once before and heard a Te Deum. Such fine music, and so well sung and so devotional, that as it finished I said to myself, what more does one want? What a noble hymn it is—the tears were in my eyes more than once; so they were during the Creed too.

Again, in a letter to Sir Herbert Oakeley, written in the spring, he said:—'Spring strikes me every year with more force and more moral significance. So may it be always! I long to keep my freshness and my youth: to enjoy the beauties of Nature and Art more and more every year, never to get stiffened against novelty or blasé with antiquity, but to keep a boy's heart to the end of life. And what I wish for myself I wish for you and for all my friends.' This was eminently characteristic of the man. Moreover, his kindness knew no bounds. Many a worker in music or literature will reverently treasure to their dying day the memory of his kindheartedness, his ungrudging sympathy, his practical help, no less than his breezy personality.

Mr. Graves modestly says that his 'Life' of Sir George Grove 'may serve to give some notion of the man, his work, and his character to those who never met him, as it can hardly fail, with all its shortcomings, to refresh and reanimate the affection of those who came within his sphere of usefulness.' The 'shortcomings' we have been unable to discover; suffice it to say that the book is fascinating to a degree, and we heartily commend it to our readers.

SIR ALEXANDER MACKENZIE ON HIS CANADIAN TOUR.

LETTER III.*

TO THE EDITOR OF THE MUSICAL TIMES.

S.S. IONIAN, May 16, 1903.

DEAR SIR,—The horns of the dilemma in which the conclusion of my last letter left me were the only instruments at my command on the evening of April 28, for the detention caused us to arrive ten hours behind time for the rehearsal at Winnipeg. But I was at work right early in the morning with Mr. Danz's Orchestra from Minneapolis (Concertmeister Herr Carl Riedelsberger), preparatory to an expressly-called choral rehearsal in the afternoon. Here it may be said that throughout the tour many of these choral rehearsals were held during the luncheon-hour, when the singers could the more readily absent themselves from business, and music was (indeed) the food of love. In the evening we gave the only work by a foreign composer during the entire Cycle, and little did I think that I should have conducted the first performance of a complete oratorio in the wild and woolly West, and that work 'Elijah'! Previously expressed desires to hear this masterpiece, with Mr. Watkin Mills (who is by no means unknown here), had induced the Director to include it in our scheme, and the great interest evoked in the performance amply justified his acquiescence. Upwards of 2,000 people attended the concert, at which a large choir by singing with intention and vigour gave evidence of the capital training of Mr. Rhys Thomas. To my own little band of solo vocalists was added Miss Jeannie Rankin, a former Royal College of Music student now resident in Montreal, who sang the contralto part with much acceptance.

Among the audience at the succeeding matinée (April 30) were 1,000 school children—a pleasant sight those happy faces, and our efforts seemed to meet their approbation. I can see at this moment a couple of urchins nudging each other in great glee whenever Miss Ethel Wood indulged in a flight into the upper register, and they became positively apoplectic with suppressed laughter at the skirl of the bagpipes in 'The Little Minister' Overture. Passing from gay to grave, let me record that Coleridge-Taylor's 'The Death of Minnehaha' was attentively listened to by 4,000 adults on the same night, while Lincoln Bennett's (not the hatter's)

* Sir Alexander Mackenzie's previous letters (Nos. 1 and 2) appeared in our issues of May and June, pp. 317 and 385.

'Eventide,' a melody for strings, provoked the encore it invariably secured whenever it was performed. The cantata received every justice from the chorus and made a profound effect upon the large audience. The incoming trains brought many visitors to this Winnipeg Festival; moreover on my still further westward journey I had occasion to note the keenness of the desire for music, and to hear of the well-intentioned efforts to raise choirs. I gathered also that as communication becomes more easy, combination between the smaller towns will certainly be effected for that purpose. After the concert the Lieut.-Governor, Sir Daniel MacMillan, gave his (postponed) reception and supper, at which we were made to forget that our train started for Brandon at 7 o'clock on the following morning.

Brandon, less than a full score years old, and aptly characterized as the 'Baby' of the Cycle, was reached by mid-day. After partaking of the Mayor's hospitality, I proceeded to meet a newly-formed choir which I was informed had hitherto never seen a baton in the air nor had sung with an orchestra. The conductor must have had much hard preliminary work, since a proportion of the singers had to be taught the time-signatures and elements of music! This 'rag-time' state of matters, although not applying to all the members, might well have discouraged the stoutest heart, but our Prairie Choir was much too keen about its work to fail, and, as it proved, came out of the ordeal with distinct credit to itself and Mr. Frank B. Fenwick, the resident musician.

The success of their maiden effort (on May-day) and the manifest eagerness to establish a musical organization caused me to address the singers as the audience were moving out, and I think that my words of encouragement and thanks were as sincerely felt as they were spoken. All the seats had been disposed of two hours after the sale of tickets had been started (three weeks before), and excursion trains to bring the good folk to Brandon had to be cancelled. Owing to the foresight of the residents in outlying districts, who had taken the precaution to send money-orders previous to the opening of the sale, many of the inhabitants were excluded from a concert in their own town. But it was impossible to meet the request to repeat the performance, as we had to leave for Vancouver on the same night. The attention of the audience throughout was remarkable; the proverbial pin might have been heard to drop while we played the before-mentioned "Eventide" (with its ppp ending), and I might have given it even a third time.

Our eager desire to see the wonderful panorama of the 'Rockies' was not gratified quite so soon as I expected, for on waking up next morning we found ourselves but thirty miles from Brandon, and likely to remain there, by reason of another wrecked freight-train in front. This became serious; the possibilities of making Vancouver in time to play on Monday evening (May 4) were fading rapidly, and gave rise to much discussion and calculation. It took from Friday night until Monday evening at 6 o'clock to reach our destination, and that was only accomplished by putting on a fearsome speed during the latter part of the journey. The return trip offered ample leisure to realize the nature of the track we had been whisked along—and be thankful. The surpassing grandeur of the scenery made me forget all but the problem of keeping faith with the Vancouverians, and after consultation my friend Harriss telegraphed to his trusty agents to have the orchestra ready for me in another hall at 6.30. There I rehearsed until the last moment; we then proceeded to the Theatre, in time to face the audience at half-past eight. The chorus I had not met, but as the work in question happened to be my own 'Cotter's Saturday Night,' I faced a chance, which happily proved to be no risk at all, since I found one of the largest and best choirs in the Dominion ready and able to save the situation. Nevertheless, lost time had to be recovered, and by rehearsing assiduously during the following day we were enabled to present excellent choral performances of Harriss's Festival Mass and Parry's 'Ode on St. Cecilia's Day' in spite of all the alarms and excursions which had kept us so lively.

Between working-hours our company found time to avail itself of the Mayor's kind offer of a drive through Stanhope Park, with its huge trees, luxurious vegetation, and magnificent views of wood and water, which acted as a refreshing tonic. Nor did my 'brither Scots' of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society omit to complete the enjoyment of my visit to the Garden-City of the West by calling a merry gathering of the resident representatives of the Clans.

The picturesque town of New Westminster lies somewhat more than an hour's distance by tramcar from Vancouver, and we entered it on the forenoon of May 6 in the midst of a hailstorm of tropical violence. Here his Worship Mayor Keary did the honours right royally, his profuse hospitality being exhibited in divers ingenious manners, such as by a sail and an interesting visit to a log-sawing establishment on the Fraser river, open-handed entertainments at his house, and finally by the illumination of the long and broad main street by electricity in the evening. The business of the hour was however by no means neglected. 'St. Cecilia' and 'The Cotter' were duly rehearsed and performed before we sailed that night for the capital of British Columbia, not without regret. Be it here said that the three choirs which had undertaken the festival work in British Columbia were uniformly good and deserving of high praise. Their brisk and genial conductors, Messrs. Fred. Dyke and J. W. Smith (Vancouver), Mr. A. E. White (New Westminster), and Messrs. Herbert Taylor and E. H. Russell (Victoria), fully earned the appreciation I feel and the thanks I give.

The German proverb 'Alle guten Dinge sind Drei' appealed forcibly to me when I was informed that the steamer had started several hours after the appointed time, probably because it was a 'special,' and that our arrival in Victoria would be necessarily delayed. This third 'belatement' since leaving Ontario was a less serious one, as I had the whole afternoon before me for rehearsal, and it speaks volumes for the good humour of the choirs, who on each occasion waited for us patiently, suffering the altered arrangements without a grumble.

Hereby hangs a tale which shall be unfolded for the benefit of my colleagues who happily have no knowledge of the inner workings of an Orchestral Musicians' Union. Some weeks before I arrived the manager's advance agents (to be technical) approached the professional players in Vancouver offering them engagements. On seeing some of the music to be performed (their frankness one must admire) they honestly admitted that it was beyond their powers and experience, and that the offers could not be accepted. When however it was stated that other players would of necessity have to be brought, an indignation meeting was forthwith held at which the odd argument was advanced that nevertheless the members of the Union ought to be allowed to play the music as well as they could! Endeavours were then made to prevent other players to appear with me.

The individual members of such a Union enjoy no independence, but play according to a scale of wage, refusing, after the manner of their kind, to work with non-unionists. I was told that on the day before we appeared on the scene a final attempt was made to dissuade the orchestra engaged from other places from playing. Fortunately the voices of these sweet charmers were ineffectual, and the strenuous endeavours to stop our concerts dwindled down to a curt refusal to let me have the services of a man (or even the instrument itself, for a consideration) to play the side-drum, without which I could hardly give my Coronation March.

Now here was an undertaking fraught with every good intention to music and musicians, one which could only result in benefitting the profession in the future, jeopardized by the action of its own members. In all probability I was better served by the absence of these men, for I believe that the least capable among them were loudest in clamouring for the 'rights' of this precious Union. All this did not in the least upset my equilibrium or shorten my temper by an inch, the counterbalancing pleasures were too numerous. But had the choral forces been feeble or less well prepared the results might have been uncomfortable. As it was, the orchestra at my disposal, although exceedingly willing, had speedily to unlearn some of the worst habits of the 'lazy-faire' (as you, Mr. Editor, might observe) order, which conductors wot of to their sorrow, but at the morning performance at Victoria it earned a 'bis,' which did much to put it on its mettle at subsequent concerts.

The choral works performed in Victoria were Stanford's 'The Revenge,' Harriss's Festival Mass, Coleridge-Taylor's 'The Death of Minnehaha' and Parry's 'Ode on St. Cecilia's Day.' In all these varied works the alert choir distinguished itself by a remarkably good quality of tone, and proved quickly responsive to my beat. Many professional musicians of both sexes sang side by side with the amateur singers during the two days' Festival, none shirking attendance at the long rehearsals. My short stay—I would fain have prolonged it—was made doubly agreeable by much attentive kindness. The Lieut.-Governor, Sir Joly de Lotbinière, accompanied by many prominent residents of the city, officially attended our opening concert, entertaining us at luncheon on the following day in Government House. Nor did the Mayor and Mrs. McCandless omit to show their goodwill to the wandering minstrels during a delightful drive through the surrounding country and about the city before the last concert of the long series, which took place on the evening of May 9. With this concert (an extra one, at which Parry's and Taylor's cantatas were repeated) my pleasant duties came to an end, and after bidding farewell to many newly-found friends, like Maeldune and his fellows 'sadly we sailed away' in the small hours of the morning. On my way to the ship I took occasion to pay a brief visit to Mr. E. A. Russell's Male-choir, yeclipt 'Orion,' whose members regaled me with a few well-sung part-songs and a parting verse of 'Auld Lang Syne.' Sunday morning saw us once more at Vancouver, and in a few hours the cry of 'all aboard' notified that we were about to start on our week's journey to Montreal, cheered by the good wishes and shouts of my trusty singers of Vancouver and New Westminster.

The names of the artists* who shared these experiences with me have already appeared in these jottings (for they are nothing more); but the list would be incomplete were I to forget the services of one, without whom no artistic family is complete and yet is too frequently ignored, namely, the accompanist. Ability, modesty and good humour are not invariably companions, but they meet in the person of my reliable friend Mr. Arthur Dorey (a Londoner resident in Ottawa and organist of the Cathedral there), whose loyal help will be remembered by us all.

After quitting the venerable city of Quebec (whose beauties were shown me by M. A. Lavigne, an amiable cicerone and one of our associate conductors) there was ample leisure on the homeward journey to ruminate. And a resumé of the conditions under which the thirty-six concerts were given, as well as their possible results, shall serve as conclusion to these traveller's notes. In spite of the difficulties and defects attendant upon an initial attempt to successfully carry out so extensive an undertaking, the fact remains that fairly large numbers of important choral and instrumental works by G. J. Bennett, Cliffe, Coleridge-Taylor, Corder, Cowen, Elgar, German, MacCunn, Parry, Stanford, Sullivan and Wallace (William) have been introduced to an entire continent.

Blades of grass have been made to grow where none grew before, inasmuch as fourteen choirs were called into existence. Professional orchestras have been heard in places for the first time (e.g., Winnipeg, Brandon, and Moncton), and a general impetus given to music from one end of the Dominion to the other. This in no way detracts from the acknowledged value of the efforts, past and present, made by my able and amiable professional friends who exert their influence in the interest of the Art in the capitals of the provinces of Nova Scotia, Quebec, and Ontario. They have already done much, and will accomplish more. But it needed a combined and far-reaching effort, such as this undoubtedly has been, to cover the vast territory and to similarly affect so many fresh fields and pastures new.

The egg was not made to stand on end without thought, careful preparation, risk and, above all, enthusiasm; and moreover it had been a-hatching for nearly two years before the experiment was tried. General interest had to be aroused, the influence and weight of the authorities gained, and I daresay the idea that the scheme might be but a mere financial speculation may also have had to be combated. This it could hardly be, as an enumeration of the many obstacles might well show, were it within my province to do so. Fresh choral bodies were formed, practice halls were rented months before, experienced musicians were engaged for the preparatory work, orchestras brought from different points, and a small army of faithful honorary secretaries enlisted. Furthermore, the building of platforms in theatres and halls where no accommodation for large bodies of performers existed, and the arrangements for supplies of music, were by no means trifling or minor considerations.

All this had been thought out and prepared when I arrived on the other side (at the end of March), and carried through without a hitch by an English musician, who took the entire responsibility upon himself, Charles A. E. Harriss to wit. Matters ran as smoothly as human ingenuity could foresee, and the general result has proved the ripeness of the moment for the combined effort which has been made under his auspices. When I left (and since then many similar communications have been forwarded) meetings were being called in order to make arrangements for a continuance of the work anent a future Festival. Meanwhile Mr. Harriss has publicly announced his intention of instituting a series of choral competitions, as we know them in England and Wales, so that other choirs may be raised in the quickly-spreading towns in the outlying districts and a healthy rivalry between those already existing be established.

* Miss Ethel Wood, Madame Blauvelt, Miss Millicent Brennan, Madame Louise Clary, Miss Lillian Carter and Miss Jeanie Rankin, Messrs. Ben Davies, Wilfrid Virgo, Watkin Mills, Reginald Davidson and Charles Fry. Mr. Frank Watkis shared the duties of accompanist with Mr. Arthur Dorey in British Columbia.

The weak point of the whole scheme was created by the unfortunate necessity for employing more than one orchestra. Those I conducted had to be brought to the nearest possible points on account of the many long stretches of land to be traversed upon which there are no large towns, and the obviously huge expense thereby incurred. This crux overcome, less frequent and more leisurely rehearsals will be secured, the performances will gain in refinement, and the choirs made more confident. Much of the great strain upon all concerned would thus be relieved, and on another occasion I doubt not but that this will be done. There is better sport to be had in Canada than the killing of orchestras.

My professional colleagues realized the importance and value of the movement and proved most helpful on all occasions. The choirs were receptive and ready for any amount of work. The standard of public taste is certainly no lower than our own, indeed the strongest and best music received the most appreciation, and warm encouragement is freely given to any honest effort which is untainted by affectation. More than once the tempter—assuming for the nonce the shape of an interviewer—besought me to name the best Canadian choir within my ken; but I confess it was real inability to do so rather than the profound diplomacy with which I was credited that saved me from falling into his subtle snare. The varying numbers of the choirs, the amount of their experience and the general conditions of their surroundings differed too much to allow me to give an opinion of any real value. Had I however been able to do so, I frankly admit that I would have withheld any such statement. No good purpose would have been served by arousing discussion (or worse) when all were eager to do their utmost in the good cause.

I perceived little or no difference between Canadian and home choirs, except that, in the majority of cases, the latter have of course the advantage of a much longer and wider experience. But in respect of zealous enthusiasm, energy and the desire to learn, the choristers of the Dominion need take no 'back seats.' On that head at least I may permit myself to give an opinion as sincere as it is deserved.

Very faithfully yours,

A. C. MACKENZIE.

[We refer to the above letter on p. 453.—ED. M.T.]

PRESENTATION TO DR. MANNS.

Dr. August Manns was the recipient of a gratifying testimonial at the hands of the Handel Festival Choir at Exeter Hall, Strand, on the evening of the 15th ult. The presentation, made on behalf of the subscribers by Mr. J. N. Frye, superintendent of the basses, consisted of the full-dress robes of a Doctor of Music—including what Dr. Manns termed 'a coquettish college cap'—and a silver bowl weighing 80 ounces, richly chased, of the 16th century period, the body of which is mounted on a double foot roll. The bowl bears upon it the following inscription:—

Presented to
DR. AUGUST MANNS
as a token of admiration and esteem by the members of
THE HANDEL FESTIVAL CHOIR,
15th June, 1903.

'For twenty years and for seven Festivals,' said Mr. Frye, 'you have been our conductor and chief, and during that time you have endeared yourself to every one of us.' After Dr. Cowen, conductor of the great Choir, had referred to the splendid service rendered by Dr. Manns to the cause of English music, the gay-robed Doctor cordially thanked the donors for their warm-hearted reception of and kindness to him, which had gladdened his heart and convinced him that his efforts on behalf of music in this country have been appreciated. Great indeed was the enthusiasm which attended the presentation of this token of regard for their 'snow-clad' conductor.

In a characteristic letter we have just received from Dr. Manns apropos of the gift above referred to, the veteran conductor says: 'The artistic design of this very handsome "Bacchusiana" is puzzling me a little. What is the meaning of the two Lion-Heads, and the two large-winged and long-armed Angels? Does it perhaps mean to indicate that angels have protected me from the severity of musical criticism in Great Britain? I almost fancy it does, because the critics have always been kind and generous in their comments on my life-work.' There is no need to dispel this pleasant phantasy, as the critics, no less than the music-loving public, could not have been otherwise than appreciative of the splendid achievements of this grand old Manns of music.

ALFRED JAMES HIPKINS.

Born, June 17, 1826.

Died, June 3, 1903.

With much regret we place on record the death of Mr. A. J. Hipkins, F.S.A., which took place at his residence, 100, Warwick Gardens, Kensington, on the 3rd ult., within a fortnight of his attaining his seventy-seventh year. In THE MUSICAL TIMES of September, 1898, we gave a Biographical Sketch of him, with a special portrait photographed from one painted by his daughter, Miss Edith Hipkins, and exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1898. This biography, which had the advantage of being revised and approved by its subject, may stand as an authoritative account of his long and useful life, and one to which the reader may be referred for the details of his career. There is little to add thereto,—certainly nothing to withdraw—except that Mr. Hipkins retained his connection with the house of Broadwood up to the time of his death, and thereby completed a faithful, honourable, and unbroken period of service covering sixty-three years!

Mr. Hipkins was not only one of the little band of six enthusiasts in England to be the first to acknowledge the genius of Wagner, but he was a great admirer of Chopin, with whom he was fortunate enough to come into personal contact. 'Hipkins is not a bad sort of fellow,' said Mr. J. W. Davison, 'but he will like Chopin.' In this connection we venture to quote the following interesting Chopiniana from one of a number of similar letters from Mr. Hipkins to the present writer. In this, dated March 14, 1899, he says:—

'Very strong impressions remain on the memory; although fifty-one years have passed, or will have passed next month, I remember Chopin, his look, his manner, and his incomparable playing, as vividly as if my meeting him had been last year.

'He was ill, but only shewed it painfully in his weakened breathing power; he could not walk upstairs; my father-in-law, Mr. Black, or my wife's uncle, Mr. Murray, carried him. He came to Broadwood's through the recommendation and courtesy of the Pleyel house in Paris; he brought one of the Pleyel pianos with him, but only used it once, at an evening at the Countess of Blessington's, Kensington Gore, directly after his arrival. He immediately took to the Broadwood pianos, and after that occasion used them exclusively in England and Scotland; until, in effect, his return to Paris in the November of that year. He was painstaking in the choice of the pianos he was to play upon anywhere, as he was in his dress, his hair, his gloves, his French; you cannot imagine a more perfect technique than he possessed! But he abhorred banging a piano; his forte was relative not absolute; it was based upon his exquisite pianos and pianissimos—always a waving line, crescendo and diminuendo. To play with great strength was "to play German," as he told Mrs. Goddard in Paris when she took Arabella Goddard, a child of 7 or 8, to play to him. Georges Sand nursed the child, and when they left the house, as Madame Goddard told me lately, Chopin's last words were "never let the child play loud"—in French of course; he did not speak English.

'Here, in '48, his compositions were almost unknown. Every time I heard him play the pieces were strange to me, and I had to rush across Regent Street to his English publisher, Wessel, to discover what I had been hearing. Fancy the interest of this to me, a young man who, for the first time in his life, came in contact with genius! I was to have gone to Scotland with him, but it fell through. To return to pianos, he especially liked Broadwood's Boudoir Cottages of that date—two-stringed but very sweet instruments—and found pleasure in playing on them. To show how different he was from the modern virtuoso, Mrs. Lyschinski told me, when he stayed with her in Edinburgh, he would of an evening retire into an adjoining room where the old Broadwood square piano of her childhood stood, and play upon it with evident pleasure.'

No man had a greater knowledge of the pianoforte and kindred keyboard instruments than Mr. Hipkins. Equally profound was his insight into matters relating to pitch, tuning, &c. His writings on these subjects rank amongst the most valuable contributions to musical literature; his output in this respect is really quite remarkable. For instance, he wrote no fewer than 134 articles for 'Grove's Dictionary of Music and Musicians,' including the masterly treatise on the pianoforte, and he contributed the article on the household instrument to the ninth edition of the 'Encyclopædia Britannica.' The formation of the valuable loan collection at the Inventions and Music Exhibition of 1885—undertaken by him at the request of the King (then Prince of Wales)—resulted in the sumptuous volume by him, with illustrations by Mr. William Gibb, entitled 'Musical Instruments, historic, rare and unique.' His capital Primer (in the Novello series)—'A description and history of the pianoforte and of the older keyboard stringed instruments'—is full of information, lucidly and pleasantly set forth. It would be difficult to compile a list of the various detached writings from his prolific pen. That indefatigable collector, and a very old friend of the deceased's, Mr. T. W. Taphouse, has kindly lent us his 'Hipkins' bundle of articles, pamphlets, &c., which, though it does not pretend to be complete, shows the extent of Mr. Hipkins's valuable labours in a section of the art he had made completely his own, and in which he has long been regarded as the authority both at home and abroad. Moreover, he was one of the best performers on the harpsichord and similar pre-pianoforte instruments; his refined interpretations thereupon always gave intense pleasure to his hearers by reason of their artistic excellence and old-world charm.

Genial, modest, and absolutely free from the taint of self-advertisement, his nature the very essence of kindness and goodwill, Mr. Hipkins was indeed of the salt of the earth. Nothing gave him greater pleasure than freely to give information from the vast and reliable stores of his knowledge in his particular subjects. Some knotty point on the pianoforte, or on pitch—raised perhaps by one of our correspondents—had only to be submitted to him and the desired information was at once forthcoming, if by post, over the cordial 'Ever yours sincerely,' alas! never more to be written in that neat hand, or to be received by those who prized his friendship.

The last paragraph of our Biographical Sketch above referred to reads thus:—

In regard to the genial personality of the living original of this portrait, much might be said. The friendly grip of the hand, the kindly light in the eye, and the benevolent expression of the countenance are true indexes of the warm heart that beats within the breast of Alfred James Hipkins.

With the substitution of the past for the present tense, the foregoing words must now be doubly underlined. The memory of the just is blessed!

E.

'SOMEWHERE FARTHER NORTH.'

ECHOES OF THE MORECAMBE FESTIVAL.

Dr. Elgar has sent to Canon Gorton, chairman of the Morecambe Musical Festival, an appreciative letter on that excellent organization at which he (Dr. Elgar) officiated as an adjudicator at this year's meeting. He writes:—

DEAR CANON GORTON,—I should like to thank you and the Committee for the very pleasant time I spent at the Morecambe Festival.

I was delighted, and will add surprised, at the general excellence of the choral and orchestral work; the singing of the children especially was a revelation.

In all the advanced classes there was displayed a quite uncommon appreciation of the poetical possibilities of the music, and the words were pronounced and (apparently) understood by the singers in a refreshingly sane way. Soon—a good day for art when it arrives—we shall all know the difference between sentiment and romance, and between what is theatrical and what is dramatic; these distinctions are unknown to many critics and to more performers—all of whom might have listened to a considerable portion of the Morecambe Festival with advantage.

I cannot well express what I feel as to the immense influence your Festival must exert in spreading the love of music: it is rather a shock to find Brahms's part-songs appreciated and among the daily fare of a district apparently unknown to the sleepy London Press: people who talk of the spread of music in England and the increasing love of it rarely seem to know where the growth of the art is really strong and properly fostered. Some day the Press will awake to the fact, already known abroad and to some few of us in England, that the living centre of music in Great Britain is not London, but somewhere farther North.

In conclusion I will say it was a unique pleasure to hear so much that was truly admirable, and I look forward to the next Morecambe Festival with keen pleasure; I think it amply worth a long journey to be a listener, and as the enthusiasm is somewhat unusual to the eyes of a chorally-starved southerner, may I say a spectator also?

I offer you a personal congratulation on the great organization you have called into being, and trust you may be long able to direct and advise your coadjutors.

Believe me,

Yours sincerely,

Craig Lea, Malvern,
May 26, 1903.

EDWARD ELGAR.

What will the musical critics of 'the sleepy London Press' say to this?

Dr. McNaught's Morecambe experiences coincide with those expressed above. But we may let him speak for himself in some extracts from his exhaustive communication to the Chairman of the Festival:—

By the favour of your Committee I have been permitted to enjoy the privilege of assisting at the Morecambe Festival on seven occasions. This long and to me valuable experience has enabled me to note the educative results of the scheme and its remarkable development from humble beginnings.

The Festival has now become the leading event of its kind not only in the North-West of England, but in the Kingdom. A great force directed to the advancement of executive skill and the improvement of taste has been discovered and given vent. The scheme has become a popular School in Music on a large scale. Each year has provided conductors and executants with incisive lessons the effects of which have been apparent in the following year. New ideals and higher standards of execution have been set up and assimilated, and fresh ways and means have been evolved. Technique has been more and more studied and employed as a means of interpretation and expression, and less as an end in itself.

It is a striking fact that Festivals of this type afford scope for the development of many varied talents. The man unable to perform on an instrument, or to sing or to compose, who in fact is nothing if not a conductor, comes forward and triumphs because he has music in his soul, and can play skilfully upon that responsive and plastic instrument—the choir. It is this potentiality of competition schemes that constitutes one of the chief justifications of the competitive element which is sometimes so airily disparaged. At the great Musical Festivals at Birmingham, Sheffield, Leeds, &c., where important art works are performed, the ordinary amateur can at most be only an item in the chorus. At Competition Festivals he may be a centre of activity and a missionary.

No other part of the Morecambe scheme has shown more rapid and satisfactory progress than the junior sections. The Children's Day has become the most delightful and joyous of the whole series. Years ago children's singing was indifferent, but now, owing to the stimulus and instruction afforded and the skill and enthusiasm of teachers, the standard has become remarkably high.

Mr. Frederic Corder, 'and a good judge too,' writes in the same strain:—

My fellow judges have left me nothing to say concerning either the practical management or the artistic results of your Festival, but I desire to thank your committee for the novel and admirable experience they have afforded me. Much as I thought I knew of the ways of my countrymen in music, it is no exaggeration to say that the Morecambe Festival came as a startling revelation to me. Here was no craze or fashion of the moment, no sheep-like following of a beaten track such as we find in those parts of England where life is less strenuous and difficult. The unaffected earnestness, the honest enthusiasm displayed on this occasion, were something so new, so unexpected, that I could hardly believe myself among my fellow countrymen.

I hope and trust that, with such material and such earnestness at hand, music itself may thrive and advance in the North of England, that a comprehension of good music and a thirst for it may possess the hearts of all those eager thousands, the sight of whom has impressed me so deeply, and finally that gatherings like the Morecambe Festival may spread to the duller parts of England and help to develop the latent sense of beauty in sound which slumbers in our breasts.

Such a collocation of opinion is very striking and deserves all the publicity we can give to it. From personal experience we can thoroughly endorse all that these three able musicians have said about Morecambe and the influence it exerts far and wide. We shall continue to take a special interest in this and similar movements which, however, appear to be strangely neglected by the London and musical Press. The scheme of Mr. Henry J. Wood for showing Londoners 'how to do it' in the matter of choral excellence deserves full encouragement; but it must not be forgotten that the same high standard he seeks to set up has been raised and attained for several years 'somewhere farther North' with unflagging energy and splendid results. May it continue to flourish abundantly, root and branch!

PROFESSOR NIECKS AT THE MUSICAL ASSOCIATION.

In a paper entitled 'The two Keys to the Theory and Practice of Harmony,' read to the Musical Association on the 9th ult., Professor Niecks pointed out the artificiality of systems based on roots and derivation from the harmonic series, and advocated a system based on the tendencies of tones. The real principles on which he founds his system are the Law of Dissonance, a physical law, and the Law of Tonality, a psychical law; and it is these two laws which he calls the keys to the theory and practice of harmony. The law of dissonance—the primordial, elementary, lower law—may be formulated thus: Every dissonance must be followed by a neighbouring consonance. The law of tonality—the later, gradually developed, higher law—does not supersede the ever-valid law of dissonance, but superimposes itself on it. In other words, the law of tonality puts an impress of its own on the various manifestations of the law of dissonance, giving new and distinct meanings to them. The lecturer defined tonality as 'the relation of the notes of the scale to each other.' Such as it exists in our essentially harmonic music, it may, however, be better defined as: The prominence of the tonic note and the tonic chord over the other notes and chords. We may also say: Tonality consists in the difference of character possessed by the different tones of the scale—consists in their different degrees of restfulness or restlessness, and their consequent tendencies.

The first, the third, and the fifth degree, the notes of the tonic triad, are the elements of rest of the diatonic scales, which may be also called the positive elements. The other degrees—the second, fourth, sixth, and seventh—are the elements of unrest, or movement, which may also be called the negative elements. Thus, for instance, in C major the negative elements—b, d, f, a—are opposed to the positive elements—c, e, g. The measure of restfulness of the three positive elements, however, is not the same; nor is the measure of movement of the four negative elements. Perfect rest is to be found only in the tonic; and the greatest unrest is to be found where a note at the distance of a semitone leads up or down to a note of rest.

The chromatic scale is not a third mode added to the major and minor modes, but simply a melodic development of the diatonic scales. In introducing chromatic notes into the diatonic modes we introduce new notes of unrest, new notes of movement. The nature of chromatic notes cannot be better described than by calling them artificial leading notes to the next degree upward or downward.

In harmony two or more scale notes are simultaneously combined. Chords may be compounded of notes of different measures of rest, or of notes of movement, or of a mixture of notes of rest and of movement. Harmony understood thus, in the sense of simultaneous combination of melody notes with various tonal tendencies, furnishes us with explanations of most harmonic phenomena. The root and derivation theories are a hindrance rather than a help to the right understanding of the problems in question, and create imaginary difficulties instead of removing actual ones. In fact, we cannot see clear in the matter until we have divested ourselves of the notion that chords are entities given us ready-made by nature. Nature has given us nothing of the kind. It may be convenient to speak of triads, of chords of the seventh, and perhaps also chords of the ninth,—whether it be convenient to speak of chords of the eleventh and thirteenth is another question—but it is necessary that we should understand that triads, chords of the seventh, &c., are not matter-born but mind-born entities. In short, chords are neither more nor less than simultaneous combinations of notes of a scale, notes of various characters and tendencies, which combined produce harmonies of different characters and tendencies. The greater the number and strenuousness of the negative elements of the scale in a chord, the greater is the measure of its unrest and movement. The measure of rest, on the other hand, depends on the position of the positive elements.

What has especially to be noted is this: Outside tonality—that is, as individuals standing by themselves—all consonant chords are chords of rest, and only dissonant chords are chords of movement, whereas within tonality only a single consonant chord—the tonic triad—is a chord of rest, and has self-sufficiency.

Professor Niecks dealt at considerable length with chromatic chords, and in doing so met the objections of the anti-alterationists. He defined a chromatic chord as a diatonic chord, one or more notes of which has been chromatically altered; and a chromatic note as a modified diatonic degree. As a parallel case of degree modification or alteration he pointed to the sixth and seventh degree in minor. The lecturer strongly animadverted on systems which limit the number of chromatic chords in a key. He maintained that they are nearly a century behind our time; that in accordance with the present-day practice every diatonic chord can be chromatically altered in several ways.

These are some of the fundamental ideas which Professor Niecks developed and illustrated. For the developments and illustrations the curious must be referred to the Proceedings of the Musical Association, which in due course will make their appearance in print.

Dr. McNaught, who occupied the chair, Dr. Charles Maclean, Mr. Joseph Goddard, Mr. Otto Goldschmidt, and Mr. J. S. Shedlock took part in the discussion following the reading of the Professor's thoughtful paper.

Church and Organ Music.

FURTHER NOTES ON ANGLICAN POINTED PSALTERS.

A correspondent has kindly sent us a copy of a letter written to him, 'about 1880,' by the late Rev. J. R. Lunn. In this communication Mr. Lunn calls attention to two Anglican pointed Psalters issued previous to that of James (of Ely), published in 1843, and which in Grove's Dictionary and elsewhere is stated to be the first of its kind. But three years earlier the late James Stimpson—well known as the organist of the Town Hall, Birmingham—had issued a Psalter bearing the following title:—

Services of the Church; | being those portions of the | Book of Common Prayer, | which are appointed to be chanted. | Arranged for the use of Congregations and choirs | by | JAMES STIMPSON, | organist of St. Andrew's, Newcastle-upon-Tyne | . . . 1840.

As the Dedication to the Dean and Chapter of Durham is dated 'January, 1840,' Stimpson was only nineteen years of age. The Psalter, though not so called, is without music, except a specimen chant. If the British Museum copy is complete—and it contains a long list of subscribers—the book is without any 'explanations.' A specimen of the pointing may be given, Psalm xxi. 6:—

For thou shalt give him ever—| lasting · fe— |—licity :
and make him glad | with · the | joy of · thy | countenance.

In the same year (1840) there appeared a curious specimen of a Pointed Psalter, entitled:—

The Church Service, | arranged | for chanting: | comprising | The whole Book of Psalms, | and the Te Deum On a plan so simple that the congregation may join the choir without the least difficulty. | By Dr. FARMAN. | London: 1840.

As in the Stimpson book, no pointing directions are given; but a page is devoted to 'directions for pronunciation,' from which we venture to quote a few choice specimens:—

i—ma—gin—a—tion	e—mad—jin—a—shun ma—lic—ious	ma—lish—us
in—iq—ui—ty	in—ik—kwe—te read—y	red—de
perpet—ual	perpet—tshual
wom—an	wum—un

The method of pointing adopted by Dr. Farman may be termed the 'wavy' system, judged from a typographical standpoint. Here are two specimens, from Psalms 27 and 29 respectively:—

For in the time of trouble he shall hide me in his tabernacle.

Yea in the secret place of his dwelling shall he hide me and set me up upon a rock of stone.

Bring unto the Lord O ye mighty bring young rams
. . . . un—to the Lord.

Ascribe unto the Lord wor—ship a = nd strength.

It is a moot point whether this system of pointing is 'on a plan so simple that the congregation may join the choir without the least difficulty.' By-the-way, this reads as if the choir could be easily recruited from the congregation!

This was not the first attempt at pointing on the part of Dr. Farman, whoever that gentleman may have been. In 1837 he issued a little book entitled:—

Small selection of prayers . . . to which are added parts of the church service as chanted, with five original chants and an evening hymn. By WILLIAM FARMAN.

The pointing therein adopted (the Canticles only) may be termed the 'bracket' system, also speaking typographically. Two examples may be given; they show that the brackets were used either above or below certain words or syllables:—

Fo = r mine eyes

Have . . . seen thy sa = l — vation.

He remembering his mercy hath holpen his . . .
servant Is — rael.

Typographical varieties form a no inconsiderable contribution to the history of pointing the Psalter. The more elaborate they are the less they seem to promote a natural and poetic rendering of these matchless productions.

The letter from Mr. Lunn already referred to contains the following extract as furnishing proof of the resourcefulness of choir boys. He says:—

When I was an undergraduate (1849, &c.) in St. John's [Cambridge], the boys sang from ordinary prayer-books; these were the same boys as at Trinity. (The 'men' served Trinity, King's, and St. John's, but King's had boys of its own.) I distinctly remember one Christmas-day morning when we had the boys only at St. John's. In Psalm xlv. 13, they began to make their inflection too soon—at the word 'make'; but some of them at least rose to the occasion, and boldly changed 'supplication' into 'prayer,' and so got out of the difficulty.

Previous contributions towards the history of Anglican pointing will be found in the Church and Organ Music sections of THE MUSICAL TIMES for March, April, and June of the present year.

GLASGOW CATHEDRAL ORGAN AND ITS ORGANIST.

The magnificent organ in Glasgow Cathedral, after undergoing extensive alterations and additions, was re-opened on May 30. It may be of interest to recall the fact that the first recorded use of instrumental music in the Cathedral dates back as far as 1460, when the organ then in use consisted of fifteen pipes sounded by striking the four-inch keys with the clenched fist! At the time of the Reformation the Cathedral organ shared at the destructive hands of the Reformers the fate of the stained glass, the carved oak, and the sculptured stones. We next hear of an organ being erected in the Cathedral in 1804 by a society formed for the study of sacred music, and it is interesting to note that at a concert given, possibly by this society, some years later to commemorate the death of Sir John Moore some of Handel's choruses were heard in Glasgow for the first time. When this society was disbanded the organ was removed to St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, where it now stands.

The present fine instrument, the gift of the family of the late incumbent of the Cathedral, Dr. Burns, was erected by Father Willis in 1879, and for the alterations and additions just completed the Cathedral authorities are indebted to the late Mr. James Dick who, shortly before his death, generously gifted the sum of £2,500 for this purpose. The action of the organ has been wholly renewed, a solo organ of nine stops added, and the hydraulic engines for supplying the wind power have been superseded by three electric motors of four-horse power each. The swell organ, formerly behind the great organ, has been transferred to the side where it can be used with much better effect. The new solo organ contains some very fine stops, notably the Cor Anglais, the Corno di Bassetto, and the flutes. The tuba is placed on the exceptionally high pressure of twenty-five inches, an example only equalled in the organ at the Albert Hall, London. It may be mentioned that the restoration of the organ has been carried out by Messrs. Henry Willis and Sons in a manner quite worthy of the high standing of the firm. The following is the specification of the Glasgow Cathedral organ:—

GLASGOW CATHEDRAL.

GREAT (13 Stops).
	Feet.		Feet.
Double Open Diapason	... 16	Twelfth 3
Open Diapason...	... 8	Fifteenth 2
Open Diapason...	... 8	Sesquialtera (4 ranks)	... 3
Open Diapason...	... 8	Double Trumpet 16
Clarabella 8	Trumpet 8
Principal 4	Clarion 4
Harmonic Flute 4

SWELL (13 Stops).
Lieblich Bourdon	... 16	Fifteenth	... 2
Open Diapason...	... 8	Mixture (3 ranks)	... 16
Lieblich Gedact	... 8	Contra Hautboy	... 8
Salcional...	... 8	Cornopean	... 8
Vox Angelica	... 8	Hautboy	... 8
Lieblich Flöte	... 4	Clarion	... 4
Principal...	... 4

CHOIR (11 Stops).
Contra Gamba	... 16	Clarabel Flute	... 8
Gamba	... 8	Harmonic Flute	... 4
Echo Gamba	... 8	Harmonic Piccolo	... 2
Octave Gamba	... 4

(The four following Stops are enclosed in a separate Swell box.)

Tuba	... 8	Orchestral Oboe	... 8
Clarionet...	... 8	Vox Humana	... 8

SOLO (9 Stops).
Lieblich Bourdon	... 16	Harmonic Piccolo	... 2
Open Diapason (wood)	... 8	Cor Anglais	... 16
Harmonic Flute	... 8	Corno di Bassetto	... 8
String Gamba	... 8	Tuba (25-inch wind)	... 8
Concert Flute	... 4

Tremulant to Swell, Choir, and Solo Organs.

PEDAL (11 Stops).
Double Open Diapason	... 32	Violoncello	... 8
Open Diapason (wood)	... 16	Principal...	... 8
Open Diapason (metal)	... 16	Mixture (3 ranks)	... 16
Violone (metal)...	... 16	Trombone	... 16
Bourdon 16	Clarion	... 8
Bass Flute	... 8

Manual Compass CC to C; Pedal compass CCC to G.

COUPLERS.

Swell to Great.	Swell Sub-Octave.
Choir to Great.	Swell Super-Octave.
Swell to Choir.	Choir Octave.
Solo to Great.	Choir Sub-Octave.
Great to Pedal.	Solo Sub-Octave.
Swell to Pedal.	Solo Super-Octave.
Choir to Pedal.	Solo to Great Sub.
Solo to Pedal.	Solo to Great Super.

ACCESSORIES.

4	Interchangeable Composition Pedals to: Great Organ.
3	" " " " " " " " " " " "
3	" " " " " " " " " " " "
2	" " " " " " " " " " " "
1	Double-Acting Pedal controlling Great to Pedal.
4	Interchangeable Pistons to Great Organ.
4	" " " " " " " " " " " "
2	" " " " " " " " " " " "
1	Double Acting Piston for the Great to Pedal Coupler.
1	" " " " " " " " " " " "
1	" " " " " " " " " " " "

Total number of speaking pipes, 3,543; of sounding stops, 57.

And now in regard to the organist of Glasgow Cathedral. On the removal of Dr. Peace to St. George's Hall, Liverpool, Mr. Herbert Francis Raine Walton—who, by-the-way, was one of a selected quintet for the Liverpool post—was chosen unanimously his successor at the Cathedral. Mr. Herbert Walton was born on February 27, 1869, at Thirsk, where his father was a schoolmaster and organist of the Parish Church. At the age of twelve, while still a pupil of Dr. Naylor, of York, he was appointed organist of Kirkby-Wiske Church.

In 1887 he was elected to an open scholarship at the Royal College of Music, where he studied for four years under Sir Walter Parratt, Sir Hubert Parry, and Mr. Frederic Cliffe. After occupying the position of organist to the Earl of Aberdeen for two years he removed to St. Mark's Church, Leeds, where he remained until his appointment to Glasgow Cathedral.

Since coming to Glasgow Mr. Herbert Walton has done excellent work as an organist and conductor. He may be regarded as one of the foremost of the younger generation of solo organists, while as an accompanist and choir-trainer he holds a very high place. At the two re-opening recitals given by him on May 30 the programme of the first consisted exclusively of legitimate organ music, but the second included several transcriptions. The most notable features of the latter performance were the masterly interpretations of Bach's Toccata and Fugue in D minor and the excellent rendering of Wesley's noble anthem 'The Wilderness' sung by the Cathedral Choir.

MR. HERBERT WALTON.

ORGANIST OF GLASGOW CATHEDRAL.

Dr. A. L. Peace played the following selection of music on the organ in St. George's Hall, Liverpool, at his afternoon recital on the 6th ult.:—

1.	Offertorium, 'Alma Virgo' ...	J. N. Hummel.
2.	Prière et Berceuse in A flat ...	Guilmant.
3.	{ Allegro Vivace } { Allegro Cantabile } From the Organ Symphony, No. 5	C. M. Widor.
4.	Pastorale in G major ...	Gustav Merkel.
5.	Cantique, 'Le Nom de Marie' ...	Gounod.
6.	Overture in D major, Op. 15 ...	Spohr.

(Continued on page 473.)

The earth is the Lord's.

HARVEST ANTHEM.

Psalm xxiv. 1; cxlv. 10, 15, 16.

Words of Pastorate by J. G. JOHNSTON.

Composed by ALFRED HOLLINS.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Con spirito. $\text{♩} = 92.$

Gt. to Principal with Full Sw. coup.

f

Ped.

SOPRANO.

ALTO.

TENOR.

BASS.

The earth is the Lord's, and the ful - ness there - of, the

The earth is the Lord's, and the ful - ness there - of, the

The earth is the Lord's, and the ful - ness there - of, the

The earth is the Lord's, and the ful - ness there - of, the world, the world, and they that dwell there - in, the earth is the Lord's, and the world, the world, and they that dwell there - in, the earth is the Lord's, and the world, the world, and they that dwell there - in, the earth is the Lord's, and the world, the world, and they that dwell there - in, the earth is the Lord's, and the world, the world, and they that dwell there - in, the earth is the Lord's, and the Copyright, 1903, by Novello and Company, Limited.

ful - ness there - of, the world, and they . . that dwell there - in, the world, and they . . that dwell there - in. The eyes of all wait up - on . .

mf

*Gt. Diaps.
Sw. 8 & 4 ft. with Oboe.*

and Thou giv - est them their meat in due sea - - son. Thou Thee, O Lord, and Thou giv - est them their meat in due sea - - son. Thou Thee, O Lord,

cres. p

o - pen-est Thine hand, Thou o - pen-est Thine hand, and sat - is - and sat - is - o - pen-est Thine hand, Thou o - pen-est Thine hand, and sat - is - and sat - is -

and sat - is -

dim.

- fi - est the de - sire of ev - 'ry liv - ing thing.

dim.

- fi - est the de - sire of ev - 'ry liv - ing thing.

dim.

- fi - est the de - sire of ev - 'ry liv - ing thing.

dim.

- fi - est the de - sire of ev - 'ry liv - ing thing.

Tempo 1mo. $\text{♩} = 92.$

Gt. to Princ. Sw. Full.

mf

f

The earth is the Lord's, and the ful - ness there - of, the

f

The earth is the Lord's, and the ful - ness there - of, the

f

The earth is the Lord's, and the ful - ness there - of, the

f

The earth is the Lord's, and the ful - ness there - of, the

poco rit.

earth is the Lord's, the earth is the Lord's, the earth is the Lord's, and the earth is the Lord's, the earth is the Lord's, the earth is the Lord's, and the earth the Lord's, the earth is the Lord's, the earth is the Lord's, and the earth, the earth is the Lord's, the earth is the Lord's, is the Lord's, and the poco rit.

a tempo. ff rit.

ful - ness there-of, the earth is the Lord's.

ff rit.

ful - ness there-of, the earth is the Lord's.

a tempo. ff rit.

ful - ness there-of, the earth is the Lord's, the earth is the Lord's.

ff rit.

ful - ness there-of, the earth is the Lord's, is the Lord's.

a tempo. ff rit. Sv. 8 ft. with Oboe.

Sv. Gt. soft 8 ft. rit.

senza Ped. Ped. soft 16 ft. with Sv. coup.

O THAT MEN WOULD PRAISE THE LORD

ANTHEM FOR HARVEST

COMPOSED BY

JOHN B. MCEWEN.

Psalms cvii. 8 (Bible Version);
cxxxvi. 5, 6; cxlvii. 7, 8.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Allegro moderato. ♩ = 112.mff

SOPRANO.

a tempo.

O that men would praise the Lord,

ALTO.

a tempo.

O that men would praise the Lord, . .

TENOR.

a tempo.

O that men would praise the Lord, . .

BASS.

a tempo.

O that men would praise the Lord, . .

rit.f a tempo.

O that men would praise the Lord, . . . O . . . that men . . . would praise the

O that men would praise the Lord, O that men would praise the

O that men would praise the Lord, O that men . . . would praise the

O that men would praise the Lord, O that men . . . would praise the

The first system of the musical score for 'O That Men Would Praise the Lord'. It consists of four vocal staves (Soprano, Alto, Tenor, Bass) and a piano accompaniment. The lyrics are: 'O that men would praise the Lord, . . . O . . . that men . . . would praise the'. The music is in G major and 4/4 time.

Lord . . . for . . . His good - ness, and His Lord . . . for His good - ness, and His won - der - ful

Lord . . . for His good - ness, and His won - der - ful works to the Lord . . . for His good - ness, and His won - der - ful works to the

The second system of the musical score. The lyrics continue: 'Lord . . . for . . . His good - ness, and His', 'Lord . . . for His good - ness, and His won - der - ful', 'Lord . . . for His good - ness, and His won - der - ful works to the', and 'Lord . . . for His good - ness, and His won - der - ful works to the'. The piano accompaniment continues with chords and moving lines.

won - der - ful works, His won - - der - ful works . . . to the chil - dren, the works, His won - der - ful works . . . to the chil - dren, the chil - and His won - der - ful works, His won - - der - ful works to the chil - dren of men, . . . to the chil - dren

The third system of the musical score. The lyrics continue: 'won - der - ful works, His won - - der - ful works . . . to the chil - dren, the', 'works, His won - der - ful works . . . to the chil - dren, the chil -', 'and His won - der - ful works, His won - - der - ful works to the', and 'chil - dren of men, . . . to the chil - dren'. The piano accompaniment continues with chords and moving lines.

chil - dren of men, O that men would praise the Lord, dren of men, O that men would praise the Lord, chil - dren of men, O that men would praise, would praise the Lord, O that of men, O that men would praise the Lord, O
O that men would praise the Lord, praise the Lord . . for His good-ness, praise the O that men would praise the Lord, praise men would praise, would praise the Lord for His won that men would praise the Lord . . for His Lord . . for His good-ness, and His won - der - ful works to the children of men !
the Lord for His good ness !
der - ful works, His works to the chil - dren of men !
good - ness, and His works to the chil - dren of men !

f
f
f
cres.
dim. e rit.
cres.
dim. e rit.
cres.
dim. e rit.
cres.
dim. e rit.
cres.
dim. e rit.

SOPRANO SOLO.

con espress.

Lento. rit. con espress. d. = 63.

p pp p

They that sow in tears shall reap in joy, . . . they . . . shall reap, . . . shall reap . . . in

pp

joy. He that go - eth forth and . . . weep - eth,

pp

f p dim.

bear-ing pre - - ciousseed, shall doubtless come . . . a - gain . . . with . . . re - joic - - f p dim.

p a tempo.

- ing, he shall come a - gain, . . . bring - ing his poco rit. p a tempo.

pp

cres. rit.

sheaves with him, he shall come a - gain with re - joic - ing.

cres. rit. pp

Molto maestoso.
FULL. BASSES.

f Molto maestoso. $\text{♩} = 100.$

Sing un - to the Lord, . . . sing with thanks - giv-ing, . . .

cres. cres.

sing . . . praise up - on . . the harp un - to . . . our God, . . .

FULL.

Sing un - to the Lord, . . . sing with .. thanks - . . .

f f

Sing un - to the Lord, . . . sing with .. thanks - . . .

giving, sing praise up - on the harp, . . sing . .
sing un - to the Lord, sing praise up - on the harp, sing giving, sing praise up - on the harp, . . sing . .
sing un - to the Lord, sing praise up - on the harp, . . sing . .

praise up - on the harp un - to our God.
praise up - on the harp un - to our God.
praise up - on the harp un - to our God. Who cov - er - eth the praise up - on the harp un - to our God.

senza Ped.

Who cov - er - eth the heav'n with clouds, Who pre - par - eth
Who cov - er - eth the heav'n with heav'n with clouds, Who pre - par - eth rain . . for the earth, Who
Who cov - er - eth the heav'n with clouds, Who pre - par - eth rain . . for the earth, Who ma - keth grass to grow up - on the moun - tains.

clouds, Who ma - keth grass to grow up - on the moun - tains. ma - keth grass to . . grow, to grow up - on . . the moun - tains.
rain . . for the earth, Who ma - keth grass to grow up - on the moun - tains.

This system contains four vocal staves and two piano accompaniment staves. The vocal parts are in treble clef, and the piano part is in bass clef. The music is in G major and 4/4 time. The lyrics are: "rain . . for the earth, Who ma - keth grass to grow up - on the moun - tains. clouds, Who ma - keth grass to grow up - on the moun - tains. ma - keth grass to . . grow, to grow up - on . . the moun - tains. rain . . for the earth, Who ma - keth grass to grow up - on the moun - tains."

Sing un - to the Lord, . . sing with thanks - giv - ing, . .
Sing un - to the Lord, . . sing un - to the
Sing un - to the Lord, . . sing with thanks - giv - ing, . .
Sing un - to the Lord, . . sing un - to the

This system contains four vocal staves and two piano accompaniment staves. The vocal parts are in treble clef, and the piano part is in bass clef. The music is in G major and 4/4 time. The lyrics are: "Sing un - to the Lord, . . sing with thanks - giv - ing, . . Sing un - to the Lord, . . sing un - to the Sing un - to the Lord, . . sing with thanks - giv - ing, . . Sing un - to the Lord, . . sing un - to the".

mf sing . . praise up - on . . the harp, sing . . praise up - on the harp, the mf Lord, sing praise up - on the harp, sing praise up - on the harp, the mf sing praise up - on the harp, sing . . praise up - on the harp, the mf Lord, sing praise up - on the harp, sing, . . praise up - on the harp, the

This system contains four vocal staves and two piano accompaniment staves. The vocal parts are in treble clef, and the piano part is in bass clef. The music is in G major and 4/4 time. The lyrics are: "sing . . praise up - on . . the harp, sing . . praise up - on the harp, the Lord, sing praise up - on the harp, sing praise up - on the harp, the sing praise up - on the harp, sing . . praise up - on the harp, the Lord, sing praise up - on the harp, sing, . . praise up - on the harp, the".

harp . . . to God, . . . praise ye the Lord, . . . praise ye the harp . . . to God, . . . praise ye the Lord, . . . praise ye the harp . . . to God, . . . praise ye the Lord, . . . praise ye the harp . . . to God, . . . praise ye the Lord, . . . praise ye the

The first system of the musical score features four vocal staves and a piano accompaniment. The vocal parts are for harp, with lyrics: "harp . . . to God, . . . praise ye the Lord, . . . praise ye the". The piano accompaniment is in the right hand, with a forte dynamic marking (f).

Lord, . . . sing . . . un - to . . . the Lord,

Lord, . . . sing . . . un - to, . . . un - to the Lord,

Lord, . . . sing . . . un - to, . . . un - to the Lord,

Lord, . . . sing . . . un - to, . . . un - to the Lord,

Allargando.

The second system continues the vocal and piano parts. The vocal parts have lyrics: "Lord, . . . sing . . . un - to . . . the Lord,". The piano accompaniment includes a section marked Allargando. (ritardando).

praise . . . ye the Lord, praise . . . ye the Lord.

praise . . . ye the Lord, praise . . . ye the Lord.

praise . . . ye the Lord, praise . . . ye the Lord.

praise . . . ye the Lord, praise . . . ye the Lord.

rit. Adagio.

The third system concludes the piece. The vocal parts have lyrics: "praise . . . ye the Lord, praise . . . ye the Lord." The piano accompaniment includes a section marked rit. Adagio. (ritardando, Adagio).

SOPRANOS ONLY.

Pastorale. Andante quasi allegretto.

p God has promised, God has giv - en Gold - en sun - shine, sil - ver rain, From His trea - sur -

Pastorale. Andante quasi allegretto. ♩. = 52.

ft. Ped. sw.

dim. mp TENORS.
- ies in Hea - ven, For His wait - ing chil - dren's gain. On the fields His gifts des - cend - ing, mp

cres.
Gen - tly touch'd the hid - den grain; So a gold - en in - crease end - ing, In the har - vest

cres.

rit. a tempo. p
Boun - teous Giv - er, bless His Name, Joy - ful - ly your

pp
Boun - teous, Boun - - - teous Giv - - -

rit. a tempo. p
of . . . the plain. . . Boun - teous Giv - er, bless His Name, Joy - ful -

pp Boun - - - teous Giv - - -

rit. a tempo. p

mf cres.

thanks proclaim, Boun - teous Giv - er, bless His Name, Joy - ful - ly your thanks, . . your

mf cres.

- er, Boun - teous Giv - er, bless His Name, bless His mf cres.

- ly, your thanks proclaim, Bounteous Giv - er, bless His Name, Joy - ful - ly . . . your mf cres.

- er, Boun - teous Giv - er, bless His Name, bless His mf cres.

f

dim.

thanks pro - claim, bless, bless . . His Name!

dim.

Name, His Name, Bounteous Giv - er, bless His Name, . . His Name!

dim.

thanks . . . pro - claim, bless . . His Name, . . His Name!

dim.

Name, His Name, bless . . His Name, . . His Name!

dim.

p

Con spirito. 92.

Gt. increase Sw.

mf

Gt. to Ped.

f

The earth is the Lord's, and the ful - ness there - of, the world, the world, and they that

The earth is the Lord's, and the ful - ness there - of, the world, the world, and they that

The earth is the Lord's, and the ful - ness there - of, the world, the world, and they that

The earth is the Lord's, and the ful - ness there - of, the world, the world, and they that

This system contains four vocal staves and a piano accompaniment. The vocal parts are in treble clef with a key signature of two sharps (F# and C#). The piano part is in bass clef. The lyrics are: 'The earth is the Lord's, and the ful - ness there - of, the world, the world, and they that'. There are dynamic markings of f and cres. above the first vocal staff.

dwel there - in. All Thy works shall praise Thee, O Lord, all Thy dwel there - in. All Thy works shall praise Thee, O Lord, dwel there - in. All Thy works shall praise Thee, O Lord, all Thy dwel there - in. All Thy works shall praise Thee, O Lord,

This system continues the vocal and piano parts. The lyrics are: 'dwel there - in. All Thy works shall praise Thee, O Lord, all Thy'. There are dynamic markings of f and cres. above the first vocal staff.

works shall praise Thee, O Lord, . . all Thy works shall praise Thee, O

all Thy works shall praise Thee, O

works shall praise Thee, O Lord, . . all Thy works shall praise Thee, O

all Thy works shall praise Thee, O

This system concludes the vocal and piano parts. The lyrics are: 'works shall praise Thee, O Lord, . . all Thy works shall praise Thee, O'. There are dynamic markings of ff above the first vocal staff.

dim.

Lord, and Thy saints, Thy saints shall bless Thee. The earth is the Lord's, and the

dim.

Lord, and Thy saints, Thy saints shall bless Thee. The earth is the Lord's, and the

dim.

Lord, and Thy saints, Thy saints shall bless Thee. The earth is the Lord's, and the

dim.

Lord, and Thy saints, Thy saints shall bless Thee. All Thy works shall dim.

f

cres. rit. ff Maestoso rit. al fine.

ful - ness there - of. All Thy works shall praise Thee, O Lord. Praise ye the cres. rit. ff rit. al fine.

ful - ness there - of. All Thy works shall praise Thee, O Lord. Praise ye the cres. rit. ff rit. al fine.

ful - ness there - of. All Thy works shall praise Thee, O Lord. Praise ye the cres. rit. ff rit. al fine.

praise Thee, O Lord. All Thy works shall praise Thee, O Lord. Praise ye the cres. rit. ff rit. al fine.

Maestoso.

Lord, praise ye the Lord. . . A men. . .

Lord, praise ye the Lord. . . A men. . .

Lord, praise ye the Lord. . . A men. . .

Lord, praise ye the Lord. . . A men. . .

Lord, praise ye the Lord. . . A men. . .

fff

CHURCH AND ORGAN MUSIC.—(Continued from p. 464).

AN INTERESTING CHANT-BOOK.

The Anglican Chant is such a well-worn form that its potentialities might almost be regarded as nil. But a chant publication recently issued by Messrs. Novello gives proof to the contrary. It is entitled—

THE MALE-VOICE CHANT-BOOK.

A collection of three-part (A.T.B.) chants adapted to the Book of Psalms.

No compiler's name appears on the title-page, but as the preface is signed 'H. W. H., Bristol Cathedral, December, 1902,' there is no difficulty in discovering to whom the credit of the book is due, and worthily due—namely, Mr. Hubert W. Hunt, organist of Bristol Cathedral.

The book contains no fewer than 223 different chants contributed by thirty-nine composers, all of whom are in the flesh—a circumstance surely unique. Only thirteen chants occur twice—in three instances for specific reasons—therefore the charm of variety, to which the thirty 'additional chants' at the end of the book lend their aid, is secured. It is of course difficult to cogitate original chant melodies, as simple stepwise progressions seem to have been monopolized by the old composers, therefore it would be hypercritical to comment on the frequent melodic skips which seem to characterize many of the chants in this book, which may tend to a certain restlessness in chanting. But the difficulties imposed by compass of voice and harmonic limitations have certainly been overcome in not a few instances—the following specimen by Dr. G. F. Huntley (No. 5 in the book) is a case in point:—

G. F. HUNTLEY.

The above chant, by-the-way, is an excellent example of completeness, as each chord consists of three different notes; in other words, there are no doublings of parts.

In a letter received from Mr. Hunt—who was formerly assistant to Sir Walter Parratt, at Windsor—he writes in reference to this book:—

The idea of three-part chants for men's voices was first put into my head by Sir Walter Parratt as far back as 1884, when I wrote half-a-dozen in this way, three of which (96, 97 and 117) are in the present book. The urgent necessity for such a collection came upon me when I commenced my duties here [Bristol Cathedral] and found six men (three on each side) singing four-part chants! In less than a month I had revised the MS. collection, so that no four-part chants remained. Then, not being satisfied with the result of that arrangement, the present collection began to take shape and to form a solution of the difficulty.

There can be no doubt that this chant-book for adult male voices will supply a long-felt want, and we accord it a hearty welcome into the realm of English church music.

A VILLAGE ACHIEVEMENT.

Canford, a little Dorsetshire village near the town of Wimborne, is evidently above the average of rural attainment in the matter of church music. At a festival service held in the Parish Church on Ascension Day the music included a tenor solo from the 'Messiah'; T. A. Walmisley's anthem 'From all that dwell below the skies'; the alto and bass duet from Weldon's 'In Thee, O Lord, have I put my trust'; 'Let the bright seraphim'—sung by four Canford chorists—and 'Let their celestial concerts all unite' ('Samson'). The 'augmented choir' consisted of the village Madrigal Society (this sounds well) and the church choir, who sang the service music under the direction of Mr. A. H. R. Robinson, organist of the church and organist to Lord Wimborne. It is pleasing to learn that 'the congregation and collection were highly satisfactory'; but people and money can be more easily gathered together, even in country districts, than village singers who creditably interpret such music as that mentioned above. We may therefore regard the efforts of these good Canfordites as exceedingly satisfactory, and as being worthy of any publicity and commendation which this column can give.

LONDON GREGORIAN CHORAL ASSOCIATION.

The Association held its thirty-third annual festival on the 4th ult. at St. Paul's Cathedral, where an enormous congregation was assembled. The choir numbered 700 voices. The words of the first processional hymn, written by the late Rev. S. Childs Clarke in Sapphic Metre, were successfully set to music by Dr. Charles W. Pearce, while the Canticles were set by Dr. Warwick Jordan to the Tonus Peregrinus and Third Tone respectively. The anthem, a new composition by Mr. Arthur Henry Brown, 'From the rising of the sun,' was extremely well sung under the composer's baton.

As on former occasions the whole of the choral arrangements were under the able direction of Dr. Warwick Jordan, who presided at the organ. The voluntaries included the Fantasia in D minor of Mr. E. Silas and a Prelude in E minor by the presiding organist.

NONCONFORMIST CHOIR UNION.

This organization held its fifteenth festival at the Crystal Palace on the 13th ult. The outstanding event of the day was a concert given on the Handel orchestra in which 4,000 singers took part, under the experienced conductorship of Mr. E. Minshall. The band of the Union (about ninety performers) accompanied the serried ranks of chorists, and under the careful conductorship of Mr. T. R. Croger, the indefatigable secretary of the Union, played some orchestral selections. Mr. Fountain Meen rendered efficient aid at the organ. The attractions of the Festival included an organ recital given by Mr. J. P. Attwater; a choir competition (Mr. Josiah Booth adjudicator); and the performance of a new harvest cantata, 'Praise the Name of the Lord your God,' conducted by the composer, Mr. J. Allanson Benson.

The thirty-ninth annual Festival of the Deanery of Deddington Association of Church Choirs (one of the oldest Associations of the kind in the country) took place on the 9th ult., at the Parish Church, Bloxam, Oxfordshire. The service included Magnificat and Nunc dimittis (Dykes in F), and, for the anthem, 'Then shall your light,' from Mendelssohn's 'Elijah.' These compositions, orchestrally accompanied, with the hymns, chants, &c., were well rendered by the United Choirs under the efficient conductorship of Mr. C. E. Rowley, organist of St. Mary's Church, Adderbury, and choirmaster of the Association, while Mr. W. L. Luttman, organist of Banbury Parish Church, rendered good service at the organ.

The thirteenth Triennial Festival of the Winchester Diocesan Choral Association was held in the Cathedral on the 17th and 18th ult. with much success. The setting of the Te Deum was Garrett in F, and the anthems were 'O Lord, my God' (Wesley) and 'I was glad' (Elvey). All these, with the chants, processional hymns, &c., were effectively rendered under the alert conductorship of Mr. William Prendergast, the successor of Dr. Arnold in the organistship of Winchester Cathedral. The Rev. Precentor Slater skilfully accompanied the services, and Mr. E. Gilbert, assistant-organist of the Cathedral, played with much acceptance some organ voluntaries.

The Chelmsford Association of Church Choirs held its thirty-seventh annual Festival in the Parish Church on the 9th ult., when about 300 singers took part in the services. The anthem was Mr. Myles Foster's 'Be glad and rejoice' which was very impressively sung. The whole service (including Gadsby's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C) was excellently rendered, the choir singing with good tone and refinement. Mr. F. R. Frye (the experienced choirmaster to the Association) conducted and Mr. W. A. Hall presided at the organ.

The death took place on the 3rd ult., at 4, South Street, Thurloe Square, of Mr. William Pitts, aged 74, for fifty years organist of Brompton Oratory. Mr. Pitts was the composer of the fine hymn-tune named 'Princethorpe' in 'Church Hymns' and other collections. It has the true martial ring without the vulgarity which too often attends such strains.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Dr. G. J. Bennett, Lincoln Cathedral. — Berceuse, Saint-Saëns.

Dr. A. L. Peace, East United Free Church, Aberdeen (Opening of new organ built by Lewis and Co.). — Sonata da Camera, A. L. Peace.

Mr. H. L. Balfour, Holy Trinity, Sloane Street. — Fantasia in E minor, Silas.

Mr. W. Wolstenholme, All Saints', Norfolk Square. — Recital of his own compositions.

Mr. Felix Morley, Pembroke College Chapel, Cambridge (Organ recently reconstructed and enlarged by Messrs. Norman and Beard). — Allegro and Andante from Sonata 1 (Op. 175), F. Lachner.

Mr. Cyril B. Rootham, St. John's College Chapel, Cambridge. — Fantasia in F minor, Mozart.

Mr. J. E. P. Aldous, Church of Ascension, Hamilton, Ontario. — 'Rule, Britannia,' Guilman.

Mr. Henry W. Weston, Holy Trinity, Wandsworth. — Overture in G, Dr. Greene.

Mr. John W. Ivimey, St. Paul's, Onslow Square. — Sonata in F minor, Rheinberger.

Mr. J. Pullein, Primitive Methodist Church, Gainsborough. — Andantino and Finale, Wolstenholme.

Mr. R. W. Strickland, College Street Chapel, Northampton. — Variations on the hymn-tune 'St. Luke,' E. H. Thorne.

Mr. Roger Ascham, Feather Market Hall, Port Elizabeth. — Grand Solemn March in E flat, Smart, and Overture in F, William Faulkes.

Mr. Charles M. Cowe, Church of St. Paul, Dundee. — Variations on the chorale 'Christ, der du bist der helle Tag,' Bach.

Mr. Louis H. Torr, Church of the Ascension, Southampton. — Sonate Pascale, Lemmens.

Mr. Fred. Gostelow, Parish Church, Luton. — Overture in E flat, Faulkes.

Mr. Howard Moss, Parish Church, Gravesend. — Introduction and Allegro, F. E. Bache.

Mr. R. H. Turner, Parish Church, Portsmouth. — Andante in D, Silas.

Mr. Arthur Gosling, St. Andrew's Church, Willesden. — Canon in B minor, Schumann.

Dr. J. C. Bradshaw, Christchurch Cathedral, New Zealand. — Cuckoo and Nightingale Concerto, Handel.

Mr. Maughan Barnett, St. John's, Wellington, New Zealand. — Triumphal March, Lemmens.

Mr. J. B. Heavysege, St. George's Church, Paris. — Offertoire in F minor, Salomé.

Mr. Harrison White, Holy Trinity, Rayleigh. — Andantino in D flat, Chauvet.

Mr. Alan Paterson, Kilmacoll Parish Kirk. — Variations on the Psalm Tune 'Dundee,' G. A. Macfarren.

Mr. C. E. R. Stevens, St. Mark's, Jersey. — Choral Song and Fugue, S. S. Wesley.

Mr. George Grace, Holy Trinity, Taunton. — Meditation, Mailly.

Mr. W. G. Whittaker. — Andante from a harpsichord sonata, Ferdinando Turini; and Suite, Reginald Steggall.

ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. J. Goddard Barker, Church of the Holy Ascension, Settle.

Mr. C. H. Collins, Christ Church, High Wycombe.

Mr. R. G. Dansie, Christ Church, Old Kent Road.

Mr. Arthur Docksey, St. Hilda's Church, South Shields.

Mr. B. Herrick Edwards, St. Augustine's Church, Grove Park.

Mr. William H. Harris, Wimbledon Parish Church.

Mr. Alfred Heather (choirmaster and director of the music), St. Saviour's Cathedral, Pietermaritzburg, Natal.

Mr. Archibald Horsey, St. Alban's Church, Chiswick.

Mr. Martin Klickmann, Emmanuel Congregational Church, East Dulwich.

Mr. Henry G. Lockett, Leyland Parish Church.

Mr. Sydney B. Mason, Church of St. Ethelburga, Bishopsgate.

Mr. Bruce Steane, Parish Church, Kemsing, Sevenoaks.

Mr. J. Branford Strong, St. Luke's Church, Ramsgate.

Mr. J. L. Townsend, Wandsworth Wesleyan Church.

Reviews.

Rhapsody on March Themes. By Edward German.

Arranged for Pianoforte Duet by Arthur E. Grimshaw. Oriental Rhapsody. Pianoforte Solo by Percy Pitt.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Mr. Edward German scored a success with his 'Rhapsody on March Themes' on the occasion of its performance by the Festival orchestra at the Norwich Musical Festival last autumn. Mr. Arthur E. Grimshaw has now succeeded in making a very effective pianoforte-duet transcription of the original score. The opening section consists of a spirited allegro cast in a mould typically Germanesque. To this succeeds first a suave melody, affording pleasant contrast to that which has gone before, and afterwards a thoroughly English tune (in G), which pursues its sprightly course till the return of the main theme. A brilliant coda winds up a piece that is not only very playable and attractive, but which is as interesting to the secondo performer as it is to his (or her) colleague at the keyboard instrument.

The second of these pieces, an arrangement by the composer of his orchestral work, makes a distinctive and effective pianoforte solo. It requires characteristic treatment and some knowledge of Oriental music to do it justice, but executively it will not be found difficult.

Love's Power. Humility. Songs by Herbert Bunning, I wish I were a tiny bird. By Herman Löhr.

A Cradle Song. By G. H. Clutsam.

[Chappell and Company.]

The first of Mr. Herbert Bunning's songs is a setting of some poetical lines by Mrs. R. H. Elkin. In the first verse a lover has not succeeded in pleasing his lady, but in the second he intends to try again. The change from despondency to hope is accentuated by some clever harmonic transitions, and the concluding lines are worked up to an effective climax. 'Humility' has Robert Herrick's lines, wherein a lover declares he would be contented 'To kiss the air that lately kissed thee"—humility indeed, but what about the lady? The music is simple but musically. Mr. Hermann Löhr's duet is unpretentious but melodious, and is worthy of alliance with Charles Kingsley's pretty little poem. The words of 'A Cradle Song' are by Mr. Mat Mervyn, who starts by announcing two facts, 'Dews of night are falling, the sun is in the West,' which may be accepted. Subsequently the usual blessings are called down upon the sleeping child, and if its dreams are as pleasing as the music, the little one should have a very comfortable night.

Tally Ho! By C. Lee Williams.

Sweet and low. By J. Barnby.

How beautiful is night. By J. Lodge Ellerton.

Love for such a cherry lip. By John E. West.

(The Orpheus.)

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

The above are notable additions to the repertory of glees and part-songs for male voices. 'Tally Ho!' is not a hunting ditty as might be expected from the title, but a settling by Mr. Lee Williams of lines from 'The Sportsman's Vocal Cabinet,' dating from 1830, wherein the practice common to all classes of the community of running with the hare and hunting with the hounds is humorously treated. The music reflects this salutary element, and it is most spirited and clever. We note that it is dedicated to the Royal Bristol Orpheus Society, which will doubtless do full justice to the composition. 'Sweet and low' requires no comment save that Sir Joseph Barnby's captivating music is admirably arranged for T.T.B.B. Dr. Ellerton has happily caught the tranquil spirit of Southey's poetical lines, and the music flows on in graceful and melodious phrases. It is laid out for first and second tenors and basses, supplemented by an alto solo part. Mr. John E. West has taken some lines written by Francis J. Waddington and allied them to music which admirably reflects their old-world spirit and grace.

I loved a lass, a fair one. Words by George Wither.

Music by John Pointer.

Sweet little Katusha. Words by Michael Morton. Music arranged by Adolf Schmid.

What shall I give thee? Words by Walter E. Grogan.

Music by Harold L. Brooke.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

There is an element of humour in 'I loved a lass,' which is deftly reflected in the music. The deductions drawn by the jilted lover are ungallant to the fair sex, but considering how he has been treated it must be admitted that he is justified in singing at the close, and in tones fortissimo, 'Fa-le-ro, loo.' Herr Schmid's ditty is an arrangement of an old Russian folk-song which was sung by Miss Lena Ashwell in the dramatic version of Tolstoy's 'Resurrection,' recently mounted at His Majesty's Theatre. This is a dainty little song meriting the adjective 'sweet.' When a tenor begins to ask 'What shall I give thee?' a declaration of love may confidently be expected. In Mr. Brooke's song, which is remarkable for the independence and musical interest of the accompaniment, the avowal does not come until the last page, when it is uttered in accents 'sweet and low,' a much more rational proceeding than the usual fortissimo protestations.

Six Songs, from the 'Jungle Book.' By Rudyard Kipling.

Music by Dora Bright.

[Elkin and Company.]

Admirers of Rudyard Kipling should make early acquaintance of Madame Dora Bright's clever settings of these excerpts from his 'Jungle Book.' The first is 'The Night Song in the Jungle,' which, allied to music of broad character, forms an admirable introduction. It is followed by 'The Seal Lullaby' and 'The Mother Seal's Song,' the music of both of which is very pleasing. The dramatic character of 'Tiger! Tiger!' has been happily caught. The music of the 'Bandar-Log' is pretty, but the most characteristic number of the series is 'The Song Toomai's Mother sang to the Baby,' in which the idiom of Indian music is cleverly employed.

THE HANDEL FESTIVAL.

If we include the preliminary spread of 1857, the seventeenth Gargantuan feast of Handelian strains associated with the Crystal Palace, Sydenham, took place in that historic building on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday the 23rd, 25th and 27th days of the past month. Following the usual custom, the 'Messiah' was performed on the first day, a Selection on the second, and 'Israel in Egypt' worthily concluded this triennial music-making. The public rehearsal occupied some six hours on the preceding Saturday, the 20th ult., and as two of the Festival performances would occur after these pages had gone to press, we must base our remarks mainly on the said full rehearsal.

The band and chorus maintained their customary proportions—players, 485, singers (about), 3,300, making a total of 3,785 executants, gathered together from various parts of the country. No fewer than 110 ladies, including three contrabassists, played on stringed instruments. The non-London contingent of the choir was thus made up, according to figures officially supplied:—

Birmingham	90	voices
Bradford	90	"
Bristol	50	"
Leeds	70	"
Sheffield	220	"
Other Places	56	"

Total of the full-voiced Provincials 576

As to the chorus, the tenors carried off the palm for excellence of tone, though the basses were hardly less fine. The alto part, sweet in quality, might have been strengthened by a larger number of male voices, there being only twenty-three 'bearded altos,' as Mendelssohn called them, on the Handel orchestra. What shall be said of the sopranos? The truth must be told: They gave the conductor the most trouble through their lack of alertness, especially in the all-important matter of attack and verve. The soprano section of the choir needs to be weeded out, at least so far as the London contingent is concerned.

The chronic faults of the old go-as-you-please style, of choral interpretation were unfortunately in evidence in spite of the leavening of the great Metropolitan mass by the Provincial singers—but what are they among so many? Insufficient rhythmic fervour—so important a factor in the rendering of Handel's music—and feebleness of attack—especially at the half bar or after a quaver rest—were unfortunately noticeable. In regard to the enunciation of the words an improvement was noticeable upon previous Festivals, thanks to Dr. Cowen's firm insistence on this important point at the few rehearsals that were possible. But there is still a great deal of leeway to make up in this respect. Final and other consonants did not receive their proper value—e.g., 'led,' 'oppress't,' 'tribes.' A tendency to run one word into another manifested itself, sometimes with curious results, e.g., 'while nightingales slull them,' and so on. And then the important matter of feeling—entering fully into the dramatic significance of the words. To give two instances, one longed for 'He spake the word,' and 'Thy right hand, O Lord, hath dashed in pieces the enemy,' such a rendering, for example, as one might hear with thrilling effect in the West Riding of Yorkshire.

We have felt it our duty again to call attention to these essential points,—they need so much rubbing in—not in the spirit of fault-finding, but as a means of helping to remove the inherent shortcomings that are all too prevalent in choral achievement. Moreover, we make no reflection on Dr. F. H. Cowen, who has succeeded Dr. Manns in the conductorship of the Festival. On the contrary, he has obtained remarkable results considering all the circumstances of his appointment, the limited number of his rehearsals, &c.; but the causes are too deep-rooted to be eradicated in a few meetings devoted to rehearsing a vast mass of voices, even by an experienced conductor. It is only by a general levelling-up of choral technique that the needed—the very much needed—change can be brought about. It is the bounden duty of conductors and singers to be unrelaxing in their efforts to upraise our rich inheritance of English choral song.

The principal vocal performers were Madame Albani, Miss Marguerite Macintyre, Madame Clara Samuelli and Madame Ella Russell (sopranos); Madame Clara Butt (contralto); Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. John Coates and Mr. Charles Saunders (tenors); Mr. Santley, Mr. Kennerley Rumford, Mr. Andrew Black and Mr. Watkin Mills (basses). All these artists maintained the high reputation which is associated with their names.

The music on the Selection Day included 'Acis and Galatea'; 'Sound an alarm'; 'Revenge! Timotheus cries' and a portion of that noble oratorio, 'Solomon,' in addition to the Fourth Organ Concerto. The solo part in the last-named work was very clearly played by Sir Walter Parratt, his first appearance at a Handel Festival. Moreover, the Master of the King's Musick, with that artistic intuitiveness which is so eminently characteristic of him, selected stops that were the nearest akin to those used by Handel himself. Sir Walter thereby very properly disdained the employment of ear-tickling effects, and he shunned an anachronistic cadenza by playing a few bars which were in perfect accord with the composition he interpreted so well. The Concerto was performed with its original choral ending, probably for the first time since Handel himself played the work.

A large audience assembled on the 23rd ult. and listened with evident enjoyment to the familiar music of the 'Messiah.' Of the choruses the best renderings were 'Surely He hath borne our griefs,' 'Lift up your heads,' and the 'Hallelujah.' The fine quartet of soloists—Madame Albani, Madame Clara Butt, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Santley (the veteran baritone, who first appeared at the Festival of 1865), received a very warm welcome. Mr. Walter W. Hedgcock, organist of the Crystal Palace, again rendered good service at the huge instrument he manipulates so well. Dr. F. H. Cowen kept his forces well in hand, and fully justified his appointment as conductor of the time-honoured Handel Festival.

THE RICHARD STRAUSS FESTIVAL.

There can be little doubt that the Richard Strauss Festival held in St. James's Hall, June 3—9, was among the most interesting events of the London musical season. Whether it was also to be reckoned among the most enjoyable depended very much upon the hearer's degree of receptivity. There is much in Strauss's music that runs counter to all one's preconceptions, yet the slightest knowledge of musical history suffices to convince us that this is no valid reason for condemning the composer. Indeed, the reticence with which many of the London critics have written of Strauss suggests that they have a wholesome dread of imitating their predecessors who made themselves ridiculous for all time by their blind denunciation of Wagner, or the still earlier generation who declared that Beethoven's influences upon the music of his time had been more or less pernicious. To think of this makes one careful, but of course it should not prevent a critic from foregoing all criticism.

Until this Festival we have had little opportunity of judging the work of Richard Strauss in its entirety. Even now his two operas are known to us, as Wagner's chief works were up till 1882, merely through the medium of concert performances of extracts; but he differs from Wagner in that his most typical works are intended primarily for the concert-room—the eight Symphonic Poems, all of which, save only a couple of movements of the early 'Aus Italien,' were given at the Festival. It may therefore be said that the material now exists for forming a more or less comprehensive judgment on the composer's work, though it must be allowed that in many cases a single hearing is by no means sufficient for forming an opinion on music which in complexity and elaboration exceeds anything that has gone before it. In endeavouring to record one's impressions it is well to begin by making one's standpoint clear. Of one thing I have for some time been clearly convinced, that Strauss possesses genius; he has not only an unsurpassed technique, but he has ideas which are original and beautiful, sometimes 'beautiful' in the generally accepted sense of sensually pleasing, sometimes in the more modern sense of expressing character. This being the case, I approach his work in a different mood from that in which I should regard the efforts of a fluent utterer of things not worth saying, or even of a well-meaning stammerer of things beyond his reach.

The witty compilers of a bogus Encyclopædia introduced into their skit a suggestive cross-reference: 'Wagner, the late Richard: see Strauss, Richard,' and there is no doubt that the younger composer does, in his thematic development, his glowing orchestral colouring, and his passionate climaxes, owe much to Wagner; yet I incline to think that his art is, if not so obviously, very essentially akin to Beethoven, and owes not a little to Bach. One is often reminded of the Beethoven whose determination to be characteristic, even at the expense of the beautiful, made him indulge in the strenuous and insistent discords in the first movement of the 'Eroica,' and the premature return of the first subject which Sir George Grove loved, though he humorously said it was 'as wrong as stealing or lying'; or again, the unmitigated cacophony which precedes the final movement of the Choral Symphony. These are, however, like the shadows in a picture, which take their proper relative place in the whole scheme of chiaroscuro, and though they afford precedent for even the discords in which Strauss indulges, the question of degree remains to be considered, and one has yet to determine whether these 'shadows' bear the right artistic relation to their context.

In another point Strauss has gone beyond the limits laid down by Beethoven in his famous axiom that music should be an expression of the emotions rather than painting; but even here it must be remembered that Beethoven himself whimsically transgressed this rule in the very work in which he laid it down, while Strauss, where he has diverged into realism, has generally the excuse of a fantastic subject, and it must be admitted that there is a legitimate place in art for the grotesque. Of course Liszt, whose influence upon this generation will probably turn out to be greater than has hitherto been generally allowed, is the immediate artistic ancestor of Strauss, but I need hardly insist upon a point which will be evident to even the most casual hearer. As to Bach's influence, it may be felt in the licence which Strauss allows himself in his counterpoint, in which the carrying out of a melodic idea to its logical conclusion is regarded as of far more importance than the jarring discords which are produced in its course. As a matter of fact, I think it is rather a mistake to make too much of discords. The discords of one generation are the concords of another, and it is hardly safe to say that an harmonic combination is wrong because it sounds strange to our unaccustomed ears. What seems to me to be a greater weakness is the composer's inclination to make so much of details that the main lines of his music are neglected, a sort of pre-Raphaelitism in music which, like its prototype in painting, one admires for its dexterity while feeling that the gain is overbalanced by the corresponding loss, for after all the whole is greater than any of its parts.

Let us now turn to the actual compositions, taking them in chronological order. First there was the 'Aus Italien' (Op. 16), the only one broken up into movements, after the pattern of the classical symphony. Of this two movements were played, one of which, the slow movement, 'Sorrento,' shows a sense of delicate orchestral colour which is as fine in its way as anything Strauss has ever done. Much in advance of this is the 'Don Juan' (Op. 20), a work which carries conviction with it. It glows with colour and passion, it is continuous and broad in its lines, and it is always musical. 'Macbeth' (Op. 23) is not superficially attractive, but it is a profound study of character, rugged and barbaric, but not going beyond the hitherto recognised bounds of art. Its power is tremendous, and, as a matter of detail, there is a distinct flavour of the first few bars of the Choral Symphony in the opening. 'Tod und Verklärung' (Op. 24) is more truly 'musical,' especially in the really noble coda in which the work culminates, while the freakish 'Till Eulenspiegel' (Op. 28) is equally happy as a musical grotesque, in which the touches of burlesque do not obscure the glimpses of real beauty. And here I may say that Strauss seems to me to have genuine melodic invention; his themes often have distinction, and are never vulgar or sentimental. The next symphonic poem is 'Also sprach Zarathustra' (Op. 30), and here we come to much more debateable ground. The subject itself has been objected to, but it is not quite fair to style it 'a system of philosophy set to music,' for it is rather a musical commentary on Nietzsche's work bearing that title, which, as it has been said, is not so much 'the building up of a system of thought as of a world of feeling.' At the same time it may be doubted whether Strauss has not attempted more than music can express without losing its ideal character. And here one certainly is inclined to doubt whether his anxiety to express each minute phase of his complex subject has not resulted in the pre-Raphaelite insistence on details to which reference has already been made. The riddle of existence is, in a word, the gigantic theme of this wonderful production, and Strauss expresses its insolubility by ending his work with the alternated chords of C major and B major. It is done so deftly that the effect is not nearly so barbarously crude as might be expected,—not much worse than Schumann's 'Question'—but this serves to show how relentlessly Strauss follows out his 'programme' to its logical conclusion. Still more realistic is 'Don Quixote' (Op. 35), but here the composer has the excuse of a subject grotesque and fantastical in character. This is a most remarkable work, ingeniously and happily planned. In a prelude the character of the hero is built up, his native chivalry, his assiduous study of romances, and the growing aberration of his intellect are all depicted, and then out of these materials is formed the chief theme representing the Knight of the Doleful Visage, accompanied by his homely squire Sancho. On this a series of ten variations is based, each representing an adventure in which the protagonists take part, while the finale represents Don Quixote's retirement and death. The realism culminates in the adventure with the flock of sheep, whose 'baas' are as free from the trammels of rhythm and harmony as is Nature itself. Here again the question arises: Is this passage of imitation which in itself cannot by any stretch of courtesy be styled 'music' admissible as a shadow in the picture? For my part I incline to think that it is too extended to be quite 'in the picture,' though it serves to set off the unmistakable beauty of the next variation, in which Don Quixote expounds his ideas of chivalry. This is one of the glowing episodes, which glows all the more by contrast with the grotesque ugliness of what has gone before. Last of all comes the 'Heldenleben' (Op. 40), which has been so much discussed of late that it need not be considered at length. Here again there is some unmitigated cacophony in the battle scene, yet as a whole the impression left is of tremendous power and brilliance. It has vitality, and this covers a multitude of sins.

The scheme also included a large number of songs, in which Strauss shows the truly lyrical charm of which he is capable. They were sung by Frau Strauss-de Ahna and Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies most sympathetically, and Mr. John Harrison sang two tenor scenes from 'Guntram.' The early Burlesque for Pianoforte and Orchestra, in which the influence of Brahms is very marked, was played with the utmost clearness and charm by Mr. Backhaus. The 'Concertgebouw Symphonic Orchestra' from Amsterdam was engaged for the Festival, not from any want of confidence in the powers of English players, but because they happen to have made a speciality of Strauss's music, which with a London band would have involved an impracticable amount of rehearsal. It is a fine, well-disciplined band, not too refined in quality, but possessing a good ensemble. Mr. Zimmermann's fine playing of the fantastic violin solo in the 'Heldenleben' and Mr. Mossel's execution of the corresponding violoncello part in 'Don Quixote' deserve more than a conventional word of acknowledgment. The work of conducting was shared by the composer and Mr. Mengelberg, the conductor of the Amsterdam Orchestra, a very able artist, whose reading of the 'Heldenleben' was most forceful and brilliant.

HERBERT THOMPSON.

THE DREAM OF GERONTIUS IN LONDON.

After waiting for an undue time, during which it has been heard in many parts of the world, Dr. Elgar's 'The Dream of Gerontius' has at last found its way to London. The circumstances of its introduction to the Metropolis—at Westminster Cathedral on the 6th ult.—were, it must be admitted, appropriate enough, if from a practical point of view they left something to be desired. The setting of Cardinal Newman's poem by one who in religion and temperament is in perfect sympathy with it should naturally come under the special protection of the Roman Catholic community, and it was fitting, if only from the point of view of sentiment, that it should be given in the great building which, when completed, is to be the cathedral church of their Archbishop. Even in its gaunt incompleteness, destitute of the wealth of colour which is meant to adorn it, the interior of Bentley's spacious building is immensely impressive, and seems a fitting place for the 'Solemn Musick' of which Milton wrote. Unhappily its acoustic properties are, at least in its present condition, of a somewhat capricious kind, and one has to be very favourably placed to form a clear judgment of the music performed. From some positions the details were fairly distinct, but I doubt whether in any portion of the church the weight of tone was sufficiently felt to be as impressive as it should be. Delicacy and distance certainly lent charm to much of the music, but on the other hand the more massive choral effects lost something. The choral and orchestral forces, though thoroughly efficient, were not numerous enough for so large an auditorium. The chorus numbered only about 200 voices, but insufficient numbers proved the only fault chargeable to the exceedingly well-drilled singers of the North Staffordshire District Choral Society. The finish and precision of their performance and their excellent intonation deserve high praise, and these virtues were intensified in the semi-chorus, though for the reason already mentioned the refined singing of these twenty-three picked members was, at least for the majority of the audience, refined away to an almost imperceptible point. The Society's conductor is Mr. James Whewall, and to him is due a share of the honour belonging to this very practised chorus. The band consisted of well-known London musicians, and was thoroughly up to its work.

The novel feature of the performance was the appearance of Dr. Ludwig Wüllner in the title-role, for the first time in this country. Dr. Wüllner was obviously handicapped by the English words, but his reading was characterized by an intensity of feeling which atoned for this, and also went far to atone for the marked absence of purely vocal charm. His two colleagues, Miss Muriel Foster and Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies, combine to a remarkable degree sensuous beauty of voice with dramatic insight, and it would be difficult to imagine more completely satisfying renderings of their respective parts than they, who are now familiar in the work, are able to give. As for the work itself, repeated hearings help to convince one of its power and of the absolute greatness of its not infrequent moments of real inspiration. One who heard it for the first time on this occasion would hardly realize its full impressiveness, and to this extent it may be said that less than full justice has even now been done to 'The Dream of Gerontius' in London. With this reservation, however, the performance, which was conducted by the composer, was one of exceptional sympathy and finish in all its details.

Dr. Edward Elgar has been the recipient of a very remarkable gift which well represents the esteem in which he is held in North Staffordshire. It consists of a splendid specimen of the potter's art executed by Mr. C. J. Noke, a resident of Stoke-on-Trent, an artist and designer well known in the district. The gift, a loving cup over twelve inches in height, was executed at the Doulton Works as a remembrance of the performance of the 'Dream of Gerontius' given at Hanley. The cup is enriched with a portrait of Dr. Elgar in his academic robes, surrounded with symbolic bays. The prevailing tint is a rich brown, and the whole design is well thought-out and suggestive to a high degree.

DUISBURG MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Many vocal societies are formed, but for lack of support some of these never reach their majority: the public is not seldom at fault, at other times there are errors of management which explain an early collapse. A little to the north of Düsseldorf, where Mendelssohn and Schumann once lived and laboured, there are several towns which can boast of possessing musical societies, and of these one of the most important is the Gesangverein of Duisburg, which celebrated its Jubilee on May 23 and 24. It may be mentioned incidentally that in the neighbouring town of Krefeld a vocal society has existed for seventy years, and one in Mülheim a/d Ruhr since 1853.

A few words respecting the history of the Duisburg Gesangverein may be interesting, and perhaps profitable. A small choral society existed there in the thirties under Kufferath, and a few years later we hear of flourishing societies at Ruhrort, Mülheim, Werden, and other neighbouring places. In 1845, indeed, fragments of Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' were performed, in which Herr Julius Scholl, who has been a member of the Duisburg Society ever since its foundation, took part. When Kufferath died in 1847 it came to an end. At length in 1853 a 'Duisburger Gesangverein' was started, and Albrecht Zur Nieden, an able musician who had studied at the Dessau Music School, was placed at its head. The first concert, given on February 1, 1853, opened with a 'Danklied' for mixed chorus by Haydn, for which reason it was suitably placed at the opening of the Festival which has just taken place. In 1873 Zur Nieden died, and his successor was Carl August Laue. In 1884 followed Hugo Grüters, who by producing important works ('Messiah' 'St. Matthew Passion,' 'Elijah,' the Choral Symphony, &c.) added greatly to the prestige of the Society. When Grüters was appointed music-director at Bonn in 1898 there were no fewer than sixty-five candidates for the vacant post at Duisburg. The successful one, Dr. Walther Josephson, has distinctly proved himself worthy of the confidence placed in him. It should be mentioned that the present commodious Tonhalle in which the Festival took place was erected in 1887 by subscription, with interest on the sum guaranteed by the town. The fine organ, which cost £1,250, was presented to the town by the Gesangverein.

The choir of the recent Festival consisted of between three and four hundred voices. Singers came from the neighbouring towns of Oberhausen, Ruhrort, and Mülheim to help to celebrate the Jubilee. The programme of Saturday's concert, after the Haydn 'Danklied' already mentioned, was devoted to the 'Messiah,' a new version of which had been prepared by Professor Friedrich Wilhelm Franke of Cologne, who himself officiated at the organ. In a brief notice such as the present it is impossible to describe in detail this new presentation of the old oratorio. The chief novelty was the introduction of a harpsichord, the invention of Herr Rehbock, of Duisburg. The sound is produced by the plucking of the strings, but the action—for which the inventor has taken out patents in Germany and England—differs from that of old harpsichords. The tone is stronger, and moreover gradations of tone can be obtained by touch. The instrument has a free-vibrating sound-board, and it seems a most practical substitute for the old harpsichord in oratorio performances, and it combines well with the strings. In 'He was despised'—to name only one air—it proved most effective, also in the recitatives.

Herr Franke's attempt to revive the cembalo part proved to be most interesting. He had also a small body of strings for the solos, excepting of course in certain passages. These accompaniments for the strings in one or two instances seemed however somewhat over-laboured. The 'Messiah' has to be shortened, but the cuts on this occasion were on a very liberal scale. For the most part Prof. Franke followed the performing version of Chrysander. Some of the excisions—the omission of the entire Allegro of the overture, and of the chorus 'Let us break'—are certainly open to exception. Again, faults in the text, which have been pointed out by Professor Prout and others before him, had not been corrected. 'For unto us a child is born' was sung by solo voices, except at the 'Wonderful' burst, and there were other things of the kind which cannot be justified. There was however much to praise in the performance. The solo vocalists were Fräulein Hedwig Kaufmann (soprano), Frau Louise Geller-Wolter (contralto), Herr Richard Fischer (tenor), and Professor Joh. Messchaert (bass); the last named indeed is well known and admired in London. Herr J. Kleinpaul from Hamburg presided at the cembalo.

The music of the second day was very varied and interesting. It included among other works Sir Hubert Parry's dignified setting of Milton's ode 'Blest Pair of Sirens,' of which a really excellent translation had been made by Dr. Walther Josephson. It was rehearsed in the morning, the composer being present, and when he advanced to the desk to confer with the Festival conductor, there was hearty applause, especially from the members of the choir, who evidently enjoyed singing the noble music.

The evening programme opened with the Ninth and last Symphony of Anton Bruckner, followed by his Te Deum. The work in this form was recently produced at Vienna under Herr Löwe. The performance now under notice was the first in Germany. A great deal has been written about the composer; of his music, however, little is known in England. His last symphony is a disappointing work, but it must not be forgotten that while writing it Bruckner was practically dying. The Adagio, the third movement, he described to his friends as his 'farewell to the world,' and on his deathbed suggested that if any performance of his unfinished symphony were given—the 'if' is pathetic—it should be followed by his Te Deum. This of course would influence his friends and admirers in their estimation of the music. Musicians generally will however accept or reject it on its own merits apart from any sentiment of such personal kind. The first and third movements are laboured; there is restless striving without attainment. The middle movement, Scherzo, is clear in form and characteristic both as to its subject-matter and its orchestration. Mr. Wood may perhaps one day perform the symphony, and then will be a convenient moment for a detailed account. There is a certain rough energy in the Te Deum, and some of the phrases for choir or soli are beautiful if not particularly novel; the music however cannot lay claim to any special originality.

After the interval came Strauss's symphonic poem 'Tod und Verklärung,' which was powerfully rendered under the composer's own direction. The contrast was striking: the music has breadth, strength, and character, and what is especially lacking in Bruckner, unity. Then followed Sir Hubert Parry's setting of Milton's noble ode 'Blest Pair of Sirens,' to the dignified simplicity of which one of the speakers at the banquet given after the concert referred. That a work by a British composer should have been included in the Duisburg Festival scheme is undoubtedly a matter for sincere congratulation. Art may be cosmopolitan, yet each country likes to see its foremost composers recognised by other countries. In London we constantly find the names of living German, Russian, French, and Italian composers, but until last year, when Dr. Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius,' first produced in Germany under Professor Butts at Düsseldorf, was heard again in that city at a Lower Rhenish Festival, British music had not gained firm footing in the Fatherland. It was no doubt the success of the 'Dream'—of which indeed there is no necessity to remind readers of THE MUSICAL TIMES—which induced the Duisburg Festival committee to make a similar venture. The rendering of the 'Ode,' under Dr. Josephson, was most praiseworthy. The choir was evidently on its mettle: it began well, gradually warming up to a magnificent climax. The excellent translation of Milton's poem, requiring no division or addition of notes in the vocal parts to make the music fit in with the German words, deserves mention. At the close applause and cheers resounded from all parts of the crowded hall, and the composer mounted the platform and acknowledged the hearty reception accorded to him. Further evidences of the genuineness of the satisfaction produced were forthcoming at the festive gathering after the concert. Sir Hubert was the centre of attraction, and if anyone counted the number of times he wrote his name in album or on festival book, he must have had a busy time of it. I may add that at the banquet the composer replied in a brief but heart-felt speech (partly in German) in answer to the toast proposed in his honour by Dr. Josephson, a toast which was received with a threefold Hoch, and, what was more remarkable, this was followed by an enthusiastic 'Hip, Hip, Hip, Hurrah!' in true English style.

This attention to Sir Hubert did not make the audience forget to appreciate and applaud Strauss. Later in the programme two songs of his, with orchestral colouring, were admirably sung by Professor Messchaert. The first, 'Notturmo,' has a declamatory vocal part, the orchestra with weird colouring intensifying the mystic words; the second, 'Das Thal,' is a beautiful song, for the most part Schubert-like in character. Signor Busoni was the pianist of the evening, and by his performances of a Liszt Etude, two exceedingly clever Bach transcriptions, and Chopin's A flat Polonaise achieved a brilliant and well-deserved success. He made a brave effort to decline the encore, but finally, not to cause further delay, yielded. The programme included Beethoven's 'Choral Fantasia,' under Herr Richard Strauss's direction, and it concluded with the Vorspiel to 'Die Meistersinger' under Dr. Josephson. Thus ended a truly gargantuan musical feast, the greater part of the audience remaining until the very last note. Herren Emil Streithof president, Landrichter Dr. Weber, vice-president, Gerhard Schenck, Eduard Müller, and Dr. Josephson, and indeed all officials connected with the Festival were most kind and courteous, always ready to give information or any assistance: they tried in fact to make one feel quite at home.

A portrait of the Festival conductor, Dr. Walther Josephson, together with some biographical particulars concerning him, will be found on p. 452.

THE PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

The most memorable feature of the Philharmonic Concert at Queen's Hall on May 28 was the beautiful interpretation, under the direction of Dr. Frederic H. Cowen, of Brahms's Third Symphony in F; but there were other performances of interest, notably the production of a dramatic scena entitled 'The Ballad of Thyra Lee,' written by Mr. Harold Bolton and composed by Mr. Reginald Somerville, whose one-act opera 'The Prentice Pillar' it may be mentioned was produced at the then 'Her Majesty's Theatre' on September 24, 1897. Mr. Somerville's music shows dramatic perception and has the merit of achieving much by simple devices. It was effectively sung by Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies and much applauded. Herr Max Wolfsthal made a favourable impression by his promising violin playing in Edouard Lalo's 'Spanish' Symphony, but greater success was achieved by Herr Josef Hofmann, who was heard at his best in Rubinstein's D minor Pianoforte Concerto. The concert concluded with Beethoven's 'Egmont' Overture.

Distinction was given to the performance on the 11th ult. by the appearance of the Russian composer M. Glazounoff, who conducted his recently-composed Symphony in F (No. 7), and his new orchestral suite 'Aus dem Mittelalter' ('From the Middle Ages'). The Symphony had previously been played by the students of the Royal College of Music on February 17 last, and the re-hearing confirmed first impressions and the opinions recorded in these columns (p. 186). It is not a great work, but one which excites esteem by its clever craftsmanship. The Suite is less satisfactory, some of the themes being poor. The most effective numbers are the first and third, the former having for its programme two lovers in a castle while a storm rages without, which affords opportunities for effective contrasts, and the third number being a sérénade of romantic and flowing character. The evening opened with the first performance at these concerts of Herr Richard Strauss's humoresque 'Till Eulenspiegel,' which although played with splendid precision and volume of tone was interpreted in too classical a spirit to do justice to the grotesqueness and whimsicality of the music. Miss Adela Verne gave a brilliant but very French reading of the pianoforte part of Schumann's Concerto, and Mdle. Jeannie Norelli sang in an able but much too heavy a style the aria 'Caro nome' from Verdi's 'Rigoletto.' Dr. Cowen conducted, with the exceptions stated above.

London and Suburban Concerts.

The annual festival of the Tonic Sol-fa Association was held at the Crystal Palace on the 6th ult. A children's choir of 5,000 or more singers was the most attractive feature of the gathering. The singing was exceptionally good in purity of tone, enunciation and pure intonation. The programme had great variety and was much relished by the audience. Mr. S. Filmer Rook was as usual the conductor, and to his special skill in directing large bodies of performers, the great success of the performance was due. In the evening a choir of about 1,500 adults, assisted by a band of 150 performers, gave a miscellaneous and fairly interesting programme under the direction of Mr. L. C. Venables. A short selection from 'Athalia,' a setting by Arthur Jackson (whose promising career was sadly cut short) of the ballad 'Lord Ullin's daughter,' and two choruses from 'Earth and Heaven,' a cantata by H. S. Nichol, were the chief items. The band played Raff's 'Festmarsch.' Mr. Henry W. Weston was an exceedingly efficient organist.

The first performance in England of M. Rimsky-Korsakoff's Pianoforte Concerto in C sharp minor (Op. 30) took place at St. James's Hall on the 22nd ult. The solo part was interpreted with notable artistic feeling by Miss Polyxena Fletcher, who gave the concert, and the Queen's Hall orchestra, with Mr. Henry J. Wood, conductor, co-operated. The work, which is rhapsodical in character, is in three sections, between which no break is made. The opening portion is the most satisfactory, in considerable degree owing to a significant principal theme of Russian idiom. Madame Eleanor Cleaver's vocal selections included a little-known scena for contralto voice and orchestra entitled 'Thusnelda,' by Herr Ernst H. Seyffardt. The music is dramatically conceived, and contains some fine passages, but it lacks distinction.

The annual concert given by the choristers of the Chapel Royal, St. James's, took place in the picture gallery of Bridgewater House on May 26, and as usual provided a numerous audience with a most enjoyable afternoon. A number of part-songs were beautifully rendered, notably Sir Arthur Sullivan's setting of 'O hush thee, my babie,' and Sir R. P. Stewart's 'Song of the Battle Eve,' and amongst the soloists may be mentioned Mr. Sutton Shepley, who sang Mendelssohn's 'I'm a Roamer,' and Mr. Harold Wilde, who contributed the 'Grail Song' from 'Lohengrin.' Mr. Walter G. Alcock, organist and composer of His Majesty's Chapels Royal, directed the part-songs and played the accompaniments.

That Mr. Arthur Hinton has something to say as a composer must be admitted by all who attended the concert of his own works on the 18th ult. at Bechstein Hall, but that he is more at home in light than in serious music was equally apparent. His new pianoforte trio in D minor (Op. 21), however, is an estimable work built up with melodious themes. The opening movement is vigorous and the Scherzo very bright. Originality and charm were also pleasantly prominent in five 'Schmetterlinge' and four 'William Blake' songs, which were admirably interpreted by Mr. Denis O'Sullivan. The instrumentalists were Miss Katherine Goodson, Mr. Hans Wessely, Signor Rubio and the composer.

The concert given by Mrs. Helen Trust and Mr. Whitney Tew on the 9th ult. at Bechstein Hall was distinguished by the introduction by the latter artist of five new songs, the best of which were those entitled 'Cavalier's Toast,' by Miss Teresa del Riego, and 'You,' by the late Mrs. Rudolf Lehmann. There was also given the first performance in London by Mr. Hamilton Harty and Mr. Herbert Withers of a Sonata of pleasing character for pianoforte and violoncello by Signor Esposito.

The Alexandra Palace Choral Society gave an excellent concert performance of Gounod's 'Faust' on the 13th ult. Choir and orchestra were alike admirable, and excellent representatives of the solo parts were found in Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Edna Thornton, Mr. William Maxwell, Mr. W. Highley, and Mr. Charles Tree. Mr. Allen Gill was as usual an enthusiastic conductor.

Miss Sylvia Yarra's concert on the 17th ult. at St. James's Hall was chiefly remarkable for the first appearance in England of the Russian violinist M. Zacharewitsch. He proved a brilliant executant, but his style was deficient in finish.

The students of the Guildhall School of Music gave a very creditable performance of Mozart's 'The Marriage of Figaro' in the theatre of the School on the 17th ult. The opera, which had been very carefully prepared, was conducted by the principal, Dr. W. H. Cummings.

M. Ysaye's orchestral concert on the 16th ult. at St. James's Hall consisted of three violin concertos, Bach's in E, Beethoven's and Mendelssohn's, in each of which the Belgian virtuoso played superbly.

Miss Gertrude Lonsdale, one of our best contraltos, if not so well-known as she should be, gave a concert in Bechstein Hall on the 24th ult.

RECITALS.

So many recitals have been given in the past month that it is only possible to comment briefly on some of the most memorable. M. Pugno, the Parisian pianist, played with delightful crispness, delicacy, and vivacity on the 5th ult. at St. James's Hall, and three days later, associated with M. Gerardy, gave a most enjoyable afternoon in the same place.—M. Hegedus, the gifted violinist, brought forward no novelty at his recital, with Mlle. Ella Správka, on the 10th ult. at St. James's Hall, but Dr. Wüllner sang four clever and little-known songs by Herr Alexander van Fielitz, who played the picturesque accompaniments.—The same afternoon Mr. Victor Benham gave a pianoforte recital at Queen's Hall.—Mr. Frank Merrick, the remarkably talented young English pianist, gave his second recital at Bechstein Hall on the 11th ult., when he deepened the favourable impression previously made.—The songs and pianoforte pieces by Signor Pirani at his recital on the 11th ult. at Bechstein Hall proved musicianly, but do not call for detailed criticism. His vocal efforts were effectively sung by Madame Alma Webster-Powell, whose great skill in the execution of florid music was specially shown in an excerpt from Erkel's opera 'Hunyadi Laszlo.'—The two afternoon performances given respectively on the 12th and 20th ult. at St. James's Hall by MM. Risler and Oliveira were very enjoyable. The former is a powerful pianist, and the latter an accomplished violinist. The vocalist at the former was Miss Mary Garden, at the latter, Herr Van Dyck.—Miss Mabel Monteith proved that she is making satisfactory progress as a pianist on the 16th ult. at St. James's Hall.—The esteem in which the young Australian pianist Mr. Percy Grainger is held was manifested by the large attendance at his pianoforte recital on the 19th ult. at St. James's Hall. He played most tastefully.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

New York, June 14, 1903.

The regular concert and opera seasons in the larger cities of the United States being long over, we are now enjoying an aftermath of large festivals. To-day about 3,000 German men singers are raising their beer-glasses (incidentally also their voices) in Baltimore, where the North-Eastern American Sängerbund is holding its twentieth Sängerfest. Next week St. Louis will entertain a similar gathering of the North American Sängerbund—the organization which started these characteristic German affairs in the United States some sixty years ago. Concerning these festivals there is not much to report from an artistic point of view, though it is a point deserving of some comment that while the Eastern Institution adheres to its old plan of devoting its festivals exclusively to the singing of male part-songs and larger works with orchestra and men's voices, the parent organization (which had its origin in Cincinnati) has since 1877 admitted mixed choirs also. This result is due to the influence exerted by the notable biennial music festivals which have been held in Cincinnati under the direction of Mr. Theodore Thomas. These festivals, which were put on a high artistic plane at the outset and kept there, made a deep impression upon the people of the Middle West, and when it was found that the Sängerfeste (which were then of annual occurrence) had degenerated into something but little better than a gigantic debauch, the leading spirits of the Sängerbund changed the constitution of the Association so as to admit women singers also, in the hope of checking the disreputable tendency and raising the musical standard.

The North-Eastern Sängerbund, which is holding its Festival in Baltimore, has adhered to old methods and has been strengthened in them by a gift from the German Emperor, which is contended for at each meeting. There has been a deal of discord in consequence, and the interests of such music-lovers as take an interest in the festivals is chiefly centred on the competition for a bust of Mendelssohn between the federated singers of different cities. Philadelphia has sent 1,000 singers to the meeting, but the leading societies of New York have as usual held themselves aloof.

A fortnight ago a National Eisteddfod was held at Pittsburgh, Pa., which brought several thousands of patriotic Welshmen into the city to listen to the class of exercises with which the majority of THE MUSICAL TIMES readers are no doubt familiar. It was my privilege to serve as adjudicator at this meeting with Dr. Roland Rogers, of Bangor, North Wales. In the competition for the grand prize of $1,000, six choirs of 150 voices each were entered. They sang 'Ye Nations offer to the Lord,' from Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise,' and Leslie's 'Lullaby of Life.' I was not very deeply impressed by anything except the sincerity and intense zeal of the singers, but Dr. Rogers assured me that the singing was quite on a par with that which he has heard as adjudicator scores of times in Wales. The prize was awarded to a choir from Pittsburgh, under the direction of Mr. T. J. Davies.

A very different affair was the third Bach Festival at Bethlehem, Pa., held during the week beginning May 11. Two years ago I reported in extenso in THE MUSICAL TIMES on the lovely phase of musical culture which has made its home in the little town situated in the Lehigh Valley, which the world at large only knows as the home of a gigantic steel industry. Then three days were devoted to the production in full of the 'Christmas Oratorio,' 'St. Matthew Passion' and B minor Mass. This year there were nine meetings in the splendid old Moravian Church in six days. The three works mentioned were repeated, and to them were added the second Brandenburg Concerto Grosso, the great Magnificat in D, and five of the Church cantatas. The programme is so interesting a page of contemporary annals that I give it in full: Monday evening, May 11, cantata, 'Sleepers, wake!' Magnificat in D; Tuesday afternoon and evening, the 'Christmas Oratorio'; Wednesday evening, second Brandenburg Concerto.

Cantata for solo alto, 'Strike, oh, strike, long looked for hour,' Cantata for solo bass, 'I with my cross-staff gladly wander; Thursday afternoon and evening, 'The Passion of our Lord according to St. Matthew,' Friday evening, Cantatas, 'The Heavens laugh, the Earth itself rejoices' and 'God goeth up with shouting'; Saturday afternoon and evening, the Mass in B minor. All the meetings were conducted by Mr. J. Fred Wolle, who has been the soul of the Festivals from the beginning. His choir numbered 115, his orchestra 60. The archaic oboi d'amore were used, and also the chimes in the quaint, simple, and affecting alto cantata. As before the choir was all but letter perfect, but the orchestra was inefficient, and there was much that was questionable in the readings. Scores of organists from New York and Philadelphia attended the festivals, and because they, like the critics, mixed their enthusiastic laudation of the spirit of the pious enterprise with some discriminating criticism of detail, they were boorishly informed that the presence of musicians was not desired by the Festival director. Bethlehem was sufficient unto itself. The incident, which could not check the delight of the musicians in the extraordinary opportunity which they were enjoying, was nevertheless deeply deplorable as demonstrating the pitiable fact that the beautiful hopes engendered by the festivals of the past must be abandoned. There was the foundation of a Bach cult in the festivals which would have been of inestimable value to church music in America.

H. E. KREHBIEL.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Two concerts held towards the end of May deserve a word of notice. The first was a complimentary concert at the Masonic Hall to a talented young local violinist, Miss Muriel Warwood, to raise funds to enable her to proceed to Prague to complete her studies under Sevcik. Miss Frida Kindler and Miss Muriel Warwood assisted, and the financial result was highly satisfactory. The other concert took place in the Town Hall, the object being to assist the fund for a memorial to the Birmingham soldiers who fell in the war in South Africa. Mr. William Sewell's male-voice choir sang Mendelssohn's 'Beati mortui,' Sullivan's 'The Beleaguered,' and some choral settings by Granville Bantock of Robert Browning's 'Cavalier Ballads.'

The Midland Institute School of Music closed the session with the annual students' concerts. The first took place on the 13th ult., when very creditable performances of Mozart's String Quartet in G (the first of the set dedicated to Haydn) and of two movements from Klughardt's Pianoforte Quintet in G minor (Op. 43) showed the progress of the pupils. Violin solos were also included. On the 17th ult. in the Town Hall the students' chorus and orchestra (the latter reinforced by some of the teachers) performed Bach's cantata 'Bide with us' and the Chorus of Maidens and Priests from Mozart's music to 'King Thamos.' Miss Muriel Warwood gave a remarkably fine rendering of the solo part in Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto, and Miss Ethel M. Thomas played the first movement of Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto in excellent style. Miss Dora Hunt sang two numbers from Elgar's 'Sea Pictures' with nice expression. Mr. Granville Bantock conducted. On the 20th ult. at the Institute a costume recital of scenes from Mozart's 'Magic Flute' completed the exposition of the students' work. The results altogether were very gratifying, showing that the School is doing much for the artistic training of those studying within its walls. The Principal, Mr. Bantock, deserves much of the credit for the success of the School, and he is loyally supported by the staff of teachers.

The rehearsals of the Festival chorus are now being held three times weekly, and Mr. R. H. Wilson, the newly-appointed chorus-master, has made himself very popular with the singers. Everything bids fair to be prepared in good time.

MUSIC IN CAMBRIDGE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The May term is always a slack time musically at Cambridge, and only two public concerts have been given which call for remark. The Joachim Quartet appeared on May 4, and as to their performance of quartets by Mozart, Beethoven and Schumann it seems superfluous to speak. On the 12th ult. the University Musical Society gave a highly successful performance of the 'Golden Legend.' The date chosen turned out to be an unfortunate one, as it clashed with the visit of the Duke of Connaught and the other distinguished recipients of honorary degrees. Nevertheless the attendance was satisfactory, and the presentation of the work quite excellent. The chorus, which seemed larger than last year, did its work with effect, the quality of tone and the maintenance of pitch in the unaccompanied pieces being especially commendable. Miss Agnes Nicholls's splendid rendering of the part of Elsie needs no praise at this time of day, but a special approval should be given to Mr. Frederick Austin's fine singing as Lucifer. Mr. J. Reed as Prince Henry showed a great advance, though the style of the music was different to that in which he has been most successful hitherto, and Mrs. Burrell was entirely satisfactory as Ursula. Dr. Gray may be congratulated on the result of his labours.

Mention should here be made of the dissolution of Dr. Mann's choir, an institution which during the fifteen years of its existence has done distinguished work. The singing has always been of great excellence, as might be expected from such a chorus-master as Dr. Mann. Among the interesting works that it has produced have been Sir Hubert Parry's 'Judith' and 'De Profundis,' Sir Charles Stanford's Requiem and Te Deum, the Choral Symphony, the 'St. Matthew' Passion music, and Tallis's forty-part Motet. In addition the first performance of the 'Messiah' in England since Handel's day with the composer's original wind parts must be placed to its credit.

MUSIC IN HARROGATE.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

In two English provincial towns orchestral music is under the fostering care of the municipality. The distinction thus acquired is however more apparent than real, for both Bournemouth and Harrogate are popular watering-places, so that this municipal care is perhaps as much attributable to a belief in the attractive power of music as a means of amusement as it is to a regard for its influence as an art. Whatever the motive however, Harrogate, which has for some time supported a municipal orchestra, has now provided a palace in which it may be listened to in luxury. The new Kursaal, which was opened by Sir Hubert Parry on May 27, is indeed a most luxurious temple of art, and though it may seem rather ungrateful, one is tempted to wish that a small portion of the £45,000 which has been spent upon it and on its marble columns, stained-glass windows, crushed-strawberry hangings, and sumptuous simulations of tapestries could have been devoted to increasing the strength of the band, which though very efficient is hardly large enough to permit of an effective balance between its various sections.

If, however, the Corporation of Harrogate act up to the advice given them by Sir Hubert Parry in his opening address, they may make the music worthy of the brilliant casket which has been provided for it. In one respect they have done well, and have anticipated Sir Hubert's remark that 'Of course you cannot expect even the most enlightened Corporations to be able to draw up good programmes of music, but you can expect them to have the good sense to put somebody in a position of responsibility who will see that the music shall be first-rate, and that what is presented shall be worthy of the self-respecting position of Yorkshiremen.' Mr. C. L. Naylor, the conductor of the Harrogate Orchestra, is, like his father, the late respected organist of York Minster, a sound musician, and he is, too, a man of general culture, who if he be not interfered with unduly in those matters which are peculiarly within his province, may do a work for Harrogate not inferior to that which Mr. Godfrey has accomplished in Bournemouth. His predecessor Mr. Sidney Jones set a good example in the arrangement of his programmes, which showed a most commendable catholicity, and while it may be expected that Mr. Naylor will be no less enterprising, he will also doubtless aim at increasing the efficiency of the band and the finish of their performances. Unfortunately the hall is not in its present condition so favourable to orchestral ensemble as it is to clearness of detail, and the platform will probably have to be modified before the full effect of the string tone can be completely realized. It seems however to be capable of improvement without necessitating any structural alteration, and when this is accomplished the effect produced by the little band of fifty able performers will probably be greatly enhanced.

MUSIC IN OXFORD.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The following brief summary of this term's music must begin with the visit of the Joachim Quartet, who gave an excellent Chamber Concert in the Town Hall (under the auspices of the Musical Club) on May 6, the three items being Schubert's Quartet in A minor (Op. 29), Haydn's in G minor (Op. 74, No. 3), and Beethoven's in B flat (Op. 130). The last-named was given for the first time in Oxford.

On May 13 Sir Hubert Parry gave an admirable lecture in the Sheldonian Theatre on 'Style in relation to subsidiary features and aspects of Art,' with illustrations sung by Mr. Plunket Greene.

The 'Eights Week' concerts may be said to have commenced at Balliol on May 24, when Beethoven's Septuor was played by Messrs. Gibson, A. Hobday, Withers, C. Hobday, Malsch, Egerton and James. Needless to say it was an excellent performance.

Next in order came the 'Exeter' concert on May 26 composed of varied items, the principal being Beethoven's Overture to 'King Stephen,' Liszt's Pianoforte Concerto in E flat (with Miss Swinnerton Heap as soloist), and German's 'Gipsy Suite.' The concert was a very enjoyable one, Mr. J. S. Heap (organ-scholar of Exeter College) being the conductor.

On May 27 an interesting concert was given at Keble under the baton of Dr. Basil Harwood, its chief features being Brahms's 'Song of Destiny' and Bennett's 'May Queen.' To give an idea of the lateness of these concerts, we may perhaps mention the fact that the 'May Queen' was commenced at eleven p.m.

On May 28 in the Town Hall a concert chiefly orchestral was given under the direction of Dr. Allen. The programme included Mozart's G minor Symphony, Brahms's Rhapsody for Alto Solo and Chorus of Men's voices (Op. 53), a Bach Concerto, and Beethoven's Fantasia for Pianoforte, Chorus and Orchestra (Op. 80), with Dr. Walker at the pianoforte. The concert on the whole was an excellent one. We have far too little good orchestral music just now in Oxford, and this fact contributed to make this performance doubly welcome. The next and last concert of the 'Eights' took place on May 29 at Queen's, where an exceedingly interesting programme was provided. The orchestra was almost entirely professional, consisting of some of the best London players. Amongst the chief items were 'The Burial of Dundee,' a charming cantata composed expressly for the Society by Dr. Sweeting, organist of Winchester College, who conducted, and who received quite an ovation at the conclusion of his work. A very fine rendering by the orchestra of Haydn's 'Clock' Symphony was given under the baton of Dr. Iliffe, the conductor of the Society. A gracefully written part-song, 'Phillis the fair,' by Mr. Armstrong and a chorus, 'The Warden,' by Mr. Lyon (both members of the Society) were accorded a place in the programme, and were well interpreted. In conclusion we must not omit to mention that the excellent concerts at Balliol have been continued every Sunday evening under the able direction of Dr. Walker.

Miscellaneous.

Mr. J. C. Clarke, of Southport, writes us as follows:—

'Dear Sir,—There is a general consensus of opinion among conductors and choirs in regard to the poorness of the test-pieces at the many Male-Voice Competitions and Eisteddfodau. The type of music selected is tawdry, sensational, not to say unclassical—music that is not worth the immense amount of work which has to be devoted to its preparation for a competition; moreover, its tendency is to demoralize instead of to improve the taste. At the National Eisteddfod held last year the selection was all that could be desired; but, unfortunately, the same cannot be said of this year's selection. A commendable exception is to be found at the Morecambe and Blackpool Festivals, where only the best classical music is given, and no one can say that there is any lack of suitable material to select from. If the best adjudicators were engaged and the selection of test-pieces placed in their hands there would be little or nothing left of which to complain.'

[This letter is referred to on page 453.—ED. M.T.]

We regret to record the following deaths:—

On May 20, at 53, Caversham Road, Kentish Town, after a lingering illness, Mr. FARLEY NEWMAN, founder and editor of the Keyboard, author of 'Harmony simplified' and numerous other works (chiefly educational) on musical literature and theory.

On the 14th ult., from heart-disease, at 'Clovelly,' Haverstock Hill, Mr. JOHN STEDMAN, the well known concert agent, of 58, Berners Street. Mr. Stedman's name is familiar to the musical public as the organizer of 'Stedman's choir' of boys and girls, who have appeared in numerous productions at the London theatres and the Royal Opera. He was formerly for many years a respected member of the Staff of Messrs. Novello.

The deaths of Mr. A. J. Hipkins, Mr. William Pitts, and Frau Gurau (née Sophie Schloss) are referred to elsewhere.

The following notification has been received from the Royal College of Music. A new departure in furtherance of the interests of young British musicians is represented by a generous gift of Mr. S. Ernest Palmer, who recently founded a Scholarship at the Royal College of Music for the benefit of natives of Berkshire. Mr. Palmer has now given a further and yet more substantial proof of his desire to promote the interests of British music and musicians, as, in pursuance of a scheme the details of which have been for some time under consideration, he has with the sanction and approval of His Majesty, formerly President and now Patron of the Royal College of Music, endowed that Institution with a sum of money to be invested and held by the College under the title of 'The Royal College of Music Patron's Fund,' the income of which is to be devoted to the following purposes:—

(1) The selection by expert musicians and the performance at concerts given for the purpose either at the College or elsewhere of Orchestral and Choral works of composers being British subjects.

(2) The selection and performance of Ensemble and Solo music, whether vocal or instrumental, by such composers.

(3) The assistance of musical performers (being British subjects) in procuring an appearance before the public.

(4) The provision out of surplus income, if any, of Travelling Scholarships for pupils of the College (being British subjects) of exceptional ability.

The Fund is to be primarily applicable for the benefit of past or present pupils of the Royal College of Music, but full power is given to extend this benefit to any other persons being British subjects.

Under the comprehensive and somewhat cumbrous title of the 'Berks, Bucks and Oxon Competitive Festival' a new competition centre has been established, under the auspices of a strong committee. The first meetings were held at Reading on the 11th, 12th and 13th ult., and were remarkably successful in bringing forward the amateur talent of the districts included in the scheme. In the solo-singing section alone there were 108 aspirants, and in the various classes for choirs, bands, chamber music, violin, pianoforte, organ, &c., there were quite a remarkable number of entries. The adjudicators were Sir Walter Parratt, Dr. C. H. Lloyd, Mr. Oscar Beringer, Mr. Alfred Gibson, Dr. Somervell, and Mr. Randegger. On the last evening the adult choirs combined their forces in choral song under the direction of Sir Walter Parratt. The organization was excellent, and owed very much to the skill and tact of the secretary, Miss Cecilia Hill, of Slough. We are very glad to note that the South is following the good example of the North in organizing musical festivals upon this plan.

Mr. W. Harding Bonner read a thoughtful paper before the London Section of the Incorporated Society of Musicians on the 13th ult., the subject of his discourse being 'The present condition of Choral Societies.' The following is a synopsis of the paper: Are Choral Societies increasing or decreasing in number and efficiency?—Do their Concerts pay?—Causes of weakness and failure—Can anything be done to arouse more public interest in Choral Music?—School Singing and School Music—Choral Competitions, &c.

An International Pianoforte and Music Trades Exhibition was opened at the Crystal Palace by the Duke of Argyll on the 16th ult. The exhibits occupy nearly the whole of the north and south naves, and organ, pianoforte, and other recitals will be given daily while the exhibition remains open. Among the new inventions are self-playing and electric pianos. The day may not be far distant when a self-composing machine may find its way upon the market.

Mr. Charles Ernest Coward, of Caius College, Cambridge, has come out eighteenth wrangler in the Mathematical Tripos. In addition to being so excellent a mathematician, Mr. Coward is a prominent member of the University Musical Society; moreover, he has gained great distinction at Fenner's as a runner! May he run the race of life with the success which has recently attended him at the University. Congratulations to him and to his father Dr. Henry Coward, of Sheffield.

Mr. Hans Wessely, the well-known Professor of the violin at the Royal Academy of Music, has been presented by his numerous pupils and friends with the fine Stradivari violin known as the 'Deurbroucq.' The presentation took place on the 16th ult. at the Royal Academy of Music, in the presence of the Principal, Sir Alexander Mackenzie, and a large number of the subscribers.

A patent has been granted in the United States to the Venator, invented by Mr. John Francis Barnett. This ingenious appliance is found to be very useful in preventing the strings and sounding-board of the pianoforte from being injured by dust and damp, as well as aiding to preserve the freshness and beauty of tone of the instrument.

An interesting selection of glees was sung at the Festival Dinner (presided over by Mr. Andrew K. Hichens) of the Western Madrigal Society at the Criterion Restaurant on the 19th ult. Mr. Walter Alcock conducted with a true insight into those fine old-time compositions.

The Colonies again! This time South Africa. We understand that Messrs. Challen and Son, of Oxford Street, have been favoured by the Government with a large order for pianofortes for use in the State Schools in the Orange River Colony. Good news gladly recorded.

Foreign Notes.

CARLSBAD.

August Labitzky, conductor of the 'Kurkapelle,' has been pensioned, after holding the post for half-a-century. His father, Joseph Labitzky, the favourite dance composer, founded an orchestra of his own at Carlsbad in 1834. Musik-Director Martin Spörr succeeds August Labitzky.

COLOGNE.

The new municipal conductor, Fritz Steinbach, is bestirring himself. We read of a series of symphony concerts which will be given during the summer in the fine Gürzenich Hall, each of the programmes to be devoted to the works of one of the great masters—Beethoven, Schubert, Wagner, and Brahms. There were also to be two popular concerts, with very low charge for admission, on the 11th and 25th ult.; for the first, Bach's 'St. Matthew' Passion was announced.

FRANKFORT A/M.

The great competition of male choral Societies took place here from the 4th to the 6th ult. The Emperor's prize fell to the Berlin Teachers' Vocal Union, a body which greatly distinguished itself at Cassel three years ago. The decision was received with joyous shouts. Second prizes were bestowed on the Cologne Male Choral Society, the Sängerkhor of the Offenbach Turnverein, and the Berlin Liedertafel. Third and fourth prizes were also given to various Societies from Potsdam, Aachen, Bremen, Krefeld, Munich-Gladbach and Essen. Before the distribution the Emperor delivered a long address. He expressed his satisfaction at seeing so many Societies, and reminded them of the special object of the gathering, viz., to encourage folk-singing, and strengthen the culture of the folk-song. It had greatly impressed him to find hundreds of men, in the habit of working for eight or perhaps twelve hours a day in an atmosphere of dust and smoke, able by devotion and zealous study to undertake such heavy tasks as those in which they had been engaged. His Majesty's criticism of the choruses selected deserves note. Many of them he considered far too elaborate, and he warned the Societies not to try and rival philharmonic choirs or similar ones. The object of male choral Societies ought to be the cultivation of folk-song. He expressed gratitude for the patriotic and beautiful poems selected, but he did not think fine male voices ought to be used as if they were orchestral instruments. Of attempts at tone-painting in modern orchestral music he even declared that though they might be very characteristic, they had long ceased to be beautiful. This Imperial criticism will no doubt cause heart-burnings among advanced modern composers. But the Emperor is not only critical but practical. He intends to issue a collection of popular German, Austrian, and Swiss songs at a price which will render it accessible to all.

GENOA.

In the early part of last month, Signor Boraggini, burgomaster of this city, invited the violinist Bronislaw Hubermann to play at the Guildhall before some distinguished guests on Paganini's Guarnerius violin, which is preserved as a sacred relic, and for which there recently came from America an offer of 100,000 dollars. A special commission has charge of the instrument, which is kept in a cupboard treble lined with blue silk. Hubermann spent some time in putting on fresh strings and adjusting the bridge. When he first began to play the tones sounded dull, but they gradually became warmer and richer. Bach's 'Chaconne' was performed, in addition to pieces by Schubert and Chopin, and finally Paganini's 'Witches' Dance.'

GÖRLITZ.

The Silesian Festival was to take place here on the 21st and 23rd ult., under the direction of capellmeister Muck, of Berlin. The principal works announced were Bach's secular cantata 'Wettstreit zwischen Phöbus und Pan,' Beethoven's 'Choral' Symphony, and Tschaikovsky's Symphony in F minor. The orchestra of 120 performers was to consist of the united royal bands of Berlin.

HALLE A/S.

A monument designed by Professor Schaper was to be erected to Robert Franz, the great song-writer, on the 28th ult., the eighty-eighth anniversary of his birth. Professor Dr. Conrad, royal privy councillor, was to deliver an address. With exception of the two years during which he studied under F. Schneider at Dessau, Franz spent his life in this his native city, where he also died in 1892.

MADRID.

Francis Planté obtained phenomenal success at a pianoforte recital which he recently gave here. El liberal cannot find terms sufficiently strong to express the great impression produced by the eminent French pianist:—'The best that we could say would seem pale and insignificant in presence of such grandeur.'

MILAN.

The score of Umberto Giordano's new opera, 'Siberia,' has been handed over to Sonzogno. It will be performed during the coming season at La Scala, and immediately afterwards at San Carlo, Naples.—A son of the distinguished vocalist, Madame Haricléée Darclée, has just completed an opera, 'La Giarrettiera,' which it is said the management of the Dal Verme theatre undertook to perform. The production having, however, been indefinitely postponed, Madame Darclée refuses to fulfil her engagement to appear in 'Traviata.'

MUNICH.

On June 24 Lina Ramann, the biographer of Liszt, completed her seventieth year. She has lived a quiet life in this city since 1890. In 1873 she published an appreciation of Liszt's 'Christus,' after the production of the work, and on reading it the composer felt how thoroughly she had entered into his ideas. This essay in fact led to her undertaking the biography by which she has become so widely known, viz., 'Franz Liszt als Künstler und Mensch,' published in three parts (1880, 1887, and 1894).

PARIS.

There were six competitors for the Louis Diémer pianoforte prize of 4,000 francs. On the first day (May 18) they had to play Beethoven's 'Appassionata' Sonata and Schumann's 'Etudes Symphoniques,' and on the following day a Chopin ballade or fantasia, a mazurka and a prelude, and Liszt's 'Clochette' or Saint-Saëns's 'Etude en forme de Valse.' The jury consisted of Messrs. Dubois, Saint-Saëns, Massenet, Paladilhe, Planté, Paderewski, Pugno, De Greef, Rosenthal, Chevillard, Lavignac, Philipp, and Wurmser, and it would surely be impossible to name musicians better competent to pronounce judgment. By 12 out of 13 votes the winner was declared to be M. Malats, a pupil of De Bériot, at the Conservatoire, where in 1893 he won the first prize.

Marcel Rousseau, son of Samuel Rousseau, professor of harmony at the Conservatoire, has won the Rossini prize, value 3,000 francs, offered by the Académie des beaux-arts. The poem by Fernand Beissier which he set to music is entitled 'le Roi Arthur.'

ST. PETERSBURG.

The 200th anniversary of the foundation of this city by Peter-the-Great has been celebrated with all due éclat. The Conservatoire also commemorated the event by giving a grand historical concert, the programme of which included a fine 18th century March, two capella hymns written for the signing of the peace at Nystad, and excerpts from operas by Araja, Fomine, Cavos, Verstovskii, and Glinka; also vocal and instrumental music by Dargomizsky, Moussorgsky, Borodine, Tchaikovsky, Lvov, &c. The conductors were MM. Galkine, Gabel, and Auer.

PRESSBURG.

Liszt's 'Graner Messe' was recently performed at a service in the cathedral by the Church Musical Society founded in 1833. The work was given under the direction of the young capellmeister Gustav Brecher from Vienna. The 'Graner Messe,' by-the-way, has never been heard in London, yet it is one of Liszt's most characteristic compositions.

Country and Colonial News.

BRIEFLY SUMMARIZED.

BOSCOMBE.—Gounod's 'Redemption' was performed at St. John's Church on the 3rd ult. under the able direction of Mr. Arthur T. George, who also presided at the organ. The choir of over sixty voices rendered the choral portions very efficiently, and the solo parts were sung by Master G. Forsythe, Messrs. Gerald Lee, A. Fellowes, and A. Barlow. Much good work is being done by Mr. George, who is the organist of the church, in providing oratorio services from time to time.

CANTERBURY.—The last of the special services was held at the Cathedral on May 28, when Haydn's 'Creation,' Parts i. and ii., and Brahms's Second Symphony were performed, under Dr. Perrin's conductorship. The Cathedral Musical Society and the choir formed the chorus, while the band consisted of fifty players drawn from Canterbury and neighbouring towns, in addition to seventeen members of the Royal Engineers' Band from Chatham. The solos in the oratorio were undertaken by three choristers and Messrs. Halward and Dewhurst.

LOUTH.—The Choral Society gave their second concert of the season in the Town Hall on May 28, when the programme consisted of Stanford's 'The Revenge' and a miscellaneous selection including German's 'Henry VIII,' Dances for the orchestra. The part-songs 'The Storm' (Roland Rogers) and the 'Miller's wooing' (Eaton Fanning) were well sung by the choir. The solo vocalists were Madame Amy Dewhurst and the Rev. J. A. Beazley. Mr. Owen M. Price conducted.

NORWICH.—The second concert of the Norwich Orchestral Union was held on May 28, at the Assembly Rooms. Handel's 'Acis and Galatea' was given in the first part of the programme, the second part being of a miscellaneous character and including a new part-song by Mr. Ernest Harcourt (the conductor), 'The Song of the Forge,' which is well written and orchestrated and met with a very flattering reception at the hands of a large audience. Miss Edith Patching was the principal vocalist.

RUGBY.—The ambition of the Philharmonic Society in presenting Parry's oratorio 'Judith' on the 4th ult. did not 'o'erleap itself,' the successful result fully justifying the attempt. Both choir and orchestra worked loyally under the skilful direction of Mr. Basil Johnson. The solo vocalists, Miss Helen Jaxon, Miss Day-Winter, Mr. F. Norcup, and Mr. Gordon Cleather also gave complete satisfaction, and the 'two children' were ably represented by Masters Sydney Sheppard and Thomas Sampson.

STAMBOURNE.—An interesting recital was given on the new organ at the Parish Church on May 27 by Mr. J. T. Field, whose programme included 'Canzona' (Wolstenholme), 'Invocation' (Salomé), and a Venetian Barcarole by the performer. The excellent singing of Miss Cordelia Grylls in Coenen's 'Come unto me' and 'O, for the wings of a dove' (Mendelssohn), and of Mr. Dyved Lewis in solos from 'Jephtha' and the 'Creation,' gave pleasing variety.

WELLINGTON (NEW ZEALAND).—The Orchestral Society gave its third concert of the season in the Opera House on April 28. The chief work in the programme was Mendelssohn's 'Scotch' Symphony, admirably played by an orchestra of forty-five performers under the conductorship of Mr. Robert Parker. The beautiful slow movement was most sympathetically interpreted. The Overture and Entr'acte to Schubert's 'Rosamunde' were the remaining orchestral items. Master Thomas Trewell gave a clever performance of Boccherini's Violoncello Sonata in A, the youthful executant being recalled again and again to the platform. Agreeable variety was afforded by the expressive singing of Mr. Leslie Edwards.

WEYMOUTH.—The Choral Society gave a concert at the Jubilee Hall on the 9th ult., when the programme comprised Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding Feast' and 'Death of Minnehaha,' given under the capable direction of Mr. W. Stone. The choir and orchestra (led by Signor Bertoncini) performed their duties with much success, and the solo parts were excellently sung by Miss Beatrice Dunn, Mr. Samuel Masters and Mr. Arthur Barlow.

Answers to Correspondents.

RUSTIC.—The Jew's-harp, though not an ideal musical instrument, has a history. The conjecture that 'Jew's' in this connection is an alteration of 'jaw's' is baseless and inept; equally fallacious is the French jeu as a derivative. In all probability the definition 'Jew's' is due to the circumstance of the instrument being made, sold, or sent to England by Jews, thereby giving it a good commercial name, suggestive of the trumps and harps of the Bible. The name was originally Jew's-trump, and 'trump' is still its name in Scotland. So far back as 1545 the Rates of Customs give 'Tues troucks the grose iij.s., iijd.'; the word 'troucks' is, according to Dr. Murray, 'perhaps due to the fact that the trompe of the elephant is also called in England trunk.' Sir Walter Raleigh (c. 1596) thus refers to the instrument:—'Wee should send them Iewes harpes: for they would giue for euery one two Hennes.' A no less interesting reference is that contained in 'News from Scotland,' 1591:—'Geillis Duncan...did goe before them playing this reill or daunce upon a small trumpe called a Jewe's trumpe, untill they entred into the Kirk of North Barrick.....the King.....sent for Geillis Duncan, who upon the like trumpe did play the saide daunce before the kinges majestie.' Bacon, Fielding, Sterne and Byron, among other authors mention the instrument. The most distinguished performer was Charles Eulenstein, who produced extremely beautiful effects by performing on sixteen Jew's-harps, having for years cultivated the instrument in a very extraordinary manner. He appeared in London in 1827. If you would like to know something more about his sojourn in England, we shall be pleased to furnish you next month with whatever information we can discover.

STUDENT.—The following are the Beethoven compositions answering to the Opus numbers you send: Op. 11, Trio for pianoforte, clarinet (or violin), and violoncello in B flat; Op. 32, Song 'An die Hoffnung,' from Tiedge's 'Urania'; Op. 44, Fourteen variations (in E flat) for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello; Op. 65, Scena and Aria, 'Ah, perfido!' for soprano voice and orchestra; Op. 66, Twelve variations (in F) on 'Ein Mädchen' (Mozart's 'Zauberflöte') for pianoforte and violoncello; Op. 63 is an arrangement (for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello) of the Quintet Op. 4; and Op. 64 is an arrangement (for pianoforte and violoncello) of the Trio Op. 3.

TENORE ROBUSTO.—'Come into the garden, Maud,' was composed by Balfe expressly for and dedicated to Mr. Sims Reeves. It appears to have been sung by the great tenor for the first time (probably) at St. George's Hall, Liverpool, on January 26, 1857; it was published about the same time. Success at once attended the 'Cavatina,' as it was called, and, in the words of its reviewer (Musical World), 'Mr. Balfe must indeed have been in what Richard Wagner styles "the melodious coach" when he composed it.' 'Maud' was written by Tennyson early in 1855; the poem was one for which he had a strong affection, and he often recited it with thrilling effect to his friends.

C. E. W.—(1) 'That there's nothing finer heard out of heaven than the music of a Beethoven sonata' is one of those ridiculous sayings that may be received with a smile and not taken seriously. (2) The motet 'I wrestle and pray' ('Ich lasse dich nicht, du segnest mich denn') is not by John Sebastian Bach. Its composition is assigned to John Christopher Bach (1642-1703). See Spitta's 'Life of Bach,' vol. i., pp. 94 and 622 (English translation), for full particulars concerning this composition.

R. W. E.—(1) Messrs. Robson & Co., 23, Coventry Street, Piccadilly, London, have recently issued a catalogue of portraits which includes several pictorial representations of the old masters; (2) 'Dotted Crotchet' informs us that he has not yet 'done' Chester Cathedral, but that he has it on his list.

S. L.—The long string of questions with which you favour us should have been addressed to the Secretary of the Institution you name; but whether after having obtained certain magic letters after your patronymic you will thereby qualify for becoming 'a Festival oratorio and concert singer' is more than we can say. It is of course an advantage to be able to sing in various civilized languages; but do not follow the example of so many native vocalists, whose utterances are more or less in an unknown tongue.

R. J.—The sermon preached by the Rev. William Jones (of Nayland) on Psalm xcvi., v. 6, entitled 'The nature and excellence of Music,' was published in London in the year 1787, and it was subsequently included in that musical divine's collected works issued in 1801, vol. vi., p. 110. These books are out of print, but they might be obtained through a second-hand bookseller whose speciality is Theology.

FINGERING.—You will find much valuable information upon 'the fingering of pianoforte music' in Mr. Franklin Taylor's 'Technique and expression in pianoforte playing' (Novello). The same author's 'Primer of pianoforte playing' (Macmillan) contains some useful hints on the subject. Both books are furnished with music-type examples.

MELODY.—Biographical Sketches, with special portraits, of Mr. Walter Macfarren, Sir Alexander Mackenzie, and Professor Prout, appeared in the issues of THE MUSICAL TIMES for January, 1898, June, 1898, and April, 1899, respectively. The publishers have a limited number of copies of the last two numbers from which they can supply you.

A. E. P.—The high note was doubtless attacked in an ungarded manner while your voice was not in very good condition. Do not be discouraged thereby, but make a note to be careful. You ask us to prescribe a cure for nervousness. The only answer is—in confidence.

KITTY.—The article by Liszt on Robert Franz appeared in the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik (Schumann's paper) of November 23 and 30, 1855. Liszt afterwards amplified it, and in this extended form it appeared as a pamphlet in 1872 by F. E. C. Leuckart, of Leipzig.

J. L.—The St. Ann's Fugue is only relatively easy compared with other similar compositions from Bach's pen. Your 'non-organist friend' is probably one of those dispensers of opinion who airily say such things without the authority resulting from knowledge.

A. W. L.—The following sacred duets for soprano and bass may meet with your approval:—'It is of the Lord's great mercies' (Molique); 'Blessed is the soul of him that feareth the Lord,' 'Come and let us go up,' and 'Blessed be the name of God' (Macfarren).

NEMO.—Messrs. Novello will upon application supply you with a list of cantatas, published with pianoforte and harmonium accompaniments, suitable for 'a newly-formed choral society of average ability.'

R. E. G.—We cannot trace the publication of 'some trios for concertina, violoncello and pianoforte, by Mr. E. Silas.' They are probably in manuscript.

R. W. B.—Pochettino is a diminutive of poco. In Weber's 'Invitation à la valse' the direction ritard un pochettino may be interpreted 'a tiny bit slower.'

W. G. W. G.—Brown and Stratton's 'British Musical Biography' is published by Mr. S. S. Stratton, 14, Harborne Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

A. J. H.—Any of the tenor songs named in the list given to 'F. E. S.' in our last issue can be obtained through any music-seller.

JAP.—Yes. Messrs. Novello have a music circulating library, and they will supply you with terms on application. The music can be sent by post.

M. G. C.—The Hon. Secretary of the Summerscales Musical Competitions is Allan Bradley, Esq. His address is Keighley.

L. J. G.—Playing the flute will not have an injurious effect on your voice, on the contrary, it will help to strengthen your lungs.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., LIMITED.

ADAMS, J. H.—"A Song of Hope" ("Sunshine after gloom"). Song. No. 2, in F. For Soprano or Tenor. 2s.

BARNETT, JOHN FRANCIS—"If I had but two little wings." Madrigal for S.A.T.B. (No. 910. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

CLARKE-WHITFIELD, JOHN—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F. (No. 632. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

DIRECTORY OF MUSICAL EDUCATION. Part I. Being a guide to Choir Schools and Choral Foundations for boys; University Degrees in Music, Choral and Organist Scholarships; and Public Schools of Music in the United Kingdom. Edited by the Rev. CHARLES EWART BUTLER, M.A. 1s.; paper boards, 1s. 6d.

DVOŘÁK, ANTONÍN—"Inflamatus et Accensus." Air for Contralto, from the "Stabat Mater." 2s.

ELGAR, EDWARD—"Meditation" from "The Light of Life" ("Lux Christi"). Arranged for a Military Band by W. SHORT. 5s.

—"Sanctus Fortis." Tenor Solo from "The Dream of Gerontius." Transposed to A flat. Full Score, 3s. 6d.

ELLERTON, J. LODGE—"How beautiful is night." Glee for A.T.B.B. Edited by F. J. READ. (No. 360. The Orpheus.) 6d.

FETHERSTON, REV. SIR G. R.—"Fulfilled are now the tarrying days." Hymn. 2d.

—"Hail, triumphant King of Glory." Hymn. 2d.

—"Ruler of the Dread Immense." Hymn. 2d.

—"The voice of Christ." Hymn. 2d.

HARWOOD, BASIL—Original Compositions for the Organ. No. 2. Communion in F major. 1s.

HINTON, ARTHUR—Suite for Violin and Piano-forte (Op. 20). 5s.

HOLLIER, ARCHIBALD—"Over the Sea." Song for Contralto or Baritone. 2s.

HOLLINS, ALFRED—"The earth is the Lord's." Harvest Anthem. (No. 725. The Musical Times.) 1½d.

KELWAY, THOMAS—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B minor. (No. 635. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

LIADOFF, A.—Intermezzo. From the Piano-forte Works, Op. 7, No. 2. Arranged for Organ by JOHN E. WEST. (No. 68. Organ Arrangements, edited by GEORGE C. MARTIN.) 1s.

LLOYD, C. H.—"Blessed be Thou, O Lord God." Short Full Anthem. (No. 125. Novello's Short Anthems.) 2d.

MCEWEN, J. B.—"O that men would praise the Lord." Harvest Anthem. (No. 772. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

MOODY, CHARLES H.—"Giver of Peace." Anthem for Evensong. 3d.

NEEDHAM, ALICIA A.—"Might I march through life again." No. 1 of "Three Songs for Soldiers." No. 1, in F, for Bass, 2s.; No. 3, in B flat, for Tenor, 2s.

—"The Gordons." No. 2 of "Three Songs for Soldiers." No. 1, in D, for Bass, 2s.; No. 3, in G, for Tenor, 2s.

—"Bad luck to their marching." No. 3 of "Three Songs for Soldiers." No. 1, in D minor, for Bass, 2s.; No. 3, in G minor, for Tenor, 2s.

—"My dear and only love." Song, for Baritone, 2s.

—"With faithful heart." Song, for Baritone, 2s.

O'BEIRNE, E.—"Tantum ergo." For S.A.T.B., 2d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

PARKER, HORATIO—Concerto for Organ and Orchestra (Strings, Brass, Harp, and Drums). Op. 55. Full Score, 10s. 6d.; Organ Part, 2s. 6d.; 1st Violin, 1s.; 2nd Violin, 1s.; Viola, 1s.; Violoncello, 1s.; Basso, 1s.; Wind Parts, 6s.

PIERCE, H. W.—Te Deum laudamus in D flat. 4d.

PITCHARD, C. E.—"Kunacepa." A Brahmin Legend, in Four Parts. Translated from the French "Kunacepa" of Leconte de Lisle, by A. W. JORDAN. 4s.

SCHMID, ADOLF—"Sweet Little Katusha." Song for Contralto. The music arranged from an old Russian Folk-song. 1s.

SMALE, PERCY W.—"As the day is dying." Vesper Hymn. 2d.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 133. Contains the following Music in both Notations: "The Rose and the Boy." For S.S.A. (unaccompanied), composed by Werner. "Lay of the Imprisoned Huntsman." Unison Song, composed by SCHUBERT. 1½d.

SCHOOL SONGS—Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Piano-forte Accompaniment, 8vo; B. Voice parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

	A.	B.
No. 672. The Lotos flower. Unison Song	SCHUMANN 1d.	—
„ 732. The two Grenadiers. Unison Song	SCHUMANN 2d.	—
„ 735. Litany. Unison Song. SCHUBERT 1d.	—	—
„ 736. On wings of song. Unison Song	MENDELSSOHN 1½d.	—
„ 737. The Garland (By Celia's Arbour) Unison Song	MENDELSSOHN 1½d.	—
„ 738. Trust in Spring. Unison Song	SCHUBERT 1d.	—
„ 741. Fisher's Song. Unison Song	SCHUBERT 2d.	—
Book 96. Six Action and Game Songs by Various Composers 8d.	—
„ 131. Twelve Kindergarten Game Songs	GEO. RATHBONE and PERCY E. FLETCHER 1s.	—

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES—Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT:—

No. 1317. Thou must leave Thy lowly dwelling. (Chorus from "L'enfance du Christ.") HECTOR BERLIOZ 1½d.

„ 1319. Away to the woodlands JOHN E. WEST 1½d.

„ 1320. Father of mercies, God of Love. Harvest Anthem E. Vine Hall 1½d.

VALE, WALTER S.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C. 4d.

WARNEFORD, REV. H. L.—"O Love Divine, how sweet thou art." ("St. Florence.") Hymn, 1d.

WEST, JOHN E.—"Lacking my love." Madrigal. (No. 918. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

—"Love for such a cherry lip." For A.T.B.B. (No. 361. "The Orpheus.") 3d.

—"Woodmen, shepherds, come away." Madrigal. (No. 917. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

THE DREAM OF GERONTIUS

By EDWARD ELGAR.

BOOK OF WORDS

With Analytical and Descriptive Notes and 76 Musical Examples by

A. J. JAEGER.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Berlioz in England (Illustrated) ...	441
Dr. Elgar's Oratorio, 'The Apostles' ...	449
The Last Chapter. By Vernon Blackburn ...	450
Occasional Notes (with Portraits) ...	451
A Fascinating Biography (Sir George Grove) ...	455
Sir Alexander Mackenzie on his Canadian Tour ...	456
Presentation to Dr. Manns ...	459
Alfred James Hopkins ...	459
'Somewhere farther North' ...	460
Professor Niecks at the Musical Association ...	461
Church and Organ Music (Illustrated) ...	462
Reviews ...	474
Handel Festival ...	475
Richard Strauss Festival ...	476
'The Dream of Gerontius' in London ...	477
Duisburg Musical Festival ...	478
Philharmonic Society ...	479
London and Suburban Concerts ...	479
Music in America ...	480
" Birmingham ...	481
" Cambridge ...	481
" Harrogate... ...	481
" Oxford ...	482
Miscellaneous ...	482
Foreign Notes ...	483
Country and Colonial News ...	484
Answers to Correspondents ...	485
Harvest Anthem—'The earth is the Lord's.'—Alfred Hollins ...	463

THREE extra Supplements are issued with the present number:—

1. Portrait of Hector Berlioz.
2. Portraits of Canadians connected with the recent Cycle of Musical Festivals.
3. Harvest Anthem, 'O that men would praise the Lord,' by John B. McEwen.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines ...	0	3	0
Three Lines ...	0	3	4
For every additional Line ...	0	0	10
Half a Column ...	2	0	0
A Column ...	4	0	0
A Page ...	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in their proper positions,
Advertisements for the next issue should reach
the Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.,
NOT LATER than JULY 22.

AN EXPERIENCED AND RELIABLE
ORATORIO AND CONCERT QUARTET.

MISS AMY FLETCHER.
MISS ESSIE ANDREWS.
MR. JOHN PROBERT.
MR. EGBERT ROBERTS.

For Terms (moderate) and Vacant Dates, address—
Mr. ROBERTS, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

CONCERT AGENTS and CONCERT PARTIES are invited to write re Short Summer TOURS IN IRELAND, to Maestro, Mourne Hotel, Strabane, Co. Londonderry.

WIMBORNE MINSTER.—There is a VACANCY for a CHORAL SCHOLAR. Tuition free at the Grammar School, with reduced terms for board. Candidates must possess good voices, and be under 11 years of age. For further particulars, apply to the Organist, Mr. A. E. Wilshire, Sylvenhay, Wimborne.

WANTED, an ORGANIST for the Church of St. John-the-Baptist, San Remo, Italy. Positive organ.
Desired a spiritually-minded man; communicant, evangelical; capable of training the choir. Salary for the season (October 18—May 22, both inclusive), £50. Apply, with testimonials, to the Chaplain, Rev. C. H.
Pelly, care of Rev. J. B. Russell, Norfolk Hotel, South Kensington.

CHURCH ORGAN (two manuals), contains 18 stops, 654 speaking pipes, composition pedals, &c. Price
£160. Great bargain, space being most urgently wanted. Organist, 24, Endsleigh Gardens, Gordon Square, London, W.C.

SPLENDID ORGAN, 3 manuals; pedals 30 notes; swell CC to FFF. Worth £700. Suitable for church or chapel.
Write, Arundel House, Wednesbury.

WANTED, Second-hand Copy of GROVE'S
MUSICAL DICTIONARY. Write, Fontannay, Eskdale,
Waterloo, near Liverpool.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

PUBLISHED ON THE 1ST OF EVERY MONTH. Price 1½d.
ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, INCLUDING POSTAGE, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW FOR JULY CONTAINS:—

GENERAL NOTES.

LESSONS ON THE RUDIMENTS OF MUSIC. By W. G. McNAUGHT.

THE HARMONIZATION OF MELODIES IN FOUR VOCAL PARTS. By CUTBERT HARRIS.

SCHOOL MUSIC IN BOSTON, U.S.A.

BRADFORD SCHOOL BOARD—APPOINTMENT OF ASSISTANT-SUPER-INTENDENT OF MUSIC.

THEORY QUESTIONS.

SIGHT-TEST FOR SCHOOLS.

CHILDREN'S VIEWS OF MUSIC (SINGING) LESSONS.

THE TONIC SOL-FA ASSOCIATION.

BERKS, BUCKS, AND OXON. COMPETITIVE MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

THE FEIS CEOL, DUBLIN.

"LITTLE BO-PEEP."

PIANOFORTE TECHNIQUE.

ANSWERS TO THEORY QUESTIONS.

CORRESPONDENCE.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

THE JULY NUMBER CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC:—

"THE WIND." Junior Unison Song. By GEORGE RATHBONE.

"HAIL! STAR OF EVE!" Arranged for s.s.a (Unaccompanied). By R. SPOFFORTH.

ELEMENTARY SIGHT-SINGING EXERCISES.

Also, EXTRA SUPPLEMENT, containing "THE BLACKSMITH." Kindergarten Game Song. By PERCY E. FLETCHER. This song is selected from Book 131, Novello's School Songs (Price 1s.), and is not published separately.

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE MALE VOICE CHANT-BOOK

A COLLECTION OF
THREE-PART (A.T.B.) CHANTS
ADAPTED TO THE BOOK OF PSALMS.

Price Three Shillings.
In Cloth, 4s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THREE DANCES

(IN CANON THROUGHOUT)

FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

BATTISON HAYNES.

ARRANGED FOR

TWO VIOLINS AND PIANOFORTE

No. 1. GAVOTTE.
No. 2. MINUET.
No. 3. WALTZ.

Price Two Shillings each net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED. IN SEPARATE NUMBERS.

SEVEN PIECES

FOR THE

PIANOFORTE

1. Si Oiseau j'étais. 4. Entschwundenes Glück.
2. Dors-tu, ma vie? 5. Toccatina.
3. Poème d'Amour. 6. Quatrième Impromptu.
7. Wiegenlied.

COMPOSED BY

ADOLPHE HENSELT

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

VLADIMIR DE PACHMANN.

Nos. 1, 2, and 7, 1s. 6d. each; Nos. 3, 4, 5, 6, 2s. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

F. W. EBRALL,

Organ Builder,

SHREWSBURY.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

HUGH SWANTON,

THE LEADING EXPERT IN ORGAN-BLOWING.

APPARATUS FOR BLOWING ORGANS BY WATER
GAS, AND ELECTRICITY.

INSTALLATIONS IN OPERATION AT—

St. Paul's Cathedral (London).

Dublin (St. Patrick's) Cathedral.

Genoa, Norwich, Llandaff, Dundalk Cathedrals, &c., &c.

CONSULTATIONS FREE.

A DAINTY BROCHURE, full of interest and Illustrated, will be forwarded on request.

62, WHITEHORSE STREET, STEPNEY, LONDON, E.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This Action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch.
It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus and price list free. Apply to Norman and Beard, Ltd., The Organ Works, Norwich.

15 GUINEAS.—PIANO, "DUCHESS" MODEL,
by D'ALMAINE, solid iron frames to top, Upright Grand (list price, 30 guineas); full compass, full trichord, French check action, &c.; in handsomely carved case, four feet two inches in height;
in use only six months; sent on approval, carriage paid both ways, to any part of the United Kingdom; twenty years' warranty; easy terms arranged; full price paid will be allowed if exchanged for a higher-class instrument within three years. D'Almaine and Co.
(established 118 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7
Saturdays, 3.

A VERY fine-toned VIOLONCELLO, by J. F. LOTT.
In Old English Wood Case. First-rate condition. Warranted genuine. Lowest price, £35. Hayman and Son, Music Warehouse, Launceston.

A REVERIE OF THE EAST

SONG

FOR SOPRANO OR TENOR

THE POEM WRITTEN BY

OWEN SEAMAN

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHANSON D'ÉTÉ

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE BALLAD OF THE VICTORIA CROSS

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

HAROLD BEGBIE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ALICIA ADÉLAÏDE NEEDHAM.

THREE

SONGS FOR SOLDIERS

No. 1.

Dedicated, by permission, to H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT.

"MIGHT I MARCH THROUGH LIFE AGAIN"

(E. FITZBALL).

In Three Keys.

No. 2.

To Field-Marshal SIR GEORGE S. WHITE, V.C.

"THE GORDONS"

(B. MALCOLM RAMSEY).

In Three Keys.

No. 3.

To EARL ROBERTS, V.C., Commander-in-Chief of the British Army.

"BAD LUCK TO THEIR MARCHING"

(CHARLES LEVER).

In Three Keys.

COMPOSED BY

ALICIA ADÉLAÏDE NEEDHAM.

Price Two Shillings each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE RECITAL SERIES

OF

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN

Edited by EDWIN H. LEMARE.

No. 25.

SECOND ANDANTINO IN
D FLAT

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

No. 26.

FANTASIA IN F

COMPOSED BY

JOHN FRANCIS BARNETT.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

No. 27.

CANZONA

COMPOSED BY

H. A. WHEELDON.

Price Two Shillings.

No. 28.

ELEGIAC ROMANCE

COMPOSED BY

JOHN IRELAND.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS

FROM THE SERVICE IN B FLAT

BY

C. VILLIERS STANFORD.

(Op. 10.)

FULL SCORE.

Price Five Shillings.

String Parts, 2s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Organ, 5s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW CANTATA FOR NEXT SEASON.

THE TEMPTATION

WORDS BY

SARA S. HENNELL

MUSIC BY

F. W. HUMBERSTONE.

"If the whole work be equal to the air 'Jesu, blest Jesu,' more will be heard of it."—Dover Express.

"The music is interesting all through, and never becomes monotonous. . . . The final chorus is a vigorous climax to a work which, while offering no great difficulties in the way of performance, might be effectively rendered by any ordinary choir or choral society, and is well worth the attention of conductors."—Scarborough Daily Post.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Specimen Copy, One Shilling.

HOUGHTON AND CO., 39, Great Marlborough Street, W.

JESU, THE VERY THOUGHT OF THEE

AN ANTHEM

For Bass Solo, Quartet or Chorus, S.S.A.A., and Full Chorus, S.A.T.B., with independent Organ Accompaniment

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST EDWIN MITCHELL.

Price Threepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

TE DEUM. Four Settings in Chant Form, by

C. SYDNEY VINNING. On a Card. Price 2d.

SINGING CARDS FOR CHOIR BOYS:—

No. 1. RUDIMENTS AND EXERCISES.

2. FOR TEACHING BOYS TO SING A SECOND PART.

Price Twopence each. Compiled by C. SYDNEY VINNING.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Fifth Edition.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in E flat. By ALFRED

J. DYE. Voices only, 3d.; Organ copy, 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in B flat, with free Organ

Accomp. By A. J. HUMPHREY COULTER, Organist, Down Cathedral. Written opinions of English Cathedral Organists: "Distinguished by great beauty of construction, wealth of harmony, devotional feeling; musicianlike; most melodious and effective." Price 4d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Seventh Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat.

By WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E.

By LENNOX RODNEY AMOTT, Mus.D. Festal setting. Melodious and not difficult. Price 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHOIRMASTERS and CONDUCTORS giving

Name of Church can have FREE SPECIMEN COPIES of New Church Music, including the New Harvest Anthem, "Thou shalt keep the Feast of Harvest." (It contains a charming Bass Solo and powerful Choruses, with rich Harmony and good contrasts of loud and soft. Thousands of Choirs will be glad to see this Anthem.)

Just Published. Book 6 of the immensely popular Voluntary Books. Over 40 Editions already sold. Book 6 contains 17 pieces for Organ or Harmonium. Price 1s. 6d., post-free. An Organist writes: "They are the best Books of Voluntaries I have ever had the pleasure to play." Address, Caleb Simper, "Kilbirnie," Barnstable.

Demy 8vo., price 6d. Tonic Sol-fa, 4d.
Words only, 10s. per 100.

A FLOWER SERVICE FOR CHILDREN

EDITED BY

F. A. J. HERVEY, M.A.

Containing a short form of Service with the necessary music, a selection of suitable Hymns by the Bishop of Ripon, the Rev. S. Childs Clarke, the Rev. W. St. Hill Bourne, and others, with Tunes specially composed by Sir John Stainer, John E. West, J. H. Maunders, Canon Hervey, a hitherto unpublished tune by Gounod, other tunes by Myles B. Foster, the late Rev. J. B. Dykes, Sir J. Barnby, Dr. G. M. Garrett, &c., and written by the Rev. S. Childs Clarke and set to music by

A LITANY

SIR JOHN STAINER.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

WHAT CAN I GIVE JESUS?

HYMN FOR A CHILDREN'S FLOWER SERVICE

WORDS BY

ARTHUR C. BENSON

MUSIC BY

ARTHUR M. GOODHART.

Price One Penny. Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TEN HYMNS (SET I.)

WITH TUNES

FOR USE IN SCHOOLS and FOR CHILDREN'S FESTIVALS.
(Suitable also for Flower Services or Sunday School Festivals.)

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR SULLIVAN, JOHN STAINER, GEORGE ELVEY,
A. M. GOODHART, J. H. MAUNDER, and H. D. WETTON.

EDITED BY W. L. R. MCCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

Staff Notation, price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.

TEN HYMNS (SET II.)

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

G. C. MARTIN, F. H. COWEN, J. LANGRAN, S. SMITH, A. SULLIVAN,
J. STAINER, and OTHERS.

EDITED BY W. L. R. MCCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

Staff Notation, price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.
Words only, Five Shillings per 100, each Set.

TEN HYMNS (SET III.)

NATIONAL HYMNS and TUNES FOR CHILDREN'S USE.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

G. C. MARTIN, H. WALFORD DAVIES, J. H. MAUNDER,
J. BARNBY, FREDERICK CLAY, C. HARFORD LLOYD, JOHN E. WEST,
H. DAVAN WETTON, B. TOURS.

EDITED BY W. L. R. MCCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

The Ten Hymns, complete, price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.
Words only, Three Shillings per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

AN EASY SETTING OF THE OFFICE FOR HOLY COMMUNION, in D. By STRETTON SWANN, Mus.B., F.R.C.O.

Price Sixpence. A Specimen Copy, post-free, from the COMPOSER,
181, Longley Road, Tooting, S.W.

THE VINCENT MUSIC COMPANY, Limited.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES. — "Messiah,"

"Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MUSICAL OPINION (2d.; order everywhere).—

Send 4d. for new number to 35, Shoe Lane, London, E.C.

About 250 cols. interesting Reading and Advertisements Founded 1876.

NEW HUMOROUS PART-SONG.

A FROG HE WOULD A-WOOING GO. By

A. B. ALLEN, Composer of "Dickory dock." Price 2d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ANTHEMS FOR TRINITYTIDE.

I AM ALPHA AND OMEGA

FROM "DEATH AND LIFE."

COMPOSED BY

CH. GOUNOD.

Price Fourpence.

LIGHT OF THE WORLD

FINAL CHORUS FROM THE "LIGHT OF LIFE."

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Threepence.

BEHOLD, GOD IS GREAT

COMPOSED BY

E. W. NAYLOR.

Price Fourpence.

O JOYFUL LIGHT

COMPOSED BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price Fourpence.

I AM ALPHA AND OMEGA

COMPOSED BY

J. VARLEY ROBERTS.

Price Threepence.

COMPLETE LIST.

- *Almighty and everlasting God... Gibbons 12d.
 Ascribe unto the Lord ... S. S. Wesley 8d.
 Behold, God is great ... E. W. Naylor 4d.
 Beloved, if God so loved us ... J. Barnby 12d.
 Beloved, let us love one another ... Gerard F. Cobb 12d.
 Be ye all of one mind ... Arthur E. Godfrey 3d.
 *Blessed is the man ... John Goss 4d.
 Blessing and glory ... Boyce 12d.
 Blessing, glory ... Bach 6d.
 *God came from Teman ... C. Steggall 4d.
 *God so loved the world ... Matthew Kingall 12d.
 Grant, O Lord ... Mozart 12d.
 *Hail, gladdening Light ... J. T. Field 2d.
 Hail, gladdening Light ... G. C. Martin 4d.
 *He in tears that soweth (s.s.a.) in Key of A ... F. Hiller 12d.
 *He in tears that soweth (s.s.a.) in Key of A flat ... F. Hiller 12d.
 *Holy, holy, holy ... Crotch 3d.
 *How goodly are Thy tents ... F. Ouseley 12d.
 *How lovely are Thy dwellings... Spohr 12d.
 I am Alpha and Omega ... Ch. Gounod 4d.
 I am Alpha and Omega ... J. Stainer 12d.
 I am Alpha and Omega ... J. Varley Roberts 3d.
 I beheld, and lo! ... Blow 6d.
 I know that the Lord is great ... F. Ouseley 12d.
 I saw the Lord ... J. Stainer 6d.
 I will magnify ... J. Shaw 3d.
 I will sing of Thy power ... Greene 4d.
 *I will sing of Thy power ... A. Sullivan 12d.
 I will sing unto the Lord ... H. Wareing 3d.
 *In humble faith ... G. Garrett 1d.
 *In Jewry is God known ... J. Clarke-Whitfield 12d.
 In sweet consent ... E. H. Thorne 3d.
 In the fear of the Lord ... J. Varley Roberts 3d.
 Let the peace of God ... J. Stainer 4d.
 Light of the world ... E. Elgar 3d.
 *Lord of all power and might ... William Mason 12d.
 Ditto (men's voices) ... J. Barnby 2d.
 *Lord, we pray Thee ... J. Varley Roberts 12d.
 O Father blest ... J. Barnby 3d.
 O joyful Light ... B. Tours 4d.
 *O Lord, my trust... King Hall 12d.
 *O taste and see ... J. Goss 3d.
 *O taste and see ... A. Sullivan 12d.
 O taste and see ... A. H. Mann 3d.
 O where shall wisdom be found? Boyce 6d.
 Ponder my words, O Lord ... Arnold D. Cuijey 12d.
 *Praise His awful Name ... Spohr 2d.
 Rejoice in the Lord ... G. C. Martin 6d.
 *See what love hath the Father Mendelssohn 12d.
 Sing to the Lord ... Mendelssohn 8d.
 *Stand up and bless ... J. Goss 4d.
 Teach me Thy way ... W. H. Gladstone 12d.
 The Lord hath been mindful ... S. S. Wesley 3d.
 *The Lord is my Shepherd ... G. A. Macfarren 12d.
 *The Lord is my Shepherd ... J. Shaw 3d.
 The Lord will comfort Zion ... H. Hiles 6d.
 Thou shalt shew me the path of life ... Alan Gray 12d.
 We have heard with our ears ... H. Aldrich 1s.
 Whatsoever is born of God ... H. Oakeley 3d.
 Who can comprehend Thee ... Mozart 3d.

* Anthems marked thus (*) may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CANTIONES SACRÆ

MUSICAL SETTINGS

OF

THE ROMAN LITURGY

EDITED BY

Dom SAMUEL GREGORY OULD,

MONK OF THE ORDER OF ST. BENEDICT.

33. ADESTE FIDELES. The complete Text (8 verses), with a Prelude by Dr. F. E. Gladstone, and varied Accompaniments by H. B. Collins, Dom Samuel G. Ould, Sir Walter Parratt, Sir C. Hubert H. Parry, Dr. C. W. Pearce, William Sewell, Dr. A. E. Tozer, and S. P. Waddington 1s.
 4. ADORAMUS TE, CHRISTE .. Mozart 2d.
 22. ADOREMUS (FOR BENEDICTION) F. E. Gladstone 2d.
 2. ADOREMUS (MOTET) .. C. W. Pearce 6d.
 10. ALMA REDEMPTORIS MATER W. Sewell 2d.
 27. AVE MARIS STELLA S. P. Waddington 6d.
 11. AVE REGINA CÆLORUM W. Sewell 2d.
 36. AVE VERUM .. E. Elgar 2d.
 26. BENEDICTA ET VENERABILIS F. E. Gladstone 6d.
 6. BENEDICTION SERVICE (UNISON) S. Ould 3d.
 9. BENEDICTION SERVICE (UNISON) J. E. West 3d.
 32. BENEDICTION SERVICE A. Zimmermann 2d.
 29. COMPLINE HYMN .. S. Ould 3d.
 3. DEUS MISEREATUR .. F. E. Gladstone 6d.
 12. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. A. E. Tozer 2d.
 30. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. E. Silas 2d.
 34. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. Gounod 2d.
 17. HÆC DIES .. F. E. Gladstone 3d.
 7. HODIE SANCTUS BENEDICTUS P. Philips 4d.
 20. LITANY OF LORETTO .. F. E. Gladstone 6d.
 23. MAGNIFICAT IN A .. F. E. Gladstone 8d.
 1. MAGNIFICAT IN B FLAT .. E. Silas 6d.
 28. MAGNIFICAT IN D .. E. Silas 1s.
 31. MAGNIFICAT IN E FLAT .. W. Sewell 4d.
 15. MISERERE IN F .. F. E. Gladstone 3d.
 16. MISERERE IN F SHARP MINOR F. E. Gladstone 6d.
 25. MISERERE (GREGORIAN CHANT) V. Novello 3d.
 19. O SALUTARIS HOSTIA .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.
 8. REGINA CÆLI .. W. Sewell 2d.
 14. RESPONSES AT MASS AND OFFICE Harmonized by S. Ould 3d.
 35. SALVATOR MUNDI .. Dr. John Blow 4d.
 13. SALVE, REGINA .. Schubert 2d.
 5. SALVE, REGINA .. W. Sewell 2d.
 24. SALVE, REGINA .. R. L. de Pearsall 3d.
 18. SALVE, REGINA .. S. P. Waddington 4d.
 21. TANTUM ERGO .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.
 37. VIRGAM VIRTUTIS TUÆ Leonardo Leo 4d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE "LUTE" SERIES.

ANTHEMS FOR TRINITYTIDE.

- 124a Almighty God, Who has promised ... H. Elliot Button 1d.
 124b Grant to us, Lord ... H. Elliot Button 1d.
 *7b Let Thy merciful ears ... A. R. Gaul 12d.
 22 O God, Who hast prepared ... A. R. Gaul 2d.
 69 Teach me Thy way ... Frank L. Moir 3d.
 124c We humbly beseech Thee ... H. Elliott Button 1d.

Those marked thus * are also published in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PUBLIC SCHOOL HYMN BOOK.

JUST PUBLISHED. IN TWO EDITIONS.
THE PUBLIC SCHOOL HYMN BOOK.

Price, Hymns only, 1s. 3d.
Hymns with Tunes, 3s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

"A real boon to Church Choirs."—Musical Opinion.

THE CHURCH CHOIR BOOK

EDITED BY

WALTER G. HARRIS.

CONTENTS.

RESPONSES (Ferial, Festal, and Plainsong).
ELY CONFESSION.
FIFTY-FOUR KYRIES.
FOURTEEN DOXOLOGIES (Gloria Tibi and Gratia).
SIXTEEN FINAL AMENS.
SEVEN VESPERS.
ORGAN ACCOMPANIMENTS to Lord's Prayer and Creeds.
TWELVE PAGES MS. MUSIC PAPER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

The works of the following composers have been drawn upon in this compilation:—Agutter, Arnold, Attwood, Sterndale Bennett, Bexfield, Boyce, Bridge, Buck,
Cambridge, Dykes, Goss, Hopkins, C. H. Lloyd,
Marbecke, Martin, Smart, Stewart, Stainer, Tallis, Tours, Tuckermann, Warriner, in addition to SPECIALLY WRITTEN CONTRIBUTIONS

BY

DR. G. J. BENNETT, OTTO GOLDSCHMIDT, GEORGE H.
GREGORY, DR. HAYDN KEETON, J. H. MAUNDER,
HERBERT C. MORRIS, T. TERTIUS NOBLE,
DR. J. VARLEY ROBERTS,
REV. DR. G. W. TORRANCE, Etc.

Reprinted from above. Price Threepence.

SEVEN VESPER HYMNS

Music by Sir W. Sterndale Bennett, Rev. F. Ballard, Otto Goldschmidt, Chas. S. Craddock, Walter G. Harris, Herbert C. Morris, and Rev. F. M. Yglesias.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., CANTAB

SERVICES.

					s.	d.
Te Deum in E.	Four Voices	0	3
Benedictus and Jubilate in E	0	3
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E	0	3
Ditto.	Tonic Sol-fa	0	1½
Cantate and Deus in E	0	3
Communion Service in E	0	9
"	" in G.	Men's Voices	0	9

ANTHEMS

I will magnify Thee (Whitsunday).	Four Voices	0	3
Ditto.	Tonic Sol-fa	0	1½
If ye love Me.	Four Voices	0	3
O how amiable.	Soprano Solo and Chorus	0	4
I was glad.	Four Voices	0	3
Ditto.	Tonic Sol-fa	0	2

PART-SONGS.

May, sweet May.	Four Voices	0	3
Over hill, over dale	0	3
The Rhine Maiden.	Four Voices	0	3
Six Pastoral Songs	each	0 3

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW

HARVEST ANTHEMS.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S

COMPOSED BY

ALFRED HOLLINS.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

FATHER OF MERCIES, GOD OF LOVE

COMPOSED BY

REV. E. VINE HALL.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

O THAT MEN WOULD PRAISE THE LORD

COMPOSED BY

JOHN B. McEWEN.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

In the Press.

HEARKEN UNTO ME, YE HOLY CHILDREN

COMPOSED BY

W. H. BELL.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

LET THE PEOPLE PRAISE THEE,
O GOD

COMPOSED BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

IS IT NOT WHEAT-HARVEST TO-DAY?

COMPOSED BY

THOMAS ADAMS.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

BE GLAD AND REJOICE

COMPOSED BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

PRAISED BE THE LORD DAILY

COMPOSED BY

C. HARFORD LLOYD.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE GLORY OF LEBANON

COMPOSED BY

HERBERT W. WAREING.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THOU, O GOD, ART PRAISED IN ZION

COMPOSED BY

W. WOLSTENHOLME.

Price Fourpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

UNTO THEE, O GOD

COMPOSED BY

W. WOLSTENHOLME.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S HARVEST ANTHEMS.

COMPLETE LIST.

* Achieved is the glorious work Haydn 14d.	O pray for the peace of Jerusalem Dr. B. Rogers 14d.
All Thy works praise Thee J. Barnby 4d.	O sing unto the Lord W. A. C. Cruickshank 4d.
All Thy works praise Thee J. Kent 4d.	* O taste and see J. Goss 4d.
All Thy works praise Thee E. H. Thorne 3d.	* O taste and see A. S. Sullivan 14d.
* All Thy works shall praise Thee George H. Ely 4d.	* O that men would praise the Lord John B. McEwen 14d.
* And the Lord said T. W. Stephenson 3d.	Our God is Lord of the harvest Emma Mundella 3d.
* Angel-voices, ever singing E. V. Hall 3d.	* O worship the King E. V. Hall 4d.
As the Earth bringeth forth her bud A. Herbert Brewer 4d.	* Praise, my soul, the King of heaven E. V. Hall 3d.
* Be glad and rejoice Myles B. Foster 3d.	* Praise, O praise our God and King E. V. Hall 14d.
* Be glad and rejoice Bruce Steane 3d.	* Praise, O praise our God and King B. Luard Selby 3d.
* Behold I have given you every herb Cuthbert Harris 3d.	* Praise our God, ye people E. V. Hall 4d.
Bless Thou the Lord Oliver King 3d.	* Praise the Lord George J. Elvey 4d.
Blessed be the Name of God (Two-part) G. A. Macfarren 3d.	* Praise the Lord Julius Benedict 8d.
* Blessed be the Name of the Lord H. Gadsby 14d.	* Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem W. H. Bliss 3d.
* Blessed be Thou, Lord God J. Kent 4d.	* Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem E. V. Hall 4d.
* Break forth into joy Oliver King 14d.	* Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem W. Hayes 4d.
Eternal source of every joy F. Brandies 2d.	* Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem J. H. Maunder 3d.
* Father of mercies, God of love John E. West 3d.	* Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem J. Scott 14d.
* Father of mercies, God of love E. V. Hall 3d.	* Praise the Lord, O my soul H. Lahee 14d.
* Fear not, O land, be glad and rejoice J. Goss 6d.	* Praise the Lord, O my soul J. W. Elliott 3d.
* Fear not, O land C. H. Lloyd 14d.	* Praise ye the Lord for His goodness G. Garrett 14d.
* Fear not, O land Warwick Jordan 6d.	Praised be the Lord C. Steggall 1/-
* God be merciful unto us John E. West 14d.	Praised be the Lord daily T. T. Ebdon 14d.
* God said, Behold I have given you every herb G. A. Macfarren 4d.	* Praised be the Lord daily C. Harford Lloyd 3d.
* Great and marvellous are Thy works J. F. Bridge 4d.	* Rejoice in the Lord B. Tours 14d.
* Great is our Lord Myles B. Foster 4d.	Rejoice, O ye righteous J. Rheinberger 3d.
* Great is the Lord Bruce Steane 3d.	* Sing praises to God H. W. Wareing 14d.
* Great is the Lord Arthur W. Marchant 3d.	* Sing to the Lord J. Barnby 4d.
* Hearken unto Me, ye holy children (In the Press) W. H. Bell 14d.	* Sing unto the Lord Cuthbert Harris 3d.
* Hearken unto this H. Elliott Button 14d.	* Sing we merrily F. A. W. Docker 4d.
He in tears that soweth F. Hiller 14d.	* Sing we merrily E. V. Hall 4d.
* Honour the Lord with thy substance J. Stainer 4d.	* The earth is the Lord's Alfred Hollins 14d.
* How excellent is Thy loving-kindness F. H. Cowen 6d.	* The earth is the Lord's T. T. Trimmell 4d.
* I will always give thanks J. Baptiste Calkin 14d.	* The eyes of all wait upon Thee George J. Elvey 3d.
* I will extol Thee C. M. Hudson 4d.	* The eyes of all wait upon Thee Myles B. Foster 3d.
* I will feed My flock J. F. Bridge 14d.	* The eyes of all wait upon Thee Thomas Adams 3d.
* I will give thanks unto Thee E. J. Hopkins 6d.	* The eyes of all wait upon Thee A. R. Gaul 14d.
* I will give thanks unto Thee J. Barnby 4d.	* The eyes of all wait upon Thee O. Gibbons 3d.
* I will give you rain in due season H. W. Wareing 4d.	The fostering earth, the genial showers J. L. Hopkins 4d.
* I will greatly rejoice in the Lord W. A. C. Cruickshank 4d.	The glory of Lebanon Herbert W. Wareing 3d.
* I will magnify Thee J. B. Calkin 4d.	* The harvest-tide thanksgiving (Words, 1/6 per 100) J. Barnby 14d.
* I will magnify Thee J. Shaw 3d.	* The Lord hath been mindful of us E. T. Chipp 3d.
* I will magnify Thee J. Goss 3d.	* The Lord hath been mindful of us S. S. Wesley 3d.
* I will magnify Thee Oliver King 4d.	* The Lord hath done great things H. Smart 4d.
* I will open rivers in high places Edgar Pettman 3d.	* The Lord is loving unto every man G. Garrett 3d.
* I will sing a new song P. Armes 8d.	* The Lord is loving unto every man A. W. Batson 3d.
* Is it not wheat harvest to-day? Thomas Adams 3d.	* The Parable of the Harvest Frank J. Sawyer 3d.
* Joy in Harvest Bruce Steane 3d.	* The woods and every sweetsmelling tree John E. West 14d.
* Let the people praise Thee, O God A. R. Gaul 14d.	* There shall be an heap of corn Cuthbert Harris 3d.
* Let us now fear the Lord our God John E. West 14d.	* There shall be an heap of corn Ferris Tozer 3d.
* Lo! summer comes again J. Stainer 6d.	* Thou art worthy, O Lord F. E. Gladstone 4d.
* Look on the fields Charles Macpherson 3d.	* Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness Josiah Booth 14d.
* Look upon the rainbow Thomas Adams 3d.	* Thou, O God, art praised in Zion E. V. Hall 3d.
* Lord of the Harvest J. Barnby 2d.	* Thou, O God, art praised in Zion B. Luard Selby 4d.
Lord of the rich and golden grain (Harvest Hymn) F. Tozer 4d.	* Thou, O God, art praised in Zion W. Wolstenholme 4d.
* My mouth shall speak the praise Arthur Carnall 3d.	* Thou visitest the earth J. Barnby 4d.
* O come, let us sing to the Lord John E. West 4d.	* Thou visitest the earth J. Baptiste Calkin 4d.
* O give thanks B. Tours 14d.	* Thou visitest the earth W. H. Calcott 2d.
* O give thanks E. V. Hall 3d.	* Thou visitest the earth J. W. Elliott 3d.
* O give thanks Bruce Steane 3d.	* Thou visitest the earth M. Greene 14d.
* O God my soul thirsteth W. Tucker 14d.	* Thrust in thy sickle and reap Thomas Adams 14d.
* O God, who is like unto Thee F. R. Greenish 3d.	To Thee, O Lord C. L. Williams 3d.
* O how plentiful is Thy goodness Myles B. Foster 14d.	* Unto Thee, O God W. Wolstenholme 14d.
* O Lord, how manifold are Thy works T. M. Pattison 3d.	* Unto Thee, O Lord, do we give thanks Bruce Steane 3d.
* O Lord, how manifold are Thy works J. Barnby 14d.	* While the earth remaineth Alfred R. Gaul 4d.
O lovely peace G. A. Macfarren 14d.	* While the earth remaineth C. Swinnerton Heap 4d.
* O praise God in His holiness G. F. Handel 4d.	* While the earth remaineth B. Tours 14d.
* O praise God in His holiness Hugh Blair 14d.	* While the earth remaineth C. Lee Williams 3d.
* O praise God in His holiness J. Weldon 14d.	* Ye shall dwell in the land (Trio, S.S.A.) J. Stainer 14d.
* O praise the Lord T. T. Trimmell 4d.	* Ye shall dwell in the land (S.A.T.B.) J. Stainer 14d.
* O praise the Lord of Heaven Mozart 14d.	* Ye shall go out with joy J. Barnby 4d.
	Your thankful songs upraise (Jubilee Cantata) C. M. von Weber 3d.

* Also published in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 4d. each.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE OFFICE
FOR THE
HOLY COMMUNION

FROM THE SERVICE IN B FLAT

COMPOSED BY
C. VILLIERS STANFORD.

(Op. 10.)

FULL SCORE, 6s.

String Parts, 2s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Organ, 8s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE JOY OF HARVEST

HYMN FOR HARVEST

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

PRICE TWOPENCE.

Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.; Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

DIRECTORY OF MUSICAL EDUCATION

PART I.

BEING A GUIDE TO

Choir Schools and Choral Foundations for Boys; University Degrees in Music; Choral and Organist Scholarships; and Public Schools of Music in the United Kingdom

EDITED BY THE

REV. CHARLES EDWARD BUTLER, M.A.

Price One Shilling.
Paper boards, 1s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

"Such settings as these cannot do otherwise than tend to popularise the Church Service."—Musical Standard, June 6, 1891.

"Good, effective, easy, and dignified."—Musical Times, April 1, 1891.
"Admirably adapted to meet the requirements of the majority of choirs and congregations." "Deserve extensive recognition and use."—Musical News, September 4 and 25, 1891.

Also recommended by the Guardian, Church Times, &c., &c.

POPULAR CHURCH MUSIC

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

HARVEST ANTHEMS.

	Staff Notation.	Tonic Sol-fa.
Sing to the Lord of Harvest	3d.	2d.
While the earth remaineth	3d.	2d.
Blessed be the Name of the Lord	3d.	2d.

SERVICES.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C (partly in Unison)	3d.	1½d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D	3d.	2d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in Free Chant Form	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in B flat	3d.	2d.
Communion Service in G	8d.
Amen in G	1d.	1d.

ORGAN.

Voix Seraphique (for Recitals)	2s.
---------------------------------------	-----

CHURCH CANTATA.

Penitence, Pardon, and Peace (for General Use)	1/6	1/-
---	-----	-----

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Specimen copies of Anthems and Services free on application to
J. H. MAUNDER, Hilltop, Belmont Park, London, S.E.

A Vicar writes: "Both my Choir and People were charmed with your last Anthem."

An Organist writes: "Your last Anthem was greatly appreciated."

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM

COMPOSED BY EDWYN A. CLARE.

THE FRUIT OF THY WORKS. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d. ... O.N. 4d.
This grand New Anthem contains many beautiful effects that singers will perceive and delight in bringing out. All the parts are good and inspiring.

ALSO:

PRaise the Lord, O Jerusalem. 28th 1,000 3d.
A very popular Anthem, sung last year at a Choral Festival in Downpatrick Cathedral; and this year at a Festival in Wem Parish Church, Salop.

O Lord, how manifold are Thy Works. 6th 1,000 4d.
Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness. 9th 1,000 3d.

Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

FEAR NOT, O LAND. Easy and pretty. 6th 1,000 3d.
SING UNTO GOD WITH THE VOICE OF THANKSGIVING. 13th 1,000 4d.
A splendid Festival Anthem. Always goes well.

HOW GREAT IS HIS GOODNESS. An impressive Anthem. 8th 1,000 3d.
THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE. 31st 1,000. Sol-fa, 2d.; O.N. 3d.
Very popular Anthem. Sung by 1,500 voices at Newcastle-on-Tyne.

FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in D. 14th 1,000 4d.
Sung at a Festival at Petersham, New South Wales.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited, 1, Berners Street, W.
New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

THE LIFE AND LETTERS OF SIR GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

(Formerly Director of the Royal College of Music)

BY

CHARLES L. GRAVES.

WITH PHOTOGRAVURE PORTRAITS, Etc.

8vo, 12s. 6d. net.

Punch.—"One of the very best biographies The Baron has read for many a day."

Standard.—"One of the most interesting books published for many a day."

MACMILLAN AND Co., Ltd., London.

THE VILLAGE ORGANIST

A SERIES OF PIECES FOR CHURCH AND GENERAL USE

EDITED BY

F. CUNNINGHAM WOODS.

Book 32.

1. Alla Marcia (C major)	Myles B. Foster
2. Prayer, from "Rienzi" (B flat major)	Wagner
3. Moderato Grazioso (G minor)	H. A. J. Campbell
4. Rondo Minuetto (F major)	J. Warriner
5. Bourrée (C major)	Bach
6. Minuet and Trio (G major)	Cuthbert Harris

Book 33.

1. Minuetto (A minor)	A. W. Marchant
2. Andante, from "Bilder aus Osten" (B minor)	Schumann
3. Allegretto Maestoso (C major)	W. Metcalfe
4. Andante, from Violin Concerto (C major)	Mendelssohn
5. Allegretto Cantabile (B flat major)	R. H. Bellairs
6. Marche Solennelle (E minor)	Schubert

Book 34.

1. Harvest Song (B flat major)	John E. West
2. Tempo di Minuetto (E flat major)	Beethoven
3. Andante Semplice (G major)	Roland Rogers
4. March (C major)	Schumann
5. Andante con dolcezza (A major)	Franco Leoni
6. "Here, yet awhile" ("St. Matthew" Passion) (C minor)	Bach
7. Dona nobis Pacem (G major)	H. Elliot Button

Price One Shilling each Book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

(ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN. Nos. 305 to 307.)

PRELUDE AND FUGUE VARIATIONS ON THE TUNE "ST. LUKE"

FANTASIA

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

E. H. THORNE.

"A very solid and admirable addition to the ever-increasing stores of fine music for the instrument written by Englishmen. The composer, E. H. Thorne, is a cultured and scholarly musician, whose work will be most appreciated by the best judges. . . . The Prelude and Fugue are very fine, the latter after the form-pattern of, without the smallest similarity to, the well-known Bach Fugue in F (with the toccata). . . . Mr. Thorne gives out a theme, works it out, and leaves it for a second theme. This being duly worked, the two themes are presented in combination with splendid effect, the final pages of suspensions being precisely what all good organists like to hear and, better still, to play. . . . No. 306, Variations on a tune by Jeremiah Clark, a work in lighter vein, is yet musically. . . . No. 307, 'Fantasia,' is again a great work, one, too, that needs a master of the instrument to play it easily. To sum, three works, of which any musician might be proud."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

Price Two Shillings each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ALBUM OF FIVE SONGS.—

COMPOSED BY MAY STELFOX.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S SERVICES, ANTHEMS, &c.

FOR MEN'S VOICES.

SERVICES.

No.		s. d.
40.	BLAIR, HUGH.—Communion Service in G. T.B. ...	1 0
14.	COBB, GERARD F.—Magnificat and Nunc dim. in F. T.B.B. ...	0 6
16.	CORFE, C. J.—Ditto, in E flat. T.T.B.B. (Sol-fa, 1 st ed.) ...	0 4
25.	DISTIN, THEODORE.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G. A.T.T.B. ...	0 6
48.	FORD, E.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E flat. A.T.T.B. ...	0 4
19.	GARRETT, GEORGE.—Ditto, ditto, in B flat. T.T.B.B. ...	0 6
23.	HAYNES, BATTISON.—Ditto, ditto, in D. A.T.T.B. ...	0 6
18.	ILIFFE, FREDERICK.—Ditto, ditto, in D. T.T.B.B. ...	0 6
46.	LEMARE, EDWIN H.—Final Amen. A.T.T.B.B. (on Card) ...	0 1
38.	LLOYD, C. H.—Versicles, Responses, and Litany. T.T.B.B. ...	0 6
39.	MARTIN, G. C.—Te Deum in A flat, with Benedictus in Chant form. A.T.T.B. ...	0 6
59.	NAYLOR, E. W.—Te Deum in A flat. T.B. ...	0 4
60.	NAYLOR, E. W.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G. T.B. ...	0 4
13.	READ, F. J.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D. A.T.P. ...	0 6
33.	READ, F. J.—Te Deum and Jubilate in B flat. A.T.B. ...	0 6
58.	READ, F. J.—Benedictus in B flat. A.T.B. ...	0 4
3.	READ, F. J.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F. A.T.T.B. ...	0 6
9.	SELY, B. LUARD.—Ditto, ditto, in G. T.T.B.B. ...	0 6
35.	SELY, B. LUARD.—Ditto, ditto, in E. A.T.P. ...	0 6
37.	STAINER, JOHN.—Ditto, ditto, in D. A.T.T.B. ...	0 6
49.	STAINER, JOHN.—Te Deum. A.T.T.B. ...	0 4
50.	STAINER, JOHN.—Benedictus. A.T.T.B. ...	0 4
52.	STAINER, JOHN.—Communion Service. A.T.T.P. ...	1 0
45.	STAINER, JOHN.—Versicles and Responses. A.T.B.B. ...	0 6
26.	STEGALL, CHARLES.—Te Deum and Benedictus in B flat. A.T.T.B. ...	0 8
27.	STEGALL, CHARLES.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat. A.T.B.B. ...	0 6
32.	WEST, JOHN E.—Ditto, ditto, in C. A.T.T.B. ...	0 6
21.	WEST, JOHN E.—Ditto, ditto, in E flat. A.T.B.B. ...	0 6
41.	WEST, JOHN E.—Te Deum laudamus and Benedictus in E flat. A.T.B.B. ...	0 8

ANTHEMS.

57.	AKERMAN, R. F. M.—Lo my Shepherd is divine. A.T.B. ...	0 2
17.	BARNBY, J.—Lord of all power and might. A.T.T.B. ...	0 2
34.	BARNICOTT, R. S.—O worship the Lord. A.T.T.B. ...	0 3
31.	BENNETT, W. STERNDALE.—God is a Spirit (The Woman of Samaria). A.T.T.P. ...	0 6
15.	CALDICOTT, A. J.—Behold, how good and joyful. A.T.T.B. ...	0 3
55.	CALKIN, J. B.—Thou wilt keep him. A.T.B.B. ...	0 2
24.	CULLEY, ARNOLD D.—Try me, O God. A.T.T.B. ...	0 2
20.	DISTIN, THEODORE.—Hear me when I call. A.T.T.P. ...	0 2
11.	DVORAK.—At Thy feet in adoration (Fac me vere), from the Stabat Mater . Tenor Solo and T.T.B.B. ...	0 3
42.	ELGAR, E.—Seek Him that maketh the seven stars (The Light of Life). T.T.B.B. ...	0 6
7.	FORD, ERNEST.—O Lord God of my salvation (Domine Deus). T.T.B.B. ...	0 4
44.	GLADSTONE, F. E.—Almighty and everlasting God. A.T.P. ...	0 3
1.	GOUNOD, CH.—As the hart pants. T.T.B.B. ...	0 3
30.	HANDEL.—The Lord is a man of war (Israel in Egypt). R.B. ...	0 1 1/2
22.	ILIFFE, FREDERICK.—Jesu, Lover of my soul. A.T.T.B. ...	0 2
43.	LLOYD, C. H.—Lord, teach us to number our days. A.A.T.T.B.B. ...	0 3
4.	MENDELSSOHN.—The word went forth (Festgesang). T.T.B.B. (Sol-fa, 1 st ed.) ...	0 4
5.	MENDELSSOHN.—For ever blessed (Beati mortui). T.T.B.B. ...	0 3
6.	MENDELSSOHN.—The righteous living for ever (Periti autem). T.T.B.B. ...	0 3
29.	MENDELSSOHN.—The Lord hath commanded (Psalms 42). T.T.B.B. ...	0 4
8.	READ, F. J.—My soul, wait thou still. A.T.T.B. ...	0 4
51.	READ, F. J.—Sing we merrily unto God. A.T. ...	0 2
47.	READ, F. J.—Why art thou so heavy. A. Solo and A.T.B. ...	0 1 1/2
28.	ROBERTS, J. VARLEY.—O Saviour of the world. A.T.T.B. ...	0 2
10.	SAWYER, F. J.—Ponder my words. A.T.T.B. ...	0 2
2.	SCHUBERT, F.—Great is Jehovah. T.T.B.B. ...	0 4
11.	THORNE, E. H.—Let us now praise famous men. T.T.B.B. ...	0 3
12.	THORNE, E. H.—Let my complaint come before Thee. A.A.T.T.B.B. ...	0 3
56.	WEST, JOHN E.—Comfort the soul of Thy servant T. Solo and A.T.T.B. ...	0 4
36.	WEST, JOHN E.—Whom have I in heaven but Thee. A.T.T.B. ...	0 3
53.	WEST, JOHN, E.—O tarry thou the Lord's leisure. A.T.B.B. ...	0 2

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

CRYSTAL PALACE TRIENNIAL HANDEL FESTIVAL

1903.

THE SELECTION

PERFORMED ON

THURSDAY, JUNE 25, 1903,

TOGETHER WITH AN APPENDIX CONSISTING OF PIECES
PERFORMED AT THE GENERAL REHEARSAL,
SATURDAY, JUNE 20.

PART I.

ACIS AND GALATEA.

Sinfonia.	O the pleasure of the plains.
Chorus	Ye verdant plains.
Recitative	Hush, ye pretty warbling choir.
Air	Lo! here my love.
Recitative	Love in her eyes sits playing.
Air	O didst thou know.
Recitative	As when the dove laments her love.
Air	Happy we.
Duet	Happy we.
Chorus	Wretched lovers.
Chorus	I rage, I melt, I burn.
Recitative	O ruddier than the cherry.
Air	Would you gain the tender creature?
Air	His hideous love.
Recitative	Love sounds the alarm.
Air	Cease, O cease.
Recitative	The flocks shall leave the mountains.
Trio	Help, Galatea.
Recitative	Mourn, all ye Muses.
Chorus	Must I my Acis still bemoan?
Solo and Chorus	'Tis done.
Recitative	Heart, the seat of soft delight.
Air	Galatea, dry thy tears.
Chorus	Galatea, dry thy tears.

PART II.

Concerto for Organ, Orchestra, and Chorus.

Recitative	...	My arms	Judas Maccabæus.
Air	Sound an alarm
Air	Revenge! Timotheus cries...	Alexander's Feast.

SELECTION FROM "SOLOMON."

Double Chorus	Your harps and cymbals sound.
Air	What though I trace.
Chorus	May no rash intruder.
Double Chorus	From the censor.
Recitative	Great Prince.
Air	Thrice blest that wise discerning King.
Recitative	Sweep the string.
Air and Chorus	Music, spread thy voice around.
Air	Now a different measure try.
Double Chorus	Shake the Dome.
Recitative	Then at once from rage remove.
Chorus	Draw the tear.
Recitative	Next, the tortured soul release.
Air and Chorus	Thus rolling surges rise.
Double Chorus	Praise the Lord.

APPENDIX.

(Performed at the General Rehearsal, June 20.)

Recitative	...	Frondi Tenere	Xerxes.
Air	Ombra mai Fù...	do.
Air	Sweet bird	Il Pensieroso.
Air	Honour and Arms	Samson.
Air	From mighty Kings	Judas Maccabæus.
Overture	Occasional Oratorio.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SWEET LITTLE KATUSHA

SUNG BY MISS LENA ASHWELL, IN
TOLSTOY'S "RESURRECTION," at His Majesty's Theatre, London.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY MICHAEL MORTON

The Music, arranged from an old Russian Folk-Song,
BY

ADOLF SCHMID.

Price One Shilling net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

HARVEST CANTATAS, HYMNS, &c.

THE RAINBOW OF PEACE

AN EASY HARVEST-TIDE CANTATA
For Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Organ.
By THOMAS ADAMS.
Price 1s. ; Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

A HARVEST SONG

By C. LEE WILLIAMS.
For Soprano Solo and Chorus.
Price 1s. 6d. ; Words, 5s. per 100.
Orchestral Parts can be hired.

SEED-TIME AND HARVEST

By JOHN E. WEST.
For Soprano and Tenor Soli and Chorus.
Price 2s. Words, 5s. per 100, or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns,
Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.
Orchestral Parts can be hired.

HARVEST CANTATA

By GEORGE GARRETT.
For Chorus, Semi-Chorus, and Organ.
Price 1s. ; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d. Words, 5s. per 100, or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns. Orchestral Parts can be hired.

HARVEST-TIDE

By HUGH BLAIR.
For Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Organ or Small Orchestra.
Price 1s. Words, 5s. per 100. Orchestral Parts can be hired.

THE JUBILEE CANTATA

By C. M. VON WEBER.
For Solo Voices, Chorus and Orchestra.
Vocal Score, 1s. ; Full Score, 21s. ; Orchestral Parts, 15s.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE GLEANER'S HARVEST

By C. H. LLOYD.
For Female Voices.
Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

TWELVE HYMNS FOR HARVEST

Selected from The Hymnary.
Price One Penny.

NOW AUTUMN STREWS ON EV'RY PLAIN

HARVEST HYMN BY ELIZABETH STERLING.
Price Three-Halfpence.

LET ALL OUR BRETHREN JOIN IN ONE

HARVEST HYMN BY J. BARNBY.
Price One Penny.

SOWING AND REAPING

HARVEST CAROL BY J. MAUDE CRAMENT
Price Twopence. Words only, 1s. per 100.

CHORUS AND DANCES OF REAPERS AND GLEANERS

By F. H. COWEN.
From the Oratorio "Ruth."
Price Eightpence.

THE LAST LOAD

FOUR-PART SONG BY J. HAMILTON CLARKE.
Price Threepence.

THE HARVEST FEAST

FOUR-PART SONG BY A. R. GAUL.
Price Threepence ; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE HARVEST DANCE

TWO-PART SONG BY MYLES B. FOSTER.
Price Three-Halfpence ; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING MARCH

By J. B. CALKIN.
For the Organ.
Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE JOY OF HARVEST

HYMN FOR HARVEST BY J. H. MAUNDER.
Price Twopence ; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.
Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

THE SOWER WENT FORTH SOWING

HYMN FOR HARVEST BY J. BARNBY.
Price Three-Halfpence ; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

MAKE MELODY WITHIN YOUR HEARTS

HARVEST CAROL BY F. A. J. HERVEY.
Price Twopence.

HE THAT SOWETH

OFFERTORY SENTENCE (WITH PROCESSIONAL HYMN)
By C. WARWICK JORDAN.
Price Threepence.

O LORD OF HEAVEN, AND EARTH, AND SEA

By J. BARNBY.
On Card, price One Penny.

A HARVEST FESTIVAL BOOK

CONTAINING TALLIS'S PRECES AND RESPONSES, THE CANTICLES AND SPECIAL PSALMS

POINTED FOR CHANTING AND SET TO NEW AND APPROPRIATE CHANTS BY

SIR J. BARNBY, MYLES B. FOSTER, SIR A. C. MACKENZIE, SIR J. STAINER,
AND OTHERS.

TOGETHER WITH

FOUR NEW HYMN TUNES

COMPOSED EXPRESSLY BY

SIR J. BARNBY, SIR J. STAINER, AND JOHN E. WEST.

DEMY 8vo, PRICE SIXPENCE. TONIC SOL-FA, PRICE SIXPENCE.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED

AND

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Novello's Music Primers.

A DESCRIPTION AND HISTORY
OF THE PIANOFORTE
AND OF THE
OLDER KEYBOARD STRINGED INSTRUMENTS

BY

A. J. HIPKINS, F.S.A.

Author of the Articles on the Pianoforte in the "Dictionary of Music and Musicians" and in the "Encyclopædia Britannica," also of "Musical Instruments, Historic, Rare, and Unique."

THE WOOD ENGRAVINGS BY JOHN HIPKINS.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence. Paper Boards, Three Shillings.

As an expert on the subject of all musical instruments and especially those with keys, Mr. Hipkins was highly honoured all the world over.—(THE TIMES, June 4, 1903.)

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW ORGAN COMPOSITION

By DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY.

INTRODUCTION,
VARIATIONS, AND FUGUE

ON THE

"ADESTE FIDELES"
FOR THE ORGAN

BY

ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY

(MUS.D., OXON.).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Demy 8vo, Cloth, Gilt, 456 pages. Price 5s.

HYMN TUNES
AND LITANIES

(276)

COMPOSED BY

REV. J. B. DYKES, MUS. DOC.

COLLECTED FROM VARIOUS SOURCES

INCLUDING

MANY HITHERTO UNPUBLISHED.

EXTRACT FROM INTRODUCTION.

The Rev. J. B. Dykes was well known to most people as a writer of beautiful hymn-tunes, but it will come as a surprise to some to find that he had written such a large number as this volume contains.

On looking through the book one is struck by the many tunes that are known and loved by all religious-minded persons—tunes so successfully wedded to the words, that it would be difficult, if not impossible to get on without them. . . . They are "on the lips of thousands," and are associated with the most solemn moments of life. But because Dr. Dykes was happy in expressing emotions in a way that was intelligible to the masses, we must not overlook the real difficulty and merit of discovering a musical way to the hearts of men—for not every great composer has been successful with hymn-tunes.

The world is richer for Dr. Dykes's music, and his memory deserves to be loved and honoured by all those who, like himself, strive to follow in the footsteps of the Divine Master.

GEORGE C. MARTIN.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

A TREATISE
ON MODERN INSTRUMENTATION
AND ORCHESTRATION

BY

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

TRANSLATED BY MARY COWDEN CLARKE.

NEW EDITION, REVISED AND EDITED BY
JOSEPH BENNETT.

Price Twelve Shillings.

This masterly treatise and accepted classic on a subject of which Berlioz was so consummate a master, is copiously illustrated by excerpts from the full scores of works by Gluck, Mozart, Beethoven, Weber, Spontini, Meyerbeer, and especially from those of the author.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

PASTORAL MELODY

AND

LAMENT

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Shilling.

FESTAL COMMEMORATION

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

YOUTH

A CONCERT OVERTURE FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR HERVEY.Full Score, 10s. 6d.; String Parts, 6s.; Wind Parts, 17s.
Pianoforte Arrangement (in the Press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE MUSIC STUDENT'S MANUSCRIPT NOTE BOOK

AND

PRACTICE REGISTER

ARRANGED BY

C. EGERTON LOWE.

PREFACE.

This book is intended to meet the convenience of Teachers who wish to record clearly for a pupil's guidance the work to be prepared for each lesson or a series. The column headed "Time" is added for the purpose of indicating the number of minutes to be given to the daily practice of each separate subject. (This column is for the Teacher to fill up.)

A few pages of music paper have been inserted for the purpose of writing out turns, trills, &c., and blank pages have been left at the end on which it is suggested that a list of pieces studied should be kept or other memoranda made. The book will be found suitable for students of any instrument.

Price Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

ORIENTAL RHAPSODY

FOR ORCHESTRACOMPOSED BY PERCY PITT.
(Op. 32A).

Full Score...	7s. 6d.
String Parts	3s. od.
Wind Parts	11s. od.
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	2s. od.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

CONCERTO

FOR ORGANAND
ORCHESTRA

(STRINGS, BRASS, HARP, AND DRUMS)

COMPOSED BY HORATIO PARKER.
(Op. 55.)

Full Score	10s. 6d.
Organ Part	2s. 6d.
String Parts	5s. 3d.
Wind Parts	6s. od.

In the Press:

ARRANGEMENT FOR ORGAN SOLO, BY DAVID STANLEY SMITH.

Price Three Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR
THE ORGANBY
JOSEF RHEINBERGER.In Two Volumes, price, paper cover, 6s. each; cloth, gilt lettered, 8s. 6d. each.

Or, in separate Books:—

VOL. I.

TWELVE CHARACTERISTIC PIECES.

(Op. 156.)

Book I. Preludio. Arioso. Canzonetta.	Book II. Intermezzo. Visione. Duetto.	Book III. In Memoriam. Pastorale. Lamento.	Book IV. Riposo. Passacaglia. Marcia Funebre.
--	--	---	--

Price: Books I., II., III., One Shilling and Sixpence each.

Book IV., Two Shillings.

MONOLOGUES.

(Op. 162.)

Book I. No. 1, in C " 2, A minor " 3, in E	Book II. No. 4, E♭ minor " 5, in G " 6, B minor	Book III. No. 7, in D " 8, G♯ minor " 9, in D♯	Book IV. No. 10, F minor " 11, in F♯ " 12, B♭ minor
---	--	---	--

Price: Book I., One Shilling.

Books II., III., IV., One Shilling and Sixpence each.

VOL. II.

SIX SHORT PIECES.

Book I. Prelude. Intermezzo. Epilogue.	Book II. Canzonetta. Consolation. Trio.
---	--

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each Book.

TWELVE PIECES.

(Op. 174.)

Book I. Romance. Scherzoso.	Book II. Aspiration. Contemplation.	Book III. Agitato. Improvisation.
Book IV. Solemn Festival. Duet.	Book V. Ricercare. Evening Rest.	Book VI. Melodia Ostinata. Finale.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each Book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SIX
AMERICAN LYRICSFOR
CONTRALTO OR BARITONECOMPOSED BY
S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

1. O thou, mine other, stronger part.
2. O praise me not.
3. Her love.
4. The dark eye has left us.
5. O ship, that sailest slowly on.
6. Beat, beat, drums.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Sung by Mr. H. PLUNKET GREENE.

ENGLISH LYRICS

SET TO MUSIC BY
C. H. H. PARRY.

SIXTH SET—JUST PUBLISHED.

1. When comes my Gwen E. O. Jones.
2. And yet I love her till I die Anon.
3. Love is a bable Anon.
4. I'm weaving sweet violets .. Alfred P. Graves.
5. At the hour the long day ends .. Alfred P. Graves.
6. Under the Greenwood Tree Shakespeare.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

HERE'S A HEALTH UNTO HIS MAJESTY

A NEW VERSION

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

A. PERCEVAL GRAVES

THE MUSIC ARRANGED BY

ALEXANDER C. MACKENZIE.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

A SET OF

SIX LOVE-LYRICS

FOR CONTRALTO OR BARITONE.

- No. 1. Gulls in an Aëry Morrice.
- " 2. Geraldine.
- " 3. Fill a Glass with Golden Wine.
- " 4. The Shadow of Dawn
- " 5. The Nightingale and the Rose.
- " 6. When you are old.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

W. E. HENLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

WILLIAM H. BELL.

Price Three Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

WHAT SHALL I GIVE THEE? SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
WALTER E. GROGAN

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
HAROLD L. BROOKE.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

I LOVED A LASS, A FAIR ONE SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
GEORGE WITHER

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY JOHN POINTER.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SIX RUSSIAN SONGS

- | | |
|--|----------------|
| 1. A Ball-room meeting (Count A. Tolstoi) | P. Tchaikovsky |
| 2. Regret (D. Rathaus) | P. Tchaikovsky |
| 3. Silent Sorrow (A. Koltsov) | A. Dargomijsky |
| 4. An Eastern Song (A. Poushkin) | A. Dargomijsky |
| 5. A Rose in Autumn (N. Aksakov) | M. Balakirev |
| 6. Dearest little Maiden (Folk-Song) | A. Dargomijsky |

SELECTED, AND THE WORDS TRANSLATED, BY
ROSA NEWMARCH.

Price Two Shillings net, complete.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS BOOK 133.

TWO-PART SONGS (WITHOUT ACCOMPANIMENT).

CONTENTS.

- | | |
|---|--------------------|
| A Bird Song | Roland Rogers |
| All among the barley | Elizabeth Stirling |
| All seek for rest | F. Abt |
| Autumn woods | T. Murby |
| Bells at eve | F. Abt |
| Come, ever smiling liberty | Handel |
| Come to me, gentle sleep | H. W. Schartau |
| Evening song | Mendelssohn |
| In the distance | F. Abt |
| Joyful echoes | L. Streabbog |
| Playtime's golden hours | A. W. Ketelbey |
| The Bell March | J. Brabham |
| The Fountain | H. Elliot Button |
| The Lord is my Shepherd | H. Smart |
| The Mountaineer | A. W. Ketelbey |
| The Sabbath morn | Mendelssohn |
| Welcome thou, whose deeds conspire | Handel |
| Work and play | Myles B. Foster |

Price Fourpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Fourpence.

An edition of each piece with accompaniment can be obtained.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Auction Rooms, specially for the Sale of Musical Property.
MESSRS. PUTTICK AND SIMPSON, Auctioneers,
7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES
of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

NOVELLO'S PRIMERS OF MUSICAL BIOGRAPHY.

HECTOR BERLIOZ BY JOSEPH BENNETT.

Price One Shilling.
Cloth, gilt, 2s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS. (EDITED BY W. G. McNAUGHT.)

Just Published.

Book 65.

TEN OLD ENGLISH SONGS (GRADE II.)

BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

Where the bee sucks...	Arne
Under the greenwood tree	Old English
Joan, to the Maypole...	Old English
Golden slumbers kiss your eyes	Old English
Full fathom five (Solo and s.s.a.)	Purcell
The children are singing (Two-part Chorus).	Arr. by A. M. Wakefield
Spring	Arne
The Vicar of Bray	17th Century
Begone! dull care	17th Century
The three Ravens	16th Century

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa (B) Edition, Threepence.

Book 117.

SEVEN

UNISON SONGS (GRADE II.)

BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

My Dove	A. Medley
Violet Land	H. S. Roberts
Excelsior!	Lindsay
Poor Humpty Dumpty	A. Medley
The Bumble Bee's Buzz	R. H. Macdonald
Will you walk a little faster (Words by Lewis Carroll)	A. C. Mackenzie
Things of beauty	A. C. Mackenzie

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa (B) Edition, Threepence.

Book 127.

FIVE

FOUR-PART SONGS

FOR S.S.A.A.

(GRADE II.)

BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

Where are the swallows	H. Hiles
You spotted snakes	G. A. Macfarren
Welcome to this place	Bishop
Summer Eve	Hatton
The Fairies' Song	Bishop

Price Ninepence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Fourpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MARCH ON SCOTCH AIRS FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO

COMPOSED BY
PERCY E. FLETCHER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOW READY.

SELECTED PIANOFORTE STUDIES

PROGRESSIVELY ARRANGED

BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

IN TWO SETS (EIGHT BOOKS).

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

THE present collection of Studies is designed to provide teachers with a short course of Pianoforte Technique adapted to the needs of the average pupil, the intention being to spare the teacher the labour of choosing a sufficiently varied selection from the large mass of material existing, and at the same time to ensure that the different departments of technique shall be undertaken in the order which experience has proved to be the most beneficial.

The Studies are grouped in two Sets, and are so arranged that the different Books in which they are contained may be taken in consecutive order, but pupils who are already further advanced than the elementary stage represented by Set I. may commence at once with Set II., which will be found to be complete in itself, and to illustrate all the essential elements of technique.

Where additional studies are desired, or studies on certain subjects which are not touched upon in this series, the larger collection, published under the title of "Progressive Studies" (from which the present examples have been selected), is of course available.

London, 1903.

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH BOOK.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED, AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

POSTHUMOUS WORKS BY

Just Published.

JOHANNES BRAHMS FOUR CONCERTI GROSSI

ELEVEN CHORAL-PRELUDES
FOR THE ORGAN

FOR STRINGS

COMPOSED BY

G. F. HANDEL.

(Op. 122)

IN TWO BOOKS.

Book I.—Price Four Shillings net.

Book II.—Price Four Shillings net.

No. 1, in B minor.
,, 2, „ E minor.No. 3, in B flat.
,, 4, „ A minor.PIANOFORTE TRANSCRIPTION BY
GIUSEPPE MARTUCCI

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Price Two Shillings each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORCHESTRAL WORKS

COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

	String Parts.	Wind Parts.	Full Score.
	s. d.	s. d.	s. d.
BENEDICTUS	1 6	2 0	5 0
"BURNS." 2nd Scotch Rhapsody ...	3 6	6 6	5 0
"COLOMBA." Prelude	2 0	4 9	4 0
Do. Ballet Music and Rustic March ...	4 0	9 3	10 6
CONCERTO for VIOLIN	6 6	10 3	21 0
HIGHLAND BALLAD	2 6	4 0	—
Do. Intermezzo	2 0	5 3	7 6
"LA BELLE DAME SANS MERCI" ...	5 6	11 9	7 6
"THE LITTLE MINISTER." Overture ...	4 6	10 0	—
Do. Three Dances	4 6	11 0	—
Do. Three Dances (Small Orchestra) ...	4 6	7 0	—
"MANFRED." "Astarte"	3 0	—	—
Do. Pastorale	4 0	—	—
Do. "The Flight of the Spirits" ...	5 0	—	—
MORRIS DANCE	2 6	—	—
PIROCH SUITE (Violin Solo and Orchestra) ...	6 6	11 6	—
PROCESSIONAL MARCH	2 6	—	—
"RAVENSWOOD" MUSIC (Prelude and 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Entr'actes) ...	8 6	—	—
Do. COURANTE (3rd Entr'acte) ...	2 0	6 0	—
RHAPSODIE ECOSSAISE (No. 1) ...	3 6	8 0	5 0
"STORY OF SAYID." Solemn March ...	1 6	3 9	—
"TWELFTH NIGHT." Overture	6 6	12 0	12 0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

FROM GRIEG TO BRAHMS
STUDIES OF SOME MODERN COMPOSERS
AND THEIR ART

BY

DANIEL GREGORY MASON.

In a series of essays on Grieg, Dvorák, Saint-Saëns, Franck, Tschalkowsky, and Brahms, Mr. Mason has undertaken to show how each man has brought to his work his own particular temperament and conception of his art, how each has contributed some special quality of expression or beauty to modern music. While the purpose of the book is thus chiefly biographical, the author has considered in an introductory essay, "The Appreciation of Music," and a concluding essay, "The meaning of Music," points of more general interest, such as the process by which music has developed and the place of the art among men's other activities.

Mr. Mason's method is indicated by a sentence in the preface:—"Music may be hard to understand, but musicians are men." So clearly is the human aspect of the subject presented throughout that the book will interest all music-lovers, whether or not they have a technical knowledge of the art. Each essay is accompanied by a portrait of the musician written of and a brief bibliography of those of his works which best illustrate the points touched on in the essay.

Price cloth, gilt, Six Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S MUSIC FOR MILITARY BAND

ARRANGED BY
DAN GODFREY, Jun., GEORGE MILLER, Mus. Bac.,
AND OTHERS.

	s. d.		s. d.
BENDALL, WILFRED.—Pas Seul	5 0	HOFMANN, H.—"Kirmess" (Rustic Pictures). Book II.	15 0
COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—Four Characteristic Waltzes ...	15 0	MACKENZIE, A. C.—"Benedictus" (from "Six Pieces for	15 0
COWEN, F. H.—Four English Dances (in the Olden Style)	15 0	Violin")	5 0
—Coronation March	10 6	—Ballet Music ("Colomba")	15 0
CRESER, WILLIAM.—Wedding March	3 6	—Courante ("Ravenswood")	12 0
ELGAR, EDWARD.—Chanson de Matin	3 6	—Funeral March ("The Story of Sayid")	3 6
—Chanson de Nuit	3 6	—The Empire Flag"	5 0
—Imperial March	9 0	MACPHERSON, STEWART.—Orchestral Ballad	15 0
—Mazurka	5 0	MILLER, GEORGE.—Sclenn March	3 6
Sérénade Mauresque	5 0	MORIQUE.—March ("Abraham")	7 6
Contrasts (The Gavotte, A.D. 1700 and 1900) ...	5 0	MORLEY, CH.—Emperor Gavotte ("Cornflower") ...	2 6
Meditation ("Light of Life")	5 0	OUSELEY.—March ("St. Polycarp")	7 6
ELVEY, G. J.—Festal March	5 0	POPULAR PART-SONGS	7 6
FANING, EATON.—"The Queen's Song"	7 6	RAMEAU.—Gavotte	4 6
—Song of the Vikings	5 0	ROECKEL, J. L.—Graceful Dance	7 6
FORD, ERNEST.—Grand Valse ("Faust" Ballet) ...	10 6	SIX HYMN TUNES (composed for Commemorations of Queen	10 0
—Scène Bacchanale ("Faust" Ballet)	15 0	Victoria's Long Reign)	4 6
GERMAN, EDWARD.—Bourrée and Gigue ("Much Ado about	12 0	SMART, HENRY.—Festive March in D	7 6
Nothing")	12 0	SPINDLER, FRITZ.—"Husarenritt"	7 6
—Coronation March ("Henry VIII.")	7 6	SPOHR.—"Calvary" (Selection)	7 6
—Gipsy Suite (Four Characteristic Dances)	15 0	SULLIVAN, A.—"In Memoriam" Overture	10 0
—Harvest Dance (from "The Seasons")	10 0	—Onward, Christian Soldiers	2 6
—Masque (Three Dances from "As you like it" Music)	15 0	—Ditto. For Brass Band	2 6
—Overture to "Richard III."	12 0	THREE SACRED PIECES, viz.:—	7 6
—Three Dances ("Henry VIII.")	15 0	"Blessed be the God and Father"	S. S. WESLEY
GLINKA.—Polonaise ("Life for the Czar")	12 0	"O Gladsome Light" ("Golden Legend") A. S. SULLIVAN
GOUNOD.—Judeu ("Mors et Vita")	3 0	March ("Occasional Oratorio")	HANDEL
—Ditto. (For Brass Band)	2 0	TSCHAIKOWSKY.—Marche Militaire	15 0
—"Mors et Vita" (Selection)	15 0	WAREING, H. W.—Summergold Gavotte	7 6
—Marche Solennelle	7 6	WENDT, TH.—Air de Ballet with Intermezzo	7 6
—Six Sacred Pieces	10 6	WEST, JOHN E.—Maypole Dance	7 6
—"The Redemption" (Selection)	15 0	—Commemoration March	9 0
HAYNES, BATTISON.—Westwood Gavotte	5 0	ZIMMERMANN, AGNES.—March	7 6
HIGGS, H. M.—"Our Queen" (Quick March)	5 0	SIX CLASSICAL PIECES for SMALL Military Band ...	3 0
HOFMANN, H.—"Kirmess" (Rustic Pictures). Book I.	15 0	THE MILITARY CHURCH PARADE SERVICE BOOK ...	1 0

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE PRINCE OF PEACE

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND
ORCHESTRA

THE WORDS SELECTED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE

AND THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"No man knows better than Mr. Gaul how to write for voices. . . . 'Thou art the King of Glory,' a singularly fine chorus, worthy of any composer, living or dead. . . . Throughout the work we have spontaneousness, elegance, attractiveness, in short, a never-ending charm. This cantata, which completes the octave of Mr. Gaul's cantatas, we hold to be the best. If it prove less popular than the composer's 'The Holy City,' we shall be surprised. Mr. Gaul was engaged on this, his latest work, for about three years, and we believe that all who hear it will agree that the time was very profitably spent."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"In every way worthy the great reputation and experience of its composer. . . . Is indeed a work of a very unusual character, and most probably destined to become more popular than any of his other compositions. . . . Worthy the study of choral societies of every grade."—North Staffordshire Sentinel.

"Admirably written for the voice, enhanced by charm of rhythm and picturesque accompaniments."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

	s. d.
Vocal Score, paper cover	2 6
" " paper boards	3 0
" " scarlet cloth	4 0
Voice Parts, for the use of Choral Societies	each 1 0
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	1 0
Words only	per 100 5 0

Band Parts (the loan of) on application to the Composer,
Gillott Lodge, Edgbaston.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

PATERSON AND SONS,

26, CASTLE STREET, BERNERS STREET, W.

IMPORTANT WORKS FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

BONNY KILMENY

A CANTATA FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

The Words adapted and arranged for the most part from Hogg's
"Queen's Wake" by J. M. C.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

HAMISH MACCUNN.

Staff Notation, 2s. net; Choruses only, Staff Notation, with Piano
Accompaniment, 1s. net. Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. net.

Harmonium Part (in lieu of Wind Instruments), 3s. net.

Words, 3s. per 100. Full Score (MS.). Orchestral Parts (Printed).

THE SOLOS ARE FOR SOPRANO, TENOR, AND BARITONE.

Duration of performance, one hour.

THE STRATHEARN SERIES OF PART-MUSIC

58 Nos in Staff and in Sol-fa. Includes compositions by H. MACCUNN,
W. A. BARRATT, H. A. LAMBETH, WM. WALLACE, F. PETERSON, &c.

Catalogues, with Contents of above Series, sent free on application.

PATERSON AND SONS,

26, CASTLE ST., BERNERS ST., W.; 27, GEORGE ST., EDINBURGH.

Second Edition.

NARCISSUS AND ECHO

CANTATA FOR CHORUS, SOLI, AND ORCHESTRA

Price 3s.; Choral Parts, 1s. each. Also,

"GOD IS OUR REFUGE" (Ps. 46)

For Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Price 1s.

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN C. SUCH

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE JUNIOR VIOLINIST

EDITED BY

C. EGERTON LOWE.

CONTENTS.

Book	S. D.
1. SEVENTEEN MELODIES. Arranged for the Violin in the First Position, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	I 6
2. TWELVE MELODIES. Arranged for the Violin in the First Position, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	I 6
3. TEN MELODIES. Arranged for the Violin in the First Position, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	I 6
4. ELEVEN MELODIES Arranged for the Violin in the First Position, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	I 6
5. SONATA IN C MAJOR (MOZART). For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
6. EIGHT SONGS WITHOUT WORDS (MENDELSSOHN). Arranged for Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	2 0
7. SONATA IN F MAJOR (MOZART). For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
8. PHANTASIESTÜCKE, Op. 73 (SCHUMANN). For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
9. SONATA IN E MINOR (MOZART). For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
10. THREE PIECES:—Funeral March, Prelude in E minor, and Waltz in B minor (CHOPIN). Arranged for Violin (First to Fifth Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
11. THREE ROMANCES, Op. 94 (SCHUMANN). For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
12. SIX DUETS FOR TWO VIOLINS, Op. 8 (PLEVEL). First Position	I 6
13. SIX DUETS FOR TWO VIOLINS, Op. 48 (PLEVEL). First to Third Position	I 6
14. SCALES AND ARPEGGI (C. EGERTON LOWE)	I 6
15. SIX SONATINAS FOR VIOLIN (WEBER). Nos. 1 to 3. First to Fourth Position	I 6
16. SIX SONATINAS FOR VIOLIN (WEBER). Nos. 4 to 6. First to Fourth Position	I 6
17. EIGHT MOVEMENTS, from the String Quartets (MOZART). Arranged for Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte (with 2nd Violin ad lib.). Nos. 1 to 4	2 0
18. EIGHT MOVEMENTS, from the String Quartets (MOZART). Arranged for Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte (with 2nd Violin ad lib.). Nos. 5 to 8	2 0

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

POLONAISE

IN A MINOR

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

HENRY E. GEEHL.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

ROMANZA

FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

HENRY E. GEEHL.

Price Two Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published. In separate numbers.

THREE DANCES

(In Canon throughout)

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

No. 1. Gavotte No. 2. Minuet No. 3. Waltz.

COMPOSED BY

BATTISON HAYNES.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published. In separate form.

Valse BOHEMIENNE

(No. 1 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

Valse RUSTIQUE

(No. 2 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

Valse DE LA REINE

(No. 3 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

Valse MAURESQUE

(No. 4 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

Arranged for Violin and Pianoforte by THE COMPOSER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SIX
HIGHLAND DANCES

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

JOHN B. McEWEN.

Price Two Shillings each.

- No.
1. In D minor. $\frac{4}{4}$, Adagio; Vivace; Poco meno mosso.
 2. In F. $\frac{2}{4}$, Allegretto; $\frac{3}{8}$, Poco Adagio.
 3. In D minor. $\frac{2}{4}$, Allegro con molto moto; $\frac{3}{4}$, Meno mosso, un poco rubato.
 4. In D. $\frac{3}{4}$, Andante con molto espressione; $\frac{2}{4}$, Allegro di molto.
 5. In D minor. $\frac{4}{4}$, Allegro molto marcato; Largamente, con gran espressione.
 6. In D. $\frac{4}{4}$, Con moto; Meno mosso, molto espressivo.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

Dedicated to and played by Miss MAUD POWELL.

SUITE FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY ARTHUR HINTON.
(Op. 20.)

Price Five Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

TUBAL CAIN

BALLAD
FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA
THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
CHARLES MACKAY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
THOMAS F. DUNHILL.
(Op. 15.)

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

NOVELLO'S CHEAP EDITION

OF

THE CHORUSES ONLY

OF

CANTATAS, ORATORIOS, AND OPERAS.

	s. d.
BACH.—"Passion" (St. Matthew)	1 0
BEETHOVEN.—"Mount of Olives" ... (Paper boards, 1s.)	0 6
	(Tonic Sol-fa) 0 6
BENNETT.—"The May Queen" ... (Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1 0
ELGAR.—"King Olaf" (Tonic Sol-fa)	1 6
— "The Dream of Gerontius" (Tonic Sol-fa)	1 6
GLUCK.—"Orpheus" (Tonic Sol-fa)	1 0
GRAUN, C. H.—"The Passion" ("Der Tod Jesu")	1 0
HANDEL.—"Messiah" (Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0 8
— "Solomon"	1 6
— "Judas Maccabæus" (Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0 8
— "Saul"	1 0
— "Hercules"	1 0
— "L'Allegro, il Pensieroso, ed il Moderato"	1 0
— "Samson" (Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0 8
HAYDN.—"The Creation" (Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0 8
— "The Seasons" (Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1 0
MACFARREN, G. A.—"May Day" (Paper boards, 1s.)	0 6
MACKENZIE, A. C.—"The Dream of Jubal" (Tonic Sol-fa)	1 0
MENDELSSOHN.—"Elijah" (Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1 0
— "St. Paul" (Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1 0
— "Hymn of Praise" ("Lobgesang") (Paper boards, 1s.)	0 6
MOZART.—"Twelfth Mass"	0 8
PARRY, C. H. H.—"Judith" (Tonic Sol-fa)	2 0
— "Job" (Tonic Sol-fa)	1 6
ROSSINI.—"Stabat Mater" Paper boards, 1s.)	0 6
SPOHR.—"The Last Judgment" (Paper boards, 1s.)	0 6
VERDI.—"Il Trovatore" (Tonic Sol-fa)	1 0
WAGNER.—"The Flying Dutchman"	2 0
— "Tannhäuser" (Tonic Sol-fa)	1 0
WEBER.—"Der Freischütz"	1 0
— "Preciosa"	0 6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

INFLAMMATUS

AIR FOR CONTRALTO

FROM THE
"STABAT MATER"

COMPOSED BY
ANTONIN DVOŘÁK.

Price Two Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SONATA IN D MINOR

FOR THE
ORGAN

COMPOSED BY ALFRED H. ALLEN.

Price Three Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.
Oxford: SYDNEY ACOTT AND COMPANY.

FIVE CHORUSES

FROM

THE DREAM OF GERONTIUS

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR.
(Op. 38.)

- LITANY ("Kyrie Eleison. Holy Mary, Pray for him").
Price Twopence.
- BE MERCIFUL, BE GRACIOUS.
Price Threepence.
- GO FORTH UPON THY JOURNEY. Arranged for Bass Solo and Four-part Chorus, S.A.T.B.
Price Fourpence.
- FINALE: Softly and gently, dearly ransomed soul. ("The Angel's Farewell.") For Mezzo-Soprano Solo and Chorus.
Price Sixpence.
- PRaise TO THE HOLIEST. For Female Voices, S.A.; S.S.A.A.
Price Fourpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

FRANKLIN PETERSON'S Popular Text Books:
ELEMENTS of Music. Seventh Edition. Bound, net 1s.
INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF THEORY. A sequel to the "Elements of Music," and intended to prepare the student for Professor Prout's Series of Theoretical Works. Bound, net 1s. 6d.
PIANIST'S HANDBOOK. A Theoretical Companion to Practice. Two Parts, each bound, net 1s. 6d.
CATECHISM of MUSIC. Bound, net 2s.
AUGENER AND Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

E BENEZER PROUT'S WORKS ON MUSIC.
Bound, each net, 5s.
HARMONY: Its Theory and Practice. Fifteenth Edition.
COUNTERPOINT: Strict and Free. Seventh Edition.
DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT AND CANON. Third Edition.
FUGUE. Fourth Edition.
FUGAL ANALYSIS. Third Edition.
MUSICAL FORM. Fourth Edition.
APPLIED FORMS. Third Edition.
THE ORCHESTRA
Vol. I.—"The Technique of the Instruments." Third Edition.
Vol. II.—"Orchestral Combination." Second Edition.
AUGENER AND Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
AKIMENKO, TH.—Elegie. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 17	net	1 6
— Nocturne. For Horn and Pianoforte. Op. 18	net	1 6
ARTICHOUEFF, WIHTOL, LIADOW, RIMSKY-KORSAKOW, SOKOLOV, GLAZOUNOW.—Variations sur un thème russe. For Orchestra:—
Full Score	net 7 6 Parts	net 15 0
Pianoforte Duet		2 0
AULIN, T.—"Fyra Aqvareller." For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 12	net	2 6
BEETHOVEN.—12 Menuets inédits (œuvres posthumes). For Pianoforte	each, net, is. ; complete, net	3 0
— The same. For Pianoforte Duet	is. 6d. ;	5 0
— The same. For Orchestra. Full Score	each, "	5 0
BLOCKX, JAN.—"De Bruid der Lee" ("La fiancée de la mer"). Partition Piano et Chant texte flamand		20 0
BLODEK, G.—Grand Concerto, in D. For Flute and Pianoforte		4 0
BLUMENFELD.—Ballade. For Pianoforte. Op. 34		1 8
BRAHMS, J.—Adagio from Clarinet Quintet. Arranged for Harmonium and Pianoforte by REINHARD		3 0
— Adagio from Pianoforte Trio, Op. 8. Arranged for Harmonium and Pianoforte by REINHARD		2 0
BRUCKNER, A.—Scherzo from 7th Symphony. For Pianoforte		3 0
BRULL, J.—Andante and Allegro. Concertstück, for Pianoforte and Orchestra. Op. 88:—
Full Score	net 13 6 Orchestral Parts	net 13 6
— The same. For Two Pianofortes		6 0
BRUNEAU, E.—Quartet. For Flute, Oboe, Horn, and Pianoforte		10 0
— "Hymne à Marie." Pour Soprano et chœur à trois voix égales, avec accompagnement de Cor obligé et Piano		8 0
D'AMBROSIO.—Cavatine. For Violin and Piano. Op. 13	net	2 6
— Novelletta. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 16		2 0
— Aubade. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 17		4 0
— Réverie. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 18		4 0
DEBUSSY, C.—"La Damselle élue." Poème lyrique:—
Full Score	net 15 0 Parts	net 25 0
DOHNÁNYI, E.—Variations and Fugue upon a Theme von E. G. For Pianoforte. Op. 4		4 0
FRANCK, C.—Allegretto from Symphony (D minor). For Violin and Pianoforte		4 0
FRIEDEMANN, C.—Slavische Rhapsodie. For Orchestra. Op. 114		8 0
FRÖBERGER, J. J.—Works for Organ and Pianoforte, edited by GUIDO ADLER:—
Vol. I. 25 Toccatas, 18 Capriccios, 6 Canzonen, 8 Fantasien, 15 Ricercare		14 0
Vol. II. 30 Suiten und 7 Suitensätze. For Pianoforte		7 6
GLIÈRE, R.—Ballade, in B. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 4		1 6
GOENS, D. VAN.—2nd Concerto. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 30		8 0
— Cantilène from ditto. For Violoncello and Pianoforte		2 0
— The same. For Violin and Pianoforte		2 0
HAHN, R.—"La Carmélite." Comédie musicale. Transcriptions for Pianoforte Solo. 1. Prelude-menuet, 2s.; 2. Bergers et Bergères, 2s.; 3. Faunes et Dryades, 4s.; 4. Prélude du dernier act, le Cloître		2 0
HANSEN, T.—Sonata. For Cornet and Pianoforte. Op. 18	net	3 0
HARCOURT, D.—"Le Tasse." Opéra en 4 actes. Partition Chant et Piano		20 0
HOLLAENDER, G.—Sonata, in D minor. For Pianoforte and Violin. Op. 59		8 0
HOLLMAN, J.—Intermezzo. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 2		2 6
— "Le Rouet." For Violoncello and Pianoforte		2 6
HÜE, G.—"Titania." Drame lyrique en 3 actes. Partition Chant et Piano		20 0
KLENGEL, P.—Andante patetico. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 31, No. 5		1 0
LACK, TH.—Conte Romantique. Op. 223		4 0
— "L'Amazone." Op. 224		6 0
LALO, E.—"Arlequin." Esquisse humoristique. For Orchestra. Full Score		8 0
LAURISCHKUS, M.—Barcarole, in G minor. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 3, No. 1		1 6
— Three Pieces. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 11A. 1. Albumblatt; 2. Walzer; 3. Gondoliera		2 6
— The same. For Violoncello and Pianoforte		2 6
LEHAR, F.—Ungarische Fantasie. For Flute and Piano		2 6
— The same. For Flute and Orchestra:—
Score and Parts		net 6 0
LIPPACHER, CL.—Airs de Ballet (2nd Suite)		2 6
LISZT, F.—Concerto, No. 1. For Pianoforte and Orchestra:—
Full Score, Miniature		4 0
LUIGINI, A.—Suite facile. For Violin and Pianoforte. 1. Menuet; 2. Réverie; 3. Petite Valse	each	3 0
MASSENET, J.—"Sainte Thérèse prie." Chant et Piano		5 0
MICHELIS, G.—"Ilonka-Czardas." For Pianoforte Solo	net	2 6
— The same. For Pianoforte and Violin		3 0
— The same. Orchestral Parts		3 0
MORET, E.—Ten Preludes. For Pianoforte complete, "		7 0
MOUQUET, J.—Suite symphonique. Pour Orgue Mustel		10 0
NAWRATIL, K.—Sonata, in D minor. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 24		5 0
NOVÁK, V.—Trio. For Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello. Op. 27		7 6

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

FOUR NOVELLETTEN

FOR

STRING ORCHESTRA, TAMBOURINE, AND TRIANGLE

COMPOSED BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

(Op. 52.)

Full Score	each	2s. 6d.
Parts, No. 1		2s. 9d.
" No. 2		2s. 9d.
" No. 3		2s. 9d.
" No. 4		4s. 3d.

Arrangements for Violin and Pianoforte, each 2s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EVENTIDE

MELODY

FOR STRINGS AND HARP (Organ or Harmonium ad lib.)

FROM

SUITE IN D MINOR

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE J. BENNETT.

Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo		1s. 6d.
Ditto for Organ		1s. 6d.
Score		2s. 6d.
Parts		3s. 3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SUITE ESPAGNOLE

FOR

ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

HENRY E. GEEHL.

String Parts, 6s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo (in the Press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SUITE IN F

"LADY RADNOR'S SUITE"

FOR

STRING ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Score, 4s. 6d.; Parts, 5s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

ORCHESTRAL INTERLUDE

(WITH TENOR SOLO AD LIB.)

MAIDENHOOD AND DREAMS OF LOVE

FROM

"SLEEPING BEAUTY"

COMPOSED BY

F. H. COWEN.

Full Score		5s. 6d.
String Parts		3s. 6d.
Wind Parts		5s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

DEDICATED BY GRACIOUS PERMISSION TO

HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

WAR AND PEACE

A SYMPHONIC ODE

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

VOCAL SCORE, PRICE THREE SHILLINGS.

Full Score and Wind Parts, MS. String Parts (in the Press).

THE TIMES.

It was far easier to realize and enjoy the beautiful Ode performed for the first time at the Albert Hall on Thursday night than it is to put into words a record of the impression it made. Sir Hubert Parry's music is always straightforward, vigorous, and masterly in design; but he has seldom given us a work so easy to follow at a first hearing, and yet so intricate in the development of its themes as "War and Peace," an ode set to remarkably fine words. . . . the words and music seem to have grown up together, and the first impression, the musical picture of Hate and Pride, is more definitely produced by the prelude for orchestra than by the words sung by the baritone soloist. . . . The texture of the choral writing is amazingly rich; and in the orchestration—so far as it could be properly heard in the Albert Hall—there are numerous touches of genius, notably a reiterated phrase on the horn in an accompaniment to a beautiful passage, "Out of the reach of cares and fears," occurring in the Dirge.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

Written for a choral society, we naturally find in "War and Peace" a liberal allowance of choral music, each chorus dealing independently with its own particular subject, as also do the solos. So far this is the old fashion and, in our opinion, the best fashion. . . . His music is always interesting, often beautiful, and effective in a high degree. This fully appears in the "Peace" section where number after number, by directness of expression and freedom from unnecessary complication, carries not only sensuous pleasure but intelligent conviction. . . . The composer excels, as we all know, in elegiac music. He has the touch which calls for tears, and in the present case we are disposed to dwell lovingly upon such tender and sympathetic strains as those of the Dirge, "Out of the reach of cares and fears," of the tenor solo, "After tumult, rest," and of the final ensemble, with its long-drawn and touching ending. For these, and others like them, "War and Peace" will live. They plead an exalted argument in the language of beauty, without which all art is worse than a tinkling cymbal.

PALM MALL GAZETTE.

Let us at the outset give the composer all words of praise, from a general apart from a distinctive and individualized point of view. His libretto is strenuous and full of determination. He does not attempt to write what Matthew Arnold once called "poetical poetry." His is rather the art of the rhetorician, so far as the words are concerned; and we are bound to add that the same point of view steals into his music. That music is, nevertheless, altogether excellent. . . . There is really much genuine emotion in the end of the first chorus, "Strike now." The chorus for female voices, "Be strong, O brothers," is a piece of work that shows Sir Hubert Parry in one of his genuinely exalted moods, in which his really elevated emotion is exactly and precisely related to his profoundly felt technical accomplishment. . . . Later, there was a special note of courageous nobility in the chorus, "Hands together"; the tenor solo, "After tumult, rest," is a peculiarly beautiful number, the end possessing a fine and fresh quality of feeling. Towards the end there was an odd little reminiscence of Gounod, which, however, came to be forgotten in the final chorus, which is in the best sense musically significant and sincerely felt.

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN.

Sir Hubert Parry is a master of contrapuntal forms, and in that direction shows his power, especially in the latter part of his symphonic ode. The orchestration is both delicate and rich in colour, qualities which are at once revealed in the lengthy introduction.

GUARDIAN.

The bass solo in the prologue, descriptive of the fallen angels Pride and Hate, joint authors of war, is a lurid and powerful piece of declamation, and its climax at the words "And all the splendid panoply of war," where the swinging march-tune first bursts upon the ear, is a dramatic touch of the finest quality. Admirably expressive, too, is the contralto solo "Aye, let hate and pride conspire," and it is rich in phrases of eloquent and pathetic beauty. Almost the finest section in the whole work is the Dirge; above a slow-moving figure in the accompaniment the chorus sing a series of solemn diatonic chords, then the soprano voice takes up the lament, and the chorus enter once more with a hymn-like phrase, accompanied by a mysterious figure on the horn, the whole passage being most touching in its manly simplicity. . . . There is a charming melody at the words, "O for that day when all men's hearts shall beat," which in its outline irresistibly recalls the immortal tune which adorns the last pages of "Blest Pair of Sirens," and on it the composer constructs a short fugato with wholly delightful effect. Then the prayer returns, and the words "Grant us thy peace" are softly breathed by alternate quartet and chorus in solemn antiphony. The whole passage is devoid alike of new rhythmic devices and of recondite harmonies, and is a striking instance of the sublime effect that a master hand can produce by the simplest possible means. Speaking of the Ode as a whole, we may point to the striking skill with which the two fundamental motives, in ever varying forms and settings are made to permeate almost every bar of the music, and thus to convey that sense of unity which is so essential to the best works of art.

YORKSHIRE DAILY POST.

The composer has been his own librettist, and while the diction of his poem shows a literary instinct and poetic feeling entitling it to consideration on its own merits, it furnishes also, as might be expected, a fertile and suggestive theme for musical treatment. A very slight acquaintance with Dr. Parry's character enables one to recognise his individuality in the high aspiration towards all that makes for righteousness, and in the love for his fellow men and the optimistic belief in their capacity for goodness that colour the poem. In that it presents a series of moods, even more than a series of pictures, its fitness for a musical setting is obvious. . . . The nobility of thought in this Ode may be imagined, even from this hasty summary of its leading features, and this characteristic seems to be reproduced in the music, which is vigorous and masculine, yet tender and sympathetic, and makes one, after perusing it, eager for an opportunity of hearing the work.

BIRMINGHAM DAILY MAIL.

The Ode opens with a lengthy orchestral intrada, containing the chief leading motive which predominates throughout the work. This prelude lends itself to rich orchestral colouring. . . . The chorus that follows the bass song is for male voices, vigorous and stirring, and of virile power. . . . The section "Comradeship" is expressed in a chorus for female voices of great dramatic intensity, and is finely written. The section of the Dirge is a chorus in four parts, with soprano solo, and here the composer shows his majestic and powerful vein that always characterizes his orchestral accompaniments. The final section of the War, the "Home Coming," is eloquently dealt with in a chorus and soprano solo, "Ring the tidings far and wide," full of varied contrast and impressiveness. The Peace section is preceded by an orchestral prelude, after which there is the tenor solo, "After tumult, rest," a truly lyrical and finely-written number, enhanced by delightful harmonic changes. This is followed by a quartet, "Sing the glories of peace," with important solo passages, constructed in a tuneful and captivating manner. The next number is a choral march, "Forward through the glimmering darkness," one of the most stirring sections of the entire work. . . . The Ode concludes with a chorus and quartet, "Grant us Thy peace," in which eight-part writing strongly figures, the accompaniment being built upon the chief motive of the prelude.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED

AND

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 726.—Vol. 44.
Registered for transmission abroad.

AUGUST 1, 1903.

Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.
Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY, ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

Conductor: Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, M.V.O., Mus.D.

There are now VACANCIES in the CHOIR for Sopranos, Tenors, and Basses (especially Tenors). Only those who have good and powerful voices, and who can read music at first sight, will be accepted. Address, The Secretary, Royal Choral Society, Royal Albert Hall, S.W.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC, TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patron: HIS MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE KING.

President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, K.G.

Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

MICHAELMAS TERM begins Monday, September 28. Entrance Examination, Thursday, September 24.

ADA LEWIS SCHOLARSHIPS, for Composition, Singing (two), Pianoforte and Viola or Double Bass; DOVE SCHOLARSHIP and SAINTON SCHOLARSHIP, for Violin; STAINER EXHIBITION, for Organ; and CAMPBELL-CLARKE SCHOLARSHIP, for Singing. Last day for entry, September 9.

METROPOLITAN EXAMINATION for LICENTIATESHIP (L.R.A.M.). Syllabus now ready.

Prospectus, Entrance Forms, and all further information—
F. W. RENAULT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.
Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

Director: Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bart., D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.

Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P.

The NEXT TERM will commence on Thursday, September 24. Entrance Examination, Monday, September 21.

Syllabus and official Entry Forms may be obtained from

FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD

OF THE

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC AND ROYAL COLLEGE OF
MUSIC FOR LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

PRESIDENT: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS (SYLLABUS A).
Held annually in March and April at all Centres, and in London and district in November and December also. Entries for the November-December Examinations close October 9, 1903.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS (SYLLABUS B).

Held three times a year—viz., March-April, June-July, and October-November.

Entries for the October-November Examinations close October 7, 1903.
Copies of Syllabus A and B will be sent Post-free on application to the Secretary.

Theory papers set in Local Centre and School Examinations in 1896 to 1902 inclusive, can be obtained on application. Price 3d. per set, per year, Post-free.

The Board gives annually Six Exhibitions tenable for two years.

JAMES MUIR, Secretary.

14, Hanover Square, London, W.

Telegraphic address: "Associa, London."

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in Durham in March (testamur only) and September.

For particulars, with copies of former Examination Papers, apply to the Secretary of Examinations, or to Dr. Armes, Durham.

QUEEN'S HALL, LANGHAM PLACE, W.

PROMENADE CONCERTS

(NINTH SEASON, 1903),

AUGUST 22, AND NIGHTLY AT 8.

QUEEN'S HALL ORCHESTRA.

PRINCIPAL VIOLIN .. Mr. ARTHUR W. PAYNE.

ACCOMPANIST Mr. PERCY PITT.

CONDUCTOR:

MR. HENRY J. WOOD.

SMOKING PERMITTED.

PROMENADE—ONE SHILLING.

BALCONY—TWO SHILLINGS.

GRAND CIRCLE (Numbered and Reserved), 3s. and 5s.

Season Tickets (9 weeks), 1, 2, 3, 5 Guineas.

Tickets of usual Agents, the Box Office, Queen's Hall, and of the Queen's Hall Orchestra, Ltd., 320, Regent Street, W.

ROBERT NEWMAN, Manager.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The College Library is open daily from 10 to 5. On Saturdays the College is open from 10 to 1.

Members desiring practice on the College organ may obtain particulars on application.

The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, can be hired for Concerts, Meetings, &c.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Managed by the Corporation of the City of London.

Principal: WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS, Mus.D., Dub., F.S.A., Hon. R.A.M.

Pupils can enter at any time.

Individual tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. Within three minutes of Ludgate Hill, Fleet Street, and Blackfriars Station (District Railway).

110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships, giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Fencing, and Opera. Lady Superintendent has charge of all ladies attending the school. Prospectus and form of entry free on application to
H. SAXE WYNDHAM,
Victoria Embankment, E.C. Secretary.

ROYAL MANCHESTER COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Patroness: HER MAJESTY QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

President: Sir W. H. HOULDSWORTH, Bart., M.P.

Principal: Dr. ADOLPH BRODSKY.

The New College YEAR opens on Tuesday, September 29. Candidates apply on a Printed Form, obtainable from the Registrar. Special Houses of Residence recommended for Students.

Students are required to enter upon a complete Course of Musical Instruction, and are not admitted for a shorter period than one year.

Fee for the year £30, payable in instalments of £10 at the beginning of each term.

The prospectus, with Scholarship information and Diploma Regulations, on application.

STANLEY WITHERS, Registrar.

New Professor of the Pianoforte: Mr. Arthur Friedheim.

BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL,TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, AND FRIDAY, OCTOBER 13, 14, 15, and 16, 1903.OUTLINE OF THE PERFORMANCES.

TUESDAY MORNING: ELIJAH.

TUESDAY EVENING: Sir C. Villiers Stanford's VOYAGE OF MAELDUNE; Mozart's G MINOR SYMPHONY; Tschafkowsky's HAMLET OVERTURE; Cherubini's ANACREON OVERTURE.

WEDNESDAY MORNING: Dr. Elgar's New Work THE APOSTLES (composed expressly for this Festival); Brahms's FOURTH SYMPHONY.

WEDNESDAY EVENING: Sullivan's GOLDEN LEGEND; Dr. Cowen's Fantasia, LIGHT AND LOVE; Weber's OVERTURE TO DER FREISCHUTZ.

THURSDAY MORNING: THE MESSIAH.

THURSDAY EVENING: Berlioz's Symphony, HAROLD IN ITALY: Liszt's XIII. PSALM; Herr Richard Strauss's DON JUAN; Sir Hubert Parry's BLEST PAIR OF SIRENS; Wagner's MEISTER-SINGER OVERTURE.

FRIDAY MORNING: Bach's MASS IN B MINOR.

FRIDAY EVENING: Bruckner's TE DEUM; Dvorák's SYMPHONIC VARIATIONS; Brahms's ALTO RHAPSODIE; Beethoven's CHORAL SYMPHONY.

Principal Vocalists:

Mesdames ALBANI, AGNES NICHOLLS, MURIEL FOSTER, KIRKBY LUNN, and CLARA BUTT.

Messieurs BEN DAVIES, WILLIAM GREEN, JOHN COATES, ANDREW BLACK, KENNERLEY RUMFORD, and FFRANGCON-DAVIES.

Conductor Dr. HANS RICHTER.

Detailed Programmes may be obtained on application to WALTER CHARLTON, Secretary.
5, Waterloo Street, Birmingham.HEREFORD MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

SEPTEMBER 6, 8, 9, 10, 11.

Conductor—Dr. SINCLAIR.

Madame Albani, Madame Emily Squire, Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Muriel Foster, Madame Kirkby Lunn, Miss Marian Blinkhorn, Miss Hilda Wilson, Messrs. William Green, Gregory Hast, John Coates, Andrew Black, Plunket Greene, H. Lane Wilson, Watkin Mills. Pianist, Miss Adela Verne. Leader, Mr. W. Frye-Parker. "Israel in Egypt" Selection; "Hymn of Praise"; "The Atonement," Coleridge-Taylor; "Jesus sleeps," Bach; Symphony (G minor), Mozart; "Dream of Gerontius," Elgar; "Voces Clamantium," Parry; Symphony (C minor), Brahms; "Christmas Mystery," Wolfgram; Motet, Eccard; "Parsifal" (Wagner) Selection; "Messiah." Two Secular Concerts.

Programmes, Tickets, &c., Jakeman and Carver, Hereford.

G. E. ASHLEY, Hon. Sec., Stretton Rectory.

BAKERSTREETCHURCH OF ENGLAND
HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, LTD.,

6, UPPER BAKER STREET, N.W.

(One Minute from the Metropolitan Station.)

The Rev. Canon FRANCIS J. HOLLAND, M.A., Chairman.

PIANO.—Mr. Oscar Beringer, Miss Ethel Boyce, A.R.A.M., Miss Bryant, certificated Frankfurt Hoch Conservatoire, Miss Jessie Davies, A.R.A.M., Miss Kate Robinson, certificated Raff Conservatoire, Frankfurt, Mrs. Waterman, Misses D. Stanley Lucas and Barwell, pupils of Miss K. Robinson.

VIOLIN.—Herr Josef Ludwig, Miss L. M. Nunn, R.A.M., Miss Eveleigh, L.R.A.M., Silver Med., R.A.M.

VIOLONCELLO.—Miss A. F. Vernet, L.R.A.M.

ORGAN.—Mr. F. A. W. Docker, A.R.A.M., Organist of St. Andrew's, Wells Street, Professor of the Organ at the Guildhall School of Music, &c.

SINGING.—Mrs. Hutchinson, Miss Florence Etlinger.
SIGHT READING AND ENSEMBLE PLAYING.—Miss Harrison and Miss Holland: Piano and Strings.

ELOCUTION.—Miss Chute.

HARMONY CLASSES.—Miss Ethel M. Boyce.

ORCHESTRAL AND CHORAL CLASSES during Advent and Lent Terms.

The NEXT TERM begins September 23. HALF-TERM begins November 10.

For Prospectus, &c., apply to the Headmistress, Miss Lilla B. Strong, or to the Secretary, 6, Upper Baker Street, N.W.

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE.SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Visitor EDWARD ELGAR, Mus. Doc.

Principal GRANVILLE BANTOCK.

SESSION 1902-03.

The Session consists of Autumn Term (September 15 to December 20), Winter Term (January 19 to April 4), Summer Term (April 6 to June 20). Instruction in all branches of music. Students' Choir, Students' Orchestra, Fortnightly Rehearsals, Students' Concerts.

Prospectus and further information may be obtained from

ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

HUGO GÖRLITZ,

119, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Telegrams—Hugonotas, London.

Telephone—4013 Gerrard.

KUBELIK SEASON, 1903.

Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ.

WILHELM BACKHAUS TOUR, AUTUMN, 1903.

Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ.

WILHELM BACKHAUS

Miss ALICE HOLLÄNDER (Contralto)

Mr. JOHN HARRISON (the new English Tenor)

Miss LILIAN FOULIS (the Scottish Violinist)

Mr. PAUL GRÜMMER (Violoncellist)

Mr. WILHELM GRÜMMER (Accompanist)

CHAPPELL GRAND PIANOFORTE.

For Vacant Dates, apply to HUGO GÖRLITZ, 119, New Bond St., W.

Mr. HUGO GÖRLITZ is Agent for the Leading Artists of the World, and Sole Agent for

KUBELIK WILHELM BACKHAUS

MARTHA CUNNINGHAM ALICE HOLLÄNDER

JOHN HARRISON (the new English Tenor)

LILIAN FOULIS (Violinist) PAUL GRÜMMER (Violoncellist)

THE AMSTERDAM ORCHESTRA

RICHARD STRAUSS, Etc.

KUBELIK AUTUMN TOUR

(Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ)

OCTOBER 3 to NOVEMBER 21.

119, New Bond Street, W.

RICHARD WAGNER FESTIVAL PLAYS,

PRINCE REGENTEN THEATRE, MUNICH.

Official British Agency—HUGO GÖRLITZ, 119, New Bond St., W.

RICHARD STRAUSS FESTIVAL.JOHN HARRISON'S SUCCESS.

THE TIMES says:

"The first of the songs were sung in German, with capital expression, by Mr. John Harrison: is a 'Friedenszerzählung.'"

THE STANDARD says:

"The two principal tenor solos were finely sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE DAILY NEWS says:

"Mr. Harrison, the tenor, sang with a sense of dramatic emphasis one had not expected from him, and at the same time the quality of his voice was good."

THE MORNING POST says:

"Of two tenor songs, one 'The Vision of Peace,' the other from the last act, both are modelled on Wagner; the second is the more striking. The orchestration in the first is heavy, so that the vocalist has a hard fight. Mr. John Harrison sang both extremely well."

THE DAILY GRAPHIC says:

"Two of them well sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE WESTMINSTER GAZETTE says:

"The solo parts of which were taken in first-rate style by Mr. John Harrison."

THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN says:

"Two long solos allotted to the hero were sung by Mr. John Harrison, who earned great applause by his beautiful voice and method, and his sincere and refined dramatic expression. His performances stamp him as an artist of the first rank."

THE GLOBE says:

"Two tenor solos, well sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE STAR says:

"Both were sung with conspicuous beauty of voice and expression by Mr. John Harrison, who thereby showed himself more than equal to the severest of artistic tasks."

MR. JOHN HARRISON is a Pupil of
MADAME AMY SHERWIN.

W. E. HILL AND SONS

(HIS MAJESTY'S VIOLIN MAKERS)

OF 140, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Have for SALE—

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, AND VIOLONCELLOS

by STRADIVARIUS, GUARNERUS, AMATI, and other celebrated makers, and they guarantee the authenticity of any instrument they sell.

They also undertake the SALE OF INSTRUMENTS on behalf of their owners.

W. E. HILL AND SONS have for generations been engaged in Violin-Making, and undertake the Repairing and Adjustment of any Stringed Instruments.

Excellent VIOLINS for beginners, from One Guinea upwards. STRINGS can be sent safely by Post.

PRICE LIST ON APPLICATION.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
LONDON.(Under the direction of The Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)
INCORPORATED 1891.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

PRESIDENT: THE MOST HON. THE MARQUIS OF ANGLESEY.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L. (Principal).
GEORGE PRIOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon. (Registrar).
J. M. BENTLEY, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M. (Chairman).
W. E. THOMAS, Mus. Doc., Oxon.
CHARLES R. FISHER, Mus. Doc., F.G.C.M.EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W. Terms moderate.
Hon. Director of Studies: CHURCHILL SIBLEY, Mus.D.Metropolitan Examinations in all subjects, including the Diplomas of A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., also for the Teachers' Professional Diploma in the Art of Teaching, December, 1903.
Local Theoretical Examination, December, 1903.
Practical Examinations are now being held at the various Centres.
Holder of the Victoria College Vocal Scholarship, 1901: Miss Lotti L. Wakelin, L.R.A.M.; 1902, Miss Audrey Willows, L.V.C.M.
Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for competition.
Local Secretaries required for towns not represented.
All communications to be addressed as usual to the Central Office, 11, Birleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

President: The Very Rev. FRANCIS PIGOU, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examination, in November and December, 1903, at the following Centres: London, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow, and Belfast.
Annual Membership Subscription, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.
Free register for Organists requiring appointments.
For new Calendar and further particulars apply to

Dr. LEWIS, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

NATIONAL CONSERVATOIRE

INST., 1895. OF MUSIC, LTD. INCOR., 1900.

174, WARDOUR STREET, W.

Board of Examiners:

Warden: Professor ALEXANDER PHIPPS, Mus. Bac.
H. J. HENNIKER, Mus.D., Cantab. RALPH HORNER, Mus.D., Dunelm.
D. J. JENNINGS, Mus.D., F.R.C.O. G. HAVELOCK, Mus.D.
TITO MATTEI. J. HAAKMAN. S. SPEELMAN.
J. W. JACKSON, Mus.D., Dub. T. W. HAYDOCK, Mus.D., Dub.
D. C. JONES, Mus.D., F.R.C.O. J. PRICE. J. W. ESKDALE.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS in Nov. and Dec. Two Scholarships, tenable under any Teachers, will be awarded; also Gold and Silver Medals.

SPECIAL DIPLOMA EXAMINATIONS, September.—Organists, Pianists, Vocalists, Violinists, Composers, and Bandmasters.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT (40 Professors). Also at Conservatoire, Liverpool, Manchester, &c. Apply, Registrar.

PRIZE COMPETITION.

THE ANTHEM by Mr. F. R. RICKMAN, A.R.C.M., of Bristol, "I WILL SING OF THE MERCIES OF THE LORD," has been awarded the First Prize of £5, advertised in our issue of May last, and the same has now been published by Messrs. Hutchings and Romer, of 39, Great Marlborough Street, W., in Castle's "From Eye to Brain" Notation.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)."A powerful voice of fine quality."—London Standard.
Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)Oratorios and Concerts.
Burley Road, Leeds.MADAME ANNIE HAYMAN (Soprano)Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Thorncliffe, Lowfield Road, Stockport.MISS BERYL CLIVE (Contralto)

14, Gladsmuir Road, Whitehall Park, N.

MISS EDITH CRAWFORD (Contralto)Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Glencairn, Cane Hill, Purley, Surrey.MISS KATE GREGORY(The new Yorkshire Contralto)
(Professional Pupil of Albert Jowett, Esq., Yorkshire Training College of Music, Leeds).
Oratorios and Ballad Concerts.
Terms, apply, Doncaster.MADAME ANNIE GREW (Contralto), Medalist.

Waverley Road, Bradford.

MISS GERTRUDE HEY (Contralto)Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Lawn Side, Clarendon Road, Whalley Range, Manchester.MADAME HURLE-HOBBS (Contralto)Oratorios, Recitals, Concerts, &c.
Address, 37, Briar Walk, Upper Edmonton, London, N.MR. WILLIAM D. VINCENT (Tenor)"Old Italian School."
Concerts, &c., address, 167, Tachbrook Street, Belgrave Road, S.W.MR. AND MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS(Baritone, Soprano, and Elocutionists).
Concerts, Lyrical Recitals, Pupils (Resident, &c.). Sharon, Ealing, W.STROH VIOLIN SOLOIST*FRANCIS G. CONSTANTINE

Professional communications only, 92, Albany St., Regent's Pk., N.W.

NEW ŠEVČÍK VIOLIN METHOD.PROF. ŠEVČÍK (Master of KURELIK and Kocián) METHOD thoroughly taught byPROFESSOR KOENIG (Of Prague)

(Pupil of Herr ŠEVČÍK).

CLASSES and PRIVATE LESSONS. For particulars, apply to Prof. Herman Koenig, 36, Ainger Road, N.W.MR. WILLIAM WILD (Tenor), of the "Sir Charles and Lady Hallé South African Concert Tour, 1895"; of the London (Queen's Hall) Concerts; of the Richter and Manchester Gentlemen's Concerts. Pupil of Andrew Black, Esq. Terms, &c., Grosvenor Square, Stalybridge, near Manchester.MRS. GLOVER EATON (L.R.A.M.)

(SOPRANO)

Foregate Street, Worcester.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.MISS AMY SARGENT

A.R.A.M. (SOPRANO),

8, Middleton Road, Camden Road, N.

MISS SIDNEY BUSHNELL

(CONTRALTO).

Care of Mdme. Susannah Cole, 5, Portsdown Road, Maida Vale, W.

MISS ADELAIDE LAMBE

(CONTRALTO).

Queen's Hall and Crystal Palace Concerts, &c.
Address, Holmwood, Roxborough Park, Harrow.MR. WALTER LAWLEY

(TENOR).

CHORAL UNION, CROSSHILLS.—"SEASONS."—"Mr. Walter Lawley is not unknown in Crosshills. His pleasant manner, his distinct enunciation, combined with his great vocal powers, won for him the chief position of the evening. The recit. and air, 'The traveller stands perplexed,' secured a double encore, and the audience would fain have had a repetition, but time forbade it. The top B natural was brought out with great power and sweetness."—The Yorkshire Pioneer, March 20, 1903.

Terms, &c., 50, Beyer Street, Gorton, Manchester.

MISS MIRIAM EDWARDS

A.R.C.M. (SOPRANO).

Of Queen's Hall, London, and Provincial Concerts.

"I have great pleasure in stating that Miss Miriam Edwards, who has studied for some time under me, possesses a brilliant and most sympathetic voice, which she uses with great skill and judgment."—WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE.

"... Miss Miriam Edwards's voice is a brilliant soprano of great flexibility, admirably trained. The songs given were excerpts from Handel, Mozart, Grieg, and Bemberg. For particular distinction we have to mention her exquisite rendering of Mozart's 'L'amero.'"—Birmingham Daily Mail.

"... Miss Miriam Edwards was the vocalist, and in the first part of the programme gave a beautiful rendering of Mozart's 'Voi che sapete' ('Nozze di Figaro'), accompanied by the orchestra. Possessed of a full voice, together with an ease and naturalness of manner, she gave a very faithful interpretation of the piece, and was recalled in consequence. ... An aria, 'Una Voce,' from 'Il Barbiera,' by Rossini, affords perhaps greater scope for the vocal powers of Miss Edwards than the first item. She sang it with excellent effect, and threw into it a characteristic vigour that fully confirmed her previous success. She was again accompanied by the orchestra, and subjected to an encore."—Durham Advertiser.

"... Miss Miriam Edwards made her debut before a Newcastle audience, and from every point of view it was extremely successful, and highly flattering to the debutante herself. Her first effort, Handel's 'Lusinghe più care,' she sang with delightful taste and artistic finish, but it was perhaps in Mozart's 'L'amero' ('Il Re Pastore') that she was heard to greatest advantage. Here she displayed a wealth of tone, power, and expression which thoroughly cemented her ability in the confidence of her critical audience. Two remaining items by Grieg and Bemberg were happily rendered, and at the conclusion, Miss Edwards was deservedly awarded a thorough ovation."—Newcastle Daily Journal.

"... Miss Miriam Edwards is quite new to us, but she has a magnificent voice. She displayed unsurpassable qualities as a mistress of vocal art. In all her songs she evinced purity of voice, method, and intelligence of a high order."—Free Press.

"... Miss Miriam Edwards is a soprano of exceptional tone on the lower register, and she was accorded a very flattering reception."—The North Star.

"... The songs of that talented vocalist, Miss Miriam Edwards, call for special mention. As it has been our pleasure to previously remark, she possesses a voice of rare quality and training, and her rendering on Thursday night of 'Scenes that are brightest' was the finest item of the evening."—The Leader.

"... The vocalist was Miss Miriam Edwards, a soprano of exceptional ability, who avoided English in both her songs, Handel's 'Lusinghe più care' (for including which she deserved thanks) and Bemberg's 'Nymphes et Sylvains.' She sang very artistically, and met with general appreciation."—The Nottingham Daily Express.

"The soloist, Miss Miriam Edwards, was in splendid voice. She was very powerful in her lower register, and rendered her songs with admirable taste."—North-Eastern Daily Gazette.

For terms and vacant dates, the usual agents, or Tanworth House, Wednesbury, Staffs.

MR. HENRY FRANCKISS

(TENOR).

The Musical News.—"HIAWATHA."—"The society was conducted by Mr. Coleridge-Taylor. The fine tenor solo was entrusted to Mr. Henry Franckiss, whose rich voice and good method won enthusiastic applause."

Banbury Guardian.—"HIAWATHA."—"He displayed a voice of rare quality and expression, and his rendering of 'Onaway! awake,' was not only loudly applauded, but the conductor himself (Mr. Coleridge-Taylor) showed his marked approval of the way it had been treated."

The Times.—"GOLDEN LEGEND."—"Sang excellently."

Morning Post.—"JUDAS MACCABEUS."—"Rich and powerful voice."

Leeds Mercury.—"HYMN OF PRAISE."—"Gave a masterly rendering of his solos. The engagement of Mr. Franckiss was a particularly happy choice."

South London Press.—"MESSIAH." CRYSTAL PALACE.—"The audience were alive to the exceptional merit displayed by Mr. Franckiss."

Yorkshire News.—"It is impossible to credit him with too much praise, possessing a rich mellow voice of great range, and of which he is a complete master."

Aberdeen Journal.—"Seldom has the choral society had the services of a better tenor. He has a rich voice of fine compass, and acquitted himself admirably in every solo."

22, Winifred Grove, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. FRANCIS GLYNN

(TENOR).

High Elms, Burgh Heath Road, Epsom.

MR. BRIGHT JONES

(Late PRINCIPAL TENOR, Moody-Manners Opera Company).

For Vacant Dates, apply, Glenhurst, Bath.

MR. JOHN MALON

(TENOR).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c., including Elgar's "Dream of Gerontius." Terms, Randolph Street, Stockport.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS

(TENOR).

For vacant dates, apply, 105, North Side, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. SAMUEL MASTERS

(TENOR).

Bookings for Season 1903 and 1904 include:—

CHESTER MUSICAL SOCIETY.—"Messiah," Dec. 14.

STAFFORD CHORAL UNION.—"King Olaf," Dec. 15.

HUDDERSFIELD CHORAL SOCIETY.—"Messiah," Dec. 18.

HALIFAX CHORAL SOCIETY.—"Creation," March 3, 1904.

BARNSELY CHORAL SOCIETY.—"King Olaf," March 24, 1904.

61, Alexandra Road, Wimbledon, S.W.

MR. JOS. REED

(PRINCIPAL TENOR).

Trinity College, Cambridge.

Tenor, Madame Clara Butt's Tours, October, 1900; Spring, 1902.

Vacant dates. 55, Chesterton Road, Cambridge.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS,

48, DYNE ROAD, BRONDESURRY, N.W.

Telegrams:—SOLOIST, LONDON.

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL

(BARITONE).

(Westminster Abbey.)

"ELIJAH" (EAST HAM).—"Of the soloists, Mr. Montague Borwell was by far and away the best. His rendering of the recitatives was especially full of feeling and fervency, and his resonant voice well filled the hall in 'Is not His word.'"—Echo.

"ANCIENT MARINER" (BRIGHTON).—"The quiet, refined, and even graceful methods of Mr. Montague Borwell, the baritone, yielded universal pleasure, for his voice has a particularly musical timbre, and the tact and taste of the experienced artist were ever apparent."—Standard.

"ANCIENT MARINER" (BRIGHTON).—"A conspicuous feature was the refined singing of Mr. Montague Borwell. He treated his several numbers with a smoothness which came as a pleasing contrast to the strained efforts too often heard, and undoubtedly left behind a flattering impression."—Hove Gazette.

"REDEMPTION" (COLERAINE).—"We venture to say few people in the concert-room were unmoved at Mr. Borwell's exceptionally well impersonated treatment of the 'Last Words,' 'My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?' This was indeed one of the outstanding features of the whole performance."—Advertiser.

AND

MISS WINIFRED MARWOOD

(Mrs. Montague Borwell—SOPRANO).

"CREATION" (CLYDEBANK).—"Miss Winifred Marwood sang all her solos with fervour and charm. She has a cultured voice, fresh and resonant, and a good concert-platform style. At the close of the air 'With verdure clad' she had to repeatedly bow her acknowledgments to the enthusiastic applause of the audience."—Clydebank Press.

"MESSIAH" (BOSTON).—"Miss Winifred Marwood possesses a pure soprano voice, most flexible and clear, which was shown to great advantage in the florid style of some of her airs, her voice being flute-like in the trills and beautiful throughout."—Boston Independent.

"MAY QUEEN" (ABERGAVENNY).—"Miss Winifred Marwood, the soprano soloist, who has a voice full, rich and powerful, yet very sweet and tender, as occasion required, and of fine range, associated with dramatic power, clear enunciation, and a charming personality, took the audience by storm, and the very unusual compliment was paid her in the second part of the programme of a double encore, to which she gracefully responded."—Chronicle.

48, Dyne Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MR. JOHN BROWNING

(BARITONE).

Soloist, Leeds Musical Festivals and of the leading English, Scotch, and Irish Concerts. Extensive repertoire of over 100 works.

Season 1902/3, has sung Baritone Solos in sixty works ("Elijah" 12 times, "Messiah" 10), and at forty Miscellaneous Concerts.

Booking for Next Season

Address, Marlboro' Grove, Leeds.

MR. ARTHUR WALENN

(BARITONE)

Of the Albert Hall, Queen's Hall, St. James's Hall Popular Concerts, Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts, Walenn Chamber Concerts, &c.

20, Ashworth Mansions, Elgin Avenue, London, W.

MR. SIDNEY STODDARD

(BASS-BARITONE)

23, St. Mary Axe, E.C.

"ELIJAH."—MELTON MOWBRAY, March 12, 1903.—"As representing the titular character, Mr. Stoddard had by far the most to do of the principals, and in voice, method and style he carried out his task in a manner which bespoke the cultured artist. Energy and power, combined with dramatic instinct, characterised his efforts, and he fulfilled the rôle to the entire satisfaction of his auditors. One of his best items was the touching air 'It is enough,' which was superbly given; while in 'Lord God of Abraham' and 'Is not His Word,' Mr. Stoddard was heard to the best effect. The bass recitatives, which are constant throughout the work, were given with a full conception of their meaning."—Journal.

MR. HUGH SPENCER

(BASS-BARITONE)

For Concerts, Oratorios, Festivals, &c.

Now Booking Dates for the Winter Season.

For terms, &c., address, Vocalist, Coldhurst, Oldham; or, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MR. JAMES COLEMAN

(BASS)

(Vicar-Choral, Lichfield Cathedral).

THE "MESSIAH."—"The singing of Mr. J. Coleman was the feature of the evening. He received quite an ovation for 'Why do the nations?' His accentuation and style were practically faultless."—Hednesford Advertiser, March 21, 1903.

THE "MESSIAH."—"Of the work of Mr. J. Coleman it would be hard to praise in too great praise. He tackled the many difficult passages in masterly manner."—Nottingham Daily Guardian, Jan. 23, 1903.

"ROSE MAIDEN."—"Of Mr. Coleman it is only necessary to say that he was in form, and delighted the audience."—Staffordshire Chronicle, Feb. 14, 1903.

"ST. PAUL."—"Too much praise cannot be awarded to Mr. Coleman's singing of the solos allotted to him. He is the happy possessor of a very fine bass voice, and what is more, knows how to use it."—The Leader, Jan. 30, 1903.

"LAST JUDGMENT."—"Mr. J. Coleman maintained his high reputation, and the air 'Thus saith the Lord' afforded opportunities of displaying the grand quality and power of his voice."—Derby Mercury, April 1, 1903.

Terms and vacant dates, apply, The Cathedral, Lichfield.

MR. SAMUEL FIELDEN

(BASSO-CANTANTE)

"He possesses a fine bass voice of exceptional compass and power, and he gave his songs with characteristic vigour and true vocal art."—Todmorden District News.

"CREATION."—"Mr. S. Fielden took the bass solos in eminently capable fashion, his rendering of 'Rolling in foaming billows' being particularly good."—Sussex Daily News.

For terms and vacant dates, address, The Cathedral, Chichester.

MR. HARRY REYNOLDS

(BASSO).

Robinson Road, Mapperley, Nottingham.

MISS ELLEN CHILDS

(CHROMATIC HARPIST).

Having studied in Paris under the direction of the Inventor, Miss Childs is prepared to give LESSONS on the NEW CHROMATIC HARP (without pedals). For terms, apply, 170, Belsize Road, N.W.; or, care of Messrs. Pleyell, Wolff, Lyon and Co., 79-80, Baker Street, Portman Square, W.

MR. GEORGE F. BLACK

Professional Tuner, Expert, &c., of Pianofortes.

Dealer in all kinds of Musical Instruments.

42, Hubert Grove, Stockwell, London, S.W.

MISS

MARGUERITE SWALE

PREPARES VOCALISTS for Oratorio, Opera, German Lieder, and Ballads.

VOICE PRODUCTION AND SINGING.

Recommended by distinguished Artists.

F., 120, Great Portland Street, W.

LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS,

POLYTECHNIC, 309, REGENT ST., W.

PRINCIPAL: MR. JAMES BATES.

Thoroughly trained, experienced SOLO BOYS, holding positions as Solo Boys at forty London Churches, can be strongly recommended for Church Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.

CHORUS AND LEADING BOYS also available for all kinds of concerted music.

A branch for the preparation and general education of scholars (resident or day) for Cathedral or other Choristerships is now open. School and practising rooms, 80, Cambridge Terrace, Hyde Park, W. Full particulars of The Secretary, 7, Blomfield Crescent, Upper Westbourne Terrace, Hyde Park, W. Telegrams—"Musicomane, London." Telephone—1074, Western.

AN EXPERIENCED AND RELIABLE ORATORIO AND CONCERT QUARTET.

MISS AMY FLETCHER.

MISS ESSIE ANDREWS.

MR. JOHN PROBERT.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS.

For Terms (moderate) and Vacant Dates, address—

Mr. ROBERTS, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MR. TANN'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. W. R. B. TANN, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Saviour's Church, Paddington, is prepared to supply well-trained Solo Boys for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

A number of excellent Chorus Boys also available.

For terms and vacant dates, address, Mr. W. R. B. Tann, 55, Warwick Road, Maida Vale, W.

LONDON CONCERT & CHOIR AGENCY.

SOLOISTS and CHORUS VOICES for Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Glee and Madrigal Societies, At Homes, Banquets, &c.

Mr. JAMES BATES, Polytechnic, Regent Street, W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. Eastfield House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS. Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities, Diplomas of L.R.A.M., A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O.; Appointments at College and School of Music, and as English Cathedral and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of seven hundred and fifty. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Piano-forte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ARNOTT, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, Organist to The Honble. Society of Gray's Inn, PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Examinations, and receives Pupils for Pianoforte, Organ, Singing; also, Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition, personally or by correspondence. Scores revised and compositions scored. All letters to The Common Room, Gray's Inn.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., Mus. Bac., Dunelm, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or, at 60, Berners Street, W. Schools attended. Address, 289, High Road, Lee, S.E.

ARTHUR T. FROGGATT, Mus.D., T.C.D., gives LESSONS by POST, and prepares for all genuine examinations. 2, Hampden Villas, Hythe.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., is now making a SPECIALITY of PREPARING CANDIDATES by CORRESPONDENCE for University, Royal College of Organists, and other musical Exams. LARGE NUMBER OF PAST SUCCESSES. Moderate terms. PERSONAL LESSONS in THEORY and ORGAN (for R.C.O. exams.) are given either at Streatham or in London. 52, Buckleigh Road, Streatham, S.W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and PREPARES CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Latest successes: Mus. Bac., Oxford and Durham, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., &c. Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. HOCH'S CONSERVATOIRE for all branches of Music, in Frankfurt-on-the-Main. The Winter Term commences September 1. Director, Professor B. Scholz. Tuition is given by Messrs. Director B. Scholz, L. Uzielli, E. Engesser, K. Friedberg, Music Director A. Glück, Fr. L. Mayer, and Ch. Eckel (in Pianoforte); Mr. H. Gelhaar (in Organ); Professor H. Heermann, Professor Naret-Koning and F. Bassermann, A. Hess, A. Rebnar, A. Leimer, and F. Küchler (in Violin and Viola respectively); Professor L. Cossmann and Professor Hugo Becker (in Violoncello); Messrs. Ed. Bellwidt and S. Rigutini, and Fr. Cl. Sohn (in Singing); Director B. Scholz and Messrs. Professor F. Knorr (in Theory and Composition); Mr. Professor K. Hermann (in Declamation and Mimics); Fr. del Lungo (in Italian Language). Prospectus to be had, gratis and Post-free, from the Secretary of the Dr. Hoch's Conservatoire, 4, Eschersheimerlandstrasse. Applications for entry should be made immediately, as only a limited number of pupils will be accepted.—THE MANAGEMENT.

DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY, Mus.D., Oxon., 13, Roseleigh Avenue, Highbury, N., continues to PREPARE CANDIDATES for the various Theoretical Examinations. Music of any description revised or arranged. LESSONS in COMPOSITION, by post if desired.

DR. ATHELSTAN G. IGGULDEN, Mus. Doc. (Dunelm), F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS and prepares for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by post. The Dingle, Reigate, Surrey.

DR. MARCHANT, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Author of "500 Fugue Subjects and Answers" Novello's Primers, No. 35), &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Musical Examinations by Post. 10, Glebe Crescent, Stirling, N.B.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; gives LESSONS. Personally or by Post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM and ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: OXFORD FIRST MUS. BAC., May, 1903; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1903; DURHAM, 1902, 1901, 1900, and all previous years; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1902; OXFORD MUS. BAC., 1902, 1901, &c.; L.R.A.M. (Composition and Pianoforte), 1902, 1901, &c.; A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, Composition and Pianoforte Teaching); CAMBRIDGE and DUBLIN, MUS. BAC.; L.Mus. and A.Mus.; L.C.M.; L.T.C.L.; A.T.C.L.; and Special Certificates, 1902, 1901, &c.; Senior Associated Board. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Terms moderate. MSS. corrected for publication.

Analyses of Classical Works for Examinations.
70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

MR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus.B., F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., makes a SPECIALITY of COACHING for DEGREES. L.R.A.M., 1897-1903, FORTY-ONE SUCCESSSES; A.R.C.M., 1897-1903, ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTEEN SUCCESSSES. Equally good results in R.C.O. and other Examinations. Address, Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond.; Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., Personally or by Correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and all other Examinations. Classes. 25, Palliser Road, West Kensington, W.

DR. TAYLOR, F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L., gives LESSONS, and Prepares for bonâ fide Musical Examinations, personally or (Theory) by Post. Eastgate House, Stafford.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac. (Durham, 1892); L.Mus.T.C.L. (1888). COACHES for EXAMS. Prospectus, &c., 58, Comiston Road, Edinburgh.

VOICES TRAINED, and SIGHT-SINGING and the PIANOFORTE TAUGHT, by Mr. W. A. FROST (Vicar-Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral), at his residence, 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C. Many of his pupils have obtained Cathedral and other choir appointments in open competitions. Successes in June at Holy Trinity, Knightsbridge, and St. James's, Garlick Hill; and in July at Christ Church, Mayfair.

SCORING for Large or Small Orchestras, ARRANGING, TRANSPOSING, COPYING, &c. Works Lithographed. WM. LANE FROST, Avonley, Hatcham Park, S.E.

RESIDENT PUPIL, with CHURCH APPOINTMENT, Switzerland, in beautiful and healthy district. Complete Mus. Education with prep. for Mus. Degree, &c. Good chance to acquire modern languages. Library of music, scores, &c. Inclusive terms, board, lodging, and tuition, £80 per ann. Easy Church appointment, with £25 to £35, to competent man. Address, C. Stanley Wise, Mus. Bac. Cantab., Chermex-Montreux, Switzerland.

HARPENDEN, Herts.—St. George's School. Head Master, Rev. R. H. Wix, M.A. Fees, £60 & £50. Reduction to boys with good voices. Private chapel. Organist, Mr. J. Farrant, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Large buildings and grounds. Very healthy and bracing place.

A LADY (Member of the Guildhall School of Music) wishes to give LESSONS in SINGING, either privately or in a school. Address, A. D., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

LINCOLN CATHEDRAL CHOIR SCHOOL.—There will be on August 1 an ELECTION of at least six CHOIR-BOYS and PROBATIONERS.

Candidates should be on August 1 between the ages of 9 and 11. Application to the Venerable Archdeacon Bond (the Precentor, Lincoln), who will give further information and will supply a form to be filled up by the Parent or Guardians. All the boys in the Choir are Boarders, and will be boarded and taught for an inclusive annual payment of £15.

The School has been recently entirely reorganised, and is now under the direct care of the Dean and Chapter. The head master is G. H. Cowburn, M.A., late Scholar of Oriel College, Oxford.

The Education given is intended to fit boys for passing the University Local Examinations, and competing for Scholarships at good Grammar Schools, &c.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE, near Tenbury, Wores.—There is a VACANCY for a PROBATIONER, for which a Boy with good voice and ear is required, under 11 years of age. Apply, Rev. the Warden.

SCHOLARSHIP OFFERED musical BOY about 14, at Atherstone School, Warwickshire. For particulars, apply, The Rev. the Headmaster.

SOPRANO (lady) desires SUNDAY ENGAGEMENT. Experienced. Near City preferred. Terms, &c., Ella, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

MALE ALTO WANTED, for Roman Catholic Church in the City. Good reader. Salary, £20 a year. Apply, C. H. B., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

CHOIR EXCHANGE.—CHURCH POSITIONS secured for Organists and Singers in the United States and Canada. APPOINTMENTS, to be filled on or before October 1, 1903. NOW VACANT in Honolulu (Organistship and Teaching), $1700; Ohio, Choirmastership and Conservatory Vocal Professorship, $2000; Connecticut; Maryland; Georgia, Ohio, Missouri, and Minnesota, $300 to $500. Write for Terms.

MUSIC PUBLISHING AGENCY.—Publishers found for Composers' Manuscripts. Write The John E. Webster Company, 5, East 14th Street, New York, for Terms.

WANTED, well-trained CONTRALTOS for high-class Concert work. Thorough knowledge of German indispensable. Write, W.O., 42, Westbourne Park Road, Bayswater.

ST. ASAPH CATHEDRAL.—TENOR and BASS LAY CLERKS WANTED. Apply, Chapter Clerk.

TENOR WANTED, for Quartet (Male-Voice). Expenses only. State age. One with experience preferred. Basso, 5, Vicarage Parade, West Green, N.

BRISTOL CATHEDRAL. BASS (not Baritone) WANTED. Salary commencing £70. Applications (stating age) to be sent to The Precentor, The Cathedral, Bristol.

BASS or BARITONE WANTED, for All Hallows', Lombard Street, E.C. Must be a good reader and a communicant. Two Services on Sundays and a Rehearsal Friday evenings. Salary, £12 per annum. Apply, T. Bensted, 5, Lichfield Gardens, Richmond, Surrey.

WANTED, by experienced, capable SOLO BASS, SUNDAY WORK. Excellent testimonials. Yorke, 789, Romford Road, Manor Park, E.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, October, Parish Church, Fermoy, Co. Cork. £40. Good centre for tuitions. Apply, Rev. G. Emerson.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER REQUIRED, at end of September. Salary, £50. Large Church; Choral Services. Apply, Rev. H. Bircham, St. Paul's Vicarage, Southsea.

WANTED, ORGANIST, for Parish Church, Petersfield, good Choir-trainer, 3-manual organ. Capable of teaching Music, Piano, and Violin, in large Grammar School. Also good opening for Private Practice. Apply, Vicar, Petersfield.

WANTED, to proceed to South Africa, a qualified ORGANIST (not professional), who has also a commercial training and experience. Salary, £50 as Organist, and £150 guaranteed for one year for position in a mercantile house. None but qualified persons need apply, and musical ability has to be tested by a professional organist. Apply, by letter, with copies of testimonials, and stating age and experience, to Thos. Stephen, 65, London Wall, E.C.

CHOIRMASTER WANTED, at St. Matthew's Church, Surbiton. Two Practices each week and Two Services on Sunday. Apply, with copies of testimonials, stating what salary is expected, The Wardens, care of J. R. B. Curtis, Esq., 1, South Bank, Surbiton.

EVERY ORGANIST should send for DINHAM, BLYTH & CO.'S Specimens and Price List (free) for Lithographing Anthems, Kyries, Hymn Tunes, &c., from twenty-four Copies and upwards. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

ADVERTISER offers his SERVICES (small Church or American Organ). F. H., 81, Wyndham Road, Camberwell, S.E.

CONDUCTOR (experienced), Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., with good critiques, will undertake Musical Direction of a prosperous Choral or Orchestral Society in or near London. Small honorarium. S.F.Z., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

A LICENTIATE of the Royal Academy of Music (Lady) would be glad to hear of a POSITION as TEACHER of SINGING and PIANOFORTE in South Africa, New Zealand, or Australia. Salary, not less than £100 a year. Address, L.R.A.M., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

LADY wishes to meet with a thoroughly sound and high-class PIANOFORTE-TEACHING CONNECTION. Good teacher and performer. Miss C., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, TUNER, Midlands, cyclist. State age, experience, references. A. Z., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, MANAGER for a large Depot in the Midlands. Excellent salary and commission to competent man. Must know his business, and be able to manage indoor and outdoor staff. Apply, stating experience, Musicus, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, MANAGER for Branch Business. Must be good Tuner, and married. Apply, T. J. G., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC SALESMAN WANTED, for South Africa.
A smart young man, with a good knowledge of music catalogues and small goods. Permanent situation offered by a leading Firm in the Colony to a competent and reliable man. Write full particulars of age and experience to Colonial, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

CHIEF-ASSISTANT WANTED, for Piano and Music Business in North of England. Besides being smart salesman must possess highest character and be able to tune, also capable of taking entire charge in absence of principal. Salary and commission. Apply, T. C. S., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

PIANOFORTE TRAVELLER WANTED, having a good connection amongst Dealers throughout the United Kingdom, to represent a high-class and old-established Firm of English Pianoforte Makers. Address, with full particulars of experience, Bonâ Fide, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

AS MANAGER or SALESMAN.—WANTED, an ENGAGEMENT in a good Pianoforte House; or would take an Agency. Many years' London experience. Good linguist. I. B., 83, Brondesbury Villas, Kilburn, N.W.

ADVERTISER requires BERTH as SALESMAN or BRANCH MANAGER. 17 years' thorough experience in pianos, sheet music, and small goods. Well up in catalogues; also buyer. London and Provincial experience. Good testimonials. Age 33. Tall, good appearance. Address, Permanency, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

RE-ENGAGEMENT REQUIRED, by Young Gentleman (26), as JUNIOR HELP in good Music Establishment. Has a fair and satisfactory knowledge of the general Trade. Can assist in Pianoforte Sales; also possesses a knowledge of Pianoforte Tuning. Very willing and energetic. Salary small. E. P. E., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO COMPOSERS.—THE FEIS CEOIL offers PRIZES in all branches of Musical Composition to Composers of Irish birth or parentage or resident in Ireland for the three years prior to the latest date for receiving entries (December 1, 1903). Full particulars from Hon. Secs., 37, Molesworth Street, Dublin.

TO VOCALISTS, SOLOISTS, &c.—Songs, Solos, and Music of any description Scored and Arranged for Full or Small Orchestra. Estimates free. William Benson, Prospect House, 44, Claremont Road, Birkdale, Southport.

MANUSCRIPTS revised. Melodies written from dictation, harmonised, orchestrated, or arranged for brass and reed bands. Practical lessons in Composition, orally or by post. Terms moderate. Highest references. W. J. G., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE BUSINESS (high-class) for SALE. Situated West-end of London. Investigation courted, thoroughly genuine. Terms could be arranged. G. W. H., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

THE PARISH CHURCH, Bradford, Yorkshire.—The ORGAN now in use at this Church is offered for SALE, and possession can be had on August 17. The instrument contains 2 manuals, 31 speaking stops, hydraulic engine and double feeders. Tenders for the purchase and removal to be addressed, Mr. Sewell, Parish Clerk, Bradford.

FOR SALE.—A remarkable Bargain.—3-manual "Ideal" REED ORGAN, cost £300, for £200. Sole cause for selling to make room for a still larger instrument. Only prospective buyers treated with. Apply, care of the builders, J. W. Sawyer, Beeston Organ Works, Leeds.

REED ORGAN for SALE. Two manuals and pedals; 8 stops. Maker, SNELL, London. Cost £47 13s. net. Organist, Quedgeley, Gloucester.

FOR SALE.—HARMONIUM, by REED, London. Cost £8; and PIANO, by D'ALMAINE, London. Cost £25. Offers or Terms to W. F., 3, Harmsworth Street, Kennington, S.E.

AMERICAN ORGAN, by CLOUGH AND WARREN. 2 manuals; pedals; 23 octaves. 15 sets of reeds; 28 stops; couplers; hand and foot blowers. Fine tone. Black walnut case; handsome pipe top. Cost 250 guineas. Price, £70. Diapason, care of Mr. Gorse, Rampant Horse Street, Norwich.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE. Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber, from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell and Son's, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

ORGANS for SALE or HIRE; or, payable in five years.—Two new superior high-class ORGANS at £200 and £260, on view. Three Second-hand Organs, at £25, £35, £60. Price Lists, with specifications for building Organs, from £100 to £2,000. Alterations, additions, repairs. Tuners sent to all parts of the United Kingdom. Alfred Monk, Organ Works, 556, Holloway Road, London, N.

MODERN-BUILT ORGANS for SALE.—Two Manuals CC to G, and Pedals CCC to F (R.C.O.), £125, complete. Also larger instruments. Apply, EUSTACE INGRAM, Organ Builder, 361, Liverpool Road, N.

THREE-MANUAL ORGAN, 26 stops; Two- Manual Organ, 17 stops. Several others, suitable for Church, &c. Special manufacturers of the celebrated Victoria Model Organs, &c., suitable for Mission Churches, Students, &c., with two manuals and full-compass pedals, from 50 guineas. W. E. Richardson and Sons, of London, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

9 GUINEAS.—AMERICAN ORGAN (list price, 20 guineas), 11 stops, including two knee-stops and the beautiful solo stops, voix celeste and vox humana; two octave couplers, handsome high case; in use about four months; twenty years' warranty; easy terms arranged. Packing and carriage free both ways on approval. Full price paid will be allowed within three years if exchanged for a higher-class instrument. D'Almaine and Co. (established 118 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—ORGANISTS can PRAC- TISE on the Grand four-manual Organ by WILLIS (blown by hydraulic engines controlled from keyboard) in the Concert Hall of the Hampstead Conservatoire. The Hall is warmed by hot water. Specification of the organ, and terms of practice on application to the Secretary, Hampstead Conservatoire, Swiss Cottage, N.W.

N.B.—The Conservatoire is eight minutes by rail from Baker Street, Metropolitan Railway. Trains every ten minutes.

ORGAN PRACTICE at HOME.—RUMMENS' Organ Pedal Attachment for Pianos. Norman & Beard, Norwich.

FOR SALE.—A GRAND PIANO by BLÜTHNER. A fine instrument, in excellent condition. Sold owing to breaking up of establishment. Price £50. Apply to Lady Russell, Government House, Portsmouth.

15 GUINEAS.—PIANO, "DUCHESS" MODEL, by D'ALMAINE, solid iron frames to top, Upright Grand (list price, 30 guineas); full compass, full trichord, French check action, &c.; in handsomely carved case, four feet two inches in height; in use only six months; sent on approval, carriage paid both ways, to any part of the United Kingdom; twenty years' warranty; easy terms arranged; full price paid will be allowed if exchanged for a higher-class instrument within three years. D'Almaine and Co. (established 118 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

AWARDED MEDAL OF HONOUR AT THE INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION, LONDON, 1885.

RUMMENS' ORGAN PEDALS FOR PIANOFORTES

INVALUABLE FOR HOME PRACTICE OF ORGAN MUSIC.

Testimonials from Sir GEORGE MARTIN, Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, and many leading Organists.

For particulars, &c., apply, NORMAN & BEARD, Organ Works, Norwich.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

F. W. EBRALL,

Organ Builder,

SHREWSBURY.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

HUGH SWANTON,

THE LEADING EXPERT IN ORGAN-BLOWING.

APPARATUS FOR BLOWING ORGANS BY WATER,
GAS, AND ELECTRICITY.

INSTALLATIONS IN OPERATION AT—

St. Paul's Cathedral (London).

Dublin (St. Patrick's) Cathedral.

Genoa, Norwich, Llandaff, Dundalk Cathedrals, &c., &c.

CONSULTATIONS FREE.

A DAINY BROCHURE, full of interest and Illustrated, will be forwarded on request.

62, WHITEHORSE STREET, STEPNEY, LONDON, E.

Trinity College London (INST. 1872).

President:

THE RIGHT HON. LORD COLERIDGE, M.A., K.C.

Warden:

EDMUND H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

MICHAELMAS TERM BEGINS ON SEPTEMBER 25.

The College provides complete and systematic instruction and training in every recognised musical subject for all classes of Musical Students. The Fee for full-course students is £10 per term. In the JUNIOR SCHOOL, to which pupils are admitted up to the age of 15, the Fee is £4 4s. per term for the full course.

Students can enter for the Course or for special subjects.

The tuition of the College will serve as a preparative for all Public Examinations in the Theory and Practice of Music, including the Examinations for University Degrees.

The College Orchestra and Choir and the various Ensemble Classes are for Students and Non-Students.

Courses of Lectures on Musical History, Form, Choir Training, and the Art of Teaching are given during the Term.

Special Classes in the ART OF TEACHING, as applied to Music.

SCHOOL OF PIANOFORTE TECHNIQUE,

Under the direction of Mr. G. E. Bambridge, F.T.C.L., F.R.A.M.

In the Virgil Clavier Department Mr. Bambridge is assisted by Mr. Albert Bate, Mr. C. Stiebler Cook, and Mrs. Halkett.

Two Open Scholarships of the annual value of £80 and £40 respectively, and two Exhibitions, are competed for each year.

Classes Prospectus, including that for the Junior School and the regulations for Scholarships, may be had from the undersigned.

By order, SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

HOLDE SIRENEN

(ZU EINER FEIERLICHEN MUSIK)

ODE

VON

MILTON

FÜR CHOR UND ORCHESTER IN MUSIK GESETZT

VON

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Deutsche Übersetzung von WALTHER JOSEPHSON.

Preis, Mark 2.50.

Chorstimmen, Mark 3.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THIRD EDITION, REVISED.

BEETHOVEN

AND HIS

NINE SYMPHONIES

BY

GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

PRICE, CLOTH, GILT, SIX SHILLINGS.

"I recognise it, without the smallest hesitation, as one of the most important and valuable among recent contributions to musical literature. . . . The best informed of professional musicians may learn a great deal about the master-works of Beethoven from Sir George Grove, whose wide reading and acute perceptiveness have enabled him to marshal an astonishing array of facts, and whose intimate acquaintance with the spirit of the master has qualified him to throw light upon pages which, to many, are still obscure. . . . I must be satisfied with the remarks already made, earnestly recommending all who recognise Beethoven's greatness as shown in his immortal Symphonies to obtain Sir George Grove's volume, and walk in the luminous paths through which he is ready to conduct all who trust his guidance."—Daily Telegraph.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

John Broadwood & Sons'

LIMITED,

NEW SHORT OVERSTRUNG GRAND

105 GUINEAS.

"MULTUM IN PARVO."

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET, LONDON, W.

THE LONDON MUSIC SCHOOL (LONDON ORGAN SCHOOL).

Established 1865.

22, PRINCES STREET, CAVENTISH SQ., W. (Close to Oxford Circus).
Director and Principal: T. H. YORKE TROTTER, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon.

The School is open daily from 9 a.m. till 9 p.m., and provides a THOROUGH EDUCATION for PROFESSIONAL and AMATEUR MUSICIANS. Lessons may begin on any date, and a single subject taken if desired.

PRIVATE LESSONS are given in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition; Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, Violin, Viola, Violoncello, and Double-Bass; all Wind and other Orchestral Instruments; Choir Training, Elocution and Stage Department; Modern Languages, &c.

DAY AND EVENING CLASSES are held in Harmony and Counterpoint, Musical Dictation, Quartet and Ensemble Playing, and in Elocution (Mr. Charles Fry) and Modern Languages.

The School has a Full Orchestra, a String Orchestra, and two Choral Classes.

The CONCERT ORGAN and two other three-manual Instruments are available for practice.

Prospectus on application to the Secretary.

No. 61, Novello's Music Primers and Educational Series.

THE VIOLA

BY

BERTHOLD TOURS

EDITED BY ALFRED GIBSON.

"The best of its kind."—Birmingham Daily Post.

Price Two Shillings. Paper boards, 2s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BOSWORTH EDITION.

OSCAR BERINGER'S

CELEBRATED

DAILY TECHNICAL STUDIES

Newly revised, enlarged, and engraved, 4s. net.

OSCAR BERINGER'S

SCALE & ARPEGGIO MANUAL

Newly revised, enlarged, and engraved, 2s. net.

Recommended by the greatest authorities.

OSCAR BERINGER'S

PIANO TUTOR

Popular Edition, English Fingering, 2s. 6d. net.

Foreign Fingering, German and English Text, in Two Books, at 2s. each net.

Or, complete, 4s. net.

The Lady.—"By far the best I have yet seen published."

Daily Telegraph.—"Valuable work. Clear, and easy to be comprehended."

Playgoer.—"The learner is led from strength to strength."

Bury Chronicle.—"Fragments from the great masters intermixed with bits from Czerny, Hertz, and others, and from familiar melodies of all countries."

Mr. Stanley Hawley.—"The very incarnation of the modern spirit in teaching—Time upon time and precept upon precept."

WEINWURM.

THE TEMPLARS' GRAND MARCH

Pianoforte Solo, 2s. net; Duet, 2s. net.

BOSWORTH AND CO., 5, PRINCES ST., OXFORD ST., W.
And at LEIPZIG, VIENNA, and PARIS.

SIR WILLIAM STERNDALÉ BENNETT

AT THE AGE OF 31

(From a water-colour sketch by Wageman).

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

AUGUST 1, 1903.

TRURO CATHEDRAL.

'A prety compacted towne, well peopled and wealthye marchauntes. . . . There is not a towne in the weste parte of the Shyre more comendable for neatnes of buyldinges, and for beyng served of all kynde of necessities; nor more discomendable for Pryde of the people.'

Thus wrote John Norden concerning Truro three hundred years ago. If the old topographer had stood in the streets of the Cornish capital on the middle day of July in the third year of the 20th century, he would probably not Whatever may have been 'the neatnes of buyldinges' which caught the eye of old John Norden, the architectural features of Truro in the present day are not of supreme interest, the Cathedral, of course, excepted. Truro can however claim to be one of the oldest towns in England. As at Wells, a stream of water runs through its principal streets, though its raison d'être is not so obvious as in the Somersetshire city.

Let us for a moment or two turn from the buildings and the silently flowing stream to some distinguished Truronians. Taking them in chronological order, we begin with one who had the least enviable reputation—Samuel Foote (1720-77), the actor and dramatist. So keen was his wit that even serious Dr. Johnson was obliged to lay down his knife and fork and forego his dinner in order to laugh: 'The dog was so very comical—no, sir, he was irresistible,' said have applied the term 'discomendable' to the 'Pryde of the people': verily they have something to be proud of!

BOSCAWEN BRIDGE, TRURO.

(Photo by Mr. F. H. Tims, Truro.)

Before treating of the principal feature of the little city—that stately pile now standing in the midst of its narrow streets, its beautiful new Cathedral—we may consider something of interest other than the strictly ecclesiastical.

the great lexicographer. Foote, though he little deserved the honour, was buried by torchlight in the West cloister of Westminster Abbey. The 'prince of enamellers,' Henry Bone, R.A. (1755-1834), first saw the light at Truro. Not a few of the 500 products of his brush—now so eagerly sought after by collectors—came into existence at 15, Berners Street, London, where he lived.

Truro Cathedral.

(Photo by Mr. F. H. Tims. Truro.)

the second Bishop of Truro (Dr. G. H. Wilkinson), now Bishop of St. Andrews. On that occasion the choir of 100 voices was conducted by Mr. (now Dr.) G. R. Sinclair, while Mr. (now Dr.) C. H. Lloyd presided at the fine organ erected by Father Willis. The following is a specification of the instrument, situated, as our illustration on p. 519 shows, in the triforium, the organist also occupying that elevated position:—

GREAT ORGAN (12 stops).
	Feet		Feet.
Double Diapason ...	16	Twelfth ...	3
Open Diapason ...	8	Fifteenth ...	2
Open Diapason ...	8	Mixture (3 ranks) ...	—
Claribel ...	8	Double Trumpet ...	16
Principal ...	4	Tromba ...	8
Flûte Harmonique ...	4	Clarion ...	4
SWELL ORGAN (13 stops).
Geigen Principal ...	16	Mixture (3 ranks) ...	—
Open Diapason ...	8	Contra Fagotto ...	16
Lieblich Gedact ...	8	Corno pean ...	8
Echo Gamba ...	8	Hautboy ...	8
Vox Angelica ...	8	Clarion ...	4
Geigen Principal ...	4	Vox Humana ...	8
Flageolet ...	2
Tremulant to Vox Humana.
CHOIR ORGAN (8 stops).
Gamba ...	8	Gemshorn ...	4
Dulciana ...	8	Lieblich Flöte ...	4
Höhl Flöte ...	8	Piccolo ...	2
Lieblich Gedact ...	8	Corno di Bassetto ...	8
SOLO ORGAN (5 stops).
Harmonic Flute ...	8	Clarionet ...	8
Concert Flute ...	4	Tuba ...	8
Orchestral Oboe ...	8
PEDAL ORGAN (7 stops).
Double Diapason ...	32	Octave ...	8
Open Diapason ...	16	Violoncello ...	8
Violone ...	16	Ophicleide ...	16
Bourdon ...	16
COUPLERS (10).
Choir to Pedals.		Swell Sub-Octave.
Great to Pedals.		Swell to Great Unison.
Swell to Pedals.		Swell Super-Octave.
Solo to Pedals.		Solo to Great.
Choir to Great.		Swell to Choir.
Manual compass CC to A—58 notes.
Pedal compass CCC to F—30 notes.

ACCESSORIES.

Six combination pistons to Swell and Great Organs. Three composition pedals to the Pedal Organ, two to the Great, two to the Choir, and a pedal on and off Great to Pedals. The action is pneumatic, except the Choir Organ which is tracker, and the Pedal which is tubular pneumatic.

The wind is supplied by two hydraulic engines; the wind pressures vary from 15 to 3 inches.

Total number of sounding stops 45; of pipes 2,622.

It may be of interest to give a few grains of information concerning the architecture of the Cathedral. Its style is Early English, with characteristics of buildings of the early part of the 13th century. The imposing central tower—called the Victoria Tower and built by Mr. J. Hawke Dennis, a generous Cornishman, at a cost of £15,000—is literally the outstanding feature of Mr. Pearson's noble design. It is surmounted by a spire, which makes the total height 250 feet. The two Western towers have yet to be built. Differing from many ancient Cathedrals, both in this country and abroad, the Western doorways are two—not three, or one (see our illustration on p. 517). Moreover, they both enter directly into the Nave through a shallow Narthex, and not, as is frequently the case, into the aisles through the Western towers. These two doorways, of lofty dimensions, are elaborately treated and recessed under gabled arches, the tympana being filled with sculpture—not, as in many ancient examples, representing the Doom or kindred subjects, but more naturally exhibiting our Lord in His acts of mercy and love. A statue of King Edward VII. finds a prominent and appropriate place in the West front.

Upon entering the sacred edifice one is struck with its splendid proportions no less than its perfect symmetry. Nothing offends the eye, and one is hardly conscious of the newness of the stonework, so riveted is the attention on the satisfying harmonization of the whole with its constituent parts. 'A great success,' remarked an experienced journalist to the present writer, a verdict that tersely summarizes one's own impressions of a noble piece of work, creditable alike to its promoters and to him who designed it. Mr. Pearson unfortunately did not live to see the completion of his masterpiece; but all the details he had so carefully planned have been faithfully carried out with filial devotion by his son, Mr. Frank Loughborough Pearson.

The entire length of the building, from east to west, is about 300 feet. The full-page view of the interior which we give on p. 519 will furnish a general idea of the building, without the necessity of entering upon architectural details that might appear too technical. One or two features of special interest must, however, be noticed. To the left of the South Porch is the beautifully designed Baptistery of which we give a photograph. This 'architectural gem' commemorates the life and labours of the great missionary, Henry Martyn, a native of Truro. The son of a miner, he was educated at Truro Grammar School and afterwards at Cambridge, where he came out senior wrangler in 1801, being then under twenty years of age. After his ordination he determined to become a missionary. He selected India as the field of his self-denying labours. There his sweetness of character endeared him to all, even Mohammedans, with whom he came into contact. He took a long journey into Armenia and Persia for the purpose of making thorough and complete translations of the Bible into the languages of those countries; but, alas, after severe fatigue and privations, he fell a victim to fever and died at Tokat in 1812, in the thirty-second year of his age. Dean Stanley said that he was buried with all 'the honours due to an Archbishop.' Certain it is that the memory of Henry Martyn has been worthily honoured in the quiet corner of the Cathedral which to-day casts its shadow over the birthplace of this humble yet noble-minded son of Truro.

The Southern Transept is a memorial to Dr. Benson, first Bishop of Truro. The stained glass of its windows, executed by Messrs. Clayton and Bell, is of the richly-toned kind characteristic of thirteenth century work. The North Transept, ten feet longer than that of the South, contains a fine gallery. Above the three double lancet windows is a large rose-window, its stained glass representing the genealogy of our Lord, after the manner of old 'Jesse' windows. The East window of the Choir—also by Messrs. Clayton and Bell—is most successful both in colour and design. The reredos, of richly-carved Bath stone, is a magnificent piece of elaborate sculpture work,

We have already referred to the organ. Now a few words about the organists, of whom—unique in the history of English Cathedrals—only two have to be recorded! The first was George Robertson Sinclair, now organist of Hereford Cathedral. In the initiatory stages of Truro Cathedral, Bishop Benson asked Sir Frederick Ouseley to recommend him an organist. Ouseley had kept his eye on Sinclair, one of his its general idea being 'the one great sacrifice of our Blessed Lord.' The pulpit and, indeed, all the internal fittings of the Cathedral, are worthy of their surroundings, being of the very best materials and workmanship. Mention must be made of a Western gallery, erected some twenty feet above the floor, which forms a base to the West end internally, and adds much to its effect.

THE WEST FRONT.

(Photo by Mr. F. H. Tims, Truro.)

old boys at Tenbury, then a pupil of and assistant to Dr. C. H. Lloyd, at Gloucester. He (Sinclair) was only seventeen years of age when he became the first organist and choirmaster of Truro Cathedral. Bishop Benson said to him: 'You have the knowledge, with the energy of a boy, but you must do what you're told.' During the building of the Choir the young organist had to officiate at an old Byfield organ in the wooden pro-Cathedral, an instrument which had a gimlet as the draw-knob of its only pedal stop! Dr. Sinclair rendered splendid service to Truro Cathedral in its earliest days. He designed the organ, and distinguished himself in the musical arrangements of the Consecration of the Choir in November, 1887. In the autumn of 1889 Dr. Sinclair succeeded the late Langdon Colborne as organist of Hereford Cathedral.

Dr. Mark James Monk (of whom we give a portrait) is the second and present organist of Truro Cathedral. A native of Yorkshire, he was born March 16, 1858. He was a chorister in York Minster from 1867 to 1872, and subsequently became an articulated pupil of and assistant to the late Dr. E. G. Monk, to whom he was related only by marriage, Mrs. M. J. Monk (of Truro) being a niece of the former organist of York Minster. After holding various organistships in York, Dr. M. J. Monk officiated at the following churches in succession: St. John's, Ladywood, Birmingham, 1879; Parish Church, Ashby-de-la-Zouch, 1880; Banbury Parish Church, 1883. In 1889 he was appointed organist and choirmaster of Truro Cathedral, an office which he worthily holds. He graduated at Oxford, Mus.B., 1878, and Mus.D., 1888, and he is a Fellow of the Royal College of Organists. His compositions include an Elegiac Ode 'Coplas di Manrique,' for soli and five-part chorus (composed for his Mus.B. degree); a Festival Te Deum (the exercise for his Mus.D. degree); a Quintett for wind instruments; in addition to pianoforte and organ pieces, songs, church music, &c. Dr. Monk was conductor of the Truro Philharmonic Society from 1890 to 1897. As conductor of the Truro Diocesan Choral Union he has done excellent work. Under the vigilant secretaryship of Canon Donaldson, Precentor of Truro Cathedral, this organization seems to be in an exceedingly flourishing condition, no fewer than 35,030 copies of the Festival service books having been sold since its establishment in 1889. The Choral Union, embracing the twelve Rural Deaneries of the Diocese, held its Festival this year 'on the week-days of the octave of the benediction of the Nave of the Cathedral.' It should be mentioned that, in regard to the ordinary Cathedral Services, the endowment fund only admits of choral services being held on Sundays, Saints' days, and two evenings in the week, Wednesday and Saturday. It is hoped, however, that before long a daily choral service will become possible as at other Cathedrals. The choristers, twenty in number, are educated at Truro Grammar School, scholarships being provided for that purpose.

Imposing and impressive in a high degree was the 'Benediction of the Nave' of Truro Cathedral—at noon on Wednesday, the 15th ult.—by the Bishop of the Diocese (Dr. Gott), the Archbishop of Canterbury (Dr. Randall Davidson), 'and divers other Bishops and Prelates assisting.' Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales (Duke and Duchess of Cornwall) honoured the historic ceremony with their presence. The service was preceded by a procession of the choir and clergy through the thoroughfares immediately around the Cathedral, singing Archbishop Benson's translation of the old hymn 'Urbs beata' to the tune 'Oriel,' accompanied by a quartet of cornets. The sun smiled upon the long procession, and the simple strains, wafted as they were by the 'soft southern breeze,' produced a very beautiful effect. On entering the Cathedral by the West door the choir chanted, also in procession, Psalm cxviii., for the most part unaccompanied. At the entrance of the Prince and Princess of Wales, Dr. D. J. Wood, organist of Exeter Cathedral, played on the organ the National Anthem. In due course followed Attwood's ever-welcome 'Come, Holy Ghost,' the solo part being admirably sung by all the Truro and Exeter choristers. After Psalm cxxxii. had been chanted, and the Lesson read by the Bishop of St. Andrews, second Bishop of Truro, Gounod's anthem 'Send out Thy light' was performed with organ accompaniment. Immediately following the Apostles' Creed the 'Order of service' contained this quaint direction:—

¶ Then the Bishop of Truro, attended by the Archdeacons of the Diocese, the Dignitaries of the Cathedral Church, and his Chaplains, shall proceed to the centre of the Nave, a still verse being played on the organ in the meanwhile.

The 'still verse played on the organ' proved to be a short extemporization. After the Bishop had declared 'the Nave of the Cathedral Church hallowed,' the choir sang a short but effective anthem, 'How dreadful is this place,' composed expressly for the occasion by Dr. Monk. To the sermon (preached by the Archbishop of Canterbury) succeeded the hymn 'All people that on earth do dwell' to the 'Old Hundredth' tune, and at the 'Presentation of the Alms' a new anthem by Dr. C. H. Lloyd, also written for the occasion ('Blessed be Thou, O Lord God') received a devotional rendering. A Te Deum—a setting by Dr. Monk in the key of G—the Blessing, and Stainer's Sevenfold Amen concluded this Benediction service.

The choir consisted of the Cathedral choirs of Truro and Exeter, with the additional help of other voices, among them the Warden of St. Michael's College, Tenbury (the Rev. John Hampton), and Dr. G. R. Sinclair, organist of Hereford Cathedral and the first organist of Truro. It was appropriate that Dr. D. J. Wood, organist of Exeter Cathedral, should be at the organ, as, apart from being a near neighbour, the Diocese of Truro was separated from that of Exeter a quarter of a century ago. Dr. M. J. Monk, organist of Truro, conducted, and the results of his labours and of those who so ably assisted him were manifest in a careful and reverential rendering of the music which proved to be so gratifying a feature of this memorable service. The courteous attention of the stewards deserves full acknowledgment, and the arrangements for seating the vast congregation reflected credit upon all concerned. Everything passed off most satisfactorily, and no notice of the ceremony, however limited, should fail to mention the valuable organizing services rendered by the Precentor of the Cathedral, the Rev. Canon Donaldson.

(Photo by Mr. F. H. Tims, Truro.)

Truro Cathedral.

It should be added that earlier in the day a choral celebration of the Holy Communion took place, the music being Smart in F, and the two new anthems already mentioned; and that, at 6 p.m., the music at the Choral Evensong included Sir Walter Parratt's inspiring

The little city of Truro appeared exceedingly gay in its prettily-decorated thoroughfares. Animated indeed was the sun-favoured scene, and right royal the welcome accorded by loyal Cornish folk to their Duke and Duchess as they (the Prince and Princess) wended their way to and from Tregothnan, the charming seat of their host, Lord Falmouth.

DOTTED CROCHET.

BERLIOZ IN ENGLAND.

A CENTENARY RETROSPECT.

(Continued from page 449.)

The second visit paid by Hector Berlioz to England was of an official nature. He came as a Juror of the Great Exhibition of 1851. It may not be without interest to give the names of his colleagues on the Jury who adjudicated upon the musical instruments:—

Sir H. R. Bishop (Chairman and Reporter)	Le Chevalier Neukomm
Sir George Smart	Dr. Carl Schafhäütl
M. Thalberg	Mr. W. Sterndale Bennett
Mr. Cipriani Potter	Dr. Black
M. Berlioz	Dr. Henry Wylde

Dr. Carl Schafhäütl was a learned Professor from Munich, and Dr. Black is said to have been an American physician! The familiar names of the other Jurors need no explanation. The Exhibition adjudications were evidently not very congenial to Berlioz. On one occasion he had fallen asleep on the stool at a grand pianoforte when Thalberg aroused him and said: 'Ah, confrère! the jury are assembling. Come along, we must be diligent. We have to examine to-day 32 musical snuff-boxes, 24 accordions, and 13 bombardons'!

In the intervals between his Exhibition duties Berlioz found time to write a series of highly entertaining articles on London musical life and other subjects for the Journal des Débats. Among the things which took his fancy were the London 'niggers'—'les hommes noirs chantant dans les rues,' he calls them. He was rather pleased with their 'petits airs à cinq voix, très-agréables d'harmonie, d'un rythme parfois original et assez mélodieux.' The verve and animation displayed in the performances of 'Ces faux Abyssiniens' (to adopt his own designation) met with his approval, and he does not fail to record 'les shillings et même les demi-couronnes' which passed into the exchequer of those peripatetic if not very pathetic burnt-cork minstrels.

The outstanding event of that 1851 visit was however the annual meeting of the Charity children in St. Paul's Cathedral on June 5. In a letter to his friend Joseph d'Ortigue in Paris, Berlioz writes from 27, Queen Anne Street, Cavendish Square, on June 21, 1851:—

'Read my second article in the Débats. If it does not make its appearance in Paris to-day, you must be on the watch for it every day. In it I describe the unexampléd

DR. M. J. MONK,
ORGANIST OF TRURO CATHEDRAL.
(Photo by Messrs. Elliott and Fry.)

processional hymn-tune (in E) with Mr. A. C. Benson's words; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, Stainer in A; Attwood's Anthem 'I was glad' (composed for the Coronation of King George IV.); and Handel's 'Hallelujah.'

At the public luncheon held in the Market Hall subsequent to the Dedication Service, the Prince of Wales read a telegram he had just received from the King, couched in these terms:—

'I am anxious you should express to the Lord-Lieutenant, the Bishop, and all those interested in the Cathedral, my great satisfaction at its completion, and that you should finish the work I commenced.'

impression made upon me recently in St. Paul's Cathedral, when I heard a choir of 6,500 charity school children, who meet there once a year. It was, without comparison, the most imposing and tumultuous ceremony which has ever, up to the present time, fallen to my lot to witness. I feel it even now while writing about it. It was the realization of one part of my dreams, and a proof that the powerful effect of musical masses is still absolutely unknown.'

It should be recalled that Haydn, fifty-nine years before, had been similarly affected by the singing of the Charity children in St. Paul's. He records: 'I was more touched by this innocent and reverent music than by any I ever heard in my life.' Thus the simplest strains sung in the most natural manner by some thousands of poor children touched the very heart-strings of two of the world's greatest musicians, their temperaments as opposite as the poles asunder.

The impressions of Berlioz must be set forth in fuller detail. His friend the late G. A. Osborne procured two tickets of admission from John Goss, the organist of St. Paul's; but as these were 'choir tickets,' Berlioz and Osborne had to put on the garments of praise—surplices—and join the select choir seated near the organ. They both sang from the same book, and Osborne records that 'Berlioz was dissolved in tears.'

Berlioz, after poetically describing the scene—the little girls in their white caps and tippets, with their red and green ribbons, reminding him of 'a mountain covered with snow, but interspersed here and there with patches of grass and flowers,' and so on—goes on to say: 'After a chord on the organ, this unheard of choir sang the first hymn in gigantic unison—

Le peuple entier qui sur la terre habite Chante au Seigneur d'une joyeuse voix.

(All people that on earth do well Sing to the Lord with cheerful voice.)

'To attempt to give an idea of the effect would be utterly useless,' he says. 'This choral (100th Psalm), in slow notes and of dignified character, was supported by the superb harmonies of the organ.'

'Notwithstanding the fear and trembling I experienced, I was enabled to control myself sufficiently to take my part in the chanted Psalms (sans mesure, reading psalms) sung by the select choir. Boyce's Te Deum—morceau sans caractère—completely calmed me. At the Coronation Anthem [Handel's 'Zadok the Priest'] the children occasionally joined the select choir in the solemn exclamations—such as God save the King! Long live the King! Amen! Hallelujah!—and then the electrification recommenced. I took special pains to count my bars, but my neighbour [G. A. Osborne], thinking I had lost my place, kept showing me where we were. But at the psalm-tune in triple time, by

J. Ganthaumy*—sung by all the voices and accompanied with trumpets, drums and organ—at this overwhelming resounding of a hymn-tune really charged with inspiration, and noble and touching expression, nature asserted her right to be weak, and I was obliged to cover my face with my music.'

While the Archbishop of Canterbury preached the sermon, Berlioz was taken to various parts of the Cathedral by one of its officials, that he might enjoy the scene from different points of view. He was then left at the 'bottom of the crater of the vocal volcano,' and when, at the last Psalm, it had recommenced its eruption, 'the power exceeded double what it had been elsewhere.'

BER-LIT-HAUT.

(From 'Charivari,' May 25, 1836.)

Berlioz goes on to say that on leaving St. Paul's he came across old John Cramer. The great pianist, forgetting that he spoke French perfectly, said to Berlioz in Italian, 'Cosa stupenda! stupenda! la gloria dell' Inghilterra!' Duprez, the eminent tenor, was similarly affected—in fact, on the steps of St. Paul's was seen a trio of musicians unable to control their feelings. In his delirium of emotion, Berlioz, hardly knowing where he was going, found himself on board a Chelsea steamboat getting drenched in a shower of rain. He was absolutely oblivious to his surroundings. His excited brain reeled with the strains of—

All people that on earth do dwell.

* This should be Ganthonny.

In 1852, the year following the Great Exhibition, Berlioz paid his third visit to this country. He was engaged by Frederic Beale, of Messrs. Cramer, Beale and Co., to conduct the concerts of the New Philharmonic Society, a concert-giving institution which came into existence in that year. The aim of the promoters was 'not only to extend a knowledge of the productions of the greatest masters by a more perfect performance of their works than has hitherto been attained, but likewise to give to modern and native composers a favourable opportunity for establishing the worth of their claims upon the attention and esteem of a discerning public.' No objection could be taken to such intentions, but there can be no doubt that the new Society was started as a rival to the old Philharmonic.

The concerts—six in number—were given in Exeter Hall. The band was magnificent. The strings numbered sixty-eight,—sixteen each 1st and 2nd violins, twelve each violas, violoncellos and double basses, led respectively by Sivori, Jansa, Goffrie, Piatti, and Bottesini—while the names of twelve harpists appear in the list of the orchestra, but the wood-wind was not doubled. M. Silas was set down to play the '1st Crotale (ou Cymbale Antique) in F,' M. Ganz the '2nd Crotale (ou Cymbale Antique) in B,' and M. Hector Berlioz and Dr. Wylde were the conductors.

The first concert took place on March 24, 1852. The first part of the programme included Mozart's 'Jupiter' Symphony, Beethoven's Triple Concerto for pianoforte, violin and violoncello (Silas, Sivori, and Piatti, soloists), and Weber's 'Oberon' Overture. Berlioz's 'Romeo and Juliet' Symphony (Part I.) was performed in the second part, which concluded with the 'William Tell' Overture. The Musical World, in recording the event, looked upon the concert as 'the commencement of a new epoch' as regards orchestral music in this country. To quote from the notice—

The old Society [Philharmonic] like the old Protectionists, has proved incorrigible. For their exclusiveness no medicine was found efficacious. It was a chronic complaint, a rooted malady, inherent in the blood, ensconced in the bones, corrupting the whole body. Medicines were tendered; nostrums suggested; panaceas proposed, all to no purpose. The physic was refused as unpalatable, or, if by chance swallowed on certain pressing occasions, rejected again as nauseous; acting rather as an emetic than a cathartic, occasionally, however, serving as an astringent to bind up all good resolutions in a dead block of inaction.

Mr. Davison then changed his metaphor of medicine for that of ice, but he waxed warm on 'a good pilot and a stout' (a term he applied to Costa, conductor of the old Philharmonic Society), and then went on to say:—

From time to time came Mendelssohn, and from time to time came Spohr, and from time to time the Philharmonic directors, rubbing together the palms of their hands, and smiting themselves upon the hollow of their thighs, would cry out like the Bedouin captains, 'By Abs and by Adnan, O the Philharmonic!'

We may now give the impressions of Berlioz himself concerning this initial concert of the New Philharmonic Society. Writing to his friend Joseph d'Ortigue, of Paris, on the day following—March 25, 1852—he says:—

My dear d'Ortigue,—I am sending you a few lines to let you know that I had a colossal success last night. I was recalled I do not know how many times, and applauded both as composer and conductor of the orchestra. This morning I see in The Times, Morning Post, Morning Herald, Advertiser, and other papers, such dithyrambs as have never been written about me before. I have just written to M. Bertin to ask him to get our friend Raymond, of the Journal des Débats, to make a pot-pourri of all the articles, so that Paris may know something about the affair.

Consternation reigns supreme in the camp of the old Philharmonic Society. Costa and Anderson are swallowing their bile as best they can. . . .

Go and see Brandus, if you have time, and tell him to take the marrow out of the English papers for his Gazette. They are worth reading, I assure you.

The second concert does not call for comment except that certain liberties which Berlioz took with Beethoven's C minor Symphony are thus referred to in the Musical World:—

We doubt if Beethoven would have approved of the additions to the brass instruments, and more particularly to the doubling of the horn parts, which, in the second theme of the first movement, is equally unnecessary and obtrusive.

The third concert (April 28) prompted another letter from Berlioz to d'Ortigue. He wrote:—

The night before last we gave our third concert, and the second performance of the first four parts of Roméo et Juliette. Every note was given with an amount of animation, delicacy, and intelligence unknown in this country. Here and there the orchestra surpassed, in power, everything I ever heard. The episode of the Fête, which did not quite satisfy me on the first day, was rendered as it never has been rendered anywhere else, and would you believe that in the introduction, the trombone solo was interrupted, after the third period, by rounds of applause?

As for my reception, I wish you had been there to witness it. The newspapers continue to back me up, with the exception of the Daily News, which is edited by Mr. Hogarth, a great friend of mine up to very recently, but for many years Secretary of the Philharmonic Society. Inde ira. X—also plays the Scudo to a certain extent, because he could not worm out of Beale the scudi he demanded for the English translations of the new works we are bringing out. (This is in confidence.) But this does not affect matters; the success is general, and I am a favourite. I am now preparing Beethoven's Choral Symphony, which, up to the present time, has only been spoilt here.

Beethoven's Choral Symphony, conducted by Berlioz, formed the pièce de résistance at the fourth concert. This event was made still more memorable in that one of the audience on that occasion was George Grove, who heard Beethoven's colossal creation for the first time, but 'could make very little of it.' Mr. Davison became enthusiastic over Berlioz's reading of 'No. 9.' He said:—

The time of the allegro was indicated to a nicety, and amidst all its extraordinary combinations, its exciting crescendos and overwhelming climaxes, the majesty, which is the prevalent characteristic of the movement, was never lost sight of. The scherzo was equally well-timed; and the trio, for the first time in our remembrance, played as fast as it should be. Long as is this extraordinary movement (more than twice the length of any other of the same character) it was felt to be brief by the audience, who, charmed by its originality, and the admirable decision with which it was executed, burst into an absolute uproar of cheers at its conclusion. . . . M. Berlioz very properly took the [instrumental] recitatives in tempo giusto, without which it is impossible they can go well.

It may be interesting to give the names of the artists who formed the vocal quartet on that occasion: Madame Clara Novello, Miss Williams, Mr. Sims Reeves, and Herr Staudigl. Berlioz was very pleased with the performance. He wrote to a friend in Paris:—

The Choral Symphony, which had never gone well here, produced a marvellous effect, and my success as a conductor was great. I was recalled at the conclusion of the first part of the concert. It was such an undertaking, that many people doubted our ability to get creditably to the end of that terrible and wonderful work.

The Choral Symphony was repeated at the sixth and last concert, which included a selection from the 'Faust' of Berlioz. The conductor-composer wrote to d'Ortigue thus:—

I am only sending you a few lines, my dear friend, to tell you that our final concert last Wednesday resulted in a brilliant success, an immense crowd, and large receipts. I was recalled four or five times. Two pieces from Faust were encored amid unbounded enthusiasm; the English papers declare that there never has been so enthusiastic a musical success in London. After the Chorus of Sylphs, a wreath was thrown to me, so that, as the warriors say, the success included laurels, oaks and all the flowers of midsummer.

He refers to the band and chorus in these terms:—

I know I shall sorely miss my magnificent orchestra and the chorus. What lovely female voices! I wish you could have heard Beethoven's Choral Symphony as we gave it, for the second time, last Wednesday. The ensemble in the immense room at Exeter Hall was truly imposing and magnificent.

It would seem as if Berlioz had a hankering after the conductorship of the Birmingham Festival, judging from the following curious reference thereto in the same letter:—

An artless amateur belonging to Birmingham recently expressed his regret at not having been able to engage me this year to conduct the festival in that town. It is very unfortunate for 'us,' he said, 'for it appears that M. Berlioz is even superior to M. Costa.'

Not the least gratifying incident to Berlioz of this sojourn in London was connected with the third concert conducted by him, at which a selection from Spontini's 'La Vestale' was performed. Madame Spontini (a daughter of Jean Baptiste Erard), the widow of the composer,* was present at that concert in Exeter Hall, on which occasion she sent to Berlioz her husband's baton and with it the following note:—

Sir,—I came here to attend the concert of this evening. Will you permit me to present to you the baton which my dear husband used to conduct the works of Gluck, Mozart, and his own? It cannot be transmitted into better hands than yours. When you are conducting this evening 'La Vestale,' it will vividly remind you of my dear husband, who loved and admired you so much. Heaven has refused him the satisfaction to hear the last performance of his 'Olympia' at Berlin, and that of 'La Vestale,' conducted by you. Yet he will hear you this evening!

Accept, &c.,

WIDOW C. SPONTINI.

Berlioz must have been greatly touched by this gift and the letter which accompanied the precious relic. This is by no means the least interesting incident in the history of the baton.

F. G. E.

(To be continued.)

WILLIAM STERNDALE BENNETT (1816—1875).

(Concluded from page 381.)

Since the appearance of the two preceding instalments of this biographical sketch, we have received the following interesting information from Mr. Sidney Maxwell, organist of the Parish Church, Wandsworth (All Saints'), relating to the only organistship held by Sterndale Bennett. Mr. Maxwell writes:—

With reference to the articles on Sir Sterndale Bennett which have recently appeared in THE MUSICAL TIMES, I think the following extracts from the Churchwardens' Accounts and Vestry Minute Book of the Parish of Wandsworth may be of interest to you.

The account books show that Mr. W. B. (sic) Bennett received a salary of 30 guineas for one year's services (1834-5) as organist of St. Ann's Chapel, now St. Ann's Church.

The following information is summarized from the Vestry Minute Book:—

1834. Apl. 1st. Mr. Fitzgerald resigns his post at the Chapel.

Three Candidates nominated; on the show of hands Mr. Bennett unsuccessful.

A poll was demanded on his behalf, which took place on April 3rd.

Result—Mr. Carter 107, Mr. Bennett 174 votes.

Exception was taken as to the legality of the election; resolved that Counsel's opinion be taken thereon.

1834. Apl. 17th. Vestry again meets, and on the strength of Mr. Riesiger's opinion that the election was in order, Mr. Bennett was then elected at a salary of 30 guineas per annum.

1835. Apl. 21st. Letter read from Mr. Bennett resigning Organistship at St. Ann's Chapel. After a poll Mr. William Carter elected in his place.

Bennett's initials are nowhere given in the Minute Book, but the above documentary evidence proves that he was organist for one year only (April, 1834, to April, 1835) of St. Ann's Chapel, Wandsworth, and not Wandsworth Church (All Saints'), as is stated in various books of reference.

'The May Queen,' Sterndale Bennett's best-known work, in spite of its poor libretto, was composed for the first Leeds Musical Festival, held in the Town Hall, a brand-new structure, on September 8—11, 1858. Queen Victoria opened the building on September 7; on the evening of the following day 'The May Queen' was first performed under the composer's direction. From a copy of the original

* Spontini had died in the previous year—on January 14, 1851.

word-book now before us we find the work—sandwiched between two miscellaneous selections—thus described:—

Pastoral (MS.) THE MAY QUEEN.

The words by Henry F. Chorley—the music by Professor W. Sterndale Bennett.

(First time of performance.)

Miss Clara Novello (Countess Gigliucci) is the only surviving member of the quartet of soloists who sang at the production of Bennett's genial cantata; the other vocalists were Miss Dolby, Messrs. Sims Reeves and Weiss. 'With a laugh as we go round' was encored, and according to the Musical World, 'the audience were delighted, and overwhelmed the composer with sincere and rapturous applause.' The overture to 'The May Queen' was an earlier work entitled 'Marie du bois'; with this exception Bennett composed the music of his cantata in six weeks during a sojourn at the 'Gilbert Arms,' an old-fashioned hostel at Eastbourne, which no longer exists.

The year 1862 was an eventful one for our composer, in that he had to set to music two official Odes. The words of the first of these—'Ode sung at the opening of the International Exhibition'—were by Tennyson. Professor Case, of Oxford, the composer's son-in-law, in kindly showing us Tennyson's original manuscript of the poem, tells an interesting circumstance connected with this Ode. The poet had caused the opening line to read—

Uplift a hundred voices full and sweet.

Bennett, however, pointed out to him that more than a hundred voices would sing the music, and Tennyson thereupon altered it by multiplying the number by ten—

Uplift a thousand voices full and sweet.

Who will say that the line is not improved thereby? Again: after Tennyson had finished the poem the Prince Consort died. This sad event caused the interpolation of the lines—an exquisite gem of an afterthought—

O silent father of our Kings to be Mourn'd in this golden hour of jubilee,
For this, for all, we weep our thanks to thee!

The Exhibition was opened on May Day, 1862. On June 10 the Duke of Devonshire (father of the present Duke) was installed Chancellor of the University of Cambridge. The Ode for this occasion was written by Charles Kingsley. In the printed edition of Kingsley's Poems (Macmillan) a foot-note somewhat curiously states—

This Ode was set to Professor Sterndale Bennett's music, and sung in the Senate House, Cambridge, on the Day of Installation.

But, as Mr. Weller would have said, 'the boot is on the other leg.'

The fine music of this Installation Ode remains in manuscript; perhaps it may some day be given to the world. The soprano solos were splendidly sung by Titiens. The lines—

She, pensive, waits the merrier faces,
Of those your wittier sisters three,
O'er jest and dance and song who still preside,
To cheer her in this merry-mournful tide;
And bids us, as she smiles or sighs,
Tune our fancies by her eyes.

suggested the charming minuet (in B flat) which afterwards found its way—plus its imposing Trio for the 'brass'—into the G minor Symphony, first performed, by-the-way, at the Philharmonic Society's concert of June 27, 1864. But yet another work belongs to the eventful year 1862—the poetically-conceived overture 'Paradise and the Peri,' composed expressly for the Jubilee concert of the Philharmonic Society, and duly performed thereat under Bennett's direction on July 14, 1862.

Upon the resignation of Charles Lucas in June, 1866, Bennett was appointed Principal of the Royal Academy of Music, a post he held till his death. In the following year he composed his Sacred Cantata 'The Woman of Samaria,' a devotional work first performed at the Birmingham Musical Festival, August 28, 1867 (for which it was written), under the conductorship of the late Sir W. G. Cousins, who officiated for the composer. The principals were Titiens, Sainton-Dolby, Dr. W. H. Cummings (for whom Bennett specially composed the charming air, with its violoncelli accompaniment, 'His salvation is nigh them that fear Him'), and Mr. Santley. Two of the numbers, 'Therefore, they shall come and sing' and 'Come, O Israel,' formed part of an earlier and unfinished oratorio entitled 'Zion.' The longest chorus in the work, 'Therefore with joy shall ye draw water,' and the familiar quartet 'God is a Spirit,' were not inconsiderable afterthoughts; they did not find a place in the Sacred Cantata until its first performance in London, St. James's Hall, February 21, 1868.

Professor Case (to whom it belongs) in showing us the original draft of 'God is a Spirit' called our attention to the fact that Bennett originally intended that bars 3 and 4 should be bars 1 and 2. This can best be shown by a transcript of the sketch (reduced to short score) with Bennett's directions superscribed:—

'Reverse the bars.'

God is a Spi-rit, 'God is a Spi-rit and

Dr. W. H. Cummings, who sang in the first performance of 'The Woman of Samaria' in London, as well as its production at Birmingham, has kindly furnished us with the following anecdote in reference to 'God is a Spirit':—

The Quartet was brought by Bennett (in separate voice parts) into the ante-room at St. James's Hall just before the commencement of the concert. It was hastily sung through—and then we went straight on to the platform!

The 'Ajax' music and 'The Maid of Orleans' Sonata for Pianoforte closed the creative period of Bennett's career. During the few remaining years of his life honours fell thickly upon him. His own University (Cambridge) had conferred the degree of M.A. (honoris causâ) in 1867, and Oxford followed in 1870 with its honorary D.C.L. On March 24, 1871, he was knighted at Windsor by Queen Victoria. But these distinctions, gratifying as they undoubtedly were to their modest-minded recipient, paled in interest compared with the public testimonial presented to him at St. James's Hall on April 19, 1872, amid every token of esteem and affection for one who had consistently trodden the pathway of true art, and who had never swerved therefrom. The gift house, No. 66, St. John's Wood Road (since demolished by the Great Central Railway), on February 1, 1875, in the fifty-ninth year of his age. The news of his death was received with genuine and widespread regret, and much satisfaction was felt when Dean Stanley returned a favourable answer to an influentially-signed memorial that his remains should find a resting-place among the illustrious dead in Westminster Abbey. There, on February 6, a vast congregation assembled to witness the last rites over one greatly respected and beloved, and those who were privileged to be present will never forget the tender pathos of 'God is a Spirit' as the simple and devotional strains floated through the vastness of the noble fane.

FACSIMILE OF THE AUTOGRAPH OF STERNDALE BENNETT'S 'RONDO PIACEVOLE' (BARS 1 TO 16), ORIGINALLY DESIGNATED 'RONDO GRAZIOSO.'

(Reproduced by kind permission of Professor and Mrs. Thomas Case.)

took the form of a sum of money (upwards of £1,000) to found 'The Sterndale Bennett Scholarship' at the Royal Academy of Music, and 'The Sterndale Bennett Prize' (annual) for a female student at the same Institution. The presentation was made by Sir John Duke Coleridge, and the music performed on that memorable occasion was typically Bennett—the 'Naiades' overture (by the Philharmonic orchestra), and the two delightful part-songs, 'Come, live with me and be my love' and 'Sweet stream that winds through yonder glade,' sung by the members of Henry Leslie's choir.

In less than three years the somewhat strenuous but art-devoted life of Sterndale Bennett finished its course. He died after a short illness at his

The grave is in the North Aisle of the Choir (known as the Musicians' Aisle), and in close proximity to the last resting-places of Henry Purcell, Dr. Blow and Dr. Croft.

In regard to the personality of Sterndale Bennett, may it not be found in his music? Refinement, sincerity of purpose, and poetic imagination are there reflected in a very marked degree. It would be easy to point to chapter and verse in illustration thereof, but one has only to examine some of his smaller compositions—e.g., the 'Three sketches for the Pianoforte (the Lake, the Millstream, and the Fountain),' to find proof of his genius. That he was not without a vein of humour is shown by the following which by the kindness of Professor Case we are enabled to give. It is written on the MS. of the 'Rondo Piacevole,' and was intended for his fiancée, Miss Wood:—

Under the music Bennett has written:—

To be practised every morning, very slowly at first, increasing the speed, by which means a perfect, distinct and rapid execution is acquired, and the performer ensures unto himself, or herself, celebrity and everlasting reputation.

Mrs. Wood, the mother of the young lady, took a different view of the above prescription, as she has endorsed it with: 'How dare you spend your time thus !!'

Bennett was a man of simple tastes. In his leisure hours he occupied himself with reading and walking, especially in the country and in company with his dog. He was very fond of children. In this connection a charming anecdote is related of his last days. It was his custom to finish the exacting work of the week by giving gratuitous pianoforte lessons to three girls in the Clergy Orphan School, then situated nearly opposite his own house. A friend had asked him to go to the Crystal Palace (on January 23) to hear his G minor Symphony at the Saturday concert. 'No,' replied Bennett, 'I should not like to disappoint the poor girls.' These three lessons proved to be the last act of his vocation and ministry.

The following is an attempt at a complete catalogue of Sir Sterndale Bennett's published compositions, with the names of those to whom they are severally dedicated, &c.:—

Opus.	Title.	Dedicated to
1.	Pianoforte Concerto No. 1, in D minor
2.	Capriccio, for pianoforte, in D minor	Cipriani Potter.
3.	Overture, 'Parisina'	Henry Field, of Bath.
4.	Pianoforte Concerto No. 2, in E flat	His master, Cipriani Potter.
5.
6.
7.
8.	Sestet, pianoforte and strings	Charles Coventry (Music Publisher).
9.	Pianoforte Concerto No. 3, in C minor	J. B. Cramer.
10.	Three Musical Sketches for pianoforte ('The Lake,' 'The Millstream,' and 'The Fountain')	J. W. Davison.
11.	Six Studies (in capriccio form), for pianoforte (composed while still a student)	G. A. Macfarren.
12.	Three Impromptus (in B minor, in E, and F sharp minor), for pianoforte	W. P. Beale.
13.	Sonata for pianoforte, in F minor	Mendelssohn.
14.	Three Romances for pianoforte.
15.	Overture, 'The Naiades'	Royal Academy of Music.
16.	Fantasia, for pianoforte	Schumann.
17.	Three Diversions, for pianoforte, four hands.
18.	Allegro Grazioso in A, for pianoforte.
19.	Pianoforte Concerto No. 4, in F minor	Moscheles.
20.	Overture, 'The Wood-nymph' (Composed for the Gewandhaus Concerts, Leipzig.)	Concert Direction, Leipzig.
21.
22.	Caprice in E (formerly called 'L'Hilarité') for pianoforte and orchestra	Madame Dulcken.

Opus.	Title.	Dedicated to
23.	Six Songs (first set).
24.	Suite de Pièces, for pianoforte	Mrs. Anderson.
25.	Rondo Piacevole, for pianoforte.
26.	Chamber Trio in A for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello	Kellow J. Pye, of Exeter.
27.	Scherzo, for pianoforte, in E minor	John Suett, of Doncaster.
28.	Introduzione e Pastorale in A; Rondino in E; Capriccio in A minor, for pianoforte	Miss Catherine Jameson.
29.	Two Characteristic Studies ('L'Amabile' e 'L'Appassionata'), for pianoforte.
30.	Four Sacred Duets, for two treble voices. (Composed expressly for the Misses Williams. The elder, Miss Martha Williams, subsequently became Mrs. Charles Locket.)
31.	Tema e Variazioni in E, for pianoforte.
32.	Sonata 'duo, for pianoforte and violoncello	Alfredo Piatti (for whom it was also composed).
33.	Preludes and Lessons for the pianoforte, consisting of sixty pieces in all the keys. (Composed for the pupils at Queen's College, London.)
34.	Rondeau, 'Pas triste, pas gai,' for pianoforte.
35.	Six songs (second set).
36.	'Flowers of the Months' (only January and February were completed; these were published posthumously in January, 1876).
37.	Rondo à la Polonoise in C minor, for pianoforte. (Composed for Messrs. Payne's Album, Leipzig.)
38.	Toccata in C minor, for pianoforte. (Composed for the Album of the Society for Promoting Music in the Netherlands.)
39.	'The May Queen'—a Pastoral. (Composed for the first Leeds Musical Festival of 1858.)
40.	Ode for the opening of the International Exhibition, 1862. Words by Tennyson.
41.	Cambridge Installation Ode (1862). Words by Charles Kingsley. (Unpublished.)
42.	Fantasia-Overture, 'Paradise and the Peri.' (Composed for the Jubilee of the Philharmonic Society, 1862.)
43.	Symphony in G minor. (Composed for the Philharmonic Society, 1864.)
44.	Sacred Cantata, 'The Woman of Samaria.' (Composed for the Birmingham Musical Festival of 1867.)
45.	Music to Sophocles' 'Ajax.'
46.	Sonata for pianoforte, 'The Maid of Orleans'	Madame Arabella Goddard.

Compositions without opus numbers:—

Pianoforte: The major, minor, and chromatic scales, with remarks on practice, fingering, &c.; Romance, 'Geneviève'; Minuetto espressivo; Præludium; Sonatina in C, published posthumously (composed for his grandson).

Songs: (In addition to Op. 23 and 35) 'The better land'; 'In radiant loveliness'; 'The young Highland rover.'

Trio: 'To a nightingale at mid-day,' for three treble voices.

Anthems: 'Remember now thy Creator'; 'Great is our Lord, and great is His power'; 'The fool hath said in his heart'; 'Oh! that I knew where I might find Him' (for St. Thomas's Day); 'In Thee, O Lord, have I put my trust' (Motet for 8 voices); 'Lord, who shall dwell in Thy tabernacle?' (8 parts); 'Now, my God, let I beseech Thee' (composed for the consecration of the Chapel of St. John's College, Cambridge, May 12, 1869); 'Lord, to Thee our song we raise' (Sacred song for 4 female voices).

Ten hymn-tunes.

Four-part songs: 'Of all the Arts beneath the heaven'; 'Come, live with me and be my love'; 'Sweet stream that winds.'

The Chorale Book (1862), with Supplement (1864), edited in collaboration with Mr. Otto Goldschmidt. An admirable and very useful compilation.

Professor Case has very kindly shown us the autograph scores of some of Bennett's early and unpublished compositions; they include the following:—

- Symphony No. 1. In E flat. 1832.
(The subject of the Lento was afterwards used in the Motet 'In Thee, O Lord.')
" No. 2. In D minor. 1833.
" No. 4. In A. 1834.
" No. 5. In G minor. 1835.
(The last movement of this Symphony is an orchestral version of the sixth study, in G minor, for pianoforte.)
(No. 3 is missing.)
Overture in D minor. 1832.
" 'The Tempest.' 1832.
" 'The Merry Wives of Windsor.' 1834.
" Dramatic (unfinished).

The original slow movement of the F minor Pianoforte Concerto (dated September 26, 1838) is a Romanza in A flat, entitled 'A stroll through the meadows.' A Concertstück for Pianoforte is dated 1843.

The portrait of Sir Sterndale Bennett which forms one of our special supplements, is a reproduction of a water-colour by Wageman, painted in 1847, when its subject was thirty-one years of age. It is reproduced, for the first time, by the kind permission of Professor and Mrs. Thomas Case.

F. G. E.

Occasional Notes.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS OF THE DAY TO:—

Miss Anna Williams	- - - -	August 6.
Granville Bantock	- - - -	" 7.
Herbert Thompson	- - - -	" 11.
S. Coleridge-Taylor	- - - -	" 15.
Joseph C. Bridge	- - - -	" 16.
Miss Wakefield	- - - -	" 19.
W. H. Bell	- - - -	" 20.
Otto Goldschmidt	- - - -	" 21.
Sir Alexander Mackenzie	- - - -	" 22.
William H. Cummings	- - - -	" 22.
Edward Silas	- - - -	" 22.
Moritz Moszkowski	- - - -	" 23.
Walter Macfarren	- - - -	" 28.
George Riseley	- - - -	" 28.
Felix Mottl	- - - -	" 29.
F. Cunningham Woods	- - - -	" 29.

Canon Pemberton has again devised an attractive programme for the Hovingham Musical Festival, of which he is the father and conductor. This interesting music-making is announced to take place in the little Yorkshire village on September 23 and 24. The works to be performed include Verdi's 'Requiem,' Bach's 'O Light everlasting,' Wesley's 'Wilderness' (with the composer's orchestral accompaniment), the 'Hymn of Praise,' Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony, Saint-Saëns's Pianoforte Concerto in G minor (soloist, Miss Fanny Davies), Mr. T. T. Noble's 'Wasps' Overture, a violoncello concerto (soloist, Mr. Herbert Withers), and a solo on the contra bass (Mr. C. Hobday), in addition to pianoforte solos, songs, &c., with a chamber concert thrown in—veritably a feast of good things! We learn that 'the band will be complete in all departments,' and the list of first-class vocalists is a guarantee of excellence in the solo work of the Festival. May all success, as aforetime, attend the efforts of Canon Pemberton and his worthy colleagues in music-loving Yorkshire.

The extra concert of the Richard Strauss Festival given on June 8—at which Mr. Richard Platt, the American pianist, appeared—was inadvertently omitted to be noticed in our last issue. The concert deserved special recognition in the tribute paid to English—or, to be more exact, Irish—music by Herr Willem Mengelberg, conductor of the Concertgebouw Symphonic Orchestra, Amsterdam. The novelty in the programme, so far as this country is concerned, was the 'Irish Rhapsody No. 2, in F minor, Op. 84,' composed by Sir Charles Stanford—a work, by-the-way, which was recently produced with great success at Amsterdam, under the baton of Herr Mengelberg. It is natural that Sir Charles Stanford should go to the rich melodic store of his native land for the themes of a Rhapsody which he has superscribed 'The Lament for the Son of Ossian.' We learn from the programme annotation that—

The Rhapsody is inspired by the death of Oscar, son of Ossian, the Lament for him, the vengeance for him, and his burial. But the composer's aims are not pictorial: the Rhapsody is to be considered to be—in Beethoven's phrase—'Mehr Empfindung als Malerei,' an expression of the emotions rather than tone-painting.

The composer uses three Irish traditional tunes—'The Lament for Owen Roe O'Neill,' 'Awake, Fianna,' and 'Lay his sword by his side.' We give the last named—a really beautiful melody, to which the E flat lends a peculiar charm:—

LAY HIS SWORD BY HIS SIDE.

There is no need to comment upon the deftness with which Sir Charles Stanford has made use of such interesting folk-song material in a work which adds to his established reputation in the region of skilled musicianship.

The Hon. Secretary of the National Festival of British Music desires us to call attention to the Guarantee Fund (£5,000) now being raised in order to give financial stability to a proposal which should enlist the general sympathy and co-operation of the music-loving public in the cause of native art. Nearly £3,000 of the above amount has already been guaranteed, and intending guarantors are asked to communicate either with Mrs. Knatchbull (Dora Bright), Hon. Secretary, 99, Cadogan Gardens, S.W., or with the agent, E. L. Robinson, 11, Wigmore Street, W.

The following gentlemen constitute the Board of Directors of the Philharmonic Society for the ensuing season:—

Cav. Carlo Albanesi.	Sir Hubert Parry, Bart.
Mr. Francesco Berger.	Cav. Alberto Randegger.
Dr. W. H. Cummings.	Mr. John Thomas.

The high temperature, combined with the high pressure at which musical critics had to work during the last week of June, may account for some curious lapses in the London daily press concerning the Handel Festival. We are told that Sir Walter Parratt played the Organ Concerto in B flat, whereas he performed the more familiar one in F! 'Cease, ye pretty, warbling choir,' and 'Let no rash intruder' may be classed among minor slips; but what shall be said of the following titles of choruses—'From the wisser,' and 'Your harps and symbols sound'? Are these symbols of the wisdom of Solomon?

The gentleman who 'did' the recent review at Aldershot made a bad shot in describing the arrival of the royal cavalcade at the saluting point. We read that 'the troops presented arms, the bayonets flashing like a sheet of countless mirrors in the sun, the massed bands played half a bar of "God save the King" and the whole of the "Marseillaise." His Majesty and President Loubet saluted, and every head was uncovered. It was a great and impressive sight.' No doubt; but what about the sound of that half-bar of the National Anthem? What must President Loubet have thought of it?

The General in command, remembering the famous Charge of the Light Brigade, might have exclaimed—

Half a bar, half a bar,
Half a bar — onward!

'How the centenary of the birth of Berlioz ought to be celebrated' is the title of an article by A. Mangeot in a recent number of Le Monde Musical. At Grenoble, the chief town of the département in which the French composer was born, the special feature of the Festival in August is to consist of a series of competitions of wind bands and orpheonist societies! The only portion of the Festival consecrated to Berlioz is to consist of two concerts: 'La Damnation de Faust,' performed under the direction of M. Jehin, and fragments of 'L'Enfance du Christ' and of other works, under the direction of M. Vincent d'Indy and Herr Weingartner. M. Mangeot hopes that the committee will make a more serious attempt to honour the master. As for Paris, there are as yet no signs of a celebration. There will no doubt be special concerts with Berlioz programmes, but that, as M. Mangeot justly observes, will not be sufficient. He considers it the bounden duty of the Opéra and the Opéra-Comique to give performances of 'La Prise de Troie,' 'Les Troyens à Carthage,' 'Benvenuto Cellini,' and 'Béatrice et Bénédict.' By presenting such a cycle, Paris would render justice to the great composer and atone for the neglect shown to him during his lifetime.

Mr. Hermann Klein has returned to New York after a successful sojourn in London. He proposes to pay an annual visit to the Metropolis during the London season, and next year he will give an important concert to introduce some of his best American pupils. Mr. Heinemann will shortly publish in book form the reminiscent articles of Mr. Klein which have recently appeared in the Century Magazine.

The following letters appeared in The Times of the 18th and 23rd ult. respectively:—

HOUSES OF HISTORICAL INTEREST.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE TIMES.'

SIR,—Will you grant me the hospitality of your columns for the purpose of drawing the attention of the Historical Records and Buildings Committee of the London County Council to 91, Great Portland Street, the house in which Carl Maria von Weber (1786-1826), the composer of 'Der Freischütz,' 'Euryanthe,' and 'Oberon,' died on June 5, 1826?

Weber having in the previous year been commissioned by Charles Kemble to write 'Oberon' for Covent Garden, arrived in London on March 5, 1826, in order to preside over the rehearsals of his opera, the first performance of which took place on April 12.

No. 91, Great Portland Street, was then the house of Sir George Smart, the well-known musician in whom Weber, his body ravaged already by the disease to which he was so soon to fall a victim, found a genial and generous host. It was here that not only parts of 'Oberon' were finished, but that a few days before his death, according to his son and biographer, he wrote 'with trembling hands' his very last composition, a song to words of Thomas Moore from 'Lalla Rookh,' 'From Chindara's warbling fount I come,' composed for the then celebrated singer Miss Stephens, afterwards the Countess of Essex, and sung by her, accompanied by Weber on the pianoforte, at a concert given by the latter in Argyle Rooms on May 26.

It is to be hoped that the London County Council may see their way and find it possible to commemorate by a tablet the sojourn and death amongst us of one of the greatest and noblest geniuses the world of music has ever seen, of one whose evergreen creations are to-day still, as they have been for three generations past, a source of unalloyed pleasure and elevating influence to thousands of people in every civilized country.

Yours faithfully,

EDWARD SPEYER.

Ridgehurst, Shenley, Herts, July 15.

THE HOUSE IN WHICH WEBER DIED.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE TIMES.'

SIR,—Mr. Edward Speyer, in his letter which appeared in your columns on Saturday last, is of opinion that the house in Great Portland Street wherein Carl Maria von Weber drew his last breath (on June 4, 1826) is numbered 91. Permit me to say that its present number is 103; therefore to affix a commemorative tablet, as Mr. Speyer suggests, to the house now numbered 91 would be misleading.

Ten years ago, when reading a paper on 'Some musical haunts in London,' before the London section of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, I called attention to the fact that there was nothing to indicate the house in Great Portland Street, formerly occupied by Sir George Smart, in which Weber died. I thereupon suggested that the Society should remedy this neglect on the part of our public bodies by affixing a tablet to commemorate the sad event of 1826. The necessary consent of the owner and tenant was obtained, and a tablet was placed between the ground-floor windows of No. 103, Great Portland Street.

This was in 1894, and on passing the house to-day I found that the tablet is still in the same position. Therefore the memorial which Mr. Speyer proposes has been in existence and visible to every passer-by for the last nine years.

I may add that in the year 1826 Smart's house was numbered 91; but all who have experience in this class of investigation know too well the pitfalls caused by the re-numbering of London houses—in fact, it is sometimes necessary to consult parish rate-books in order to obtain accurate information.

Yours faithfully,

F. G. EDWARDS.

3, Canfield Gardens, Hampstead, N.W.

These communications need no comment they speak for themselves.

The Hereford Musical Festival will be held next month. Preceded by a 'Grand Opening Service, with full orchestra and chorus,' on Sunday, September 6, at 3 p.m., the programme will consist of the following works, all the performances, except the two concerts, taking place in the Cathedral:—

Tuesday, Sept. 8th.	11.30 a.m.—Elijah Mendelssohn.
" "	7.30 p.m. { Orchestral Interlude from Christus, Granville Bantock. Israel in Egypt (Selection) Handel. Hymn of Praise Mendelssohn. The Atonement (composed for the Festival) S. Coleridge-Taylor.
	Wednesday, ,, 9th. 11.30 a.m. { Jesus sleeps (Cantata) Bach. Symphony in G minor Mozart.
	" " 8 p.m.—Concert (in Shire Hall).
	Thursday, ,, 10th. 11.30 a.m. { The Dream of Gerontius Elgar. Voces Clamantium (composed for the Festival) Parry. Symphony in C minor Brahms. Christmas Mystery Wolfgram. Presentation of Christ in the Temple Eccard. Good Friday and Grail Music from Parsifal Wagner.
Friday, ,, 11th.	7.30 p.m.—Messiah Handel.
	8 p.m.—Chamber Concert (in Shire Hall).

Mr. W. Frye-Parker will be principal first violin; Mr. Ivor A. Atkins and Mr. A. Herbert Brewer are to share the duties of organist; and Dr. G. R. Sinclair, organist of Hereford Cathedral, will occupy his accustomed place as conductor.

Some highly interesting letters and documents relating to Beethoven were sold by auction by Messrs. Sotheby last month. One letter, dated March 16, 1815, was written by J. Häring for the composer, but signed by the latter, to Sir George Smart, asking for his influence to induce publishers to take certain of his works. Another, also to Smart, was the letter Beethoven dictated to Schindler but signed himself only about five weeks before his death, requesting the Philharmonic Society to give the concert for his benefit which they had proposed to do several years previously. A portion only of that letter was published by Nohl. There were also letters from the great Beethoven enthusiast, the late Sir George Grove, to Miss Smart, daughter of Sir George Smart, and a copy of one from her in reply giving particulars of her father's memorable visit to Beethoven at Vienna in 1825, when the master gave him the tempi for the Choral Symphony. Of music there was one sheet on both sides of which Beethoven had sketched the first part of the Finale of the Sonata in C sharp minor (Op. 27, No. 2), vulgarly known as the 'Moonlight.' Sketches of that wonderful work are—as all who have examined his sketch-books know—extremely rare. We gave a facsimile of another and evidently later sketch of the same movement as one of our Special Supplements in our issue of March last.

The Musée de l'Opéra, founded by the late M. Nuittier, has recently been opened, and in the carrying out of the scheme the director, M. Charles Malherbe, had to contend against many difficulties. Among the autographs there is the leader's part of the Bacchanal of 'Tannhäuser,' written out by Wagner for the performances of the opera at Paris in 1861. There are theatre bills from the time of the 18th century onwards, including those of the premières of 'Les Huguenots' and 'La Juive,' and the one of the Spectacle at which the Duc de Berri was assassinated. Particularly interesting are the drawings which give as it were a history of theatre decorations from the 17th century to the present day.

HALF-A-CENTURY AGO.

From THE MUSICAL TIMES of August, 1853.

NOVEL METHOD OF TEACHING MUSIC.—A Highland piper having a scholar to teach, disdained to crack his brains with the names of semibreves, minims, crotchets, and quavers. 'Here, Donald,' said he, 'take your pipes, lad, and gi' us up a blast. So! very well blown indeed. But what is sound, Donald, without sense? You may blow for ever without making a tune of it, if I don't tell you how the queer things on the paper must help you. You see that big fellow with a round open face (pointing to a semibreve between the two lines of a bar): he moves slowly from that line to this, while you beat one with your foot and gi' a long blast—if now you put a leg to him, you make two of him, and he would move twice as fast: if you blacken his face, he will run four times faster than the fellow with the white face; but if, after blackening his face, you bend his knee, or tie his legs, he will hop eight times faster than the white-faced fellow I showed you at first. Now, when'er you blow your pipes, Donald, remember this—the tighter those fellows' legs are tied, the faster they will run, and the quicker they are sure to dance.'

NEW PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—The fifth concert took place on the 28th. Beethoven's Choral Symphony, a Concert Overture by Spohr, and the Jessonda Overture by the same composer, were amongst the compositions performed. At this concert a youth of tender years, Master John [Francis] Barnett, played the concerto in D minor, by Mendelssohn, in first-rate style, exciting the wonder of audience and critic by the astonishingly clever manner in which he treated it. The great Choral Symphony was played with precision and effect. Two pieces of sacred music by Mr. E. Silas were presented to the audience; and although we are not, strictly speaking, prepared to pin our faith to the school in which the composer has studied, or to championize his works as a whole, there is much in these two sacred compositions to command attention.

DR. SPOHR.—We believe that Dr. Spohr will not remain in London for the purpose of conducting his Jessonda, as had been expected. The part of the lover in this opera, rejected by Signor Mario, is now, we read, to be sustained by Signor Lucchesi.

MISS ST. AGNAN'S CONCERT.—This young lady, who addresses the writer of these notices by name, but to whom he believes he is personally unknown, gave a concert at the latter part of June—too late for a record in our last number. The concert was held at Blagrove's Room; but as it was but an assemblage of the pupils of Mr. G. Lejeune, we have no distinct idea that the critic's office was anything but a sinecure on the occasion; but as Miss St. Agnan has requested our indulgence in the matter, and as we should be sorry to sacrifice our reputation for gallantry, we will speak kindly to the young lady and offer her our advice to study the art she professes carefully and conscientiously, and in a few years she will, doubtless, be better able to bear the opinion of the critic, and no doubt in better position to satisfy his naturally and proverbially querulous disposition. At present we can only say, that no reason occurs to us why Miss St. Agnan should not take a respectable place hereafter amongst the vocalists who exercise their talents in public. Mr. G. Lejeune was the accompanist.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

J. B. (Dublin).—We must decline to chronicle the number of encores demanded at a concert. We know it has been too much considered the criterion of success, but we have generally found it to result from the defective musical education of the audience.

Nine open scholarships or exhibitions are shortly to be competed for at the Royal Academy of Music. These are named the Ada Lewis (five scholarships), the Dove, the Campbell Clarke, the Sainton, and the Stainer. Full particulars of these valuable aids to gifted young musicians may be obtained on application to the Secretary, Royal Academy of Music, Tenterden Street, London, W.

THE ARTHUR SULLIVAN MEMORIAL.

Nothing could be more appropriate than that the public memorial to Arthur Sullivan should find a place in the near vicinity of the Savoy Theatre, the scene of his fruitful labours. The memorial—the work of Mr. W. Goscombe John, A.R.A.—stands in the gardens of the Victoria Embankment. It takes the form of a bust of the composer erected on a tall pedestal. Against the front of the pedestal rests a bronze figure representing 'Grief.' On one side, apparently flung carelessly down, are some laurel

THE SULLIVAN MEMORIAL.

(Photographed specially for 'The Musical Times'.)

leaves, a lute, the mask of Comedy, and the open score of the 'Yeomen of the Guard,' all worked in bronze. A stone slab at the foot of the pedestal bears the simple inscription:—

1842—ARTHUR SULLIVAN—1900.

On one side of the column is the following appropriate quotation (from 'The Yeomen of the Guard') :—

Is life a boon?
If so it must befall
That death, whene'er he call,
Must call too soon.

W. S. GILBERT.

The ceremony of unveiling the memorial bust took place on the 10th ult., when the duty was gracefully discharged by Her Royal Highness Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, in the presence of a large and representative company. After Lord James of Hereford had delivered an 'appreciation' of Sir Arthur Sullivan, the Princess pulled the cord which released the drapery covering the memorial and exposed the bust and its accessories to view. Sir George Lewis, Bart., on behalf of the Memorial Fund Committee, asked the London County Council to accept the bust as a public trust, a request to which Lord Monkswell, Chairman of the Council, readily acceded on behalf of the people of London.

An exceedingly pleasant feature was the presence of Sullivan's valued colleague, Mr. W. S. Gilbert, who came forward to move a vote of thanks to Her Royal Highness for her gracious presence. In the course of his remarks, the veteran author of the 'Bab Ballads' and the most whimsical of comic-opera librettists referred to his full score of years in association with Sullivan, and said that he should like to bear testimony to the abnegation and self-effacement to which Sir Arthur was always prepared to submit himself whenever he had reason to believe that any part of his share of their joint work was inconsistent with the effect intended to be achieved by the whole design.

The Duke of Argyll, in replying on behalf of the Princess to the vote of thanks, said he hoped that Sullivan's example of placing English opera on the English stage would be followed in future, and that we might not only have foreign works on the stage of this country, but also those of our own composers.

The following selection of music, all composed by Sullivan, was played by the 'A' section of the Parks Band of the London County Council, under the conductorship of Mr. J. A. Hamilton, and in a manner calling for high commendation:—

1. Grand March 'Imperial.'
2. Overture 'In Memoriam.'
3. Valse 'Sweethearts.'
4. Selection from 'The Mikado.'
5. (a) Cornet Solo (Song) 'The Lost Chord.'
5. (b) Euphonium Solo (Friar Tuck's Song) 'Ho, Jolly Jenkin.'
6. Incidental Music to 'Henry VIII.'
6. (a) Graceful Dance, (b) King Henry's Song, (c) Grand March
7. Overture 'Yeomen of the Guard.'
8. Chorus ... 'O gladsome Light,' from 'The Golden Legend.'
9. Selection 'H.M.S. Pinaree.'
10. Incidental Music to 'The Merchant of Venice.'
11. Ouverture di Ballo 'Iolanthe.'
12. March from 'God Save the King.'

THE LATE MR. W. H. DAYAS.

In William Humphreys Dayas, who died in the Spring of this year, a great teacher has been lost to Manchester and the North of England. 'Teacher' may here be understood pretty widely. He was professor of the pianoforte at the Royal Manchester College of Music, and so a teacher in the ordinary sense; but he was also something more—an influence consistently exerted in favour of the best and noblest in musical art. It is just seven years since he came to Manchester. Very soon after his installation at the Manchester College he began to be recognized as a teacher of extraordinary power. He had come with a high reputation from the Cologne Conservatorium, one or two of his German pupils following him to Manchester, and there—where he held his first English appointment though he was himself half English and half American and not German at all—he soon made all his pupils feel that they were acquiring a new and much more adequate conception of pianoforte playing, so great was his resource in meeting the problems of tone production on that instrument. For Mr. Dayas had not taken to teaching as a pis aller, but being a player with the entire modern technique at his own fingers' ends, had mastered the Pädagogik, or teaching apparatus, of the subject with German thoroughness, and so was able to carry his pupils into a new world much more varied and wonderful than any that they had before dreamed of, though even before his time the standard of pianoforte teaching had been pretty high.

Like nearly all genuine musical artists, Mr. Dayas had to endure great hardship in his youth. Born in New York on September 12, 1863, of parents who were both musical, he took to the organ at an early age, and so when as a boy of about thirteen he was left unprovided for by the death of his parents, it was to organ-playing and teaching that he naturally turned for a livelihood. He held an appointment as organist at an Episcopal church in New York, and he soon began to find pupils. But his mind was set upon the idea of going to Germany to obtain a more thorough musical education. His early teachers in New York were S. B. Mills and Joseffy for pianoforte and Samuel P. Warren, organist of Grace Church, for organ and counterpoint. In course of time his opportunity of going to Germany came through the generosity of a pupil, and he entered upon a new stage of his career, devoting all his time to the cultivation of his own talent, first with Kullak, Ehrlich, and Haupt. At this period he suffered great privation while trying to make his slender resources last as long as possible. Just when it seemed that he would have to give up his studies prematurely he happened to be the subject of a conversation among old friends in a New York drawing-room, and a gentleman who had never heard of him before undertook to grant him a yearly allowance that would enable him to continue his studies.

Mr. Dayas thereupon left Berlin and made his way to Weimar as the pupil of Liszt, becoming a member of the famous group that included D'Albert, Siloti, Stavenhagen, and Sauer. This was the great formative period of his life. He remained in Weimar some years as the pupil and friend of Liszt, and from thence he went to the musical college at Helsingfors as principal professor of the pianoforte—a post in which he succeeded Busoni. His fame as a teacher soon spread, and he was appointed to a more important post at Wiesbaden, going from thence to Cologne at the invitation of the late Dr. Franz Wüllner (father of the famous 'Liedersänger'). Soon after the death of Sir Charles Hallé the council of the Royal Manchester College of Music offered the vacant post of principal pianoforte professor to Mr. Dayas—a post that he accepted at once and held to the day of his death. One might say much about certain unfortunate circumstances that prevented the work of Mr. Dayas from becoming so widely known as it deserved to be, but it seems better not to discuss any such matters in detail. His work was cut short before fame had come to him, and now of course it can never come. But it is certain that he contributed much to the making of Manchester as a genuine musical centre, and his much more famous successor Mr. Arthur Friedheim will find that a good man and true has been labouring in the field before him.

To the one really happy period of his life—his apprenticeship with Liszt—Mr. Dayas always referred with unbounded enthusiasm. Liszt was his great hero, and appreciation of Liszt's music was the surest key to his sympathies. The ordinary attitude of the English public and press towards Liszt he considered the greatest absurdity in the musical world. 'Awful,' he used to say, 'simply awful! There seems to be no noodle but can find some nonsense to talk about the great man.' He even bore a grudge against Wagner, because he considered that Wagner's indebtedness as a composer to Liszt had never been sufficiently acknowledged, and while he really had a perfect appreciation of Wagner's mighty genius, he was fond of making points against him, discoursing about such matters as the counterpoint in the 'Meistersinger' Overture with an extraordinary mixture of profound musical learning and drastic American slang. In other moods, however, he would do the most ample justice to Wagner. I remember an occasion on which he was reduced to a kind of speechless ecstasy by a performance of the 'Good Friday' music under Richter. 'Good heavens,' he said afterwards, 'how that man knew his instruments! There is something almost wicked in beauty of tone carried up to that pitch; it reduces an ordinary musician to despair. How can any of us poor devils nowadays have the cheek to compose at all, after listening to that?' Yet Liszt remained the sun of his artistic heaven. For no other modern was his enthusiasm so persistent. As to carrying on conscious propaganda, no such thing could ever have occurred to his mind, the greatness of Liszt being as obvious for him as the greatness of Beethoven or Bach; but incidentally he doubtless did much to win recognition for Liszt within the sphere of his influence, and he once lectured on Liszt as composer, performer, and teacher to the Incorporated Society of Musicians (Manchester Branch), on which occasion he played the following unfamiliar pianoforte pieces:—'Funérailles,' 'Pater Noster,' 'Hymne de l'Enfant,' 'Ave Maria,' and 'Eglogue,' besides the well-known 'Au bord d'une Source,' and Polonaise in E major. The extreme popularity of the Hungarian Rhapsodies he considered a little absurd. 'People take these,' he said, 'as representative compositions. They have no idea in what a light-hearted manner they were thrown off. Of course they are extremely good in their way; for what Liszt did in the way of frivolity was much better than most others could do in the most deadly earnest. But as to representing Liszt the composer, they do that about as well as the Hungarian Dances represent Brahms.'

WILLIAM HUMPHREYS DAYAS.

As a player Mr. Dayas was even more unequal than gifted pianists usually are. There was nothing that he could not do when well disposed, but he was too uncertain to be quite a satisfactory public performer. Of his appearances before the Manchester public the most satisfactory was at a Hallé concert in January, 1901. In the rendering at that concert of Liszt's E flat Concerto he did complete justice both to himself and to the composition, his perfect understanding with Dr. Richter, who conducted, enabling him to triumph completely over his usual nervousness. Another occasion on which he played magnificently as a soloist was at a recital given in association with Lady Hallé in November last. In concerted chamber music he was always excellent, as those who have heard his many performances at concerts of the Brodsky Quartet would readily testify.

Of Mr. Dayas's compositions a brief and incomplete mention is all that can here be attempted. He wrote but little: Two organ Sonatas, dating from the early American period, a string Quartet, played by the Halir Group at Wiesbaden, a Sonata for violin and pianoforte, a Sonata for violoncello and pianoforte, a set of four-hand Waltzes for pianoforte, a String Suite, two or three books of songs, and minor pieces for pianoforte and organ. Of the duet Sonatas, both written during his Manchester period and produced at Brodsky concerts, the earlier one for violin is too long and too restless in tonality, though it contains one very beautiful movement—allegretto grazioso. But the other one, for violoncello and pianoforte, besides being highly original is a work of great beauty and is free from any serious defect. In regard to the Violoncello Sonata, Mr. Carl Fuchs has by special request kindly furnished me with the following notes:—

The untimely death of Mr. W. H. Dayas, my fellow-professor at the Royal Manchester College, brings back recollections of a very happy episode—the time when I had the privilege of studying with him the MS. of his Violoncello Sonata, with a view to bringing it out at one of the Brodsky concerts. We went into it thoroughly; I liked it more and more, and I had the satisfaction of finding my favourable opinion of the work confirmed by Lady Hallé, who was present at some of the rehearsals. What breadth in the first movement, what grace in the second, and to what noble purpose has Dayas used one of the ordinary church bell chimes! I sent copies to about a dozen of my colleagues in different parts of Europe, being of opinion that the work deserves to be widely known; and I am happy to possess the original MS. and the dedication to the composer's 'Freund und Mitarbeiter.' The publisher is Kistner, of Leipzig.

Mr. Dayas was a solitary man. He belonged to no club, played no game, and never went into general society, but simply lived for his pupils and his art. Though he had no social tact and did not know what to do with himself in a drawing-room, he was always extremely gallant with his lady pupils. He usually referred to them as 'the children,' and if one of them had a headache he would rush out the moment the lesson was over to buy medicine and flowers and bonbons. There were unfortunate circumstances in his private life which caused a continual drain on his slender resources, and he was usually in money difficulties. Yet since his death it has been discovered that he was in the habit of helping poor students with money. The unsociable habit grew upon him as his health failed, but the transparent simplicity of his nature made it impossible to take offence at anything he did or omitted to do.

ARTHUR JOHNSTONE.

Since writing the foregoing article Mr. Johnstone has received two remarkable appreciations of Mr. Dayas from eminent executive musicians who were on intimate terms with him, and these appreciations he desires here to add by way of postscript.

M. Ferruccio Busoni writes thus of his late fellow-artist in the domains both of pianoforte-playing and composition:—

(Translation.)

Dayas was a Liszt pupil, and he understood his master as only the elect few have understood him. But in the course of his development he had attained to wonderful tolerance, to high intelligence of every other school and tendency in musical art. First an organist, then a Liszt disciple, thirdly a composer of chamber-music; American by birth, German by musical sympathies, living in England—these different factors in his experience had made him a man of no party. To that result the fine bigness of heart, characteristic of the artist, also contributed. He could change his point of view and adapt himself to each new individuality, and he always took pleasure in recognizing merit. He was, in fact, specially addicted to the mood of admiration, and he would often make much of a small thing, if he thought it fine relatively to the circumstances.

His great originality made his judgment an incalculable quantity. In the most sudden and unexpected way he would express disapproval, or even hatred, of something if it went against his nature, in which—on the purely human as well as on the artistic side—there were certain quite impregnable blockhouses and lines of fortification. He was the antithesis of the conventional, essentially a self-taught personality, and as usual in such cases, keen insight now and then gave way to obtuseness, even blindness. Exceptionally liberal as a rule, he would sometimes cause astonishment by obstinate insistence on some detail.

Hewn as it were from a single block, his personality challenged attention as something of a most unusual kind. In those who understood him he inspired both love and esteem. He was an idealist of the first water and, at the same time, anxiously practical where his duty was concerned. Though really a free spirit he was externally full of small principles, which he sometimes seemed to value more than his profound essential independence. He was, moreover, genuinely gifted; but he ran his ship aground on certain rocks of life, like the rest of us—and perhaps more violently than the rest.

Lady Hallé writes:—

Mr. Dayas was gifted with remarkable musical talent, and was one of the few really sincere and enthusiastic musicians, pianists, and composers who love and worship music. For him it was the Ideal—his religion. I never knew an artist more kind and generous to his colleagues. He was enthusiastically devoted to the great players, and he also tried to find good qualities in those less gifted but hard-working. I had great respect for him as a composer pianist, and liked very much to play with him. Had Mr. Dayas been a strong and healthy man he would have done immeasurably more in his idealized art. In his piano teaching he was admirable; he lavished his time and his health on his pupils, mostly on those who were less gifted, and so needed his help the more. In this respect he was unique—an Ideal

Church and Organ Music.

MEMORIALS TO THREE CHURCH MUSICIANS:

DR. JOHN NAYLOR.

York Minster can show a good roll of organists, of whom two of the most recent have been duly honoured within the past few weeks. On June 29, the Dean of York unveiled in the North Transept of the Minster a statuette of King David, 'the sweet singer of Israel,' to commemorate the organistship of Dr. John Naylor, who so ably discharged the duties of his office at York for fourteen years. On a pillar to the left of the figure—which has been designed by Mr. G. F. Bodley, R.A., is the following inscription:—

*Ad Majorem Gloriam Dei et in piam Memoriam
JOHANNI NAYLOR MUS. DOC., Organistæ et Choragi
Hujus Ecclesiæ Cathedralis 1883-1897 Hanc effigiem
Davidi Dulcis Psalmisti Israelis P C Consanguinei et Amici Nonulli MDCCCCIII.*

The ceremony of unveiling took place after Evensong, prior to which Dr. Edward W. Naylor, organist and lecturer in music in Emmanuel College, Cambridge, a son of the late Dr. John Naylor, ably performed the following selection of music on the newly-restored organ:—

Toccata and Fuga in G minor	Eberlin (1702-1762).
Three Chorals (variations on)	Bach (1685-1750).
(a) O Mensch bewein' dein' Sünde gross.
(b) Nun komm, der Heiden Heiland.
(c) O Lamm Gottes unschuldig.
Two Fugues on BACH (Nos. 3 and 6)	Schumann.
Sonata in A	Mendelssohn.
Impromptu in G	John Naylor (d. 1897).
(a) Rhapsodie, No. 1 in E (on a Breton melody) }	Saint-Saëns.
(b) Bénédiction nuptiale
Allegro moderato in B flat	Chauvet.
March (Occasional) in D	Handel.

We are glad to learn that it is proposed to similarly honour at York the memory of three worthy predecessors of Dr. John Naylor in the organistship of the Minster—viz., Dr. Nares, Dr. Camidge, and Dr. E. G. Monk.

DR. E. G. MONK.

It was exceedingly appropriate to perpetuate the memory of Dr. Edwin George Monk at Radley, the little village where he had zealously laboured before becoming organist of York Minster, and where he died. This memorial took the very practical form of a new organ for the Parish Church, which was dedicated by the Bishop of Reading on the 3rd ult., and 'opened' by the Rev. G. Wharton, Precentor of Radley College. The new instrument—erected by public subscription through the energies of the vicar of Radley, the Rev. C. B. Longland—bears upon it the following inscription:—

This Organ is humbly dedicated to the Glory of God, and in pious memory of EDWIN GEORGE MONK, MUS. DOC., and Fellow of R.A.S., first Precentor of St. Peter's College, Radley, 1847-1858, Organist of York Minster, 1858-1883.

Born at Frome 13th December, 1819, died at East Cottage, Radley, 3rd January, 1900.

MR. H. B. BRIGGS.

The third memorial we have to record also took the form of a new organ, erected in St. Mark's Church, Marylebone Road, to commemorate the Plainsong zeal of the late Henry Bembridge Briggs, formerly secretary of the Plainsong and Mediæval Music Society. The 'Office of dedication' (on the 9th ult.) included an organ recital by Dr. C. H. Lloyd, and a Solemn Evensong, at which the music was rendered by the Plainsong and Mediæval Music Society's Choir, under the careful conductorship of Mr. Francis Burgess, with Mr. Herbert Weatherly, organist of St. Mary's, Paddington Green, at the organ. We are glad to find that one of Bach's cantatas ('God's time is the best') was sung, as nothing could be more appropriate on such an occasion—and, indeed, at other times—than the devotional strains of the great Cantor.

AN EARLY C ORGAN IN ENGLAND.

The year 1840 is generally given as the date of the introduction of the C compass into England in regard to the organ; but we have shown (THE MUSICAL TIMES, January, 1902, p. 18) that the instrument specially erected for the Coronation of Queen Victoria in Westminster Abbey was of the compass now in general use. We propose to direct attention to a still earlier specimen of the C species erected in Bristol in the year 1824. Everyone is familiar with the fame of Father Smith as an organ-builder, but who knows anything of Smith of Bristol? It appears that he was a native of Bristol, and a self-taught craftsman in the manufacture of organs. In the year above mentioned (1824), Mr. Smith built an organ for St. James's Church, Bristol, of 'amazing powers and variety of effect'; an instrument of which it was stated that 'there is no other in this kingdom which can vie with it.' We learn that 'the height is 28 feet, width 16 feet, and depth 10 feet, and there are four rows of keys, besides two octaves of pedals from CCC.' The specification is given thus:—

CHOIR ORGAN.

(In a separate case, in front of the gallery.)

Stopped Diapason	Principal
Dulciana	Fifteenth
Flute
GREAT ORGAN.
Open Diapason	Larigot
Open Diapason	Twenty-second
Stopped Diapason	Mixture (2 ranks)
Principal	Mixture (2 ranks)
Twelfth	* Sesquialtera
Fifteenth	Trumpet
Fifteenth	Octave Bassoon
Tierce

SWELL ORGAN.

Open Diapason	Cremona
Stopped Diapason	Twelfth
Principal	Fifteenth
Hautboy	Tierce
Trumpet	* Cornet

† BORROWED CHOIR ORGAN.

Open Diapason	Principal
Stopped Diapason	Clarionet
Flute

PEDAL ORGAN.

Open Diapason	Principal
Stopped Diapason	Double Stopped Diapason
Bassoon	(lowest pipe CCCC)

Compass of Great and Choir Organs—CC to E in alt.
Compass of Swell Organ—C to C in alt., four octaves.
Compass of Pedal Organ, from CCC, two octaves.

* A connecting stop for drawing the preceding three together.
† So-called, being principally borrowed from the Great Organ, and to distinguish it from the small Choir Organ in front.

We further learn that 'there are six connecting stops, whose offices are as follow':—

1. For uniting the Swell in unison with the Great Organ.
2. For uniting the Swell an octave above with the Great Organ.
3. For uniting the Great Organ and Choir Organ.
4. For uniting the Choir Organ and Swell.
5. For uniting the Pedals to the Great Organ.
6. For uniting the Pedals to the Choir Organ.

But this is not all in the direction of modern mechanism, as we are told that—in addition to these [couplers] there are four wind stops for shutting off the wind at pleasure from either organ, of great use in case of ciphering; and also in producing a variety of effects not otherwise obtainable.

There are also keys at the end of the swell row, for playing the pedal pipes with the hands; a great advantage to the performer who has not been accustomed to pedals.

This is perfectly true, supposing the performer had three hands. The scribe who records the virtues of this Smithian-Bristolian instrument waxes enthusiastic concerning its capabilities when he says:—

The effect of the swell when united to the great organ, is such as to lead even the most experienced organists who have heard it to suppose that the whole organ is one immense swell. When the octave as well as the unison is added, it is almost overpowering. The bellows are supplied by five feeders, worked by a revolving handle and crank, which moves so freely, that a little boy has been found competent to the task of blowing during the performance of a full cathedral service.

A peculiarity of this remarkable organ, considering its period, was to be found in the pedals, which were made of brass. The great recommendation of this material was 'that the pedals being brought nearer together, two octaves now take up less room than an octave and a-half formerly occupied.' These brass pedals were the invention of Mr. (afterwards Dr.) Edward Hodges (1796-1867), a well-known church musician, who subsequently settled in America. He was then organist of St. James's Church, Bristol, and may therefore claim to have introduced the C compass of the organ into England, as the organ above described was built to his specification.

CHORAL FESTIVALS.

The Edinburgh Diocesan Choral Association gave its annual Festival Service in St. Mary's Cathedral on the 4th ult. The united choirs, numbering 500 voices, were drawn from twenty-five Episcopal churches in the district. The excellence of the performance again demonstrated the value of the Association as a stimulus towards the development of the highest type of church choral-singing, and much credit is due to Mr. T. H. Collinson, the conductor, and Mr. Lee Ashton, the secretary, for the organization and successful carrying through of the Festival. Dr. Lloyd's Service in E flat was sung at Holy Communion in the morning; at evening the Service was King Hall's in the same key, and the anthems: 'What are these?' (Stainer) and 'Stand up and bless the Lord' (Goss). The accompaniment consisted of the organ, trumpets, trombones, and drums—parts for the additional instruments other than the organ being specially written by Mr. Collinson. There were large congregations at both services.

The second Festival of the Associated Church Choirs in the Rural Deanery of Holborn took place in St. Giles-in-the-Fields in June, under the direction of Mr. F. A. W. Docker, organist of St. Andrew's, Wells Street. The united choirs gave very creditable renderings of the musical portions of the service, and they with their conductor are to be congratulated upon the success of their second Festival, as well as upon their improvement in general. Mr. George Dunn, organist of St. Giles's Church, ably presided at the organ, assisted by Mr. Miller, organist of St. George-the-Martyr, Queen Square, and Mr. Stapley, organist of St. Peter's Church, Saffron Hill.

The annual Festival of the Exeter Diocesan Choral Association was held in the Cathedral on the 21st ult. with the success which invariably attends this meeting. The united choirs numbered 1,067 voices—drawn from forty-three parishes. The music included Sir George Martin's setting of the hymn 'In the faith of Christ proceeding,' Dr. Arthur Somervell's Evening Service in F; also Elvey's popular anthem, 'O give thanks,' and Mr. F. A. W. Docker's Te Deum in C. All these were carefully rendered under the direction of the choirmaster of the Association, Mr. T. Roylands-Smith, and Dr. D. J. Wood, organist of the Cathedral, presided at the organ with his well-known skill. A quartet of brass instruments proved to be very effective in maintaining the pitch and strengthening the fine body of vocal tone.

The second annual Festival of the North-East Cathedral Choirs' Association was held in York Minster on the 15th ult. The service commenced with the singing in procession of 'Hail! festal day,' to a setting by Dr. Armes, of Durham. The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis was Stanford in G, while the anthems were 'Come, O thou Traveller unknown' (Charles Wesley's words), one of seven unaccompanied anthems composed by Mr. T. T. Noble, Byrd's 'Bow down Thine ear, O Lord' and 'The horse and his rider' from Handel's 'Israel in Egypt.' The duties of conductor and organist were shared by Mr. T. T. Noble, organist of York Minster, and Mr. C. H. Moody, organist of Ripon Cathedral, the latter of whom composed the offertory hymn sung on the occasion.

Mr. F. G. M. Ogbourne, a professor of the organ at Trinity College, has been appointed organist and choirmaster of St. Andrew's Church, Holborn, an office long and worthily held by the late Dr. James Higgs. Among former occupants of the post were Dr. Boyce and Daniel Purcell, brother of the great Henry bearing that distinguished patronymic.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The following candidates passed the recent examination for the Fellowship Diploma:—

D. Blair, Dalkeith.	R. R. Jones, London.
F. A. Chapple, Southampton.	C. E. de M. Leathes, London.
J. G. Clarke, Oxford.	C. E. S. Littlejohn, Burton-on-Trent.
E. T. Cook, Worcester.	Miss E. M. Lucas, London.
H. W. J. Cousen, Thongsbridge.	W. McVicar, Glasgow.
E. J. Cunnah, Gresford.	T. E. Pearson, Huddersfield.
W. Farrow, Sale.	J. Pollard, Burnley.
G. J. Higgins, London.	F. G. Risdon, Chard.
F. W. Hughes, Ely.	S. V. Sherwood, London.
L. Jones, Llanfairfechan.	William Smith, Leicester.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Sir Frederick Bridge, Hatfield Broad Oak Parish Church.—Andante and Finale, Silas.

Mr. W. Prendergast, Winchester Cathedral.—Fugue in G major, S. Wesley.

Mr. C. H. Moody, Ripon Cathedral.—Sonata in D minor, Töpfer.

Mr. Alfred Hollins, Methodist Free Church, Blackpool.—Sonata in the style of Handel, Wolstenholme.

Mr. H. L. Balfour, Holy Trinity, Sloane Street.—Overture in F, Edwin H. Thorne, and Fantasia and Toccata, C. V. Stanford.

Mr. F. H. Sawyer, College Church, St. Andrew's.—Fantasy Prelude, Charles Macpherson.

Miss Agnes Comerford, St. Lawrence Jewry.—Toccata, D'Evry.

Mr. Llewelyn Jones, Christ Church, Llanfairfechan.—Meditation, Hamilton Clarke.

Mr. Millward Hughes, St. Matthew's, Birkenhead.—Pastorale in G, Kozeluch.

Mr. S. W. Churchill, St. Peter-de-Merton, Bedford.—Adagio cantabile, E. J. Hopkins.

Mr. Alfred W. V. Vine, Tewkesbury Abbey.—Allegretto in B minor, Guilman.

Mr. G. T. Patman, Priory Church, Bridlington.—Second Sonata, Filippo Capocci.

Mr. W. Henry Thomas, St. George's, Tufnell Park.—Variations on a Russian air, Freyer.

Mr. G. Leake, All Saints' Parish Church, Southampton. Air in A, varied, Hesse.

Mr. Alfred Bentley, St. Peter-upon-Cornhill.—Fugue in G, Krebs.

Mr. George R. Ceiley, All Saints', East Finchley.—Meditation, Mailly.

Mr. F. W. Benson, St. Oswald's, Small Heath, Birmingham.—Fanfare, Lemmens.

Mr. George A. Baker, St. Matthew's Church, Birkenhead.—Grand Cœur in G, Salomé.

Mr. C. H. Merrill, St. Peter's, Raunds.—Pastorale, Kullak.

Mr. T. H. Goodwin, Crystal Palace.—Triumphal March ('From crag to sea'), Liszt.

Mr. A. Herbert Brewer, St. John Baptist, Coventry.—Triumphal Song, A. Herbert Brewer.
 Mr. F. A. W. Docker, St. Clement Danes, Strand.—Austrian Hymn, arranged by Hopkins.
 Mr. Edwin N. Tayler, Parish Church, Ilminster.—Scherzo symphonique, Lemmens.
 Mr. C. E. R. Stevens, St. Mark's, Jersey.—Variations on the Hymn-tune 'St. Luke,' E. H. Thorne.
 Mr. Walter Hedgcock, St. Margaret's, North Elmsall (dedication of new organ built by Messrs. Abbott and Smith).—Concert Overture in D, Kinross.
 Mr. Alfred Hollins, St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Redhill (inauguration of new organ built by Messrs. J. W. Walker and Sons).—Toccata, Dubois.

ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Percy Bartier, St. John-the-Evangelist, Millwall.
 Mr. Fred Brazier, St. Mark's Presbyterian Church, Bournemouth.
 Mr. G. S. Holmes, Brasenose College, Oxford.
 Mr. Bernard Langdale, St. George's Church, Barnsley.
 Mr. Frank Smith, St. Petrox and St. Barnabas' Churches, Dartmouth.
 Mr. W. J. Smith, St. Andrew's Parish Church, North Berwick.
 Mr. J. Harold Soul, Poplar Wesleyan Church.
 Mr. John Symons, St. Jude's Church, Englefield Green, Surrey.

BEETHOVEN'S 'LEONORA' OVERTURE,

No. 3.*

BY SIR GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

Beethoven's single opera—'Fidelio, or Wedded Love'—was produced at Vienna on November 20, 1805, and performed three times. Dr. Reeve, of Edinburgh, father of the recent well-known editor of the Edinburgh Review, was in the theatre on November 21, and has left a description of what he saw; though, as he was not a musician, it is interesting only in a general way and is not devoid of errors. The opera was then withdrawn till March 29 following. In the interval which elapsed between these dates, Beethoven had made large alterations in the work—had reduced it from three acts to two, and had rewritten the overture. Others probably prompted the alterations in the opera, but it can hardly be doubted that the rewriting of the overture was entirely his own act.

The overture played on November 20 was that now known as 'Leonora, No. 2'; and that, therefore, is the first of the four compositions which bear the name of overture to the opera. The reason usually assigned for his rewriting it in the form with which we are now familiar—viz., that the wind instrument parts were too difficult—can hardly be respected, since Beethoven was little in the habit of consulting the convenience either of singers or players. When Kraft, the violoncello player, complained that his part in a quartet 'did not lie within his hand,' 'it must lie' was the answer; and when Sontag and Ungher entreated Beethoven to relieve their parts in the Ninth Symphony of notes out of their reach, he was inexorable even to them. Besides, the wind instrument parts in the revised overture are at least as difficult as they were in the old one, if not more so. The reason no doubt was that the work did not please him; that he found, on hearing it, that it did not express his ideas adequately. Beethoven rarely altered a work after its completion.

He altered interminably before making the complete score; but when once the music was fairly written down and dismissed, he seldom made changes, and this is one of the very few instances of his so doing. In this he differed from Mendelssohn, who often made large alterations after the first performances of his music. But whatever may have been Beethoven's reason for altering his overture, he has not confined himself to mere modifications, but has re-cast the whole work, and while preserving its original shape and principal subjects, has alternately compressed and developed his former labour, added fresh themes, chastened, strengthened, and in fact made a new overture of it—a much larger, grander and maturer work than before.

It is impossible to enter here at length into these differences; but to any person interested in music, and the processes by which these great works are produced, the task is one of the greatest interest, and the opportunity all but unique. In preserving the first version ('No. 2') of his composition, Beethoven has admitted us, as it were, into his very work-room. All who have eyes to see and ears to hear may behold him there, engaged in the actual heat and labour of composition and revision; here pruning and there compressing; rejecting old materials; snatching up new ones; erasing ineffective passages, extending and enforcing effective ones; laying in here a brilliant spot, and there a trenchant line; elaborating, altering, fusing all in the glowing fire of his genius, till the result is that wonderful work of art of which the world may well be proud.

Some of the more prominent changes may now be mentioned.

First, the new overture is much longer than the old one—638 bars in the place of 530.

Next, the plan of the work is changed. The skeleton of the old one is as follows—Adagio—Allegro—the two trumpet solos, divided by eight bars of tempo primo, and followed by Florestan's air Adagio, after which immediately comes the scale passage for the strings, leading at once into the Coda, Presto. But in the new overture the second Adagio is expunged, the composition returns according to usual custom to the first subject, and a lengthened prolongation takes place before the scale passage and Coda are reached.

But though the new overture is so much longer than the former one, there is plenty of evidence of compression. Beethoven's unsparing hand shows itself on the first page. He has erased the 'false start' with which he formerly began the Introduction, and in place of—we now save a bar and have—

This is followed, as in the earlier overture, by the beautiful air sung by Florestan in the dungeon at the beginning of the second act, and now given to the clarinet and bassoon:—

* Although this is usually known as No. 3 of this famous trio of 'Leonora' Overtures, it is really No. 2 in chronological order, and the year of its composition is 1806. The first, known as 'Leonora No. 2,' bears the date 1805; and the third, known as No. 1, belongs to the year 1807.

But the whole of the Introduction has been rewritten and much modified. The grand crash on the chord of A flat in the latter part of the Introduction occurs twice in the old overture, but is reduced to once in the new; and between this and the beginning of the Allegro the knife has been largely applied, the result of the whole being to reduce the Introduction from 56 bars to 36.

The Allegro itself is founded on the same two chief themes as before. The first, which seems to have some mysterious connection with the passage given as No. 10, is now raised an octave, thus:—

No. 4.
Allegro.

The second is the lovely air quoted as No. 3, with a slight modification. In the treatment, however, the curtailments are many, and consist not only of compression, but of the entire omission of considerable passages containing important figures and themes, in one case a very important one. The rejections consist almost wholly of matter not belonging to the original subjects, so that the result is to make the work more close and homogeneous, while the length of the first portion (up to the trumpet solo) is reduced by no less than 100 bars, notwithstanding the additional matter introduced. No doubt Beethoven was right, but one cannot help a sigh of regret at the rejection of the pizzicato melody in the basses, which formed so important a feature in the earlier work.

The additions are even of more importance than the curtailments, and mostly arise out of the materials already present. The principal one is an episode of more than 50 bars in length on the following exquisite theme:—

No. 5.
Ob.

Fag. in 8ves.

which is a metamorphosis of the following passage in the flutes and oboes near the close of the Introduction:—

No. 6.

This episode is introduced by a passage in the strings which, though fabricated out of old materials, is at once so new, so beautiful, and so characteristic as to make it impossible not to quote it:—

No. 7.

The rise of the bassoons at bar 10 of the quotation by a minor third (E to G natural) prepares the ear for the same interval in the episode itself (G to B flat). Another most interesting and characteristic addition is nearer the end of the overture, immediately preceding the famous scale passage of the violins which ushers in the Coda. The following is the old termination of Florestan's air (where it interrupts the Allegro, in 3-4 time, Adagio), its three concluding notes being then repeated by the first violins (see a):—

No. 8. Ob. with Fl. Sva.
Adagio.

This was in the original overture. But in the new one a magical change is made. Florestan's air, though retained, is quite differently treated; no change is made in the tempo of the movement, and the three notes at (a) and (a), though discarded from the Air, are made to serve as the basis of a new passage of twenty bars' length and most masterly effect in the overture:—

No. 9.
(Allegro.)

The last of the additions which we can mention is the melody which now appears after the first of the two trumpet calls:—

No. 10.
Cl. & Fl.

and which is taken note for note from the opera, where it occurs in the same place. But though this melody did not appear in the above shape in the first version of the overture, it perhaps did appear in another shape; for the second section, bars 5, 6, 7, and 8, in a modified form, seems to be the beginning of the animated and characteristic chief subject of the Allegro (No. 4), while its first section, bars 1, 2, 3, 4, forms the continuation of the same subject, as may be seen by comparing the two.

But, indeed, one might go on quoting until the entire score was set before the reader. Every bar offers some wonderful example of power or beauty, and the whole is surely the greatest work in the art. Taken as 'pure music'—as a piece of concise construction and strict adherence to musical 'form'—the 'Leonora No. 3' may not, perhaps, be so remarkable as the same great master's overture to 'Coriolan,' that miracle of stern heroic grandeur and compression, not wanting also in softer and more graceful lines. But great as is musical symmetry, is there not an interest still higher?—the interest awakened by variety and complexity, and by wild passion and longing, by suspense and rapture, such as that of which this great composition is so full from beginning to end, and which animates every note, from the colossal unison at the opening to the fiery speed of its close.

No explanation has ever been given of Beethoven's abandonment of the sublime composition under notice, on the revival of the opera in 1814, and the substitution for it of one so entirely different in key, subject-matter and character as the Overture in E major, now known as the 'Overture to Fidelio.' In this last work there is no reference to the opera itself, and the character is changed from lofty tragedy to gaiety. May not the change have been due to a feeling on the part of the composer that his earlier work was too vast, not only for an operatic prelude, but for the subject of the story on which 'Fidelio' is based? Instead of foreshadowing the personal griefs and joys, however momentous, of Leonora and Florestan, the anxieties of a jailer, the perplexities of a clownish lover, the sufferings of a few prisoners, and the villainy of a petty commandant—a story which surely owes its vitality more to its connection with Beethoven's music than to any intrinsic force of its own—instead of shadowing forth such comparatively petty occurrences as these, the 'Overture to Leonora' always appears to the writer to be a fitting prelude to any of the most tremendous events or most terrible catastrophes that have occurred in history. The grief and the joy are the griefs and joys not of private persons, but of whole nations, the conflicts are the 'battles of shaking' of the Hebrew Prophet. Not the Retreat from Moscow, nor the Siege of Sebastopol, as told from the inside by the magic pen of Tolstoi—not the French Revolution itself, contains anything more sustained, more impetuous, more mournful, more stirring, more pathetic, more triumphant, than this wonderful music-picture.

As one illustration of what is meant, let me refer to the well-known trumpet-call which, being played off the stage while the whole action of the orchestra is suddenly suspended, has so thrilling and mysterious an effect. Who can connect this passage in the overture with the distant signal of the arrival of the Governor in the opera? No one! No: it is a totally different thing! Heard in the overture, during the sudden pause which succeeds the tremendous hurry and rush of the instruments up the scale, it has all the effect of the summons to a vanquished army to lay down its arms: there is a forlorn, desolate, dead-of-night effect about it that is overpowering to me, and I seem, as I listen, to be one of the starving, wounded soldiers within the walls of the besieged city, trembling between the relief and the dishonour of the approaching surrender. And in the same way the whole overture appears to be lifted far above even the interest of the opera which follows it—lifted from the particular to the universal, from the individual to the national, from the simple to the complex, from the petty to the tremendous, from a misfortune to a catastrophe.

Beethoven's habit of altering and improving his subjects is well known. A better instance could hardly be found than is given by the successive alterations of the chief melody in the 'Leonora' music, from its original appearance in the opera in 1805 to its final abandonment there in 1814.

1st Overture. 1805. Introduction.

Air, in the Opera. 1806.

2nd Overture. 1806. Introduction.

3rd Overture. 1808. Adagio ma non troppo.

A VETERAN PROFESSOR.

PRESENTATION TO MR. WALTER MACFARREN.

A very pleasant little incident, not untinged by sadness however, took place at the Royal Academy of Music on the 23rd ult. Mr. Walter Macfarren, the doyen of the Professors,—he has been connected with the Institution as student, professor, conductor, director, and member of the Committee, for sixty-one years—relinquished his professorship at the close of the present Academic year, and his colleagues took occasion to present him with a gift in testimony of their affectionate regard and good wishes. This took the form of an English-made gold minute-repeater watch and an album containing an illuminated address with the signatures of all the contributors.

At the presentation ceremony, presided over by Mr. Randegger, the large company included the Principal (Sir Alexander Mackenzie), Mr. Thomas Threlfall (chairman of the Committee of Management), and many professors and students. Mr. John Thomas in making the presentation briefly rehearsed the notable events of Mr. Macfarren's long life in connection with Tenterden Street, and the many valuable services he had rendered to his Alma Mater.

Mr. Walter Macfarren, who was received with hearty and prolonged applause, replied in his usual felicitous manner, though with evident and deep emotion. In doing so he touched upon the various phases of the Academy and his friendship with the many eminent musicians with whom he had been connected at the School, either as instructors, as colleagues, or as his own pupils.

TWO MUSIC-SCHOOLS.

Dr. Mandyczewski, our special correspondent at Vienna, writes in reference to the Conservatorium in that city:—

Music is silent in Vienna during the summer months with the exception of open-air concerts, where people meet together to enjoy themselves after the heat of the day. But it may not be unwelcome to readers of THE MUSICAL TIMES to have an account of the Conservatorium here, which has recently closed its scholastic year with a public report of what has been accomplished during that period, and with several performances by the School orchestra and by the best pupils who are about to leave the Institute.

The Report states that 949 scholars attended the School, of whom 890 were music students (394 for pianoforte, 207 for singing, and 90 for violin, &c.). Of these 765 were natives and 184 foreigners. The pupils of Professor Sauer obtained the greatest success. His pianoforte Meisterschule has realized the highest expectations. His best pupils are Fräulein Hedwig von Andrassy and Frau Susanne Moldauer, who both show wonderful command of the keyboard. Of the other pupils,—the best of whom appeared at the concerts of July 4, 7, and 9—Fräulein Helene Durigo, Hungarian by birth, who has a fine contralto voice, deserves chief mention. She is also musically gifted, and has a brilliant future before her. Herr Bernhard Strassberg, a violinist, and a native of this city, gave a noble rendering of the Brahms Concerto; his tone is warm, and his technique faultless. Herr Otto Rippl by his performance of a Bach fugue showed mastery of the organ, and he also gave some clever improvisations. Herr David Miller, about to leave the School, has a fine, fresh tenor voice, and he has received a thorough artistic training. Herr Leopold Wagner, who in a Liszt solo showed splendid technique, has received as a prize a Bösendorfer grand pianoforte. Among the lady singers Fräulein Marie Günzburg distinguished herself by her exceptionally fine and well-trained voice; moreover she sings with genuine feeling. The School orchestra, under the direction of Richard von Perger, played with spirit Schubert's Overture to his Zauberharfe and Goldmark's Scherzo (Op. 45).

Finally, three young composers must be mentioned whose works were performed at the final concert—Dr. Richard Stöhr with a smoothly-written, well-sounding quartet for strings; Peter Stojanovic, with an effective dramatic setting of a Goethe poem; and Ferdinand Rebay, with a refined chorus for female voices and orchestra. The results of these concerts showed that the teaching at the Conservatorium is most earnest, and that the students are zealous workers.

Our correspondent at Manchester bears the following testimony to the good work done at the Royal Manchester College of Music:—

For the most part Manchester is barren of public musical activity during the summer months; but the concluding examination concerts of the year at the Royal Manchester College form a kind of oasis in the midst of the thirsty season. This year—the tenth since the opening of the College—they were unusually interesting, quite a majority of the performances exhibiting considerable artistic power, as well as good technical attainment. The amount of fine string-playing talent among the present generation of students is very striking. Miss Clara Kloborg—an American lady who came to Manchester to study under Dr. Brodsky—played the extremely difficult F minor Concerto by Ernst with entire mastery of the technical difficulties; Miss Dora Hochstein—another American—did very well in Wieniawski's 'Faust' Fantasie, in which the technical difficulties are scarcely less formidable than in the notorious Ernst Concerto, though of quite a different order; Miss Isabel Letham, who belongs to the Manchester neighbourhood, and at present holds the violin scholarship founded by Mr. Sam Platt of Oldham, gave a fine display of technical skill, good nerve, and warm temperament in the fourth Concerto by Vieuxtemps; and Miss Jessie Morris gave a rendering of the Tchaikovsky Concerto that, besides being very capable on the technical side, had a certain imaginative quality. These four lady violinists were all from the Principal's (Dr. Brodsky's) class, which was further represented by Mr. A. Catterall with a brilliant and extremely fluent performance of Joachim's Hungarian Concerto. Mr. Catterall can scarcely any longer be considered in his pupilage, seeing that he has been for some years a regular member of the Hallé Orchestra, and that he was last year engaged for Bayreuth where, besides the orchestral work, he played a solo at one of the Wahnfried soirées. From beginning to end Dr. Brodsky has been his teacher. Mr. Fuchs's violoncello class was only represented by one pupil, namely, Mr. W. Warburton, who played pieces by Elgar and Davidoff, and took part in various ensemble pieces, showing a combination of technical, musical, and general ability that may be expected ultimately to make him a highly successful executive musician.

The pianoforte playing of the students was also in several cases of a very high order. Two pupils of Miss Olga Neruda particularly distinguished themselves. Mr. Edward Isaacs in the 'Appassionata,' which he interpreted with more maturity of style than could have been expected, besides fine technical power, and Mr. George Whitaker in the G minor Concerto by Saint-Saëns, the latter performance being specially good in the characteristic scherzo. Among pupils of the late Mr. Dayas, Miss Pierce and Miss Spencer distinguished themselves, the former in a group of modern pieces by Sgambati and others, the latter in Beethoven's G major Concerto, with Busoni's ingenious cadenza. The ensemble pieces included movements by Beethoven, Mendelssohn, and Dvorák, and the first movement of a Quintet for pianoforte and strings by Mr. Edward Isaacs (the young pianist above-mentioned), who shows some real talent for composition. Several excellent organ performances reflected credit on the teaching of Dr. Kendrick Pyne, one of the best being Miss Barbara Johnson's of Bach's Toccata and Fugue in D minor.

The singers were very numerous. Of Mrs. Hutchinson's pupils, Miss Hilda de Angelis Johnson deserves special mention for her rendering of the principal soprano solo in the 'Spectre's Bride,' and Miss Ellen Sellars for her singing of a mezzo air from Verdi's 'Don Carlos'; Miss Annie Worsley too gave a specially well-studied rendering of Schubert's 'Die Allmacht.' Among the tenors Mr. Webster Millar achieved a striking success in the first of Wagner's 'Schmiedelieder,' as, among the baritones and basses, did Mr. Frank Barker in the 'Flying Dutchman's' monologue, his performance being equally remarkable for dramatic power and good pronunciation of German. There were also some highly effective pieces for vocal ensemble, representing the work of Miss Lemmens-Sherrington's operatic singing class.

Obituary.

MISS CONSTANCE BACHE.

With much regret we place on record the death of Miss CONSTANCE BACHE, which took place after only five days' illness at Montreux, on June 28. The youngest child of the late Rev. Samuel Bache, a well-known Unitarian Minister of Birmingham, and niece, on her mother's side, of the late Rev. Dr. James Martineau, she was born at Fairview House, Hagley Road, Edgbaston, on March 11, 1846. Her musical gifts were fostered by her brother, Walter, and by the late James Stimpson, of Birmingham; she then studied at the Munich Conservatorium, and subsequently under Professor Klindworth and Mr. Fritz Hartvigson. Owing, however, to an unfortunate accident to her right hand, Constance Bache had to give up the career of a public performer, and although she played at concerts at Birmingham previous to settling in London, she devoted herself to teaching and to literary-musical work. In her quiet, pleasant way she carried on the work of her two brothers, Francis Edward (whose promising career was cut short by his early death in 1858) and Walter. One of the best results of her literary work was the interesting volume from her pen, entitled 'Brother Musicians,' in which she ably portrayed the different characteristics of her two brothers.

Miss Constance Bache was very successful as a translator from German into English. Among the latter achievements must be mentioned the librettos of Liszt's 'St. Elizabeth,' Mozart's 'Bastian and Bastienne,' Humperdinck's 'Hänsel und Gretel,' Schumann's 'The Rose's Pilgrimage,' and Scenes from Goethe's 'Faust.' Also Liszt's 'Letters'; Heintz's analyses of Wagner's works; Lohe's 'Catechism of Music'; Hans von Bulow's annotations of Cramer, Chopin, &c. She lectured on 'Modern Russian composers,' and one of the last acts of her busy life was to write a charming 'appreciation' of her old friend Mr. A. J. Hipkins in the columns of the July issue of the Monthly Musical Record, which, sadly enough, appeared after her own death. Miss Constance Bache was of a singularly beautiful disposition, and her loss will be greatly felt by those who had the privilege of her friendship.

DAN GODFREY.

Godfrey is an honoured name in the history of British military music. Charles, the founder of the family (1790-1863), served for fifty years in the band of the Coldstreams, first as a bassoon-player and afterwards as bandmaster. He was succeeded in the bandmastership by his second son Adolphus Frederick—known as Fred. Godfrey—while Charles, his third son, became bandmaster of the Royal Horse Guards. DANIEL, his eldest son, and the most distinguished of the Godfrey quartet, died, we regret to record, at Beeston, Nottinghamshire, at the residence of his eldest daughter, on June 30, aged seventy-one. Born at Westminster on September 4, 1831, at the age of fifteen he entered the Royal Academy of Music as a student, his principal study being the flute. He subsequently became professor of military music at that Institution, of which he was afterwards elected a Fellow.

On July 2, 1856, Dan Godfrey enlisted in the band of the Grenadier Guards, and two months later, through the influence of the late Prince Consort it is said, the young musician of twenty-four years was appointed bandmaster of that famous regiment. One of his first duties as bandmaster was to play into London the brigade of Guards on their return from the Crimea in the autumn of 1856. For that occasion he composed a special march entitled 'The Return of the Guards,' and those who, even as 'tiny tots,' saw that remarkable procession, will recall the stirring nature of the scene. In 1863 the officers of the Guards gave a magnificent ball to King Edward VII. and Queen Alexandra (then Prince and Princess of Wales) in celebration of their marriage. For this occasion Dan Godfrey composed his famous 'Guards' waltz, which took the town by storm and made the name of its composer. This was followed by the 'Mabel' and 'Hilda' waltzes, which for a long time were much in vogue. As an arranger of music for military bands he was very successful.

Godfrey and his famous band of the Grenadiers made a great sensation in America during their visit to the States in 1872, in celebration of the centenary of American Independence. In order that this invitation of the United States Government might be accepted, a special Act of Parliament had to be passed which permitted the band to leave this country and wear the British uniform on 'the other side.' The scene at the first concert (at Boston) was one of the wildest enthusiasm. When the redcoats and bearskins made their appearance an audience of 60,000 rose, and as the bandmen played 'The Star-Spangled Banner' so intense was the excitement that the assembled multitude gave vent to their feelings by singing 'God save the Queen,' followed by renewed vociferations of delight.

For many years the efficiency and popularity of the Grenadiers' band remained at a very high level, due to the skill of its equally popular bandmaster. General satisfaction was expressed when, on the occasion of her Jubilee, Queen Victoria made Dan Godfrey a Second Lieutenant (June 20, 1887), he being the first English bandmaster to hold a Commission in the British Army. In 1896, Lieut. Godfrey retired from the Army and received a handsome testimonial from the officers of the Guards in recognition of the splendid service he had rendered for forty years to the cause of military music. It should be stated that his period of service was extended beyond the usual time-limit of compulsory retirement, and this at the special desire of Queen Victoria, always a true friend to the art of music.

STANLEY LUCAS.

We regret to learn as we go to press of the death of Mr. STANLEY LUCAS, which took place at his residence, 112, Alexandra Road, South Hampstead, on the 24th ult. The son of Charles Lucas, a former Principal of the Royal Academy of Music, he was born at Charlotte Street, Portland Place, May 6, 1834. Mr. Stanley Lucas was well-known in London musical circles—as a music publisher, as secretary of Henry Leslie's choir in its early years, as secretary of the Philharmonic Society from 1866 to 1880, and more especially as secretary of the Royal Society of Musicians for the long period of forty-two years, from 1861 to the time of his death.

Miss EDITH MILLER, well known as a contralto vocalist, and a much esteemed teacher of singing, died at St. Leonards on June 27. Miss Miller's most notable appearances were as the Witch in 'Hänsel und Gretel,' of which, at Daly's Theatre, she was the original impersonator, and also as Madge Wildfire in Mr. Hamish MacCunn's opera 'Jeanie Deans.'

The following awards have been made at the Royal Academy of Music:—The Joseph Maas Exhibition to Ben Calvert (of Halifax); The Walter Macfarren Medals to Rosamond Ley and E. York Bowen (of London); The Frederick Westlake Prize to E. York Bowen; The Charlotte Walters Prizes to Isabel Merson and Alison L. Gillies; The Julia Leney Prize to Rita Jacobs (of Sydney, Australia).

Reviews.

French Music in the XIXth Century. By Arthur Hervey.
[Grant Richards.]

In a few introductory remarks the author explains 'what my object in writing this volume has been.' He has dwelt on those composers who 'have contributed to the evolution of the art.' It is therefore not a history book crammed with names of composers and titles of their works, and with lists of dates of production; but, as he calls it, 'a bird's-eye view of the musical movement in France during the past century.' In writing of music in Germany or England a writer would naturally have much to say about instrumental and also sacred works, but, as Mr. Hervey remarks, 'music in France chiefly relates to music connected with the drama.' With few exceptions therefore he has little to say about chamber, symphonic, or sacred compositions. In the opening chapter, 'Méhul and the last of the Classics,' there are many interesting remarks on Gluck and Grétry, Gossec, and Méhul, Cherubini, Spontini and Lesueur, who for the most part have passed into oblivion, but who all contributed directly or indirectly to the evolution of the art.

Rossini's operas may be full of 'catchy tunes,' and 'overcharged with vocal ornamentation'; 'William Tell,' his last and greatest work, however, forms the 'starting-point of a new departure.' A whole chapter is devoted to Meyerbeer, 'over-praised during his lifetime,' but since 'considerably underrated.' This composer has been treated with severity: Schumann dismissed him with a cross, inferring that burial was all his 'Prophète' deserved; Mendelssohn was indignant at what he considered the triumph of a false art; and Wagner's attitude towards him was hostile. Mr. Hervey is fully aware of certain drawbacks in his operas, but looks upon him as 'one of the reformers of the lyric drama,' and much that he says is worthy of consideration. Another chapter, on 'Gounod and his influence,' shows that the author can distinguish between the strong and the weak points of a composer. Particular notice is naturally taken of Berlioz. The special qualities of his music are described as sincerity and enthusiasm, and as a factor in the evolution of the art he is, of course, of immense importance. In treating of modern French composers Mr. Hervey expresses special admiration for César Franck's 'Les Béatitudes,' and for M. Bruneau, whom he regards as 'one of the most gifted musicians of the age.'

This must not be regarded as a review of the whole book; certain chapters and certain names have been selected to show the general trend of the writing. Although brief it contains a great deal of thought, and therefore there is much to be learnt from it. We do not share all the writer's opinions, but find in it the very qualities which he so praises in Berlioz: sincerity and enthusiasm.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS.

O that men would praise the Lord. By John B. McEwen.

Hearken unto me, ye holy children. By W. H. Bell.

Father of Mercies, God of Love. By the Rev. E. Vine Hall.

Mr. McEwen writes instrumental music with the assurance of having something to say and the knowledge of how to express it appropriately. In his anthem 'O that men would praise the Lord' will be found qualities that will appeal to musicians and interest competent executants. We say competent because, although not excessively difficult, the anthem imperatively demands a well-trained choir to do it justice. It opens with a jubilant chorus in four parts, which leads to a soprano solo. This is succeeded by a passage for the basses in unison, who give out a bold theme, which is subsequently treated contrapuntally by the full choir and ultimately leads up to an imposing climax.

Mr. W. H. Bell has taken the text of his anthem from Ecclesiasticus, Chap. xxxix., and set it to melodious and flowing music very suitable to the sentiment of the words. The composition begins with a baritone solo admirably laid out for the voice and, of some length. The remainder of the anthem is choral. The concluding chorus opens in solid harmony; but it gives place to a well-defined theme announced by the tenors, at first treated fugally, after which solid four-part writing recurs. In the concluding bars the vocal writing is expanded into seven parts with fine effect. The independence of the accompaniment will interest the organist.

No one writes for the church in a more devotional spirit, and with greater perception of what is grateful to modern ears and choristers, than the Rev. E. Vine Hall, and his anthem 'Father of Mercies, God of Love' is a notable example of his familiar style. The words are those of 'Hymns Ancient and Modern,' No. 388, and they are treated with a variety of resource that can scarcely fail to cause the work to become popular. It embraces short solos for soprano and bass, a melodious quartet, an effective chorus, and a dignified chorale, concluding with a five-fold Amen.

50 Studien über die Étüden von Fr. Chopin, Nos. 3, 4, 8, 9, 10, 11, 14, 24, 26, 27, 28, 32, 36, und 48; und Neue Konzert-Bearbeitung von dem Rondo (Perpetuum mobile) aus der I. Sonate, Op. 24, von C. M. von Weber. Von Leopold Godowsky.

[Schlesinger (R. Lienau), Berlin.]

What was the aim of M. Godowsky in arranging Chopin's 'Études' in various ways, some for the left hand alone, others with additions, or two and three combined together? On that aim depends one's opinion. If the distinguished pianist puts them forward as improvements on the originals, then we condemn them. But if merely to show his own skill in the art of weaving together figures and melodies—some his own, some Chopin's—and, by performing these extraordinarily difficult arrangements, to show his truly marvellous technique, then they deserve all praise. They are indeed fearfully and wonderfully made, and for pianists who wish to study the highest stage of technical development, most useful and interesting. When M. Godowsky plays them with astounding bravura and apparently with the greatest ease, the difficulties are not realized. But let any pianist who has fairly mastered the 'Études' in their original form try to interpret them, and he will soon find out that it would require much time and an enormous stock of patience before he could even give a rough idea of their contents. They are perfectly fascinating, and the interest is not purely technical.

The Weber Rondo arrangement is certainly brilliant and effective, as all can testify who have heard it performed by M. Godowsky; yet it does not seem to be right to touch-up works in this way. The transcriber, however, is not the first who has thus transgressed by tampering with the text.

Four Characteristic Waltzes arranged for Violin and Pianoforte.

By S. Coleridge-Taylor (Op. 22).

Twelve Transcriptions for Two Violins and Pianoforte, in Two Books. By Alfred Moffat.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

'Four Characteristic Waltzes' by S. Coleridge-Taylor have been republished in separate numbers, as arranged by the composer for violin and pianoforte, and under the following new titles:—1. Valse Bohémienne; 2. Valse Rustique; 3. Valse de la Reine; 4. Valse Mauresque. There is considerable character and a great deal to charm in these interesting waltzes, which have already found much favour, and violinists will welcome them in this new form.

The 'Twelve Transcriptions for Two Violins and Pianoforte' by Alfred Moffat have also lately been republished in two books instead of one, and they should prove very suitable for home and school purposes. The contents are well selected from works by Gluck, Corelli, Leclair, Handel, Haydn, Siprutini, Schubert, Beethoven, and Mendelssohn. The violin parts present no difficulties, and, with one exception, are all within the compass of the first and third positions.

FOUR-PART SONG.

Words by SHELLEY.

Composed by FRANK BRIDGE.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK

Adagio ma non troppo.

SOPRANO. f The warm sun is fail - ing, the bleak wind is wail - - ing, The mf p

ALTO. f The warm sun is fail - ing, the bleak wind is wail - - ing, The mf p

TENOR. f The warm sun is fail - ing, the bleak wind is wail - ing, The mf p

BASS. f The warm sun is fail - ing, the bleak wind is wail - ing, The mf p

(For practice only.) f mf p

pp p bare boughs are sighing, the pale flowers are dy - ing, . . . And the year . . . On the

pp p

bare boughs are sighing, the pale flowers are dy - - ing, And the year . . . On the

pp p

bare boughs are sighing, the pale flowers are dy - - ing, On the earth . .

pp p

bare boughs are sighing, the pale flowers are dy - - ing, On the earth . .

pp p

Copyright, 1903, by Novello and Company, Limited.

earth her death-bed, in a shroud of leaves dead, Is ly - ing.

earth her death-bed, in a shroud of leaves dead, Is ly - ing.

her death-bed, in a shroud of leaves dead, Is ly - ing.

her death-bed, in a shroud of leaves dead, Is ly - ing.

Più mosso.
Come, months, come a - way, From No-ven-ber to May, In your

Come, months, come a - way, From No-ven-ber to May, In your

Come, months, come a - way, From No-ven-ber to May, In your ing. Come, come a - way, From No-ven-ber to May, In your Tempo 1mo.

saddest ar-ray; Fol-low the bier Of the dead cold year, And like dim shad - ows saddest ar-ray; Fol-low the bier Of the dead cold year, And like dim shad - ows saddest ar-ray; Fol-low the bier Of the dead cold year, And like dim shad - ows saddest ar-ray; Fol-low the bier Of the dead cold year, And like dim shad - ows watch pp by her sep - ul - chre.

 and like dim shad - ows by . . her sep ul - chre.
 watch pp by . . her sep ul - chre.
 and like dim shadows watch by her sep - - - ul - chre.

Tempo lmo.

p The chill rain is fall - ing, the nipped worm is crawl - ing, mf The p The chill rain is fall - ing, pp the nipped worm is crawl - ing, mf The p The chill rain is fall - ing, pp the nipped worm is crawl - ing, mf The p The chill rain is fall - ing, pp the nipped worm is crawl - ing, mf The Tempo lmo.

ff riv - ers are swell - ing, the thun - der is knell - ing . . . For the ff riv - ers are swell - ing, the thun - der is knell - ing For the ff riv - ers are swell - ing, the thun - der is knell - ing, ff riv - ers are swell - ing, the thun - der is knell - ing, year; . . . The blitheswallows are flown, and the lizard each gone To his dwell mf p

Più mosso. f

dwell - ing; Come, months, come a - way; Put on white, black, and grey, Let your

Poco più mosso. f

ing; Come, come a - way; Put on white, black, and grey, Let your Tempo 1mo. p pp light sis - ters play—Ye, fol - low the bier Of the dead cold year, And make her grave..

pp light sis - ters play—Ye, fol - low the bier Of the dead cold year, And make her grave..

pp light sis - ters play—Ye, fol - low the bier Of the dead cold year, And make her grave..

pp light sis - ters play—Ye, fol - low the bier Of the dead cold year, And make her grave

Tempo 1mo. pp

FATHER OF MERCIES, GOD OF LOVE

ANTHEM FOR HARVEST

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY ALICE FLOWERDEW (H. A. & M., No. 388)

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY THE REV. E. VINE HALL, M.A.

LATE PRECENTOR OF WORCESTER CATHEDRAL.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Allegro. ♩ = 112.

Soprano Solo.
Slower.
mf

Fa - ther of mer - cies,

Slower. ♩ = 96.
p

God of love, Whose gifts all crea - tures share, whose gifts all crea - tures share, The roll - ing sea - sons as they move Pro - claim Thy con - stant care, The roll - ing sea - sons as they move Pro-claim Thy con-stant care, . . pro-claim Thy con-stant care.

FULL. Faster.
SOPRANO.

Fa-ther of mer-cies, God of love, Whose gifts all crea-tures share, The roll-ing sea-sons

ALTO.

Fa-ther of mer-cies, God of love, Whose gifts all crea-tures share, The roll-ing sea-sons

TENOR.

Fa-ther of mer-cies, God of love, Whose gifts all crea-tures share, The roll-ing sea-sons

BASS.

Fa-ther of mer-cies, God of love, Whose gifts all crea-tures share, The roll-ing sea-sons Faster. $\text{♩} = 112$.

Man. only. Ped.

as they move Pro-claim Thy con-stant care, The roll-ing sea-sons as they move as they move Pro-claim Thy con-stant care.

as they move Pro-claim Thy con-stant care, pro

as they move Pro-claim Thy con-stant care,

mf

First system of the musical score. It features four vocal staves (Soprano, Alto, Tenor, Bass) and a piano accompaniment. The key signature is one sharp (F#), and the time signature is common time (C). The lyrics are: "pro - claim, pro - claim, pro - claim, Thy con - stant care, pro - claim, pro - claim, pro -". Dynamics include f (forte) and accents.

Second system of the musical score. It continues the vocal and piano parts. The lyrics are: "- claim Thy con - stant care, pro - claim Thy con - stant care. Fa - ther of mer - cies, Fa - ther of mer - cies, Fa - ther of mer - cies, Fa - ther of mer - cies,". Dynamics include ff (fortissimo) and accents.

Third system of the musical score. It continues the vocal and piano parts. The lyrics are: "God of love, Whose gifts all crea - tures share. Sw. Diap." (Soft Diapason). Dynamics include p (piano) and accents.

BASS SOLO. Slower.

FATHER OF MERCIES, GOD OF LOVE.

mf

When in the bos - om of the earth The sow - er hid the grain, Thy goodness marked its Slower. ♩ = 96.

mf

se - cret birth, Thy good-ness marked its se - cret birth, And sent the ear - ly rain, and sent the ear - ly rain, Thy good-ness marked its birth, And sent the ear - ly, ear - ly rain. f Fa - ther of mer - cies, God of love, Whose gifts all creatures share.

Animato.
FULL. Faster.

FULL.

Fa - ther of mer - cies, God of love, Fa - ther of mer - cies, God of love, Whose

FULL.

Fa - ther of mer - cies, God of love, Fa - ther of mer - cies, God of love, Whose

FULL.

Fa - ther of mer - cies, God of love, Fa - ther of mer - cies, God of love, Whose ff FULL.

Fa - ther of mer - cies, God of love, Fa - ther of mer - cies, God of love, Whose Animato. Faster. ♩ = 112.

ff

gifts, . . whose gifts all crea - tures share.

gifts, . . whose gifts all crea - tures share.

gifts, . . whose gifts all crea - tures share.

gifts, . . whose gifts all crea - tures share.

p

QUARTET.
Moderato.

mf

The spring's sweet influence, Lord, was Thine, The seasons knew Thy call; Thou mad'st the summer

mf

The spring's sweet influence, Lord, was Thine, The seasons knew Thy call; Thou mad'st the summer

mf

The spring's sweet influence, Lord, was Thine, The seasons knew Thy call; Thou mad'st the summer

mf

The spring's sweet influence, Lord, was Thine, The seasons knew Thy call; Thou mad'st the summer

Moderato. ♩ = 96.

mf

without Ped.

sun to shine, . . The sum-mer dew to fall, the sum - mer dew to fall, the sun to shine, . . The sum-mer dew to fall, the sum - mer dew to fall, the sun to shine, . . The sum-mer dew to fall, the sum - mer dew to fall, the sun to shine, . . The sum-mer dew to fall, the sum - mer dew to fall, the

pp sum-mer dew to fall. Thy gifts of mer-cy from a-bove Ma-tured the swelling grain; And sum-mer dew to fall. And sum-mer dew to fall. And sum-mer dew to fall.

now the harvest crowns Thy love, And plen-ty fills the plain, and plen-ty fills the now the harvest crowns Thy love, And plen-ty fills the plain, and plen-ty fills the now the harvest crowns Thy love, And plen-ty fills the plain, and plen-ty fills the
 And plen-ty fills the plain, and plen-ty fills the plain, plain, and plen-ty fills the plain, And now the harvest crowns Thy love, And plain, and plen-ty fills the plain, And now the har-vest crowns Thy love, And plain, and plen-ty fills the plain, And now the har-vest crowns Thy love, And and plen-ty fills the plain, And plen - ty, plen - ty fills the plain.

plen - ty, plen - ty fills the plain.

plen - ty, plen - ty fills the plain.

plen - ty, plen - ty fills the plain.

pp

Ped.

CHORALE.
Slow.

O . . ne'er may our for - get - ful hearts O'er - look Thy boun - teous

O ne'er may our for - get - ful hearts O'er - look Thy boun - teous

O ne'er may our for - get - ful hearts O'er - look Thy boun - teous

O . . ne'er may our for - get - ful hearts O'er - look Thy boun - teous

Slow. ♩ = 80.

f care, But what our Fa - ther's Hand im - parts Still own in praise and prayer.

care, But what our Fa - ther's Hand im - parts Still own in . . praise and prayer.

care, But what our Fa - ther's Hand im - parts Still own in praise and prayer.

care, But what our Fa - ther's Hand im - parts Still own in . . praise and prayer.

A little faster.

The God Whom we a - dore,
The God Whom we a - dore,
To Fa - ther, Son, and Ho - ly Ghost, The God Whom we a - dore, Be

A little faster.

And shall be ev - er - more, and shall be
And shall be ev - er - more, and shall be . .
glo - ry, as it.. was, is now, And shall be ev - er - more, and shall be glo - ry, as it.. was, is now, And shall be ev - er - more, and shall be Slow.

ev - er - more. A - men, A - men, A - men, A - men, A - men.
ev - er - more. A - men, A - men, A - men, A - men, A - men.
ev - er - more. A - men, A - men, A - men, A - men, A - men.
ev - er - more. A - men, A - men, A - men, A - men, A - men.

Accomp. ad lib.

green . . . with tear . . . on tear, . . and green, . . . and make her grave . . green, . and green . . . with tear . . . on tear, . . and green, . . . and make her grave green, and mf pp mf mf

make her grave green.. with tear . . . on tear. . .

make her grave green.. with tear on tear. . .

make her grave green.. with tear on tear. . .

make her grave green.. with tear on tear. . .

p ppp p pp ppp p pp ppp

REVIEWS.—(Continued from page 540.)

Concerto for Organ and Orchestra. By Horatio Parker (Op. 55). [Novello and Company, Limited.]

The literature of the organ is not very extensive in regard to concertos for this instrument. Composers do not seem to favour the combination of organ and orchestra, therefore when one of the moderns like Professor Parker—an able organist himself—puts pen to paper organically, so to speak, the result is looked for with interest not unmixed with high expectation.

The work before us is scored for brass, harp and strings, that is to say in detail, four horns, two trumpets, three trombones, tuba, drums, harp and strings. The first movement—an Allegro moderato in triple time and in the key of E flat minor—opens with solemn sustained chords on the organ, while the strings have broad and dignified unison passages. After a due course of 'development' this concise movement leads into a charming Andante, the gem of the work perhaps, in which a solo violin, a solo horn, the harp, with the organ are most happily combined. The only drawback to this section is its brevity. An Allegretto in E major, also short, starts with a drum solo of four bars, followed by coquettish passages for the organ, strings and drums, duly relieved by a placid episode in the key of A flat. The last movement (Allegro moderato, in E flat) is the most elaborate and the longest, as it occupies nearly half the number of pages in the printed score. It includes a fugal episode for organ alone, with the following as its subject, of which fragmentary use is made as the movement is imposingly developed:—

Full Org. All couplers.

This Finale is full of contrasts and contains much effective writing. The foregoing, though by no means exhausting the subject, may be sufficient to call attention to a work which is charged with that earnestness of purpose so characteristic of Professor Parker's creative gifts. The concerto, which is dedicated to Dr. G. R. Sinclair, of Hereford, has been effectively arranged for organ solo by Mr. David Stanley Smith.

Denkmäler der Tonkunst in Oesterreich. IX. Jahrgang. Erster Theil, Lieder des Oswald von Wolkenstein; Zweiter Theil, Johann Josef Fux, Instrumentalwerke I.

[Wien: Artaria & Co.]

The text of the first volume has been edited by Herr Dr. Josef Schatz, the music by Oswald Koller. Oswald von Wolkenstein was born in the Tyrol about the year 1377, and from his poems he appears to have been a great traveller, and also a great linguist. The story of his life is interesting and often romantic, but we must here refrain from any details; he died in 1445. As regards his music it may be noted that he was a contemporary of Dunstable. Of the three manuscripts of his poems two contain music; some of the songs are for one voice, some for several voices. As documents for the history of the music of that period they are of importance, and some of the melodies have even now freshness and charm.

The prefaces by the editors named above show an immense amount of painstaking research. There are portraits of Wolkenstein, and facsimiles from the manuscripts, &c. It is a volume which will be simply invaluable to all who have to study the poetry and music of the first half of the 15th century.

The second volume is devoted to J. J. Fux, principally known to musicians as the author of the celebrated 'Gradus ad Parnassum,' the text-book used by Haydn when he taught Beethoven counterpoint. Fux was a prolific composer, but until the two volumes of sacred compositions appeared in the Denkmäler in 1894 and 1895, little of his music had been printed. As a rule, great theorists are dry composers; but the contents of the volume under notice show that he at any rate was an exception. There are two sonatas, one a quattro, the other a tre of dignified character, in which Fux's contrapuntal skill is fully displayed; also two most delightful Suites. Both are scored for two oboes, two violins, viola, bassoon, and violone with continuo. Anyone whose idea of Fux is that he was a dry old fogey will do well to look at those Suites.

Aubade and Réverie for Violin and Pianoforte. By A. D'Ambrosio.

Three Compositions for Violin and Pianoforte. By Josef Bláha.

Song of Thanksgiving for Violin and Pianoforte. By Alexander C. Mackenzie.

[Bosworth and Co.]

Two pleasing violin solos with pianoforte accompaniment are 'Aubade' and 'Réverie' by A. D'Ambrosio. Both pieces are most agreeably written for the solo instrument, and the accompaniments are excellent.

Of three compositions for violin and pianoforte by Josef Bláha, the accomplished professor at the Royal Academy of Music, No. 1, a very effective Sérénade, is most likely to win general favour. Its character is perhaps more suggestive of an impassioned Réverie rather than a soothing Sérénade; but, after all, 'What's in a name?' The music is the thing to consider, and here is a solo which will thrill the heart and the fingers of many a violinist. No. 2, 'Chanson Triste,' is a plaintive little morceau in G minor (the key chosen by Tchaikovsky for his exquisite little piece with the same title) not lacking in expressiveness; whilst No. 3 is a strong, stirring, and emotional 'Scherzo Bohémienne,' dedicated to Kôcian. This piece requires considerable skill from its performer, as the greater part of it is written in double stopping, some of which necessitates much deftness of fingering to overcome neatly. In each case the accompaniments are very skilful and in every respect most satisfactory.

The 'Song of Thanksgiving' from Sir Alexander Mackenzie's orchestral suite, 'London day by day' has been effectively transcribed for violin and pianoforte.

Essais de Technique et d'Esthétique musicales. Première série: I. Les Maîtres Chanteurs de Richard Wagner; II. Étude sur le discours musical. Par Élie Poirée.

[Paris: E. Fromont.]

The first volume of this work (published in 1898) gives a brief account of the genesis of the 'Meistersinger' and of its contents, after which the thematic material is discussed. The themes connected with the various personages are grouped together, and their interconnections and modifications according to various mental or material states are most clearly set forth. The author's intimate knowledge of the score has enabled him to write in clear, convincing and also concise manner. The second part (published last year) is a larger and far more elaborate volume. Man manifests his psychical activity in two ways: by language and gesture, or by gesture alone, using the latter term in a general sense. Gesture may be divided into movements and sensations, and it is the province of art to evoke them more or less artificially, more or less characteristically. This is the text on which the long but able sermon is based. Space forbids a detailed notice; we feel sure, however, that all who read the first and simpler part of the work will be strongly inclined to devote time and attention to the deeper study on the 'Discours Musical.'

THE PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

The directors of the Philharmonic Society are to be congratulated on the artistic success of the ninety-first season which terminated on June 25 at Queen's Hall. To Dr. Frederic H. Cowen in particular the thanks of music-lovers are due for his influence in the choice of works and for their fine interpretations, those of several masterpieces of classic fame having attained a standard of excellence it would be difficult to surpass. The programme at the concluding concert presented a mixture of the art of past and present days typical of the selections at the previous concerts, and testifying to the 'progressive conservatism' which has so greatly conduced to the present vigorous life of the veteran Society. The evening's music opened with the Prelude and Angel's Farewell from Dr. Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius.' The noble 'Judgment' theme with which the Prelude opens was most impressively announced, and it may be said that in its entirety the excerpt had never been so finely played.

The next item set down in the programme—Sir Charles Stanford's vocal scena 'Die Wallfahrt nach Kevlaar'—had to be omitted, owing to the indisposition of Madame Blanche Marchesi, and therefore Dr. Elgar's music was succeeded by Mozart's Violin Concerto in D, with Herr Kubelik as soloist. The frequent performance of this composer's music just now is peculiarly welcome and desirable. It is welcome because its perfection of form and studied grace are refreshingly restful amidst the storm and stress which characterizes so much modern music: and it is desirable because familiarity with Mozart's style is calculated to exercise a salutary influence in checking tendencies to exaggeration, and to keep alive a taste for clearness of design and great effects secured by simple means. The Concerto in D is one of the most lovable of the six. It is not the business of the analytical writer to praise or blame critically, but in this instance he may be pardoned for saying in his remarks on the slow movement, 'How consummately graceful, as well as simple, is this music!' Does it not just express what every genuine music-lover must feel? Herr Kubelik has never been heard to greater advantage as an artist, and he certainly increased his reputation amongst us by his beautifully finished phrasing and sympathetic playing on this occasion. He subsequently interpreted Corelli's Sonata 'La Follia,' which was delightfully rendered to the pianoforte accompaniment of Herr Schwarb. It is scarcely necessary to say that the fullest justice was done to Dr. Cowen's happily-named orchestral poem, 'A Phantasy of Life and Love,' played on this occasion for the first time at these concerts, and an impressive interpretation was secured of Tchaikovsky's Fourth Symphony in F minor. It should be recorded that the spirit and verve of the orchestral playing were specially praiseworthy, as Dr. Cowen and the orchestra had been working hard all the afternoon at the Handel Festival.

THE ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The concerts given by the students of the Royal Academy of Music rarely fail to possess interesting features, either by the exhibition of promising executive talent or by the production of new compositions. The latter specially distinguished the performance at Queen's Hall on June 26. On that occasion were produced an overture entitled 'Cyrano de Bergerac,' by Mr. Paul Corder, and a Concertstück in G minor for organ and orchestra, by Mr. Benjamin J. Dale, who played the solo part of his work with notable skill. The concert piece is more than a testimony of the good training Mr. Dale has received at the Academy. Not only is it an estimable production, but it is effectively laid out for the organ and well scored for the orchestra; moreover, the work affords another proof of the talents possessed by this promising student. Mr. Paul Corder's overture is even a still more remarkable composition from so young a musician. The principal themes illustrate Cyrano's character, as soldier, poet, and humorist. Their treatment in free polyphony is essentially modern, but it is rational, and the orchestration bears witness to perception and knowledge of effect. Sir Alexander Mackenzie conducted excellent performances of both works, and they were much applauded. Some skilful and tasteful pianoforte, violin and violoncello playing was heard respectively from Miss Julia Higgins, Miss Marjorie Hayward, and Mr. Bertram W. O'Donnell, and the singing of Miss Verena Mutter and Miss Thérèse Grabowski bore witness to judicious cultivation of natural gifts.

At the chamber concert given in St. James's Hall on the 23rd ult., the following pupils' compositions were produced: an Irish dialect song 'The grand match' by Mr. Arnold E. T. Bax, and four songs by Miss Mabel Colyer, these efforts giving further proof that natural gifts are well directed at Tenterden Street. Of the performers who successfully appeared, Miss Irene Scharrer specially distinguished herself in an excellent rendering of Chopin's 'Andante Spianato and Polonaise in E flat,' while the ensemble class played the 'Song of Thanksgiving' from Sir Alexander Mackenzie's attractive suite 'London day by day,' and a 'Farfalla' by M. Sauret, the conductor of the class.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The programme of the Students' concert at the Royal College of Music on the 16th ult. was typical of the eclectic taste prevailing at this Institution, no less than of the general excellence of the training therein given. The concert opened with the production of a Concertstück in C for pianoforte, flute, clarinet, bassoon, and horn, composed by Mr. George Dyson. If the work shows the influence of Brahms by its somewhat sombre character, it testifies to earnestness of conception, high aims in artistry, and musicianly craftsmanship. Admirably played by Messrs. James Friskin, Charles Souper, Arthur Leonard, Harold Thornton, and George Manners, the work was warmly applauded.

The other concerted works performed were Mozart's Quartet in E flat and Richard Strauss's Pianoforte Quartet in C minor (Op. 15), two compositions which presented remarkable contrasts in style, not altogether to the advantage of modernity.

CRYSTAL PALACE CHOIR FESTIVALS.

THE LONDON SUNDAY SCHOOL CHOIR.

The London Sunday School Choir, which was founded in 1871, gave two choral concerts at the Crystal Palace on the 8th ult. The occasion derived special interest owing to its association with the centenary celebrations of the Sunday School Union. The first concert was given by a choir of 5,000 children under the direction of Mr. J. Rowley. The programme consisted mainly of easy, straightforward pieces, which were heartily sung and received. The selection of the beautiful aria 'I will sing' (from 'St. Paul') was perhaps hardly justifiable. At the second concert, which was given by a choir of about 4,000 adults, assisted by a full orchestra, one of the best programmes, from the artistic point of view, we have heard at a Crystal Palace concert of this type was performed. But although the music chosen was so excellent, it cannot be said that it was all quite suitable for performance at the Crystal Palace. Among the items were 'The Wilderness' (Goss); 'Hear my prayer' (Mendelssohn); 'Sing unto God' (Handel); and a 'Song of Peace' (Sullivan). A feature was the employment of a select choir for the verse and soli parts. On the whole the performance reached a high standard, and the excellence of the result bore eloquent witness to the capacity of the choralists, and the skill and control of Mr. Whiteman who conducted. The band, besides contributing accompaniments, played under Mr. David Davis the Overture 'Poet and Peasant' (Suppé), and other pieces. Mr. Horace G. Holmes was an efficient organist. It was pleasant to note that Mr. T. Barnard, who has been the general-manager of the Association since its institution thirty-two years ago, was still actively and cheerfully attending to his duties. Others of the officials long connected with the movement and still in harness are Mr. Geo. Merritt, Mr. Binns, Mr. Rowley, Mr. Welland Matthews, Mr. W. F. Freeman and Mrs. Mary Layton. A movement is on foot to found a memorial to the memory of the late Mr. Luther Hinton, who for many years was the greatly respected conductor of the adult choir. Particulars can be obtained from Mr. H. E. Kershaw, 96, Mornington Road, Leytonstone.

THE NATIONAL TEMPERANCE CHORAL UNION.

The National Temperance Choral Union held their annual Festival at the Crystal Palace on the 18th ult. A children's choir under the successful direction of Mr. Seemer Betts sang a selection of juvenile pieces which may be described as popular if not as being particularly good. An adult choir under the direction of Mr. W. G. Waller Goodworth gave some really excellent performances of various part-songs and choruses, including 'But as for His people' (Handel), 'Cradle Song' (Smart), and 'Ye Mariners of England.' Altogether 140 choirs took part in the two concerts, some coming from South Wales and others from various Provincial centres. A choral competition in three classes was also a feature of the proceedings.

For some years the Curwen Challenge Shield offered in the chief class had been won at former Festivals of the Union by the Nottingham Tabernacle Choir, but on this occasion the adjudicator, Mr. D. Price, awarded the trophy to the Portsmouth Excelsior Choir, Nottingham coming second, and Reading third.

NATIONAL CO-OPERATIVE FESTIVAL.

At the Festival of the Society held on the 18th ult., music was well to the front. A large adult choir performed a somewhat ambitious selection. The chief item was a short ode for chorus and orchestra by F. Cunningham Woods, 'The Lords of Labour,' which was specially composed for the occasion. The music is broad, simple and vigorous. Mr. Allen Gill conducted. In a choral competition that also took place a Gloucester choir gained the Novello trophy.

London Concerts.

The Moscow Trio—which made its first appearance in London on June 23 at Bechstein Hall—gave a second concert in the same place on the 6th ult. The party consists of M. David Krein (first violin of the Imperial opera house, Moscow), M. Rudolph Erlich (violinist, first soloist of the Imperial opera house), and M. David Schor (professor of the pianoforte, lecturer and Laureate of the Moscow Conservatoire). Of greater significance however than their individual abilities is the fact that they have played together for eleven years, an artistic collocation which has resulted in their having attained a unanimity of expression and attack that would seem to be unsurpassable. At each concert was played Tchaikovsky's Trio in A minor (Op. 50), inscribed 'In memory of a great artist,' and it is doubtful if so finished and significant interpretations had previously been heard in this country. The crispness and delicacy of the playing were entralling, and the pathetic and the gay were expressed with equal felicity. We hope the Moscow Trio will pay us further visits.

Master H. Vernon Warner, who with his sister gave a pianoforte and violin recital on June 30 at St. James's Hall, made his first appearance in 1896 at the Queen's (small) Hall when, as a boy of nine, his playing attracted much attention by reason of its correctness and expression. Since that time his gifts would appear to have been carefully trained. He still lacks physical power to do full justice to great works; but his readings are so lucid and poetical, and his executive means so great, that it seems safe to prophesy that he will attain a high position as an exponent. Miss Elsie Warner looks several years younger than Master Warner, but her aptitude for the violin appears to be as great as that of her brother for the pianoforte, and there was an engaging naïveté and freshness in her playing. The children were accompanied on the pianoforte by their father, Mr. Harry E. Warner,

Those who have a predilection for florid vocal music were provided with a congenial evening at St. James's Hall on June 30, when Mdles. Emilie and Gabrielle Christman gave a recital and sang with much brilliancy excerpts from operas of the old school. The sisters—who, it may be added, are twins—also sang an interesting selection of Russian songs, which they interpreted in a characteristic manner.

Miss Nellie Caro made a successful appearance in England at Bechstein Hall on June 30. Her soprano voice is not powerful, but her singing indicated an artistic temperament, and her interpretations were pleasing. The second half of the programme was devoted to compositions by Mr. Louis Hillier, and included two tasteful pianoforte solos, which were brilliantly rendered by Miss Madeline Payne, and a picturesque song entitled 'La ballade du Troubadour,' effectively sung by M. André Kayà.

A Sonata in D (Op. 14) by Mr. Richard Barth was heard for the first time in London at a concert given by Miss Lucy Stone on June 29 at the Bechstein Hall. The work is in three movements, which are built up with melodious themes tersely developed. It was effectively rendered by Miss Stone and Miss Fanny Davies, and created a favourable impression.

Mention is due of the first performance in London on the 1st ult. at Bechstein Hall of a Trio in F for violin, violoncello and pianoforte by Mr. A. von Ahn Carse, one of the most promising students of composition at the Royal Academy of Music. The work is poetically conceived, and although the writing at times is somewhat vague, the music holds the attention.

Some excellent ensemble playing was heard from the London Trio on the 2nd ult. at the Galleries of the Royal Society of British Artists, Suffolk Street. The party comprised Madame Amina Goodwin, Signor Simonetti, and Mr. W. E. Whitehouse; the first-named also contributed pianoforte solos with marked success. Miss Gleeson White was the vocalist.

Herr Van Rooy gave another of his attractive vocal recitals at St. James's Hall on the 1st ult., when his programme comprised Beethoven's song-cycle 'An die ferne Geliebte,' and three other songs by Herr Pfitzner, a composer little known in this country.

Mr. Whitney Tew and Mr. Herbert Fryer gave an attractive vocal and pianoforte recital on the 3rd ult. at St. James's Hall. Detailed comment is not necessary, not even of the new song cycle entitled 'Phases,' by Miss Frances Allitsen, but it should be said that each artist sustained his reputation.

The annual harp concert of Mr. John Thomas at St. James's Hall took place on the 4th ult., when the veteran harpist was assisted by the Misses Marianne and Clara Eissler. The vocalists who lent their aid included Miss Katherine Jones and Mr. Gwilym Richards, and the afternoon's music proved enjoyable to an appreciative audience.

Signor Fabozzi, professor of the pianoforte for the Institution for the Blind at Naples, gave a recital at St. James's (Banqueting Hall) on the 10th ult., when he played an excellent selection with remarkable assurance and brilliancy, being particularly successful in Chopin's Scherzo in B flat minor (Op. 31), and in three Studies by this composer.

M. Boga Oumiroff, a Bohemian vocalist gifted with a bass voice of musical quality, sang an excellent selection of songs in a refined manner on the 15th ult. at Bechstein Hall. He was assisted by Mdle. Milada Cerny, a juvenile pianist stated to be nine years of age, who played Mendelssohn's 'Rondo Capriccioso' with a facility and taste remarkable in one so young.

Foreign Notes.

ANTWERP.

The municipal authorities have bought for a sum of over £20,000 the Halles Centrales for the purpose of building on the site a theatre for Flemish opera. It is expected that the building will be opened in 1905.

BAËLE.

In this city was held (June 12-15) the thirty-ninth meeting of the Allgemeiner Deutscher Musikverein, and the concert programmes included many interesting novelties, of which may be named Max Schilling's music for Wildenbruch's poem 'Hexenlied' (recited by Ernst von Possart); a quintet for strings, in F, by Felix Draeseke, shortly to be published; an organ fantasia on 'Ein feste Burg,' and a symphonic fantasia and fugue by Max Reger; 'Bergnovelle,' a pianoforte trio by Hans Huber; the second and third parts of 'Raffael,' a choral work by Dr. Fritz Volbach, who has given to each part the title of one of the painter's celebrated Madonnas; and 'Nachtlied Zarathustras,' for baritone solo, chorus, and orchestra, by the English composer Frederick Delius. The festival programme also included Gustav Mahler's Second Symphony in C minor, and Richard Strauss's Hymn for sixteen voices.

BERLIN.

An enthusiastic reception was given to Professor Felix Schmidt, the conductor, and the members of the Lehrergesangverein of this city on their return from Frankfort. Although the delayed train arrived at an unearthly hour in the morning, burgomaster Reicke in official dress, Gerstenberg, member of the board of public instruction, school-inspector Dr. Fischer, and other representatives of the city, in addition to many ladies, were waiting to receive the singers. Speeches were delivered, wreaths and flowers distributed, and choruses sung, the victorious army of singers leaving the station to the sounds of the Prussian March.

Mr. C. G. Thomas, who five years ago became organist of the English Royal Church here, has now resigned on his acceptance of an appointment at Elland, in the West Riding of Yorkshire. The British Embassy, the choir, and other members of the British community in Berlin, have presented Mr. Thomas with an illuminated address and a purse of money in recognition of his services.

CARLSRUHE.

During the forthcoming season, Mr. George Henschel's opera 'Nubia' will be performed at the Court Opera for the first time; also Saint-Saëns's 'Samson and Dalila,' Blech's 'Das war ich,' and Offenbach's 'Les Contes d'Hoffmann' (in German). Of other operas to be given may be named Berlioz's 'Benvenuto Cellini,' Goetz's 'Taming of the Shrew,' and Spontini's 'La Vestale'—three operas which we should be glad to hear in London.

DRESDEN.

Carl Gjellerup's 'Die Opferfeuer,' poem by Gerard Gjellerup, based on Indian legends, was produced here in June with great success, subsequent performances confirming the first favourable impressions.

LEIPZIG.

It is announced that by December 11, the centenary anniversary of the birth of Berlioz, seventeen volumes of the complete edition of the works of the French master, now being published by Messrs. Breitkopf and Härtel, will have appeared—everything in fact except the operas, though these form no small part of the composer's art-work.

In the Denkmäler deutscher Tonkunst there will shortly be published an opera seria by Carl Heinrich Graun, the great contemporary of Handel. It is entitled 'Montezuma.' The libretto was sketched in French prose by Frederick-the-Great, and turned into Italian verse by the court poet Tagliacucchi. Dr. Mayer-Reinach considers that it has value other than historical.

MOSCOW.

A special performance of 'La Damnation de Faust' in honour of Berlioz will be given here next December. It is being organized by M. Kes. The French composer, it will be remembered, visited St. Petersburg in 1847, gave several concerts there, and was cordially received.

ST. PETERSBURG.

The newspapers of this city announce that the Princess Hélène Georgiewna of Saxe-Altenbourg, née Grand Duchess of Russia, is organizing the publication at her own cost of a series of Bach Church Cantatas with Russian text. The translation of the German text has already been made, and been approved of by the ecclesiastical censor.

STUTTGART.

A monument to Liszt executed by A. Fremd will be unveiled on October 22, the ninety-second anniversary of the composer's birth. By permission of the king it will be placed in the royal park. Frau Hofrat Johanna Klinckfuss, a former pupil of the master, has been the leading spirit in this homage to the composer.

TORRE DEL LAGO.

Signor Puccini has not yet recovered from his unfortunate automobile accident; indeed, according to latest accounts, he will be permanently lame. It is however satisfactory to learn that he is in sufficiently good health to be able to work at his new opera, 'Madame Butterfly.'

Country and Colonial News.

BRIEFLY SUMMARIZED.

ADELAIDE.—The Bach Society gave an admirable performance of the 'St. Matthew Passion' in the Town Hall on May 28. The choir, numbering eighty voices, sang with remarkable steadiness and precision, and displayed much delicacy in the rendering of the chorales, the enunciation of the words being specially good. The solos were also well sung by Miss Elsie Chaplin, Miss Hilda Hales, Miss S. H. Wilkinson, Mr. Wanborough Fisher, and Mr. Stanley Newman. The string orchestra was efficient, and Mr. J. M. Dunn rendered valuable assistance at the organ. Dr. Harold Davies who conducted deserves much credit for the excellent results obtained.

CANTERBURY.—The music performed at Kent College on Prize Day, the 2nd ult., by the School Musical Society was entirely selected from Purcell, a highly commendable choice. The programme included the Battle Symphony and tenor solo 'Come, if you dare' ('King Arthur'); the two airs with chorus from the 'Tempest'; and 'Britons, strike home' (Bonduca). The conductor was Mr. P. A. Scholes.

CHRISTCHURCH (N.Z.).—The Musical Union gave their second concert this season on June 10 at Canterbury Hall. The programme, which was mainly orchestral, included Beethoven's Overture 'Fidelio,' the Pianoforte Concerto No. 3 in C minor (solo, Miss Jennie Black), and Symphony in F major, No. 8 (Op. 93.) The vocalists were Miss Ballin and Mr. W. A. Bowring. Mr. F. M. Wallace, who conducted as usual, secured excellent performances.

CROYDON.—Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's recently published work, 'Four Novelletten for String orchestra,' was performed on the 10th ult. in the Public Hall at the annual orchestral concert given by the students of the Croydon Conservatoire of Music. The beautiful and melodious music created a very favourable impression. The composer conducted. He also directed the performance of a Sérénade for Strings by F. Weingartner, and of other works. The vocalist was Miss Gertrude Inglis, and Miss Alice Carr was the accompanist.

ETON.—Miss Lucy Stone gave a concert in the Drill Hall, Eton College, on the 16th ult., when the programme included Beethoven's Sonata for pianoforte and violoncello (Op. 69), played by Mr. Donald Tovey and Mr. Percy Such, two Hungarian Dances (Brahms) for violin and pianoforte, performed by Miss Stone and Mr. Tovey, and Schubert's Trio in B flat (Op. 99), interpreted by the three artists named. The vocalist was Miss Gertrude Sichel.

KIMBERLEY (S. Africa).—The Musical Association, consisting now of both choral and orchestral sections, have entered upon their third season's operations. Schubert's 'Song of Miriam' formed the chief work at the first concert on June 3. Mr. J. Frank Proudman, the founder of the Society, conducted.

LEATHERHEAD.—An interesting concert was recently given by the pupils of the School for the Indigent Blind in the Central Hall of their Institution at Highlands, when the programme included amongst other works compositions by some of the students themselves. These were a 'Waltz' for organ and pianoforte duet, by S. Brooks; a trio, 'April, May and June,' and song, 'Mizpah,' words by Flora Skinner and music by Eliza Wagstaff; 'Evening,' a glee for male voices, and a song, 'King of love,' by H. Blake. Much credit is due to the Rev. St. Clare Hill, Principal of the School, and Mr. W. Lucas, the music-master, for their excellent training of the students.

LEICESTER.—A special musical service was held in St. Saviour's Church on the 5th ult., when Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' was sung by the choir with full orchestral accompaniment. The choruses were efficiently rendered, and the solo music was excellently sung by Miss Constance Lee, Miss Nellie Haines, and Mr. Arthur Stork. The orchestra was led by Mr. D. Sansom. Mr. W. H. Scott presided at the organ and Mr. J. Haines ably conducted.

RONDEBOSCH (S. Africa).—The third of the ballad concerts arranged by Mr. Henry Clements took place on June 3, when the chief feature was Liza Lehmann's song cycle 'In a Persian garden,' which was excellently sung by Madame Kate Drew, Miss Griffith Vincent, Mr. Henry Clements, and Mr. R. L. Tait. Miss Edith Macfarlane (violin) and Mr. Gustav Windisch (violincello) performed solos on their respective instruments.

WINTERSDORF (Southport).—Miss H. A. Simon gave an interesting lecture on 'Purcell' in the Lecture Hall on the 13th ult. The numerous musical illustrations included the Suite for Strings; Chorus 'In these delightful, pleasant groves'; the 'Golden' Sonata for two Violins and Pianoforte; the incidental music to 'The Tempest'; and the songs 'Fairest Isle' ('King Arthur') and 'I attempt from love's sickness to fly.' The music was given under the direction of Mr. H. A. Branscombe.

The Edinburgh Society of Musicians brought to a close on the 4th ult. what has probably been the most successful session in its history—musically, financially, and in point of the number of members and associates on its roll. The programme was organized by the president, and included Rheinberger's Pianoforte Quartet in E flat, the Septet by Blane for strings, clarinet, bassoon, and horn, and a clever and brilliant 'Divertissement' for pianoforte duet and string quartet by W. B. Moonie. The performers were Messrs. Dace and Affleck at the pianoforte, and Messrs. Winram, Proudfoot, O'Brien, and Millar-Craig, strings. The septet was led by Mr. Dambmann, and Messrs. Bernini and F. Laubach also took part.

Two performances of Mr. Colin McAlpin's early opera 'King Arthur' were given at the Royalty Theatre on the 6th and 7th ult. by the students of the London Music School (with professional assistance in the orchestra), under the direction of Mr. Henry Beauchamp. It will be remembered that Mr. McAlpin is the winner of the Moody-Manners prize competed for by British composers, and that this prize opera 'Cross and Crescent' is to be performed during the autumn season at Covent Garden. The performance of 'King Arthur' was an ambitious attempt by the students of the Institution named, and deserves credit by reason of its being out of the beaten track of such efforts.

Our Birmingham correspondent writes:—Dr. Elgar's new oratorio 'The Apostles' was taken in hand by the Festival choir on the 10th ult., Mr. R. H. Wilson securing an admirable first reading of the choruses in Part I. Three months have been devoted to Bach's Mass in B minor, and the performance of this colossal work promises to be exceptionally fine.

The Promenade Concerts at Queen's Hall are announced to commence on Saturday evening, the 22nd inst. Mr. Henry J. Wood, as heretofore, will conduct these attractive music-makings.

Answers to Correspondents.

CAMES.—The following pieces for clarinet by A. Terschak may be recommended: 'Le Babillard,' étude-caprice (Op. 23); 'Salut à l'Hongrie,' fantaisie mélancolique (Op. 29); 'Murillo,' allegro de concert (Op. 138); 'Le Papillon en Voyage,' étude-caprice (Op. 139); 'Homage à Venise,' rhapsodie italienne (Op. 140); 'Mordio,' grand air italien (Op. 141); 'Die Jahreszeiten,' four salonstücke (Op. 143).

ANDANTE CANTABILE.—You ask us, 'What is the irreducible minimum of music a gentleman amateur should know to be able to play light operatic melodies on the piano?' and 'What examination should be prepared for and passed so as to attain a sufficient knowledge of music for ordinary household purposes?' We give it up.

MUSICATUS.—The 'lives' of very modern composers and accounts of their works must be sought for in separate books. In regard to Sullivan, Mr. Vernon Blackburn is, we believe, now writing a complete biography of that composer.

M. C.—The second example of the chromatic scale (beginning on C) you send us is the most usual form, except the A sharp, which is generally written B flat; the sharpened fourth (F sharp) is almost invariably retained. After all, sound, not notation, is music.

E. B. T.—The 'Graduated Exercises for School Classes' (Book 91 of Novello's School Songs) will probably suit you. 'Music for School Drill,' by R. Reah, designed to accompany any series of drill movements, may answer your purpose for musical drill.

W. T.—There are now so many precocious boys who go in for music examinations that it is impossible to tell whether one 'aged five' has beaten the record, even with 'eighty-two marks in the Primary, and honors in Piano.'

C. A. G.—Scholarships for music students, with maintenance attached, are competed for from time to time at the Royal College of Music. Apply to the Registrar of the College for particulars.

J. M.—Sing naturally and with feeling. Practise scales and similar exercises softly, and use your brains. Hear all the solo vocalists you can; do not of necessity copy them, but profit by the hearing.

HISTORICUS.—See 'The Art of Music,' by Sir Hubert Parry (Kegan Paul), an invaluable book which should be read by every student of music. History up-to-date is not history.

DIGITUS.—All physical exercises are good, provided they are scientifically regulated. Any apparatus that has to be firmly gripped by the hand for any length of time should be carefully avoided by keyboard performers.

GAMBA.—The words 'Awake, O North wind,' &c., from the Song of Solomon (Chap. iv., v. 16), form part of an anthem beginning 'If I go not away,' composed by Mr. Thomas Adams.

SUB-BASS.—For practical books on Counterpoint and Sonata Form see the Primers of Sir F. Bridge and Mr. W. H. Hadow respectively.

HOPEFUL.—(1) Chopin's music is essentially of the rubato kind in regard to tempo interpretation; (2) Play the notes with the hand which seems most convenient.

D. P.—The whole of Beethoven's symphonies were performed at the Richter concerts (London) during their second season, in the year 1880.

RAVENSWOOD.—The following collections of unison songs from Messrs. Novello's School Series may be recommended:—Books 32, 37, 57, 71, and 109.

R. G.—Submit your compositions to a publisher, and you will soon discover their marketable value.

DISPUTE.—C sharp minor, if perchance we read your writing aright.

E. V. S.—The note is undoubtedly F natural. (Chant No. 424 in Joule's Collection, bars 9 and 10, alto part.)

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., LIMITED.

ACFIELD, WILLIAM—A Vesper Hymn (No. 3). ("Now the night is falling.") 1d.

ATKINS, IVOR—"A Sea Song." Two-part Song, for Female Voices (s.s.). (No. 350. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, Quartets, &c.) 3d.

BELL, W. H.—"Love and Beauty." Four-part Song (No. 915. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

—"Hearken unto me, ye holy children." Anthem, for Baritone Solo and Chorus. Suitable for Harvest or other seasons. (No. 773. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

BERKELEY, JULIAN C.—"Rock of Ages." Sacred Song, for Contralto or Baritone. 2s.

BLISS, REV. W. H.—Te Deum laudamus. Newly pointed for use with Anglican Chants. 1d.

BRIDGE, FRANK—"Autumn." Four-part Song. (No. 726. The Musical Times.) 1½d.

BURTON, T. ARTHUR—"The Tragedy of Cock Robin." Short Action Piece. Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined. 8d.

CLARE, EDWYN A.—"The fruit of Thy works." Harvest Anthem. Also suitable for other occasions. 4d.

CLIFFE, FREDERIC—Symphony in C minor (No 1). Full Score, 42s.

COWEN, FREDERIC H.—"The Heroes." Four-part Song. (No. 920. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 4d.

ELGAR, EDWARD—"The Black Knight." Op. 25. Vocal parts, 1s. each.

—"Prelude and Angel's Farewell" ("Gerontius"). (No. 1. Organ Transcriptions, by A. HERBERT BREWER.) 2s.

ELLIS, MRS. EDWARD—"The Birds' Ritual." Song, for Soprano. 2s.

FANING, EATON—"We love our island story." Four-part Song. (No. 921. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

FAULKES, WILLIAM—Scherzo Symphonique Concertant. (No. 313. Original Compositions for the Organ.) 2s.

FURNEAUX, VERY REV. W. M.—A Companion to The Public School Hymn Book. Cloth, 2s.

GEEHL, HENRY E.—Suite Espagnole, for Orchestra. Arrangement for the Pianoforte by the COMPOSER. 2s. 6d.

HARWOOD, BASIL—Original Compositions for the Organ. No. 3. Interlude in D. 1s. 6d.

—Ditto. No. 4. Pæan. 2s. 6d.

—Ditto. No. 5. Short Postlude for Ascensiontide. 1s.

—Ditto. No. 6. Requiem Æternam. 1s. 6d.

—Ditto. No. 7. Andante tranquillo in E flat. 1s. 6d.

HERVEY, F. A. J.—"Arise, O Lord, into Thy resting place." Short Anthem, for Dedication Festivals or general use. (No. 126. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.

HUNTLEY, G. F.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E flat. (No. 636. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

LEE, E. MARKHAM—"Blessed be the Lord, my strength." Full Anthem. (No. 770. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

PARKER, HORATIO—Concerto for Organ (Op. 55.) Solo Arrangement, by DAVID STANLEY SMITH. (No. 314. Original Compositions for the Organ.) 3s.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 134. Contains the following Music in both Notations: "The Wind." Junior Unison Song, by GEORGE RATHBONE. "Hail! Star of Eve." Arranged for S.S.A. (Unaccompanied). Composed by R. SPOFFORTH. 1½d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

SCHOOL SONGS—Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo; B. Voice parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

No. 313. Evening Peace. Trio for S.S.A. (Unaccompanied) FRANZ ABT — 1d.

,, 674. Ave Maria. Unison Song F. SCHUBERT 2d. —

,, 749. The Fairy Ship. Junior Unison Song, with ad lib. actions KATE BOUNDY 1½d. —,, 750. The Song of the Kettle. Junior Unison Song, with ad lib. actions KATE BOUNDY 1½d. —

Book 124. Six Two-part Songs (Grade 2), by Various Composers .. 6d. —

THACKWRAY, W.—Te Deum laudamus and Jubilate Deo in B flat. 4d.

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES—Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT:—

No. 1323. O that men would praise the Lord. Harvest Anthem JOHN B. McEWEN 1½d.

,, 1324. The earth is the Lord's. Harvest Anthem .. ALFRED HOLLINS 1½d.

CLARE, EDWYN A.—"The fruit of Thy works." Harvest Anthem. 2d.

HOLST, G. VON—"The Idea." Humorous Operetta, for Children. 6d.

TOURS, FRANK E.—"Hush-a-by, Sweetie." Song, for Soprano or Tenor. 2s.

WAREING, HERBERT W.—"Blessed is the man." Anthem for general use. (No. 769. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

WARNER, H. WALDO—"Away to the woodlands." Four-part Song. (No. 923. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

WOOD, G. R. HARDING—Children's Hymn, "The Children's Saviour." 1d.

MISS LOUISA RATCLIFF

(SOPRANO).
Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, Dinners, At Homes, &c.
Lingfield, Dulwich Rise, London, S.E."Miss Louisa Ratcliff sang well."—The Times."Miss Louisa Ratcliff sang tastefully."—Musical Times."Miss Louisa Ratcliff showed off her fine voice to great advantage."—The Lady."Miss Louisa Ratcliff's singing was charming."—The Era.

CORK CATHEDRAL.—WANTED, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Salary, £120. Good prospect of Tuition. Copies of testimonials to be sent to Rev. A. Lucas, Minor Canon, 16, Dyke Parade, Cork.

ORGANIST desires ENGAGEMENT, London or neighbourhood. Experienced Church Musician, successful Choir-trainer. Excellent references. Letters, first instance, Rowe, 59, Hazelbourne Road, Balham Hill, S.W.

WANTED, in October, a YOUNG LADY, well up in Pianoforte and Music Business. Full particulars and photo to Fisher, Arcade, Bournemouth.

SHOULD any lady or gentleman need HELP in CATALOGUING BOOKS or MUSIC, SORTING PAPERS, or READING MUSIC. Advertiser would be pleased to correspond. Address, Czech, Post Office, Exeter.

FOR SALE.—Fine VIOLONCELLO (PETER WALMSLEY, 1789), in perfect condition. Address, W. L. C., Tamblin's, 116, Ladbroke Grove, W.

Just Published.

(ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN. No. 313.)

SCHERZO SYMPHONIQUE

CONCERTANT

COMPOSED BY

WILLIAM FAULKES.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Truro Cathedral (Illustrated)	513
Berlioz in England (with Caricature)	520
William Sterndale Bennett (with Facsimile)	523
Occasional Notes	527
Half-a-Century Ago...	529
Arthur Sullivan Memorial (Illustrated)	530
The late Mr. W. H. Dayas (with Portrait)	531
Church and Organ Music	533
Beethoven's 'Leonora' Overture	535
A Veteran Professor	538
Two Music Schools...	538
Obituary	539
Reviews	540
Philharmonic Society	547
Royal Academy of Music	547
Royal College of Music	547
Crystal Palace Choir Festivals	547
London Concerts	548
Foreign Notes	549
Country and Colonial News	549
Answers to Correspondents	550
Four-part Song—'Autumn,'—Frank Bridge	541

TWO extra Supplements are issued with the present number:—

1. Portrait of William Sterndale Bennett, by Wageman.
2. Harvest Anthem, 'Father of mercies, God of love,' by E. Vine Hall.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines ...	0	3	0
Three Lines ...	0	3	0
For every additional Line ...	0	0	10
Half a Column ...	2	0	0
A Column ...	4	0	0
A Page ...	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in their proper positions,
Advertisements for the next issue should reach
the Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W.,
NOT LATER than AUGUST 21.

NOVELLO'S PRIMERS OF MUSICAL BIOGRAPHY.

HECTOR BERLIOZ

BY
JOSEPH BENNETT.

Price One Shilling.
Cloth, gilt, 2s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

PASTORAL MELODY

AND LAMENT
FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY
JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Shilling.

FESTAL COMMEMORATION

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY
JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

PUBLISHED ON THE 1ST OF EVERY MONTH. Price 1½d.
ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, INCLUDING POSTAGE, 2S.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW FOR AUGUST

CONTAINS:—

GENERAL NOTES.

THE HARMONIZATION OF MELODIES IN FOUR VOCAL PARTS. By CUTBERT HARRIS.

THE MORECAMBE MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

THEORY QUESTIONS.

THE TONIC SOL-FA COLLEGE.

THE LONDON SUNDAY SCHOOL CHOIR.

THE NATIONAL TEMPERANCE CHORAL UNION.

SCHOOL MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

ANSWERS TO THEORY QUESTIONS.

DATES OF COMPETITIONS.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

THE AUGUST NUMBER CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC:—

"IN WOODS IS PEACE." Trio (Unaccompanied) for S.S.A. By FRANZ ABT.

"THE WILLOW AND ITS LESSON." Two-part Song. By MYLES
B. FOSTER.

SIGHT-SINGING TESTS.

Also, EXTRA SUPPLEMENT, containing "THE SONG OF THE KETTLE."
Junior Unison Song, with ad lib. actions. By KATE BOUNDY.
(No. 750. Novello's School Songs.) Price 1½d.

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

REDUCTION IN PRICE.

NOVELLO'S

CANTATAS for FEMALE VOICES.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH.
(Reduced from Two Shillings and Sixpence.)

FRANZ ABT—
Minster Bells.
Springtime (Sol-fa, 6d.).
Summer.
The Fays' Frolic.
The Golden City (Sol-fa, 6d.).
The Silver Cloud.
The Water Fairies.
The Wishing-Stone.

JOHN KINROSS—
Songs in a Vineyard
(Sol-fa, 6d.).

HENRY LAHEE—
The Sleeping Beauty
(Sol-fa, 6d.).

C. H. LLOYD—
The Gleaners' Harvest.

WILFRED BENDALL—
The Lady of Shalott
(Sol-fa, 1s.).

CLEMENT LOCKNANE—
The Elf Queen.

JOSIAH BOOTH—
The Day of Rest (Sol-fa, 9d.).

E. PROUT—
Queen Aimée.

GUSTAV ERNEST—
All the year round (Sol-fa, 9d.).

EDMUND ROGERS—
The Forest Flower.

EATON FANING—
Buttercups and Daisies
(Sol-fa, 9d.).

ROLAND ROGERS—
Florabel (Sol-fa, 1s.).

MYLES B. FOSTER—
The Bonnie Fishwives
(Sol-fa, 9d.).

FERRIS TOZER—
King Neptune's Daughter
(Sol-fa, 6d.).

BATTISON HAYNES—
A Sea Dream (Sol-fa, 6d.).
The Fairies' Isle.

CHARLES VINCENT—
The Little Mermaid
The Village Queen (Sol-fa, 6d.).

OLIVER KING—
The Naiads.

E. M. WOOLLEY—
The Captive Soul
(with Tenor Solo).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE

MALE VOICE CHANT-BOOK

A COLLECTION OF
THREE-PART (A.T.B.) CHANTS
ADAPTED TO THE BOOK OF PSALMS.

Price Three Shillings.
In Cloth, 4s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

MAGNIFICAT

AND

NUNC DIMITTIS

FROM THE

SERVICE IN B FLAT

BY

C. VILLIERS STANFORD.

(Op. 10.)

FULL SCORE.

Price Five Shillings.

String Parts, 2s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Organ, 5s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW CANTATA FOR NEXT SEASON.

THE TEMPTATION

WORDS BY

SARA S. HENNELL

MUSIC BY

F. W. HUMBERSTONE.

"If the whole work be equal to the air 'Jesu, blest Jesu,' more will be heard of it."—Dover Express.

"The music is interesting all through, and never becomes monotonous. . . . The final chorus is a vigorous climax to a work which, while offering no great difficulties in the way of performance, might be effectively rendered by any ordinary choir or choral society, and is well worth the attention of conductors."—Scarborough Daily Post.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Specimen Copy, One Shilling.

HOUGHTON AND CO., 39, Great Marlborough Street, W.

JESU, THE VERY THOUGHT OF THEE

AN ANTHEM

For Bass Solo, Quartet or Chorus, S.S.A.A., and Full Chorus, S.A.T.B., with independent Organ Accompaniment

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST EDWIN MITCHELL.

Price Threepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Fifth Edition.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in E flat. By ALFRED
J. DYE. Voices only, 3d. Organ Copy, 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Seventh Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat.

By WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E.

By LENNOX RODNEY AMOTT, Mus.D. Festal setting. Melodious and not difficult. Price 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat.

By JAMES HODGSON. "Full of melody and beautiful harmony." Suitable for Harvest and other Festivals. Price 4d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

VESPER HYMN No. 3.—"NOW THE NIGHT
IS FALLING." By WILLIAM ACFIELD, composer of "With Thy Benediction" and "Jesu, we pray Thee."

Price One Penny.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

POPULAR HARVEST ANTHEMS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM

FULL, EASY, EFFECTIVE.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

O GIVE THANKS.

SING UNTO THE LORD.

GREAT IS THE LORD.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

HARVEST ANTHEMS

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., CANTAB.

Blessed be Thou.	Four Voices	s. d.
Ditto.	Tonic Sol-fa	0 3
O clap your hands	0 1½
Ditto.	Tonic Sol-fa	0 4
Harvest or Festival Hymn.	Words and Music	0 2
							0 1

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TEN HYMNS (SET I.)

WITH TUNES

FOR USE IN SCHOOLS AND FOR CHILDREN'S FESTIVALS.
(Suitable also for Flower Services or Sunday School Festivals.)

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR SULLIVAN, JOHN STAINER, GEORGE ELVEY,
A. M. GOODHART, J. H. MAUNDER, and H. D. WETTON.

EDITED BY W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

Staff Notation, price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.

TEN HYMNS (SET II.)

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

G. C. MARTIN, F. H. COWEN, J. LANGRAN, S. SMITH, A. SULLIVAN,
J. STAINER, and OTHERS.

EDITED BY W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

Staff Notation, price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.
Words only, Five Shillings per 100, each Set.

TEN HYMNS (SET III.)

NATIONAL HYMNS AND TUNES FOR CHILDREN'S USE.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

G. C. MARTIN, H. WALFORD DAVIES, J. H. MAUNDER,
J. BARNBY, FREDERICK CLAY, C. HARFORD LLOYD, JOHN E. WEST,
H. DAVAN WETTON, B. TOURS.

EDITED BY W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

The Ten Hymns, complete, price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.
Words only, Three Shillings per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Easy, Effective, and Inspiring.

A Vicar writes: "Both my Choir and People were charmed with your last Anthem."

An Organist writes: "Your last Anthem was greatly appreciated."

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM

COMPOSED BY EDWYN A. CLARE.

THE FRUIT OF THY WORKS. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d. ... O.N. 4d.

This grand New Anthem contains many beautiful effects that singers will perceive and delight in bringing out. All the parts are good and inspiring. 3rd 1,000 now ready.

ALSO:

PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 28th 1,000 ... 3d.

A very popular Anthem, sung last year at a Choral Festival in Downpatrick Cathedral; and this year at a Festival in Wem Parish Church, Salop.

O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD ARE THY WORKS. 6th 1,000 ... 4d.

THOU CROWNEST THE YEAR WITH THY GOODNESS. 9th 1,000 ... 3d.

Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

FEAR NOT, O LAND. Easy and pretty. 6th 1,000 ... 3d.

SING UNTO GOD WITH THE VOICE OF THANKSGIVING. 12th 1,000 4d.

A splendid Festival Anthem. Always goes well.

HOW GREAT IS HIS GOODNESS. An impressive Anthem. 8th 1,000 3d.

THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE. 31st 1,000. Sol-fa, 2d.; O.N. 3d.

Very popular Anthem. Sung by 1,500 voices at Newcastle-on-Tyne.

FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in D. 14th 1,000 4d.

Sung at a Festival at Petersham, New South Wales.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited, 1, Berners Street, W.

New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEMS FOR TRINITYTIDE.

I AM ALPHA AND OMEGA

FROM "DEATH AND LIFE."

COMPOSED BY
CH. GOUNOD.
Price Fourpence.

LIGHT OF THE WORLD

FINAL CHORUS FROM THE "LIGHT OF LIFE."

COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR.
Price Threepence.

O JOYFUL LIGHT

COMPOSED BY BERTHOLD TOURS.
Price Fourpence.

COMPLETE LIST.

*Almighty and everlasting God...	Gibbons	14d.
Ascribe unto the Lord ...	S. S. Wesley	8d.
Behold, God is great ...	E. W. Naylor	4d.
Beloved, if God so loved us ...	J. Barnby	14d.
Beloved, let us love one another ...	Gerard F. Cobb	14d.
Be ye all of one mind ...	Arthur E. Godfrey	3d.
*Blessed is the man ...	John Goss	4d.
Blessing and glory ...	Boyce	14d.
Blessing, glory ...	Bach	6d.
*God came from Teman ...	C. Steggall	4d.
*God so loved the world ...	Matthew Kingston	14d.
Grant, O Lord ...	Mozart	14d.
*Hail, gladdening Light ...	J. T. Field	2d.
Hail, gladdening Light ...	G. C. Martin	4d.
He in tears that soweth (s.s.a.) in Key of A ...	F. Hiller	14d.
*He in tears that soweth (s.s.a.) in Key of A flat ...	F. Hiller	14d.
*Holy, holy, holy ...	Crotch	3d.
*How goodly are Thy tents ...	F. Ouseley	14d.
*How lovely are Thy dwellings... ..	Spohr	14d.
I am Alpha and Omega ...	Ch. Gounod	4d.
*I am Alpha and Omega ...	J. Stainer	14d.
*I am Alpha and Omega ...	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
I beheld, and lo! ...	Blow	6d.
I know that the Lord is great ...	F. Ouseley	14d.
I saw the Lord ...	J. Stainer	6d.
I will magnify ...	J. Shaw	3d.
I will sing of Thy power ...	Greene	4d.
*I will sing of Thy power ...	A. Sullivan	14d.
I will sing unto the Lord ...	H. Wareing	3d.
*In humble faith ...	G. Garrett	1d.
*In Jewry is God known... ..	J. Clarke-Whitfield	14d.
In sweet consent ...	E. H. Thorne	3d.
In the fear of the Lord ...	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
Let the peace of God ...	J. Stainer	4d.
Light of the world ...	E. Elgar	3d.
*Lord of all power and might ...	William Mason	14d.
Ditto (men's voices) ...	J. Barnby	2d.
*Lord, we pray Thee ...	J. Varley Roberts	14d.
O Father blest ...	J. Barnby	3d.
O joyful Light ...	B. Tours	4d.
*O Lord, my trust... ..	King Hall	14d.
*O taste and see ...	J. Goss	3d.
*O taste and see ...	A. Sullivan	14d.
O taste and see ...	A. H. Mann	3d.
O where shall wisdom be found? ...	Boyce	6d.
Ponder my words, O Lord ...	Arnold D. Culley	14d.
*Praise His awful Name... ..	Spohr	2d.
Rejoice in the Lord ...	G. C. Martin	6d.
*See what love hath the Father ...	Mendelssohn	14d.
Sing to the Lord ...	Mendelssohn	8d.
*Stand up and bless ...	J. Goss	4d.
Teach me Thy way ...	W. H. Gladstone	14d.
The Lord hath been mindful ...	S. S. Wesley	3d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd ...	G. A. Macfarren	14d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd ...	J. Shaw	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion ...	H. Hiles	6d.
Thou shalt show me the path of life ...	Alan Gray	14d.
We have heard with our ears ...	H. Aldrich	1s.
Whatsoever is born of God ...	H. Oakeley	3d.
Who can comprehend Thee ...	Mozart	3d.

THE "LUTE" SERIES.

124a Almighty God, Who has promised ...	H. Elliot Button	1d.
124b Grant to us, Lord ...	H. Elliot Button	1d.
*7b Let Thy merciful ears ...	A. R. Gaul	14d.
22 O God, Who hast prepared ...	A. R. Gaul	2d.
69 Teach me Thy way ...	Frank L. Moir	3d.
124c We humbly beseech Thee ...	H. Elliot Button	1d.

 Anthems marked thus (*) may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S
SERVICES, ANTHEMS, &c.

FOR

MEN'S VOICES.

SERVICES.

No.		s. d.
40.	BLAIR, HUGH.—Communion Service in G. T.B. ...	1 0
14.	COBB, GERARD F.—Magnificat and Nunc dim. in F. T.B.B. ...	0 6
16.	CORFE, C. J.—Ditto, in E flat. T.T.B.B. (Sol-fa, 14d.) ...	0 4
25.	DISTIN, THEODORE.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G. A.T.T.B. ...	0 6
48.	FORD, E.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E flat. A.T.T.B. ...	0 4
19.	GARRETT, GEORGE.—Ditto, ditto, in B flat. T.T.B.B. ...	0 6
23.	HAYNES, BATTISON.—Ditto, ditto, in D. A.T.T.B. ...	0 6
18.	ILIFFE, FREDERICK.—Ditto, ditto, in D. T.T.B.E. ...	0 6
46.	LEMARE, EDWIN H.—Final Amen. A.T.T.B.B. (on Card) ...	0 1
38.	LLOYD, C. H.—Versicles, Responses, and Litany. T.T.B.B. ...	0 6
39.	MARTIN, G. C.—Te Deum in A flat, with Benedictus in Chant form. A.T.T.B. ...	0 6
59.	NAYLOR, E. W.—Te Deum in A flat. T.B. ...	0 4
60.	NAYLOR, E. W.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G. T.B. ...	0 4
13.	READ, F. J.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D. A.T.E. ...	0 6
33.	READ, F. J.—Te Deum and Jubilate in B flat. A.T.B. ...	0 6
58.	READ, F. J.—Benedictus in B flat. A.T.B. ...	0 4
3.	READ, F. J.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F. A.T.T.B. ...	0 6
9.	SELBY, B. LUARD.—Ditto, ditto, in E. T.T.B.B. ...	0 6
35.	SELBY, B. LUARD.—Ditto, ditto, in G. A.T.E. ...	0 6
47.	STAINER, JOHN.—Ditto, ditto, in D. A.T.T.B. ...	0 6
49.	STAINER, JOHN.—Te Deum. A.T.T.F. ...	0 4
50.	STAINER, JOHN.—Benedictus. A.T.T.B. ...	0 4
52.	STAINER, JOHN.—Communion Service. A.T.T.F. ...	1 0
45.	STAINER, JOHN.—Versicles and Responses. A.T.T.F. ...	0 6
26.	STEGGALL, CHARLES.—Te Deum and Benedictus in B flat. A.T.T.B. ...	0 8
27.	STEGGALL, CHARLES.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat. A.T.T.B. ...	0 6
32.	WEST, JOHN E.—Ditto, ditto, in C. A.T.T.B. ...	0 6
21.	WEST, JOHN E.—Ditto, ditto, in E flat. A.T.T.B. ...	0 6
41.	WEST, JOHN E.—Te Deum laudamus and Benedictus in E flat. A.T.T.B. ...	0 8

ANTHEMS.

57.	AKERMAN, R. F. M.—Lo my Shepherd is divine. A.T.E. ...	0 2
17.	BARNBY, J.—Lord of all power and might. A.T.T.B. ...	0 2
34.	BARNICOTT, R. S.—O worship the Lord. A.T.T.B. ...	0 3
31.	BENNETT, W. STERNDAL.—God is a Spirit (The Woman of Samaria). A.T.T.F. ...	0 6
15.	CALDICOTT, A. J.—Behold, how good and joyful. A.T.T.B. ...	0 3
55.	CALKIN, J. B.—Thou wilt keep him. A.T.T.B. ...	0 2
24.	CULLEY, ARNOLD D.—Try me, O God. A.T.T.B. ...	0 2
20.	DISTIN, THEODORE.—Hear me when I call. A.T.T.B. ...	0 2
54.	DVOŘÁK.—At Thy feet in adoration (Fac me vere), from the Stabat Mater . Tenor Solo and T.T.B.E. ...	0 3
42.	ELGAR, E.—Seek Him that maketh the seven stars (The Light of Life). T.T.B.E. ...	0 6
7.	FORD, ERNEST.—O Lord God of my salvation (Domine Deus). T.T.B.B. ...	0 4
44.	GLADSTONE, F. E.—Almighty and everlasting God. A.T.B. ...	0 3
1.	GOUNOD, CH.—As the hart pants. T.T.B.E. ...	0 3
30.	HANDEL.—The Lord is a man of war (Israel in Egypt). T.T.B. ...	0 1
22.	ILIFFE, FREDERICK.—Jesu, Lover of my soul. A.T.T.B. ...	0 2
43.	LLOYD, C. H.—Lord, teach us to number our days. A.A.T.T.B.B. ...	0 3
4.	MENDELSSOHN.—The word went forth (Festgesang). T.T.B. ...	0 4
5.	MENDELSSOHN.—For ever blessed (Beati mortui). T.T.B.B. ...	0 3
6.	MENDELSSOHN.—The righteous living for ever (Periti autem). T.T.B.B. ...	0 3
29.	MENDELSSOHN.—The Lord hath commanded (Psalm 42). T.T.B.B. ...	0 4
8.	READ, F. J.—My soul, wait thou still. A.T.T.F. ...	0 4
51.	READ, F. J.—Sing we merrily unto God. A.T. ...	0 2
47.	READ, F. J.—Why art thou so heavy. A. Solo and A.T.B. ...	0 1
28.	ROBERTS, J. VARLEY.—O Saviour of the world. A.T.T.B. ...	0 2
10.	SAWYER, F. J.—Ponder my words. A.T.T.B. ...	0 2
2.	SCHUBERT, F.—Great is Jehovah. T.T.B.R. ...	0 4
11.	THORNE, E. H.—Let us now praise famous men. T.T.B. ...	0 3
12.	THORNE, E. H.—Let my complaint come before Thee. A.A.T.T.B.B. ...	0 3
56.	WEST, JOHN E.—Comfort the soul of Thy servant T. Solo and A.T.T.B. ...	0 4
36.	WEST, JOHN E.—Whom have I in heaven but Thee. A.T.T.B. ...	0 3
53.	WEST, JOHN, E.—O tarry thou the Lord's leisure. A.T.T.B. ...	0 2

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

PUBLIC SCHOOL HYMN BOOK.

JUST PUBLISHED. IN TWO EDITIONS.
THE PUBLIC SCHOOL HYMN BOOK.

Price, Hymns only, 1s. 3d.
Hymns with Tunes, 3s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D. CANTAB.

SERVICES.

	s.	d.
Te Deum in E. Chant Form	0	3
Benedictus and Jubilate in E. Chant Form	0	3
Te Deum in G. Four Voices... ..	0	3
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E	0	3
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	0	1½
Communion Service in G. Men's Voices	0	9

ANTHEMS.

The Lord is my Shepherd. Four Voices	0	3
The Lord hath prepared. Four Voices	0	3
I was glad. Four Voices	0	3
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	0	2
I will magnify Thee	0	3
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	0	1½

SIX PASTORAL PART-SONGS.

Words by E. OXENFORD. Four Voices.

1. O'er silv'ry waters	0	3
2. Day is dawning	0	3
3. Sing on, sweet birds	0	3
4. Lo! Autumn leaves	0	3
5. Behold! the Moon	0	3
6. Evening Bells	0	3

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

VOCAL SCORE. OLD NOTATION. 50TH THOUSAND.

RUTH

A HARVEST PASTORAL

SUITABLE FOR USE IN PLACES OF WORSHIP

WORDS BY

EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

SUITABLE FOR

THANKSGIVING SERVICES.

"The Biblical story of which Ruth is the central figure lends itself with remarkable suitability to an illustration of a harvest celebration. The country landscape, the ripened corn, the sturdy reapers, the standing sheaves, the active gleaners, and the busy farmer, all combine to fill the mind's eye with a pleasant scene of excitement. Set to music by a competent composer such as Mr. A. R. Gaul, the narrative of Ruth's eventual episode lends itself to a pathetic, picturesque, and pleasant performance. The bereaved and sorrowful trio of women on whom the calamity of poverty and famine has fallen, as if to give intensity to their greater grief, and the unexpected and happy influence of patriarchal benevolence displayed by the mighty Boaz, who so quickly transforms sorrow into joy, are all introduced and aptly take their allotted place in the melodious music of Gaul's interpretation of the tale."—Gloucester Citizen.

PERFORMED IN THE TOWN HALL, BIRMINGHAM, ON TWELVE OCCASIONS.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s.; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.

The Choruses (only) in Vocal Score, for Musical Societies, paper cover, 1s. Words, 5s. per 100.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d. Band Parts on loan.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

AN EASY SETTING of the OFFICE for HOLY COMMUNION, in D. By STRETTON SWANN, Mus.B., F.R.C.O.
Price Sixpence. A Specimen Copy, post-free, from the COMPOSER,
261, Longley Road, Tooting, S.W.
THE VINCENT MUSIC COMPANY, Limited.

NEW
HARVEST ANTHEMS.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S

COMPOSED BY

ALFRED HOLLINS.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

FATHER OF MERCIES, GOD OF LOVE

COMPOSED BY

REV. E. VINE HALL.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

O THAT MEN WOULD PRAISE THE LORD

COMPOSED BY

JOHN B. McEWEN.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

HEARKEN UNTO ME, YE HOLY CHILDREN

COMPOSED BY

W. H. BELL.

Price Threepence.

BREAK FORTH INTO JOY
FOR BARITONE SOLO AND CHORUS

COMPOSED BY

H. ELLIOT BUTTON.

Price Threepence.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

LET THE PEOPLE PRAISE THEE,
O GOD

COMPOSED BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

IS IT NOT WHEAT-HARVEST TO-DAY

COMPOSED BY

THOMAS ADAMS.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

BE GLAD AND REJOICE

COMPOSED BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

PRAISED BE THE LORD DAILY

COMPOSED BY

C. HARFORD LLOYD.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE GLORY OF LEBANON

COMPOSED BY

HERBERT W. WAREING.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THOU, O GOD, ART PRAISED IN ZION

COMPOSED BY

W. WOLSTENHOLME.

Price Fourpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

UNTO THEE, O GOD

COMPOSED BY

W. WOLSTENHOLME.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOVELLO'S HARVEST ANTHEMS.

COMPLETE LIST.

*Achieved is the glorious work	Haydn	14d.	O pray for the peace of Jerusalem	Dr. B. Rogers	14d.
All Thy works praise Thee	J. Barnby	4d.	O sing unto the Lord	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
All Thy works praise Thee	J. Kent	4d.	*O taste and see	J. Goss	3d.
All Thy works praise Thee	E. H. Thorne	3d.	*O taste and see	A. S. Sullivan	14d.
*All Thy works shall praise Thee	George H. Ely	4d.	*O that men would praise the Lord	John B. McEwen	3d.
*And the Lord said	T. W. Stephenson	3d.	Our God is Lord of the harvest	Emma Mundella	3d.
*Angel-voices, ever singing	E. V. Hall	3d.	*O worship the King	E. V. Hall	4d.
As the Earth bringeth forth her bud	A. Herbert Brewer	4d.	*Praise, my soul, the King of heaven	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Be glad and rejoice	Myles B. Foster	3d.	*Praise, O praise our God and King	E. V. Hall	14d.
*Be glad and rejoice	Bruce Steane	3d.	Praise, O praise our God and King	B. Luard Selby	3d.
*Behold I have given you every herb	Cuthbert Harris	3d.	*Praise our God, ye people	E. V. Hall	4d.
Bless Thou the Lord	Oliver King	3d.	*Praise the Lord	George J. Elvey	4d.
Blessed be the Name of God (Two-part)	G. A. Macfarren	3d.	Praise the Lord	Julius Benedict	8d.
*Blessed be the Name of the Lord	H. Gadsby	14d.	*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. H. Bliss	3d.
*Blessed be Thou, Lord God	J. Kent	4d.	*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	E. V. Hall	4d.
*Break forth into joy	Oliver King	14d.	*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. Hayes	4d.
Eternal source of every joy	F. Brandies	2d.	*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	J. H. Maunders	3d.
*Father of mercies, God of love	John E. West	3d.	*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	J. Scott	14d.
*Father of mercies, God of love	E. V. Hall	3d.	*Praise the Lord, O my soul	H. Lahee	14d.
*Fear not, O land, be glad and rejoice	J. Goss	6d.	Praise the Lord, O my soul	J. W. Elliott	3d.
*Fear not, O land	C. H. Lloyd	14d.	*Praise ye the Lord for His goodness	G. Garrett	14d.
*Fear not, O land	Warwick Jordan	6d.	Praised be the Lord	C. Stegall	14d.
*God be merciful unto us	John E. West	14d.	Praised be the Lord daily	T. T. Ebdon	14d.
*God said, Behold I have given you every herb	G. A. Macfarren	4d.	*Praised be the Lord daily	C. Harford Lloyd	3d.
*Great and marvellous are Thy works	J. F. Bridge	4d.	*Rejoice in the Lord	B. Tours	14d.
*Great is our Lord	Myles B. Foster	4d.	Rejoice, O ye righteous	J. Rheinberger	3d.
*Great is the Lord	Bruce Steane	3d.	*Sing praises to God	H. W. Wareing	14d.
*Great is the Lord	Arthur W. Marchant	3d.	*Sing to the Lord	J. Barnby	4d.
Hearken unto Me, ye holy children	W. H. Bell	3d.	*Sing unto the Lord	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
*Hearken unto this	H. Elliot Button	14d.	*Sing we merrily	F. A. W. Docker	4d.
He in tears that soweth	F. Hiller	14d.	Sing we merrily	E. V. Hall	4d.
*Honour the Lord with thy substance	J. Stainer	4d.	*The earth is the Lord's	Alfred Hollins	14d.
*How excellent is Thy loving-kindness	F. H. Cowen	6d.	The earth is the Lord's	T. T. Trimmell	14d.
*I will always give thanks	J. Baptist Calkin	14d.	*The eyes of all wait upon Thee	George J. Elvey	3d.
*I will extol Thee	C. M. Hudson	4d.	*The eyes of all wait upon Thee	Myles B. Foster	3d.
*I will feed my flock	J. F. Bridge	14d.	*The eyes of all wait upon Thee	Thomas Adams	3d.
*I will give thanks unto Thee	E. J. Hopkins	6d.	*The eyes of all wait upon Thee	A. R. Gaul	14d.
*I will give thanks unto Thee	J. Barnby	4d.	*The eyes of all wait upon Thee	O. Gibbons	4d.
*I will give you rain in due season	H. W. Wareing	4d.	The fostering earth, the genial showers	J. L. Hopkins	3d.
*I will greatly rejoice in the Lord	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.	*The glory of Lebanon	Herbert W. Wareing	3d.
*I will magnify Thee	J. B. Calkin	4d.	*The harvest-tide thanksgiving (Words, 1/6 per 100)	J. Barnby	14d.
*I will magnify Thee	J. Shaw	3d.	The Lord hath been mindful of us	E. T. Chipp	3d.
*I will magnify Thee	J. Goss	3d.	*The Lord hath been mindful of us	S. S. Wesley	3d.
*I will magnify Thee	Oliver King	4d.	*The Lord hath done great things	H. Smart	4d.
*I will open rivers in high places	Edgar Pettman	3d.	*The Lord is loving unto every man	G. Garrett	3d.
*I will sing a new song	P. Armes	8d.	The Lord is loving unto every man	A. W. Batson	3d.
*Is it not wheat harvest to-day?	Thomas Adams	3d.	The Parable of the Harvest	Frank J. Sawyer	14d.
*Joy in Harvest	Bruce Steane	3d.	*The woods and every sweetsmelling tree	John E. West	14d.
*Let the people praise Thee, O God	A. R. Gaul	14d.	*There shall be an heap of corn	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
*Let us now fear the Lord our God	John E. West	14d.	*There shall be an heap of corn	Ferris Tozer	3d.
*Lo! summer comes again	J. Stainer	6d.	Thou art worthy, O Lord	F. E. Gladstone	4d.
*Look on the fields	Charles Macpherson	3d.	*Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness	Josiah Booth	14d.
*Look upon the rainbow	Thomas Adams	3d.	Thou, O God, art praised in Zion	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Lord of the Harvest	J. Barnby	4d.	*Thou, O God, art praised in Zion	B. Luard Selby	4d.
Lord of the rich and golden grain (Harvest Hymn)	F. Tozer	2d.	*Thou, O God, art praised in Zion	W. Wolstenholme	4d.
Man goeth forth	Arthur Carnall	3d.	*Thou visitest the earth	J. Barnby	4d.
*My mouth shall speak the praise	John E. West	4d.	Thou visitest the earth	J. Baptist Calkin	4d.
*O come, let us sing to the Lord	B. Tours	14d.	*Thou visitest the earth	W. H. Calcott	2d.
*O give thanks	E. V. Hall	3d.	*Thou visitest the earth	J. W. Elliott	3d.
*O give thanks	Bruce Steane	3d.	*Thou visitest the earth	M. Greene	14d.
*O give thanks	W. Tucker	14d.	*Thrust in thy sickle and reap	Thomas Adams	14d.
*O God my soul thirsteth	F. R. Greenish	3d.	To Thee, O Lord	C. L. Williams	3d.
*O God, who is like unto Thee	Myles B. Foster	14d.	*Unto Thee, O God	W. Wolstenholme	14d.
*O how plentiful is Thy goodness	T. M. Pattison	3d.	*Unto Thee, O Lord, do we give thanks	Bruce Steane	3d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	J. Barnby	14d.	*While the earth remaineth	Alfred R. Gaul	4d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	G. A. Macfarren	14d.	While the earth remaineth	C. Swinnerton Heap	4d.
O lovely peace	G. F. Handel	4d.	*While the earth remaineth	B. Tours	14d.
*O praise God in His holiness	Hugh Blair	14d.	While the earth remaineth	C. Lee Williams	3d.
*O praise God in His holiness	J. Weldon	14d.	*Ye shall dwell in the land (Trio, s.s.a.)	J. Stainer	14d.
*O praise God in His holiness	T. T. Trimmell	4d.	*Ye shall dwell in the land (s.a.t.b.)	J. Stainer	14d.
*O praise the Lord	Mozart	14d.	*Ye shall go out with joy	J. Barnby	4d.
*O praise the Lord of Heaven	J. Goss	6d.	Your thankful songs upraise (Jubilee Cantata)	C. M. von Weber	3d.

THE "LUTE" SERIES OF HARVEST ANTHEMS.

139 Behold, I have given you	H. Elliot Button	3d.	104 O sing unto the Lord	Turtle Lee	3d.
128 Be joyful in God	J. C. Bridge	3d.	223 O sing unto the Lord with thanksgiving	F. R. Rickman	3d.
176 Be strong, all ye people	A. W. Ketelbey	3d.	O worship the Lord	Michael Watson	3d.
201 Bring unto the Lord	Ferris Tozer	3d.	*90 Praise the Lord	F. C. Maker	3d.
163 Every good gift	A. W. Ketelbey	3d.	127 Praise the Lord	Wm. Smallwood	3d.
*30 Faithful is our God	John Francis Barnett	3d.	*20 Praise the Lord, O my soul	Michael Watson	3d.
116 Fear not, O land	F. C. Maker	3d.	103 Praise the Lord, O my soul	Wm. Smallwood	3d.
205 Great is our Lord	Arthur Page	3d.	*141 Sing, O ye Heav'ns	W. A. C. Cruickshank	3d.
68 Great is the Lord	F. N. Löhr	3d.	*78 Sing to the Lord of Harvest	J. Barnby	3d.
115 Harvest Hymn	Turtle Lee	3d.	*107 Sing unto God	F. Bevan	3d.
187 If ye walk in My statutes	F. R. Rickman	3d.	174 Sing we merrily unto God	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
*140 One sower, another reapeth	F. C. Maker	3d.	162 Sing ye to the Lord	Arthur W. Marchant	3d.
199 O praise God	Cuthbert Harris	3d.	151 The earth is full of the goodness	F. C. Maker	3d.
164 O praise the Lord	Alfred Redhead	3d.	56 Thou crownest the year	F. C. Maker	3d.
153 O sing unto God	Arthur Page	3d.	32 Unto Thee, O God	Michael Watson	3d.
152 O sing unto the Lord	Ferris Tozer	3d.	212 While the earth remaineth	F. N. Baxter	3d.

* Also published in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 4d. each.

HARVEST CANTATAS, HYMNS, &c.

THE RAINBOW OF PEACE

AN EASY HARVEST-TIDE CANTATA
For Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Organ.
By THOMAS ADAMS.

Price 1s.; Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

A HARVEST SONG

By C. LEE WILLIAMS.
For Soprano Solo and Chorus.

Price 1s. 6d.; Words, 5s. per 100.
Orchestral Parts can be hired.

SEED-TIME AND HARVEST

By JOHN E. WEST.

For Soprano and Tenor Soli and Chorus.

Price 2s. Words, 5s. per 100, or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns,
Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.
Orchestral Parts can be hired.

HARVEST CANTATA

By GEORGE GARRETT.

For Chorus, Semi-Chorus, and Organ.

Price 1s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d. Words, 5s. per 100, or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns. Orchestral Parts can be hired.

HARVEST-TIDE

By HUGH BLAIR.

For Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Organ or Small Orchestra.
Price 1s. Words, 5s. per 100. Orchestral Parts can be hired.

THE JUBILEE CANTATA

By C. M. VON WEBER.

For Solo Voices, Chorus and Orchestra.

Vocal Score, 1s.; Full Score, 21s.; Orchestral Parts, 15s.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE GLEANER'S HARVEST

By C. H. LLOYD.

For Female Voices.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

TWELVE HYMNS FOR HARVEST

Selected from The Hymnary.

Price One Penny.

NOW AUTUMN STREWS ON EV'RY PLAIN

HARVEST HYMN BY ELIZABETH STERLING.

Price Three-Halfpence.

LET ALL OUR BRETHREN JOIN IN ONE

HARVEST HYMN BY J. BARNBY.

Price One Penny.

SOWING AND REAPING

HARVEST CAROL BY J. MAUDE CRAMENT

Price Twopence. Words only, 1s. per 100.

CHORUS AND DANCES OF REAPERS AND GLEANERS

By F. H. COWEN.

From the Oratorio "Ruth."

Price Eightpence.

THE LAST LOAD

FOUR-PART SONG BY J. HAMILTON CLARKE.

Price Threepence.

THE HARVEST FEAST

FOUR-PART SONG BY A. R. GAUL.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence

THE HARVEST DANCE

TWO-PART SONG BY MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING MARCH

By J. B. CALKIN.

For the Organ.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE JOY OF HARVEST

HYMN FOR HARVEST BY J. H. MAUNDER.

Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

THE SOWER WENT FORTH SOWING

HYMN FOR HARVEST BY J. BARNBY.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

MAKE MELODY WITHIN YOUR HEARTS

HARVEST CAROL BY F. A. J. HERVEY.

Price Twopence.

HE THAT SOWETH

OFFERTORY SENTENCE (WITH PROCESSIONAL HYMN)

By C. WARWICK JORDAN.

Price Threepence.

O LORD OF HEAVEN, AND EARTH, AND SEA

By J. BARNBY.

On Card, price One Penny.

A HARVEST FESTIVAL BOOK

CONTAINING TALLIS'S PRECES AND RESPONSES, THE CANTICLES AND SPECIAL PSALMS

POINTED FOR CHANTING AND SET TO NEW AND APPROPRIATE CHANTS BY

SIR J. BARNBY, MYLES B. FOSTER, SIR A. C. MACKENZIE, SIR J. STAINER,
AND OTHERS.

TOGETHER WITH

FOUR NEW HYMN TUNES

COMPOSED EXPRESSLY BY

SIR J. BARNBY, SIR J. STAINER, AND JOHN E. WEST.

DEMY 8vo, PRICE SIXPENCE. TONIC SOL-FA, PRICE SIXPENCE.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED

*AND

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

CALEB SIMPER'S FAMOUS COMPOSITIONS.

The popularity of these favourite Compositions increases year by year.
Up to Christmas, 1902, over 3,000,000 Copies had been sold, and the demand this year has been greater than ever.

ANTHEMS FOR HARVEST, ANNIVERSARIES, ETC.

THOU SHALT KEEP THE FEAST OF HARVEST (Just out).

Price 4d. Sol-fa Edition, 2d.

This beautiful New Anthem fully maintains the popularity of Mr. Simper's reputation.

*ALL THY WORKS SHALL PRAISE THEE.	26th 1,000.	4d.
*AND GOD SAID, LET THE EARTH.	94th edit.	3d.
*FEAR NOT, O LAND.	54th 1,000	3d.
*GREAT AND MARVELLOUS.	9th 1,000	3d.
*HE GIVETH FOOD.	18th 1,000	4d.
*HE WATERETH THE HILLS.	33rd 1,000	4d.
(Suitable for other Festivals.)
*HIS PROMISE TRUE.	7th 1,000	4d.
*HIS WORKS OF LOVE.	13th 1,000	4d.
*I WILL FEED MY FLOCK.	64th 1,000	4d.
(Sung at Choral Festival, Woodstock.)
*LET US THANK THE LORD OUR GOD....	12th 1,000	3d.
*MAKE A JOYFUL NOISE.	44th 1,000	3d.
(Sung at various Choral Festivals.)
*O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD.	23rd 1,000	4d.
*PRAISE THE LORD, O MY SOUL.	43rd 1,000	3d.
(Sung at a Choral Festival, Ledbury.)
*SING A SONG OF PRAISE.	8th 1,000	4d.
*THE EARTH IS FULL OF THY RICHES.	13th 1,000	4d.
*THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S.	16th 1,000	3d.
*THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE.	12th 1,000	3d.
*THE LORD IS GOOD.	11th 1,000	4d.
*THE LORD IS LOVING.	24th 1,000	4d.
*THEY THAT SOW IN TEARS.	27th edit.	3d.
*THOU ART GOD ALONE.	9th 1,000	4d.
*THOU OPENEST THINE HAND.	24th 1,000	4d.
*THY BARN SHALL BE FILLED WITH PLENTY.	11th 1,000	3d.
*WHAT SHALL I RENDER UNTO THE LORD?	20th 1,000	4d.
(Sung at a Choral Festival at Llandrindod Wells; also by the Choirs of the Kilmore Diocesan Choral Union, 600 voices.)
*WHILE THE EARTH REMAINETH.	19th 1,000	3d.
*PRAISE THY GOD, O ZION.	13th 1,000	3d.
(Sung at a Choral Festival, Skegness.)

Those marked * are also done in Tonic Sol-fa.

POPULAR ANNIVERSARY SELECTIONS.

No. 1.—FLOWER SERVICE. (No Sol-fa.)

No. 2.—ANNIVERSARY SELECTION.

No. 3.—FLOWER SERVICE. (No Sol-fa.)

Nos. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9.—ANNIVERSARY SELECTIONS.

Each Selection, price 2d. Sol-fa, 2d.

These prices increase in popularity every year.

THE FAVOURITE SACRED CANTATA

THE ROLLING SEASONS.

The Seventeenth Thousand.

Price, O.N., 1s. 6d.; Sol-fa, 1s. Orchestral Parts printed.

(When a band is not available, the work can be rendered with Organ or Piano alone. Time, about thirty-five minutes.)

TWELVE

NEW AND POPULAR HARVEST CAROLS.

No. 1.	Come, ye thankful people	1d.
" 2.	We thank Thee, and rejoice	1d.
" 3.	Wheat and Barley	1d.
" 4.	Seed-time and harvest shall not fail	1d.
" 5.	Hail! Harvest King	1d.
" 6.	Glad Harvest-tide...	1d.
Words only, Nos. 1 to 6 complete, 3s. 3d. per 100.
" 7.	Joyful praise is ringing	1d.
" 8.	His mercies still endure	1d.
" 9.	Harvest-tide thanksgiving	1d.
" 10.	Golden Sheaves	1d.
" 11.	His promise, faithful still	1d.
" 12.	Give thanks and sing	1d.
Words only, Nos. 7 to 12 complete, 3s. 3d. per 100.

THE VERY POPULAR VOLUNTARY BOOKS.

Post-free, 1s. 6d. net each Book. (Price in America, 60 cents.)

FOR ORGAN, AMERICAN ORGAN, OR HARMONIUM.

Seventeen Pieces in each.

Useful, Easy, and Effective. On Two Staves, with Pedal Part indicated.

Seventeen Voluntaries.	Book 1	1s. 6d.
Seventeen Voluntaries.	Book 2	1s. 6d.
Seventeen Voluntaries.	Book 3	1s. 6d.
Seventeen Voluntaries.	Book 4	1s. 6d.
Seventeen Voluntaries.	Book 5	1s. 6d.
Seventeen Voluntaries.	Book 6 (Just Published)	1s. 6d.

The March in F (from Book 2 of the above series) was played at the English Church, Lisbon, on the occasion of KING EDWARD VII.'s recent visit to Portugal.

London: WEEKES AND CO., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY CO., 220, Wabash Avenue.

MUSICAL OPINION (2d.; order everywhere).—

Send 4d. for new number to 35, Shoe Lane, London, E.C.
About 250 cols. interesting Reading and Advertisements. Founded 1876.

Ready September 1.

THE PARISH CHOIR MANUAL

CONTAINING

THE CANTICLES AT MORNING AND EVENING PRAYER

SET TO APPROPRIATE CHANTS

FERIAL AND FESTAL RESPONSES, LITANY,
RESPONSES TO THE COMMANDMENTS, FINAL AMENS,
VESPER HYMNS AND VESTRY PRAYERS

TOGETHER WITH

ORGAN ACCOMPANIMENTS TO THE LORD'S PRAYER,
APOSTLES' AND NICENE CREEDS.

PREFACE.

Organists, choirmasters and librarians of choirs often have occasion to wish for a choral service-book of a comprehensive nature. This desideratum the "Parish Choir Manual" seeks to meet by supplying within one cover the Canticles for Morning and Evening Prayer, Responses (Ferial, Festal, and to the Commandments), Final Amens, Vesper Hymns, and Vestry Prayers, in addition to organ accompaniments to the Lord's Prayer and the Apostles' and Nicene Creeds.

The constant usefulness and the practicability of such a compilation is obvious, and a glance at the names of the composers will assure confidence in a publication that should commend itself for use "in quires and places where they sing."

Price One Shilling and Sixpence; Cloth, Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE JOY OF HARVEST HYMN FOR HARVEST

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

PRICE TWOPENCE.

Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.; Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

"Such settings as these cannot do otherwise than tend to popularise the Church Service."—Musical Standard, June 6, 1891.

"Good, effective, easy, and dignified."—Musical Times, April 1, 1891.

"Admirably adapted to meet the requirements of the majority of choirs and congregations." "Deserve extensive recognition and use."—Musical News, September 4 and 25, 1891.

Also recommended by the Guardian, Church Times, &c., &c.

POPULAR CHURCH MUSIC

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

HARVEST ANTHEMS.

	Staff Notation.	Tonic Sol-fa.
Sing to the Lord of Harvest	3d.	2d.
While the earth remaineth	3d.	2d.
Blessed be the Name of the Lord	3d.	2d.

SERVICES.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C (partly in Unison)	3d.	1½d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D	3d.	2d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in Free Chant Form	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in B flat	3d.	2d.
Communion Service in G	8d.
Amen in G	1d.	1d.

ORGAN.

Voix Seraphique (for Recitals) ... 2s.

CHURCH CANTATA.

Penitence, Pardon, and Peace (for General Use) ... 1/6

1/-

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Specimen copies of Anthems and Services free on application to
J. H. MAUNDER, Hilltop, Belmont Park, London, S.E.

CRYSTAL PALACE
TRIENNIAL HANDEL FESTIVAL

1903.

THE SELECTION

PERFORMED ON

THURSDAY, JUNE 25, 1903,

TOGETHER WITH AN APPENDIX CONSISTING OF PIECES
PERFORMED AT THE GENERAL REHEARSAL,
SATURDAY, JUNE 20.PART I.
ACIS AND GALATEA.

Sinfonia.	O the pleasure of the plains.
Chorus	Ye verdant plains.
Recitative	Hush, ye pretty warbling choir.
Air	Lo! here my love.
Recitative	Love in her eyes sits playing.
Air	O didst thou know.
Recitative	As when the dove laments her love.
Duet	Happy we.
Chorus	Happy we.
Chorus	Wretched lovers.
Recitative	I rage, I melt, I burn.
Air	O ruddier than the cherry.
Chorus	Would you gain the tender creature?
Recitative	His hideous love.
Air	Love sounds the alarm.
Recitative	Cease, O cease.
Trio	The flocks shall leave the mountains.
Recitative	Help, Galatea.
Chorus	Mourn, all ye Muses.
Solo and Chorus	Must I my Acis still bemoan?
Recitative	'Tis done.
Air	Heart, the seat of soft delight.
Chorus	Galatea, dry thy tears.

PART II.

Concerto for Organ, Orchestra, and Chorus.
Recitative	...	My arms Judas Maccabæus.
Air	Sound an alarm
Air	Revenge! Timotheus cries...	...	Alexander's Feast.

SELECTION FROM "SOLOMON."

Double Chorus	Your harps and cymbals sound.
Air	What though I trace.
Chorus	May no rash intruder.
Double Chorus	From the censer.
Recitative	Great Prince.
Air	Thrice blest that wise discerning King.
Recitative	Sweep the string.
Air and Chorus	Music, spread thy voice around.
Air	Now a different measure try.
Double Chorus	Shake the Dome.
Recitative	Then at once from rage remove.
Chorus	Draw the tear.
Recitative	Next, the tortured soul release.
Air and Chorus	Thus rolling surges rise.
Double Chorus	Praise the Lord.

APPENDIX.

(Performed at the General Rehearsal, June 20.)

Recitative	...	Frondi Tenere	Xerxes.
Air	Ombra mai Fù...	do.
Air	Sweet bird	Il Pensieroso.
Air	Honour and Arms	Samson.
Air	From mighty Kings	Judas Maccabæus.
Overture	Occasional Oratorio.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHOIRMASTERS and CONDUCTORS giving
Name of Church can have FREE SPECIMEN COPIES of New Church Music, including the New Harvest Anthem, "Thou shalt keep the Feast of Harvest." (It contains a charming Bass Solo and powerful Choruses, with rich Harmony and good contrasts of loud and soft. Thousands of Choirs will be glad to see this Anthem.)
Just Published. Book 6 of the immensely popular Voluntary Books.
Over 40 Editions already sold. Book 6 contains 17 pieces for Organ or Harmonium. Price 1s. 6d., post-free. An Organist writes: "They are the best Books of Voluntaries I have ever had the pleasure to play." Address, Caleb Simper, "Kilbirnie," Barnstaple.

Auction Rooms, specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers,
7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES
of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

CANTIONES SACRÆ

MUSICAL SETTINGS

OF

THE ROMAN LITURGY

EDITED BY

Dom SAMUEL GREGORY OULD,

MONK OF THE ORDER OF ST. BENEDICT.

33. ADESTE FIDELES. The complete Text (8 verses), with a Prelude by Dr. F. E. Gladstone, and varied Accompaniments by H. B. Collins,
Dom Samuel G. Ould, Sir Walter Parratt, Sir
C. Hubert H. Parry, Dr. C. W. Pearce, William
Sewell, Dr. A. E. Tozer, and S. P. Waddington 1s.
4. ADORAMUS TE, CHRISTE .. Mozart 2d.
22. ADOREMUS (FOR BENEDICTION)
F. E. Gladstone 2d.
2. ADOREMUS (MOTET) .. C. W. Pearce 6d.
10. ALMA REDEMPTORIS MATER W. Sewell 2d.
27. AVE MARIS STELLA S. P. Waddington 6d.
11. AVE REGINA CÆLORUM W. Sewell 2d.
36. AVE VERUM .. E. Elgar 2d.
26. BENEDICTA ET VENERABILIS
F. E. Gladstone 6d.
6. BENEDICTION SERVICE (UNISON) S. Ould 3d.
9. BENEDICTION SERVICE (UNISON) J. E. West 3d.
32. BENEDICTION SERVICE A. Zimmermann 2d.
29. COMPLINE HYMN .. S. Ould 3d.
3. DEUS MISEREATUR .. F. E. Gladstone 6d.
12. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. A. E. Tozer 2d.
30. DOMINE, SALVUM FAC .. E. Silas 2d.
34. DOMINÉ, SALVUM FAC .. Gounod 2d.
17. HÆC DIES .. F. E. Gladstone 3d.
7. HODIE SANCTUS BENEDICTUS P. Philips 4d.
20. LITANY OF LORETTO .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.
23. MAGNIFICAT IN A .. F. E. Gladstone 8d.
1. MAGNIFICAT IN B FLAT .. E. Silas 6d.
28. MAGNIFICAT IN D .. E. Silas 1s.
31. MAGNIFICAT IN E FLAT .. W. Sewell 4d.
15. MISERERE IN F .. F. E. Gladstone 3d.
16. MISERERE IN F SHARP MINOR F. E. Gladstone 6d.
25. MISERERE (GREGORIAN CHANT) V. Novello 3d.
19. O SALUTARIS HOSTIA .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.
8. REGINA CÆLI .. W. Sewell 2d.
14. RESPONSES AT MASS AND OFFICE
Harmonized by S. Ould 3d.
35. SALVATOR MUNDI .. Dr. John Blow 4d.
13. SALVE, REGINA .. Schubert 2d.
5. SALVE, REGINA .. W. Sewell 2d.
24. SALVE, REGINA .. R. L. de Pearsall 3d.
18. SALVE, REGINA .. S. P. Waddington 4d.
21. TANTUM ERGO .. F. E. Gladstone 2d.
37. VIRGAM VIRTUTIS TUÆ Leonard Leo 4d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

INFLAMMATUS

AIR FOR CONTRALTO

FROM THE

"STABAT MATER"

COMPOSED BY

ANTONIN DVOŘÁK.

Price Two Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

FOUR NOVELLETTEN

FOR

STRING ORCHESTRA, TAMBOURINE, AND TRIANGLE

COMPOSED BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

(Op. 52.)

Full Score	each	2s. 6d.
Parts, No. 1		2s. 9d.
" No. 2		2s. 9d.
" No. 3		2s. 9d.
" No. 4		4s. 3d.

Arrangements for Violin and Pianoforte, each 2s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EVENTIDE

MELODY

FOR STRINGS AND HARP (Organ or Harmonium ad lib.)

FROM

SUITE IN D MINOR

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE J. BENNETT.

Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	1s. 6d.
Ditto for Organ	1s. 6d.
Score	2s. 6d.
Parts	3s. 3d.

Extract from Sir Alexander Mackenzie's letter on his Canadian tour: "While Lincoln Bennett's . . . 'Eventide,' a melody for strings, provoked the encore it invariably secured whenever it was performed."

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

YOUTH

A CONCERT OVERTURE FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR HERVEY.

Full Score, 10s. 6d.; String Parts, 6s.; Wind Parts, 17s.
Pianoforte Arrangement (in the Press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SUITE ESPAGNOLE

FOR

ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

HENRY E. GEEHL.

String Parts, 6s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo, 2s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

ORIENTAL RHAPSODY

FOR

ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

PERCY PITT.

(Op. 32A).

Full Score...	7s. 6d.
String Parts	3s. 6d.
Wind Parts	11s. 6d.
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	2s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S

MUSIC FOR MILITARY BAND

ARRANGED BY

DAN GODFREY, Jun., GEORGE MILLER, Mus. Bac.,
AND OTHERS.

	s.	d.		s.	d.
BENDALL, WILFRED.—Pas Seul	5	0	HOFMANN, H.—"Kirmess" (Rustic Pictures). Book II.	15	0
COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—Four Characteristic Waltzes	15	0	MACKENZIE, A. C.—"Benedictus" (from "Six Pieces for Violin")	5	0
COWEN, F. H.—Four English Dances (in the Olden Style)	15	0	—Ballet Music ("Colomba")	15	0
—Coronation March	10	6	—Courante ("Ravenswood")	12	0
CRESER, WILLIAM.—Wedding March	3	6	—Funeral March ("The Story of Sayid")	3	6
ELGAR, EDWARD.—Chanson de Matin	3	6	—"The Empire Flag"	5	0
—Chanson de Nuit	3	6	MACPHERSON, STEWART.—Orchestral Ballad	15	0
—Imperial March	9	0	MILLER, GEORGE.—Solemn March	3	6
—Mazurka	5	0	MOLIQUE.—March ("Abraham")	7	6
—Sérénade Mauresque	5	0	MORLEY, CH.—Emperor Gavotte ("Cornflower")	2	6
—Contrasts (The Gavotte, A.D. 1700 and 1900)	5	0	OUSELEY.—March ("St. Polycarp")	7	6
—Meditation ("Light of Life")	5	0	POPULAR PART-SONGS	7	6
ELVEY, G. J.—Festal March	5	0	RAMEAU.—Gavotte	4	6
FANING, EATON.—"The Queen's Song"	7	6	ROECKEL, J. L.—Graceful Dance	7	6
—Song of the Vikings	5	0	SIX HYMN TUNES (composed for Commemorations of Queen Victoria's Long Reign)	4	6
FORD, ERNEST.—Grand Valse ("Faust" Ballet)	10	6	SMART, HENRY.—Festive March in D	7	6
—Scène Bacchanale ("Faust" Ballet)	15	0	SPINDLER, FRITZ.—"Husarenritt"	7	6
GERMAN, EDWARD.—Bourrée and Gigue ("Much Ado about Nothing")	12	0	SPÖHLER.—"Calvary" (Selection)	7	6
—Coronation March ("Henry VIII.")	7	6	SULLIVAN, A.—"In Memoriam" Overture	10	0
—Gipsy Suite (Four Characteristic Dances)	15	0	—Onward, Christian Soldiers	2	6
—Harvest Dance (from "The Seasons")	10	0	—Ditto. For Brass Band	2	6
—Masque (Three Dances from "As you like it" Music)	15	0	THREE SACRED PIECES, viz.:—	7	6
—Overture to "Richard III."	12	0	"Blessed be the God and Father" S. S. WESLEY
—Three Dances ("Henry VIII.")	15	0	"O Gladsome Light" ("Golden Legend") A. S. SULLIVAN
GLINKA.—Polonaise ("Life for the Czar")	12	0	March ("Occasional Oratorio") HANDEL
GOUNOD.—Judea ("Mors et Vita")	3	0	TSCHAIKOWSKY.—Marche Militaire	15	0
—Ditto. (For Brass Band)	2	0	WAREING, H. W.—Summergold Gavotte	7	6
—"Mors et Vita" (Selection)	15	0	WENDT, TH.—Air de Ballet with Intermezzo	7	6
—Marche Solennelle	7	6	WEST, JOHN E.—Maypole Dance	7	6
—Six Sacred Pieces	10	6	—Commemoration March	9	0
—"The Redemption" (Selection)	15	0	ZIMMERMANN, AGNES.—March	7	6
HAYNES, BATTISON.—Westwood Gavotte	5	0	SIX CLASSICAL PIECES for SMALL Military Band	3	0
HIGGS, H. M.—"Our Queen" (Quick March)	5	0	THE MILITARY CHURCH PARADE SERVICE BOOK	1	0
HOFMANN, H.—"Kirmess" (Rustic Pictures). Book I.	15	0

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED

Just Published.

SIX AMERICAN LYRICS

FOR CONTRALTO OR BARITONE

COMPOSED BY
S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

1. O thou, mine other, stronger part.
2. O praise me not.
3. Her love.
4. The dark eye has left us.
5. O ship, that sailest slowly on.
6. Beat, beat, drums.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Sung by MR. H. PLUNKET GREENE.

ENGLISH LYRICS

SET TO MUSIC BY
C. H. H. PARRY.

SIXTH SET—JUST PUBLISHED.

- | | |
|--|-------------------|
| 1. When comes my Gwen | E. O. Jones. |
| 2. And yet I love her till I die | Anon. |
| 3. Love is a bable | Anon. |
| 4. I'm weaving sweet violets .. | Alfred P. Graves. |
| 5. At the hour the long day ends .. | Alfred P. Graves. |
| 6. Under the Greenwood Tree | Shakespeare. |

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

HERE'S A HEALTH UNTO HIS MAJESTY

A NEW VERSION

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

A. PERCEVAL GRAVES

THE MUSIC ARRANGED BY

ALEXANDER C. MACKENZIE.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

A SET OF

SIX LOVE-LYRICS

FOR CONTRALTO OR BARITONE.

- No. 1. Gulls in an Aëry Morrice.
2. Geraldine.
3. Fill a Glass with Golden Wine.
4. The Shadow of Dawn.
5. The Nightingale and the Rose.
6. When you are old.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
W. E. HENLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
WILLIAM H. BELL.

Price Three Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

HUSH-A-BY, SWEETIE SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
EDWARD OXENFORD

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
FRANK E. TOURS.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

WHAT SHALL I GIVE THEE SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
WALTER E. GROGAN

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
HAROLD L. BROOKE.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE BALLAD OF THE VICTORIA CROSS SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY HAROLD BEGBIE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY ALICIA ADÉLAÏDE NEEDHAM.

THREE

SONGS FOR SOLDIERS

No. 1.

Dedicated, by permission, to H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT.
"MIGHT I MARCH THROUGH LIFE AGAIN"
(E. FITZBALL).
In Three Keys.

No. 2.

To Field-Marshal SIR GEORGE S. WHITE, V.C.
"THE GORDONS"
(B. MALCOLM RAMSEY).
In Three Keys.

No. 3.

To EARL ROBERTS, V.C., Commander-in-Chief of the British Army.
"BAD LUCK TO THEIR MARCHING"
(CHARLES LEVER).
In Three Keys.

COMPOSED BY

ALICIA ADÉLAÏDE NEEDHAM.

Price Two Shillings each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS BY B. LUARD-SELBY.

FOUR RISPETTI	net	2	0
SIX LOVE SONGS	net	2	0
JESU, WORD OF GOD (Short Communion Anthem). 8vo	0	2

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SIMPLE COMMUNION SERVICE (Unison), in F net 0 9
VINCENT MUSIC PUBLISHING COMPANY, Ltd., 9, Berners Street, W.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS

EDITED BY
W. G. McNAUGHT.

Just Published.
Book 65.

TEN
OLD ENGLISH SONGS

(GRADE II.)

BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

Where the bee sucks...	Arne
Under the greenwood tree	Old English
Joan, to the Maypole...	Old English
Golden slumbers kiss your eyes	Old English
Full fathom five (Solo and s.s.a.)	Purcell
The children are singing (Two-part Chorus).	Arr. by A. M. Wakefield
Spring	Arne
The Vicar of Bray	17th Century
Begone! dull care	17th Century
The three Ravens	16th Century

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa (B) Edition, Threepence.

Book 117.

SEVEN

UNISON SONGS

(GRADE II.)

BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

My Dove	A. Medley
Violet Land	H. S. Roberts
Excelsior!	Lindsay
Poor Humpty Dumpty	A. Medley
The Bumble Bee's Buzz	A. Medley
Will you walk a little faster (Words by Lewis Carroll)	R. H. Macdonald
Things of beauty	A. C. Mackenzie

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa (B) Edition, Threepence.

Book 124.

SIX TWO-PART SONGS

(GRADE II.)

BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

The coming of May	E. M. Boyce
Faint not, fear not	H. Smart
Happy Spring Waltz	G. L. Osgood
Robin Redbreast	H. Elliot Button
Peasants' Song ("Up! Up! ye dames")	H. Elliot Button
Spring is come	E. M. Boyce

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.

Book 127.

FIVE

FOUR-PART SONGS

FOR S.S.A.A.

(GRADE II.)

BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

Where are the swallows	H. Hiles
You spotted snakes	G. A. Macfarren
Welcome to this place	Bishop
Summer Eve	Hutton
The Fairies' Song	Bishop

Price Ninepence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Fourpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

BRITISH SONGS FOR BRITISH BOYS

A Collection of One Hundred National Songs designed for the use of Boys in Schools and Choirs.

Selected, Arranged, and Edited, with Explanatory Notes,

BY

SYDNEY H. NICHOLSON, M.A.,

Mus. Bac. Oxon.

EDITION A, for Teachers. Containing the Songs, with Accompaniments and Explanatory Footnotes. 6s.

EDITION B, for Pupils. Containing the Words and the Voice-Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, but without the Accompaniments or Footnotes. 1s. 6d.

MACMILLAN AND CO., Ltd., London.

Just Published.

THE

TRAGEDY OF COCK ROBIN

SHORT ACTION PIECE

COMPOSED BY

T. ARTHUR BURTON.

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Bightpence.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS

Book 133.

TWO-PART SONGS

CONTENTS.

A Bird Song	Roland Rogers
All among the barley	Elizabeth Stirling
All seek for rest	F. Abt
Autumn woods	T. Murby
Bells at eve	F. Abt
Come, ever smiling liberty	Handel
Come to me, gentle sleep	H. W. Schartau
Evening song	Mendelssohn
In the distance	F. Abt
Joyful echoes	L. Streabbog
Playtime's golden hours	A. W. Ketelbey
The Bell March	J. Brabham
The Fountain	H. Elliot Button
The Lord is my Shepherd	H. Smart
The Mountaineer	A. W. Ketelbey
The Sabbath morn	Mendelssohn
Welcome thou, whose deeds conspire	Handel
Work and play	Myles B. Foster

Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa, with Pianoforte Accompaniment,
price One Shilling and Sixpence.

Voice parts only, in Tonic Sol-fa, price Fourpence.

Staff Notation (Voice parts only), price Fourpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE MUSIC STUDENT'S MANUSCRIPT NOTE BOOK

AND

PRACTICE REGISTER

ARRANGED BY

C. EGERTON LOWE.

PREFACE.

This book is intended to meet the convenience of Teachers who wish to record clearly for a pupil's guidance the work to be prepared for each lesson or a series. The column headed "Time" is added for the purpose of indicating the number of minutes to be given to the daily practice of each separate subject. (This column is for the Teacher to fill up.)

A few pages of music paper have been inserted for the purpose of writing out turns, trills, &c., and blank pages have been left at the end on which it is suggested that a list of pieces studied should be kept or other memoranda made. The book will be found suitable for students of any instrument.

Price Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ALBUM OF FIVE SONGS.—

COMPOSED BY MAY STELFOX.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SWEET LITTLE KATUSHA

SUNG BY MISS LENA ASHWELL, IN

Tolstov's "RESURRECTION," at His Majesty's Theatre, London.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

MICHAEL MORTON

The Music, arranged from an old Russian Folk-Song,

BY

ADOLF SCHMID.

Price One Shilling net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

I LOVED A LASS, A FAIR
ONE
SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

GEORGE WITHER

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

JOHN POINTER.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SIX RUSSIAN SONGS

- | | |
|---|----------------|
| 1. A Ball-room meeting (Count A. Tolstoi) ... | P. Tchaikovsky |
| 2. Regret (D. Rathaus) ... | P. Tchaikovsky |
| 3. Silent Sorrow (A. Koltsov) ... | A. Dargomijsky |
| 4. An Eastern Song (A. Poushkin) ... | A. Dargomijsky |
| 5. A Rose in Autumn (N. Aksakov) ... | M. Balakirev |
| 6. Dearest little Maiden (Folk-Song) ... | A. Dargomijsky |

SELECTED, AND THE WORDS TRANSLATED, BY

ROSA NEWMARCH.

Price Two Shillings net, complete.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PRODUCED AT THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,
APRIL 30, 1903.WAR AND PEACE
A SYMPHONIC ODE

FOR

SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition (Choruses and Words of Solos only), price 1s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Second Edition.

NARCISSUS AND ECHO

CANTATA FOR CHORUS, SOLI, AND ORCHESTRA

Price 3s.; Choral Parts, 1s. each. Also,

"GOD IS OUR REFUGE" (Ps. 46)

For Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Price 1s.

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN C. SUCH

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE

PRINCE OF PEACE

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND
ORCHESTRA

THE WORDS SELECTED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE

AND THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"No man knows better than Mr. Gaul how to write for voices. . . . 'Thou art the King of Glory,' a singularly fine chorus, worthy of any composer, living or dead. . . . Throughout the work we have spontaneousness, elegance, attractiveness, in short, a never-ending charm. This cantata, which completes the octave of Mr. Gaul's cantatas, we hold to be the best. If it prove less popular than the composer's 'The Holy City,' we shall be surprised. Mr. Gaul was engaged on this, his latest work, for about three years, and we believe that all who hear it will agree that the time was very profitably spent."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"In every way worthy the great reputation and experience of its composer. . . . Is indeed a work of a very unusual character, and most probably destined to become more popular than any of his other compositions. . . . Worthy the study of choral societies of every grade."—North Staffordshire Sentinel.

"Admirably written for the voice, enhanced by charm of rhythm and picturesque accompaniments."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

	s. d.
Vocal Score, paper cover	2 6
" paper boards	3 0
" scarlet cloth	4 0
Voice Parts, for the use of Choral Societies...	each 1 0
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	1 0
Words only	per 100 5 0

Band Parts (the loan of) on application to the Composer,
Gillott Lodge, Edgbaston.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Demy 8vo, Cloth, Gilt, 456 pages. Price 5s.

HYMN TUNES

AND LITANIES

(276)

COMPOSED BY

REV. J. B. DYKES, MUS. DOC.

COLLECTED FROM VARIOUS SOURCES

INCLUDING

MANY HITHERTO UNPUBLISHED.

EXTRACT FROM INTRODUCTION.

The Rev. J. B. Dykes was well known to most people as a writer of beautiful hymn-tunes, but it will come as a surprise to some to find that he had written such a large number as this volume contains.

On looking through the book one is struck by the many tunes that are known and loved by all religious-minded persons—tunes so successfully wedded to the words, that it would be difficult, if not impossible, to get on without them. . . . They are "on the lips of thousands," and are associated with the most solemn moments of life. But because Dr. Dykes was happy in expressing emotions in a way that was intelligible to the masses, we must not overlook the real difficulty and merit of discovering a musical way to the hearts of men—for not every great composer has been successful with hymn-tunes.

The world is richer for Dr. Dykes's music, and his memory deserves to be loved and honoured by all those who, like himself, strive to follow in the footsteps of the Divine Master.

GEORGE C. MARTIN.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOW READY.

SELECTED PIANOFORTE STUDIES

* PROGRESSIVELY ARRANGED

BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

IN TWO SETS (EIGHT BOOKS).

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

THE present collection of Studies is designed to provide teachers with a short course of Pianoforte Technique adapted to the needs of the average pupil, the intention being to spare the teacher the labour of choosing a sufficiently varied selection from the large mass of material existing, and at the same time to ensure that the different departments of technique shall be undertaken in the order which experience has proved to be the most beneficial.

The Studies are grouped in two Sets, and are so arranged that the different Books in which they are contained may be taken in consecutive order, but pupils who are already further advanced than the elementary stage represented by Set I. may commence at once with Set II., which will be found to be complete in itself, and to illustrate all the essential elements of technique.

Where additional studies are desired, or studies on certain subjects which are not touched upon in this series. the larger collection, published under the title of "Progressive Studies" (from which the present examples have been selected), is of course available.

London, 1903.

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH BOOK.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED, AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Just Published.

SYMPHONY IN C MINOR

(No. 1)

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

FREDERIC CLIFFE.

Price Forty-Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED. IN SEPARATE NUMBERS.

SEVEN PIECES

FOR THE PIANOFORTE

- | | |
|-----------------------|--------------------------|
| 1. Si Oiseau j'étais. | 4. Entschwendenes Glück. |
| 2. Dors-tu, ma vie? | 5. Toccatina. |
| 3. Poème d'Amour. | 6. Quatrième Impromptu. |
| | 7. Wiegenlied. |

COMPOSED BY

ADOLPHE HENSELT

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

VLADIMIR DE PACHMANN.

Nos. 1, 2, and 7, 1s. 6d. each; Nos. 3, 4, 5, 6, 2s. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah,"
"Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW HUMOROUS PART-SONG.

A FROG HE WOULD A-WOOING GO. By
A. B. ALLEN, Composer of "Dickory dock." Price 2d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Dedicated to and played by Miss MAUD POWELL.

SUITE

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR HINTON.

(Op. 20.)

Price Five Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SUITE IN F

"LADY RADNOR'S SUITE"

FOR

STRING ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Score, 4s. 6d.; Parts, 5s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

FOUR CONCERTI GROSSI

FOR STRINGS

COMPOSED BY

G. F. HANDEL.

No. 1, in B minor.
" 2, " E minor.

No. 3, in B flat.
" 4, " A minor.

PIANOFORTE TRANSCRIPTION BY
GIUSEPPE MARTUCCI

Price Two Shillings each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE JUNIOR VIOLINIST

EDITED BY

C. EGERTON LOWE.

CONTENTS.

Book	S. D.
1. SEVENTEEN MELODIES. Arranged for the Violin in the First Position, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	I 6
2. TWELVE MELODIES. Arranged for the Violin in the First Position, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	I 6
3. TEN MELODIES. Arranged for the Violin in the First Position, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	I 6
4. ELEVEN MELODIES Arranged for the Violin in the First Position, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	I 6
5. SONATA IN C MAJOR (MOZART). For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
6. EIGHT SONGS WITHOUT WORDS (MENDELSSOHN). Arranged for Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	2 0
7. SONATA IN F MAJOR (MOZART). For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
8. PHANTASIESTÜCKE, Op. 73 (SCHUMANN). For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
9. SONATA IN E MINOR (MOZART). For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
10. THREE PIECES :—Funeral March, Prelude in E minor, and Waltz in B minor (CHOPIN). Arranged for Violin (First to Fifth Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
11. THREE ROMANCES, Op. 94 (SCHÜMANN). For Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte	I 6
12. SIX DUETS FOR TWO VIOLINS, Op. 8 (PLEYEL). First Position	I 6
13. SIX DUETS FOR TWO VIOLINS, Op. 48 (PLEYEL). First to Third Position	I 6
14. SCALES AND ARPEGGI (C. EGERTON LOWE)	I 6
15. SIX SONATINAS FOR VIOLIN (WEBER). Nos. 1 to 3. First to Fourth Position	I 6
16. SIX SONATINAS FOR VIOLIN (WEBER). Nos. 4 to 6. First to Fourth Position	I 6
17. EIGHT MOVEMENTS, from the String Quartets (MOZART). Arranged for Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte (with 2nd Violin ad lib.). Nos. 1 to 4	2 0
18. EIGHT MOVEMENTS, from the String Quartets (MOZART). Arranged for Violin (First to Third Position) and Pianoforte (with 2nd Violin ad lib.). Nos. 5 to 8	2 0

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

POLONAISE

IN A MINOR

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

HENRY E. GEEHL.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

ROMANZA

FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

HENRY E. GEEHL.

Price Two Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published. In separate numbers.

THREE DANCES

(In Canon throughout)

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

No. 1. Gavotte. No. 2. Minuet. No. 3. Waltz.

COMPOSED BY

BATTISON HAYNES.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each.

The same, arranged for Two Violins and Pianoforte, Two Shillings each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published. In separate form.

VALSE BOHEMIENNE

(No. 1 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

VALSE RUSTIQUE

(No. 2 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

VALSE DE LA REINE

(No. 3 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

VALSE MAURESQUE

(No. 4 of "FOUR CHARACTERISTIC WALTZES")

BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

Arranged for Violin and Pianoforte by THE COMPOSER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SIX

HIGHLAND DANCES

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

JOHN B. McEWEN.

Price Two Shillings each.

No.

1. In D minor. $\frac{4}{4}$, Adagio; Vivace; Poco meno mosso.2. In F. $\frac{3}{4}$, Allegretto; $\frac{3}{8}$, Poco Adagio.3. In D minor. $\frac{3}{8}$, Allegro con molto moto; $\frac{3}{4}$, Meno mosso, un poco rubato.4. In D. $\frac{3}{4}$, Andante con molto espressione; $\frac{3}{2}$, Allegro di molto.5. In D minor. $\frac{4}{4}$, Allegro molto marcato; Largamente, con gran espressione.6. In D. $\frac{4}{4}$, Con moto; Meno mosso, molto espressivo.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TO TEACHERS.
THE ELEMENTS OF MUSIC SIMPLIFIED
 WITH GRADUATED EXERCISES
 By J. TRAIL.

(A Complete Preparatory Text-Book for Junior Pupils, written in the simplest possible language, to meet the requirements of the various Examinations in the Rudiments of Music.)

Sir GEORGE C. MARTIN

writes:—

"Your little book is admirable in every way, and the graduated exercises will be found of the greatest help to young students."

Dr. A. L. PEACE writes:—

"Admirably designed to meet the requirements of young students."

Dr. J. GORDON SAUNDERS

writes:—

"I have no hesitation in saying that your 'Elements of Music Simplified' is an exceptionally good book.

Indeed, I do not remember to have seen its equal for the young scholar."

"Nothing better than this little manual could be desired for teaching purposes. It is excellent in every way,"—Daily Free Press.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Novello's Music Primers.

A DESCRIPTION AND HISTORY
 OF THE PIANOFORTE
 AND OF THE
OLDER KEYBOARD STRINGED INSTRUMENTS

BY
A. J. HIPKINS, F.S.A.

Author of the Articles on the Pianoforte in the "Dictionary of Music and Musicians" and in the "Encyclopædia Britannica," also of "Musical Instruments, Historic, Rare, and Unique."

THE WOOD ENGRAVINGS BY JOHN HIPKINS.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence. Paper Boards, Three Shillings.

As an expert on the subject of all musical instruments and especially those with keys, Mr. Hipkins was highly honoured all the world over.—(THE TIMES, June 4, 1903.)

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

CONCERTO

FOR

ORGAN

AND

ORCHESTRA

(STRINGS, BRASS, HARP, AND DRUMS)

COMPOSED BY

HORATIO PARKER.

(Op. 55.)

Full Score	10s. 6d.
Organ Part	2s. 6d.
String Parts	5s. 3d.
Wind Parts	6s. 6d.

ARRANGEMENT FOR ORGAN SOLO, BY DAVID STANLEY SMITH.

Price Three Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EBENEZER PROUT'S WORKS ON MUSIC.

Bound, each net, 5s.

HARMONY: Its Theory and Practice. Fifteenth Edition.

COUNTERPOINT: Strict and Free. Seventh Edition.

DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT AND CANON. Third Edition.

FUGUE. Fourth Edition.

FUGAL ANALYSIS. Third Edition.

MUSICAL FORM. Fourth Edition.

APPLIED FORMS. Third Edition.

THE ORCHESTRA

Vol. I.—"The Technique of the Instruments." Third Edition.

Vol. II.—"Orchestral Combination." Second Edition.

AUGENER AND Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

A TREATISE
 ON MODERN INSTRUMENTATION
 AND ORCHESTRATION

BY

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

TRANSLATED BY MARY COWDEN CLARKE.

NEW EDITION, REVISED AND EDITED BY
JOSEPH BENNETT.

Price Twelve Shillings.

This masterly treatise and accepted classic on a subject of which Berlioz was so consummate a master, is copiously illustrated by excerpts from the full scores of works by Gluck, Mozart, Beethoven, Weber, Spontini, Meyerbeer, and especially from those of the author.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

DIRECTORY

OF

MUSICAL EDUCATION

PART I.

BEING A GUIDE TO

Choir Schools and Choral Foundations for Boys: University Degrees in Music; Choral and Organist Scholarships; and Public Schools of Music in the United Kingdom

EDITED BY THE

REV. CHARLES EDWARD BUTLER, M.A.

Price One Shilling.
 Paper boards, 1s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MANUAL OF THE ORCHESTRAL LITERATURE OF ALL COUNTRIES

COMPILED AND EDITED BY

A. ROSENKRANZ.

IN CLOTH, PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE NET.

The Manual contains an almost complete list of the published orchestral compositions by composers of all countries, from Lully and Rameau (1651) up to the present time—Edward Elgar, Camille Saint-Saëns, and Richard Strauss (1902)—a period covering 250 years.

The 502 separate works for Orchestra scheduled in the Manual are written by 1337 different composers, and are classified as follows:—

Overtures	1272	Miscellaneous Pieces	...	434
Symphonies	588	Marches	...	467
Various Concert Pieces	1542	Music for String Orchestra	...	709

A special table, showing the degree in which the different nationalities of the various composers are represented, is given in the preface.

An alphabetical list of the names of the composers is placed at the end of the Manual, and whenever it was obtainable, the year in which each composer was born is stated.

In order to keep "The Manual of Orchestral Literature" up to date and make it absolutely reliable as a Handbook of reference, supplementary lists will be issued at regular intervals.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

FRANKLIN PETERSON'S Popular Text Books:

ELEMENTS of Music. Seventh Edition. Bound, net 1s.

INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF THEORY. A sequel to the "Elements of Music," and intended to prepare the student for Professor Prout's Series of Theoretical Works. Bound, net 1s. 6d.

PIANIST'S HANDBOOK. A Theoretical Companion to Practice. Two Parts, each bound, net 1s. 6d.

CATECHISM of MUSIC. Bound, net 2s.

AUGENER AND Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

- s. d.
- MASSENET, J.—Poésie de Mytis, 2s.; Extase printanière, 4s.;
Ma petit mère a pleuré, 4s.; Je m'en suis alle vers l'amour, 4s.; L'Heureuse souffrance, 4s.; Avec toi, 4s.; Ave Margarita, 4s.; Sur une poésie de VAN HASSELT ... 2 0
- MORET, E.—Ten Preludes. For Pianoforte Solo complete, net 7 0
- MOUQUET, J.—Suite symphonique. Pour Orgue Mustel „ 10 0
- NAWRATIL, K.—Improvisationem. For Pianoforte Solo.
Op. 22 ... 6 0
- Sonata (D minor). For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 24 10 0
- NOVÁK, V.—Trio. For Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello.
Op. 27 ... net 7 6
- PALASCHKÖ, J.—Tonbilder. Five Pieces. For Pianoforte and Violin. Op. 33 ... each, net 1 6
1. Rondo scherzoso; 2. Souvenir; 3. Tourbillon;
4. Intermezzo; 5. Roccoco.
- PLANCHET.—Trio. For Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello
net 12 0
- POLDINI, E.—"Impressions." Pianoforte Pieces. Op. 34.
In Two Books. Book I., net 3s.; Book II. ... net 2 6
- RATÉZ, E.—Two Pieces. For Flute and Pianoforte:—
No. 1. 1s. 9d. net; No. 2 ... 2 0
- REBIKOFF, W.—"Tabatière à musique." For Pianoforte.
No. 3. Mazurka ... 3 0
- "Tristesse." Etude musicale-psychologique. For Pianoforte ... net 1 0
- REITER, J.—Klaviergedichte. Op. 57 ... 4 0
- Drei Klaviergedichte. Op. 58 ... 3 0
- RENNER, J.—Suite. For Organ. Op. 56... complete „ 3 0
1. Præludium, 2s. net; 2. Canzone, 1s. net; 3. Fughette, 1s. net;
4. Trio, 1s. net; 5. Elegie, 1s. 6d. net; Romanze, 1s. net.
- REUSCHSEL.—Epithalame. For Pianoforte and Violoncello 5 0
- The same. For Violin and Pianoforte... 5 0
- ROST, E.—Benedictus. For Violin, Organ, and Harp. Op. 10
net 2 0
- ROUSSEAU, S.—Sonata. For Violoncello and Pianoforte „ 7 0
- SACHS, L.—"Papillons." For Pianoforte. Op. 43 ... 2 0
- SAINT-SAËNS.—Romance from Op. 49. Transcribed for Violin, Violoncello, Pianoforte (or Harp), and Organ net 3 6
- "Samson et Dalila." Cantabile extrait du Duo "Mon cœur s'ouvre." For Harp... net 2 0
- Berceuse. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 105 ... 2 0
- Overture, "Andromaque." For Pianoforte Duet ... 4 0
- 2nd Concerto. For Violoncello and Orchestra. Op. 119:—
Full Score ... net 15 0 | Orchestral Parts ... 18 0
- The same. For Violoncello and Pianoforte ... 10 0
- Valse langoureuse. For Pianoforte. Op. 120 ... 2 6
- SAURET, E.—Twenty-four Caprices. Op. 64. Book II. ... 10 0
- SCHOENEFELD, H.—Sonata. For Pianoforte and Violin.
Op. 53 ... 16 0
- SCHÜTT, E.—Caprices. For Pianoforte. No. 1. Valse d'après
J. STRAUSS ... net 3 0
- Concert-Paraphrasen über Strauss'sche Walzer. No. 6.
Dorfschwalben aus Oesterreich; No. 7. Künstlerleben.
each, net 2 6
- SCRIABINE.—Symphonie, No. 2 (in C). For Orchestra.
Op. 29:—
Full Score ... net 18 0 | Parts ... net 35 0
- SINDING, C.—Five Etudes. For Pianoforte. Op. 58 each „ 2 0
1. G major; 2. B major; 3. C major; 4. D major; 5. E flat major.
- STRAUSS, R.—"Ein Heldenleben." Op. 40. Arranged for Pianoforte Solo ... net 8 0
- TANÉIÉW, A. S.—2nd Suite (in F major). For Orchestra.
Op. 14:—
Full Score ... net 10 0 | Parts ... net 20 0
- 2nd Symphony (in B minor). For Orchestra. Op. 21:—
Full Score ... net 16 0 | Parts ... 30 0
- Réverie. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 23 ... 2 6
- Arabesque. For Clarinet and Pianoforte. Op. 24 ... 2 0
- TINIAKOW, A.—Valse mélancolique. For Pianoforte Solo.
Op. 2 ... net 4 0
- TORRE-ALFINA.—"Conte printanier." For Pianoforte and Violin ... 5 0
- The same. For Pianoforte and Violoncello ... 5 0
- Sonata. For Pianoforte and Violin ... 7 0
- TSCHÉREPNINE, N.—Scène dans la Caverne des Sorcières
("Macbeth"). For Orchestra. Op. 12:—
Full Score ... net 14 0 | Parts ... net 30 0
- Pianoforte Duet ... 5 0
- VIARDOT, P.—Six Pieces. For Violin and Pianoforte:—
1. Angelus, 1s. 9d. net; 2. En Barque, 1s. 9d. net; 3. Resignation, 1s. 9d. net; 4. Chinoiserie, 1s. 9d. net; 5. Invocation, 1s. 9d. net; 6. Petite Valse ... net 2 0
- VIDAL, P.—Petite Suite espagnole. Orchestral Parts, with Pianoforte Conductor ... net 8 0
- WEINGARTNER, F.—Sextet. For Pianoforte, Two Violins,
Viola, Violoncello, and Bass. Op. 33 ... net 12 0
- WIDOR, CH. M.—Choral et Variations. Transcribed for Two Pianofortes (four hands) ... net 5 0
- ZAREMBA, S.—Morceau de Salon. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 46 ... net 1 0
- Two Pieces. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 54.
complete, net 2 0
1. Romance; 2. Polonaise mélancolique ... each, 1 3
- ZWEIG, O.—Suite. For Pianoforte. Op. 6 complete, „ 5 0
1. Præludium; 2. Toccata; 3. Scherzo; 4. Tema con
Variazioni; 5. Intermezzo; 6. Rondo ... each, net 1 6

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

ORGAN TRANSCRIPTIONS

BY

A. HERBERT BREWER.

No. 1.

PRELUDE

AND

ANGEL'S FAREWELL

(GERONTIUS)

BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW ORGAN COMPOSITION

By DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY.

INTRODUCTION,
VARIATIONS, AND FUGUE

ON THE

"ADESTE FIDELES"

FOR THE ORGAN

BY

ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY

(MUS.D., OXON.).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN

BY

JOSEF RHEINBERGER.

In Two Volumes, price, paper cover, 6s. each; cloth, gilt lettered, 8s. 6d. each.

Or, in separate Books:—

VOL. I.

TWELVE CHARACTERISTIC PIECES.

(Op. 156.)

- | Book I. | Book II. | Book III. | Book IV. |
|-------------|-------------|--------------|-----------------|
| Preludio. | Intermezzo. | In Memoriam. | Riposo. |
| Arioso. | Visione. | Pastorale. | Passacaglia. |
| Canzonetta. | Duetto. | Lamento. | Marcia Funebre. |
- Price: Books I., II., III., One Shilling and Sixpence each.
Book IV., Two Shillings.

Book IV., Two Shillings.

MONOLOGUES.

(Op. 162.)

- | Book I. | Book II. | Book III. | Book IV. |
|--------------|----------------|--------------|-----------------|
| No. 1, in C | No. 4, B minor | No. 7, in D | No. 10, F minor |
| " 2, A minor | " 5, in G | " 8, G minor | " 11, in E |
| " 3, in E | " 6, B minor | " 9, in D | " 12, B minor |
- Price: Book I., One Shilling.
Books II., III., IV., One Shilling and Sixpence each.

VOL. II.

SIX SHORT PIECES.

- | Book I. | Book II. |
|-------------|--------------|
| Prelude. | Canzonetta. |
| Intermezzo. | Consolation. |
| Epilogue. | Trio. |
- Price One Shilling and Sixpence each Book.

TWELVE PIECES.

(Op. 174.)

- | Book I. | Book II. | Book III. |
|------------------|----------------|-------------------|
| Romance. | Aspiration. | Agitato. |
| Scherzoso. | Contemplation. | Improvisation. |
| Book IV. | Book V. | Book VI. |
| Solemn Festival. | Ricercare. | Melodia Ostinata. |
| Duet. | Evening Rest. | Finale. |
- Price One Shilling and Sixpence each Book.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHAPPELL & CO.'S

LATEST BALLAD CONCERT SUCCESSES.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS NET EACH.

MAUDE VALÉRIE WHITE.

- "LAND OF THE ALMOND BLOSSOM."
- "APRIL'S LADY."
- "CANZONE DI TAORMINA."
- "SLUMBER SONG" (Buon Riposo).

FLORENCE AYLWARD.

- "THE SILENT RIVER."
- "LOVE'S BENEDICTION."
- "BETWEEN THE HEATHER AND THE SEA."

FRANCES ALLITSEN.

- "THE SOVEREIGNTY OF GOD."
- "ON THE RIVER."

FRANCO LEONI.

- "IN SYMPATHY."
- "THE BIRTH OF MORN" (1s. 6d. net).
- "THE RETORT."

FRANK LAMBERT.

- "GOD'S GARDEN."
- "COME CLOSE, BELOVED" (1s. 6d. net).
- "FORETHOUGHT" (1s. 6d. net).
- "O LET ME WEEP" (1s. 6d. net).

HERBERT BUNNING.

- "HUMILITY."
- "LOVE'S POWER."

GUY D'HARDELLOT.

- "BECAUSE."
- "I KNOW A LOVELY GARDEN."
- "AFTERWARDS, LOVE."

TERESA DEL RIEGO.

- "LA VIE EST VAIN" (A Song of Life).
- "THE WAKING OF SPRING."
- "GOD SPEED YOU, DEAR."

NOEL JOHNSON.

- "A PROTEST."
- "SPRING FLOWERS."
- "PURPLE PANSIES."

HERMANN LÖHR.

- "NELSON'S GONE A-SAILING."
- "SO FAIR A FLOWER."
- "AT SET OF SUN."

GEORGE H. CLUTSAM.

- "VANITY FAIR."
- "A CRADLE SONG."
- "RITORNELLO."

PAUL A. RUBENS.

- "A CROWN FOR EACH CROSS."

W. H. SQUIRE.

- "THE JOLLY SAILOR."

NEW & POPULAR INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

FOUR DANCES ... from "Merrie England." ... By EDWARD GERMAN.
Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net; Pianoforte Duet, price 3s. net;
Pianoforte and Violin, price 3s. net.

THREE DANCES ... from "Nell Gwyn." ... By EDWARD GERMAN.
Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net; Pianoforte Duet, price 3s. net;
Pianoforte and Violin, price 3s. net.

"IN DAYS OF OLD," Suite of Three Dances. ... By MEREDITH BALL.
(No. 1. Morris Dance. No. 2. Danse Caractéristique (My Lady Barbara).
No. 3. The Satyrs' Revel.

Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net; Full Orchestra, price 5s. net;
Arrangement for Military Band, price 15s. net; Octuor, price 4s. net; Extra Parts, each price 6d. net.

FLOWER SUITE OF THREE DANCES ... By R. K. BENYON.
(No. 1. Dance of the Roses. No. 2. Dance of the Pansies. No. 3. Dance of the Daisies.)
Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net.

SIX MINIATURE DANCES ... By J. M. CAPEL.
Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net.

TARANTELLA, for the Pianoforte ... By MEREDITH BALL.
Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net.

CHAPPELL & CO., LTD., 50, New Bond St., London, W.
AND MAY BE HAD OF ALL MUSICSELLERS.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 727.—Vol. 44.
Registered for transmission abroad.

SEPTEMBER 1, 1903.

Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.
Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY, ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

Conductor: Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, M.V.O., Mus.D.

There are now VACANCIES in the CHOIR for Sopranos, Tenors, and Basses (especially Tenors). Only those who have good and powerful voices, and who can read music at first sight, will be accepted. Address, The Secretary, Royal Choral Society, Royal Albert Hall, S.W.

LONDON CHORAL SOCIETY.

CONDUCTOR ... ARTHUR FAGGE.

Applications for admission to this Society from SOPRANOS, CONTRALTOS, MALE ALTOS, TENORS, BARITONES, and BASSES as Performing Members can now be received.

The CONCERTS will be given at Queen's Hall, and the Rehearsals held at Memorial Hall, Farringdon Street, on Monday Nights at 7 o'clock, commencing on September 21.

Applications (letters only) from those possessing good voices and reading ability to be addressed to the CONDUCTOR, 92, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC, TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patron: HIS MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE KING.

President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, K.G.

Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

MICHAELMAS TERM begins Monday, September 28. Entrance Examination, Thursday, September 24.

ADA LEWIS SCHOLARSHIPS, for Composition, Singing (two), Pianoforte and Viola or Double Bass; DOVE SCHOLARSHIP and SAINTON SCHOLARSHIP, for Violin; STAINER EXHIBITION, for Organ; and CAMPBELL-CLARKE SCHOLARSHIP, for Singing. Last day for entry, September 9.

METROPOLITAN EXAMINATION for LICENTIATESHIP (L.R.A.M.). Syllabus now ready.

Prospectus, Entrance Forms, and all further information of—

F. W. RENAULT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.
Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

Director: Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bart., D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.

Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P.

The NEXT TERM will commence on Thursday, September 24. Entrance Examination, Monday, September 21.

EXAMINATION for ASSOCIATESHIP (A.R.C.M.), April, 1904.

Syllabus and official Entry Forms may be obtained from

FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Managed by the Corporation of the City of London.

Principal: WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS, Mus.D., Dub., F.S.A., Hon. R.A.M.
Pupils can enter at any time.

Individual tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. Within three minutes of Ludgate Hill, Fleet Street, and Blackfriars Station (District Railway).

110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships, giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Fencing, and Opera. Lady Superintendent has charge of all ladies attending the school. Prospectus and form of entry free on application to

H. SAXE WYNDHAM,

Victoria Embankment, E.C.

Secretary.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in Durham in March (testatur only) and September.

For particulars, with copies of former Examination Papers, apply to the Secretary of Examinations, or to Dr. Armes, Durham.

BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL,

TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY AND FRIDAY,
OCTOBER 13, 14, 15 and 16, 1903.

OUTLINE OF THE PERFORMANCES.

TUESDAY MORNING: ELIJAH.

TUESDAY EVENING: Sir C. Villiers Stanford's VOYAGE OF MAELDUNE; Mozart's G MINOR SYMPHONY; Tschaiikowsky's HAMLET OVERTURE; Cherubini's ANACREON OVERTURE.

WEDNESDAY MORNING: Dr. Elgar's New Work THE APOSTLES (composed expressly for this Festival).

WEDNESDAY EVENING: Sullivan's GOLDEN LEGEND; Dr. Cowen's Orchestral Poem, A PHANTASY OF LIFE AND LOVE; Weber's OVERTURE to DER FREISCHÜTZ.

THURSDAY MORNING: THE MESSIAH.

THURSDAY EVENING: Berlioz's Symphony, HAROLD IN ITALY; Liszt's XIII. PSALM; Herr Richard Strauss's DON JUAN; Sir Hubert Parry's BLEST PAIR OF SIRENS; Wagner's MEISTER-SINGER OVERTURE.

FRIDAY MORNING: Bach's MASS IN B MINOR.

FRIDAY EVENING: Bruckner's TE DEUM; Dvořák's SYMPHONIC VARIATIONS; Brahms's ALTO RHAPSODIE; Beethoven's CHORAL SYMPHONY.

Principal Vocalists:

Mesdames ALBANI, AGNES NICHOLLS, MURIEL FOSTER, KIRKBY LUNN, and CLARA BUTT.

Messieurs BEN DAVIES, WILLIAM GREEN, JOHN COATES, ANDREW BLACK, KENNERLEY RUMFORD, and FRANGCON-DAVIES.

Conductor ... Dr. HANS RICHTER.

Detailed Programmes may be obtained on application to

WALTER CHARLTON, Secretary.

5, Waterloo Street, Birmingham.

HEREFORD MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

SEPTEMBER 6, 8, 9, 10, 11.

Conductor—Dr. SINCLAIR.

Madame Albani, Madame Emily Squire, Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Muriel Foster, Miss Marian Blinkhorn, Miss Hilda Wilson, Messrs. William Green, Gregory Hast, John Coates, Andrew Black, Plunket Greene, H. Lane Wilson, Watkin Mills. Pianist, Miss Adela Verne. Leader, Mr. W. Frye-Parker.

"Elijah"; Interlude ("Christus"), Granville Bantock; "Israel in Egypt" Selection; "Hymn of Praise"; "The Atonement," Coleridge-Taylor; "Jesus sleeps," Bach; Symphony (G minor), Mozart; "Dream of Gerontius," Elgar; "Voces Clamantium," Parry; Symphony (C minor), Brahms; "Christmas Mystery," Wolfrum; Motet, Eccard; "Parsifal" (Wagner) Selection; "Messiah." Two Secular Concerts.

Programmes, Tickets, &c., Jakeman and Carver, Hereford.

G. E. ASHLEY, Hon. Sec., Stretton Rectory.

BAKERSTREET CHURCH OF ENGLAND HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, LTD.,

6, UPPER BAKER STREET, N.W.

(One Minute from the Metropolitan Station.)

The Rev. Canon FRANCIS J. HOLLAND, M.A., Chairman.

PIANO.—Mr. Oscar Beringer, Miss Ethel Boyce; A.R.A.M., Miss Bryant, certificated Frankfurt Hoch Conservatoire, Miss Jessie Davies, A.R.A.M., Miss Kate Robinson, certificated Raff Conservatoire, Frankfurt, Mrs. Waterman, Misses D. Stanley Lucas and Barwell, pupils of Miss K. Robinson.

VIOLIN.—Herr Josef Ludwig, Miss L. M. Nunn, R.A.M., Miss Eveleigh, L.R.A.M., Silver Med., R.A.M.

VIOLONCELLO.—Miss A. F. Vernet, L.R.A.M.

ORGAN.—Mr. F. A. W. Docker, A.R.A.M., Organist of St. Andrew's, Wells Street, Professor of the Organ at the Guildhall School of Music, &c.

SINGING.—Mrs. Hutchinson, Miss Florence Etlinger.

SIGHT READING AND ENSEMBLE PLAYING.—Miss Harrison and Miss Holland: Piano and Strings.

ELOCUTION.—Miss Chute.

HARMONY CLASSES.—Miss Ethel M. Boyce.

ORCHESTRAL AND CHORAL CLASSES during Advent and Lent Terms.

The NEXT TERM begins September 23. HALF-TERM begins November 10.

For Prospectus, &c., apply to the Headmistress, Miss Lilla B. Strong, or to the Secretary, 6, Upper Baker Street, N.W.

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Visitor EDWARD ELGAR, Mus. Doc.
Principal GRANVILLE BANTOCK.

SESSION 1902-03.

The Session consists of Autumn Term (September 15 to December 20), Winter Term (January 19 to April 4), Summer Term (April 6 to June 20). Instruction in all branches of music. Students' Choir, Students' Orchestra, Fortnightly Rehearsals, Students' Concerts.

Prospectus and further information may be obtained from

ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

ROYAL
MANCHESTER COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Patroness: HER MAJESTY QUEEN ALEXANDRA.
President: Sir W. H. HOULDSWORTH, Bart., M.P.
Principal: Dr. ADOLPH BRODSKY.

The New College YEAR opens on Tuesday, September 29. Candidates apply on a Printed Form, obtainable from the Registrar. Special Houses of Residence recommended for Students.

Students are required to enter upon a complete Course of Musical Instruction, and are not admitted for a shorter period than one year. Fee for the year £30, payable in instalments of £10 at the beginning of each term.

The prospectus, with Scholarship information and Diploma Regulations, on application.

STANLEY WITHERS, Registrar.

New Professor of the Piano-forte: Mr. Arthur Friedheim.

NATIONAL CONSERVATOIRE

INST., 1895. OF MUSIC, LTD. INCOR., 1900.

174, WARDOUR STREET, W.

Board of Examiners:

Warden: Professor ALEXANDER PHIPPS, Mus. Bac.

H. J. HENNIKER, Mus.D., Cant. RALPH HORNER, Mus.D., Duncm.

D. J. JENNINGS, Mus.D. G. HAYLOCK, Mus.D.

TITO MATTEI. J. HAAKMAN. S. SPEELMAN.

J. W. JACKSON, Mus.D., Dub. T. W. HAYDOCK, Mus.D., Dub.

D. C. JONES, Mus.D., F.R.C.O. J. PRICE. J. W. ESKDALE.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS in Nov. and Dec. Two Scholarships, tenable under any Teachers, will be awarded; also Gold and Silver Medals.

SPECIAL DIPLOMA EXAMINATIONS, September.—Organists, Pianists, Vocalists, Violinists, Composers, and Bandmasters.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT (40 Professors). Also at Conservatoire, Liverpool, Manchester, &c. Apply, Registrar.

LONDON COLLEGE FOR CHORISTERS

(Late LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS),

POLYTECHNIC, REGENT STREET, W.

AND

80, CAMBRIDGE TERRACE, HYDE PARK, W.

Provides Musical Boys with a thorough Vocal and Instrumental Training, together with the educational advantages of a first-class grammar school.

Boys coached for Cathedral and other Choristerships.

SOLO-BOYS supplied for Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, Festivals, &c.

Organists, clergy, and others interested are invited to inspect the College, 80, Cambridge Terrace, near Lancaster Gate (Tube) Station, Praed St. (Metropolitan), and Paddington (G.W.R.) Stations, Wednesdays, 9.30 to 12.30; other times by appointment.

Address, Mr. JAMES BATES, 7, Blomfield Crescent, W.

Telegrams—"Musicmane, London." Telephone—1074, Western.

NATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC, LIM.

Patron: THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH.

Warden: Dr. TINDALL, A.T.C.L.

NEXT EXAMINATION (London), all Grades, Diplomas and Medals, October 14.

POSTAL LESSONS, to aid Teachers (Psychon System).

Local Secretaries wanted.

W. J. MOSS, 5, Soho Street, W.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

President: The Very Rev. FRANCIS PIGOU, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examination, in November and December, 1903, at the following Centres: London, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow, and Belfast.

Annual Membership Subscription, ros. 6d. Life, £5 5s.

Free register for Organists requiring appointments.

For new Calendar and further particulars apply to

Dr. LEWIS, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

HUGO GÖRLITZ,

119, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Telegrams—Hugonotas, London.

Telephone—4013 Gerrard.

KUBELIK SEASON, 1903.

Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ.

WILHELM BACKHAUS TOUR, AUTUMN, 1903

Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ.

WILHELM BACKHAUS

Miss ALICE HOLLÄNDER (Contralto)

Mr. JOHN HARRISON (the new English Tenor)

Miss LILIAN FOULIS (the Scottish Violinist)

Mr. PAUL GRÜMMER (Violoncellist)

Mr. WILHELM GRÜMMER (Accompanist)

CHAPPELL GRAND PIANO-FORTE.

For Vacant Dates, apply to HUGO GÖRLITZ, 119, New Bond St., W.

Mr. HUGO GÖRLITZ is Agent for the Leading Artists of the World, and Sole Agent for

KUBELIK WILHELM BACKHAUS

MARTHA CUNNINGHAM ALICE HOLLÄNDER

JOHN HARRISON (the new English Tenor)

LILIAN FOULIS (Violinist) PAUL GRÜMMER (Violoncellist)

THE AMSTERDAM ORCHESTRA

RICHARD STRAUSS, Etc.

KUBELIK AUTUMN TOUR

(Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ)

OCTOBER 3 to NOVEMBER 21.

119, New Bond Street, W.

RICHARD WAGNER FESTIVAL PLAYS,

PRINCE REGENTEN THEATRE, MUNICH.

Official British Agency—HUGO GÖRLITZ, 119, New Bond St., W.

RICHARD STRAUSS FESTIVAL.

JOHN HARRISON'S SUCCESS.

THE TIMES says:

"The first of the songs were sung in German, with capital expression, by Mr. John Harrison: is a 'Friedenszerählung.'"

THE STANDARD says:

"The two principal tenor solos were finely sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE DAILY NEWS says:

"Mr. Harrison, the tenor, sang with a sense of dramatic emphasis one had not expected from him, and at the same time the quality of his voice was good."

THE MORNING POST says:

"Of two tenor songs, one 'The Vision of Peace,' the other from the last act, both are modelled on Wagner; the second is the more striking. The orchestration in the first is heavy, so that the vocalist has a hard fight. Mr. John Harrison sang both extremely well."

THE DAILY GRAPHIC says:

"Two of them well sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE WESTMINSTER GAZETTE says:

"The solo parts of which were taken in first-rate style by Mr. John Harrison."

THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN says:

"Two long solos allotted to the hero were sung by Mr. John Harrison, who earned great applause by his beautiful voice and method, and his sincere and refined dramatic expression. His performances stamp him as an artist of the first rank."

THE GLOBE says:

"Two tenor solos, well sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE STAR says:

"Both were sung with conspicuous beauty of voice and expression by Mr. John Harrison, who thereby showed himself more than equal to the severest of artistic tasks."

MR. JOHN HARRISON is a Pupil of
MADAME AMY SHERWIN.

W. E. HILL AND SONS

(HIS MAJESTY'S VIOLIN MAKERS)

OF 140, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Have for SALE—

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, AND VIOLONCELLOS

by STRADIVARIUS, GUARNERIU'S, AMATI, and other celebrated makers, and they guarantee the authenticity of any instrument they sell.

They also undertake the SALE OF INSTRUMENTS on behalf of their owners.

W. E. HILL AND SONS have for generations been engaged in Violin-Making, and undertake the Repairing and Adjustment of any Stringed Instruments.

Excellent VIOLINS for beginners, from One Guinea upwards. STRINGS can be sent safely by Post.

PRICE LIST ON APPLICATION.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC, LONDON.

(Under the direction of The Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)
INCORPORATED 1891.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

PRESIDENT: THE MOST HON. THE MARQUIS OF ANGLESEY.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L. (Principal).

GEORGE PRIOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon. (Registrar).

J. M. BENTLEY, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M. (Chairman).

W. E. THOMAS, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

CHARLES R. FISHER, Mus. Doc., F.G.C.M.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W. Terms moderate.

Hon. Director of Studies: CHURCHILL SIBLEY, Mus.D.

Metropolitan Examinations in all subjects, including the Diplomas of A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., also for the Teachers' Professional Diploma in the Art of Teaching, December, 1903.

Local Theoretical Examination, December, 1903.

Practical Examinations are now being held at the various Centres.

Holder of the Victoria College Vocal Scholarship, 1901: Miss Lotti L. Wakelin, L.R.A.M.; 1902, Miss Audrey Willows, L.V.C.M. Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for competition.

Local Secretaries required for towns not represented.

All communications to be addressed as usual to the Central Office, 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

MUNRO DAVISON'S MALE-VOICE CHOIR.

President—Dr. W. H. CUMMINGS.

(9th Season.)

FIRST REHEARSAL, near Finsbury Park, N., Oct. 5, 8.30 p.m.

Last Season's Choir consisted of 9 Altos, 9 1st Tenors, 9 2nd Tenors and Baritones, 11 Basses.

Particulars as to Membership, Honorary or Active, from the Hon. Sec., J. E. NEWMAN, Esq., 1, Digby Road, Finsbury Park, N.

THE

Herbert Simmons Concert Party

FOR ORATORIO, BALLAD CONCERTS, &c.

Miss CLARIBEL HYDE (Soprano) | Miss GERTRUDE BOOTH (Contralto)
Mr. ROBERT CURTIS (Tenor) | Mr. HERBERT SIMMONS (Baritone)

Vacant dates, terms, &c., address, Mr. Herbert Simmons, 38, Vanbrugh Park, Blackheath, S.E.

THE CRYSTAL PALACE

ORATORIO, QUARTET, AND CONCERT PARTY.

MISS AMY FLETCHER.

MISS ESSIE ANDREWS.

MR. JOHN PROBERT.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS.

Specimen Programmes and Terms sent on application to
Mr. ROBERTS, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

Just Published.

THE

PARISH CHOIR MANUAL

For particulars of the above, see page 621.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano).

CREATION.—"Miss Eaton sang splendidly throughout."—Daily News.
MARTYR OF ANTIOCH.—"An ideal Margarita."—Norwich Daily Press.
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 237, Katherine St., Ashton-under-Lyne.

MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)

Oratorios and Concerts.

Burley Road, Leeds.

MADAME ANNIE HAYMAN (Soprano)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

Thornciliffe, Lowfield Road, Stockport.

MISS KATE WELCH (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

Address, 4, Halliwell Street, Cheetham, Manchester.

MISS BERYL CLIVE (Contralto)

14, Gladsmuir Road, Whitehall Park, N.

MISS EDITH CRAWFORD (Contralto)

Concerts, At Homes, &c.

Glencairn, Cane Hill, Purley, Surrey.

MISS KATE GREGORY

(The new Yorkshire Contralto)

(Professional Pupil of Albert Jowett, Esq., Yorkshire Training College of Music, Leeds).

Oratorios and Ballad Concerts.

Terms, apply, Doncaster.

MISS GERTRUDE HEY (Contralto)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

Lawn Side, Clarendon Road, Whalley Range, Manchester.

MADAME HURLE-HOBBS (Contralto)

Oratorios, Recitals, Concerts, &c.

Address, 37, Briar Walk, Upper Edmonton, London, N.

MISS ANNIE McBRIDE (Contralto)

Concerts, Oratorios, &c.

129, Fawnbrake Avenue, Herne Hill, S.E.

MADAME RUTH ROEBUCK (Contralto).

Oratorios, Recitals, Concerts, &c.

Address, 64, Bay Street, Blackburn.

MR. HAROLD GREEN

(Solo Tenor, Llandaff Cathedral).

Oratorios, Ballads, &c. The Cathedral, Llandaff.

MR. WILLIAM D. VINCENT (Tenor)

"Old Tach School."

Concerts, &c., address, 167, Tachbrook Street, Belgrave Road, S.W.

MR. SYDNEY GREEN (Baritone)

(Pupil of Dr. Henry Coward, Sheffield).

Oratorios, Ballads, &c. Monk Bretton, Barnsley.

MR. GEORGE STUBBS (Baritone)

(St. Paul's Cathedral).

129, Fawnbrake Avenue, Herne Hill, S.E.

MR. AND MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS

(Baritone, Soprano, and Elocutionists).

Concerts, Lyrical Recitals, Pupils (Resident, &c.). Sharon, Ealing, W.

NEW ŠEVČIK VIOLIN METHOD.

PROF. ŠEVČIK (Master of KUBELIK and KOCIÁN) METHOD thoroughly taught by

PROFESSOR KOENIG (Of Prague)

(Pupil of Herr Ševčík).

CLASSES and PRIVATE LESSONS. For particulars, apply to
Prof. Herman Koenig, 36, Ainger Road, N.W.

MISS AMY FLETCHER (Soprano), Oratorios
and Concerts, gives LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION and SINGING, at Pupils' residences, and at 11, Highbury Grange, N.

MISS ETHEL WEATHERLEY has returned to Paris, to resume her Opera roles under Madame Marie Roze, but will be open to ENGAGEMENTS for Oratorio and Concerts after October. Address, care of Madame Marie Roze, 37, Rue Joubert, Paris.

MR. WILLIAM WILD (Tenor), of the "Sir
Charles and Lady Hallé South African Concert Tour, 1895";
of the London (Queen's Hall) Concerts; of the Richter and Manchester
Gentlemen's Concerts. Pupil of Andrew Black, Esq. Terms, &c.,
Grosvenor Square, Stalybridge, near Manchester.

MR. WALTER LEWIS (Bass). Professor of Voice Production. Late of the Royal Academy of Music. Late Lay Clerk, St. Saviour's Collegiate Church, Southwark, S.E., and Professor of the Chantiqua College, Glasgow and Edinburgh, is open to receive private PUPILS (Sept. 1, 1903) and ENGAGEMENTS for Oratorios and Ballads. Present address, The Chantiqua College, 141, Bath Street, Glasgow.

MISS ADELAIDE LAMBE

(CONTRALTO).

Queen's Hall and Crystal Palace Concerts, &c.
Address, Holmwood, Roxborough Park, Harrow.

MISS HILDA STRAUSS

(CONTRALTO). For Oratorio and Ballads.

Specially successful in Oratorio.

Address, Forest Villas, Alfreton Road, Nottingham.

MR. CLAUDE ANDERSON

(TENOR). For Oratorios and Concerts.

"Possesses a pleasant tenor voice of considerable flexibility. Sang with expression and intelligence."—Daily Telegraph.
8, Corinne Road, Tufnell Park, N.

MR. FRED. FALLAS

(TENOR).

CHORAL SOCIETIES AND CONCERT-GIVERS IN THE NORTH OF ENGLAND AND SCOTLAND PLEASE NOTE THE FOLLOWING BOOKINGS:—

CUMBERLAND MUSICAL FESTIVAL, JAN. 1, 2, 3, 1904.

Works: "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," "Daisy Chain," and "Messiah."

Oct. 31—Edinburgh	Ballads.
Dec. 16—Newcastle and Gateshead	"Messiah."
	Choral Union
Feb. 13—Edinburgh	Ballads.

Yorkshire Post, March 11, 1903:—"Mr. Fred. Fallas is a tenor who is rapidly coming to the front."

Address: Horbury, Yorks.

MR. WRIGHT BEAUMONT

(TENOR)

Bronze and Silver Medalist and Certificate, R.A.M.

Address, Roach House, Manchuria Road, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. HENRY FRANCKISS

(TENOR).

The Musical News.—"HIAWATHA."—"The society was conducted by Mr. Coleridge-Taylor. The fine tenor solo was entrusted to Mr. Henry Franckiss, whose rich voice and good method won enthusiastic applause."

Banbury Guardian.—"HIAWATHA."—"He displayed a voice of rare quality and expression, and his rendering of 'Onaway! awake,' was not only loudly applauded, but the conductor himself (Mr. Coleridge-Taylor) showed his marked approval of the way it had been treated."

The Times.—"GOLDEN LEGEND."—"Sang excellently."Morning Post.—"JUDAS MACCABEUS."—"Rich and powerful voice."

Leeds Mercury.—"HYMN OF PRAISE."—"Gave a masterly rendering of his solos. The engagement of Mr. Franckiss was a particularly happy choice."

South London Press.—"MESSIAH." CRYSTAL PALACE.—"The audience were alive to the exceptional merit displayed by Mr. Franckiss."

Yorkshire News.—"It is impossible to credit him with too much praise, possessing a rich mellow voice of great range, and of which he is a complete master."

Aberdeen Journal.—"Seldom has the choral society had the services of a better tenor. He has a rich voice of fine compass, and acquitted himself admirably in every solo."

22, Winifred Grove, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. FRANCIS GLYNN

(TENOR),

High Elms, Burgh Heath Road, Epsom.

MR. JOHN MALON

(TENOR).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c., including Elgar's "Dream of Gerontius."
Terms, Randolph Street, Stockport.

MR. HENRY PLEVY

(TENOR)

(Of the Beethoven Festival, Henry's Hall Choral and Crystal Palace Concerts.)

Solo Tenor, Christ Church, Lancaster Gate.

BANBURY PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—"HIAWATHA."—"Mr. Henry Plevy has an excellent voice, with good compass and style, and he gave 'Onaway! awake,' with the greatest acceptance, his singing being characterized by feeling and expressiveness throughout. It was an admirable effort. . . . His other numbers were also well delivered, and his high notes rang out well in 'Then the black-robe chief,' which was ably sung."—Guardian.

Works performed last season were: "Messiah," "Elijah," "Redemption," "St. Paul," "Hymn of Praise," "Coronation Ode," "Creation," "Sleeping Beauty," "Hiawatha," "Acis and Galatea," "Last Judgment," "Ivanhoe," "May Queen," "Crusaders," "Rebekah," "Holy City," "Columbus," "Martyr of Antioch."

Address: 30, Hamilton Gardens, N.W.

MR. JOS. REED

(PRINCIPAL TENOR),

Trinity College, Cambridge.

Tenor, Madame Clara Butt's Tours, October, 1900; Spring, 1902.
Vacant dates. 55, Chesterton Road, Cambridge.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS

(TENOR).

For vacant dates, apply, 105, North Side, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. WILLIAM A. SHEEN

(PRINCIPAL TENOR, The City Temple).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

For Terms, &c., apply, 71, Alkham Road, Stamford Hill, N.

MR. JOHN BROWNING

(BARITONE),

Soloist, Leeds Musical Festivals and of the leading English, Scotch, and Irish Concerts. Extensive repertoire of over 100 works.

Season 1902/3, has sung Baritone Solos in sixty works ("Elijah" 12 times, "Messiah" 10), and at forty Miscellaneous Concerts.

Booking for Next Season—

Address, Marlbro' Grove, Leeds.

MR. JOHN RIDDING

(BARITONE)

Sweetman's Agency, Liverpool; or, 11, Southfield Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MR. HUGH SPENCER

(BASS-BARITONE)

For Concerts, Oratorios, Festivals, &c.

Now Booking Dates for the Winter Season.

For terms, &c., address, Vocalist, Coldhurst, Oldham; or, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS,

48, DYNE ROAD, BRONDESURY, N.W.

Telegrams:—SOLOIST, LONDON.

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL

(BARITONE).

(Westminster Abbey.)

Mr. HENRY J. WOOD (Conductor, Queen's Hall Concerts) writes:—

"I, Langham Place, W., Feb. 14, 1901.

"Mr. Montague Borwell is an excellent vocalist.

"He has been most successful both at Queen's Hall, and at my Nottingham and Wolverhampton Concerts, in most difficult and trying rôles, and I consider him one of the most reliable and painstaking baritone vocalists now before the public.

"HENRY J. WOOD."

"ELIJAH."—TONBRIDGE.—"Mr. Montague Borwell was a perfect exponent of the fiery Prophet. He is the nearest approach to Santley I have heard for a long time. The dramatic instinct, the necessary sarcasm, and the devotional spirit of the Prophet were all there. The great air, 'Is not His Word,' being sung with much spirit, the top F rang as resonantly as a bell. The beautiful air, 'It is enough,' was splendidly sung, and Mr. Borwell had to repeatedly bow his acknowledgments."—Tonbridge Free Press.

"ELIJAH."—STOURBRIDGE.—"Mr. Montague Borwell sang the part of Elijah with fine dramatic expression. His taunts to the Priests of Baal were marked with bitter sarcasm, his appearances to Ahab with dignity, his lament on his betrayal by the people and his invocation to God were most impressive."—County Express.

"FAUST" (BERLIOZ).—BALLYMONEY.—"Mr. Montague Borwell gave a very dramatic exposition of the part throughout. . . . His rendering of the Serenade was simply splendid, whilst his enunciation throughout the whole work was perfect."—Coleraine Constitution.

"FAUST" (GOUNOD).—SOUTHEND.—"The pick of the principals was Mr. Montague Borwell, whose singing both technically and artistically, was admirable. . . . His rendering of the Cavatina, and Valentine's death scene being beyond reproach."—Observer.

AND

MISS WINIFRED MARWOOD

(Mrs. Montague Borwell—SOPRANO).

"ELIJAH."—WEYBRIDGE.—"Possessing a soprano voice of fine quality and wide compass, Miss Winifred Marwood maintained a very high standard of excellence in the whole of her contributions, of which perhaps 'Hear ye, Israel,' was the most effective."—Survey Advertiser.

"ELIJAH."—TONBRIDGE.—"Miss Winifred Marwood made a great impression by her rendering of 'Hear ye, Israel.' It was sung as it should be—prayerfully, and not shouted to the people."—Tonbridge Free Press.

"HIAWATHA."—WEYBRIDGE.—"Miss Winifred Marwood, a soprano of wide range and pleasing method, and Mr. Montague Borwell, a resonant baritone, took the solos in the second scene, and their treatment of the deeply pathetic picture left little to be desired."—Survey Advertiser.

"L'ALLEGRO."—BRIGHTON.—"Miss Winifred Marwood, who made her first appearance at the Society's Concerts, sang the soprano solos, and showed the possession of a voice of bright, clear, and resonant quality, with a cultured and finished style of vocalization. She achieved conspicuous success in her rendering of 'Sweet bird, that shun'st the noise of folly,' for which she had to acknowledge the enthusiastic applause of a delighted audience."—Daily News, London.

48, Dyne Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MR. FREDERIC W. DALBY

(BARITONE).

Formerly of Lincoln Cathedral; also London and Provincial Concerts.

F. CUNNINGHAM WOODS, Esq., M.A., Mus. Bac., writes:—

London, Feb., 1902.

I consider Mr. F. W. Dalby to be a good and reliable singer and fully able to undertake solo work of any kind. On more than one occasion it has been my good fortune to accompany Mr. Dalby, and I have always felt very much impressed by his good style and musicianly feeling.

F. CUNNINGHAM WOODS, M.A., Mus. Bac., F.R.C.O.; Late Organist of Exeter College, Oxford; Conductor of the Oxford Choral and Philharmonic Society; Organist to His Grace the Duke of Marlborough; Conductor of the Finsbury Choral Association.

ALBERT VISETTI, Esq., Professor of Singing at the Royal College of Music, writes:—

London, June 14, 1903.

I am pleased to certify that Mr. F. W. Dalby is quite efficient as a Teacher of Singing, possessing ample knowledge of his art, and an excellent vocalist with an extensive repertoire in every branch of oratorio and secular music.

For terms and vacant dates, apply, care of Messrs. Gould and Co., 25, Poland Street, W.; or, 'The Cedars,' 40, Cresswell Grove, West Didsbury, Manchester.

MR. ARTHUR WALENN

(BARITONE)

Of the Albert Hall, Queen's Hall, St. James's Hall Popular Concerts, Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts, Walenn Chamber Concerts, &c. 20, Ashworth Mansions, Elgin Avenue, London, W.

MR. JAMES COLEMAN

(BASS)

(Vicar-Choral, Lichfield Cathedral).

THE "MESSIAH."—"Of the work of Mr. J. Coleman it would be hard to speak in too great praise."—Nottingham Daily Guardian, 1903.

"ST. PAUL."—"Too much praise cannot be awarded to Mr. Coleman's singing of the solos allotted to him."—The Leader, 1903.

THE "MESSIAH."—"The singing of Mr. J. Coleman was the feature of the evening."—Hednesford Advertiser, 1903.

"ELIJAH."—"Mr. J. Coleman took the bass part, and won golden opinions of the audience by his efforts."—Tamworth Herald.

For vacant dates, apply, The Cathedral, Lichfield.

MR. SAMUEL FIELDEN

(BASSO-CANTANTE).

"He possesses a fine bass voice of exceptional compass and power, and he gave his songs with characteristic vigour and true vocal art."—Todmorden District News.

"CREATION."—"Mr. S. Fielden took the bass solos in eminently capable fashion, his rendering of 'Rolling in foaming billows' being particularly good."—Sussex Daily News.

For terms and vacant dates, address, The Cathedral, Chichester.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

MR. HARRY REYNOLDS

(BASSO).

13, Wellington Street, Nottingham.

MR. ARTHUR SEDGLEY

(BASS).

For Oratorio, Opera, &c.

Address, Arawa Villa, Hartley Street, Wolverhampton.

MR. HERBERT TRACEY

(BASS).

Extensive repertoire. For terms, address, 101, Amesbury Avenue, S.W.

MR. CHARLES TREE.

Next season's Oratorio bookings include: London (3), Leeds, Glasgow, Liverpool, Huddersfield, Belfast, Cardiff, Swindon, Lancaster, Lincoln, &c.

During Jan. and Feb., 1904, Mr. Tree is engaged for the principal towns of America, leaving England Dec. 28, '03 (about), landing in England again March 1.

Address, 27, Buckley Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MISS ELLEN CHILDS

(CHROMATIC HARPIST).

Having studied in Paris under the direction of the Inventor, Miss Childs is prepared to give LESSONS on the NEW CHROMATIC HARP (without pedals). For terms, apply, 170, Belsize Road, N.W.; or, care of Messrs. Pleyell, Wolff, Lyon and Co., 79-80, Baker Street, Portman Square, W.

MISS

MARGUERITE SWALE

PREPARES VOCALISTS for Oratorio, Opera, German Lieder, and Ballads.

VOICE PRODUCTION AND SINGING.

Recommended by distinguished Artists.

F., 120, Great Portland Street, W.

MR. GEORGE F. BLACK

Professional Tuner, Expert, &c., of Pianofortes.

Dealer in all kinds of Musical Instruments.

42, Hubert Grove, Stockwell, London, S.W.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Boys, personally trained and thoroughly reliable, for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, vacant dates, and further particulars, address, Mr. Henry J. Dutton, 17, Alpha Rd., New Cross, S.E.

MR. TANN'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. W. R. B. TANN, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Saviour's Church, Paddington, is prepared to supply well-trained Solo Boys for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

A number of excellent Chorus Boys also available.

For terms and vacant dates, address, Mr. W. R. B. Tann, 55, Warwick Road, Maida Vale, W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. Eastfield House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS.

Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities, Diplomas of L.R.A.M., A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O.; Appointments at College and School of Music, and as English Cathedral and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of seven hundred and fifty. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ARNOTT, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, Organist to

The Honble. Society of Gray's Inn, PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Examinations, and receives Pupils for Pianoforte, Organ, Singing; also, Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition, personally or by correspondence. Scores revised and compositions scored. All letters to The Common Room, Gray's Inn.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., Mus. Bac.,

Dunelm, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or, at 60, Berners Street, W. Schools attended. Address, 289, High Road, Lee, S.E.

MUNRO DAVISON, L.R.A.M. (Singing), F.R.C.O.,

L.T.C.L.; Professor of Singing (all voices, including Altos), Guildhall School of Music; Solo Alto, Temple Church, &c. For VOICE PRODUCTION, SINGING, and REPERTOIRE. Lessons given at West-End and City Studios. Address, 142, Stroud Green Road, N.

ARTHUR T. FROGGATT, Mus.D., T.C.D., gives

LESSONS by POST, and prepares for all genuine examinations. 2, Hampden Villas, Hylth.

MR. HAYDN GROVER, Alto Specialist, Temple

Church, London; also Director of Choir and Organist, St. John's Church, Clapham Rise. At liberty for FESTIVALS, CONCERTS, RECITALS. Entire programmes provided. ORGAN, SINGING, and PIANOFORTE LESSONS given.

Address, 33, Rathbone Place, W.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc., Dunelm.

F.R.C.O., is now making a SPECIALITY of PREPARING CANDIDATES by CORRESPONDENCE for University, Royal College of Organists, and other musical Exams. LARGE NUMBER of PAST SUCCESSES. Moderate terms. PERSONAL LESSONS in THEORY and ORGAN (for R.C.O. exams.) are given either at Streatham or in London. 52, Buckleigh Road, Streatham, S.W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O.,

L.Mus.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and PREPARES CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Latest successes: Mus. Bac., Oxford and Durham, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M. F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., &c. Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY, Mus.D., Oxon., 13, Roseleigh Avenue, Highbury, N., continues to PREPARE CANDIDATES for the various Theoretical Examinations. Music of any description revised or arranged. LESSONS in COMPOSITION, by post if desired.

DR. ATHELSTAN G. IGGULDEN, Mus. Doc. (Dunelm), F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS and prepares for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by post. The Dingle, Reigate, Surrey.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM and ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1903; OXFORD FIRST MUS. BAC., 1903; ASSOCIATED BOARD, Senior Harmony (Honours), Counterpoint, 1903; DURHAM, 1902, 1901, 1900, and all previous years; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1902; OXFORD MUS. BAC., 1902, 1901, &c.; L.R.A.M. (Composition and Piano-forte), 1902, 1901, &c.; A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, Composition and Piano-forte Teaching); CAMBRIDGE and DUBLIN, MUS. BAC.; L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M.; L.T.C.L., A.T.C.L., and Special Certificates, 1903, 1902, &c. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Terms moderate. MSS. corrected for publication.

Analyses of Classical Works for Examinations.
70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

DR. MARCHANT, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Author of "500 Fugue Subjects and Answers," Novello's Primers, No. 35), &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Musical Examinations by Post. 10, Glebe Crescent, Stirling, N.B.

MR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus.B., F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., makes a SPECIALITY of COACHING for DEGREES. L.R.A.M., 1897-1903, FORTY-ONE SUCCESSSES; A.R.C.M., 1897-1903, ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTEEN SUCCESSSES. Equally good results in R.C.O. and other Examinations. Address, Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS gives LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION and SINGING, at 60, Berners Street, W., and 45, Pentonville Road, N.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond.; Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., Personally or by Correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and all other Examinations. Classes. 25, Palliser Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. EDMUND ROGERS REVISES MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS. 45, Alma Square, St. John's Wood, N.W.

DR. TAYLOR, F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L., gives LESSONS, and Prepares for bona fide Musical Examinations, personally or (Theory) by Post. Eastgate House, Stafford.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac. (Durham, 1892); L.Mus.T.C.L. (1888). COACHES for EXAMS. Prospectus, &c., 58, Comiston Road, Edinburgh.

MR. PERCY WOOD, F.R.C.O., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. by post, and Prepares for Examinations. Terms, £1 ts. for ten lessons. 60, Crownhill Rd., Harlesden, N.W.

TRAINING OF TENORS.—MR. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS at his residence and at the West-End. For terms, &c., address, 11, Grazebrook Road, Stoke Newington, N. The principles on which MR. DAVIDSON PALMER'S METHOD is based are explained in his pamphlet, "The Tenor Voice and Its Training." Price 1s., post-free, from the AUTHOR, at the above address; or from JOSEPH WILLIAMS, Ltd., 32, Great Portland Street, W.

SCORING for Large or Small Orchestras, ARRANGING, TRANSPOSING, COPYING, &c. Works Lithographed. WM. LANE FROST, Avonley, Hatcham Park, S.E.

CONDUCTOR (experienced), Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., with good critiques, will undertake Musical Direction of a prosperous Choral or Orchestral Society in or near London. Small honorarium. S.F.Z., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

PROFESSIONAL PUPIL WANTED, by Par. Ch. Org. and C. M. (1 ond. and Leip. qual.). 3-man. org., hydraulic. Two Churches. C. G. Thomas, Music School, Elland, Yorks.

RESIDENT PUPIL.—MR. H. A. JEBOULT, F.R.C.O., A.R.C.M., has a VACANCY. Preparation for Profession. Fine organ, Cathedral Services, comfortable home. Moderate fees, no premium. Successes, 1903: A.R.C.O. (3), F.R.C.O. (1). Postal work undertaken. 1, Birch Grove, Taunton.

MR. A. T. LEE ASHTON, Organist and Choir-master, St. Paul's Church, Music Master in Fettes College, &c., requires PUPIL-ASSISTANT, able to undertake Organist's duties in Mission Church, for which small stipend is given. 2, Bellevue Terrace, Edinburgh.

THE ORGANIST of Winchester Cathedral has VACANCY for ARTICLED PUPIL. Mr. W. Prendergast, Mus. Bac., Oxon., The Close, Winchester.

TWO CHORAL SCHOLARSHIPS (value £100 per annum each) are offered at ST. GEORGE'S SCHOOL, Ascot. The school is for the sons of gentlemen, and is preparatory for Eton and the Great Public Schools. Candidates must have promising voices and should be between the ages of 10 and 12. Successful candidates may enter the school at once, and will receive all the educational advantages of those who are not choral scholars. Apply to Miss J. Barrett Handley, A.R.C.O., 17, North Road, Hertford, Herts.

HARPENDEN, Herts.—St. George's School. Head Master, Rev R. H. Wix, M.A. Fees, £60 & £50 Reduction to boys with good voices. Private chapel. Organist, Mr. J. Farrant, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Large buildings and grounds. Very healthy and bracing place.

SCHOLARSHIP OFFERED musical BOY about 14, at Atherstone School, Warwickshire. For particulars, apply, The Rev. the Headmaster.

WANTED, SOLO BOY, for St. Peter's, Great Windmill Street. £10 per annum. Apply, A. Birch, 28, Birch Grove, Acton.

SOPRANO and BASS WANTED, for Heath Street Chapel, Hampstead. Salary, £15. Apply, 1y letter, to S. R. H., 76, Cannon Hill, West Hampstead, N.W.

ALTO and TENOR WANTED, at once, for St. Mark's, Lewisham. Salary, £15 each. Apply, Lewis Thomas, A.R.A.M., Organist and Chirchmaster.

GROSVENOR CHAPEL, South Audley Street, W. ALTO and BASS WANTED, £10. Apply by letter to Organist.

BASS (£20 a year—good reader, full Bass) and TREBLE (£12 a year—good reader) WANTED, for R.C. Parish Church. Apply, G. Heneage, 45, Wimbledon Hill.

ALTO wishes to join Professional Male-Voice QUARTET. C., 65, Cricketfield Road, Clapton, N.E.

DISENGAGED in September. ALTO. For references, &c., apply, Mr. E. W. Chambers, 136, Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

KIDDERMINSTER PARISH CHURCH.—ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, Jan. 1, 1904, a pension having been granted to retiring organist, after 35 years' service. Commencing salary will be £60. Applications, with testimonials, to be sent on or before Sept. 19, to Rev. Sidney Phillips, Vicarage, Kidderminster.

ORGANIST WANTED, at Michaelmas, for St. Swinith's Church, Cannon Street, E.C. Stipend, £50 per ann. Applications, with three testimonials, to be addressed to "Rector and Churchwardens," 91, Cannon Street, E.C.

ORGANIST REQUIRED, for Brixton Independent Church, London (Rev. Bernard J. Snell). Three-manual Organ (WILLIS). Liturgical service; mixed choir. Sunday services and weekly practice; no week-night service. Salary, about £70. Apply by letter, with testimonials, to Church Secretary, 67, Tulse Hill, S.W.

WANTED, experienced ORGANIST and CHOIR-MASTER for the Cong. Church, Wellingborough. Salary, £50 per ann. Duties to begin Jan. 1, 1904. Send testimonials and write for particulars to G. H. Woolston, 32, Hatton Park Rd., Wellingborough.

TRINITY CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, Walthamstow.—WANTED, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (Noncon.). £40. R. H. Mitchell, 20, West Avenue Rd., Walthamstow.

ORGANIST (Lady), thorough musician (Gregorian), desires ORGANIST or ASSISTANT'S PLACE, in or near London. Capable Piano-forte and Solfege teacher, Method Paris Conservatoire. Address, Miss Ritz, 37, Penywern Road, Earl's Court, London.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER desires APPOINTMENT (Mus. Bac.). Experienced; successful Choir Trainer. Excellent testimonials. Alpha, c/o Saward, Baker & Co., 188, Strand, W.C.

CHOIR EXCHANGE.—CHURCH POSITIONS secured for Organists and Singers in the United States and Canada. ORGANISTS WANTED, for several positions in various parts of the States, on or before November 1, 1903. Salaries $300 to $600. Also CHOIRMASTER, for Methodist Church, with Vocal Professorship of Conservatory attached. Remuneration: $500 for Church, and $1,000 at least for Teaching. Write for Registration Terms. MUSIC PUBLISHING AGENCY.—Publishers found for Composers' Manuscripts. Write The John E. Webster Company, 5, East 14th Street, New York, for Terms.

EVERY ORGANIST should send for DINHAM, BLYTH & CO.'S Specimens and Price List (free) for Lithographing Anthems, Kyries, Hymn Tunes, &c., from twenty-four Copies and upwards. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

A LARGE BOX of Orchestral Society's surplus MUSIC, 50s. List: 4 dozen Flute and Piano Duets and Trios, 15s.; Haydn, 66 String Quartets, 20s.; Chamber Music, Symphonies (Reissiger, Beethoven, Mozart), 18 volumes, 30s. Studio, 12, Gipsy Hill, London.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

(INSTITUTED 1872.)

President: The Right Hon. LORD COLERIDGE, M.A., K.C.
Warden: E. H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

SIXTIETH HALF-YEARLY HIGHER EXAMINATIONS.

List of Candidates who were successful at the Examinations recently held. The Distribution, by the Warden, took place on July 30 last.

LICENTIATES IN MUSIC.

Edgar Beck Slinn, F.R.C.O., *H. Wharton Wells, F.R.C.O., *Flora Louise Willoughby.

ASSOCIATES IN MUSIC.

Nora Beatrice Baldwin, Margaret Christie, Freda Mabel Vivian Dunstan, Elsie Marion Eastman, Wilson Manhire, Daisy Marsh, Minnie Snowdrop Moore, Fortescue William Thomas Rowley, Thomas Church Saxby, Helena Beatrice Stearn, Eileen Weekes.

MATRICULATION.

HONOURS.—Elsie Marion Eastman, Daisy Marsh, Margaret Emily Thomas, Ethel Mary Woodroffe. PASS.—Edgar Beck Slinn, Julia Mary Thompson, Henry Alfred Wellard, Jennie M. Woodward.

LICENTIATES.

PIANOFORTE.—*Grace Lyall Fraser, *Blanche Louise Thorn, Marguerite Tilbury, *Flora Louise Willoughby, *Maud Agnes Winter.

SINGING.—*Edith Whitecombe.

VIOLIN.—Frank Williams Greenfield.

ORGAN.—Ralph Richardson Jones, F.R.C.O.

ASSOCIATES.

PIANOFORTE.—*Hilda Mary Adeney, Lillian Hannah Austen, Florence Agnes Jane Black, *Lilian Winifred Butler, Elsie Clegg, Winifred Mary Comerford, Elsie Crabbe, Lillabelle Gibson, Janie Beatrice Giles, *Ethel Kate Hamlin, *George Alfred Harper, *Harriet Eliza Kay, Alfred Edward Kimbell, *Mary Agnes Langdale, Margaret Lapsley, *Beatrice Mary Matlock, Editha Gertrude Millin, Frederick James Lever Mitchell, Theodora Oakes, *Florence Eva Digby O'Neill, Sarah Beatrice Perry, Hilda Geraldine Powell, *Margaret Amy Bambridge Richardson, *Alice Maud Seton, Maud Mary Trodd, Constance Eva Frances Upstone, *Eva Walton, Edith Lillian Wheeler.

SINGING.—Frank Bonner, Marguerite Ethel Boyton, *Alice Hill, Fanny Helena Holland, Amy Grace Tyndale.

VIOLIN.—Léon Jules Fontaine, *Fanny C. Napper.

ORGAN.—John Alfred Copeland.

HIGHER CERTIFICATES.

PIANOFORTE.—Caroline Mary Abraham, Ethel Eliza Anderson, Mary Louise Barnes, Ethel G. F. Barton, Irene Mary Bell, Mary Alice Blundell, Edith May Priscilla Britton, Margaret Bowman Bryant, Maud Hester Burrell, Ernestine Helen Castellaian, Daisie Collins, Monica Jane Clough, Lillian Edith Cooke, Alice Lena Copping, Margaret Elizabeth Cox, Ida May Cullen, Ethel Eveline Eden, Ivor Arthur Edmunds, Edith Maud Ereat, Stanley Ewart Evens, Frances Ethel Faull, Ethel Blanche Gillett, Edith Gilliard, Edith Alberta Hadden, Geraldine Louise Hamilton, Emily Harris, Lisette Matilda Hauser, Ada Helene Hayes, Nellie Henderson, Ada Blanche Highman, Annie Hunt, Katherine Annie Jepson, Margaret Mabel Jessie Lee, Edith Sarah Llewellyn, May Mackley, Edith Maude, Katie Duff Morrison McHutchon, Alice Mead, Catherine Norman, Berthe Paschoud, Louisa Mary Perkins, Trotaline Phillips, Mary Rees, Emmeline M. Robertson, Ethel Alice Rowland, Cicely Rosine Ryedale, Olive Winifred Samway, Edith Mary Saunders, Carrie Clarke Shrimpton, Ethel Amy Slaney, Thomas Smith, James Stott, Ernest Wilson Sutherland, Annie Treasure, Alletha Truscott, Emily Exudier Turner, Lizzie W. Walker, Ada Katherine Waller, Annie Mary Walters, Ernest Malcolm Watson, Grace Muriel Whiting, Rees Williams, Marie Louise Wilks, Edith Ruth Wilson, Gertrude Alice Woodall.

SINGING.—Lilian Ethel Batt, Alfred Henry Lunn, Arthur Henry Emmanuel Farey Mayes, Clara Ellen Topham, Mabel E. Trahair, Josephine Bertha Woodrow.

VIOLIN.—Ethel Eunice Waime.

VIOLONCELLO.—Florence Harth.

ORGAN.—Kathleen Laura Hartwell, Joseph Deacon Taylor, Richard John Madden Williams.

HARMONY.—John Waistell, Harry Wakeford.

CHOIR TRAINING.—Edith Alice Yeadell.

QUALIFIED FOR ELECTION TO FELLOWSHIP.—*Robert Walker Robson.

Number of candidates, 285. Total number of passes, 146.

EXAMINERS: G. E. Bambridge, G. H. Betjemann, Henry R. Bird, W. H. Brereton, Hans Brouil, A. E. Drinkwater, M.A., Charles Edwards, A. J. Greenish, Mus.D., Rev. H. G. Bonavia Hunt, Mus.D., C. Warwick Jordan, Mus.D., Haydn Keeton, Mus.D., H. Walmsley Little, Mus.D., A. Mistowski, Mus.B., C. W. Pearce, Mus.D., Bantock Pierpoint, A. Madeley Richardson, M.A., Mus.D., Gordon Saunders, Mus.D., E. H. Turpin, Mus.D., A. H. Walker, B.A., Mus.D., and John Warriner, Mus.D.

* These candidates for Teaching Diplomas have qualified under the new regulations.

By order, SHELEY FISHER, Secretary.
Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL.

EDWARD ELGAR'S THE APOSTLES

(Parts I. and II.)

Will be published early in October by
NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

John Broadwood & Sons'

LIMITED,

NEW SHORT OVERSTRUNG GRAND

105 GUINEAS.

"MULTUM IN PARVO."

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET, LONDON, W.

THE LONDON MUSIC SCHOOL (LONDON ORGAN SCHOOL).

Established 1865.

22, PRINCES STREET, CAVENDISH SQ., W. (Close to Oxford Circus).
Director and Principal: T. H. YORKE TROTTER, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon.

The School is open daily from 9 a.m. till 9 p.m., and provides a THOROUGH EDUCATION for PROFESSIONAL and AMATEUR MUSICIANS. Lessons may begin on any date, and a single subject taken if desired.

PRIVATE LESSONS are given in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition; Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, Violin, Viola, Violoncello, and Double-Bass; all Wind and other Orchestral Instruments; Choir Training, Elocution, and Stage Deportment; Modern Languages, &c. DAY AND EVENING CLASSES are held in Harmony and Counterpoint, Musical Dictation, Quartet and Ensemble Playing, and in Elocution (Mr. Charles Fry) and Modern Languages.

The School has a Full Orchestra, a String Orchestra, and two Choral Classes.

The CONCERT ORGAN and two other three-manual Instruments are available for practice.

Prospectus on application to the Secretary.

No. 61, Novello's Music Primers and Educational Series.

THE VIOLA

BY

BERTHOLD TOURS

EDITED BY ALFRED GIBSON.

"The best of its kind."—Birmingham Daily Post.

Price Two Shillings. Paper boards, 2s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BOSWORTH EDITION.

AN APPRECIATION.

DEAR SIRS—You kindly sent me some specimen copies of new works by EMIL KROSS recently. I am delighted with the same, and shall be pleased to make use of them in my teaching. I take this opportunity of mentioning again how very excellent I find the ŠEVČIK METHOD. I use it very largely.

Yours faithfully,

C. EGERTON LOWE.

NEW VALUABLE MATERIAL FOR VIOLIN STUDENTS.

EMIL KROSS

ALBUM OF STUDIES.

In Three Parts. 1s. 6d. each.

A Selection of rapidly-advancing Studies by the most celebrated Masters (including Spohr, Campagnoli, Kreutzer, Corelli, Fiorillo, Rode), in graded progression, thoroughly revised according to modern technical principles, with directions as to Fingering, and Explanatory Notes.

PRACTICAL TEACHING MATERIAL. FOR SOLO VIOLIN.

In Four Books. 1s. 8d. each.

A Collection of celebrated Solo Pieces of the old and new Masters, revised, bowed, and fingered.

FOR TWO VIOLINS.

In Six Books. 2s. 6d. each.

A progressively-graded Selection from the most approved Duets by celebrated Masters, in five stages, forming a supplement to every Violin Method, and leading up to thorough proficiency in Duet-playing.

BOSWORTH AND CO., 5, PRINCES ST., OXFORD ST., W.
And at LEIPZIG, VIENNA, and PARIS.

*Yours very truly
Vincent Novello.*

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

SEPTEMBER 1, 1903.

VINCENT NOVELLO.

1781-1861.

'Next station, Marble Arch,' is the prosaic utterance of the guard as the 'Twopenny-Tube' train re-starts on its subterranean journey. If the electrically-conveyed traveller desires to seek Hyde Park—as an old map has it—he might alight at the said Marble Arch station. As he liftwise ascends from the depths below to the light of day above, he gives no thought to the house that once stood on that particular spot. Were he to consult the Marylebone rate-books of olden times he would find that the house on the site of which the station now stands was occupied by one Joseph Novello, the father of the subject of this Biographical Sketch.

Francis Vincent Novello—to give his full baptismal name*—was born in the house above referred to on September 6, 1781. He received his second name, by which he was always known, from his godfather, one Vincentio Girotti. Very little is known of Joseph Novello, father of Vincent, except that he was an Italian who married an English lady. His name can be traced for several years in the Marylebone rate-books, referred to above, as residing in the house in Oxford Street near the Marble Arch; but in 1812 the name Joseph is erased in favour of Vincent, though the latter had most probably been the tenant previous to that year. One of the forbears of the family may have been a Ludovico Novello, the composer of 'Mascharate di più sorte et varii soggetti appropriati al Carnevale,' some amusing part-songs published at Venice in 1546.

The first and only teacher of Vincent was a friend of his father's, one Signor Quellici, the composer of some 'Chansons Italiennes.' The boy, who had a very keen ear and delighted in finding out chords on an old pianoforte, was sent, together with an elder brother, to a school near Boulogne-sur-Mer, in order that he might acquire the French language in addition to his naturally-learned English and Italian. On his return to England in 1793, Vincent, aged twelve, sang as a chorister in the Sardinian Embassy Chapel, Lincoln's Inn Fields, of which Samuel Webbe the elder, composer of 'When winds breathe soft,' was the organist. Webbe and John Danby, (organist of the Spanish Embassy Chapel), were among the first to encourage the boy in his study of music. As a mere lad he deputized for both these famous glee composers, and at the early age of sixteen he became organist of the Portuguese Embassy Chapel in South Street, Grosvenor Square, an appointment he held for twenty-five years. His introduction of Reading's 'Adeste Fideles' at South Street greatly popularized that familiar Christmastide melody. The skilful organ accompaniments and choir-training gifts of Vincent Novello became so famous that George IV. offered him the appointment of private organist of the Chapel Royal in the Pavilion, Brighton, an offer which the young organist, owing to the many professional claims upon his time in London, was obliged to decline.

On August 17, 1808, he married Mary Sabilla Hehl. Eleven children were born to them; and of the seven who survived childhood nearly all became distinguished in either art, literature, or music. The eldest daughter, Mary Victoria, married Charles Cowden-Clarke, of whom more anon. A remarkably clever woman and prolific writer, the name of Mrs. Cowden-Clarke will be handed down to posterity as the compiler of the 'Complete Concordance to Shakespeare,' a work—the first of its kind—which occupied her for twelve years. In this connection we quote the following extract from a letter written by Novello to William Bartholomew, dated 'June 18, 1844,' and not hitherto published:—

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES COWDEN-CLARKE.

(From an original drawing by Miss Emma Novello, in the possession of Mr. Alfred H. Littleton.)

Allow me the pleasure of requesting your acceptance of a specimen of the curious and elaborate work which my eldest daughter has just completed after more than twelve years' constant application and assiduous perseverance; and I own that I am not a little proud of so extraordinary a task as a complete concordance to Shakespeare having been accomplished by a child of mine; for I consider it to be the finest compliment that has ever yet been offered to the memory of the greatest poet who ever existed, and of whom there is not a more enthusiastic admirer living than myself.

Mrs. Cowden-Clarke edited THE MUSICAL TIMES from 1853 to 1856, and contributed an interesting series of articles to its columns entitled 'Music among the Poets.'

* An elder brother was also named Francis.

The eldest son, Joseph Alfred Novello, named after his grandfather, founded the music-publishing business which bears his name. Edward Petre, the second son, showed great promise as a painter, but he died at the early age of twenty-three. The portrait of his father which forms one of our Special Supplements is reproduced from a painting by him in the possession of Mr. Alfred H. Littleton. The artistic gifts of Miss Emma Novello are shown in the portraits of her sister and brother-in-law which we reproduce in facsimile. Clara, now the Countess Gigliucci, one of the finest of soprano vocalists, by her great talent added to the fame of the family—a fame which Miss Sabilla Novello, by her musical, literary and linguistic gifts, has worthily maintained.

The home-life of the Novello family was particularly delightful. In their small drawing-room in Oxford Street would be welcomed such visitors as Charles and Mary Lamb, Shelley, Keats, Leigh Hunt and Copley Fielding—verily a constellation of geniuses, and all personal friends. The eldest daughter thus charmingly describes one of those informal 'At homes':—

Truly a pleasant sight was that same drawing-room at Oxford Street, when poets, artists, and musicians, friends of the master of the house, met in kindly, lively converse. The walls simply coloured of a delicate rose tint, and hung with a few choice water-colour drawings by Varley, Copley Fielding, Havell, and Cristall (who were also personally known to my father); the floor covered with a plain grey drugget bordered by a tastefully-designed garland of vine-leaves, drawn and embroidered by my mother; towards the centre of the room a sofa-table strewn with books and prints; and at one end, a fine-toned chamber-organ, on which the host preluded and played to his listening friends, when they would have him give them 'such delights, and spare to interpose them off' between the pauses of their animated conversation. Keats, with his picturesque head, leaning against the instrument, one foot raised on his knee and smoothed beneath his hands; Leigh Hunt, with his jet-black hair and expressive mouth; Shelley, with his poet's eyes and brown curls; Lamb with his spare figure and earnest face; all seen by the glow and warmth and brightness of candlelight, when the young musician and his friends assembled in that unostentatious informal fashion which gave zest to professional social intercourse at the then period.

'Dear Charles Lamb' was a special friend and favourite. In his famous 'Chapter on ears' ('Essays of Elia') he thus refers to the pleasant evenings provided by his friends, 'my pleasant-countenanced host and hostess,' as he calls Mr. and Mrs. Novello:—

Novello, who, by the aid of a capital organ, himself the most finished of players, converts his drawing-room into a chapel, his week days into Sundays, and these latter into minor heavens.* When my friend commences upon one of those solemn anthems, which peradventure struck upon my heedless ear, rambling in the side aisles of the dim Abbey, some five-and-thirty years since, waking a new sense, and putting a soul of old religion into my young apprehension,—

(whether it be that, in which the Psalmist, weary of the persecutions of bad men, wisheth to himself dove's wings—or that other which, with a like measure of sobriety and pathos, inquireth by what means the young man shall best cleanse his mind)—a holy calm pervadeth me. I am for the time —rapt above earth,

And possess joys not promised at my birth.*

A quotation from a sonnet by Leigh Hunt makes further reference to the organ-playing of Vincent Novello in his own drawing-room:—

And Vincent, you, who with like mastery
Can chase the notes with fluttering finger-tips,
Like fairies down a hill hurrying their trips,
Or sway the organ with firm royalty.

A note from Charles Lamb to his friend George Dyer, the antiquary and scholar, shows the affectionate regard of the genial author for his musical friend. He wrote:—

DEAR DYER,

My very good friend and Charles Clarke's father-in-law, Vincent Novello, wishes to shake hands with you. Make him play you a tune. He is a — fine musician, and what is better, a good man and true.

Yours ever,
Enfield. C. LAMB.

The exquisite fooling of 'Elia' comes out in the following impromptu lines which he wrote in Vincent Novello's Album. The reader must bear in mind that Charles Lamb was one of the most unmusical of men, and that his knowledge of composers' names and technical terms was 'picked up' during his intercourse with his musical friend:—

FREE THOUGHTS ON SOME EMINENT COMPOSERS.

Some cry up Haydn, some Mozart,
Just as the whim bites. For my part,
I do not care one farthing candle
For either of them, nor for Handel.
Cannot a man live free and easy
Without admiring Pergolesi?
Or through the world with comfort go
That never heard of Dr. Blow?
So help me God, I hardly have;
And yet I eat, and drink, and shave,
Like other people, if you watch it,
And know no more of stave or crotchet
Than did the primitive Peruvians,
Or those old ante-queer-Diluvians,
That lived in the unwashed world with Tubal,
Before that dirty blacksmith, Jubal,
By strokes on anvil, or by summ'at
Found out, to his great surprise, the Gamut.
I care no more for Cimarosa
Than he did for Salvator Rosa,
Being no painter: and bad luck
Be mine, if I can bear that Gluck.
Old Tycho Brahe, and modern Herschel
Had something in 'em; but who's Purcell?
The devil with his foot so cloven,
For aught I care, may take Beethoven;
And if the bargain does not suit,
I'll throw him Weber in to boot.
There's not the splitting of a splinter
To choose 'twixt him last-named, and Winter.
Of Doctor Pepusch old Queen Dido
Knows just as much, God knows, as I do.

* Slightly altered from Isaak Walton's 'The Compleat Angler,' Part I., where it reads:—

'I was for that time lifted above earth
And possess joys not promis'd in my birth.'

* 'I have been there, and still would go;
'Tis like a little heaven below.'—Dr. Watts.

I would not go four miles to visit
 Sebastian Bach—or Batch—which is it?
 No more I would for Bononcini.
 As for Novello and Rossini,
 I shall not say a word to grieve 'em,
 Because they're living. So I leave 'em.

C. Lamb.

On the same page Mary Lamb has added the following:—

The reason why my brother's so severe;
 Vincentio is—my brother has no ear;
 And Caradori her mellifluous throat
 Might stretch in vain to make him learn a note.
 Of common tunes he knows not anything,
 Nor 'Rule, Britannia' from 'God save the King.'
 He rail at Handel! He the gamut quiz!
 I'd lay my life he knows not what it is.
 His spite at music is a pretty whim—
 He loves not it, because it loves not him,

M. Lamb.

To return to Novello's musical activities. In 1811 he became a member of the Royal Society of Musicians. As one of the junior members he played the viola at the Society's performances when called upon to do so. In the same year (1811) he issued his first publication, in two folio volumes, bearing the following title:—

A Collection of | SACRED MUSIC, | as Performed at the | Royal Portuguese Chapel | in London, | composed, selected & arranged | with a separate accompaniment for | the organ or Piano Forte | and dedicated to his friend | the Revd. W. V. Fryer | by
 V. NOVELLO, | Organist to the Portuguese Embassy.
 London : Published by Phipps & Co., Duke Street, Grosvenor Square.*

No fewer than 471 copies were subscribed for, the list of subscribers being headed by the Duke of Kent and four other Royal Highnesses, and including the leading musicians of the day. The expense of engraving these volumes was borne by Novello himself out of his hard earnings as a busy professional man. No music publisher would undertake the risk, so he himself courageously became his own publisher. In this way, ninety-two years ago, was laid the foundation of the house of Novello and Company.

The following extract from the Preface of this 'Collection of Sacred Music'—dated 'Oxford Street, May, 1811'—reads strangely at this time of day:—

It was suggested that it would be better to publish all the Vocal Parts (except the Base) in the Treble Clef, but as I consider this practice as an innovation, I was unwilling to afford an additional example of an erroneous custom that has already become but too prevalent. The Treble Clef when applied to the Counter Tenor and Tenor parts, does not indicate the real or true notes that are required to be sung. The C clef does, and I trust therefore that no Apology is necessary on my part for preferring Truth to Falsehood, or that which is proper, to that which is improper.

The soprano, alto, and tenor clefs are used throughout the work, even in the solos.

One of Novello's intimates was Samuel Wesley, and the two friends made much music together in the organ loft at South Street and elsewhere. 'Novello and myself,' records Wesley, 'were much in the habit of playing many of Bach's fugues at the Chapel in South Street as voluntaries after the morning service.' The year 1811 is the earliest date of the many highly amusing letters written by 'Old Sam' to Novello, and presented by the latter to the British Museum. One of these begins: 'Doctor Know-well-o.' The following, dated 1812, may be quoted in full:—

DEAR N.

The necessity of shaving, dressing, and some of the other 'Blessings of this Life,' prevent my coming to South Street this eve, as otherwise I should, but I shall certainly be with you on Wednesday morning, Deo Volente.

You remember the Parish Clerk's Psalm of his own composing, upon the arrival of King William, after James's shabby runaway trick.

Britons rejoice! I say rejoice!

King William has come:

Therefore sing we, with Heart and Voice

The Hymn that's called TE DUM.

S. W.

At the founding of the Philharmonic Society, in 1813, Novello became one of its original thirty members. The year 1816 saw the issue of 'Twelve easy Masses, calculated for small choirs,' and in 1822 'The Evening Service . . . including the Gregorian Hymns,' was published for the Editor, No. 8, Percy Street, Bedford Square, whither he had removed from Oxford Street in or about 1820.

The editing and antiquarian zeal of Vincent Novello found its full opportunity at the Fitzwilliam Library, Cambridge.* Towards the end of 1824 the Senate of the University passed a Grace by which a Syndicate was nominated and authorized to report upon the musical manuscripts contained in the Fitzwilliam collection, and to suggest some mode of publication, should such a course appear to be desirable. Upon hearing of this, Novello wrote to the Syndicate offering his services and experience in any way the University might think proper to use and employ them. The Syndicate at first requested him to examine the manuscripts and give his opinion of the quality of the music, as well as of the several methods of publication. This he did, and as Dr. Clarke-Whitfield, Professor of music at the University, declined to undertake the responsibility of publication, the Syndicate recommended to the Senate that permission should be granted to Vincent Novello to publish such parts as he should select. The Senate adopted this recommendation, and the result was the issue of an important work entitled:—

THE FITZWILLIAM MUSIC | being | a Collection of | Sacred pieces | selected from Manuscripts of |
 Italian composers | in the | Fitzwilliam Museum, |
 Now for the first time published by permission | of the | University of Cambridge, | by | VINCENT
 NOVELLO, | Organist to the Portuguese Embassy.

London : Published for the Editor, Shacklewell Green, near Kingsland.

* The name of Messrs. Phipps & Co. appears in the tiniest of type on the title-page; therefore they may be regarded as the distributors of the book rather than as the actual publishers thereof.

* An illustrated article on the Fitzwilliam Museum and its treasures appeared in THE MUSICAL TIMES of March and April, 1903.

'The Fitzwilliam Music,' which appeared in five volumes, was 'gratefully and respectfully dedicated, by their permission, to H.R.H. the Duke of Gloucester, K.G., &c., Chancellor, to the Vice-Chancellor and scholars of the University of Cambridge.' Novello had to make several journeys—by coach, of course, and at his own expense of time and money—to Cambridge in the carrying out of his self-imposed but congenial task. He copied the pieces with his own hand, as the manuscripts were not allowed to be removed from the library; moreover, he transcribed sufficient extracts to make ten volumes in excess of the five that were printed! In the preface to vol. i.—dated 'Shacklewell Green, December, 1825'—he says that 'he has used his best endeavours to render the work worthy of those great Masters whom he has mentioned, of the Nobleman [Lord Fitzwilliam] by whom their compositions have been collected, and of the University by whose permission it is now made public.'

The loss of a favourite boy, Sydney, so affected his health, that the family removed from London to Shacklewell Green, then in the country, as the hard-worked musician thought that country walks, with cessation from the late hours and social gatherings attendant upon town life, would speedily restore his exhausted condition. Charles Lamb, who visited his old friends in their rural retreat, wrote to Leigh Hunt as follows:—

I was with the Novellos last week. They have a large, cheap house and garden, with a dainty library (magnificent) without books; but what will make you bless yourself (I am too old for wonder), something has touched the right organ in Vincentio at last. He attends a Wesleyan chapel on Kingsland Green. He at first tried to laugh it off; he only went for the singing; but the cloven foot—I retract—the lamb's trotters are at length apparent.

Another letter from him to Novello, whom he playfully addresses as 'Corelli,' may be quoted:—

Colebrooke, Tuesd^y.

[Post-mark, Jan. 25, 1825.]

DEAR CORELLI,

My sister's cold is as obstinate as an old Handelian, whom a modern amateur is trying to convert to Mozart-ism. As company must, & alway does injure it, Emma and I propose to come to you in the evening of to-morrow, instead of meeting here. An early bread & cheese supper at $\frac{1}{2}$ -past eight will oblige us. Loves to the bearer of many children.

C. LAMB.

I sign with a black seal that you may [begin] to think, her cold has killed Mary, which will be an agreeable surprise when you read the note.

(Addressed) V. Novello, Esq., Green, Shacklewell.

A great event in the happy family life was the marriage of the eldest daughter of the house, Mary Victoria, to Charles Cowden-Clarke, which took place at Bloomsbury Church, July 5, 1828. Cowden-Clarke had long been a welcome guest in the distinguished literary circle that met under the Novello roof. His father kept a school at Enfield, one of the pupils being John Keats, then a child of six or seven years. Cowden-Clarke taught the little fellow almost his first letters, and the poet has immortalized this his early teacher in his 'Epistle to Charles Cowden-Clarke.' In this poem Keats says that he (Cowden-Clarke) 'first taught me all the sweets of song.' He then makes a pleasant reference to the homely music-makings held at the house of the Novellos in these words:—

But many days have passed since last my heart
Was warm'd luxuriously by divine Mozart;
By Arne delighted, or by Handel madden'd;
Or by the song of Erin pierc'd and sadden'd;
What time you were before the music sitting,
And the rich notes to each sensation fitting.

and concludes the poem—which is dated 'September, 1816'—with the following affectionate lines:—

I have wish'd you joys
That well you know to honor:—'Life's very toys
'With him,' said I, 'will take a pleasant charm;
'It cannot be that ought will work him harm.'
These thoughts now come o'er me with all their might:—
Again I shake your hand,—friend Charles, good night.

The honeymoon of the Cowden-Clarks was spent at Enfield, at the rural hostelry called 'The Greyhound,' which is not now in existence. Charles Lamb, who was living at Enfield at the time, wrote to the bridegroom to this effect: 'The autumn leaves drop gold, and Enfield is beautiful—to a common eye—than when you lurked at the Greyhound. Benedicks are close; but how I so totally missed you at that time, going for my morning cup of ale duly, is a mystery. 'Twas stealing a match before one's face in earnest. But certainly we had not a dream of your appropinquity. . . . The wedding was very pleasant news to me indeed.' Later in the year Lamb wrote to the bride's father in his own inimitable manner:—

[Enfield, November 6, 1828.]

MY DEAR NOVELLO,

I am afraid I shall appear rather tardy in offering my congratulations, however sincere, upon your daughter's marriage. The truth is I had put together a little Serenata upon the occasion, but was prevented from sending it by my sister, to whose judgment I am apt to defer too much in these kind of things; so that, now I have her consent, the offering, I am afraid, will have lost the grace of seasonableness. Such as it is, I send it. She thinks it a little too old-fashioned in the manner, too much like what they wrote a century back. But I cannot write in the modern style, if I try ever so hard.

I have attended to the proper divisions for the music, and you will have little difficulty in composing it. If I may advise, make Pepusch your model, or Blow.

'Pepusch or Blow,' or any other composers were all the same to Charles Lamb, he had merely caught up those names from Novello. 'The offering' referred to was entitled:—

SERENATA, FOR TWO VOICES.

On the marriage of Charles Cowden-Clarke, Esqre., to Victoria, eldest daughter of Vincent Novello, Esqre.

The Serenata contained the following stanza:—

AIR.

The list'ning Muses all around her,
Think 'tis Phœbus' strain they hear;
And Cupid, drawing near to wound her,
Drops his bow, and stands to hear.

To continue Lamb's letter to his friend :—

To so great a master as yourself I have no need to suggest that the peculiar tone of the composition requires sprightliness, occasionally checked by tenderness, as in the second air—

She smiles,—she yields,—she loves.

Again, you need not be told that each fifth line of the two first recitatives requires a crescendo.

And your exquisite taste will prevent your falling into the error of Purcell, who at a passage similar to that in my first air,

Drops his bow, and stands to hear, directed the first violin thus :—

Here the first violin must drop his bow.

But besides the absurdity of disarming his principal performer of so necessary an adjunct to his instrument, in such an emphatic part of the composition too, which must have had a droll effect at the time, all such minutiae of adaptation are at this time of day very properly exploded, and Jackson of Exeter very fairly ranks them under the head of puns.

Should you succeed in the setting of it, we propose having it performed (we have one very tolerable second voice here, and Mr. Holmes,* I dare say, would supply minor parts) at the Greyhound. But it must be a secret to the young couple till we can get the band in readiness.

Believe me, dear Novello, yours truly,

C. LAMB.

It is hardly necessary to remind the reader that Lamb knew absolutely nothing about how music should be composed or performed; therefore his humour, which extended beyond the inevitable pun, is delicious in its subtleness. Here for the present we must leave him and his dear friend Vincent Novello.

F. G. E.

(To be continued.)

* Edward Holmes, a schoolfellow of Keats, and the most distinguished pupil of Vincent Novello. He is the author of an excellent 'Life' of Mozart, and other musical-literary works of merit.

A FAMOUS CITY CHURCH:

ST. GILES, CRIPPLEGATE.

'The City,' as it is colloquially called, is Business with a capital B; sentiment does not pay, therefore sentiment gets no capital. The men—and the women too—who in their thousands pour into the City day by day, come to regard it from the 'getting a living' point of John Foxe, the martyrologist, Sir Martin Frobisher, and John Milton. Let me then invite the reader to accompany me to this sanctuary in a former suburb of London, in the hope that a good dividend of varied interest may result from the time thus invested.

view; their 'daily round' in it is more or less a mere 'grind' to bring grist to the mill, or to keep body and soul together. But here and there, in the midst of that whirlpool of commerce, are to be found quiet resting-places rich in association with the bygone past. Such an one is the church of St. Giles, Cripplegate, at which Oliver Cromwell was married, and wherein rest the remains of Standing in the churchyard—with its greenest of green grass and flowers of brightest hue—we notice a mass of old masonry, as shown in the photograph on p. 587. This is the remains of a Roman bastion, without the city wall, the last of its kind. An excavation has revealed a curious oval-shaped subterranean passage, running northwards from the bastion in the direction of Barbican, and south-east towards the City, and under the ancient Creplegate. The passage, which passed beneath the ditch (or moat) was probably a secret means of communication between the authorities within the City and the military outpost (a fort) at Barbican. This mysterious subway—not a drain, sewer, or conduit—furnishes the true derivation of the word Cripplegate. It is not, as is popularly supposed, the gate of the City at which cripples were wont to congregate and beg; the term is derived from the Anglo-Saxon crepel, or crypele, an underground way; and gat, or geat, a gate, or street. The section of Aggas's Map of London (1556) given on page 581 shows the old-time even shops, built close against, or into their very walls. So at St. Giles. On the north side, with frontages to Fore Street, there stood for at least 250 years a block of buildings known as the Quest House and 'Ye Four shoppes.' Not only did these erections block up two of the original windows of the church, but they marred the architectural features of the sacred edifice. (See the subjoined illustration.) It appears that in the year 1654 the Vestry, being without funds wherewith to clothe poor children, built 'Ye Four shoppes' on churchyard ground, with the result that from the first rentals, received at Allhallowtide, 1657, they were able to provide forty children with 'gray shuites and coates'!

THE QUEST HOUSE AND 'YE FOUR SHOPPES.'

(From an old print.)

location of the church, the ditch (or moat), the City wall, and the Creplegate. This bastion link with the long ago of Roman times is a specially interesting feature of a most beautifully kept God's Acre in the heart of the City.

Crowder's well—from which Well Street, where the Vicarage stands, derives its name—occupied a place in the churchyard. The well—doubtless a contributory cause to the plague epidemics—was arched over by Sir Richard Whittington, and Strype, in his edition of Stow, quaintly says:—

The waters of this well are esteemed very good for sore eyes, to wash them with, and is said to be also very good to drink for several distempers, and some say it is very good for men in drink to take this water, for it will allay the fumes and bring them to be sober.

Many churches have had their external appearance spoilt by the erection of houses, and 'Ye Four shoppes' and the Quest House have now happily disappeared for ever, as the ground has quite recently been acquired by the Corporation of London for the purpose of widening Fore Street.

It is difficult to realize that the ground just outside the City wall—that is beyond the present thoroughfare called London Wall—was little better than a swamp. The moat, or ditch, surrounding the City wall at Cripplegate was known as Moor-ditch. We learn that it 'opened to an unwholesome and impassable morass, consequently not frequented by the citizens like other suburban fields which were remarkably pleasant, and the fashionable places of resort.' Shakespeare refers to it in King Henry IV., Part I., Act I., Scene 2:—

Prince Henry.—What say'st thou to a hare, or the melancholy of Moor-ditch?

The Church of St. Giles, Cripplegate.

(Photo by Mr. A. T. Ward, Cripplegate Institute.)

No wonder that the ditch contributed to the melancholy ravages of the plague in various years. In 1603 there were 2,879 burials in the parish; in 1625, 3,570; in 1636, 2,491; in 1641, 1,650; and so on, culminating in the terrible year of 1665, when nearly 8,000 interments took place in the Pest House Burying-ground, or in the churchyard of this one parish. As 180 bodies were buried within the church during that year, George Day well earned the twelve shillings paid to him by the churchwardens 'for carrying rubbish to lay under the pews' in order to prevent the smell from becoming too offensive! No one could object to the following charges for deodorization:—

	s.	d.
For fire in the Quest House and frankincense in the Church	4	6
For pitch, rozin and frankincense	1	6
For Rosemary, Bayes, Holly and Ivy	6	8

It is not surprising to find that the Vestry gave orders 'to raise the lower part of the churchyard 2 feet higher with earth'; and one has only to turn over the pages of the Burial register for the month of August, 1665, to form some idea of the ghastly results of the plague, as in that one month alone and in this single parish, the interments numbered 3,556!

In considering the church itself there is no need to dig down to the foundations of its history. Whether the first building was erected in 1030 or in 1099, or whether it was rebuilt in 1357, is not of supreme importance. The 'second' church is said to have been destroyed by fire in the year 1544, according to an account contained in a manuscript at the British Museum:—

The xij day of September, Satterday, in ye mornynge, a boutte five of the klokke, was Saynt Jylis church burnd, belles and alle, w^oute Creppile gate.

It is supposed however that this record refers to a partial burning of the sacred edifice. The church was perilously near being swallowed up in the flames of the Great Fire of 1666. The Rev. Samuel Rolle, in his 'The burning of London in the year 1666, commemorated and improved in a CX Discourses, Meditations and Contemplations' (1667), says:—

I was no eye-witness, but I have been informed, that when the Fire came near to Cripplegate His Majesty [Charles II.], being then and there present, did, in His own Person, take great Pains (no less, as was told, than if He had been a poor Labourer) to promote the extinction of it.

The parish engine got very much out of repair—and no wonder—in aiding to extinguish the Great Fire of London. We learn that in September, 1666, the Vestry ordered—

That the Engine be forthwith mended and kept in good repair; and that a rate be made for mending the Engine, Bucketts, and Hookes.

The church had a very narrow escape in the great Cripplegate fire of November, 1897. The roof, indeed, suffered severely, and the roof of the vicarage was almost completely destroyed, but fortunately no further damage was done.

As this fine old church—one of London's most precious monuments—is now isolated from all surrounding buildings, less anxiety need be felt for its safety from the perils of a conflagration.

'A very fair and large church' is Stow's description of St. Giles, Cripplegate. Its external architecture can best be judged from the photograph on page 583. In 1682 the tower was heightened by the addition of fifteen feet of red brick-work surmounted by what has been described as 'a low cupola ending in a pinnacle, with, at the angles, corresponding cupolas of a smaller size. Upon the platform is a raised circular arcade of wood covered with a low pyramidal roof forming an open turret.' This upper part of the tower and turret of 1682 has never been altered, and with the exception of small repairs, is now in precisely the same form as when first built.

The interior of the church has some singular features in regard to proportion—the nave is four feet longer on the north side than on the south, while the chancel is longer on the south side than on the north, perhaps by way of adjustment. In 1649 there were two fonts in the church—one 'a greate old stone font lined with lead' for the purpose of total immersion; the other 'a small christening font,' both of which were removed, but in 1662 the lesser font was 'sett uppe in the owld place.' A remarkable feature of the interior, and one that is singularly quaint in a Gothic building, is the cherubic oval window above the reredos. This was erected in February, 1791, when the Vestry ordered—

That a glory and cherubs in stained glass be put in the window over the altar to cost 250 guineas.

At the same time the King's Arms, six feet wide, were ordered to be 'carved and gilt' and placed in the church at a cost of £22. Among other quaint items of expenditure in the accounts is one in 1657: 'For beere and sugar for the Minister in the Vestry, 2s.'; and in 1758 it was 'Ordered: That a new Umbrella be bought for the use of the Church, and the expence thereof allowed the Churchwardens in their accounts.'

The church has evidently suffered much at the hands of various restorers, perhaps in an over-zeal for decency and order; but reverent care is now bestowed on the building and its services. Mention must be made of an altar and reredos that was removed in 1901 from the church (now demolished) of St. Bartholomew, Moor Lane. This fine specimen of carved work has found a fitting place in the north aisle of St. Giles's Church, now the chapel in which the daily services are held.

The monuments in the church are extremely interesting by reason of the names of the illustrious men who are buried within its walls. The oldest bears the date 1575; but in former days the church was full of carved heraldic arms, affording evidence of the aristocracy and people of rank who had town houses in Cripplegate. Here it may be mentioned that the parish contains the famous Grub Street, though it is now named Milton Street; moreover, at the end of the 16th century no fewer than forty minstrels lived in Cripplegate. The proximity of the Fortune and the Red Bull playhouses may have caused these makers of music to reside there. To return to the monuments. The epitaph collector may be interested in the following curious duet specimen, formerly on the tomb of a Mrs. Pawson, and thus recorded in a manuscript in the Bodleian Library:—

For the Clarke's wife, of the parish, in the middle aisle before the pulpit in a faire brass monument is the wrighten:—

Body—I Mary Pawson lye below sleeping
Soul—I Mary Pawson sitte above waking
Both—We hope to meet again with glory clothed.
Then Mary Pawson for ever more blessed.

She lived 70 years and dyed 1599.

One of the quaintest of monuments is that to Constance Whitney, a lady who departed this life in 1628. As shown in our illustration, it represents a lady in her grave clothes rising from her coffin, and with hands outstretched receiving from a cherub on each side a crown and a chaplet, emblematical of the Resurrection. But a legendary explanation is that this monument 'represents a woman awakening from a trance, into which she had fallen, and in which state she had been buried. The sexton, in his desire to possess himself of a valuable ring she wore, cut her finger in order to obtain possession of it; in so doing he awakened the lady and thereby saved her from a horrible death.' It is further stated that she returned home to her husband and became the mother of several children. A very pretty story. But as the lady departed this life at the age of seventeen, the truth, especially the maternal part, of the legend may be accepted according to the reader's credulity.

Taking the chief monuments in chronological order, the first is that to John Foxe, the Martyrologist, who resided in Grub Street and who is buried in the chancel. The entry thus records his interment on April 20, 1587:—

John Fox, householder, preacher.

The memorial to Sir Martin Frobisher, the great explorer, and of Spanish Armada fame, is modern (1888), but it recalls the fact that his body was buried here, though we are told that 'his entrails' were buried at Plymouth, where he died. The burial of 'the corpse' is entered on January 14, 1594:—

Sr Martyn Furbusher, Knt.

John Speed (died 1629), the great historian and the faithful servant of Queen Elizabeth, King James I. and King Charles I., has a monument of which the chief feature is a half-length bust of the said Mr. Speed, one hand resting on a book, the other on a skull! Richard Smyth (died 1675), the famous antiquary and book collector, is also buried within the church. His 'Obituary' consists of personal recollections of persons known to him between the years 1627 and 1674. A few extracts from this useful book of reference may be given:—

Mar. 19, 1662. — M^{rs} Franklyn in Ropemakers alley—a woman very free of her tongue.

Sept. 1, 1664. — Mr. Brigs in Redcross Street (my pew fellow) died in y^e country.

June 4, 1670. — Mr. Drew, Blacksmith, buried wthout ticketts.

Poor Mr. Drew!

THE MONUMENT TO MISS CONSTANCE WHITNEY.

The most interesting monument in the church of St. Giles, Cripplegate, is, however, that which commemorates one of England's greatest poets, John Milton, whose remains rest in the chancel. His burial is simply yet pathetically recorded in the Register under date November 12, 1674:—

JOHN MILTON, gentleman: Consumption: Chancel.

The poet lived in Artillery Row (close by) when his 'Paradise Lost' was published in 1667. Seven years afterwards 'all his learned and great friends in London, not without a concourse of the vulgar, accompanied his body to the church of St. Giles, near Cripplegate, where he was buried in the chancel.' This interment in itself justifies the designation 'famous' given to this old City sanctuary. John Milton the elder, father of the poet, who died in 1647, is also buried in St. Giles's Church. As one of the most skilled musicians of his day he contributed a six-part madrigal, 'Fayre Oriana in the morne' to 'The Triumphs of Oriana' (1601); likewise four motets to Leighton's 'Teares or Lamentacions of a Sorrowfull Soule' (1614). His musical gifts are celebrated by his son—a worthy son of a worthy father—in a Latin Poem, 'Ad Patrem.'

The Registers of these old City churches—those name-laden tomes—what wonderful records they are! Who can tell how much of joy and of sorrow, how many of life's tragedies, their countless entries represent? The carefully kept Registers of this church—Christenings, Marriages, and Burials—go back to the year 1561, and the volumes containing them are in an excellent state of preservation. From 1561 to 1700 (inclusive) the christening entries number 79,600; marriages 12,140; burials, 127,200! And the statistics of more than a hundred years—1700 to 1803—have yet to be added to these remarkable totals.

The Marriage registers, under date of August 22, 1620, record the nuptial rite of Oliver Cromwell in the following prosaic terms:—

Oliver Crumwell and Elizabeth Boucher, Lyc.

The entry is in the handwriting of the clerk; in those days the contracting parties and witnesses did not sign the registers. The word 'Lyc' in the entry means that the marriage was by license. The great Protector was twenty-one years of age when he led to the altar his bride, a daughter of Sir James Bouchier (not Boucher), one of the many country gentlemen who made Cripplegate their London home. Inconsistencies in the spelling of names abound in old records; even one document may have varieties in the setting forth of a patronymic.

A few additional extracts from the Burial register, in addition to those already given when speaking of the monuments, may here find a place:—

Dec. 13, 1562.—Old Mother Christian.

Mar. 10, 1563.—Old Father Brazier.

Oct. 5, 1563.—Christopher Dorman, Minstrell and Wayte of the Cytie.

Sept. 17, 1596.—Frances Gibbs, a mayde dwelling in the Church Porch.

Oct. 16, 1596.—Gyllymeth, daughter of William Fox, Minstrell.

Oct. 24, 1636.—Zurishaddai and Obadiah, } both sons of Samuel Eaton, } buried together. button maker

Feb. 2, 1638.—Gregory Elinore, button maker, being excommunicated, was buried in the highway.

July 26, 1639.—John Mud clerk als : quaerister of of St. Paules.

Dec. 19, 1649.—Anne daughter of Humphrey Charles sawyer, killed by her mistress by immoderate whipping.

April 7, 1659.—From Abbot a glover in French ally a quaker, will not let it be searched.

One more entry from the Burial register, and one that is of special interest to musicians:—

Feb 14, 1588.—Thomas ye sonne of Thomas Morley, Organist.

Is this a son of the Thomas Morley? It is quite possible. Again: Was Thomas Morley, the great madrigalist and author of 'A Plaine and Easie Introduction to Practicall Musicke,' organist of St. Giles, Cripplegate, at the time of his son's death? The date fits in with the eminent musician's appointments, and such a post would be a good stepping-stone to a higher appointment—St. Paul's Cathedral or the Chapel Royal. Moreover, the famous divine, Lancelot Andrewes, one of the translators of the Authorized Version of the Scriptures, and one 'learned in fifteen ancient and modern tongues,' was at that time Vicar, and, as a man of great influence, he may have helped in securing Morley's promotion. At all events, future biographers of Thomas Morley may be glad of the above information, to which attention is here drawn for the first time.

The Bells—a noble peal—are twelve in number, and, excepting necessary repairs, they remain practically the same as they were a hundred years ago. The tenor bell—a fine fellow—weighs 36 cwt. 1 qr. 24 lbs. Some of the bells are thus inscribed:—

(6) Ye people all who hear me ring
Be faithful to your God and King.

(7) Whilst thus we join in cheerful sound
May love and loyalty abound.

(8) Peace and good neighbourhood.

(9) Our voices shall in concert ring
To honour both of God and King.

(10) In wedlocks bonds all ye who join
With hands your hearts unite;
So shall our tuneful songs combine
To laud the nuptial rite.

(11) Ye ringers all, that prize your health and happiness
Be sober, merry, wise, and you'll the same possess.

The chimes on the bells are produced by a machine in the steeple, set up in 1794 by George Harman, of High Wycombe, a cooper by trade. This chiming machine—one of the best in the kingdom—is constructed to play seven tunes, one on each day of the week, upon a running peal of twelve bells, in the key of C. It is not surprising to learn that the parishioners are justly proud of their chimes. The following sonnet, by Mr. Robert Pearce, Vestry Clerk, gives pleasant expression to their campanological feelings in this respect:—

The Chimes of Cripplegate! full well we know
Their famous music, daily marking time,
At three, six, nine, and twelve; and, solemn, slow,
In seven days' rotation changing chime.
Each Sunday, hear the Easter hymn divine;
Each Monday, lo! the nation's anthem sounds;
Each Tuesday greets us all with 'Auld Lang Syne';
While Wednesday with 'Hanover' resounds,
Each Thursday 'Caller Herrin' frae the foam,
Each Friday 'Mariners.' The tunes complete
When Saturday enchants with 'Home, sweet home,'
No music sweeter, be it e'er so sweet. [sung]
Our chimes thus charm the world; for these are O'er all the earth, by every English tongue.

Lastly, a few words on the organs and organists. The Vestry records do not go farther back than the middle of the 17th century, therefore any information as to the appointment of Thomas Morley—if he really was organist of the church—is unfortunately not available. The earliest recorded reference to an organ is in the year 1672, when a Vestry Minute records:—

dual financial arrangement gave endless trouble to the Vestry. A Minute bearing on the subject, dated February 28, 167², reads:—

That the Sexton be chosen into his place, and he either to officiate and play upon the organ himself or provide at his own cost one able sufficient organist to play upon it, Sundayes, Holy dayes, Wensdayes, Fridayes and Lecture Dayes, and his Sextons place to be voyd if he shall faile in any part of his duty.

THE ROMAN BASTION IN THE CHURCHYARD.

That Mrs. Charnock shall have thanks given her for her affection in bestowing a fair Organ on the Parish Church of St. Giles Without Cripplegate, London. That a convenient place be found for the setting of it up, and that the Vicar and Vestry find out some way and means for the maintenance of the Organist.

Very pretty is the use of the word 'affection' in connection with Mrs. Charnock's gift of this 'fair organ.'

At that time (1673) the sexton had to select and pay the organist! No wonder this curious

On the same day 'James Brookes is chosen sexton and organist by the Kings Majesties Letter'! What could the 'Merry Monarch' have had to do with this organist appointment? A month later Mr. Brookes, sexton and organist, found that he had to pay an annuity of £10 per annum to the widow of his predecessor! Here is the Vestry Minute:—

That James Brookes, which is lately chosen Sexton of this Parish, doe and shall allow unto Widow Pritchett the sum of £10 per annum from this Easter next ensuing as long as they both shall live.

The organ seems to have been repaired in 1688, probably by Father Smith, as the Minutes record:—

30 April, 1688.—Whereas Mr. Smith, the organ maker, demands £12 for mending, repairing, and cleaning the Organ. The Churchwardens ordered to pay Mr. S. and to get as much abatement as conveniently they can 'for the good of the Parish.'

In 1704 a new organ, evidently built by Renatus Harris, was erected in the west gallery of the church. The elaborately carved oak case, ornamented with well-designed gilt cherubs, of Harris's instrument has disappeared in the course of the various 'restorations.' What has become of it? The present organ case—for which the builders of the instrument are not responsible—is the worst feature of the church. A Minute of April 13, 1705, reads:—

That the present Churchwardens do deteyne in their hands so much money as will pay Mr. Harris for the Organ when it shall appear the same doth answer his proposalls and then pay him what was agreed for, or what he shall deserve for the same, and that the Committee do appoint persons to inspect the goodness thereof.

The Vestry were evidently content to appoint one person 'to inspect,' and he of the highest repute, as a Minute of the following month—May 11, 1705—testifies:—

That Dr. Blow be appointed, on behalf of the Parish, to inspect the Organ in the Church and give his opinion thereon, as to the goodness thereof and to the value.

Dr. Blow evidently reported favourably, for the next entry (May 31) reads as follows:—

That Mr. Harris be paid £400 for the new Organ by himself set up in the Church, upon his agreeing to keepe the same in repaire and cleane it at his own charge for a year from Midsummer, and at the end of said year for another year, if the Churchwardens request him so to do. The old Organ to be delivered to Mr. Harris or his order.

The 'Gentlemen of the Vestry' appear to have been not altogether satisfied with the great Renatus, as four years later—on December 7, 1709—an entry states, in emphatic terms:—

That Mr. Harris having dealt trickingly with the parish relating to the Organ in the church, shall be no further employed in repairing, cleaning, or looking after the same.

A fortnight later Mr. Abram Jordan was instructed 'to look after the organ in the church for a year at £8 for so doing.' A curious entry, of the year 1714, reads:—

That John Ballards blind daughter be organ blower.

After having had charge of the organ for seven years, Mr. Abram Jordan wrote to the Vestry in these untestimonial terms regarding a rival's instrument:—

The touch is bad. Mr. Harris left the organ imperfect. I propose to renew movements, to new voice, and make it completely good. This will be three months' work, and would cost £100; but if the Vestry will pay for regilding the front of the organ, I will do all the rest for an engagement of 21 years at my present annual salary of £8.

The Vestry agreed, and the front was regilded at a cost of £21; but Mr. Jordan must have been rather dilatory in his methods, even for organ-builders, as four years afterwards the following entry occurs:—

Mr. Jordan has not commenced work yet. He acknowledges his fault and proposes to begin repairs; if such be done, the Churchwardens to complete the contract.

The organ-building names of Bridge and Messrs. Gray and Davison subsequently appear in the Minutes. The present instrument (erected in 1899) is a fine specimen of the good work—tonal and mechanical—associated with the firm of Messrs. J. W. Walker and Sons. Moreover, it occupies a somewhat unique position, in that its chamber is sunk below the floor level of the church. This unusual location not only gives ample speaking room above the pipes, but the temperature remains very even—both most important factors in the production of satisfactory organ effects. Messrs. Walker supply the following particulars of the St. Giles's instrument:—

In order to preserve the view of some important mural monuments, a large excavation eight feet deep was made at the east end of the south aisle in which the organ is placed. The pedal pipes are arranged horizontally beneath the floor of the aisle, and the manual soundboards are considerably below the floor level of the church. The console is at the western end of the instrument, the player facing east, whereby he obtains an excellent view of the choir. A large blowing chamber under the north aisle accommodates the hydraulic engines and the feeders. The wind is conveyed across the church through a tunnel under the chancel. The tonal result from this somewhat unusual arrangement of an organ is most satisfactory.

To return to the organists. We find that in 1681 Mr. Thomas Ayres—who although he bore a musical name, was the sexton—had to pay Mr. John Curtis £16 per annum for playing on the organ, a payment which Widow Ayres, who became sextoness on the death of her spouse, had to continue. Later on—in 1705—£4 per annum was added to the organist's salary, 'to be paid by the sextoness, who has consented'! In 1708 the Vestry evidently thought that the salary of the organist should not filter through the hands of sexton or sextoness, as in 1708 it was ordered that 'Mr. Green [who was blind], the organ-player for the time to come be paid yearly by the Parish the £10 which used to be paid him by the late Clerke.'

It is not necessary to give a complete list of the organists, as with the following exceptions their names are unknown. In 1795 John Immyns was appointed; and for a long period the office was held by a member of the Miller family—beginning in 1832 with William Miller, the first organist of the Sacred Harmonic Society, and the author of an interesting 'History' of the church; he was followed successively by his two sons, William and Arthur. The present organist is Mr. B. Jackson.

Now that the 'Quest House and Ye Four shoppes' have been removed, funds are needed to restore the north front of the church to its original design. This will include an interesting turret hitherto hidden by the obstructions above mentioned. Mr. Deputy Baddeley has promised to give a statue of Milton, to be placed near the tower of the church, and the proposed restoration is one that appeals to those who would honour the memory of John Milton, the great Englishman who found his last resting-place in his parish church of St. Giles, Cripplegate.

In bringing to a close this chit-chat on a famous City church, the last word must be one of thanks to those who have so kindly rendered help in its preparation—to the Vicar of St. Giles, the Rev. Prebendary Albert Barff, M.A. (formerly Master of St. Paul's Choir School), and to Mr. John James Baddeley, Deputy of the Ward of Cripplegate Without, and the author of a very valuable and exhaustive 'History' of the church and parish.

DOTTED CROTCHET.

THE MUSE OF THE GAEL.

The Gael upon his native heath! The Gael unassailed of his primitiveness, of his eccentricities, of his individual rhythm, of his monotonous musical manners—the Gael naked and unashamed—be this my text, even though it ends in sadness!

And first to the foundation of such a discussion. National music, considered quite literally, and with the minimum of influence used upon it through foreign elements, does not contain within itself an artistic fulfilment, even though itself may be the stepping-stone to a nation's great art. This of course is especially the case with Germany, through whose folk-song the greatest musical art of the Western world was slowly, patiently, but very certainly evolved. There is indeed a great amount of simple and sometimes poignant beauty in the German national melodies. One cannot suggest that they reach the level of the highest art, or that they touch a consummate stage of greatness—whether in that ineffably translucent simplicity which is Mozart's, or in that united web of complexity which is Wagner's, beyond which, each in its separate chapter, improvement is impossible.

There are, nevertheless, certain forms of national music which are so materially set and so complete in themselves that, although they do not attain to any elevated or exalted plane of beauty, neither do they contain the germs from which a great art can spring, or can so be developed as to reach a right and unassailable culmination. Among these must undoubtedly be reckoned the music of the Gael, the music of Scotland. It is a music which has, in truth, nothing of freshness about it. It does not seem to point anywhere. 'The Spring comes slowly up this way,' sang the poet of the divinest time of the year; and the spring-tide of the music of many a nation has moved slowly up the way of art into the summer, the cycle progressing until autumn has come, bringing his sheaves with him—portans semina sua. The national music of Scotland, as we know it, proves of its own character that it could never have had such a future as that which the national music of Germany, of Russia, of Austro-Hungary, has had—in a word, it has not the elements out of which a musical re-creation can be built.

Yet the national music of Scotland contains a great deal of material which, in its set and formal way, is by no means lacking in beauty. Although I have to confess frankly that neither the humour of Scottish music, nor the humour of the manner in which Scottish music is sung makes any great appeal to me, I am content to admire much of the lamentation, the dirge, the wail, the outcry, the regret which distinguish the music of death in that rain-weeping, sad-hilled country. It is natural that grief and gloom should have come very close to the heart of the Scottish Muse. The mists that wipe away the outline of the mountains, the darkness of the green upon the rock-sides, the immitigable rain that comes for so long and goes for so short a time—these material surroundings alone seem instinct with an inspiration to the sadder thoughts of life; and it is in the exposition of these sadder thoughts that one recognizes the sincere spirit of the music of Scotland. Scotland is essentially, in the lonelier places of its Highlands, a place of memories. Loyalty unrewarded, bravery attainted, forlorn hopes, lost causes—here is the note of too many passages in its critical history; and these facts, combined with its skies, its clouds and its bareness of soil, give to its music the spirit of its own earth. Is it wonderful, that from so ancient a spirit, it is not possible to look for new flights of art founded upon a young but unbroken Muse? Is it wonderful that the circle has been made complete, that the pitcher has been filled, that the line of the tide has been reached beyond which the waters cannot move farther up from the sea?

I have assigned what may seem possibly a somewhat tragic reason for the finality of Scottish music, and for the impossibility of its future development into a great art, as the folk-song of Germany developed into a great art; but undoubtedly that reason holds a position of paramount importance. If the Muse of the Gael were possibly younger: if she had a somewhat less laggard step: if her years had not made her so hoary: if (above all things) she did not carry in her hands that most portentous of things, a National Instrument, one might decline to a different conclusion. But all these things do militate against her. There is no question but a National Music must, in some respect or another, be tinged with the spirit of mirth, if it is to be prolific. The mirth may be sober, naught more than bright-eyed, as is much of the native folk-song of the low-lying lands and the little hills of Bavaria.

It is the mirth here in great part of love, in some part of half-humorous loss, in a little part of the pleasure of re-union, and in great part, again to return to a preponderant element, of the joys of wine. The Muse of the Gael is seldom merry in any full, surrendering sense; she can play antics, but her gladness is not natural. She is best when she is wraith-like, like the mist-shrouds that on the hills move like them that glide and have no step upon the earth. If, however, all these barriers could be overpassed, still there would be the most formidable hindrance of all standing as a menace to the sort of development of which I have already spoken; I mean the National Instrument: the Bagpipes. And here let us take a lighter quill; Leviara canamus.

Whether the static quality of Scottish Music—the quality which seems to deny to it development—be the cause of the rise of the Bagpipes, or whether the Bagpipes have for ever determined that Scottish Music shall never develop (as the flower develops from the seed) into great cosmopolitan influences, signifies not at all; for the result to which this argument tends is precisely the same. Scottish music through its national instrument has no further future. It is this extraordinary, this preternatural invention which stands at a sentry-post guarding the avenues of to-morrow. Old, like a gnarled tree which seems to have no further old age in store for it, the youth of which seems to stretch so far back into the past as to be lost amongst the mysteries of the beginning of things, the bagpipes have nothing which in modern civilization is comparable to them. Their rise seems to be identified with the things that are fabulous, misshapen, enormous, ichthyosauric, protoplasmic, with the casting into shape of the everlasting hills, with something primitively outside modern complex and ultimate trends and ways of thought. To the delicate ear of to-day, these pipes seem to be in very truth a part and parcel of a dreadful mythology. Surely and in very truth the too narrow-minded owner of that delicate ear might imagine it as the instrument conceived by the devil for everyday use in the gulfs of Tartarus; such an ear might wish to avoid it as St. Anthony desired to avoid the multifarious temptations of the desert. For, at times—certainly at times—the tunes that are transformed by its influence become tinged with a sort of awful jollity; and when this particular spirit is upon the bagpipes, the jollity grows ten times more awful by reason of the sustained pedal-note, a closely-paid attention to which possesses within it some of the stray seeds that grow up into the fine flowers of delirious obsession. Pursuing the same line of thought, and saving always the burlesque element which must intrude into such a line of argument, is it to be wondered at that a nation which possesses the bagpipes for a national instrument cannot look reasonably for a concrete musical progress? Apart from anything that savours of a jest, however much the thought of the national instrument tempts one to smile, may one not reasonably conclude that the set character of that instrument and the peculiar melodies of Scotland, following the lines of that character, make a combination out of which no new, no unstamped, no unmarked, no unprovincial art can come? To my mind the reasoning is clear, the conclusion unanswerable; such a conclusion does certainly complete the reply of history, and it no less forcibly remains a theoretical barrier to any possible great development in the time to be; that which it will be, Scottish music is; that which it has been it is.

Is there then no greatness, no magnificence in this halted Muse of the Gael, whose garment is unchangeable and whose pose is fixed with so iron a deliberation? There is this, of which I have already spoken: the musical wail of the Gaelic Muse. It is among the ineffable realizations of tragedy in the world. She touches the depth and height of sorrow; and fit companion in that expressed grief is her National Instrument. When man goeth to his long home, the Chief, let us say, of some great Clan, when the mourners carry the dead over the low hills down to the aged and immemorial valleys, the cry of the pipes and the immeasurable sadness of the Scottish tunes, borne wildly along the winds, in the broad open air, show the genius of the nation that, in its Highlands, lives in the outer world, is wetted by its mists and rain, bronzed with its keen occasional suns, and forecasts the sense of death with the intimacy of him who wrote the last chapter of Ecclesiastes. As you wait by the coffin of the dead, you hear the dim sound of the Coronach as it grows keener to your hearing. The pedal-note is a long monotone of grief, an enduring moan for the thing that has been. The melancholy and windlike harmonies that are blown above that note hither and thither, fall to the varying mood of the mourner, who finds, it may be for the first time, with wonder and dismay, that to the human heart even the sense of loss must, in its acutest knowledge of the present, take a relief and a change which seem almost a treachery. Such music as this, thus played, and on this instrument, once more, in its gloomy and magnificent completion, shows that in the mourning for the dead Scotland triumphed unto the attainment of the culmination of her musical art. 'He will awake no more, O never more, cried Shelley. That is the text of the Muse of the Gael; her music is finished in him who awakes no more; nor is there to her further awakening.

VERNON BLACKBURN.

Macmillan's Magazine for August has an article on Hector Berlioz containing the following sentence:—

To the end of his life he [Berlioz] could not be persuaded to hear Mendelssohn's 'Elijah.'

The foregoing may be compared with an extract from a letter written by Berlioz in London, and dated January 29, 1848, which reads thus:—

I have heard poor Mendelssohn's last oratorio Elijah. It is magnificently grand, and indescribably sumptuous in harmony.

Occasional Notes.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS OF THE DAY TO—

Engelbert Humperdinck	- - -	September 1.
H. Walford Davies	- - -	" 6.
Antonin Dvůřák	- - -	" 8.
Edwin H. Lemare-	- - -	" 9.
Sir George C. Martin	- - -	" 11.
Alfred Hollins	- - -	" 11.
Horatio W. Parker	- - -	" 15.
August Wilhelmj	- - -	" 21.
W. Stevenson Hoyte	- - -	" 22.
J. Varley Roberts	- - -	" 25.
Karl Klindworth	- - -	" 25.
J. S. Shedlock	- - -	" 29.
Sir Charles Stanford	- - -	" 30.
J. Spencer Curwen	- - -	" 30.

An amusing contribution to centenary Berlioziana is furnished by the following letter written by the composer to M. Brandus, publisher of the Revue et Gazette Musicale de Paris, in 1854:—

My dear Brandus,

Several of the Paris papers announce my approaching departure for some town in Germany, where, according to them, I have been lately appointed maitre-de-chapelle. I can easily imagine what a cruel blow my definite absence from France would be to a great many persons, and how difficult a task they would find it to believe and put into circulation so important a piece of news.

I should therefore be extremely delighted were it in my power flatly to contradict it by saying, with the hero of a celebrated drama—

'Je te reste, France chérie, rassure toi!'

Respect for the truth, however, obliges me to rectify a slight error in the report now current. The fact is, I am going to leave France some day or other, in a few years; but the orchestra confided to my direction is not in Germany; and since everything becomes known, sooner or later, in this diabolical city of Paris, I may as well tell you at once the place of my future residence. I am appointed director-general of the concerts of the Queen of the Ovas, Madagascar. Her Ovaish Majesty's orchestra is composed of very distinguished Malay artists, and a few Malgachees of the highest talent. They do not, it is true, like white men, and I should consequently have had at first to suffer a great deal in my new home, had not so many friends in Europe taken such trouble to paint me as black as possible. I hope, therefore, that I shall be thoroughly bronzed against the ill-will of my future comrades when I come among them.

Meanwhile be kind enough to inform your readers that I shall continue to reside in Paris as much as I can, and to go to the theatres as little as I can, although I certainly shall go sometimes and perform my duty as critic as much as ever—in fact more than ever. I am determined before I go to have my fling in the way of criticisms, since there are no papers in Madagascar.

Believe me, &c.,

H. BERLIOZ.

'Librarian of the Conservatoire.'

An English musical journal, in congratulating Berlioz on his 'Ovaish' appointment, said: 'He will doubtless find some new and curious instruments to add to his already unprecedented scores.' It might have added, 'with no niggardly hand.'

The latent possibilities of musical development among coloured people have long been discussed in America, but public performances have generally been limited to plantation melodies and coon songs. Some earnest-minded coloured people in Washington thought the time had arrived when the musical ability of their race should be put to the test. Accordingly in 1901 an organization was formed in the American capital for the production of a composition by a coloured composer, the famous 'Hiawatha' by Mr. S. Coleridge-Taylor. After nearly a year's steady rehearsal the Coleridge-Taylor Choral Society—that being the name of the organization above referred to—performed the 'Hiawatha' music on April 23 last in the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal Church, Washington, with extraordinary success. The audience numbered 1,500 people, mostly coloured folk, though there was a good sprinkling of white listeners, and at the public rehearsal (for admission to which a reduced charge was made) nearly 3,000 people were turned away.

None but coloured people took part in the performance—the faces of the soloists, chorus (numbering 175 singers in evening dress) and accompanists being of dusky hue, while the able conductor, Mr. John T. Layton (well known as the efficient choir director of the church where the concert took place), is a coal-black, burly negro of the pure African type. As no qualified coloured orchestral players could be found it had originally been planned to secure the services of white performers, but the demands of the 'Hiawatha' orchestration proved to be too much for those accustomed to play at dances and hotels; the accompaniments were therefore played on two pianofortes, at which Mrs. L. Europe and Mrs. Robert Pelham efficiently presided. The soloists were Mrs. Skeene Mitchell, of Cleveland; Mr. Sidney Woodward, of Florida; and Mr. Harry Burleigh, of New York.

The chorus-singing was really excellent and deserving of all praise. Even several eminent white musicians have borne testimony to its high achievement, and even the white press acknowledge that the performance was a splendid success. Considering the deep-rooted racial feeling among white and coloured people this is all the more gratifying and encouraging. Moreover we understand that it is the first time that white singers have applied in hundreds for admission to an entirely coloured Society (in U.S.A.) and have been refused admission because there was not room for them! The greatest credit is due first to Mr. Andrew W. Hilyer, who conceived the idea of the Society, and then to the conductor, Mr. John T. Layton, director of music in the coloured public schools of Washington, and to his enthusiastic singers. The concert opens up a field of interesting speculation as to the possibilities of coloured people in their interpretation of good music, and fully justifies the decision of the Society to continue their work as a permanent organization. We wish them every success in their artistic endeavours.

The International Male-Voice Choir competition arranged to take place at Cardiff on Boxing Day is a bold experiment. M. Laurent de Rille, the French composer, has written a chorus expressly for the event. A choir from Belgium has undertaken to compete. It is hoped that the best English and Welsh choirs will take part, but we fear that the sacrifice of the time-honoured feast of Christmas, on which day or night choirs from a long distance must travel, will be a bar to success.

The Royal National Eisteddfod held at Llanelly last month, a full account of which is given on page 597, provokes the customary reflections. Here we have a torrent of musical enthusiasm—evidences of much natural ability and acquired skill in the execution of vocal music—and the precious quality of intense earnestness, all flowing freely from the common folk who take the business very seriously. At Llanelly one of the most notable and thrilling incidents was the impromptu performance of well-known music in full harmony by the whole vast audience of over 20,000 persons. The stumbling block with some well-wishing critics is that this flood finds an outlet too much through competitions. But how else are the Welsh people to learn? The Eisteddfod is to most of the population a great school of execution, a presentment of a standard. It may be that this is often only the theory rather than the actual result of Eisteddfodau. But still it is the theory, and it is the business of all concerned to make it universally a realization. A correspondent, whose letter we print elsewhere, draws attention to the special disabilities under which the Welsh pursue their popular musical education, and he suggests that the overcrowded profession might find useful employment in spreading light and culture in the Principality. We are afraid, however, that the pecuniary prospects of such a mission are not at all brilliant. But of the aptitude of the race and their responsiveness to skilled instruction there is no doubt. The marked success of the Dowlais choir at Llanelly was an object-lesson to Welsh conductors. Mr. Harry Evans, who so ably led this choir, is a highly-cultivated musician possessing fine artistic ideals which by force of character he can impose upon his resources. Practical questions are: Do the Welsh make the most of their Eisteddfodau generally? Can Eisteddfodau be made more effective as art training schools? Do they often follow worn-out lines, and are they always single in their aims?

Mr. W. H. Grattan Flood, of Enniscorthy, writes as follows in reference to the old song 'Once I had a sweetheart':—

In going through an old MS. book of Irish tunes, dated 1730, I recently came across a pretty melody, entitled 'Once I had a sweetheart.' Mr. Frank Kidson claims it as English, and includes it in Moffat's excellent book 'The Minstrelsy of England,' adding, that after a diligent search he had failed to discover any earlier copy than that given in Daniel Wright's 'Compleat Tutor for ye Flute,' circa 1735. Its Irish origin is beyond doubt, and Charles Coffey, a Dublin man, includes it in his 'Beggar's Wedding,' written in 1728. I have before me a copy of Coffey's ballad-opera, as played in Dublin in the autumn of 1728, and 'Once I had a sweetheart' is the sixteenth air, to which Coffey adapted words.

I strongly suspect that Daniel Wright was supplied with this Irish air in 1726 by Dermot O'Connor, who translated Keating's 'History of Ireland' from Irish into English, and who is also responsible for the Irish tunes in the 'Aria di Camera,' published by Wright, in 1727 or 1728. If not, he copied the air from Coffey's ballad-opera, which was printed in London in 1729, inasmuch as the tunes in the 'Flute Tutor' (1735) are stated to be 'A collection from Ballad Operas.' Coffey's opera (1728) is dedicated to 'the Provost, Fellows, and the rest of the learned Society of Trinity College, Dublin.'

The performance of 'Parsifal,' which is announced to take place at New York in December, is creating no little stir. The Wagner family are powerless to prevent the representation. Frau Wagner, however, has appealed to Fraülein Ternina and to Herr Van Rooy not to take part in the performance, but apparently without success. Wagner evidently intended the work for Bayreuth alone, and we can quite understand, nay, sympathise with the wish of the composer's widow that it should not be performed elsewhere until the time has expired when it will become the public property of European theatres. But Herr Conried, the New York impresario, is guided in his action by motives stronger than those based on sentiment, and it is at any rate satisfactory to note that there is every prospect of the work being given in the best possible manner.

A belated report on the condition of music in Training Colleges (England and Wales) just issued, deals with examinations completed in June, 1902, since which date considerable modifications in the musical syllabus have been made. Dr. Somervell, on his first round as Inspector, writes somewhat dolefully. His strongest impressions are that students enter colleges ill prepared in music, that as pupil teachers they are seriously neglected, and that farther back still the schools do not give sufficient attention to musical study. If children were also taught (says Dr. Somervell) from the earliest school age to read music as they are taught ordinary reading (that is, we presume, for an hour or two every day) they would be fluent readers of moderately difficult music by the time they were nine or ten years of age. Truly a happy result; but in view of the conditions under which schools are worked and of the irresistible claims of other subjects, Dr. Somervell's suggestion seems naïve rather than practical. It is pleasant to turn from the discouraging features of the Report to note the Inspector's eulogy of the 'patience, energy, and real enthusiasm' which the college teachers bring to bear on their work with a result 'little short of wonderful.'

M. Arthur Pougin, in a recent article in Le Ménestrel on Rosine Stolz, the vocalist who recently died at an advanced age, refers to the fact that she was married four times, the last time in 1878, as a bride of over sixty years of age! Her first husband was Auguste Lécuyer, a lawyer at Rouen; the second, Baron Ketschendorf; the third, Duke Lesignano; and the fourth and last, Don Emmanuel de Godoy, prince de la Paix. M. Pougin mentions a letter written by her in 1879, and bearing the following strange and complicated signature:—

Rosa, duchesse et princesse de Lesignano, princesse de Bassano, de Godoy et de la Paix, baronne et comtesse de Ketschendorf, née marquise d'Altavilla (Rosa Stolz).

Mr. Otto Goldschmidt writes with reference to the death of Mr. Stanley Lucas, noticed in our last issue (p. 539):—

I should like to record my experience of the very valuable help rendered by Mr. Stanley Lucas as an orchestral manager, in which capacity he showed great knowledge and efficiency. For of this I had much practical experience in the sixties in connection with concerts and oratorios given by M^{me}. Goldschmidt under my direction in London and the Provinces, and again between the years 1876 and 1885 at the many public performances given by the Bach Choir, when Mr. Lucas always acted as our orchestral secretary.

I mourn his death as that of a reliable, kind, and trusty man, who possessed a considerable knowledge of matters musical.

Church and Organ Music.

TWO BRISTOLIANS—ORGAN-BUILDER AND ORGANIST.

As a sequel to our note, in last month's issue (p. 533), on the early C compass organ built by John Smith, of Bristol, Mr. E. T. Shellard, of the Bristol Times and Mirror, sends us the following further information. It appears that Mr. Smith was 'a remarkable man—a man of genius, of large capacity, inventive turn of mind, of indomitable will, and withal a gentleman, in the true sense of the term.' He was not 'put' to the organ-building business, but he 'picked up' his technical knowledge in the factory of Messrs. Brice and Richard Seede, organ-makers in Bristol at the beginning of the last century. Mr. Smith started in business on his own account in the year 1814. His most important instrument was that which he erected in Bath Abbey.

Organ-building, however, did not entirely absorb his energies, inventive and mechanical. He it was who built the first steamboat in Bristol, named after the place of its construction. This vessel made many trips, carrying both passengers and merchandise, between Bristol and Bath; she plied also to and from Gloucester and Worcester, quite Cathedralesque voyages, in fact. Mr. Shellard says that Mr. Smith invented the life-saving rocket apparatus used at the Coastguard stations, but as one Captain Manby added the finishing details to this, he has received much of the credit due to the Bristol organ-builder. A road-cleansing machine was another of his ingenious productions, therefore it may safely be asserted that he really was a remarkable man. Smith, who died in 1847, was, like Father Willis, an organist; he played for many years at the Countess of Huntingdon's Chapel in Bristol. Mr. Monday, his step-son, succeeded him in the business, which in 1857 came into the hands of his (Mr. Monday's) son-in-law, Mr. W. G. Vowles. Thus we arrive at the origin of the well-known organ-building factory in the West of England associated with the name of Vowles.

Dr. Edward Hodges was also of an inventive turn of mind. As a young man he made a study of chemistry, mechanics, and acoustics. He seems to have evolved all sorts of ingenious devices in regard to musical instruments, inventions for teaching the blind, &c. He claimed to have worked out 'a project for the prevention of the destruction of ships by fire or leakage by means of sections'; but his 'ship-dividing into compartments' scheme was improved upon by others, and they, as in so many similar instances, were awarded the kudos resulting from the development of an earlier idea.

Dr. Hodges, who was an excellent extempore player and contrapuntist, in all probability suggested to Smith the plan of that early (in England) C compass organ, with its 32-feet pipe, erected in 1824 in St. James's Church, Bristol, of which Hodges was then chief musician. To mark their approval of this achievement, the Vestry voted their organist a gold snuff-box, and the recipient thereof records in his diary that 'The Right Worshipful the Mayor intends filling my new box with snuff for me.'

The greatest disappointment to Dr. Hodges in his career was his failure to obtain the organistship of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, in 1835, when George Job Elvey, a youth of nineteen, was elected in preference to him and to Samuel Sebastian Wesley! Hodges records that in the debate in the Chapter House on the appointment, 'the Dean interposed by saying that he did not fancy the broad-brimmed hat and white necktie, and boots with pointed toes, suggesting to him an individuality that might prove difficult to control.' This Sartor Resartus objection was applied to Hodges; but perchance the Very Reverend divine was favourably impressed with the blue tail-coat with its brass buttons, and the yellow waistcoat worn by young Elvey. No indication of the individuality of the present organist of St. George's Chapel could possibly be divined from any 'broad-brimmed' or other hat, as, within the Precincts, he never wears any other head-covering than that with which nature has provided him.

A CANON'S HUMOUR.

At a certain banner-hung Chapel not unconnected with Royalty, a recent Chapel-bill contained:—

Service	King Hall in E flat.
Anthem	O Lord, the Maker	of all things.	King Henry VIII.

This juxtaposition of names rather tickled the fancy of the Canon-in-residence, 'Ah!' quoth the Canon, 'this is surely a little joke of the organ-loft: King Hall in company with King Hal!'

THE 'BRUSH AWAY' CONCERTO.

Every organist knows the fourth concerto of Handel, with its sprightly first movement. The late Sir George Grove as a boy often heard it called the 'Brush away' concerto. This designation originated in a story that a juvenile sweep of former times—one of those 'innocent blacknesses,' as Charles Lamb called them—had been seen early one morning emerging from a chimney-pot, and that on exposing his grimy visage to view he sang:—

Allegro.

Up the chim - ney, up the chim - ney,
Brush a - way, brush a - way, Up the chim - ney,

Grove says: 'It must be admitted that the words fit the notes like a glove, and that the sweep had a quick ear for tune.' As only the two opening bars are given in association with the words, we venture to suggest that the boy sweep might have continued his 'sootable' strain thus:—

Up the chimney, Brush the chimney, Up the chimney, up, up, up!

X. Y. and Z. were discussing English Church Music, when X. exclaimed: 'Some organists of Cathedrals are not Cathedral organists.' This paradoxical statement raises the question: What is a Cathedral organist?

THE CHURCH ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY.

The ninth Annual General Meeting was recently held at the Church House, Westminster, the Bishop of Rochester in the chair. The Report for 1902-03 stated that 'In reviewing the work of the past year the Committee desire to congratulate the members generally, and the playing members in particular, on the improved quality of that work.' Fourteen engagements were fulfilled during the year, including services held at Horsham Parish Church ('Last Judgment'); Holy Trinity, Sloane Street (Baden Powell's 'Pange Lingua'); St. John the Evangelist, Wilton Road (Pergolesi's 'Stabat Mater'); and Winchester Cathedral ('Hymn of Praise'). Twenty-four weekly rehearsals were held during the season, exclusive of those for special services. The membership of this useful Society now numbers 212 (127 performing and 85 honorary members). Dr. G. F. Huntley, organist of St. Peter's Church, Eaton Square, is its able conductor, and the Hon. Secretary and Treasurer is the Hon. Richard Strutt, Rayleigh House, Chelsea Embankment, from whom all particulars may be obtained.

DR. J. C. MARKS.

We regret having to place on record the death of Dr. James Christopher Marks, organist of Cork Cathedral (St. Fin Barre's Cathedral), which took place very suddenly on July 17, at the Grand Spa, Clifton, during an examination tour for the Incorporated Society of Musicians. Born at Armagh on May 4, 1835, he became a chorister in the Cathedral there in 1842, and was for some years chief solo boy, his beautiful voice and great musical ability attracting much attention. He studied the organ under the then organist, Robert Turle, brother of James Turle, organist of Westminster Abbey, and the violin under Francis Hart. After holding the post of deputy-organist of Armagh Cathedral from 1852 to 1860, in the latter year, at the age of twenty-four, Dr. Marks was appointed organist and choirmaster of Cork Cathedral, an office he worthily held for forty-three years.

Dr. Marks formerly conducted the Cork Harmonic Society, the Musical Festival of 1862, the Cork Musical Society, many important concerts, &c., and in various ways upheld the cause of music, not only in Cork but in other parts of the South of Ireland with artistic zeal. He occupied a distinguished position in Irish Masonry, and held the position of Organist of Ireland in the Grand Lodge. Dr. Marks, who excelled as an organist, took the degree of Bachelor of Music at Oxford in 1863, and his Doctor's degree (for which he composed the oratorio 'Gideon') at the same University, in July, 1868.

The funeral took place, amid many tokens of regret, at St. Fin Barre's Cemetery, the mourners including the lamented organist's second son, Mr. James Christopher Marks, organist of St. Andrew's Church, Pittsburg, U.S.A., and the brother of the deceased musician, Dr. Thomas Osborne Marks, organist of Armagh Cathedral.

It should be mentioned that a Full Choral Service had been allowed to fall into abeyance at Cork Cathedral from the end of the 17th century till it was re-established shortly after Dr. Marks's appointment. At the consecration of the present Cathedral, in 1870, the Dean publicly presented Dr. Marks with a gold medal in commemoration of the event.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Mr. W. E. Belcher, St. Asaph Cathedral.—Concert overture in F, by E. D'Ervy.

Mr. F. J. Livesey, St. Bees Priory Church.—Toccata, Gigout.

Mr. Smith Wallbank, St. Andrew's Church ('Ye lang Kirk o' Craven'), Kildwick-in-Craven, in connection with its re-opening services.—Grand Chœur, Macmaster.

Mr. F. H. Sawyer, College Church, St. Andrew's.—Pæan, Basil Harwood.

Mr. R. Cecil Rodham, St. Michael-and-All Angels', Longton.—Allegretto in B minor, Guilmant.

Mr. Frederick Hunnibell, St. James's, Tunbridge Wells.—Suite for Organ, Borowski.

Mr. C. G. Thomas, Elland Parish Church.—Abendlied, Goltermann.

Mr. Howard Moss, Gravesend Parish Church.—Voluntary in D, Samuel Wesley.

Mr. Fountain Meen, Wesleyan Church, Sidmouth.—Andante in D, Silas.

Mr. H. Matthias Turton, Otley Parish Church.—Musette in G, J. Francois Dandrieu.

Mr. W. Wolstenholme, Methodist Free Church, Blackpool.—Intermezzo in D flat, Hollins.

ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Leonard Barber, Christ Church, Wanstead.

Mr. S. Bath, Parish Church, Marlow.

Mr. G. H. Harvey, St. Matthew's Church, Montreal.

Mr. William Healey, St. John the Baptist Church, Kensington.

Mr. Charles Hylton-Stewart, Organ Scholar of Peterhouse, Cambridge.

Mr. Thomas Lane, Darwen Parish Church.

Mr. T. W. Lardner, All Saints' Church, Upper Norwood.

Mr. J. H. Lilley, St. Edmund's Church, Downham Market.

Mr. J. Owen-Jones, Tredegarville Baptist Church, Cardiff.

Mr. Seymour Powell, St. Peter's Parish Church, Petersfield.

Mr. Henry Taylor, Edgbaston Parish Church.

Mr. Louis H. Torr, Emsworth Parish Church.

Mr. Walter L. Twinning, St. Mary's Church, Torquay.

Mr. William F. Wright, Ore Parish Church, St. Helen's, Hastings.

THE COUNTRY OF BERLIOZ.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Grenoble, August 21.

Roman noses and no Jews. If one might preach from a text, it would be that. The traveller from Lyons to Grenoble, feeling to the left with the distant Mont Blanc, and crossing the Rhone, is conscious that he has met a new population. He has entered the country of the Isère and the southern Dauphiné. 'Le Dauphinois fin, faux, et courtois.' The ambitions of rulers, the political swayings of peoples, have upset ancient and natural geographico-racial distinctions. But the fact remains that west of the Rhone is Gaul, and east is Italy. The Isère is the river of mightiest volume next after the Rhone in what is now called France, and beginning with this important Isère land straight across to the Gulf of Venice is a great belt of country which is the true home of the Latin race. Grenoble, the capital of Isère, once the capital of the whole Dauphiné, is in the same parallel with Verona, Virgil's Mantua, and Venice. Only lying among the foot-hills of the juvenescent French western Alps, this Isère land has many of the attributes of mountain regions; and they have given to it its distinctive national character, its loyalty to itself, its impatience of any controlling exterior power, even its narrowness.

The Roman nose is no figure of speech. It meets one in every street, in every public conveyance. This, the grave long faces of the men, and the very beautiful eye and brow of the women, show the traveller that he is in effect in Italy. A few days ago at a public banquet I sat opposite Berlioz appallingly redivivus. The classic features, the very high crest of hair over the right temple, were Berlioz himself startlingly in the flesh. It was M. Charles Berlioz, grandson of the uncle of Hector Berlioz; an amiable painter, with whom much conversation. In a toga he would have been exactly a typical Roman patrician senator. And as to the Jews. With the dawn of electricity, and the huge water-power here awaiting use, it cannot be doubted that sub-Alpine countries like this have their commercial future. But for the moment they are shut in undeveloped. The Isère country is as yet content with its vineries, its distilleries, its glove-making, and so forth. In such conditions the Jewish race, powerful in commerce, all-powerful in musical art, does not step in. The absence of Jewish physiognomy in the streets is very striking to one who has left European capitals. Racially, Berlioz had far more occasion to feel himself opposed to Judaism than had Wagner, though he does not seem to have troubled himself on the subject. Artistically, almost the chief significance of his music lies in the fact that it was wholly free from Judaic influence. Add to all this that Berlioz is the only creative musician who has ever proceeded from the Dauphiné, and the present sermon will have been displayed. Lombardy has done or is doing its work, but this is the sole effort so far of the westernmost limb of the purely Latin country. A lutist to Anne of Austria, one Ennemond Gaultier of Vienne, is not countable.

And what made Berlioz a poet? It is the heart more than the head which makes the poet. Berlioz found his sensibility in red boots and a winning eye, in Estelle Gautier at the village of Meylan in the valley of Graisivaudan, in a three-weeks' holiday each year with his uncle Colonel Marmion, late of the Lancers, and then eleven months for cherishing the short-lived romance,—a very old and very common story indeed. Red boots can still be seen crossing the Grenette square at Grenoble, and boys of thirteen will fall in love with girls of nineteen, and consume themselves with passionate regrets during firs and pines, mixed with alder, ash, aspen, beech, birch, maple, oak, willow, and what not; through all, the stately Isère running. This is the home of the serpent-fairy Mélusine. A contrast to the verdant but uniform-level plain which met Berlioz' eye at his own home of la Côte or vineyard-slope of St. André. A dozen years later in the Campagna he learnt to open his heart to nature, as before he had opened it to passion; but for him nature was still always focussed in the memory of Meylan and the gorges of Graisivaudan. Round this inmost feeling raged all the storms of his ambitious intellect.

Those good friends of our short-jacket memories, the Albigenes, were the earliest known inhabitants of the Isère country; and very stiff opponents the Romans found them, in their mountains now called Pelvoux, Grandes Rousses, Belle Donne, and Grande Chartreuse. Rome colonized them at two centres; Vienne to the west, and Cularo or Gratianopolis or Grenoble to the east. Then succeeded Burgundians and Merovingians. Then five great mediaeval baronies. Then the priest Bruno founded the Chartreux order (1084). Then the counts of absence, as long as the world lasts. But the beauty of Berlioz' heart lay in that he never forgot those pure powerful impressions. He married two women, neither of them particularly worthy; and when he had done his fullest duty by both, his heart attorned again to one who was worthy enough, but perhaps insignificant. She was free to indulge his respect, yet scarcely realized that the greatest musical intellect France had ever produced was at her feet. The most luxuriant ivy clings to dull masonry. An injustice may be done, but so it seems from her published letters. A young gentleman who is a clever musician and a successful man of letters, has recently described this exquisite passion of Berlioz as 'half senile.' The greatest punishment to wish him is that he should feel the same at sixty, and be so interpreted. To those whose life has not been choked with tares, love can be fresh at sixty as at sixteen. I have wandered through the lanes of Meylan in that valley of Graisivaudan which is the most gorgeous, and one of the most fertile, in France. The valley is marvellous with its snow-capped Belle Donne, its rocks of Saint-Eynard, its enormous Graisivaudan in the 12th century took a dolphin into their arms, and the whole country was sold to the French crown in 1349 on condition that the heir-apparent called himself the Dauphin. The Revocation of the Edict of Nantes under Louis XIV. drove out all the Protestants. When Louis XVI. tried to suppress its local Parliament, Grenoble on June 7, 1788, went into revolt, and sounded the first note of the great French Revolution. On the other hand in March, 1815, it re-opened France to Napoleon returning from Elba. Since 1830 it has had little history. Personages of the Dauphiné best known to us are:—Pierre de Terrail, seigneur of Bayard (1476-1524), the Calvinist F. de Beaumont (1513-1587), the statesman Boissieu (1600-1683), the philosopher Condillac (1715-1780), the engineer Vaucanson (1709-1782), the novelist Stendhal (1783-1842), the glove maker Jouvin (died 1844), and Hector Berlioz himself (1803-1869). The indigenous language is the 'romane provençale,' the religion almost wholly Catholic. It is a centre of practical botany. Its chief industries, cement-making, glove-making, and the concoction of those most noxious disguised brandies called 'liqueurs.' Grenoble has an uninteresting Cathedral with a heavy 11th century tower; it is called the capital of the French Alps. It is a bright sparkling town in a magnificent mountain horseshoe, and it is rather shrewd than intellectual. Such is the native country of Berlioz—a Latin of the Latins, a Dauphinois of the Dauphinois plus passion.

GRENOBLE, WITH THE ALPS IN THE DISTANCE.

It is more difficult to be an original Frenchman than an original anything else. The speech alone of the French shows them swathed in convention. Though when quite natural they speak like the rest of mankind and very musically, the conventional mode of speech in the middle classes is a perfectly accentless mock-timid chip-chop; perhaps more striking than our society drawl, certainly more universal. Berlioz' power consisted in that no conventionality could hold him. A grown-up young man (he was inscribed on the Paris Conservatoire books on August 26, 1826), he left his native country an absolute know-nothing on the technique of music, but with a mature soul and himself a very firebrand of originality. If he was not a 'natural musician' (as some say), the words have no meaning. He became one of the greatest musicians of all time. His originality has made him subsist to this day; indeed he is now beginning.

The Grenoble administration put their Berlioz birth-centenary Fêtes (August 14 to 17, 1903) four months in advance, because it would have been absurd to hold them in mid-winter. They must put the town en fête; they must have an audience. The chief amusement of this part of the country is the competition of open-air bands and unaccompanied choral societies (Orphéonistes). Now and then a large competition attracts 'societies' from all parts of southern France, as from Switzerland, Italy and Algeria. The bands are of all composition, from cavalry 'trumpet bands' to what we should call sea-side open-air bands. One hundred and fifty-seven Societies came on this occasion, eighty-four jurors were drawn from all parts, and competition (gradually converging) went on in selected localities of the town according to an elaborate classification and organization. The whole were disposed of in three days. Not much grumbling, and a great deal of excitement. The chief prizes were taken by Geneva, Lyons, Tunis, and Turin. But medals were given passim. Then the business of unveiling, in the Place Victor Hugo, the new Berlioz statue, from the east of an excellent Grenoblian violinist-sculptor Urbain Basset, which won a Paris Salon prize in 1885. It is really very fine, and quite as good as Lenoir's now in the Place Vintimille, Paris, and at la Côte St. André. Berlioz has his hand to his head as if listening. The unveiling ceremonies were performed in atrocious weather, which seems to pervade the world. Then came a representation of 'Faust' in the Theatre, by the Aix les Bains chorus and orchestra under Jéhin, with principals Lina Pacari, Lafitte, Dangès, and Ferrand. The best of the principals was Lafitte, the tenor. The performance, wholly given over to expression in detail, yet controlled in block by an excellent conductor, was distinctly a revelation. If this be a standard, the vocalizations of Berlioz music heard in England are a parody. There was not a moment of excess in effect, yet a surcharge of emotion. This is undoubtedly the true Berlioz, given by those of his own race and country, and we have to learn. The only distressing point was the frequent falling in pitch of the female singers; of which the musicians were aware, and the critics not at all. A quantity of miscellaneous Berlioz works were given at the other concerts, which to save space will here be passed over. Again in the instrumental pieces it was evident how the Berlioz omnipresent soloism differed from the Wagner omnipresent diffusion and broad lines of tone-colour, and how all depended on the spirit of the individual. Yes, even here we have to learn. Weingartner took from the band a most stimulating rendering of the 'Fantastique.' When they gave him a crown, he put it round the score; upon which great applause. If the Dauphinois are, as Berlioz said, innocent of music, they have managed this affair very well. It is not known why Colonne did not come; it is still less known why the French Government (in contrast to the German Emperor with Wagner) took so little trouble to be represented.

One place has been well-nigh forgotten, la Côte itself. It is 30 or 40 miles from here, and is to have its own Berlioz fêtes on the 22nd and 23rd. I did not omit to go there; nor indeed 9 miles farther to Beaurepaire, for the great-grandmother of Berlioz was a Dauphinoise and a de Beaurepaire. The Côte resembles its kind, as a long, straggling, fairly well built, and monstrosity dirty provincial French village-town. The inhabitants are handsome and polite. Berlioz' statement that he lived in a small way over a farriery, whence his rhythm, was a joke. The Berlioz house is exceedingly fine, top to bottom, in and out, and the farriery (now no more) was over the way. The house is in Rue de la République. Sold by the family to one Paillet. By him sixteen years ago to M. Manquat, a merchant, whose indulgent lady showed every corner of it. The little room where the boy slept, next the large handsome drawing-room, was very affecting. Berlioz museum now being formed in a room in the house. Immediately after his Monday evening concert in Grenoble, Weingartner, due in Munich on Wednesday, dashed forth with the Mayor of la Côte St. André, M. Meyer, covered the 35 miles in automobile at a rate probably greatly exceeding the law, and laid a wreath at the foot of the Lenoir statue in Berlioz' real birthplace. Midnight scene. Illuminations. Weingartner embraced the Mayor!

CHARLES MACLEAN.

MR. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR'S SACRED CANTATA 'THE ATONEMENT.'

COMPOSED FOR THE HEREFORD MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

Although Mr. Coleridge-Taylor has now reached Opus 53 in his various compositions, he has hitherto, with the exception of a few anthems, selected secular subjects for the exercise of his muse. This, his first attempt at a sacred composition of importance, should therefore be regarded with interest, if not indeed with sympathetic curiosity. The subject chosen by him is the great one of the Atonement—a subject which naturally includes the tragic event in the life of our Lord so magnificently treated by John Sebastian Bach. Mr. Coleridge-Taylor has not however wedded his music to Bible words, but to a well-constructed libretto from the pen of Miss Alice Parsons, who, we understand, is a lady residing at Cheltenham.

The cantata is divided into five sections, viz. :—

- I.—Prelude.
- II.—Gethsemane.
- III.—Prayer of the Holy Women and Apostles.
- IV.—Pontius Pilate.
- V.—Calvary.

The work is laid out for orchestra, chorus, and organ, together with parts for the following six solo voices—Mary, the mother of Christ (soprano),

Mary Magdalene (contralto), Mary, the wife of Cleophas (mezzo-soprano), Pilate's wife (soprano), Pilate (tenor), and Christ (bass). At Hereford the two soprano-voiced characters are assigned to one singer, and this example will doubtless be followed at other places. The chorus impersonate both Narrator and the People, a dual opportunity which should afford them full scope for their artistic skill.

The Prelude (for orchestra) is built upon themes subsequently heard in the work. The Gethsemane section is cast in an antiphonal form—the Chorus regularly alternating with Christ in the familiar scene of the Agony in the Garden. The music is now reflective, as in the opening chorus 'In the soft moonlight glow'—now dramatic, as in the vigorous ejaculations 'Away with Him!' and so on.

The 'Prayer of the Holy Women and Apostles' (Section III.) is set as an eight-part chorus—Andante con moto, in E minor—very lightly accompanied, judging from the vocal score, and in many bars even without the support of the orchestra. The movement should present no difficulty in performance—indeed the words, of which we give the first of three stanzas, hardly admit of over-elaboration:—

Father Omnipotent, to Thee
Out of the gathering gloom we cry;
Our faith is weak, our light is low,
The night of dark despair is nigh:
Deeper and deeper the shadows fall,
Help us and guide us, Lord of All.

Christ is silent in the 'Pontius Pilate' section (IV.). The questions of Pilate are dramatically answered by the Chorus. After the 'Barabbas' demand of the angry multitude, Pilate's Wife imploringly intercedes with her husband on behalf of the falsely-accused Prisoner standing before the weak-minded Governor. Previous to the condemnation, Pilate and his wife sing a duet, in which they call upon 'Ye mighty gods of ancient Rome' to show mercy if he (Pilate) should not judge aright, 'through want of light.' A mocking chorus at the leading forth of Christ brings this dramatic scene to a strenuous conclusion.

The finale episode in the great tragedy begins with the march to Calvary. Here, as before, the chorus have assigned to them a dual rôle. The journey along the 'Way of Sorrow' is chorally narrated; but after the utterance of Christ, 'Weep not for Me!' the chorus are unsparing with their 'Ha! Ha!' ejaculations, uttered in strident and mocking tones. Pleasant relief is afforded by a trio from the lips of the faithful and sorrow-stricken women, the three Marys. Each in turn sings a stanza, and then they all three join their tearful voices in the words:—

Son of Man and Friend of Sinners,
Saviour of the meek and lowly,
Helper of the weak and helpless,
We are weeping, we are praying,
At Thy Cross in sorrow kneeling.

The darkness of the sixth hour and the subsequent development of the final scene afford solemn suggestiveness to a composer, and place upon him a great responsibility. As to how far Mr. Coleridge-Taylor has succeeded, and, speaking of the work as a whole, to what extent he has risen to the heights of his great theme, we must withhold judgment until after his music has been heard in Hereford Cathedral on the 9th inst. In the meantime we may wait in hopeful expectation, and wish for him all success in this new field of creative art.

THE ROYAL NATIONAL EISTEDDFOD.

THE IMPRESSIONS OF AN ADJUDICATOR.

The part played by Eisteddfodau in Welsh National life is well known. They are the salt of life, a raison d'être to a great proportion of the race. Even when Welsh people leave their native country they strive in far-off lands to keep alive this national custom. Deep founded in the Welsh soul there is a fervid, seething, ebullient emotion which finds vent in religion and music. So we get the enthusiasm and intense eagerness to excel manifested in an extraordinary degree at these gatherings. There is a seamy side of it all just as there is of human nature itself. Sordid mediocrity may be rewarded, conceit may be fed, insularity perpetuated in the sacred name of nationality, the executive side of musical art may be glorified disproportionately compared with the creative side—and so on. But when all is totted up on both sides of the account, the balance to the good provides a substantial dividend. Eisteddfodau are intended to encourage art, literature and handicraft of all kinds, but it is the music that attracts. Nothing but music could have drawn the audience of over 20,000 people that was again and again present at the Royal National Eisteddfod held at Llanelly, South Wales, from the 3rd to the 7th ult. The 'National' is the Mecca of Eisteddfodites, if there is such a word. Success here is considered a blue ribbon.

Llanelly rose bravely to the importance of the occasion. A handsome, airy, light, commodious market hall, with a fine show of bright colour was an ideal venue for the great function; especially in view of the vast crowds expected. True there was an element of the absurd when some little pianists, and violinists, and small choirs performed in dumb show to an oftentimes turbulent and not unnaturally impatient multitude, interested only in large events. The scheme of the musical side of the Eisteddfod, notwithstanding its unavoidable limitations, was in many respects broad, enlightened, and interesting, and calculated on the whole to make for progress. No doubt some items were included more because they were Welsh productions than because of their intrinsic superlative merit; but in view of the prime aim of the institution, to afford every possible encouragement to native talent, it would be unsympathetic and querulous to object to this bias. Some of the pieces chosen as competition tests presented considerable difficulties, both technical and interpretative, and their choice showed the confidence of the committee in the ability of likely competitors; a confidence fully justified by the event. Thus, the great quartet 'Un, di si ben' from 'Rigoletto' was admirably performed by several parties, and airs from 'Don Giovanni' and 'The Marriage of Figaro' were effectively sung by an astonishing number of solo singers. Other tests were Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto and the same composer's E flat Quartet (but there were no competitors in this class), and the chief choral class had to prepare the whole of the choral portion of the first part of 'St. Paul.'

It is not possible here to give a detailed account of the five days' proceedings. A mere enumeration of pieces and performers would fill pages. Fortunately for the adjudicators—Mr. William Shakespeare, Mr. C. Francis Lloyd, Mus. Bac., Mr. R. C. Jenkins and myself, and in the Brass Band section, Mr. W. Swinger—a good many of the entries were cancelled by non-appearance.

There were 310 entries in the solo-singing, vocal duet, trio and quartet sections, about one third of whom did not appear. Preliminary examinations in small rooms sorted out three or four from each class to sing in the large hall for a final test. A great deal of the solo singing exhibited surprising capacity and elicited warm eulogy from Mr. Shakespeare, who of course was peculiarly well fitted to pronounce judgment and to give advice. It may be stated here that he soon established himself in the good graces of competitors and audience by the frankness and geniality of his manner and the acuteness of his observations.

As the winners in the solo-singing section may be heard of again, their names deserve record. They were as follow :—

Soprano ...	Miss Edith Myfanwy Evans, Bristol.
Mezzo-soprano ...	Miss Margaret Sambrook, Pontypool.
Contralto ...	Mr. Tod Jones, Treorky.
Tenor ...	Mr. Lewis James, Pontycymmer.
Baritone ...	Mr. H. V. Davies, Carnarvon.
Bass ...

The winners in the quartet-singing competition, the test-piece in which was 'Un, di si ben' (Verdi) sang remarkably well. They were led by Miss Maggie Lewis, of Cardiff. An incident in connection with this competition deserves mention. Three quartet parties sang. Soon after the first party had begun, the accompanist—who was relieving the admirable official accompanists, Mr. Harry Evans and Mr. David Thomas—was in dire difficulty, and disaster was imminent. But Mr. Shakespeare stole quietly to the pianoforte and took up the thread, the singers proceeding without break, and they were admirably accompanied to the end. The other parties also enjoyed the advantage of Mr. Shakespeare's playing.

The chief events of the whole series, and those that drew immense audiences gathered from all parts of Wales, were the large choir sections for mixed voices and the male-voice choir section. The former event took place on the 5th ult., and was followed with extraordinary interest. For two years running the prize of £200 in this section had been carried off by English choirs. This defeat had sunk deep in the minds of Welsh choralists and conductors. Many critics and sympathisers with the Welsh were anxious to know whether the lessons of the two preceding years had been turned to practical account. Unfortunately, no English choir appeared on this occasion, and so direct comparison was not possible. As previously stated, all the choral portions of the first part of 'St. Paul' had to be prepared. On the morning of the competition each conductor was informed that (a) 'Happy and blest are they' and (b) 'Stone him to death' were to be sung. These two choruses were selected because they afforded scope for beautiful cantabile singing and delicate nuance on the one hand, and dramatic intensity on the other, and they were sung in the order named. Eight choirs competed. Swansea (Mr. J. D. Thomas) sang with fine, broad tone and blend, and in (a) got some beautiful effects, and the general conception was good, but marred by too slow a tempo, and in (b) there was no climax, no stern expression. Liverpool Methodist (Mr. Percival Ingram) displayed a somewhat thin, non-resonant tone, and in (a) the attack was not first-rate. In (b) the rhythm was too square and chippy, in fact too brisk, and the expression not grim or threatening enough. Dowlais and Merthyr (Mr. Harry Evans) began (a) with a most beautiful and tender piano, and throughout there was charming treatment of the expression; the vowels were unified, the crescendos well spread out, and there were no exaggerations. A questionable point was a slight staccato treatment of the final phrase. In (b) the choir caught the figure of the rhythm as no other choir caught it—the general tendency being to convert the quaver and the semiquaver into a triplet. The expression obtained here was very fine, but just a trifle over restrained. One could have borne with more Welsh fire. But Mr. Evans's deliberate policy was to avoid the possibility of over fervour. Cardiff (Mr. J. F. Proud) seemed to lack experience and drill. The tone was too mixed to blend freely. Basses and tenors good, sopranos penetrating, not enough 'atmosphere' in the expression. Pontypriid (Mr. W. Thompson), good tone, clean execution prompt attack. In (a) expression was not impressive it had the formal note; in (b) the tone again good, but dramatic expression lacking. Mid-Rhondda (Mr. Edward Hughes), a beautiful tone, and discipline excellent; great unity. In (a) opening charmingly treated, and nearly all through fine taste was evident. A sf was much overdone, otherwise expression chaste. In (b) there was splendid fire and thrilling climax, and a terrible earnestness in the expression. The rhythmic figure was nearly correct, but not quite so assured as with Dowlais. Newport (Mr. Fred Jones), a fair tone and blend. In (a) the time dragged, and there was inappropriate tempo rubato. The end was very effective. In (b) sense of the dramatic exigencies of the situation was shown, but there was no striking point in the rendering. Maesteg (Mr. Gwilym Taf), voices very good, and the blend often highly musical. Vibrato in the soprano part attracted attention. Expression very interesting; caught the placid, comforting note. There was much delicacy in the treatment. In (b) the intensity was exciting, and the passion never degenerated into noisy tone. A fine dramatic rendering, but technically at fault in that the prominent rhythmic figure was almost always turned into a triplet.

The result, declared amidst a scene of great excitement, was the victory of Dowlais, although by only one mark in a possible total of 120. The following table of marks shows the positions gained :—

	First Piece.	Second Piece.	Total.
Dowlais ...	56	54	110
Mid-Rhondda ...	54	55	109
Maesteg ...	53	53	106
Swansea ...	50	48	98
Newport ...	48	49	97
Pontypriid ...	48	48	96
Liverpool ...	46	45	91
Cardiff ...	47	42	89

The male-voice choir section also excited a great amount of interest. Wales has good reason to be proud of its men's choirs. They can pit themselves in many points with the best in the world. In intensity of dramatic expression and ample resource of voice they are sometimes unique. The test on this occasion was a dramatic chorus, 'The Destruction of Pompeii' (by D. Christmas Williams), a fine specimen of a type of composition very much affected by Welsh male-voice choirs. Although one would have been glad in addition to have tested the choirs in a composition of a more tranquil and classic mould, it must be allowed that Mr. Williams's effective chorus gave the choirs splendid opportunities of exhibiting technical skill and intense dramatic expression. Only seven choirs sang, although fourteen had entered. Probably the test-piece was found to be too difficult by some of the deserters. It is not at all satisfactory to add that all the choirs were accompanied on the pianoforte, sometimes with an obvious lead, the 'accompaniment' being merely the same as the vocal parts. It would seem from this that the piece is too difficult for even exceptionally fine choirs to sing unaccompanied. The three best choirs in the order here named were Port Talbot (Councillor John Phillips), Pentre (Mr. D. Jones), and Rhymney (Mr. Owen E. Evans). The other choirs were London Welsh (Mr. Merlin Morgan), Mid-Rhondda (Mr. Rees Jones), Ebbw Vale (Mr. Tom Davies), and Tawe (Mr. G. T. Jenkins).

The performance of Port Talbot was distinguished by a beautiful blend of tone, rich and resonant, and unified as to vowel production. It was a wonderful rendering on the technical side, and on the spiritual side equally remarkable. It made a profound impression. Pentre was very little behind. The opening measures were not striking, but later the performance became intensely interesting because of its moving expression. Rhymney also displayed fine tone, magnificent execution, and deep, thrilling expression. The verdict was given in favour of Port Talbot, apparently with the enthusiastic assent of the vast audience.

Orchestral and chamber music is not a speciality in Wales. As artistic progress is to a great extent dependent upon the development of instrumental practice, it is gratifying to record that on this occasion two orchestral bands gave respectable performances of no less severe a test than Beethoven's 'Leonora' Overture No. 3. The Llanelly orchestra under Mr. David Thomas was awarded the prize. A remarkable rendering of Hummel's Pianoforte Trio, Op. 22, No. 2, by the 'Vagabonds' (Miss Marion Lloyd and others, of Newport) was described by Mr. C. Francis Lloyd as one of the finest performances of chamber music ever given in Wales by native performers. Another interesting section was that for choirs of ladies' voices, in which a choir from Carmarthen under Mr. H. F. Ellingford (a Londoner trained at the Royal College of Music) was triumphant. A choir from Nantlle Vale under Mr. J. Jones Owen was very little inferior in merit.

Some comparatively small prizes of £2 or £3 for original songs, anthems and part-songs failed to bring forward any special talent. A prize of £20 offered for a cantata to certain Welsh words succeeded in attracting only two competitors. As one of the compositions was not of sufficient merit, and the other, although displaying commendable talent, was not nearly finished, the prize was withheld. By far the most notable result of the composition competitions was the unearthing of remarkable talent in two of the six string quartets submitted. We, the adjudicators, were all strong in our admiration of these interesting proofs of Welsh powers in composition. We were so impressed with the comparative inadequacy of the £5 prize offered, that Mr. Lloyd on our behalf used his influence with the Eisteddfod Association, and got them to agree readily—an act very greatly to their credit—to add £10 to the prize, and Major Bythway contributed a further £5. We were thus enabled to award substantial first and second prizes respectively to Mr. John Williams (who I believe is studying in London) and Mr. W. H. Dean, Mus. Bac., of Llandrindod Wells, who were announced as the successful competitors.

One of the striking features of the gathering was the methods adopted to manage the excited and sometimes threateningly turbulent crowds, who were interested only in the greater events and whose patience was sorely tried under circumstances of personal discomfort. Now and then it seemed that the competitions would be wrecked; strenuous exhortations and gesticulations from the platform were all in vain in the deafening clamour. Then someone would start a well-known hymn or national air, and in a few moments the angry muttering cloud disappeared, and as the sun of glorious four-part harmony poured forth from all corners of the building, the audience forgot its angry strife and became a magnificent resonant choir. Some of us were thrilled to tears, and at the end we were all better men in a new and exalted mood. Where else than in Wales could such an incident happen?

The evening concerts must have at least brief record. A concert choir of 350 singers had been gathered locally and assiduously rehearsed, and an orchestra of fifty competent players led by Mr. E. G. Woodward had been engaged. 'Israel in Egypt' was performed at the first concert. The chorus showed that they had been well trained by their conductor Mr. John Thomas, and the whole performance was smooth if not stirring. There was hardly a slip from beginning to end. The soloists, Madame John Thomas, Madame Hannah Jones, Mr. Thomas Thomas and Mr. David Hughes were all fully competent. The second concert was miscellaneous. Madame Sobrino sang with her usual brilliancy. The Overture to 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' was not very well played, and the orchestral accompaniments to the songs were sadly lacking. A fair performance of Beethoven's First Symphony was given. But on the whole it must be said the handling of the orchestra betrayed inexperience. The third concert produced an oratorio, 'The Legend of St. David,' the composition of a native musician, Mr. David Jenkins, of Aberystwith. This work was first produced some years ago at an Eisteddfod, and it was heard in London on a later occasion. Much pains had been spent by Mr. John Thomas in order to secure a good performance. The work was well but not enthusiastically received. It favourably exhibits Mr. Jenkins's fluency, but it would gain greatly by considerable compression. The programme of the last concert consisted entirely of Welsh compositions. I regret that I was unable to be present.

Although there was the usual and apparently inevitable unpunctuality, the general arrangements showed foresight and were carried out with tact and exemplary good temper. The officials were numerous and indefatigable. Mr. W. H. Protheroe, the General Secretary, deserves special mention for his never-failing courtesy and singular capacity for the work. Perhaps his buoyancy was helped by the fact that the enormous audiences ensured the financial success of the Eisteddfod. Next year the 'National' will be held at Rhyl, and in 1905 at Mountain Ash. It will be difficult for either place to beat the Llanelly record, either as to musical results or as to attendance. The receipts amounted to over £5,000. A surplus of £500 is left at the disposal of the Committee.

W. G. McNAUGHT.

SOME ADDITIONS TO THE BRITISH MUSEUM LIBRARY.

The annual return of the British Museum for the year ending March 31, 1903, has recently been issued in the form of a Parliamentary Blue Book. According to our usual custom we cull from it some information relating to matters musical:—

Music Catalogue.—11,507 titles have been written for the Music Catalogue, and 19,805 title-slips have been incorporated into each of the two copies of it. This incorporation has rendered it necessary to remove and re-insert 40,100 title-slips in each copy and to add to each copy 267 new leaves.

8,803 Musical Publications have been added to the collection, of which sixteen were presented, 8,198 received under the provisions of the Copyright Act, 282 by Colonial Copyright, and 307 acquired by Purchase.

The most important accessions to the collections of printed music are these:—

Corteccia, Francesco, 'Responsoria omnia paribus vocibus accommodata.' Venice, 1570.

Merulo, Claudio, 'Toccate d'Intavolature,' printed by Simone Verovio, Rome, 1589-1604. An interesting book both musically and typographically, since Claudio Merulo was one of the first composers who wrote specially for the Organ, while Simone Verovio was the inventor of musical engraving.

Ceccino, Thomaso, 'Otto Messe brevi a quattro voci pari.' Venice, 1617.

Grandi, Alessandro, 'Cantate et Arie a voce sola.' Milan, 1626.

Vigoni, Francesco, 'Sacre Armonie a voce sola.' Milan, 1692.

The acquisitions in the Department of Manuscripts include the following interesting treasures:—

Voluntaries, Masque tunes, &c., for the Organ or Virginal, in score, by Orlando Gibbons, Dr. John Bull, and others, circa 1629-30.

Score of Handel's 'Acis and Galatée,' transcribed before 1732; with a full description of the manner of performing the work.

Original draft of a treatise on music, by C. F. Baumgarten, late 18th cent.

Franz Schubert's Fantasia Sonata for pianoforte (Op. 78), dated October, 1826. Autograph. Presented by John Ernst Perabo, Esq., of Boston, U.S.A.

Letter from R. G. Kiesewetter to R. L. de Pearsall, 28th February, 1838. Presented by W. Barclay Squire, Esq.

Autobiographical memoir of Charles Gounod, to 1853.

Autograph compositions, in full score, of Arthur Goring Thomas. Presented by his brother Charles I. Thomas.

In regard to the manuscripts, Schubert's Fantasia Sonata, by reason of its being an autograph, may claim premier consideration. On the first page Schubert has written: 'iv Sonate für d. Pianoforte allein. Oct. 1826. Franz Schubert.' The publisher, Tobias Haslinger, of Vienna, altered the title, however, to 'Fantasie, Andante, Menuetto, und Allegretto,' and the composition (Op. 78) has come to be known as the 'Fantasia Sonata,' a designation not originally intended, at all events by the composer. It is interesting to find that the strenuous passage at bar 30 of the Andante movement is, like many good things in art, an afterthought; Schubert has run his pen through the page he had first written, as he doubtless thought the movement required more contrast. This well-known work, first published in 1827, the year before the composer's death, is dedicated to Schubert's friend, Joseph Edlen von Spaun.

The manuscript compositions of Arthur Goring Thomas, which now find a place in the National Library, include the autographs of his opera 'Esmeralda' and a new arrangement of 'Nadeshda,' whereby it was reduced from four into three acts for a Paris performance of the opera, which, however, never took place. This interesting collection, from the pen of this lamented and gifted composer, includes the original autograph of his beautiful song 'My heart is weary,' written specially for the German performance of 'Nadeshda,' at Breslau, in 1890. A book of Fugue subjects, evidently worked by him when he was studying under M. Emile Durand at Paris, is interesting, and so are some sketches for a setting of Mr. W. S. Gilbert's 'Mountebanks,' which never came to anything so far as Goring Thomas was concerned, as the libretto was afterwards set by Arthur Cellier.

The 'Autobiographical memoir of Charles Gounod, to 1853' is a mere date-sketch of his career in the handwriting of the composer on four sheets of note-paper. The letter from Kiesewetter to R. L. de Pearsall appeared in THE MUSICAL TIMES of February, 1902 (p. 93). The additions also include a letter written by Mendelssohn to Mr. E. Buxton, then proprietor of the business of Ewer & Co., dated 'February 2, 1847,' the year of the composer's death. This communication refers to the first performances in London, by the Sacred Harmonic Society, of the revised version of his 'Elijah.' He speaks his mind very freely on the subject of rehearsals. Here are his words, his own English:—

A great Conditio sine qua non will be a full Rehearsal (you write me it is fixed for the 14th), but quite, quite full, not so as I had some years ago for my 'St. Paul,' when we had the soloists and part of the orchestra one night, and chorus and another part of the orchestra another night. I must have all those that are to perform together for one Rehearsal, else I cannot undertake the thing.

A 'quite, quite full' Rehearsal is good. Conductors, please note.

THE BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

A FORECAST.

For the first time in its history of 135 years the orchestra at the approaching Festival (October 13-16) is mainly a body of players from Manchester. At the Festival of 1778 the attractions included 'the celebrated women chorus singers from Lancashire'; no similar announcement has been made as to the personnel of the orchestra for the Festival of 1903, but in truth it might be said that it will mainly consist of the 'celebrated Richter players from Manchester.' As a matter of fact this excellent organization has been engaged en bloc, the Festival band of 122 performers being made up thus:—

Manchester, the Hallé band	95
London players	18
Birmingham ditto	8
Liverpool (Mr. E. Schiever, who leads with Mr. Risehari)	1
Total	122

Therefore in this respect the pre-eminence which London has held for considerably over a century has been lost in favour of Manchester. Moreover, we are officially informed that the band rehearsals will not be held in London as heretofore, but at a place 'somewhere farther north,' that is to say, at Manchester!

The chorus-master also hails from Manchester, in the person of Mr. R. H. Wilson, the able chorus-master of the Hallé Choir; and as Dr. Richter—who conducts the Festival for the seventh time—is a Manchester man, the purely local connection, from the performing point of view, that Birmingham now has with its great music-making is limited to the chorus and eight orchestral players.

Another change to be noted is in the matter of novelties. There was a time when four new choral works were commissioned for, or produced at, the Birmingham Festival; now, only one, Dr. Edward Elgar's oratorio 'The Apostles' (Parts I. and II.).

The chorus consists of 353 voices:—

Sopranos	112
Altos	84
Tenors	75
Basses	82
Total	353

There are no male altos; and yet at the meeting of 1846, when 'Elijah' was produced, the entire alto section (60 voices) were of the sterner sex—'Bearded altos,' as Mendelssohn called them.

(Continued on page 609.)

Far down the ages now.

September 1, 1903.

ANTHEM SUITABLE FOR GENERAL USE.

Words by Dr. HORATIUS BONAR.
(By permission of Messrs. Nisbet and Co., Ltd.)

Composed by ARTHUR C. EDWARDS.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Andante maestoso.

SOPRANO. mf Far

ALTO. mf Far

TENOR. mf Far

BASS. mf Far

Andante maestoso. ♩ = 80. cres. mf Gt. Diaps. coupld. to Sw. with Reeds (closed). f dim. molto.

down the a - ges now, Her jour-ney well-nigh done, The pil - grim Church pur - down the a - ges now, Her jour-ney well-nigh done, The pil - grim Church pur -

down the a - ges now, Her jour-ney well-nigh done, The pil - grim Church pur -

down the a - ges now, Her jour-ney well-nigh done, The pil - grim Church pur -

-sues her way, And longs, . . . and longs to reach her crown, . . . and
 -sues her way, And longs, . . . and longs to reach her crown, . . . and
 -sues her way, And longs, . . . and longs to reach her crown, . . . and
 -sues her way, And longs to reach her crown, . . . and longs to reach her crown. No longs to reach her crown. No longs to reach her crown.
 longs to reach her crown.
 wi - der is the gate, No broad - er is the way, No smoother is the wi - der is the gate, No broad - er is the way, No smoother is the
 No wi - der is the gate, No broad - er is the way, No
 No wi - der is the gate, No broad - er is the way, No

portamento. port. pp f
portamento. port. pp f portamento. port. pp f pp f mf pp mp mp
f dim. p sf mp mp
p

cres. f

an - cient path That leads to light and day.

cres. f

an - cient path That leads to light and day.

cres. f

smooth - er is the path That leads to light and day.

cres. f

smooth - er is the path That leads to light and day.

cres. f

Agitato. sf

No fee - bler . . is the foe, No slack - er . .

sf

No fee - bler . . is the foe, No slack - er . .

sf

No fee - bler . . is the foe, No slack - er . .

sf

No fee - bler . . is the foe, No slack - er . .

Agitato.

sf Full Sw.

grows the fight, Nor less the need of ar - mour tried, nor less the grows the fight, Nor less the need of ar - mour tried, nor less the grows the fight, Nor less the need of ar - mour tried, nor less the grows the fight, Nor less the need of ar - mour tried, nor less the sf mf Gt. coupd. to Full Sw.

need Of shield and hel - met bright, No

need Of shield and hel - met bright, No

need Of shield and hel - met bright, No need Of shield and hel - met bright, No

cres. f

fee - bler the foe, No slack - er the fight, Nor less the need of fee - bler the foe, No slack - er the fight, Nor less the need of fee - bler the foe, No slack - er the fight, Nor less the need of fee - bler the foe, No slack - er the fight, Nor less the need of Full Sw. Gt. Diaps. coupled. Full Sw. p soft Gt. coupled to Oboe.

ar - mour tried, Of shield and hel - met bright. Thus ar - mour tried, Of shield and hel - met bright. Thus ar - mour tried, Of shield and hel - met bright. Thus ar - mour tried, Of shield and hel - met bright. Thus cres. rall. Tempo 1mo. Steadily. solenne. p rall. Tempo 1mo.

Sw. Horn. sf

Ped. open 16 with 8 ft.

(4)

con espress.

on - ward still we press, Through e - vil and through good, Through on - ward still we press, Through e - vil and through good, Through on - ward still we press, Through e - vil and through good, Through on - ward still we press, Through e - vil and through good, Through Gt. (coupled.) Solo.
 soft Gt. or Ch.

pain, or pov-er-ty, or want, Through per-il or through blood, Thus pain, or pov-er-ty, or want, Through per-il or through blood, Thus pain, or pov-er-ty, or want, Through per-il or through blood, Thus pain, or pov-er-ty, or want, Through per-il or through blood, Thus pain, or pov-er-ty, or want, Through per-il or through blood, Thus Gt.
 f on - ward still we press, Through e - vil and through good, Thus on - ward, still on - ward still we press, Through e - vil and through good, Thus on - ward, still on - ward still we press, Through e - vil and through good, Thus on - ward, on - ward still we press, Through e - vil and through good, Thus on - ward,

 Gt. compd. gradually increase and open Swell.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

FOUNDED IN 1844.

THE MUSICAL TIMES is the oldest English journal devoted to music and musicians; moreover, its existence has exceeded that of any other musical journal issued, or that has ever been issued, in this country. Founded in the year 1844, it first appeared in the form of a modest sheet of eight pages; but in the intervening fifty-eight years it has, like Topsy, "growed," and every issue now consists of seventy-two pages.

Quantity, however, is not the summum bonum of a musical journal—quality should occupy the first place. If the quality test can be put to the proof by mentioning the names of contributors, THE MUSICAL TIMES has no reason to fear the result. The following are some of the writers during recent years:—

C. A. Barry, Joseph Bennett, Vernon Blackburn, Rev. Francis L. Cohen, Frederick Corder, Henry Coward, F. H. Cowen, W. H. Cummings, W. H. Hadow, Edward Heron-Allen, A. J. Hipkins, Arthur Johnstone, A. Kalisch, H. E. Krehbiel, Robin Legge, Otto Lessmann, Charles Maclean, J. A. Fuller Maitland, W. G. McNaught, E. Mandyczewski, F. Niecks, Ebenezer Prout, W. Barclay Squire, J. S. Shedlock, J. F. R. Stainer, Franklin Taylor, Herbert Thompson and F. Gilbert Webb.

Biography has been made a special feature during the past five years. Upwards of fifty biographical sketches, with special supplement portraits, have appeared since July, 1897. These articles have been received with much favour both at home and abroad, and in Britain beyond the seas. English and foreign musicians of eminence, contemporary and bygone, have been included in this large gallery of MUSICAL TIMES Biographical Sketches: the subjoined list of names speaks for itself.

Illustrations have become an important and almost indispensable adjunct of present-day periodicals. This much appreciated feature has of late been considerably developed in the pages of THE MUSICAL TIMES. A series of articles on English Cathedral and College Chapels has furnished scope for the pictorial embellishment of the descriptive matter relating to these interesting subjects. This Cathedral series will be continued, and also the articles on important musical libraries, public and private.

The survey under the heading Church and Organ Music has been greatly extended. The aim has been to provide matter that shall be both interesting and of practical helpfulness to those who officiate in "Quires and places where they sing" and play.

The old-established characteristics of THE MUSICAL TIMES have been brought up to date. The "Occasional Notes," or leaderettes—as they are sometimes fancifully termed—cover a wide range of subjects. The monthly letters of such distinguished writers as Mr. H. E. Krehbiel, of New York, and Dr. Eusebius Mandyczewski, of Vienna, need no commendation; and the periodical records of music-makings in various centres of musical activity are supplied by the leading writers on music in the Provinces. A somewhat new feature, and one that is steadily growing in usefulness, is the section headed "Answers to Correspondents." No pains will be spared in furnishing satisfactory replies to the questions asked, even though the interrogations be, as they often are, posers.

Reference may be made to the music—anthems or part-songs—appearing month by month, and to other well-known features of this old-established journal. THE MUSICAL TIMES has a large circle of friends and well-wishers in various parts of the world; and the many gratifying tokens of appreciation that are constantly being received, not only by letter but by frequent quotation in the Press, act as a stimulus to the Editor to increase the brightness of its pages and to make the paper more acceptable in the future even than in the past.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

WITH SPECIAL PORTRAITS THAT HAVE APPEARED IN

THE MUSICAL TIMES

BETWEEN JULY, 1897, AND AUGUST, 1903.

MADAME ALBANI.
DR. ARNE.
PROFESSOR ARMES.
THOMAS ATTWOOD.
SIR W. STERNDALÉ BENNETT.
DR. BLOW.
DR. BOYCE.
SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE.
DR. BRODSKY.
DR. HENRY COWARD.
DR. F. H. COWEN.
J. B. CRAMER.
DR. CROFT.
DR. W. H. CUMMINGS.
MR. EDWARD DANNREUTHER.
MR. BEN DAVIES.
DR. EDWARD ELGAR.
DR. EATON FANING.
MR. ALFRED GIBSON.

SIR JOHN GOSS.
DR. GREENE.
SIR GEORGE GROVE, C.B.
MR. GEORGE HENSCHÉL.
DR. HENRY HILES.
MR. A. J. HIPKINS.
MR. ALFRED HOLLINS.
DR. E. J. HOPKINS.
DR. JOACHIM.
PROF. KARL KLINDWORTH.
DR. C. H. LLOYD.
MR. EDWARD LLOYD.
MR. WALTER MACFARREN.
SIR ALEXANDER MACKENZIE.
DR. MCNAUGHT.
DR. AUGUST MANNS.
SIR GEORGE C. MARTIN.
PROF. NIECKS.
PROF. HORATIO PARKER.
SIR WALTER PARRATT.

SIR HUBERT PARRY, BART.
PROFESSOR PROUT.
MR. ALBERTO RANDEGGER.
DR. HANS RICHTER.
MR. GEORGE RISELEY.
M. EMILE SAURET.
HENRY SMART.
SIR JOHN STAINER.
SIR CHARLES STANFORD.
DR. RICHARD STRAUSS.
SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
MR. FRANKLIN TAYLOR.
MR. JOHN THOMAS.
REV. PRECENTOR TROUTBECK.
VERDI.
SAMUEL WESLEY.
DR. S. S. WESLEY.
HERR AUGUST WILHELMJ.
HENRY WILLIS.

THE MUSICAL TIMES is published on the 1st of every month. Price 4d. Annual Subscription, post free, five shillings.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

No. 901.

WEARY WIND OF THE WEST.—Edward Elgar.

Price 3d.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK.

A COLLECTION OF PART-SONGS, GLEES, AND MADRIGALS.

IN VOLUMES, CLOTH, GILT, 5s. EACH; OR IN SEPARATE NUMBERS.

FIRST SERIES.

17	All among the barley (Price)	E. Stirling	2d.	11	Integer Vitæ. T.T.B.B.	Fleming	4d.
20	An emigrant's song	W. Macfarren	2d.	21	June (She is coming) (Price). S.S.A. ...	Finlay Dun	2d.
25	Awake! the starry midnight hour (Serenade) Mendelssohn ...	E. G. Monk	2d.	10	Magdalen College song (Lily, sweet lily). S.S.A.B. ...	E. G. Monk	2d.
3	Boating song (The sun is high)	G. A. Macfarren	3d.	27	O happy he who liveth. S.S.A.T.B.	Gastoldi	2d.
36	Come away, death. S.A.T.T.B.	Douland	2d.	12	Orpheus with his lute	G. A. Macfarren	4d.
14	Come, heavy sleep	G. A. Macfarren	3d.	1	Our native land	G. Reichardt	2d.
8	Countryman's song (Oh, the sweet contentment)	E. G. Monk	2d.	27	Pedlar's song	Douland	2d.
2	Cricketers' song (Bestir ye). T.T.B. ...	G. A. Macfarren	2d.	21	Shepherds' song (Turn, Amarillis) ...	Brewer	3d.
29	Dirge (The glories of our birth)	S. Wesley	2d.	4	Song of the railroads	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
2	Fairies' song (From grassy blades). S.S.S.S. H. R. Bishop	E. F. Rimbault	2d.	30	The angler's trysting tree	J. Corle	3d.
15	Fisherman's song. S.S.A.T.B.	E. F. Rimbault	2d.	31	The dream (Price)	R. P. Stewart	2d.
34	Football song (Brawling Boreas blows) ...	E. G. Monk	3d.	26	The fair flower of Northumberland ...	E. F. Rimbault	2d.
32	God speed the plough. S.A.T.T.	E. Richter	2d.	6	The home fairy (Quartet). T.T.B.B. ...	Winter	2d.
5	Good morrow, fair ladies. S.S.T.	T. Morley	2d.	19	The jolly cricket-ball	E. G. Monk	2d.
28	Green leaves (Price). S.A.T.B.	Bianchi Taylor	2d.	9	The students' greeting. T.T.B.B.	Berner	2d.
13	Harvest song (Price). S.A.T.B.	W. Macfarren	3d.	33	There is a ladie sweete	Ford	2d.
35	Haymakers' song (Price)	R. P. Stewart	3d.	7	The wreath	J. Benedict	2d.
16	In all thy need	Douland	2d.	18	When icicles hang by the wall	G. A. Macfarren	2d.

SECOND SERIES.

VOL. I.—SIR JULIUS BENEDICT.

37	Old May-day, in A	3d.
38	Invocation to Sleep	3d.
39	A Night Song	3d.
40	Dirge for the faithful lover	14d.
41	A Drinking Song (T.T.B.B.)	3d.
42	Sylvan pleasures	4d.

HENRY SMART.

43	Consolation	14d.
44	Good night, thou glorious Sun	3d.
45	Hunting Song	3d.
46	Lady, rise, sweet Morn's awaking ...	3d.
47	Summer Morning	3d.
48	The Sea King	3d.

SEVEN SHAKSPEARE SONGS BY
G. A. MACFARREN.

49	Orpheus with his lute	3d.
50	When Icicles hang	14d.
51	Come away, Death (S.A.T.T.B.)	3d.
52	When Daisies pied	3d.
53	Who is Sylvia	14d.
54	Fear no more the heat o' the Sun ...	3d.
55	Blow, blow, thou Winter Wind	3d.

J. L. HATTON.

56	The Bellif Tower	4d.
57	England	3d.
58	Come, celebrate the May	14d.
59	Song to Pan	3d.
60	The Indian Maid	3d.
61	The Pearl Divers	4d.

VOL. II.—G. A. MACFARREN.

62	Robin Goodfellow	3d.
63	Break, break on thy cold grey stones ...	3d.
64	Echoes (The Splendour falls)	3d.
65	Song of the Railroads	14d.
66	Christmas	3d.
67	Adieu, Love, Adieu	3d.

C. A. MACIRONE.

68	Sir Knight, Sir Knight	3d.
69	The Wounded Cupid	14d.
70	Woman's smile	3d.
71	Autolycus' Song	3d.
72	Footsteps of Angels	3d.
73	The Sun shines fair on Carlisle wall ...	3d.

HENRY LESLIE.

74	The Pilgrims	3d.
75	My soul to God, my heart to thee ...	3d.
76	Awake, awake, the flow'rs unfold ...	3d.
77	How sweet the moonlight sleeps ...	14d.
78	Land, Ho!	3d.
79	Up, up, ye Dames	3d.

VOL. II. (continued).
SIX MADRIGALS.

Including the Unstated Prize Madrigals.

80	Thine eyes so bright (S.S.A.T.B.B.) ...	Henry Leslie	4d.
81	All is not gold (S.A.T.T.B.)	W. J. Westbrook	3d.
82	Hark how the birds (S.S.A.T.T.B.) ...	Henry Lahee	3d.
83	All ye woods (S.S.A.T.B.)	Do.	14d.
84	My love is fair (S.A.T.B.B.) H. Leslie	Do.	3d.
85	Charm me asleep (S.S.A.T.B.B.) Do.	Do.	3d.

VOL. III.—HENRY HILES.

86	When twilight dews	14d.
87	A Finland love song	14d.
88	Evening	14d.
89	To the Morning Wind	5d.
90	To Daffodils	3d.
91	Summer longings	3d.

FRANCESCO BERGER.

92	Night, lovely Night	14d.
93	Essay, my Heart	3d.
94	Childhood's melody	14d.
95	Now	3d.
96	Sunset	14d.
97	Arise, the sunbeams hail	3d.

J. BAPTISTE CALKIN.

98	Night winds that so gently flow ...	14d.
99	Breathe soft, ye Winds	14d.
100	My lady is so wondrous fair	14d.
101	Chivalry of Labour (S.S.A.T.B.) ...	4d.
102	Come, fill, my boys (A.T.T.B.)	3d.
103	Echoes	14d.

J. BARNEY.

104	Phœbus	14d.
105	Luna	14d.
106	A Wife's Song	14d.
107	Home they brought	14d.
108	Annie Lee	14d.
109	Starry Crowns of Heaven	14d.
110	The Wind	3d.
111	The Skylark	3d.

G. A. MACFARREN.

112	The Sands of Dee	3d.
113	Alton Locke's Song	14d.
114	The Starlings	14d.
115	The Three Fishers	3d.
116	The World's Age	14d.
117	Sing, heigh ho!	3d.

VOL. IV.—A. ZIMMERMANN.

118	Fairy Song	3d.
119	Good Night	14d.
120	Gone for ever	3d.
121	Flowers	3d.
122	To Daffodils	14d.
123	Good Morrow	3d.

VOL. IV. (continued).

EIGHT SHAKSPEARE SONGS BY
G. A. MACFARREN.

141	Sigh no more, ladies	3d.
125	You spotted snakes (S.S.A.A.)	3d.
126	Take, oh, take those lips away ...	14d.
127	It was a lover and his lass	4d.
128	O mistress mine	14d.
129	Under the greenwood tree	14d.
130	Hark, the lark	3d.
131	Tell me where is fancy bred	14d.

HENRY LESLIE.

132	The Violet	3d.
133	One morning sweet in May	3d.
134	Daylight is fading	14d.
135	Down in a pretty valley	3d.
136	The Primrose	14d.
137	Arise, sweet love	3d.

HENRY SMART.

138	'Tis break of day	2d.
139	My true love hath my heart	2d.
140	Doth not my lady come	2d.
141	Spring Song	2d.
142	The Curfew	2d.
143	Hear, sweet spirit	2d.

SAMUEL REAY.

144	Spring Voices	3d.
145	Waken, lords and ladies gay	3d.
146	As it tell upon a day	3d.
147	Huntsman, rest	3d.
148	'Tis May upon the mountain	3d.
149	Take, oh, take those lips away ...	14d.

VOL. V.—ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

150	The Rainy Day	14d.
151	Oh, hush thee, my babe	3d.
152	Evening	14d.
153	Joy to the Victors	3d.
154	Parting gleams	14d.
155	Echoes	3d.

W. MACFARREN.

156	Spring	3d.
157	Summer	14d.
158	Autumn	3d.
159	Winter	3d.
160	You stole my love	14d.
161	Dainty love	14d.

J. LEMMENS.

162	Drops of Rain	3d.
163	The Fairy Ring	3d.
164	The Light of Life	3d.
165	Oh, welcome him	3d.
166	Sunshine through the clouds	3d.
167	The Corn Field	3d.

No. 901.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK.
SECOND SERIES.

Price 3d.

COMPOSED FOR THE MORECAMBE MUSICAL FESTIVAL, MAY, 1903.

WEARY WIND OF THE WEST

FOUR-PART SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY T. E. BROWN *

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Moderato. molto legato.

SOPRANO. p "Wea - ry wind of the west . . . O - ver the bil - low - y, molto legato.

ALTO. p "Wea - ry wind of the west, wea - ry wind of the west . . . O - ver the molto legato.

TENOR. p "Wea - ry wind of the west, wea - ry wind of the west . . . O - ver the molto legato.

BASS. p "Wea - ry wind of the west . . . O - ver the bil - low - y
molto legato.

(For practice only.) Moderato. ♩ = 96.
p molto legato.

dolce. cres. pp

bil - low - y sea . . . Come to my heart, and rest! come to my heart! Ah, dolce. cres. pp

bil - low - y sea . . . Come to my heart, come to my heart! Ah,
dolce. cres. pp

bil - low - y sea— Come to my heart, come to my heart! Ah, cres. pp

sea— Come, come to my heart, and rest! Ah, cres. pp

* By permission of Messrs. Macmillan and Co.

Copyright, 1903, by Novello and Company, Limited.

dim.
rest with me! Come from the dis - tance dim.

dim.
rest with me! Come from the dis - tance dim. from the

dim.
rest with me! Come from the dis - tance dim. from the

dim.
rest with me! Come from the dis - tance

dim.
come from the dis - tance dim.

molto dim. più tranquillo.
dis - tance, come from the dis - tance dim. from the dis - tance dim. Bear - ing the molto dim. più tranquillo.

dis - tance, come from the dis - tance dim. from the dis - tance dim.

molto dim. più tranquillo.
dis - tance, come from the dis - tance dim. from the dis - tance dim.

molto dim. più tranquillo.
dim. come from the dis - tance dim.

molto dim. più tranquillo.
sun's . . last sigh; I hear thee sob - bing, sob - bing for espress.

Bear - ing, bear - ing the sun's . . last sigh; I hear thee sob

espress.
Bear - ing, bear - ing the sun's . . last sigh; I hear . . thee sob

espress.
Bear - ing the sun's last sigh; I hear thee sob

espress.

him Thro' all, thro' all the sky."

- bing, sob-bing for him Thro' all the sky."

- bing, sob-bing for him Thro' all the sky."

- bing for him Thro' all the sky."

Più mosso, f. risoluto. cres.

So the wind came, Pur-pling the mid-dle sea, pur-pling the mid-dle sea,

f. risoluto. cres.

So the wind came, Pur-pling the mid-dle sea, pur-pling the mid-dle sea,

f. risoluto. cres.

So the wind came, Pur-pling the mid-dle sea, pur-pling the mid-dle sea,

f. risoluto. cres.

So the wind came, so the wind came, Pur-pling the Più mosso, ♩ = 132. f. cres.

ff. p.

Crisp-ing the rip-ples, the rip-ples of flame— Came un-to me;

ff. p.

Crisp-ing, crisp-ing the rip-ples of flame— Came un-to me; Came with a

ff. p.

Crisp-ing the rip-ples, the rip-ples of flame— Came, . . came . . with a mid-dle sea, Crisp-ing the rip-ples of flame— Came

ff. p.

cres.
Came with a rush to the shore, cres. rush, a rush to the shore, with a rush, . . . Came with a cres. rush, came with a rush . . . to the shore, . . . Came with a cres. un - - to me; Came with a rush, Came with a . . .

f Came with a bound to the hill, . . . Came with a bound to the hill, came with a bound . . . to the hill, with a rush, . .
bound, with a bound to the hill, . . . with a bound, f bound to the hill, Came with a rush to the shore, came with a rush, with a
f . . .

fz bound to the hill, p Fell, . . . dim. rit. al . . .
with a bound, fz Fell, p fell, dim. rit. fell, came with a bound, fz Fell, p fell, dim. rit. fell, bound to the hill, fz Fell, p fell, . . . rit. al . . .
fz . . . p . . . dim. . . .

Tempo lmo. pp dim.

fell, and died at my feet, . . . fell, . . . and died at my pp dim.

fell, and died at my feet, fell, and died at my feet, . . . died at my pp dim.

fell, . . . and died at my feet, fell, and died at my feet, fell, and died at my pp dim.

. fell, and died,

Tempo lmo. pp dim.

dim. Molto tranquillo. ppp ten. ten.

feet, . . . and died at my feet, . . . fell,— Then

dim. ppp

feet, . . . and died at my feet, fell,— Then

dim. ppp

feet, . . . and died at my feet, fell,— Then

dim. ppp

fell, and died, fell, . . . and died at my feet, . . . and died,— Then Molto tranquillo.

dim. ppp

The musical score is written for voice and piano. It consists of two systems of staves. The first system has four vocal staves and one piano staff. The second system has four vocal staves and one piano staff. The music is in a minor key, indicated by three flats in the key signature. The tempo is marked 'Tempo lmo.' (lento) and the dynamics range from 'pp' (pianissimo) to 'ppp' (pianississimo). The score includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, and slurs, as well as performance markings like 'dim.' (diminuendo) and 'ten.' (tenuto). The lyrics are written below the vocal staves, and the piano part is written on the grand staff.

Lento.
dim. all was still, Fell, and died at my dim. 1st ALTO. all, then all was still, dim. 2nd ALTO. all was still, dim. still, Fell, and died at my dim. all, then all was still,
dim. all, then all was still,
Lento.
dim. feet.
rall. then all was still.
rall. then all was still.
feet—rall. then all was still.
rall. then all was still.
rall. still.

The musical score is written for voice and piano. It begins with a vocal line in G major, marked 'Lento' and 'dim.'. The lyrics are 'all was still, Fell, and died at my'. This is followed by two alto vocal parts, also marked 'dim.', with lyrics 'all, then all was still,'. The piano accompaniment consists of a right hand with a melodic line and a left hand with a harmonic accompaniment. The score includes various dynamic markings such as 'dim.', 'ppp', and 'rall.'. The piece concludes with a final chord in the piano part.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK (continued).

VOL. V. (continued).

HENRY SMART.

168	Wakel to the hunting	3d.
169	Dost thou idly ask	3d.
170	A Psalm of Life	14d.
171	Only Thou	14d.
172	I prithee send me back my heart	14d.
173	The Moon	3d.

CIRO PINSUTI.

174	A Spring Song	3d.
175	An Autumn Song	3d.
176	The Two Spirits	3d.
177	The Crusaders	3d.
178	The Caravan	3d.
179	Stradella	3d.

VOL. VI.—J. L. HATTON.

180	When evening's twilight	2d.
181	Ab-ence	2d.
182	April showers	3d.
183	The red, red rose	3d.
184	Beware, beware	3d.
185	The Sailor's Song	3d.
186	Good Night	2d.
187	Bly the is the bird	3d.
188	Stars of the summer night	3d.
189	The hemlock-tree	4d.
190	Jack Frost	3d.
191	I loved her	3d.
192	The Village Blacksmith	3d.
193	The Bait (Come, live with me)	3d.
194	Softly fall the shades of evening	3d.
195	Auburn (Sweet village)	3d.
196	Bird of the wilderness	3d.
197	The Summer gale	2d.
198	I met her in the quiet lane	2d.
199	If thou art sleeping	3d.
200	Spring Song	3d.
201	Good wishes	3d.
202	Parting and Meeting	2d.
203	Whether kissed by sunbeams	3d.
204	The roses are blushing	3d.
205	The Rivals	3d.
206	The village dance	3d.
207	Song of the Gipsy maidens	3d.
208	The Waterfall	3d.
209	Over hill, over dale	3d.
210	Love me little, love me long	3d.
211	Going a-maying	3d.
212	See, the rooks are homeward flying	3d.
213	Sweet Lady moon	3d.
214	Hark, the Convent bells are ringing	3d.

VOL. VII.—J. L. HATTON.

MALE VOICES.

215	When evening's twilight	2d.
216	Warrior's Song	3d.
217	Absence	3d.
218	April showers	3d.
219	The red, red rose	3d.
220	Beware, beware	3d.
221	The happiest land	3d.
222	The Sailor's Song	3d.
223	Busy, curious, thirsty fly	2d.
224	Good night, beloved	2d.
225	Bacchanalian Song	3d.
226	Stars of the summer night	3d.
227	King Witlaf's drinking horn	3d.
228	Tars' Song	4d.
229	The hemlock-tree	4d.
230	Jack Frost	3d.
231	The Lie	3d.
232	I loved her	3d.
233	The Village Blacksmith	3d.
234	The Letter	3d.
235	Shall I wasting in despair	3d.
236	The way to build a boat	4d.
237	I loved a lass, a fair one	4d.
238	The Lifeboat	3d.

VOL. VIII.—HENRY SMART.

239	The Shepherd's farewell	2d.
240	The wave's reproof	3d.
241	Ave Maria	2d.
242	Spring	2d.
243	Morning	3d.
244	Hymn to Cynthia	3d.
245	Cradle Song	3d.
246	The joys of Spring	3d.
247	Dream, baby, dream	2d.
248	A song for the Seasons	3d.
249	O say not that my heart is cold	2d.
250	Love and mirth	3d.
251	Sweet vesper hymn	3d.
252	Crocuses and Snowdrops	3d.

VOL. VIII. (continued).

HENRY SMART (continued).

253	Stars of the summer night	3d.
254	Wind thy horn	3d.
255	The land of wonders	3d.
256	Ye little birds that sit and sing	2d.
257	How soft the shades of evening creep	2d.
258	How sweet is summer morning	2d.
259	Now May is here	3d.

VOL. IX.—WALTER MACFARREN.

260	Hunting Song	3d.
261	Summer Song	3d.
262	The Curfew bell	3d.
263	The Warrior	3d.
264	Love's neigh-ho!	3d.
265	Good-night, good rest	3d.
266	The Fairies	3d.
267	Cradle Song	3d.
268	Morning Song	3d.
269	Ye pretty birds	3d.
270	More life	3d.
271	Sweet content	3d.
272	Sea Song	(T.T.B.B.) 3d.
273	The stars are with the voyager	2d.
274	Autumn	3d.
275	Highland War Song	3d.
276	Shortest and longest	3d.
277	Windlass Song	3d.
278	O Lady, leave thy silken thread	3d.
279	Love's Parting	3d.
280	Shepherds all and maidens fair	3d.
281	Night, sable goddess	3d.
282	Hence, all you vain delights	3d.
283	Swallow, swallow, hither wing	3d.

VOL. X.—R. L. DE PEARSALL.

284	The Hardy Norseman	4d.
285	Nymphs are sporting	3d.
286	O who will o'er the downs	4d.
287	O who will o'er the downs (A.T.T.B.)	4d.
288	Who shall win my lady fair	4d.
289	Why with toil	3d.
290	When Allen-a-Dale went a-hunting	4d.
291	I saw lovely Phillis. Madrigal	4d.
292	The River Spirit's Song (A.T.T.B.)	3d.
293	It was upon a Spring-tide day. (5 v.)	4d.
294	Take heed, ye shepherd swains	4d.
295	Spring returns. Madrigal (s.s.a.t.b.)	2d.
296	Great god of love. 8 voices. Madg.	3d.
297	In dulci júbilo. Christmas Carol	3d.
298	The song of the Frank companies	3d.
299	How bright in the May-time	3d.
300	The Winter Song	3d.
301	The Bishop of Mentz	3d.
302	When last I strayed	2d.
303	See how smoothly	2d.
304	Let us all go maying	2d.
305	List! Lady, be not coy. (s.s.a.t.b.)	3d.
306	O ye roses. Madrigal	3d.
307	Sing we and chaunt it. Double Choir	2d.
308	Ditto, for 4 voices	2d.
309	The Red Wine flows (T.T.B.B.)	2d.
310	Shoot, false love, I care not	3d.

VOL. XI.—R. L. DE PEARSALL.

310	Laugh not, Youth, at Age. Madrigal	4d.
311	Down in my garden fair	3d.
312	Adieu! my native shore	2d.
313	Purple glow the forest mountains	2d.
314	Caput apri defero	3d.
315	A Chieftain to the Highlands	2d.
316	A King there was in Thule	2d.
317	Come, let us be merry	2d.
318	Mihi est propositum (A.T.B.B.)	2d.
319	Light of my soul. Madrigal (s.s.a.t.b.)	3d.
320	Lay a garland. Madrigal for 8 voices	3d.
321	Summer is y-coming in. (s.s.a.t.b.)	2d.
322	Why should the Cuckoo's tuneless note. Madrigal (s.s.a.t.b.)	3d.
323	Why weep, alas! my lady love. Madrigal (s.s.a.t.b.)	3d.
324	There is a paradise on earth (A.T.B.B.)	3d.
325	Oh! all ye ladies fair and true	2d.
326	War Song of the Norman Baron Taillefer	2d.
327	Why do the roses. Madrigal	2d.
328	Sweet as a flower in May. Madrigal	2d.
329	The praise of good wine (T.T.B.B.)	2d.
330	[The Watchman's Song (T.T.B.B.)]	2d.
331	do. do. (s.a.t.b.)	2d.
332	The Waters of Elle (s.s.a.t.b.)	2d.
333	No! no! Nigella. For Double Choir	2d.
334	Sir Patrick Spens. In 10 parts	4d.

VOL. XII.—ROBERT FRANZ.

334	Already snow has fallen	14d.
335	At parting	14d.
336	The fairest time	14d.
337	Spring's faith	14d.
338	May Song	14d.
339	A morning walk	3d.

FRANZ ABT.

340	Home that I love	3d.
341	Eventide	14d.
342	O thou world so fair	3d.
343	Spring's awaking	14d.
344	Night Song	14d.
345	Evening glow on the woods	3d.

F. HENSEL, née MENDELSSOHN.

346	Dost thou hear the trees	14d.
347	The unknown land	3d.
348	In Autumn	14d.
349	Morning greeting	3d.
350	The woodland valley	14d.
351	When woods are glowing	3d.

A. C. MACKENZIE.

352	How I love the festive boy	3d.
353	Autumn	14d.
354	When Spring	4d.
355	The day of love	3d.
356	The stars are with the voyager	14d.

E. PROUT.

357	Hail to the chief	4d.
-----	-------------------	-----

J. L. HATTON.

358	At the coming of the Spring	3d.
359	Calm night	3d.
360	Come, live with me	3d.
361	Echo's last word	14d.
362	He that hath a pleasant face	3d.
363	Keep time, keep time	3d.
364	Lo, the peaceful shades	14d.
365	Not for me the lark is singing	3d.

VOL. XIII.

366	Spring, the sweet Spring	J. L. Hatton 3d.
367	Take heart	3d.
368	The fishing boat	14d.
369	The lark	3d.
370	The moon shone calmly bright	3d.
371	The reproach	14d.
372	The swing	3d.
373	The wrecked hope	3d.
374	Twilight	14d.
375	Twilight now is round us	3d.
376	What is got by sighing?	3d.
377	Where shall the lover rest	14d.
378	Night	Gounod 3d.
379	The dawn of day	S. Reay 4d.
380	The calm of the sea	H. Hiles 4d.
381	The wreck of the Hesperus	6d.
382	Uncertain light	Schumann 3d.
383	Confidence. Double Chorus	3d.
384	The Dream	14d.
385	The Boat	3d.
386	Spring's approach. Seymour Egerton	3d.
387	Wild rose	3d.
388	In the woods	3d.
389	The rose and the soul	14d.
390	Adieu to the woods	3d.
391	King Winter	3d.
392	The Miller	G. A. Macfarren 3d.

VOL. XIV.

393	At first the mountain rill	G. A. Macfarren 3d.
394	All is still	3d.
395	Sleep! the bird is in its nest	J. Barnby 3d.
396	Hushed in death	H. Hiles 6d.
397	Evening (It is the hour)	Hy. Leslie 14d.
398	Now the bright morning star	3d.
399	Boat Song (Hail to the chief)	3d.
400	The triumph of Death	C. Holland 3d.
401	Now the bright morning star	Pierson 3d.
402	The bright-haired morn	S. Reay 3d.
403	Red o'er the forest	3d.
404	Sweet is the breath of early morn	3d.
405	Where wavelets rippled	Ciro Pinsuti 6d.
406	We'll gaily sing and play	6d.
407	Gently falls the evening shade	Marenzio 3d.
408	Lilies white, crimson roses (5 v.)	3d.
409	The shepherd's pipes (5 v.)	3d.
410	Spring returns (5 v.)	3d.
411	See where with rapid bound (6 v.)	3d.
412	Those dainty daffodils (5 v.)	Morley 3d.
413	Dainty, fine, sweet nymph	3d.
414	Shoot, false love, I care not	3d.
415	O say what nymph (6 v.)	Palestrina 3d.

(Continued from page 600.)

The change, gradually brought about, started from the Festival of 1849, when Costa began to reign. Then 17 of the 76 altos were ladies, one man less than on the previous occasion. The doyen of the chorus is Mr. William Pountney, a bass who first sang at the Festival of 1846, and who has sung at every Festival, save one, since! With so excellent a chorus as Birmingham can and is expected to produce, and with so efficient a chorus-master as Mr. R. H. Wilson, we venture to think that a purely choral work should have been included in the programme—Samuel Wesley's noble motet, 'In exitu Israel,' for instance, or some fine old English madrigal, conducted by Mr. Wilson. Such a feature would not only test the metal of the Birmingham choralists, but would afford pleasant relief to the tones of the orchestra.

The soloists are: Madame Albani and Miss Agnes Nicholls; Madame Clara Butt, Miss Muriel Foster, and Madame Kirkby Lunn; Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. William Green, and Mr. John Coates; Mr. Andrew Black, Mr. Kennerley Rumford, and Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies. Mr. C. W. Perkins, the able organist of the Town Hall, Birmingham, will occupy his accustomed place at the organ, while Mr. T. W. North is efficiently discharging the duties of choral accompanist.

The main features of the Festival programme may be summarized as follows:—

CHORAL WORKS.

The Apostles (Parts I. and II.)	Elgar.
(Composed expressly for the Festival.)
Elijah	Mendelssohn.
The Voyage of Maeldune	Stanford.
The Golden Legend	Sullivan.
Messiah	Handel.
Psalm XIII.	Liszt.
Blest pair of Sirens	Parry.
Mass in B minor	Bach.
Te Deum	Bruckner.
Choral Symphony	Beethoven.

ORCHESTRAL WORKS.

Symphony in G minor	Mozart.
Symphony—Harold in Italy	Berlioz.
Symphonic Variations	Dvořák.
Orchestral Poem—A Phantasy of Life and Love	Cowen.
Overture—Hamlet	Tschaikovsky.
Overture—Anacreon	Cherubini.
Overture—Der Freischütz	Weber.
Overture—Don Juan	Strauss.
Overture—Meistersinger	Wagner.

Reviews.

Six American Lyrics for Contralto or Baritone. By S. Coleridge-Taylor.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

As the musical genius of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor is peculiarly in sympathy with American poets, and that which is accepted as musically idiomatic of the vast continent is generally admitted, the title of this series of songs excites pleasant anticipations. It may be said at once that these expectations are pleasantly realized, for the songs possess character, distinctiveness and freshness. They are all laid out for a contralto or baritone voice, and should be specially welcome to possessors of the former, since the contralto repertory is somewhat limited. The first of the set is entitled 'O thou, mine other stronger part,' and the words by Ella Wheeler Wilcox express heart-hunger in an impassioned manner which is intensified by the music. The same writer supplies the text of three other songs of the series, severally named: 'O praise me not,' 'Her love,' and 'O ship, that sailest slowly on.' The first of these would come more appropriately from the lips of a vocalist of the sterner sex, and the plea to be chidden by a lady's eyes, rather than by her tongue, will meet with the approval of not a few, benedicts or otherwise. A lady could scarcely sing 'Her love,' since the sentiment is a libel on her sex; but the composition is a vivacious ditty, and strong-minded baritones doubtless exist to give it adequate expression. 'O ship, that sailest slowly on,' is one of the best of the series, and sympathetic singers will find in this song a congenial medium for their command of pathos. The words of the other two songs—'The dark eye has left us,' and 'Beat, beat drums,'—are severally by Whittier and Walt Whitman, the former sad, the latter stirring: each is allied to music that intensifies its sentiment and gives the vocalist many opportunities for legitimate effects.

A Bundle of Ballads. Vol. III. Music by Alex. S. Beaumont.

Song-Cameos. Music by Robert Coningsby Clarke.

[Charles Woolhouse.]

The merits which distinguish former bundles of ballads by Mr. Beaumont will be found in his third volume. They are designed for mezzo-soprano or baritone, and the singer must be hard to please who does not find some of the songs congenial to his or her style. The text is supplied by H. Kirke White, Tom Moore, Caroline Beaumont, Maggie Foreman, Lady Elizabeth Campbell, and Lady Charlotte Elliot, and the music shows melodic invention, a lively imagination, and musicianly skill, the latter attributes being particularly noticeable in the pianoforte accompaniments.

Mr. Coningsby Clarke's 'Song-Cameos,' though short and unpretending, are pleasing, and possess musical interest. In two instances the composer has selected words by Tennyson, setting the charming little poems 'Minnie and Winnie' and 'Dainty little Maiden.' The names of the other songs are 'Holy Innocents,' words by Christina Rossetti, 'Romance,' text by R. L. Stevenson, 'Love's Constancy,' and 'Love's Extravagance,' the words of these being anonymous, and respectively dating from the 17th and 16th centuries.

THE PROMENADE CONCERTS AT QUEEN'S HALL.

A huge audience assembled at the familiar rendezvous in Langham Place on the evening of Saturday, the 22nd ult., when another season of autumn concerts, under Mr. Robert Newman's experienced management, was inaugurated. As Mr. Henry J. Wood made his way to the conductor's rostrum, there broke forth a terrific storm—of thunderous applause, which gave proof, if proof were needed, that the popular chef d'orchestre reigns supreme in the esteem of Promenaders who stand still in listening to the excellent and varied fare provided for their aural delectation. We may well say varied, as the most eclectic of tastes must surely be satisfied in, for instance, a programme (announced to be given during the opening week) that was to begin with a symphony in E flat by the divine Mozart and conclude with the Washington Post March by Mr. Sousa, with a Beethoven Symphony and a Madame Angot fantasia thrown in!

The programme of the opening night covered the well-trodden ground of a Promenade Concert. We had as overtures: 'Tannhäuser,' 'William Tell' (its ever-beautiful violoncelli opening most delicately played) and '1812.' With these were intermingled two Hungarian Dances, the 'Peer Gynt' Suite, and three orchestral excerpts from the 'Faust' of Berlioz, the whole constituting the first part of the programme, with the addition of songs contributed by Miss Rose Ettinger, Mr. Lloyd Chandos, and Mr. William Ludwig. With the exception of a little roughness noticeable here and there in the playing of the band—a little defect doubtless due to the holiday interval, but which will disappear when the wood-wind and (may we say?) the Wood-strings have settled down to regular work—the enjoyable evening's music may be regarded as a foretaste of many others that will give pleasure to not a few Londoners and country cousins galore in the weeks that are to come.

The following works, all by English composers, be it observed, are announced to be played for the first time at these concerts :—

Symphony	Cyril Scott.
Symphonic Poem 'The Lament of Tasso' ...	York Bowen.
Suite... ..	'Pelleas and Melisande' William Wallace.
Pastoral Suite	Garnet Wolseley Cox.
Introduction to an Operatic Poem, 'The Bretwalde' ...	Ernest Blake.
Symphonic Poem 'Into the Everlasting' ...	Rutland Boughton.
Suite Venitienne	W. H. Reed.
Symphonic Poem	'Pompilia' Edgar L. Bainton.
Concert-Allegro for Pianoforte and Orchestra ...	Nicholas Gatty.
New Concerto for Viola and Orchestra ...	Cecil Forsyth.

For the first time in London, performances are to be given of the subjoined compositions :—

New Pianoforte Concerto	René Lenormand.
New Pianoforte Concerto	Josef Holbrooke.
New Pianoforte Concerto	Harry Farjeon.
Sérénade Melancolique for Violin and Orchestra ...	Tschaikovsky.
Kammersymphonie	Wolf-Ferrari.
Suite	'Russian Scenes' Granville Bantock.
Overture	Josef Nešvera.
Suite	'Ein Märchen' Josef Suk.
'Nuit sur le Mont Triglav'	Rimsky-Korsakoff.
Symphony in E minor, No. 1	Jean Sibelius.
New Pianoforte Concerto, Op. 2	Arensky.
Symphony No. 1, in D	Gustav Mahler.
'Spielmann's Lust und Leid,' from the Opera 'Der Pfeifertag'	Max Schillings.
Entr'acte	'L'Etranger' Vincent D'Indy.
Symphony No. 7, in E	Anton Bruckner.
Violoncello Concerto in D minor	Joachim Raff.
New Violoncello Concerto	Ewald Straesser.

Miscellaneous.

The Chamber Concert at the Hovingham Musical Festival to be held on the 23rd and 24th inst., and to which we called attention in our last issue (p. 527), is to have the co-operation of Professor Johann Kruse, in addition to that of Miss Fanny Davies, Mr. Herbert Withers and Miss Agnes Nicholls. The programme will include Beethoven's 'Waldstein' Sonata for pianoforte and Bach's Chaconne for violin. Canon Pemberton, the originator and conductor of the Festival, is to be congratulated on an excellent scheme which is sure to be efficiently carried out under his able direction.

The sixth annual general meeting of the Incorporated Staff-Sight-Singing College took place at the Guildhall School of Music on July 25, Dr. W. H. Cummings in the chair. The annual report showed a gradual and uninterrupted extension of the College examinations and of the adoption of its publications, and a steady increase in its membership; while the improvement in its financial position has been greater than in any previous year. The year's total of certificates and diplomas granted amounted to 191. Various lectures had also been organized, all of which had proved uniformly successful, and special mention was made of the debt of gratitude which the College owes to its esteemed president, Dr. W. H. Cummings, Principal of the Guildhall School of Music. The Hon. Treasurer, Dr. Warwick Jordan, and Hon. Secretary, Dr. Hamilton Robinson, were specially thanked for their valued services and re-elected to their respective offices, and after an informal discussion of matters connected with the College, a vote of thanks to the chairman brought the proceedings to a close.

A prize of five guineas for the best unpublished song (or two short songs) with English words is offered by the Barns-Phillips Chamber Concerts. The successful song will be sung by Mr. Charles Phillips at one of the concerts of the Ninth Series, and manuscripts should be sent to him at 8, Manor Mansions, Hampstead, before October 1.

A new musical Festival, of the competitive type, was inaugurated at Keswick on the 3rd ult. Mr. Ivander Griffiths, of Workington, was the prime mover, and he was supported by a local committee, including Canon Rawnsley. There were some excellent choral performances. The Seaton Wesleyan Choir and the Flimby Male-Voice Choir gained first prizes. Mr. W. H. Jude and Mr. W. McGowan, of Whitehaven, adjudicated.

The Blackburn St. Cecilia and Vocal Union have appointed as their conductor Dr. Edward C. Bairstow, organist of Wigan Parish Church, and conductor of the Wigan and District Philharmonic Society.

Foreign Notes.

AMERSFOORT.

On the occasion of the meeting of the various branches of the Maatschappij tot bevordering der Toonkunst in this small Dutch town, a Festival was held in June last under the direction of the Utrecht organist Petri, brother of the Dresden violinist. The programme included two madrigals, from a collection of the year 1590, by Jan Tollins, who was born here in 1560 and held the post of organist. He afterwards went to Italy, settled in Padua, and composed many motets and madrigals; the latter have been published by the above-named Society. Attention was drawn to this almost unknown Netherland composer by Dr. Max Seiffert.

BERLIN.

The intention of holding an international musical congress, during the Festival connected with the unveiling of the Wagner monument in the first week of October, does not meet with the approval of many eminent musicians. A document to that effect bears among others the names of Dr. Joachim, Max Friedlaender, E. Vogel, F. X. Haberl, H. Kretzschmar, W. Nagel, A. Sandberger, Ph. Wolfrum, Generalmusikdirektor F. Steinbach, and Prof. J. Stockhausen. The names however of those who have accepted now amount to 780, which figure will probably become larger as the date fixed for the congress draws nigh, for notwithstanding the hostile attitude of many musicians to the Wagner Festival itself, the list of those who have accepted invitations is said to include 400 names of distinguished German admirers of the master, about an equal number of French, and over 260 English, while up to the present 143 have accepted from the United States.

The Theater des Westens opens under the new direction of Intendant Prasch with Smetana's 'Dalibor.' Jarno's 'Der zerbrochene Krug' (The broken pitcher), Oscar Strauss's 'Colombine,' P. Mario Costa's 'Pierrot,' (L'histoire d'un Pierrot), and Salvatori's 'Die Eumeniden,' are also to be given, and of grand operas Meyerbeer's 'Die Afrikanerin' and Marschner's 'Templer und Jüdin.' The conductors are Hans Pfitzner and v. Fielitz. There will be fifty singers in the chorus, and fifty-five players in the orchestra.

BRUSSELS.

M. Albert Dupuis, whose opera 'Jean-Michel' was produced with great success at the Monnaie last winter, is a candidate for this year's Prix de Rome. Four years ago he was a competitor, and won the second prize, losing the first by only one vote. He made a second attempt two years ago, but strangely enough failed in the preparatory examination—counterpoint and fugue. The Minister of Fine Arts has now ratified the decision of the Belgian Academy to exempt any candidate who has won a second prize from this preliminary trial. M. Louis Delune is another of the candidates who will profit by this decision. The son of M. Radoux, the eminent director of the Liège Conservatoire, is one of the competitors this year.

COLOGNE.

Dr. Elgar's 'Orchestral Variations' were performed at the fifth symphony concert under Steinbach's direction, and the highly favourable impression which this clever and attractive work created when produced in this city last winter by Richter was fully confirmed. The programme in other respects was interesting. It included as a novelty Dvorák's delightful Sérénade for two oboes, two clarinets, two bassoons, double-bassoon, three horns, violoncello, and double-bass; also Sgambati's Symphony in D (Op. 16). At the sixth and last concert of the season excerpts from works by native composers were performed, also Dr. Otto Neitzel's Symphonic Poem 'Das Leben ein Traum' after Calderon, for violin and orchestra (Op. 33), which work was given for the first time and achieved a signal success.

DARMSTADT.

The Mozart-Verein recently celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of its foundation. The programme included Brahms's 'Rinaldo' and Wagner's 'Das Liebesmahl der Apostel,' and the prize song from 'Die Meistersinger.' A society bearing the name of Mozart is not obliged to confine itself to works by that master, but on this particular occasion Mozart might surely have been represented.

GRAZ.

A Hugo Wolf Festival is to be held here in 1904, when his opera 'Der Corregidor,' is to be performed. There will be a special song recital, and another programme will be devoted to choruses and to the Manuel-Venegas fragment.

HALLE A/S.

The monument to the great song-writer, Robert Franz, was unveiled on June 28, the eighty-eighth anniversary of his birthday. Dr. Conrad delivered a speech, and the 'Hallelujah' Chorus was sung by the combined choral societies of Halle, under the direction of the royal music director, Reubke, Franz's successor.

MEXICO.

Massenet's 'Manon' has been performed in this city with remarkable success under the direction of the young and clever chef d'orchestre Polacco, who conducted the work at Milan in the presence of the composer. His 'Werther' and 'La Navarraise' are also to be given during the forthcoming season which commences this month.

MILAN.

The following works among others will be heard at La Scala during the coming season:—'Rheingold,' 'Faust,' Umberto Giordano's new opera 'Siberia,' Franchetti's 'Germania,' and 'Der Freischütz.'—An autumn season will be given at the Lyric Theatre under the direction of Signor Sonzogno. The following works are announced:—Massenet's 'Thaïs' (new to Milan), 'Storia d'amore,' unpublished opera by Spiro Samara, and Charpentier's 'Louise.'—In addition there will be an autumn season at the Dal Verme Theatre; first 'L'Africaine,' then 'Colonia Libera,' by Florida, and finally twelve performances of Mascagni's 'Iris,' under the direction of the composer.

ODESSA.

A great deal of music was heard here during the past season. The Imperial Musical Society gave orchestral concerts (conductors, Ssafonoff, from Moscow, and Winogradsky, from Kieff); also chamber concerts (Fiedemann, Stupka, Pernann, and Wulffius). The Leipzig Quartet (Berber, Heyde, Sebald and Klengel) paid a successful visit, and the excellent artists, Dr. Brodsky (from Manchester), d'Albert, Kubelik, Hofmann, Burmester and Max Pauer, also found favour with the Odessa public.

OSTEND.

Two distinguished pianists have recently been heard at the Kursaal, Moriz Rosenthal and Emile Sauer. They both performed Chopin's Concerto in E minor, the latter playing also his own brilliant Concerto in the same key. Rosenthal appears to have been most successful in a 'Humoresque' and 'Fugato' of his own composition, in which various waltz themes borrowed from Johann Strauss are dexterously developed and combined. The piece is as difficult as it is brilliant, but, as everyone knows, difficulties do not exist for the eminent pianist.

PARIS.

Preparations are being made at the Opéra for the performance of M. Vincent d'Indy's 'L'Etranger,' produced on January 7 at the Monnaie, Brussels, which will be given during the forthcoming season. The title-rôle will be taken by M. Delmas, while Mlle. Lucienne Bréval will impersonate Vita, and Mlle. Mathieu Madeleine.

PRAGUE.

A cycle of Bohemian operas commenced here in the National Theatre on the 17th ult., to be concluded on the 16th inst. Smetana was to be represented by seven works: 'The bartered bride,' 'The Kiss,' 'The two widows,' 'Dalibor,' 'The secret,' 'The Brandenburgs in Bohemia,' and 'The Devil's wall.' The cycle includes Dvorák's 'Russalka,' Fibich's 'The fall of Ancona,' an opera by Carl Kovarovic, and another by Oscar Nedbal, terminating with Dvorák's choral work 'St. Ludmila,' but whether arranged for the stage we cannot say.

ZITTAU.

J. G. Schicht, who succeeded A. E. Müller as cantor of St. Thomas's, Leipzig, was born here on September 29, 1753, and the 150th anniversary of his birth will be celebrated in his native town by a performance of his oratorio 'Das Ende des Gerechten.'

Correspondence.

WELSH MUSICAL CRITICISM.

DEAR SIR,—Much has been written in various newspapers and journals anent the recent defeats of Welsh choirs and the selection of music for competition. While agreeing in the main with many of the criticisms both Welsh and English, there seems to me to be a strong point very much overlooked, namely, the circumstances attending the formation of choirs in Wales.

(1) Of what material are they formed? Generally speaking, of the respectable working-classes, men with families, whose total earnings are anything between fifteen and thirty shillings per week.

(2) What opportunities have they for studying vocal culture? Generally speaking, none.

(3) By what means do they learn their music? By the system of Tonic Sol-fa taught in the Day Schools and small classes held by senior members or conductors of small choral societies.

(4) What opportunities have the teachers had of studying vocal culture? Practically none. How, therefore, can they convey that which they never learnt, and compete successfully with English choirs who have the means and opportunities at their very doors?

Do we not complain in England that the musical profession is overcrowded, with the consequent reduction in teachers' fees, and have we not bogus societies and colleges preying on the gullibility of the public? What is there in Wales to compare even with the bogus element?

How do the wage-earning classes in England compare with Wales in the furthering of the Art. I can safely say that Wales simply out-distances England comparing means and opportunities.

Perhaps the overcrowded profession would be pleased to hear of such a fertile field, and try their chances of making a living where real artistic culture, generally speaking, can neither be had nor paid for. It is certain that much valuable criticism will never reach those readers for whose edification it is destined, and perhaps much labour is wasted which might be better utilized in doing the real thing, namely, residing in the Principality and working among those who would be only too pleased to avail themselves of the privilege. When the Welsh element here-and-there subscribe for the benefit of some favoured one whom they send to the vocal colleges in town, how do the latter turn out? And yet there are hundreds in Wales possessing similar abilities, minus the advantages of tuition.

Chester.

T. E.

Answers to Correspondents.

J. F. M.—(1) The volume of 276 Hymn Tunes by the late Rev. J. B. Dykes, recently issued by Messrs. Novello, does not pretend to give every tune composed by him. As the Preface states, some tunes were not inserted at the request of Sir John Stainer, the Editor of the book. (2) You might obtain a copy of the 'Song of Praise' from Mr. W. Reeves, 83, Charing Cross Road, London, or Mr. M. A. Middleton, Dr. Johnson Passage, Birmingham. (3) Yes, the 'Twelve tunes to popular hymns by Guido Aretino' are the compositions of Dr. A. H. Mann. He used that Italian pen-name on their first publication, but later on threw off the cloak of anonymity. The tunes correspond to the Set I. published by Messrs. Novello. (4) The Vesper by Sir Arthur Sullivan which you send us is a four-part arrangement of the refrain to his song 'Will he come?' We have heard of this strain being played at a certain wedding where the bridegroom was unpunctual, but not sung as a Vesper. What next?

A. H. L.—The hymn-tune to which you refer is an adaptation from an 'Ave Maria' said to have been composed by Jacques Arcadelt, but the authorship is disputed. Arcadelt, a distinguished Netherlander musician, held the post of singing-master to the boys at St. Peter's, Rome, during the year 1539, and gained admittance to the College of Papal Singers in 1540. He subsequently (in 1555) entered the service of Cardinal Charles of Lorraine, Duke of Guise, and accompanied him to Paris, where probably he died. Although the manuscripts of the Papal Chapel include many Masses and Motets composed by Arcadelt, his fame rests on his splendid madrigals, which placed him at the head of the so-called Venetian school of madrigal writing.

W. H. S.—Very little seems to be known of Giovanni Piccioni (or Pizzoni), except that he was organist of the Cathedral of Orvieto—one of the most beautiful and richly decorated Gothic churches in Italy—at the end of the 16th and the beginning of the 17th centuries. In addition to the Madrigals composed by him—to which you refer—the following publications bearing his name are in the library of the Lyceum at Bologna: 'Concerti ecclesiastici et Motetti a 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 et 8 voci' (Op. 16), Venice, 1610; and 'Concerti ecclesiastici o Motetti sacri a due, tre et quattro voci' (Op. 21), Rome, 1619. The British Museum Library contains: 'Salmi Intieri a Quattro voci concertati, con l'organo' (Op. 19), Venice, 1616.

IGNORAMUS.—(1) Yes, there is a regulation speed for marching in the Army. The official 'Infantry Drill' fixes it thus:—In slow time, 75 paces are taken to a minute; in quick time, 120 paces. The speed of the music for the marches would be adjusted accordingly. (2) A definite tempo is given in the 'King's Regulations' for the performance of the National Anthem by army bands; it is crotchet=60. (3) The dash above or below a note is an indication that the note is to be played staccato, not necessarily marcato, though in Handel's music, which prompts your question, the two renderings often synchronize quite naturally.

A NEW READER.—(1) For useful books, &c., on Acoustics, see 'The scientific basis of music,' by W. H. Stone, in Messrs. Novello's Primer series; 'Acoustics,' by T. F. Harris (Curwen); and the article on that subject in Stainer and Barrett's 'Dictionary of Musical Terms.' (2) Riemann's 'Dictionary of Music,' English translation by J. S. Shedlock (Augener), may be recommended. (3) The subject is fully treated by Dr. F. G. Shinn in his 'Musical memory and its cultivation' (Vincent), a book which you may read with advantage.

X. Y. Z.—In order to prepare for the Mus. B. examination you had better seek the advice of a reliable coach. It is difficult to say how long the period of preparation would be necessary to one who is 'not much at theory'; but as you are a good practical organist and pianoforte player, there is no reason why you should not become a good theorist. Do not let your coach drive you at motor-car speed.

MEZZO-SOPRANO.—There are a dozen settings, at least, of Adelaide Procter's poem 'The Lost Chord.' One of them is a most terrible atrocity in the way of tinkering. To think of the lovely slow movement of Beethoven's Pianoforte Sonata in E flat (Op. 7) maltreated thus:—

Is it not enough to make one feel awfully 'weary and ill at ease'? And what shall be said of the continuation from Op. 14, No. 2?

SUB-BAR.—(1) Messrs. John Broadwood and Sons, Ltd., Great Pulteney Street, have practice rooms for pianoforte students; (2) The variants in the phrasing of the two extracts from Bach's Gigue (Suites Anglaises, No. 3) which you send us may both be right, though we prefer the second marking in bars 30-32, and the first in bar 41. The phrasing of this old-world music is purely a matter of taste.

N. S. P.—Mozart's 'Masonic Funeral music' is not taken from a Mass, but it is a separate composition, of wonderful beauty and originality, entitled 'Maurerische Trauermusik bei dem Todesfall der Br. Br. Mecklenburg und Eszterhazy' (Köchel 477). Mozart was himself a Freemason. See Otto Jahn's 'Life of Mozart,' English Edition, vol. ii., p. 410, for further information.

H. S. M.—Full particulars of the Examinations of the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music may be obtained from the Secretary, Mr. James Muir, 14, Hanover Square, London, W.

T. W. L.—'One hundred Tunes by Dr. Gauntlett, with Hymns for the year,' were published by Messrs. J. and R. Parlane, of Paisley, in 1891 or 1892, and we believe the book may be obtained of Messrs. Weekes and Co., 14, Hanover Street, London, W.

MAGISTER.—An English translation of 'L'Education Musicale,' by M. Albert Lavignac, reviewed in our issue of April last, has recently been issued by Messrs. D. Appleton and Company, under the title of 'Musical Education.'

STUDENT.—Yes, you are quite right, the Beethoven Pianoforte Sonata in E flat to which you refer is Opus 7. In the constant practice of this very beautiful composition, while preparing it for your examination, do not allow the process to blunt your perception of its poetic charm.

H. E. W.—You may with confidence take your Colonial friends to a Sunday service at either Holy Trinity Church, Sloane Street, St. Peter's Church, Eaton Square, or St. Andrew's Church, Wells Street, all in London, where they will hear 'some of our best church choirs.'

J. G.—You can obtain an interesting photogravure portrait of Beethoven (size 10½ × 16 inches) from the Berlin Photographic Company, 133, New Bond Street. Messrs. Breitkopf and Haertel, Great Marlborough Street, also publish one or two portraits of the master.

H. E. P.—We do not know of any original organ music composed by Henry G. Nixon, but he arranged several of Handel's choruses for that instrument; he also composed a good deal of sacred vocal music and some songs.

H. D.—For information concerning the Allgemeiner Deutscher Musikverein apply to the Treasurer (Schätzmeister), Herrn Gustav Rassow, Bremen, Germany.

JANET.—The Biographical Sketches of Dr. Joachim and Mr. Alfred Gibson appeared in THE MUSICAL TIMES of April, 1898, and April, 1900, respectively.

F. L. B.—See the Bible Psalter pointed by the late Rev. Dr. Troutbeck on the lines of the Cathedral Psalter, and published by Messrs. Novello.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Vincent Novello (with Portrait)...	577
A famous City Church—St. Giles, Cripplegate (Illustrated). By 'Dotted Crotchet'	58r
The Muse of the Gael. By Vernon Blackburn	589
Occasional Notes	591
Church and Organ Music	593
The Country of Berlioz (Illustrated). By Charles Maclean	594
Coleridge-Taylor's New Cantata, 'The Atonement'	596
Royal National Eisteddfod. By W. G. McNaught	597
Some Additions to the British Museum Library	599
Birmingham Musical Festival—A Forecast	600
Reviews	609
Promenade Concerts, Queen's Hall	609
Miscellaneous	610
Foreign Notes	610
Correspondence	611
Answers to Correspondents	612
Anthem—'Far down the ages now.'—Arthur C. Edwards	601

TWO extra Supplements are issued with the present number:—

1. Portrait of Vincent Novello, by his son, Edward Petre Novello.
2. Four-part Song—'Weary wind of the west,' by Edward Elgar.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in their proper positions, Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W., NOT LATER than SEPTEMBER 21.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., LIMITED.

ABBOTT, ARTHUR—"South African Evening Song." Part-Song for S.A.T.B. 3d.

DAMS, JOSEPH H.—Two Songs: "Stars" and "Adoration." No. 1, in D flat, for Contralto or Baritone. 2s.

AITKEN, RUTH—"Laughingly glitter" the islands." Song for Soprano or Tenor. The words by Professor NICHOL. 2s.

ATKINS, IVOR—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in A and D. (No. 638. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

BACH, J. S.—"Jesus sleeps, what hope remaineth" ("Jesus schläft, was soll Ich hoffen"). Cantata, for Alto, Tenor, and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. Edited for the Hereford Festival, 1903, by IVOR ATKINS. 1s.

BEETHOVEN—Andante Cantabile from the First Symphony (in C). Arranged for organ by W. A. C. CRUICKSHANK. (No. 69. Organ Arrangements, edited by GEORGE C. MARTIN.) 1s. 6d.

BUTTON, H. ELLIOT—"Break forth into joy." (No. 774. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

BUXTEHUDE, D.—Prelude and Fugue in E minor. (No. 315. Original Compositions for the Organ.) 2s.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—"The Atonement." Op. 53. A Sacred Cantata, for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. The words written by ALICE PARSONS. 3s. 6d.; paper boards, 4s.; cloth, gilt, 5s.

EDWARDS, ARTHUR C.—"Far down the ages now." Anthem for general use. (No. 727. The Musical Times.) 1½d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

ELGAR, EDWARD—Funeral March, from "Grania and Diarmid." Arranged for Pianoforte Solo by JOHN B. MC EWEN. 2s.

FOURNET, ARISTIDE—"Quid Gloriaris." Psalm lii. For Solo Bass and Chorus, or Chorus throughout, with Organ Accompaniment. English words. 4d.

GERMAN, EDWARD—"Tarantella" (The Revel). (No. 4 of the Gipsy Suite.) For Violin and Pianoforte. 2s. 6d.

GOODHART, A. M.—"The Song of the Mile." (No. 11. Eton School Songs.) 6d.

HOLLOWAY, F.—Twelve Hymn Tunes (Nos. 13-24). Book 2. 4d.

HULTON, EVERARD—The General Thanksgiving (No. 2). Set to music in the key of C, for S.A.T.B. (unaccompanied). 2d.

JAMIESON, D. BURNS—"Pax Vobiscum." Vesper Hymn. 1d.

KRUG, ARNOLD—"Scenes from Fairy Land," for the Pianoforte (Op. 115). In Two Books. 2s. each. For Contents, see page 624.

LEAH, JOHN E.—Dedication Hymn ("Standing forth on life's rough way"). On Card. 1d.

LIDDLE, W. H.—"Song of Queen Mary's School." On Card. 2d.

MC EWEN, JOHN B.—Quartet in A minor. 1st Violin, 2s.; 2nd Violin, 2s.; Viola, 2s.; Violoncello, 2s.

—"Let me the canakin clink." Part-Song, for S.A.T.B. (No. 922. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 4d.

MOELLENDORFF, W. VON—"Night-whispers" ("Nachteschwätz"). Part-Song, for S.S.A.T.B.B. English and German words. (No. 926. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

PALESTRINA—"When flow'ry meadows." Madrigal, for Four Voices. (No. 928. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 1½d.

PARISH CHOIR MANUAL, Containing the Canticles at Morning and Evening Prayer, set to appropriate Chants, Ferial and Festal Responses, Litany, Responses to the Commandments, Final Amens, Vesper Hymns and Vestry Prayers, together with Organ Accompaniments to the Lord's Prayer, Apostles' and Nicene Creeds. 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s.

PARRY, C. HUBERT H.—"Voces Clamantium" ("The voices of them that cry"). Motet, for Soprano and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. 2s.

—"Crossing the Bar." Hymn. (No. 637. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1d.

PRICE, E. A.—Empire Hymn, for Empire Day and other Imperial occasions. 1d.

PRYOR, H. B.—Vesper Hymn. 1d.

PUBLIC SCHOOL HYMN BOOK AND COMPANION. Cloth, 4s. 6d.; leather, 6s.

RANDEGGER, JUN., ALBERTO—Sonata in E minor (Op. 15). For Violin and Pianoforte. 6s.

—"Souvenir" (Op. 17, No. 1). For Violin and Pianoforte. 2s.

—"Saltellato-Caprice" (Op. 17, No. 2). For Violin and Pianoforte. 2s. 6d.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 135. Contains the following Music in both Notations: "In woods is peace." Trio (unaccompanied) for S.S.A. Composed by FRANZ ABT. "The willow and its lesson." Two-part Song. Composed by MYLES B. FOSTER. 1½d.

—Vol. XI. June, 1902, to May, 1903. Cloth, 4s.

SCHOOL SONGS—Edited by W. G. MCNAUGHT. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo; B. Voice parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation. A. B.

No. 761. The Minnesinger's Gift

G. RATHBONE 1½d. —

(Continued on page 614.)

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

SMITH, MABEL SAUMAREZ—"What are these." Anthem. 3d.

STAINER, J.—Andante. (No. 1 of Six Pieces for the Organ.) 1s.

—Prelude and Fughetta. (No. 2. Ditto.) 1s. 6d.

—Adagio (No. 3. Ditto.) 1s.

—On a Bass (No. 4. Ditto.) 1s. 6d.

—Impromptu (No. 5. Ditto.) 1s.

—Reverie (No. 6. Ditto.) 1s.

—"Behold the Lamb of God." Hymn. (No. 640. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1d.

STANFORD, C. VILLIERS—Jubilate and Benedictus from the Service in B flat. Full Score, 4s. 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello, 6d.; Basso, 6d. Wind Parts, 5s. Organ, 1s.

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES—Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT:—

No. 455.* Hail! smiling morn (Edition in C, for S.A.T.B.) .. R. SPOFFORTH 1d.

.. 1321. The Heroes .. F. H. COWEN 1½d.

.. 1322. We love our island story .. EATON FANING 1½d.

PARRY, C. HUBERT—"War and Peace." A Symphonic Ode, for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. Chorus and Words of Solos only, 1s. 6d.

WARNER, H. WALDO—"Young Cupid." Song. For Soprano. The words written by FRANCES HAYDN. 1s. 6d.

—"A Romance." Song. For Soprano. The words written by FRANCES HAYDN. 1s. 6d.

WEST, G. A. A.—"The morning stars sang together." (No. 767. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

WEST, JOHN E.—Kyrie in F. (No. 642. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) On Card. 1d

ZULIANI, F. H.—"Glory to Thee, my God, this night." Hymn. 1d.

REDUCED PRICE.

MEDELSSOHN—"Lauda Sion" ("Praise Jehovah"). Op. 73. 1s.; paper boards, 1s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 2s. 6d.

MR. SAMUEL MASTERS
(TENOR).

Bookings for Season 1903 and 1904 include:—

NORTHAMPTON CHORAL SOCIETY—"St. Paul," Dec. 10.

CHESTER MUSICAL SOCIETY—"Messiah," Dec. 14.

STAFFORD CHORAL UNION—"King Olaf," Dec. 15.

HUDDERSFIELD CHORAL SOCIETY—"Messiah," Dec. 18.

HALIFAX CHORAL SOCIETY—"Creation," March 3, 1904.

SHEFFIELD MUSICAL UNION—"Dream of Jubal," March 22, 1904.

BARNESLEY CHORAL SOCIETY—"King Olaf," March 24, 1904.

61, Alexandra Road, Wimbledon, S.W.

WANTED, TENOR, S. Gabriel's, Pimlico. Good reader, communicant. Salary, £15. Apply, E. E. Douglas-Smith, 39, Gauden Road, Clapham, S.W.

LEADING BASS WANTED.—£10 per annum; Friday Practices and Sunday Services. Applications to Choir-master, St. Mary's Church, Hammersmith Road, Kensington.

EINNAMANN SCHOLARSHIPS.—FEMALE VOCALISTS, One and Two Years' Free Tuition. Competition, Jan. 21, 1904; last day of entry, Dec. 21, 1903. Conditions on application, Mdm. Einnamann, Handel House, Widmore Road, Bromley, Kent; or, care of Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

LADY (experienced), Certificated Teacher Royal Academy of Music, is open to an ENGAGEMENT as VISITING TEACHER in high-class School in or near London. Address, F. F., 2, Friar Street, Reading.

A GOOD SALESMAN REQUIRED.—None but thoroughly practical, experienced, and steady men need apply. W. Saville and Company, Tottenham.

SMALL CHURCH ORGAN for SALE.—One manual; 6 stops. Height, 10 ft. 3 in.; C to F. By JOHN NICHOLSON, Worcester. £40. F. H. Alcock, London House, Evesham.

THE PRINCE OF PEACE
A SACRED CANTATA

FOR FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

THE WORDS SELECTED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE

AND THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"No man knows better than Mr. Gaul how to write for voices. . . 'Thou art the King of Glory,' a singularly fine chorus, worthy of any composer, living or dead. . . Throughout the work we have spontaneousness, elegance, attractiveness, in short, a never-ending charm. This cantata, which completes the octave of Mr. Gaul's cantatas, we hold to be the best. If it prove less popular than the composer's 'The Holy City,' we shall be surprised. Mr. Gaul was engaged on this, his latest work, for about three years, and we believe that all who hear it will agree that the time was very profitably spent."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"In every way worthy the great reputation and experience of its composer. . . Is indeed a work of a very unusual character, and most probably destined to become more popular than any of his other compositions. . . Worthy the study of choral societies of every grade."—North Staffordshire Sentinel.

"Admirably written for the voice, enhanced by charm of rhythm and picturesque accompaniments."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

	s. d.
Vocal Score, paper cover	2 6
" " paper boards	3 0
" " scarlet cloth	4 0
Voice Parts, for the use of Choral Societies... .. each	1 0
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	1 0
Words only	per 100 5 0

Band Parts (the loan of) on application to the Composer, Gillott Lodge, Edgbaston.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
*Specifications and Estimates sent free.*HUGH SWANTON,
THE LEADING EXPERT IN ORGAN-BLOWING.
APPARATUS FOR BLOWING ORGANS BY WATER,
GAS, AND ELECTRICITY.

INSTALLATIONS IN OPERATION AT—
St. Paul's Cathedral (London).
Dublin (St. Patrick's) Cathedral.
Genoa, Norwich, Llandaff, Dundalk Cathedrals, &c., &c.

CONSULTATIONS FREE.
A DAINY BROCHURE, full of interest and illustrated, will be forwarded on request.

62, WHITEHORSE STREET, STEPNEY, LONDON, E.

Just Published.

HUSH-A-BY, SWEETIE
SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
EDWARD OXENFORD

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
FRANK E. TOURS.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW HUMOROUS PART-SONG.
A FROG HE WOULD A-WOING GO. By
A. B. ALLEN, Composer of "Dickory dock." Price 2d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SELECT ORGAN PIECES

108 Numbers
ONE SHILLING EACH.

SELECTED FROM THE WORKS OF

Abel, Adams, Albrechtsberger, André, Astorga, Attwood, Bach, Battishill, Beethoven, Bierey, Bishop, Bonno, Buononcini, Brownsmith, Cafaro, Casali, Carissimi, Cherubini, Clari, Colonna, Corelli, Danby, Dietsch, Dietenhoffer, Dupuis, Durant, Fasch, Fesca, Flowers, Gibbons, Gluck, Graun, Handel, Haslinger, Haydn (Joseph and Michael), Himmel, Horncastle, Hummel, Jomelli, Keeble, Koslovsky, Leo, Lotti, Majo, Martini, Mendelssohn, Mozart, Novello, Neukomm, Palestrina, Perez, Pergolesi, Pertí, Pescetti, Portogallo, Porto, Quarle, Ricci, Righini, Rink, Russell, Sala, Sarti, Scarlatti, Schicht, Spohr, Steffani, Stokes, Stradella, Vogler, Walmisley, Watts, Webbe, Weber, Wesley, and Winter, with several adaptations contributed by eminent Organists.

SELECTED AND ARRANGED BY

VINCENT NOVELLO.

Bach's Prelude and Fugue in E minor (No. 42)—known as "the little E minor"—made its first appearance in print either in England or on the Continent in the "Select Organ Pieces." It was a great favourite of Mendelssohn's, who gave Vincent Novello a transcript of this beautiful work for the organ.

SHORT MELODIES

FOR THE ORGAN

Intended principally for the Soft Stops.

36 Numbers
ONE SHILLING EACH.

EACH BOOK CONTAINS

FIFTY MELODIES BY THE FOLLOWING COMPOSERS.

Albrechtsberger, Attwood, Bach, Battishill, Beethoven, Bellini, Berger, Boyce, Buononcini, Cherubini, Clementi, Cooke, Couperin, Cramer, Croft, Donizetti, Dragonetti, Dussek, East, Florimo, Eliza Flower, Gollmick, Geminiani, Gluck, Goudimel, Graun, Greene, Handel, Haydn, Herold, Hesse, Hummel, Juvin, Kalkbrenner, Keeble, Klose, Krufft, Mendelssohn, Minoia, Mozart, Natividad, Neukomm, Novello, Onslow, Paradies, Paxton, David Perez, Pinto, Pleyel, Purcell, Reading, Reinagle, Righini, Romberg, Rosa, Rossini, Rousseau, Russell, Schneider, Seeger, Spohr, Steibelt, Stokes, Travers, Turnbull, Viner, Webbe, Weber, S Wesley, Winter, Woelfl, and Wranizky.

SELECTED AND ARRANGED BY

VINCENT NOVELLO.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

WHAT SHALL I GIVE THEE SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

WALTER E. GROGAN

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

HAROLD L. BROOKE.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

PUBLISHED ON THE 1ST OF EVERY MONTH. Price 1½d.
ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, INCLUDING POSTAGE, 2S.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW FOR SEPTEMBER CONTAINS:—

GENERAL NOTES.

LESSONS ON THE RUDIMENTS OF MUSIC.

THE HARMONIZATION OF MELODIES IN FOUR VOCAL PARTS. By CUTHBERT HARRIS.

MUSIC IN TRAINING COLLEGES—ENGLAND AND WALES.

INSPECTORS' REPORTS ON SCHOOL SINGING IN ENGLAND.

SCHOOL MUSIC IN THE UNITED STATES.

THEORY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

A FIRST LESSON IN OBSERVING THE ELEMENTS OF HARMONY.

THE ROYAL NATIONAL Eisteddfod.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD EXAMINATIONS.

SCHOOL MUSIC IN CAPE COLONY.

CORRESPONDENCE.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

THE SEPTEMBER NUMBER CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC:—

"LOVELY NIGHT." Trio (Unaccompanied) for s.s.a. By F. X. CHWATAL.

"HARVEST HOME." Two-part Song. By PERCY E. FLETCHER.

ELEMENTARY SIGHT-SINGING EXERCISES.

Also, EXTRA SUPPLEMENT, containing "THE MINNESINGER'S GIFT."

Two-part Song. By G. RATHBONE. (No. 761. Novello's School Songs.) Price 1½d.

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THIRD EDITION, REVISED.

BEETHOVEN

AND HIS

NINE SYMPHONIES

BY

GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

PRICE, CLOTH, GILT, SIX SHILLINGS.

"I recognise it, without the smallest hesitation, as one of the most important and valuable among recent contributions to musical literature. . . . The best informed of professional musicians may learn a great deal about the master-works of Beethoven from Sir George Grove, whose wide reading and acute perceptiveness have enabled him to marshal an astonishing array of facts, and whose intimate acquaintance with the spirit of the master has qualified him to throw light upon pages which, to many, are still obscure. . . . I must be satisfied with the remarks already made, earnestly recommending all who recognise Beethoven's greatness as shown in his immortal Symphonies to obtain Sir George Grove's volume, and walk in the luminous paths through which he is ready to conduct all who trust his guidance."—Daily Telegraph.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.

	Staff.	Sol-fa,
	s. d.	s. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6

ANTHEMS, &c.

All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3

ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries	3 6
Five Concluding Voluntaries	1 6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

In the Press.

NEW ANTHEM FOR ALL SAINTS' DAYS.

"THE SAINTS OF GOD"

By DR. WARWICK JORDAN, F.R.C.O., ETC.

Price 3d. Ad lib. parts for Cornets and Trombones.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PIANO TUNER, up in American Organs and Pianolas, WANTED (Scotland). State age, experience, salary required, and send photo and copy testimonials, to No. 27, Novello and Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a good TUNER, with thorough knowledge of the Angelus and other piano players. Recent testimonials. Photo, age, salary required, to Whitfields, Ltd., Ramsden Street, Huddersfield.

A BROADWOOD MAN of long experience and thoroughly qualified, desires ENGAGEMENT as TUNER, or would purchase genuine tuning connection. Address, S. J. H., Green Bank, Hall Green, Birmingham.

WANTED, smart Young Man as SALESMAN in pianoforte warehouse. One with knowledge of Tuning, and accustomed to the Hire System. Apply, stating age, salary required, with references and photo, to Godfrey & Co., Ltd., 32, High Street, Chatham.

MUSIC SALESMAN WANTED (Scotland). State age, experience, and salary wanted, and send photo and copy testimonials, to No. 20, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, smart, capable ASSISTANT, of good appearance, with thorough knowledge and experience of Small Goods and Sheet Music. Good piano salesman; able to play and try over instruments. Good opening for energetic man. Apply, with photo, stating age, experience, testimonials, and salary required, J. Herbert Marshall, Rutland Street, Leicester.

EXPERIENCED PIANO, ETC., SALESMAN WANTED, for China. £14/16 per month; early Partnership. TUNER also WANTED, for Shanghai. Worth about £14/16 per month. Passage paid. Full particulars and photo to W. Robinson, 54, Great Marlborough Street, W.

SALESMAN WANTED, for Pianoforte and Small Goods Departments, who must be a good Tuner. Address, Provincial, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

A GENTLEMANLY YOUTH WANTED, as APPRENTICE to the Music Trade, Tuning, Repairing, &c., including Organs. Must be musical. High-class trade. J. T. White (organist), The Central Music Warerooms, Barnstaple.

BOOK-KEEPER WANTED, with knowledge of Three Years' System and Tuning. Full particulars to Sussex, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

PARTNERS WANTED in an Organ-Building Business which has been established 31 years, in London, with a good connection of yearly Tunings. Apply, by letter, M. Alberdene, 291A, Camden Road, London.

LADY requires RE-ENGAGEMENT in Music Warehouse. Experienced in all branches of the Trade. Good pianist. C. Price, 2, Salisbury Villas, North Fields, Stamford, Lincs.

GENTLEMAN (27), French Horn Player (pro.), Alto Singer, also good Book-keeper, &c., thoroughly experienced commercially, desires permanent APPOINTMENT. H. E. C., 25, Woodlands Street, Cheetham Hill, Manchester.

STUDENTS and AMATEURS HELPED in Composition; melodies written ("original") to words. Moderate. X. Y. Z., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

AMATEUR PIANIST, with magnificent ERARD Piano (Boudoir), wishes to meet Amateur Violinist and 'Cellist for Chamber Music Rooms, W.C. References. Full particulars, by letter, to A. B. C., care of Street's, 8, Serle Street, London, W.C.

FOR SALE.—A remarkable Bargain.—3-manual "Ideal" REED ORGAN, cost £300, for £200. Sole cause for selling to make room for a still larger instrument. Only prospective buyers treated with. Apply, care of the builders, J. W. Sawyer, Beeston Organ Works, Leeds.

VERY fine close-built CHAMBER ORGAN, by FINCHAM. Two manuals and pedals, with hydraulic blowing attachment and separate wind reservoirs. In perfect order.

GREAT: Double, 56; Open, 56; Clarabella, 56; Trumpet, 56; Cremona, 56; Principal, 56; Har. Piccolo, 56.
SWELL: Open, 56; Lieblich, 56; Oboe, 56; Gamba, 56; Viol d'amour, 56; Har. Flute, 56; Celeste, 44.
PEDALS: Bourdon, 30; Violoncello, 30.

ACCESSORIES: 3 ordinary and 3 octave couplers and tremulant. All metal work, spotted or tin; mahogany action, and Spanish mahogany case. Cost £1,000. Cheap for early sale. Apply, 26, Winckley Square, Preston.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE. Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell and Son's, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

MODERN-BUILT ORGANS for SALE.—Two Manuals CC to G, and Pedals CCC to F (R.C.O.), £125, complete. Also larger instruments. Apply, EUSTACE INGRAM, Organ Builder, 361, Liverpool Road, N.

FOR SALE, Seven PIPE ORGANS. Bargains; must be cleared. Also, Two Sets of 16-ft. Open Pedal Pipes. White and Sentance, Grantham.

THREE-MANUAL ORGAN, 26 stops; Two-Manual Organ, 17 stops. Several others, suitable for Church, &c. Special manufacturers of the celebrated Victoria Model Organs, &c., suitable for Mission Churches, Students, &c., with two manuals and full-compass pedals, from 50 guineas. W. E. Richardson and Sons, of London, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGANS for SALE or HIRE; or, payable in five years.—Two new superior high-class ORGANS at £200 and £260, on view. Three Second-hand Organs, at £25, £35, £40. Tuners sent to all parts of the United Kingdom. Price Lists, with specifications for building Organs, from £100 to £2,000. Alterations, additions, repairs. Alfred Monk, Organ Works, 556, Holloway Road, London, N.

CHAMBER ORGAN.—Would suit small church. Great: Open diapason, 46 pipes; Dulciana, 44; Bass, 10; Flute, 56. Swell: Open diapason, 39; Gamba, 39; Bass, 17; Principal, 56; Double Stopt, 44. Pedal: Bourdon, 30 pipes. Four couplers. Mahogany desk and diagonal jamba. High-class pine case. Speaking front. Price, £65 net, as it stands. Martin, 63, King's Road, Leytonstone, N.E.

9 GUINEAS.—AMERICAN ORGAN (list price, 20 guineas), 11 stops, including two knee-stops and the beautiful solo stops, voix celeste and vox humana; two octave couplers, handsome high case; in use about four months; twenty years' warranty; easy terms arranged. Packing and carriage free both ways on approval. Full price paid will be allowed within three years if exchanged for a higher-class instrument. D'Almaine and Co. (established 118 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

ONE, Two, and Three-manual and Pedal AMERICAN ORGANS at bargain prices for cash. A 70-guinea ESTEV for 30 guineas; a 120-guinea for 45 guineas; a 400 guinea 3-manual and pedal MASON and HAMLIN. Also several large Organs and Harmoniums by Bell, Smith, Karn, Alexandre, &c., at one-third usual prices. Every instrument fully warranted. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Stagg and Sons, 56, Red Lion Street, Holborn. Established 1867.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This Action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Adjustable Organ Stools a speciality. Apply, Norman and Beard, Ltd., Organ Works, Norwich.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—ORGANISTS can PRACTISE on the Grand four-manual Organ by WILLIS (blown by hydraulic engines controlled from keyboard) in the Concert Hall of the Hampstead Conservatoire. The Hall is warmed by hot water. Specification of the organ, and terms of practice on application to the Secretary, Hampstead Conservatoire, Swiss Cottage, N.W.
N.B.—The Conservatoire is eight minutes by rail from Baker Street, Metropolitan Railway. Trains every ten minutes.

ORGAN PRACTICE. Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

15 GUINEAS.—PIANO, "DUCHESS" MODEL, by D'ALMAINE, solid iron frames to top, Upright Grand (list price, 30 guineas); full compass, full trichord, French check action, &c.; in handsomely carved case, four feet two inches in height; in use only six months; sent on approval, carriage paid both ways, to any part of the United Kingdom; twenty years' warranty; easy terms arranged; full price paid will be allowed if exchanged for a higher-class instrument within three years. D'Almaine and Co. (established 118 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

BROADWOOD GRAND PIANO for SALE. Cost 80 guineas. Apply, L., 35, Rossetti Mansions, Chelsea, S.W.

FOR SALE.—Antique Square PIANO, by CLEMENTI. Perfect order. £10. Rogers, 185, London Road, Kingston-on-Thames.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

F. W. EBRALL,
Organ Builder,
SHREWSBURY.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D. CANTAB.

SERVICES.

	s.	d.
Te Deum in E. Chant Form	0	3
Benedictus and Jubilate in E. Chant Form	0	3
Te Deum in G. Four Voices	0	3
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E	0	3
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	0	1½
Communion Service in G. Men's Voices	0	9

ANTHEMS.

The Lord is my Shepherd. Four Voices	0	3
The Lord hath prepared. Four Voices	0	3
I was glad. Four Voices	0	3
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	0	2
I will magnify Thee	0	3
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	0	1½

SIX PASTORAL PART-SONGS.

Words by E. OXFORD. Four Voices.

1. O'er silv'ry waters	0	3
2. Day is dawning	0	3
3. Sing on, sweet birds	0	3
4. Lo! Autumn leaves	0	3
5. Behold! the Moon	0	3
6. Evening Bells	0	3

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Easy, Effective, and Inspiring.

A Vicar writes: "Both my Choir and People were charmed with your last Anthem."

An Organist writes: "Your last Anthem was greatly appreciated."

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM

COMPOSED BY EDWYN A. CLARE.

THE FRUIT OF THY WORKS. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d. ... O.N. 4d.
 This grand New Anthem contains many beautiful effects that singers will perceive and delight in bringing out. All the parts are good and inspiring. 5th 1,000 now ready.

ALSO:

PRaise THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 28th 1,000	3d.
A very popular Anthem, sung last year at a Choral Festival in Downpatrick Cathedral; and this year at a Festival in Wem Parish Church, Salop.
O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD ARE THY WORKS. 6th 1,000	4d.
THOU CROWNEST THE YEAR WITH THY GOODNESS. 9th 1,000	4d.
Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.
FEAR NOT, O LAND. Easy and pretty. 6th 1,000	3d.
SING UNTO GOD WITH THE VOICE OF THANKSGIVING. 13th 1,000	4d.
A splendid Festival Anthem. Always goes well.
HOW GREAT IS HIS GOODNESS. An impressive Anthem. 8th 1,000	3d.
THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE. 31st 1,000. Sol-fa, 2d.; O.N. 3d.
Very popular Anthem. Sung by 1,500 voices at Newcastle-on-Tyne.
FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. 14th 1,000	4d.
Sung at a Festival at Petersham, New South Wales.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited, 1, Berners Street, W.
 New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND Co.

TWO SETTINGS of the GENERAL THANKSGIVING.

No. 1, in the Key of G, for Voices in Unison and Organ Accompaniment.

No. 2, in the Key of C, for S.A.T.B. (Unaccompanied).

By T. EVERARD W. HULTON. Price 2d. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

TE DEUM. Four Settings in Chant Form, by C. SYDNEY VINNING. On a Card. Price 2d.

SINGING CARDS FOR BOYS:—

No. 1. RUDIMENTS AND EXERCISES.

2. FOR TEACHING BOYS TO SING A SECOND PART.

Price Twopence each. Compiled by C. SYDNEY VINNING.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHOIRMASTERS AND CONDUCTORS giving Name of Church can have FREE SPECIMEN COPIES of New Harvest Anthems, including "Thou shalt keep the Feast of Harvest." 9th 1,000 ready. (It contains a charming Bass Solo and powerful Choruses, with rich Harmony and good contrasts of loud and soft. Thousands of Choirs will be glad to see this Anthem.)
Just Published. Book 6 of the immensely popular Voluntary Books. Over 40 Editions already sold. Book 6 contains 17 pieces for Organ or Harmonium. Price 1s. 6d., post-free. An Organist writes: "They are the best Books of Voluntaries I have ever had the pleasure to play." Address, Caleb Simper, "Kilbirnie," Barnstaple.

Auction Rooms, specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK AND SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

CALEB SIMPER'S FAMOUS COMPOSITIONS,

Whose popularity increases year by year.
 Over 3,000,000 Copies have been sold.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM FOR 1903.

"THOU SHALT KEEP THE FEAST OF HARVEST."

Price 4d. Sol-fa Edition, 2d.

"An Anthem which fully maintains Mr. Simper's reputation."

POPULAR HARVEST ANTHEMS.

*ALL THY WORKS SHALL PRAISE THEE. 26th 1,000.	4d.
*AND GOD SAID, LET THE EARTH. 94th edit.	3d.
*FEAR NOT, O LAND. 54th 1,000	3d.
*GREAT AND MARVELLOUS. 9th 1,000	3d.
*HE GIVETH FOOD. 18th 1,000	4d.
*HE WATERETH THE HILLS. 33rd 1,000	4d.
(Suitable for other Festivals.)
*HIS PROMISE TRUE. 7th 1,000	4d.
*HIS WORKS OF LOVE. 13th 1,000	4d.
*I WILL FEED MY FLOCK. 64th 1,000	4d.
(Sung at Choral Festival, Woodstock.)
*LET US THANK THE LORD OUR GOD. 12th 1,000	3d.
*MAKE A JOYFUL NOISE. 44th 1,000	3d.
(Sung at various Choral Festivals.)
*O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD. 23rd 1,000	4d.
*PRAISE THE LORD, O MY SOUL. 43rd 1,000	3d.
(Sung at a Choral Festival, Ledbury.)
*SING A SONG OF PRAISE. 8th 1,000	4d.
*THE EARTH IS FULL OF THY RICHES. 13th 1,000	4d.
*THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S. 16th 1,000	3d.
*THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE. 12th 1,000	3d.
*THE LORD IS GOOD. 11th 1,000	4d.
*THE LORD IS LOVING. 24th 1,000	4d.
*THEY THAT SOW IN TEARS. 27th edit.	3d.
*THOU ART GOD ALONE. 9th 1,000	4d.
*THOU OPENEST THINE HAND. 24th 1,000	4d.
*THY BARN SHALL BE FILLED WITH PLENTY. 11th 1,000	3d.
*WHAT SHALL I RENDER UNTO THE LORD? 20th 1,000	4d.
(Sung at a Choral Festival at Llandrindod Wells; also by the Choirs of the Kilmore Diocesan Choral Union, 600 voices.)
*WHILE THE EARTH REMAINETH. 19th 1,000	3d.
PRaise THY GOD, O ZION. 13th 1,000	3d.
(Sung at a Choral Festival, Skegness.)
Those marked * are also done in Tonic Sol-fa.

TWELVE

NEW AND POPULAR HARVEST CAROLS.

Nos. 1 to 12, each 1d. Words only also issued.

THE FAVOURITE SACRED CANTATA

THE ROLLING SEASONS.

The Seventeenth Thousand.

Price, O.N., 1s. 6d.; Sol-fa, 1s. Orchestral Parts printed.

(When a band is not available, the work can be rendered with Organ or Piano alone. Time, about thirty-five minutes.)

A New Number (Book 6) is now ready of

THE VERY POPULAR VOLUNTARY BOOKS.

Post-free, 1s. 6d. net each Book. (Price in America, 60 cents.)

FOR ORGAN, AMERICAN ORGAN, OR HARMONIUM.

Seventeen Pieces in each.

Useful, Easy, and Effective. On Two Staves, with Pedal Part indicated.

Seventeen Voluntaries. Book 1 net 1s. 6d.

Seventeen Voluntaries. Book 2 1s. 6d.

Seventeen Voluntaries. Book 3 1s. 6d.

Seventeen Voluntaries. Book 4 1s. 6d.

Seventeen Voluntaries. Book 5 1s. 6d.

Seventeen Voluntaries. Book 6 (just out) 1s. 6d.

The March in F (from Book 2 of the above series) was played as a Concluding Voluntary at the English Church, Lisbon, on the occasion of KING EDWARD VII.'s recent visit to Portugal.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.—Caleb Simper's Popular Christmas Cantata, "THE NATIVITY OF CHRIST" (O.N., 1s. 6d., Sol-fa, 1s.), is now scored for full orchestra, and the separate parts are printed.

London: WEEKES AND CO., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
 Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY CO., 220, Wabash Avenue.

AN EASY SETTING of the OFFICE for HOLY COMMUNION, in D. By STRETTON SWANN, Mus.B., F.R.C.O. Price Sixpence. A Specimen Copy, post-free, from the COMPOSER, 181, Longley Road, Tooting, S.W.

THE VINCENT MUSIC COMPANY, Limited.

Fifth Edition.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in E flat. By ALFRED J. DYE. Voices only, 3d. Organ Copy, 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Seventh Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat. By WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in E. By LENOX RODNEY AMOTT, Mus.D. Festal setting. Melodious and not difficult. Price 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S HARVEST ANTHEMS.

COMPLETE LIST.

*Achieved is the glorious work	Haydn	14d.	O pray for the peace of Jerusalem	Dr. B. Rogers	14d.
All Thy works praise Thee	J. Barnby	4d.	O sing unto the Lord	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
All Thy works praise Thee	J. Kent	4d.	*O taste and see	J. Goss	3d.
All Thy works praise Thee	E. H. Thorne	3d.	*O taste and see	A. S. Sullivan	14d.
*All Thy works shall praise Thee	George H. Ely	4d.	*O that men would praise the Lord	John B. McEwen	3d.
*And the Lord said	T. W. Stephenson	3d.	Our God is Lord of the harvest	Emma Mundella	3d.
*Angel-voices, ever singing	E. V. Hall	3d.	*O worship the King	E. V. Hall	3d.
As the Earth bringeth forth her bud	A. Herbert Brewer	4d.	*Praise, my soul, the King of heaven	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Be glad and rejoice	Myles B. Foster	3d.	*Praise, O praise our God and King	E. V. Hall	14d.
*Be glad and rejoice	Bruce Steane	3d.	*Praise, O praise our God and King	B. Luard Selby	3d.
*Behold I have given you every herb	Cuthbert Harris	3d.	*Praise our God, ye people	E. V. Hall	4d.
Bless Thou the Lord	Oliver King	3d.	*Praise the Lord	George J. Elvey	4d.
Blessed be the Name of God (Two-part)	G. A. Macfarren	3d.	*Praise the Lord	Julius Benedict	8d.
*Blessed be the Name of the Lord	H. Gadsby	14d.	*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. H. Bliss	3d.
*Blessed be Thou, Lord God	J. Kent	4d.	*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	E. V. Hall	4d.
*Break forth into joy	Oliver King	14d.	*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. Hayes	4d.
Eternal source of every joy	F. Brandies	2d.	*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	J. H. Maunders	3d.
*Father of mercies, God of love	John E. West	3d.	*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	J. Scott	14d.
*Father of mercies, God of love	E. V. Hall	3d.	*Praise the Lord, O my soul	H. Lahee	14d.
*Fear not, O land, be glad and rejoice	J. Goss	6d.	*Praise the Lord, O my soul	J. W. Elliott	3d.
*Fear not, O land	C. H. Lloyd	14d.	*Praise ye the Lord for His goodness	G. Garrett	3d.
*Fear not, O land	Warwick Jordan	14d.	Praised be the Lord	C. Stegall	1/-
*God be merciful unto us	John E. West	14d.	Praised be the Lord daily	T. Ebdon	14d.
*God said, Behold I have given you every herb	G. A. Macfarren	14d.	*Praised be the Lord daily	C. Harford Lloyd	3d.
*Great and marvellous are Thy works	J. F. Bridge	4d.	*Rejoice in the Lord	B. Tours	14d.
*Great is our Lord	Myles B. Foster	4d.	*Rejoice, O ye righteous	J. Rheinberger	3d.
*Great is the Lord	Bruce Steane	3d.	*Sing praises to God	H. W. Wareing	14d.
*Great is the Lord	Arthur W. Marchant	3d.	*Sing to the Lord	J. Barnby	3d.
Hearken unto Me, ye holy children	W. H. Bell	3d.	*Sing unto the Lord	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
*Hearken unto this	H. Elliot Button	14d.	*Sing we merrily	F. A. W. Docker	4d.
He in tears that soweth	F. Hiller	14d.	*Sing we merrily	E. V. Hall	4d.
*Honour the Lord with thy substance	J. Stainer	14d.	The earth is the Lord's	Alfred Hollins	14d.
*How excellent is Thy loving-kindness	F. H. Cowen	6d.	The earth is the Lord's	T. T. Trimmell	4d.
*I will always give thanks	J. Baptist Calkin	14d.	*The eyes of all wait upon Thee	George J. Elvey	3d.
*I will extol Thee	C. M. Hudson	3d.	*The eyes of all wait upon Thee	Myles B. Foster	3d.
*I will feed My flock	J. F. Bridge	14d.	*The eyes of all wait upon Thee	Thomas Adams	3d.
*I will give thanks unto Thee	E. J. Hopkins	6d.	*The eyes of all wait upon Thee	A. R. Gaul	14d.
*I will give thanks unto Thee	J. Barnby	6d.	*The eyes of all wait upon Thee	O. Gibbons	4d.
*I will give you rain in due season	H. W. Wareing	4d.	The fostering earth, the genial showers	J. L. Hopkins	3d.
*I will greatly rejoice in the Lord	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.	The glory of Lebanon	Herbert W. Wareing	3d.
*I will magnify Thee	J. B. Calkin	3d.	*The harvest-tide thanksgiving (Words, 1/6 per 100)	J. Barnby	14d.
*I will magnify Thee	J. Shaw	3d.	The Lord hath been mindful of us	E. T. Chipp	3d.
*I will magnify Thee	J. Goss	3d.	*The Lord hath been mindful of us	S. S. Wesley	3d.
*I will magnify Thee	Oliver King	3d.	*The Lord hath done great things	H. Smart	4d.
*I will open rivers in high places	Edgar Pettman	8d.	The Lord is loving unto every man	G. Garrett	3d.
*I will sing a new song	P. Arnes	8d.	The Lord is loving unto every man	A. W. Batson	3d.
*Is it not wheat harvest to-day?	Thomas Adams	3d.	The Parable of the Harvest	Frank J. Sawyer	3d.
*Joy in Harvest	Bruce Steane	3d.	*The woods and every sweet-smelling tree	John E. West	14d.
*Let the people praise Thee, O God	A. R. Gaul	14d.	*There shall be an heap of corn	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
*Let us now fear the Lord our God	John E. West	14d.	*There shall be an heap of corn	Ferris Tozer	3d.
*Lo! summer comes again	J. Stainer	6d.	Thou art worthy, O Lord	F. E. Gladstone	4d.
*Look on the fields	Charles Macpherson	3d.	*Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness	Josiah Booth	14d.
*Look upon the rainbow	Thomas Adams	3d.	Thou, O God, art praised in Zion	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Lord of the Harvest	J. Barnby	4d.	Thou, O God, art praised in Zion	B. Luard Selby	3d.
Lord of the rich and golden grain (Harvest Hymn)	F. Tozer	3d.	Thou, O God, art praised in Zion	W. Wolstenholme	4d.
Man goeth forth	Arthur Calkin	2d.	*Thou visitest the earth	J. Barnby	4d.
*My mouth shall speak the praise	John E. West	3d.	*Thou visitest the earth	J. Baptist Calkin	4d.
*O come, let us sing to the Lord	B. Tours	14d.	*Thou visitest the earth	W. H. Calcott	2d.
*O give thanks	E. V. Hall	3d.	*Thou visitest the earth	J. W. Elliott	3d.
*O give thanks	Bruce Steane	3d.	*Thou visitest the earth	M. Greene	14d.
*O give thanks	W. Tucker	14d.	*Thrust in thy sickle and reap	Thomas Adams	14d.
*O God my soul thirsteth	F. R. Greenish	3d.	To Thee, O Lord	C. L. Williams	3d.
*O God, who is like unto Thee	Myles B. Foster	3d.	*Unto Thee, O God	W. Wolstenholme	14d.
*O how plentiful is Thy goodness	T. M. Pattison	14d.	*Unto Thee, O Lord, do we give thanks	Bruce Steane	3d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	J. Barnby	14d.	*While the earth remaineth	Alfred R. Gaul	4d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	G. A. Macfarren	14d.	*While the earth remaineth	C. Swinnerton Heap	4d.
*O lovely peace	G. F. Handel	14d.	*While the earth remaineth	B. Tours	3d.
*O praise God in His holiness	Hugh Blair	14d.	*While the earth remaineth	C. Lee Williams	3d.
*O praise God in His holiness	J. Weldon	14d.	*Ye shall dwell in the land (Trio, S.S.A.)	J. Stainer	14d.
*O praise God in His holiness	T. T. Trimmell	4d.	*Ye shall dwell in the land (S.A.T.B.)	J. Stainer	14d.
*O praise the Lord	Mozart	14d.	*Ye shall go out with joy	J. Barnby	4d.
*O praise the Lord of Heaven	J. Goss	6d.	Your thankful songs upon jubilee (Jubilee Cantata)	C. M. von Weber	3d.

THE "LUTE" SERIES OF HARVEST ANTHEMS.

139 Behold, I have given you	H. Elliot Button	3d.	104 O sing unto the Lord	Turle Lee	3d.
128 Be joyful in God	J. C. Bridge	3d.	223 O sing unto the Lord with thanksgiving	F. R. Rickman	3d.
176 Be strong, all ye people	A. W. Kettleby	3d.	*O worship the Lord	Michael Watson	3d.
201 Bring unto the Lord	Ferris Tozer	3d.	*90 Praise the Lord	F. C. Maker	3d.
163 Every good gift	A. W. Kettleby	3d.	127 Praise the Lord	Wm. Smallwood	3d.
*89 Faithful is our God	John Francis Barnett	3d.	*20 Praise the Lord, O my soul	Michael Watson	3d.
116 Fear not, O land	F. C. Maker	3d.	*203 Praise the Lord, O my soul	Wm. Smallwood	3d.
205 Great is our Lord	Arthur Page	3d.	141 Sing, O ye Heav'n	W. A. C. Cruickshank	3d.
68 Great is the Lord	F. N. Lohr	3d.	*78 Sing to the Lord of Harvest	J. Barnby	3d.
115 Harvest Hymn	Turle Lee	3d.	*107 Sing unto God	F. E. Bevan	3d.
*140 If ye walk in My statutes	F. R. Rickman	3d.	174 Sing we merrily unto God	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
*187 One soweth, another reapeth	F. C. Maker	3d.	162 Sing ye to the Lord	Arthur W. Marchant	3d.
199 O praise God	Cuthbert Harris	3d.	151 The earth is full of the goodness	F. C. Maker	3d.
164 O praise the Lord	Alfred Redhead	3d.	56 Thou crownest the year	F. C. Maker	3d.
153 O sing unto God	Arthur Page	3d.	212 Unto Thee, O God	Michael Watson	3d.
152 O sing unto the Lord	Ferris Tozer	3d.	While the earth remaineth	F. N. Baxter	3d.

* Also published in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 4d. each.

HARVEST CANTATAS, HYMNS, &c.

THE RAINBOW OF PEACE

AN EASY HARVEST-TIDE CANTATA
For Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Organ.

By THOMAS ADAMS.

Price 1s. ; Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

A HARVEST SONG

By C. LEE WILLIAMS.

For Soprano Solo and Chorus.

Price 1s. 6d. ; Words, 5s. per 100.

Orchestral Parts can be hired.

SEED-TIME AND HARVEST

By JOHN E. WEST.

For Soprano and Tenor Soli and Chorus.

Price 2s. Words, 5s. per 100, or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns,
Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.

Orchestral Parts can be hired.

HARVEST CANTATA

By GEORGE GARRETT.

For Chorus, Semi-Chorus, and Organ.

Price 1s. ; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d. Words, 5s. per 100, or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns. Orchestral Parts can be hired.

HARVEST-TIDE

By HUGH BLAIR.

For Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Organ or Small Orchestra.

Price 1s. Words, 5s. per 100. Orchestral Parts can be hired.

THE JUBILEE CANTATA

By C. M. VON WEBER.

For Solo Voices, Chorus and Orchestra.

Vocal Score, 1s. ; Full Score, 21s. ; Orchestral Parts, 15s.

Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE GLEANER'S HARVEST

By C. H. LLOYD.

For Female Voices.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

TWELVE HYMNS FOR HARVEST

Selected from The Hymnary.

Price One Penny.

NOW AUTUMN STREWS ON EV'RY PLAIN

HARVEST HYMN BY ELIZABETH STERLING.

Price Three-Halfpence.

LET ALL OUR BRETHREN JOIN IN ONE

HARVEST HYMN BY J. BARNBY.

Price One Penny.

SOWING AND REAPING

HARVEST CAROL BY J. MAUDE CRAMENT

Price Twopence. Words only, 1s. per 100.

CHORUS AND DANCES OF REAPERS AND GLEANERS

By F. H. COWEN.

From the Oratorio "Ruth."

Price Eightpence.

THE LAST LOAD

FOUR-PART SONG BY J. HAMILTON CLARKE.

Price Threepence.

THE HARVEST FEAST

FOUR-PART SONG BY A. R. GAUL.

Price Threepence ; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE HARVEST DANCE

TWO-PART SONG BY MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price Three-Halfpence ; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING MARCH

By J. B. CALKIN.

For the Organ.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE JOY OF HARVEST

HYMN FOR HARVEST BY J. H. MAUNDER.

Price Twopence ; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

THE SOWER WENT FORTH SOWING

HYMN FOR HARVEST BY J. BARNBY.

Price Three-Halfpence ; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

MAKE MELODY WITHIN YOUR HEARTS

HARVEST CAROL BY F. A. J. HERVEY.

Price Twopence.

HE THAT SOWETH

OFFERTORY SENTENCE (WITH PROCESSIONAL HYMN)

By C. WARWICK JORDAN.

Price Threepence.

O LORD OF HEAVEN, AND EARTH, AND SEA

By J. BARNBY.

On Card, price One Penny.

A HARVEST FESTIVAL BOOK

CONTAINING TALLIS'S PRECES AND RESPONSES, THE CANTICLES AND SPECIAL PSALMS

POINTED FOR CHANTING AND SET TO NEW AND APPROPRIATE CHANTS BY

SIR J. BARNBY, MYLES B. FOSTER, SIR A. C. MACKENZIE, SIR J. STAINER,
AND OTHERS.

TOGETHER WITH

FOUR NEW HYMN TUNES

COMPOSED EXPRESSLY BY

SIR J. BARNBY, SIR J. STAINER, AND JOHN E. WEST.

DEMY 8VO, PRICE SIXPENCE. TONIC SOL-FA, PRICE SIXPENCE.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED

AND

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S

COMPOSED BY

ALFRED HOLLINS.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

FATHER OF MERCIES, GOD OF LOVE

COMPOSED BY

REV. E. VINE HALL.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

O THAT MEN WOULD PRAISE THE LORD

COMPOSED BY

JOHN B. McEWEN.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

HEARKEN UNTO ME, YE HOLY CHILDREN

COMPOSED BY

W. H. BELL.

Price Threepence.

BREAK FORTH INTO JOY
FOR BARITONE SOLO AND CHORUS

COMPOSED BY

H. ELLIOT BUTTON.

Price Threepence.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

LET THE PEOPLE PRAISE THEE,
O GOD

COMPOSED BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

IS IT NOT WHEAT-HARVEST TO-DAY

COMPOSED BY

THOMAS ADAMS.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

BE GLAD AND REJOICE

COMPOSED BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

PRAISED BE THE LORD DAILY

COMPOSED BY

C. HARFORD LLOYD.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE GLORY OF LEBANON

COMPOSED BY

HERBERT W. WAREING.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THOU, O GOD, ART PRAISED IN ZION

COMPOSED BY

W. WOLSTENHOLME.

Price Fourpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

UNTO THEE, O GOD

COMPOSED BY

W. WOLSTENHOLME.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Demy 8vo, Cloth, Gilt, 45s pages. Price 5s.

HYMN TUNES AND LITANIES

(276)

COMPOSED BY

REV. J. B. DYKES, MUS. DOC.

COLLECTED FROM VARIOUS SOURCES

INCLUDING

MANY HITHERTO UNPUBLISHED.

EXTRACT FROM INTRODUCTION.

The Rev. J. B. Dykes was well known to most people as a writer of beautiful hymn-tunes, but it will come as a surprise to some to find that he had written such a large number as this volume contains.

On looking through the book one is struck by the many tunes that are known and loved by all religious-minded persons—tunes so successfully wedded to the words, that it would be difficult, if not impossible, to get on without them. . . . They are "on the lips of thousands," and are associated with the most solemn moments of life. But because Dr. Dykes was happy in expressing emotions in a way that was intelligible to the masses, we must not overlook the real difficulty and merit of discovering a musical way to the hearts of men—for not every great composer has been successful with hymn-tunes.

The world is richer for Dr. Dykes's music, and his memory deserves to be loved and honoured by all those who, like himself, strive to follow in the footsteps of the Divine Master.

GEORGE C. MARTIN.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE MALE VOICE CHANT-BOOK

A COLLECTION OF

THREE-PART (A.T.B.) CHANTS

ADAPTED TO THE BOOK OF PSALMS.

Price Three Shillings.
In Cloth, 4s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

POPULAR HARVEST ANTHEMS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM

FULL, EASY, EFFECTIVE.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

O GIVE THANKS.

SING UNTO THE LORD.

GREAT IS THE LORD.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

HARVEST ANTHEMS

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS D., CANTAB.

	s.	d.
Blessed be Thou. Four Voices	...	0 3
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	...	0 1
O clap your hands	...	0 4
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa	...	0 2
Harvest or Festival Hymn. Words and Music	...	0 1

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Sixth Thousand.

WHILE THE EARTH REMAINETH. Anthem for Harvest. Quartet and Chorus. By W. H. HOLLOWAY.
Price 3d.

"A pleasing and tuneful composition."—Manchester City News.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Demy 8vo, 72 pp., price One Shilling and Sixpence.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s. 6d.

CLOTH, TWO SHILLINGS.

THE PARISH CHOIR MANUAL

CONTAINING

THE CANTICLES AT MORNING AND EVENING PRAYER
SET TO APPROPRIATE CHANTS

FERIAL AND FESTAL RESPONSES, LITANY, RESPONSES TO THE COMMANDMENTS, FINAL AMENS, VESPER HYMNS AND VESTRY PRAYERS

TOGETHER WITH

ORGAN ACCOMPANIMENTS TO THE LORD'S PRAYER, APOSTLES' AND NICENE CREEDS.

The Canticles, with the Cathedral Psalter Pointing, have been set to appropriate Chants by Sir John Stainer, Sir George C. Martin, Sir Joseph Barnby, Sir George Elvey, and other well-known church composers.

The Responses to the Commandments have been selected from the Services of the above composers as well as those of Myles B. Foster, Dr. Garrett, C. Gounod, Dr. E. J. Hopkins, Dr. C. H. Lloyd, Merbecke, H. Smart, John E. West, S. S. Wesley, and others.

Sir John Stainer's Sevenfold Amen is also included, as well as Vesper Hymns by Beethoven, Sullivan, and others; concluding with two Vestry Prayers by S. S. Wesley and the Rev. Canon Hervey.

PREFACE.

Organists, choirmasters, and librarians of choirs often have occasion to wish for a choral service-book of a comprehensive nature. This desideratum the "Parish Choir Manual" seeks to meet by supplying within one cover the Canticles for Morning and Evening Prayer, Responses (Ferial, Festal, and to the Commandments), Final Amens, Vesper Hymns, and Vestry Prayers, in addition to organ accompaniments to the Lord's Prayer and the Apostles' and Nicene Creeds.

The constant usefulness and the practicability of such a compilation are obvious, and a glance at the names of the composers will assure confidence in a publication that should commend itself for use "in quires and places where they sing."

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED, AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

NOW READY.

SELECTED PIANOFORTE STUDIES

PROGRESSIVELY ARRANGED

BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

IN TWO SETS (EIGHT BOOKS).

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

THE present collection of Studies is designed to provide teachers with a short course of Pianoforte Technique adapted to the needs of the average pupil, the intention being to spare the teacher the labour of choosing a sufficiently varied selection from the large mass of material existing, and at the same time to ensure that the different departments of technique shall be undertaken in the order which experience has proved to be the most beneficial.

The Studies are grouped in two Sets, and are so arranged that the different Books in which they are contained may be taken in consecutive order, but pupils who are already further advanced than the elementary stage represented by Set I. may commence at once with Set II., which will be found to be complete in itself, and to illustrate all the essential elements of technique.

Where additional studies are desired, or studies on certain subjects which are not touched upon in this series, the larger collection, published under the title of "Progressive Studies" (from which the present examples have been selected), is of course available.

London, 1903.

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH BOOK.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED, AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

NOVELLO'S SERVICES, ANTHEMS, &c.

FOR MEN'S VOICES.

SERVICES.

No.		s.	d.
40.	BLAIR, HUGH.—Communion Service in G. T.B. ...	1	0
14.	COBB, GERARD F.—Magnificat and Nunc dim. in F. T.B.B. ...	0	6
16.	CORFEE, C. J.—Ditto, in E flat. T.T.B.B. (Sol-fa, 1 st ed.) ...	0	4
25.	DISTIN, THEODORE.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G. A.T.T.B. ...	0	6
48.	FORD, E.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E flat. A.T.T.B. ...	0	4
19.	GARRETT, GEORGE.—Ditto, ditto, in B flat. T.T.B.B. ...	0	6
23.	HAYNES, BATTISON.—Ditto, ditto, in D. A.T.T.B. ...	0	6
18.	ILIFFE, FREDERICK.—Ditto, ditto, in D. T.T.B.B. ...	0	6
46.	LEMARE, EDWIN H.—Final Amen. A.T.T.B.B. (on Card) ...	0	1
38.	LLOYD, C. H.—Versicles, Responses, and Litany. T.T.B.B. ...	0	6
39.	MARTIN, G. C.—Te Deum in A flat, with Benedictus in G. A.T.T.B. ...	0	6
59.	NAYLOR, E. W.—Te Deum in A flat. T.B. ...	0	4
60.	NAYLOR, E. W.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G. T.B. ...	0	4
13.	READ, F. J.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D. A.T.E. ...	0	6
33.	READ, F. J.—Te Deum and Jubilate in B flat. A.T.B. ...	0	6
58.	READ, F. J.—Benedictus in B flat. A.T.B. ...	0	4
9.	READ, F. J.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F. A.T.T.B. ...	0	6
35.	SELBY, B. LUARD.—Ditto, ditto, in E. T.T.B.B. ...	0	6
37.	SELBY, B. LUARD.—Ditto, ditto, in G. A.T.T.B. ...	0	6
49.	STAINER, JOHN.—Te Deum. A.T.T.F. ...	0	4
49.	STAINER, JOHN.—Benedictus. A.T.T.B. ...	0	4
54.	STAINER, JOHN.—Communion Service. A.T.T.E. ...	1	0
54.	STAINER, JOHN.—Versicles and Responses. A.T.T.B. ...	0	6
26.	STEGGALL, CHARLES.—Te Deum and Benedictus in B flat. A.T.T.B. ...	0	8
27.	STEGGALL, CHARLES.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat. A.T.T.B. ...	0	6
32.	WEST, JOHN E.—Ditto, ditto, in C. A.T.T.B. ...	0	6
21.	WEST, JOHN E.—Ditto, ditto, in E flat. A.T.T.B. ...	0	6
41.	WEST, JOHN E.—Te Deum laudamus and Benedictus in E flat. A.T.T.E. ...	0	8

ANTHEMS.

57.	AKERMAN, R. F. M.—Lo my Shepherd is divine. A.T.B. ...	0	2
17.	BARNBY, J.—Lord of all power and might. A.T.T.B. ...	0	2
34.	BARNICOTT, R. S.—O worship the Lord. A.T.T.B. ...	0	3
31.	BENNETT, W. STERDALE.—God is a Spirit (The Woman of Samaria). A.T.T.E. ...	0	6
15.	CALDICOTT, A. J.—Behold, how good and joyful. A.T.T.B. ...	0	3
5.	CALKIN, J. B.—Thou wilt keep him. A.T.T.B. ...	0	2
24.	CULLEY, ARNOLD D.—Try me, O God. A.T.T.B. ...	0	2
20.	DISTIN, THEODORE.—Hear me when I call. A.T.T.B. ...	0	2
54.	DVOŘÁK.—At Thy feet in adoration (Fac me vere), from the Stabat Mater . Tenor Solo and T.T.B.B. ...	0	3
42.	ELGAR, E.—Seek Him that maketh the seven stars (The Light of Life). T.T.B.B. ...	0	6
7.	FORD, ERNEST.—O Lord God of my salvation (Domine Deus). T.T.B.B. ...	0	4
44.	GLADSTONE, F. E.—Almighty and everlasting God. A.T.B. ...	0	3
1.	GOUNOD, CH.—As the hart pants. T.T.B.E. ...	0	3
30.	HANDEL.—The Lord is a man of war (Israel in Egypt). R.B. ...	0	1 1/2
22.	ILIFFE, FREDERICK.—Jesu, Lover of my soul. A.T.T.B. ...	0	2
43.	LLOYD, C. H.—Lord, teach us to number our days. A.A.T.T.B.B. ...	0	3
4.	MENDELSSOHN.—The word went forth (Festgesang). T.T.B.B. ...	0	4
5.	MENDELSSOHN.—For ever blessed (Beati mortui). T.T.B.B. ...	0	3
6.	MENDELSSOHN.—The righteous living for ever (Periti autem). T.T.B.B. ...	0	3
29.	MENDELSSOHN.—The Lord hath commanded (Psaln 42). T.T.B.B. ...	0	4
8.	READ, F. J.—My soul, wait thou still. A.T.T.E. ...	0	4
51.	READ, F. J.—Sing we merrily unto God. A.T. ...	0	2
47.	READ, F. J.—Why art thou so heavy. A Solo and A.T.B. ...	0	1 1/2
28.	ROBERTS, J. VARLEY.—O Saviour of the world. A.T.T.B. ...	0	2
10.	SAWYER, F. J.—Ponder my words. A.T.T.B. ...	0	2
2.	SCHUBERT, F.—Great is Jehovah. T.T.B.B. ...	0	4
11.	THORNE, E. H.—Let us now praise famous men. T.T.B.B. ...	0	3
12.	THORNE, E. H.—Let my complaint come before Thee. A.A.T.T.B.E. ...	0	3
56.	WEST, JOHN E.—Comfort the soul of Thy servant. T. Solo and A.T.T.B. ...	0	4
36.	WEST, JOHN E.—Whom have I in heaven but Thee. A.T.T.B. ...	0	3
53.	WEST, JOHN, E.—O tarry thou the Lord's leisure. A.T.T.B. ...	0	2

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NEW WORK.

STOOD THE MOURNFUL MOTHER WEeping

(STABAT MATER DOLOROSA)

ENGLISH TRANSLATION BY
REV. J. MONSELL

MUSIC BY
F. ROLLASON.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

"We know nothing of the composer, but he must be possessed of some courage to produce an English version of the 'Stabat Mater.' The text is translated by the Rev. J. Monsell, D.D. The work is divided into the usual ten numbers, with slight modifications. The opening chorus, 'Stood the mournful mother weeping,' is in F minor, and has a striking and passionate introduction. With the entry of the voices, the treatment is severe, and in the ecclesiastical style, but the expression is modern. The first part is employed in the last chorus, 'When my mortal body, dying,' but then changing to the major at 'Take my soul to Paradise,' and concluding with a well-worked-out fugue at 'To adore Thee, my God.' No. 6, 'Holy Father, let affliction,' is one of the most elaborate numbers. It is for soprano solo and chorus. In this the influence of Dvořák seems apparent, as that of Rossini appears in No. 4, 'For the sins of each offender,' but there is no direct imitation. The composer has individuality, and is a skilled musician. No. 9, 'Make me with His stripes be stricken,' beginning with a tenor solo, followed by a solo for bass, and concluding with a quartet, is a fine piece of writing; and the whole composition reveals not only a high aim, but the ability to achieve it."—Birmingham Daily Post.

Published separately:

No. 5. CHORUS (unaccompanied), "JESU, FOUNT OF LOVE,"
Price 1st d.

"No. 5, 'Jesu, Fount of Love,' is a chorus, anthem-like in character. The sensuous harmony of which cannot fail to touch the feelings, if it be well sung, without accompaniment, as suggested."—Coventry Herald.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

DOREMI'S AIDS TO MUSIC TEACHERS.

DOREMI'S OBJECT LESSON COPY BOOK for Music Pupils.

Two Parts, is. each net. Thousands of Testimonials.
DOREMI'S celebrated MS. PAPER, warranted to stand the test of rubbing out.

DOREMI'S MUSIC PEN, invaluable for Music or ordinary writing.
Price 6d. per Box, hard or soft.

DOREMI'S GRADUATED SERIES for Young Pupils. Beautiful editions, Foreign and English Fingering.

DOREMI'S PRACTICAL HARMONY, by DONALD McHARDY.
Price 2s. 6d. net. A novel and interesting method.

DOREMI'S AID TO MEMORY CARD. Invaluable to Examination Students. Price 2d.

DOREMI'S REGISTER CARD. Price 3d. Teacher's name and address free on too.

DOREMI'S SIGHT SINGING, by ROBERT McHARDY.
Please send for latest lists. Parcels on selection on receipt of references.

DOREMI AND Co., Music Publishers, 9, Argyll Place, Regent Street, W.

By ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

4to, printed on thick Card, is. net each.

CHART OF THE RULES OF HARMONY FOR STUDENTS.

Musical Standard.—"Very clever and most successful. . . This compact little chart, perfectly printed on a couple of cardboards joined together, gives all the rules of harmony, and also examples." School World.—"Supplies a want well known both to students and teachers of harmony. In a short compass Mr. Somervell has managed to exhibit all that is really essential in dealing with the fundamental principles of musical theory."

CHART OF THE RULES OF COUNTERPOINT WITH EXERCISES FOR STUDENTS.

Musical Opinion.—"In conjunction with a good, reliable text-book, the chart cannot fail to be helpful." Scotsman.—"Most valuable for ready reference."

SELECTIONS FROM PALESTRINA, by MISS GREGORY.
Complete list on application.

LONDON: HENRY FROWDE, Oxford University Press Warehouse, Amen Corner.

MUSICAL OPINION (2d.; order everywhere).—
Send 4d. for new number to 35, Shoe Lane, London, E.C.
About 250 cols. interesting Reading and Advertisements. Founded 1876.

JUST PUBLISHED.

HEREFORD FESTIVAL NOVELTIES.

VOCES CLAMANTIUM

("THE VOICES OF THEM THAT CRY")

MOTET

FOR

SOPRANO AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

C. H. H. PARRY.

Price Two Shillings.

THE ATONEMENT

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR

SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

ALICE PARSONS

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

(Op. 53.)

Price 3s. 6d. ; paper boards, 4s. ; cloth, gilt, 5s.

JESUS SLEEPS!

CANTATA

FOR

ALTO, TENOR, AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

J. S. BACH.

EDITED BY IVOR ATKINS.

Price One Shilling.

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS

IN A AND D

BY

IVOR ATKINS.

Price Fourpence.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

TO BE PERFORMED AT THE HEREFORD FESTIVAL.

SEPTEMBER 8—11, 1903.

THE DREAM OF GERONTIUS

BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

Paper boards, 4s. ; cloth, gilt, 5s. Full Score, £3 3s.

Book of Words, with Analysis and 76 Musical Examples, by A. J. JAEGER. Price 1s.

VARIATIONS

FOR

ORCHESTRA

BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

(Op. 36.)

FULL SCORE, 25s.

Pianoforte Arrangement, 3s. 6d.

TE DEUM & BENEDICTUS IN F

BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

(Op. 34.)

Price One Shilling.

O PRAISE THE LORD

A DEDICATION ODE

BY

A. HERBERT BREWER.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

FUNERAL MARCH

FROM THE MUSIC TO

"GRANIA AND DIARMID"

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

ARRANGEMENT FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO BY
JOHN B. McEWEN.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

STRING QUARTET IN A MINOR

COMPOSED BY

JOHN B. McEWEN.

1st Violin, 2s. ; 2nd Violin, 2s. ; Viola, 2s. ; Violoncello, 2s.
Score (in the Press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

ORGAN TRANSCRIPTIONS

BY A. HERBERT BREWER.

No. 1.

PRELUDE

AND

ANGEL'S FAREWELL
(GERONTIUS)BY
EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW ORGAN COMPOSITION
By DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY.INTRODUCTION, VARIATIONS, AND FUGUE

ON THE

"ADESTE FIDELES"
FOR THE ORGANBY
ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY
(MUS.D., OXON.).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR
THE ORGANBY
JOSEF RHEINBERGER.In Two Volumes, price, paper cover, 6s. each; cloth, gilt lettered, 8s. 6d. each.

Or, in separate Books:—

VOL. I.

TWELVE CHARACTERISTIC PIECES.

(Op. 156.)

Book I. Preludio. Arioso. Canzonetta.	Book II. Intermezzo. Visione. Duetto.	Book III. In Memoriam. Pastorale. Lamento.	Book IV. Riposo. Passacaglia. Marcia Funebre.
--	--	---	--

Price: Books I., II., III., One Shilling and Sixpence each.

Book IV., Two Shillings.

MONOLOGUES.

(Op. 162.)

Book I. No. 1, in C " 2, A minor " 3, in E	Book II. No. 4, E♭ minor " 5, in G " 6, B minor	Book III. No. 7, in D " 8, G♯ minor " 9, in D♯	Book IV. No. 10, F minor " 11, in F♯ " 12, B♭ minor
---	--	---	--

Price: Book I., One Shilling.

Books II., III., IV., One Shilling and Sixpence each.

VOL. II.

SIX SHORT PIECES.

Book I. Prelude. Intermezzo. Epilogue.	Book II. Canzonetta. Consolation. Trio.
---	--

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each Book.

TWELVE PIECES.

(Op. 174.)

Book I. Romance. Scherzoso.	Book II. Aspiration. Contemplation.	Book III. Agitato. Improvisation.	Book IV. Solemn Festival. Duet.	Book V. Ricerca. Evening Rest.	Book VI. Melodia Ostinata. Finale.
-----------------------------------	---	---	---------------------------------------	--------------------------------------	--

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each Book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

YOUNG CUPID

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

FRANCES HAYDN

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

H. WALDO WARNER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

A ROMANCE

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

FRANCES HAYDN

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

H. WALDO WARNER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published, in separate numbers.

SIX PIECES

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

J. STAINER.

1. Andante	1s. 6d.	4. On a Bass	1s. 6d.
2. Prelude and Fughetta	1s. 6d.	5. Impromptu	1s. 6d.
3. Adagio	1s. 6d.	6. Reverie	1s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SCENES
FROM FAIRY-LAND

FOR THE

PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

ARNOLD KRUG.

(Op. 115.)

IN TWO BOOKS.

CONTENTS.

Book I.

The Sleeping Beauty (Dornröschen schläft).
The wedding procession of the Sleeping Beauty (Dornröschen's Hochzeitszug).
Cinderella in tears (Aschenbrödel's Klage).
Cinderella at the ball (Aschenbrödel auf dem Ball).
Little Red Riding Hood meets the Wolf in the forest (Rothkäppchen trifft den Wolf im Walde).

Book II.

Hansel and Gretel fall asleep in the forest (Hänsel und Gretel schlafen im Walde ein).
The Prince awakens the Sleeping Beauty (Der Prinz erweckt das schlafende Dornröschen).
Lullaby of the Dwarfs in "Snow-white" (Schlaflied der Zwerge aus "Schneewittchen").
The gallant and adventurous Little Tailor (Das tapfere Schneiderlein zieht auf Abenteuer aus).
The Pied Piper of Hamelin pipes and disappears with the children in the mountain (Der Rattenfänger von Hameln bläst und ver-schwindet mit den Kindern im Berge).
The seven Dwarfs find the sleeping Snow-white (Die sieben Zwerge finden das schlafende Schneewittchen).

Price Two Shillings each Book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EVENTIDE

MELODY

FOR STRINGS AND HARP (Organ or Harmonium ad lib.)

FROM

SUITE IN D MINOR

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE J. BENNETT.

Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	1s. 6d.
Ditto for Organ	1s. 0d.
Score	2s. 6d.
Parts	3s. 3d.

Extract from Sir Alexander Mackenzie's letter on his Canadian tour: "While Lincoln Bennett's... 'Eventide,' a melody for strings, provoked the encore it invariably secured whenever it was performed."

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORGANISTS & CHOIRMASTERS.

Church, Sunday-School, Choral Society Conductors, &c., who have not received the new season's Catalogue of

JOHN CURWEN & SONS, LTD.,

are invited to apply for it at once. It includes

CANTATAS (SACRED AND SECULAR), ANTHEMS, PART-SONGS, MUSIC LEAFLETS,

both for Adult and Juvenile Choirs. Also Organ and Reed Organ music.

 SENT GRATIS AND POST FREE.

LONDON: 24, BERNERS STREET, W.

Just Published.

YOUTH

A CONCERT OVERTURE FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR HERVEY.

Full Score, 10s. 6d.; String Parts, 6s.; Wind Parts, 17s.
Pianoforte Arrangement (in the Press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SUITE ESPAGNOLE

FOR

ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

HENRY E. GEEHL.

String Parts, 6s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo, 2s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

ORIENTAL RHAPSODY

FOR

ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

PERCY PITT.

(Op. 32A.)

Full Score...	7s. 6d.
String Parts	3s. 0d.
Wind Parts	11s. 0d.
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	2s. 0d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S

MUSIC FOR MILITARY BAND

ARRANGED BY

DAN GODFREY, Jun., GEORGE MILLER, Mus. Bac., AND OTHERS.

	s.	d.		s.	d.
BENDALL, WILFRED.—Pas Seul	5	0
COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—Four Characteristic Waltzes	15	0
COWEN, F. H.—Four English Dances (in the Olden Style)	15	0
Coronation March	10	6
CRESER, WILLIAM.—Wedding March	3	6
ELGAR, EDWARD.—Chanson de Matin	3	6
Chanson de Nuit	3	6
Imperial March	9	0
Mazurka	5	0
Sérénade Mauresque	5	0
Contrasts (The Gavotte, A.D. 1700 and 1900)	5	0
Meditation ("Light of Life")	5	0
ELVEY, G. J.—Festal March	5	0
FANING, EATON.—"The Queen's Song"	7	6
Song of the Vikings	5	0
FORD, ERNEST.—Grand Valse ("Faust" Ballet)	10	6
Scène Bacchanale ("Faust" Ballet)	15	0
GERMAN, EDWARD.—Bourrée and Gigue ("Much Ado about Nothing")	12	0
Coronation March ("Henry VIII.")	7	6
Gipsy Suite (Four Characteristic Dances)	15	0
Harvest Dance (from "The Seasons")	10	0
Masque (Three Dances from "As you like it" Music)	15	0
Overture to "Richard III."	12	0
Three Dances ("Henry VIII.")	15	0
GLINKA.—Polonaise ("Life for the Czar")	12	0
GOUNOD.—Judea ("Mors et Vita")	3	0
Ditto. (For Brass Band)	2	0
"Mors et Vita" (Selection)	15	0
Marche Solennelle	7	6
Six Sacred Pieces	10	6
"The Redemption" (Selection)	15	0
HAYNES, BATTISON.—Westwood Gavotte	5	0
HIGGS, H. M.—"Our Queen" (Quick March)	5	0
HOFMANN, H.—"Kirmess" (Rustic Pictures). Book I.	15	0
HOFMANN, H.—"Kirmess" (Rustic Pictures). Book II.	15	0
MACKENZIE, A. C.—"Benedictus" (from "Six Pieces for Violin")	5	0
Ballet Music ("Colomba")	15	0
Courante ("Ravenswood")	12	0
Funeral March ("The Story of Sayid")	3	6
"The Empire Flag"	5	0
MACPHERSON, STEWART.—Orchestral Ballad	15	0
MILLER, GEORGE.—Solemn March	3	6
MOLIQUE.—March ("Abraham")	7	6
MORLEY, CH.—Emperor Gavotte ("Cornflower")	2	6
MORSELEY.—March ("St. Polycarp")	7	6
POPULAR PART-SONGS	4	6
RAMEAU.—Gavotte	4	6
ROECKEL, J. L.—Graceful Dance	7	6
SIX HYMN TUNES (composed for Commemorations of Queen Victoria's Long Reign)	4	6
SMART, HENRY.—Festive March in D	7	6
SPINDLER, FRITZ.—"Husarenritt"	7	6
SPOHR.—"Calvary" (Selection)	7	6
SULLIVAN, A.—"In Memoriam" Overture	10	0
Onward, Christian Soldiers	2	6
Ditto. For Brass Band	2	6
THREE SACRED PIECES, viz.:—	7	6
"Blessed be the God and Father"	S. S. WESLEY
"O Gladsome Light" ("Golden Legend")	A. S. SULLIVAN
March ("Occasional Oratorio")	HANDEL
TSCHAIKOWSKY.—Marche Militaire	15	0
WAREING, H. W.—Summergold Gavotte	7	6
WENDT, TH.—Air de Ballet with Intermezzo	7	6
WEST, JOHN E.—Maypole Dance	7	6
Commemoration March	9	0
ZIMMERMANN, AGNES.—March	7	6
SIX CLASSICAL PIECES for SMALL MILITARY BAND	3	0
THE MILITARY CHURCH PARADE SERVICE BOOK	1	0

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS

EDITED BY
W. G. McNAUGHT.Just Published.
Book 65.

OLD ENGLISH SONGS

(GRADE II.)
BY

VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.
Where the bee sucks...	Arne
Under the greenwood tree ...	Old English
Joan, to the Maypole...	Old English
Golden slumbers kiss your eyes ...	Old English
Full fathom five (Solo and s.s.a.)...	Purcell
The children are singing (Two-part Chorus). Arr. by A. M. Wakefield
Spring ...	Arne
The Vicar of Bray ...	17th Century
Begone! dull care ...	17th Century
The three Ravens ...	16th Century

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa (B) Edition, Threepence.

BOOK 117.

SEVEN

UNISON SONGS

(GRADE II.)

BY

VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.
My Dove ...	A. Medley
Violet Land ...	H. S. Roberts
Excelsior! ...	Lindsay
Poor Humpty Dumpty ...	A. Medley
The Bumble Bee's Buzz ...
Will you walk a little faster (Words by Lewis Carroll) ...	R. H. Macdonald
Things of beauty ...	A. C. Mackenzie

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa (B) Edition, Threepence.

BOOK 124.

SIX TWO-PART SONGS

(GRADE II.)

BY

VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.
The coming of May ...	E. M. Boyce
Faint not, fear not ...	H. Smart
Happy Spring Waltz ...	G. L. Osgood
Robin Redbreast ...	H. Elliot Button
Peasants' Song ("Up! Up! ye dames") ...
Spring is come ...	E. M. Boyce

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.

BOOK 127.

FIVE

FOUR-PART SONGS

FOR S.S.A.

(GRADE II.)

BY

VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.
Where are the swallows ...	H. Hiles
You spotted snakes ...	G. A. Macfarren
Welcome to this place ...	Bishop
Summer Eve ...	Hatton
The Fairies' Song ...	Bishop

Price Ninepence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Fourpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

BRITISH SONGS FOR BRITISH BOYS.

A Collection of One Hundred National Songs designed for the use of Boys in Schools and Choirs.

Selected, Arranged, and Edited, with Explanatory Notes,

BY

SYDNEY H. NICHOLSON, M.A.,

Mus. Bac. Oxon.

EDITION A, for Teachers. Containing the Songs, with Accompaniments and Explanatory Footnotes. 6s.

EDITION B, for Pupils. Containing the Words and the Voice-Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, but without the Accompaniments or Footnotes. 1s. 6d.

MACMILLAN AND CO., Ltd., London.

Just Published.

THE

TRAGEDY OF COCK ROBIN

SHORT ACTION PIECE

COMPOSED BY

T. ARTHUR BURTON.

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Eightpence.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS

Book 133.

TWO-PART SONGS

CONTENTS.

A Bird Song ...	Roland Rogers
All among the barley ...	Elizabeth Stirling
All seek for rest ...	F. Abt
Autumn woods ...	T. Murby
Bells at eve ...	F. Abt
Come, ever smiling liberty ...	Handel
Come to me, gentle sleep ...	H. W. Schartau
Evening song ...	Mendelssohn
In the distance ...	F. Abt
Joyful echoes ...	L. Streabog
Playtime's golden hours ...	A. W. Ketelbey
The Bell March ...	J. Brabham
The Fountain ...	H. Elliot Button
The Lord is my Shepherd ...	H. Smart
The Mountaineer ...	A. W. Ketelbey
The Sabbath morn ...	Mendelssohn
Welcome thou, whose deeds conspire ...	Handel
Work and play ...	Myles B. Foster

Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, price One Shilling and Sixpence.Voice parts only, in Tonic Sol-fa, price Fourpence.
Staff Notation (Voice parts only), price Fourpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE MUSIC STUDENT'S MANUSCRIPT NOTE BOOK

AND

PRACTICE REGISTER

ARRANGED BY

C. EGERTON LOWE.

PREFACE.

This book is intended to meet the convenience of Teachers who wish to record clearly for a pupil's guidance the work to be prepared for each lesson or a series. The column headed "Time" is added for the purpose of indicating the number of minutes to be given to the daily practice of each separate subject. (This column is for the Teacher to fill up.)

A few pages of music paper have been inserted for the purpose of writing out turns, trills, &c., and blank pages have been left at the end on which it is suggested that a list of pieces studied should be kept or other memoranda made. The book will be found suitable for students of any instrument.

Price Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ALBUM OF FIVE SONGS.—

COMPOSED BY MAY STELFOX.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published separately.

TARANTELLA
(THE REVEL)No. 4 OF THE GIPSY SUITECOMPOSED BY EDWARD GERMAN.ARRANGEMENT FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE BY THE COMPOSER.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

MAGNIFICAT
AND NUNC DIMITTISFROM THE
SERVICE IN B FLATBY
C. VILLIERS STANFORD.
(Op. 10.)FULL SCORE.

Price Five Shillings.

String Parts, 2s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Organ, 5s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TEN HYMNS (SET I.)

WITH TUNES

FOR USE IN SCHOOLS AND FOR CHILDREN'S FESTIVALS.
(Suitable also for Flower Services or Sunday School Festivals.)THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY ARTHUR SULLIVAN, JOHN STAINER, GEORGE ELVEY,
A. M. GOODHART, J. H. MAUNDER, and H. D. WETTON.

EDITED BY W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

Staff Notation, price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.

TEN HYMNS (SET II.)

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

G. C. MARTIN, F. H. COWEN, J. LANGRAN, S. SMITH, A. SULLIVAN,
J. STAINER, AND OTHERS.

EDITED BY W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

Staff Notation, price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.
Words only, Five Shillings per 100, each Set.TEN HYMNS (SET III.)

NATIONAL HYMNS AND TUNES FOR CHILDREN'S USE.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

G. C. MARTIN, H. WALFORD DAVIES, J. H. MAUNDER,
J. BARNBY, FREDERICK CLAY, C. HARFORD LLOYD, JOHN E. WEST,
H. DAVAN WETTON, B. TOURS.

EDITED BY W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

The Ten Hymns, complete, price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.
Words only, Three Shillings per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JESU, THE VERY THOUGHT OF THEE
AN ANTHEMFor Bass Solo, Quartet or Chorus, S.S.A.A., and Full Chorus, S.A.T.B., with independent Organ AccompanimentCOMPOSED BY
ERNEST EDWIN MITCHELL.

Price Threepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PRODUCED AT THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,
APRIL 30, 1903.WAR AND PEACE
A SYMPHONIC ODEFOR
SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRACOMPOSED BY
C. HUBERT H. PARRY.PRICE THREE SHILLINGS.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition (Choruses and Words of Solos only), price 1s. 6d.
Vocal Parts, price 1s. each (in the Press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

I LOVED A LASS, A FAIR ONE
SONGTHE WORDS WRITTEN BY GEORGE WITHERTHE MUSIC COMPOSED BY JOHN POINTER.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Second Edition.

NARCISSUS AND ECHO

CANTATA FOR CHORUS, SOLI, AND ORCHESTRA

Price 3s.; Choral Parts, 1s. each. Also,

"GOD IS OUR REFUGE" (Ps. 46)

For Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Price 1s.

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN C. SUCH
Mus. Bac., Cantab.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SWEET LITTLE KATUSHA

SUNG BY MISS LENA ASHWELL, IN

TOLSTOY'S "RESURRECTION," at His Majesty's Theatre, London.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
MICHAEL MORTON

The Music, arranged from an old Russian Folk-Song,

BY ADOLF SCHMID.

Price One Shilling net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SIX RUSSIAN SONGS

- | | |
|---|----------------|
| 1. A Ball-room meeting (Count A. Tolstoi) ... | P. Tchaikovsky |
| 2. Regret (D. Rathaus) ... | P. Tchaikovsky |
| 3. Silent Sorrow (A. Koltsov) ... | A. Dargomijsky |
| 4. An Eastern Song (A. Poushkin) ... | A. Dargomijsky |
| 5. A Rose in Autumn (N. Aksakov) ... | M. Balakirev |
| 6. Dearest little Maiden (Folk-Song) ... | A. Dargomijsky |

SELECTED, AND THE WORDS TRANSLATED, BY
ROSA NEWMARCH.

Price Two Shillings net, complete.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SECOND EDITION.

THE HISTORY OF MENDELSSOHN'S ORATORIO "ELIJAH"

BY
F. G. EDWARDS.

WITH AN INTRODUCTION BY SIR GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

And a number of Portraits, including a hitherto unpublished one of the COMPOSER.

"Another work of distinct value to musical historians. . . . The temptation to gossip over the incidents of the first performance has been quite successfully resisted, and the author lets Mendelssohn's own letters tell the story for the most part. . . . There are several portraits of those who took part in the original performance, and one most interesting portrait of Mendelssohn from a drawing in the possession of Mrs. Victor Benecke. The work of compiling the necessary information has been excellently done, and the publication comes as a fitting celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the production of the work."—The Times, April 16, 1896.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TO TEACHERS. THE ELEMENTS OF MUSIC SIMPLIFIED WITH GRADUATED EXERCISES By J. TRAIL.

(A Complete Preparatory Text-Book for Junior Pupils, written in the simplest possible language, to meet the requirements of the various Examinations in the Rudiments of Music.)

Sir GEORGE C. MARTIN

writes:—

"Your little book is admirable in every way, and the graduated exercises will be found of the greatest help to young students."

Dr. A. L. PEACE writes:—

"Admirably designed to meet the requirements of young students."

Dr. J. GORDON SAUNDERS writes:—

"I have no hesitation in saying that your 'Elements of Music Simplified' is an exceptionally good book.

Indeed, I do not remember to have seen its equal for the young scholar."

"Nothing better than this little manual could be desired for teaching purposes. It is excellent in every way."—Daily Free Press.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EBENEZER PROUT'S WORKS ON MUSIC.

Bound, each net, 5s.

HARMONY: Its Theory and Practice. Fifteenth Edition.

The same, SIXTEENTH EDITION. Revised, and largely re-written.

COUNTERPOINT: Strict and Free. Seventh Edition.

DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT AND CANON. Third Edition.

FUGUE. Fourth Edition.

FUGAL ANALYSIS. Third Edition.

MUSICAL FORM. Fifth Edition.

APPLIED FORMS. Fourth Edition.

THE ORCHESTRA

Vol. I.—"The Technique of the Instruments." Third Edition.

Vol. II.—"Orchestra Combination." Second Edition.

AUGENER AND Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

FRANKLIN PETERSON'S Popular Text Books:

ELEMENTS OF MUSIC. Seventh Edition. Bound, net 1s.

INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF THEORY. A sequel to the "Elements of Music," and intended to prepare the student for Professor Prout's Series of Theoretical Works. Bound, net 1s. 6d.

PIANIST'S HANDBOOK. A Theoretical Companion to Practice.

Part I. Bound, net 1s. 6d.

Part II. MUSICAL FORM. Bound, net 1s. 6d.

CATECHISM OF MUSIC. Bound, net 2s.

AUGENER AND Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah,"

"Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S PRIMERS OF MUSICAL BIOGRAPHY.

HECTOR BERLIOZ

BY

JOSEPH BENNETT.

Price One Shilling.
Cloth, gilt, 2s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

PASTORAL MELODY

AND

LAMENT

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Shilling.

FESTAL COMMEMORATION

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

REDUCED PRICE,

ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH.

NOVELLO'S

CANTATAS for FEMALE VOICES.

FRANZ ABT—

Minster Bells.
Springtime (Sol-fa, 6d.).

Summer.

The Fays' Frolic.

The Golden City (Sol-fa, 6d.).

The Silver Cloud.

The Water Fairies.

The Wishing-Stone.

WILFRED BENDALL—

The Lady of Shalott
(Sol-fa, 1s.).

JOSIAH BOOTH—

The Day of Rest (Sol-fa, 9d.).

GUSTAV ERNEST—

All the year round (Sol-fa, 9d.).

EATON FANING—

Buttercups and Daisies
(Sol-fa, 9d.).

MYLES B. FOSTER—

The Bonnie Fishwives
(Sol-fa, 9d.).

BATTISON HAYNES—

A Sea Dream (Sol-fa, 6d.).
The Fairies' Isle.

OLIVER KING—

The Naiads.

JOHN KINROSS—

Songs in a Vineyard
(Sol-fa, 6d.).

HENRY LAHEE—

The Sleeping Beauty
(Sol-fa, 6d.).

C. H. LLOYD—

The Gleaners' Harvest.

CLEMENT LOCKNANE—

The Elfin Queen.

E. PROUT—

Queen Aimée.

EDMUND ROGERS—

The Forest Flower.

ROLAND ROGERS—

Florabel (Sol-fa, 1s.).

FERRIS TOZER—

King Neptune's Daughter
(Sol-fa, 6d.).

CHARLES VINCENT—

The Little Mermaid
The Village Queen (Sol-fa, 6d.).

E. M. WOOLLEY—

The Captive Soul
(with Tenor Solo).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

PLAYED BY JAN KUBELIK.

VIOLIN MUSIC

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER, JUN.

SONATA IN E MINOR

(Op. 15)

Price Six Shillings.

SOUVENIR

(Op. 17, No. 1.)

Price Two Shillings.

SALTELLATO-CAPRICE

(Op. 17, No. 2.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE JOY OF HARVEST

HYMN FOR HARVEST

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

PRICE TWOPENCE.

Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.; Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CONCERTO

FOR ORGAN

AND

ORCHESTRA

(STRINGS, BRASS, HARP, AND DRUMS)

COMPOSED BY

HORATIO PARKER.

(Op. 55.)

Full Score	10s. 6d.
Organ Part	2s. 6d.
String Parts	5s. 3d.
Wind Parts	6s. 0d.

ARRANGEMENT FOR ORGAN SOLO, BY DAVID STANLEY SMITH.

Price Three Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

(ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN. No. 313.)

SCHERZO SYMPHONIQUE

COMPOSED BY

WILLIAM FAULKES.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

"Such settings as these cannot do otherwise than tend to popularise the Church Service."—Musical Standard, June 6, 1891.

"Good, effective, easy, and dignified."—Musical Times, April 1, 1891.

"Admirably adapted to meet the requirements of the majority of choirs and congregations." "Deserve extensive recognition and use."—Musical News, September 4 and 25, 1891.

Also recommended by the Guardian, Church Times, &c., &c.

POPULAR CHURCH MUSIC

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

HARVEST ANTHEMS.

Staff
Notation.Tonic
Sol-fa.

Sing to the Lord of Harvest	3d.	2d.
While the earth remaineth	3d.	2d.
Blessed be the Name of the Lord	3d.	2d.

SERVICES.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C (partly in Unison)	3d.	1½d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D	3d.	2d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in Free Chant Form	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in B flat	3d.	2d.
Communion Service in G	8d.
Amen in G	1d.	1d.

ORGAN.

Voix Seraphique (for Recitals) ... 2s.

CHURCH CANTATA.

Penitence, Pardon, and Peace (for General Use) ... 1/6 1/-

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Specimen copies of Anthems and Services free on application to J. H. MAUNDER, Hilltop, Belmont Park, London, S.E.

A TREATISE

ON

MODERN INSTRUMENTATION

AND

ORCHESTRATION

BY

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

TRANSLATED BY MARY COWDEN-CLARKE.

NEW EDITION, REVISED AND EDITED BY
JOSEPH BENNETT.

Price Twelve Shillings.

This masterly treatise and accepted classic on a subject of which Berlioz was so consummate a master, is copiously illustrated by excerpts from the full scores of works by Gluck, Mozart, Beethoven, Weber, Spontini, Meyerbeer, and especially from those of the author.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

DIRECTORY

OF

MUSICAL EDUCATION

PART I.

BEING A GUIDE TO

Choir Schools and Choral Foundations for Boys; University Degrees in Music; Choral and Organist Scholarships; and Public Schools of Music in the United Kingdom

EDITED BY THE

REV. CHARLES EDWARD BUTLER, M.A.

Price One Shilling.
Paper boards, 1s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CANTATAS

BY ALFRED R. GAUL.

* UNA

SIXTH AND SEVENTH THOUSAND.

PRODUCED AT THE NORWICH MUSICAL FESTIVAL,
OCTOBER 4, 1893.

"'Una' is quite one of his best."—Musical Standard.

"The result, in the present case, leaves no doubt that into all the places which know his previous compositions 'Una' will find a way and become as much a favourite as its forerunners. . . . Mr. Gaul considers before all things the elegance and symmetry of his melodic phrases."—Musical Times.

"We believe that Mr. Gaul has attained greater popularity with small English provincial choral societies than any other composer, living or dead."—London Daily Graphic.

† THE TEN VIRGINS

Third Edition. Thirteenth and Fourteenth Thousands.

This Edition contains the additional Soprano air "Sun of my soul."

"The work will certainly go through Saxondom in the wake of its predecessors from the same pen."—London Daily Telegraph.

"Must attain popularity wherever heard. Infinitely superior to any previous effort of the composer."—Liverpool Daily Courier.

"A distinct advance upon any of its predecessors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"That 'The Ten Virgins' is a much finer work than the everywhere favourite 'Holy City' we have no doubt whatever."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

* JOAN OF ARC

Staff Edition. Thirty-first to Thirty-fifth Thousand.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description, and will doubtless soon be a favourite with choral societies."—Shields Daily News.

SEVENTH THOUSAND.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

† ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

"The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra. Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

The above Cantatas have been specially planned to meet the requirements of Musical Societies, the greater portion being choral.

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal Parts, each, 1s. Words only, *7s. 6d.; †5s. per 100. The loan of Orchestral Parts on application to the Composer.

SCHOOL MUSIC

BY
ALFRED R. GAUL

THE ELFIN HILL

A FAIRY OPERETTA

"'The Elfin Hill' is founded on one of Hans Andersen's charming stories, and the libretto has been written in dainty and graceful language by Miss Baldwin. The operetta opens with a short overture describing moonlight on the Dovrefeld Mountains, and Mr. Gaul has been particularly happy in infusing the Norse spirit into that portion of his music which deals with goblin life in Norway. When the goblins become visitors in fairyland, the character of the music changes; lightness is its predominant feature, perhaps the choicest fragment being a fairy dance. This latter, together with a very characteristic dance of elves and a shadow dance, were beautifully executed."—Birmingham Gazette.

Price Two Shillings.

Words, Seven Shillings and Sixpence per hundred.

TOILERS OF THE DEEP

CANTATA

FOR FEMALE VOICES.

Verse by JAMES STRANG.

"Mr. Gaul has written nothing finer, nor more melodious and captivating in this branch of composition specially adapted for High Schools for Girls. Taking the Cantata as a whole, it is a delightful work, replete with artistic workmanship, and, above all, melodious and expressive."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

"This charming work was composed for the pupils of King Edward VI.'s High School for Girls, Birmingham, and bears all the best marks of the composer's characteristically graceful style. The libretto is of a high order of merit, and worth the music, which from first to last is attractive and without a dull page."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

Price Two Shillings.

Words, Five Shillings per hundred.

THE LEGEND OF THE WOOD

A JUVENILE OPERETTA.

Price One Shilling.

Words, Four Shillings per hundred.

THE MONTHS

TWELVE VOCAL DUETS FOR SCHOOL USE.

Words by EDWARD OXFORD.

"There are in this series of duets the sweetest things of the kind we have ever met with. Things to be treasured in households where sisters or friends delight in joining voices."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Parts I. and II.	each	1 0
Complete, paper cover...	...	1 6
Ditto, paper boards	2 0
Ditto, scarlet cloth	3 0
Or, in Twelve Numbers	each	0 2

VOCAL TRIOS FOR SCHOOL USE.

THE BIRDS

Words by EDWARD OXFORD.

- | | |
|---------------------|------------------|
| 1. The Robin. | 4. The Skylark. |
| 2. The Nightingale. | 5. The Owl. |
| 3. The Dove. | 6. The Swallows. |

"By the production of these Trios our townsman, Mr. A. R. Gaul, has made a valuable addition to the many beautiful and useful compositions he has formerly given to the public. Mr. Gaul's music is unfailingly charming, the voice-parts being so disposed that they may be easily learnt, and the accompaniments are as characteristic as they are pretty. Each separate piece is so good that we cannot make references to special favourites. Young ladies who take pleasure in part-singing will find variety in the collection, and both in the home circle and in the school class Mr. Gaul's new work is sure to be heartily welcomed."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Complete, paper cover...	...	1 0
scarlet cloth	2 6
Or, in Six Numbers	each	0 2

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

SIXTH EDITION.

KING ARTHUR

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

JAMES SMETON, M.A.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED FOR

THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

JOHN MORE SMETON.

Vocal Score, 2s. 6d. Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.

Full Score and Band Parts on hire.

(This work takes about an hour and forty minutes to perform, and has been produced with conspicuous success by numerous societies throughout the Kingdom.)

"This beautiful work will enhance the reputation won for its composer by his similar composition 'Ariadne.' It shows a charming gift of melody, and no small musicianly skill in its merely technical qualities. It may be recommended to choral societies as well worthy of study."—Scotsman.

The celebrated Hymn from "King Arthur," "THERE IS A LAND BEYOND THE SETTING SUN," arranged by the Composer for S.A.T.B., may be had separately, Staff, 2d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

BY THE SAME AUTHORS.

SIXTH EDITION.

ARIADNE

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR

FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND
ORCHESTRA

Vocal Score, 2s. Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

Full Score and Band Parts on hire.

(Takes about one hour to perform, and is a great favourite with the smaller Musical Societies.)

"A work ample in scientific quality, and abounding in melodic choruses, noble recitative, and charming solo numbers."—Scottish News.

JUST PUBLISHED.

CONNLA

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR

THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND
ORCHESTRA

Vocal Score, 2s. 6d.

Full Score and Band Parts on hire.

(The work takes about eighty minutes to perform, and is adapted for the larger Choral Societies.)

A specimen Copy of these works will be sent to Conductors, free of charge, on application to Mr. J. MORE SMETON, 12, Victoria Chambers, Dundee.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

s. d.

- ARENSKY, A.—Twelve Préludes. Op. 63. In Two Books. each, net 2 6
- BEETHOVEN.—Twelve Menuets inédits (œuvres posthumes). For Pianoforte... each, net 1s.; complete, net 3 0
- The same. For Pianoforte Duet each, net 1s. 6d.; complete, net 5 0
- The same. For Orchestra. Full Score ... each, " 5 0
- BURGER, MAX.—"Stimmungsbilder." For Strings and Harmonium (or Organ). Op. 39:—
Score ... net 3 0 | Parts ... net 4 0
- CONUS, G.—Deux mélodies. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 15 ... net 2 6
- DOHNÁNYI, E. von.—Variations and Fugue upon a Theme for Pianoforte. Op. 4 ... net 4 0
- D'ERLANGER, FR.—Andante Symphonique. For Violoncello and Orchestra. Op. 18:—
Full Score ... net 6 0 | Orchestral Parts ... net 12 0
- Violoncello and Pianoforte... " 4 0
- Concerto. For Violin and Orchestra. Op. 17:—
Full Score ... net 24 0 | Orchestral Parts ... " 32 0
- Violin and Pianoforte ... " 12 6
- GOEDICKE, A.—Deux morceaux. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 2
1. Marche funèbre, net 1s. 6d.; 2. Etude de Concert net 2 0
- Overture dramatique. For Orchestra. Op. 7:—
Full Score ... " 10 0
- Ballade. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 13 ... " 2 6
- GOENS, D. VAN.—Cantabile. For Violoncello and Orchestra. Op. 34:—
Full Score ... net 2 6 | Orchestral Parts ... net 4 0
- Violoncello and Pianoforte... " 2 0
- GOLDENWEISER, A.—Deux Impromptus. Op. 6:—
1. F major; 2. B minor ... each, net 1 6
- Douze miniatures. For Pianoforte. Op. 7 ... " 4 0
- HUBER, A.—Schüler-Concertino (D minor). For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 5 ... net 3 0
- HUBER, H.—Sonata graziosa, No. 7 (in G). For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 119... net 7 6
- "Eine Bergnovelle." Trio. For Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello. Op. 120 ... net 10 0
- JERAL, W.—Berceuse und Zigeunertanz. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 6 ... net 2 0
- Zigeunertanz. For Violoncello and Orchestra. Op. 6, No. 2:—
Full Score ... net 2 0 | Orchestral Parts ... net 6 0
- 2nd Romanze (in D). For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 9, No. 1 ... net 1 6
- Polonaise fantastique. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 9, No. 2 ... net 3 0
- KAUN, H.—Gesangscene. For Violoncello and Orchestra. Op. 35:—
Full Score ... net 4 0 | Orchestral Parts ... net 8 0
- Violoncello and Pianoforte... " 2 0
- Concerto. For Pianoforte and Orchestra. Op. 50:—
Full Score ... net 24 0 | Orchestral Parts ... " 24 0
- Pianoforte Solo Part (with Accomp. for 2nd Pianoforte or Orchestra) ... net 8 0
- KISTLER, C.—Sérénade (D minor). For Violin (or Viola, or Violoncello) with Orchestra. Op. 72:—
Edition D. For Violin; Edition E. For Viola; Edition F. For Violoncello ... Orchestral Parts, each, net 1 0
- KOZLOFF, H.—Chant sans paroles. For Violin and Pianoforte ... net 1 6
- KRUG, A.—Andante religioso. For Violin and Organ (or Pianoforte). Op. 120 ... net 1 0
- LANGÉ, S. DE.—Sonata, No. 8 (in E). For Organ. Op. 88 ... 4 6
- LAURISCHKUS, M.—Twelve kleine Stücke. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 12. In Two Books ... each, net 2 0
- NORDEN, L.—Five Clavierstücke. Op. 27 ... complete, " 2 0
- NOVIKOFF, S.—Trois morceaux. For Pianoforte Solo.
1. Valse caprice; 2. Nocturne; 3. Bluettes ... net 2 6
- REBIKOFF, W.—"Chansons du cœur." For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 24 ... net 4 0
- "Aspirer et atteindre." For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 25 ... " 4 0
- "Tristesse." Etude musicale-psychologique. ... " 1 6
- REUCHSEL, A.—Fragments d'Oratorios. For Organ or Harmonium:—
1st Suite.—Air de Soprano du "Messie" (II., No. 32), HANDEL; Air de la "Passion" selon de S. Mathieu, BACH; Air du "Messie" (I., No. 9), HANDEL ... net 2 6
- 2nd Suite.—Air de la "Passion" (No. 48), BACH; Chœur Final de la "Passion" (No. 78), BACH; Fugue Chorale du "Messie" (No. 25), HANDEL ... net 2 6
- 3rd Suite.—Overture du "Messie," HANDEL; Air de Baryton "d'Elie," MENDELSSOHN; Chœur du "Messie" (No. 22), HANDEL ... net 3 0
- STRAUSS, R.—"Don Juan." Transcribed for Pianoforte Solo. Op. 20 ... net 5 0
- "Tod und Verklärung." Transcribed for Pianoforte Solo. Op. 24 ... net 5 0
- STUBBE, A.—Three Pieces. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 45 ... complete, net 2 0
- WOLF-FERRARI, E.—Sonata (G minor). For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 1 ... net 6 0
- Kammer-symphonie. For Pianoforte, Two Violins, Viola, Violoncello, Bass, Flute, Oboe, Clarinet, Bassoon, and Horn. Op. 8 ... net 20 0
- ZENGER, M.—Sonata (in F). For Horn and Pianoforte. Op. 33 ... net 5 0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

The Associated Board Examinations, 1904.

NOVELLO'S EDITIONS.

PIANOFORTE.

LOCAL CENTRE.—INTERMEDIATE GRADE.		NET. S. d.
BACH.—Invention, in Three parts, No. 8, in F	...	1 6
SCHUMANN.—Canon in B minor, from Sonata, Op. 118, No. 2 (Album for the Young)	...	1 0
MENDELSSOHN.—Lied ohne Worte in G, Op. 62, No. 1 (Lied, No. 25)	...	0 9
BACH.—Invention, in Three Parts, No. 12, in A	...	1 6
STEIBELT.—In G, Op. 78, No. 10 (Franklin Taylor's Studies, Book 21)	...	1 0
BEETHOVEN.—Minuet in B flat, from Sonata No. 11, Op. 22	...	3 0
CHOPIN.—Mazurka in C, Op. 33, No. 3	...	2 2
HANDEL.—Allegro in G minor, Third Movement of Suite, No. 7 (Pianoforte Albums, No. 4)	...	1 0
CRAMER.—In D, No. 19	...	1 0
MAYER.—In C, Op. 168, No. 3	...	1 0
MOZART.—Sonata in B flat, No. 13, First Movement	...	2 6

LOCAL CENTRE.—ADVANCED GRADE.

BACH.—Prelude (only) in F minor, No. 12 of Book 1	...	2 2
CZERNY.—In D flat, Op. 299, No. 39 (Franklin Taylor's Studies, Book 16)	...	1 0
MAYER.—In A minor, Op. 168, No. 18	...	1 0
BEETHOVEN.—Rondo (Finale) from Sonata in D, No. 7, Op. 10, No. 3	...	2 0
CHOPIN.—Nocturne in A flat, Op. 32, No. 2	...	1 8
MENDELSSOHN.—Lied ohne Worte in E, Op. 67, No. 6 (Lied, No. 36)	...	0 9
MOSCHELES.—In D minor, Op. 70, No. 6	...	1 4
BACH.—Italian Concerto, First Movement	...	1 3
SCHUMANN.—Romance in F sharp, Op. 28, No. 2	...	1 0
RHEINBERGER.—"Die Jagd," Op. 5, No. 1 (Pianoforte Albums, No. 23)	...	1 0
BACH.—Fugue in C, No. 1 of Book 2	...	2 2
CLEMENTI.—In F, No. 2 of Gradus (Franklin Taylor's Studies, Book 20)	...	1 0
CRAMER.—In G, No. 78	...	1 0
CHOPIN.—Impromptu in A flat, Op. 29	...	1 8

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.—ELEMENTARY.

BRUNNER.—In G, Op. 23, No. 7 (Franklin Taylor's Studies, Book 1)	...	1 0
CZERNY.—In C, Op. 849, No. 3 (Franklin Taylor's Studies, Book 1)	...	1 0
BERTINI.—In G, Op. 100, No. 4 (Franklin Taylor's Studies, Book 51)	...	1 0
LEMOINE.—In F, Op. 37, No. 20 (Franklin Taylor's Studies, Book 24)	...	1 0

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.—LOWER DIVISION.

BERTINI.—In D, Op. 29, No. 12	...	1 0
CZERNY.—In D, Op. 849, No. 25 (Franklin Taylor's Studies, Book 5)	...	1 0

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.—HIGHER DIVISION.

CRAMER.—In B flat, No. 7	...	1 0
MOZART.—Sonata in A minor, No. 8, First Movement	...	2 6
MENDELSSOHN.—Lied ohne Worte in G, Op. 62, No. 4 (Lied, No. 28)	...	0 6
CZERNY.—In E, Op. 299, No. 29 (Franklin Taylor's Studies, Book 3)	...	1 0
CRAMER.—In F, No. 17 (Franklin Taylor's Studies, Book 31)	...	1 0

ORGAN.

LOCAL CENTRE.—INTERMEDIATE GRADE.

ARCHER.—The Organ, Nos. 197, 223, 230	...	5 0
BACH.—Acht kleine Präludien und Fugen, No. 4, in F major (Bridge & Higgs' Edition, Book 1)	...	2 6

LOCAL CENTRE.—ADVANCED GRADE.

BACH.—{ Trio in C minor } Bridge & Higgs' Edition, Book 12	...	3 0
MENDELSSOHN.—Prelude and Fugue in C minor, Op. 37, No. 1	...	1 0
BACH, W. F.—Fugue from Concerto in D minor	...	1 8

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.—LOWER DIVISION.

STAINER.—Organ Primer, Nos. 6, 7, 15, 35 and 37	...	2 0
STAINER.—Organ Primer, Nos. 61, 64 and 84	...	2 0
MONTGOMERY.—A Dream (Village Organist, Book 15)	...	1 0
DUBOIS.—Cantilène religieuse (Village Organist, Book 14)	...	1 0

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.—HIGHER DIVISION.

MENDELSSOHN.—Sonata 6, Last Movement	...	2 6
GUILMANT.—Wedding March (Village Organist, Book 17)	...	1 0

SINGING.

LOCAL CENTRE.

SOPRANO.

CONCONE.—15 Vocalises, Nos. 1, 2 and 8 (Edited by A. Randegger)	...	1 6
MOZART.—{ Giunse alfin (Now at last) } { Deh vieni (Oh Come) } { A. Randegger. } { Novello's Edition of the } { Songs in "Le Nozze di } { Figaro" (Edited by) }	...	2 0
PARRY, C. H. H.—My true love hath my heart. English Lyrics, Set 1, No. 1	...	2 6

MEZZO-SOPRANO.

CONCONE.—15 Lessons. Nos. 6, 10 and 15 (Edited by A. Randegger)	...	1 6
---	-----	-----

CONTRALTO.

CONCONE.—40 Lessons. Nos. 14, 15 and 23 (Edited by A. Randegger)	...	1 6
HANDEL.—{ Great Prophetess } { In the Battle } { From 12 Songs for Contralto } { from Handel's Oratorios } { (Edited by A. Randegger.) }	...	2 0

TENOR.

CONCONE.—25 Lessons. Nos. 9, 14 and 15 (Edited by A. Randegger)	...	1 6
HANDEL.—{ Thanks to my } { brethren } { How vain is man } { From 12 Songs for Tenor } { from Handel's Oratorios } { (Edited by A. Randegger.) }	...	2 0

BARITONE.

PANERON.—42 Melodic and Progressive Exercises, Part 1, Nos. 12, 15 and 18 (Edited by A. Randegger)	...	2 0
HANDEL.—{ Be comforted } { The Lord worketh } { wonders } { From 12 Songs for Bass or } { Baritone from Handel's } { Oratorios (Edited by } { A. Randegger.) }	...	2 0

BASS.

CONCONE.—40 Lessons. Nos. 3, 8 and 20 (Edited by A. Randegger)	...	1 6
HANDEL.—{ I will hear no more } { Pluck, root and } { branch } { From 12 Songs for Bass } { from Handel's Oratorios } { (Edited by A. Randegger.) }	...	2 0

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.—ELEMENTARY.

MEZZO-SOPRANO.

MENDELSSOHN.—Slumber Song (Bei der Wiege) in B flat	...	0 9
Or English Words only, edited by Macfarren	...	0 6

CONTRALTO.

CONCONE.—40 Lessons, Nos. 1 and 6 (Edited by A. Randegger)	...	1 6
--	-----	-----

BARITONE AND BASS.

CONCONE.—40 Lessons, Nos. 7 and 9 (Edited by A. Randegger)	...	1 6
--	-----	-----

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.—SOPRANO.

PANERON.—40 Melodic and Progressive Exercises, Part I., Nos. 3 and 4 (Edited by A. Randegger)	...	2 0
MACKENZIE.—What does little birdie say? (A), No. 1 in Book 2 of 18 Songs	...	2 6
SCHUMANN.—The Lotos Flower	...	0 9

MEZZO-SOPRANO.

PANERON.—40 Melodic and Progressive Exercises, Part I., Nos. 1 and 2 (Edited by A. Randegger)	...	2 0
SCHUBERT.—Whither (Wohin), Schubert's Songs, Vol. V.	...	1 6

CONTRALTO.

PANERON.—42 Melodic and Progressive Exercises, Part I., Nos. 11 and 14 (Edited by A. Randegger)	...	2 0
---	-----	-----

TENOR.

CONCONE.—25 Lessons, Nos. 11 and 14 (Edited by A. Randegger)	...	1 6
SCHUBERT.—Hark! hark! the lark. (Schubert's Songs, Vol. 3)	...	1 6

BARITONE.

CONCONE.—40 Lessons, Nos. 21 and 22 (Edited by A. Randegger)	...	1 6
--	-----	-----

BASS.

CONCONE.—40 Lessons, Nos. 2 and 5 (Edited by A. Randegger)	...	1 6
HANDEL.—Leave me, loathsome light (Semele)	...	0 6

VIOLIN.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.—ELEMENTARY.

JUNIOR VIOLINIST. Book xiv.—Scales and Arpeggi. Complete (with various Bowings), as required for the 5 different Grades	...	1 6
DOLMETSCH.—Nos. 1 and 2 from Twelve Easy Pieces (Violin and Pianoforte Albums, No. 15)	...	2 6

VIOLONCELLO.

LOCAL CENTRE.—INTERMEDIATE GRADE.

MENDELSSOHN.—Romance Sans Paroles, Op. 109	...	1 6
--	-----	-----

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 728.—Vol. 44.
Registered for transmission abroad.

OCTOBER 1, 1903.

Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.
Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY, ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: His MAJESTY THE KING.

Conductor: Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, M.V.O., Mus.D.

THIRTY-THIRD SEASON, 1903-4.

PROSPECTUS.

The Series will comprise Eight Concerts, at which the following works will be performed.

- | | |
|-----------|---|
| Nov. 5. | "Elijah." |
| Dec. 3. | "Hiawatha." |
| Jan. 1. | "Messiah." |
| Jan. 28. | "War and Peace" and "Callirhoe" (J. F. Bridge). |
| Feb. 17. | "The Atonement" (Coleridge-Taylor). |
| Mar. 10. | "Israel in Egypt." |
| April 1. | "Messiah." |
| April 21. | The work to be performed on this date will be announced later on. |

The following artists have been engaged:—

- | | |
|--------------------------|-----------------------|
| Madame Albani | Mr. William Green |
| Madame Sobrino | Mr. John Coates |
| Miss Evangeline Florence | Mr. Lloyd Chandos |
| Miss Agnes Nicholls | Mr. Charles Saunders |
| Madame De Vere | Mr. Philip Newbury |
| Miss Maggie Purvis | Mr. Fred Norcup |
| Miss Kate Anderson | Mr. Andrew Black |
| Madame Clara Butt | Mr. Watkin Mills |
| Miss Ada Crossley | Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies |
| Madame Kirkby Lunn | Mr. Kennerley Rumford |
| Miss Emily Foxcroft | Mr. Harry Dearth |
| Mr. Ben Davies | Mr. Foxton Ferguson |

Organist: Mr. H. L. Balfour.

The Band and Chorus will consist of 1,000 performers.

Of the Eight Concerts to be given, seven will be included in the Subscription Series. Prices of Subscription for these seven concerts: Stalls, £2 2s.; Arena, £1 15s.; Balcony (Reserved), £1 8s.

Prices of Tickets for each Concert: Stalls, 7s. 6d.; Arena, 6s.; Balcony (Reserved), 5s.; Unreserved, 4s.

Subscribers' names can now be received, seats secured, and prospectuses obtained at the Ticket Office, Royal Albert Hall, and the usual Agents.

FIRST CONCERT, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 5, AT 8.

MEDELSSOHN'S "ELIJAH."

Artists: MADAME ALBANI, MADAME KIRKBY LUNN, MR. PHILIP NEWBURY, and MR. KENNERLEY RUMFORD.

There are still VACANCIES in the CHOIR for a few Tenors and Basses. Only those who have good and powerful voices, and who can read vocal music at first sight, will be accepted. Address, The Secretary, Royal Choral Society, Royal Albert Hall, S.W.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC, TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patron: His Most GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE KING.

President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, K.G.

Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

BROUGHTON PACKER BATH SCHOLARSHIPS: Violin Playing, for male and female candidates; Violoncello Playing, for male candidates. Last day for entry, November 26.

THALBERG SCHOLARSHIP, for male Pianists. Last day for entry, December 4.

METROPOLITAN EXAMINATION for LICENTIATESHIP (L.R.A.M.). Syllabus now ready.

Prospectus, Entrance Forms, and all further information of—

F. W. RENAULT, Secretary.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in Durham in March (testamur only) and September.

For particulars, with copies of former Examination Papers, apply to the Secretary of Examinations, or to Dr. Armes, Durham.

BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL,

TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY AND FRIDAY,

OCTOBER 13, 14, 15 and 16, 1903.

OUTLINE OF THE PERFORMANCES.

TUESDAY MORNING: ELIJAH.

TUESDAY EVENING: Sir C. Villiers Stanford's VOYAGE OF MAELDUNE; Mozart's G MINOR SYMPHONY; Tschaiakowsky's HAMLET OVERTURE; Cherubini's ANACREON OVERTURE.

WEDNESDAY MORNING: Dr. Elgar's New Work THE APOSTLES (composed expressly for this Festival); Brahms's 4TH SYMPHONY.

WEDNESDAY EVENING: Sullivan's GOLDEN LEGEND; Dr. Cowen's Orchestral Poem, A PHANTASY OF LIFE AND LOVE; Weber's OVERTURE to DER FREISCHÜTZ.

THURSDAY MORNING: THE MESSIAH.

THURSDAY EVENING: Berlioz's Symphony, HAROLD IN ITALY; Liszt's XIII. PSALM; Herr Richard Strauss's DON JUAN; Sir Hubert Parry's BLEST PAIR OF SIRENS; Wagner's MEISTER-SINGER OVERTURE.

FRIDAY MORNING: Bach's MASS IN B MINOR.

FRIDAY EVENING: Bruckner's TE DEUM; Dvorák's SYMPHONIC VARIATIONS; Brahms's ALTO RHAPSODIE; Beethoven's CHORAL SYMPHONY.

Principal Vocalists:

Mesdames ALBANI, AGNES NICHOLLS, MURIEL FOSTER, KIRKBY LUNN, and CLARA BUTT.

Messieurs BEN DAVIES, WILLIAM GREEN, JOHN COATES, ANDREW BLACK, KENNERLEY RUMFORD, and FFRANGCON-DAVIES.

Conductor ... Dr. HANS RICHTER.

Detailed Programmes may be obtained on application to
WALTER CHARLTON, Secretary.
5, Waterloo Street, Birmingham.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.
Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

Director: Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bart., D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.

Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P.

The NEXT EXAMINATION for ASSOCIATESHIP (A.R.C.M.) will take place in April, 1904.

Syllabus and official Entry Forms may be obtained from
FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The next F.R.C.O. Examination begins on January 4, 1904. The Solo-playing Tests are:—Sonata in A minor, Op. 140 (1st Movement), Merkel (Novello & Co.; Augener & Co.). Fugue in C, from Three Organ Pieces, Op. 7, Max Reger (Augener & Co., No. 5325, p. 5). Fantasie Overture, Garrett (Novello & Co.).

The A.R.C.O. Examination begins on January 11. This will include the writing of a short essay. The subject will be taken from Sir H. Parry's Studies of the Great Composers (Routledge).

The College Library is open daily from 10 to 5. On Saturdays the College is open from 10 to 1.

Members desiring practice on the College organ may obtain particulars on application.

The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, can be hired for Concerts, Meetings, &c.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

GRAND CHAIR EISTEDDFOD.

QUEEN'S HALL, LONDON, W.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1904.

GREAT MUSICAL COMPETITIONS. HANDSOME PRIZES.

Chief Choral Competition—"The Son of God" (D. Jenkins).

Male Voices. Prize, £50.

Second Choral Competition—"Weary Wind of the West" (Elgar).

Mixed Choirs. Prize, £30.

Duett, £3 3s. Solos, £2 2s. each.

Syllabus (rd.) to be obtained from the Hon. Sec., David R. Hughes, 49, Hailsham Avenue, Streatham Hill, London, S.W.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Managed by the Corporation of the City of London.

Principal: WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS, Mus. D., Dub., F.S.A., Hon. R.A.M.
Pupils can enter at any time.

Individual tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. Within three minutes of Ludgate Hill, Fleet Street, and Blackfriars Station (District Railway).

110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships, giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Fencing, and Opera. Lady Superintendent has charge of all ladies attending the school. Prospectus and form of entry free on application to
H. SAXE WYNDHAM, Secretary.
Victoria Embankment, E.C.BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE.*SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Visitor EDWARD ELGAR, Mus. Doc.

Principal GRANVILLE BANTOCK.

SESSION 1902-03.

The Session consists of Autumn Term (September 15 to December 20), Winter Term (January 19 to April 4), Summer Term (April 6 to June 20). Instruction in all branches of music. Students' Choir, Students' Orchestra, Fortnightly Rehearsals, Students' Concerts. Prospectus and further information may be obtained from ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.ROYAL
MANCHESTER COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Patroness: HER MAJESTY QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

President: Sir W. H. HOULDSWORTH, Bart., M.P.

Principal: Dr. ADOLPH BRODSKY.

The New College YEAR opens on Tuesday, September 29. Candidates apply on a Printed Form, obtainable from the Registrar. Special Houses of Residence recommended for Students. Students are required to enter upon a complete Course of Musical Instruction, and are not admitted for a shorter period than one year. Fee for the year £30, payable in instalments of £10 at the beginning of each term.

The prospectus, with Scholarship information and Diploma Regulations, on application.

STANLEY WITHERS, Registrar.

New Professor of the Piano: Mr. Arthur Friedheim.

LONDON COLLEGE FOR CHORISTERS

(Late LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS),

POLYTECHNIC, REGENT STREET, W.

AND

80, CAMBRIDGE TERRACE, HYDE PARK, W.

Provides Musical Boys with a thorough Vocal and Instrumental Training, together with the educational advantages of a first-class grammar school.

Boys coached for Cathedral and other Choristships.

SOLO-BOYS supplied for Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, Festivals, &c.

Organists, clergy, and others interested are invited to inspect the College, 80, Cambridge Terrace, near Lancaster Gate (Tube) Station. Praed St. (Metropolitan), and Paddington (G.W.R.) Stations, Wednesdays, 9.30 to 12.30; other times by appointment.

Address, Mr. JAMES BATES, 7, Blomfield Crescent, W.

Telegrams—"Musicmane, London." Telephone—1074, Western.

CITY OF LONDON COLLEGE,

WHITE STREET, MOORFIELDS, E.C.

Mr. G. OAKLEY, Mus. Bac. (Cantab.), conducts CLASSES in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, and THEORY OF MUSIC. Instruction also in Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa, Violin, Organ, and Piano. Choir meets on Fridays.

Prospectus gratis.

DAVID SAVAGE, Secretary.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

President: The Very Rev. FRANCIS PIGOU, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examination, in November and December, 1903, at the following Centres: London, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow, and Belfast.

Annual Membership Subscription, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.

Free register for Organists requiring appointments.

For new Calendar and further particulars apply to

Dr. LEWIS, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

SOUTH LONDON SCHOOL OF MUSIC,

For Professional and Amateur Vocalists, Violinists, Pianists, &c., and Musical Examination. Instituted, 1885. Mr. SYDNEY HERBERT, Principal, Wynne House, 2, Wynne Road, Brixton Road, S.W. Terms, from One Guinea per Quarter. Prospectus post-free.

BERMONDSEY SETTLEMENT,

FARNCOMBE STREET (NEAR LONDON BRIDGE).

The CHORAL AND ORCHESTRAL UNION has VACANCIES for a few efficient voices in each part. Rehearsals on Thursdays at 8.15.

The Season's programme will include, amongst other pieces:—

War and Peace ...	Sir Hubert Parry	Conducted by the Composers.
Blest Pair of Sirens ...	Dr. F. H. Cowen
St. John's Eve ...	Gaul.
Acis and Galatea ...	Handel.
The Holy City ...	Gaul.
Seven Last Words ...	Somervell.
Selection ...	Wagner.
Henry VIII. Music ...	Sullivan and German.

Apply to JOHN E. BORLAND, Mus. B., "Kelton," Catford.

EDWARD G. CROAGER'S MUSICAL SOCIETY

(Late West Hampstead Choral and Orchestral Society).

Conductor: EDWARD G. CROAGER, A.R.A.M.

(Organist and Choirmaster, St. Paul's Church, Avenue Road, N.W.).

THIRTEENTH SESSION.

Sir J. FREDERICK BRIDGE'S "THE FLAG OF ENGLAND."

Dr. GEORGE J. BENNETT'S EASTER HYMN (Mane Prima Sabbati), Madrigals and Part-Songs.

Rehearsals: Monday Evenings at 8 o'clock, at St. Paul's Parish Room, Winchester Road, Swiss Cottage, N.W.

There are vacancies for all voices (especially altos and tenors) and instruments.

Full particulars of the CONDUCTOR, at St. Paul's Church, Avenue Road, N.W.

INTERNATIONALMALE-VOICE COMPETITION

CARDIFF.

BOXING DAY, 1903.

ADJUDICATOR: M. LAURENT DE RILLÉ, PARIS.

PRIZE, 100 GUINEAS, AND CUP VALUE 10 GUINEAS, TO CONDUCTOR, &c.
BASS AND TENOR SOLOS, 5 GUINEAS EACH.

(a) "Song of the Crusaders" (Laurent de Rillé), Newman and Sons, Cardiff.

(b) "The King of Worlds" (Dard Janin), Curwen and Sons, London.

Tenor Solo—"Adelaide" Beethoven.

Bass Solo—"I prithee send me back my heart" Maud Valérie White.

PROGRAMMES, SIXPENCE EACH.

SILVANUS DAVIES,

Aelybryn, Montgomery Street, Cardiff.

CHURCH ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY.

Hon. Conductor: G. F. HUNTLEY, Esq., Mus. Doc.

Rehearsals are held on Tuesdays (commencing October 6) at 7 p.m., in St. Peter's Mission House, adjoining Victoria Station (L. C. & D. Rly.). The Society's Band undertakes Festival and Special Services. There are VACANCIES for stringers, 1 amateur flute, 1 amateur bassoon. For terms of membership (professional and amateur), apply to the Secretary, Hon. Richard Strutt, Rayleigh House, Chelsea, S.W.

NATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC, LIM.

Patron: THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH.

Warden: Dr. TINDALL, A.T.C.L.

EXAMINATION, 4 Grades, and for Diplomas and Medals, London and Provinces, November and December. Representatives wanted in and near London. Apply, W. J. MOSS, 5, Soho Street, W.MANCHESTER SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Founded, 1892.] Mount St., Albert Sq. [Extended, 1897.

Patrons:

Sir W. HOULDSWORTH, Bart., M.P., Sir ANTHONY MARSHALL,
Dr. PROUT, Dr. CARL REINECKE, W. MACFARREN, Esq.

Principal: Mr. ALBERT J. CROSS

(Of the Royal Academy, London, and Leipzig Conservatorium).

Staff of Forty Professors.

Lessons given in every branch of Music. Full and String Orchestras.

Open Scholarships. Lectures to Students. Teaching Lessons.

Orchestral Conducting. Sight Reading and Music Dictation Class.

Operatic, Dramatic, Elocution, and Brass Instrument Classes.

Students' Sustentation Fund, for indigent but specially talented pupils.

Twelfth Year commences Monday, October 12.

THE LAVENDER HILL EVENING SCHOOL

OF SCIENCE AND ART, CLAPHAM, S.W.

The ORCHESTRAL BAND meets on THURSDAYS, 7.30 to 9.30 p.m. Good, well-lighted Hall. Fee, 5s., from Sept., 1903, to April, 1904. Good strings and wind welcomed.

GEORGE LANE, Conductor.

W. E. HILL AND SONS

(HIS MAJESTY'S VIOLIN MAKERS)

OF 140, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Have for SALE—

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, AND VIOLONCELLOS

by STRADIVARIUS, GUARNERUS, AMATI, and other celebrated makers, and they guarantee the authenticity of any instrument they sell.

They also undertake the SALE OF INSTRUMENTS on behalf of their owners.

W. E. HILL AND SONS have for generations been engaged in Violin-Making, and undertake the Repairing and Adjustment of any Stringed Instruments.

Excellent VIOLINS for beginners, from One Guinea upwards.

STRINGS can be sent safely by Post.

PRICE LIST ON APPLICATION.

NATIONAL CONSERVATOIRE

INST., 1895. OF MUSIC, LTD. INCOR., 1900.

174, WARDOUR STREET, W.

Board of Examiners:

Warden: Professor ALEXANDER PHIPPS, Mus. Bac.

H. J. HENNIKER, Mus.D., Cant. RALPH HORNER, Mus.D., Dunelm.

D. J. JENNINGS, Mus.D. G. HAVELOCK, Mus.D.

TITO MATTEI. J. HAAKMAN. S. SPEELMAN.

J. W. JACKSON, Mus.D., Dub. T. W. HAYDOCK, Mus.D., Dub.

D. C. JONES, Mus.D., F.R.C.O. J. PRICE. J. W. ESKDALE.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS in Nov. and Dec. Two Scholarships, tenable on any Teachers, will be awarded; also Gold and Silver Medals.

SPECIAL DIPLOMA EXAMINATIONS, September.—Organists, Pianists, Vocalists, Violinists, Composers, and Bandmasters.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT (40 Professors). Also at Conservatoire, Liverpool, Manchester, &c. Apply, Registrar.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

LONDON.

(Under the direction of The Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)

INCORPORATED 1891.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

PRESIDENT: THE MOST HON. THE MARQUIS OF ANGLESEY.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L. (Principal).

GEORGE PRIOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon. (Registrar).

J. M. BENTLEY, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M. (Chairman).

W. E. THOMAS, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

CHARLES R. FISHER, Mus. Doc., F.G.C.M.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W. Terms moderate.

Hon. Director of Studies: CHURCHILL SIBLEY, Mus.D.

Metropolitan Examinations in all subjects, including the Diplomas of A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., also for the Teachers' Professional Diploma in the Art of Teaching, December, 1903.

Local Theoretical Examination, December, 1903.

Practical Examinations are now being held at the various Centres.

Holder of the Victoria College Vocal Scholarship, 1901: Miss Lotti

L. Wakelin, L.R.A.M.; 1902, Miss Audrey Willows, L.V.C.M.

Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for competition.

Local Secretaries required for towns not represented.

All communications to be addressed as usual to the Central Office,

11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

AUSTRALIA.A MUSICAL JUDGE IS REQUIRED for Ballarat, Victoria,

1904. IN OCTOBER. 1904.

South Street Musical Contests. The Grand National Eisteddfod of Australia. Applications are invited from gentlemen competent and willing to undertake the duties of Judge. Particulars from Mr. A. Hartrodt, 9/10, St. Mary-at-Hill, Eastcheap, London, E.C.

THE CRYSTAL PALACEORATORIO, QUARTET, AND CONCERT PARTY.

MISS AMY FLETCHER.

MISS ESSIE ANDREWS.

MR. JOHN ROBERT.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS.

Specimen Programmes and Terms sent on application to

Mr. ROBERTS, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MUSICAL OPINION (2d.; order everywhere).—Send 4d. for new number to 35, Shoe Lane, London, E.C. About 250 cols. interesting Reading and Advertisements. Founded 1876.HUGO GÖRLITZ,

119, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Telegrams—Hugonotas, London.

Telephone—4013 Gerrard.

KUBELIK SEASON, 1903—1904.

Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ.

WILHELM BACKHAUS TOUR, AUTUMN, 1903.

Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ.

Mr. HUGO GÖRLITZ is Agent for the Leading Artists of the World, and Sole Agent for

KUBELIK WILHELM BACKHAUSMARTHA CUNNINGHAM ALICE HOLLÄNDER

MISS MARION IRETON

JOHN HARRISON (the new English Tenor)

LILIAN FOULIS (Violinist) PAUL GRÜMMER (Violoncellist)

MISS EVALYN AMETHE

THE AMSTERDAM ORCHESTRATHE BOHEMIAN STRING QUARTETTE*DR. RICHARD STRAUSS, Etc.*DR. RICHARD STRAUSS'S AMERICAN TOUR

FEBRUARY TO MAY, 1904.

KUBELIK AUTUMN TOUR

OCTOBER 2 to NOVEMBER 21, 1903.

(Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ)

119, New Bond Street, London, W.

RICHARD STRAUSS FESTIVAL.JOHN HARRISON'S SUCCESS.

THE TIMES says:

"The first of the songs were sung in German, with capital expression, by Mr. John Harrison: is a 'Friedenszerzählung.'"

THE STANDARD says:

"The two principal tenor solos were finely sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE DAILY NEWS says:

"Mr. Harrison, the tenor, sang with a sense of dramatic emphasis one had not expected from him, and at the same time the quality of his voice was good."

THE MORNING POST says:

"Of two tenor songs, one 'The Vision of Peace,' the other from the last act, both are modelled on Wagner; the second is the more striking. The orchestration in the first is heavy, so that the vocalist has a hard fight. Mr. John Harrison sang both extremely well."

THE DAILY GRAPHIC says:

"Two of them well sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE WESTMINSTER GAZETTE says:

"The solo parts of which were taken in first-rate style by Mr. John Harrison."

THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN says:

"Two long solos allotted to the hero were sung by Mr. John Harrison, who earned great applause by his beautiful voice and method, and his sincere and rehnd dramatic expression. His performances stamp him as an artist of the first rank."

THE GLOBE says:

"Two tenor solos, well sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE STAR says:

"Both were sung with conspicuous beauty of voice and expression by Mr. John Harrison, who thereby showed himself more than equal to the severest of artistic tasks."

MR. JOHN HARRISON is a Pupil of
MADAME AMY SHERWIN.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS ETHEL BARNARD (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Singing Lessons given.
20, Priory Court Mansions, West Hampstead.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano).
"MESSIAH."—"Sang her solos exquisitely."—Belfast Newsletter.
"ELIJAH."—"Showed her fine voice to great advantage."—Manchester Courier.
"SAMSON."—"Sang her various solos magnificently."—Glasgow Herald.
SMIETON'S "CONNLA."—"Miss Eaton sang charmingly."—Norwood News.
"KING ARTHUR."—"Sang with artistic grace and finish."—Yorkshire Post.
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 237, Katherine St., Ashton-under-Lyne.

MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts.
Burley Road, Leeds.

MADAME ANNIE HAYMAN (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Thorncliffe, Lowfield Road, Stockport.

MISS ETTIE SPICE (Soprano)
MISS EMILY TANNER (Contralto)
Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Duets a specialty.
74, Bromfelde Road, Clapham, S.W.

MISS CONSTANCE YORKE (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Address, Sunnyside, Sycamore Road, Smethwick, Birmingham.

MISS JENNY ATKINSON (Contralto)
Recommended for Oratorio by Mr. Arthur Fagge.
71, Richmond Road, Dalston, London, N.E.

MISS BERYL CLIVE (Contralto)
14, Gladsmuir Road, Whitehall Park, N.

MISS EDITH CRAWFORD (Contralto)
Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Glencairn, Cane Hill, Purley, Surrey.

MISS EDITH DOVE (Contralto).
At liberty for Concerts and Oratorio.
17, East Bank, Stamford Hill, N.

MADAME CHRISTINE EDMONDS (Contralto)
Concerts, Dinners, At Homes, &c.
5, Blakenham Road, Totterdown, Tooting, S.W.

MISS KATE GREGORY
(The new Yorkshire Contralto)
(Professional Pupil of Albert Jowett, Esq., Yorkshire Training College of Music, Leeds.)
Oratorios and Ballad Concerts.
Terms, apply, Doncaster.

MADAME ANNIE GREW (Contralto), Medalist.
Waverley Road, Horton, Bradford.

MADAME HURLE-HOBBS (Contralto)
Oratorios, Recitals, Concerts, &c.
Address, 37, Briar Walk, Upper Edmonton, London, N.

MISS ANNIE McBRIDE (Contralto)
Concerts, Oratorios, &c.
129, Fawnbrake Avenue, Herne Hill, S.E.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts &c.,
Address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. CHARLES RAY (Solo Alto).
For Solo Work, Lessons in Alto Singing, &c.
Address, 13, Fontenoy Road, Bedford Hill, Balham, S.W.

MR. WILLIAM D. VINCENT (Tenor)
"Old Italian School."
Concerts, &c., address, 167, Tachbrook Street, Belgrave Road, S.W.

MR. FRED. AIRETON (Baritone)
Associate and Gold Medalist, London Academy of Music.
Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

MR. GEORGE STUBBS (Baritone)
(St. Paul's Cathedral).
129, Fawnbrake Avenue, Herne Hill, S.E.

MR. AND MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS
(Baritone, Soprano, and Elocutionists).
Concerts, Lyrical Recitals, Pupils (Resident, &c.). Sharon, Ealing, W.

MR. EWART COOK (Bass)
Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
Address, Methlick, Brentwood.

MISS MARIAN COOK, L.R.A.M. (Violin)
Private Lessons at own or pupils' residences. Schools attended.
Address, Methlick, Brentwood.

ŠEVČÍK'S NEW VIOLIN METHOD. HERR HEINRICH DITTMAR (Violinist)

Pupil of Professor Ševčík,
Gives LESSONS in this System in London. For Prospectus, address, 60, Berners Street, London, W.

NEW ŠEVČÍK VIOLIN METHOD.
PROF. ŠEVČÍK (Master of KUBELIK and KOCIÁN) METHOD
thoroughly taught by

PROFESSOR KOENIG (Of Prague)
(Pupil of Herr Ševčík).
CLASSES and PRIVATE LESSONS. For particulars, apply to
Prof. Herman Koenig, 36, Ainger Road, N.W.

MISS MARY OULD, L.R.A.M. (Solo Violinist)
For Concerts, At Homes, Lessons, &c.
Oakdene, Kilburn Priory, Maida Vale, W.

MADAME FLORA ARNOULD (French Soprano), who has for some time past been studying in London with Mr. John Cross, will make her FIRST APPEARANCE at Bechstein Hall on the evening of October 29, under distinguished patronage and supported by eminent artists. For further particulars see daily papers; or address, College House, 25, Guilford Street, Russell Square, W.C.

MISS AMY FLETCHER (Soprano), Oratorios
and Concerts, gives LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION
and SINGING, at Pupils' residences, and at 11, Highbury Grange, N.

MR. WILLIAM WILD (Tenor), of the "Sir
Charles and Lady Hallé South African Concert Tour, 1895"
of the London (Queen's Hall) Concerts; of the Richter and Manchester
Gentlemen's Concerts. Pupil of Andrew Black, Esq. Terms, &c.,
Grosvenor Square, Stalybridge, near Manchester.

MR. FERDINAND RIPPON (Solo Violinist), for Concerts, At Homes; also Leader of Orchestra for Oratorios,
&c. A Violin for Sale. Address, 20 Salisbury Road, Reading.

MISS TERESA BLAMY
(SOPRANO).
Oratorios, Concerts.
36, Westwick Gardens, West Kensington, London.

MISS FLORENCE BOWNESS
(SOPRANO).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Scout House, Newchurch, near Manchester.

MADAME NORLEDGE
(SOPRANO).

BALLADS.—"It was refreshing to hear such a cultured, flexible soprano. Her interpretation of the song 'Vilanelle' (del Acqua) was the very essence of daintiness and charm."—Surrey Comet.
"CREATION."—"Possesses all the qualities requisite for an ideal
interpretation of Haydn's masterpiece—power, fluency, sweetness, and taste."—County Herald and Free Press.

"JUDAS MACCABÆUS."—"Was rendered with an ease and charm which stamped her at once as a vocalist of a high order."—Derby Telegraph.

"ELIJAH."—"Sang in faultless style, with much passion and fire,
the audience being warm in their appreciation."—Sheffield Independent.
BALLADS.—"Repeated her former success. . . . enthusiastic recalls rewarded the clever singer."—Birmingham Daily Post.

Address, 30, Wellington Road, Newark-on-Trent.

MISS BEATRICE PALLISTER
(SOPRANO).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Broxholme Lane, Doncaster.

MISS AMY SARGENT
A.R.A.M. (SOPRANO),
8, Middleton Road, Camden Road, N.

MISS LILIAN TURNBULL
(SOPRANO).
Please Note Change of Address—
26, Rowhill Mansions, Clapton, N.E.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY
(MEZZO-SOPRANO AND HARPIST)
Doncaster.

MISS SYDNEY BUSHNELL
(CONTRALTO).
Care of Mdme. Susannah Cole, 5, Portsdown Road, Maida Vale, W.

MISS
KATHERINE HAWKINS
(CONTRALTO), L.R.A.M.
For Oratorios, Ballad and Chamber Concerts.
Bryn-tirion, Sutton Court Road, Sutton, Surrey.

MISS FLORENCE HOOLE

(Of the Queen's Hall Promenade Concerts)

is open to accept Engagements. For terms and vacant dates, apply, 78, Broadhurst Gardens, N.W.MISS LUCIE JOHNSTONE

(CONTRALTO).

Permanent address:—

Glenarm Lodge, Rosendale Road, West Dulwich, S.E.; or,
c/o Mr. N. Vert, 6, Cork St., W. Telegrams: "Doxologies," London.MISS ADELAIDE LAMBE

(CONTRALTO).

Queen's Hall and Crystal Palace Concerts, &c.
Address, Holmwood, Roxborough Park, Harrow.MISS MAUD SANTLEY

(CONTRALTO)

(Of the Royal Albert Hall, the Queen's Hall, London Ballad Concerts, the Adelina Patti, Melba, and Harrison Concert Tours, the Symphony Concerts, Belgium, &c.)."Miss Maud Santley has a rich contralto voice, and sings with great finish. The solos, 'He shall feed His flock' and 'He was despised,' were marked by consummate taste and expression."— Harrogate Advertiser."Miss Santley, also, was in good voice, and particularly effective in the air 'He was despised.'"—Leeds and Yorkshire Mercury."The other singers besides Madame Patti were Miss Maud Santley and Mr. Watkin Mills. Miss Santley sang Siebel's Cavatina from Gounod's 'Faust' and a song by Denza, called 'A May Morning.'
Both these songs were delivered with a fine contralto voice and a style that very naturally charmed the audience."—Manchester Guardian."Miss Maud Santley was a fitting companion of Madame Melba, and sang with high vocal quality."—Bradford Observer."Miss Maud Santley captivated the audience with the 'Flower Song' from 'Faust,' and in response to a recall gave a finished rendering of 'Angus Macdonald.' She was heard to excellent advantage in 'Because,' the high notes being taken with the greatest of ease, and in the softer modulations the sweetness and quality of her voice were equally evident, and she had to respond to enthusiastic encores."— Aberdeen Daily Journal.The handsome Miss Maud Santley received quite an ovation. She possesses a contralto voice of great wealth and power, which was heard at its best perhaps in her dramatic rendering of 'Angus Macdonald.'—Fraserburgh Herald and Northern Counties Advertiser.MISS MAUD SANTLEY'S CONCERT-PARTY.—"The concert altogether was one of the best that has been heard in Peterhead, and the programme was received with the utmost enthusiasm. Miss Maud Santley sang the 'Flower Song' from 'Faust,' for which she was heartily encored, and gave 'Angus Macdonald,' in which her rich, full, and powerful voice was heard to the utmost advantage, which was one of the features of the evening. She was equally successful in 'Because,' and again excelled herself in 'Idle words.'"—Peterhead Sentinel."Miss Maud Santley, who possesses a remarkably powerful contralto voice, received quite an ovation. Her songs were . . . for each of which she received an enthusiastic encore."—West Cumberland Times."The concert supplied by Miss Maud Santley and her party was without doubt the best of this season's series. From beginning to end the programme was of exceptional merit, the items being well chosen for variety and effect. Miss Santley, of course, took first honours, her full and rich voice being heard to perfection in several numbers, but particularly in a fine rendering for an encore of 'Angus Macdonald.'" Glasgow Daily Record."Miss Maud Santley and party . . . and the presence of the noted vocalist and her excellent company brought together an exceptionally large audience. Miss Santley was in capital voice, and her contributions to the programme alone established its outstanding success.
She had to accord several encores."—Glasgow Evening News."Miss Maud Santley, whose fine contralto voice is well known to the patrons of the Harrison Concerts, charmed her audience with her several contributions and had to respond to the hearty plaudits which her renderings deserved."—Glasgow Herald.Répertoire of all standard oratorios and works, including: "The Dream of Gerontius" and "Sea Pictures" (Elgar), and "Samson and Delilah" (Saint-Saëns). For vacant dates, address, 60, Margaret
Street, Cavendish Square, London, W.MISS HILDA STRAUSS

(CONTRALTO). For Oratorio and Ballads.

Specially successful in Oratorio.

Address, 10, Conference Place, Armley, Leeds.

MR. CLAUDE ANDERSON

(TENOR). For Oratorios and Concerts.

"Possesses a pleasant tenor voice of considerable flexibility. Sang with expression and intelligence."—Daily Telegraph.

8, Corinne Road, Tufnell Park, N.

MR. HENRY BEAUMONT

(TENOR, FOR ORATORIO).

All new and standard works. "An ideal oratorio singer."—The Tatler.

Address, Principal Agents; or, 83, Maida Vale, W.

MR. WRIGHT BEAUMONT

(TENOR)

Bronze and Silver Medalist and Certificate, R.A.M.

Address, Roach House, Manchuria Road, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. TOM CHILD

(THE YORKSHIRE TENOR)

The Poplars, Calverley, Leeds.

MR. FRED. FALLAS

(TENOR).

CHORAL SOCIETIES AND CONCERT-GIVERS IN THE NORTH OF ENGLAND AND SCOTLAND PLEASE NOTE THE FOLLOWING BOOKINGS:—

CUMBERLAND MUSICAL FESTIVAL, JAN. 1, 2, 3, 1904.

Works: "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," "Daisy Chain," and "Messiah."

Oct. 31—Edinburgh	Ballads.
Dec. 16—Newcastle and Gateshead	Choral Union
Feb. 13—Edinburgh	Ballads.

EIGHT "MESSIAH'S" ALREADY BOOKED IN DECEMBER.

Other Bookings include:—

Oct. 5, Horbury; Oct. 6, Keighley; Oct. 11, Bradford; Oct. 27,
Spennymoor (Durham); Nov. 3, Brighouse; Nov. 5, Slaithwaite;
Nov. 10, Rochdale; Nov. 21, Manchester; Dec. 2, Macclesfield;
Dec. 13, Leeds; Dec. 19, Crosshills; Dec. 31, Workington; March 5, Saddleworth; March 19, Manchester, &c., &c.

Address: Horbury, Yorks.

MR. HENRY FRANCKISS

(TENOR).

The Musical News.—"HIAWATHA."—"The society was conducted by Mr. Coleridge-Taylor. The fine tenor solo was entrusted to Mr.
Henry Franckiss, whose rich voice and good method won enthusiastic applause."Banbury Guardian.—"HIAWATHA."—"He displayed a voice of rare quality and expression, and his rendering of 'Onaway! awake,' was not only loudly applauded, but the conductor himself (Mr. Coleridge-Taylor) showed his marked approval of the way it had been treated."

The Times.—"GOLDEN LEGEND."—"Sang excellently."

Morning Post.—"JUDAS MACCABEUS."—"Rich and powerful voice."

Leeds Mercury.—"HYMN OF PRAISE."—"Gave a masterly rendering of his solos. The engagement of Mr. Franckiss was a particularly happy choice."South London Press.—"MESSIAH." CRYSTAL PALACE.—"The audience were alive to the exceptional merit displayed by Mr.
Franckiss."Yorkshire News.—"It is impossible to credit him with too much praise, possessing a rich mellow voice of great range, and of which he is a complete master."Aberdeen Journal.—"Seldom has the choral society had the services of a better tenor. He has a rich voice of fine compass, and acquitted himself admirably in every solo."

22, Winifred Grove, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. FRANCIS GLYNN

(TENOR).

High Elms, Burgh Heath Road, Epsom.

MR. GEORGE PERRINS

(TENOR)

(Of the Hereford Musical Festivals).

Address, The Cathedral, Hereford.

MR. JOS. REED

(PRINCIPAL TENOR),

Trinity College, Cambridge.

Tenor, Madame Clara Butt's Tours, October, 1900; Spring, 1902.

Vacant dates. 55, Chesterton Road, Cambridge.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS

(TENOR).

For vacant dates, apply, 105, North Side, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. WILLIAM A. SHEEN

(PRINCIPAL TENOR, The City Temple).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

For Terms, &c., apply, 71, Alkham Road, Stamford Hill, N.

MR. JOHN BROWNING

(BARITONE).

Soloist, Leeds Musical Festivals and of the leading English, Scotch, and Irish Concerts. Extensive répertoire of over 100 works.Season 1902/3, has sung Baritone Solos in sixty works ("Elijah" 12 times, "Messiah" 10), and at forty Miscellaneous Concerts.

Bookings for coming Season include: "Messiah" (6 times), "Elijah,"

"St. Paul," "Samson," "Creation," "Seasons," "Walpurgis Night,"

"Stabat Mater" (Rossini), "Acis and Galatea," "Daisy Chain," &c.

Address, Marlboro' Grove, Leeds.

MR. OTTLEY CRANSTON

(BARITONE)

For Oratorios, Concerts, etc.

Address, 106, Clifton Hill, St. John's Wood, N.W. or, principal Agents.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS,
48, DYNE ROAD, BRONDESURY, N.W.
Telegrams:—SOLOIST, LONDON.

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL

(BARITONE).
(Westminster Abbey.)

"ELIJAH" (EAST HAM).—"Of the soloists, Mr. Montague Borwell was by far and away the best. His rendering of the recitatives was especially full of feeling and fervency, and his resonant voice well filled the hall in 'Is not His word.'"—Echo.

"ANCIENT MARINER" (BRIGHTON).—"The quiet, refined, and even graceful methods of Mr. Montague Borwell, the baritone, yielded universal pleasure, for his voice has a particularly musical timbre, and the tact and taste of the experienced artist were ever apparent."—Standard.

"ANCIENT MARINER" (BRIGHTON).—"A conspicuous feature was the refined singing of Mr. Montague Borwell. He treated his several numbers with a smoothness which came as a pleasing contrast to the strained efforts too often heard, and undoubtedly left behind a flattering impression."—Hove Gazette.

"REDEMPTION" (COLERAINE).—"We venture to say few people in the concert-room were unmoved at Mr. Borwell's exceptionally well impersonated treatment of the 'Last Words,' 'My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?' This was indeed one of the outstanding features of the whole performance."—Advertiser.

AND

MISS WINIFRED MARWOOD

(Mrs. Montague Borwell—SOPRANO).

"CREATION" (CLYDEBANK).—"Miss Winifred Marwood sang all her solos with fervour and charm. She has a cultured voice, fresh and resonant, and a good concert-platform style. At the close of the air 'With verdure clad' she had to repeatedly bow her acknowledgments to the enthusiastic applause of the audience."—Clydebank Press.

"MESSIAH" (BOSTON).—"Miss Winifred Marwood possesses a pure soprano voice, most flexible and clear, which was shown to great advantage in the florid style of some of her airs, her voice being flute-like in the trills and beautiful throughout."—Boston Independent.

"MAY QUEEN" (ABERGAVENNY).—"Miss Winifred Marwood, the soprano soloist, who has a voice full, rich and powerful, yet very sweet and tender, as occasion required, and of fine range, associated with dramatic power, clear enunciation, and a charming personality, took the audience by storm, and the very unusual compliment was paid her in the second part of the programme of a double encore, to which she gracefully responded."—Chronicle.

48, Dyne Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MR. JOHN RIDDING

(BARITONE)

Sweetman's Agency, Liverpool; or, 11, Southfield Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MR. ARTHUR WALENN

(BARITONE)

20, Ashworth Mansions, Elgin Avenue, London, W.

MR. ARTHUR SEDGLEY

(BASS).

For Oratorio, Opera, &c.
Address, Arava Villa, Hartley Street, Wolverhampton.

MR. HENRY SUNMAN

(BASS).

Licentiate (Artist) of the Royal Academy of Music, of the Gloucester and Cheltenham Festivals, &c.

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Please address, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

MR. HERBERT TRACEY

(BASS).

Extensive repertoire. For terms, address, 101, Amesbury Avenue, S.W.

MR. CHARLES TREE.

"ELIJAH," Treorchy, Dec. 26, 1903;

Engaged for America, Jan. and Feb., 1904, returning in time for "ELIJAH," Huddersfield, March 4, 1904.

Address, 27, Buckley Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MARIAN JAY

(SOLO VIOLINIST).

ON TOUR till November 7.

All communications respecting Engagements for Concerts, &c., address, 38, Warwick Road, Earls Court, S.W.

FREDERICK MOORE (A.R.A.M.)

Macfarren Gold Medalist. Solo Pianist. LESSONS, &c.
98, Elgin Crescent, Holland Park, W.

MISS ELLEN CHILDS

(CHROMATIC HARPIST).

Having studied in Paris under the direction of the Inventor, Miss Childs is prepared to give LESSONS on the NEW CHROMATIC HARP (without pedals). For terms, apply, 170, Belsize Road, N.W.; or, care of Messrs. Playell, Wolff, Lyon and Co., 79-80, Baker Street, Portman Square, W.

MISS

MARGUERITE SWALE

PREPARES VOCALISTS for Oratorio, Opera, German Lieder, and Ballads.

VOICE PRODUCTION AND SINGING.

Recommended by distinguished Artists.

F., 120, Great Portland Street, W.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Boys, personally trained and thoroughly reliable, for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, vacant dates, and further particulars, address, Mr. Henry J. Dutton, 17, Alpha Rd., New Cross, S.E.

MR. TANN'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. W. R. B. TANN, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Saviour's Church, Paddington, is prepared to supply well-trained Solo Boys for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

A number of excellent Chorus Boys also available.

For terms and vacant dates, address, Mr. W. R. B. Tann, 55, Warwick Road, Maida Vale, W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. Eastfield House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS.

Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities, Diplomas of L.R.A.M., A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O.; Appointments at College and School of Music, and as English Cathedral and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of seven hundred and fifty. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Piano-forte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ARNOTT, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, Organist to The Honble. Society of Gray's Inn, PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Examinations, and receives Pupils for Piano-forte, Organ, Singing; also, Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition, personally or by correspondence. Scores revised and compositions scored. All letters to The Common Room, Gray's Inn.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., Mus. Bac., Dunelm, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Post. Personal Lessons in Piano-forte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or, at 60, Berners Street, W. Schools attended. Address, 289, High Road, Lee, S.E.

ARTHUR T. FROGGATT, Mus.D., T.C.D., gives LESSONS by POST, and prepares for all genuine examinations. 2, Hampden Villas, Hythe.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., is now making a SPECIALITY OF PREPARING CANDIDATES by CORRESPONDENCE for University, Royal College of Organists, and other musical Exams. LARGE NUMBER OF PAST SUCCESSES. Moderate terms. PERSONAL LESSONS in THEORY and ORGAN (for R.C.O. exams.) are given either at Streatham or in London. 52, Buckleigh Road, Streatham, S.W.

RECENT SUCCESSES.

R.C.O. EXAMS., JULY, 1903:—

F.R.C.O. Two successes.

A.R.C.O. Three successes.

Apply, Dr. HARRIS, as above.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and PREPARES CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Latest successes: Mus. Bac., Oxford and Durham, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., &c. Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY, Mus.D., Oxon., 13, Roseleigh Avenue, Highbury, N., continues to PREPARE CANDIDATES for the various Theoretical Examinations. Music of any description revised or arranged. LESSONS in COMPOSITION, by post if desired.

“FROM BRAIN TO KEYBOARD.”

MACDONALD SMITH'S SYSTEM OF TOUCH AND TECHNIQUE.

“The most striking discovery of the present generation for practical musicians.”—Musical News.

“Wonderful work is being done by Mr. Macdonald Smith in the application of his new system. . . . He is giving hundreds of lessons by mail with the very best results.”—Musical Courier (New York).

“It is clear that Mr. Macdonald Smith has studied the subject carefully, and acts upon well-ascertained scientific grounds.”—The Daily Telegraph.

“The great, the supreme merit of Mr. Smith's system consists in the fact that it involves the total abolition and disestablishment of all that terrible scale-practising and five-finger exercising.”—Westminster Gazette.

“May be distinctly regarded as a boon and a blessing to men.”—The Referee.

“Mr. Macdonald Smith's system of training the fingers, hands, &c., for pianoforte playing is most excellent, and in every respect well worth the high fees charged for lessons.”—Organist and Choirmaster.

“The excellence of his methods had been abundantly proved.”—The Times.

THE SYSTEM EXPLAINED.

The correct translation to the keyboard of the pianoforte of the notes of written or printed music, together with the proper interpretation of the expression, presents an interesting and difficult problem to pianists, viz.:—What is the best means of acquiring that quickness of eye, brain, and muscles, requisite to the perfect rendering of pianoforte music?

In considering this problem, we are forced to a recognition of the fact that very much depends upon physical health and development. Perfection of eye, brain, and muscles are an exceptional occurrence, and, where non-existent, require to be developed by artificial means, since physical perfection and a healthy condition of the organs named are a sine qua non in the proper training of the musician. To achieve this desideratum is the aim of Macdonald Smith's system of Touch and Technique. Many ingenious attempts have been made to develop this perfection of action and control, and thereby to ensure freedom and rapidity of voluntary movement, but hitherto none has been completely successful. The problem remained to be solved by Macdonald Smith's discovery of the principle of “full-contraction,” with what remarkable success is shown by the practical experience of hundreds of pianists of all ages and of every degree of proficiency.

The use of the exercises alone results in a most pronounced improvement in delicacy of touch, good loud tone-production, command of independent rhythm in the two hands, general rapidity, confidence, “grip,” stretch of the hands, flexibility of the fingers and wrists, besides many other benefits.

There are other difficulties encountered by the pianist, depending upon purely mechanical considerations, which would still exist were the hands and arms formed of wood or iron, instead of bone and muscle. But these have been reduced to a science, and are met by “TECHNICAL RULES.” The latter, which, combined with the “full-contraction” exercises, comprise the system of Touch and Technique, are indispensable for the easy and correct rendering of “skips,” quickly-repeated movements, trills, and other technical difficulties of the keyboard.

The System affords the player invaluable assistance which is unattainable by any other means by even the most advanced student, and it is indispensable to beginner and proficient alike.

COMPLETE COURSE OF SIX LESSONS, BY CORRESPONDENCE, THREE GUINEAS.

Experience with 2,000 pupils in various parts of the world.

“PIANOFORTE PLAYING” and other articles by MACDONALD SMITH, 32pp., post free, 7d. Full prospectus, 16 pp., post free.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR PERSONAL LESSONS (TO CONCERT PLAYERS ONLY) ON APPLICATION.

MACDONALD SMITH, 19, BLOOMSBURY SQUARE, LONDON, W.C.

DR. ATHELSTAN G. IGGULDEN, Mus. Doc. (Dunelm), F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS and prepares for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by post. The Dingle, Reigate, Surrey.

DR. WARWICK JORDAN, F.R.C.O. (Examiner to The Royal Coll. Org.; Prof. Organ and Harmony, Guildhall School of Music, &c., &c.), has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Magnificent Organ, Hydraulic blowing. Elaborate Musical Services. Excellent opportunities for learning Choir-training. For terms for a Youth who would soon be useful for Daily Services, address, Grafton House, Lewisham High Road, S.E.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM and ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1903; OXFORD FIRST MUS. BAC., 1903; ASSOCIATED BOARD, Senior Harmony (Honours), Counterpoint, 1903; DURHAM, 1902, 1901, 1900, and all previous years; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1902; OXFORD MUS. BAC., 1902, 1901, &c.; L.R.A.M. (Composition and Pianoforte), 1902, 1901, &c.; A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, Composition and Pianoforte Teaching); CAMBRIDGE and DUBLIN, MUS. BAC.; L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M.; L.T.C.L., A.T.C.L., and Special Certificates, 1903, 1902, &c. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Terms moderate. MSS. corrected for publication.

Analyses of Classical Works for Examinations.
70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

DR. MARCHANT, Mus. D., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Author of “500 Fugue Subjects and Answers,” Novello's Primers, No. 35), &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Musical Examinations by Post. 10, Glebe Crescent, Stirling, N.B.

MR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus. B., F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., makes a SPECIALITY of COACHING for DEGREES. L.R.A.M., 1897-1903, FORTY-ONE SUCCESSES; A.R.C.M., 1897-1903, ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTEEN SUCCESSES. Equally good results in R.C.O. and other Examinations. Address, Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS gives LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION and SINGING, at 60, Berners Street, W., and 45, Pentonville Road, N.

W. HENRY THOMAS, Professor of Singing at the R.A.M. and G.S.M., has resumed LESSONS for the Winter Season at Bond Street Studio, and at his private residence, (Oratorio singing a specialty.) Address, 7, Lidlington Place, Harrington Square, N.W.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond.; Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., Personally or by Correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and all other Examinations. Classes. 25, Palliser Road, West Kensington, W.

DR. TINDALL, A.T.C.L., teaches Music (practical and theoretical) BY POST. MSS. revised; Teachers helped (Psychon System). 63, Biddulph Mansions, Elgin Avenue, W.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac. (Durham, 1892); L.Mus.T.C.L. (1888). COACHES for EXAMS. Prospectus, &c., 58, Comiston Road, Edinburgh.

MR. PERCY WOOD, F.R.C.O., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post, and Prepares for Examinations. Terms, £1 1s. for ten lessons. 60, Crownhill Rd.; Harlesden, N.W.

MR. HAYDN GROVER, Alto, Temple Church; also Director of Choir and Organist of St. John's Church, Clapham Rise, will sing at his CONCERT in Assembly Rooms, Balham, on October 5. Band of the 2nd Life Guards will play some of his pieces. On Thursday evening, October 8, Mr. Grover will direct the music at the Harvest Thanksgiving Service in St. John's Church, Clapham Rise. Selections from Mendelssohn's “Hymn of Praise” will be sung. Soloists, Miss Irene Melton, Miss Isa Lyell, and Mr. Herbert Grover. Augmented choir. Ladies and gentlemen willing to volunteer their help at this and future services are invited to communicate with Mr. Haydn Grover, 6, Childebert Road, Balham.

MADAME ELISE J. HEMERY, VOICE-PRODUCTION, SINGING, ARTICULATION, COACHING, ACCOMPANYING. Perfect Sight-reader. Visits and receives. City and West-End Studios. Address, c/o N. Vert, Cork Street, W.

MISS MARGARET MCINTOSH, Pupil of Mr. Edward Iles, is now resuming her LESSONS for SINGING and VOICE PRODUCTION, at 60, Berners Street and at 27, Craven Road, Willesden, N.W., where applications respecting lessons and engagements for Concerts and At Homes should be made.

MISS ALICIA JEPHSON, pupil of the late Maestro Coen, of Florence, formerly with Delle Sedie, of Paris, gives LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION and SINGING. Highly recommended by Delle Sedie, Mascagni of Italy, and Signor Bonci of Covent Garden. For further particulars, address, care of Messrs. Forsyths, Ltd., Deansgate, Manchester.

Trinity College London (INST. 1872).

President:

THE RIGHT HON. LORD COLERIDGE, M.A., K.C.

Warden:

EDMUND H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

MICHAELMAS TERM has begun.

The College provides complete and systematic instruction and training in every recognised musical subject for all classes of Musical Students. The Fee for full-course students is £10 per term. In the JUNIOR SCHOOL, to which pupils are admitted up to the age of 15, the Fee is £4 4s. per term for the full course.

Students can enter for the Course or for special subjects.

The tuition of the College will serve as a preparative for all Public Examinations in the Theory and Practice of Music, including the Examinations for University Degrees.

EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC FOR TEACHERS.

The next Higher Examinations of the College will be held on Monday, January 4, and following days. The last day of entry is December 5.

Candidates may enter under the newly-revised scheme (Pamphlet Ca) or under the regulations issued in 1902 (Pamphlet C) at their option.

Immediately after this January Examination Syllabus C will be withdrawn, except for candidates who have partially qualified, or who have been unsuccessful under Syllabus C and who desire to complete the course upon which they have entered.

The recommended text books on teaching are named in the regulations, which may be had, together with forms of entry and other necessary particulars, on application.

The Examination in the Art of Teaching is also open to all present holders of Diplomas and Higher Certificates on payment of an Examination Fee of One Guinea.

November 12. Last day of entry for the next Local Examinations in Musical Knowledge (Theory), which take place in December.

The last days of entry for the Local Examinations in INSTRUMENTAL and VOCAL MUSIC, held from October to July, at the various Centres throughout the United Kingdom for Pianoforte, Organ, and Violin Playing, and Solo Singing may be had on application.

The prospectus of the Teaching Department (including that for the Junior School, the Virgil Clavier Department, and the regulations for Scholarships) and the Higher and Local Examination Syllabuses, may be had from the undersigned.

By order, SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

WILL BE PUBLISHED SHORTLY.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION

OF

FAUST

DRAMATIC CANTATA

BY

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

ENGLISH TRANSLATION

BY

PAUL ENGLAND.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

John Broadwood & Sons' LIMITED,

NEW SHORT OVERSTRUNG GRAND

105 GUINEAS.

"MULTUM IN PARVO."

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET, LONDON, W.

THE LONDON MUSIC SCHOOL (LONDON ORGAN SCHOOL).

Established 1865.

22, PRINCES STREET, CAVENDISH SQ., W. (Close to Oxford Circus).
Director and Principal: T. H. YORKE TROTTER, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon.

The School is open daily from 9 a.m. till 9 p.m., and provides a THOROUGH EDUCATION for PROFESSIONAL and AMATEUR MUSICIANS. Lessons may begin on any date, and a single subject taken if desired.

PRIVATE LESSONS are given in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition; Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, Violin, Viola, Violoncello, and Double-Bass; all Wind and other Orchestral Instruments; Choir Training, Elocution, and Stage Deportment; Modern Languages, &c. DAY AND EVENING CLASSES are held in Harmony and Counterpoint, Musical Dictation, Quartet and Ensemble Playing, and in Elocution (Mr. Charles Fry) and Modern Languages.

The School has a Full Orchestra, a String Orchestra, and two Choral Classes.

The CONCERT ORGAN and two other three-manual Instruments are available for practice.

Prospectus on application to the Secretary.

No. 61, Novello's Music Primers and Educational Series.

THE VIOLA

BY BERTHOLD TOURS

EDITED BY ALFRED GIBSON.

"The best of its kind."—Birmingham Daily Post.

Price Two Shillings. Paper boards, 2s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BOSWORTH EDITION.

OSCAR BERINGER

CELEBRATED

DAILY TECHNICAL STUDIES

Newly revised, enlarged, and engraved, 4s. net.

SCALE & ARPEGGIO MANUAL

Newly revised, enlarged, and engraved, 2s. net.

Recommended by the greatest authorities.

PIANOFORTE TUTOR

Popular Edition, English Fingering, 2s. 6d. net.

Foreign Fingering, German and English Text, in Two Books, at 2s. each net.

Or, complete, 4s. net.

The Lady.—"By far the best I have yet seen published."
Daily Telegraph.—"Valuable work. Clear, and easy to be comprehended."

Mr. Malcolm Lawson.—"The learner is led from strength to strength."

Mr. Stanley Hawley.—"The very incarnation of the modern spirit in teaching—line upon line and precept upon precept."

NEW SONATINAS.

Each 2s.

1. SONATINA PASTORALE.
(In Three Movements.)
2. SONATINA MARTIALE.
(a) On the March.
(b) By the Watch-Fire.
(c) Homewards.

BOSWORTH AND CO., 5, PRINCES ST., OXFORD ST., W.
And at LEIPZIG, VIENNA, and PARIS.

DR. JOSEPH PRING,

ORGANIST OF BANGOR CATHEDRAL FROM 1793 TO 1842.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

OCTOBER 1, 1903.

BANGOR AND ITS CATHEDRAL.

'At evening [at Penmaenmawr] the moon shone eminently bright, and our thoughts of danger being now past, the rest of our journey was very pleasant. At an hour somewhat late, we came to Bangor, where we found a very mean Inn, and had some difficulty to obtain lodging. I lay in a room where the other bed had two men. . . . We went to worship at the Cathedral. The quire is mean, the service was not well read.'

Thus recorded Dr. Johnson while on his North Wales journey, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Thrale, during the month of August, 1774. Were the great lexicographer to re-visit Bangor now, at this interval of 129 years, he would have a different tale to tell. It is true that he might not wax enthusiastic in regard to this Carnarvonshire city per se, but such institutions as the North Wales University College and other educational features would certainly meet with his approval. He would find that the Cathedral quire is anything but 'mean,' and that the service is remarkably 'well read' (or intoned) by Minor Canon Hughes Williams. Moreover, were Dr. Johnson to mount the picturesque heights of Upper Bangor, he would not only be charmed with the lovely environment of the Menai Straits, but he might perchance find occasion to be pleased with the two famous bridges that span those Welsh waters—the graceful Suspension Bridge (opened in 1826), and the famous Britannia Tubular Bridge (opened in 1850), both noble specimens of English engineering skill with which the names of Thomas Telford and Robert Stephenson, respectively, are worthily associated and perpetuated. Both these bridges will be found in the landscape view on page 643.

The name of George Grove is associated with the Britannia Bridge. As a young engineer he assisted in the construction of that gigantic work, and contributed to The Spectator of June 23, 1849, an account of the floating of the first tube, this being one of his earliest appearances in print. The tubes were constructed on the Carnarvonshire shore of the Straits. A month previous to the floating of the main tube, preparatory to being hoisted into its elevated position, an unusually novel music-making took place in that elongated iron structure. The event is thus recorded in the North Wales Chronicle :—

CONCERT EXTRAORDINARY. — Friday evening [May 18, 1849] a Concert was given to the whole country round by the Engineering Staff at head quarters connected with the Chester and Holyhead Railway in the great centre Tube of the Britannia Bridge, which was brilliantly lighted up the entire length, lined with branches at the entrance to resemble a grove, with seats run along the sides for the promenaders to rest them. The vocal ability of Carnarvon and Bangor were in full force on this occasion, assisted by Mr. Hayden, of St. Mary's, of the former place, who accompanied on the melodium. The corps musicale consisted of forty or more vocalists; and allowing for the diluting effects upon the human voice of a chamber containing from seven to eight hundred persons, with an area of upwards of 470 feet long, better adapted to the sax-horns of the Distin family—the concert went off with as much eclat as could fairly have been expected. . . . We may say all present were struck with the novelty of the thing; while few could have had any previous conception of the brilliant spectacle presented by the illuminated Tube and the animated countenances on which its coruscations fell.

It may be assumed that George Grove, as one of the Engineering Staff, took an active part in promoting and arranging this concert, which, by the way, is duly noticed in THE MUSICAL TIMES of fifty-four years ago. Judging from internal evidence, Grove probably contributed to the local journal the account from which we have quoted. Certain it is that, during his sojourn at Bangor, 'G' must have known full well the village at the farther end of the Britannia Tubular Bridge—that Anglesey parish which bears the pronounced Welsh name of (Please, Mr. Printer, exercise more than your usual care in setting this much-lettered place, as the process may exercise a spell over you)—

Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwll-llandysiliogogoch.

Did Shakespeare visit Bangor? If we turn to Part I. of his King Henry IV., Act III., we shall find that Scene i is laid in that city. Tradition has it that the conspirators, Hotspur, Glendower, and the rest, met at 'Plâs Alcock,' now the site of the City Vaults Hotel. The immortal Bard gives us, in the Scene referred to above, some interesting references to the Welsh language, a tongue probably in the nature of a sealed book to him. Mortimer, who could not speak Welsh, thus addresses his wife, who could not speak English :—

Thy tongue
Makes Welsh as sweet as ditties highly penn'd,
Sung by a fair queen in a summer's bower,
With ravishing division, to her lute.

Hotspur, who may have become acquainted with Llanfair P. G. (as the above-named village is abbreviatively called), took a different view of the Welsh language, as later in the scene he says :—

Now I perceive, the devil understands Welsh;
And 'tis no marvel, he's so humorous,
By 'r-lady, he's a good musician.

Bangor ought to be a musical place, as its name is derived from two Welsh words, ban cor, meaning good or high choir. Its Cathedral, with which we have especially to do, is snugly situated in a hollow in the centre of the city. One of the most ancient of existing Sees, it was founded by Deiniol (or Daniel), the first Bishop, in the 6th century. The Cathedral has passed through many vicissitudes, and has been more than once destroyed—first by the Saxons in 1071, and again by Owen Glyndwr (Glendower) in 1402. It remained in ruins for nearly a century, but it has been restored and added to, the last time under the direction of the late Sir Gilbert Scott. The eminent architect reverently preserved and used up much of the earlier sculptured stone that he found. In this connection he records:—

This exhuming and restoring to their places the fragments of the beautiful work of the 13th century, reduced to ruin by Owen Glyndwr, used as mere rough material by Henry VII., and rediscovered by us four and a-half centuries after their reduction to ruins, is one of the most interesting facts I have met with in the course of my experience.

Of the Cathedral destroyed in 1071, there remains a buttress and rude round-headed window, now placed in the south wall of the Choir. When King John invaded Wales (A.D. 1210) he burned the city of Bangor and seized the Bishop, Robert of Shrewsbury, before the high altar, and would not release him till a ransom had been paid of 200 hawks, according to some authorities, 200 marks according to others. The western tower was added in 1532 by Bishop Skevington, who also rebuilt the nave. In the south wall of the south transept is the supposed tomb of Owain Gwynedd, Sovereign Prince of Wales, who reigned thirty-two years and died in 1159. The edifice is singularly devoid of antiquarian interest in regard to its monuments, but a tombstone (of a member of the Rathbone family) in the churchyard has this parental epitaph:—

Father to the fatherless so much,
You will seldom meet another such.

At the west end may be seen fragments of a 13th-century pavement formerly placed at the east end of the Cathedral. The ancient designs of the tiles have been copied and reproduced in the pavement in the Choir. A pair of lazy-tongs (or dog tongs) is a curious relic of old times, when churches and churchyards seem to have been greatly troubled by canine interlopers. These tongs are so constructed as to grip the unwelcome animal round the neck, whereby he could be ignominiously ejected without fear of retaliation in the nature of a bite. The Records of the Cathedral contain a curious 17th-century reference to these ecclesiastically disposed 'Doggs.' Here it is:—

The Presentment of the Churchwardens of Llannor, for the year 1682.

We present Maurice Hughes of Llannor, Tayler, for disturbing divine service and sermon severall times in the church of Llannor.

We present the said Maurice Hughes for breaking Robert Rowland his pate on Sunday morninge, being March the fourth to the great effusion of his blood—who meetinge the minnister and others, cominge towards Church, they were all amazed.

Further we present the said Maurice Hughes for darenge the minister at the altar, having a staffe in his hand—threatninge him wth the sd staffe near his face, and threatninge us the Churchwardens, vilifyinge the whole Congregation May the 6th being Sunday fighting or quarrelling with some one or other every Sabbath wth in the Church or Churchyard when he is att home; and May the 29th, being the nativity and restauration of our Gracious Sovereign King Charles, when the minister was readinge of divine service, the said Maurice Hughes was settinge of Doggs to fighte and baite one another at the Churchyard wall over against the door of the church to the disturbance of divine service and the congregation there present.

While on the subject of Records, a curious entry from the Baptismal Registers may be quoted:—

Dec. 11, 1807: Owen, son of Hugh Jones, of Llanrhwydrus: a Vagabond.

And another, from the Burial Registers:—

Oct. 18, 1749. Sidney Jones, wife of Henry David, was Buried. She was murdered as is supposed by her brother, Richard Jones.

Before making mention of some Bishops of Bangor, and referring to matters strictly musical, one or two peculiar features of the Cathedral may be noticed. Curfew has been rung on the tenor bell for centuries, and is still rung daily at the hour of 8 p.m. As the chiming is now concluded by the announcing of the day of the month on a smaller bell, no one can charge curfew with not being up to date. The Cathedral also serves as the Parish Church of Bangor, of which there are two vicars with equal rights. A Parochial Service in the Welsh language is held twice on Sundays; on these occasions the music is sung by a mixed choir. Fully Choral Services (in English, of course) are held twice on Sundays, Saints' Days and their Vigils, with Evensong on Saturdays throughout the year, and daily (at 5 p.m.) during the summer months.

The Bishops. One of the most distinguished occupants of the See was Anian (Einion, or Eujan), who died in 1305. He had the honour of christening the first Prince of Wales—born at Carnarvon Castle, April 25, 1284. In recognition of his services in administering that sacrament, King Edward I. bestowed upon the Bishop certain 'ferries and manours' in the neighbourhood, which constituted the barony by which he is said to have claimed his seat in Parliament. Moreover, Bishop Anian compiled the Pontifical, or Liber Bangor, the greatest treasure in the Cathedral library. This precious manuscript is thus described by Browne Willis:—

It is a folio of a moderate thickness containing 32 Offices, and has abundance of Anthems, with musical notes to them for Singing. At the beginning are the Offices for making and ordaining the Acolyti, Subdiaconi, Diaconi, Presbyteri, and Episcopi; Forms of consecrating Churches and Church-yards, &c. Forms of adjuring of bread, cheese, and honey; Offices for all Sundays and Holydays throughout the year; Prayers in times of pestilence, war, and other occasions.

The 13th Office contains the Mass; the 19th the form of the Chapters electing their Bishop. In the latter end is the Office of Baptism (where twice immersion is expressly enjoind), &c.

This Pontifical formed 'The Use of Bangor,' and reference is made thereto in the Preface to the Book of Common Prayer. An antiphon from this old manuscript has been adapted for use at organ-opening services by Mr. J. T. Field.

THE BRIDGES OVER THE MENAI STRAITS: THE SNOWDON RANGE IN THE DISTANCE.
(Photo by Mr. John Wickens, Upper Bangor.)

A 14th-century Bishop was Thomas de Ringstede, a Dominican, or Black Friar, who is said to have cherished no great affection

THE ORGAN IN SHRUBSOLE'S DAY.

(From an old print.)

for 'the sheep of his pasture.' Bishop Skevington, as already stated, did much for the Cathedral. He died in 1533, when his body was buried at Beaulieu, but his heart was taken to Bangor Cathedral and sunk, none too securely, in the pavement in front of what seems to have been a picture of Daniel, the patron saint of the Cathedral. A Master Humphrey Humphreys used to play with the Bishop's heart! This heartless young gentleman then little thought that he would become Dean and afterwards Bishop of Bangor. Hoadley, the first Englishman appointed to the See since the Reformation, obtained notoriety by the 'Bangorian Controversy,' a theological squabble that need not detain us. He held the office of Bishop for six years (1715-1721), but never once visited his diocese! Coming to later times, Daniel Lewis Lloyd, Bishop from 1890-98, compiled a well-known Welsh Hymnal.

The Organs. The celebrated Bard, Dafydd ab Gwilym, who wrote in the 14th century, makes particular mention of an organ and choir at Bangor Cathedral in his day in an Ode entitled 'Awdl o Folawd i Ddeon Bangor ys ef Hywel ab Tudur ab Ednyfed Fychan.'

Teyrn llwyd prophwyd o hil Bran, mae au gwr,
Ym Mangor mewn gŵn pân;
Ty geirw galch teg, ei Organ,
Tant Cor, heb attynt ai Can.

That is, A Commendatory Ode addressed to Hywel, Dean of Bangor, whose organ, and harmonious choir, are unrivalled in performance.

It is obvious that there must have been an organ at that time, circa 1360. An interval of 300 years elapsed before the next record having reference to an organ. Browne Willis, in his 'A Survey of the Cathedral Church of Bangor,' issued in 1721, says:—

The organ-loft is in a gallery over the entrance into the Choir. The case of the organ is very plain, and both that and the organ-loft are painted of a marble colour; upon it are painted some verses—alluding to Bp. William Roberts giving £100 for erecting it after the Restoration Ann. 1660, and Bp. Robert Morgan's laying it out.

It appears that Bishop William Roberts bequeathed the sum of £100 'towards beautifying the choir,' with which money the organ was erected. This instrument stood in a gallery at the entrance to the Choir, as shown in the adjoining illustration. The celebrated builder Samuel Green supplied, in 1779, the next organ at a cost of 360 guineas; but in the manuscript collection of organ specifications in the handwriting of the late Dr. E. J. Hopkins (now in the possession of the present writer), the Doctor has endorsed that of Bangor with 'Great organ only by Green, and that without the trumpet.' At the restoration of the Cathedral in 1873, a new organ by Messrs. Hill was erected in a chamber on the north side of the Choir, the screen having been entirely removed. Twenty-four years later the instrument was rebuilt and enlarged, according to a scheme prepared by the present organist, Mr. T. Westlake Morgan, and opened Bangor Cathedral.

THE ORGAN CONSOLE,

(Photo by Mr. John Wickens, Upper Bangor.)

(Photo by Mr. John Wickens, Upper Bangor.)

by Sir Walter Parratt in 1897. The following is the specification of this fine instrument:—

GREAT ORGAN (17 stops).
	Feet.		Feet.
Double Open Diapason	... 16	Stopped Flute	... 4
Bourdon	... 16	Principal	... 4
Large Open Diapason	... 8	Twelfth	... 3
Small Open Diapason	... 8	Fifteenth	... 2
Stopped Diapason	... 8	Mixture (4 ranks)	... —
Clarabella	... 8	Contra Posaune	... 16
Spitz Flute	... 8	Posaune	... 8
Viol di Gamba	... 8	Clarion	... 4
Harmonic Flute	... 4

SWELL ORGAN (14 stops).
Bourdon	... 16	Principal	... 4
Open Diapason	... 16	Octavin (harmonic)	... 2
Violoncello	... 8	Mixture (4 ranks)	... —
Lieblich Gedact	... 8	Contra Fagotto	... 16
Echo Violin	... 8	Cornopean	... 8
Voix Celeste (B flat)	... 8	Oboe	... 8
Flauto Traverso	... 4	Harmonic Clarion	... 4

CHOIR ORGAN (12 stops).
(All enclosed in a separate Swell Box.)
Lieblich Gedact	... 16	Unda Maris (2 ranks)	... 8
Geigen Principal	... 8	Röhr Flute	... 4
Stopped Diapason	... 8	Suabe Flute	... 4
Dulciana	... 8	Gemshorn	... 4
Viola	... 8	Harmonic Piccolo	... 2
Vox Angelica (B flat)	... 8	Clarionet	... 8

SOLO ORGAN (9 stops).
(Enclosed in a separate Swell Box, except Tubas.)
Harmonic Flute	... 8	Vox Humana	... 8
Harmonic Flute	... 4	Musette	... 8
Viol d'orchestre	... 8	Contra Tuba	... 16
Orchestral Oboe	... 8	Tuba Mirabilis	... 8
Cor Anglais	... 16

PEDAL ORGAN (12 stops).
Double Open Diapason	... 32	Violoncello	... 8
Open Diapason	... 16	Bass Flute	... 8
Open Diapason	... 16	Fifteenth	... 4
Violine	... 16	Contra Trombone	... 32
Bourdon	... 16	Trombone	... 16
Quint	... 12	Trumpet	... 8

Manual compass CC to A.
Pedal compass CCCC to F.

COUPLERS, &c.

Swell to Great (left and right).
Great to Pedal (left and right).
Solo to Great (left and right).

Choir to Great.	Solo Sub-Octave.
Swell to Choir.	Great Sub-Octave.
Solo to Choir.	Pedal Octave.
Swell to Pedal.	Pedal to Great Pistons.
Choir to Pedal.	Pedal to Swell Pistons.
Solo to Pedal.	Pedal to Choir Pistons.
Swell Octave.	Swell Tremulant.
Swell Sub-Octave.	Solo Tremulant.
Solo Octave.

ACCESSORIES.

Four combination pistons to Great Organ.
Four combination pistons to Swell Organ.
Four combination pistons to Choir Organ.
Four combination pistons to Pedal Organ.

Three poppet pedals (on and off) acting on Swell to Great, Great to Pedal, Solo to Great.

Three balanced crescendo pedals (Swell, Solo and Choir), placed at the right of the pedal-board.

SUMMARY.

2 stops of 32 feet	... 60 pipes
13 " 16 "	... 614 "
30 " 8 "	... 1,674 "
12 " 4 "	... 668 "
7 " various	... 726 "
64 speaking stops	3,742 pipes.
23 couplers, &c.
87 draw-stops.

The action is tubular pneumatic throughout, manuals, pedal and drawstop work, some three or four miles of tubing being used, and the instrument is blown by hydraulic power.

The console, which is detached and situated in the North Transept, is fitted with diagonal jambs at an angle of about 45°, with four patent desk-hooks, and an adjustable stool to screw up and down for the convenience of all performers.

Among special features may be noticed the three species of Voix Celeste—one of Gambas, tuned sharp; another of Dulcianas, tuned sharp; and a third of Dulcianas, tuned flat. It is also possible by means of couplers and contiguous balanced crescendo pedals to obtain a simultaneous crescendo of some 25 stops.

For a period of a hundred years the organ at Bangor Cathedral was blown by a woman. The first of these female officials was a widow named Jane Jones. In an affidavit made before the Court of Chancery in 1817, this lady stated that she had been organ-blower in the Cathedral for above thirty years, and that her first husband 'held that situation for about thirty years before her.' Widow Jane Jones went on to say that she 'verily believes that an organ-blower has been employed ever since an organ has been set up in the said Cathedral,' and furthermore she 'has been informed and verily believes, that the office of organ-blower is attached to every Cathedral church where there is an organ, and even in those (which are numerous) which have no foundation for an organist.' In the spirit of a true philosopher, Mrs. Jane Jones informed the Court that 'without an organ-blower the organist would be quite useless and the organ too, as it can produce no sound without the working of the bellows.' True, O lady blower, perfectly true!

The Organists. The earliest mention of this official by name was on a tombstone in the Cathedral bearing the inscription: 'Here lies the body of Thos. Bolton, Organist of Bangor, who died the 1st day of January, 1644.' In the Chapter Books, under date of October, 1689, we find this entry:—

That Hugh Johnson be one of the singing men in the choir of the said Cathedral, while a Vicar Choral is organist there and no longer, and that he have a salary of eight pounds per annum payed him during the said time out of the tithe of Llandinam in the county of Montgomery, pursuant to an Act of Parliament in that behalf made and provided.

The Act of Parliament above referred to—passed in the year 1685, the first of King James II.—was entitled—

An Act for the repair of the Cathedral Church of Bangor, and for the maintenance of the choir there, and for the augmentation of the revenue of the Bishoprick of Bangor, and also for an augmentation of several vicarages within the Corporations of Llandinam, in the diocese of Bangor aforesaid.

The first endowed organist, as distinct from a vicar-choral performer, was one Thomas Roberts, appointed in 1691, who received a stipend of £20 per annum. His tombstone, once in the North Transept of the Cathedral, stated:—

Here lies in the hope of a joyful Resurrection, the body of Thomas Roberts, the first Endowed Organist of this Cathedral since the Restauration, who died on the 18th of May, in the year of our Lord 1705, and the 48th year of his age.

It was during the organistship of Mr. Thomas Roberts that the Dean and Chapter—

Ordered that the organist be obliged to teach and practise three other services besides Tallis (whereof two at least to be alternate, or for sides), and that the singing men and boys be obliged to learn and practise the said services, and the Dean and Chapter allow them time till Christmas to be perfect in the said Services.

The successor of Thomas Roberts was a Priest organist, that is to say, an organist named Priest, possibly Nathaniel of that ilk. He was 'recommended by Mr. Hall, organist of Hereford.' The Chapter minute, in recording Mr. Priest's appointment, says:—

He [Priest] be obliged to teach the four boys and as many of the singing men as have need of teaching, with great care and diligence at least two days in the week, and if it appears at the year's end that the said Mr. Priest hath performed his duty to general satisfaction, and done much in way of improvement of the choir in point of singing, with relation to services, and anthems, and chants, That then the said Mr. Priest have five pounds given him at the year's end by way of gratuity to reward and encourage his diligence.

If Mr. Priest had to teach some of the 'singing men' as well as the boys, he well deserved the extra £5 as a reward of his diligence.

Richard Gerard (whose tomb is in the Cathedral yard)—and come to a rather celebrated occupant of the post in the person of William Shrubsole, whose hymn-tune 'Miles's Lane,' associated with 'All hail the power of Jesu's Name,' has given him the widest fame of all the Bangor organists. The extracts from the Chapter Records relating to the election, the removal of his harpsichord from London, and the dismissal of young Shrubsole—he was only twenty-two at the time of his appointment—may be given in full:—

September, 1782. William Shrubsole was named Organist with a Salary of forty guineas a year, payable, from the 22nd day of August last, from which time he has attended the duties of the Organist's

BANGOR CATHEDRAL FROM THE NORTH: A WINTER VIEW.

(Photo by Mr. John Wickens, Upper Bangor.)

Chapter Records throw some very curious sidelights on old-time music in Cathedrals. For instance, in November, 1718, the Dean and Chapter of Bangor—

Ordered that the organist be obliged to teach forthwith the Commandments and Nicene Creed in Rogers' Service, and those in Tallis's and Child's, as soon as they can be had, and to add Bird's service to the others you now perform, and also to teach two new anthems every year as long as the present stock holds, or new ones can be procured.

We may pass over the successors of Mr. Priest—Messrs. Smith, Ferrer, John and Thomas Rathbone (father and son), Thomas Lloyd, place in a manner so satisfactory and promising that we think proper for his encouragement to direct the Treasurer to pay him also the sum of eight guineas towards the expenses of his journey, the removal of his Harpsichord and other effects from London to Bangor.

October, 1783. Mr. William Shrubsole the Organist of this Church, having given great offence to the Dean and Chapter by his close connection with one Abbott, late of this place, as by his frequenting Conventicles, that Mr. Dean be empowered to discharge the said William Shrubsole from his place of Organist, if the said Abbott, (who is supposed to be gone to reside in Dublin) shall at any time hereafter return in order to abide in the town of Bangor, or the neighbourhood thereof, or if the said William Shrubsole shall be found to frequent any Conventicle or Religious Assembly, where anything is taught which is contrary to the Doctrine or discipline of the Church of England.

December, 1783. That William Shrubsole be employed to play on the Organ of our Cathedral Church till Lady-day next and no longer, that in case it should not be convenient for him to continue in that employment till Lady-day next, he shall be at liberty to leave it before that time, and shall be paid the full allowance to Lady-day next notwithstanding.

In Memory of
MR. WILLIAM SHRUBSOLE, who died 18th of January 1806.
 Aged 46 Years.
 Composer of "MILES'S LANE."

THE TOMBSTONE OF WILLIAM SHRUBSOLE
 IN BUNHILL FIELDS.

The Dean and Chapter showed no signs of holding out the olive branch to their late organist, but appointed Mr. Edmund Olive to succeed the excommunicated Shrubsole. During Mr. Olive's chief-musicianship the Dean and Chapter generously added to his emoluments (£42) by paying him the sum of four pounds a year for instructing and teaching the singing boys, and four pounds a year for keeping the organ in tune!

During the period (1773-1793) when Robert Hudson held the office of Almoner of St. Paul's Cathedral, he had under him as choristers three brothers who bore the scriptural names Jacob, Joseph and Isaac, conjoined with the patronymic of Pring. All three brothers graduated in music at Oxford. Jacob became organist of St. Botolph, Aldersgate (not Aldgate as is generally stated) and composed several glees and anthems, while Isaac succeeded Dr. Philip Hayes as organist of New College, Oxford.

Joseph Pring (born at Kensington, January 15, 1776) was only a stripling of seventeen when, in 1793, he succeeded his relative Mr. Olive in the organistship of Bangor Cathedral. He was not however formally elected to the office (at a salary of £60 per annum) till September, 1810. In 1805 he published by subscription a volume of 'Twenty anthems,' one of the subscribers being Vincent Novello, who is set down as 'organist of St. Patrick's Chapel, Soho Square,' an appointment not hitherto mentioned by Novello's various biographers. Pring seems to have been an industrious young man during the early years of his residence at Bangor, as on January 27, 1808, he accumulated the degrees of Bachelor and Doctor of Music at Oxford. The following entry in the Chapter Books may be regarded as an instance of coming events casting their shadows before:—

December, 1811. Dr. Pring, the organist, having conducted himself with disrespect to the Dean, the Archdeacon of Merioneth, and Precentor, it was ordered that he should be reprimanded, and he was reprimanded accordingly.

But Dr. Pring was a man to be reckoned with, even by so mighty a power as the Dean and Chapter. He became acquainted with the Act of Parliament passed in 1685 (to which we have already referred) which included provision for the maintenance of the Choir at Bangor, but which the capitular body had diverted to other purposes! It was now the turn of Dr. Pring to reprimand the Dean and Chapter. Accordingly, in 1813, he and three of the vicars-choral presented a petition to the Court of Chancery for their rights of which the Dean and Chapter had wronged them. The suit dragged on for six years (till 1819), when Lord Chancellor Eldon, setting at naught the express provisions of the Act, sanctioned a scheme which indeed gave to the organist and choir increased stipends, but yet kept them considerably below the amounts they would have received if the Act had been fully carried out. It is not surprising that these long-protracted law proceedings impoverished Dr. Pring, and that he and his family were for some time in great need; but he fought a good fight, and, if he did not come off entirely conqueror, his action was fully warranted and his memory is justly honoured for his strenuous and self-sacrificing endeavours to uphold the rights of those who maintain so important a part of Cathedral life as the choral service.

Dr. Pring published in 1819 the whole of his case and the Chancery proceedings in an octavo volume of 264 pages. From a copy of this scarce, interesting and well-compiled book now before us, we extract the following amusing remarks made by Lord Eldon on Cathedral music during the hearing of the case:—

The Lord Chancellor said, he was no judge of the component parts of a Choir, but he thought he had heard the Rev. W. Moore, on great days in St. Paul's Cathedral, become as musical as he well could, at the end of the verses in the Psalms; and he believed (but he might be wrong) that the Service should be so uttered in all Cathedral Churches. He should let the case stand over until the 11th inst., in order to make himself more sufficiently acquainted of what were the component parts of a Choir.

Dr. Pring compiled a word-book of anthems for use in Bangor Cathedral. Two extracts from the Preface to this book are indeed worthy of quotation:—

The Chant, though a monotony, is capable of all the graces of accent, emphasis and pause; it is also more audible, and more striking, and upon the whole produces a greater effect than can the best cadences in speaking.

Every Cathedral might become a glorious church, wherein all the members rejoice, animated with one spirit; the Spirit of God, of love, and sacred harmony.

Another literary production by the old organist claims notice. It is an exceedingly interesting pamphlet of forty pages, entitled 'Particulars of the Grand Suspension Bridge erected over the Straits of Menai . . . narrated by Dr. Pring.' In his 'Preparatory observations'—dated 'Penrallt, near Bangor, Feb. 22d. 1826'—our organist-author modestly says:—

The humble Author of this Epitome (wholly devoid of architectural talent) resided about a mile from the spot where the Menai Bridge is erected. Innate curiosity drew him frequently to the spot, to observe the growing 'form and feature' of a structure so novel, and which has left an indelible reminiscence on 'the mind's eye.'

One sentence from the 'narrative' must at least be quoted; it records 'the final opening of the Bridge for the accommodation of the public.' To quote Dr. Pring's words:—

On Monday, the 30th Jan., 1826, this stupendous, pre-eminent, and singularly unique structure, was opened to the Public, at 35 minutes after one o'clock, a.m., by the Royal London and Holyhead Mail Coach, conveying the London Mail-bag for Dublin; David Davies, Coachman, William Read, Guard.

It must have been a weird scene. A heavy gale was blowing on that January night; but, as Dr. Pring tells us, amidst the glare of lamps, the heavily-laden Mail-coach passed across the Bridge in grand style:—

The high-mettled steeds, mantling their proud crescent necks,
As if conscious of the triumphant achievement.

After having officiated at the organ in Bangor Cathedral for forty-nine years, Dr. Joseph Pring died, greatly respected and beloved, on February 13, 1842. He is buried in the Cathedral churchyard. His tomb bears the following epitaph in Welsh and English:—

ORGENYDD 'n ei ddydd oedd ef—dihafal,
Hyd fywyd, rhaid addef:—
Boed e'n awr, a hodau nef,
Yn gweini Anthem gwiwnef.

His master music in the Church below
Is hushed for ever!—still we hope he plays
Immortal anthems; where the sounds of woe
Shall never damp the sweetness of his lays.

Dr. Pring was succeeded by his son—James Sharpe Pring, formerly a chorister in the Cathedral and assistant to his father. During his occupancy of the post (from 1842 to 1868) he edited the musical portion of the 'Bangor Collection of Anthems adapted from various composers' (1848), of which the English words were fitted to the music by Dean Cotton. The subscribers to this anthem collection included a 'Mr. Beer, Livery Stables, Bath.'

Dr. Roland Rogers was the next man of mark to hold the chief-musicianship of Bangor Cathedral. He was appointed in July 1871, the competition taking place at the Chapel Royal, with George Cooper as the umpire. One of the tests which the young organist had to undergo was to accompany a solo, the soloist on that occasion being one of the tenor Gentlemen of the Chapel Royal, Edward Lloyd by name. When Mr. (afterwards Dr.) Roland Rogers went to Bangor he found that 'the Te Deum was sung to two chants! When he left (in 1892) he had added to the repertory thirty services and 300 anthems. He played on the old Green organ, which had toe pedals and which stood on a screen in the Nave. At the restoration of the Nave, in May, 1880, he organized a performance of the 'Hymn of Praise'; and during his organistship of twenty-one years he raised the musical status of the Cathedral to a high standard of excellence. Moreover, he soon made a name as a skilful choir trainer beyond the walls of the Cathedral. He conducted the celebrated Bethesda choir which won £1,000 in prizes at various Eisteddfodau, and discovered the contralto voice in North Wales. Till then the alto part in choruses was sung by boys whose voices were bordering on the 'breaking' point, and all the women sang soprano! He was quick to perceive that the beautiful deep-toned voices of Welsh women could be used with splendid effect in choral music, with results that are too well-known to need further comment. Dr. Rogers has opened 'scores of organs' in Wales, and is in great request as an adjudicator at musical competitions. He is now organist of St. James's Church, Upper Bangor.

DR. ROLAND ROGERS.

ORGANIST OF BANGOR CATHEDRAL FROM 1871 TO 1892.

(Photo by Mr. John Wickens, Upper Bangor.)

Mr. T. Westlake Morgan, the present organist of Bangor Cathedral, was born at Congresbury, Somersetshire, on August 6, 1869. He was a chorister at King's College, Cambridge, and afterwards pupil-assistant to Dr. Mann, and organist of St. Catharine's College. He studied the organ under Sir Walter Parratt at the Royal College of Music, and became organist of St. George's Church, Paris, in 1889, having for his Vicar the Rev. George Washington, his hobbies is the history of the Cathedral, a pursuit which he follows with all the zeal of an enthusiastic antiquary.

The choir of Bangor—which consists of six lay-clerks and twelve (town) boys—had the honour of being invited en bloc by Sir Frederick Bridge to take part in the Purcell Celebration Service held in Westminster Abbey in 1895, the only choir outside London that so participated in a complete form. The boys sing remarkably well, and the lay-clerks can furnish a male-voice quartet that can give a very good account of itself. Bangor seems to be an excellent stepping-stone to other appointments and spheres of influence. Mr. Ffrangcon Davies was formerly a member of the choir, as were also Mr. William Davies and Mr. F. W. Norcup, now of St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey respectively; and Mr. Charles H. Moody, now organist of Ripon Cathedral, was at one time an assistant organist at Bangor.

For valued help in the preparation of this article, thanks are specially tendered to Mr. T. Westlake Morgan, Cathedral organist; to Mrs. Turner, of Thornton Heath, for the loan of the portrait of her grandfather, Dr. Pring, which forms our special portrait supplement; and to Mr. John Wickens, Retina Studio, Upper Bangor, for the use of his excellent photographs.

DOTTED CROTCHET.

VINCENT NOVELLO.

1781-1861.

(Continued from page 581.)

No biographer of Novello mentions the fact that he was organist of St. Patrick's Chapel, Soho; but he is stated to have held that post in the list of subscribers to the Anthems composed by Dr. Joseph Pring, organist of Bangor Cathedral, published in 1805.

Although slightly out of chronological order in the resumption of the narrative, the last reference to Charles Lamb may find a place here. It is an unsigned letter from the genial scribe, and is preserved in the MS. department of the British Museum. Novello has endorsed this comical communication thus:—

A very characteristic note from Dear Charles Lamb, who always pretended to hate all kinds of memorials and relics, and assumed a look of fright and horror whenever he reproached me with being a Papist, instead of a Quaker, which sect he pretended to doat upon.

The letter itself, of the year 1830, reads:—

DEAR N—,

Pray write immediately to say 'The book has come safe.*' I am anxious not so much for the autographs, as for that bit of the hair brush. I enclose a cinder, which belonged to Shield, when he was poor, and lit his own fires. Any memorial of a great Musical Genius, I know, is acceptable; and

* Doubtless Novello's album. Lamb wrote to Hone, on May 21, 1830: 'Pray, if you have time to, call on Novello, at 66, Great Queen Street. I am anxious to learn whether he received his album I sent on Friday by our nine o'clock morning stage. If not, beg him to enquire at the Old Bell, Holborn.'

MR. T. WESTLAKE MORGAN
ORGANIST OF BANGOR CATHEDRAL.

(Photo by Mr. John Wickens, Upper Bangor.)

the direct descendant of George Washington. His subsequent organistships were those of St. John's Church, Wilton Road—a post held by Dr. G. J. Bennett and Mr. T. T. Noble—St. David's, Merthyr Tydvil, and from thence, after competition, he went to Bangor Cathedral in 1892. His Bardic name is Mwyndaf Bencerdd, a title conferred upon him by the Gorsedd in 1901. As a Freemason he received the Coronation honour of Past Grand Organist of England, the only musical distinction of the kind bestowed by the Duke of Connaught in connection with the Coronation. He has till quite recently been a member of the Bangor School Board: one of Shield has his merits, though Clementi, in my opinion, is far above him in the Sostenuto. Mr. Westwood* desires his compliments, and begs to present you with a nail that came out of Jomelli's coffin, who is buried at Naples.

In September, 1828, Vincent Novello attended the celebrated Musical Festival held at York. He knew that the Minster Library contained four Anthems by Purcell in addition to the Service in G minor, all unique. After having obtained permission to copy these precious manuscripts, the copyist to whom Novello applied said that the transcription would take three weeks, but the next morning, on reconsideration, he said it would probably take five weeks to write them out. Novello smiled, and replied that he had himself made a copy of the whole series on the previous day, for having begun to look them over, he had set to work at once and never left his task till it was completed. He was only just in time, for these original manuscripts were destroyed by the fire at York Minster on February 2, 1829; and the zealous transcriber had the pleasure of presenting to the Minster library transcripts of the anthems which, but for his assiduity, would have been lost to the world. Novello's anxiety to obtain access to various originals and transcripts of Purcell's works in order to collate them before publication, is proved by a little-known letter that he wrote to the Quarterly Musical Review and the Harmonicon, the only musical journals of the day. This letter, copied from the former and older periodical, reads as follows:—

MR. J. ALFRED NOVELLO.

(From a photograph by Mr. Augustus Littleton.)

To the Editor.

Sir,—I have done myself the pleasure of addressing you, in the hope that some of your musical readers may be able to oblige me with some information relative to the following Anthems and other manuscript compositions by Henry Purcell.

No. 1. 'Praise the Lord, ye servants.' Anthem for three voices.

No. 2. 'Hear my prayer' (in C minor). Ditto with chorus, four voices.

No. 3. 'I will love Thee.' Anthem.

No. 4. 'Turn Thou us, O Lord.' (3rd Collect. Martyrdom of King Charles.)

No. 5. 'Laudate Ceciliam.' (A Latin song, made on St. Cecilia, for three voices.)

No. 6. 'Crucia in hac flammâ.' (A Latin hymn for two voices.)

No. 7. 'Awake, put on thy strength.' Anthem, solo, chorus, and instruments.

No. 8. 'I will give thanks.' Anthem for five voices.

No. 9. 'O sing unto the Lord.' Ditto.

No. 1 is mentioned by Pearce in his 'Account of the Anthems performed at His Majesty's Chapels Royal' (edition 1826).* Of No. 2, I have the alto and bass parts, but the tenor voice for the verses, and the treble voice for the chorus, are both wanting. I have been informed that No. 3 was formerly in the choir books of Durham Cathedral, but it now no longer forms a part of the collection at that establishment, some mischievous person having torn the leaves out of the books at the same time with some other valuable MSS.

I have a copy of No. 4, in the form of a hymn, for four voices, in the key of D minor, but not the anthem.

Nos. 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9 are mentioned by Dr. Burney, in his 'History of Music,' vol. 3, as having been preserved in Purcell's own hand-writing, together with many other very rare MS. compositions, in the private musical library belonging to his late Majesty George the Third. But I regret to add, that notwithstanding all my researches, and having visited Windsor on purpose to examine the royal library there, assisted by the cordial co-operation of my kind friend, Mr. C. Kramer, who at present has the care of the King's Collection of Music, the manuscripts in question were nowhere to be found.

Under these circumstances, I have ventured to request you will have the goodness to insert this letter, as it may perhaps meet the eye of some one amongst your numerous readers who may be able to point out where any other copies of the above-mentioned compositions are to be procured.

I have already ascertained that Purcell wrote between 130 and 140 Anthems, Services, Hymns, and other pieces of Sacred Music; and of this large number I have succeeded in collecting every individual piece, with the exception of the nine which I have enumerated. As I am very anxious to render my new edition of this great Composer's Sacred Works as complete as possible, I need not add how much I shall feel obliged to any musical gentleman who will enable me to fulfil properly the arduous task I have undertaken, by favouring me with the requested information relative to the nine pieces specified, or to any other authentic productions of Purcell that are different from those already in my possession, and of which I have subjoined an alphabetical list for reference and comparison.

I remain, Sir,

Your much obliged and obedient Servant,

V. NOVELLO.

March 8, 1830, 66, Great Queen-street,
Lincoln's Inn.

* The old man (aged seventy) with whom Lamb boarded and lodged at Enfield. According to Lamb, Mr. Westwood had one joke; also 'he laughs when he hears a joke, and when (which is much oftener) he hears it not.'

* The correct title of this book is 'A collection of [the Words of] Anthems used in His Majesty's Chapels Royal,' &c., by the Rev. Dr. Thomas Pearce.

He then gives a long list of Henry Purcell's compositions, with references to their sources, a list which the Harmonicon considered too long for insertion, but which present-day editors of the great Englishman's works may find useful. (See The Quarterly Musical Magazine and Review, vol. x., p. 472.) The publication of the Purcell Music was begun by Novello in December, 1828, and completed in October, 1832.

In the spring of 1830, Hummel paid a visit to London and gave two concerts with great success. At the first—on April 29—he played his Pianoforte Concerto in A flat, then in manuscript, and on both occasions he gave remarkable displays of his extemporaneous powers on the pianoforte. The following note will show to what extent the pupil of Mozart had mastered the English language and the difference between the first and third person, in penning this communication:—

Mr. Hummel is very sensible to Mr. Novello, having sendd him his Edition of the Masse. He would allready have called to Mr. Novello, having many Compliments to say him from his friend Mr. Streicher at Vienna; but having been much occupied with the arrangements of his Concert, time has not allowed it until now; but Mr. Hummel will take opportunity so soon as possible to meet Mr. Novello.

I am, Sir,
Your most obed. serv.,
HUMMEL.

Monday morning,
(Post-mark, 26 April, 1830.)

A great and far-reaching event in the Novello family-life took place when they and their goods and chattels were removed to 67, Frith Street, in the month of March, 1830. Three months later the following circular, printed on paper of quarto size, was issued and distributed by Vincent Novello's eldest son, Joseph Alfred, who had then just turned twenty:—

MR. JOSEPH ALFRED NOVELLO respectfully informs the Nobility, Gentry, and the Public in general, that he has just opened an Establishment, at No. 67, FRITH STREET, one door from Soho-square, for the sale of his Father's Works and other Musical Publications of every class; all kinds of Instruments, Roman and Silver'd Violin and Harp Strings of the very best quality, and all other articles connected with the Musical business.

He has ventured to annex a Catalogue of his Publications, and he flatters himself that, by his strict attention and punctuality in the fulfilment of any order with which he may be favoured, he shall prove himself worthy of the kind patronage and encouragement of his friends.

Midsummer, 1830.

The 'simple parlour-shop' in which the business of Novello and Co. was started is thus described by Mrs. Cowden-Clarke, the young publisher's sister:—

A very modest beginning, in appearance, a couple of parlour-windows and a glass door, with a few title-pages bearing composers' names of sterling merit, and Vincent Novello's as editor; but conscientious faith in promoting the diffusion of the best music on the part of him who edited, industry, punctuality and zeal on the part of the young publisher, with practical counsel, moral encouragement and untiring sympathy on the part of her who aided husband and son in their public endeavours as in their private hopes and aims, made that original parlour-shop the germ of the mart for supplying England—nay, the world—with highest-class music.

It is beyond the scope of this sketch to follow the course of the music-publishing house of Novello; that may be found in 'A Short History of Cheap Music.*' Reference, however, may be made to an important publication issued in the earliest days of the Novello firm, we refer to Mendelssohn's 'Songs without words,' originally called (in England) 'Pianoforte-Melodies.' Mendelssohn visited England for the second time in 1832. He appears to have become an attached friend of the Novello family if we may judge from the following interesting letter, written after the young composer's return to Berlin and addressed 'V. Novello, Esq., 67, Frith Street, Soho, London':—

MY DEAR SIR.—I have to beg your pardon that the first letter I write to you is to be a letter of business, but if it was not for that I should not venture to give you the trouble of reading so bad an English as mine is.—I do not try to repeat you the thanks for all your kindnesses because I am not able to express it as I wish to do and as I feel it.

I want to-day to ask you whether you still remember your writing to me once that you wished me to compose an Evening and Morning-service for publication in your country? I could not then fix the time when I was to do it, as it was the first thing in that style I was to compose, but as soon as I got quiet here I tried to begin the Te Deum in the style of your cathedrals music and it is now finished. Although it is not entirely as I wish it to be, and though I hope the following pieces will be better, I do not think it unworth being published, and I accordingly want to ask you whether you are still of the opinion, which you expressed then to me in your kind note, and whether I am to go on with the composition of the services and to send it to you, when it is finished. You asked me also for my terms; but I am really at a loss to fix them, as I never published any composition of the kind in your country; you would oblige me particularly if you would tell me your opinion on this subject, or if you do not like this let me know how you use to pay other composers in that style that I may fix my terms accordingly.

I hope if you answer to this you will write me at large how you are and how your family is going on, I want to know which painting your son is working at, what progresses the charming talent of your daughter has made, pray let me know every thing that concerns you and your family. It is now so long, since I did not hear from you and you know how glad I shall be to have news of you and all my friends there. I have still to thank you for the kindness you showed me in having my pianoforte-melodies sold at your house; I think they must now be published already, and am exceedingly obliged to you for you kind and friendly behaviour. Adieu, my dear Sir, excuse this letter and let me soon hear a great deal from you.

* A Short History of Cheap Music as exemplified in the records of the house of Novello, Ewer & Co., with special reference to the first fifty years of the reign of Her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria, with three portraits and a preface by Sir George Grove, D.C.L., &c. London and New York: Novello, Ewer & Co. 1887.

Believe me to remain

Yours very truly,

FELIX MENDELSSOHN BARTHOLDY.

Berlin, August 22nd, 1832.

Two days before Mendelssohn had written the foregoing letter, the first Book (containing six) of the 'Songs without words' had been published—i.e., on August 20, 1832. From a scarce copy of this publication now before us, we give the original title of the familiar work:—

ORIGINAL MELODIES.

FOR THE

Piano Forte,

COMPOSED

BY

FELIX MENDELSSOHN BARTHOLDY.

Ent. Sia. Hall.

Pr: 4/-

LONDON.

Published (for the Author), by

T. (sic) A. NOVELLO, 67, Frith Strt., Soho Sq.

Bonn, by N. Simrock.—Paris, by M. Schlesinger.

I. M. for M. B.

The 'I. M. for M. B.' signifies that Ignaz Moscheles signed each copy for royalty purposes on behalf of his friend Mendelssohn. It is evident that neither Vincent Novello nor his youthful son, the publisher, would run the risk of purchasing such an unknown quantity as Mendelssohn's 'Songs without words'! In a letter to Moscheles, Mendelssohn makes the following amusing reference to this Novello publication. He says: 'The work will certainly go through at least twenty editions, and with the proceeds I shall buy the house No. 2, Chester Place [Regent's Park, Moscheles lived at No. 3], and a seat in the House of Commons, and become a Radical by profession. Between this and that, however, I hope we shall meet, for possibly a single edition may prove sufficient.'

Mendelssohn was not very far wrong. During his visit to London in the year following the publication of the 'Original Melodies,' he wrote to Moscheles in the following witty strain:—

London, in my Club, May 16, 1833.

This morning I forgot to mention, my dear Moscheles, what I have often intended asking and have as often forgotten—how matters stand in reference to that publication of mine, and whether there has been any practical result. I have an appointment with V. Novello to-morrow morning; and if he has only sixpence to give me as my share, I would rather not broach the subject. So please leave word at my house whether you think I should mention the matter, or whether it had better rest in eternal oblivion. I return home to-morrow at eleven o'clock to know which way you decide. The saying is: 'Merit has its crown,' so I scarcely expect I shall get as much as half-a-crown.

Yours,

F. MENDELSSOHN.

The composer did receive more than sixpence, and even half-a-crown. In the intervening ten months 48 copies had been sold, his share of the proceeds amounting to £4:16:0; but it took four years to dispose of 114 copies of a work that has since become a household word.

An interesting incident in the home-life of the Novello family may now be recorded—one of those informal musical evenings of long ago, somewhat different from many of the wearying 'at homes' in the present day. At this party—given at Frith Street in July, 1833—the guests included Malibran and her husband (De Beriot, the violinist), and Mendelssohn. The occasion is pleasantly described by Mrs. Cowden-Clarke, the eldest daughter of the house, in her 'Life and Labours of Vincent Novello':—

De Beriot played in a string quartett of Haydn's, with that perfect tone and style which distinguished him. Then his wife gave in generously lavish succession Mozart's 'Non più di fiori,' with Willman's obbligato accompaniment on the Corno di bassetto, a 'Sancta Maria' of her host's composition (which she sang at sight with consummate effect and expression), a gracefully tender air, 'Ah, rien n'est doux comme la voix qui dit je t'aime,' and lastly a spirited mariner's song, with a sailorly burden chiming as it were with their rope-hauling. In these two latter she accompanied herself; and when she had concluded among a rave of admiring plaudits from all present, she ran up to one of the heartiest among the applauding guests—Felix Mendelssohn—and said in her own winning playfully-imperious manner (which a touch of foreign speech and accent made only the more fascinating), 'Now, Mr. Mendelssohn, I never do nothing for nothing; you must play for me, now I have sung for you.' He, 'nothing loath,' let her lead him to the pianoforte; where he dashed into a wonderfully impulsive extempore—masterly, musicianlike, full of gusto. In this marvellous improvisation he introduced the several pieces Malibran had just sung, working them with admirable skill one after the other; and finally, in combination, the four subjects blended together in elaborate counterpoint. When Mendelssohn had finished his performance, Vincent Novello turned to an esteemed friend, who was one of the hearers, and expressed his admiration in these remarkable words: 'He has done some things that seem to me to be impossible, even after I have heard them done.'

(To be continued.)

[F. G. E.]

MANY HAPPY RETURNS OF THE DAY TO—

Madame Lemmens Sherrington	-	-	October 4.
Jacques Blumenthal	-	-	" 4.
C. W. Perkins	-	-	" 4.
Miss Elizabeth Mounsey	-	-	" 8.
Emil Sauer	-	-	" 8.
Camille Saint-Saëns	-	-	" 9.
Theodore Thomas	-	-	" 11.
Arthur Nikisch	-	-	" 12.
John Francis Barnett	-	-	" 16.
C. Harford Lloyd	-	-	" 16.
W. Barclay Squire	-	-	" 16.
Louis Napoleon Parker	-	-	" 21.
Haydn Keeton	-	-	" 26.
Alfred Gibson	-	-	" 27.
G. R. Sinclair	-	-	" 28.
Mrs. Alicia A. Needham	-	-	" 31.

BERLIOZ IN ENGLAND.

A CENTENARY RETROSPECT.

(Continued from page 523.)

The production in England of his opera 'Benvenuto Cellini' brought Berlioz to these shores in the year 1853—his fourth visit. He arrived in May, and on the 30th of that month he conducted Part I. of the Philharmonic Concert, of which the programme reads thus:—

PART I.

Selection from the works of M. HECTOR BERLIOZ; performed under his direction:—

Harold in Italy; Symphony in four parts (with Viola principale, M. Sainton).

The Repose of the Holy Family. A descriptive air sung by Signor Gardoni. From an oratorio in the ancient style, entitled 'The Flight into Egypt,' the words and music by M. Berlioz.

Overture 'Le Carnaval Romain,' being the Introduction to Act II. of the Opera 'Benvenuto Cellini.'

BERLIOZ—THE MAN OF THE ORCHESTRA.

(From 'Caricature provisoire,' November 1, 1853.)

A typical Berlioz story is told in regard to the last-named piece in the above selection. On one occasion, the composer, standing in the doorway of a Vienna concert-room, heard his 'Carnaval Romain' overture being played on two piano-fortes, each à quatre mains, and a physsharmonica! The short opening Allegro was taken much too slowly; the Andante went fairly; but the final Allegro (really a Saltarello) had all the life taken out of it. Berlioz, no longer able to keep silence, shouted out: 'That is not the Carneval; it is Lent; it is the Roman Good Friday that you are playing'!

'The Flight into Egypt' subsequently formed Part II. of 'L'Enfance du Christ.' The Musical World referred to the concert as 'one of the most remarkable ever given by the Philharmonic Society,' and the writer of the notice went on to say: 'The mist of prejudice, which, for so long a time has hidden the merits of this original and imaginative composer from the general view, is being rapidly dispelled. . . . The Old Philharmonic Society, latest in the field, as usual, has nevertheless not come too late to do itself honour and credit.' A further extract from this interesting notice, written by Mr. J. W. Davison, may be quoted as showing the keen insight and open-mindedness of that severe critic:—

As Paganini made quite a new instrument of the violin, so Berlioz may be said to have made quite a new instrument of the orchestra. It is not for critics of the present time to rob posterity of its prerogative, by attempting to decide upon the actual place to which Hector Berlioz is entitled among the masters of the art. For aught we know he may either be forgotten soon after his death, or may live in his works as long as music is cultivated. He is a man too remarkable to be dismissed with a sneer, and at the same time too eccentric to be comprehended at a glance. One thing is indisputable—there is an element of originality in his music which places it apart from that of other composers, and this alone entitles it to respect and consideration. So far as our own impressions are concerned, we may state, without reserve, that in every composition of M. Berlioz which we have had the advantage of hearing, our curiosity has been excited from the very beginning, and our interest sustained until the end. On Monday night, after listening for more than an hour and a half to music exclusively his, we felt so little fatigued that we could willingly have heard as much again. So much novelty of idea, such startling and unanticipated* effects, and such a magical command of the orchestra, keep the attention continually on the alert; and each new surprise becomes a new source of pleasure and satisfaction.

We may now pass on to the only performance in England of Berlioz's opera 'Benvenuto Cellini,' which took place at Covent Garden Theatre on June 25, 1853, in the presence of Queen Victoria, the Prince Consort, and other members of the Royal Family. The work—announced as a 'Grand Opera, Semi-Seria'—unfortunately failed to please—London thus following the example of Paris. Its poor libretto was undoubtedly a contributory cause, but the habitués of the opera preferred Italian fare; moreover, it seems as if a cabal had been organized to condemn the work and insult the composer who conducted its performance. The Morning Post, recording the event, said:—

Why, then, was Hector Berlioz's opera, a work which it would be insulting to him to compare with those we have mentioned [Verdi's 'Rigoletto' and Gounod's 'Saffo'], hissed throughout with a determination which the vigorous efforts of the major portion of the audience failed to overpower?

We have had some experience in theatrical matters both at home and abroad, and must say that the conduct of a certain number of the audience on Saturday night looked extremely suspicious. The sibilations were delivered with a simultaneity, precision, and perfectness of ensemble, which savoured strongly of collusion and malice prepense.

* This word is 'anticipated' in the original.

Chorley records: 'The evening was one of the most melancholy evenings which I ever passed in any theatre'; even the presence of the Queen and Prince Consort 'was unable to check the disgraceful conduct of the audience, venting itself in cat-calls and howls louder even than the thunderstorm which was raging outside.' According to the late Mr. Hueffer, 'Berlioz had asked the principal artists and a few friends to a supper after the performance, to celebrate the anticipated success. When that success was converted into a dismal failure, none of the convives liked to put in an appearance, with the sole exception of Mr. Davison. The table was spread for many guests, and the two men sat down at the deserted board, Berlioz being moved to tears by the tact and true politeness shown by his solitary guest.'

That Berlioz keenly felt the sting attending the non-success of his opera in England, the following extract from his 'Autobiography' testifies. He says:—

I had proof of all this in London [the intrigues, conspiracies, and cabals of his enemies], when a band of Italians almost drove Benvenuto Cellini from the Covent Garden stage. They cried, they groaned, and hissed from first to last; they even tried to prevent the performance of the overture to the Carnaval Romain, which formed the entr'acte, and had often [twice only] been applauded at the Philharmonic Concerts. Public opinion, at any rate, placed Costa, conductor of the Opera at Covent Garden, at the head of this comically furious cabal. I had attacked him several times in my feuilletons on the subject of the liberties he takes with the music of the great masters, by cutting, expanding, re-instrumenting, and mutilating them in every conceivable manner. If Costa is the culprit (which is not at all unlikely), he showed rare skill at all events in lulling my suspicions by his eagerness to be of use to me during the rehearsals.

Poor Berlioz! But there was a silver lining to this cloud of bitter disappointment, for he goes on to say:—

Two hundred and thirty of the London artists, indignant at this meanness, expressed their sympathy by offering their services for a Testimonial Concert at Exeter Hall, but this was never carried out. Beale, the publisher, one of my best friends, brought me the sum of two hundred guineas from a body of amateurs, headed by Messrs. Broadwood, the celebrated pianoforte-makers. It would have been altogether inconsistent with French habits for me to have accepted this gift, dictated as it was by genuine kindness and generosity. We are not all Paganinis. However, I was far more touched by these proofs of affection than wounded by the insults of the cabal.

It appears that the subscribers, on hearing that Berlioz would not accept a monetary gift, wished that the amount collected should be devoted to the publication of an English version of 'Faust'—a project, however, which was not carried into execution. The following letter—written by Berlioz on the eve of his departure from London (July 9, 1853)—shows that the composer of 'Benvenuto Cellini' was greatly touched by the proposed testimonial. He wrote to Davison:—

The concert cannot take place. The gentlemen of the committee, organized to get it up, have conceived the delicate, charming, and generous idea of devoting the sum realised by the subscription opened for the concert to the acquisition of the score of my Faust, which will be published with English text under the superintendence of Beale and other members of the committee. It would be impossible to be more cordial and artist-like at the same time; and I rejoice at the result of the performance at Covent Garden, since it has been the cause of a demonstration so sympathetic intelligent, and worthily expressed.

Give all the publicity in your power to this manifestation. You will render justice to your compatriots, and, at the same time, confer a very great pleasure on

Yours, &c.,

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

It may not be generally known that Hans von Bülow composed a Set of Quadrilles on the melodies in 'Benvenuto Cellini' bearing the following title:—

An Fräulein Alma Börs.
HUMORISTISCHE QUADRILLE aus Motiven der Oper
Benvenuto Cellini von Hector Berlioz für das Pianoforte zusammengestellt von HANS VON BÜLOW.
Berlin: Schlesinger.

Two specimens of this Berlioz-Bülow quadrille whimsicality may be given:—

(From Fig. 1.)

(From Fig. 2.)

The first of the above themes is the opening of the amusing ditty sung by Ascanio in Scene 4 of Act III. The second, from the chorus 'Venez, peuple de Rome' (Carnival in Act II.), is made use of by Berlioz in his 'Le Carnaval Romain' overture, last movement (Saltarello), but in the key of A.

The opera 'Benvenuto Cellini' was produced at the Académie Royal, Paris, September 3, 1838, and withdrawn after three performances. Liszt—the true friend of all true artists—gave a memorable performance at Weimar, March 20, 1852, a performance which doubtless caused Berlioz to dedicate the published work to Her Royal and Imperial Highness Marie Paulowna, Grand Duchess of Saxe-Weimar. It was revived, in February, 1879, at Hanover, by Hans von Bülow, an occasion which doubtless brought into existence the humorous Quadrilles from which we have quoted. ‘Benvenuto Cellini’ was announced to be given by Carl Rosa during his London season of 1882, for which an English version was prepared by the late William Grist; but the work has not been performed in England since its fiasco representation at Covent Garden half-a-century ago.

The last visit of Berlioz to England—in the memorable Wagner-Philharmonic year of 1855—will form the subject-matter for the concluding article of this ‘Centenary retrospect.’

(To be continued.)

[F. G. E.]

DR. ELGAR'S ORATORIO ‘THE APOSTLES.’

BY CANON GORTON.

The production at the Birmingham Festival of Dr. Elgar's new oratorio ‘The Apostles’ is awaited with keen expectancy. In giving a bald outline of the libretto of the work I may say at the outset that the words have been selected by the composer from Holy Writ, the Apocrypha being freely used, partly as being less familiar in musical settings, partly as lending itself more readily to narrative.

The subject of ‘The Apostles’ is the building of the Church of Christ. The work will not be heard in its complete form at Birmingham, for it will close with the Ascension. The descent of the Holy Spirit, the fruit of the ministry of Christ as seen in the ripened character of the Apostles in the fulfilment of the charge, ‘Go ye into all the world,’ have yet to be treated by the composer.

In the first two sections with which I deal at present is seen the outward manifestation of the Divine nature as made in the Incarnation; there remains the inward manifestation through the indwelling Spirit. These sections set forth the ministry of the Saviour—Christ is the Pastor Pastorum.

Let us briefly pass from picture to picture.

THE PROLOGUE.—This depicts Jesus as the Christ; it links the Old Testament with the New. Jesus, marked out as the Son of God, is endowed by the Holy Spirit for the ministrations among men. The future triumph of the Kingdom of Heaven is foreshadowed.

THE CALLING OF THE APOSTLES.—Jesus is seen in the shades of night on the mountain in prayer, bearing in His heart the needs of men, seeking that fit instruments may be found for the furthering of the divine purpose. He is watched by Angels, who perceive in wonder the Christ character.

THE DAWN.—The watchers on the Temple wait for day's first streak on Hebron; their cry ‘It shines’ is answered by the Shofar—stillness gives place to movement, and the morning Psalm (xcii.) is heard from the Temple choir. But there is another light than physical, there is the dawn of the Kingdom of Heaven; this follows in the calling of the Twelve.

BY THE WAYSIDE.—Christ is seen as the Bridegroom, surrounded by the children of the bridechamber. Walking in the midst of the company of Apostles and Holy Women, He enunciates the Beatitudes, and the blessings, as He pronounces them, find an echo in the hearts of those who follow! We perceive by their answers their individual characteristics. This section is one of the most profoundly moving portions of the composer's work.

BY THE SEA OF GALILEE.—The narrator depicts Christ sending away His disciples, while He ascends the mountain to pray. It is the coast of Magdala, and Mary of Magdala is seen on the shore wrestling with the sin which haunts her. She notes the storm which breaks over the lake, sees Christ walking on the waters, and Peter rescued from the waves. Despair gives place to hope—He Who stills the waves and rescues the drowning must have power to still the storm of passion which rages in her heart.

IN CÆSAREA PHILIPPI.—Christ accepts the cross, and receives the homage of St. Peter as the Son of God. He commits to him the power of loosing and binding.

IN CAPERNAUM.—What the power means is seen in our Lord's absolution of the Magdalene. Penitent she seeks Him and is welcomed by the Blessed Virgin. Shunned by the women, she gives expression to her devotion, anointing His head, washing His feet with her tears. She is loosed from her sin.

PART II.

THE BETRAYAL.—Christ announces His approaching suffering. This announcement reveals the character of Judas. He represents misguided ambition and self-will rather than the mean spirit of greed. He sets himself to compel Christ to save Himself. We have the scene of the conspiracy with the Chief Priests.

GETHSEMANE.—The plans of Judas fail. The terrible sign follows. The Master is bound: it is the hour of darkness.

THE DENIAL.—The scene is the palace of the High Priest. Peter denies his Lord, but is saved by the look of Jesus.

JUDAS IN THE TEMPLE.—Judas seeks refuge in the Temple; proceeds unmoved in stately calm the Temple worship. He makes known his remorse, but is rejected by his accomplices; the Sword of the Spirit pierces the heart of the betrayer. The rabble cry 'Crucify Him.' He rushes out for self-destruction.

GOLGOTHA.—Here is beheld the solemn Act of Attonement—Christ is seen as the Sin-bearer.

AT THE SEPULCHRE.—Here the dawn answers to the dawn in the first section. Angels behold the empty tomb, and death and sin are conquered; but no light falls as yet on the hearts of the bereaved Apostles.

THE ASCENSION.—A climax is now reached—a scene of joy on earth, of triumph in heaven. The words of Christ in the High Priestly prayer of St. John xvii. are interwoven with the Passion Psalm (xxii). Christ ascends to the presence of the Father. The Heavens ring with Alleluias, while on earth there is a reflex of the most joyous close of the most beautiful book that the world has known: 'And He led them out as far as to Bethany, and He lifted up His hands and blessed them. And it came to pass, while He blessed them, He was parted from them, and carried up into heaven. And they worshipped Him, and returned to Jerusalem with great joy.'

The libretto is the work of one who is singularly familiar with sacred Scripture, one guided by literary instinct to choose the right thing, one rejecting temptations to be led away into many seductive paths, keeping steadily before his eyes the central point of view. It is full of the spirit of Holy Fear. The Christ is never represented as using any words other than those recorded as spoken by Him. There are sayings of Christ which Dr. Elgar regards as too sacred to be entrusted to human lips. The oratorio is a faithful effort to depict the simple individual characteristics of the followers of the Master—they are not idealized. They are Galilean peasants with limited visions, to be transformed by the ministrations and teaching of Christ into the great Apostles of the Church.

Berlioz cannot claim a centenary monopoly of this year of grace, 1903. One hundred years have come and gone since the following distinguished musicians made their entry into the world:—

FRANZ LACHNER, at Rain, Upper Bavaria, April 2, 1803.

ADOLPHE CHARLES ADAM, at Paris, July 24, 1803.

WILHELM BERNHARD MOLIQUE, at Nuremberg, October 7, 1803.

The first of this trio of creative musicians, an intimate friend of Schubert's, was a prolific composer whose works have been somewhat unjustifiably neglected in England. Adolph Adam, whose father was a friend of Gluck's, achieved fame as an opera composer endowed with the gift of melody, and although he composed no fewer than fifty-three works for the lyric stage, his name has almost dropped out of knowledge in this country. Bernhard Molique, distinguished as a violinist and composer for his instrument, spent fifteen years of his life in London, where he was much esteemed as a teacher. His oratorio 'Abraham,' composed for the Norwich Musical Festival of 1860, contains a melodious march which frequently finds a place in organ-recital programmes.

Occasional Notes.

The Worshipful Company of Musicians proposes to hold a Special Loan Exhibition in June, 1904, at the Fishmongers' Hall, London Bridge. The Exhibition—in commemoration of the Tercentenary of the granting by King James I. of the Company's Charter of Incorporation—will include musical instruments (a special feature being made of 17th and 18th century productions), autograph manuscripts, printed music, portraits, and personal mementos of distinguished musicians, in addition to original editions of early music, especially madrigals that were written in England during the golden period of English music. A strong Exhibition Committee of the Company has been formed with Sir Homewood Crawford as chairman, its other members being the Master and Senior and Junior Wardens, Sir Frederick Bridge, Sir Ernest Clarke, Mr. J. C. Collard, Mr. E. E. Cooper, Mr. Clifford B. Edgar, Mr. A. H. Littleton, Sir George Martin, Mr. C. E. Rube, Mr. T. L. Southgate, and Mr. T. C. Fenwick, Clerk to the Company. When we state that the Honorary Secretariat is in the capable hands of Mr. Arthur F. Hill and Mr. J. F. R. Stainer, the success of this interesting Exhibition may be regarded as a foregone conclusion.

Good news comes from Dublin in the efforts that are being made to reconstitute the Dublin Orchestral Society which, after existing for five seasons, came to an end last April. The band of the Society, under the able conductorship of Signor Esposito, consists entirely of professional players resident in Dublin. The concerts are given (in the afternoon) in the Great Hall of the Royal University of Ireland, which by the kind permission of the Senate is placed at the disposal of the Society. Experience has proved that a series of five concerts costs about £650, and that the total entrance money (exclusive of subscriptions) for the same cannot be depended upon for more than £125. In order to meet the difference thus caused a number of ladies and gentlemen have issued a circular inviting promises of annual subscriptions (for seats) and donations. The response to this appeal has so far resulted in promises to the amount of £325, which, with the grant of £50 from the Corporation of Dublin, leaves only £150 still to be raised. The Committee are confident that this sum will be forthcoming in time for them to make the necessary arrangements for a series of concerts during the coming season. It is proposed that the members of the reconstituted Society shall consist of (1) Annual Subscribers for seats to the value of not less than £2; or (2) Annual Donors of not less than £1, all of whom will be eligible for election, by vote, to act on the Executive Committee. That the Society has done good work in the past, it is only necessary to mention that the First, Second, Third, Fifth and Eighth Symphonies of Beethoven, the 'Pathetic' of Tchaikovsky and the Second Symphony in D of Brahms, have been played by this excellent organization. Two things in this Dublin music-making call for special mention and commendation: firstly, that the orchestra is an entirely local one; secondly, that the grant of £50 given by the Corporation of Dublin furnishes an interesting instance of the municipalization of music. The citizens of the Irish capital have not a little to be proud of in their musical history,—the production of Handel's 'Messiah' to wit—and it may be confidently assumed that before these lines appear in print the remaining £150 will have been promised. May all success attend the efforts of Signor Esposito and those who are so enthusiastically associated with him in the good cause.

Dr. Charles Maclean contributed an interesting and virile 'appreciation' of Sir Hubert Parry, with special reference to his recent Symphonic Ode 'War and Peace,' to the August issue of the Zeitschrift der Internationalen Musikgesellschaft. We give the opening and closing portions of Dr. Maclean's article as specimens of his forceful style:—

Parry's art stands above that of his fellows, as the Drachenfels above the Rhine; lofty, alone, perhaps even melancholy. A Seralim may have a sweeter harp; but his is the deep-lying thought, the persistent strength. He breathes to his genius sentiments remote from the ruder associations of our life, and pertaining to his own ideality alone.

He is in truth a Titan. Not a Typho lying beneath Ætna, and breathing forth flames of passion. Not a Prometheus nursing a cold implacable spite, and disdaining the aid of Oceanus. But a patient Atlas, bearing in silence the burden of his own style, with its advantages and disadvantages. His self-contained power makes him one of the most notable figures of the music of the present day, whether in or out of England.

An American musical journal states that in expressing regret at the loss of M. Emile Sauret from the professorial staff of the Royal Academy of Music, consequent upon his removal to Chicago, Sir Alexander Mackenzie publicly said: 'I never cared for the Americans, and now I hate them.' What the genial Principal did say—at the annual prize-distribution of the Academy at St. James's Hall on July 24—is contained in the following extract taken from the official report of his speech:—

There is an old Scottish proverb which says 'It is no loss what a friend gets.' Perhaps you may have already shrewdly gathered that I am myself one of the 'unspeakables.' Perhaps for that very reason, if all they say is true of us, I have never been able to agree to the justice of that saying. Up till now I have always thought well of the Americans, but I almost cease to regard them as cousins since they induced M. Emile Sauret to leave London for Chicago. Last year Mr. Edwin Lemare was inveigled to Pittsburg; so I really hope that there will be no more 'combines' of this sort. We have had the pleasure of M. Sauret's presence among us for over twelve years, and countless pupils have had the benefit of the magnificent work he can do; and so have the numerous audiences whom he has delighted here (as everywhere else) with his astonishing performances on the violin. That we must lose so distinguished an artist is indeed a matter of deep regret. But we can only wish him a long continuation of those public successes to which he is accustomed, and sincerely hope that he may find his friends in the new world as able and ready to value his eminent services as highly as those in the old country have done. Our best wishes go with him and his family.

Competition Festivals are well in evidence this autumn. Prospectuses of the following events have reached us:—Keighley, September 26, October 3; New Brighton, September 26; Belle Vue, Manchester, October 3; Blackpool, October 8, 9, 10; Nottingham, October 16, 17. No doubt many other similar Festivals are in preparation in Wales and elsewhere. Of those mentioned above, Blackpool is perhaps the most important. The Festival is to be spread over three days, and there are, we understand, 243 entries, comprising about 3,000 competitors. Sir Alexander Mackenzie and Dr. McNaught will adjudicate and conduct. With reference to the notice in our last issue of the Royal National Eisteddfod at Llanelly, it is fair to add that in addition to the official accompanists named, Mr. Luther Owen also ably officiated on numerous occasions. The winners of the pianoforte trio prize, who were so highly commended by the adjudicators, were Miss Marion Morgan and party, from Newport, Monmouthshire.

The University of Heidelberg has conferred upon Herr Richard Strauss the degree of Doctor of Philosophy (doctor philosophiæ honoris causa) as according to the Diploma, 'he occupies the first place among German composers of note.'

Mr. Algernon Ashton says that he is not going to be buried in the family grave at Norwood. Nor would we wish Mr. Ashton's ashes to be deposited in that wall-halla, because, as he tells us, 'there is only room for two more relatives, for my mother and my last surviving aunt.' He gravely states: 'My own ultimate resting-place will most probably be in Kensal Green Cemetery, where I shall lie, embalmed, in a brick vault.' This is a vaulting ambition with which no fault can be found. (The embalming is a mere matter of taste in the nature of a preserve.) In the meantime—the long meantime—may Mr. Ashton leave no stone unturned in pursuing his Necropolitan peregrinations, and may his sepulchral enthusiasm never pall.

As on previous occasions, the reports of the Three Choirs Festival—held this year at Hereford—which appeared in the London journals are not without some curious typographical eccentricities. For example, we learn that—

At the morning service the music consisted of matins, Te Deum and Jubilate (Hopkins in A), anthem from 'All that dwell' (Walmisley), Holy Communion introit, 'Like as the hart pants' (Ouseley Service, Smart in F).

No less in the nature of a mix-up is the following enigmatical sentence:—

Mr. John Coates gave a dramatic, if un-Handelian, reading of 'The Enemy Said' air, 'Thou shalt bring them in' with pleasant quality of voice.

A correspondent sends us a newspaper cutting, accompanied by some cutting remarks on local reporters. It contains an account of an organ-opening in a town down south, which furnishes this enlightening information:—

The instrument suffers from being crowded into a small covered space, but the addition of a 'Choir to Great' coupler has mitigated this defect to a remarkable degree.

Organ-builders, and architects who design those chambers of horrors called organ chambers; please note.

The following is an advertisement from an important newspaper published 'somewhere farther north'—the far north known as N.B. Prospective entrants into the profession, please N.B.:—

WANTED, PUPILS—Music and French: beginners, 2d. per lesson; advanced pupils, 3d. and 4d. Theory Class Free, Saturdays.

Still they come—this from the west:—

PIANOFORTE VIOLINIST is willing to Exchange high-class LESSONS (with orchestral experience if desired) for thoroughly good and up-to-date Bicycle.

PIANOFORTE PUPILS received by an experienced Lady; 20 lessons for 7s. 6d.

ST. MARY'S, LÜBECK: THE NAVE, LOOKING WEST.

(Reproduced by permission of Mr. T. Francis Bumpus.)

CATHEDRALS AND CHURCHES IN NORTH GERMANY.*

A VERY INTERESTING BOOK.

The name of Mr. John S. Bumpus is familiar to readers of THE MUSICAL TIMES as one who is an enthusiastic antiquary and a reliable authority on church music. Now we have the pleasure of introducing his brother Mr. T. Francis Bumpus, through the medium of an exceedingly interesting and well-written book on the Cathedrals and Churches in North Germany. One has only to read a few of the four hundred pages of this attractive volume to discover that Mr. Francis Bumpus is an ardent ecclesiologist. But this is not all. He has a fluent pen, one wherewith he graphically describes the more or less out-of-the-way places he has visited in his holiday rambles. The information here gathered together is moreover most valuable to students of church architecture; not that our author's range of vision is limited, for, as we shall see, he takes due note of the music he has heard during his ecclesiological peregrinations.

The first extract which we venture to make from the book furnishes a specimen of Mr. Bumpus's descriptive style. He has arrived at Soest, formerly one of the most important of the Hanse towns and a free imperial city, where Sir Peter Lely was born in 1618. After referring to its 'low-browed plastered and timbered and text-adorned houses' and its roughly-paved streets, Mr. Bumpus goes on to say:—

Such are my first impressions of Soest as the omnibus belonging to the Hotel Overweg rolls or rather jolts and bumps with me over the stones, presently depositing its solitary 'inside' at the excellent and comfortable hostel above named, whose whole establishment seems congregated on the steps in anticipation of an arrival. The conventional

* Holiday rambles among the Cathedrals and Churches of North Germany. By T. Francis Bumpus. With 83 illustrations. London: Thos. B. Bumpus and John S. Bumpus, St. Michael's Alley, Cornhill. 1903.

courtesies have been exchanged, and I am ushered through a broad hall, up a spacious staircase and along a corridor hung with capital engravings—some of them English—to an airy bedroom, commanding a view not only of a very charming garden, gay with August flowers, of which I had a glimpse on entering, though at Cologne and Münster Cathedrals it is placed in the north transept. Other exceptions to the rule are the Marien Kirche at Dortmund, and the Cathedrals of Metz, Strassburg, and Freiburg-im-Breisgau, where it is arranged with imposing effect above one of the nave arches.

Our author's continuing remarks will be endorsed by not a few who lament the destruction of fine old organ-cases in English churches:—

The list of organ-cases belonging to the era of Classicism — by which I mean the latter part of the seventeenth and the whole of the eighteenth centuries—might, like that of other items of church furniture, be prolonged to an indefinite length. It is therefore only necessary I think to point to the organ-cases in the cathedrals of Frauenburg, Mayence, Halberstadt, Havelberg and Minden, and to those in the churches of St. Martin at Brunswick, St. Mary at Danzig, and St. John at Magdeburg as typical specimens of their age. Indeed an organ-case purely Renaissance in design, of the greatest sumptuousness, and of the most imposing dimensions, may be met with in the majority of the northern churches, particularly those in the wealthy Hanseatic cities neighbouring to the Baltic. A generation or so ago their number was doubtless even larger than it is now, for it is to be feared that not a few of these magnificent shrines for the king of instruments have been ousted, during the mania for Gothicising everything possible, to give place to work 'more in keeping' with the fabric. It is, however, to be hoped that in Germany, as among ourselves, a better taste has arisen in this direction. An old church and its furniture are a sort of epitome in stone or other material of the history of a country and of the successive variations in religion and taste which have occurred from age to age.

Through the kindness of our author we are enabled to give from his book two illustrations of organ-cases—that of St. Martin's, Brunswick, and St. Mary's, Lübeck. The latter church has a peculiar interest to musicians, in that Buxtehude was organist there—then one of the best and most lucrative posts in Germany—from 1668 to 1707. In 1705 Bach visited Lübeck, where he remained three months, in order to make the acquaintance of Buxtehude, and to hear the famous evening performances (Abendmusiken) given in this fine church during Advent. Moreover, Handel and Matheson both competed for the post of organist at Lübeck in succession to Buxtehude; but as one of the conditions of accepting the appointment was that the successful candidate must marry Miss Buxtehude, the daughter of the retiring organist, they both declined to enter upon the joint duties of organist and husband. The view of this noble organ-case will therefore be specially welcome. Very interesting are the accounts given of the power of simple worship music and the effect of the church-song of the people in these well-attended cathedrals and churches of the Fatherland. At Münster Mr. Bumpus attended a People's service in the cathedral, and so thronged was the sacred edifice that he had great difficulty even in squeezing in. He says:—

Here I remained, in a crowd from which exit seemed impossible, for the rest of the Mass, which was being celebrated by a solitary priest arrayed in a green chasuble, attended only by a server at the People's or Holy Cross altar at the entrance to the ORGAN-CASE IN ST. MARTIN'S CHURCH, BRUNSWICK.

(Reproduced by permission of Mr. T. Francis Bumpus.)

but of the steeple of one of the churches. Cocks are crowing, answered by others in the distance, hens are clucking in the conscious pride of newly laid eggs, sweet smells are wafted in from the country, and everything looks so vivacious and pretty, that—the bustle consequent upon my arrival having subsided and the premises restored to order and quiet—I request that coffee may be served in the garden. This having appeared and in due course disappeared, a chat ensues with my host, originating in admiration of his trim garden and fine stock of poultry. Roses are growing in abundance, and of these their owner, evidently delighted at the idea of having a Herr aus England in the house, would have culled quite a bunch, which, however, at my earnest request, mindful that for the present I am leading a nomadic existence, is reduced to a 'button-hole.' Thus adorned and refreshed, I stroll forth to make the closer acquaintance of a place with which I am already enraptured, the Norfolk jacket and flannel unmentionables creating quite a sensation among the Soesters.

Turning to matters strictly musical, we find the position of the organ in German churches is thus referred to by Mr. Bumpus:—

Generally speaking, the organ in a German cathedral or church—whether Catholic or Protestant—occupies a gallery at the west end of the nave, choir. There was neither elaborate music nor ritual to captivate the senses, and this rendered the earnest manner of the congregation,—largely composed of young men—its fervent adoration, and endurance of personal inconvenience, nay positive discomfort, doubly worthy of admiration. Indeed the unisonous singing of the hymns (accompanied in a grand broad style on the organ) by a congregation numbering several thousands, combined with the majesty of the pile in which it was gathered, impressed me far more deeply than the most elaborate Mass by Beethoven, Mozart, or Schubert.

The congregational singing in North German churches seems to have made a deep impression on Mr. Bumpus, as he frequently refers to it. Here are some extracts—the first at the Cathedral of Paderborn, at a Saturday evening service in honour of Liborius, the tutelary saint of the city and diocese:—

I had just settled myself when the player upon the great organ at the west end of the cathedral struck up a prelude displaying the full power of the instrument. This presently merged into a stately hymn in honour of St. Liborius, which was taken up and sung by the vast concourse without books, in a manner affecting even to tears by its simple solemn grandeur, and making one wish such spontaneous congregational singing could find a place in our own services.

On the following day (Sunday) he re-visited the Cathedral and heard a hymn-tune that is familiar to English congregations. He records:—

The first hymn was being sung when I reached the great south porch, which was so thronged as to render

I lingered for a brief space to enjoy a specimen of unisonous congregational singing, so peculiarly solemn and awe-inspiring from the circumstances under which I was introduced to it.

One more extract, which may speak for itself:—

There is one Sunday service peculiar to Germany, which no one desirous of observing the religious side of that country should fail to be present at, i.e., the People's Mass. It takes place in capitol or parochial churches either before or after High Mass, and is invariably attended by crowds, who flock to enjoy the popular chorales, which, forming a great part of these judiciously arranged services, are sung in unison, and in a manner often overpoweringly affecting from its simplicity. No wonder the German Catholics resort to this service so largely, seeing that music is put before them of such a character that every man, woman and child in the church can join in it without difficulty and without feeling that his or her voice is unduly conspicuous. No one attempts to take a 'part,' everybody sings the melody.

It will be quite obvious that the temptation to further quotation from Mr. Bumpus's informing pages must be resisted. Architecture occupies the first place in his affections, but the knapsacked Rambler treats of rood screens, fonts, pulpits, choir stalls, stained glass, with critical acumen and a thorough grasp of his subject. Finally, there are eighty-three illustrations, a glossary of technical words, and a capital index. This is a book that should be read.

DUBLIN HANDELIANA AND A HOSPITAL.

A HOLIDAY NOTE.

During a recent brief visit to Dublin I chanced, while making a short cut, to come upon Mercer's Hospital. 'Surely,' thought I, 'this is the Hospital to which Handel gave part proceeds resulting from the first performance of his "Messiah" in the Irish capital, in 1742. I'll go in and ask if the old Minute Books are still in existence.' The Registrar, Mr. John Robinson, courteously received me, and in a moment he brought forth from the safe those old and beautifully-kept records of 160 years ago. It appears that previous to Handel's arrival in Dublin it was the custom of the Governors of Mercer's Hospital to organize an annual performance of sacred music in St. Andrew's (the Round) Church, and it was owing to the benevolent zeal of these philanthropic gentlemen that the music of Handel was first introduced to the people of Dublin.

The first entry in the Minutes of the Governors that took my fancy was one dated February 13, 1741, as it contains an early reference to the duties of a conductor in the modern acceptation of the term—that is, one 'appointed to beat time.' Here it is:—

Whereas. The Deans of the two Cathedrals & Christ Church & St. Patrick's did in compliance with the request of the Governors of this Hospital direct that the Cathedral Service should be performed by the Choir as usual & whereas it is necessary for the more regular performance of the same that some Person should be appointed to beat time. Ordered that Mr. Church be requested to do the same in the manner he hath usually done it heretofore and that the same request be signified to Mr. Travernor.

The 'Mr. Church' above mentioned was doubtless Mr. John Church, at that time a vicar-choral of Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin. Three days later the Governors again met and—

Order'd That, the following Article be publish'd in the several News papers tomorrow (viz.):—

WEST DOOR OF THE LIEBFRAU KIRCHE AT TREVES.

(Reproduced by permission of Mr. T. Francis Bumpus.)

admittance that way quite impossible. Very grandly did the strains of Melchior Teschner's noble melody, associated in 'Hymns Ancient and Modern' with the Palm Sunday processional, 'All glory, laud and honour,' roll out from the crowded building and through the vaulted 'paradise' to the Domhof, where

On Saturday last the Te Deum, Jubilate, and two Anthems Compos'd by Mr Handel were perform'd at St Andrews Church with the greatest decency & exactness for the Support of Mercers Hospital at which were present their Excellencies the Lords Justices & a great number of Persons of the first Quality and Distinction on which Occasion a Most Excellent Sermon was Preached by the Rt Revd Lord Bishop of Ferns.

This 'greatest decency and exactness' performance took place nine months before Handel had set his foot on Irish soil.

'Att a meeting of the Governors of Mercers Hospital' held on January 23, 1742, this Resolution was passed, Handel being then in Dublin:—

The Gentlemen deputed by this Board to the Chapter of St Patricks reported that they had applied to them according to the Order Jan^y 4 1741, & receiv'd the following answer.

The Dean & Chapter of St Patricks are ready to concur with the Dean & Chapter of Christ Church in permitting the Choir to assist at the Musical Performance of the Philharmonic Society, if the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church will concur with them in permitting the Choir to assist at MR. HANDEL'S. They think that every argument in favour of the one, may be urged with equal strength at least in favour of the other, particularly by that which with them is of greatest weight the advantage of Mercer's Hospital. Mr. Handel having offer'd & being still ready in return for such a favour to give the Governors some of his choicest Musick & to direct & assist at the Performance of it for the benefit of the Hospital, which will in one night raise a considerable Sum for their use, without lessning the Annual Contribution of the Philharmonic Society or any of their other funds, & in order to prevent this permission to be brought into a precedent which some time or other may be of Evil consequence the Dean & Chapter of St Patricks will concur with the Dean & Chapter of Christ Church in any proper rule to hinder their Voices or other members of the Choir from performing at any publick Musical Performance excepting in Churches without the joint permission of both Deans & Chapters first had & obtained.

The above answer being read and a motion being made that application be made to the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church in pursuance to the desire of the Chapter of St Patricks—impas'd in the negative.

It is exceedingly probable that 'his choicest Musick,' which Handel offered to give the Governors 'for the benefit of the Hospital,' was his new oratorio the 'Messiah,' although it was not performed till nearly three months later—April 12, 1742. In turning over the leaves of this Minute-book one feels to be closely in touch with the production of Handel's masterpiece.

One more Handelian extract. It is from the Minutes of the meeting of Governors held January 22, 1742, Richard Wesley, Esq., in the chair:—

Agreed That the Rt Hon^{ble} the Lords Mountjoy & Tullamore be desired to wait upon their Excellencies the Lords Justices and request the favour of their Company at the Mufical performance in St Andrews Church on Tuesday the 8th of February.

That the Hon^{ble} Major Butler be desired to apply to the Government for a Captains Guard to attend at said Performance & dispose of the Guard to the best advantage.

The Governors of Mercer's Hospital give this publick Notice that there will be a Sermon preached at St Andrews Church, on Tuesday the 8th of February next when Divine Service will be performed as heretofore after the Cathedral manner with Te-Deum, Jubilate, & two new Anthems compos'd by Mr Handel—Tickets to be had at the said Hospital at half a Guinea each N.B. Benefit arising hereby is the Chief Support of the Hospital.

The titles of the 'two new Anthems' are not given. One of these compositions may have been 'I will magnify Thee,' published in the first of the three volumes of anthems issued by the German Handel Society. A manuscript copy of this—very nearly agreeing with the second of the two settings of 'I will magnify Thee' in the above publication, but in the key of G—is preserved at the Hospital.

A non-Handelian extract from these interesting Hospital Minutes may find a place here. On January 2, 1742, the Governors—Ordered that the thanks of this Board be given to Mr. Boyce for the Anthem he favoured us with for the last performance at St. Andrew's Church and that Doct^r. Owen be desir'd to acquaint him.

This anthem was probably 'Blessed is he that considereth the poor and needy,' the band and chorus parts of which are still preserved at the Hospital with other music by Handel, Boyce, Festing, and Greene. The last-named composer is represented by an anthem 'Sing ye (not we) merrily,' a long work in D, for band and chorus, and containing extensive solos, but not included in his 'Forty Select Anthems.' There is also an atrocious orchestration of Pelham Humphreys' grand chant, transposed to D, and doubtless used at the performances given at St. Andrew's Church in aid of the institution.

Before leaving these interesting associations of the musical past, the Registrar invited me to walk through the wards of the Hospital. This place of healing stands on the site of a Lazar house, formerly called the Hospital of Stephen, which existed in 1344. It derives its present name from a Mercer family of Scottish origin—

Sae sicker 'tis as onie thing on earth,
The Mercers aye are oulder than ould Perth.

In 1734 one Mary Mercer settled and converted a 'large Stone House,' which still forms part of the building, 'for the accommodation and use of such poor persons as laboured under diseases of dangerous and hazardous cure, such as Lunacy, Leprosy, or Falling Sickness.' It is now a general Hospital situated in the heart of the city, carrying on the good work instituted by Mary Mercer nearly 170 years ago. In 1738 'conveniences were added for bathing and sweating.' Since then the building has been more than once enlarged, and last year 21,790 patients received benefit from this the oldest and most famous of Dublin Hospitals. But modern requirements have to be met, and the Governors have now to face the question of providing a much-needed and up-to-date operating-room and departments for those triumphs of modern surgery, X-ray and electrical work, in addition to other calls necessitating heavy expenditure. A monster fête and bazaar, designated 'Mirus,' in aid of the foregoing claims is to be held in May, 1904. The Hospital that called forth the practical benefaction of George Frideric Handel, and to which he devoted part proceeds of the first performance of his 'Messiah' in 1742, will surely not lack many warm-hearted and generous sympathisers at this time of need.

Mr. Arthur Fagge, conductor of the Dulwich Philharmonic Society, is already at work rehearsing his newly-formed London Choral Society. The first concert of the new Society (band and chorus of 300 performers) is announced to be given at Queen's Hall on the 26th inst., when the 'Golden Legend' will be performed. 'Elijah' is to be given on December 14, and the 'Dream of Gerontius' in the new year.

Church and Organ Music.

JOSEPH GANTHONY.

'At the psalm-tune in triple time, by J. Ganthaumy—sung by all the voices and accompanied with trumpets, drums and organ—at this overwhelming resounding of a hymn-tune really charged with inspiration, and noble and touching expression, nature asserted her right to be weak, and I was obliged to cover my face with my music.' Thus wrote Berlioz when he heard the Charity Children sing that old tune by Joseph Ganthonny (not Ganthaumy, as he has it) in St. Paul's Cathedral during the great French composer's visit to London in 1851 (see THE MUSICAL TIMES for August last, p. 521). Here is the tune by Ganthonny—called in some collections 'Anniversary.' It is taken from Arnold and Callcott's 'Psalms of David for the use of Parish Churches' (1791), where it is called 'Proper 113th' and the name of the composer is not given.

PSALM CXIII.

P.M.

Proper 113th

in order to track him down. The British Museum Library contains a few songs composed by him,—to some of which he wrote the words—but these gave no clue, except to the period at which their composer was in the flesh. But the library of the Royal College of Music contains the following publication by 'J. Ganthonny,' entitled:—

Anthem for Christmas-day; also two favourite Psalm-tunes and a Canon for six voices.

London: Sold by the author, at No. 50 in Red Cross Street, also by Messrs. Longman, &c.

Now this publication is dedicated to the Treasurer and Trustees of Cripplegate School; moreover, one of the two Psalm-tunes (neither being the Berlioz one printed above) is named 'St. Giles's, Cripplegate.' Here then was a hopeful clue. The natural inference of the investigator is that Ganthonny was formerly organist of that historic church, but his name does not appear in the well-kept records of appointments. Could he have been schoolmaster of St. Giles's Cripplegate Schools? In view of the dedication of his anthem, this clue seemed to be even more hopeful. A request made to the present Master of Cripplegate Without Boys' School, Mr. H. C. Davis, that he should kindly 'search the records' of his ancient School was courteously responded to and, as we shall see, with very satisfactory results. Mr. Davis reports that he cannot find any trace of a Minute Book between 1737 and 1809 (the School was started in 1698), but that the Cash Book is in existence. In this financial volume the name of Joseph Ganthonny first appears on September 26, 1770, when, as Master of the School, he was paid a half-quarter's salary to Michaelmas. Thereafter his name is regularly to be found as having received various amounts, set down as 'salary and disbursements,' till the year 1785, the last entry appearing on April 6, 1785, when he received the sum of £50 as his salary up to Lady Day. Nothing further is known of Mr. Ganthonny except this negative information that the burial register of St. Giles, Cripplegate, for the year 1785, does not record his interment, as might to some extent be expected.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ganthonny's name appears periodically in the same Cash Book as does her husband's. She was paid varying sums of money 'For making 102 boys' shirts,—the boys here are clothed,' adds Mr. Davis—and the last mention of her name is on May 26, 1785, when she received the gratuity of two guineas. Thus, thanks to the kind co-operation of Mr. H. C. Davis aforesaid, we are enabled to show that the 'J. Ganthaumy, ancien maître anglais (1774),' pace Berlioz, was a parish schoolmaster in the heart of the city of London in the 18th century and something of a rhymester. But as an amateur composer this Joseph Ganthonny, in the simple strain of (to us) a very old-fashioned psalm-tune, drew tears from the eyes of so great a master of music as Hector Berlioz.

THE COLSTON HALL ORGAN.

The completion of the organ at Colston Hall, Bristol (the gift of Sir W. H. Wills, at a cost of about £5,000), was celebrated on the 19th ult. by two performances attended by crowded audiences. Mr. George Riseley performed with much ability a number of compositions on the organ which served to demonstrate the varied capacity of the instrument. A male-voice choir of upwards of 400 voices assisted at the evening performance. Mr. Riseley conducted fine renderings of the choruses given, which included Mendelssohn's 'Thou comest here to the land' and 'Fair Semele's high born son,' the accompaniments being played upon the organ by Mr. G. Herbert Riseley.

Who was Joseph Ganthonny? He cannot be traced through the ordinary sources of reference—dictionaries, the Gentleman's Magazine, and the like; therefore a little special research seemed necessary

A CURIOUS CHURCH INSTRUMENT.

The Rev. A. A. Jackson, Rector of Ashurst, Steyning, has sent us—through the friendly medium of Dr. C. H. Lloyd—a photograph (which we reproduce by his kind permission) of a curious old instrument formerly used in his church. He regards it as 'a sort of glorified megaphone,' and goes on to say that 'the inscription, which is hardly decipherable in the photograph, is—Praise Him upon y^e Strings & Pipe. 1770. Palmer fecit.

It is made of tin, painted green with yellow lettering. Until the introduction of a harmonium thirty or forty years ago, there was at this church a varied orchestra—flute, clarionet, and double-bass among other instruments—which had a local reputation, according to the older inhabitants. Whether this species of "horn" was used as late as the band, I cannot say. As it has no mouthpiece, it could only have been sung into. The "strings" in the inscription are represented by intersected wires drawn across the bell at about 8½ inches from the end. Its total length is just 3 feet: diameter of the bell, 7 inches. Can any of our readers throw any light upon this quaint 'instrument,' or point to a similar instance of 'y^e Strings & Pipe'?

THE REV. GODFREY THRING.

We regret to record the death of the Rev. Prebendary Godfrey Thring, which took place on the 13th ult., at Shamley Green, Surrey, in his eighty-first year. He was born at Alford, Somerset, March 25, 1823, two of his brothers being Lord Thring and the famous head-master of Uppingham. Prebendary Thring was formerly rector of Alford-cum-Hornblotton, Somerset, but his fame rests on the beautiful hymns written by him—lyrics which by their devotional expressiveness have greatly enriched public worship in countless churches throughout the length and breadth of the land.

In proof of this it is only necessary to mention three of his contributions to the church-song of the people. The first is 'Fierce raged the tempest o'er the deep' ('Stilling the sea'), written in 1861; in the following year it appeared in the enlarged edition of 'The Congregational Hymn and Tune Book,' edited by the Rev. R. R. Chope. The no less famous tune 'St. Aëlred,' by the Rev. Dr. J. B. Dykes, appeared at the same time and in the same book. In this, the original form of the tune, the last line of each verse ended in the minor key and in quadruple rhythm—

	but the Amen made a con- clusion in the relative major key, viz. ;—
--	--	--

The composer altered the ending to the present triple-rhythm form in the Appendix to 'Hymns Ancient and Modern' (1868).

'Saviour, blessed Saviour, Listen while we sing,' is another lyric from the pen of the poet-clergyman. Written in 1862, it first appeared in print four years later in the author's 'Hymns Congregational and others,' but came into general use by its inclusion in 'Hymns Ancient and Modern' (edition of 1868), with Sir Herbert Oakeley's fine marching tune. Prebendary Thring naturally objected to his hymns being altered without his permission. He once wrote to a daily newspaper, saying, 'I am particularly anxious that a correct version of my hymn, "Saviour, blessed Saviour," shall be adopted, when any portion of it may from time to time be selected for public worship . . . the last verse should read as follows :—

Higher then, and higher
Bear the ransom'd soul,
Earthly toils forgotten,
Saviour, to its goal;
Where in joys unthought of,
Saints with Angels sing,
Never weary raising
Praises to their King.'

Lastly, the evening hymn beginning 'The radiant morn hath passed away,' written nearly forty years ago, has attained great popularity by the anthem setting of the Rev. H. H. Woodward, entitled 'An anthem for Evensong,' which first made its appearance in THE MUSICAL TIMES.

THE MUSIC OF HENRY HUGO PIERSON.

A correspondent writes from Liverpool:—

Last Saturday afternoon (August 29) Dr. A. L. Peace gave a masterly rendering of Pierson's overture to the sacred oratorio 'Jerusalem' at St. George's Hall. The intense interest manifested by the audience in this fine work makes the neglect of this great English composer in his native land all the more remarkable. Except for the glorious national chorus 'Ye mariners of England' the name of Pierson is almost unknown in this country, although his great genius was always fully recognized in Germany, where his music to the second part of Goëthe's 'Faust' is still performed.

It would render a great service to the cause of native music if, during the coming season, some of our orchestral societies in London and elsewhere would give one of Pierson's noble concert overtures—e.g., 'Romeo and Juliet,' 'As you like it,' 'Julius Cæsar,' 'Joan of Arc,' and the grand symphonic prologue to 'Macbeth.'

FOUR-PART SONG.

Words by ROBERT HERRICK.

Composed by ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Moderato.

SOPRANO. mf Fair daf - fo - dils, we weep to see You haste a - way so soon, As

ALTO. mf We weep to see You haste a - way so soon, As

TENOR. mf We weep to see You haste a - way so soon, . : As

BASS. mf We weep to see You haste a - way so soon, As

(For practice only.) Moderato. $\text{♩} = 108.$ mf yet the ear - ly ri - sing sun Has not at-tained his noon, Fair daf - fo - dils, we yet the ear - ly ri - sing sun Has not at-tained his noon, . . we yet the ear - ly ri - sing sun Has not at-tained his noon, we yet the ear - ly ri - sing sun Has not at-tained his noon, we

p weep to see You haste a-way so soon, As yet the ear-ly ri-sing sun Has weep to see You haste a-way so soon, As yet the ear-ly ri-sing sun Has weep to see You haste a-way so soon, As yet the ear-ly ri-sing sun Has weep to see You haste a-way so soon, As yet the ear-ly ri-sing sun Has

The first system of the musical score for 'Fair Daffodils'. It consists of four vocal staves (Soprano, Alto, Tenor, Bass) and a piano accompaniment with grand staves for the right and left hands. The key signature is two flats (B-flat and E-flat), and the time signature is 3/4. The lyrics are: 'weep to see You haste a-way so soon, As yet the ear-ly ri-sing sun Has'.

not at-tained his noon; Stay, stay un-til the hast-ning day, . . the hast-ning not at-tained his noon; Stay, stay un-til the hast-ning day, the . . hast-ning not at-tained his noon; Stay, stay un-til the hast-ning day, . . the hast-ning not at-tained his noon; Stay, stay un-til the hast-ning day, . . the hast-ning

The second system of the musical score. It continues with four vocal staves and piano accompaniment. The lyrics are: 'not at-tained his noon; Stay, stay un-til the hast-ning day, . . the hast-ning'.

day . . has run, But to the eve-ning song, the eve-ning song, Stay,
day has run, But to the eve-ning song, the eve-ning song, Stay,
day . . has run, But to the eve-ning song, the eve-ning song, Stay,
day has run, But to the eve-ning song, the eve-ning song, Stay,

The third system of the musical score. It continues with four vocal staves and piano accompaniment. The lyrics are: 'day . . has run, But to the eve-ning song, the eve-ning song, Stay,'.

stay un - til the day has run, But to the eve - ning song ; And stay un - til the day has run, But to the eve - ning song ; And stay un - til the day has run, But to the eve - ning song ; And stay un - til the day has run, But to the eve - ning song ; . . And

The first system of the musical score for 'Fair Daffodils'. It consists of four vocal staves (Soprano, Alto, Tenor, Bass) and a piano accompaniment with a grand staff (treble and bass clef). The key signature has two flats (B-flat and E-flat), and the time signature is 3/4. The lyrics are: 'stay un - til the day has run, But to the eve - ning song ; And'.

hav - ing prayed to - ge - ther, We will go with you a - long, And hav - ing prayed to - hav - ing prayed to - ge - ther, We will go with you a - long, And hav - ing prayed to - hav - ing prayed to - ge - ther, We will go with you a - long, And hav - ing prayed to - hav - ing prayed to - ge - ther, We will go with you a - long, And hav - ing prayed to -

The second system of the musical score. It continues the vocal parts and piano accompaniment. The lyrics are: 'hav - ing prayed to - ge - ther, We will go with you a - long, And hav - ing prayed to -'.

- ge - ther, We will go, . . . will . . . go . . . with . . . you a - long.

- ge - ther, We will go, . . . will go . . . with . . . you a - long.

- ge - ther, We will go, . . . will go . . . with . . . you a - long.

- ge - ther, We will go, will go with you a - long.

The third system of the musical score, concluding the piece. The lyrics are: '- ge - ther, We will go, . . . will . . . go . . . with . . . you a - long.'

WILL BE PUBLISHED ON OCTOBER 3, 1903.

TO BE PRODUCED AT THE BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL,
OCTOBER 14, 1903.

THE APOSTLES

(PARTS I. AND II.)

AN ORATORIO

BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

(OP. 49.)

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS.

Paper boards, 6s. ; cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.

IN THE PRESS :

Vocal Parts, 1s. 6d. each ; String Parts, 22s ; Wind Parts and Full Score,

Book of words, with Analytical and Descriptive Notes and nearly 100 musical examples, by A. J. JAEGER, 1s.

The right of representation and performance of this work is reserved ; all applications with reference to performances should be addressed to the Publishers.

★ REDUCED PRICES.

HYMN OF PRAISE

(LOBGESANG)

BY

F. MENDELSSOHN BARTHOLDY.

(OP. 52.)

VOCAL SCORE, 8vo, paper cover	1s. od.
Do. paper boards	1s. 6d.
Do. cloth, gilt	2s. 6d.
* TONIC SOL-FA EDITION	os. 6d.
CHORUSES ONLY (without accompaniment), paper cover	os. 6d.
Do. Do. paper boards	1s. od.
THE ACCOMPANIMENTS arranged for Pianoforte and Harmonium (instead of Orchestra) by J. W. ELLIOTT
	7s. 6d.
* STRING PARTS	each 2s. 6d.
WIND PARTS	20s. od.
* WORDS ONLY (per 100)	3s. od.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED
AND
NOVELLO, EWER, AND CO., NEW YORK.

CHURCH AND ORGAN MUSIC—(Continued from p. 664).

THE CHURCH CONGRESS AT BRISTOL.

Mr. Hubert W. Hunt, organist of Bristol Cathedral, has drawn up a very comprehensive list of music to be sung previous to and during the meeting of the Church Congress—from the 11th to the 18th inst. The selection ranges from old Thomas Tallis to present-day composers, thus covering a period of nearly four centuries. It may be convenient to set forth the details of the services, &c., in the order in which they will be sung:—

SERVICES.

M. Lloyd in E flat.	M. Croft in A.
E. Turle in D.	E. Hopkins in F.
M. Bevin in D, dorian .	M. Smart in F.
E. Gibbons in F.	E. Selby in A.
M. Garrett in E.	M. Barnby in E.
E. Cooke, in G.	E. Stanford in A.
M. Rogers in D.	M. Stainer in E flat.
E. Walmisley in B flat.	E. Harwood in A flat.

ANTHEMS.

Come, Holy Ghost	Attwood .	Sing aloud with gladness
The Wilderness	Wesley .	I will arise	S. Wesley.
Sing joyfully unto God	Bird .	In that day	Creyghton.
Rejoice in the Lord	Purcell .	O Lord, look down from heaven	Elvey.
Praise the Lord	Goss .	And Jesus entered into the temple	Battishill.
God is our hope and strength	Greene .	How goodly are thy tents	Davies.
All people that on earth	Tallis .	Hear my words, ye people	Parry.
O where shall wisdom be found?	Boyce .
O praise the Lord	Child .

ORGAN VOLUNTARIES (OUTGOING).

Air with Variations and final Fugato	Smart .
Voluntary in C minor	Travers .
Overture in C	Adams .
Choral Song and Fugue	S. S. Wesley.
Prelude and Fugue in A	S. Wesley.
Voluntary in A minor (Op. 5, No. 10)	Stanley.
Toccata in F sharp minor	Hatton .
Fugue in E flat	Russell .
Fugue in A	Best .
Prelude and Fugue in E minor	Walmisley.
Variations on an Original Theme	Thorne .
Allegro from Second Sonata	Ouseley.
Allegro appassionato, from First Sonata	Harwood .
Fantasia and Toccata in D minor	Stanford .

It will be observed that the whole of this excellent selection is from the works of English composers, including all the organ voluntaries. Mr. Hunt is to be congratulated upon his choice of music at so important an event as the approaching Church Congress.

The Brixton Oratorio Choir intend to perform during the coming season at Brixton Church the following works:—Elijah, Creation, Messiah, Hiller's Song of Victory, Last Judgment, St. Peter, &c., all of which will be accompanied with full orchestra. Mr. Douglas Redman will conduct as heretofore, and Mr. Welton Hickin will be at the organ.

Mr. John E. West is orchestrating his cantata 'The Story of Bethlehem.' The score, which will be laid out for full orchestra, with a separate organ part, will be ready for Christmas performances of this popular work.

Mr. Reginald Goss Custard will resume his Saturday afternoon organ recitals at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, on the 3rd inst., at 5.30 p.m.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Dr. A. L. Peace, Glasgow Cathedral.—Marche Pontificale (Organ Symphony, No. 1), Widor.

Miss May Lord, St. David's Cathedral.—March of the Crusaders, Liszt.

Master Frank Percy Haines, St. Saviour's, Leicester.—The Storm, Lemmens.

Mr. Richard Seaton, Hexham Abbey Church.—The Storm, Neukomm.

Mr. Franklyn Mountford, St. James's, Handsworth.—Fantasia in C, Tours.

Mr. William Cooke, St. Paul's, Runcorn.—Introduction and Fugue in G, Merkel.

Mr. R. E. Parker, Parish Church, Wilmslow.—Grand Chœur, MacMaster.

Mr. Richard W. Handley, Wesleyan Church, Runcorn.—Melody in C, John E. West.

Mr. Louis H. Torr, Parish Church, Emsworth.—Allegro in B flat, Lemmens.

Mr. Alfred W. V. Vine, All Saints', Clovelly.—Postlude in D, Smart.

Mr. George Rathbone, Cartmel Priory Church.—Sonata in C sharp minor, Harwood.

Mr. Frederick Midgley, St. John's Parish Church, Perth.—Fantasia on the Vesper Hymn, Turpin.

Mr. Munro Davison, Northern Polytechnic.—Prelude in C sharp minor, Rachmaninoff.

Mr. J. C. Clarke, St. John's, Boulogne-sur-Mer.—Fantasia on the hymn 'O Sanctissima,' Lux.

Mr. E. Slater, St. Paul's Cathedral, Calcutta.—Allegretto, Nevin.

Mr. J. Job, St. John's, Felixstowe.—Air with Variations, in A, Smart.

Mr. Frank Pullein, Wrexham Parish Church.—Marche Triomphale, Moscheles.

Mr. H. E. Piggott, All Saints', Alton.—Trumpet Voluntary, Purcell.

Mr. Fred Gostelow, Luton Parish Church.—Overture to 'Oberon,' Weber. (In a church!)

ORGANIST, CHOIRMASTER, AND CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Arnold Bagshaw, Cherry Tree Hill Free Church, Sheffield.

Mr. C. W. Bridson, Parish Church, Liverpool.

Mr. J. A. Copeland, St. Paul's Church, Middlesbrough.

Mr. W. G. Everleigh, Cork Cathedral.

Mrs. Probert Goodwin, Parish Church, Stanton Drew.

Mr. F. W. Hughes, Parish Church, Richmond, Yorkshire.

Mr. Thomas Lane, Parish Church, Darwen.

Mr. Albert Orton, Parish Church, Woolton, near Liverpool.

Mr. E. V. Pickersgill, St. Oswald's New Church, West Hartlepool.

Mr. Percy Rider, Wesleyan Church, Albion Road, Lewisham.

Mr. N. Story, Parish Church, Bridge-of-Allan, Stirling.

Mr. A. J. Todd, Parish Church, Thirsk.

Mr. Healey Willan, St. John's Church, Kensington.

Mr. W. Brown (tenor) and Mr. H. Finch (bass), Lay-clerks in St. Asaph Cathedral.

Reviews.

ANTHEMS.

Why art thou so heavy, O my soul? Anthem for Lent or general use. By Orlando Gibbons.

Hide not Thou Thy face. By Richard Farrant.

Almighty God, Who hast me brought. By Thomas Ford.

Father now Thy grace extending; and O God of Wisdom.

By Willem Coenen.

Morn's roseate hues. By G. W. Chadwick.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

It is well not to forget the past, and Mr. John E. West is to be commended for editing the above three anthems and for the manner in which he has so reverently discharged his congenial task. The first and third settings are appropriate for Lent, as well as for general use, and Farrant's 'Hide not Thou Thy face' is a devotional setting of supplicatory words. These fine examples of old-world English Church music deserve to become widely known and appreciated if only for their devotional beauty.

The first of Mr. Coenen's compositions begins with a solo of devotional and melodious character designed for a mezzo-soprano. It is succeeded by a chorus which, beginning pianissimo, is worked up to a fortissimo climax, but ends softly. 'O God of Wisdom,' set in four parts throughout, is richly harmonised; both compositions are intended for use at weddings. The words of 'Morn's roseate hues' are taken from the 'Hymnary.' The music opens with an Andante chorus in solid harmony, to which succeeds a short bass solo. Another chorus is followed by a brief alto solo, and a final chorus of jubilant character effectively concludes this interesting and legitimate specimen of American Church music.

PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

Trois Morceaux pour Piano (Op. 44, 45, 46). By E. Jacques-Dalcroze.

Quatre Petits Morceaux pour Piano. Par Dirk Schäfer. Süddeutscher Musikverlag, Strassburg.

[E. L. Robinson, Wigmore Street.]

The composer of the first-mentioned pieces writes with appreciation of the capabilities of the pianoforte which will appeal to players thereupon. In some of the compositions the harmonic scheme is somewhat involved, and in one or two instances the modern definition of a signature as 'the key in which the piece is not written' is certainly applicable; but the composer has something to say, and he says it in a scholarly manner, not without graceful and sympathetic touches which testify to a lively imagination.

Herr Schäfer has severally named his pieces 'Pastorale (all' antica),' 'Alla Minuetto,' 'Chant Mélancolique,' and 'Deuxième Valse,' titles which fairly indicate their character. While they present few difficulties to the average trained executant, they are melodious and effective.

Four characteristic valse (Op. 22). Composed and arranged for pianoforte by S. Coleridge-Taylor.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

These arrangements make excellent pieces for the household instrument. The first, entitled 'Valse Bohémienne,' although very easy to play, is full of character; the third, 'Valse de la Reine,' if a little more difficult, will well repay any extra practice it may require. It is the best of the set, but the second and fourth, respectively called 'Valse Rustique' and 'Valse Mauresque,' are well worthy of the attention of pianists.

PART-SONGS.

When through Life unblest we rove. Words by Thomas Moore. Irish melody, arranged as a part-song by T. R. G. José.

Come, let me take thee. Words by Robert Burns. Music by John Pullein.

As through the land. Words by Tennyson. Music by John Pullein.

Weary wind of the West. Words by T. E. Brown. Music by Edward Elgar.

A Spring Song. Words by Aubrey de Vere. Music by Arnold D. Culley.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Dr. José has made a most effective part-song arrangement of the old Irish melody which Thomas Moore has allied to lines which appeal with peculiar sympathy to musicians; and part-singers will find in this composition the truth of the poet's remark that 'music's strains can sweetly soothe.' Although both of Mr. Pullein's compositions are short, they are excellent examples of the modern part-song. The music to 'As through the land' is very simple, but is not this the most natural treatment suggested by Tennyson's exquisite lyric?—lines that are perfect in themselves. Dr. Elgar expects much from English choristers, and his setting of 'Weary wind of the West' will test the metal of its exponents. The music is not, however, exceptionally difficult, but it is exceptionally effective; and the setting of the last line, directed to be sung ppp, is most touching. Mr. Arnold Culley's 'Spring Song' is very gay, not to say jovial; crisply sung it would be very stirring.

Two Songs for One Voice. Words by Fred A. Farwell. Music by Clarisse Mallard.

[Breitkopf and Haertel.]

The above title savours of a paradox, but it is all right if you think it out. The songs are severally named 'Memories' and 'Petite,' the words of the former telling of a love that somehow has gone wrong, and the latter being a serenade to a lady who, in the singer's estimation, seems to linger unjustifiably. The music is well written and refined, but Miss Mallard is most successful in her 'Memories.'

A Short Account of our Great Church Composers, 1540-1876. By Agnes E. Done. (Henry Frowde.)

'Specially written for choristers,' this little book is a collection of brief biographies pleasantly penned by Miss Done, daughter of the late Dr. Done, a former and much esteemed organist of Worcester Cathedral. Several portraits of the composers discoursed upon by the authoress add to the interest of her very readable pages.

—Musical Education. By Albert Lavignac. (D. Appleton and Company.) An English translation, from the French, by Esther Singleton, of an interesting and useful book recently reviewed in these columns.—Confessions of a violinist. By Dr. T. Lamb Phipson. (Chatto and Windus.)

A reminiscent and chatty book by an author who has before given proof of his anecdotal resources.

—Music and its influence on life and character. By the Rev. H. F. Kelvey. (Charles H. Kelly.) A series of eight thoughtful addresses delivered at various times by the author, a Wesleyan Methodist Minister. They range from that which furnishes the title to the book to 'The observations of an organ-blower.'

—Modern Organ Tuning: the How and Why? By Hermann Smith. (William Reeves.) These 120 pages contain much expert knowledge on 'the nature of the organ pipe and the system of equal temperament, together with an historic record of the evolution of the diatonic scale from the Greek tetrachord.'

We learn therefrom that 'dus is the great enemy of the organ.'—The Ring of the Nibelung. By Alice Leighton Cleather and Basil Crump. (Methuen & Company.)

This little book, so convenient for the pocket, claims to be 'an interpretation embodying Wagner's own explanations' of his great creation. The 'interpretation' is therein lucidly, concisely, and analytically set forth, illustrated with music-type examples. A recently discovered and characteristic portrait of the master, taken in 1869, forms an interesting frontispiece to an acceptable contribution to the ever-extending field of Wagnerian literature.

THE HEREFORD MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

It is always a little difficult to give an instant verdict, in a few words, on any of the great annual Festivals which signalize provincial musical activity in England during the Autumn. In fact such a verdict would indeed be unfair, because it would have to be balanced on one side or the other either by the virtues or by the defects of the various performances. Instead therefore of attempting any smart precision of judgment, one may take more or less in order the most prominent features of the Festival as they appeal to one by reason of their importance. First, then, the chorus has to be considered. The grand opening service on Sunday afternoon (September 6) gave promise of very exceptional choral work during the week; Elgar's 'Te Deum' in F, for example, was sung with a sheer purity of sound and an accuracy of tone that belonged to the very highest order of the best sort of choral singing; therefore when Tuesday morning arrived, bringing with it Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,' expectation was necessarily tuned to the highest pitch. To a large extent that expectation was thoroughly justified. The early part of the work went, so far as the chorus was concerned, with the utmost spirit and even fire of determination; in the course of the day, however, a certain sense of fatigue seemed to creep over the singers, and the end left them very much behind the level of their original achievements. To jump straight from the first day to the last day, the 'Messiah' found the same chorus just about midway between the two points which it had reached at the beginning and at the end of 'Elijah.' It will thus be seen that there was considerable fluctuation in the meritoriousness of this choral singing, but that when these singers were at their best they were worthy to compare with the really great choirs that have made for success during so many years of various provincial Festivals: when they were at their worst they were not so bad at all events as not to ensure a certain amount of definite respect and admiration. Of individual performances it will be possible to speak when treating definitely of the various compositions in succession.

The Festival proper opened with Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' on Tuesday (September 8). Mr. Andrew Black took the part of the Prophet, and was in his very best form. Mr. Black's rendering is extremely dramatic, and his voice seems to betray the passionate personality and the intense fervour which Mendelssohn designed for his Elijah; it may be said that not for a long time has Madame Albani sung, one will not say with so much fervour exactly, but with so much vocal beauty and singleness of style; she also took the place of Miss Agnes Nicholls who, owing to indisposition, was prevented from appearing throughout the entire Festival. At the same performance Miss Muriel Foster and Mr. William Green sang with considerable distinction.

The evening of Tuesday brought a novelty in the shape of Mr. Granville Bantock's Orchestral Interlude from 'Christus,' entitled 'The Wilderness.' In that it is obviously unfair to make too sweeping a judgment of a work which is only a detail in an important general whole, it was surely a mistake to give us such an extract for appreciation and criticism. But still one can only judge by that which was actually heard. As an absolute work it does not seem to contain any very deeply serious elements of vitality; at times it strikes a somewhat dreary note, and the end (though of course this part may have relation to other portions of the work) seemed to be more than a little without significance. It was extremely well played under Mr. Bantock's own direction. That work was followed by a selection from 'Israel in Egypt.' Here the chorus was partly excellent; those two great tone-pictures 'He gave them hailstones' and 'He sent a thick darkness' were not by any means realized to the fulness of the composer's intention, whereas certain other less famous numbers were almost ideally interpreted. The duet 'The Lord is a man of war' was assigned to Mr. Andrew Black and Mr. Lane Wilson; it was sung extremely well, the final page indeed possessing in the interpretation an extraordinarily beautiful effect.

MR. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR'S CANTATA 'THE ATONEMENT.'

Wednesday morning (September 9) brought what was perhaps the most important novelty of the week, Mr. S. Coleridge-Taylor's 'The Atonement.' The book deals with the sacred history of the Passion and Resurrection of Christ, though as the name of the work implies it is the Passion which chiefly occupies the energies of the composer. Had Mr. Coleridge-Taylor selected his words from Holy Writ we are convinced that he would have found a far better source of inspiration than from the book provided for him by Mrs. Alice Parsons. The librettist has turned the scriptural narrative into a set of verses which are by no means at all times consonant with the reverence which one is accustomed to entertain towards the narratives of the New Testament. In fact very often the actual words of the Saviour are altered, and in one or two instances indeed the scriptural sense is entirely distorted. Take for example the words of Christ to the Holy Women of Jerusalem: 'Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children.' This becomes translated into:—

Women, weep not for One
Who soon will be at rest.
Weep rather for the fate
Of fair Jerusalem.

Another instance may be quoted in the utter misrepresentation of Scripture involved in Christ's cry upon the Cross, which of course in the Scripture runs: 'Why hast thou forsaken me?' and in this version is turned to 'Hast thou forsaken me?' It is with this libretto then that Mr. Coleridge-Taylor has had to contend, and though he has laboured almost fiercely to overcome difficulties of sentiment and difficulties which reverence casts in the way, his score must certainly be called unequal. One supposes that the necessity for feminine interest was so strong that a love duet between Pilate and his wife was the only resource left to the librettist; in any case, it is here that Mr. Coleridge-Taylor seems to be quite at his best, where he becomes purely natural. There is little doubt that in the more spiritual parts of the work Mr. Taylor has not identified himself with Western thought and Western sentiment. Oddly enough, apart from the duet of which we have spoken, it is often those passages which remind one of 'Hiawatha' that are the most successful in the score.

Mr. Coleridge-Taylor is, however, as a musician, very much in earnest, and this must be immediately recognized. The Prelude,—to give just one instance where many examples might be taken—which introduces the scene of Gethsemane, is an extremely well-woven piece of musical texture; and a good deal of the choral matter is finely poetical and significant. The scoring too is often so 'instinctive'—to use the favourite word of Berlioz—as to prove its own necessity, a very different matter from proving its composer's ingenuity. There is no reason to suppose that, under the happier auspices of a more felicitous libretto, Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's Muse may not achieve the success of another 'Hiawatha.' Assuredly the Prayer of Christ, 'O little flock,' is a musical page of keen and intense beauty.

Bach's lovely motet 'Jesus sleeps' was admirably sung, Mr. William Green especially distinguishing himself in the extremely difficult aria 'In billows the rivers of Belial.' Mozart's ever-welcome G minor Symphony brought the morning's music to a close.

On Wednesday evening a grand concert was given at the Shire Hall, most of the numbers of which are familiar enough to amateurs. Dr. F. H. Cowen's new orchestral work 'Indian Rhapsody,' conducted by the composer, was given for the first time on this occasion. It is a work of brilliant accomplishment and of singular ingenuity. The melodies upon which it is based are quite authentic, and they range from grave to gay, and from gay back again to tragic; the scoring is admirable, and the orchestral playing of it was altogether worthy. Dr. Elgar on the same evening conducted his now well-known 'Variations on an Original Theme.'

Dr. Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius' was given on Thursday morning (September 10). One does not want to pass a hasty judgment upon the performance of the work, which was clearly a labour of love to everyone concerned. It began well, one may say extremely well, and all the first part was without any question a great artistic pleasure to hear; but at the end the chorus was by no means up to the promise of the beginning. Of course it is an extremely difficult work; nevertheless one had really looked forward to a greater sustained effort on the part of the chorus than was here made evident. The Chorus of Demons may be taken (as Macaulay would have said) as proof-charge. But the Chorus of Demons was singularly wanting in spirit and in audacity; it became almost academic in form, and as near as could be professorially correct in its mode of expression. In a word the 'Dream' has had better performances before, and we trust will have better to come. Mr. John Coates was an admirable Gerontius, and Miss Muriel Foster, Mr. Lane Wilson, and Mr. Plunket Greene sang extremely well. After the usual interval came the production of Sir Hubert Parry's Motet 'Voces Clamantium,' an excellently written work, possessing a deeply true and intimate musical spirit, and constructed with a singular sense of fine equipoise. Madame Emily Squire and Mr. Plunket Greene took the solo parts therein, and Brahms's C minor Symphony followed the new Motet.

Thursday evening brought with it the first performance in the English language of Philip Wolfrum's 'A Christmas Mystery,' a work which has had considerable vogue in Germany. It is practically a modern adaptation of the old-fashioned miracle play, which itself preceded the drama that followed immediately after Mediæval times. Herr Wolfrum, though succeeding in arousing curiosity by writing music sufficiently good to justify his ideal up to a certain point, has not however succeeded in composing music which is really and genuinely beautiful and artistic. The remainder of the programme consisted of an unaccompanied motet by Eccard (1553-1611), 'Presentation of Christ in the Temple,' and a selection from 'Parsifal.'

With Handel's 'Messiah' on Friday morning, sung on the whole very well (the soloists being Madame Albani, Miss Hilda Wilson, Madame Emily Squire, Mr. John Coates, and Mr. Watkin Mills), and with a general concert at the Shire Hall in the evening at which a young violinist, Miss Evangeline Anthony, distinguished herself, the Festival came to a close.

Dr. Sinclair, organist of the Cathedral, not only conducted the Festival with his customary alertness, but to his tireless energy, painstaking enthusiasm, and programme-making insight, not a little of its success was due. Mr. Ivor A. Atkins and Mr. A. Herbert Brewer, of Worcester was and Gloucester Cathedrals respectively, efficiently shared the duties of organist at the various performances, while Mr. P. C. Hull rendered excellent service at the organ at the grand opening service.

PROMENADE CONCERTS.

BRITISH NOVELTIES.

The number of new works by British composers introduced at the Promenade Concerts at Queen's Hall has imparted unusual interest to the programmes, and certainly will form a distinctive feature of this year's series, which commenced on August 22. The first important novelty, produced on August 25, was a Symphony in A minor (Op. 22) by Mr. Cyril Scott, a young composer born at Oxtun, Cheshire, in 1879. Several compositions by this musician have attracted favourable notice, notably a pianoforte quartet heard at one of the Broadwood Chamber Concerts, consequently the Symphony excited curiosity and expectation. The design of this work is unusual, the plan comprising two Andante and two Allegro movements, each played alternately. The first slow movement is poetically conceived and appeals to the imagination of the listener. It is succeeded by an Allegro con brio, a tersely-written and vivacious number which elicited the heartiest applause. The second Andante is less distinctive, although it possesses a broadly-designed and graceful melody. The Finale opens with an introduction of serious expression, but this is soon dismissed by the Allegro into which it leads, and which concludes the work in a spirited manner. The slow movements would be improved by compression, but the work in its entirety is a remarkable production for so young a man.

On August 27 was heard for the first time in London a Pianoforte Concerto in F minor (Op. 36) by Mr. Josef Holbrook, who played the solo part. This work consists of three movements, the most significant and effective of which is the first. The second number, an Adagio, provides an excellent contrast, and leads without break into a Finale which is less satisfactory, but contains many brilliant passages for the solo instrument.

A work of still greater promise and achievement was produced on the 1st ult., in a Symphonic poem entitled 'The lament of Tasso' by Mr. Edwin York Bowen, who has had a brilliant career at the Royal Academy of Music. It is an illustration of Byron's poem, which has inspired the composer to write music of genuine poetical character, and moreover music possessing a suggestion of power of expression remarkable in so young a writer.

Two nights later was heard a Pianoforte Concerto in D, by Mr. Harry Farjeon, first performed at one of the students' concerts of the Royal Academy of Music at Queen's Hall, on December 13, 1900, and duly noticed in these columns. It is unnecessary to say more now, save that the good opinion then expressed was confirmed, and that Mr. Farjeon's Concerto was cordially received.

Opinions were very much divided on the merit of Signor Wolf-Ferrari's chamber Symphony in B flat, heard for the first time in England on the 4th ult. In its entirety the Symphony is not a satisfactory composition, although it testifies to the composer's artistic aims and skill in scoring. Signor Ferrari is a native of Venice and Director of the Bologna Conservatoire.

A very clever Orchestral Suite of dramatic character, by Mr. William Wallace (produced on the 8th ult.), is entitled 'Pelléas and Mélisande,' and deals with episodes in Maeterlinck's drama. The five numbers are severally headed 'The lost Mélisande,' 'The King's march,' 'The love of Pelléas,' 'Spinning song,' and 'The death of Mélisande,' all of which gain in significance by a knowledge of the play.

On the 10th ult. a Pastoral Suite, entitled 'Ewelme,' from the pen of Mr. Garnet Wolseley Cox, was brought forward. The Suite—which takes its name from a village in Oxfordshire where it was composed—consists of four movements, severally designated 'On the downs,' 'By the brook,' 'Shepherds' Song,' and 'Rustic fête,' all of which proved to be very pleasurable to the ear.

A work of unusual character was performed for the first time on the 12th ult. This is a Concerto for Viola and Orchestra by Mr. Cyril Forsyth, who was born in Kent in 1870, and studied composition under Sir Charles Stanford at the Royal College of Music. There exist so few works for viola that this composition will doubtless be hailed with satisfaction by many players of the instrument, the more especially as Mr. Forsyth writes with great sympathy for its peculiarities as well as brilliantly. The music is also interesting for its own sake, and the Finale, distinctly Scotch in idiom, is a most vivacious and melodious movement.

An orchestral composition styled 'Introduction to an operatic poem,' 'The Bretwalde,' by Ernest E. Blake, was played for the first time on the 15th ult., but although testifying to a lively imagination and skill in scoring, the work failed to make a satisfactory impression owing to want of cohesion and clearness of design.

While recognition has been given to British art, the chief compositions by foreign composers have been constantly performed. It says much for the capabilities of the orchestra that Dr. Strauss's exacting symphonic poems have been excellently interpreted under Mr. Henry J. Wood's direction, and a specially commendable feature of the scheme is the several performances given of Mozart's symphonies and his 'wind' chamber-music, for amidst the stress and turmoil of modern orchestral works it is refreshing to hear the lucid, graceful and pure music, so redolent of naturalness, associated with the name of Mozart.

A large number of vocalists, many of them new-comers, have contributed in more or less degree to the enjoyment of the evenings. Amongst the most successful were Miss Eva Rich, of Sheffield, the possessor of a pleasing soprano voice, Mrs. Ada Vyvyan, another soprano with a particularly refined style, Miss Violet Ludlow, and Messrs. Hugo Heinz, William Lavin, and Elwes. The Alexandra Part-Singers (Messrs. Frank Peskett, Edwin Bryant, William Rivers, and George Burgess) again proved their ability to give pleasure by their excellent interpretations.

ENGLISH OPERA AND A NEW OPERA.

Messrs. Frank Rendle and Neil Forsyth's five weeks' season of grand opera in English at Covent Garden Theatre (which commenced on July 24) has been distinguished by an excellence of ensemble meriting the warmest praise. The company provided by Mr. Charles Manners consisted of the combination of his three travelling troupes, and it would be difficult to surpass the chorus (over a hundred strong) in beauty of vocal tone, intelligence, and appreciation of its duties. The orchestra was a decided advance on that of last season. Two-thirds of the seventy players travel with Mr. Manners's companies, and the remaining third were members of the Grand Opera Season Orchestra. The instrumentalists consequently were thoroughly familiar with their work, and under the direction of Herr Eckhold much admirable playing has been heard.

No. 895.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK.
(SECOND SERIES.)

Price 4d.

THE MESSAGE BRINGERS

NOEL SONG FOR S.A.T.B.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY FRANCES TYRRELL-GILL

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

H. WALDO WARNER.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Andante con moto.

SOPRANO. p Like some waft . . of spi - rit

ALTO. p Lin-lan, ding dong! Like some waft . . of spi - rit

TENOR. p Like some waft . . of spi - rit

BASS. p Lin-lan, ding dong! Like some waft . . of spi - rit

Andante con moto.

mf p

Ped. * Ped. * simile.

song, Like some

song, Like some song, Lin - lan, ding dong! Like some song, Ding dong! Like some p cres.

con espress.

waft . . of spi - rit song, Steal - - ing waft . . of spi - rit song, . . . Steal - ing on from waft . . of spi - rit song, Steal - ing

waft . . of spi - rit song, Steal - ing

f dim. p

on . . from space a - - far, 'Neath the space a - far, from space . . a - - far, . . .

on, steal - ing on from space a - far, . . .

on from space a - far, 'Neath the

p

sun - - - set, 'neath . . the star,
'Neath the sun - - - set, 'neath . . the 'Neath the sun - set, 'neath the star, Lin - lan, sun - - - set, 'neath the star,

pp mf cres.

Trem - - - bling slow - - - ly o'er . . the star, . . . Trem - - - bling slow - - - ly o'er the ding dong! Trem - - - bling slow - - - ly o'er the Trem - - - bling slow - - - ly o'er . . the mf dim. p cres. p mf dim. p

lin - lan, ding dong! lin - lan, . . ding dong! . . .

lin - lan, ding dong! lin - lan, . . ding dong! . . .

lin - lan, ding dong! lin - lan, ding . . dong!

lin - lan, ding dong! lin - lan, ding dong! lin -

ding . . . dong! Star - tles ding . . . dong! . . Lin-lan, ding dong! Star - tles ding . . . dong! . . Star - tles lan, ding dong! Lin-lan, ding dong! Star - tles from . . their mist of sleep, Ten - der mem - - 'ries ly - ing from . . their mist of sleep, Ten - - - der from . . their mist of sleep,

from . . their mist of sleep, Ten - - - der

f cres. p

This system contains the first four vocal staves and the first two staves of the piano accompaniment. The vocal parts are in treble clef, and the piano part is in grand staff. The lyrics are: 'from . . their mist of sleep, Ten - der mem - - 'ries ly - ing', 'from . . their mist of sleep, Ten - - - der', 'from . . their mist of sleep,', and 'from . . their mist of sleep, Ten - - - der'. The piano accompaniment features a crescendo marked 'f cres.' and a piano section marked 'p'.

deep, Deep with - in . . . the heart for long, deep with - mem - - 'ries ly - - ing deep, p> Lin - - - lan, . . . ding . . .

mem - 'ries ly - - - ing deep . . with - -

This system contains the next four vocal staves and the next two staves of the piano accompaniment. The lyrics continue: 'deep, Deep with - in . . . the heart for long, deep with -', 'mem - - 'ries ly - - ing deep,', 'p> Lin - - - lan, . . . ding . . .', and 'mem - 'ries ly - - - ing deep . . with - -'. The piano accompaniment continues with complex chordal textures.

- in the heart for long.

Deep with - in . . . the heart for long. Ding dong! lin-lan, ding dong!

dong! Deep with - in . . . the heart for long. Ding dong! lin-lan, ding dong!

- in the heart for long.

Lin - - lan, ding dong!

p con espress.

Like some spi - rit touch to wake, For de - part - ed love's own sake,

p

Like some spi - - rit touch to wake

p

Like some spi - - rit touch to wake,

p

Ped. * Ped. * simile.

Ding, ding dong! We a -

Ho - lier feel - ings in the heart, Lin - lan, ding dong! We a -

For de - part - ed love's . . own sake, . . We a -

For de - part - ed love's own sake, We a -

- rise, and swift . . de - part, Borne . . up - on thy notes . . a - long, Lin -

- rise, and swift . . de - part, Borne . . up - on thy notes . . a - long, Lin -

- rise, and swift . . de - part, Borne . . up - on thy notes . . a - long, . . Lin -

- rise, and swift . . de - part, Borne . . up - on thy notes . . a - long, Lin - poco animato. cres. ff

- lan, ding dong! lin - lan, ding dong! lin - - lan, . . ding

poco animato. cres. ff

- lan, ding dong! lin - lan, ding dong! lin - - lan, . . ding

poco animato. cres. ff

- lan, ding dong! lin - lan, ding dong! lin - - lan, ding . .

poco animato. cres. ff

- lan, ding dong! lin - lan, ding dong! lin - lan, ding

poco animato. fz fz cres. ff 2 2 2 2 2 2

a tempo. poco rall. a tempo.

ding! . . . ding dong!

a tempo. poco rall. a tempo.

ding! . . . ding dong! . . Lin-lan, ding a tempo. p > poco rall. a tempo.

ding! ding dong! . .

a tempo. p > poco rall. a tempo. p ding! lin - lan, ding - dong! Lin-lan, ding a tempo. p > poco rall. p a tempo.

mf
A - way, a - way . . . with wings un - furled,
mf dong! . . . A - way, a - way . . . with wings un - furled,
mf
A - way, a - way . . . with wings un - furled, Lin . . .
mf
dong! . . . A - way, a - way . . . with wings un - furled,
cres.
A - way, a - way . . . with wings un -
A - way, a - way . . . with wings un - lan, ding dong! . . . A - way, a - way . . . with wings un .
Ding dong! A - way, a - way . . . with wings un -
mf

p con espress.

- furl'd, We reach the green and

- furl'd, We reach the green and old - en world, and

- furl'd, We reach the green and . .

- furl'd, We reach the green and

pp old - en world, Wa - ter with our old - en world, Wa - ter old - en, old - en world, Wa - ter old - en world, Wa - ter with our

pp tears each plot, Plant . . the with our tears . . each plot, . . .

with our tears each plot, Lin - lan, ding dong, tears each plot, Plant . . the p mf

cres.
p

This system contains the first four staves of the musical score. The first three staves are vocal parts, and the fourth is a piano accompaniment. The lyrics are: 'tears each plot, Plant . . the', 'with our tears . . each plot, . . .', 'with our tears each plot, Lin - lan, ding dong,', and 'tears each plot, Plant . . the'. The piano part features a series of chords and a melodic line in the right hand, with a crescendo marking and a piano marking.

sweet for - get - me - not, . . . Make a -
Plant the sweet . . for-get - me - not, . . . Make a - Plant the sweet . . for-get - me - not, . . . Make a - sweet for - get - me - not, . . .

poco rall. a tempo. p
poco rall. a tempo. p
poco rall. a tempo. p
poco rall. a tempo. p

This system contains the next four staves of the musical score. The lyrics are: 'sweet for - get - me - not, . . . Make a -', 'Plant the sweet . . for-get - me - not, . . . Make a -', 'Plant the sweet . . for-get - me - not, . . . Make a -', and 'sweet for - get - me - not, . . .'. The piano part continues with a similar texture, featuring a series of chords and a melodic line in the right hand, with a piano marking and a 'poco rall. a tempo.' marking.

cres. mf

- tone-ment for . . the past, Turn - ing home - wards at the last! Lin -

cres. mf

- tone-ment for . . the past, Turn - ing home - wards at the last! Lin -

cres. mf

- tone-ment for . . the past, Turn - ing home - wards at the last! . . Lin -

mf

Lin -

poco animato. cres. f rall.

- lan, ding dong! lin - lan, ding dong! lin - - lan, . . ding

poco animato. cres. f rall.

- lan, ding dong! lin - lan, ding dong! lin - - lan, . . ding

poco animato. cres. f rall.

- lan, ding dong! lin - lan, ding dong! lin - - lan, ding . .

poco animato. cres. f rall.

- lan, ding dong! lin - lan, ding dong! lin - lan, ding

THE MESSAGE BRINGERS.

Musical score for "The Song of the Fishes" from "The Fish Tale". The score is written for voice and piano. It features a key signature of one flat (B-flat) and a 4/4 time signature. The tempo markings are a tempo, dim., poco rall., and a tempo. The lyrics are in Chinese and English. The score includes a vocal line and a piano accompaniment. The lyrics are: "dong! ding dong! Lin-lan, ding".

Musical score for "The Song of the Fishes" from "The Fish Tale". The score is written for voice and piano. It features a key signature of one flat (B-flat) and a 4/4 time signature. The tempo markings are a tempo, dim., poco rall., and a tempo. The lyrics are in Chinese and English. The score includes a vocal line and a piano accompaniment. The lyrics are: "dong! ding dong! Lin-lan, ding".

With its strange . . im-mor - tal strain, Rise and dong ! With its strange . . im-mor - tal strain,

With its strange . . im-mor - tal strain,

dong ! With its strange . . im-mor - tal strain, fall, . . . and sweet re - frain, Tells of heal - ing for all

Rise and fall, and sweet re - . . .

Lin - . . . lan,

Rise and fall, . . . and sweet re - . . .

pain ! tells of heal - - ing for all

- frain, Tells of heal - ing for all ding dong ! Tells of heal - ing for all

- frain, . . . Tells of heal - - ing for all pain! . . . Lin - lan, ding dong! lin - lan, pain! Ding dong! lin-lan, ding dong! lin - lan, ding dong! lin - lan, pain! Ding dong! lin-lan, ding dong! lin - lan, ding dong! lin - lan, pain! . . . Lin - lan, ding dong! lin - lan, ding, . . . ding . . . dong! . . .

(15)

 ding, . . . ding . . . dong! . . .
 ding, . . . ding . . . dong! . . .
 ding, . . . ding . . . dong! . . .

> cres. f dim. p rall.

(16)

The solo artists have comprised Mesdames Fanny Moody, Zélie de Lussan, Blanche Marchesi, Alice Esty, Teify Davies, Toni Seiter, Enriqueta Crighton and Messrs. O'Mara, MacLennan, Louis Arens, Dever, Shallard, Magrath and Charles Manners, all of whom have contributed to the success achieved.

The repertory has been confined to familiar works, the only English operas mounted being Wallace's 'Maritana' and Balfe's 'Bohemian Girl,' and the new opera now to be commented upon.

THE CROSS AND THE CRESCENT.

It is very rare that a prize-competition has resulted in the production of a work of great artistic value; but any methods calculated to encourage British composers are to be warmly commended. Mr. Charles Manners, in offering a prize of £250, plus other advantages, for the best English opera is deserving of unstinted praise.

The successful competitor, Mr. Colin McAlpin, is a native of Leicester. He studied at the Royal Academy of Music for three years. At our oldest music-school he had as his professor of composition Mr. F. W. Davenport; but he subsequently received guidance in his creative studies from Professor Prout and Mr. Henschel. For the last four years he has held the office of organist at Trinity Presbyterian Church, Clapham, where he is as greatly esteemed for his personal qualities as for his musicianship. Besides the work now under notice, Mr. McAlpin has written an opera entitled 'King Arthur,' a sacred cantata and numerous songs, in addition to some pianoforte and organ music.

The libretto of 'The Cross and the Crescent'—produced by the Moody-Manners Company at Covent Garden on the 22nd ult.—is an arrangement by the composer of Mr. J. Davidson's English translation of François Coppée's tragedy 'Pour la Couronne,' produced by Mr. Forbes Robertson early in 1896 at the Lyceum Theatre. The action takes place in the Balkans about the end of the 15th century, when the Sultan was endeavouring to subjugate Bulgaria. In emotional force the story, which need not be set forth in detail, is one well suited for musical illustration, but the composer has largely adapted Mr. Davidson's blank-verse which, besides being conducive to monotony of rhythm, does not sufficiently provide the necessary lyrical element. There is indeed only one lyric, Militza's 'Butterfly' song, in the whole work.

The Music—Mr. McAlpin has adopted a Wagnerian style, with a certain stiffness of melodic form, but without the leitmotif system. If his themes are somewhat deficient in significance and characterization, his earnestness and industry are distinctly manifest. Moreover, he shows that he has the gift of inventing tuneful phrases. In a word, this opera testifies on the one hand to Mr. McAlpin's talent, and on the other to his, so to speak, natural inexperience; to the loftiness of his aims, and to his present inability to realize them. In all this, however, there is distinct promise. The strongest writing is to be found in the choral portion of the work, in music that is admirably conceived and realistic in style. In the duets between Militza and Constantine there are some charming phrases, and the manly utterances of Michael are well set. The 'Butterfly' song begins well, but its interest diminishes towards the close in proportion as the composer stifles his own individuality by adopting Wagnerian methods. The orchestration is complex, but it is well balanced, and testifies to unsparing pains and musicianly skill.

The interpretation of the opera was chiefly remarkable for the impassioned singing of Madame Fanny Moody as Militza, and Mr. Joseph O'Mara as Constantine. The vivacity and intelligence of the chorus, to whose efforts the genial reception of the opera was in a great measure due, also deserve high praise. The other characters were capably sustained by Miss Toni Seiter as Bazilide, and Messrs. Dillon Shallard, William Dever and Charles Magrath, who severally appeared as Stephen, Michael and Ibrahim. Herr Eckhold conducted.

At the close of the performance the prize was handed by Madame Moody to the composer on the stage amidst hearty and well-deserved applause.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The approaching Triennial Musical Festival places all other undertakings in the background, and until that function is over there will be nothing to report. Choral rehearsals were resumed on August 17, and the second part of Dr. Elgar's oratorio 'The Apostles' was taken in hand two days later. 'The Voyage of Maeldune' rehearsal (on the 14th ult.) was directed by Sir Charles Stanford in person. At the close he expressed himself as being delighted with the work of the chorus, and complimented Mr. R. H. Wilson, the chorumaster. On the 21st ult. Dr. Elgar paid a visit for the purpose of going through the choral portions of his new oratorio. The composer had a fine reception, and the singers gave an admirable reading of 'The Apostles.' There was an enthusiastic demonstration at the close. The constitution of the orchestra as tabulated in last month's MUSICAL TIMES has given rise to some newspaper correspondence, but it is too late to expect any modification or concession to local sentiment on the subject.

The only event calling for notice is the performance of Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' on the 17th ult. at St. Agnes' Church, Cotteridge, King's Norton, with band and chorus. Miss Rosina Buckmann and Mr. T. E. Davies were the principal vocalists, Mr. T. Johnson organist, and Mr. A. E. Walker conductor.

Owing to the Festival, the various concert-giving bodies are late in issuing their prospectuses. It is understood that the Festival Choral Society will open its season with Coleridge-Taylor's 'Scenes from the Song of Hiawatha,' and give Handel's 'Israel in Egypt,' Dvorák's 'The Spectre's Bride,' and some work by Dr. Elgar at later concerts.

The City Choral Society promises Elgar's 'Coronation Ode,' Dvorák's 'Patriotic Hymn,' and Liszt's 'St. Elisabeth.' Messrs. Harrison announce a brilliant array of artists for their concerts, and the engagement of the Queen's Hall Orchestra, with Mr. Henry J. Wood; while Mr. Halford promises many important novelties.

At the annual meeting of the Birmingham Amateur Orchestral Society, held at the Midland Institute on the 17th ult., it was decided that the concerts should be the means of making known the compositions of comparatively untried men. The Society has an unbroken record of more than forty years, and the new policy should attract the attention of young composers.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Most of our musical societies have resumed rehearsals, and in some cases works of much interest will be given during the coming season. The scheme of the Choral and Orchestral Union is practically on the same lines as formerly, and will include eleven orchestral and four choral concerts, and in addition the usual series of Saturday Popular Orchestral Concerts. Dr. Cowen has been re-appointed conductor of the Scottish Orchestra. On the occasions of his absence the performances will be directed by Messrs. Henry Wood, Richard Strauss, and Edouard Colonne. Mr. Henri Verbruggen will occupy the leader's desk in place of Mr. Maurice Sons, who temporarily breaks his connection with the Orchestra.

The Choral Union, conducted by Mr. Joseph Bradley, will give Elgar's 'The Dream of Gerontius,' Haydn's 'Creation,' Brahms's 'Requiem,' and Mendelssohn's 'Walpurgis Night.' The Pollokshields Philharmonic Society, under Mr. John Cullen, makes a departure from the beaten track by taking up Gluck's 'Orpheus,' which, with Stanford's 'The Revenge,' will be performed in association with the Scottish Orchestra. The Glasgow Glee and Madrigal Society, a recently-formed choir, conducted by Mr. B. W. Hartley, has in hand a programme of madrigals, historically arranged, giving examples of the works of Belgian, Italian, and English writers. Later on the Society will essay motets by Palestrina, Tallis, Allegri, &c. The programme of the Glasgow Amateur Orchestral Society's first concert will include Berlioz's 'King Lear' overture, Joncières' 'Sérénade Hongroise,' Beethoven's Symphony in D, and a pianoforte or violin concerto.

The choirs connected with religious societies as usual devote their energies to well-known oratorios. The Young Men's Christian Association Choir, Central Section, will give the 'Messiah' and 'Judas Maccabæus,' the Southern Section, 'Samson,' and the choir of the Sunday School Union 'The Creation,' while 'Elijah' forms the winter's programme of the choir of Renfield Street United Free Church.

Of suburban societies the following arrangements are announced: Cambuslang Choral Union (Mr. Herbert Walton, conductor), 'Elijah,' the 'Messiah' and Stanford's 'The Revenge'; Dumbarton Choral Union (Mr. E. C. Owston, conductor), 'The Creation,' the same work being selected by Hamilton Choral Union (Mr. T. S. Drummond, conductor).

Much success has attended Mr. Herbert Walton's autumn series of organ recitals at the Cathedral. In this the first series of recitals since the enlargement of the organ, Mr. Walton had fitly associated with him Dr. Peace, his predecessor in that premier post, and Sir Walter Parratt, his former teacher at the Royal College of Music. New organs have this month been 'opened' by Dr. Peace in Pollokshields Congregational Church, and by Mr. Thomas Berry in Pollok Street United Free Church.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Time will demonstrate whether the season 1903-4 intends to go out 'like a lion,' but it certainly shows every sign of coming in 'like a lamb.' After a summer of absolute stagnation, even now there is shown no hungry desire to get to work. However, the first Philharmonic Society concert is announced for the 6th inst. The outstanding features of the Society's season are the promise of 'Samson et Dalila' (Saint-Saëns) and the arrangement of two—instead of one as heretofore—'Grand Orchestral Nights' with increased orchestra. Dr. Frederick Cowen will again be at his old post as conductor of the twelve concerts. Mr. H. A. Branscombe is again to act as chorusmaster, whilst the Society's 'affairs' are again safeguarded by business-like Mr. George Broadbent, the Secretary, who has rendered Trojan service for an organization now just about to enter upon its sixty-fifth season.

I am given to understand that the forthcoming season of the Orchestral Society is likely to prove no less satisfying than those which have preceded it. Mr. A. E. Rodewald has done so much for music in these parts that one would like to see his good work meet with even ampler reward in the time to come than it has done in the past.

Mr. Henry J. Wood will bring his orchestra in February; at this concert Miss Marie Hall and Mrs. Henry J. Wood will also appear. Dr. Richter is announced to give us three programmes during the opening months of next year.

The Societa Armonica, an organization of high artistic worth, again puts forward a scheme of singular interest, under the direction of Mr. Vasco Akeroyd; Mr. Theodore Lawson has made some interesting plans for his usual series of chamber concerts; and Mr. Ernst Schiever promises us that he will again be responsible for several 'string quartette' programmes.

The Wirral Amateur Orchestral Society (conductor Mr. Ernst Schiever) is shortly to put several important works into rehearsal.

The Liverpool Musical Society (conductor Mr. D. O. Parry) has prepared a comprehensive scheme, and the Liscard Orchestral Society, under the direction of Mr. Philip Smart, will give several concerts during the season.

Series of concerts will also be forthcoming by the North Liverpool Choral Society, the Aintree Musical Society, the Liverpool Post Office Choral Society, the Walton Breck Musical Society, and the Cymric Vocal Union.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Competition Festivals are growing more and more popular in North Lancashire. Fired by the example of Morecambe, musical Blackpool has established an annual competition, which will be held for the third time on the 8th, 9th, and 10th of this month. The latest addition to such meetings is due to the enterprise of Lytham, near Blackpool, where the first festival was announced to be held on the 25th and 26th ult. In Manchester a season that promises to be the busiest on record will be in full swing before the end of the month. The most important of the established Manchester series are the Hallé and Brodsky concerts, the one taking the lead in orchestral and choral, the other in chamber music; the Brand Lane concerts held on Saturday evenings with choral pieces by the Philharmonic Choir (on festival scale) and with many miscellaneous solo performances by 'stars'; the Gentlemen's concerts, some with small orchestra, others taking the form of recitals; concerts of the Manchester Vocal Society (conductor, Dr. Watson), which is a choir on a smaller scale than the Hallé and Brand Lane organizations; and the Schiller Anstalt concerts, managed by Mr. Fuchs, which vary in character, but are never orchestral. The announcements show that all these concert institutions will be in full activity during the coming season.

The concerts given usually on certain Wednesday evenings by Mr. Percy Harrison, of Birmingham, acquire a special importance this season through the engagement of Mr. Wood and the Queen's Hall Orchestra for the one to be held on February 10, 1904. A series to be called the Ladies Concerts is announced to be given at the Midland New Hotel. They are to be held three times a week, beginning on the 7th inst., and are under the management of Messrs. Broadwood. The Brodsky Quartet concerts will also be held in the Midland Hall, the subscription being raised to meet the cost of the change to a much more luxurious room. On the 8th inst. Miss Nora Meredith, a singer who went through the greater part of her training in Manchester, gives an evening recital in the same hall.

In the Hallé scheme for the season the choral works represent the following composers:—Bach, Handel, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Berlioz, and Elgar (twice); and there is to be an operatic evening, with extracts from Wagner, Beethoven, and Cornelius. Works to be given for the first time at these concerts are 'Prinz Igor' overture (Borodine), 7th Symphony (Bruckner), Symphony (Glass), 'Maurische Rhapsodie' (Humperdinck), Symphonic Variations (Parry), Symphonic Poem 'Sarka' (Smetana), 'Also sprach Zarathustra' (Strauss), and Overture 'Die Feen' (Wagner). There seems to be something less than entire certainty that the Parry Variations have never been heard here before. The pianists engaged include Messrs. Busoni, Godowsky, and Lamond; the violinists, Dr. Brodsky, M. Kreisler, and Lady Hallé.

MUSIC IN NEWCASTLE.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

CONVENTION OF MUSIC TEACHERS.

Popular music instruction in the Newcastle district received a distinct impetus and encouragement by the meetings of the convention of music teachers, held here on the 10th, 11th, and 12th ult., under the general presidency of Mr. J. Spencer Curwen. Professional gatherings of musicians fulfil a good purpose, but here we had a large number of amateurs mixing in friendly conference with well-known professional men gathered from various parts of the kingdom. It is on such occasions that one realizes how greatly musical propaganda depends upon the enthusiasm of amateurs and their desire to do something for themselves and for others. The Newcastle district can claim a special distinction in keenness, for I understand that at no previous conventions of this kind, held at other provincial towns, was the attendance so uniformly good and the interest so well maintained.

The papers read during the conference—which was held in the Lecture Theatre of the Literary Philosophical Society—were nearly all of a practical character. Mr. W. J. Kidner (Bristol) liberally gave away his excellent ideas on the formation and management of male-voice choirs; Dr. Warriner philosophised on 'efficiency and success as a teacher of music'; Mrs. Curwen, whose apostleship of rationality in pianoforte teaching is well known, dealt with her favourite topic in her usual lucid style; Dr. Fisher (Blackpool) also spoke on matters connected with pianoforte playing; Mr. Newton Laycock (Gateshead), Mr. W. D. Oliver (Newcastle), Mr. Henry J. Finney (London), Mr. W. Harding Bonner (London), Mr. R. L. Reid (Glasgow), all dealt with school music teaching.

Choirs were catered for by Dr. Coward, who gave an address on the tendencies of modern music, with special reference to Choral Singing, and by Mr. L. C. Venables, who gave a Lantern Lecture on the Aid to Choirmasters afforded by the Tonic Sol-fa notation. Mr. S. Filmer Rook (London), gave the audience a free lesson in Breathing and Resonance, and Mr. N. Kilburn (Bishop Auckland), read a paper on Music in Home, Hall and Church. Finally, and very happily, Mr. R. Oliver Heslop, who has more than local fame as an antiquary, gave a most entertaining and instructive lecture on 'Folk Songs and Melodies of Northumbria.'

Among the Chairmen at the various meetings we had Mr. C. Francis Lloyd (Sunderland), and Dr. Huntley.

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Sacred Harmonic Society has issued a programme which should satisfy its most rigid critics. Three concerts will be given as usual, in addition to the annual performance of the 'Messiah' on Boxing Day, and the works selected for performance include Sullivan's 'Golden Legend,' Handel's 'Judas,' and Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha' trilogy.

The Nottingham Orchestral Concerts, under the same management, will perform Mozart's G minor and Brahms's D major Symphonies. Mr. Allen Gill retains the direction of both series.

West Bridgford, a growing suburb of Nottingham, possesses a Choral Society which intends to give Haydn's 'Creation,' Elgar's 'Banner of St. George,' and Leoni's 'Gate of Life' during the coming season.

In the field of chamber music, Miss Cantelo issues an attractive programme with such names as Mr. Louis Pecskaï, Mr. Willy Hess, and the Kruse Quartet, for her seventh season in Nottingham.

At Leicester the New Musical Society has issued a very interesting scheme, which includes Gounod's 'Messe Solennelle,' Cowen's 'St. John's Eve,' and Dr. Crotch's 'Palestine,' a work that is very rarely performed.

The Philharmonic Society at Grantham intends to give a performance of Handel's 'Israel' and Smart's 'Bride of Dunkerron.' The Sleaford Society is not unlikely to resume its practices with Gade's 'Crusaders,' which it was unable to perform last season.

The Loughborough Philharmonic Society will put 'Acis and Galatea' in rehearsal. The Stapleford Choral Society has arranged dates for the 'Messiah,' 'Elijah,' and Jaxon's 'Story of Elaine.'

The Boston Society has commenced rehearsals of Haydn's 'Creation' for their first concert.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The results of the September meetings of the various musical societies indicate no diminution of activity in the doings of choral organizations of the city and district. The Sheffield Musical Union (Dr. Coward) issues a comprehensive syllabus which includes performances of 'The Dream of Gerontius' (November 17), the 'Messiah' (December 15), and Mackenzie's 'The Dream of Jubal' (March 22, 1904). The Sheffield Orchestra, which suspended operations during last season, has been secured for all three concerts.

The Sheffield Amateur Musical Society (Mr. Schollhammer) announces Dvorák's 'Stabat Mater' and Spohr's 'God, Thou art great' for December 21.

The Sheffield Choral Union (Mr. J. Duffell) has recommenced rehearsals with Parry's 'Blest Pair of Sirens,' and the Sheffield Male Glee and Madrigal Society (Mr. J. A. Rodgers) is preparing a varied programme of unaccompanied music in addition to Mendelssohn's 'To the Sons of Art.'

Among the numerous suburban and district societies there is no lack of enterprise. A new body, the Heeley Musical Union (Mr. M. Tomlinson), comes forward with Coward's 'Story of Bethany' and Gadsby's 'Lord of the Isles'; the St. Peter's (Abbeydale) Choral Society (Mr. William Gadsby) announces Gade's 'The Crusaders.' The Penistone and District Choral Society (Mr. J. Cooper) has in hand Handel's 'Judas Maccabæus' and Mendelssohn's 'Hear my prayer'; while the Burngreave Choral Society (Mr. H. C. Jackson) promises Costa's 'Eli,' Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' and the 'Messiah.' The Doncaster Choral Society (Mr. T. Brameld) offers its patrons Elgar's 'King Olaf' and Coleridge-Taylor's 'Meg Blane.' Later on they will join forces with the Rotherham Choral Society and give Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha' trilogy.

The Barnsley St. Cecilia Society (Dr. Coward) favours both ancient and modern in Handel's 'Acis and Galatea' (December 17) and Elgar's 'King Olaf' (March 24, 1904). The Norton Lees Choral Society (Mr. Horace Reynolds) has selected Smart's 'Bride of Dunkerron,' and the Chapelton and District Sacred Harmonic Society (Mr. T. Bool) Handel's 'Judas Maccabæus.' At Worksop, the Musical Society (Mr. Hamilton White) announces Mackenzie's 'The Bride,' Van Bree's 'St. Cecilia's Day,' Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha,' and Stanford's 'Phaenix Coohero.' The Hoyland Common Choral Society (Mr. C. R. Senior) is busy with Handel's 'Acis and Galatea' and the 'Messiah.'

Obituary.

Among the deaths which have recently taken place we have to record with regret the following: On August 30, at Doncaster, aged 77, Mr. SAMUEL MEACOCK, J.P., head of the old-established firm of Messrs. S. Meacock and Son, music-dealers and organ-builders in that town. Mr. Meacock served with distinction the office of Mayor in 1880, and as a Justice of the Peace of Doncaster and Chairman of the Wheatley School Board he discharged important public duties with the same zeal that characterized his business aptitude.—On the 13th ult. Mrs. ROBERT BARNBY, widow of Robert Barnby, a distinguished alto singer—a former gentleman of the Chapel Royal and a Vicar-Choral of Westminster Abbey—who died in 1875. Mrs. Barnby was a sister of the late James Coward, for many years organist of the Crystal Palace, and sister-in-law of the late Sir Joseph Barnby.—Mr. THOMAS ANDERTON died at his home at Edgbaston on the 18th ult. He was formerly a prominent figure in the musical life of Birmingham as a journalist, lecturer, concert-giver, and composer. In the latter capacity he was perhaps best known by his cantata 'The Wreck of the Hesperus'; a similar work, entitled 'Yule Tide,' was produced at the Birmingham Festival of 1885. Mr. Anderton was born in Birmingham, April 15, 1836.

The Amateur Chamber Music Society has issued an interesting prospectus for the coming season. Among the works announced are the following, which have never been publicly performed in England: Sextet by Quef, Divertimento by Mozart, Quintet by Austin, and Serenade by Jadasohn. The President of the Society is Dr. W. H. Cummings, while its musical direction is safe in the competent hands of Mr. George A. Clinton. The Hon. Secretary is Mr. A. M. Donald, 57, Chestnut Road, West Norwood.

Miscellaneous.

Mr. Fred W. Meir, Secretary of the North Staffordshire District Choral Society, writes:—

'On reading a report of the Royal National Eisteddfod contained in the current issue of the "Musical Herald," I am amazed to find the following statement:—"Two days previously the fine North Staffordshire choir were beaten at Corwen." Now these words are very misleading. One cannot for a moment think that the writer of the notice is ignorant of the fact that there is more than one choir or choral society in North Staffordshire to which his remarks may be applied. Therefore, in justice to the North Staffordshire District Choral Society, of which Mr. James Whewall is the conductor, permit me to say that this Society does not take part in those minor or local Eisteddfodau which are promoted chiefly to create and maintain local vocal interest—all honour to the promoters and their object. The only Eisteddfodau at which the North Staffordshire Choral Society have competed are those of the Royal National of 1901 and 1902, held at Merthyr and Bangor respectively, with, I am glad to say, successful results on each occasion in gaining the chief honours. Let me add that too much cannot be said in praise of the reception of us by our Welsh friends on both occasions.'

Two prize competitions form a feature of the second Dover Musical Festival to be held in May, 1904. The first is a prize of ten pounds for a Choral Ballad for chorus and orchestra, to occupy about ten minutes in performance; the second, for the same amount, is for an organ overture, for organ solo with accompaniment of strings, brass, and drums. All particulars may be obtained of Mr. H. J. Taylor, Borough Organist, Town Hall, Dover.

The Kimberley Musical Association gave their second concert on August 26. The chief item was Scenes from 'The Lady of the Lake' by James Thomson, which met with a very favourable reception, three numbers being encored. The leading (soprano) soloist was Mrs. A. H. Ashworth. Other items were Dudley Buck's 'Hymn to Music,' Thomas's Overture 'Raymond,' and Elgar's 'Pomp and Circumstance' marches. The concerts are under the direction of Mr. J. Frank Proudman.

A Grand Choir Eisteddfod is announced to be given in Queen's Hall in February next, when various musical competitions will be held, including one for male voices (prize, £50) and one for mixed voices (prize, £30), &c. All particulars may be obtained from the Hon. Sec., Mr. David R. Hughes, 49, Hailsham Avenue, Streatham Hill.

Professor Johann Kruse has engaged Mr. Hobday, the well-known viola player, for his Quartet, in place of Mr. A. E. Féris, who is about to leave London for Boston. The Kruse Quartet will now consist entirely of British musicians, Professor Kruse himself having been born in Melbourne, Australia.

The Royal Choral Society will perform the following works during the coming season:—'Elijah,' 'Messiah,' 'Israel in Egypt,' 'The Song of Hiawatha,' 'The Atonement' (Coleridge-Taylor), 'War and Peace' (Parry), and 'Callirhoë' (Bridge).

The Memoirs of Hector Berlioz, in a new translation by Miss Katharine F. Boulton, will shortly be issued by Messrs. Dent in their 'Temple Autobiographies' series.

Mr. Frank Tours is conducting the orchestra at Daly's Theatre, New York, with great success.

Foreign Notes.

BERLIN.

The Stern Choral Society will perform this season Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' on the anniversary of the composer's death, Bach's cantata 'Ein' feste Burg,' Enrico Bossi's 'Hohes Lied,' and Beethoven's 'Missa solemnis'; the last-named work, by-the-way, is also included in the present concert scheme of the Singakademie.—The Philharmonic Choir, under the direction of Siegfried Ochs, will perform Bach's B minor Mass, the Requiems of Berlioz and Brahms, and, by way of novelty, some choruses of Hugo Wolf. —Victor Holländer's operetta 'König Rampsinit' has been given here several times with considerable success. A new work of the same kind, 'Der Sonnenvogel,' has been produced here by a travelling Viennese company and favourably received.

BORNES.

A public square has been named after the veteran composer Ernst Reyer, who spends the summer here in his charming castle. M. Georges Leygues, former Minister of Fine-Arts, was announced to preside over the ceremony of inauguration on the 20th ult. It is not often that composers are thus honoured during their lifetime.

BOULOGNE-SUR-MER.

Last month a Massenet festival-concert was given at the Casino under the direction of M. Gaston Coste. The hall was crowded, and great enthusiasm prevailed throughout the evening. The programme included among other works the 'Phédre' overture, the 'Herodiade' prelude, the orchestral suite 'Les Erinnyes,' and the 'Scènes alsaciennes.'

CARLSRUHE.

In memory of Johann Wenzel Kalliwoda, the Town Council will place a memorial tablet over the house in which he died on December 3, 1866. Of this once popular composer little except the name is known. He wrote seven symphonies, and of the Fifth, Schumann spoke in terms of praise; moreover, he dedicated to him his Intermezzi (Op. 4).

COLOGNE.

The interesting programme for the season at the Stadttheater under the new direction of Otto Purschian includes Berlioz's 'Faust' and 'Benvenuto Cellini,' Hugo Wolf's 'Corregidor,' Massenet's 'Werther,' Pfitzner's 'Rose vom Liebesgarten,' Gluck's two 'Iphigenias,' and Weber's one-act 'Abu Hassan.' We should like to hear some of these operas in London.

COPENHAGEN.

August Enna, the Danish composer, author of 'The Witch,' 'Cleopatra,' &c., has just completed a new opera, 'The Death of Antony,' which is to be produced here during the forthcoming season.

CÔTE-SAINT-ANDRÉ.

On the Sunday after the festival at Grenoble, the small town in which Berlioz was born paid—though in humbler, if perhaps in more heart-felt manner—its homage to the master. Berlioz is represented there by a statue, a copy of the one set up in the Place Vintimille, Paris, and on the day in question a Berlioz museum was inaugurated in the very house in which the composer was born. It contains the romances with guitar accompaniment written by him in early youth, and other autographs; the crown of massive silver sent in 1861 to Berlioz from Hungary; the score of 'Roméo et Juliette' presented to the King of Prussia. MM. Ernst Reyer, the old friend of the master, and Saint-Saëns were both expected to be present at the opening ceremony, but both excused themselves, the one on the ground of advanced age, the other of fatigue caused by the performances at Béziers. Their absence was the subject of general regret. Performances were given in the evening of the 'Carnaval Romain' overture, fragments from 'Harold en Italie' and 'L'Enfance du Christ,' and the 'Hungarian' and 'Hamlet' Marches.

THE HAGUE.

The Netherland Society of Composers offers a prize of 1,000 gulden for an oratorio (soli, chorus and orchestra) set to Dutch, German, or Latin text. It is open to Dutchmen whether living at home or abroad. Manuscripts must be sent in before September 1 to the secretary, Herr Ackermann, Konigin Emmakade 105, s'Gravenhage, from whom also further information may be obtained.

LEIPZIG.

The firm of Lauterbach and Kuhn will shortly publish Hugo Wolf's symphonic poem 'Penthesilea,' the hymn 'Christnacht' for chorus, soli and orchestra, the stringed quartet in D minor with the superscription 'Entbehren sollst Du, sollst entbehren,' the first movement of an Italian Serenade, and a cycle of songs.

MAINZ.

A four-days' festival is to be held here in the spring of 1904 by the Kaim Orchestra of Munich, under the direction of M. Kufferath. The first concert will be devoted to Berlioz, the second to Schumann, Mendelssohn and Brahms, the third to Schubert and Weber, and the fourth to Beethoven.

MUNICH.

The question of a successor to the late Hermann Zumpe is being discussed. The name of Gustav Mahler has been mentioned, but it seems doubtful whether he would leave the Court Opera at Vienna.

PARIS.

M. A. Carré we imagine has some scheme sur le tapis for the Berlioz Centenary in December. A writer in Le Monde Musical suggests that on such an occasion he could not place 'Les Troyens' and perhaps 'Benvenuto Cellini' in better hands than those of M. Bruneau, who, by-the-way, entered upon his duties at the Opéra Comique in September by conducting 'Carmen.' The autumn season commenced on August 26 with Charpentier's 'Louise,' under the conductorship of Messager, when notwithstanding the great heat the theatre was crowded. M. Carré, who hitherto has complied with the condition requiring him to have ten performances every year at popular prices, has offered to the Minister of Fine-Arts to give them every Monday, excepting during the holidays. The first, on the 7th ult., was 'Le Domino Noir.' This excellent scheme will meet with general approval.—The Châtelet concerts under the direction of M. Edouard Colonne recommence the 18th inst.—A Berlioz cycle is to be given in December.

ST. PETERSBURG.

The Russian Opera will commence its winter season at the Conservatorium on the 14th inst. The management only gives Russian operas. Novelties by Sserow ('Judith'), Inferow ('Antony and Cleopatra'), Rimsky-Korsakow, &c., will be produced.—During the month of August performances of Rubinstein's 'Nero' were given at the Imperial Theatre.

Answers to Correspondents.

KATHLEEN.—(1) We sympathise with you in your difficulty, and admire your determination to improve your ear and musicianship. You are young, so do not despair, or regard yourself as 'a hopeless case.' As the first step in the right direction, join a tonic sol-fa singing-class under a good teacher, and derive all the benefit you can from the ear-training advantages of the system and its remarkable results, and let us know how you get on. We are glad to hear that you are 'very fond of Music (with a capital M),' and we hope that you will soon make Capital (with a capital C) progress. (2) For arrangements for a two-manual organ of favourite airs from the oratorios of Handel and Mendelssohn try the following:—Airs from 'Elijah' (Books 1 and 2), and four airs from 'St. Paul,' all arranged by George Calkin; 'I know that my Redeemer liveth' and 'Rejoice greatly,' arranged by Westbrook; 'Angels ever bright and fair,' 'Return, O Lord of Hosts,' and 'Lord, remember David,' arranged by Dunstan.

DORA.—No wonder you enjoy accompanying your friend—especially if he be a special friend—when he sings Hatton's glorious song 'To Anthea.' Who would not? You ask for 'any kind of history about it.' Well, you probably know that the words, no less delightful than the music associated with them, are by Robert Herrick (1591-1674), of whom it has been truly said: 'the fresh fragrance of English meadows lives in his verse, and will beget perpetual delight as long as English literature is read.' The earliest known setting of 'To Anthea' is by Henry Lawes, which appeared in John Playford's 'Treasury of Music,' 1699, where the song is entitled 'Love's Votary.' Hatton's setting was first published in 1850, yet it is as fresh to-day as when it was written. In the preface to a volume of Herrick's songs set to music by Hatton, the composer says: 'The songs forming the contents of this volume were written at different times and under various circumstances. Some few of them were composed previous to my departure to America in the autumn of the year 1848, and presented as little souvenirs to several of my friends on leaving England. The rest, with one exception, I wrote out entirely for my own amusement during the time I was away, and all of them were composed without any view to their publication. This statement I think it necessary to make in order to account for the fragmentary, scrap-like form of some of them. On my return to England I was urged by one of my friends, who was cognisant of what I had done, to make a complete collection of these little compositions, and publish them in a consolidated form. The kindness of my friends in returning me some of my MSS. has enabled me to do this, and I now send these songs forth into the world, satisfied if they should be the means, in however humble a degree, of adding to the material of musical enjoyment, or of contributing anything to the regeneration of the popular taste in an important department of chamber music. London, August, 1850.' John Liptrot Hatton—who published many of his songs under the pseudonym of Czapek, in order to make it appear as if they were the product of a foreigner!—was born at Liverpool in 1809, a memorable year as being that in which Mendelssohn, Tennyson, and Gladstone made their several entrances into the world. In playing the accompaniment to 'To Anthea,' let it go; never mind your friend's breath, or the want of it! He'll 'live and die for thee.'

HOPE.—For your violinist friend 'who has played Brahms and is capable of a really good thing, though he cannot execute enormous difficulties,' we venture to recommend the following 'good compositions for the violin': Fantasie espagnole, Lalo; Concerto romantique, Godard; Suite and Sonata, Sinding; Sonata in G minor, Sjögren; Sonata (Op. 35), Grädener; Sonata (Op. 18) and Concerto, Richard Strauss; Sonata grazioso (Op. 119), Huber; Sonata (Op. 1), Wolf-Ferrari.

WINDSORITE.—(1) Stopped diapason and Principal seem to be necessary for a proper complement of stops on the swell manual. The solitary pedal stop (Bourdon) must surely be of 16-ft., not 8-ft. pitch. (2) Your range of study, though not without some good features, has been rather limited. Why not take some lessons of a good teacher? This would not only give you a fresh stimulus, but you would also obtain the advice you need for your studies better than we could give it to you.

H. J. B.—The words you submit to us—'humbled' and 'sprinkled'—are really not so difficult of pronunciation in singing as you seem to think if they are uttered naturally with emphasis on the first syllable and an unaffected enunciation of the final consonant. You would make far too much of the second and unaccented syllable by singing 'hum-boold,' and 'sprin-koold' (in the latter distorting the word); and what shall be said of 'hum-bled' and 'sprin-kled'?

T. F. H.—(1) The old German cradle song 'Schlaf, Kindchen, schlaf,' is published in a volume of Wiegenlieder edited by Friedländer, and published in the Peters edition. (2) The title of the German students' song you require (of which you send us the refrain) is 'Mädchens Klage,' composed by Düringer.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS—continued.

AJAX.—Open Scholarships, either with or without maintenance, are annually competed for at the Royal College of Music, and similar benefactions (without maintenance) are obtainable at the Royal Academy of Music. As your daughter has done so well at the Associated Board Examination, she should feel encouraged to compete for one of these scholarships. There is no need for her to go to Germany to study music.

J. F. M.—(1) We are sorry that we cannot trace the Vesper Hymn you send us. (2) Your surmise proves to be correct. The tune No. 599 in the Hymnary, set to the words 'Christian, dost thou see them?' though there stated to be by an anonymous composer, is by Joseph Barnby. The same may be said of No. 460 in the same book. See his collected tunes, now published in one volume.

TEN YEARS' READER.—Your diploma of L.R.A.M. and long pupillage should help you in obtaining a post such as you desire. We cannot think of any other way of advising you than in advertising and making application by letter to likely Principals of schools. As you live in a music-loving district you will doubtless find frequent opportunities of making yourself known.

H. G.—Haydn's Hymn to the Emperor (The Austrian National Hymn) forms the theme (with variations) of the slow movement of his String Quartet, Op. 76, No. 3. A reliable arrangement for the pianoforte, keeping as nearly as possible to the original form of the movement, may be obtained from Messrs. Novello.

H. J. G.—Go to a skilful oculist without delay. You would find one at Birmingham, if there should not be one in your own town upon whom you could rely. State your case fully and be careful, or the consequences might be serious.

G. C.—The following church cantatas will be found suitable for performance during Advent: The two Advents (Garrett), Advent Hymn (Schumann), Blessed are they who watch (Blair), and The Second Advent (Prendergast).

HILDA.—We have not yet heard of any examination for performers on the pianola, but the testing time for pianolaists will doubtless come in time. What a time the examiners will have!

W. F. M.—(1) We cannot differentiate between the diplomas—such as they are—you mention. (2) Yes, at Trinity College, London. (3) Bridge and Sawyer's 'Course of Harmony' would certainly be of use to you.

VALSE LENTE—When a footman was asked: 'Is life worth living?' he replied: 'It all depends upon the livery.' The analogy will apply to your pianoforte interrogation: it all depends upon the piano.

W. H. G.—A letter addressed to Dr. Dvorák at the Conservatorium, Prague, would doubtless reach the composer of 'The Spectre's Bride.'

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS' READER.—Yes, by all means tell the examiners of your physical defect, for which they would surely make allowances.

W. P.—Do you mean gentlemen singers, or lady singers; singers alive, or singers dead?

CONTENTS.

	Page
Bangor and its Cathedral (Illustrated)	641
Vincent Novello (with Portrait of J. Alfred Novello)	650
Berlioz in England (with Caricature)	654
Dr. Elgar's Oratorio, 'The Apostles'	656
Occasional Notes	657
Cathedrals and Churches in North Germany (Illustrated)	659
Dublin Handeliana and a Hospital	661
Church and Organ Music (Illustrated)	663
Reviews	669
Hereford Musical Festival	670
Promenade Concerts	672
English Opera and a New Opera	672
Music in Birmingham	673
„ Glasgow	673
„ Liverpool and District	674
„ Manchester and District	674
„ Newcastle	674
„ Nottingham and District	675
„ Sheffield and District	675
Obituary	675
Miscellaneous	676
Foreign Notes	676
Answers to Correspondents	677
Four-part Song—'Fair daffodils.'—Arthur Sullivan	665

TWO extra Supplements are issued with the present number:—

1. Portrait of Dr. Joseph Pring, Organist of Bangor Cathedral from 1793 to 1842.

2. Part-Song 'The Message Bringers'—H. Waldo Warner.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., LIMITED.

BRADLEY, CHARLES L.—Two Songs: 1. "Song of the Ocean"; 2. "Song of the road." For Tenor. 2s.

BRIDGE, J. F.—The Nicene Creed. In Monotone, with organ accompaniment (reciting note F). (No. 198.* Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1½d.

CREE, Rev. E. D.—"Hark, boys, hark." Eastbourne College Cadets' Song. 6d.

ELGAR, EDWARD—Funeral March from the music to "Grania and Diarmid." (No. 2. Organ Arrangements by A. HERBERT BREWER.) 2s.

FANING, EATON—"Except the Lord build the house." Anthem, for general use. (No. 771. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

FAULKES, WILLIAM—Nocturne in A (No. 29. Recital Series of Original Compositions for the Organ. Edited by EDWIN H. LEMARE.) 2s.

FETHERSTON, Rev. Sir G. R.—"O evening Star, that lightenest all." Hymn. 2d.

HERVEY, ARTHUR—"Youth." A Concert Overture, for Orchestra. Pianoforte Arrangement. 2s. 6d.

HOBY, CHARLES—"Under the greenwood tree." Two-part Song, for Female Voices. (No. 127. Novello's Octavo Edition of Two-part Songs.) 3d.

—"Barcarolle." Two-part Song, for Female Voices. (No. 128. Novello's Octavo Edition of Two-part Songs.) 2d.

JARVIS, Rev. F. A.—"Just as I am, without one plea." Anthem, for Tenor Solo and Chorus. 2d.

JORDAN, WARWICK—"The Saints of God." Short Anthem, for Saints' Days. 3d.

LITANY, as sung in Salisbury Cathedral. On Card. 2d.

MARKS, J. CHRISTOPHER—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, in B flat. (No. 639. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

MC EWEN, JOHN B.—String Quartet, in A minor. Score, 5s.

STEDMAN'S MUSICAL AGENCY

(MRS. JOHN STEDMAN AND SYDNEY BAYNES)
(Established 1877).

Artists for Opera, Theatre, Oratorio, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Choruses, Choir Boys and Girls,
Singing Lessons and Coaching,
58, Berners Street, W.

SOUTH PLACE ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY

SOUTH PLACE INSTITUTE, SOUTH PLACE, FINSBURY, E.C.

(Seventh Season, 1903-4.)

Practices weekly, on Friday evenings, from 7 to 9. Concerts on Sundays, December 20 and March 27. Hon. Conductor, T. Eustace Barbalet.

Subscription for Season: Ladies, 8s.; Gentlemen, ros.; Entrance Fee, 2s. 6d.

Instrumentalists are invited to apply on Friday evenings at the practices, or write to the Hon. Sec.,

A. J. CLEMENTS, 25, Camden Road, N.W.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

MOELLENDORFF, W. VON—"A Song of Summer" (Pfungsten). Part-Song, for S.A.T.B. English and German words. (No. 925. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

PARRY, C. HUBERT H.—"War and Peace." Vocal Parts, 1s. each.

PARRY, E. MORANT—Te Deum laudamus, in B flat. 3d.

PEARSALL, R. L. DE—"Sir Patrick Spens." A Ballad-Dialogue, for Double Chorus. Edited and arranged for Eight Voices by G. J. BENNETT. (No. 929. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 4d.

ROBERTS, J. VARLEY—The Lord's Prayer and Apostles' Creed. In Monotone, with Organ Accompaniment (reciting note, F). (No. 167*. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1½d.

— The Nicene Creed. In Monotone, with Organ Accompaniment (reciting note, F). (No. 168.* Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1½d.

ROLLASON, F.—"Jesu! Fount of Love." Chorus, for S.A.T.B., from "Stood the mournful Mother weeping." 1½d.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 136. Contains the following Music in both Notations: "Lovely night." Trio (unaccompanied) for S.S.A. Composed by F. X. Chwatal. "Harvest Home." Two-part Song by Percy E. Fletcher. 1½d.

SCHOOL SONGS—Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo; B. Voice parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

- | | A. | B. |
|--|------------------|----------|
| No. 728. Under the greenwood tree. Two-part Song .. | CHARLES HOBY | 2d. — |
| " 729. Barcarolle. Two-part Song .. | CHARLES HOBY | 2d. — |
| " 756. Softly the moonlight. Serenade, for Four Female Voices .. | F. ILIFFE | 3d. 1½d. |
| " 760. Clouds o'er the summer sky. Two-part Canon .. | GUSTAV VON HOLST | 1½d. — |
| " 767. Boys of our Empire. Unison Patriotic Song .. | WALTER BROOKS | 2d. — |

SMITH, JAMES—"There is a land of pure delight." Sacred Song. No. 1, in F, for Soprano or Tenor, 2s.

—"There is a land of pure delight." Anthem. 3d.

SULLIVAN, ARTHUR—"Fair Daffodils." Part-Song, for S.A.T.B. (No. 728. The Musical Times.) 1½d.

THOMAS, VINCENT—"The Arch-Druid's Song." For Baritone. From Act III. of "Eos and Gwenvril." 2s.

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES—Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT:—

- | | | |
|---|-----------------|------|
| No. 1325. In absence (T.T.B.B.) .. | DUDLEY BUCK | 1d. |
| " 1326. Evening (A.T.T.B.) .. | H. LESLIE | 1d. |
| " 1328. Evening (S.A.T.B.) .. | H. LESLIE | 1d. |
| " 1329. Song of the flax-spinner .. | HENRY LESLIE | 1½d. |
| " 1330. Welcome Spring .. | H. LESLIE | 1d. |
| " 1331. Hail to the Chief .. | H. LESLIE | 1½d. |
| " 1332. How dark, O Lord, are Thy decrees (from "Jephtha") .. | HANDEL | 1d. |
| " 1335. Hide not Thou Thy face .. | RICHARD FARRANT | 1d. |
| " 1336. Almighty God, Who hast me brought .. | THOMAS FORD | 1d. |

VILLAGE CHANT BOOK. No. 1, containing 100 Single Chants .. 4d.

— No. 2, containing 50 Double Chants .. 4d.

TOURS, FRANK E.—Three Dances. Arranged for the Pianoforte. 2s.

WENDT, TH.—Gavotte and Musette. 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello and Bass, 1s.

— Valse Mélancolique. 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello and Bass, 1s.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

Two Lines	£ s. d.
Three Lines	0 3 0
For every additional Line	0 3 4
Half a Column	0 0 10
A Column	2 0 0
A Page	4 0 0
	7 10 0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in their proper positions, Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W., NOT LATER than OCTOBER 22.

MISS MABEL PARTRIDGE (Soprano).

Concerts, Dinners, &c. (Expenses only.)

Address, 26, Park Terrace, Broadwater Road, Tottenham.

MISS GERTRUDE HEY (Contralto)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

Lawn Side, Clarendon Road, Whalley Range, Manchester.

MR. HENRY PLEVY

(TENOR)

(Of the Beethoven Festival, Queen's Hall Choral and Crystal Palace Concerts.)

Solo Tenor, Christ Church, Lancaster Gate.

Address: 30, Hamilton Gardens, N.W.

MISS WINNIE HEMMING

(THE FAMOUS CHILD SOLO HARPIST)

Of the Royal Albert Hall, Queen's Hall, St. James's Hall, London and Provincial Concerts.

Can accept a limited number of ENGAGEMENTS for Concerts, Festivals, Banquets, Bazaars, &c.

Address, 21, Endlesham Road, Balham, S.W.

"A prodigy."—The Times.

"A prodigy."—Daily Telegraph.

"Played with marvellous execution and expression."—Morning Post.

LESSONS given in Elementary and the Higher Development of HARP-PLAYING, by Mr. SIDNEY HEMMING. Address as above.

WINCHESTER CATHEDRAL.—There are VACANCIES for CHORISTERS and PROBATIONERS, Boarders or Day Scholars. Applications to be sent immediately to the Precentor.

SOLO BOY.—Holy Trinity Church, West Hill, Wandsworth. Good salary given to capable boy. Light duties. Apply, Mr. Henry W. Weston, Mus. B., 59, West Hill, Wandsworth, S.W.

TENOR WANTED, for St. John's Church, Ladbrooke Grove. Salary, £12. Apply, Arnold Birch, 28, Birch Grove, Ealing Common.

TENOR WANTED, for Essex Church, Kensington. Light duties. Near Tube. Salary, £20 a year. Apply, A. Joll, 37, Bark Place, Bayswater.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, St. Luke's Church, Hillmorton Road, N. Salary, £60. Apply by letter, marked "Organist," stating experience and qualifications, Vicarage, Penn Road, N.

WANTED, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, at the Old Independent Church, Haverhill. Salary, £50. Nearly new three-manual Organ by BINNS. Applications, with testimonials, to T. Jarvis, Haverhill, Suffolk.

WANTED, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Large Church; Choral Services. Mus. Bac. or F.R.C.O. Salary, £70. Rev. H. Bircham, St. Paul's Vicarage, Southsea.

ORGANIST.—The Rev. FRANK S. W. NICHOLSON would be glad to meet with a Gentleman willing to assist him, by acting as Organist and Choirmaster, at John Street Chapel, Bedford Row, W.C. Good Organ. Small honorarium given.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER desires APPOINTMENT (Mus. Bac.). Experienced; successful Choir Trainer. Excellent testimonials. Alpha, c/o Saward, Baker & Co., 188, Strand, W.C.

FIRST-CLASS SALESMAN-TUNER desires RE-ENGAGEMENT. Is a thoroughly practical man. Highest references. South of England. Thoroughly respectable, and good address; connected with last employers 13 years. Normal, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

PUBLISHED ON THE 1ST OF EVERY MONTH. Price 1½d.
ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, INCLUDING POSTAGE, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW FOR OCTOBER CONTAINS:—

GENERAL NOTES.

LESSONS ON THE RUDIMENTS OF MUSIC.

THE HARMONIZATION OF MELODIES IN FOUR VOCAL PARTS. By CUTHBERT HARRIS.

SCHOOL MUSIC IN CAPE COLONY.

THEORY QUESTIONS.

REVIEWS.

STUDIES IN TIME AND TUNE.

MUSIC IN AMERICAN TRAINING COLLEGES AND SCHOOLS.

MUSICAL CONVENTION AT NEWCASTLE.

CORRESPONDENCE.

ANSWERS TO THEORY QUESTIONS.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

THE OCTOBER NUMBER CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC:—

STUDIES IN INTERVALS.

"O HILLS, O VALES OF PLEASURE" ("DEPARTURE"). Arranged for S.S.A. (Unaccompanied). By MENDELSSOHN.

"THE LASS OF RICHMOND HILL." Unison Song. By JAMES HOOK.
Also, EXTRA SUPPLEMENT, containing "CLOUDS O'ER THE SUMMER SKY." Two-part Canon. By GUSTAV VON HOLST. (No. 760.
Novello's School Songs.) Price 1½d.

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

WANTED, SITUATION as IMPROVER or Second Tuner. Three years' Factory experience. Apply,
A. Miles, 7, Blythe Vale, Catford.

YOUNG LADY, experienced, desires POST as ACCOMPANIST. Excellent sight-reader and timist. Write, "Accompanist," 22, Marlborough Hill, St. John's Wood.

ORGAN.—Very valuable Two-manual. Contains twenty-three stops, 820 speaking pipes. Built regardless of expense, and almost entirely of mahogany. Metal pipes of the best spotted metal. Price, £300. Organist, 24, Endsleigh Gardens, Gordon Square, London, W.C.

ORGAN (Large Two-manual). Now standing in a London Church. Contains twenty stops, and about a thousand speaking pipes. Must shortly be removed; will be SOLD at bargain price. Organist, 24, Endsleigh Gardens, Gordon Sq., London, W.C.

GENUINE Old VIOLINS and VIOLONCELLO for DISPOSAL:—Violin, attributed to MAGGINI; Violin, by JOHN BETTS; Violin, by SMART, suitable for a Lady; Violin, maker unknown; 'Cello, maker unknown. Two Violin Bows, by TUBBS. All in splendid condition; suitable for Professionals. Prices reasonable to clear. William Benson, 44, Claremont Road, Birkdale, Southport.

PASTORAL MELODY

AND

LAMENT

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Shilling.

FESTAL COMMEMORATION

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

WHAT SHALL I GIVE THEE

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

WALTER E. GROGAN

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

HAROLD L. BROOKE.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published separately.

TARANTELLA

(THE REVEL)

No. 4 OF THE

GIPSY SUITE

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

ARRANGEMENT FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE BY
THE COMPOSER.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

MAGNIFICAT

AND

NUNC DIMITTIS

FROM THE

SERVICE IN B FLAT

BY

C. VILLIERS STANFORD.

(Op. 10.)

FULL SCORE.

Price Five Shillings.

String Parts, 2s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Organ, 5s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SWEET LITTLE KATUSHA

SUNG BY MISS LENA ASHWELL, IN TOLSTOY'S "RESURRECTION," at His Majesty's Theatre.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

MICHAEL MORTON

The Music, arranged from an old Russian Folk-Song

BY

ADOLF SCHMID.

Price One Shilling net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

A TREATISE

ON

MODERN INSTRUMENTATION

AND

ORCHESTRATION

BY

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

TRANSLATED BY MARY COWDEN-CLARKE.

NEW EDITION, REVISED AND EDITED BY

JOSEPH BENNETT.

Price Twelve Shillings

This masterly treatise and accepted classic on a subject of which Berlioz was so consummate a master, is copiously illustrated by excerpts from the full scores of works by Gluck, Mozart, Beethoven, Weber, Spontini, Meyerbeer, and especially from those of the author.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

LADY (R.A.M., former pupil of Walter Macfarren). desires PUPILS for PIANOFORTE. Also Engagements, Concerts, At Homes, &c. Highest testimonials. Madame Clara E. Neiman, Hogarth House, 46, Guilford Street, Russell Square, W.C.

MISS MAUDE HÄRTEL, A.R.C.M., gives LESSONS in PIANO and VIOLIN, at her own or Pupils' residences. Good accompanist. Address, 22, Arundel Square, Highbury, N.

VOICES TRAINED (Altos included) and SIGHT-SINGING and the PIANOFORTE TAUGHT, by Mr. W. A. FROST (Vicar-Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral), at his residence, 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C. Many of Mr. Frost's pupils have obtained Cathedral and other choir appointments in open competitions.

TRAINING OF TENORS.—MR. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS at his residence and at the West-End. For terms, &c., address, 11, Grazebrook Road, Stoke Newington, N. The principles on which MR. DAVIDSON PALMER'S METHOD is based are explained in his pamphlet, "The Tenor Voice and Its Training." Price 1s., post-free, from the AUTHOR, at the above address; or from JOSEPH WILLIAMS, Ltd., 32, Great Portland Street, W.

MR. EDMUND ROGERS REVISES Musical Compositions. 45, Alma Square, St. John's Wood, N.W.

ST. PETER'S, EATON SQUARE.

VACANCIES IN CHOIR.

PRINCIPAL TENOR—to succeed the late Mr. James Leyland. BASS (not Baritone), for Cantoris side—Vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. F. B. Streatfeild.

No testimonials are required.

Apply, by letter, to Dr. G. F. HUNTLEY, Choir Vestry, St. Peter's, Eaton Square.

ALTO WANTED, St. Mark's Church, Surbiton. Good reader; £15. Communicant. R. F. Tyler, Berrylands House, Surbiton, Surrey.

TENOR WANTED, for St. James's, Sussex Gardens, W. Usual duties, occasional Oratorios. £15. H. D., 14, Kilburn Priory, N.W.

WANTED, for the new Church of Holy Trinity, Kensington, TWO BASSES and TWO TENORS. Good readers essential. Salaries, £15. Apply to C. S. Knight, Holy Trinity Church, Knightsbridge.

WANTED, LEADING BASS (well-trained).—Salary, £6 per annum. Apply, Christ Church, Endell Street, W.C., Friday evenings, 8.30.

SOUTHWELL MINSTER.—Probable VACANCY for LAY CLERK (BASS, not Baritone). Candidates must be under 25 years of age, and communicants of the Church of England. Apply at once, with copies of testimonials, to R. W. Liddle, Esq., Rector Chori, Vicars' Court, Southwell.

MR. BATES (London College for Choristers) supplies SOLO BOYS for Oratorios, &c. See p. 634, Musical Times.

YOUNG LADY, fine Soprano voice (pupil of known master), desires an ENGAGEMENT to sing in Church or Oratorio. English, French, Italian, Latin. Address, Singer, Meppershall Rectory, Beds.

MIDDLE PARISH CHURCH, PAISLEY.—WANTED, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Salary, £50 per annum. Applications, with testimonials, stating age, training, experience, to be lodged with William Peattie, 2, Gilmour Street, Paisley, not later than October 10, 1903.

ORGANIST.—Bicester Parish Church. Salary, £40. To begin November 29. Church of England. Testimonials, &c., to Vicar, Bicester, Oxon.

CHOIR EXCHANGE.—CHURCH POSITIONS secured for Organists and Singers in the United States and Canada. ORGANISTS WANTED, for several positions in various parts of the States, on or before November 1, 1903, at good salaries. Write for Registration Terms.

MUSIC PUBLISHING AGENCY.—Publishers found for Composers' Manuscripts. Write The John E. Webster Company, 5, East 14th Street, New York, for Terms.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. London or Suburbs. Excellent refs. Last appointment 11 years. Org., 18, Brooklyn Rd., Shepherd's Bush, W.

PUPIL-ASSISTANT.—St. Paul's Church, Avenue Road, N.W.—EDWARD G. CROAGER, A.R.A.M., has a VACANCY as above. Full Cathedral service. Experience in choir-training. Practice on tubular-pneumatic Organ by Messrs. Lewis and Co. Address, The Cottage, Amersham Common, Bucks.

THE ORGANIST of Winchester Cathedral will require shortly additional ARTICLED PUPIL, able to undertake parochial service, for which small stipend is given. Mr. W. Prendergast, Mus. Bac., Oxon., The Close, Winchester.

WANTED, PIANO SALESMAN, to take charge of branch shop. Apply, stating experience, age, salary required, and photograph, Wallace Ash, Elm Grove, Southsea.

MANAGER WANTED for large Music Warehouse in Scotland. Must have a thorough knowledge of the business and be capable of directing a large staff outside and in. An excellent chance to an energetic man. Large salary and commission. Address, Scottish, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

GENTLEMANLY YOUTH WANTED as an Apprentice to the Music Trade. Must be musical. Moderate premium required. Apply, Arthur Wood, Redhill.

MANAGERSHIP REQUIRED, by experienced Gentleman in Music Business of good standing, with view to Partnership and possible future purchase. Highest testimonials from present and past employers. Midlands preferred; or in London or suburbs. Address, F. S., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

THOROUGHLY experienced MAN and WIFE seek MANAGEMENT, First-class Tuner, Repairer, and Regulator; Wife, good Saleswoman, Book-keeper, Pianist. P. G., Novello and Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNING CONNECTION.—A Broadwood Man requires a Tuning Connection. Please state full particulars to S. H., Greenbank, Hall Green, Birmingham.

AMATEUR PIANIST, with magnificent ERARD Piano (Boudoir), wishes to meet Amateur Violinist and Cellist for Chamber Music Rooms, W.C. References. Full particulars, by letter, to A. B. C., care of Street's, 8, Serle Street, London, W.C.

EVERY ORGANIST should send for DINHAM, BLYTH & CO.'S Specimens and Price List (free) for Lithographing Anthems, Kyries, Hymn Tunes, &c., from twenty-four Copies and upwards. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

FOR SALE.—Two-Manual ORGAN, with oak case, 16 stops, 3 couplers. Original cost, over £300. Must be removed to make place for larger instrument. Price £70, or offer. Write, Endellion, 61, Selsdon Road, West Norwood, S.E.

MODERN ORGAN for SALE.—22 ft. high, 13 ft. wide. Keys at end. Provision for 22 stops. Swell complete with 8 stops. Great has 4 stops; is prepared for 4 more. Pedal pipe, 16 ft. Keys and knobs ready for 6 stops on Choir; three couplers. Sold to make room. Particulars, &c., from Mr. J., Emerson Cottage, Brampton, Huntingdon.

ORGAN for SALE. Double-manual Liszt model MASON and HAMLIN American Organ. Contains 26 stops, Couplers, Vox humana, Grand Organ knee swells, and Pedal point. Beautiful tone; looks new. Cost £234. What offers? Open to inspection. Apply, Hare, Ingenook, Weston-super-Mare.

CHAMBER ORGAN, by W. HILL and SONS (Baillie Hamilton Patent), 2 manuals, concave pedals, built to College of Organists' scale; elegant case. Height, 7 ft. 9 in.; depth, 3 ft.; width, 5 ft. 6 in. Fitted with extra large bellows and hydraulic engine, all in working order. Reason for selling, owner moving. To be sold, or would entertain exchange for good Pianola with cash. To be seen by appointment. P. Twigg, St. Briavels, Idmiston Road, West Norwood.

FOR SALE.—A remarkable Bargain.—3-manual "Ideal" REED ORGAN, cost £300, for £200. Sole cause for selling to make room for a still larger instrument. Only prospective buyers treated with. Apply, care of the builders, J. W. Sawyer, Beeston Organ Works, Leeds.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE. Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell and Son's, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

MODERN-BUILT ORGANS for SALE.—Two Manuals CCC to G, and Pedals CCC to F (R.C.O.), £125, complete. Also larger instruments. Apply, EUSTACE INGRAM, Organ Builder, 361, Liverpool Road, N.

THREE-MANUAL ORGAN, 26 stops; Two-Manual Organ, 17 stops. Several others, suitable for Church, &c. Special manufacturers of the celebrated Victoria Model Organs, &c., suitable for Mission Churches, Students, &c., with two manuals and full-compass pedals, from 50 guineas. W. E. Richardson and Sons, of London, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

9 GUINEAS.—AMERICAN ORGAN (list price, 20 guineas), 11 stops, including two knee-stops and the beautiful solo stops, voix celeste and vox humana; two octave couplers, hand-some high case; in use about four months; twenty years' warranty; easy terms arranged. Packing and carriage free both ways on approval. Full price paid will be allowed within three years if exchanged for a higher-class instrument. D'Almaine and Co. (established 118 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—High-class Under-Damper Action PIANOFORTE, fitted with Norman and Beard's Pneumatic Action Concave Pedals (detachable), and Organ Stool complete, price £30; great bargain. 6, Flinton Street, Surrey Square, Old Kent Road.

SCORING for Large or Small Orchestras, ARRANGING, TRANSPOSING, COPYING, &c. WM. LANE FROST, Avonley, Hatcham Park, S.E.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—ORGANISTS can PRAC- TISE on the Grand four-manual Organ by WILLIS (blown by hydraulic engines controlled from keyboard) in the Concert Hall of the Hampstead Conservatoire. The Hall is warmed by hot water.
Specification of the organ, and terms of practice on application to the Secretary, Hampstead Conservatoire, Swiss Cottage, N.W.
N.B.—The Conservatoire is eight minutes by rail from Baker Street, Metropolitan Railway. Trains every ten minutes.

ORGAN PRACTICE. Three manuals and pedals.
One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

15 GUINEAS.—PIANO, "DUCHESS" MODEL,
by D'ALMAINE, solid iron frames to top, Upright Grand (list
price, 30 guineas); full compass, full trichord, French check action, &c.; in handsomely carved case, four feet two inches in height;
in use only six months; sent on approval, carriage paid both ways, to any part of the United Kingdom; twenty years' warranty; easy terms arranged; full price paid will be allowed if exchanged for a higher-class instrument within three years. D'Almaine and Co.
(established 118 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7.
Saturdays, 3.

FOR SALE.—PIANO (Full Concert BROADWOOD
Grand). Burr Walnut case; excellent condition. Address, Streetbay House, Lichfield, Staffs.

BROADWOOD modern SEMI-GRAND PIANO, small size, nearly new. 7½ octaves, complete iron frame, over-strung. 65 gns.; cost 135 gns. Also a small BOUDOIR GRAND,
7 octaves, iron frame, &c., by same great makers. 42 gns.; cost
110 gns. Both had little use, and in superb condition. View at
Mr. Fieldwick's, Organist of St. John's (Cromer House), Putney.

SPLENDID old 'CELLO, in original case. Magnificent tone. To be SOLD, a bargain. Apply, 'Cello, Vale's Library, Stamford Hill, N.

COMFORTABLE APARTMENTS, with Board, use of Dining and Sitting Rooms, Library, etc., are provided by the Committee of The Theatrical Mission for YOUNG LADIES
IN THE MUSICAL PROFESSION, at moderate charges. Separate cubicles. Apply for terms, to Lady Superintendent, 92, Charlotte Street, Fitzroy Square, W.

BOARDING ESTABLISHMENT for Musicians,
Students, &c. Highest recommendations. Terms from 21s.
weekly. Mrs. Baker, 69, Elgin Avenue, Maida Hill, W.

Auction Rooms, specially for the Sale of Musical Property.
MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers,
7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES
of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

RUMMENS' ORGAN PEDALS FOR PIANOFORTES

INVALUABLE FOR HOME PRACTICE OF ORGAN MUSIC.
Testimonials from Sir GEORGE MARTIN, Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, and many leading Organists.
For particulars, &c., apply, NORMAN & BEARD, Organ Works, Norwich.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

HUGH SWANTON,

THE LEADING EXPERT IN ORGAN-BLOWING.

APPARATUS FOR BLOWING ORGANS BY WATER, GAS, AND ELECTRICITY.

INSTALLATIONS IN OPERATION AT—

St. Paul's Cathedral (London).
Dublin (St. Patrick's) Cathedral.
Genoa, Norwich, Llandaff, Dundalk Cathedrals, &c., &c.

CONSULTATIONS FREE.

A DAINTY BROCHURE, full of interest and Illustrated, will be forwarded on request.

62, WHITEHORSE STREET, STEPNEY, LONDON, E.

F. W. EBRALL, Organ Builder, SHREWSBURY.

ALFRED MONK, ORGAN BUILDER,

Works and Show Rooms: 556, HOLLOWAY ROAD, LONDON, N.

High-class ORGANS, with superior rich and majestic tones, at moderate prices. Organs built and constructed on the most improved principles. First-class workmanship and well-seasoned materials.
Patent improved and reliable Pneumatic Actions. Organs reconstructed, added to, and repaired. Organs taken in exchange. Tuners sent regularly to all parts of the kingdom. Organs ready made, for sale or hire, or payable in five years, £150, £200, £260, £300, etc.
Second Hand Organs, £20, £35. Price lists of Organs to £2,000 estimates, and testimonials sent free by post. Inspection invited.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

CHOIRMASTERS giving Name of Church can have FREE SPECIMEN COPIES of New Christmas Music
ANTHEMS and CAROLS, &c. Applications will be filed and copies sent in a few days as soon as ready. A Free Specimen Copy can also be had of the wonderfully popular NEW HARVEST ANTHEM.
"Thou shalt keep the Feast of Harvest" (the 14th 1,000 already issued).
No. 6, NEW VOLUNTARY BOOK. 17 Pieces, complete. Sent post-free for rs. 6d. Very popular. Caleb Simper, "Kilbirnie," Barnstable.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., 'CANTAB.

SERVICES.

Te Deum in G. Four Voices	3d.
Te Deum in A. " "	3d.
Benedictus in A. " "	3d.
Jubilate in A. " "	3d.
Benedicite in E and F " "	each 2d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G	3d.
Do. do. in D	3d.
Communion Service in E	9d.
Do. do. in G. For Men's Voices only	9d.

ANTHEMS.

O Lord, Thou art my God. Advent	5d.
In the beginning. Christmas	3d.
Arise, shine, for thy light is come. Christmas	3d.
Do. do. Tonic Sol-fa	14d.
I was glad	3d.
Do. Tonic Sol-fa	2d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSED BY EDWYN A. CLARE.

PLEASING ANTHEMS FOR PARISH CHOIRS.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEM, "Good will to men." Price 3d.;
Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM, "The fruit of Thy works." 6th 1,000.
Price 4d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

NEW GENERAL and WHITSUNTIDE ANTHEM, "Peace I leave with you." 6th 1,000. Price 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited, 1, Berners Street, W.

SIX CHRISTMAS SONGS

FOUR-PART SONGS FOR MIXED VOICES

COMPOSED BY H. HEALE.

1. Hark! along the street	3d.
2. We hear the bells on Christmas Day	3d.
3. Oh! lovely voices of the sky	3d.
4. So now is come our joyful 'st feast	4d.
5. It was the winter wild	4d.
6. Hark! a glad voice	6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SHORT, EASY ANTHEM FOR ALL SAINTS' DAY.

"THE SAINTS OF GOD"

Hymns A. & M., 428, vv. 1, 2, 5. Suitable also for Memorial Services.

By G. W. TORRANCE, Mus.D.

Price Twopence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S EDITION OF BACH'S CHURCH CANTATAS.

A STRONGHOLD SURE	- - - - -	Ein' feste Burg.
BIDE WITH US	- - - - -	Bleib bei uns.
GOD GOETH UP WITH SHOUTING	- - - - -	Gott fähret auf mit Jauchzen.
GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD	- - - - -	Also hat Gott die Welt geliebt.
GOD'S TIME IS THE BEST	- - - - -	Gottes Zeit ist die allerbeste Zeit.
JESUS, NOW WILL WE PRAISE THEE	- - - - -	Jesu, nun sei gepreiset.
JESUS SLEEPS, WHAT HOPE REMAINETH?	- - - - -	Jesus schläft, was soll ich hoffen.
(Performed at the Hereford Festival, 1903.)
MY SPIRIT WAS IN HEAVINESS	- - - - -	Ich hatte viel Bekümmerniss.
O LIGHT EVERLASTING	- - - - -	O ewiges Feuer.
SLEEPERS, WAKE!	- - - - -	Wachet auf.
THE LORD IS A SUN AND SHIELD	- - - - -	Gott, der Herr, ist Sonn' und Schild.
THOU GUIDE OF ISRAEL	- - - - -	Du Hirte Israel, höre.
WHEN WILL GOD RECALL MY SPIRIT?	- - - - -	Liebster Gott, wann werd' ich sterben.

The wonderful individuality of these Church Cantatas. . . . An undreamt-of wealth of new phenomena meets our gaze on all sides; grand tone-pictures in new, strange, and diversified forms, single ideas of stalwart growth, and of free and noble birth; poetic inspirations of such unspeakable depth, that we are impressed with an unearthly awe.—SPITTA'S Life of Bach.

ONE SHILLING EACH.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Laid out after the model of "The Story of the Cross."

THE STORY OF THE ADVENT OF JESUS

WRITTEN BY
E. W. LEACHMAN

SET TO MUSIC BY
J. STAINER.

Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.
Words only, 3s. per 100.

PART I. The advent of Jesus before His Incarnation.—To create and to illuminate mankind.

PART II. The advent of Jesus at His Incarnation.—To save and to elevate mankind.

PART III. The advent of Jesus since His Incarnation.—To attract and to nourish mankind.

PART IV. The advent of Jesus to receive the Fruits of His Incarnation.—To judge and to claim mankind.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

DAY OF WRATH

(DIES IRÆ)

HYMN-ANTHEM FOR ADVENT

COMPOSED BY

J. STAINER.

Price Fourpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

AT THE MANGER

A LITANY OF THE INCARNATION

Words by GERTRUDE H. F. NORRIS

Music (from "The Crucifixion") by

J. STAINER.

Price One Penny. Words only, price 3d.; or, 2s. 6d. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW ADVENT CANTATA. THE LAST ADVENT

Libretto selected by HENRY KNIGHT.

MUSIC BY FERRIS TOZER, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

(Composer of the very successful "The Way of the Cross.")

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

Choirmasters send Six Stamps for Specimen Copy to

AMBROSE ABBOTT & Co., 14, Hanway St., Oxford St., London, W.

JESU, THE VERY THOUGHT OF THEE

AN ANTHEM

For Bass Solo, Quartet or Chorus, S.S.A.A., and Full Chorus, S.A.T.B., with independent Organ Accompaniment

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST EDWIN MITCHELL.

Price Threepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ANTHEMS FOR ALL SAINTS' DAY AND GENERAL USE.

THE LORD REDEEMETH THE SOULS OF HIS SERVANTS
(8vo, 4d.)

THE RIGHTEOUS LIVE FOR EVERMORE
(8vo, 6d.)

By J. C. B. TIRBUTT, Mus. Bac., Dunelm.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ANTHEMS FOR ADVENT.

A few more years shall roll	H. Blair	3d.
And God shall wipe away all tears ...	Frederick R. Greenish	3d.
*And He shall purify	Handel	14d.
And Jacob was left alone	J. Stainer	6d.
*And the Angel said unto her	King Hall	14d.
And the glory of the Lord	Handel	14d.
*Arise, O Jerusalem	Oliver King	14d.
Ascribe unto the Lord	J. Travers	6d.
*Awake, awake, put on strength	A. Borton	14d.
*Awake, awake, put on thy strength, O Zion	J. Stainer	6d.
Awake, put on thy strength	M. Wise	4d.
*Awake, thou that sleepest	J. Stainer	6d.
Behold, the day is come	H. H. Woodward	4d.
Behold, two blind men	J. Stainer	3d.
Beloved, now we are the Sons of God ...	E. H. Thorne	14d.
Blessed are they	H. Blair	3d.
Blessed be the Lord God	C. S. Heap	6d.
*Blessed is He who cometh	C. Gounod	14d.
*Come, and let us return (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
Day of anger, day of mourning	Mozart	6d.
Day of anger, day of mourning	C. Gounod	6d.
*Day of wrath	J. Stainer	2d.
*Doth not wisdom cry?	R. Haker	14d.
Drop down, ye heavens... ..	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
*Enter not into judgment	T. Attwood	14d.
Enter not into judgment	Clarke-Whitfield	2d.
Far down the ages now	Arthur C. Edwards	14d.
*Far from their home	H. H. Woodward	3d.
For a small moment	J. Stainer	2d.
For the mountains shall depart	L. Samson	3d.
*From the rising of the sun	F. A. G. Ouseley	14d.
*God hath appointed a day	B. Tours	14d.
*Grant us Thy peace	Mendelssohn	14d.
Hark, the glad sound	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Hearken unto Me, my people... ..	A. Sullivan	14d.
He comes, but not in regal splendour ...	W. Crotch	2d.
He is blessed that cometh	Mozart	2d.
Henceforth when ye hear my voice	Mendelssohn	3d.
*He that shall endure	Mendelssohn	14d.
Hosanna	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
*Hosanna in the highest	J. Stainer	14d.
Hosanna to the Son of David	O. Gibbons	3d.
Hosanna to the Son of David... ..	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
How beautiful are the feet	Handel	3d.
*How lovely are the messengers	Mendelssohn	2d.
If a man die shall he live again	Charles Macpherson	14d.
In the beginning was the word	E. H. Thorne	14d.
*It is high time	J. Barnby	14d.
It shall come to pass	G. M. Garrett	6d.
*I will look unto the Lord (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
Let our hearts be joyful	Mendelssohn	14d.
Lord, let me know mine end	M. Greene	14d.
*Lord, let me know mine end	J. Goss	3d.
Lord, what love have I?	C. Steggall	6d.
Mine eyes look unto Thee	H. Baker	3d.
My soul truly waiteth	B. Steane	2d.
O Adonai (O Lord and Ruler)	J. Stainer	14d.
O Clavis David (O Key of David)	J. Stainer	14d.
O Emmanuel (O Emmanuel)	J. Stainer	14d.
O God, Thou art my God	H. Purcell	3d.
O Jerusalem, look about thee	E. W. Naylor	4d.
O Lord, Thou art my God	S. S. Wesley	1s.
O Oriens (O Dayspring)	J. Stainer	14d.
O Radix Jesse (O Root of Jesse)	J. Stainer	14d.
*O Rex Gentium (O King and Desire) ...	J. Stainer	14d.
O Sapientia (O Wisdom)	J. Stainer	14d.
Out of the deep	H. Walford Davies	4d.
Out of the deep	G. C. Martin	6d.
*Praise his awful Name	Spohr	2d.
Prepare ye the way	J. M. Crament	4d.
*Prepare ye the way	G. M. Garrett	3d.
Prepare ye the way of the Lord	M. Wise	3d.
*Rejoice greatly	H. Gadsby	3d.
Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion ...	H. H. Woodward	14d.
Rejoice in the Lord	F. R. Statham	14d.
Rejoice in the Lord... ..	S. Reay	14d.
Rejoice in the Lord	John Redford	3d.
Rejoice in the Lord	H. Purcell	3d.
*Rise up, arise	Mendelssohn	3d.
*Seek ye the Lord	C. Bradley	4d.
*Seek ye the Lord	J. V. Roberts	3d.
Seek ye the Lord	H. Kinsey	3d.
*Sleepers, wake, a voice is calling	Mendelssohn	14d.
Swiftly the moments (Advent Litany) ...	J. M. Crament	2d.
(Words only, 1s. 6d. per 100.)
Think, good Jesu	Mozart	6d.
*The grace of God that bringeth salvation	J. Barnby	14d.
*The great day of the Lord is near	G. C. Martin	14d.
The Lord will comfort Zion	H. Hiles	6d.
*The night is far spent	M. Smith	14d.
*The night is far spent	B. Steane	14d.
*The night is far spent. S.A.T.B.	M. B. Foster	3d.
*The night is far spent (Two-part Anthem)...	M. B. Foster	3d.
*The Wilderness	J. Goss	6d.
The Wilderness	S. S. Wesley	8d.
*Thou Judge of quick and dead	S. S. Wesley	3d.
Thy Word is a lantern	H. Purcell	4d.
To Thee do I lift up my soul	King Hall	14d.
Turn Thee again, O Lord	T. Attwood	14d.
Who is this that cometh from Edom? ...	J. Kent	6d.

Anthem marked thus * are to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 3d. each.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

For Advent and Christmas.

ADVENT HYMN

"IN LOWLY GUISE THY KING APPEARETH."

FOR SOPRANO SOLO AND CHORUS, WITH ORCHESTRAL ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

R. SCHUMANN.

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN OF FRIEDRICH RÜCKERT

BY THE REV. J. TROUTBECK, D.D.

Price One Shilling. Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100

BLESSED ARE THEY WHO WATCH

A CANTATA FOR ADVENT

FOR SOPRANO SOLO AND CHORUS WITH

HYMNS TO BE SUNG BY THE CONGREGATION

THE WORDS SELECTED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

HUGH BLAIR.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence. Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE TWO ADVENTS

A CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY THE

REV. E. W. BOWLING, M.A.,

Rector of Houghton Conquest, Beds.

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE GARRETT, M.A.,

Mus.D., F.R.C.O.

(Op. 23.)

Price One Shilling and Sixpence. Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

BLOW YE THE TRUMPET IN ZION

A CANTATA FOR ADVENT

COMPOSED BY

C. WARWICK JORDAN.

Price One Shilling.

CHRISTMAS EVE

A SHORT CANTATA

FOR CONTRALTO SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

NIELS W. GADE.

(Op. 40.)

Price One Shilling. Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Fourpence.

THE STORY OF BETHLEHEM

A SHORT SACRED CANTATA

FOR CHRISTMAS SERVICES, &c.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE CHRISTMAS ORATORIO

BY

JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH.

THE ENGLISH TRANSLATION AND ADAPTATION BY THE REV. J. TROUTBECK, D.D.

Price, in paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.
Words only, 10s. per 100. Vocal parts, 1s. each.
Parts 1 and 2 from above, 1s. Words only, 5s. per 100.
Parts 3 and 4 from ditto, 1s. Parts 5 and 6 from ditto, 1s.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PRODUCED AT THE HEREFORD FESTIVAL, 1903.

THE ATONEMENT

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

ALICE PARSONS

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

(OP. 53.)

Price 3s. 6d.; paper boards, 4s.; cloth, gilt, 5s.

Full Score and Wind Parts, MS. String Parts, in the Press.

THE TIMES.

Musically this last chorus is of great importance as well as effect; it sums up much of the material that appeared in the opening prelude, and the themes are often noble and characteristic in both. That they should be broad in style and treatment will be expected by all the composer's admirers; and the scoring of the work is admirable throughout. What may be called the "Gethsemane" theme is most reverently treated, and if there are figures and phrases that one could wish altered, in the description of the consoling angel's arrival, or in that of the advance of the Roman soldiers, the development of the central theme from the prelude on to the triumphant close, by way of the trio of the Maries at the Cross, is masterly. . . . The "Ecce Homo" scene is splendidly original, as, indeed, is all the processional music, and there are unity, character, sincerity of expression, and great melodic beauty in every part of the cantata.

STANDARD.

It is more finished than any previous composition from his pen, and it has fine and impressive moments.

DAILY NEWS.

The composer has approached his subject in a realistic mood, and in so far as he has been true to that mood his music has certain impressive qualities; at any rate, it does represent exactly how such a subject appeals to a man of his temperament. . . . The composer has been specially successful in his treatment of the choruses illustrating the vehemence of the crowd clamouring for the life of Christ, and also in those which play the part of a narrator. He must be dull to imagination in music who did not feel a thrill in the choral treatment of the scene in which the crowd accuse Jesus of Nazareth of sedition, or again in that other in which the unwilling Pontius Pilate is forced to deliver him up.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

The work made a highly favourable impression. It is evident that Mr. Taylor possesses most of the attributes needful for sacred composition. In "The Atonement" several of the themes are as devotional in spirit as could be wished, and the taste governing the entire production is beyond question. Whilst the characters in the sacred drama are clearly, and, as regards the Saviour, reverentially drawn, there is undoubted strength both in the choral writing and in the orchestration. . . . The hopes entertained of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor, after the production of his "Death of Minnehaha," as a composer capable of illustrating intensity of feeling with picturesqueness as well as sincerity, are strengthened by the scene of "Gethsemane" in his latest work. The instrumentation, no less than the vocal parts, is in perfect agreement with the pathos of the effect of the betrayal upon the disciples.

YORKSHIRE POST.

He has wonderful resources of melody, a command of the whole gamut of rich orchestral colour, and a finished technique. He is, besides, transparently sincere, and with gifts of so exceptional a nature it is impossible that a score of his should be without an abundance of charm from a purely musical point of view. "The Atonement" must be pronounced as one of his best works, not inferior to the "Hiawatha" cantatas. . . . In his "Death of Minnehaha" Mr. Coleridge-Taylor showed that he possessed the rare gift of pathetic expression, for which there was, of course, abundant room in the present case. It is constantly in evidence, but a striking instance is in the episode of the three Maries at the Crucifixion, which, though simply lyrical in form, expresses perfectly tender sorrow. . . . With a little more of the grip and sense of proportion necessary to the ordering of a great work, and with, it may be, a shade more savoir faire, one feels that he should be capable of even greater things than this undeniably powerful work. The choruses of the mock crowd are remarkably vigorous and full of a savage energy, the solos are original and expressive, and the treatment of the orchestra is rich and invariably effective.

BIRMINGHAM DAILY GAZETTE.

Mr. Coleridge-Taylor may be congratulated on having produced a successful work, which deals adequately with great themes, and which does honour to his natural genius as well as to his technical mastery of every modern musical resource.

BIRMINGHAM DAILY POST.

No audible tokens of approbation were possible, but it is safe to assume that the new cantata was a success. It should be heard again, and that before long; and as a guide to framers of programmes it may be mentioned that the performance lasts just five minutes over two hours.

BRISTOL TIMES AND MIRROR.

"The Atonement" is not only a remarkable composition, but the most dramatic work by an English musician. It is laid out and wrought with great skill; every technical device is employed in its structure, and nearly every orchestral instrument is brought into requisition in adding colour to the glowing tonal picture.

THE WORLD.

In attempting to set the story of the Passion, Mr. Coleridge-Taylor measures himself against very high standards, and his boldness deserves recognition; and he must be praised, too, for a conscientious attempt to find a new idiom appropriate to our time for the treatment of such a theme. He rightly determined that he must shake himself free from all convention, and has had the wisdom to see that the archaic and the devout are not synonymous, and that there is no essential connection between piety and strict counterpoint. The greater the subject the greater should be the freedom in using all the resources of art in describing it.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED

AND

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

EVENTIDE

MELODY

FOR STRINGS AND HARP (Organ or Harmonium ad lib.)

FROM

SUITE IN D MINOR

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE J. BENNETT.

Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	1s. 6d.
Ditto for Organ	1s. 0d.
Score	2s. 6d.
Parts	3s. 3d.

Extract from Sir Alexander Mackenzie's letter on his Canadian tour: "While Lincoln Bennett's . . . 'Eventide,' a melody for strings, provoked the encore it invariably secured whenever it was performed."

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORGANISTS & CHOIRMASTERS.

Church, Sunday-School, Choral Society Conductors, &c., who have not received the new season's Catalogue of

JOHN CURWEN & SONS, LTD.,

are invited to apply for it at once. It includes

CANTATAS (SACRED AND SECULAR), ANTHEMS, PART-SONGS, MUSIC LEAFLETS,

both for Adult and Juvenile Choirs. Also Organ and Reed Organ music.

 SENT GRATIS AND POST FREE.

LONDON: 24, BERNERS STREET, W.

NEW WORK.

STOOD THE MOURNFUL
MOTHER WEeping

(STABAT MATER DOLOROSA)

ENGLISH TRANSLATION BY

REV. J. MONSELL

MUSIC BY

F. ROLLASON.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

"We know nothing of the composer, but he must be possessed of some courage to produce an English version of the 'Stabat Mater.' The text is translated by the Rev. J. Monsell, D.D. The work is divided into the usual ten numbers, with slight modifications. The opening chorus, 'Stood the mournful mother weeping,' is in F minor, and has a striking and passionate introduction. With the entry of the voices, the treatment is severe, and in the ecclesiastical style, but the expression is modern. The first part is employed in the last chorus, 'When my mortal body, dying,' but then changing to the major at 'Take my soul to Paradise,' and concluding with a well-worked-out fugue at 'To adore Thee, my God.' No. 6, 'Holy Father, let affliction,' is one of the most elaborate numbers. It is for soprano solo and chorus. In this the influence of Dvorák seems apparent, as that of Rossini appears in No. 4, 'For the sins of each offender,' but there is no direct imitation. The composer has individuality, and is a skilled musician. No. 9, 'Make me with His stripes be stricken,' beginning with a tenor solo, followed by a solo for bass, and concluding with a quartet, is a fine piece of writing; and the whole composition reveals not only a high aim, but the ability to achieve it."—Birmingham Daily Post.

Published separately:

No. 5. CHORUS (unaccompanied), "JESU, FOUNT OF LOVE,"
Price 1½d.

"No. 5, 'Jesu, Fount of Love,' is a chorus, anthem-like in character, the sensuous harmony of which cannot fail to touch the feelings, if it be well sung, without accompaniment, as suggested."—Coventry Herald.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

JOHANN SEBASTIAN BACH
CANTATAS.

				s.	d.
No. 3.	O GOD, HOW MANY PAINS OF HEART.	English Version of E. H. THORNE	Vocal Score	1	0
„ 6.	STAY WITH US, THE EVENING APPROACHES.	English Version by E. H. THORNE	Vocal Score	1	0
„ 10.	MY SOUL DOTH MAGNIFY THE LORD.	English Version by E. H. THORNE	Vocal Score	1	0
„ 21.	I HAD GREAT HEAVINESS OF HEART.	English Version by E. H. THORNE	Vocal Score	1	0
„ 50.	NOW HATH SALVATION, AND STRENGTH.	For Double Chorus. English Version by E. H. THORNE	Vocal Score	1	0
„ 56.	I WITH MY CROSS-STAFF GLADLY WANDER.	For Bass Solo, orchestrated by PHILIP WOLFRUM. English Version by CONSTANCE BACHE	Vocal Score	1	6

FUNERAL ODE (TOMBEAU). GRANT, LORD GOD, GRANT THAT HOPE'S BRIGHT RAY. Orchestrated by PHILIP WOLFRUM. English Version by A. KALISCH

Vocal Score 3 0

PHŒBUS AND PAN (Der Streit zwischen Phœbus und Pan). Drama per Musice, orchestrated by FELIX MOTT. English Version by PERCY PINKERTON

Vocal Score 3 0

BREITKOPF & HÄRTEL,

54, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, LONDON, W.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PRODUCED AT THE HEREFORD FESTIVAL, 1903.

VOCES CLAMANTIUM

("THE VOICES OF THEM THAT CRY")

MOTET

FOR SOPRANO AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

C. H. H. PARRY.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

String Parts, 5s. (in the Press).

THE TIMES.

DAILY NEWS.

Those who are familiar with Sir Hubert Parry's works will readily picture to themselves the noble impressiveness of the opening soprano solo, the vigour of the chorus in which the people arrive to hear the words of the prophet, the declamatory energy of the prophet's utterances, the richness of the short chorus of repentant people, virtually in six parts, and the melodic beauty of the second soprano solo. But even the most ardent of Sir Hubert Parry's admirers may have wondered whether he could again raise our thoughts to the highest things and produce once more the rapturous spiritual exaltation which he has so often shown his power to kindle. . . . The short fugal passage "And everlasting joy shall be upon their heads" is as masterly as anything in English music, and, like all the rest, purely English in style. . . . The final portion must rank with the highest and most inspired moments of the composer's work.

Apart from the influence of Handel, Bach, and Brahms, which is always to be traced in Sir Hubert Parry's music, there is the characteristic energy and bluff breeziness of the composer himself.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

Except the concluding few lines, forming a species of epilogue, the whole of the text is drawn from Isaiah, the key to the subject of the motet being the opening sentence "Cry aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet." This is a portion of the first of two solos for soprano, and a little later comes a dignified air for bass soloist, "God looked for judgment." There are three choruses in the popular English composer's very best style. In breadth, force, and feeling the music is perfectly suited to the words. "Voces Clamantium" is certain to quickly make its way among choral societies desirous of new works that repay study.

STANDARD.

This is a short work, but in the composer's best style. . . . The solos hold the attention by reason of their directness and terseness of expression, but the strength of the motet lies in its choral writing. The second chorus only consists of fourteen bars, almost entirely unaccompanied, but it is a gem of vocal part-writing. It is, however, in the final chorus that the composer has put forth his full strength, and with heart-stirring effects. The setting of the words, "And sorrow and sighing shall flee away," is exquisite, and a magnificent climax is achieved in the setting of the last lines.

BIRMINGHAM DAILY POST.

The work of the chorus was really superb. The music is Handelian in its breadth and power, and is very grateful to the singers. The composer appears to have reached the stage where striving seems needless, and where assured strength, reposeful rather than clamorous expression is sought for; yet he can work up a tumult as effectively as ever, as the chorus "The noise of a multitude" testifies. The motet is a fine work, masterly, vigorous, yet with a certain calm.

MORNING POST.

It opens with stately music, one figure attracting special attention, and one which, as we gradually discover, plays an important rôle in the work. The first voice, "Vox clamantis in deserto," in declamatory tones bids the people come to judgment, and then the tumult of the nations is graphically described in a chorus. The tumult is likened unto the "rushing of mighty waters"; but where, by way of climax, some composers would have been tempted to realism Sir Hubert shows great restraint. The final section, "Vox Dei," which is choral, opens with a stately phrase, "I will create," after which comes a fugal section in which, despite the form of the music, there is true feeling. Towards the close the music becomes appropriately broad and bright.

BIRMINGHAM DAILY GAZETTE.

We regard the cantata as one of the finest works the composer has written, and a substantial and valuable addition to the classics of musical literature.

OBSERVER.

The motet is an admirable example of terseness of expression allied with power that many modern composers would do well to imitate. The text consists of judiciously selected verses from Isaiah, and is divided into six sections. . . . The composer has put forth his full strength, and shows his power to secure great effects by simple means. Amidst the energetic strains a beautiful contrast is obtained by the setting of the words "And sorrow and sighing shall flee away," which is succeeded shortly afterwards by an imposing crescendo that truly "leadeth upward" with inspiring exhilaration. So fine a composition should be heard in London at an early date.

WESTMINSTER GAZETTE.

Sir Hubert Parry's "Voces Clamantium"—prophetic voices from the Book of Isaiah, a crying, warning soprano (Madame Emily Squire), turning later on into a "Vox Consolatrix," a denouncing prophet (Mr. Plunket Greene), and a choir rolling out those majestic, satisfying harmonies of which Sir Hubert has a never-failing store—these are the features of the motet, a work truly delightful for those who love what I will call honest music, music that scorns a trick, that speaks in language like John Bright's—or, shall I say, Cardinal Newman's?—without long words and sentences interminable, plainly to be understood of the people. If Sir Hubert wants to express the sæva indignatio of an Isaiah, he goes no roundabout way in his task—he does not give the indignation to a second hautboy while all the other instruments of the orchestra whirl about in what may be indignation or not, and the voice expresses nothing at all. He boldly bids his baritone clang out in abrupt displeasure, and his hearers tremble accordingly. If he wants a climax, he piles it up after the mode long ago laid down by those musical architects whose work has stood all weathers; and in "Voces Clamantium" he has certainly succeeded in constructing a noble building, simple in line, and therefore satisfying and impressive.

SUNDAY TIMES.

It is the setting of the final exhortation that forms the memorable portion of the motet. This is a splendid piece of choral writing, simple in design and phraseology, but grand in speech and convincing in expression. The chorus, "The Lord is a God of Judgment," also shows Sir Hubert's power of writing choral music that stirs the heart.

THE WORLD.

Sir Hubert Parry's motet "Voces Clamantium" may be accounted as among the best of his recent works, in that it combines with his wonted mastery of choral writing a note of greater tenderness than is usual, and he succeeds in more amply satisfying the ordinary hearer's demands for sensuous beauty without loss of masculine strength. The final chorus is specially impressive.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED

AND

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

PRODUCED AT THE HEREFORD FESTIVAL, 1903.

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS

IN A AND D

BY

IVOR ATKINS.

Price Fourpence.

Full Score and Orchestral Parts, MS.

THE TIMES.

Mr. Atkins's work is vigorous, straightforward, and, as regards the Magnificat, appropriately jubilant.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

This church musician, who is still a young man, has written festival works before, but never, as far as my knowledge goes, with so much success as in the present case. I had been led to expect an example of the ultra modern, which, in church music, is almost necessarily a mistake, but Mr. Atkins has adopted a style which, though modern, avoids extravagance, and does not lose sight of the special conditions which should govern sacred art. His music is often effective in a high degree, and the boldness of some of the passages is fairly justified. I shall look for even better things from this composer as time goes on.

DAILY NEWS.

It is very difficult to produce anything original in the setting, but Mr. Atkins has certainly succeeded, having struck out quite a new course.

GUARDIAN.

An impressive and admirably vocal Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, written for the occasion by Mr. Ivor Atkins, Organist of Worcester Cathedral.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ANTHEMS FOR ADVENT

IN

THE "LUTE" SERIES.

146	Blessed are they that do His	...	N. W. Howard McLean	3d.
	Commandments	...
130	Give unto the Lord	...	C. Darnton	3d.
120	It is high time to awake	...	Walter Spinney	3d.
25	Rejoice in the Lord alway	...	A. R. Gaul	3d.
2	Seek ye the Lord (Sol-fa, 2d.)	...	J. F. Bridge	3d.
217	Seek ye the Lord	...	J. A. Bailey	3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JOY, THE LIGHT-WING'D

("REQUITAL")

PRIZE GLEE, FOR A.T.T.B.

Words by CHRYSTABEL. Music by A. KING, Mus.D.

As sung by the Gentlemen of H.M. Chapels Royal and many Male-Voice Choirs and Quartets.

Price Fourpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE DREAM OF GERONTIUS

BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

Paper boards, 4s.; cloth, gilt, 5s. Full Score, £3 3s.

Book of Words, with Analysis and 76 Musical Examples, by A. J. JAEGER. Price 1s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE

PRINCE OF PEACE

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

THE WORDS SELECTED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE

AND THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"No man knows better than Mr. Gaul how to write for voices. . . . 'Thou art the King of Glory,' a singularly fine chorus, worthy of any composer, living or dead. . . . Throughout the work we have spontaneity, elegance, attractiveness, in short, a never-ending charm. This cantata, which completes the octave of Mr. Gaul's cantatas, we hold to be the best. If it prove less popular than the composer's 'The Holy City,' we shall be surprised. Mr. Gaul was engaged on this, his latest work, for about three years, and we believe that all who hear it will agree that the time was very profitably spent."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"In every way worthy the great reputation and experience of its composer. . . . Is indeed a work of a very unusual character, and most probably destined to become more popular than any of his other compositions. . . . Worthy the study of choral societies of every grade."—North Staffordshire Sentinel.

"Admirably written for the voice, enhanced by charm of rhythm and picturesque accompaniments."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

Vocal Score, paper cover	2	6
" paper boards	3	0
" scarlet cloth	4	0
Voice Parts, for the use of Choral Societies...	each	1
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	1	0
Words only	per 100	5

Band Parts (the loan of) on application to the Composer,
Gillott Lodge, Edgbaston.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES AND OTHERS.

SOUTH AFRICAN EVENING SONG

(S.A.T.B.)

A GREAT SUCCESS (Over 300 disposed of first month)

WORDS BY REV. P. J. LOSELEY, M.A.

MUSIC BY ARTHUR ABBOTT.

Price Threepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ACCOMPANIMENTS to THE LORD'S PRAYER
(2 settings, by H. TOWNSEND, IS. DAME DURDEN, humorous part-song, arranged for S.A.T.B., by H. TOWNSEND, 2d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EBENEZER PROUT'S WORKS ON MUSIC.

Bound, each net, 5s.

HARMONY: Its Theory and Practice. Fifteenth Edition.

The same, SIXTEENTH EDITION. Revised, and largely re-written.

COUNTERPOINT: Strict and Free. Seventh Edition.

DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT AND CANON. Third Edition.

FUGUE. Fourth Edition.

FUGAL ANALYSIS. Third Edition.

MUSICAL FORM. Fifth Edition.

APPLIED FORMS. Fourth Edition.

THE ORCHESTRA

Vol. I.—"The Technique of the Instruments." Third Edition.

Vol. II.—"Orchestral Combination." Second Edition.

AUGENER AND Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

FRANKLIN PETERSON'S Popular Text Books:

ELEMENTS OF MUSIC. Seventh Edition. Bound, net 1s.

INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF THEORY. A sequel to the "Elements of Music," and intended to prepare the student for Professor Prout's Series of Theoretical Works. Bound, net 1s. 6d.

PIANIST'S HANDBOOK. A Theoretical Companion to Practice.

Part I. Bound, net 1s. 6d.

Part II. MUSICAL FORM. Bound, net 1s. 6d.

CATECHISM OF MUSIC. Bound, net 2s.

AUGENER AND Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

FICKLE SPRING.—A Humorous Glee for S.A.T.B.; or (No. 2), for A.T.B.B. Free Copy on receipt of post-card addressed to JOHN ADCOCK, Baker Street, Nottingham.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS

EDITED BY
W. G. McNAUGHT.

Just Published.
Book 65.

TEN
OLD ENGLISH SONGS

(GRADE II.)

BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

Where the bee sucks...	Arne
Under the greenwood tree...	Old English
Joan, to the Maypole...	Old English
Golden slumbers kiss your eyes...	Old English
Full fathom five (Solo and s.s.a.)...	Purcell
The children are singing (Two-part Chorus).	Arr. by A. M. Wakefield
Spring...	Arne
The Vicar of Bray...	17th Century
Begone! dull care...	17th Century
The three Ravens...	16th Century

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa (B) Edition, Threepence.

Book 117.

SEVEN

UNISON SONGS

(GRADE II.)

BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

My Dove...	A. Medley
Violet Land...	H. S. Roberts
Excelsior!	Lindsay
Poor Humpty Dumpty }	A. Medley
The Bumble Bee's Buzz }
Will you walk a little faster (Words by Lewis Carroll)	R. H. Macdonald
Things of beauty...	A. C. Mackenzie

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa (B) Edition, Threepence.

Book 124.

SIX TWO-PART SONGS

(GRADE II.)

BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

The coming of May...	E. M. Boyce
Faint not, fear not...	H. Smart
Happy Spring Waltz...	G. L. Osgood
Robin Redbreast...	H. Elliot Button
Peasants' Song ("Up! Up! ye dames")...	E. M. Boyce
Spring is come...

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.

Book 127.

FIVE

FOUR-PART SONGS

FOR S.S.A.A.

(GRADE II.)

BY VARIOUS COMPOSERS.

CONTENTS.

Where are the swallows...	H. Hiles
You spotted snakes...	G. A. Macfarren
Welcome to this place...	Bishop
Summer Eve...	Hatton
The Fairies' Song...	Bishop

Price Ninepence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Fourpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PRODUCED AT THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,
APRIL 30, 1903.

WAR AND PEACE

A SYMPHONIC ODE

FOR

SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition (Choruses and Words of Solos only), price 1s. 6d.
Vocal Parts, price 1s. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE

TRAGEDY OF COCK ROBIN

SHORT ACTION PIECE

COMPOSED BY

T. ARTHUR BURTON.

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined, price Eightpence.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS

Book 133.

TWO-PART SONGS

CONTENTS.

A Bird Song...	Roland Rogers
All among the barley...	Elizabeth Stirling
All seek for rest...	F. Abt
Autumn woods...	T. Murby
Bells at eve...	F. Abt
Come, ever smiling liberty...	Handel
Come to me, gentle sleep...	H. W. Schartau
Evening song...	Mendelssohn
In the distance...	F. Abt
Joyful echoes...	L. Streabbog
Playtime's golden hours...	A. W. Ketelbey
The Bell March...	J. Brabham
The Fountain...	H. Elliot Button
The Lord is my Shepherd...	H. Smart
The Mountaineer...	A. W. Ketelbey
The Sabbath morn...	Mendelssohn
Welcome thou, whose deeds conspire...	Handel
Work and play...	Myles B. Foster

Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa, with Pianoforte Accompaniment,
price One Shilling and Sixpence.

Voice parts only, in Tonic Sol-fa, price Fourpence.

Staff Notation (Voice parts only), price Fourpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE MUSIC STUDENT'S MANUSCRIPT NOTE BOOK

AND

PRACTICE REGISTER

ARRANGED BY

C. EGERTON LOWE.

PREFACE.

This book is intended to meet the convenience of Teachers who wish to record clearly for a pupil's guidance the work to be prepared for each lesson or a series. The column headed "Time" is added for the purpose of indicating the number of minutes to be given to the daily practice of each separate subject. (This column is for the Teacher to fill up.)

A few pages of music paper have been inserted for the purpose of writing out turns, trills, &c., and blank pages have been left at the end on which it is suggested that a list of pieces studied should be kept or other memoranda made. The book will be found suitable for students of any instrument.

Price Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

FUNERAL MARCH

FROM THE MUSIC TO
"GRANIA AND DIARMID"

COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR.

ARRANGEMENT FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO BY
JOHN B. McEWEN.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

STRING QUARTET

IN A MINOR

COMPOSED BY
JOHN B. McEWEN.

1st Violin, 2s.; 2nd Violin, 2s.; Viola, 2s.; Violoncello, 2s.
Score, 5s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TO TEACHERS.

THE ELEMENTS OF MUSIC SIMPLIFIED

WITH GRADUATED EXERCISES
By J. TRAIL.

(A Complete Preparatory Text-Book for Junior Pupils, written in the simplest possible language, to meet the requirements of the various Examinations in the Rudiments of Music.)

Sir GEORGE C. MARTIN

writes:—

"Your little book is admirable in every way, and the graduated exercises will be found of the greatest help to young students."

Dr. A. L. PEACE writes:—

"Admirably designed to meet the requirements of young students."

"Nothing better than this little manual could be desired for teaching purposes. It is excellent in every way."—Daily Free Press.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Dr. J. GORDON SAUNDERS

writes:—

"I have no hesitation in saying that your 'Elements of Music Simplified' is an exceptionally good book.

Indeed, I do not remember to have seen its equal for the young scholar."

Just Published.

HUSH-A-BY, SWEETIE

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
EDWARD OXENFORD

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
FRANK E. TOURS.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW ORGAN COMPOSITION

By DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY.

INTRODUCTION, VARIATIONS, AND FUGUE

ON THE

"ADESTE FIDELES"
FOR THE ORGAN

BY

ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY
(MUS.D., OXON.).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Second Edition.

NARCISSUS AND ECHO

CANTATA FOR CHORUS, SOLI, AND ORCHESTRA

Price 3s.; Choral Parts, 1s. each. Also

"GOD IS OUR REFUGE" (Ps. 46)

For Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Price 1s.

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN C. SUCH
Mus. Bac., Cantab.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.

	Staff.	Sol-fa.
	s. d.	s. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2	6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1	0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2	6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1	0
May Day	1	0
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1	0

ANTHEMS, &c.

All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0	3	0	1
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0	2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0	3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0	2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0	4
Six Kyries	0	2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0	3

ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries	3	6
Five Concluding Voluntaries	1	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ALBUM OF FIVE SONGS.—

COMPOSED BY MAY STELFOX.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW HUMOROUS PART-SONG.

A FROG HE WOULD A-WOOING GO. By
A. B. ALLEN, Composer of "Dickory dock." Price 2d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

Nymphs of the Ocean	3d.	Under the Trees	2d.
The Skaters	3d.	The Oyster Dredgers	2d.
The Lake	3d.	Evening	2d.
*Tis Morn	3d.	*Sweet to live (38th thou.)	2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal)	3d.	*Welcome, young Spring!	2d.
The River	3d.	*The Anglers (14th thou.)	2d.
Over the mountain side	3d.	The Dream of Home	2d.
Soul of living music	3d.	Summer and Winter	2d.
The Stormy Petrel	3d.	*Departed Joys	2d.
The Coral Grove	3d.	There's beauty in the deep	1d.
Pibroch of Donuill Dhu	3d.	Soldier, rest!	1d.
Blow, Western Wind!	3d.	Woods in Winter	1d.
Stars of the Night	3d.	Autumn	1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men (85th thousand)	3d.	*Ben Bowlegs (10th thousand)	3d.
Three Children Sliding (12th thousand)	3d.	The Carrion Crow	3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste	3d.	Call John! (6th thousand)	3d.
The Snow-white Doe	4d.	Three Merry Fishers	3d.
		The Cuckoo Clock (just published)	3d.

DESCRIPTIVE CHORUSES.

With Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniments.

The Iron Horse	4d.	The Ocean	3d.
Off to Sea	4d.	*The Ironfounders (42nd thou.)	3d.
Jäger Chorus	3d.	The Cyclists	4d.
The Lifeboat	4d.

Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Elmham, Dereham.
Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah,"
"Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

JUST PUBLISHED.

A NEW EDITION OF
 HECTOR BERLIOZ
 “THE DAMNATION OF FAUST”

WITH AN ENTIRELY NEW ENGLISH VERSION BY WILLIAM WALLACE.

VOCAL SCORE, ARRANGED BY JOSEF HOLBROOKE
 PRICE THREE SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE NET.

The whole of the Orchestral Material (each Part is clearly engraved and beautifully printed) can now be purchased or hired.

						S.	D.
Full Orchestral Score (432 pp.)....	40	0
Orchestral Parts, complete	49	4
Extra Parts, each	1	4
Vocal Score	3	6
Chorus Parts (in the Press), each	0	8
Book of Words	0	2
Concert Guide	0	2

RIGHTS OF PERFORMANCE FREE.

To be had of all Music Sellers, or of—

BREITKOPF & HÄRTEL

Publishers of the COMPLETE WORKS OF HECTOR BERLIOZ (Catalogue Post-Free on application),

54, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, LONDON, W.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

SIXTH EDITION.

KING ARTHUR

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

JAMES SMETON, M.A.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED FOR

THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS,
AND ORCHESTRA

BY

JOHN MORE SMETON.

Vocal Score, 2s. 6d. Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.

Full Score and Band Parts on hire.

(This work takes about an hour and forty minutes to perform, and has been produced with conspicuous success by numerous societies throughout the Kingdom.)

"This beautiful work will enhance the reputation won for its composer by his similar composition 'Ariadne.' It shows a charming gift of melody, and no small musicianly skill in its merely technical qualities. It may be recommended to choral societies as well worthy of study."—Scotsman.

The celebrated Hymn from "King Arthur," "THERE IS A LAND BEYOND THE SETTING SUN," arranged by the Composer for S.A.T.B., may be had separately, Staff, 2d.; Sol-fa, 1½d.

BY THE SAME AUTHORS.

SIXTH EDITION.

ARIADNE

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR

FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND
ORCHESTRA

Vocal Score, 2s. Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

Full Score and Band Parts on hire.

(Takes about one hour to perform, and is a great favourite with the smaller Musical Societies.)

"A work ample in scientific quality, and abounding in melodic choruses, noble recitative, and charming solo numbers."—Scottish News.

JUST PUBLISHED.

CONNLA

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR

THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND
ORCHESTRA

Vocal Score, 2s. 6d.

Full Score and Band Parts on hire.

(The work takes about eighty minutes to perform, and is adapted for the larger Choral Societies.)

A specimen Copy of these works will be sent to Conductors, free of charge, on application to Mr. J. MORE SMETON, 12, Victoria Chambers, Dundee.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

PLAYED BY JAN KUBELIK.

VIOLIN MUSIC

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER, JUN.

SONATA IN E MINOR

(Op. 15.)

Price Six Shillings.

SOUVENIR

(Op. 17, No. 1.)

Price Two Shillings.

SALTELLATO-CAPRICE

(Op. 17, No. 2.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THREE DANCES

COMPOSED BY

FRANK E. TOURS.

ARRANGEMENT FOR THE PIANOFORTE
Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MAUNDER'S CHURCH MUSIC.

MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS.

	Staff Notation.	Tonic Sol-fa.
Anthem—Christians, Awake	3d.	2d.
Carol—Once in Bethlehem	2d.	1d.
Two Christmas Carols	3d.	2d.

SERVICES.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C (partly Unison)	3d.	1½d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D	3d.	2d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G	3d.	2d.
Benedicite in A	1½d.
Benedicite in G	2d.
Benedicite in F	1½d.
Te Deum in Free Chant Form	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in B flat	3d.	2d.
Communion Service in G	8d.
Amen in G	1d.	1d.

ORGAN.

Voix Seraphique (for Recitals) 2/-

CHURCH CANTATA.

Penitence, Pardon, and Peace (for Advent, Lent, and General use) 1/6 1/-

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Specimens of Anthems and Services free on application to J. H. MAUNDER, Hill Top, Belmont Park, S.E.

FOR SALE.—MUSICAL TIMES, complete, 43 Vols. Containing Title-Page, Music, Letterpress, and Advertisements. Offers wanted. John Brice, Mundesley, Alexandra Park Road, Wood Green, N.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
BEETHOVEN.—Deux Romances. Op. 40 and 50. For Violin and Harmonium ... each	4	0
DOHNÁNYI, E.—Quartet (in A). For Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello. Op. 7:—
Score ... net	2	6
Parts ... net	8	0
GORTER, A.—Stimmungsbilder. Eight Pianoforte Pieces. complete, net	4	0
GRIEG.—Norwegian Brautzug. For Orchestra. Op. 19, No. 2. Full Score ... net	4	0
— Hochzeitstag auf Trolldhaugen. For Pianoforte and Violin. Op. 65, No. 6 ... net	1	8
— Norwegische Bauerntänze. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 72. net	3	3
HALVORSEN.—Norwegische Bauerntänze. For Violin Solo	2	2
HECKMANN, J.—Stimmungsbild. For Violin, Harmonium, and Pianoforte. Op. 4 ... net	4	0
— The same. For Violin, Violoncello, Harmonium, and Pianoforte ... net	5	0
HOPPE, P.—Polonaise. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 18 ... net	4	0
KAHL, J. O.—Sonata (in A major). For Violin and Pianoforte net	8	0
KAUN, H.—Quintet. For Pianoforte, Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello. Op. 39 ... net	15	0
KISTLER, C.—Sérénade. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 72	3	0
— The same. For Viola and Pianoforte ... net	4	0
— The same. For Violoncello and Pianoforte ... net	4	0
KOHLER-GERA.—Maurerisches Aufnahmeliied. For Violoncello and Harmonium. Op. 51 ... net	2	0
— The same. For Viola and Harmonium ... net	2	0
KOSLOFF, H.—Mélodie tartare et Chant sans paroles. For Violin and Pianoforte ... each	3	0
KUHN.—Three Pieces. For Harmonium. Op. 48. 1. Resignation, 3s. 2. Studie, 4s.; 3. Am abend ... net	2	0
LAURISCHKUS, M.—Walzer-Capricen. For Violin, Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 14 ... net	5	0
— Five Pianoforte Pieces. Op. 13 ... complete, net	2	0
MEDTNER, N.—Eight Stimmungsbilder. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. ... each, net	1	6
MENDELSSOHN, L.—Two Pieces. For Pianoforte. Op. 169. 1. Libellule, Valse caprice; 2. Mazourka élégiaque ... net	3	0
MOSKOWSKI.—Capriccio. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 54. No. 3 ... net	1	1
— Suite. For Two Violins and Pianoforte. Op. 71 ... net	3	3
MOTTL.—Ballet-Suite. For Pianoforte Duet ... net	2	2
MOZART.—Eine kleine Nachtmusik. For Pianoforte Duet ... net	1	4
NICHOLL.—Six Pedal Studies. For Organ. Op. 47 ... net	3	3
OHLSEN, E.—Russischer-Marsch. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 106	3	0
— The same. For Orchestra ... Parts, net	2	6
PETERSEN-BERGER.—Lyric Pieces. For Pianoforte ... net	1	6
— Sonata. For Pianoforte and Violin ... net	7	0
SCHUBERT.—Symphony (in C major). For Two Pianofortes (4 hands) ... net	5	5
— Symphony (in B minor). For Two Pianofortes (4 hands) ... net	3	3
SEYBOLD, A.—"Neckteufelchen." Bagatelle. For String Orchestra. Op. 109:—
Score ... net	0	6
Parts ... net	1	4
SGAMBATI.—Twelve Mélodies poetiques. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 36 ... net	2	2
SINDING.—Eight Intermezzi. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 65. In Two Books ... each, net	2	2
— Six Stücke. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 66. In Three Books ... each, net	2	2
SOCHTING, E.—Trio Album, for the Young. For Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello. Op. 36. In Four Books each, net	2	6
STOJOWSKI.—Four Pianoforte Pieces. Op. 26 complete, net	2	2
STRAUSS.—"Taillefer." Ballade, for Chorus, Solo, and Orchestra. Op. 52:—
Vocal Score (German and English words) ... net	18	0
— "Don Juan." Transcribed for Pianoforte Solo. Op. 20 ... net	5	0
— "Tod und Verklärung." Transcribed for Pianoforte Solo. Op. 24 ... net	5	0
THIERIOT, F.—Zwei Concertstücke. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 76. 1. Larghetto, net 2s.; 2. Caprice, net	3	0
— Concerto. For Two Pianofortes. Op. 77 each part, net	9	0
TSCHAIKOWSKY.—Valse from 5th Symphony. For Pianoforte Solo ... net	6	0
— Capriccio Italien. For Small Orchestra. Op. 45:—
Orchestral Parts net	20	0
— 5th Symphony. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 64 ... net	10	0
TSCHÉREPNINE, N.—Six Preludes. For Pianoforte. Op. 17 each	4	0
WERMANN, O.—Characterstücke. For Harmonium. Op. 148:—
1. Festmarsch, 3s.; 2. Bitte, 2s.; 3. Sabbatrue, 3s.; 4. Stilles Glück, 3s.; 5. Ballade, 3s.; 6. Sonderbare Geschichte, 3s.; 7. In Schwerem Leid, 2s.; 8. Dankgebet, 2s.; 9. Frohliche Wanderung, 3s.; 10. Traumerei, 3s.; 11. Abendruhe, 2s.; 12. Erinnerung ... net	3	0
WOLF-FERRARI.—Sonata (G minor). For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 1 ... net	6	0
— Kammer-symphonie. For Pianoforte, Two Violins, Viola, Violoncello, Bass, Flute, Oboe, Clarinet, Bassoon, and Horn. Op. 8 ... net	20	0
— "Das neue Leben." For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 9 ... net	8	0
ZATAYEWITSCH, A.—Three Pieces. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 3. 1. Chant sans paroles, 3s.; 2. Petite Ballade, 3s.; 3. 5th Mazurka ... net	4	0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

CONCERTO

FOR ORGAN

AND

ORCHESTRA

(STRINGS, BRASS, HARP, AND DRUMS)

COMPOSED BY

HORATIO PARKER.

(Op. 55.)

Full Score	10s. 6d.
Organ Part	2s. 6d.
String Parts	5s. 3d.
Wind Parts	6s. 0d.

ARRANGEMENT FOR ORGAN SOLO, BY DAVID STANLEY SMITH.

Price Three Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

DIRECTORY

OF

MUSICAL EDUCATION

PART I.

BEING A GUIDE TO

Choir Schools and Choral Foundations for Boys; University Degrees in Music; Choral and Organist Scholarships; and Public Schools of Music in the United Kingdom

EDITED BY THE

REV. CHARLES EWART BUTLER, M.A.

Price One Shilling.
Paper boards, 1s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE RECITAL SERIES

OF

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN

No. 29.

NOCTURNE IN A

COMPOSED BY

WILLIAM FAULKES.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S PRIMERS OF MUSICAL BIOGRAPHY.

HECTOR BERLIOZ

BY

JOSEPH BENNETT.

Price One Shilling.
Cloth, gilt, 2s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Fifth Edition.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in E flat. By ALFRED
J. Dye. Voices only, 3d. Organ Copy, 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Seventh Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat.

By WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E.

By LENNOX RODNEY AMOTT, Mus.D. Festal setting. Melodious and not difficult. Price 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

ORGAN TRANSCRIPTIONS

BY
A. HERBERT BREWER.No. 1.
PRELUDEAND
ANGEL'S FAREWELL
(GERONTIUS)BY
EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Two Shillings.

No. 2.
FUNERAL MARCHFROM THE MUSIC TO GRANIA AND DIARMIDBY
EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR
THE ORGANBY
JOSEF RHEINBERGER.In Two Volumes, price, paper cover, 6s. each; cloth, gilt lettered, 8s. 6d. each.

Or, in separate Books:—

VOL. I.
TWELVE CHARACTERISTIC PIECES.

Book I. Preludio. Arioso. Canzonetta.	Book II. Intermezzo. Visione. Duetto.	Book III. In Memoriam. Pastorale. Lamento.	Book IV. Riposo. Passacaglia. Marcia Funebre.
--	--	---	--

Price: Books I., II., III., One Shilling and Sixpence each.

Book IV., Two Shillings.

MONOLOGUES.

Book I. No. 1, in C	Book II. No. 4, E♭ minor	Book III. No. 7, in D	Book IV. No. 10, F minor
" 2, A minor	" 5, in G	" 8, G♯ minor	" 11, in F
" 3, in E	" 6, B minor	" 9, in D	" 12, B♭ minor

Price: Book I., One Shilling.
Books II., III., IV., One Shilling and Sixpence each.VOL. II.
SIX SHORT PIECES.

Book I. Prelude. Intermezzo. Epilogue.	Book II. Canzonetta. Consolation. Trio.
---	--

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each Book.

TWELVE PIECES.

Book I. Romance. Scherzoso.	Book II. Aspiration. Contemplation.	Book III. Agitato. Improvisation.
Book IV. Solemn Festival. Duet.	Book V. Riccercare. Evening Rest.	Book VI. Melodia Ostinata. Finale.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each Book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

(ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN. No. 313.)

SCHERZO SYMPHONIQUE

COMPOSED BY
WILLIAM FAULKES.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

WILL BE PUBLISHED OCTOBER 7.

FIVE PART-SONGS

FOR MEN'S VOICES

(T.T.B.B.)

THE WORDS FROM THE
GREEK ANTHOLOGYIN ENGLISH BY ALMA STRETTELL, RICHARD GARNETT,
EDMUND GOSSE,
W. M. HARDINGE AND ANDREW LANG

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

(Op. 45.)

GERMAN TRANSLATION BY JULIUS BUTHS.

CONTENTS.

1. Yea, cast me from heights of the mountains (Ja, stürzt mich vom Steilhang des Felsen).
2. Whether I find thee (Ob ich dich fände).
3. After many a dusty mile (Nach so mancher staub'gen Meile).
4. It's oh! to be a wild wind (O wär' ich doch der wilde Wind).
5. Feasting I watch (Staunend bewacht).

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

Also to be published separately, English words only
("The Orpheus," Nos. 362—366).

Prices:

Nos. 363 and 365, 2d. each; No. 362, 3d.; Nos. 364 and 366, 4d. each.
Vocal Parts, German words only (in the Press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SCENES
FROM FAIRY-LAND

FOR THE

PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

ARNOLD KRUG.

(Op. 115.)

IN TWO BOOKS.

CONTENTS.

Book I.

The Sleeping Beauty (Dornröschen schläft).
The wedding procession of the Sleeping Beauty (Dornröschen's Hochzeitzug).
Cinderella in tears (Aschenbrödel's Klage).
Cinderella at the ball (Aschenbrödel auf dem Ball).
Little Red Riding Hood meets the Wolf in the forest (Rothkäppchen trifft den Wolf im Walde).

Book II.

Hansel and Gretel fall asleep in the forest (Hänsel und Gretel schlafen im Walde ein).
The Prince awakens the Sleeping Beauty (Der Prinz erweckt das schlafende Dornröschen).
Lullaby of the Dwarfs in "Snow-white" (Schlaflied der Zwerge aus "Schneewittchen").
The gallant and adventurous Little Tailor (Das tapfere Schneiderlein zieht auf Abenteuer aus).
The Pied Piper of Hamelin pipes and disappears with the children in the mountain (Der Rattenfänger von Hameln bläst und verschwindet mit den Kindern im Berge).
The seven Dwarfs find the sleeping Snow-white (Die sieben Zwerge finden das schlafende Schneewittchen).

Price Two Shillings each Book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Demy 8vo, 72 pp., price One Shilling and Sixpence.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s. 6d.

CLOTH, TWO SHILLINGS.

THE PARISH CHOIR MANUAL

CONTAINING

THE CANTICLES AT MORNING AND EVENING PRAYER
SET TO APPROPRIATE CHANTS

FERIAL AND FESTAL RESPONSES, LITANY, RESPONSES TO THE COMMANDMENTS, FINAL AMENS, VESPER HYMNS AND VESTRY PRAYERS

TOGETHER WITH

ORGAN ACCOMPANIMENTS TO THE LORD'S PRAYER, APOSTLES' AND NICENE CREEDS.

The Canticles, with the Cathedral Psalter Pointing, have been set to appropriate Chants by Sir John Stainer, Sir George C. Martin, Sir Joseph Barnby, Sir George Elvey, and other well-known church composers.

The Responses to the Commandments have been selected from the Services of the above composers as well as those of Myles B. Foster, Dr. Garrett, C. Gounod, Dr. E. J. Hopkins, Dr. C. H. Lloyd, Merbecke, H. Smart, John E. West, S. S. Wesley, and others.

Sir John Stainer's Sevenfold Amen is also included, as well as Vesper Hymns by Beethoven, Sullivan, and others; concluding with two Vestry Prayers by S. S. Wesley and the Rev. Canon Hervey.

PREFACE.

Organists, choirmasters, and librarians of choirs often have occasion to wish for a choral service-book of a comprehensive nature. This desideratum the "Parish Choir Manual" seeks to meet by supplying within one cover the Canticles for Morning and Evening Prayer, Responses (Ferial, Festal, and to the Commandments), Final Amens, Vesper Hymns, and Vestry Prayers, in addition to organ accompaniments to the Lord's Prayer and the Apostles' and Nicene Creeds.

The constant usefulness and the practicability of such a compilation are obvious, and a glance at the names of the composers will assure confidence in a publication that should commend itself for use "in quires and places where they sing."

In the Press. Separately from the above:—

THE RESPONSES TO THE COMMANDMENTS, PRICE 6D.

THE CANTICLES, PRICE 4D.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED, AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

NOW READY.

SELECTED PIANOFORTE STUDIES

PROGRESSIVELY ARRANGED

BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

IN TWO SETS (EIGHT BOOKS).

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

THE present collection of Studies is designed to provide teachers with a short course of Pianoforte Technique adapted to the needs of the average pupil, the intention being to spare the teacher the labour of choosing a sufficiently varied selection from the large mass of material existing, and at the same time to ensure that the different departments of technique shall be undertaken in the order which experience has proved to be the most beneficial.

The Studies are grouped in two Sets, and are so arranged that the different Books in which they are contained may be taken in consecutive order, but pupils who are already further advanced than the elementary stage represented by Set I. may commence at once with Set II., which will be found to be complete in itself, and to illustrate all the essential elements of technique.

Where additional studies are desired, or studies on certain subjects which are not touched upon in this series, the larger collection, published under the title of "Progressive Studies" (from which the present examples have been selected), is of course available.

London, 1903.

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH BOOK.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED, AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

CHAPPELL & CO.'S

LATEST BALLAD CONCERT SUCCESSES.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS NET EACH.

MAUDE VALÉRIE WHITE.

"THREE KISSES."
 "LAND OF THE ALMOND BLOSSOM."
 "APRIL'S LADY."
 "CANZONE DI TAORMINA."
 "SLUMBER SONG" (Buon Riposo).

FLORENCE AYLWARD.

"AT REST" AND "EACH ROSE" (Two Songs).
 "THE LIFE BEYOND."
 "THE SILENT RIVER."
 "LOVE'S BENEDICTION."

LIZA LEHMANN.

"LONG AGO IN EGYPT."
 "IN THE TASSEL-TIME OF SPRING."
 "SOUL'S BLOSSOM."

FRANCO LEONI.

"IN SYMPATHY."
 "THE BIRTH OF MORN" (1s. 6d. net).
 "THE RETORT."

GEORGE H. CLUTSAM.

"YOU PRETTY ROSE."
 "VANITY FAIR."
 "A CRADLE SONG."
 "RITORNELLO."

W. H. SQUIRE.

"THE JOLLY SAILOR."

GUY D'HARDELLOT.

"I HID MY LOVE."
 "BECAUSE."
 "I KNOW A LOVELY GARDEN."
 "AFTERWARDS, LOVE."

TERESA DEL RIEGO.

"THE BREEZE AND THE SCARF."
 "LA VIE EST VAINÉ" (A Song of Life).
 "THE WAKING OF SPRING."
 "GOD SPEED YOU, DEAR."

NOEL JOHNSON.

"ILLUSION."
 "A PROTEST."
 "SPRING FLOWERS."
 "PURPLE PANSIES."

HERMANN LÖHR.

"NELSON'S GONE A-SAILING."
 "SO FAIR A FLOWER."
 "AT SET OF SUN."

FRANK LAMBERT.

"CARESSANTE."
 "GOD'S GARDEN."
 "FORETHOUGHT" (1s. 6d. net).
 "O LET ME WEEP" (1s. 6d. net).

NEW & POPULAR INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

FOUR DANCES ... from "Merrie England." ... By EDWARD GERMAN.
 Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net; Pianoforte Duet, price 3s. net;
 Pianoforte and Violin, price 3s. net.

THREE DANCES ... from "Nell Gwyn." ... By EDWARD GERMAN.
 Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net; Pianoforte Duet, price 3s. net;
 Pianoforte and Violin, price 3s. net.

"IN DAYS OF OLD," Suite of Three Dances. ... By MEREDITH BALL.
 (No. 1. Morris Dance. No. 2. Danse Caractéristique (My Lady Barbara).
 No. 3. The Satyrs' Revel.)
 Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net.

FLOWER SUITE OF THREE DANCES ... By R. K. BENYON.
 (No. 1. Dance of the Roses. No. 2. Dance of the Pansies. No. 3. Dance of the Daisies.)
 Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net.

SIX MINIATURE DANCES ... By J. M. CAPEL.
 Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net.

TARANTELLA, for the Pianoforte ... By MEREDITH BALL.
 Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net.

CHAPPELL & CO., LTD., 50, New Bond St., London, W.

AND MAY BE HAD OF ALL MUSICSELLERS.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 729.—Vol. 44.
Registered for transmission abroad.

NOVEMBER 1, 1903.

Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.
Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY, ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

Conductor: Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, M.V.O., Mus.D

THURSDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 5, AT 8.

MENDELSSOHN'S "ELIJAH."

Artists:

MADAME ALBANI
MISS KATE ANDERSON.
MADAME KIRKBY LUNN
MISS EMILY FOXCROFT
MR. PHILIP NEWBURY
MR. FRED NORCUP

MR. KENNERLEY RUMFORD
MR. FORTON FERGUSON

BAND AND CHORUS, ONE THOUSAND.

Organist: MR. H. L. BALFOUR.

Prices: Stalls, 7s. 6d.; Arena, 6s.; Balcony (Reserved), 5s.;
Unreserved, 4s.; Gallery (Promenade), 2s.

Eight Concerts will be given during the season, seven being Subscription. Prices for the Subscription Series of Seven Concerts: Stalls: £2 2s.; Arena, £1 15s.; Balcony (reserved), £1 8s.

Subscribers' names can now be received, seats secured, and prospectuses obtained at the Royal Albert Hall, and usual Agents.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR'S "HIAWATHA"

ON THURSDAY, DECEMBER 3, AT 8.

Artists:

MADAME SOBRINO
MR. WILLIAM GREEN
MR. FRANGÇON-DAVIES.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.
Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1833.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

Director: Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bart., D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.

Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P.

The HALF-TERM will commence on November 5.

The NEXT EXAMINATION for ASSOCIATESHIP (A.R.C.M.) will take place in April, 1904.

Syllabus and official Entry Forms may be obtained from

FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The next F.R.C.O. Examination begins on January 4, 1904. The Solo-playing Tests are:—Sonata in A minor, Op. 140 (1st Movement), Merkel (Novello & Co.; Augener & Co.). Fugue in C, from Three Organ Pieces, Op. 7, Max Reger (Augener & Co., No. 5825, p. 5; or, "Cecelia," Book 44). Fantasia Overture, Garrett (Novello & Co.).

The A.R.C.O. Examination begins on January 11. This will include the writing of a short essay. The subject will be taken from Sir H. Parry's Studies of the Great Composers (Routledge).

The College Library is open daily from 10 to 5. On Saturdays the College is open from 10 to 1.

Members desiring practice on the College organ may obtain particulars on application.

The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, can be hired for Concerts, Meetings, &c.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

LONDON CHORAL SOCIETY.

CONDUCTOR ARTHUR FAGGE.

The full complement of voices in each part is still incomplete.

Good reading ability is absolutely essential.

Rehearsals are held every Monday night at Memorial Hall, Ludgate Circus, from 7 to 8.30; the Concerts at Queen's Hall.

Applications (letters only) to be sent to the CONDUCTOR, 92, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC, TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patron: HIS MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE KING.

President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, K.G.

Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

BROUGHTON PACKER BATH SCHOLARSHIPS: Violin Playing, for male and female candidates; Violoncello Playing, for male candidates. Last day for entry, November 26.

THALBERG SCHOLARSHIP, for male Pianists. Last day for entry, December 4.

METROPOLITAN EXAMINATION for LICENTIATESHIP (L.R.A.M.). Syllabus now ready.

FOUR SCHOLARSHIPS for Orchestral Instruments will be offered for Competition in January. Last day for entry, January 1, 1904.

Prospectus, Entrance Forms, and all further information of—

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD

OF THE

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC AND ROYAL COLLEGE OF
MUSIC FOR LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

PRESIDENT: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS (SYLLABUS A).
Held annually in March and April at all Centres, and in London and district in November and December also. Entries for the March-April Examinations close February 10, 1904.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS (SYLLABUS B).
Held three times a year—viz., March-April, June-July, and October-November.

Entries for the March-April Examinations close January 20, 1904. Copies of Syllabus A and B will be sent Post-free on application to the Secretary.

Theory papers set in Local Centre and School Examinations in 1896 to 1902 inclusive, can be obtained on application. Price 3d. per set, per year, Post-free.

The Board gives annually Six Exhibitions tenable for two years.

JAMES MUIR, Secretary.

14, Hanover Square, London, W.

Telegraphic address: "Associa, London."

ROYAL MANCHESTER COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Patroness: HER MAJESTY QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

President: Sir W. H. HOULDSWORTH, Bart., M.P.

Principal: Dr. ADOLPH BRODSKY.

The HALF-TERM begins on Tuesday, November 10. Candidates apply on a Printed Form, obtainable from the Registrar. Special Houses of Residence recommended for Students.

Students are required to enter upon a complete Course of Musical Instruction, and are not admitted for a shorter period than one year. Fee for the year £30, payable in instalments of £10 at the beginning of each term.

The prospectus, with Scholarship information and Diploma Regulations, on application.

STANLEY WITHERS, Registrar.

New Professor of the Piano-forte: Mr. Arthur Friedheim.

ST. ANNE'S, Soho.—BACH ORGAN RECITALS, by E. H. THORNE. Saturdays in November, at 3.30 p.m.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

METROPOLITAN EXAMINATION, SEPTEMBER, 1903.

The following CANDIDATES have passed:—

IN SINGING.

As TEACHERS.—Alice Ann Bayne, Frederick William Belchamber, Mabel Bullen, Harry Green.

As A PERFORMER.—Frederick Arthur Aireton.

EXAMINERS.—Messrs. Frederic King, Alberto Randegger, and F. Paolo Tosti.

IN PIANOFORTE PLAYING.

As PERFORMERS AND TEACHERS.—Winifred Margaret Chapman, Isabella Harrison, Florence M. L. Irwin, Alice Mary van Geyzel, Dorothy Williams.

As TEACHERS.—Ethel A. Acock, Jessie Anderson, Mary Aston, Agnes May Baker, Edward Johnson Bellerby, Marguerite Bouvier, Emma Bowman, Mary Winifred Bradbeer, Eva Kathleen Christie, Gertrude Grace Clarke, Mary Ethel Rosamond Cox, Maud Cuttall, Mabel Esworthy, Emily Follows, Clara Ottilie Härtel, Cecily Grace Haycraft, Marian Hill, Sallie Hollingworth, Nella Irene Horsford, Amy Isabella Hunt, Catherine Louisa Johnson, Alyce Kent, Mabel Wilton Kittow, Mildred Le Clercq, Gilbert Rosamund Ledger, Eveline Thomson Mahon, Christina Alice Martin, Janet Rintoul McLaren Maxwell, Margaret Christian McKenzie, Winifred Meredith, Marguerita Mary Middlehurst, Mary Cameron Murray, Helena Maude Powell, Helen Robertson Pullon, Maud Irene Railton, Jane Mary Reeve, Mabel Rive, Ethel Roberts, Archibald Rowles, Agnes E. Samson, Mrs. Beatrice Sinclair, Frances Grace Slaton, Muriel Annie Smith, Cornelia Taylor, Blanche Louise Thorn, Barbara Whiteway Vought, Mabel Beatrice Watts, Isabel Watson, Kathleen Jessie Westlake.

As PERFORMERS.—Joe Vaughan Berry, Sarah Elizabeth Lancaster, Ethel Randall, Hilda Borlase Smart, Winifred Isabel Whitson.

EXAMINERS.—Messrs. Carlo Albanesi, Oscar Beringer, Henry R. Eyers, Alfred E. Izard, Tobias Matthey, and Chas. F. Reddie.

IN ORGAN PLAYING.

Mabel Colyer, Albert Edward Wilshire.

EXAMINERS.—Messrs. W. Stevenson Hoyte, H. W. Richards, and Sir George Martin.

IN VIOLIN PLAYING.

As PERFORMER AND TEACHER.—Isabel Annie Kenwood.

As TEACHERS.—Florence Mabel Charter, Katharine Mary Crewdson, Ellen Fanny Smith, Mabel Frances Thompson.

EXAMINERS.—Messrs. F. Corder, W. Frye Parker, and Hans Wessely.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Managed by the Corporation of the City of London.

Principal: WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS, Mus.D., Dub., F.S.A., Hon. R.A.M. Pupils can enter at any time.

Individual tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. Within three minutes of Ludgate Hill, Fleet Street, and Blackfriars Station (District Railway).

110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships, giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Fencing, and Opera. Lady Superintendent has charge of all ladies attending the school. Prospectus and form of entry free on application to H. SAXE WYNDHAM, Victoria Embankment, E.C. Secretary.

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Visitor EDWARD ELGAR, Mus. Doc.

Principal GRANVILLE BANTOCK.

SESSION 1903-04.

The Session consists of Autumn Term (September 14 to December 19), Winter Term (January 18 to April 9), Summer Term (April 11 to June 18).

Instruction in all branches of music. Students' Selected Choir, Students' Orchestra, Fortnightly Rehearsals, and Students' Concerts. Prospectus and further information may be obtained from

ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in Durham in March (testamur only) and September.

For particulars, with copies of former Examination Papers, apply to the Secretary of Examinations, or to Dr. Armes, Durham.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

President: The Very Rev. FRANCIS PIGOU, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examination, in November and December, 1903, at the following Centres: London, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow, and Belfast.

Annual Membership Subscription, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.

Free register for Organists requiring appointments.

For new Calendar and further particulars apply to

Dr. LEWIS, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

HARROGATE MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

IN AID OF THE LOCAL MEDICAL CHARITIES.

Conductor: Mr. EDGAR HADDOCK.

KURSAAL, HARROGATE,
NOVEMBER 2, 1903.

MORNING CONCERT AT 2.30. EVENING CONCERT AT 7.30.

VOCAL AND INSTRUMENTAL SOLOISTS.
ORCHESTRA OF ONE HUNDRED PERFORMERS.

Full particulars at Messrs. Ratcliffe Bros., Royal Arcade, Harrogate.

THE FOURTEENTH ANNUAL
MORECAMBE MUSICAL FESTIVAL
AND COMPETITION

WILL BE HELD ON

APRIL 26, 27, 28, 29 AND 30, 1904.

SYLLABUS, containing full information, can be had, price 4d. each, post-free, from

H. POWELL, Secretary.

LONDON COLLEGE FOR CHORISTERS

(Late LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS),

POLYTECHNIC, REGENT STREET, W.

AND

80, CAMBRIDGE TERRACE, HYDE PARK, W.

Provides Musical Boys with a thorough Vocal and Instrumental Training, together with the educational advantages of a first-class grammar school.

Boys coached for Cathedral and other Choristships.

SOLO-BOYS supplied for Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, Festivals, &c.

Organists, clergy, and others interested are invited to inspect the College, 80, Cambridge Terrace, near Lancaster Gate (Tube) Station, Praed St. (Metropolitan), and Paddington (G.W.R.) Stations, Wednesdays, 9.30 to 12.30; other times by appointment.

Address, Mr. JAMES BATES, 7, Blomfield Crescent, W.

Telegrams—"Musicomane, London." Telephone—1074, Western.

NATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC, LIM.

Patron: THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH.

Warden: DR. TINDALL, A.T.C.L.

EXAMINATION, 4 Grades, and for Diplomas and Medals, London and Provinces, December. Also Lecture (Warden), "Queens of Song." Local Secretaries wanted.

W. J. MOSS, 112, Portsdown Road, W.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
LONDON.(Under the direction of The Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)
INCORPORATED 1891.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

PRESIDENT: THE MOST HON. THE MARQUIS OF ANGLESEY.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L. (Principal).

GEORGE PRIOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon. (Registrar).

J. M. BENTLEY, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M. (Chairman).

W. E. THOMAS, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

CHARLES R. FISHER, Mus. Doc., F.G.C.M.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W. Terms moderate.

Hon. Director of Studies: CHURCHILL SIBLEY, Mus.D.

Metropolitan Examinations in all subjects, including the Diplomas of A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., also for the Teachers' Professional Diploma in the Art of Teaching, December, 1903.

Local Theoretical Examination, December, 1903.

Practical Examinations are now being held at the various Centres.

Holder of the Victoria College Vocal Scholarship, 1901: Miss Loti L. Wakelin, L.R.A.M.; 1902, Miss Audrey Willows, L.V.C.M.

Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for competition.

Local Secretaries required for towns not represented.

All communications to be addressed as usual to the Central Office, 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

NATIONAL CONSERVATOIRE

INST., 1895. OF MUSIC, LTD. INCOR., 1900.

London: 174, WARDOUR STREET, W.

Warden: PROFESSOR ALEXANDER PHIPPS, Mus. Bac.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS, all Towns, in Dec. Two Scholarships awarded; also Gold and Silver Medals, Prizes, &c.

DIPLOMAS, ASSOCIATE, LICENTIATE, and FELLOW, for Teachers, Organists, Vocalists, Pianists and Violinists.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT (40 Professors). Also at Conservatoire, Hardman Street, Liverpool. Apply, Registrar.

HUGO GÖRLITZ,

119, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Telegrams—Hugonotas, London.

Telephone—4013 Gerrard.

KUBELIK SEASON, 1903—1904.

Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ.

Mr. HUGO GÖRLITZ is Agent for the Leading Artists of the World, and Sole Agent for

KUBELIK WILHELM BACKHAUS

MARTHA CUNNINGHAM ALICE HOLLÄNDER

MADAME KALLIWODA MISS MARIAN ICETON

JOHN HARRISON (the new English Tenor)

LILIAN FOULIS (Violinist) PAUL GRÜMMER (Violoncellist)

MISS EVALYN AMETHE

HERR HEGEDUS

THE AMSTERDAM ORCHESTRA

THE BOHEMIAN STRING QUARTETTE

DR. RICHARD STRAUSS, Etc.

DR RICHARD STRAUSS'S AMERICAN TOUR

FEBRUARY TO MAY, 1904.

KUBELIK AUTUMN TOUR

OCTOBER 2 TO NOVEMBER 21, 1903.

(Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ)

119, New Bond Street, London, W.

RICHARD STRAUSS FESTIVAL.JOHN HARRISON'S SUCCESS.

THE TIMES says:

"The first of the songs were sung in German, with capital expression, by Mr. John Harrison: is a 'Friedenszählung.'"

THE STANDARD says:

"The two principal tenor solos were finely sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE DAILY NEWS says:

"Mr. Harrison, the tenor, sang with a sense of dramatic emphasis one had not expected from him, and at the same time the quality of his voice was good."

THE MORNING POST says:

"Of two tenor songs, one 'The Vision of Peace,' the other from the last act, both are modelled on Wagner; the second is the more striking. The orchestration in the first is heavy, so that the vocalist has a hard fight. Mr. John Harrison sang both extremely well."

THE DAILY GRAPHIC says:

"Two of them well sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE WESTMINSTER GAZETTE says:

"The solo parts of which were taken in first-rate style by Mr. John Harrison."

THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN says:

"Two long solos allotted to the hero were sung by Mr. John Harrison, who earned great applause by his beautiful voice and method, and his sincere and refined dramatic expression. His performances stamp him as an artist of the first rank."

THE GLOBE says:

"Two tenor solos, well sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE STAR says:

"Both were sung with conspicuous beauty of voice and expression by Mr. John Harrison, who thereby showed himself more than equal to the severest of artistic tasks."

MR. JOHN HARRISON is a Pupil of

MADAME AMY SHERWIN.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

Madame Amy Sherwin has opened a Studio in New Bond Street, for Vocal Culture and for preparing Students for the Concert and Operatic Stage. Full particulars can be obtained by addressing HUGO GÖRLITZ, 119, New Bond Street, W.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.MISS ETHEL BARNARD (Soprano)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Singing Lessons given.
20, Priory Court Mansions, West Hampstead.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano).

"JUDAS."—"Sang her solos admirably."—Sheffield Telegraph.
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)

Oratorios and Concerts.
Burley Road, Leeds.

MADAME ANNIE HAYMAN (Soprano)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Thorncliffe, Lowfield Road, Stockport.

MISS ETTIE SPICE (Soprano)MISS EMILY TANNER (Contralto)

Concerts, At Homes, &c.

Duets a speciality.

74, Bromfelde Road, Clapham, S.W.

MISS CONSTANCE YORKE (Soprano)

Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

Address, Sunnyside, Sycamore Road, Smethwick, Birmingham.

MISS JENNY ATKINSON (Contralto).

Recommended for Oratorio by Mr. Arthur Fagge.

71, Richmond Road, Dalston, London, N.E.

MISS ISABEL CLEAR (Contralto)

Guyvers, Maldon,
Essex.

MISS BERYL CLIVE (Contralto)

14, Gladsmuir Road, Whitehall Park, N.

MISS EDITH CRAWFORD (Contralto)

Concerts, At Homes, &c.

Glencairn, Cane Hill, Purley, Surrey.

MISS KATE GREGORY

(The new Yorkshire Contralto)

(Professional Pupil of Albert Jowett, Esq., Yorkshire Training College of Music, Leeds).

Oratorios and Ballad Concerts.

Terms, &c., apply, Greendyke Lane, Doncaster.

MISS GERTRUDE HEY (Contralto)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

Lawn Side, Clarendon Road, Whalley Range, Manchester.

MADAME HURLE-HOBBS (Contralto)

Oratorios, Recitals, Concerts, &c.

Address, 37, Briar Walk, Upper Edmonton, London, N.

MISS ANNIE McBRIDE (Contralto)

Concerts, Oratorios, &c.

129, Fawnbrake Avenue, Herne Hill, S.E.

MR. FOLEY BANKS (Tenor).

"Mr. Foley Banks may be congratulated on possessing a voice of true tenor quality."—Standard, Dec., 1902.

For terms, apply, 129, Upton Park Road, Forest Gate, E.

MR. J. G. BLANCHARD

(Principal Tenor, Italian Church, Hatton Garden).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address, 41, Savernake Road, N.W.

MR. CHARLES KEEP (Tenor)

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

26, Milton Avenue, Highgate, N.

MR. FREDERICK E. PARKER, G.S.M. (Tenor).

Concerts, At Homes, &c. (for expenses).

42, Acton Lane, Harlesden, N.W.

MR. WILLIAM D. VINCENT (Tenor)

"Old Italian School."

Concerts, &c., address, 167, Tachbrook Street, Belgrave Road, S.W.

MR. GEORGE STUBBS (Baritone)

(St. Paul's Cathedral).

129, Fawnbrake Avenue, Herne Hill, S.E.

MR. AND MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS

(Baritone, Soprano, and Elocutionists).

Concerts, Lyrical Recitals, Pupils (Resident, &c.). Sharon, Ealing, W.

ŠEVČÍK'S NEW VIOLIN METHOD.HERR HEINRICH DITTMAR (Violinist)

Pupil of Professor Ševčík,

Gives LESSONS in this System in London. For Prospectus, address, 60, Berners Street, London, W.

MISS MARY OULD, L.R.A.M. (Solo Violinist)

For Concerts, At Homes, Lessons, &c.

Oakdene, Kilburn Priory, Maida Vale, W.

NEW ŠEVČÍK VIOLIN METHOD.

PROF. ŠEVČÍK (Master of KUBELIK and KOCIÁN) METHOD
thoroughly taught by

PROFESSOR KOENIG (Of Prague)

(Pupil of Herr Ševčík).

CLASSES and PRIVATE LESSONS. For particulars, apply to
Prof. Herman Koenig, 36, Ainger Road, N.W.

MISS AGNES WALKER (Soprano Vocalist and Teacher of Singing). For terms and press notices, address, 147, Brockley Road, Brockley, S.E.

MISS PHYLLIS RAYMOND (Contralto), of St.
James's Hall. Concerts, Oratorios. Belbroughton, Stourbridge.

MADAME ADEY BRUNEL.—This renowned artist's renderings of "Hiawatha" and the poems of other Musical Works have been unprecedented successes. "She stands supreme in her art as do Calvé and Duse in theirs."—Musical Courier.
Terms and press-excerpts from Norman-Concorde, 82, New Bond St.

MR. WILLIAM WILD (Tenor), of the "Sir
Charles and Lady Hallé South African Concert Tour, 1895";
of the London (Queen's Hall) Concerts; of the Richter and Manchester
Gentlemen's Concerts. Pupil of Andrew Black, Esq. Terms, &c.,
Grosvenor Square, Stalybridge, near Manchester.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass), Oratorios,
Concerts, Lessons. CRYSTAL PALACE ORATORIO AND
CONCERT PARTY. Specimen Programmes and terms, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MR. J. W. SENIOR (Solo Bass), Ripon Cathedral, is prepared to accept ENGAGEMENTS for Oratorio, Ballad
Concerts, &c. For terms, apply, 21, Hillshaw Terrace, Ripon.

MR. FERDINAND RIPPON (Solo Violinist), for Concerts, At Homes; also Leader of Orchestra for Oratorios,
&c. A Violin for Sale. Address, 20 Salisbury Road, Reading.

THE CONCORDE CONCERT CONTROL.—
Conductors engaging artists find it artistically and financially advantageous to write to Mr. Norman-Concorde, 82, New Bond St., W.

MISS TERESA BLAMY

(SOPRANO).

Oratorios, Concerts.

36, Westwick Gardens, West Kensington, London.

MISS FLORENCE BOWNESS

(SOPRANO).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

Scout House, Newchurch, near Manchester.

MISS GWENDOLEN DEATH

(SOPRANO).

Oratorios, Recitals, Concerts, &c. References kindly permitted to Dr G. J. Bennett, Lincoln, and other Conductors.

Apply, 11, Guildhall Street, Lincoln.

MADAME NORLEDGE

(SOPRANO).

BALLADS.—"It was refreshing to hear such a cultured, flexible soprano. Her interpretation of the song 'Vilanelle' (del Acqua) was the very essence of daintiness and charm."—Surrey Comet.

"CREATION." Possesses all the qualities requisite for an ideal interpretation of Haydn's masterpiece—power, fluency, sweetness, and taste."—Coventry Herald and Free Press.

"JUDAS MACCABÆUS."—"Was rendered with an ease and charm which stamped her at once as a vocalist of a high order."—Derby Telegraph.

"ELIJAH."—"Sang in faultless style, with much passion and fire,
the audience being warm in their appreciation."—Sheffield Independent.

BALLADS.—"Repeated her former success. . . . enthusiastic recalls rewarded the clever singer."—Birmingham Daily Post.

En route terms quoted for Dec. 7 and 9, North of England.

Address, 30, Wellington Road, Newark-on-Trent.

MISS

BEATRICE PALLISTER

(SOPRANO).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Broxholme Lane, Doncaster.

MISS AMY SARGENT

A.R.A.M. (SOPRANO),

8, Middleton Road, Camden Road, N.

MISS SYDNEY BUSHNELL

(CONTRALTO).

Care of Mdne. Susannah Cole, 5, Portsdown Road, Maida Vale, W.

MISS FLORENCE HOOLE

(CONTRALTO)

(Of the Queen's Hall Promenade Concerts)

is open to accept Engagements. For terms and vacant dates, apply, 78, Broadhurst Gardens, N.W.

MISS LILLIE WORMALD

(SOPRANO).

PROMENADE CONCERTS, October 1, 1903.

THE STANDARD says:—

"The singing of Miss Lillie Wormald, a promising young recruit to these concerts, proved entirely to popular taste, the artist deserving the highest commendation for her rendering of exacting songs."

THE MORNING POST says:—

"Miss Lillie Wormald, who made her first appearance at these concerts, possesses a high soprano voice of excellent quality which has been well trained. She sang the difficult Bell song from Léo Delibes' 'Lakmé' with great fluency and was deservedly applauded."

THE DAILY TELEGRAPH says:—

"To the vocal side of the programme Miss Lillie Wormald and Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies contributed, both artists proving successful."

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN says:—

"Miss Lillie Wormald sang songs by Mozart and various modern composers with that kind of intelligence which stamps her as a genuine artist."

LIVERPOOL PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

Conductor: Dr. COWEN.

THIRD SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT.

"The great treat of the miscellaneous portion of the programme was the exquisitely dainty singing by Miss Lillie Wormald of the 'Couplets du Mysoli,' from David's 'La Perle du Brésil.'"—Liverpool Courier, November 12, 1902.

BIRMINGHAM CHAMBER CONCERTS.

"Miss Lillie Wormald achieved a genuine triumph, and thanks are due to Mr. Mossel for having introduced so brilliant a vocalist to local notice. . . . Her voice is a soprano of great brilliance. Rarely have we heard such exquisite and easy vocalisation."—Birmingham Daily Mail, December 18, 1902.

"The singer's success could only be described as brilliant; no weaker term would be adequate."—Birmingham Post, December 18, 1902.

"Miss Lillie Wormald possesses a lovely rich voice, which almost proved too voluminous for the hall."—Birmingham Daily Mail,
May 22, 1903.

For terms and vacant dates apply—

MISS LILLIE WORMALD,

18, Hartington Road,

Chorlton-cum-Hardy, Manchester.

Or leading London Agents.

MISS FLORENCE HAIGH

(CONTRALTO)

For Oratorio, Ballads, At Homes.

"Miss Haigh possesses a rich Contralto voice of great range and sweetness."—Preston Guardian.

"From the moment Miss Haigh had concluded her first song, 'For All Eternity,' everyone was ready for her again. Her recall was emphatic. In the well-known song 'Rocked in the cradle of the deep,' the fine compass of her voice, with its mellow tones, was heard to the greatest advantage."—Cross Journal.

"Miss Haigh excelled herself in the lovely coon song 'My curly-headed baby' (Clutsam). It was the price de resistance. Her notation was almost a living characterization of the negro mother waiting her babe to dreamland."—Fleury's Journal.

For terms and vacant dates,

40, Grosvenor Chambers, Deansgate, Manchester.

MISS LUCIE JOHNSTONE

(CONTRALTO).

Permanent address:—

Glenarm Lodge, Rosendale Road, West Dulwich, S.E.; or,
c/o Mr. N. Vert, 6, Cork St., W. Telegrams: "Doxologies," London.

MISS ADELAIDE LAMBE

(CONTRALTO).

Queen's Hall and Crystal Palace Concerts, &c.

Address, Holmwood, Roxborough Park, Harrow.

MISS MAUD SANTLEY

(CONTRALTO)

(Of the Royal Albert Hall, the Queen's Hall, London Ballad Concerts, the Adelina Patti, Melba, and Harrison Concert Tours, the Symphony Concerts, Belgium, &c.).

Repertoire of all standard oratorios and works, including: "The Dream of Gerontius" and "Sea Pictures" (Elgar), and "Samson and Delilah" (Saint-Saëns). For vacant dates, address, 60, Margaret Street, Cavendish Square, London, W.

MISS HILDA STRAUSS

(CONTRALTO)

Oratorios and Ballads.

Engagements include: "Elijah," "Messiah," "Samson," "Last Judgment," &c.

Address, 10, Conference Place, Armley, Leeds.

MR. CLAUDE ANDERSON

(TENOR). For Oratorios and Concerts.

"Possesses a pleasant tenor voice of considerable flexibility. Sang with expression and intelligence."—Daily Telegraph.
8, Corinne Road, Tufnell Park, N.

MR. WRIGHT BEAUMONT

(TENOR)

Bronze and Silver Medalist and Certificate, R.A.M.
Address, Roach House, Manchuria Road, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. TOM CHILD

(THE YORKSHIRE TENOR)

The Poplars, Calverley, Leeds.

MR. CYRIL D'ARCY

(SOLO TENOR, St. Philip's, Kensington).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

For terms, &c., apply, 5, Durrell Road, Munster Park, S.W.

MR. TREVOR EVANS

(TENOR).

"As fine a tenor singer as we have heard since the last appearance of Mr. Edward Lloyd and Mr. Ben Davies at these concerts."—Isle of Man Daily Times, September 14, 1903.

ORATORIOS, Concerts, Recitals, &c.

Address, 19, Lady Somerset Road, Kentish Town, London, N.W.

MR. FRANCIS GLYNN

(TENOR).

High Elms, Burgh Heath Road, Epsom.

MR. WALTER LAWLEY

(TENOR)

"MESSIAH."—"Mr. Walter Lawley gave a fine rendering of 'Comfort ye,' 'Every valley.'"—Yorkshire Post, April 11, 1903.
"HIAWATHA."—"The event of the evening was, no doubt, Mr. Walter Lawley's splendid rendering of the tenor solo, 'Onaway! awake, beloved!' for which he had a most enthusiastic reception."—Wigan Examiner, March 19, 1903.

"THREE HOLY CHILDREN" (C. Villiers Stanford).—"Mr. Walter Lawley accomplished all his work in his usual able manner."—Rochdale Times, March 11, 1903.

50, Beyer Street, Gorton, Manchester.

MR. HENRY PLEVY

(TENOR)

(Of the Beethoven Festival, Queen's Hall and Crystal Palace Concerts.)

Address: 30, Hamilton Gardens, N.W.

MR. JOS. REED

(PRINCIPAL TENOR).

Trinity College, Cambridge.

Tenor, Madame Clara Butt's Tours, October, 1900; Spring, 1902.

Vacant dates. 55, Chesterton Road, Cambridge.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS

(TENOR).

For vacant dates, apply, 105, North Side, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. WILLIAM A. SHEEN

(PRINCIPAL TENOR, The City Temple).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

For Terms, &c., apply, 71, Alkham Road, Stamford Hill, N.

MR. FRED. AIRETON (L.R.A.M.)

(BARITONE).

Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. JOHN BROWNING

(BARITONE).

Soloist, Leeds Musical Festivals and of the leading English, Scotch, and Irish Concerts. Extensive repertoire of over 100 works.

Season 1902/3, has sung Baritone Solos in sixty works ("Elijah" 12 times, "Messiah" 10), and at forty Miscellaneous Concerts.

Bookings for this Season include: "Messiah" (7 times), "Elijah" (3), "Creation" (3), "St. Paul," "Samson," "Seasons," "Walpurgis Night," "Ancient Mariner," Rossini's "Stabat Mater," "Acis and Galatea," "Daisy Chain," &c.

In Scotland Dec. 14, 15, and 23 (Glasgow, Dundee, and Arbroath). Some consecutive dates still vacant.

Address, Marlbro' Grove, Leeds.

MR. WILLIAM LLEWELLYN

(BARITONE)

(Royal Choral Society's Concerts; Crystal Palace Oratorio Concerts; Birmingham and Wolverhampton Festival Choral Societies' Concerts, &c.), can accept engagements during the present season for

ORATORIO, WAGNER RECITALS, and CLASSICAL CONCERTS.

Address, R. Norman-Concorde, 82, New Bond Street, London, W.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS,

48, DYNE ROAD, BRONDESBUURY, N.W.

Telegrams:—Soloist, London.

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL

(BARITONE).

(Westminster Abbey.)

Mr. HENRY J. WOOD (Conductor, Queen's Hall Concerts) writes:—

"1, Langham Place, W., Feb. 14, 1901.

"Mr. Montague Borwell is an excellent vocalist.

"He has been most successful both at Queen's Hall, and at my Nottingham and Wolverhampton Concerts, in most difficult and trying rôles, and I consider him one of the most reliable and painstaking baritone vocalists now before the public.

"HENRY J. WOOD."

"ELIJAH."—TONBRIDGE.—"Mr. Montague Borwell was a perfect exponent of the fiery Prophet. He is the nearest approach to Santley I have heard for a long time. The dramatic instinct, the necessary sarcasm, and the devotional spirit of the Prophet were all there. The great air, 'Is not His Word,' being sung with much spirit, the top F rang as resonantly as a bell. The beautiful air, 'It is enough,' was splendidly sung, and Mr. Borwell had to repeatedly bow his acknowledgments."—Tonbridge Free Press.

"ELIJAH."—STOURBRIDGE.—"Mr. Montague Borwell sang the part of Elijah with fine dramatic expression. His taunts to the Priests of Baal were marked with bitter sarcasm, his appearances to Ahab with dignity, his lament on his betrayal by the people and his invocation to God were most impressive."—County Express.

"FAUST" (BERLIOZ).—BALLYMONEY.—"Mr. Montague Borwell gave a very dramatic exposition of the part throughout... His rendering of the Serenade was simply splendid, whilst his enunciation throughout the whole work was perfect."—Colevaine Constitution.

"FAUST" (GOUNOD).—SOUTHEND.—"The pick of the principals was Mr. Montague Borwell, whose singing both technically and artistically, was admirable... His rendering of the Cavatina, and Valentine's death scene being beyond reproach."—Observer.

AND

MISS WINIFRED MARWOOD

(Mrs. Montague Borwell—SOPRANO).

"ELIJAH."—WEYBRIDGE.—"Possessing a soprano voice of fine quality and wide compass, Miss Winifred Marwood maintained a very high standard of excellence in the whole of her contributions, of which perhaps 'Hear ye, Israel,' was the most effective."—Surrey Advertiser.

"ELIJAH."—TONBRIDGE.—"Miss Winifred Marwood made a great impression by her rendering of 'Hear ye, Israel.' It was sung as it should be—prayerfully, and not shouted to the people."—Tonbridge Free Press.

"HIAWATHA."—WEYBRIDGE.—"Miss Winifred Marwood, a soprano of wide range and pleasing method, and Mr. Montague Borwell, a resonant baritone, took the solos in the second scene, and their treatment of the deeply pathetic picture left little to be desired."—Surrey Advertiser.

"L'ALLEGRO."—BRIGHTON.—"Miss Winifred Marwood, who made her first appearance at the Society's Concerts, sang the soprano solos, and showed the possession of a voice of bright, clear, and resonant quality, with a cultured and finished style of vocalization. She achieved conspicuous success in her rendering of 'Sweet bird, that shun'st the noise of folly,' for which she had to acknowledge the enthusiastic applause of a delighted audience."—Daily News, London.

48, Dyne Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MR. JOHN RIDDING

(BARITONE)

Sweetman's Agency, Liverpool; or, 11, Southfield Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MR. ARTHUR WALENN

(BARITONE)

20, Ashworth Mansions, Elgin Avenue, London, W.

MR. BERNARD FOUNTAIN

(BASS-BARITONE).

MISS ENA FOUNTAIN

(CONTRALTO and ACCOMPANIST).

Oratorios, Concerts, Masonic.

Mentmore, Southwold Road, Upper Clapton, London.

MR. SIDNEY STODDARD

(BASS-BARITONE)

23, St. Mary Axe, E.C.

"ELIJAH."—MELTON MOWBRAY, March 12, 1903.—"As representing the titular character, Mr. Stoddard had far the most to do of the principals, and in voice, method, and style he carried out his task in a manner which bespoke the cultured artist. Energy and power, combined with dramatic instinct, characterised his efforts, and he fulfilled the rôle to the entire satisfaction of his auditors. One of his best items was the touching air 'It is enough,' which was superbly given; while in 'Lord God of Abraham' and 'Is not His Word,' Mr. Stoddard was heard to the best effect. The bass recitatives, which are constant throughout the work, were given with a full conception of their meaning."—Journal.

MR. HENRY SUNMAN

(BASS).

Licentiate (Artist) of the Royal Academy of Music, of the Gloucester and Cheltenham Festivals, &c.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

"MESSIAH."—TWEKESBURY FESTIVAL, 1903.

"Mr. Henry Sunman, the bass soloist engaged, sang with strength and verve, giving a very rousing rendering of 'Why do the nations.' This, if taken rather in excess of the orthodox time, certainly suffered nothing in brilliancy on that account."—Gloucester Echo, Sept. 25, 1903.

"Mr. Henry Sunman, by his resonant voice, gave the bass airs with commendable breadth."—Western Press, Sept. 25, 1903.

"Mr. Henry Sunman gave the bass solos in cultured style, and particularly excelled in 'The trumpet shall sound.'"—Worcester Journal, Sept. 26, 1903.

Please address, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

MR. HERBERT TRACEY

(BASS).

Extensive répertoire. For terms, address, 101, Amesbury Avenue, S.W.

MISS MARIAN JAY

(SOLO VIOLINIST).

ON TOUR until November 7.

"She is not merely a virtuoso, but an artist."—The Times, London.
For Concerts, &c., address, 38, Warwick Road, Earls Court, S.W.

FREDERICK MOORE (A.R.A.M.)

Macfarren Gold Medalist. Solo Pianist. LESSONS, &c.
98, Elgin Crescent, Holland Park, W.

MISS ELLEN CHILDS

(CHROMATIC HARPIST).

Having studied in Paris under the direction of the Inventor, Miss Childs is prepared to give LESSONS on the NEW CHROMATIC HARP (without pedals). For terms, apply, 170, Belsize Road, N.W.; or, care of Messrs. Pleyell, Wolff, Lyon and Co., 79-80, Baker Street, Portman Square, W.

MISS

MARGUERITE SWALE

PREPARES VOCALISTS for Oratorio, Opera, German Lieder, and Ballads.

VOICE PRODUCTION AND SINGING.

Recommended by distinguished Artists.

F., 120, Great Portland Street, W.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Boys, personally trained and thoroughly reliable, for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, vacant dates, and further particulars, address, Mr. Henry J. Dutton, 17, Alpha Rd., New Cross, S.E.

MR. TANN'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. W. R. B. TANN, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Saviour's Church, Paddington, is prepared to supply well-trained Solo Boys for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

A number of excellent Chorus Boys also available.

For terms and vacant dates, address, Mr. W. R. B. Tann, 55, Warwick Road, Maida Vale, W.

MR. BATES (London College for Choristers) supplies SOLOBOYS for Oratorios, &c. See p. 698, Musical Times.

STEDMAN'S MUSICAL AGENCY

(MRS. JOHN STEDMAN AND SYDNEY BAYNES)

(Established 1877).

Artists for Opera, Theatre, Oratorio, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Choruses, Choir Boys and Girls.
Singing Lessons and Coaching.
58, Berners Street, W.

THE CONCORDIA (Male Voice) QUARTETTE are now BOOKING ENGAGEMENTS.—Glees, Duets, and Songs. Concerts, Dinners, At Homes, &c. Apply, E. F. P., Carrick, St. Nicholas, Sutton, Surrey.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. Eastfield House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS.
Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities, Diplomas of L.R.A.M., A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O.; Appointments at College and School of Music, and as English Cathedral and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of seven hundred and fifty. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Piano-forte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ARNOTT, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, Organist to The Honble. Society of Gray's Inn, PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Examinations, and receives Pupils for Pianoforte, Organ, Singing; also, Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition, personally or by correspondence. Scores revised and compositions scored. All letters to The Common Room, Gray's Inn.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., Mus. Bac., Dunelm, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or, at 60, Berners Street, W. Schools attended. Address, 289, High Road, Lee, S.E.

ARTHUR T. FROGGATT, Mus.D., T.C.D., gives LESSONS by POST, and prepares for all genuine examinations. 2, Hampden Villas, Hythe.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., is now making a SPECIALITY OF PREPARING CANDIDATES by CORRESPONDENCE for University, Royal College of Organists, and other musical Exams. LARGE NUMBER OF PAST SUCCESSES. Moderate terms. PERSONAL LESSONS in THEORY and ORGAN (for R.C.O. exams.) are given either at Streatham or in London. 52, Buckleigh Road, Streatham, S.W.

RECENT SUCCESSES.

R. C.O. EXAMS., JULY, 1903:—
F.R.C.O., Two successes; A.R.C.O., Three successes.
DURHAM UNIVERSITY EXAMS., SEPT., 1903:—
Final Mus. Bac.; First Mus. Bac. (3).
Apply, Dr. HARRIS, as above.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus. T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and PREPARES CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Latest successes: Mus. Bac., Oxford and Durham, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., &c. Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY, Mus.D., Oxon., 13, Roseleigh Avenue, Highbury, N., continues to PREPARE CANDIDATES for the various Theoretical Examinations. Music of any description revised or arranged. LESSONS in COMPOSITION, by post if desired.

MUS. DOC., DURHAM, 1903.—Two Candidates for this Degree were coached by DR. ATHELSTAN G. IGGULDEN, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., and both were successful. Many other recent successes, including R.C.O. Exams. Thorough preparation by Post for all bona-fide examinations. MSS. corrected and revised. The Dingle, Reigate, Surrey.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM and ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Recent successes: MUS. DOC., DURHAM, 1903; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1903; OXFORD FIRST and FINAL MUS. BAC., 1903, 1902, &c.; ASSOCIATED BOARD, Senior Harmony (Honours), Counterpoint, 1903; DURHAM, 1902, 1901, 1900, and all previous years; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1902; L.R.A.M. (Composition and Pianoforte), 1903, 1902, 1901, &c.; A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, Composition and Pianoforte Teaching); CAMBRIDGE and DUBLIN, MUS. BAC.; L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M.; L.T.C.L., A.T.C.L., and Special Certificates, 1903, 1902, &c. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Terms moderate. MSS. corrected for publication.

Analyses of Classical Works for Examinations.
70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

DR. MARCHANT, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Author of "500 Fugue Subjects and Answers," Novello's Primers, No. 35), &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Musical Examinations by Post. 10, Glebe Crescent, Stirling, N.B.

MR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus.B., F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., makes a SPECIALITY OF COACHING for DEGREES. L.R.A.M., 1897-1903, FORTY-ONE SUCCESSES; A.R.C.M., 1897-1903, ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTEEN SUCCESSES. Equally good results in R.C.O. and other Examinations. Address, Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

MR. C. GODOLPHIN OSBORNE, L.R.A.M., COACHES for Examinations. Latest pupils' successes. L.R.A.M. (pianoforte), September, 1903. Moderate terms. Address, 81, Brecknold Rd., N. West-End Studios in Oxford St., and at Ealing.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond.; Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., Personally or by Correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and all other Examinations. Classes. 25, Palliser Road, West Kensington, W.

DR. TINDALL, A.T.C.L.—POSTAL TUITION.
GUILD of Professional Organists forming. Lessons, Diplomas for Service Proficiency. Members wanted. Write, 112, Portsdown Rd., W.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac.
(Durham, 1892); L.Mus.T.C.L. (1888). COACHES for EXAMS. Prospectus, &c., 58, Comiston Road, Edinburgh.

MR. PERCY WOOD, F.R.C.O., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post, and Prepares for Examinations. Terms, £1 1s. for ten lessons. 60, Crownhill Rd., Harlesden, N.W.

MISS ALICIA JEPHSON, several years pupil of the late Maestro Coen, of Florence, formerly with Delle Sedie, of Paris, gives LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION and SINGING. Highly recommended by Delle Sedie, Mascagni of Italy, and signor Bonci of Covent Garden. For further particulars, address, care of Messrs. Forsyths, Ltd., Deansgate, Manchester.

MISS MARGARET McINTOSH (Pupil of Mr. Edward Hes) is now resuming her LESSONS for SINGING and VOICE PRODUCTION at 60, Berners Street, and at 27, Craven Road, Willesden, where applications respecting Lessons and Engagements for Concerts and At Homes should be made.

VOICES TRAINED (Altos included) and SIGHT-SINGING and the PIANOFORTE TAUGHT, by Mr. W. A. FROST (Vicar-Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral), at 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C. Many of Mr. Frost's pupils have won Cathedral and other choir appointments. Latest successes at St. James's, Piccadilly, and St. Mary's, Bourdon Street.

TRAINING OF TENORS.—MR. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS at his residence and at the West-End. For terms, &c., address, 11, Grazebrook Road, Stoke Newington, N. The principles on which MR. DAVIDSON PALMER'S METHOD is based are explained in his pamphlet, "The Tenor Voice and Its Training." Price 1s., post-free, from the AUTHOR, at the above address; or from JOSEPH WILLIAMS, Ltd., 32, Great Portland Street, W.

OXFORD.—NEW COLLEGE, CHORISTERSHIPS.—There will be a TRIAL of VOICES on WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 16. Candidates must have a good ear and good voice, and should be between 9 and 12 years of age. For particulars, apply to the Precentor. Names cannot be received later than December 7.

SCHOLARSHIP.—Musical BOY, about 14. Apply, Headmaster, Grammar School, Atherstone, Warwickshire.

ST. GEORGE'S PREPARATORY SCHOOL. Ascot.—Two CHORAL SCHOLARSHIPS are open to boys with good voices, to fill vacancies in the Choir as Solo boys. Apply, stating age and qualifications of Candidate, to Miss J. Barrett-Handley, St. George's, Ascot.

TWO LEADING BOYS WANTED, for Scottish Church in Belgravia. Salary, £6. Light duties. Apply, by letter, C. Macpherson, 36, Albany Mansions, Albert Bridge Road, S.W.

ST. BARNABAS, Pimlico.—ALTO WANTED. Good reader. £15 per annum. Address, by letter, W. Phillips, 21, Graham Street, Eaton Square, S.W.

TENOR WANTED, at once, for Presbyterian Church of England in Bayswater. Light duties. Must be a good reader, and one able to conduct preferred. Salary, £15 per ann. Apply, by letter only, to C. R. Willis, 9, Milman Rd., Harvist Rd., W.

TENOR WANTED. All Saints', Devonshire Road, South Lambeth. £8. Address, W. A., 15, Thurlby Road, West Norwood.

WANTED, TENOR, capable, for Solo Singing. Salary, £8 per annum. Apply, Christ Church, Endell Street, W.C. Wednesday Evening, 8.30.

VOLUNTARY TENOR and BASS REQUIRED by a West-end Church. Write, Organist, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, two TENORS and two BASSES, for an East-End Church. Two services Sunday, Good Friday, and Christmas Day. Plain services. Stipend, £8. Apply, Organist, 7, Burr Street, Aldgate, E.

BROMPTON ORATORY CHOIR.—BASS WANTED. Good reader. Apply, Musical Director.

BASS WANTED (not Baritone). One competent to train Choir. For St. Jude's Church, Balham (Reformed Church of England, plain Service). One who lives near preferred. Salary, £12. Apply, J. Baxter, 44, Ouseley Road, Balham, S.W.

ALTO (with good voice) of leading West-End Church Choir, desires to JOIN Professional MALE-VOICE QUARTET. C., 65, Cricketfield Road, Clapton, N.E.

BURNT ASH CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, Lee, Kent. REQUIRED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Salary, £40 per annum. Apply, by letter, to Mrs. G. S. Warmington, 146, Burnt Ash Hill, Lee, Kent.

ST. PAUL'S, Dock Street.—Paid CHOIRMASTER and ORGANIST WANTED. New 3-Manual. Apply, Vicar.

THE Deacons of Greenfield Baptist Church, Llanelly, invite applications for the position of ORGANIST. Apply, stating experience and terms, to Mr. John Clement, 16, Greenfield Terrace, Llanelly.

VOLUNTARY ORGANIST, able to train Choir, WANTED, for Cricklewood Presbyterian Church. Fine new Three-manual Organ. Apply to Mr. Gittens, 93, Walm Lane, Willesden Green, N.W.

ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Many years present post (Parish Church). Organist, 39, Pulross Road, Brixton, S.W.

GENTLEMAN (Pianist and Organist), with long experience in the Music Business, seeks POSITION immediately. Address, H. W. T., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

CHOIR EXCHANGE, 5, East 14th Street, New York.—CHURCH POSITIONS secured for Organists in the United States and Canada.—WANTED, on December 1, CHOIRMASTER for Episcopal Church in Georgia. Communicant, good singer, and vested choir-trainer essential. Salary, £15 per month and expenses from New York. APPOINTMENTS (September): Mr. Charles H. White, from London, to Trinity Church, Bay City, Michigan; Mr. C. P. Land, from N. Devon, to St. Paul's, Concord, New Hampshire; and Mr. Alfred E. Palmer, from Jedburgh, to St. Mark's, Hoosick Falls, N.Y. PUBLISHERS found for Composers' manuscripts. Write, The John E. Webster Company, for Terms.

THE ORGANIST of St. David's Cathedral has a VACANCY for a RESIDENT PUPIL. Willis Organ, and daily services. Herbert C. Morris, F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., The Close, St. David's, Pembrokeshire.

MR. W. PHILLIPS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.M., Organist and Director of the Choir at St. Barnabas, Pimlico, has a VACANCY for an ORGAN PUPIL. Students prepared for Royal College of Organists' and other Examinations personally or by post. Address, 21, Graham Street, Eaton Square, S.W.

WANTED, ORGAN PUPIL—ASSISTANT. PREPARATION R.C.O. exams. Beautiful district. Under 30 miles from London. Advantageous terms. Apply, A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

EVERY ORGANIST should send for DINHAM, BLYTH & CO.'S Specimens and Price List (free) for Lithographing Anthems, Kyries, Hymn Tunes, &c., from twenty-four Copies and upwards. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

AN experienced CONDUCTOR of Oratorio, &c., could undertake the CONDUCTORSHIP of a Choral or Orchestral Society in London or within 150 miles thereof, on a Friday or Saturday. Write, Box 468, Willing's, 125, Strand, W.C.

TO VOCALISTS, and others, who suffer from OVER-STRAINED THROATS. A positive and reliable CURE. Electric throat massage by qualified operator. Special terms to professionals. For advice as to treatment, address, Miss Cooper Kennedy, 42, Portsdown Road, W.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER REQUIRED. Must have highest references. Permanent berth, with good salary. Apply by letter, with full particulars as to experience, &c., to Hamilton Evans & Co., 143, High Road, Streatham, S.W.

TUNER.—Duck, Son and Pinker, Bath, require a first-class PIANO TUNER. State salary required, references, and send photo. A permanent berth for good tuner.

IMPROVER.—One able to Tune. Apply, S. Hermitage and Sons, Eastbourne.

MANAGERSHIP REQUIRED, by experienced Gentleman in Music Business of good standing, with view to Partnership and possible future purchase. Highest testimonials from present and past employers. Midlands preferred; or in London or suburbs. Address, F. S., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

W. E. HILL AND SONS

(HIS MAJESTY'S VIOLIN MAKERS)

OF 140, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Have for SALE—

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, AND VIOLONCELLOS

by STRADIVARIUS, GUARNERIUS, AMATI, and other celebrated makers, and they guarantee the authenticity of any instrument they sell.

They also undertake the SALE of INSTRUMENTS on behalf of their owners.

W. E. HILL AND SONS have for generations been engaged in Violin-Making, and undertake the Repairing and Adjustment of any Stringed Instruments.

Excellent VIOLINS for beginners, from One Guinea upwards.

STRINGS can be sent safely by Post.

PRICE LIST ON APPLICATION.

Trinity College London (INST. 1872).

President:

THE RIGHT HON. LORD COLERIDGE, M.A., K.C.

Warden:

EDMUND H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

The HALF-TERM begins on November 6.

The College provides complete and systematic instruction and training in every recognised musical subject for all classes of Musical Students. The Fee for full-course students is £10 per term. In the JUNIOR SCHOOL, to which pupils are admitted up to the age of 15, the Fee is £4 4s. per term for the full course.

Students can enter for the Course or for special subjects.

The tuition of the College will serve as a preparative for all Public Examinations in the Theory and Practice of Music, including the Examinations for University Degrees.

EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC FOR TEACHERS.

The next Higher Examinations of the College will be held on Monday, January 4, and following days. The last day of entry is December 5.

Candidates may enter under the newly-revised scheme (Pamphlet Ca) or under the regulations issued in 1902 (Pamphlet C) at their option.

Immediately after this January Examination Syllabus C will be withdrawn, except for candidates who have partially qualified, or who have been unsuccessful under Syllabus C and who desire to complete the course upon which they have entered.

The recommended text books are named in the regulations, which may be had, together with forms of entry and other necessary particulars, on application.

The Examination in the Art of Teaching is also open to all present holders of Diplomas and Higher Certificates on payment of an Examination Fee of One Guinea.

November 12. Last day of entry for the next Local Examinations in Musical Knowledge (Theory), which take place in December.

The last days of entry for the Local Examinations in INSTRUMENTAL and VOCAL MUSIC, held from October to July, at the various Centres throughout the United Kingdom for Pianoforte, Organ, and Violin Playing, and Solo Singing may be had on application.

The prospectus of the Teaching Department (including that of the Junior School, the Virgil Clavier Department, and the regulations for Scholarships) and the Higher and Local Examination Syllabuses, may be had from the undersigned.

By order, SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

JUST PUBLISHED

FIVE PART-SONGS

FOR MEN'S VOICES

(T.T.B.B.)

THE WORDS FROM THE

GREEK ANTHOLOGY

IN ENGLISH BY

ALMA STRETTELL, RICHARD GARNETT,

EDMUND GOSSE,

W. M. HARDINGE AND ANDREW LANG

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

(OP. 45.)

GERMAN TRANSLATION BY JULIUS BUTHS.

CONTENTS.

1. Yea, cast me from heights of the mountains (Ja, stürzt mich vom Steilhang des Felsen).
2. Whether I find thee (Ob ich dich fände).
3. After many a dusty mile (Nach so mancher staub'gen Meile).
4. It's oh! to be a wild wind (O wär' ich doch der wilde Wind).
5. Feasting I watch (Staunend bewacht).

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

Also to be published separately, English words only ("The Orpheus," Nos. 362-366).

Prices:

Nos. 363 and 365, 2d. each; No. 362, 3d.; Nos. 364 and 366, 4d. each. Vocal Parts, German words only (in the Press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

John Broadwood & Sons' LIMITED,

NEW SHORT OVERSTRUNG GRAND

105 GUINEAS.

"MULTUM IN PARVO."

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET, LONDON, W.

THE LONDON MUSIC SCHOOL (LONDON ORGAN SCHOOL).

Established 1865.

22, PRINCES STREET, CAVENTISH SQ., W. (Close to Oxford Circus).
Director and Principal: T. H. YORKE TROTTER, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon.

The School is open daily from 9 a.m. till 9 p.m., and provides a THOROUGH EDUCATION for PROFESSIONAL and AMATEUR MUSICIANS. Lessons may begin on any date, and a single subject taken if desired.

PRIVATE LESSONS are given in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition; Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, Violin, Viola, Violoncello, and Double-Bass; all Wind and other Orchestral Instruments; Choir Training, Elocution, and Stage Department; Modern Languages, &c.

DAY AND EVENING CLASSES are held in Harmony and Counterpoint, Musical Dictation, Quartet and Ensemble Playing, and in Elocution (Mr. Charles Fry) and Modern Languages.

The School has a Full Orchestra, a String Orchestra, and two Choral Classes.

The CONCERT ORGAN and two other three-manual Instruments are available for practice.

Prospectus on application to the Secretary.

No. 61, Novello's Music Primers and Educational Series.

THE VIOLA

BY

BERTHOLD TOURS

EDITED BY ALFRED GIBSON.

"The best of its kind."—Birmingham Daily Post.

Price Two Shillings. Paper boards, 2s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BOSWORTH EDITION.

ŠEVČÍK VIOLIN METHOD.

The success with which advanced students are working at the ŠEVČÍK METHOD is verified by the ever-increasing demand and by the enormous correspondence from all countries; and further by the fact that the children of such renowned artists as

AUGUST WILHELMJ

HUGO HERMANN

HENRY WIENIAWSKI

are now studying under PROFESSOR ŠEVČÍK.

By an Imperial Edict, issued by the Austrian Minister for Education on July 1, 1903, the whole Method was recommended to all schools and professors throughout Austria.

Op. 3. "FORTY VARIATIONS" are now to be had with Pianoforte Accompaniment, price 4s. 6d.

Full Prospectus, explanatory of the ŠEVČÍK System, may be obtained, post-free, on application to the Publishers.

LADY HALLÉ

showed recently at a Concert at St. James's Hall how powerless time is to subdue the greatness of her art by her beautiful and expressive playing of

FRANZ RIES'

ROMANZA AND SCHERZO. (Vide Daily Telegraph.)

Messrs. BOSWORTH AND CO. cannot sufficiently impress all teachers and players of the Violin with the utility and beauty of the compositions of FRANZ RIES.

Full list of FRANZ RIES's works for Violin and Pianoforte on application to—

BOSWORTH AND CO., 5, PRINCES ST., OXFORD ST., W.
And at LEIPZIG, PARIS, VIENNA.

Maurice Strakosky

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

NOVEMBER 1, 1903.

MICHELE ESPOSITO.

Delightfully situated in the sun-favoured Bay of Naples lies the busy town of Castellamare di Stabia, as it is officially designated. It occupies the site of the ancient Stabiæ destroyed in A.D. 79, at the same time as Pompeii, from whose famous ruins the place is, geographically speaking, a stone's throw. Castellamare—which derives its modern name from a castle built in the 13th century by the Emperor Frederick II.—stands vis-à-vis to Naples, a formidable rival in beauty of situation. Above the Bay stands Vesuvius, like a hot-headed sentinel ready to pour forth his fiery indignation in unmistakable literalness. Was not the elder Pliny sacrificed to its volcanic eruptiveness? Yes; it was at the first recorded eruption—on August 24, A.D. 79—that its appalling fury overwhelmed Pompeii, Herculaneum, Stabiæ, and other places in this fair district of radiant loveliness. Pliny, then in command of the fleet stationed off the Miseum, when the eruption was at its height was eager to observe the wonderful phenomenon and to render aid to the distressed and panic-stricken sufferers. He landed at Stabiæ (Castellamare), but had not gone far before his corpulent and asthmatic frame succumbed to the stifling exhalations of the mountain on that awful occasion eighteen centuries ago. Castellamare is now a favourite summer resort of the gay Neapolitans, who enjoy its bathing facilities, drink its mineral waters, and find true delight in its beautiful shady walks.

Here, at this pleasant spot in the sunny south, Michele Esposito entered into the world on September 29, 1855. He cannot claim a monopoly in the family musicianship, as his younger brother, Eugenio Esposito, is a conductor and composer of some fame in Russia. A comic opera by him entitled 'La Camorra' was produced in Moscow last season. At the age of ten, Michele competed successfully for a scholarship at the Conservatoire of Music at Naples (Reale Collegio di Napoli). This scholarship included maintenance, in addition to education in music and general subjects. During the eight years that the youth enjoyed the benefits of the Naples Conservatoire he studied under Beniamino Cesi, a pupil of Thalberg's, for pianoforte, and Paolo Serrao for composition. In the latter subject his progress was so rapid that he was the head boy in the class, a position which gave him the privilege of conducting the orchestra formed by his fellow-students. At the age of nineteen, Esposito made his first public appearance as a conductor under curious circumstances. It so happened that on one occasion

Serrao, conductor of the Opera at Naples, found it impossible to attend during the first act. He therefore deputed his young pupil to take his place at the conductor's desk. 'Everything went well,' says Signor Esposito in recalling the incident, 'but I shall never forget the look of the prima donna that evening when she came on to the stage and saw me flourishing the stick instead of Serrao.'

The year 1873—he was then eighteen—proved to be the turning point in the career of Michele Esposito. Rubinstein then visited Naples and attended a pupils' concert at the Conservatoire, at which the subject of this sketch played Beethoven's Sonata in C sharp minor and conducted Mozart's G minor Symphony. The hearty congratulations of the great man upon this performance caused a natural feeling of pride in the student-pianist-conductor's breast. Moreover, Rubinstein subsequently spied out the lad from among a number of other students and introduced him to his own intimate friends as a talented young pianist with a future before him. This special mark of attention was followed by these words of advice from the lips of the experienced artist: 'You are young now,' said Rubinstein, 'and the sky of Naples is too beautiful for your work. You must go away.'

Five years elapsed before Michele Esposito left his native land. In the meantime he had toured as a brilliant young pianist with much success in Italy in company with his former professor at Naples, Signor Cesi. In 1878 he found his way to Paris, where he made music with Bruneau, Chevillard, and Messenger. When Rubinstein went to Paris in 1881, Esposito called upon him. A cordial welcome was followed by a pleasant chat, during which M. Garcin, of the Conservatoire, called. Esposito rose to say 'good-bye,' but Rubinstein bade him be seated. Garcin had come to ask Rubinstein to play at one of the concerts at the Conservatoire, a request which met with a prompt refusal. 'The cheek of the fellow,' said the great Anton, after the caller had departed, 'he refused to perform a piece of mine at the Conservatoire, and now he asks me to play there for nothing!' Shortly afterwards Esposito attended a concert of Russian music conducted by Rubinstein. When Esposito had taken his seat, a lady sitting immediately behind him said, 'Would Monsieur allow my daughter to change seats with him, as she would so like to see M. Rubinstein's hands.' When he politely said that there was no pianoforte on the platform and that M. Rubinstein would therefore not play, she seemed scarcely to believe that the distinguished pianist would appear only in the rôle of a conductor.

The young Italian had a good time in Paris. He was a frequent guest at the studio of the celebrated Neapolitan painter, de Nittis, where everyone who loved art, from a princess to a poor student, was warmly welcomed. Here he met Massenet. On one occasion Esposito was accompanying a song of his own composition in which occurred an uncommon chord. As he played it, he received a decided poke in the back from someone standing behind him—it was Massenet, who thus accented that chord with a sforzando in the region of the composer's spinal cord. A pleasant reminiscence of Gounod is thus recorded: 'One of my pupils at Naples,' says Signor Esposito, 'was a daughter of the famous Madame Marchesi and sister of Blanche Marchesi. We met again in Paris. On the occasion of the début there of Blanche Marchesi, Gounod was present. Earlier in the evening I had played Beethoven's Sonata Appassionata. After Blanche Marchesi had sung two songs composed by Gounod, she was anxious to obtain the maestro's verdict upon her interpretation of his music. He said: "Those songs of mine, Mademoiselle, are not to be sung, but said, just as our friend Esposito in his playing made the piano speak."'

A musical party given by M. Saint-Saëns at his house in Paris terminated in a curious incident. Esposito, finding that the hour was late and that he had only a few minutes to catch the last train to convey him home, went up to the distinguished host to pay his compliments and make his adieux. 'No, no,' said Saint-Saëns, gripping his guest's hands, 'you must not go away yet: wait and hear my piano quintet.' This request was in the nature of a command. Esposito stayed; but on that bitterly cold mid-winter's night he had to tramp all the way home along several miles of deserted, frozen roads in the small hours of the morning. On the way he was overtaken by a workman. The two pedestrians beguiled their weary walk by pleasant conversation, till at length they parted and went their respective ways, the musician to his bed, the workman to his daily round.

Signor Esposito's sojourn in Paris covered a period of four years. The next change in his life came about in a rather remarkable manner. On Christmas Eve, 1881, a visitor was announced, who proved to be his old friend Caracciolo, whom he had known at the Naples Conservatoire. The two chums of former times spent an enjoyable evening together talking over old times and exchanging confidences about present experiences. Esposito told Caracciolo (then principal Professor of Singing at the Royal Irish Academy of Music in Dublin) that while life in Paris was very pleasant, professional work was of a very precarious nature, causing a man with a wife and family many anxious moments, and added that he would be glad to meet with some permanent post. Kind-hearted Caracciolo did not forget his old comrade. At the following Easter (1882) a vacancy occurred on the staff of the Royal Irish Academy of Music, and Esposito was thereupon appointed a professor of the pianoforte at the Institution in Westland Row.

It is a far cry from the Bay of Naples to 'dear, dirty Dublin,'—not that the Neapolitans can boast of an ideal standard of cleanliness—but Signor Esposito has found a pleasant home and congenial sphere of work in the capital of the Emerald Isle. For the last twenty years he has held in Dublin the position of an artist of the first rank, both as a performer upon and teacher of the pianoforte. To have been a pupil of Esposito is the hall-mark of many a young professional who has been his pupil either at the Royal Irish Academy of Music or privately. He is the chief professor of his instrument at the Academy, and a member of the committee of management, there being no Principal or Director of that Institution.

His recitals of chamber music have done much to spread the love of that delightful branch of the art in Dublin. With the valued co-operation of Messrs. Papini, Grisard, and Bast he has been the means of introducing many a string trio and quartet to the notice of Dublin music-lovers. As a composer Signor Esposito has been ambitious and successful. At the Feis Ceoil of 1897 he gained the composition prize by his cantata 'Deirdre,' a work which subsequently brought his name prominently before a London audience when it was performed at Queen's Hall under the direction of Mr. Henry J. Wood. Signor Esposito composed the music of 'The Post Bag,' the libretto by that clever and typically Irish man of letters, Mr. Alfred Perceval Graves. This brightly-written and humorous piece was performed in London on January 27, 1902. The event was duly noticed in THE MUSICAL TIMES in the following words:—

The Irish Literary Society gave an attractive concert at St. George's Hall, on January 27. The first and last parts were miscellaneous, but between them came an operetta entitled 'The Post Bag,' the libretto by Mr. A. P. Graves, the music, based to a large extent on Irish tunes, by Signor Esposito. It proved an amusing little piece. The story is of an Irish girl whose lover is far away: he sends her a letter, but written in Irish. This the postman, and afterwards the blacksmith, both desperately in love with the girl, translate for her, but each in a way calculated to give himself a good chance. The sudden return of the lover puts an end, once and for all, to their scheming. Signor Esposito's music is bright and attractive. Miss Evangeline Florence gracefully impersonated the maiden, while Messrs. Joseph O'Mara and Denis O'Sullivan, as the two importunate and lying lovers, by their lively acting and excellent singing, provoked roars of laughter and produced rounds of applause. The accompaniments were played on two pianofortes by Miss Ladd and the talented composer.

In addition to some forty pianoforte pieces and numerous songs, Signor Esposito has composed a Sonata (in G) for pianoforte and violin; a Sonata for pianoforte and violoncello (which gained a prize offered by the Incorporated Society of Musicians); and a String Quartet (in D). All these works have been published. His compositions still in MS. are: Two Symphonies, the 'Irish,' and an early work; Overture, 'Othello'; Suite in E; and Suite on Irish dances—all for orchestra; Fantasia for two pianofortes and orchestra; two Irish Rhapsodies for violin and orchestra; Pianoforte Quintet; second Sonata for violin and pianoforte; 'The Tinker and the Fairy,' opera, in one act, on an Irish subject, the libretto by Douglas Hyde, &c. He is now compiling and editing a volume of clavier music by Italian writers of the 16th, 17th and 18th centuries. He has also dug up from one of the Conservatoires in Italy some manuscripts, hitherto unpublished, of several fine compositions by Alessandro Scarlatti—Toccatas, &c., and some very fine variations, which, he says, have more unity running through them than anything down to Beethoven's Variations in C minor. The appearance of this volume will be awaited with interest.

A highly-commendable enterprise set in motion and skilfully engineered, so to speak, has to be placed to the credit of Signor Esposito's zeal in the cause of music in the city of his adoption. We refer to the Dublin Orchestral Society. Five years ago he thought the time had arrived when the Irish capital should have home-made orchestral music. He thereupon founded a Society on the lines of the Milan Orchestra, consisting of foundation and performing members. All the players in the band are Dublin men, severally engaged in tuition, in the Royal Irish Constabulary band, the regimental bands stationed in the city, the theatres, and the music-halls—a local orchestra absolutely. The performers, all professional men, are paid at so much per rehearsal and concert. They do not regard their work only from the pecuniary point of view, but as a real enjoyment combined with the educational advantages of studying classical works under an able and enthusiastic conductor. What a delightful change it must be for those who fiddle away night after night at the theatres and music-halls! They live a new life in such an uplifting environment, and it is astonishing how well they play the Symphonies of Beethoven, Brahms, Tschaikovsky and others.

Signor Esposito spares no trouble in coaching his players—no fewer than thirty-four rehearsals were held for the first season of six concerts given four years ago. He takes infinite pains and finds a ready response in the efforts of his merry men. The concerts are given (in the afternoon, that they may not interfere with the evening engagements of the players) in the Great Hall of the Royal University of Ireland. Moreover, as we pointed out last month (p. 657), the concerts are subsidized to the amount of £50 per annum from the Corporation of Dublin, 'an interesting instance,' as we said, 'of the municipalization of music.'

Finally, the subject of this sketch is not only the life and soul of the Dublin Orchestral Society above referred to, but his influence is for good in all that concerns the art of music in the city of his adoption.

NEW COLLEGE, OXFORD.

One of the most striking figures in English history during the 14th century was William of Wykeham. A child of obscure parentage, he was born in 1324 at Wickham, a village near Fareham (hence his patronymic), and attained to a position of almost princely power in Church and State. He was a 'mighty pluralist' and one of the wealthiest ecclesiastics of his time, his emoluments as Bishop of Winchester amounting to £60,000 per annum according to the present value of money. But he made good use of this world's goods in founding two great educational institutions which have flourished for upwards of five centuries. These centres of learning, of twinlike birth and longevity, are New College, Oxford, and Winchester College. William of Wykeham was a generous and religious man, and founded his colleges 'first for the glory of God and the promotion of divine service, and secondarily for scholarship.' In the year 1369 he began to buy land in Oxford whereupon to build his college for the religious training of young men, 'many of whom,' as he said, 'were given up to idleness and frivolous vanities, betaking themselves to wandering and various insolences.' As part of the ground acquired by the founder contained a portion of the city walls, it behoved him to keep these walls in repair, and to allow the commonalty of the town the privilege of free access to them in time of war! Looking at those old city walls (see the photographs on pp. 709 and 711) to-day, when all is calm and peace, it is difficult to realize that once upon a time their environment was 'full of filth, dirt, and stinking carcasses,' and that there used to congregate 'a concourse of malefactors, murderers, and thieves.' In order to carry out his plan Wykeham had to buy up several small halls, the names of some of which are somewhat peculiar—e.g., Chimney Hall, Little Hammer Hall, and Maiden Hall.

On November 26, 1379, from his town house in Southwark, Wykeham issued his charter for 'erecting a College for a Warden and seventy poor and indigent clerks,' to be called 'Seinte Marie College of Wynchestre in Oxenforde.' As however there was already a St. Mary's College in Oxford—which subsequently became Oriel College—the name of Wykeham's foundation was changed to New College, a name which belies its accuracy, as it is one of the oldest colleges in Oxford. The first stone of the buildings was laid on March 5, 1380, and six years later the Warden and scholars publicly took possession of their beautiful dwelling on the morning of Palm Sunday, singing in stately procession a solemn Litany.

One of the charms, and there are many, of New College is that the buildings retain their original form. With the exception of the third story, added in the 17th century, the quadrangle stands as it did five hundred years ago. As

Dr. Rashdall and Mr. Rait, in their excellent 'History' of the College, state: 'The west side was filled chiefly by the principal gateway and the Warden's house, with its elegant staircase towers, the east and south sides by the chambers of the scholars. On the north side, then as now, chapel and hall bore witness to the greatness of the founder's aim and the grandeur of his design. The cloisters completed the noble equipment for the services of the Church, and offered a resting place for the dead. The gardens, bounded by the city wall, increased the material comfort of the living, and the library, on the east side of the quadrangle, and extending towards the garden, served for the intellectual nourishment of Wykeham's scholars.'

The chapel, notwithstanding that it has lost much of the splendour consonant with its gorgeous mediæval ritual, is one of the most fascinating in Oxford. Its most striking feature is the reredos, as shown in the illustration on p. 710. It was the custom of the late Sir John Stainer when showing his friends round Oxford to bid them shut their eyes directly they entered the ante-chapel of New College. Leading them to the door under the organ screen, and turning them in the direction of the reredos, he would say: 'Now, open.' He would then wax enthusiastic over the work of art which meets the beholder's gaze, and thereafter call attention to the beauties of the stained glass in the ante-chapel, of which the west window was designed by Sir Joshua Reynolds, and the fine specimens of brasses which still remain in the building. One brass in the cloisters—that to Richard Dyke (1604) has this characteristic 17th-century riddle—

Exiit e vita cum Februus exiit, annum
Si cupis, et morbum scire, dabit MeDICVs.

The great tower—literally the outstanding feature of the College—is without the city walls. It serves as a receptacle for a clock and bells: five of the latter were given by the founder and still form a portion of the chimes. The present front gate and the one at the Slype—the slip of ground outside the city-wall—are the original gates of the College. Loggan's view (circa 1675), reproduced on p. 709, gives a very good bird's-eye view of the College buildings—the great tower, the cloisters at the west end of the chapel, the chapel and the hall adjoining it on the north side of the quadrangle, the library on the east side, and the Warden's lodgings on the west, above the great gateway. 'Many of these features,' record Messrs. Rashdall and Rait, 'appear themselves for the first time. No previous college could boast of a tower gateway, a separate residence for the Head, a cloister-cemetery, and a regular library.'

The 'History' already quoted contains several interesting references to the social life of the College.

In 1418, the 'Ambassadors of our Lord the Pope' were entertained with 'spiced bread and beer.' The Puritan zeal of William Forde, a Fellow in 1519, whose soul was vexed by the golden images of the College Chapel, is thus recorded: 'One night Mr. Forde tyed a longe coorde to the images, lynkinge them all in one coorde, and being in his chamber after midnight, he plucked the coorde, and at one pull all the golden gods came downe with heyho Romhelo. It wakened all men with the rushe.' For cleaning his hall and the passages leading to it every day or every other day, Warden White (circa 1553) paid his charwoman a penny per week. The wearing of 'long, undecent hair' by the younger Fellows (in 1633) was an abuse for NEW COLLEGE IN THE 15TH CENTURY.

FROM WARDEN CHANDLER'S MS.

(Photo by the Oxford Camera Club. By permission of Messrs. F. E. Robinson & Co.)

NEW COLLEGE, OXFORD: VIEW BY LOGGAN, circa 1675.
(By permission of Messrs. F. E. Robinson & Co.)

THE CITY WALLS FROM THE COLLEGE GARDEN.
(Photo by the Oxford Camera Club. By permission of Messrs. F. E. Robinson & Co.)

which Robert Barkar was 'punished a fortnight's commins for having long hayre down to his nose before; and he had once before been punished and warned for the lyke a week's commins.' A symptom of temperance reform is recorded in 1788, when the powers-that-be ordered that 'the Beer Butler shall not battle no more strong beer in the Buttery except that stock which shall now be in the Cellar.' Some of our lady readers may like to try the following ancient recipe for the manufacture of a New College Pudding:—

For one duzon take a penny halfe penny white bread and grate it and put to that halfe a pound of beefe suett minced small half a pound of curantes one nutmeg and salt and as much creame and eggs as will make it almost as stiffe as past then make you in the fashion of an egg, then lay them into the dish that you bake them in one by one with a quarter of a pound of butter melted in the bottom, then set them over a cleare charcole fire and cover them, when they are browne turne them till they are browne all over, then dish them into a cleane dish, for yr sause take sack suger rose water and butter pour this over yr puddings and scrape over fine suger and serve them to the table.

The consideration of some musical aspects of New College may now claim our attention. The statutes of the Founder provided for a 'Warden and seventy scholars, ten stipendiary priests or chaplains, three stipendiary clerks and sixteen chorister boys.' Dual duties certainly devolved upon the choristers, as in addition to other domestic calls upon their time they had to 'make the beds.' At an early period a choir-school was built between the east cloister and the west wall of the chapel. The musical education of the choristers seems to have been of the 'Squeers' type, for, at the Visitation of 1566, the young gentlemen were examined as to their 'hability' to sing, and 'it was speedily ascertained that, with the exception of three, they c^d not, and had never been instructed to sing.' No wonder that the Bishop 'advised' that the choristers should spend most of the day in learning to sing 'as well plane song as composit.' At the same time it was decreed that the 'metrical psalms are to be sung before and after sermons, and every member of the College is to bring a psalm-book.' A curious old custom, which continued till 1830, was the mode of summoning the members of the College to dinner. Two little choristers started from the College gateway, shouting in unison and in lengthened syllables: 'Tempus est vo-can-di ā-man-ger, O Seig-neurs.' It was the business of these juvenile duettists to make this sentence (itself a remnant of older times) last out till they reached, with their final note, the College kitchen.

Among miscellaneous musical matters associated with the College, the following may be mentioned. The Bursars' rolls of 1548 record a payment: 'Pro iv. Psalteriis Anglice.' In the year 1605, King James I. was entertained with a royal feast and incomparable musick.'

Unfortunately no programme exists of this 'incomparable musick.' New College supplied a distinguished member of the company that assembled at the weekly music-meetings of Will. Ellis, held in Oxford, circa 1659. In a list of those music-makers, to the number of sixteen, Anthony-à-Wood gives: '(14) Thom. Ken of New coll. a junior. He would be sometimes among them, and sing his part.' The said 'Thom. Ken' became the famous author of the Morning and Evening Hymns. Another member

THE EAST END OF THE CHAPEL.

(Photo by the Oxford Camera Club. By permission of Messrs. F. E. Robinson & Co.)

(Photo by H. W. Taunt, Oxford.)

New College, Oxford.

of this musical party was, according to Wood, 'a confident Westmonasterian, a violinist to hold between his knees.'

Wood gives an interesting account of an old musical custom in these words:—

There was sometime an auncient custome belonging to New College fellows: viz., on Holy Thursday every year some of the fellows of New College (with some of their acquaintance with them) did goe to St. Bartholomew's Hospitall, and there in the chappell sing an anthem of 2 or 5 parts. After that, every one of them would offer up money in a bason, being sett for that purpose in the middle of the chappell. After that, have some refreshment in the house. Then going up to a well or spring in the grove, which was strew'd with flowers round about for them, they sung a song of 5 parts, lately one of Mr. Wilbye's principium, 'Hard by a christall fountaine.' And after that came home by Cheyney Lane, Hedington Hill, singing catches. The choristers and singing men of New College did about 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning sing an anthem on the tower; and then, from thence to St. Bartholomew's.

The earliest express mention of an organ in New College Chapel was in the year 1446, when 'William Porte and Joan his wife gave the great organs.' This instrument stood 'in a loft supported by wooden pillars, joining to the vestry door on the north side of the upper end' of the Chapel. It was repaired in 1540 and practically renewed in 1598, when the College paid £10 for 'making the orgaines.' With the Restoration, the celebrated organ-builder Robert Dallam appeared on the scene. Dallam agreed to erect, for £350, an organ of which the pipes were to be 'of especially good metal and sweet and musical,' but the cost was increased to £420 to cover the additional expense of trumpet and cornet stops. This organ was finished in 1663. The case, which stood on the screen at the entrance to the Quire, was made to 'open in the midst to let in more light from the Western window,' a feature of the case continued to this day. Robert Dallam died at Oxford on May 31, 1665, apparently when he was on a visit to New College, as he is buried in the cloisters before the west door leading into the Chapel. The stone over his grave bears a Latin inscription, of which we give an equivalent in English. It will be observed that the name on the stone is spelt 'Dallum':—

Here lies
ROBERT DALLUM
a most skilful constructor of a pneumatic instrument commonly called an organ:
the son of Thomas Dallum, of Dallum in the county of Lancaster.
He died on the last day of May A.D. 1665.
Aged 63
having embellished many European countries with the art in which he excelled so conspicuously, he ultimately adorned with his remains the spot where he now rests.

Dallam, as a place, is near Warrington. Renatus Harris had charge of the organ until 1733; to him succeeded Byfield. Green repaired and enlarged the instrument in 1774, at a cost of £700. Exactly one hundred years later Father Willis built the present four-manual organ, a fine specimen of his handicraft, the oboe stop being one of the finest we have ever listened to. The specification is as follows:—

GREAT ORGAN (13 stops).
	Feet.		Feet.
Double Diapason ...	16	Twelfth ...	2
Open Diapason (No. 1) ...	8	Fifteenth ...	2
" (No. 2) ...	8	Mixture ...	—
Claribel Flute ...	8	Fourth ...	—
Gamba ...	8	Trumpet ...	8
Harmonic Flute ...	4	Clarion ...	4
Principal ...	4
SWELL ORGAN (11 stops).
Bourdon ...	16	Fifteenth ...	2
Open Diapason ...	8	Mixture ...	—
Salcional ...	8	Oboe ...	8
Voix Celestes ...	8	Cornopean ...	8
Stopped Diapason ...	8	Clarion ...	4
Principal ...	4
CHOIR ORGAN (9 stops).
Bourdon ...	16	Principal ...	4
Viol d'amore ...	8	Harmonic Flute ...	4
Dulciana ...	8	Stopped Flute ...	4
Claribel Flute ...	8	Corno di Bassetto ...	8
Lieblich Gedact ...	8
SOLO ORGAN (4 stops).
Harmonic Flute ...	8	Orchestral Oboe ...	8
Harmonic Flute ...	4	Tuba ...	8
PEDAL ORGAN (6 stops).
Open Diapason ...	16	Mixture ...	—
Violone ...	16	Ophicleide ...	16
Octave ...	8	Clarion ...	8
ACCESSORIES.
Swell to Great, Unison.		Solo to Pedal.
" " Sub-Octave.		Swell to Pedal.
" " Super-Octave.		Great to Pedal.
Solo to Great.		Choir to Pedal.
Great to Choir.

The old stops in the above instrument are: Dallam (1663): Great, double diapason; Choir, flute (stopped wood). Green: Great, open diapason; Swell, bourdon, open diapason, stopped diapason (metal trebles with chimneys), principal. J. C. Bishop: Great, claribel flute (treble).

The organists. There is no mention of an organist in the foundation scheme of New College. Doubtless the duties appertaining to this office were discharged by one of the clerical staff. At the Visitation of 1648, the organist, sexton, under-butler, manciple, porter, groom and basket-bearer were all 'outed.' The name of the organist thus disgraced is not given. But we are anticipating. The earliest recorded organist of New College was William Meridith (or Merideth) who died in 1637 and is buried in the Cloisters. The following punning epitaph upon his name is recorded by Wood:—

Here lyes one blowne out of breath,
Who liv'd a merry life, and dyed a merry death.

The successors of Meridith were a Mr. Pink (perchance the Pink of perfection), Mr. Simon Coleman (doubtless the organist who was 'outed'), a Mr. Miles (salary, £6 13s. 4d.), a Mr. Crouch, a Mr. Flexney (mentioned by Wood), Robert Pickhaver (who became organist of Winchester), William King, Richard Goodson Senr., the celebrated John Weldon, Simon Child, and Richard Church. In 1776, Dr. Philip Hayes became organist; to him succeeded Isaac Pring, brother of Dr. Pring, of Bangor. He was followed by Alfred Bennett, who edited, in collaboration with William Marshall, a well-known collection of chants.

Coming to the organists of more recent times we find the name of Stephen Elvey, editor of Elvey's Psalter and the inventor of the term and use of the 'imaginary bar.' Although Dr. Elvey had the misfortune in early life to lose his right leg by an accidental shot, he was able by the aid of a wooden leg to manipulate the pedals in a remarkably skilful manner, and—according to Mr. John S. Bumpus, who possesses some unpublished church music by Elvey—'few performers could give greater effect to Handel's choruses in Wykeham's beautiful chapel.' On the death of Elvey in 1860, the late Dr. G. B. Arnold held the post for five years, till his removal to Winchester as organist of the Cathedral. He was succeeded by the late Dr. James Taylor, a man greatly esteemed no less for his personal qualities than for his skilful musicianship. Dr. Taylor, who was an excellent pianist, rendered splendid service to the cause of music in Oxford. He died much regretted on August 1, 1900. A memorial tablet placed on the wall of the cloisters bears the following inscription:—

M. S.
JACOBI TAYLOR, Mus. Doc.
Hujus Collegii per quinque et triginta annos Organistae
ut arti suae ita Collegio pie atque constanter dediti
Hoc marmor
Custos Sociique gratis animis ponendum curaverunt.

The present organist of New College, Oxford, is Dr. Hugh Percy Allen. Born at Reading on December 23, 1869, he studied under Dr. F. J. Read. When only eleven years of age he was appointed organist of St. Saviour's Church in his native town. In 1884 he held a similar post at Tilehurst Church, his subsequent church appointments being Eversley Parish Church (1886), assistant-organist of Chichester Cathedral (1887), and Christ's College, Cambridge (1892), at which University he took his M.A. degree. In 1897 Dr. Allen became organist of St. Asaph Cathedral, a year later he went to Ely Cathedral, and in 1901 he succeeded Dr. James Taylor in the organistship of New College, Oxford, an appointment he worthily holds.

Dr. Allen very soon made his influence felt beyond the walls of New College. He conducts the Oxford Bach Choir and the Oxford Choral and Philharmonic Society. A man of striking personality and tremendous nervous energy, he has succeeded in the difficult task of welding some of the musical forces of Oxford by giving a joint performance, by the two Societies named, of an important work in the course of each year. In the brief space of time that he has been at Oxford he has conducted the Requiem and Rhapsodie of Brahms, Bach's 'St. Matthew Passion' and B minor Mass, Beethoven's Choral Fantasia, &c. The Societies are now rehearsing 'Israel in Egypt' and Brahms's 'Nänie.' He also conducts an orchestra which gave a capital concert last May, and no further proof is needed of the active part he takes in the musical life of the University city. He is an excellent organist, and his recitals in New College Chapel are remarkable for the high classical standard of the music performed and the skilful manner of its interpretation. We give one of Dr. Allen's recital programmes, that of June 18, 1902:—

DR. H. P. ALLEN.

(Photo by Hills and Saunders, Oxford.)

Ciacona in E minor	Buxtehude.
Choral Preludes on 'Vater unser':—
(1)	Bach.
(2)	Buxtehude.
Choral Preludes on:—
(1) 'Herzlich thut'	} Brahms.
(2) 'Herzliebster Jesu'
Prelude and Fugue in B minor	Bach.
Choral Preludes on:—
(1) 'O wie selig'	} Brahms.
(2) 'Es ist ein Ros'entsprungen'
(3) 'O Welt ich muss dich lassen'
Passacaglia in C minor	Bach.

The idea of playing in succession Organ Preludes by different composers on the same Choral is one that may be followed with advantage. Dr. Allen wisely makes it a practice to play over the tune of the Choral in simple harmony, in order that his hearers may the more easily follow its course in the more complex form of the Prelude.

The choral service at New College is maintained in a high state of efficiency. There is a well-equipped school for the choristers, for whom a handsome new boarding-house has just been built. The boys come from all parts of the country, and are well cared for and educated by the master of the choir school, Mr. George Carter, M.A., who is assisted by his son, Mr. Francis Carter, M.A.

In the preparation of this article acknowledgment is due of the valued help rendered by Mr. Robert S. Rait, Fellow and Lecturer of New College, joint-author with Dr. Hastings Rashdall of 'New College,' in the invaluable 'College Histories,' published by Messrs. F. E. Robinson and Co., who have kindly allowed the use of four illustrations from that book; to Dr. H. P. Allen, organist of New College; and to Mr. T. W. Taphouse, whose aid in these matters is invaluable.

DOTTED CROTCHET.

BERLIOZ IN ENGLAND.

(Concluded from page 656.)

HIS LAST VISIT—1855.

In the year 1854 the Philharmonic Society reached a crisis in its history. 'The Autocrat of all the Orchestras'—to adopt the designation

It would seem as if Berlioz was not very keen about conducting the concerts of the New Philharmonic Society, if we may judge from bestowed upon Sir Michael Costa by Mr. J. W. Davison, of The Times—unexpectedly resigned the conductorship of the Society which he had held for the previous eight years. The first man to whom the Directors turned their attention as a successor to Costa was Hector Berlioz. The distinguished French composer was obliged to refuse their invitation, as he had already been engaged to conduct the concerts of the rival organization, the New Philharmonic Society. To quote the words of Mr. Davison (Musical World, January 20, 1855):—

HECTOR BERLIOZ—FORMERLY!

(From 'Le Figaro' of March 3, 1883. By permission.)

When it was decided that M. Berlioz could not manage to release himself from his compact with Dr. Wylde and the New Philharmonic Society (which he would willingly have done, had he possessed the ways and means), the composer of Faust's 'Damnation' was abandoned to his fate. It was impossible for him to appear at the head of both the rival Societies—not from any punctilio on his side, but from the very natural objection to the elder Society to such a division of his time and influence.

Foiled in their endeavour to secure Berlioz, the Philharmonic Directors ultimately engaged Richard Wagner, with results that are well known.

the following letter which he addressed to his colleague in the conductorship, Dr. Wylde:—

MY DEAR MR. WILDE,

I address myself to you not as a conductor but as an artist. A number of very advantageous proposals have been made to me from various quarters for next season, which, on your account, it will be impossible for me to accept. I cannot retract the promise I have given you; but consider the immense injury you would do to my career were I obliged to refuse what is offered me. Be good enough to release me and give me my liberty. I shall be extremely grateful to you; it will be easy to replace me for the two concerts.

Awaiting an early reply, which I hope will be favourable, accept my most distinguished sentiments,

Yours,

17, Rue de Boursault, Paris.

H. BERLIOZ.

December 26, 1854.

The above expressed wish of Berlioz was so far gratified by an arrangement made whereby he should conduct the last two concerts only of the season of 1855. In forecasting the operations of the two Societies, Mr. Davison spoke as a weather prophet. Quoth he: 'With Hector Berlioz at the "New" Philharmonic, and Richard Wagner at the "Old," we may expect some thunder this season. M. Jullien should prolong his concerts at Covent Garden and drown it.'

Berlioz, accompanied by his second wife, arrived in London early in June. Before leaving Paris he wrote to his friend Auguste Morel, on June 2, 1855, in these words: 'I leave for England on Friday. Wagner, who conducts the Old Philharmonic Society of London (a post which I was compelled to decline on account of having been engaged by the other), is sinking beneath the attacks of the entire English press. But he remains calm and unmoved, so I am told, convinced that fifty years hence he will be the master of the musical world.'

If Mr. Davison did not show any particular affection towards Wagner, he certainly held Berlioz in the highest regard. In concluding a leading article on the New Philharmonic Society, the Musical World, to which Berlioz replied as follows (translated):—

To the Editor of the Musical World.

SIR,—One of the members of the chorus of the new Philharmonic Society, demands from me an explanation on the subject of the suppression of the choruses of my symphony (Romeo and Juliet), at the concert which I directed at Exeter Hall, the 13th of this month. The reasons which compelled me to make this suppression were evident and imperious.

The little chorus of the prologue, for fourteen voices only, had been studied in the French language, M. and Madame Gassier being, to my great astonishment, engaged for the solos of this part of my symphony, which it was impossible for them to sing in English. Now, at the last moment, M. Gassier, whose voice is a barytone, declared that he could not sing a tenor part, and that Madame Gassier (a high soprano) could not sing a contralto part; as was evident to myself.

It was then necessary to commence new studies with the English text and their extremely difficult choruses, the words of which should be well

HECTOR BERLIOZ—NOW!

(From 'Le Figaro' of March 3, 1883. By permission.)

'J. W. D.' wrote in these enthusiastic, if somewhat enigmatical terms:—

Happily, M. Berlioz is a vast favourite with the Exeter Hall public, and could not be easily swamped. He came and was received as before. He was not swamped, but achieved a new triumph. Yea—'by Abs and by Adnam!'—he roused up his hearers to enthusiasm, and their applause made the walls tremble!

At the former of the two New Philharmonic concerts conducted by Berlioz in 1855—Exeter Hall, June 13—the programme opened with Henry Leslie's overture 'The Templar'; and it included Mozart's G minor Symphony and the Overture to 'Zauberflöte,' together with a selection from the composer-conductor's 'Romeo and Juliet' Symphony. Wagner was among the audience on that occasion, as we shall presently see.

The omission of the choral parts of the 'Romeo and Juliet' Symphony at the above concert called forth a peppery correspondence in pronounced, and, without accompaniment, could not be sufficiently learned in so short a time.

As for the song of the Capulets, with which MM. the male choristers had taken much pains, it was perfectly known, but learning that it was now the custom to have the choruses executed before the public without the chorus-singers having once rehearsed with the orchestra, I experienced a lively inquietude, the more so that but a small number of these gentlemen came to the last rehearsal, and having twice in succession failed to come in after the signal of the orchestra, it was evident that those who were to sing at the concert, without even having heard the orchestra (that is to say the majority), would assuredly fail in the same manner. Could I expose them to so unfortunate an accident? Could I expose the [New] Philharmonic Society to a disaster of such gravity?

And could I expose myself to see one of the principal morceaux of my work compromised in such an attempt?

I leave to artists and to every one who has any knowledge of musical matters the trouble of answering.

As for myself, I do not believe that such experiments should be made in public.

I have the honour to be, Sir, your devoted servant,
London, 26 June, 1855. HECTOR BERLIOZ.

The second and last New Philharmonic concert, conducted by Berlioz, took place on July 4. Henselt's Pianoforte Concerto in F minor (soloist, Karl Klindworth) was performed for the first time in England. This novelty Mr. Davison judged to be 'the most incoherent thing we ever heard from the pen of that clever composer of bagatelles. It is nothing more than an unmeaning pasticcio of traits de bravoure.' Ernst played the solo viola part in 'Harold in Italy'—'the grand and poetical symphony of M. Berlioz,' to quote Davison. Two days later, on July 6, Berlioz made his last appearance in England, when he conducted the orchestra at the benefit concert given by Mrs. Anderson. On that occasion the vocalists included Clara Novello, Grisi, Viardot, Mario, Tamburini, Formes and Lablache, while Ernst played some violin solos. Rossini's 'Stabat Mater'—conducted by Berlioz!—concluded that highly-fashionable July music-making. On the following day Berlioz left England, never again to return.

Two exceedingly pleasant sidelights on the visits of Wagner and Berlioz are furnished in the correspondence between the former and Liszt. On his return to Leipzig, after his Philharmonic experiences in London, Wagner wrote a long letter to Liszt—dated Zurich, July 5, 1855—in which he says* :—

DEAREST FRANZ,

One real gain I bring back from England—the cordial and genuine friendship which I feel for Berlioz, and which we have mutually concluded. I heard a concert of the New Philharmonic under his direction, and was, it is true, little edified by his performance of Mozart's G minor Symphony, while the very imperfect execution of his 'Romeo and Juliet' Symphony made me pity him.

A few days afterwards we two were the only guests at Sainton's table; he was lively, and the progress in French which I have made in London, permitted me to discuss with him for five hours all the problems of art, philosophy, and life in a most fascinating conversation. In that manner I gained a deep sympathy for my new friend; he appeared to me quite different from what he had done before. We suddenly discovered that we were in reality fellow-sufferers, and I thought upon the whole, I was happier than Berlioz.

After my last concert he and the other few friends I have in London called on me; his wife also came. We remained together till three o'clock in the morning, and took leave with the warmest embraces.

RICHARD.

If only that five hours' Berlioz-Wagner conversation on 'all the problems of art, philosophy, and life' had been recorded in a phonograph!

To Wagner's interesting letter, Liszt replied as follows :—

I am delighted at your friendly relations with Berlioz. Of all contemporary composers he is the one with whom you can converse in the simplest, openest, and most interesting manner. Take him for all in all, he is an honest, splendid, tremendous fellow; and, together with your letter, I received one from Berlioz, in which he says, amongst other things :—

'Wagner, will no doubt, tell you all about his stay in London, and what he has had to suffer from predetermined hostility. He is splendid in his ardour and warmth of heart, and I confess that even his violence delights me. It seems there is a fate against my hearing his last compositions. The day when, at the command of Prince Albert, he conducted his Tannhäuser overture at the Hanover Square Rooms, I was compelled at the same hour to attend a horrible choral rehearsal for the New Philharmonic concert which I had to conduct two days later. . . .

'Wagner has something singularly attractive to me, and if we both have asperities, those asperities dovetail into each other.'

(Berlioz's drawing is more brilliant than mine.)

During this his last visit to England, Berlioz more than once visited the house of Messrs. Novello, then in Dean Street, Soho, in order to arrange for the publication of an English version of his Treatise on Instrumentation. On his return to Paris he wrote to Morel: 'I have received a commission from London for a small work, L'Art du Chef d'Orchestre, which will be added to the English edition of my revised and enlarged Treatise on Instrumentation. It will take up the whole of my time next month.' The English version of this standard and amplified text-book was supplied by Mrs. Cowden-Clarke, and duly published by Messrs. Novello.

The works of Berlioz, in spite of his attractive personality, were for many years more or less a sealed book to English amateurs. There were, however, a few ardent spirits who were anxious to do honour to the Master during his lifetime. For instance, the Musical Society of London, established in 1858, desired to perform his 'Symphonie Fantastique.' When this proposed performance reached the ears of Berlioz, he wrote to his English friend, George Alexander Osborne, in the following terms (translation) :—

Paris, 23 February, 1859.

MY DEAR OSBORNE,

I see that your name is among the members of the Committee of the Musical Society of London, and I write to beg an important service of you. Some few days ago a German artist wrote to me that there had been some vague talk of performing my Symphonie Fantastique at one of the concerts of the new Society. Now, this is just the one of my works with which I should like the English public to be acquainted; but it is also one of the most difficult, and without a certain number of rehearsals, it would be impossible to execute it. To perform this work after only one rehearsal, according to the London custom, would be absolutely to cut its throat. I must ask you, therefore, to dissuade the Committee from carrying out this project, if it exists. Benedict, Davison, Mori, Beale, Molique, Henry Smart, will, I hope, uphold you in this. Ask them, in my name, to do so. The orchestration of this Symphony is extremely complicated. A number of important arrangements will have to be made to do it well. Even certain instruments not generally employed in orchestras, will be wanted :—

* 'Correspondence of Wagner and Liszt.' Translated by Franz Hueffer. London: Grevel & Co. 1897.

- 1 Clarinet in E flat.
- 1 Piano (this is more common).
- 4 Harps.
- 4 Drummers (on two pairs of drums).

(Now in London you do not possess four good drummers, able to play a delicate roll.)

Without that the Adagio, 'La Scène aux Champs,' and the 'Marche au Supplice,' would be ruined. I am aware that the Society must have a fine orchestra, and that Mr. Mellon is an excellent conductor, but time and study are absolutely indispensable to the successful execution of a work of this sort. Were I myself the conductor, I would not undertake that it should go well after two rehearsals; I think therefore what should be the result with a single rehearsal, directed by a conductor who did not know the score by heart.

Do, therefore, your very utmost to prevent the appearance of my Symphony in the programme. I repeat, it would be murder, and I am well aware that your Society entertains kind feelings towards me. Adieu, let me have a word of reply.

Yours ever H. BERLIOZ.

Twenty years passed, however, before this eminently characteristic work of the imaginative French composer—the 'Symphonie Fantastique'—was heard in England. Its first performance in this country (so far as we can discover) took place at the Hallé Concerts, Free Trade Hall, Manchester, on January 9, 1879, under the direction of the late Sir Charles Hallé.

In bringing to a close these informal articles on 'Berlioz in England,' one cannot help being struck with the cordiality with which he and his music were received in this country. The Mendelssohn domination is often spoken of in terms of reproach, and as if no other composer after him could win the affections of the English people. But Berlioz, with his startling innovations and eccentric methods,—judged from the British point of view of the time—no sooner arrived here than he was received with open arms. The contrast between the welcome accorded to Berlioz and the rabid animosity displayed towards Wagner is remarkable, but not inexplicable. May not an attractive personality have had a great deal to do with the different treatment accorded to the two men? Wagner, embittered by his long struggle against poverty, depreciation and failure, set foot on these shores in a very unfit condition to make friends, even if he had been the most genial of men. He appears to have set every one by the ears, so to speak: while Berlioz, on the other hand, resembled Mendelssohn in the charm of his manner and the desire to be affable.

It was by a mere chance that the composer of the 'Symphonie Fantastique' did not settle in England, or, at least, make it to a large extent his home. What might have been the course of our orchestral, yea, even choral music if this evident desire on his part had been fulfilled? This question, though futile now, may furnish a train of thought in this centenary year of the birth of so great an artist, so poetical a musician, and so eminent a composer as Hector Berlioz.

F. G. E.

DR. CROTCH ON BACH'S 'FORTY-EGHT.'

An interesting book has lately been lent to me—a copy of Wesley and Horn's edition of Bach's 'Das wohltemperirte Klavier,' which belonged to Dr. Crotch. His name and address are on the title page, 'W^m. Crotch, Kensington Gravel Pits, 1821,' and scattered throughout the volume are many marginal notes. These notes, as representing a critical study of Bach and the estimation in which he was held in the early part of the 19th century by a distinguished English musician, are of such considerable interest, that I felt a description of them might be interesting to readers of THE MUSICAL TIMES.

From the notes, it is very evident that Crotch knew his 'Forty-eight' thoroughly and esteemed many of them highly; thus, at the end of the C sharp minor Fugue (No. 4 in Part I.), he adds in a pencil note: 'I think this is the finest piece of writing in the world.'

That is the key-note of the bulk of his criticisms—his unbounded delight in the writing, in the scientific construction of the Fugues, rather than admiration of the emotional force, the deep expressiveness, the playfulness, the broad dignity, or the sparkling humour which we find in them. This attitude causes Crotch to be strangely oblivious to the more matured powers displayed in Part II. of this immortal work, compiled some twenty years later than the first, and thus induced him to write on the title-page of the third set*—that is, at the beginning of Part II.—'I think these too (sic) sets composed before the former, and are inferior'!

Crotch adds a note to the editorial introduction, which to some extent explains his views. A paragraph in this preface runs as follows:—

These introductory Remarks are not designed as a Panegyric upon Compositions which have perpetually delighted the candid Lover of Truth, Science, Taste, and Expression, and even extorted the Approbation of those whose Prejudices had formerly superseded their better Judgment.

He underlines and queries 'Truth, Taste, and Expression,' but admits the Science!

Unless we allow Crotch a certain inconsistency we shall find it difficult to realize what he understands by Science alone, as he gives his highest praise to the Preludes in E flat minor and B flat minor (Nos. 8 and 22 in Part I.). He employs a method of indicating by a star at the beginning of each Prelude or Fugue his opinion of it, the size of the star increasing in direct proportion to his estimation of the music; sometimes it is as small as an asterisk, at others as large as a goodly-sized chrysanthemum. The Preludes just mentioned (Nos. 8 and 22, Part I.) bear stars of the greatest magnitude. At the end of the second he writes: 'I think this the finest piece I know.'

Prefixed to the Prelude in D minor (No. 6, Part I.) is the note, 'My hobby,' illustrated with a pencilled figure of a man riding. He has evidently compared the Preludes as they stand in this edition with Forkel's Leipzig Edition of 1801, and thinks that the latter is the correct one, with its shorter form of ten of the earlier Preludes. That the exact opposite is the case is shown by Spitta in Appendix XII., vol. ii., page 664, of his 'Life of Bach.'

* The Wesley-Horn edition of the '48' was published (1810-1813) in four sections.

In regard to the Fugues, Crotch has a genuinely enthusiastic love. He has evidently analysed them all carefully, and has annotated many, often expressing his admiration by such ejaculations as 'fine,' 'magnificent,' 'astounding,' 'great.' But one cannot help feeling that his appreciation is curiously limited. He is always on the lookout for the science displayed in the construction of the Fugues, and is often astonished at Bach's sparing use of conventional fugal devices; 'no stretto,' when, as he shows, the subject might be treated canonically; 'no inversion,' when the subject would invert well. Is it possible that he did not realize that a fugue might be a characteristic and closely-reasoned piece of music without any such devices, or with only a small selection of them, and that a display of ingenuity might be detrimental to the general character of the Fugue and utterly spoil its balance and sense of proportion? It must be so or we should not find such peculiar criticism blended with his enthusiasm.

At the end of the first Fugue in C major (Part I.) he writes: 'This is very fine, but might not inversions and augmentations have been used?' After the next (No. 2, in C minor) he pencils out the subject in inverted form, possibly feeling that Bach had missed a chance; the false relations in the episode of this Fugue also trouble him greatly. The third (in C sharp major) he would prefer to be in D flat, adding, 'The lesser evil is always to be preferred.' The seventh Fugue (in E flat major) he dismisses with the astonishing professorial dictum, 'More genius than science'!

He revels in the marvellous power of canonic imitation displayed in No. 8, writing out in ink the various intervals at which the imitations are introduced, not forgetting to occasionally mention that they are not strict. That in F sharp minor (No. 14) he finds harsh, and suggests no less than seven emendations of the text! In one of these he is right, at bar 21, where there is an obvious misprint in this particular copy; but as regards the rest it is easy to see that Bach was aiming at character rather than purity of part-writing. The G major Fugue (No. 15) he prefaces with the remark, 'Too much is made of y^e inversions,' and says at the first introduction of the subject in inverted form, 'Too soon, and too often.' Above the entry of the subject in the second voice, ten bars from the end, is the puzzling remark, 'New College.' What does this mean?

To give the whole of his annotations would extend this paper to an inordinate length, but I will add a few more which seem to me characteristic of the man and the time. The triple counterpoint in the Prelude of No. 19 (I am still referring to Part I.) delights him immensely, and he carefully marks all the entries of the three subjects. The Fugue in A minor (No. 20) he calls a 'juvenile piece,' and says again that 'Too much importance is attached to y^e inversions.' Later research has shown that this is indeed an earlier work, modelled possibly upon an organ Fugue of Buxtehude. Spitta assigns it to the year 1707 or 1708. A prefatory note to the Fugue in B minor (No. 24) reads: 'Very great, but laboured—discords unprepared, &c.,' and this opinion causes Crotch to suggest several totally unnecessary emendations of the text. Over bars 18, 19, 20, he writes: 'What tho' I trace,' and, at the end of the Fugue: 'I wonder how often Handel played this.'

And this brings me to another interesting series of notes—the many references to Handel, and comparisons with passages from his works; frequent suggestions of Handel borrowing from Bach, and once or twice of Bach being indebted to Handel! Is there any evidence at all that Handel ever saw Bach's 'Forty-eight Preludes and Fugues?' Crotch obviously thought so, but gives no authority for his statement, beyond pointing out certain similarities: he evidently remembered that Handel had freely conveyed ideas from other composers.

The Prelude in C sharp minor (No. 4) is headed, 'What is this so like? Something of Handel's?' The similarity to 'Wretched lovers' in the bars of the Prelude in E flat (No. 7, bar 23) is duly noted, while the eleventh Fugue is said to be 'more like Handel than ever.' Crotch writes at the beginning of Wesley and Horn's second set (Nos. 13 to 24, Part I.): 'This set Handel has studied'; he notes the likeness of the extension of the answer in No. 16 to 'Fallen is the foe,' and compares the twenty-second Fugue to Handel's 'Overture to Tamerlane.'

Of the many further references to Handel I can only select a few. Bar 5 of the twenty-sixth Fugue is compared to 'Handel in Joseph'—I am unable to place the reference; the thirtieth Prelude is called 'Very good, Handelian'; and about half-way through there is a note, 'Handel knew and liked this, I am sure'; to the Fugue he put 'Handel knew this, too.' Before the fortieth Fugue he writes: 'I should think Handel must have sent him this subject': Fugue forty-three is, he thinks, 'Like Handel's Lessons.' At the end of this he writes as follows: 'Subject wants a more marked character; one does not know it when one meets it, like the lawyer and his conscience.'

In the thirty-third Fugue in E major—called by S. Wesley 'the Saints-in-glory' Fugue—we find the subject in diminished form compared to 'and triumph over death,' from 'Samson'; but at the end Crotch adds a still more interesting note: 'Dr. Burney showed me this about 1790, and it made a deep impression upon me. It is the finest of all, I think.'

A few more general remarks on the second part may be cited. Although, as I have stated previously, Crotch has not so high an opinion of this as of the first part, wrongly attributing it to an earlier date, he, though he passes over the first four or five without comment, waxes enthusiastic over several other numbers.

At the end of the Fugue in D major (No. 29) he writes: 'Can anything be finer'; but modifies his rapture with the further comment, 'no inversion, no augmentation.'

Crotch is not pleased with the thirty-fifth and thirty-sixth Fugues. He prefaces the first of these with the note, 'subject vulgar, I think, but written well,' evidently feeling that the gigue form was too undignified for fugal treatment. The second has this comment: 'not a good subject,' and some of the writing is 'modern.' Fugue 42 (in G sharp minor) was evidently a great favourite with the old Doctor. About the middle he writes: 'Every bar is a separate wonder'; and at the end, 'What is the greatest possible musical treat I could have after hearing this? Answer: To hear it again.'

The forty-sixth Prelude, he thinks, 'might have begun more simply.' For the noble Fugue which follows, his admiration, genuine as it is, seems to be confined to the dexterous workmanship displayed in its construction. At the first entry of the subject and answer in stretto, at the interval of a seventh, he writes: 'What capabilities!' and at the end, 'very wonderful,' together with this experiment:—

Before taking leave of our old professor and his treasure, mention should be made of the following letter, fastened inside the cover of the volume, from Samuel Wesley to Dr. Crotch, written two years before Wesley's death:—

MY DEAR SIR

Accept my cordial Thanks for your very kind and instructive Letter and valuable Present, in which I am gratefully joined by my Daughter. —I am glad to find that you do not give up old Bach, nor think I have been much mistaken in my Opinion of him.

It gives me Pleasure to hear of your good Health: of my own I cannot boast.

Believe me, My dear Sir, faithfully yours

S. WESLEY.

8 King's Row, Pentonville
Wedy 5. Aug^t 1835.

Is the underlined word ironical in the old enthusiast's letter, or has Crotch in his 'instructive Letter' modified some former opinions, and shown more readiness to give Bach the full meed of honour due to him? Rather let us think that Bach, after a century of neglect, was at last coming to his own, though his immensity could have been only imperfectly recognized even by the band of enthusiasts who attempted to understand him, not the least among whom was Dr. Crotch.

E. T. SWEETING.

Occasional Notes.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS OF THE DAY TO—

Madame Albani	-	-	November 1.
Edward Dannreuther	-	-	" 4.
Ignaz Jan Paderewski	-	-	" 6.
John Philip Sousa	-	-	" 6.
Allen Gill	-	-	" 13.
Henry R. Bird	-	-	" 14.
Willem Coenen	-	-	" 17.
Roland Rogers	-	-	" 17.
W. S. Gilbert	-	-	" 18.
Madame Moody Manners	-	-	" 23.
Bernhard Stavenhagen	-	-	" 24.
Henry Coward	-	-	" 26.
Joseph Bennett	-	-	" 29.
Myles B. Foster	-	-	" 29.
Ivor Atkins	-	-	" 29.

The first concert—announced to be given on the 26th ult.—by the newly-formed London Choral Society will have taken place too late in the month for notice in the present issue. Meanwhile we may refer to the origin and prospects of the Society. For some time past the need has been felt for a choral organization in central London. On the occasion of the Beethoven Festival held during the past summer—though there was no summer in 1903—it was found necessary to enlist the services of a suburban society for the singing of the choral portion in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, and the Dulwich Philharmonic Society was the one selected for the discharge of that duty, under the baton of Herr Weingartner. On that occasion the interpretation by those excellent Dulwichites (or Dulwichers) of Beethoven's exacting (and by no means dull) music called forth a general chorus of praise, in which the critics heartily joined. The conductor of the Dulwich Society, Mr. Arthur Fagge, and his singers were not only highly gratified thereby, but Mr. Fagge fancied he saw great possibilities attending the formation of a London society on the same lines as that of Dulwich. A man of action, energy, and dauntless enthusiasm, he set to work at once to seek and obtain financial support in the shape of a guarantee fund, and thereupon started the London Choral Society. We understand he has had shoals of applications for performing membership, but so high—and rightly so—is the standard of voice and reading power which has been set up, that the full complement of 300 first-rate singers has not yet been reached. The choral rehearsals are held on Monday evenings at 7 o'clock at the Memorial Hall, Farringdon Street, while the concerts (under the management of Mr. Vert) will be given in Queen's Hall with a first-class orchestra and efficient soloists. The scheme includes such well-tried favourites as the 'Golden Legend' and 'Elijah,' in addition, to Dr. Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius' (already in rehearsal) soon after the opening of the New Year. Such an enterprise, started under conditions that point to the goal of success, deserves every encouragement. In bringing the aims and aspirations of the London Choral Society and its conductor before our readers, we have no hesitation in saying that this, the youngest choral body in the Metropolis, is one that merits support, and we feel sure that in the matter of attainment the Society will justify its existence.

The death of Mr. John Callcott Horsley, R.A., which, we regret to record, took place on the 19th ult., removes the bearer of an honoured name from the artistic life of London. Born on January 29, 1817, Mr. Horsley was a son of William Horsley, the celebrated glee composer, a brother of Charles Edward Horsley, a grandson on his mother's side of Dr. Callcott, and a great-nephew of Sir Augustus Callcott, the celebrated painter. As a young man in the art school of Mr. Sass, he had as a fellow-student Edward Novello. He first exhibited at the Royal Academy of Arts in 1836, and was elected R.A. in 1864, subsequently becoming Treasurer of the Institution at Burlington House. Mr. Horsley was a splendid type of the fine old English gentleman. He delighted in talking of the time when Mendelssohn spent so many happy hours in the old home of the Horsley's at Kensington Gravel Pits, the same house in which the deceased painter drew his last breath. 'How Mendelssohn laughed at our private theatricals, as he bent over the head of the couch in this very room,' he told the present writer in the course of a reminiscent conversation. It was after one of his pleasant visits to Kensington that Mendelssohn wrote from Germany to Mrs. William Horsley in these words:—

'As for Mr. Horsley's promise to hang up a plum-pudding for me, and to keep it waiting till next spring, shall it be realized? It must be a serious and rather sentimental feeling to eat such a venerable thing, that has lived so long, and seen so much of the world, and what may happen during its life! However, I hope the Pudding and I shall meet both in good health, and then I shall be glad to contribute to its destruction.'

The 'P.S.' to this letter reads: 'I have forgotten to send my congratulation to Mr. John for the medal he has won. I long to see the drawing for which he received it, and shall make my criticisms of it, as I did before.'

Among Mr. J. C. Horsley's most precious treasures were two miniature water-colour sketches from the brush of Mendelssohn. These he very kindly allowed to be reproduced (in coloured facsimile) in THE MUSICAL TIMES of December, 1897. One of these delicately-executed pictures is entitled by the musician-painter, 'Lugenstein's Garten, Leipzig. The seat of Felix Mendelssohn Bart.', an amusing abbreviation of his name (Bartholdy), whereby he turned himself into an English baronet! The good name and fame of two generations of the Horsley family are perpetuated in the person of Sir Victor Horsley, F.R.S., the eminent pathologist, a son of the venerable Royal Academician.

Liszt's 13th Psalm, performed at the recent Birmingham Musical Festival, recalls an interesting comment of the composer's in regard to that particular work. When Sir Alexander Mackenzie met Liszt in Florence several years ago, Sir Alexander said he was glad to tell him (Liszt) that a performance of his 13th Psalm had been announced in England. A grim smile passed over the face of the great pianist as he replied 'O Herr, wie lang?' ('O Lord, how long?'), the opening words of the Psalm.

Performances of Dr. Elgar's oratorio 'The Apostles' are already arranged to be given during the present season at Birmingham (twice), Hanley, Leeds, and Manchester. It is probable that the work may soon be heard in London. 'The Dream of Gerontius' was successfully performed at Darmstadt on the 19th ult., under the able direction of Hofkapellmeister de Hahn.

The Proceedings of the Musical Association, recording the operations of the 29th Session, have recently been issued. The contents of the volume fully justify the raison d'être of the Society, which exists 'for the investigation and discussion of subjects connected with the art and science of music.' The octet of papers read before the Association during the past Session, consisted of the following subjects together with the names of the writers:—

'Hungarian Music.' By Miss Ilona de Györy.

'The Dual Theory in Harmony.' By Herbert Westerbly.

'Some Aspects of Beethoven's Instrumental Forms.' By Gustav Ernest.

'National Opera in Russia.' (Third Paper.) By Mrs. Newmarch.

'The Whistles and Reed Instruments of the American Indians of the North-West Coast.' By the Rev. F. W. Galpin.

'Some Notes on Musical Libraries.' By J. E. Matthew.

'The Influence of the Organ in Musical History.' By Dr. A. Madeley Richardson.

'The Two Keys to the Theory and Practice of Harmony.' By Professor Nlecks.

A new and interesting departure in the (nearly) thirty years' history of the Society was the holding of a meeting at the house of a member, Mr. J. E. Matthew, when that gentleman showed and explained the treasures in his library. The 'Some Notes' contributed to the 'Proceedings' by Mr. Matthew make very pleasant reading, in addition to their value from a bibliographical point of view. The Musical Association might very well extend its operations in this respect. Why not a summer visit to Tenbury?

On Wednesday, the 1st ult., was unveiled the Wagner monument in the Tiergarten, Berlin, in the presence of Prince Eitel, who represented the Emperor of Germany; at his side was Prince Frederick Henry of Prussia, Honorary President of the Festival Committee. The 'Kaisermarsch' was performed under the direction of Professor Rossberg, to which succeeded the final chorus in the 'Meistersinger,' 'Ehrt eure deutschen Meister.' Kommerzienrath Leichner delivered a short address, and then at the moment of the unveiling the 'Wachet auf,' from the 'Meistersinger,' sounded forth from choir and orchestra. The work of the sculptor, Professor Eberlein, has been much admired. Various concerts were given, but it is not in the concert room that Wagner can be duly honoured. Into the scheme of these concerts, and into the treatment by no means decorous of foreign composers resulting in their withdrawal from participation in the event, we need not enter. The first concert, given under the direction of Hofkapellmeister Carl Pohlig, of Stuttgart, illustrated the development of instrumental music from Gluck to Wagner; a second, under the direction of Hofkapellmeister H. Riedel, of Brunswick, was devoted to Schubert, Spohr, Mendelssohn, and Brahms; and the third, conducted by Kapellmeister Gustav Kogel, of Frankfort-on-Main, to Berlioz, Liszt, Peter Cornelius, and Richard Strauss. The most fitting homage paid to Wagner was however the excellent performance on the Friday evening of 'Die Meistersinger,' under the able direction of Dr. Richard Strauss.

The conclusion of the Biographical sketch of Vincent Novello is unavoidably held over till the December issue.

Fortunate indeed are the musical students at the University of Edinburgh. Here is the bill of fare which Professor Niecks has arranged for their delectation during the present Session:—

UNIVERSITY HISTORICAL CONCERTS.

Under the Direction of the Professor of Music.

1. November 18.—A recital of original pianoforte duets, interspersed with songs by Adolph Jensen. Performers: Messrs. Arthur Dace and Francis Gibson, and Miss Marion Richardson.
2. December 16.—Concert of wind-instrument music. Performers: The Queen's Hall Wind-instrument Quintet.
3. January 20.—A Liszt pianoforte recital. Performer: M. Paul Della Torre.
4. February 3.—The Waltz, from the 18th to the 20th Century. Performers: An orchestra of thirty players from the Scottish Orchestra.

A very interesting scheme, upon which the Professor and his audiences may be congratulated (especially having regard to the subject of the last concert) in toto.

The Musikhandel und Musikkpflege, published in Leipzig, gives a summary of musical publications issued by German houses during the year 1902. Of instrumental works there were 7,383, of vocal music 4,730, and of writings on music 475—in all 12,588 works!

The fondness of musicians for animals has received many proofs, Wagner and his dog for instance. Cats have awakened the muse of composers. Adam Krieger (1667) to wit, who composed a four-part vocal fugue on the following subject entirely imitative of feline utterances:—

Fifty years ago one Carlo Minasi composed a 'Poor Pussy Polka,' which he dedicated to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. This Opus was reviewed in the Musical World, the notice ending with these words:—

The polka, musically speaking, is 'good—very clever, tripping, and causative. There is an excellent imitation of a cat's mew in the Coda, which brings the piece to a categoric conclusion. Finis coronat. O Puss!

While on the subject of animals we may again refer to the dog as a companion of musicians. When Wagner paid his first visit to London (in 1839) he brought with him his little wife and his big dog. The animal was soon lost in the streets, to the great distress of Wagner. Great was Wagner's joy, however, when the lost dog burst into barkter on hearing his master's footsteps on the stairs of an hotel in Soho. Dragonetti, prince of double-bass players, used regularly to take his dog into the orchestra of the opera-house. Schneitzhofer, a pupil of Cherubini, had a dog in the orchestra of the Grand Opera in Paris, which possessed the gift of absolute pitch. At the command of his master this musical specimen of the canine tribe would correctly bark the note A. In truth a notable dog. If an A dog, why not a B or a C dog, and so on?—even to the number of eight well-tempered dogs who would bark the scale.

Considering that Mr. Gladstone took so important a part in the Concert of Europe, it is a little disappointing not to find several references to the Art in Mr. John Morley's 'Life' of the great Statesman. So far as we have examined the book, the only mention of music is of the year 1833. Gladstone then was a young man of 24 years of age, when we are told that:—

He frequented musical parties where his fine voice, now reasonably well-trained, made him a welcome guest, and he goes to public concerts where he finds Pasta and Schröder splendid.

The mirth-provoking authors (Messrs. E. V. Lucas and C. L. Graves) of 'Wisdom while you wait' have followed that sapient volume with an equally funny production in 'England day by day, a guide to efficiency and prophetic calendar for 1904.' (Methuen and Co.) The 'Guide' gives us the following information under the heading 'Scale of appreciation'—

- | | | |
|-----------------------|---|------------------------------|
| 10 deadheads make | - | $\frac{1}{2}$ a claque. |
| 1 claque makes | - | a furore. |
| 10 furores make | - | 1 paying engagement. |
| 50 paying engagements | } | 1 wealthy, |
| make | | |
| 2 pathetic ballads | } | 1 recall. |
| make | | |
| 3 recalls make | - | 1 bouquet. |
| 5 bouquets make | - | 'an enthusiastic reception.' |

The 'Prophetic Calendar' forecasts the following in the month of October:—

- | | | |
|----|-----|--|
| 13 | Th. | Opening of the Birmingham Musical Festival. Production of choral ballad, Retaliation . Words by Goldsmith, music by Sir Howard Vincent. |
| 14 | F. | Birmingham Festival, second day. Sullivan's Cobden Legend ; Berlioz's Joseph in Africa symphony; and overture to L'Inchiesta Segreta . Conductor, Mr. C. A. Vince. |
| 15 | S. | Miscellaneous programme, including: Songs, 'Che farò senza Giuseppe?' and 'The Lost (rubber) Cored,' Mr. A. J. Balfour; solo, 'Ranz des trois Vaches,' Mr. Jesse Collings; and grand scena, 'Revenons à nos moutons,' Princess Te Rangi Pai, of New Zealand. |

The prophecy for the 19th of the same month, as an incident of a concert tour (may we say twee?) of two musicians round the world, undertaken by the 'grave and gay' duettists Messrs. Algernon Ashton and Hayden Coffin, reads thus:—

Funeral Games.—Dead heat between Mr. Algernon Ashton and Mr. Hayden Coffin in the sack race. Mr. Coffin sings 'Down among the Dead Men,' with accordion obligato by Mr. Ashton.

A hundred or so equally amusing extracts could be given from this cleverly-compiled brochure, one that will cause many a smile and provoke not a few hearty laughs. The book is a capital shillingsworth.

Biography seems to be rampant on the subject of the late Sir Arthur Sullivan. Three life-stories of him are said to be in preparation from the respective pens of Mr. Vernon Blackburn, of the Pall Mall Gazette, Mr. B. W. Findon, a cousin of the composer's, and Mr. H. Saxe Wyndham, Secretary of the Guildhall School of Music. The public will therefore soon be in possession of five biographical volumes on Sullivan—two having already been published, in addition to the monograph in Mr. Charles Willeby's 'Masters of English Music,' and the biographical articles in Grove's 'Dictionary' and 'The Dictionary of National Biography.'

Church and Organ Music.

THE EVENING HYMN.

ITS ORIGIN AND HISTORY.

The Evening Hymn of saintly Bishop Ken is one of the most beautiful in the English language. The remorseless hand of time has not dimmed the lustre of its devotional expressiveness, with the result that this time-honoured sacred lyric is one of the most treasured contributions to the worship-song of the people. Let us, then, glean something that may be of interest concerning its history.

Thomas Ken, born at Little Berkhamstead, Hertfordshire, in 1637, was educated at Winchester College, of which foundation he subsequently became a Fellow, and at New College, Oxford. In the year 1674

BISHOP KEN.

he published 'A Manual of Prayers For the Use of the Scholars of Winchester Colledge.' This book of devotion—which bears on its title-page the motto 'Manners makyth man'—contains the following fatherly advice to the said scholars:—

Be fure to fing the Morning, and Evening Hymn in your chamber devoutly, remembering that the Pfalmist, upon happy experience affures you, that it is a good thing, to tell of the loving kindness of the Lord early in the morning, and of his truth in the night feason.

This, the first edition of the 'Manual,' contained no hymns, but the inference is that the famous Morning and Evening Hymns written by the good Bishop were printed or written out on separate sheets for the use of the youthful Wykehamists. Their first appearance in print, however, was in a later edition of the 'Manual,' issued in 1695, of which we give the full title:—

A MANUAL OF PRAYERS For Use of the Scholars of Winchester College. And all other Devout Christians. To which is added three Hymns for Morning, Evening, and Midnight; not in former editions: By the Same Author. Newly Revised.

London, Printed for Charles Brome at the Gvn, at the West End of St. Paul's Church, 1695.

It will be observed that no author's name is given in the above title; but the 'Manual' and its three Hymns were undoubtedly from the pen of Thomas Ken. The 'Morning Hymn' is the well-known lyric beginning 'Awake, my soul, and with the sun'; but it is with the Evening Hymn that we have to do. The first line originally stood:—

Glory to Thee, my God, this night.

a reading still retained in some hymnals. Bishop Ken, however, in the 1709 edition of his Winchester 'Manual,' revised the text and in so doing caused the hymn to commence:—

All praise to Thee, my God, this night.

It has been pointed out that the words 'All praise' were frequently used by the old prelate in his sacred writings. The hymn originally consisted of twelve stanzas, including that magnificent Doxology and unrivalled pæan, 'Praise God from whom all blessings flow.' At the first appearance of the hymn in print there was a curious misprint in its second line, which read 'For all the blessings of the night,' instead of 'light!' The verses usually omitted (7 to 11) are so quaint as to justify their insertion here:—

6. Dull Sleep, of Sense me to deprive,
I am but half my time alive:
Thy faithful lovers, Lord, are griev'd
To lye so long of Thee bereav'd.
7. But tho' sleep o'er my frailty Reigns,
Let it not hold me long in Chains;
And now and then let loose my Heart,
Till it an Hallelujah dart.
8. The faster sleep the Senses binds,
The more unfetter'd are our minds;
O may my Soul from matter free,
Thy loveliness unclouded see!
9. O when shall I in endless Day
For ever chase dark Sleep away,
And Hymns with the Supernal Choir
Incessant Sing, and never tyre!
10. O may my guardian while I sleep
Close to my Bed his Vigils keep His Love Angelical instil,
Stop all the Avenues of Ill.
11. May he celestial joy rehearse,
And thought to thought with me converse,
Or in my stead all the Night long,
Sing to my God a Grateful Song!
12. Praise God from whom all blessings flow, &c.

We may now turn to a consideration of the music, that which is associated, and worthily associated, with Bishop Ken's words, in the tune known as 'Tallis Canon.' To trace its origin we must look at a Psalter versified by Matthew Parker, the second Protestant Archbishop of Canterbury. This book, issued in or about the year 1560, was entitled:—

The whole Psalter translated into English Metre, which containeth an hundreth and fifty Psalmes.

... Imprinted at London by Iohn Daye, dwelling ouer Aldersgate, beneath S. Martyns.

Cum gratiâ et privilegio Regiâ maiestatis. per Decennium.

This Psalter never came into general circulation. It is an exceedingly scarce book, and the very few copies now in existence are doubtless the remains of a small number given to select persons, and consequently they were carefully preserved. Near the end of the Psalter we find the following quaint information given under the heading 'For the Coniunction of Psalmes and tunes':—

First ye ought to conioyne a sad tune or song, with a sad Pſalme, And a joyfull tune and songe wyth a joyfull Pſalme, And an indifferent tune and song, with a Psalm which goeth indifferently. . . .

Equally quaint are the words of the Archbishop concerning the character, poetic genius, and skilled musicianship of King David :—

David . . . was a Christian deuine in fprite, a perfecte Poete in hys Metre, and an expert muficio in ordering of his instruments, and letting of his tunes agreeably.

No less interesting are the concluding pages of this old Metrical Psalter, attributed to Archbishop Parker, as they contain eight tunes and a supplemental tune,

Imprinted at London
by John Day, dwelling ouer Aldersgate beneath S. Martins.

Cum priuilegio Regiæ Maiestatis. per Decennium.

all composed by worthy Thomas Tallis. Concerning 'The nature of the eyght tunes' we are told :—

The first is meeke : deuout to see,
The second sad : in maiesty.
The third doth rage : and roughly brayth.
The fourth doth fawne : and flattery playth,
The fyfth deligh : and laugheth the more,
The sixt bewayleth : it weepeth full fore ;
The seuenth tredeth stout : in froward race,
The eyghte goeth milde : in modeft pace.

To this interesting description succeeds the following direction, doubtless in the words of Tallis himself :—

The Tenor of these partes be for the people when they will syng alone, the other parts, put for greater queers, or to fuche as will syng or play them priuateelye.

The 'eyghte' tune, which 'goeth milde: in modeft pace' (organists, please note) is the original of 'Tallis Canon.' It is there assigned to Psalm lxvii. in this metrical form :—

God graunt wyth grace, he vs imbrace,
In gentle part, blesse be our hart :
With louing face : shyne he in place,
His mercies all : on vs to fall :
That we thy way : may know al day :
While we do faile, this world fo fraile :
Thy healthes reward : is nye declard :
As playne as eye, all Gentils spy.

This eight-line verse necessitates the repetition of each line of Tallis's canonic tune. The canon starts in the tenor, not in the soprano as we now sing it.

The last page of Archbishop Parker's Psalter contains a curious wood-cut which we reproduce. It represents John Daye, one of the earliest of English music-printers, as a skeleton, recumbent on a tomb. From out the Daye skeleton grows the tree of virtue. The accompanying maxim reads: 'Virtue will continue after death, even though death quickens its pace day by day.' Mr. John Daye, the most eminent music-printer of that early period, was rather fond of these punning conceits; a motto used by him reads 'Arise, for it is Daye!'

The reduction of 'Tallis Canon' into a four-line tune was the work of Ravenscroft. Here is the title of his book :—

The Whole Booke of Psalmes: with the Hymnes Evangelicall, and Songs Spiritvall. Composed into 4 parts by fundry Authors, to fuch severall Tunes, as haue beene, and are vsually fung in England, Scotland, Wales, Germany, Italy, France, and the Nether-lands. Neuer as yet before in one volume published.

Also: 1. A briefe Abſtract of the Prayſe, Efficacie, and Vertue of the Psalmes.

2. That all Clarke of Churches, and the Auditory, may know what Tune each proper Psalme may be fung vnto.

Newly corrected and enlarged by Tho: Rauenscroft Bachelor of Muficke.

Gloria in excelsis Deo.

Printed at London for the Company of Stationers. 1621.

Ravenscroft's Preface is addressed

To all that have Skill, or Will vnto Sacred Musicke,
I with Concord among themselves, with God, and with their owne Consciences.

After addressing his readers as 'Harmonical Brethren,' he goes on to say :—

I haue here vndertaken with no small labour, and charge, to bring the Tunes of the Psalmes, Hymnes Euangelicall, and Songs Spirituall, (as they are vsually fung throughout Great Brittain) into one entire volume; which are so Composed, for the most part, that the vnskilfull may with little practice, be enabled to sing them in parts, after a plaufible manner.

The reference to the 'plaufible manner' of the 'vnskilfull' strikes one as being a little funny. The old Psalmist in concluding his address thus subscribes himself to his 'Harmonical Brethren':—

Your well according and best wishing Brother,
THO. RAUENSCROFT.

The shortened form of the tune appears in Ravenscroft as follows:—

A PSALME BEFORE MORNING PRAYER. T. TALLIS.

Canon. 2 parts in one.

TENOR, or Playnsong.

As in Archbishop Parker's Psalter, the canon starts in the tenor.

THOMAS TALLIS.

(From Mr. Myles B. Foster's 'Anthems and Anthem Composers.' By his kind permission.)

So perfect is the mating of the words and music of the Evening Hymn that one is naturally inclined to think that Thomas the divine, and Thomas the musician, must have fraternized and collaborated in producing a perfect thing. But more than a century separated their respective careers, and it was not until the year 1732 (so far as at present known) that the blending of hymn and tune took place, and then in a collection entitled:—

The Harmonious Companion : or, The Psalm-Singer's Magazine : Being a different Tune to each Psalm in Four Parts, Cantus, Contra-Tenor, Tenor and Bass. Collected from Mr. Thomas Ravenscroft, and others. With Several Tunes never before Publish'd. Also, several Hymns and Anthems.

Collected by B. SMITH : and corrected by W. P. PRELLUER.

London : Printed by W. Pearson . 1732.

It is there headed 'An Evening Hymn—A Canon Two in one.' John Wesley included the tune, though in an altered form of its melody, in his 'Foundery' collection of tunes (1742), where it is assigned to the hymn, 'Jesus, Thy blood and righteousness.' Various subsequent tinkering of 'Tallis Canon' obliterating all traces of the canon, have taken place from time to time, but modern editors have happily restored this simple strain to a close approximation of the form in which Tallis wrote it.

Thus we have endeavoured to give an outline of the history of a hymn and tune which have touched the hearts of millions of worshippers—a sacred song, which in the direct utterance of its tender breathings, no less than in the devotional strain which forms its true counterpart, will long continue to hold an honoured place in the worship-song of all Christian congregations.

SIR WALTER PARRATT ON CHURCH MUSIC.

Church music found a place in the proceedings of the Church Congress held at Bristol from the 11th to the 18th ult. An interesting discourse on the subject by the Rev. Prebendary Bevan was followed by what is described as an 'entertaining' paper, read by Sir Walter Parratt, whose wise remarks were reported in The Times as follows:—

In what were called well-appointed services, he said there was scarcely room left for the worshipper to use his own voice. There was music everywhere—it had appropriated for itself every word which was assigned to the congregation. Though this monopoly of the service by music was not unnatural in the desire to make worship artistic and attractive, and was doubtless due to good motives, it should not be forgotten that there were still, and would always be, unmusical souls. Many of these, fortunately, were aware of their deficiencies, but there were others who at all costs desired to take part in the service. There was too often no place for such persons to share in the proper sphere of work of the congregation with satisfaction to themselves and comfort to others. The unmusical surely deserved some consideration; and it would, on the whole, in many cases be better to read the Creeds and the Confession and some of the prayers, for no musician could attach any value to the monotonous intoning of which we had far too much. English Churchmen, unfortunately, had been too often deprived of the power of joining in the service in their natural voices. The attempt was often made, but after a sentence or two the whole congregation was apt to drift into the dreary drone with which they were all so familiar, and which was so depressing. Nor did the clergy escape the infection, and it was rare indeed to hear the Lessons read with an easy and expressive intonation of the voice. Like the laity of whom he had been speaking, there were many excellent clergymen who laboured under the mistaken idea that they had an ear for music. The sooner they were undeceived the better. It often happened that the organist gave one note and the priest took another. At the same time, it was, in his opinion, desirable whenever it could be done that the Psalms should be chanted and the Canticles also sung to chants. Singing in unison was often recommended as the cure for many ills, but it was open to many objections. If all parish churches were to have choirs—a matter on which he entertained some doubt—the music ought to have interest enough to demand effort and be difficult enough to induce the adult members to give up at least one evening a week to rehearsal. Congregational singing would be facilitated if the choir were near enough to afford support. But in too many cases the choir was placed in a narrow chancel whence the sound emerged very imperfectly. Then the organ was often very badly placed in a hole on the north side of the chancel. The old west-end position was unquestionably the best for the organ, and the choir should be ranged half-way up the nave. However destitute of a voice, there were some people who felt that they were left out in the cold if they made no effort to join in the singing. Such persons were an affliction to their neighbours. He could not understand the feeling, for it was not given to everybody to sing. Not being able to sing himself, he did not when he was a member of a congregation feel constrained to disturb by his harsh voice the devotions of those who sat near him. All these questions were difficult and demanded different answers according to circumstances. He was no believer in the grievances of congregations; they were largely imaginary. As a rule they were a lazy, listless set who might do much more than they did. Seeing a number of people paid more or less to do their work, they did not trouble themselves to respond, and thoughtful Church people must often feel that it would be better to abolish choirs altogether or else to distribute them throughout the church. The unfortunate organist and choir were often unjustly blamed, and the clergy would do well if they addressed strong remonstrances to the people for their apathy and lethargy.

'The Parish Choir Manual' (Novello) is one of those handy books whose usefulness is in inverse ratio to the cost thereof. It contains the Canticles (set to various chants), Responses, Litany, Final Amens, Vesper Hymns and Vestry Prayers, together with accompaniments to the Lord's Prayer and Apostles' and Nicene Creeds. The 'Manual' has in it all the elements which should ensure its acceptance for use 'in quires and places where they sing.'

Mr. Henry Frowde sends us from the Oxford University Press 'A Kalendar of Hymns Ancient and Modern for the year of grace 1904,' compiled by the Rev. R. S. George. This useful little book of reference, which also contains a Table of Lessons, must seem to be indispensable to clergy and organists in the not altogether easy task of making a judicious selection of hymns for Sunday and daily services.

Mr. E. H. Thorne announces another series of four Bach Organ Recitals at St. Anne's Church, Soho, on the Saturday afternoons in November, at 3.30 p.m. As heretofore the scheme is a most commendable one; it includes some of the magnificent Choral Preludes composed by the great Cantor, in addition to a judicious selection of the immortal Fugues.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Dr. A. L. Peace, Congregational Church, Waterloo, near Liverpool.—Toccata (B minor) and Scherzo (E major), E. Gigout. Opening of the new organ built by Messrs. Lewis and Co., Ltd.

Mr. Arthur Hill, Oaklands Congregational Church, Shepherd's Bush.—Fanfare, Lemmens.

Mr. Chastey Hector, St. Michael's, Handsworth.—Fantasia and Fugue in E minor, W. T. Best.

Dr. Varley Roberts, Wesley Chapel, Halifax.—Minuet and Trio, from Symphony in G minor, Sterndale Bennett.

Mr. R. H. Turner, Parish Church, Portsmouth.—Andante con moto, W. S. Hoyte.

Mr. Louis H. Torr, Parish Church, Emsworth.—Sonata in D minor, J. Frederick Bridge.

Mr. Alfred W. V. Vine, Tewkesbury Abbey.—Marche Pontificale, Lemmens.

Mr. H. Mozart Sheaves, Moss Side Baptist Church, Manchester.—Fantasia in E minor, Stainer.

Mr. Arthur S. Manfield, Canal Street United Free Church, Paisley.—Commemoration March, John E. West.

Mr. Harry Bingham, Wesleyan Church, Blundellsands.—Choral March, Dudley Buck.

Dr. A. Madeley Richardson, St. Lawrence Church, Whitechurch.—Concerto in G minor, Handel.

Mr. Frank Pullein, Wrexham Parish Church.—Sonata in the style of Handel, Wolstenholme.

Mr. C. H. Moody, Ripon Cathedral.—Prelude and Fugue in F sharp minor, E. H. Thorne, and Toccata, Purcell.

Mr. William Cooke, All Saints', Sutton, St. Helen's.—Invocation in B flat, Guilmant.

Mr. Ernest H. Smith, St. Bede's, Liverpool.—Andante in D, Silas.

Mr. J. Robinson, Parish Church, Benwell.—Homage à Mozart, J. B. Calkin.

Mr. Arthur C. Tattersall, St. Alphege, London Wall.—Poco adagio in D, Smart.

ORGANIST, CHOIRMASTER, AND CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. H. Maitland Barnes, Holy Trinity Church, Halstead, Essex.

Mr. J. W. Barron, St. Alphege Church, Lower Edmonton.

Mr. Walter Blount, Holy Trinity Church, Scarborough.

Mr. A. Hampton Brown, St. Simon Zelotes Church, Upper Chelsea.

Mr. A. Chatfield, Parish Church, Kidderminster.

Mr. J. F. Cryer, St. John's, Waterloo, Liverpool.

Mr. A. W. Fletcher, North Adelaide Baptist Church, South Australia.

Mr. W. Johnson, St. George's Church, Altrincham.

Mr. C. G. Leopold Kimber, Parish Church, Earlsfield, Wandsworth.

Mr. Sydney H. Lovett, Parish Church, Harrow Weald.

Mr. J. Wellard Mathews, Woodgrange Wesleyan Church, Forest Gate.

Mr. R. J. Pitcher, St. Swithin's Church, Cannon Street, City.

Mr. John Pullein, St. Peter's Church, Harrogate.

Mr. E. Hadfield Sidebottom, and Mr. W. P. Fairclough, organist and choirmaster respectively of Holy Trinity Church, Shaw, Oldham.

Mr. F. Stapledon-Hiley, Union Church, Valparaiso.

Mr. Percy Taylor, St. Paul's Church, Southsea.

Mr. Arthur Goundry (Bass), St. Anne's Church, Soho.

THE BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENTS.)

Dr. Edward Elgar's eagerly-expected Oratorio 'The Apostles' was produced in the Town Hall, Birmingham, on Wednesday morning, October 14. It came to triumph and to stay; of this we have not the least doubt. History can show but few oratorios which have enriched the world's vast store of music with so much that is both new and beautiful as 'The Apostles' will eventually prove to have done. Unless we are greatly mistaken, it will be considered the most remarkable contribution to sacred art since Brahms's 'German Requiem.' Its originality is so great and rare that some time may elapse ere the full significance of the work is realized. For it has this in common with many of the greatest and most original creations in our Art, viz., that closest familiarity with every detail is necessary ere all its mysterious depths can be fathomed, and its many beauties appreciated. Moreover, 'The Apostles' is a work destined and worthy to move and elevate countless thousands now and in time to come—a work which will grow from year to year in the estimation and love of the people, for it brings anew, and in the lofty language of a master's noblest music, an old yet ever-welcome story.

Of the libretto nothing need be said in this place, since it has already been dealt with by more competent hands in previous issues of this journal. To deal with the music in anything like adequate detail would require many pages, for its newness is evident in almost every bar, and a treatise would be needed to do justice to the mere technical part of the composer's masterful workmanship. Dr. Elgar's most striking development since 'The Dream of Gerontius' lies in his complete surrender to the Wagnerian method of using the Leitmotif. The Oratorio bristles with representative themes; they are employed with a freedom which rivals that of the deftest of post-Wagnerian composers. In carrying out his design he has not, however, been consistently successful. There are a few isolated passages where the Leitmotif has been a fetter rather than a help to his imagination, so that the music, and especially the vocal melos, seems to flow somewhat haltingly. But by the side of such rare lapses there must be placed many splendid pages where he has woven his thematic material with complete success into wonderful tapestries, or joined them into beautiful mosaics. Naturally, the motives themselves vary greatly in length and in importance—phrases of two or three notes, and others of four or eight bars, being found cheek by jowl. For obvious reasons of freer handling and easier recognition, the most important among them are short, say from three to eight notes, as in Wagner's 'Ring.' They are throughout so individual in character that their full strength and beauty are not bound to be revealed to all and sundry at a first hearing. Intervals of fourths, fifths, and sixths are frequent, and make at once for unconventionality and strength. Take for instance the Gospel motive—the theme symbolic of the Apostles' Fellowship among themselves and with Christ—the expressive melody suggesting Mary Magdalene's Prayer for Forgiveness—or again the Angel motive—

On the other hand, some of the longest themes are built on lines recalling Beethoven, many of whose finest melodies often consist of consecutive notes of the scale. We mention especially the Apostles motive (founded on a Gregorian tone); further, the bold, original melody characterizing the Apostles' confession of Faith—the stately theme symbolizing Christ's Earthly Kingdom— the Worship motive, which is nothing more—and yet how much more!—than a scale passage—the austere Psalm tune sung by the Singers in the Temple—and finally the Angels' Alleluias—

The orchestration surpasses everything that even Dr. Elgar has ever done. Such a feast of colour, varying from the most gorgeous to the most sombre hues, has hardly a parallel in oratorio. Some of his pictures are flooded with sunshine, and made resplendent with true Oriental richness; others are almost terrible in their gloom. Whether we watch the sunrise over Jerusalem, the open-air scene 'By the Wayside,' the darkness after the tragedy of Golgotha, the radiance of the first Easter morn, or the splendour of the Ascension, each picture is true, and in each the composer creates atmosphere.

But these are mere details of technique. It is the spirit breathed into the composer's new forms which will matter most, and which will decide the fate of the new Oratorio. Is it a life-giving spirit, and can his strains move as they can astonish? Assuredly, yes! At the first performance, as scene after scene was unfolded, the master held the sympathetic listeners as it were in the hollow of his hand; their emotions responded willingly to his every emotion.

The Prologue, 'The Spirit of the Lord is upon me,' a highly effective and deeply impressive movement, sounds at once the note of mysticism which is such a remarkable feature of Dr. Elgar's sacred art, but which in this new work assumes a healthier, manlier character than before. Passing rapidly over the various sections of the Oratorio, reference must be made to the mystic, pre-Raphaelite beauty of the 'In the mountain—night,' a picture full of symbolism and holy calm; the music illustrating the Dawn, with the Watchers on the Temple roof greeting the rising sun; the broadly melodious morning Psalm (founded on an ancient Hebrew melody); the gorgeous orchestral picture illustrative of a sunrise over Jerusalem, and symbolic of the realization of Christ's prayer in the night watches. There follows the highly original, complex ensemble, 'The Lord hath chosen them,' in which the Apostles first appear and give utterance to the new faith that is in them, and Christ, in dignified and solemn phrases, makes the pronouncement, 'Behold, I send you forth: he that receiveth you, receiveth Me,' &c. Then we reach the peaceful scene 'By the Wayside,' a gem of unaffected expression, of peace and happiness; and, in strong contrast, the wonderful 'By the Sea of Galilee'; Mary Magdalene's grief, poured out in accents of bitter anguish; the weird 'Fantasy,' a vague, reluctant remembrance of her past days; the exciting 'Storm' episode (a superb page of graphic delineation); Mary Magdalene's conversion (to strains of pathetic tenderness and an accompaniment of rare polyphonic complexity and beauty); Peter's 'Thou art the Christ,' &c., and the Lord's pronouncement 'Thou art Peter, and upon this rock,' &c.; the consoling words of Mary the mother of Christ, set to music of ineffable sweetness, and the final chorus to Part I., 'Turn ye to the strong-hold,' filled with a calm dignity, and with a message of peace and hope all its own.

Part II. opens with an Introduction of almost tragic solemnity, thus forming a natural prelude to the scene of the Betrayal, with its sub-divisions 'In Gethsemane'; 'In the Palace of the High Priest' (containing a little chorus for female voices 'And the Lord turned,' in which the limits of expression would almost seem to have been reached). Next, the 'Temple' scene, during which Judas pours out his remorse in declamatory phrases of dramatic intensity; then the great scene 'Without the Temple,' rich in subject-matter and in the interest appertaining to the powerfully treated tragedy of the traitor's end. A return to reverential simplicity is made in the section 'Golgotha,' where the Atonement is briefly referred to in a few bars pregnant with meaning, the subsequent short dialogue between Mary the mother of Christ and John telling of a grief almost too deep for words in accents of masterful restraint, yet heart-moving pathos. The scene 'At the Sepulchre' is a masterpiece of unaffected, tuneful simplicity. 'The Ascension' sets a crown upon the whole, for it is a movement to which the term 'inspired' may be safely applied—a structure of vast proportions, remarkable design, and wonderful effect, greatly varied in the style and significance of its various sections, but breathing in every bar the word sincerity. To conclude: 'The Apostles' is likely to take its place as the great Oratorio of the present generation, and to hold that proud position until it is usurped by an even greater and nobler work.

The performance was splendid. Chorus and orchestra gave of their best, and the soloists—Madame Albani (The Angel and Mary the Blessed Virgin), Miss Muriel Foster (Mary Magdalene), Mr. John Coates (John), Mr. Kennerley Rumford (Peter), Mr. Andrew Black (Judas), Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies (Jesus)—were as fine a sextet of singers as could be brought together. Dr. Elgar, who conducted, was on his appearance greeted with tumultuous applause, and at the end was recalled again and again by one of the largest audiences ever attracted to a Birmingham Festival by a Novelty.

The sole novelty of the Festival having been discussed, the rest of the music, being for the most part familiar, does not require detailed notice. The opening morning was, as usual, devoted to Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,' and it must be acknowledged that if in other cities it would be well sometimes to select 'St. Paul' by way of variation, or one of Handel's neglected oratorios, Birmingham takes proper pride in regularly repeating an oratorio which is the only work of the kind written in the 19th century which has survived. The music being so well known, the Festival choir started advantageously on its arduous week's work. The singing was extremely fine. Dr. Richter conducted with a firm hand, though not perhaps with the sympathy which Mendelssohn's music so essentially demands. In the evening Sir Charles Villiers Stanford conducted a work of his produced at the Birmingham Festival of 1889, a setting for soli, chorus and orchestra of Tennyson's ballad, 'The Voyage of Maeldune.' In the six pictures representing respectively the Isle of Silence, of Shouting, of Flowers, of Fruits, of Fire, and of Witches, the composer found opportunities for exhibiting his skill as a tone-painter; there are also good, realistic effects. Some of the writing for the solo voices is smooth and effective. As a whole, however, the work lacks warm inspiration: it is well-made, yet somehow or another one cannot get rid of the fact that it is made.

Wednesday was devoted almost exclusively to British composers. As noted above, the morning was occupied with Dr. Elgar's oratorio. The evening programme commenced with Sir Arthur Sullivan's 'The Golden Legend,' of which an excellent performance was given, Dr. Richter bringing out effectively the various points of importance in the orchestration. The singing of 'O gladsome Light' was beautifully smooth and expressive; the pitch, however, was not maintained to the end. After a brief interval, Dr. F. H. Cowen came forward and conducted his orchestral poem, 'A Phantasy of Life and Love,' written for and produced at the Gloucester Festival of 1901, a work in which the composer shows consummate skill in the handling of an orchestra; moreover there is poetry and imagination in the music. It is an effective 'dream-picture of life, with its passions and emotions, hopes and aspirations.' The composer met with an enthusiastic reception.

On Thursday morning the 'Messiah' was performed. Dr. Richter's interest in 'Elijah' does not appear to be great; that in Handel's oratorio still less. He made practical acquaintance with both works after his tastes had been formed, and those tastes lie, as is well known, in the direction of orchestral music, notably that of Beethoven and Wagner. The rendering of the 'Messiah' was formal and cold, and from various uncertain moments we conclude that little time had been devoted to its rehearsal. In the evening the eminent conductor was quite in his element with Berlioz, Liszt, and Wagner. First came the 'Harold in Italy' Symphony. The first and last movements may not be very convincing, but the 'Marche des Pèlerins' and the 'Sérénade' are full of character and charm, and the scoring is delightfully picturesque; they were rendered with rare delicacy. The Liszt setting of Psalm xiii.—introduced into England by Walter Bache at his concert given in St. James's Hall on February 28, 1873—is an interesting work. Some of the music may be rather secular in character, but it is fresh and spontaneous. Choral Societies in search of an unhackneyed work ought to welcome it. The tenor solo was well sung by Mr. William Green. Sir Hubert Parry's 'Blest Pair of Sirens' was splendidly rendered, the composer conducting. For Strauss's symphonic poem 'Don Juan,' the 'Vorspiel and Liebestod' from 'Tristan' was substituted. A magnificent performance of the 'Meistersinger' Overture concluded the concert.

Friday was a red-letter day for choir and orchestra. In the morning Bach's Mass in B minor was performed. At the opening the choir seemed to be feeling the effects of the hard work of the week, but the singers recovered, and the colossal choruses were superbly rendered. The 'Et incarnatus' and the 'Crucifixus' were sung most impressively, and of the other choruses, the 'Cum sancto spiritu,' the 'Et resurrexit' and the 'Sanctus' with magnificent and at times overwhelming power. The evening concert commenced with Bruckner's Te Deum, performed on this occasion for the first time in England. The work was discussed by the present writer in his account of the Duisburg Festival which appeared in THE MUSICAL TIMES of July last. This was followed by Dvorák's 'Symphonic Variations,' and then we listened to that soul-stirring work, Brahms's Rhapsody (Op. 53) for alto solo, male chorus and orchestra, which was rendered with true nobility, Miss Muriel Foster singing the solo portion with artistic skill and genuine feeling. The performance of the Choral Symphony was one of the finest ever given in this country: the instrumental movements were splendidly played; the quartet of solo singers—Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Muriel Foster, Mr. William Green and Mr. Andrew Black—irreproachable; while the chorus covered itself with glory, and in so doing bore testimony to the skill of the Festival chorus-master, Mr. R. H. Wilson. This was the last work in the programme; anything after it would have proved an anti-climax.

The complete list of solo-vocalists is as follows:—Madame Albani, Miss Agnes Nicholls, Madame Clara Butt, Miss Muriel Foster, Madame Kirkby Lunn, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. William Green, Mr. John Coates, Mr. Andrew Black, Mr. Kennerley Rumford, and Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies. A word of praise is due to Mr. C. W. Perkins, organist of Birmingham Town Hall, for the good service he rendered as organist throughout the Festival.

THEODOR KIRCHNER, the composer of many well-known pianoforte pieces, died at Hamburg on September 19 at the ripe age of eighty. In 1843 he became a pupil of the Leipzig Conservatorium, and, in a letter of that year written to his friend Verhulst, Schumann mentions that fact, adding 'his creative talent is the strongest of all,' i.e., of all the pupils. Schumann subsequently referred to Kirchner as 'the most gifted of the young composers.'

MENDELSSOHN'S OVERTURE TO 'A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM.'

By SIR GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

Mendelssohn's Overture to the 'Midsummer Night's Dream' (Op. 21) must not be confounded with his incidental music to that play (Op. 61). The latter, including the Wedding March, was composed in 1842 or 1843, after 'St. Paul,' the 'Hymn of Praise,' the 'Italian' and 'Scotch' Symphonies; and its first performance took place four years only before its author's death. But the Overture was written while he was yet a lad, and still under the wing of Zelter. 'It was composed and put to paper,' wrote his friend Klingemann, 'in 1826: part of the score was written in the beautiful summer of that year, in the open air in the Mendelssohn garden at Berlin, as I can witness from having been present.' Mendelssohn was then mid-way in his eighteenth year.

To this we may add the testimony of the Autograph, which bears the date 'Berlin, 6 Aug., 1826,' and the recorded fact that on November 19 of the same year his friends first heard the Overture played as a pianoforte duet by his sister and himself.* The price which he received for it from the publisher was three louis d'or.

It is now known that the present work is a second attempt. The former one, of which the first half was completed, begun with the four chords and the fairy figure. On these followed a regular prologue to the play, in which the theme quoted below as No. 5 represented the loves of Lysander and Hermia. Nothing else has survived. The many other beautiful and characteristic features of the present work are new, and appear to be mainly the result of the representations of A. B. Marx, then extremely intimate with Mendelssohn, who urged that an Overture should not only be based on the subject of the play, but should adopt it as a programme.†

But whatever the details of the history of the Overture it is doubtless the greatest marvel of early maturity that the world has ever seen in music—probably in any art. 'It must be remembered,' said Wagner, 'that it was written at seventeen; but how finished the form already is!' The Octet (Op. 20) had been composed in the preceding year, and the String Quintet in A (Op. 18) was completed in June, 1826. But astonishing as these two works are in form and ideas for one so young, yet as compositions for stringed instruments they are only like crayon or monochrome—if the comparison may be allowed—when contrasted with the bright, living, moving picture which is presented by the Overture, radiant with every colour of the orchestra.

Beethoven was still alive when the Overture to the 'Midsummer Night's Dream' was completed; alive and at work. The F major Quartet (Op. 135), his last composition, in which after his own fashion he had tried to solve the 'difficult question,' ‡ 'To be, or not to be?'—a question soon to be solved for him in quite another manner§—had occupied him all the summer and autumn of 1826, till October 30, when he wrote his name upon it as complete.||

(Continued on page 737.)

* See the 'Life of Moscheles,' vol. i., p. 136.

† See A. B. Marx's 'Erinnerungen.' Berlin, 1865, vol. ii., p. 230.

‡ 'Der schwergefaste Entschluss'; such is Beethoven's own title to the last movement of the Quartet in F, Op. 135, to two of the subjects of which he has affixed the question and answer, 'Muss es sein?'—Must it be? 'Es muss sein!'—It must be!

§ By his death on the 26th of the following March.

|| The autograph copy of the separate parts of this Quartet contains the date in the composer's own hand: 'Gneindorf, am 30 Oktober, 1826.' Elsewhere he says, with his own humour: 'Gneindorf, what a name! It sounds like the breaking of an axle-tree.'

Jerusalem, look about thee.

November 1, 1903

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS.

Baruch iv. 36; Rev. xii. 10; St. Luke i. 32, 33;
and a verse of an old Carol.

Composed by JOHN E. WEST.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Allegro. BASS (ALL THE BASSES, IF POSSIBLE). Moderato. Quasi Recit.

Allegro. 138. rall. 0 Je -

ORGAN. Gt. f. Ped.

ru - sa - lem, . . look a - bout thee toward the east, . . and behold the joy that

Sw. mf

CHORUS. Allegro. mf

1st SOPRANO. Now - ell, Now - ell, Now - ell, . . Now -

2nd SOPRANO. mf Now - ell, Now - ell, Now - ell, Now

ALTO. mf Now - ell, Now - ell, Now - ell, Now

TENOR. mf Now - ell, Now - ell, Now - ell, Now poco rall. Now - ell, . . Now - ell . . Now

com - eth un-to thee from God.

poco rall. Allegro. Ch. mf

Ped. Man.

Copyright, 1903, by Novello and Company, Limited.

(2)

1st SOPRANO. mf

Now - ell, Now - ell, Now - ell, . . Now - ell, Born is the 2nd SOPRANO. mf

Now - ell, Now - ell, Now - ell, Now - ell, Born . . is the King, the

ALTO. mf

Now - ell, Now - ell, Now - ell, Now - ell, Born . .

TENOR. mf

Now - ell, . . Now - ell, . . Now - ell, Born is the King, the

Ch. mf

Man

poco rall. a tempo.

King of Is - ra - el. . .

poco rall. a tempo.

King of Is - ra - el. . .

poco rall. a tempo.

is the King of Is - ra - el. . .

poco rall. a tempo.

King of Is - ra - el. . .

a tempo.

poco rall. Gt. f rall.

Ped.

Allegro. BASS, (a tempo.) f legato.

He shall be great, and shall be called the

Allegro. Sw. mf

Son of the High - est : and the Lord God cres. f poco riten. f shall give un - to Him the throne of His fa - ther Da cres. poco riten. f

Allegro. 1st SOPRANO. mf poco rall. Poco meno mosso, con maestà.

Now - ell, Now - ell, Now - ell, Now - ell. . . And He shall

2nd SOPRANO. mf poco rall. f

Now - ell, Now - ell, Now - ell, Now - ell. . . And He shall

ALTO. mf poco rall. f

Now - ell, Now - ell, Now - ell, Now - ell. . . And He shall

TENOR. mf poco rall. f

Now - ell, . . Now - ell, . . Now - ell. . . And He shall vid. Allegro. Ch. mf poco rall. f Gt. Reeds.

And He shall reign o - ver the house of Ja - cob for ev - er ;

reign o - ver the house of Ja - cob for ev - er ;

reign o - ver the house of Ja - cob for ev - er ; and of His reign o - ver the house of Ja - cob for ev - er ; and of His King - dom there Sv. Full. f mf mf Gt.

Ped.

f poco riten. Allegro.

and of His King - dom . . there shall be no end. . .

f poco riten.

and of His King - dom there shall be no end. . .

poco riten.

King dom there shall be . . no . . end, shall be no end. . .

poco riten.

shall be no end, there shall be no end.

Allegro.

cres. f poco riten. mf

Then let us

Then let us

Then let us

Then let us

cres. f

poco cres.

all with one . . . ac - cord, Sing prais - es to our Heav'n - ly Lord, sing

poco cres.

all . . . with one ac - cord, Sing prais - es to . . . our

poco cres.

all . . . with one . . . ac - cord, Sing prais - es to our Heav'n - ly

poco cres.

all . . . with one ac - cord, Sing prais - es

poco cres.

prais - es to our Heav'n - ly Lord, That hath made Heav'n and earth of nought, And

f

Heav'n - ly Lord, That hath made Heav'n . . . and earth of nought, And

f

Lord, . . . That hath . . . made Heav'n . . . and earth of nought, And with . . .

f to our Heav'n - ly Lord, That hath made Heav'n and earth of nought, And cres. poco a poco.

with His Blood man - kind hath bought, That hath made Heav'n and earth, . . . made Heav'n and cres. poco a poco.

with His Blood . . . man - kind hath bought, That hath made Heav'n and earth, made cres. poco a poco.

. . . His Blood . . . man - kind hath bought, That hath made Heav'n and earth, made Heav'n and cres. poco a poco.

with His Blood man - kind hath bought, That hath made Heav'n and earth, made cres. poco a poco.

poco riten.

earth of nought, . . And with His Blood man-kind hath

poco riten.

Heav'n and earth of nought, . . And with His Blood man-kind hath

poco riten.

earth of nought, . . And with . . His Blood . . man-kind hath poco riten.

Heav'n and earth of nought, . . And with . . His Blood . . man-kind hath

a tempo.

bought. Sing prais - es, sing prais - es.

a tempo.

bought. Sing prais - es, sing prais - es.

a tempo.

bought. Sing prais - es, sing prais - es.

a tempo.

bought. Sing prais - es, sing prais - es.

a tempo. f cres.

poco riten. cre. Poco meno mosso. ff

Now - ell, . . . Now - ell, . . . Now - ell, . . . Born is the

poco riten. cres. ff

Now - ell, . . . Now - ell, . . . Now - ell, . . . Born is the

poco riten. cres. ff

Now - ell, . . . Now - ell, . . . Now - ell, . . . Born, born

poco riten. cres. ff

Now - ell, . . . Now - ell, . . . Now - ell, . . . Born is the poco riten. Poco meno mosso.

rall. a tempo.

King - - of Is - - ra - el. . .

rall. a tempo.

King . . . of Is - ra - el. . .

rall. a tempo.

. . . is the King . . . of Is - ra - el. . .

rall. a tempo.

King . . . of Is - - ra - el. . .

rall. ff a tempo. rit.

Also published in Novello's Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 1342, price 1½d.

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM—Continued.

While the happy and handsome boy was putting the finishing touches to his score in his father's sunny garden at Berlin, undisturbed by the jokes and laughter of sisters and friends around him, the solitary, deaf, weird-looking Beethoven was wandering through the fields and woods at Gneixendorf, notebook in hand, humming or howling the scale backwards and forwards from top to bottom, as was his wont while composing—or muttering the mystic words which form the motto of his Quartet, 'Muss es sein? Es muss sein.' Thus his latest work coincided with Mendelssohn's earliest: the setting of the great fiery splendour sun of Vienna, with the rising of the bright morning star of Berlin. Strange coincidence! It is thus that the torch is handed on—the succession of great artists kept up! Can we doubt that had he read this genial score, Beethoven would have said, as he did of Schubert, after perusing his 'Allmacht' and his 'Junge Nonne': 'Truly Mendelssohn has the divine fire in him—he will some day make a noise in the world.'

In England the Overture was quickly known. Mendelssohn brought it and the 'Meeresstille' Overture with him on his first visit to London in 1829, and left the MS. score of it with Sir George Smart. It was not played by the Philharmonic till March 1, 1830, at the first concert of the season; but it had been heard twice before in the preceding year, first at a concert of Drouet the flute-player, on June 24, Midsummer night! and again on July 13, at a concert organized by Mdlle. Sontag for the relief of the sufferers in Silesia—two performances which Mendelssohn himself spoke of as 'a rehearsal for next year.' On returning from Drouet's concert in a hackney coach with Mendelssohn, Sir George Smart left the score in the coach. It was never recovered.

The beginning of the Overture stamps the fairy character of the work. The four opening chords represent moonlight as well as sound can represent an object of sight, while the quaver figure (beginning at bar 8), is obviously the 'revels' of the fairies:—

Allegro di molto.

No. 1.

This forms the prevailing element of the Overture. It lasts for more than fifty bars, and then bursts into a melody, which has a strong resemblance to one of the airs in Weber's 'Oberon,' though there is no reasonable doubt that the two tunes are quite independent:—

No. 2.

This melody, after some development, ends in a descending passage for the wind:—

No. 3.

which becomes of great importance later on.

Then the fairy element intervenes again; and then, through a lovely passage in the clarinet:—

No. 4. Clar.

we arrive at the second subject proper of the movement, which loses nothing by the contrast of the strings to the preceding wind:—

No. 5.

This second subject—which as already mentioned, Marx distinctly says represented in the original Overture the wanderings of the lovers—is much longer than our quotation. It has a second part equally beautiful with that given above. And this leads directly into a perfect contrast—the 'Bergomask dance' of the Clowns:—

No. 6.

which Mendelssohn retained for the dance when he wrote the full music for the play in 1843. Shortly after this the first section of the Overture ends with a repetition of the 'Oberon' melody (No. 2).

The working-out, or middle section, begins with the fairy quaver figure (No. 1), in conjunction with another motif, which has a curious personal history. 'I once rode with him,' says Schubring in his 'Reminiscences,'* 'to Pankow and the Schönhauser Garden, at the time he was busy with the 'Midsummer Night's Dream' Overture. The weather was lovely,

* 'Erinnerungen,' in Daheim for 1866, No. 26. Translated in the 'Musical World,' May 12 and 19, 1866.

and we were talking away, lying on the grass in the shade, when all of a sudden he seized my arm, and said "Hush!" A great fly had just buzzed past us, and he wanted to hear the sound as it died away. When the Overture was finished, he showed me the passage where the violoncello modulates from B minor to F sharp minor, and said, "There, that's the Schönhauser fly!" And here we have the immortal insect:—

No. 7. Cellos.

as it first appears. It is used twice shortly afterwards, with a fine accompanying note in the horns.

The descending passage already quoted as No. 3 is employed in the strings with admirable effect in a staccato form:—

No. 8.

—and so on. In the reprise some modifications take place, the most remarkable of which are the low notes of the horn and ophicleide (popularly known as 'Bottom's braying'), and there is considerable omission and compression. Thus the 'Oberon' melody does not appear in its former place, but is reserved for the end of the Coda, where it returns with increasing effect. The descending passage quoted as No. 3 is kept for the beginning of the Coda, in which it forms a prominent feature; and there are various beautiful differences and changes of treatment.

But anatomical details like these are intolerable in regard to a work of such extraordinary beauty and poetry as this Overture. They may perhaps be justified by the desire to impress on the non-musician the fact that music is as much under the dominion of fixed laws and principles as any other art or science is. We call these rules of music forms, but really they are laws, and such laws can only be elucidated by dry analysis, of the nature of that above attempted. When anyone speaks (as used to be the fashion) of the C minor Symphony of Beethoven and the 'Midsummer Night's Dream' Overture of Mendelssohn as works struck off à l'improviste by a gifted composer—don't believe them, it is all nonsense! The C minor Symphony slowly attained its present magical power by an astonishing process of correction and rewriting, and with this Overture it was very much the same. 'I did hardly anything else for a whole year,' said Mendelssohn to Hiller. Even in the mechanics of the composition, these two great works have a relation to each other. We have elsewhere shown that the four sections of the first movement of the C minor are almost, if not exactly, the same length; and in this Overture the regularity of the division into sections of eight bars is hardly credible. But enough!

Reviews.

Youth. Concert Overture. By Arthur Hervey.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Considerable interest is attached to Mr. Hervey's overture, originally produced at the Norwich Festival last year. Its success was instant, the composer, who conducted with conspicuous skill, being twice recalled to the platform. Since then its genial strains have been heard at several concerts and received with unqualified favour. The general acceptance of the piece is not surprising, for the themes are so instinct with the joyousness of early life that their significance appears on the surface, and the subject representative of the girl at her spinning wheel is most fascinatingly dainty, and captivating to a degree. The pianoforte version requires a crisp touch and vivacious treatment, but the transcription—which, by the way, is admirably done—will repay any practice devoted to its interpretation on the household instrument.

British Songs for British Boys. A collection of 100 National Songs for the use of Boys in schools and choirs. Selected, arranged, and edited, with explanatory notes, by Sydney H. Nicholson, M.A., Mus. Bac. Oxon.

[Macmillan and Company.]

The book is born of the idea now widely prevalent that the proper musical study of the school-pupil is national song. It will certainly not be for lack of literature that the propaganda will languish. Book after book comes from the press with its hundred or so songs. We are rather dubious as to the advent of the millennium of interest that these songs are to create, although we are not at all disposed to question their general value as music. But it is easy to over-do enthusiasm for a ditty whose only claim to recognition is that it was composed anonymously at least a century or so ago. Mr. Nicholson's collection is undoubtedly a valuable one, and deserves to be received with favour. The accompaniments are intentionally simple, but sometimes the editor goes a little astray from his principles as announced in the introduction, and indulges his fancy with chromatic harmony—as, for instance, in his treatment of 'The last rose of summer.' The compass determined by the choice of key is generally so considerate that we wonder why some of the songs are set so high. 'Let Erin remember,' in the key of G, is out of the question for average boys.

The morning stars sang together. By Geo. Alex. A. West.
[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Christmas is coming, and although there exists a splendid store of standard anthems to draw upon, a new composition always has the effect of stirring the interest of a choir. Mr. G. A. A. West is one of the rapidly increasing number of American composers whose productions are deservedly gaining favour in the old country. He writes in a manner giving proof of his talent and musicianship. The text, taken from the Old Testament, is applicable to Christmastide, and is also suitable to other seasons. The anthem opens with a chorus of firm and majestic character containing some effective contrapuntal writing. It is succeeded by a soprano solo of jubilant expression, which leads into a second chorus terminating with the announcement by the basses of a manly subject treated fugally until the exposition has been finished. Thereupon a fine effect is obtained by the full choir giving out the fugue subject in unison fortissimo; the anthem shortly after comes to an imposing conclusion.

How we hear: a treatise on Sound. By Frederick Charles Baker.
[The Vincent Music Company.]

This little book gives popular explanations of the phenomena of sound, and is not burdened by mathematics. We are afraid that students would not be able to pass examinations by its aid, but every intelligent person, and especially musicians, should know the facts underlying musical art that are so clearly discussed by Mr. Baker. For our own part we should have been glad if the psychological section of the work had been more definitely treated. The evolution of the scale and the attitude of the mind in listening to music are passed over, but the transcendental is dwelt upon with great eloquence.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. Set to music in the key of E flat by G. F. Huntley; in A and D by Ivor Atkins; and in B flat by J. Christopher Marks.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

These settings of the favourite evening canticles merit the attention of choirmasters by the earnestness of the writing and the scope of the design. Dr. Huntley's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis was composed for the thirtieth annual Festival of the London Church Choir Association, held this year in St. Paul's Cathedral. The composer does not hesitate to write high G's for the sopranos, and in two instances carries them to A flat, but the high notes are well led up to, and the part-writing, by its studied avoidance of awkward intervals, is easy to read. The second half of the Gloria to both canticles is set to a fugue subject, while the first verse of the Nunc dimittis is assigned to tenors and basses in unison, and the full choir does not come in until the third verse, a treatment of the words which is highly effective.

Mr. Ivor Atkins's music was written for the special Sunday Service preceding the recent Hereford Festival, and has already been very favourably criticised. There is good reason for this favourable reception, as the esteemed organist of Worcester Cathedral has written with modern feeling, while preserving the best features of English church music. The vocal parts are divided in sundry passages demanding special emphasis, but although this necessitates a fairly numerous choir it does not increase the difficulties of the execution, the intervals being chiefly diatonic in character. In the organ accompaniment the composer has allowed himself more freedom, with brilliant results.

The setting by Mr. Marks, if less ambitious and distinctive than the foregoing, possesses a sincerity of expression and a certain deftness in the vocal part writing which command esteem. The ingenuity displayed at the verse 'And His mercy is on them' is noteworthy, and the soprano solo 'He remembering His mercy' is graceful and devout. The opening line of the 'Nunc dimittis' is intended to be sung by the tenor soloist and repeated by a quartet, the full choir entering at the words 'For mine eyes have seen.' An effective harmonic transition is made at the announcement 'To be a Light,' the imposing character of the passage being amplified by a series of sforzando chords on the organ at the weak beats of the bar.

Funeral March, from 'Grania and Diarmid.' By Edward Elgar.

Three Dances. By Frank E. Tours.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

The 'Funeral March' was written by Dr. Elgar for the production in October, 1901, at Dublin, by the Irish Literary Society, of Messrs. W. B. Yeates and George Moore's drama 'Grania and Diarmid.' Those who perform the pianoforte arrangement under notice may be interested in knowing that in the play the march follows the death of Diarmid, who has been fatally wounded in a boar hunt and dies in the presence of his wife and her lover. The first subject of the march is cast in the Æolian mode. There soon appears the figure connected with the personality of Diarmid, 'a soldier and a hero, but more a vacillating Hamlet than a Siegfried or a Coriolanus.' The tenor part of bars eight and nine contains Diarmid's horn call. The melody of the trio, which commences at bar three on page three, is typical of Dr. Elgar's individuality, and consists, it will be observed, of nine bars. The music is imbued with deep feeling, consonant with the pathetic incident in the drama which these solemn strains so appropriately illustrate.

Mr. Frank E. Tours is the son of the late Berthold Tours, and so it is not difficult to trace from whence he acquires his musical gifts. It says much for his talent that the 'Three Dances' possess distinctiveness. No. 1 is an Allegretto of sprightly character; No. 2 is of a kind languorous, and suggestive of posturing and grace; and No. 3 is as merry as a marriage-bell. The pieces will not be found difficult to pianists, although the last-named requires a nimble finger to do it justice.

THE HOVINGHAM FESTIVAL.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

To thoroughly appreciate the 'true inwardness' of the Hovingham Musical Festivals it is necessary to know something of the place and of the men who made the Festival possible. At first sight Hovingham would seem a more unlikely situation for the establishment of a musical Festival than even Bayreuth. Like that town, it is on a branch line of railway along which only the slowest of 'stopping' trains meander at infrequent intervals, and in the heart of a purely agricultural district. The nearest places of greater size than a village are the small market-towns of Malton and Thirsk, about half-way between which Hovingham is situated. The place itself is but a village, yet it has had a certain distinction among villages, even before the establishment of a musical Festival gave it an additional status in the eyes of at least the artistic world. It is officially styled 'Hovingham Spa,' and though I do not know that its reputation as a watering-place is maintained up to this day, it is certainly regarded as a pleasant resort by many who seek the repose afforded by a beautiful and peaceful country. Among what a guide-book would classify as 'attractions' are the Abbeys of Rievaulx and Byland, the Castles of Helmsley and Gilling, Coxwold with its memories of Sterne, and Castle Howard, most sumptuous of noblemen's palaces. But all this would not suffice to account for the choice of Hovingham as the locality for a Festival which demands both an audience and a concert-hall to contain it. It required the eye of a far-seeing faith to discern a possible audience when the first of these Festivals was planned some fifteen years ago or more; but the hall existed, and indeed suggested the possibility of the Festival. The Squires of Hovingham have been for many generations back the family of Worsley, whose home, Hovingham Hall, faces the village green, while at its rear lies a most beautiful demesne of undulating, wooded country. On the front of this classical mansion one of the ancestors of the present baronet chose to build an extraordinary structure, called the Riding School, which may be described as a sort of gigantic porch, covering not only the entrance door, but also the front windows above it. Here, then, was the place; now as to the man who seized the opportunity it afforded.

Canon Pemberton had been known to musicians as an amateur of exceptional attainments long before he adopted his present surname; so long indeed that it is easier to think of him as Canon Hudson, the writer of some interesting articles in Grove's 'Dictionary,' or even, in the case of his more familiar friends, as Percy Hudson. A Yorkshireman by birth and early education, he went up to Cambridge, where he developed into a mathematician of exceptional attainments. This is not the place to follow in detail his academic career, but it may suffice to summarize it by recording that, after taking a high degree (6th Wrangler) in the Mathematical Tripos of 1855, and third class Classical Tripos, he became Fellow and afterwards Tutor of the largest and most famous College in the University, and left Trinity only in 1870, when promoted to the College living of Gilling. If 'Hudson's Trigonometry' be a household word in the province of education, the part played by its author in the music of Cambridge was hardly a less striking one. As a violoncellist he was a familiar figure in Cambridge concert-rooms, where he has often appeared in chamber music as a colleague of some of the most distinguished artists of the time, from Joachim downwards.

Now Gilling is only three or four miles distant from Hovingham, so that the Rector of the one parish was bound to be on visiting terms with the Squire of the next, and all the more so when the latter happened to be a sincere and particularly active layman. At this time the owner of the Hovingham Estate was Sir W. C. Worsley, and on the occasion of a visit from the recently-appointed Rector it was remarked by one or the other that the Riding School would make a capital place for music. This was the germ of the Hovingham Festivals. Yet one other element in their development remains to be recorded. Concert-givers, in even the most populous centres, know how long it takes to build up an audience, so the difficulty of the task must have been accentuated in this sparsely-populated, out-of-the-way district of the North Riding of Yorkshire. For some time, then, the bugbear of an inevitable deficit had to be faced, and here it was the ready liberality of another local musical amateur, Mr. Rutson, that smoothed the way. Now, I believe, the Festival manages to pay its way, though only by exercising the most careful economy, and by good management, in which the important share taken by the honorary secretary, Mrs. H. Fraser, of Gunthorpe House, deserves acknowledgment. It has recently been asserted—I forget where—that the Hovingham Festival is not a conspicuous power for good, in that it is supported exclusively by the local gentry and does not come within the means of the people. Several answers occur to me. In the first place I very much doubt whether the 'gentry' are not as much in need of a musical evangel as the 'people'; but leaving that side of the question, and the fact that festivals cannot anywhere or under any circumstances be made efficient at 'popular' prices, it is sufficient to mention the fact that the highest subscription price for the series of four concerts of which the recent Festival consisted was a guinea, the second seats being considerably less, while special terms were thoughtfully offered to members of choirs and the like to whom the experience would be of value. The 'local gentry' certainly assembled in force, but I noticed among the audiences a good many who would not claim to come under even that elastic description. It is, however, quite unnecessary to labour the point. If the careful and adequate performance, with a purely local chorus, of oratorios, cantatas, symphonies, concertos, and the like, before miscellaneous audiences, at a series of twelve Festivals extending over a period of fifteen or sixteen years be not calculated to improve the standard of taste in the district, it is difficult to realize how penny admissions to pianola recitals could do much more.

As a sample of the work done at these Festivals I may quote the names of some of the choral compositions that have been given, and occurring to mind as I write: Brahms's 'German Requiem,' Dvořák's 'Spectre's Bride' and 'Stabat Mater,' Parry's 'Judith' and 'St. Cecilia's Day,' Sullivan's 'Golden Legend,' Handel's 'Saul,' Stanford's 'Revenge,' besides more familiar works such as 'Elijah,' and 'The Hymn of Praise.' Novelties, too, have been written for the Festivals, and though the names of Alan Gray, Arthur Somervell, Tertius Noble, Charles Wood, and Edward Naylor, which come to mind in this connection, must not be taken as an exhaustive list, it suggests the conductor's loyalty to his Alma Mater that nearly all these are Cambridge graduates, while all have been connected with the University in some capacity or another. Artists such as Dr. Joachim, Miss Fanny Davies, and Mr. Leonard Borwick have frequently visited Hovingham, and the band, while including a certain proportion of thoroughly efficient local players, has always had a nucleus of the best London artists, with Mr. J. W. Rendle as leader. When Canon Hudson changed not only his name but his abode, and retreated to his beloved Cambridge, those interested in the Festival began to wonder if its continuance would be possible. They had not, however, counted on Canon Pemberton's enthusiasm, which has sufficed to carry him through two more Festivals, to the latter of which we must now turn our attention.

The twelfth Festival took place on September 23 and 24, on lines similar to those adopted in previous years, with the important exception of an extension of its borders by the addition of a fourth concert, the programme of which consisted of chamber music. The choral works I have already enumerated indicate the artistic enterprise which has always characterized Hovingham, but it may be doubted whether it has ever undertaken a more exacting task than was afforded by the work placed at the head of the opening concert on the Wednesday afternoon,—Verdi's 'Requiem.' It is a work demanding treatment on a big scale, and it is undeniable that one felt at times that the frame was not large enough for the picture. Otherwise it was given with a remarkable degree of accuracy, the only fault to be found with Canon Pemberton's reading being a disinclination to dwell on the phrases and give them the touch of emotional feeling which seems so essential to modern Italian music. The quartet of principals, Miss Agnes Nicholls, Mrs. Burrell, Mr. Gregory Hast, and Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies were thoroughly qualified to give full effect to the vocal beauty of the melody, and sang it most artistically, albeit they might have made more of it—and that without undue exaggeration—had they been permitted a little more licence. The chorus was well up in its work, and a little roughness among the basses was the only drawback to its complete success. The programme was lengthened out to orthodox proportions by Max Bruch's G minor Violin Concerto, the solo part of which was played by Professor Kruse artistically, if rather coldly, and Mr. T. T. Noble's 'Wasps' Overture, a genial and interesting piece which was heard to great advantage under the composer's vivacious and expressive beat.

At the second concert Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' was given, 'by desire,' with Miss Nicholls, Miss Georgina Dupuis, and Mr. Gregory Hast as the soloists. In the familiar music all were on sure ground, and the chorus felt such confidence that it gave almost more than due effect to the sonorous possibilities of its part, being materially assisted herein by some enthusiastic spirits and leathern lungs recruited from the West Riding. Miss Fanny Davies played the solo part of Saint-Saëns's G minor Pianoforte Concerto with admirable zest and spirit, and Professor Kruse gave a scholarly reading of Joachim's 'Notturmo,' which however wanted rather more refined playing on the part of the orchestra to do complete justice to its subtlety. Another soloist who made a marked impression was the young but highly accomplished violoncellist Mr. Herbert Withers, who gave a brilliant performance of Tchaikovsky's Variations (Op. 33). The 'Zauberflöte' Overture was an agreeable termination to the concert.

On the Thursday afternoon a very interesting miscellaneous programme was provided. Bach's church cantata 'O Light Everlasting' suffered from a misunderstanding at the beginning, but when this was surmounted it was well performed, the chorus singing with excellent steadiness and power, while Mrs. Burrell sang the contralto solo most artistically, and Messrs. Hast and Ffrangcon-Davies made the most of their by no means grateful parts. Another very satisfactory performance—indeed, one of the best of the Festival—was of Beethoven's 'Pastoral' Symphony, which seemed peculiarly appropriate in such a rural retreat as Hovingham may be styled. A further example of Beethoven was afforded in the 'Fidelio' scena 'Abscheulicher, wo eilst du hin?' sung by Miss Agnes Nicholls with true dramatic perception. Miss Fanny Davies and Mr. Withers contributed instrumental solos, but the sensation of the concert, if not of the Festival, was provided by Mr. Claude Hobday, who played with good taste, artistic phrasing, and wonderful dexterity of execution a double-bass fantasia on Italian operatic airs by Bottesini, the greatest of all virtuosi on that instrument. It is an interesting fact that Mr. Hobday has not only succeeded to a considerable portion of that master's executive powers, but plays on the identical instrument which he used, though to the casual observer it appears larger than when played by a man of such exceptional height as its former owner. S. S. Wesley's anthem 'The Wilderness' had a touch of special interest in being given with the orchestral version of the organ part written by the composer. In this form it is very effective; the whole of it is pleasant to listen to, and portions are genuinely impressive. Miss Nicholls, Mrs. Burrell, Mr. Hast, and Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies formed a sympathetic quartet of soloists.

In former years the Thursday afternoon's concert has brought the Festival to a close, but this time an experiment was made—which gave so much pleasure that it must be pronounced a success—in the addition of a chamber concert. The outstanding feature of the programme was the generous and interesting selection of songs sung by Miss Agnes Nicholls. Her first group included representative compositions by some of the modern German composers—Brahms, Schumann, Richard Strauss and Weingartner; her second was devoted to the Slavonic School, as represented by Dvorák, Grieg and Tschaiikovsky, and yet a third series included some British composers, M. T. T. Royds, Hamish MacCunn and H. Hamilton Harty, the last-named performing throughout the duties of accompanist in really masterly fashion. Miss Nicholls showed the versatility and sympathy of her artistic powers most favourably by her invariably artistic and often inspired singing of this long series of songs of very different character. Two important concerted pieces were given, Miss Fanny Davies and Mr. Withers playing Beethoven's Violoncello Sonata in A (Op. 69), and being joined by Prof. Kruse in Brahms's Pianoforte Trio in C minor (Op. 101), while all three contributed solos on their respective instruments. The Festival ended with a hearty and spontaneous outburst of cheering in honour of Canon Pemberton who, as the artistic head and conductor of these Festivals from the beginning, well deserved the congratulation implied in this demonstration.

HERBERT THOMPSON.

PROMENADE CONCERTS AT QUEEN'S HALL.

ENGLISH COMPOSERS.

It is unnecessary in these columns to comment upon the excellence of the orchestral playing at these concerts under Mr. Henry J. Wood's able direction, or to mention the numerous masterpieces of all periods that have been performed during the season which terminated on the 23rd ult., but two very satisfactory features call for record and commendation: The frequency with which Mozart's music has been played, and the liberal recognition of British composers. The performances of the Salzburg master's works are peculiarly valuable just now, when so much modern music coquets with mere sensationalism, and such strains are peculiarly grateful to the ear after the strenuous assaults thereupon by ultra-modern composers. At such times the charm and grace of Mozart are doubly welcome, and Mr. Wood is to be honoured for his appreciation of this great master of music.

The first novelty to be noticed is a symphonic poem entitled 'Unto the everlasting' (Op. 9), by Mr. Rutland Boughton. The work is an attempt to answer in musical language the following lines from Walt Whitman's 'Songs of Parting':—

Darest thou now O Soul,
Walk out with me toward the unknown regions
Where neither ground is for the feet, nor any path to follow?

This question has inspired the composer to write a poetical piece, lofty in conception and sustained in sentiment, one that holds the attention by its expression of vivid imagination. The work, produced on September 22, should be heard again at no distant date.

On the 1st ult., first performances were given in England of a Pianoforte Concerto in F (Op. 53), by M. René Lenormand, and a Concerto in F for two wind orchestras and strings by Handel. The former work was produced originally at one of the Lamoureux concerts last year, when the solo part was played by Miss Fanny Davies, who again interpreted it with her well-known skill on the present occasion. The Handel concerto was exceedingly interesting. The composer appears to have written three concerti a due cori, respectively in B flat (without horns) and two in F, the date of their composition being ascribed to the period 1740-50. The work heard at the Queen's Hall consisted of four movements, Pomposo, Allegro, Tempo ordinario, and Largo, from the second concerto, and the Allegro from the third concerto. The music is thoroughly Handelian in spirit, and its genial old-world strains gave great pleasure to an appreciative audience. At this concert Dr. Cowen's 'Indian Rhapsody,' written for the recent Hereford Festival, was performed for the first time in London and received a hearty reception.

Mr. Granville Bantock's suite 'Russian scenes' received its initial performance in the Metropolis on the 3rd ult. The scenes are five in number, and are severally headed 'At the Fair,' 'Mazurka,' 'Polka,' 'Valse' and 'Cossack Dance.' Several Russian tunes are utilized, and the composition is vivacious and pleasing.

A Suite (Op. 16) entitled a 'Fairy Tale,' by Herr Josef Suk, the second violinist of the Bohemian Quartet Party, was played for the first time in London on the 6th ult. The composition is founded upon incidental music written for Zeyer's fairy play 'Radúz und Mahulena,' and comprises four movements, severally called 'Love and suffering of the Royal Children,' 'Rustic Dance,' 'Funeral March,' and 'Queen Runa's Curse—the Victory of Love.' The most pleasing portions are the first and second movements, the former being delicate and poetical, the latter delightfully gay. On this evening Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies sang, for the first time, settings by Mr. Rutland Boughton for baritone voice and orchestra of Mr. Rudyard Kipling's poems 'Fair is our lot,' 'The coastwise lights,' and 'Song of the dead.' The best of these is the last named, in which the mysticism of the words is impressively echoed in the music.

A symphonic poem named 'Pompilia,' by Mr. Edgar L. Bainton, was played for the first time on the 8th ult. The composer has striven to express the fundamental idea underlying Pompilia's narrative in Browning's 'Ring and the Book'—that the tragedy of her past life appeared but as a dream: nothing remained but 'love and purity.' Mr. Bainton has invented some expressive themes, but clever as his constructive ability is, he has written in a style so imitative of Wagner as to rob his work of individuality.

The Violoncello Concerto in D, by Herr Ewald Straesser, the solo part of which was played for the first time in England on the 9th ult. by Herr Karl Piening, principal violoncellist of the Meiningen Orchestra, is not a memorable work, but is an acceptable addition to the repertory of 'the tenor of the orchestra.'

Considerable interest attached to the production in this country, on the 13th ult., of the Symphony (No. 1) in E minor, by Herr Jean Sibelius, a Finnish composer, born at Tavastehus in 1865. Written in 1899, the symphony consists of four movements. An Andante,—remarkable for a plaintive melody announced by clarinet over a roll of the drums, pianissimo—which forms an introduction to an Allegro full of swiftly-approached climaxes and strongly-marked rhythms. To this the Andante, based on a captivating melody, forms an effective contrast. The Scherzo runs a fascinating course, but the finale is less satisfactory, and the composer's pen seems to have run away with his discretion, but the movement contains some brilliant passages.

One of the best novelties of the season was the prelude to the third act of Herr Max Schilling's opera 'Der Pfeifertag,' brought forward on the 17th ult. The themes of this are strong and significant, and being clearly and tersely developed and boldly scored the work may be regarded as a satisfactory concert-piece.

Herr Gustave Mahler's Symphony (No. 1) in D was heard for the first time in England on the 21st ult. It proved to be a clever, scholarly work, but so over-developed as to frequently give rise to a sense of weariness before the hour, less eight minutes, occupied by the performance had expired. Most of the themes are couched in folk-tune phraseology, and their treatment is reminiscent of the style of Humperdinck, though less polyphonic than that composer's. The most memorable movement of the symphony is the Andante, which, though more gruesome than charming, possesses distinctiveness.

A considerable number of vocalists have appeared, the most successful being Mesdames Henry J. Wood, Parkina, Edna Thornton, Georgina Delmar, Winifred Ludlam, and Eleanor Cleaver; and Messrs. John Harrison, Louis Arens, Lloyd Chandos, Hugo Heinz, William Higley and Ffrangcon-Davies. The singing of the Alexandra Quartet has added to the enjoyment of several concerts.

COMPETITIONS.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENTS.)

KEIGHLEY.

The annual Summerscales Competition was held at Keighley on September 26 and October 3. On the first day there was fine choral singing from the nine mixed-voice choirs that appeared, with the result that the Salthaire Prize Choir (Mr. A. Farrer-Briggs) gained the chief prize; the Harrogate Vocal Union (Mr. Hiram Ball) and the Armley Society (Mr. Pickard) coming in the order named close behind. In the male-voice section the Nelson Orpheus Union (Mr. C. H. Bateson) was successful in gaining the first position, the York Male Voice Choir (Mr. G. F. Tendall) coming second. The second day was occupied chiefly with solo classes. Forty-four contraltos sang 'God shall wipe away all tears' to the unfortunate judge, and twenty-seven violinists played Ersfeld's 'Romance.' Local adult choirs and school choirs also appeared. Mr. G. H. Betjemann adjudicated in the instrumental sections and Dr. McNaught in the vocal sections. There was much life and interest in the proceedings.

BLACKPOOL.

The great success of the third annual Musical Competition and Festival held in this popular resort on the 8th, 9th and 10th ult. seemed to prove that this admirably organized institution is now firmly established. During the three days there were nearly three thousand competitors. The first day was devoted mainly to solo singers from any district, and served to bring forward considerable talent. Twenty sopranos, eleven contraltos, twenty-eight tenors and twenty-eight basses competed. Miss Bessie Blackburn may be specially mentioned in connection with the soprano class in which she gained the first prize. The second day was devoted to the children, and was exceedingly attractive to the large audiences that attended. There were classes for solo singing for girls and for boys (separate), for pianoforte and violin, school choirs of various kinds, and at the end of the day a concert was given, the programme including Bridge and Shapcott Wensley's humorous cantata 'The Frogs and the Ox.' One of the most striking incidents of the day was the beautiful performance of a girl in the solo-singing class. It is to be hoped that the guardians of this young lady will jealously nurture her exceptional talent, and give her adequate training when she is physically able to endure it.

The third day was the most important of the series and it attracted some of the best provincial small choirs and large audiences. The chief interest centred in the mixed-voice choir section, the first prize in which was a silver challenge shield, valued at 150 guineas, and twenty guineas in cash. The tests in this class were pretty severe. In the afternoon each choir had to sing 'When flow'ry meadows' (Palestrina) and 'Vineta' (Brahms), and in the evening the four best choirs had to sing 'Phebe' (Stanford) and 'A Love Symphony' (Percy Pitt). Six choirs competed and the four that survived the first tests were the Southport Choir (Mr. W. Tattersall), Nottingham Tabernacle Temperance Choir (Mr. C. E. Riley), Blackpool Madrigal Society (Mr. H. Whittaker), and the Accrington Union Street Wesleyan Choir (Mr. W. S. Walker). In the end the Blackpool choralists came first with 221 marks out of 240, Nottingham with 211 marks, Southport with 210 marks, and Accrington with 209 marks. The male-voice choir section was almost of equal interest. Six choirs sang, and after a close struggle the Manchester Orpheus Society (Mr. W. S. Nesbitt) was awarded the first place, the Southport Vocal Union (Mr. J. C. Clarke) coming second, and the Habergham Church Glee Union (Mr. E. Hitchon) third, only one mark below Southport. The tests were 'I wish to tune my quiv'ring Lyre' (S. S. Wesley), 'The Lotus Flower' (Schumann), and 'Peace' (J. Frederick Bridge). The performance of the last-named piece by the Manchester Society was so excellent that it was awarded full marks. Orchestral classes were a strong section of the day's programme. Three societies, the Rochdale Philharmonic (Mr. Jas. Howarth), Colne Orchestral Society (Mr. J. L. Wildman), and Nelson Congregational Orchestra (Mr. Charles Townsley), played Grieg's 'Holberg' Suite for strings and Mendelssohn's Overture 'Melusine' (full orchestra). All the performances were remarkably good. Rochdale gained the prize for the Suite and Colne for the Overture. The evening programme included a performance of Stanford's 'Revenge' ballad by the combined choirs and the Colne Orchestra, conducted by Sir Alexander Mackenzie who, with Dr. McNaught, adjudicated. Mr. W. J. Kidner of Bristol assisted in the first day's adjudicating. Mr. C. H. Fogg of Manchester was the official pianoforte accompanist throughout the competitions.

The choice of music for the Festival showed excellent judgment and commendable courage on the part of the music committee. A word of praise is also due to the handsome get-up of the programme book, the forty-eight pages of which gave all necessary information, and were enclosed in a cover on which there was a specially drawn symbolic design. The management of the competitions was excellent. Councillor Collins was hon. director, and the hon. secretaries were Mr. Lionel H. Franceys and Mr. J. A. Turner.

NOTTINGHAM.

The second annual Competition Festival held in Nottingham took place on the 16th and 17th ult., under the presidency of the Mayor. The entries were very satisfactory, and the performances reached a high standard. In the chief choral section the Coventry Co-operative Choralists, under Mr. Alfred Petty, showed great excellence in the performance of the three test-pieces, and were awarded the challenge shield and first prize. The New Basford Prize Choir, under Mr. W. Turner, came second. Six choirs competed. Besides the test-pieces the choirs had to prepare six other pieces for joint performance at an evening concert given on the 17th ult. Thus all the choralists had to carefully rehearse nine pieces. The effect of the combined performance, under the skilful direction of Mr. W. Riley, was very fine. A large audience followed the programme with the greatest interest.

NEW BRIGHTON.

An Eisteddfod was held at the Tower on September 26. The best of the 164 solo-singing entries were sorted out by the judges, Dr. Coward, Mr. Emllyn Evans, and Mr. John Williams at preliminary competitions, so the public had only to hear the cream. In the male-voice section, Southport (Mr. J. S. Clarke) gained the first place, the Manchester Orpheus (Mr. W. S. Nesbitt) coming second. In the chief mixed-voice choir section, three choirs competed, and the first place was secured by the Talke and District Choir (Mr. T. Whewall), St. Helens (Mr. Harry Berrey) coming second. One of the test-pieces was 'O Father, Whose almighty power.' Surely that chorus might very well have a rest? There is no progress in this eternal repetition.

MANCHESTER.

A choral competition for male-voice and mixed-voice choirs was held at the Zoological Gardens on the 3rd ult. The choice of tests showed a laudable desire to avoid venerable selections. The mixed-voice part-songs were 'Soldier, rest!' (Oliver King) and 'I love the jocund dance (Corder), and the male-voice part-songs were 'The lotus flower' (Schumann) and 'The Beleguener' (Sullivan). The results were as follow: Mixed-voice choirs, 1st, Crosland Moor (Mr. R. H. Dyson); 2nd, Colne and District Co-operative (Mr. J. P. Hey); Male-voice choirs, 1st, Manchester Orpheus (Mr. Nesbitt); 2nd, Southport (Mr. J. C. Clarke). Dr. Watson and Mr. C. H. Fogg adjudicated.

MUSIC IN BELFAST.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Your readers may remember that the dread of the loss of the Ulster Hall—which many of the greatest singers of the last half-century have thought almost unrivalled in acoustic qualities among the great concert halls of the world—had been removed by the purchase of the building under the authority of a special Act of Parliament by the City Corporation. For several months past the sound of axe and hammer and other instruments of percussion has been the only music heard in it, and the result is that Belfast has at last a worthy home for music. A new stained-wood ceiling takes the place of former cracked and flawed plaster; ample provision of emergency doors and stairs has been provided; electric lighting; ventilation by forced draught; new seating and tasteful decoration have been supplied without stint or extravagance. Last, but not least, the fine organ given to his native town in 1863 by Mr. Andrew Muirholland (grandfather of the present Lord Dunleath) has, after half-a-century of neglect, been thoroughly modernised and improved by Messrs. William Hill and Son, of London, its builders, under the advice of Dr. A. L. Peace, of Liverpool. The pedal organ will now contain 11 stops, including a double open diapason of 32 feet; the choir organ also 11 stops; the great organ, 16 stops; the swell organ, 14 stops; and the solo organ, 7 stops. The City Corporation has already taken steps to appoint a city organist, who will give recitals which cannot fail to have a great effect among the working classes, in encouraging knowledge and appreciation of high-class music.

The first occasion on which the Ulster Hall in its renaissance was thrown open to the public was on the 8th ult., when the Philharmonic Society arranged as an extra concert a recital by the famous Jan Kubelik, with whom was associated Miss Katherine Goodson (piano-forte) and Miss Marian Icton (vocalist). There is no need to say that the great violinist played magnificently, as he always does, but the writer may perhaps be allowed to express his personal regret that such glorious powers of execution should be expended on merely virtuoso compositions.

On the following evening the Philharmonic Society gave the first of its regular series of concerts, which as usual was a miscellaneous one, the artists being Miss Marie Hall, who played Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto and Saint-Saëns's Rondo Capriccioso, accompanied by the Society's orchestra. Miss Susan Strong, accompanied by Herr Korbay, contributed several interesting songs, as did also Mr. Albert Archdeacon. The orchestra and chorus joined in several standard pieces, so that the concert as a whole was agreeably varied and generally appreciated by a very large audience. The Society promises for the season 'Hiawatha' and 'Lohengrin' among other works.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Apart from the Festival there has been very little music in Birmingham during the past month. But a week's engagement of the Carl Rosa Opera Company at the Grand Theatre, ending on the 3rd ult., offers some material for comment. The stereotyped repertory, 'Tannhäuser,' 'Lohengrin,' 'Carmen,' &c., was relieved by the revival of Mozart's 'The Marriage of Figaro,' in which three new members of the company appeared. Mdle. Lydia Nerville gave the music assigned the Countess with the pure style it demanded; Mdle. Cecile Talma was the best Susanna seen here for a long time; and Mdle. Alexia Bassian was a vivacious Cherubino. There were good houses during the week.

On the 1st ult., Miss Bessie Clarke, a young pianist (pupil of Dr. R. M. Winn), gave a concert in the Masonic Hall prior to leaving Birmingham. She was assisted by Madame Helen Trust (vocalist) and Mr. Max Mossel (violinist). Her friends mustered in force and the concert was a success. Mr. Oscar Pollack opened his season of musical matinées at the Royal Society of Artists on the 3rd ult., and the concerts will extend to a season of ten weeks. On the 10th ult. the programme included a song-cycle, 'Cupid's Mirror,' the joint production of Messrs. Arthur Cooke and Walter Evans, which appeared to give pleasure to the audience. On the 17th ult. Mr. G. W. Halliley gave a popular concert in the lecture theatre of the Midland Institute, at which hundreds were unable to obtain admission.

Elgar's 'The Apostles' will be included in the Festival Choral Society's concerts during this season.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Mr. W. E. Fowler has resumed the Saturday Popular Concerts which were much appreciated last season. He is the organist of All Saints' Church, Corn Street, and devotes a considerable portion of his programmes to compositions played by local executants on the electric organ at the Victoria Rooms. Mr. Hubert Hunt (Cathedral organist), Mr. A. J. Baker, and Mr. C. W. Stear, have already presided at the instrument on Saturday evenings.

During the continuance of the autumn exhibition at the Fine Arts Academy, Mrs. J. L. Roeckel and her sister Mrs. Villiers have taken the management of some weekly concerts which are given in the principal saloon.

Miss Amy Riseley, niece of the well-known conductor, gave her annual concert at Redland Park Hall on the 12th ult. She was much applauded by a large audience for the excellent manner in which she interpreted various pianoforte compositions. Miss Riseley was assisted by Mr. Maurice Alexander (violin), Miss J. Lloyd Ellis (soprano), and Mr. Alfred Dunlop (a tenor singer from Llandaff Cathedral). Mr. G. Herbert Riseley accompanied.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The more important of the various schemes for the coming season have now been issued. First in interest is the prospectus of Messrs. Paterson and Sons' Orchestral Series. This year the concerts are to be twelve in number. The choral works announced are 'Samson and Dalila' (Saint-Saëns), 'Ode to the Passions' (Cowen), and the 'Hymn of Praise.' Dr. Cowen will again be conductor-in-chief, and on the occasions when he is unavoidably absent we are promised visits by Mr. Henry J. Wood and M. Colonne. Mr. Denhof's scheme of chamber concerts is ambitious beyond all precedent, and his proposed coadjutors form a most brilliant array of names, such as Kubelik, Halir, Ysaye, Becker and Lady Hallé.

The Amateur Orchestral Society announces a new departure at one of its concerts, the services of the Choral Union having been enlisted for a performance of Beethoven's Choral Fantasia, with Mr. Paul Della Torre as solo pianist.

Mr. Moonie's Choir announces a performance of the 'Messiah' on Christmas night, with a subsequent concert of unaccompanied choral music, including an a capella Mass of Orlando di Lasso, an old-world composer whose works are perhaps too rarely heard in London, or even 'somewhere farther north.'!

The University Musical Society has commenced the study of Hiller's 'Song of Victory' and Goring Thomas's 'Sun worshippers.'

The historical concerts at the University are referred to on p. 721.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The new premises of the Palette Club were formally opened on the 3rd ult. by Sir John Ure Primrose, Bart., the Lord Provost of Glasgow. The Club, which represents the best type of amateur music in the city, maintains a scheme of monthly concerts, and that given on the 7th ult. included a most praiseworthy performance of Wagner's 'Rienzi' Overture and Dvorák's 'New World' Symphony. Mr. Horace Fellowes, the solo violinist, played Ernst's 'Hungarian Melodies' with great power. Our gifted townsman Mr. Frederic Lamond, after an absence of five years from our concert platforms, gave a brilliantly successful pianoforte recital on the 6th ult. The outstanding items in his programme were Chopin's familiar 'Polonaise' in A flat and Liszt's 'Tarantella,' the effect of the latter being quite electrifying. On the 8th ult. Mr. Colin McAlpin's prize opera, 'The Cross and the Crescent' was performed by the Moody-Manners Company for the second time on any stage. Perhaps because of insufficient rehearsals the performance was not faultless, but the principals and chorus did well, and Mr. McAlpin's work was received with considerable enthusiasm by a crowded audience.

A recital of exceptional merit was given on the 20th ult. by three accomplished local musicians, Miss Jenny Taggart (vocalist), Miss Rana Taggart (violinist), and Mr. A. M. Henderson (pianist). Miss Taggart contributed nine songs, all selected in excellent taste, and sung with much grace and finish. Miss Rana Taggart's best effort was Nardini's Sonata in D for violin, although, associated with Mr. Henderson, she made an exceedingly good appearance in Rheinberger's Pianoforte and Violin Sonata in E flat. Mr. Henderson's pianoforte solos, especially Schumann's Romance in F sharp and D'Albert's Gavotte and Musette from the Suite in D minor, exhibited remarkable technique and fine musical feeling. A special word of praise is due to Mr. Henderson for his perfectly sympathetic accompaniments.

The Orpheus Club, conducted by Mr. James Barr, announces Sullivan's 'The Yeomen of the Guard' as their programme for the session, and the Paisley Choral Union, also under Mr. Barr's leadership, is taking up Sullivan's 'The Golden Legend' and Stanford's 'The Revenge.' The latter work has also been selected, with some miscellaneous pieces, for the first concert of the United Free Church Training College Musical Society, conducted by Mr. James Gallie, and by the St. Mungo Choir, a newly-formed Society conducted by Mr. Golan E. Hoole.

A slight correction has to be made in last month's letter. At the last moment Sir Walter Parratt was prevented from taking part in the series of organ recitals at the Cathedral, but Mr. C. W. Perkins, of Birmingham, proved an excellent substitute.

MUSIC IN GLOUCESTER AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The first musical event for the present season was the fine performance of the 'Messiah' given at Tewkesbury Abbey on Thursday, September 24. The chorus was drawn from the Festival choirs of Gloucester, Worcester and Tewkesbury, and a good orchestra was engaged with Mr. T. Morrow as solo trumpet. Mr. Vine, organist of the Abbey, conducted, and there presided at the two organs the organists of Gloucester and Worcester Cathedrals (Messrs. A. Herbert Brewer and Ivor Atkins). The principal soloists were Miss Perceval Allen, Miss Margaret Hicks Beach, Miss Jessie King, Mr. H. Grover and Mr. H. Sunman.

The gratifying announcement is made that the series of Chamber Concerts given alternately through the winter season at Cheltenham and Gloucester, under the direction of Miss Ellicott and Miss Hirschfeld, will be continued. These concerts have proved very popular during the past three seasons, and obviously supply a public want.

At a musical recital held in the Northgate Wesleyan Chapel on the 15th ult., a capital performance was given of Mr. Lee-Williams's bright and tuneful 'Harvest Song of Praise.'

The various local Societies have held their preliminary meetings for the election of officers, &c., and have already got to work for the season. Among the works to be undertaken by the Gloucestershire Orchestral Society are Beethoven's Eighth Symphony and Mendelssohn's 'Hebrides' Overture. The Gloucester Choral Society will give the whole of the 'Hiawatha' music at its first concert, and the Orpheus Society promises an interesting concert in January next. All three Societies are conducted by Mr. A. Herbert Brewer.

The Cheltenham Philharmonic Society opens its season next month with an interesting programme comprising 'Hiawatha's Wedding Feast' and Berlioz's symphony 'Harold in Italy' (in commemoration of that composer's centenary)—an ambitious selection, but fully justified by the previous efforts of this enterprising Society, so skilfully directed by Mr. C. J. Phillips. Later in the season Elgar's 'Lux Christi' will be given. The Cheltenham Musical Society, for many years conducted by Mr. J. A. Matthews, will in addition to various popular works give during the season a cantata 'Song of the silent land,' by Mr. Harry A. Matthews. Mr. J. A. Matthews is also establishing a choir—to be called The Orpheus Choir—for the study of ancient and modern madrigals, part-songs and motets.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The sixty-fifth season of the Philharmonic Society was inaugurated on the 6th ult. in a manner worthy of its best traditions. The desire to hear Miss Marie Hall was responsible for one of the largest audiences within present memory, and the young violinist rose to the occasion. Her performance of Paganini's Concerto in D major was astonishing in the fullest meaning of the word, and at its conclusion Miss Hall was recalled again and again. Madame Clara Butt and Mr. Kennerley Rumford also contributed to the initial programme, and Dvorák's Overture 'Mein Heim,' and Sir Hubert Parry's 'An Ode to Music' were also presented. The attainments of the chorus in the last-named work were particularly noteworthy, and Miss Annie Goodwin sang the solo part with sympathy and tastefulness. Mozart's E flat Symphony and Dr. Cowen's (the conductor's) 'Coronation March' were also in the scheme.

The recital of Herr Wilhelm Backhaus, on the 10th ult., at the Philharmonic Hall, was a success in every way. Herr Backhaus gave distinction to his performance of Brahms's Variations on a Theme of Paganini, and his interpretation of Liszt's arrangement of Mendelssohn's Wedding March was resolute and brilliant. Miss Lilian Foulis, Mr. Paul Grümmer and Miss Holländer 'assisted' Herr Backhaus, and Mr. John Harrison, as the vocalist at the recital, gave every satisfaction.

Mr. Josef Hofmann gave a pianoforte recital at the Philharmonic on the 17th ult., with a programme which ran the gamut from the 'Spinnerlied' of Mendelssohn to the Overture to 'Tannhäuser.' On the 11th ult., at St. George's Hall, Miss Liza Lehmann's 'Daisy Chain' was given. 'Elijah' was performed in the same place on the 18th ult., under the direction of Mr. J. W. Collinson, when the principals were Madame Laura Haworth, Madame Annie Parry, Mr. Tom Barlow and Mr. W. H. Atkinson. The children of the Bluecoat Hospital are admirably trained in the vocal art, and their singing on the 18th ult. of the anthems 'Lord, we pray Thee' (Varley Roberts) and 'Abide with me' (Barnby) gave great pleasure.

Dr. Garrett's 'Harvest' Cantata was sung at the annual festival at Holy Innocents' on the 4th ult., and Mr. J. T. Mount is to be congratulated upon good work. Mr. Townshend Driffield's organ recital at St. George's Hall, on the 13th ult., which was arranged in connection with the provincial meetings of the Incorporated Law Society, was a great success, and the popular executant—himself a solicitor—received many congratulations upon his performance.

The Southport Choral Society opens its season next month with Elgar's 'The Banner of St. George,' Brahms's 'Song of Destiny,' and other works. Mr. J. C. Clarke is the conductor.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

We are now on the eve of the first Hallé Concert which, as usual, is to be purely orchestral, with no soloist except Mr. Speelman, who is to take the same part in the 'Harold' Symphony that he recently took at Birmingham. The first concert of Dr. Watson's Vocal Society, which has found a new home in the fine Whitworth Hall of the Owens College, took place on the 14th ult. The programme included the double chorus, 'To love I wake the silver string' (Webbe), and 'Matona, lovely maiden' (Orlando di Lassus), in addition to Weber's hymn, 'In constant order' (Op. 36), and Mendelssohn's 98th Psalm. Miss Bertha Guthrie gave the first recital of the season. Her voice—a rather low-pitched mezzo—sounded fairly well in two songs by Brahms, with viola obbligato. Miss Nora Meredith, a singer who studied for some years in Manchester and afterwards with Madame Marchesi, gave, at the Midland Hall, on the 8th ult., a concert that was well attended. In a series of lighter lyrical pieces—by Haydn, Dvorák, Tchaikovsky, and others—she displayed a naturally sweet voice and remarkably good enunciation. The most satisfactory of the recitals recently given was Mr. Lawrence Atkinson's on the 20th ult. Mr. Atkinson is a singer of an essentially modern stamp—a Liedersinger after the Wüllner type, though with a baritone voice. His programme was of extraordinary interest, including as it did several modern masterpieces by such composers as Hugo Wolff, Strauss, H. von Fielitz, Berger and Reynaldo Hahn, which were all intelligently and effectively sung. The instrumental part of the concert was also admirable, the performers being Miss Fanny Davies and Mr. Carl Fuchs. Half-a-dozen of the Broadwood Concerts have been given at the Midland Hotel.

MUSIC IN NEWCASTLE AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

In forecasting the season's operations the place of honour must naturally be given to the Newcastle and Gateshead Choral Union, which, under the baton of Mr. J. M. Preston, will follow up its last season's performance of Elgar's 'Caractacus' with the same composer's 'The Dream of Gerontius.' At the second subscription concert Stanford's 'The Voyage of Maeldune' and Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' will be given. In addition to these there will be the annual performance of the 'Messiah,' and the committee has arranged for a visit from the Queen's Hall Orchestra. This Society also arranged a Hallé orchestral concert on the 23rd ult., at which Cowen's 'Phantasy of life and love,' Strauss's 'Till Eulenspiegel's merry pranks,' and Berlioz's 'Harold in Italy' Symphony were introduced for the first time to a Newcastle audience.

The Amateur Vocal Society, under the direction of the Cathedral organist, Mr. J. E. Jeffries, is rehearsing Prout's 'Hereward,' and later on will take up Cherubini's Mass in C. The Postal Telegraph Choral Society proposes to undertake Gaul's 'Joan of Arc.' The South Shields Choral Society, whose conductor, Mr. Fairs, is also connected with a similar association at Tynemouth, will give Elgar's 'Coronation Ode' and the 'Hymn of Praise' at its first concert, and devote the second entirely to Wagner excerpts.

The Bishop Auckland Musical Society, so ably directed by Mr. N. Kilburn, will give at its first concert next month Jensen's 'Feast of Adonis' and Stanford's 'Revenge.' The Tynemouth Amateur Musical Society also announces the former work, with Davidson Arnott's 'Young Lochinvar,' while the Stockton-on-Tees Choral and Orchestral Society will perform 'Judas Maccabæus' next month.

The Northern Musicians' Benevolent Society announces its annual orchestral concert in December, at which Mr. T. H. Morrison will play Beethoven's Violin Concerto. Apart from the useful charitable work for which these concerts were instituted, they supply almost the only opportunity in the district our young players have of appearing in concertos, and a similar opportunity for the public to hear this type of composition.

The lecture syllabus of the Literary and Philosophical Association discloses the fact that one-fifth of the evenings devoted to miscellaneous subjects will be occupied by musical topics, one being a lecture by Mr. W. H. Hadow, editor of the new Oxford History of Music.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A chamber concert devoted to wind instrument music is rather exceptional, and such an one, given in the Temperance Hall, Sheffield, on the 12th ult., deserves special mention. The programme included movements from Mozart's Quintet (Köchel, No. 452) for oboe, clarinet, horn, bassoon and pianoforte; Beethoven's Quintet (Op. 16) for oboe, clarinet, horn, bassoon and pianoforte; Beethoven's Trio for flute, bassoon and pianoforte; Mozart's Quintet for flute, oboe, clarinet, horn and bassoon; Pauer's Quintet (Op. 44) for oboe, clarinet, horn, bassoon and pianoforte; and Quartet for flute, oboe, clarinet and pianoforte by J. Val Hamm. Mr. Edmonstone Duncan's prize Quintet for flute, clarinet, horn, bassoon and pianoforte was also included in this interesting scheme. The soloists were Messrs. G. A. Brooke (flute), F. Jackman (clarinet), R. Jackson (horn), J. Parr (bassoon), W. Brooke (oboe), and J. Duffell (pianoforte).

Costa's 'Eli,' performed by the Burngreave Choral Society on the 22nd ult., under Mr. H. Chisholm Jackson, was the only important concert given by a choral Society. Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,' at John Street Chapel, Sheffield, on the 25th ult., formed yet another of the fast-growing number of Sunday afternoon oratorio performances in this district.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

LEEDS MUNICIPAL ORCHESTRA.

There is but little music-making to record at present, for we are still living in a state of hope, and the choral societies are busy preparing for the work of the winter season. One thing, however, has taken place which is of more importance than common. This is the establishment of a 'Leeds Municipal Orchestra,' which made its first appearance before the public on the 17th ult. To avoid misapprehension it is necessary to add that this venture is not a genuine municipal undertaking, but is more accurately a voluntary affair, promoted by the Borough organist Mr. H. Fricker, supported by many local musicians, and encouraged, or at least not discouraged, by the Corporation.

Mr. Fricker's duty as Borough organist is to give organ recitals at frequent intervals, and he has taken advantage of his position to increase their interest by obtaining from time to time the assistance of the various musical societies of the town. Now he has got together a band of fifty of the best professional players in the town, and proposes to introduce it at several of the Saturday evening concerts which he directs. The Town Council has shown no disposition to thwart his efforts, so long as they do not involve any expenditure of public money, and has gone so far as to not only allow the use of the Town Hall, but to permit an inroad on the system of free admission, a shilling being charged for entrance to the gallery, while those who desire to secure a good place in the area are allowed the privilege of early entrance on payment of sixpence a head. So full was the hall at the opening concert that I am told the expenses could be met out of the money taken at the doors. If this interest be sustained one main hindrance to the success of the venture is removed, and the concert provoked so much enthusiasm that there seems to be some chance of the Orchestra achieving a longer life than its many predecessors.

The programme was very adroitly chosen, for though calculated to please the popular taste it was good. Four movements of the 'Pathetic' Symphony, which has done so much to reconcile the outsider to orchestral music, the better known 'Peer Gynt' Suite, the 'Rosamunde' and 'Tannhäuser' Overtures, and Prelude to the third act of 'Lohengrin'—these may serve as a sample of the contents. Miss Winder and Mr. H. Brearley gave variety to the programme by their singing, and Mr. Fricker conducted in a manner which showed that he possesses the essentials of this branch of art, and only needs a little experience to develop into a thoroughly capable orchestral conductor. The tone-quality of the band was excellent, better than the balance, the number of strings being insufficient to enable them to quite hold their own against percussion and brass. This is, however, a matter which may easily be improved, if only the public continue to show the active enthusiasm which was manifested at the opening concert.

PARRY'S 'JUDITH' AT HUDDERSFIELD.

The Huddersfield Society is generally very early in the field, and this year is no exception to the rule, Parry's oratorio 'Judith' having been produced by it on the 16th ult. Under Dr. Coward's wonderfully energetic direction a fine performance of the work was given, the singing of the chorus showing the result of his arduous drilling. The soloists were Miss Helen Jaxon, Miss Maggie Stirling, Mr. Wilfrid Virgo, and Mr. Herbert Brown, the parts of the two children being taken by Ernest Musgrove and Frank Hicks.

FORTHCOMING EVENTS.

The Leeds Choral Union in addition to 'Hiawatha' will give Gluck's 'Orpheus' and Elgar's 'Songs from the Bavarian Highlands' in December, and Elgar's 'The Apostles' in March. Mr. Alfred Benton is the conductor. The Batley Choral Society, conductor Mr. John Fearnley, announces Handel's 'Jephtha' for December 1. The Hull Vocal Society (conductor, Dr. G. H. Smith) will give Elgar's 'King Olaf' on the 17th inst., and the York Musical Society, conductor Mr. T. Tertius Noble, will perform Lloyd's 'Hero and Leander,' Parry's 'Best pair of Sirens,' and Brahms's 'Requiem' on December 15. The Halifax Choral Society, said to be the oldest choral body in England, will give Stanford's 'Revenge,' Samuel Wesley's 'In exitu Israel,' and Brahms's 'Song of Destiny' on the 13th inst. with the Hallé Orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Richter, and in the Spring, Parts I. and II. of the 'Creation,' with Stanford's 'Elegiac Ode,' conducted by Mr. F. de G. English.

Foreign Notes.

BERLIN.

Maestro Leoncavallo, it is said, has completed his opera 'Roland,' written by order of the German Emperor, and will forward it to the director of the Opera this month. The libretto is being translated into German, and if no contretemps happens, it is expected that the work will be produced in January.—The subscription concerts of Heinrich Grunfeld complete this year their twenty-fifth season; and this, with the exception of the Joachim Quartet, is the oldest society of the kind in Berlin. It was founded by Heinrich Grunfeld, Xaver Scharwenka and Gustav Holländer. When the last-named left Berlin for Cologne, Emil Sauret replaced him, but when he in his turn settled in London the vacant place was occupied by Florian Zajic.—The Felix Mendelssohn Scholarship for composition this year has been awarded to Richard Fricke.—A meeting of art-lovers was held last month in the Hochschule für Musik at Charlottenburg, to discuss the scheme of a new hall capable of holding from four to five thousand persons, of which indeed there is great need. The executive committee consists of Dr. Joachim, Counsellor Kemper, Professor Otto Lessing, Professor Siegfried Ochs, Fritz Stahl, Dr. Strauss and Professor Hugo Vogel.—The unveiling of the Wagner monument is referred to on page 720.

BREMEN.

For the winter season the Philharmonic Society is arranging a series of twelve orchestral and vocal concerts under the direction of Herr Panzer. The programmes will include Strauss's 'Don Quixote,' Bruckner's Symphony No. 3, Elgar's 'Cockaigne' overture, Schilling's 'Meergruss,' Pfitzner's 'Fest auf Solhaug,' and Max Bruch's 'Odysseus'; in addition to choral works by Bach, Haydn, Brahms, and Berlioz.

DUISBURG.

The Gesangverein, under the direction of Walther Josephson, was announced to begin its season on October 25 with a concert-performance—the first ever given—of Berlioz's 'Benedick and Beatrice,' to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the French composer's birth. In the course of the season Brahms's 'German Requiem,' Liszt's 13th Psalm (the work performed last month at Birmingham), and Beethoven's 'Missa solemnis' will be performed. This Society, to which reference was recently made in these columns, is most enterprising.

HAMBURG.

The following novelties will be performed this season at Max Fiedler's orchestral concerts: Orchestral suite 'The Middle Ages,' by Glazounow; Elgar's 'Cockaigne' overture; Sibelius's second symphony; and the Tableaux Romands of Jaques Dalcroze.

PARIS.

'La Tosca' was performed at the Opéra Comique for the first time on the 13th ult., and with enormous success. The composer was received with all possible enthusiasm. Mlle. Claire Friche appeared in the title-rôle, and M. Arthur Pougin in his comptendu states that in the second act she displayed 'incontestable power and true grandeur.'—The Gaité Theatre, under the management of the brothers Isola, will soon open with Massenet's 'Hérodiade' and M. Lucien Lambert's 'La Flamenco.' The libretto of the latter work is from the pens of MM. Henri Cain and Adenis. The action takes place at Havannah during the Insurrection of 1897. The composer considers 'picturesque' the term which best characterizes his work. Again, he states that in the Spanish, Creole and Yankee folk-songs he has sought inspiration for his opera.

WEIZENKIRCHEN.

It is customary when great composers die to affix tablets upon the houses in which they were born or died, or in which they wrote one or other of their immortal works. The inhabitants of the above-named place in Styria have, however, taken time by the forelock, for they have placed one on the birth-house of the composer Dr. Wilhelm Kienzl, who is living, and is as yet only 46 years of age.

Miscellaneous.

The professorial staff of the Royal Academy of Music has recently been increased by the following appointments:—Mr. W. H. Bell, Mr. Harry Farjeon and Mr. Percy Hilder Miles (a former Mendelssohn Scholar), professors of harmony and counterpoint; Mr. Arthur Newstead, Mr. Claude Pollard, Mr. Benno Schönberger and Mr. Cuthbert Whitmore, professors of the piano-forte; and Herr Willy Hess, professor of the violin.—The following awards and Scholarships have recently been made. The Ada Lewis Scholarships: Composition, Edith Ada Sims (London); Singing, Gertrude Inglis (London) and Frank Percival Driver (Leicester); Piano-forte, Myra Hess (London); and Viola, James Thomas Lockyer; the Campbell Clarke Scholarship: Caroline Hatchard (London); the Sinton Scholarship: Ronald Mackenzie (London); the Dove Scholarship: Gladys Clark (London); the Stainer Exhibition: Gilbert James Ledger. Competitions will shortly be held for seven other scholarships: The Broughton Packer Bath Scholarships (violin and violoncello); the Lady Jenkinson Thalberg Scholarship (male pianist); and four free open scholarships for players on orchestral instruments. Full particulars of these valuable educational aids may be obtained from the Secretary of the Royal Academy of Music, Tenterden Street, Hanover Square, London.

The popularity of Coleridge-Taylor's 'Scenes from Hiawatha' appears to be in no way diminished. The 'Wedding Feast' is announced for performance during the season by the St. Cecilia and Vocal Union, Blackburn (Dr. E. C. Bairstow), together with Gounod's 'Messe Solennelle'; by the Nelson and District Choral Society (Mr. H. Armstrong Smith), with Elgar's 'Coronation Ode'; the Shrewsbury Harmonic Society (Mr. J. A. Lea), Peterborough Choral Union (Dr. Haydn Keeton), Warrington Musical Society (Mr. F. H. Crossley), Cheltenham Philharmonic Society (Mr. C. J. Phillips), and the Highbury Philharmonic Society (Mr. G. H. Betjemann). The same section, with the 'Death of Minnehaha,' will be given by the West Ham Choral Society (Mr. W. Harding Bonner), Moseley Choral Society (Mr. W. Berridge Hicks), Southampton Philharmonic Society (Canon Moberly), and the High Wycombe Choral Association (Mr. G. F. Andrews); and with 'Hiawatha's Departure' by the Barrow Choral Society (Dr. Edward Brown). The complete 'Hiawatha' trilogy will be performed by the Bromley Musical Society (Mr. F. Lewis Thomas), the Streatham Choral Society (Mr. Stewart Macpherson), the Guille-Allès Choral Society, Guernsey (Mr. John David), the Leeds Choral Union (Mr. Alfred Benton), the Keighley Musical Union (Mr. J. B. Summerscales), the Belfast Philharmonic Society (Dr. F. Koeller), the Lewisham Choral Society, the Birmingham Festival Choral Society, the Nottingham Sacred Harmonic Society, the Gloucester Choral Society, the Workop Musical Society, the Doncaster and Rotherham Choral Societies (united), and the Royal Choral Society.

Mr. Henley Pratt and Mr. D. R. Le Brun gave a successful concert at Muswell Hill, on the 8th ultimo. The chief feature of the programme was a pianoforte composition by Mr. Le Brun, a work in four movements, which took the form of a representation of 'The Actual and the Ideal.' Mr. Henley Pratt played this difficult piece with much skill, and showed taste in accompanying several songs during the evening.

The wants of the musical amateur in the Northern suburbs of London are as usual well catered for by the Highbury Philharmonic Society, so long and ably directed by Mr. G. H. Betjemann. The prospectus of the season includes 'The Voyage of Maeldune,' 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast,' Elgar's 'Coronation Ode,' 'King Olaf,' and 'Bavarian Dances,' among other popular works. The Finsbury Choral Association also offers its patrons the 'Faust' of Berlioz, Parry's 'Judith,' Mackenzie's 'Bride,' and Dvorák's 'Spectre's Bride.' Needless to say the Society retains its skilful conductor in the person of Mr. Allen Gill.

The Southern suburbs would indeed seem to be more extensively provided for than the Northern. At Brixton Mr. Quance's Choral Society will give Elgar's 'Coronation Ode' and 'Banner of St. George'; the 'Death of Minnehaha,' and Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' and 'Walpurgis Night'; while the Brixton Oratorio Choir, with its Orchestral Services (both conducted by Mr. Douglas Redman), announces several well-known oratorios and sacred cantatas at the Parish Church. The Brixton Musical Society (conductor, Mr. Lawrence Briant) announces Sullivan's 'Martyr of Antioch,' Berlioz's 'Childhood of Christ,' Dvorák's 'Stabat Mater' or 'Spectre's Bride,' and Mackenzie's 'Dream of Jubal.' The music-makings of the Lewisham Choral Society (Mr. Frank Idle) will include Mackenzie's 'Bride,' Clay's 'Lalla Rookh,' and Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha.' Several popular works are announced by the Goldsmiths' Institute Choir, New Cross, directed by Dr. C. J. Frost, a novelty being Mr. Claudius H. Coultery's 'Christ's entry into Jerusalem.' In the Richmond district we find the Philharmonic Society conducted by Mr. Charles E. Jolley, which announces Sullivan's 'Martyr of Antioch,' while the recently-established New Philharmonic Society has in preparation 'The Creation,' Strauss's 'Wanderer's Sturmlied,' Humperdinck's 'Die Wallfahrt nach Kevlaar,' and Grieg's 'Länderkennung.' The conductor is Mr. James Brown, who also directs the Staines Choral Society, which will give Lloyd's 'Hero and Leander' and Elgar's 'Banner of St. George.'

The odours of the tanyard, formerly conducive to the production of roses, would appear to be no less favourable to the cultivation of good music, as evidenced by the doings of the Bermondsey Settlement Choral and Orchestral Union, whose programme for the season includes 'Acis and Galatea,' Gaul's 'Holy City,' Somervell's 'Seven Last Words,' Parry's 'War and Peace,' and Cowen's 'St. John's Eve,' the last two conducted by their distinguished composers; the other works will of course be in the able hands of Mr. John E. Borland.

Country News.

BRIEFLY SUMMARIZED.

AYR.—An interesting miscellaneous selection will be given by the Choral Union on the 17th prox., including Mendelssohn's 'As the hart pants,' Zingarelli's 'Laudate,' Stanford's 'Last Post,' and Sullivan's 'On Shore and Sea.'

BISHOPS STORTFORD.—An enterprising spirit is displayed by the Musical Union, directed by Mr. Eaglefield Hull, its programme for the season including Mackenzie's 'Dream of Jubal' on the 25th inst., and Elgar's 'King Olaf.'

BRASTED (KENT).—Miss Elsie Hall and Miss Marie Busch gave an interesting pianoforte and song recital in the Village Hall on the 15th ult. The vocalist of the evening sang a number of songs with taste and discretion, especially the beautiful settings by Brahms, while the gifted pianist was highly successful in her brilliant rendering of Mendelssohn's 'Rondo Capriccioso' (Op. 14).

CAMBRIDGE.—The University Musical Society's season will commence on the 7th prox. with Dvorák's 'Stabat Mater,' under the conductorship of Dr. Alan Gray.

COVENTRY.—The Musical Society's first concert this season, on December 7, will comprise Gluck's 'Orpheus' and Elgar's 'Coronation Ode.' The newly-appointed conductor is Mr. F. W. Beard.

LINCOLN.—An interesting feature of the Lincoln Musical Society's concert to take place on the 2nd prox. will be the performance of a new version, in eight parts, of Pearsall's 'Sir Patrick Spens,' edited by Dr. G. J. Bennett, the conductor of the Society. The programme is to include Sullivan's 'Golden Legend.'

NEWBURY.—Handel's rarely-performed oratorio 'Hercules' has been selected for performance by the Choral Society at its first concert this season on December 9. Later on Dvorák's 'Spectre's Bride' and Humperdinck's 'Pilgrimage to Kevlaar' will probably be undertaken. Mr. J. S. Liddle is the conductor.

NORWICH.—The Norfolk and Norwich Musical Festival Society, conducted by Dr. A. H. Mann, will give next month 'Acis and Galatea,' and a selection from several other of Handel's works. The second concert in the spring will include Brahms's 'Requiem' and Parry's 'Blest pair of Sirens.'

RAMSGATE.—At the harvest Festival at St. Luke's Church on the 15th ult., Garrett's Harvest Cantata was rendered by the choir, assisted by the members of St. George's choir, Deal. The combined choirs numbered fifty voices, and were under the conductorship of Mr. T. Troman (Organist of St. George's, Deal), whilst Mr. J. Brandford Strong (Organist of St. Luke's) presided at the organ.

RIPON.—The Choral Society will join the Cathedral and Festival Choirs in the second annual performance of Brahms's 'Requiem' in the Cathedral on December 10. Bach's 'St. Matthew Passion' is to be sung in Lent, while Brahms's 'Song of Destiny,' Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Departure' and Schubert's 'Unfinished' Symphony will be performed in the Victoria Hall in February. All these works will be conducted by the Cathedral organist, Mr. C. H. Moody.

STAFFORD.—The Choral Union, directed by Mr. Herbert Drury, announces Elgar's 'King Olaf' for performance next month, and later in the season will give Haydn's Third Mass and a selection from 'St. Paul.'

Answers to Correspondents.

INQUIRER (Flushing).—(1) Spohr's 'Last Judgment' ('Die letzten Dinge'), literally 'The Last Days,' was composed in 1825-6. Part I. was first performed (with pianoforte accompaniment only) at the end of November, 1826, by the choral society conducted by the composer at Cassel, at a concert given on behalf of the sufferers from a fire that had shortly before occurred at Seesen. The complete work was brought to its first hearing at the Lutheran Church, Cassel, on Good Friday, March 24, 1826, Spohr himself conducting. The first performance in England took place at the Norwich Musical Festival, September 24, 1830, conducted by Edward Taylor, who also translated the work into English. We do not know of any analysis of the oratorio, unless in a programme-book of a provincial musical festival, but a full account of its first and some subsequent early performances appeared in THE MUSICAL TIMES for July, 1891, p. 398. (2) Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' was first performed at the Birmingham Musical Festival held in the Town Hall, August 26, 1846.

O. K.—The Akademische Festouvertüre (Op. 81) of Brahms was written in recognition of the degree of doctor of philosophy conferred upon the composer by the University of Breslau, and privately performed at that place, January 4, 1881. For the most part it is constructed upon the themes of German students' songs, one of which, the 'Fuchslid' or freshman's song ('Was Kommt dort von der Höh?'), is introduced by the bassoon with an intensely comical effect. The first performance of the Overture in England was at the benefit concert of Dr. Manns—who conducted the work—given at the Crystal Palace on April 30, 1881.

DISTRACTED.—(1) The piece is probably 'out of print' temporarily. Make further inquiry of your local music-seller. (2) There are no complete editions of Stephen Heller's, or Anton Strelezki's pianoforte compositions.

W. A. W.—The choruses, &c., of Racine's 'Esther' were set to music, at the author's desire, by Jean Baptiste Moreau (1656-1733). The music was first published in 1689 and is still procurable. Other settings are those of Charles Henri Plantarde (1764-1839), at the request of the King of Holland, in 1808; François Louis Perne (1772-1832), in the year 1820, at Paris; and Jules Cohen (1830-1901), composed in 1870. The libretto of Handel's oratorio 'Esther' (words by Samuel Humphreys) contains some adaptations from Racine's sacred drama, which the great French dramatist wrote in the year 1689.

SMALL-MEANS.—Pianoforte tuning can only be acquired in a practical way, though some help may be obtained from a reliable book. It is not an occupation at which a fortune can be made, and you would probably do better from a financial point of view by sticking to your present occupation, which at all events keeps the wolf from the door.

W. E. C.—Yes, it is necessary to pass the examination of the Associateship of the Royal College of Organists in order to obtain the Fellowship of the same Institution. We cannot give the names of teachers, but you could get very good lessons in theory by correspondence. Either of the above-named diplomas would be of advantage in seeking an appointment.

IXION.—In the first place 'Prof. Dip.' is not a nice abbreviation: it seems so very suggestive of a qualified bathing-machine Martha. Secondly, as to whether a person can teach who advertises herself as 'Prof. Dip.,' so much depends upon the status of the Institution at which the qualification—or supposed qualification—is obtained.

BACKWARD ONE.—The marks you obtained at your examination should encourage you to go forward. We quite enter into the motives which prompt you to still work hard, and are not surprised to learn that you are 'very fond of music' and that you 'couldn't bear to give it up.'

G. S.—Your question is a little vague; your enthusiasm is unquestionable. The musical profession is not a Tom Tiddler's ground, except for those exceptionally gifted. 'A good work on music by a great musician' is Sir Hubert Parry's 'The Art of Music.'

C. G. B.—Submit your composition to a publisher, but do not be surprised if he should not set the same value upon your 'piece of music for the violin and piano' as you do yourself.

N. M.—Why not subscribe to a Musical Library? This would enable you 'to try over songs and pieces at home' with the object of purchasing them if found suitable.

P. O. P.—As you are a professional musician you should enter for the examination for either the Licentiate of the Royal Academy of Music or the Associateship of the Royal College of Music.

TENOR.—Porridge is not likely to have a deleterious effect upon the voice, rather the contrary in the singing of Scotch songs.

MAGNUS.—The 2-4 bar in the last chorus of Hillér's 'Song of Victory' is in the nature of a half-bar of that which precedes and follows it, and should be conducted, played, and sung accordingly.

J. M. S.—MM. Durand et fils, Place de la Madeleine, Paris, would doubtless supply you with the information you require.

T. W. L.—Stainer's 'The Music of the Bible' is out of print and can only be obtained from a second-hand bookseller.

H. J.—We make it a rule not to give the names of teachers or coaches for degrees.

C. G. F.—Make a start with Sir John Stainer's 'Harmony' Primer.

M. A. R.—Your ear trouble is clearly a medical matter. Consult a reliable specialist in London.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Michele Esposito (with Special Portrait)	705
New College, Oxford (Fully Illustrated)	707
Berlioz in England (with Caricatures)	714
Dr. Crotch on Bach's 'Forty-eight'	717
Occasional Notes	719
Church and Organ Music—The origin and history of the Evening Hymn (Illustrated)	722
Birmingham Musical Festival—Dr. Elgar's 'The Apostles'	725
Mendelssohn's Overture to 'A Midsummer Night's Dream.' By Sir George Grove	728
Reviews	738
Hovingham Festival	739
Promenade Concerts, Queen's Hall	741
Musical Competitions	742
Music in Belfast	743
" Birmingham	743
" Bristol	743
" Edinburgh	743
" Glasgow	744
" Gloucester and District	744
" Liverpool and District	744
" Manchester	745
" Newcastle-on-Tyne and District	745
" Sheffield and District	745
" Yorkshire	745
Foreign Notes	746
Miscellaneous	747
Country News	747
Answers to Correspondents	748
Anthem for Christmas—'O Jerusalem, look about thee.' By John E. West	729

THREE extra Supplements are issued with the present number:—

1. Portrait of Signor Michele Esposito.
2. Christmas Carol—'The Shepherd's Song'—John E. West.
3. Christmas Carol—'Awake, O earth, to holy mirth'—A. H. Brown.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., LIMITED.

- A DAMS, JOSEPH H.—Two Songs: (a) "Stars," (b) "Adoration." No. 2 in E flat. For Soprano and Tenor. 2s.
- A DCOCK, JOHN—"Fickle Spring." Glee for S.A.T.B. 2d.
- Ditto. Glee for A.T.B.B. 2d.
- BARNETT, JOHN FRANCIS—"The Sea Fairies." (No. 126. Novello's Octavo Edition of Two-part Songs for Female Voices.) 4d.
- BATTEN, ADRIAN—"Deliver us, O Lord." Edited by JOHN E. WEST. (No. 127. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.
- BUCKLEY, C. B.—78th Psalm. An arrangement of Old Chants, with a separate Organ Accompaniment. 3d.
- CANTICLES (Third Set). As Pointed for Chanting in the Cathedral Psalter. Set to Single and Double Chants. 4d.
- CARTER, ERNEST M.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, in D flat. 4d.
- CLARE, E. A.—"Goodwill to men." Christmas Anthem. 3d.
- CORNELIUS, PETER—"I can but love thee." Part-song for S.A.A.T.B.B. The English words translated from the German of JOHANNES SCHÄFFLER by PAUL ENGLAND. (No. 930. Novello's Part-song Book.) 3d.
- COWEN, FREDERIC H.—Reverie for Orchestra. 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello, 6d.; Basso, 3d.
- CUTLER, EDWARD—"The Village Choir." Four-part Song. (No. 924. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.
- DUNHILL, THOMAS F.—Four Songs from Vagabondia (Op. 10). 1. The Sea Gipsy; 2. A Rover's Song; 3. The Daisies; 4. A Hill Song. For Baritone. 2s. each.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

- ECKERSLEY, REV. J.—Remarks on Bach's Mass in B minor. Being an endeavour to ascertain the meaning of its Movements, and to draw attention to some of its beauties, without the use of the technical terms of contrapuntal composition. 3d.
- ELGAR, EDWARD—"The Apostles" (Parts 1 and 2). Op. 49. An Oratorio. 5s. Paper boards, 6s.; cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d. Vocal Parts, 1s. 6d. each.
- Ditto. An Interpretation of the Libretto, by C. V. GORTON, M.A. 1s.
- Five Part-Songs (T.T.B.B.). Op. 45. The words from the Greek Anthology, in English, by ALMA STRETTILL, RICHARD GARNETT, EDMUND GOSSE, W. M. HARDINGE, and ANDREW LANG. German Translation by JULIUS BUTHS. 1s. 6d.
- "Yea, cast me from heights of the mountains." Op. 45, No. 1. Part-song for T.T.B.B. (No. 362. The Orpheus.) 3d.
- "Whether I find thee." Op. 45, No. 2. Part-song for T.T.B.B. (No. 363. The Orpheus.) 2d.
- "After many a dusty mile." Op. 45, No. 3. Part-song for T.T.B.B. (No. 364. The Orpheus.) 4d.
- "It's oh! to be a wild wind." Op. 45, No. 4. Part-song for T.T.B.B. (No. 365. The Orpheus.) 2d.
- "Feasting, I watch." Op. 45, No. 5. Part-song for T.T.B.B. (No. 366. The Orpheus.) 4d.
- GOODHART, ARTHUR M.—"A Song of going away." (No. 12. Eton School Songs.) 6d.
- "Wearyin' for you." Part-song for S.A.T.B. 3d.
- GREENE, MAURICE—"O God of my righteousness." Edited by JOHN E. WEST. (No. 775. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.
- HAYDN—"She never told her love." Canzonet for Mezzo-Soprano. Edited by ALBERTO RANDEGGER. 1s. 6d.
- HOLLOWAY, ARTHUR S.—"The land of dreams." Song, for Soprano or Tenor. 2s.
- HOLST, GUSTAV VON—"Greeting." For Violin and Pianoforte. 2s.
- LE JEUNE, G. F.—Communion Service in C. For Four Voices, Soli, and Chorus, with Orchestra and Organ. 2s.
- First Mass in C. For Four Voices, Soli, and Chorus, with Orchestra and Organ. 2s.
- LEES, E.—Two Songs: 1. "A weary lot is thine." 2. "My love's like a red, red rose." For Contralto or Baritone. 2s. 6d.
- LOYD, C. H.—"Up-hill." Part-Song, for S.A.T.B. (No. 934. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.
- LOWE, C. EGERTON—Lessons in Harmonics, for Violinists and other Musical Students, with Notes on Sound and Resultants, Elementary Explanations and Experiments. (No. 62. Novello's Music Primers and Educational Series.) 1s.; paper boards, 1s. 6d.
- LUTKIN, P. C.—Jubilate Deo in C. (No. 643. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.
- MOZART—Sonata in F major (Köchel, 376). For Violin (1st to 3rd Position) and Pianoforte. (Book 19. The Junior Violinist, edited by C. EGERTON LOWE.) 2s.
- NOVELLO'S CHRISTMAS CAROLS:—
- No. 320. Awake, O earth, to holy mirth ARTHUR HENRY BROWN 1d.
- „ 323. The Shepherd's Song JOHN E. WEST 1d.
- O'LEARY, ARTHUR—Mass of St. John. Originally for voices in unison, with organ accompaniment. New Edition (with second voice part added). 1s. 6d.
- PARRY, C. HUBERT—"War and Peace." 1st Violin, 3s.; 2nd Violin, 3s.; Viola, 3s.; Violoncello, 3s.; Basso, 2s. 6d.
- PLUMB, ALICE E.—Serenade for Violin and Pianoforte. 1s. 6d.
- POWELL, REV. JAMES BADEN—"Hail! Festal Day." No. 3. Second Setting. For Corpus Christi. 3d.
- RESPONSES TO THE COMMANDMENTS. By Various Composers. Reprinted from the Parish Choir Manual. 6d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 137. Contains the following Music in both Notations: "O hills, O vales of pleasure" (Departure). Arranged for S.S.A. (unaccompanied). Composed by MENDELSSOHN, "The Lass of Richmond Hill." Unison Song. By JAMES HOOK. 1½d.

SCHOOL SONGS—Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo; B. Voice parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

- | | |
|--|-----------------------------|
| No. 174. The Lord is my Shepherd | A. B. |
| „ 326. Jack Frost. S.S.A. (Unaccompanied) | HENRY SMART — 1½d. |
| „ 644. A Rose Song. Unison Song | J. L. HATTON — id. |
| „ 645. There were four lilies. Unison Song | HORATIO W. PARKER 1½d. — |
| „ 647. Hark! the curfew's solemn sound. For S.A.B. .. | .. T. ATTWOOD 2d. id. |
| „ 675. Know'st thou the land? (Mignon's Song). Unison Song. BEETHOVEN | 2d. — |
| „ 693. The Sailor's Song. Arranged for S.S.A. .. | J. L. HATTON 2d.* — |
| „ 730. An Even Song. Two-part Song | HORATIO W. PARKER 3d. 1½d. |
| „ 731. Twelve by the clock. Two-part Song | CHARLES H. LLOYD 3d. id. |
| „ 733. O Star of Eve. Recitative and Romance, from "Tannhäuser" | WAGNER 2d. — |
| „ 734. The free mind. Unison Song | R. SCHUMANN 1½d. — |
| „ 739. Thou art repose. Unison Song | F. SCHUBERT 1½d. — |
| „ 742. I love thee. Unison Song | BEETHOVEN 1½d. — |
| „ 743. Gentle Zephyr. Unison Song | W. STERNDALE BENNETT 1½d. — |
| „ 755. Vicissitude. Canon. For S.S.A.A. | FELIX WOYRSCH 2d.* — |
| „ 766. Patriotic Posies. An Action Piece, for School Entertainments | KATE BOUNDY 4d. — |
| Book 137. School Sight-Singing Reader. Movable Doh Method. Staff-Notation. Elementary Grade .. | 6d.* — |
| „ 147. Ten Unison Songs (Grade 2), from THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, by Various Composers .. | 6d. — |
| „ 148. Nine Unison Songs (Grade 2), from THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, by Various Composers .. | 6d. — |
| „ 150. Eight Two-part Songs (Grade 2), from THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, by Various Composers .. | 8d. — |
| „ 151. Eight Two-part Songs (Grade 3), from THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, by Various Composers .. | 8d. — |
| „ 152. Fifteen Unaccompanied Trios (Grade 2), by Various Composers .. | 6d.* 3d. |

* Staff Notation only.

SMITH, JAMES— "There is a land of pure delight." Sacred Song. No. 2, in D. For Contralto or Baritone. 2s.

SULLIVAN, ARTHUR— Three Dances from the music to SHAKESPEARE'S "Tempest." 1. Masque; 2. The Banquet Dance; 3. Dance of Nymphs and Reapers. Pianoforte Arrangement, 2s.

VILLAGE ORGANIST—A Series of Pieces for Church and General Use. Book 35. 1s. For Contents, see page 767.

WEST, JOHN E.—"The Poet's Complaint." Four-part Song. Cavalier Lyrics, No. 1. (No. 927. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

— "O Jerusalem, look about thee." Anthem for Christmas. (No. 729. The Musical Times.) 1½d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES—Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT:—

- | | | |
|--|------------------------------|------|
| No. 1333. Fair Daffodils | ARTHUR SULLIVAN | id. |
| „ 1334. Why art thou so heavy, O my soul | ORLANDO GIBBONS | id. |
| „ 1337. But thou, O hope. For S.S.A. (From the "Ode to the Passions") | FREDERIC H. COWEN | id. |
| „ 1338. Praise to the Holiest S.S.A.A. (From "The Dream of Gerontius") | EDWARD ELGAR | 2d. |
| „ 1339. Soldier, rest. T.T.B.B. | OLIVER KING | 1½d. |
| „ 1340. Soft, soft wind | C. V. STANFORD | id. |
| „ 1341. Hallelujah. (Chorus from "The Triumph of Time and Truth") | HANDEL | id. |
| ABT, FRANZ—"The Silver Cloud." | A Cantata for Female Voices. | 6d. |
| CLARE, EDWYN A.—"Goodwill to men." | Christmas Anthem. | 2d. |
| PARISH CHOIR MANUAL | —1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. | |

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

PUBLISHED ON THE 1ST OF EVERY MONTH. Price 1½d. ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, INCLUDING POSTAGE, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW FOR NOVEMBER

CONTAINS:—
VOICE-TRAINING EXERCISES IN UNISON, TWO, AND THREE PARTS, FOR SCHOOLS AND CHOIR BOYS.
THE CHORD OF THE DIMINISHED SEVENTH.
THEORY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
DATES OF COMPETITION FESTIVALS.
MUSICAL COMPETITIONS.
MUSIC IN CONTINUATION SCHOOLS.
THE REAL PURPOSE OF TEACHING MUSIC IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.
THE POWER OF CHILDREN TO APPRECIATE GOOD MUSIC.
SCHOOL CONCERT PROGRAMMES.
THE SCHOOL MUSIC SITUATION.
HIGHLAND MUSIC.
THE TONIC SOL-FA COLLEGE.
CORRESPONDENCE.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

THE NOVEMBER NUMBER CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC:—"NIGHT," Kindergarten Game Song. By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
"HOME, FAR AWAY," Two-part Song. By MENDELSSOHN.
TWO-PART STUDIES.
ELEMENTARY SIGHT-SINGING EXERCISES.
Also, EXTRA SUPPLEMENT, containing "HAIL! SMILING MORN." Glee, arranged for S.A. By REGINALD SPOFFORTH. (No. 542. Novello's School Songs.) Price 1½d.
The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3 0
Three Lines	0	3 4
For every additional Line	0	0 10
Half a Column	2	0 0
A Column	4	0 0
A Page	7	10 0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in their proper positions, Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W., NOT LATER than NOVEMBER 20.

TWO SETTINGS of the GENERAL THANKS-GIVING.

No. 1, in the Key of G, for Voices in Unison and Organ Accompaniment.

No. 2, in the Key of C, for S.A.T.B. (Unaccompanied).
By T. EVERARD W. HULTON. Price 2d. each.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHORUS OF THE HEAVENLY HOST. Carol, for Christmastide. By J. T. FIELD. 2d. Specimen copy from the COMPOSER, "Montana," Blackheath, S.E.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

VALUABLE VIOLINS.

MESSRS. PUTTICK & SIMPSON'S

NEXT SALE

OF

VALUABLE VIOLINS, 'CELLOS, &c.

WILL TAKE PLACE ON WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 2.

AMATEURS AND OTHERS HAVING SUITABLE SPECIMENS, AND BEING DESIROUS OF INCLUDING THEM IN THIS SPECIAL SALE, ARE RESPECTFULLY REQUESTED TO COMMUNICATE WITH THE AUCTIONEERS—

MESSRS. PUTTICK & SIMPSON,

ESTABLISHED 1794.

47, LEICESTER SQUARE, LONDON, W.C.

CHURCH ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY.

Hon. Conductor: G. F. HUNTLEY, Esq., Mus. Doc.

Rehearsals are held Weekly on Tuesdays, at 7 p.m., in St. Peter's Mission House, adjoining Victoria Station (L. C. & D. Rly.). The Society's Band undertakes Festival and Special Services. There are VACANCIES for strings (amateur and professional). For terms of membership, apply to the Secretary, Hon. Richard Strutt, Rayleigh House, Chelsea, S.W.

MR. FRED FALLAS

(TENOR).

A HIGH COMPLIMENT.

"WE HAVE HEARD NO BETTER SINGING THIS SEASON."

KURSAAL, HARROGATE,

OCTOBER 1, 2, & 3, 1903.

SPECIAL RETURN VISIT.

Harrogate Advertiser, October 3, 1903, says:—

"Those who were present on Thursday evening HAD A RARE MUSICAL TREAT. Mr. Fred Fallas was encored for both his songs, 'Nirvana' and Schubert's 'Sérénade.' In the latter, in which the orchestra accompanied, this tenor singer did the fullest justice to that splendid song. It is often taken too slowly; this fault he avoided. WE HAVE HEARD NO BETTER SINGING THIS SEASON."

Address: Horbury, Yorks.

MR. PHILIP NEWBURY requests that all communications be addressed to his SOLE AGENT, Mr. A. Schulz-Curtius, 44, Regent Street, London, W.

MISS EDNA MELBOURNE (Contralto)

Concerts, At Homes, &c.

82, Trafalgar Street, Waltham.

MR. GEORGE DENHAM

"The popular Baritone."—Morning Leader.

"Altona," Dorking.

TENOR VACANCY, at St. Luke's, Sydney Street, Chelsea. Stipend, £16. Apply, by letter, to the Choirmaster.

BASS SOLOIST WANTED, for New College Chapel, Swiss Cottage, N.W. Two services Sunday, and Friday evening choir practice. £12 per annum. Apply to J. Smith, 221, Belsize Road, Kilburn, N.W.

SOUTHWELL CATHEDRAL.—LAY-CLERK-SHIP VACANT, BASS (not Baritone). Applicants must be under 26 years, and regular communicants of the Church of England. Stipend, £60. Apply, with copies of testimonials, to R. W. Liddle, Esq., Rector Chori, Vicars' Court, Southwell.

ASSISTANT ORGANIST WANTED, for Limehouse Parish Church. 3-manual Organ, 40 stops. M. E. L. Holford, Organist, 78, Kingswood Road, Ilford.

ORGANIST (Mus. Bac.) desires APPOINTMENT. Much successful experience in Choir-training. Accustomed to Full Choral Service. Highest testimonials. Private means. A. B. C., care of Messrs. Saward and Co., 188, Strand.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER seeks (Church) APPOINTMENT in Midlands or S. of England. Highly successful Choir-trainer. 16 years' experience; 12 years present church. Small salary accepted if good teaching prospects. Apply, Organist, 28, Skinner Street, Whitby.

WANTED, TUNER (High-class). Must have knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums. Apply, Gwalia, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, permanent first-class PIANO TUNER and REGULATOR, able to repair American Organs. Must be reliable and of good address. State age and salary required. W. Brotherton, 40, South Road, Bishop Auckland (Co. Durham).

TUNER (27; Abstainer, Smart Appearance) desires Extra Work to fill up week. Knowledge reed instruments, repairs. Efficient, reliable worker. E. M., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER (experienced, West-End) is OPEN for Two or Three Days a Week. Country preferred, out-doors. Tuner, 69, Pelham Road, Wimbledon, S.W.

FOR SALE.—ORGAN, by BISHOP & STARR. Great, 7 stops; Swell, 9 stops; Pedal, 2 stops. Usual couplers, tremulant, &c. Price £150. Apply, Vicar, Smethwick Old Church, near Birmingham.

MUSIC STUDIOS.—Having acquired additional premises at 32-34, Wigmore Street, Mr. C. BECHSTEIN has now 16 more STUDIOS to LET to Music Teachers. For particulars, apply to the Manager, Bechstein Hall Studios, 40-32, Wigmore Street, W.

ROOMS, near Queen's Gate, suitable for MUSIC or SINGING LESSONS. Agents, Collbran & Howard, 94, Gloucester Road, S.W.

TO ORGANISTS.—Sound TEACHING CONNECTION for SALE. Established 43 years. The Post of Organist at the Parish Church will be vacant, and may be obtained by a competent man. Large Church, fine Organ; opportunity seldom met with. Address, Dulciana, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—ORGANISTS can PRACTISE on the Grand four-manual Organ by WILLIS (blown by hydraulic engines controlled from keyboard) in the Concert Hall of the Hampstead Conservatoire. The Hall is warmed by hot water. Specification of the organ, and terms of practice on application to the Secretary, Hampstead Conservatoire, Swiss Cottage, N.W.
N.B.—The Conservatoire is eight minutes by rail from Baker Street, Metropolitan Railway. Trains every ten minutes.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE. Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell and Son's, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

MODERN-BUILT ORGANS for SALE.—Two Manuals CC to G, and Pedals CCC to F (R.C.O.), £125, complete. Also larger instruments. Apply, EUSTACE INGRAM, Organ Builder, 361, Liverpool Road, N.

THREE-MANUAL ORGAN, 26 stops; Two-Manual Organ, 17 stops. Several others, suitable for Church, &c. Special manufacturers of the celebrated Victoria Model Organs, &c., suitable for Mission Churches, Students, &c., with two manuals and full-compass pedals, from 50 guineas. W. E. Richardson and Sons, of London, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGAN for SALE.—Two manuals, pedals, and bourdons; 12 stops, CC to G. Williams, 2, St. Jude's Villas, Meeting House Lane, Peckham, S.E. Organs tuned and repaired.

ORGAN for SALE.—Three manuals, 24 stops (19 stops, 61 pipes; 5 stops, 49 pipes). Pedal organ, 2 stops. R.C.O. arrangements. Handsome case; spotted metal pipes. Very little used. Address, Organ, Edgar Smith, Library, Hailsham, Sussex.

FOR SALE.—Two-manual CHURCH ORGAN. 11 stops and 4 couplers. Pitch-pine and oak Gothic case. Price £100. Apply, Organist, 15, Eatington Road, Whipps Cross, Leyton.

ORGAN (PIPE), 9 ft. high, One-manual, 5 stops. Rich, powerful tone; splendid condition. Suit small church seating 250. Price £28 10s. Photo, 6 stamps. Stoneham, 52, Hazlewood Crescent, Westbourne Park Station, London. Appointment.

9 GUINEAS.—AMERICAN ORGAN (list price, 20 guineas), 11 stops, including two knee-stops and the beautiful solo stops, voix celeste and vox humana; two octave couplers, handsome high case; in use about four months; twenty years' warranty; easy terms arranged. Packing and carriage free both ways on approval. Full price paid will be allowed within three years if exchanged for a higher-class instrument. D'Almaine and Co. (established 118 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

NEW

ADJUSTABLE ORGAN STOOL.

Fits right over the Pedal Board. More reliable and comfortable than the ordinary Organ Bench—being adjustable to suit your height and reach. Any size or design, beautifully finished in Oak, Birch, Pine, Mahogany, or Walnut, to harmonize with your instrument. Suitable for any Organ, or for Pianos with our Pedal Attachment. Simple. JUST WHAT PLAYERS WANT—and costing little more than the old-fashioned makes. SEND FOR LISTS. PRICES FROM £2 15s. NORMAN & BEARD, LTD., ST. STEPHEN'S GATE, NORWICH, And 19, Ferdinand Street, Chalk Farm, N.W.

15 GUINEAS.—PIANO, "DUCHESS" MODEL, by D'ALMAINE, solid iron frames to top, Upright Grand (list price, 30 guineas); full compass, full trichord, French check action, &c.; in handsomely carved case, four feet two inches in height; in use only six months; sent on approval, carriage paid both ways; to any part of the United Kingdom; twenty years' warranty; easy terms arranged; full price paid will be allowed if exchanged for a higher-class instrument within three years. D'Almaine and Co. (established 118 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

BROADWOOD modern SEMI-GRAND PIANO, small size, nearly new. $7\frac{1}{2}$ octaves, complete iron frame, overstrung. 65 gns.; cost 135 gns. Also a small BOUDOIR GRAND, 7 octaves, iron frame, &c., by same great makers. 42 gns.; cost 110 gns. Both had little use, and in superb condition. View at Mr. Fieldwick's, Organist of St. John's (Cromer House), Putney.

FOR SALE.—A VIOLONCELLO, by HAMMIG, Leipsic. Fine instrument. Also $\frac{3}{4}$ Cello. Both with bow and case. Offers invited. Apply, Mr. Gilling, South Drive, Harrogate. Also ERARD Harp for Sale. Particulars on application.

SPLENDID old 'CELLO, in original case. Magnificent tone, to be SOLD at a bargain. Apply, Marshall & Co., Campbell Works, Stoke Newington, N.

FOR SALE.—VIOLONCELLO. In owner's possession about 30 years. Price £6 6s. Also VIOLIN, £5 5s. Seen by appointment only. E. P., 1, Colyton Villas, Bulwer Road, New Barnet.

PEDALIER (PLEYEL) for SALE, £10. Particulars, 4, Queen Adelaide Road, Penge, London, S.E.

BOROUGH OF BURSLEM.

THE TOWN COUNCIL invite TENDERS for the purchase of the ORGAN in the Town Hall.
The Purchaser will be required to remove the Organ as soon as possible after acceptance of tender.
Tenders should be sent to me not later than November 14.
No tender will necessarily be accepted.

ARTHUR ELLIS, Town Clerk.
Burslem, Staffs.

HYDRAULIC ORGAN BLOWER (BAILEY'S Patent).—No. 3 size; good working order. £3. F. W. White, 71, Market Street, Manchester.

SMALL LIBRARY of CHORAL WORKS for SALE. Oratorios, Masses, Part-Songs, &c. R. B. Brown, 16, Millerfield Place, Edinburgh.

Auction Rooms, specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

F. W. EBRALL,
Organ Builder,
SHREWSBURY.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

Just Published.

TE DEUM. Four Settings in Chant Form, by C. SYDNEY VINNING. On a Card. Price 2d.
SINGING CARDS for CHOIR BOYS:—

No. 1. RUDIMENTS and EXERCISES.

" 2. FOR TEACHING BOYS TO SING A SECOND PART.

Price Twopence each. Compiled by C. SYDNEY VINNING.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PLAYED BY JAN KUBELIK.

VIOLIN MUSIC
WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT
BY
ALBERTO RANDEGGER, JUN.

SONATA IN E MINOR

(Op. 15.)

Price Six Shillings.

SOUVENIR

(Op. 17, No. 1.)

Price Two Shillings.

SALTELLATO-CAPRICE

(Op. 17, No. 2.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ANTHEMS FOR ADVENT.

A few more years shall roll	H. Blair	3d.
And God shall wipe away all tears	Frederick R. Greenish	3d.
*And He shall purify	Handel	12d.
And Jacob was left alone	J. Stainer	6d.
*And the Angel said unto her	King Hall	12d.
*And the glory of the Lord	Handel	12d.
*Arise, O Jerusalem	Oliver King	12d.
Ascribe unto the Lord	J. Travers	6d.
*Awake, awake, put on strength	A. Borton	12d.
*Awake, awake, put on thy strength, O Zion	J. Stainer	6d.
Awake, put on thy strength	M. Wise	6d.
*Awake, thou that sleepest	J. Stainer	6d.
Behold, the day is come	H. H. Woodward	4d.
Behold, two blind men	J. Stainer	3d.
Beloved, now we are the Sons of God	E. H. Thorne	12d.
Blessed are they	H. Blair	3d.
Blessed be the Lord God	C. S. Heap	6d.
*Blessed is He who cometh	C. Gounod	12d.
*Come, and let us return (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
Day of anger, day of mourning	Mozart	6d.
Day of anger, day of mourning	C. Gounod	6d.
*Day of wrath	J. Stainer	2d.
*Doth not wisdom cry?	K. Haking	12d.
Drop down, ye heavens... ..	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
*Enter not into judgment	T. Attwood	12d.
Enter not into judgment	Clarke-Whitfield	2d.
Far down the ages now	Arthur C. Edwards	12d.
*Far from their home	H. H. Woodward	3d.
For a small moment	J. Stainer	2d.
For the mountains shall depart	L. Samsom	3d.
*From the rising of the sun	F. A. G. Ouseley	12d.
*God hath appointed a day	B. Tours	12d.
*Grant us Thy peace	Mendelssohn	12d.
Hark, the glad sound	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Hearken unto Me, my people... ..	A. Sullivan	12d.
He comes, but not in regal splendour	W. Crotch	2d.
He is blessed that cometh	Mozart	2d.
Henceforth when ye hear my voice	Mendelssohn	3d.
*He that shall endure	Mendelssohn	12d.
Hosanna	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
*Hosanna in the highest	J. Stainer	12d.
Hosanna to the Son of David... ..	O. Gibbons	3d.
Hosanna to the Son of David... ..	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
How beautiful are the feet	Handel	3d.
*How lovely are the messengers	Mendelssohn	2d.
If a man die shall he live again	Charles Macpherson	12d.
In the beginning was the word	E. H. Thorne	12d.
*It is high time	J. Barnby	12d.
It shall come to pass	G. M. Garrett	6d.
I will look unto the Lord (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
Let our hearts be joyful	Mendelssohn	12d.
Lord, let me know mine end	M. Greene	12d.
*Lord, let me know mine end	J. Goss	3d.
Lord, what love have I?	C. Steggall	6d.
Mine eyes look unto Thee	H. Baker	3d.
My soul truly waiteth	B. Steane	2d.
*O Adonai (O Lord and Ruler)	J. Stainer	12d.
*O Clavis David (O Key of David)	J. Stainer	12d.
*O Emmanuel (O Emmanuel)	J. Stainer	12d.
*O God, Thou art my God	H. Purcell	3d.
*O Jerusalem, look about thee	E. W. Naylor	4d.
*O Lord, Thou art my God	S. S. Wesley	1s.
*O Oriens (O Dayspring)	J. Stainer	12d.
*O Radix Jesse (O Root of Jesse)	J. Stainer	12d.
*O Rex Gentium (O King and Desire)	J. Stainer	12d.
*O Sapientia (O Wisdom)	J. Stainer	12d.
Out of the deep	H. Walford Davies	4d.
Out of the deep	G. C. Martin	6d.
*Praise his awful Name	Spohr	2d.
Prepare ye the way	J. M. Crament	4d.
Prepare ye the way	G. M. Garrett	4d.
Prepare ye the way of the Lord	M. Wise	3d.
*Rejoice greatly	H. Gadsby	3d.
*Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Sion	H. H. Woodward	12d.
Rejoice in the Lord	F. R. Statham	12d.
Rejoice in the Lord... ..	S. Reay	12d.
Rejoice in the Lord	John Redford	3d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	H. Purcell	3d.
*Rise up, arise	Mendelssohn	3d.
*Seek ye the Lord... ..	C. Bradley	12d.
*Seek ye the Lord	J. V. Roberts	3d.
*Seek ye the Lord	H. Kinsey	3d.
*Sleepers, wake, a voice is calling	Mendelssohn	12d.
Swiftly the moments (Advent Litany)	J. M. Crament	2d.
Think, good Jesu	Mozart	6d.
*The grace of God that bringeth salvation	J. Barnby	12d.
*The great day of the Lord is near	G. C. Martin	12d.
The Lord will comfort Sion	H. Hiles	6d.
*The night is far spent	M. Wise	12d.
*The night is far spent	B. Steane	12d.
*The night is far spent. S.A.T.B.	M. B. Foster	3d.
*The night is far spent (Two-part Anthem)... ..	M. B. Foster	3d.
The Wilderness	S. S. Wesley	8d.
*Thou Judge of quick and dead	S. S. Wesley	3d.
Thy Word is a lantern	H. Purcell	4d.
To Thee do I lift up my soul	King Hall	12d.
Turn Thee again, O Lord	T. Attwood	12d.
Who is this that cometh from Edom?	J. Kent	6d.

Antheims marked thus * are to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 3d. each.

For Advent and Christmas.

ADVENT HYMN

"IN LOWLY GUISE THY KING APPEARETH."

FOR SOPRANO SOLO AND CHORUS, WITH ORCHESTRAL ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

R. SCHUMANN.

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN OF FRIEDRICH RÜCKERT

BY THE REV. J. TROUTBECK, D.D.

Price One Shilling. Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

BLESSED ARE THEY WHO WATCH

A CANTATA FOR ADVENT

FOR SOPRANO SOLO AND CHORUS

WITH

HYMNS TO BE SUNG BY THE CONGREGATION

THE WORDS SELECTED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

HUGH BLAIR.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence. Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE TWO ADVENTS

A CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY THE

REV. E. W. BOWLING, M.A.

Rector of Houghton Conquest, Beds.

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE GARRETT, M.A.,

Mus.D., F.R.C.O.

(Op. 23.)

Price One Shilling and Sixpence. Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

BLOW YE THE TRUMPET IN ZION

A CANTATA FOR ADVENT

COMPOSED BY

C. WARWICK JORDAN.

Price One Shilling.

CHRISTMAS EVE

A SHORT CANTATA

FOR CONTRALTO SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

NIELS W. GADE.

(Op. 40.)

Price One Shilling. Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Fourpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ADESTE FIDELES

(No. 33 of NOVELLO'S CANTIONES SACRÆ)

EDITED BY

DOM SAMUEL G. OULD

CONTAINING THE COMPLETE LATIN TEXT

(EIGHT VERSES, NOW PUBLISHED WITH MUSIC FOR THE FIRST TIME)

WITH A

PRELUDE AND VARIOUS ACCOMPANIMENTS

By the following Composers:—

Preludium by Dr. F. E. GLADSTONE.

I. Strophæ	DOM SAMUEL G. OULD.
II. Strophæ	WILLIAM SEWELL.
III. Strophæ	H. B. COLLINS.
IV. Strophæ	SIR WALTER PARRATT.
V. Strophæ	DR. A. E. TOZER.
VI. Strophæ	SIR C. H. H. PARRY.
VII. Strophæ	DR. C. W. PEARCE.
VIII. Strophæ	S. P. WADDINGTON.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOVELLO'S EDITION OF BACH'S CHURCH CANTATAS.

A STRONGHOLD SURE	- - - - -	Ein' feste Burg.
BIDE WITH US	- - - - -	Bleib bei uns.
GOD GOETH UP WITH SHOUTING	- - - - -	Gott fähret auf mit Jauchzen.
GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD	- - - - -	Also hat Gott die Welt geliebt.
GOD'S TIME IS THE BEST	- - - - -	Gottes Zeit ist die allerbeste Zeit.
JESUS, NOW WILL WE PRAISE THEE	- - - - -	Jesu, nun sei gepreiset.
JESUS SLEEPS, WHAT HOPE REMAINETH?	- - - - -	Jesus schläft, was soll ich hoffen.
(Performed at the Hereford Festival, 1903.)
MY SPIRIT WAS IN HEAVINESS	- - - - -	Ich hatte viel Bekümmerniss.
O LIGHT EVERLASTING	- - - - -	O ewiges Feuer.
SLEEPERS, WAKE!	- - - - -	Wachet auf.
THE LORD IS A SUN AND SHIELD	- - - - -	Gott, der Herr, ist Sonn' und Schild.
THOU GUIDE OF ISRAEL	- - - - -	Du Hirte Israel, höre.
WHEN WILL GOD RECALL MY SPIRIT?	- - - - -	Liebster Gott, wann werd' ich sterben.

The wonderful individuality of these Church Cantatas. . . . An undreamt-of wealth of new phenomena meets our gaze on all sides; grand tone-pictures in new, strange, and diversified forms, single ideas of stalwart growth, and of free and noble birth; poetic inspirations of such unspeakable depth, that we are impressed with an unearthly awe.—SPITTA'S Life of Bach.

ONE SHILLING EACH.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

DAY OF WRATH

(DIES IRÆ)

HYMN-ANTHEM FOR ADVENT

COMPOSED BY

J. STAINER.

Price Fourpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Laid out after the model of "The Story of the Cross."

THE

STORY OF THE ADVENT OF JESUS

WRITTEN BY

E. W. LEACHMAN

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. STAINER.

Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

Words only, 3s. per 100.

PART I. The advent of Jesus before His Incarnation.—To create and to illuminate mankind.

PART II. The advent of Jesus at His Incarnation.—To save and to elevate mankind.

PART III. The advent of Jesus since His Incarnation.—To attract and to nourish mankind.

PART IV. The advent of Jesus to receive the Fruits of His Incarnation.—To judge and to claim mankind.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW WORK.

STOOD THE MOURNFUL MOTHER WEeping

(STABAT MATER DOLOROSA)

ENGLISH TRANSLATION BY

REV. J. MONSELL

MUSIC BY

F. ROLLASON.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

"We know nothing of the composer, but he must be possessed of some courage to produce an English version of the 'Stabat Mater.' The text is translated by the Rev. J. Monsell, D.D. The work is divided into the usual ten numbers, with slight modifications. The opening chorus, 'Stood the mournful mother weeping,' is in F minor, and has a striking and passionate introduction. With the entry of the voices, the treatment is severe, and in the ecclesiastical style, but the expression is modern. The first part is employed in the last chorus, 'When my mortal body, dying,' but then changing to the major at 'Take my soul to Paradise,' and concluding with a well-worked-out fugue at 'To adore Thee, my God.' No. 6, 'Holy Father, let affliction,' is one of the most elaborate numbers. It is for soprano solo and chorus. In this influence of Dvořák seems apparent, as that of Rossini appears in No. 4, 'For the sins of each offender,' but there is no direct imitation. The composer has individuality, and is a skilled musician. No. 9, 'Make me with His stripes be stricken,' beginning with a tenor solo followed by a solo for bass, and concluding with a quartet, is a fine piece of writing; and the whole composition reveals not only a high aim, but the ability to achieve it."—Birmingham Daily Post.

Published separately:

No. 5. CHORUS (unaccompanied), "JESU, FOUNT OF LOVE,"

Price 1s. 3d.

"No. 5, 'Jesu, Fount of Love,' is a chorus, anthem-like in character. the sensuous harmony of which cannot fail to touch the feelings, if it be well sung, without accompaniment, as suggested."—Coventry Herald.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CALEB SIMPER'S POPULAR CHURCH MUSIC

FOR
ADVENT AND CHRISTMAS.

These favourite Compositions are in demand in all English-speaking countries. The Sale rapidly increases month by month, and has reached over 3,200,000 copies.

IMPORTANT TO CHURCH CHOIRS AND CHORAL SOCIETIES.

The Popular Christmas Cantata,

"THE NATIVITY OF CHRIST,"

Has been scored for Full Orchestra, and the separate orchestral parts are now in print.

This Cantata contains Solos and Choruses, interspersed with Carols. 6th 1,000 now ready. Occupies about 45 minutes, and is a Work that the average Choir can render without outside help.

Price 1s. 6d.; Sol-fa, 1s.

A Choice and appropriate Work for Christmas-tide,

"THE STORY OF BETHLEHEM"

"CRADLED IN A MANGER."

The Words are by the late Rev. T. B. POLLOCK, M.A., and are divided into four parts of Six Stanzas each.

Part I.—THE HOLY CHILD. Part III.—THE SAVIOUR OF THE
" II.—THE MIGHTY GOD. WORLD.

Part IV.—THE PRINCE OF PEACE.

Price 2d. (in both Notations); Words only, 1s. 6d. per 100.

These beautiful verses are very happily wedded to some charming tunes, and the "Story of Bethlehem" is re-told in a way that will commend itself to all.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEM FOR 1903.

"ARISE, SHINE."

This Anthem will be found to be in Mr. SIMPER's best form, and will fully maintain his great popularity. The opening Chorus, "Arise, shine, for thy light is come," contains some exceedingly effective imitation in the parts, and is followed by a melodious Soprano Solo (or unison passage) "His name shall be called Jesus" leading on to a vigorous and inspiring Chorus "And He shall reign," in which the parts roll on to a grand climax. Price 3d.; Sol-fa Edition, 2d.

"RIGHTEOUSNESS AND PEACE." Price 4d.

6th 1,000 now ready. Contains excellent and inspiring Solos for Tenor and Bass, with good, melodious choruses.

AND THOU, BETHLEHEM. Easy. 7th 1,000	3d.
THE MORNING STARS SANG TOGETHER. 6th 1,000	3d.
TIDINGS OF GREAT JOY. 11th 1,000	4d.
WHEN JESUS WAS BORN. 10th 1,000	3d.
GLAD TIDINGS. 8th 1,000	4d.
HIS NAME SHALL BE CALLED "WONDERFUL." 11th 1,000	3d.
IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE WORD. 8th 1,000	4d.
PEACE ON EARTH. 15th 1,000	4d.
UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN. 10th 1,000	3d.
WORSHIP HIM AND SING OF HIM. 20th 1,000	4d.
BE JOYFUL, O EARTH. 9th 1,000	4d.
THE GLORY OF THE LORD. 21st 1,000	4d.
REJOICE GREATLY. 12th 1,000	3d.
BREAK FORTH INTO JOY. 42nd 1,000	4d.
THE HEAVENS ARE TELLING. 15th 1,000	3d.
BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD. 25th Edition	4d.
LET US NOW GO TO BETHLEHEM. 11th 1,000	3d.
WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR. 49th Edition	4d.
SING, O HEAVENS. 31st 1,000	3d.
GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST. 25th Edition	3d.
AND HE SHALL REIGN. 21st 1,000	3d.
THERE WERE SHEPHERDS. 25th Edition	3d.
BEHOLD, I BRING. 59th Edition	3d.

THE VERY POPULAR VOLUNTARY BOOKS.

Useful, Easy, and Effective. On Two Staves, with the Pedal Part indicated.

Post-free, 1s. 6d. net each Book. (Price in America, 60 cents.)

FOR ORGAN, AMERICAN ORGAN, OR HARMONIUM.
Seventeen Pieces in each.

N.B.—A New Number (Book 6) has just recently been added to this useful series (see below), and is meeting with decided and marked success. A 4th Edition already demanded.

Seventeen Voluntaries. Book 1	net 1s. 6d.
Seventeen Voluntaries. Book 2	" 1s. 6d.
Seventeen Voluntaries. Book 3	" 1s. 6d.
Seventeen Voluntaries. Book 4	" 1s. 6d.
Seventeen Voluntaries. Book 5	" 1s. 6d.
Seventeen Voluntaries. Book 6	" 1s. 6d.

Every Organist should procure a Set of these highly successful and most serviceable Books.

A useful and valuable Christmas Gift for Organists.

CALEB SIMPER'S VOLUNTARY BOOK. Containing 35 numbers of his popular Voluntaries (Books 1 to 5 inclusive) in one Volume, bound in cloth, gilt, 5s. net. A handsome Volume for Presentation.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY Co., 220, Wabash Avenue.

SPECIALLY SUITABLE TO THE SEASON OF CHRISTMAS.

THE PRINCE OF PEACE

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND
ORCHESTRA

THE WORDS SELECTED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE

AND THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"No man knows better than Mr. Gaul how to write for voices. . . 'Thou art the King of Glory,' a singularly fine chorus, worthy of any composer, living or dead. . . Throughout the work we have spontaneity, elegance, attractiveness, in short, a never-ending charm. This cantata, which completes the octave of Mr. Gaul's cantatas, we hold to be the best. If it prove less popular than the composer's 'The Holy City,' we shall be surprised. Mr. Gaul was engaged on this, his latest work, for about three years, and we believe that all who hear it will agree that the time was very profitably spent."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"In every way worthy the great reputation and experience of its composer. . . Is indeed a work of a very unusual character, and most probably destined to become more popular than any of his other compositions. . . Worthy the study of choral societies of every grade."—North Staffordshire Sentinel.

"Admirably written for the voice, enhanced by charm of rhythm and picturesque accompaniments."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

Vocal Score, paper cover	2 6
" paper boards	3 0
" scarlet cloth	4 0
Voice Parts, for the use of Choral Societies...	each	1 0
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	1 0
Words only	per 100	5 0

Band Parts (the loan of) on application to the Composer,
Gillott Lodge, Edgbaston.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW ADVENT CANTATA. THE LAST ADVENT

Libretto selected by HENRY KNIGHT.

MUSIC BY FERRIS TOZER, Mus. Doc., Oxon.,

Composer of the very successful Lent Cantata "The Way of the Cross."

Western Daily Press, September 21, 1903.—"Melodious. A favourite with choirs. Free from difficulties."

Aberdeen Daily Journal, September 21, 1903.—"Scholarly. Clever writing. Popular."

Birmingham Daily Mail, September 17, 1903.—"Effective. Musically. Melodic charm. Captivating. Admirably adapted for Church purposes and small choral societies."

Bristol Mercury, September 16, 1903.—"Beautiful. Well worthy of any trouble that may be expended on it."

Western Morning News, September 12, 1903.—"Pleasing. Taking. Good. Popular."

Price One Shilling and Sixpence; Sol-fa, One Shilling.

Choirmasters should send Six Stamps for Specimen Copy (New Christmas Anthems free) to

AMBROSE ABBOTT & Co., 14, Hanway St., Oxford St., London, W.

SIX CHRISTMAS SONGS

FOUR-PART SONGS FOR MIXED VOICES

COMPOSED BY H. HEALE.

1. Hark! along the street	3d.
2. We hear the bells on Christmas Day	3d.
3. Oh! lovely voices of the sky	3d.
4. So now is come our joyful 'st feast	4d.
5. It was the winter wild	4d.
6. Hark! a glad voice	6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHOIRMASTERS giving Name of Church, can have Free Specimen Copies of NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS and SIX NEW CHRISTMAS CAROLS, also the charming new Christmas Pastoral, THE STORY OF BETHLEHEM ("Cradled in a Manger"). These New Compositions are most attractively written. They are exceedingly pretty, and have that brightness and swing that will ensure popularity, and are full of inspiration and melody. The 4th Edition is already issued of the immensely popular New No. 6. VOLUNTARY BOOK, 17 pieces complete for Organ or Harmonium, Price 1s. 6d., post-free. An Organist writes:—"I have all your Voluntaries, and during my long experience of more than 36 years, I have never seen better." (Over 50 Editions now issued.) Address:—CALEB SIMPER, "Kilbirnie," Barnstaple.

CHRISTMAS CANTATAS.

THE
STORY OF BETHLEHEMA SHORT SACRED CANTATA FOR CHRISTMAS SERVICES, &c.THE WORDS WRITTEN BY SHAPCOTT WENSLEY

THE MUSIC FOR SOPRANO, TENOR AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS AND ORGAN

COMPOSED BY
JOHN E. WEST.Price One Shilling and Sixpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.String Parts (in the Press); Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

THE HOLY CHILD

AN EASY CHRISTMAS CANTATA

FOR SOPRANO, TENOR, AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORGANCOMPOSED BY
THOMAS ADAMS.Price One Shilling; Tonic Sol-fa Sixpence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

SLEEP, BABY, SLEEP

CAROL-CHORUS FROM THE ABOVE.

Published separately, price 1½d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.

CHRISTMAS SCENES

CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

COMPOSED BY
FREDERIC H. COWEN.Price Two Shillings; Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE COMING OF THE KING

A SACRED CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES
SUITABLE FOR CHRISTMASWORDS BY HELEN MARION BURNSIDEMUSIC BY
MYLES B. FOSTER.Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 8d.
Words only, 5s. per 100.

YULE-TIDE

A CANTATA

COMPOSED BY
THOMAS ANDERTON.Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Paper boards, 2s.; cloth, gilt, 3s.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS.JUST PUBLISHED.
O JERUSALEM, LOOK ABOUT THEEBY
JOHN E. WEST.
Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.IN THE PRESS.
SING, O HEAVENSBY
BRUCE STEANE.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST

BY
E. MARKHAM LEE.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.RECENTLY PUBLISHED.
HARK! WHAT MEAN THOSE HOLY VOICESBY
ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
(No. 12. LUTE SERIES.)
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.COME, YE GENTLES, HEAR THE STORYBY
EDWARD C. BAIRSTOW.
Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE NEW-BORN KING

BY
PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

REST, WEARY EARTH

BY
A. M. GOODHART.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.ANGELS FROM THE REALMS OF GLORYBY
E. VINE HALL.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THERE SHALL COME FORTH A ROD

BY FERRIS TOZER.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

THE HALLOWED DAY HATH SHINED

BY
B. LUARD SELBY.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE HYMN OF THE ANGELS

COMPOSED BY
JOHN E. WEST.
Price Fourpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

ANTHEMS FOR CHRISTMAS.

*Angels from the realms of glory ...	F. H. Cowen	3d.	Lo, star-led chiefs ...	W. Croft	2d.
*Angels from the realms of glory ...	E. Vine Hall	3d.	*Mercy and truth are met together (Words, 3s. per 100) J. Stainer	J. Stainer	3d.
*Arise, shine, for Thy light is come ...	Geo. Elvey	14d.	*Now is come Salvation ...	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
*Awake, put on thy strength ...	F. R. Greenish	4d.	O come hither ...	W. Jackson	3d.
Before the heavens were spread abroad	Horatio W. Parker	3d.	*O come, Redeemer of mankind ...	John E. West	14d.
Behold, all the earth lieth still...	G. F. Huntley	4d.	*O, Holy Babe ...	A. C. Mackenzie	14d.
Behold a star appeareth ...	Niels W. Gade	4d.	O Jerusalem! look about thee ...	E. W. Naylor	4d.
Behold, how good and joyful ...	W. H. Gladstone	1s.	*O Jerusalem, look about thee ...	John E. West	14d.
Behold, I bring ...	E. V. Hall	3d.	*O sing to God (Noël). (Female voices) ...	Ch. Gounod	6d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings ...	Giovanni Croce	14d.	*O sing to God (Noël). (Arranged for S.A.T.R.)	Ch. Gounod	14d.
*Behold, I bring you glad tidings ...	C. W. Smith	14d.	O Thou that tellest ...	W. Jackson	15.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings ...	Victoria	14d.	*O Zion, that bringest ...	J. Stainer	14d.
*Behold, I bring you good tidings ...	J. Barnby	3d.	*Rejoice in the Lord ...	J. E. Calkin	3d.
Behold, I bring you good tidings ...	J. M. Cramont	14d.	*Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous ...	Alfred Hollins	3d.
*Behold, I bring you good tidings ...	J. Goss	14d.	Rejoice, O ye people ...	Mendelssohn	14d.
*Behold my servant ...	J. Frederick Bridge	3d.	*Rest, weary earth ...	A. M. Goodhart	3d.
Behold, the name of the Lord ...	Percy Pitt	4d.	Say, where is He born (Trio) ...	Mendelssohn	2d.
*Behold the Tabernacle (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	3d.	*See amid the winter's snow ...	John E. West	14d.
Be peace on earth ...	W. Croft	3d.	*Sing and rejoice ...	J. Barnby	14d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel ...	S. S. Wesley	14d.	*Sing and rejoice ...	Basil Harwood	4d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel ...	C. L. Williams	4d.	*Sing a song of praise ...	Oliver King	3d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel ...	The Earl of Mar	14d.	Sing, O daughter of Zion ...	H. Gadsby	14d.
*Break forth into joy ...	T. Ridley Prentice	6d.	O heavens ...	W. Jackson	15.
*Break forth into joy ...	Bruce Steane	3d.	O heavens ...	Kent	4d.
*Break forth into joy ...	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.	*Sing, O Heavens (in the press) ...	A. C. Mackenzie	6d.
*Brightest and best ...	E. V. Hall	4d.	*Sing, O heavens ...	Bruce Steane	3d.
*Calm on the list'ning ear of night	Horatio W. Park	3d.	*Sing, O heavens ...	B. Tours	14d.
*Christians, awake ...	J. Barnby	3d.	*Sing, O Heavens, and be joyful, O Earth ...	T. T. Trimmell	4d.
*Christians, awake ...	H. M. Higgs	4d.	*Sing unto the Lord ...	A. Gaul	14d.
Christians, be joyful ...	Bach	3d.	*That God doth love the world ...	Vincent Novello	14d.
Come and thank Him ...	Bach	3d.	*The Angel Gabriel was sent from God ...	H. Smart	14d.
*Come and worship the Lord ...	Thomas Adams	14d.	*The Angel said unto them (Two-part Anthem—Sop. and Bass)	A. H. Brown	2d.
*Come, ye Gentiles, hear the story ...	Edward C. Bairstow	14d.	*The first Christmas (Words only, 3s. per 100)	J. Barnby	14d.
*Come, ye lofty ...	H. Elliot Burton	14d.	*The Grace of God which bringeth salvation	J. Stainer	14d.
*Crown Him, the Virgin's Son ...	B. Luard Selby	2d.	*The hallowed day hath shined upon us ...	B. Luard Selby	3d.
Dawn the day, the natal day ...	Robin H. Legge	3d.	*The hallowed day hath shined ...	John E. West	4d.
Drop down, ye heavens ...	J. Barnby	14d.	*The Hymn of the Angels ...	E. Silas	14d.
Fear not, we bring you good tidings ...	H. Leslie	15.	The light hath shined ...	C. G. Verinder	14d.
*For unto us a Child is born ...	Handel	2d.	The light hath shined ...	J. Stainer	6d.
*Give the king Thy judgments, O Lord	A. H. Brown	14d.	*The morning stars sang together ...	G. A. A. West	6d.
Glory be to God ...	Bach	3d.	*The morning stars sang together ...	Percy E. Fletcher	3d.
Glory to God ...	Bach	2d.	*The New-Born King ...	Oliver King	14d.
*Glory to God ...	Handel	1d.	*The star that now is shining ...	J. Varley Roberts	4d.
Glory to God in the highest ...	Pergolesi	14d.	The whole earth is at rest ...	Ch. Gounod	15.
*Glory to God in the highest (in the press)	E. Markham Lee	3d.	*The Word is flesh become ...	Thomas Adams	6d.
God so loved the world ...	J. Goss	14d.	*The Word is made Incarnate ...	Mendelssohn	2d.
God so loved the world ...	M. Kingston	14d.	*There shall a star ...	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
God so loved the world ...	J. Varley Roberts	3d.	*There shall come a star ...	Ferris Tozer	3d.
God so loved the world ...	J. Stainer	14d.	*There shall come forth a star ...	O. A. Mansfield	14d.
God, Who at sundry times ...	J. H. Mee	4d.	*There was silence in Bethlehem's fields	J. Stainer	14d.
Hail! thou that art highly favoured ...	Arthur Carnall	4d.	*Ditto (Unison)	B. Tours	14d.
*Hail to the Christ (Carol-Anthem)	J. Barnby	3d.	*There were shepherds ...	Myles B. Foster	14d.
Hallelujah! for unto us a Child is born	W. H. Monk	14d.	*There were shepherds ...	Myles B. Foster	14d.
Hallelujah! the light hath shined ...	Oliver King	3d.	Ditto (Two-part Anthem)	H. W. Wareing	3d.
*Hark! the glad sound ...	Myles B. Foster	3d.	*There were shepherds ...	Edgar Pettman	3d.
*Hark! the glad sound ...	E. V. Hall	3d.	*There were shepherds ...	Charles Vincent	4d.
*Hark! the herald angels sing ...	E. V. Hall	3d.	This is the day which the Lord hath made	J. Turle	3d.
*Hark! what news the angels bring	Oliver King	3d.	*Thus speaketh the Lord of Hosts	J. Stainer	14d.
Hear, King of Angels ...	Bach	14d.	Unto us a Child is born...	F. Adlam	14d.
He cometh forth ...	G. A. Macfarren	2d.	Unto us was born (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
How beautiful are the feet (Appendix to the "Messiah")	Handel	3d.	When Christ was born to earth ...	H. Walford Davies	4d.
I desired wisdom ...	J. Stainer	6d.	*When Jesus was born in Bethlehem	W. A. C. Cruickshank	3d.
I will set His dominion in the sea ...	Horatio W. Parker	4d.	*While all things were in quiet silence	Henry J. King	3d.
*In the beginning ...	G. B. Allen	14d.	*While all things were in quiet silence	Oliver King	14d.
*In the beginning ...	Charles Macpherson	4d.	*While all things were in quiet silence	G. A. Macfarren	14d.
In the beginning was the Word ...	E. H. Thorne	14d.	*While shepherds watched ...	Geo. Elvey	3d.
In the beginning was the Word ...	Ferris Tozer	4d.	*While shepherds watched their flocks	J. Barnby	4d.
In this was manifested ...	F. E. Gladstone	14d.	*While shepherds watched their flocks	W. T. Best	14d.
*It came upon the midnight clear	J. Stainer	14d.	*With all Thy Hosts ...	John E. West	14d.
*Jesu, Who from Thy Father's throne	F. C. Woods	3d.
*Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	J. T. Field	14d.
*Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	E. J. Hopkins	14d.
*Like silver lamps ...	J. Barnby	14d.
*Lo, God, our God has come ...	Battison Haynes	3d.

THE "LUTE" SERIES OF CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS.

*72 Arise, shine ...	T. W. Stephenson	3d.	*71 Fear not; for behold ...	F. J. Sawyer	3d.
*95 Arise, shine ...	F. C. Maker	3d.	*12 Hark! what mean (Carol Anthem)	Arthur Sullivan	3d.
179 Behold! He cometh ...	Albert W. Ketelby	3d.	*143 How beautiful are the feet	W. A. C. Cruickshank	3d.
216 Behold, I bring ...	F. Aubrey Owen	3d.	144 Let us now go ...	A. Kempton	3d.
94 Behold, I bring you good tidings	Fredk. Peel	203a	Let us now go ...	A. W. Marchant	3d.
225 Behold, my Servant ...	C. Harris	3d.	131 Rejoice ye with Jerusalem	Arthur Page	3d.
*108 Behold, my Servant ...	Ebenezer Prout	3d.	170 Sing, O Daughter of Zion	H. Elliot Button	3d.
166 Behold, upon the mountains	A. W. Ketelby	3d.	180 Sing, O Daughter of Zion	Arthur Page	3d.
*59 Blessed be the Lord ...	J. Barnby	3d.	154 Sing, O Heavens ...	Coldham Hall	3d.
204 Break forth into joy ...	F. Aubrey Owen	3d.	*48 Sing, O sing ...	Henry Leslie	3d.
155 Break forth into joy ...	J. C. Bridge	3d.	*83 There were shepherds ...	A. R. Gaul	3d.
*119 Break forth into joy ...	Seymour Smith	3d.	132 Unto us a Child is born ...	H. E. Nichol	3d.
*23 Come near, ye nations ...	Michael Watson	3d.	191 While all things ...	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
*35 Daughter of Zion ...	F. C. Maker	3d.	*118 While shepherds watched...	G. C. Martin	3d.

Anthems marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 14d., and 2d. each.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOVELLO'S CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

BRAMLEY, REV. H. R.

STAINER, JOHN

} Christmas Carols, New and Old.

FIRST SERIES. One Penny each.

* 1. God rest you merry, gentlemen	Traditional.
* 2. The Manger Throne	C. Steggall.
* 3. A Virgin unspotted	Traditional.
* 4. Come, ye lofty	Elvey.
* 5. Come, tune your hearts	Ouseley.
* 6. The First Nowell	Traditional.
* 7. Jesu, hail	J. Stainer.
* 8. Good Christian men	Old German.
* 9. Sleep, holy Babe	Dykes.
* 10. Good King Wenceslas	Traditional.
* 11. When I view the Mother	J. Barnby.
* 12. The seven joys of Mary	Traditional.
* 13. On the Birthday of the Lord	Dykes.
* 14. What Child is this?	Old English.
* 15. Glorious, beautiful, golden-bright	Maria Tiddeman.
* 16. Waken! Christian Children } rd.	S. C. Hammerton.
* 17. A Child this day is born }	Traditional.
* 18. Carol for Christmas Eve	Ouseley.
* 19. When Christ was born	A. H. Brown.
* 20. Christmas Morning Hymn	J. Barnby.

Tonic Sol-fa, complete, rs.; separate numbers, rd. each.

SECOND SERIES. One Penny each.

* 21. Carol for Christmas Eve	Traditional.
* 22. Jesus in the Manger	H. Smart.
* 23. The Holly and the Ivy } rd.	Old French.
* 24. The Moon shines bright }	Traditional.
* 25. The Virgin and Child	C. Steggall.
* 26. The Incarnation	Traditional.
* 27. Christmas Day	J. Stainer.
* 28. The Cherry-Tree Carol	Traditional.
* 29. God's dear Son	Traditional.
* 30. See, amid the winter's snow	Goss.
* 31. The Babe of Bethlehem	Traditional.
* 32. In Bethlehem, that noble place	Ouseley.
* 33. A Cradle Song of the Blessed Virgin	J. Barnby.
* 34. Christmas Ladder	Dykes.
* 35. Jacob's Ladder	Traditional.
* 36. The Story of the Shepherd	J. Barnby.
* 37. The Wassail Song	Traditional.
* 38. In terra pax	Dykes.
* 39. Dives and Lazarus	Traditional.
* 40. From far away	Dykes.
* 41. Carol for Christmas Day	A. Sullivan.
* 42. The Child Jesus in the Garden	J. Stainer.

THIRD SERIES. One Penny each.

43. What soul-inspiring music	Har. by J. S.
44. In the country nigh to Bethlehem	G. Hine.
45. We three Kings of Orient are	Har. by J. S.
46. Emmanuel, God with us	H. Gadsby.
47. New Prince, new pomp } rd.	C. Steggall.
48. A Babe is born }	Har. by J. S.
49. Come let us all sweet Carols sing	F. Champneys.
50. Let music break on this blest morn	J. B. Calkin.
51. Carol for New Year's Day	A. H. Brown.
52. The Angel Gabriel	Har. by J. S.
53. The Shepherds amazed	A. H. Brown.
54. Noel! Noel!	Har. by J. S.
55. I sing the birth	G. C. Martin.
56. Christmas Night	A. H. Brown.
57. The Christmas Celebration	E. Prout.
58. Arise and hail the Sacred Day	A. H. Brown.
59. The Holy Well	Har. by J. S.
60. The Angel and the Shepherds	E. H. Thorne.
61. The Coventry Carol	Har. by J. S.
62. The Morning Star	J. F. Bridge.
63. The Shepherds went their hasty way	J. F. Barnett.
64. I saw three ships	Har. by J. S.
65. Mountains, bow your heads	W. H. Cummings.
66. Luther's Carol	J. Higgs.
67. The Boy's Dream	W. H. Monk.
68. Legends of the Infancy	J. F. Bridge.
69. Let Christians all (The Black Decree) } rd.	Traditional.
70. Immortal Babe (for Christmas Day) }	Traditional.

The above 70 Carols, complete, cloth, gilt	s. d.
Library Edition, with Historical Preface, Rox-	4 0
burgh binding	7 6
Illustrated Edition, 1st and 2nd Series	7 6
Three Series (cloth, gilt, 2s.)	each 1 0
Words only, complete (cloth, 6d.)	0 4
Words, each Series	0 1½

* * The Carols marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa.

HELMORE, REV. T.

NEALE, REV. J. M.

} Carols for Christmastide. Set to } Ancient Melodies. One Penny each.

71. Here is joy for every age.	77. From church to church.
72. Earthly friends will change.	78. In the ending of the year.
73. Gabriel's message.	79. Royal day that chastes gloom.
74. Christ was born on Christmas Day.	80. O'er the hill and o'er the vale.
75. Earth to-day rejoices.	81. Good King Wenceslas.
76. Good Christian men, rejoice.	82. Toll! toll! because there ends.
The above 12 Carols, complete	s. d.
Folio, with pianoforte accompaniment	1 0
Treble part	4 6
Words only	0 6
	0 1½

WENSLEY, SHAPCOTT.—Twelve new Carols for Christmastide. Three-Halfpence each.

83. O holy star	J. Stainer.
84. The shepherds	Eaton Fanning.
85. Hymn of the angels	G. M. Garrett.
* 86. The anthem of peace	J. Barnby.
87. The Desert	Emma Mundella.
88. Bethlehem	... Myles B. Foster.
89. Daybreak	... Berthold Tours.
90. In the manger	J. Barnby.
91. The Mother and Child	... Myles B. Foster.
92. Christ is born	J. F. Bridge.
93. Christmas Day	Battison Haynes.
94. Sweet Christmas Bells	J. Stainer.

Complete, rs. Tonic Sol-fa, 8d. Words only, 2d.

TEN CHRISTMAS CAROLS. Three-Halfpence each.

95. Now join we all with holy mirth	J. Stainer.
96. Softly the night	J. M. Crament.
97. Sleep, Holy Babe	J. T. Field.
98. Now dies in David's City	J. Swire.
99. There dwelt in Old Judea	R. Jackson.
100. Good people, give ear	J. Swire.
101. Carol for Christmas Day	J. T. Field.
102. Ye stars of night	J. Swire.
103. Ring out, ye bells	J. H. Wallis.
104. Two thousand troubled years	J. F. Bridge.

Complete, rs. Tonic Sol-fa, 8d. Words only, 2d.

STAINER, JOHN (Adapted and arranged by).—Twelve Old Carols. One Penny each.

* 105. Shepherds! shake off your drowsy sleep.
106. Come, shepherds, come! shake off your sleep.
107. Now sing we all full sweetly.
108. The good men all of Chastres.
109. Whence comes this rush of wings afar?
110. { Come with us, sweet flowers, and worship. } rd.
111. { Infant so gentle, so pure, and so sweet! }
112. O Night, peaceful and blest!
113. Of the Father's love begotten.
114. We saw a light shine out afar.
115. Christmas hath made an end.
116. Now farewell, good Christmas.

Complete, rs. Tonic Sol-fa, 6d. Words only, 1d.

MARTIN, G. C. (Harmonised by).—Christmastide Carols. One Penny each.

PART I. (Old Breton Melodies).
116. Hail! Christmas Bells.	119. Glad hymns, with one accord.
117. { O'er her Child the Virgin weeps. } rd.	120. Outside the city gates.
{ The stars are bright. }	121. On Asia Minor's sunny shore.
118. On this day was born.	* 122. Across the desert sands by night.
Complete, 6d.	Words only, 1d.
PART II. (Old French Melodies).
123. The Shepherds glad.	127. Round the Virgin gently sleeping.
124. Merrily ring the Christmas bells.	128. The Circumcision.
125. The sornbreshadows.	129. In the golden lands afar.
126. Poising bright on golden wing.	130. A Legend of the Flight.

Complete, 6d. Words only, 1d.

BRAMLEY, REV. H. R. } Christmas Carols, New and Old.

STAINER, JOHN

} Arranged for Men's Voices.

Three-Halfpence each.

131. A Virgin unspotted	Traditional.
132. The Manger Throne	C. Steggall.
133. Sleep, Holy Babe	Dykes.
134. Good Christian men, rejoice	Old German.
135. 'Twas in the winter cold	J. Barnby.
136. Good King Wenceslas	Helmores's Carols.
137. Come! ye lofty	Elvey.
138. God rest you merry, gentlemen	Traditional.
139. Listen, Lordings	Ouseley.

NOVELLO'S CHRISTMAS CAROLS—continued.

140. The First Nowell Traditional.
 141. When Christ was born Arthur H. Brown.
 142. Jesu, hail! O God most holy J. Stainer.
 143. The seven joys of Mary Traditional.
 144. What Child is this? Old English.
 145. The Waits' Song (The moon shines bright) Traditional.
 146. The Virgin and Child C. Steggall.
 147. The Holly and Ivy Old French.
 148. The Lord at first Traditional.
 149. The Incarnation Traditional.
 150. The Cherry-Tree Carol Traditional.
 151. A Cradle-song of the Blessed Virgin J. Barnby.
 152. Jacob's Ladder Traditional.
 153. Dives and Lazarus Traditional.
 154. The Wassail Song Traditional.
 Complete, 2s. Words only, 2d.
- BRAMLEY, H. R. } Christmas Carols New and Old. Two-
STAINER, JOHN } part arrangement by W. G. McNAUGHT.
Three-Halfpence each.
155. Good King Wenceslas. (I hear along our street.)
 156. Good Christian men, rejoice. 162. The Boar's Head Carol. 14d.
 157. Christmas hath made an end.
 158. God rest you merry.
 159. The First Nowell.
 160. A Virgin unspotted.
 161. The Wassail Song.
 163. The seven joys of Mary.
 164. Hark! how sweetly the bells.
 165. The Holly and the Ivy.
 Complete 1s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d. Words only, 14d.
- FOX, GEORGE—Carols for Christmastide. Set to Music for Little Singers. Three-Halfpence each.
166. Good King Wenceslas. (The moon shone bright.)
 167. I hear along our street.
 168. Brightly shone the Eastern star. 178. All you that in this house. 14d.
 169. As Joseph was a-walking.
 170. Hark! what mean those holy voices.
 171. The Holy Well.
 172. While Shepherds watched.
 173. God rest you merry, gentlemen.
 174. Hark! how sweetly the bells.
 175. A little robin.
 176. As I sat on a sunny bank.
 177. Why in tones so sweet and tender.
 179. Clearly in the East it shone.
 180. Shepherds at the Grange. 14d.
 181. Nuns in frigid cells. Washerwomen old. 14d.
 182. The Holly and the Ivy.
 183. How grand and how bright.
 184. Hosanna to the living Lord. 14d.
 184. Lol a heavenly form appearing.
 The Boar's Head Carol.
 In excelsis gloria.
 Complete, 2s. 6d.
- LEGGE, ROBIN H.—Twelve New Christmas Carols. For Unison Singing. Three-Halfpence each.
185. Praeludium.
 186. The Midnight Masse.
 187. The bells of Christmas.
 188. Pastor Bonus.
 189. Rejoice! Christen men.
 190. A Children's Carol.
 191. Carula Pastorum.
 192. Wassail Song.
 193. Kings of Orient.
 194. Good Christians all.
 195. Cometh the day.
 196. Ye Angelus Bell.
 Complete, 1s. Tonic Sol-fa, 8d. Words only, 2d.
- *197. (The Anthem of Peace J. Barnby.
 On Christmas Morn A. C. Mackenzie.
 Across the desert sands by night G. C. Martin.
 Shepherds! shake off your drowsy sleep J. Stainer.
 (Words only, 3s. per 100.)
 (O Babe! in manger lying J. Barnby. 14d.
 The Virgin is hushing (Words only,
 What Child is this? 3s. per 100.)
 Darkness fell on the weary earth J. Barnby. 2d.
 199. Holy night! peaceful night! J. M. Crament. 14d.
 200. In excelsis gloria J. T. Field. 14d.
 201. When Christ was born J. T. Field. 14d.
 202. What Child is this? J. T. Cooper. 14d.
 203. (There were whisperings S. Gee.
 Shades of silent night F. J. Sawyer. 14d.
 *204. The Legend of Good Saint Christopher E. Silas. 4d.
 205. I hear along our street Pearsall. 3d.
 *206. In dulci Jubilo Pearsall. 3d.
 207. Caput apri defero Westbrook. 14d.
 *208. Holly berries J. Shaw. 14d.
 209. A New Year's Carol J. Stainer.
 (There was silence (Unison) H. Leslie.
 The star in the East (Unison) C. Reinecke. 2d.
 210. A Christmas Carol (Two Parts) J. Barnby. 14d.
 211. Glad Christmastide J. Barnby. 14d.
 212. All things were in silence Hugh Blair. 14d.
 213. This is the month Hugh Blair. 14d.
 214. How peaceful was the night R. Jackson. 14d.
 215. There came a little child C. V. Stanford. 14d.
 216. As with gladness J. Swire. 14d.
 217. One night as I was sleeping A. C. Mackenzie. 14d.
 218. The Golden Crown Myles B. Foster. 14d.
 219. Joy fills our inmost heart E. G. Monk. 1d.
 220. Who is this that lies all lowly Victoria Grosvenor. 14d.
 221. See, the Morning Star
 222. Carol, carol, Christians
 223. On Christmas Morn A. C. Mackenzie. 1d.
 224. In the ages past F. A. J. Hervey. 14d.
 225. We sing a song of gladness J. Swire. 14d.
 226. The morn, the blessed morn is nigh Victoria Grosvenor. 14d.
 227. Carol, carol, Christians Mrs. J. W. Bliss. 14d.
 228. O was not Christ our Saviour? J. Shaw. 14d.
 229. Carol, Christian children A. Moffat. 14d.
 *231. There was silence in Bethlehem's fields (S.A.T.B.) J. Stainer.
 232. Come, all ye Christian men, rejoice Hamilton Clarke. 14d.
 233. Shepherds in the fields abiding Hamilton Clarke. 14d.
 234. Come and sing the wondrous story J. Varley Roberts. 14d.
 235. The Christmas bells ring loud and clear J. Varley Roberts. 14d.
 236. Bethlehem J. Varley Roberts. 14d.
 237. The birth ever new Robin H. Legge. 14d.
 238. The old news Robin H. Legge. 14d.
 239. Christmas Eve Robin H. Legge. 14d.
 240. The Christmas vision Robin H. Legge. 14d.
 241. The Shepherds' Carol Robin H. Legge. 14d.
 242. Mary's Cradle Song Robin H. Legge. 14d.
 243. The Angels' Carol Robin H. Legge. 14d.
 244. Children's Chorus Robin H. Legge. 14d.
 245. The Holy Ghost Robin H. Legge. 14d.
 246. The Five Kings Robin H. Legge. 14d.
 247. Praise we now the Holy light Robin H. Legge. 14d.
 248. Nazareth town in slumber lay Robin H. Legge. 14d.
 249. An ode on the birth of our Saviour C. H. Lloyd. 14d.
 250. See, the morning star is dwelling A. Herbert Brewer. 14d.
 251. Christ was born on Christmas Day A. Herbert Brewer. 14d.
 252. Christmas Morn H. C. Havergal. 2d.
 253. The Kings of the East H. C. Havergal. 2d.
 254. The Star H. C. Havergal. 2d.
 255. The Angels' song H. C. Havergal. 2d.
 256. The Holy birth H. C. Havergal. 2d.
 257. The Humiliation H. C. Havergal. 2d.
 258. Rejoice, O daughter C. Macpherson. 14d.
 259. The Virgin and Child (This winter's night) C. Macpherson. 14d.
 *260. The Annunciation J. Barnby. 14d.
 *261. The Message to the Shepherds J. Barnby. 14d.
 *262. Cradle Song of the Blessed Virgin J. Barnby. 14d.
 *263. Gloria in excelsis J. Barnby. 14d.
 264. Sing the Holy Child-Christ Myles B. Foster. 14d.
 *265. Sleep, baby, sleep Thos. Adams. 14d.
 266. Noel A. M. Goodhart. 14d.
 267. What sudden blaze of song Cuthbert Harris. 14d.
 268. What sudden blaze of song J. F. Bridge. 14d.
 269. Shepherds, leave your flocks J. V. Roberts. 14d.
 270. Heavenly music, clearly ringing J. V. Roberts. 14d.
 271. Silent night, holiest night J. V. Roberts. 14d.
 272. Angels singing J. H. Mee. 14d.
 273. Little children J. H. Mee. 14d.
 274. Blessed Babe H. W. Wareing. 14d.
 275. Ring the bells J. Barnby. 14d.
 *276. Sweeter than songs of summer J. F. Bridge. 2d.
 277. The night in solemn stillness hung J. G. Smith. 14d.
 278. The Son of Mary, Christ the King Thos. Adams. 14d.
 279. Hark! all around W. A. C. Cruickshank. 14d.
 280. It is the day W. A. C. Cruickshank. 14d.
 281. Mortals, awake W. A. C. Cruickshank. 14d.
 282. In the field with their flocks abiding John E. West. 14d.
 283. It came upon the midnight clear Battison Haynes. 14d.
 284. Royal Bethlehem W. Montgomery. 14d.
 285. I hear along our street Arranged by S. H. Nicholson. 14d.
 286. The Child Jesus in the Garden (2nd setting) J. Stainer. 14d.
 287. The Prince of Peace A. Herbert Brewer. 14d.
 288. Remember God's goodness Ravenscroft-Bridge. 14d.
 289. Christmas Tree Carol H. Davan Wetton. 14d.
 290. Christmas morn Thos. Adams. 14d.
 291. Child Divine Thos. Adams. 14d.
 292. A Christmas Song Thos. Adams. 14d.
 293. A lowly Babe Alfred Hollins. 14d.
 294. The Blessed Virgin E. C. Bairstow. 14d.
 295. Christ is born E. T. Sweeting. 14d.
 296. Christian children, hear Me E. T. Sweeting. 14d.
 297. Ring out wild bells E. Vine Hall. 14d.
 298. Christmas bells W. H. Longhurst. 14d.
 299. In tuneful voices sing Ferris Tozer. 14d.
 300. Shepherd hear, loud and clear Ferris Tozer. 14d.
 301. Not in courts of regal splendour E. Vine Hall. 14d.
 302. Many hundred years ago G. C. Martin. 14d.
 303. The Nativity Charles Erskine. 14d.
 304. A Cradle Song Charles Erskine. 14d.
 305. As on the night B. W. Horner. 14d.
 306. It fell upon a winter's day M. A. Sidebotham. 14d.
 307. The night is dark M. A. Sidebotham. 14d.
 308. Carol, Carol, Christians M. A. Sidebotham. 14d.
 309. The loving heart Charles Erskine. 14d.
 310. I hear along our street T. R. Matthews. 14d.
 311. In Bethlehem's ancient city John E. West. 14d.
 312. Can Man forget the Story A. H. Brewer. 14d.
 313. Who are these from Bzrah faring A. M. Goodhart. 14d.
 314. Morning dawns, the flocks are feeding H. Davan Wetton. 14d.
 315. Sweete was the songe the Virgin sange Percy Pitt. 14d.
 316. Now once again our hearts we raise Arr. by A. Webber. 14d.
 317. Three kings once lived (St. John's Eve) F. H. Cowen. 14d.
 318. Once in Royal David's City H. J. Gauntlett. 14d.
 319. The night of Nowell A. H. Brown. 14d.
 320. Awake, O earth A. H. Brown. 14d.
 321. Whence comes this light A. H. Brewer. 14d.
 322. In the field with their flocks abiding A. M. Goodhart. 14d.
 323. The Shepherd's Song John E. West. 14d.

* * The Carols marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa.

MAUNDER'S CHURCH MUSIC.

MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS.	Staff Notation.	Tonic Sol-fa.
Anthem—Christians, Awake	3d.	2d.
Carol—Once in Bethlehem	2d.	1d.
Two Christmas Carols	3d.	2d.

SERVICES.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C (partly Unison)	3d.	1½d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D	3d.	2d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G	3d.	2d.
Benedicite in A	1½d.
Benedicite in G	2d.
Benedicite in F	1½d.
Te Deum in Free Chant Form	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in B flat	3d.	2d.
Communion Service in G	8d.
Amen in G	1d.	1d.

ORGAN.

Voix Seraphique (for Recitals)	2/-
---------------------------------------	-----

CHURCH CANTATA.

Penitence, Pardon, and Peace (for Advent, Lent, and General use)	1/6
---	-----

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Specimens of Anthems and Services free on application to J. H. MAUNDER, Hill Top, Belmont Park, S.E.

THREE CAROLS FOR CHURCH USE

WITH OBLIGATO ORGAN ACCOMPANIMENTS—VIZ :

"ANGELS FROM THE REALMS OF GLORY"
"CHRISTMAS BELLS"

"YULETIDE"

COMPOSED BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

The verses of the above Carols have been carefully varied and suitable symphonies interspersed.

Price Threepence each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

A VICAR writes:—"We greatly admire the Harvest Anthem by E. A. Clare."

An ORGANIST writes:—"My choir were delighted with the Harvest Anthem, please send 25 copies of the Magnificat and Nunc Dim. in D."

Another VICAR writes:—"Edwyn A. Clare's Harvest Anthem is far the prettiest."

CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS

COMPOSED BY

EDWYN A. CLARE.

NEW. GOODWILL TO MEN. Sol-fa, 2d. O.N. 3d.

One of the most useful and available Anthems. Opens with a strong and lively Chorus, followed by a very expressive Solo with a beautiful change of key. The final Chorus is lofty and spirited, and contains passages for Men's voices, and Sopranos and Altos, which help to work up the chorus to a glorious finish. Choirs delight to sing music written in this style.

BEHOLD, I BRING. 13th 1,000. Very popular 3d.

SING, O HEAVENS. 10th 1,000. For Parish Choirs 3d.

WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR. 10th 1,000. An Easy Anthem 3d.

THE PRINCE OF PEACE. 11th 1,000. A very beautiful little Anthem, always greatly appreciated 3d.

A SAVIOUR, CHRIST THE LORD. An effective Anthem, with several passages suitable for Bass or Baritone Solos. 5th 1,000 3d.

FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. 15th 1,000 4d.

Sung at a Choir Festival. Just reprinted again, and is becoming increasingly popular.

FOR DEDICATION OR OTHER FESTIVALS.

THE LORD REIGNETH. 8th 1,000. Sol-fa, 2d. O.N. 3d.

Contains a sweet movement to the words, "O worship the Lord."

PRaise THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 29th 1,000 now ready 3d.

Sung at Choral Festivals in Downpatrick Cathedral, also in Wem Parish Church, Salop, this year.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Ltd., 1 Berners Street, W.

New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

"An effective, bright, melodious composition."—Church Review.
"An able composition."—Church Times.
"A gain to music of this class."—Musical Times.

THERE WERE SHEPHERDS

BY
E. A. SYDENHAM.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, price Three-Halfpence.

By the same COMPOSER:

THREE CAROLS or HYMNS for CHRISTMAS.
Music and Words, 3d. Words only, 3s. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., CANTAB.

SERVICES.

Te Deum in G. Four Voices	3d.
Te Deum in A. " "	3d.
Benedictus in A. " "	3d.
Jubilate in A. " "	3d.
Benedicite in E and F	each 2d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G	3d.
Do. do. in D	3d.
Communion Service in E	3d.
Do. do. in G. For Men's Voices only	9d.

ANTHEMS.

O Lord, Thou art my God. Advent	3d.
In the beginning. Christmas	3d.
Arise, shine, for thy light is come. Christmas	3d.
Do. do. Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
I was glad	3d.
Do. Tonic Sol-fa	2d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PHILIP WOLFRUM.

A CHRISTMAS MYSTERY

FOR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

English Version by CONSTANCE BACHE.

VOCAL SCORE, 7s. NET.

Performed at the Hereford Festival, 1903.

CESAR FRANCK.

THE BEATITUDES

AN ORATORIO

FOR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

English version by C. M. BRADLEY.

VOCAL SCORE, 8s. NET.

For all particulars respecting performances of these works, direct application should be made to the Publishers—

BREITKOPF AND HÄRTEL,

54, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, LONDON, W.

J. T. FIELD'S COMPOSITIONS. — Services, Anthems, Carols, Organ, Piano, Violin Pieces, etc. List and specimens free. "Montana," Blackheath, S.E.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., CANTAB.

In Four Sets. Each Set, complete, One Shilling; or, in Single Numbers, One Penny.

CONTENTS OF FIRST SET.

1. THE CAROLLERS.
2. THE STARS ARE SHINING BRIGHT AND CLEAR.
3. CAROL, SWEETLY CAROL.
4. CHRISTMAS BELLS.
5. A CHILD THIS DAY IS BORN.
6. HARK! WHAT MEAN THOSE HOLY VOICES.
7. THE ANGELS' CAROL.
8. WHILE SHEPHERDS WATCHED.
9. ANGELS FROM THE REALMS OF GLORY.
10. A CHRISTMAS CHIME.

CONTENTS OF SECOND SET.

1. AWAKE! AROUSE! YE CHRISTIAN BAND.
2. RING OUT, SWEET CHIMES.
3. BRIGHTEST AND BEST.
4. HAIL! HAPPY MORN.
5. O LET OUR VOICES.
6. CHRISTMAS EVE.
7. HARK! THE BELLS.
8. CHRISTMAS CAROL.
9. JOYFUL IS THE MORN.
10. NOEL.

CONTENTS OF THIRD SET.

1. O GLADSOME MORN.
2. HOW MARVELLOUS THY WAYS.
3. LET'S MERRY BE.
4. HARK! THE ANGELS SINGING
5. CHILDREN'S VOICES.
6. SONG OF THE SHEPHERDS.
7. A CHILD IS BORN.
8. O SAVIOUR DEAR.

CONTENTS OF FOURTH SET.

1. LIFT YOUR GRATEFUL VOICES.
2. THE BRIGHTEST MORN.
3. CHIMES ACROSS THE SNOW.
4. THE ANGELS' SONG.
5. SONG OF THE FAITHFUL.
6. THE HERALD BELLS.
7. O DAY OF DAYS.
8. COME, YULETIDE GUESTS.
9. THY SERVANTS SING.
10. THE ANGEL'S TIDINGS.

Words of each Set, One Penny, and may be had of the COMPOSER, Cathedral Close, Norwich.

ALSO, BY THE SAME COMPOSER :

A FIFTH SET OF CHRISTMAS CAROLS

WORDS BY

E. OXENFORD

PRICE COMPLETE, NINEPENCE.

Nos. 1, 2, 3, 5, and 6, One Penny each; No. 4, Twopence.

1. RAISE YOUR VOICES.
2. YULETIDE BELLS.
3. HAIL, WONDROUS MORN.

4. IN BETHLEHEM.
5. THE ANGEL'S MESSAGE.
6. THE OLDEN CAROL.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC

BY

H. ERNEST NICHOL, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

"HAIL TO THE LORD'S ANOINTED." New Anthem.
O.N., 3d.; Sol-fa, 2d.

SIX CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

O.N. or Sol-fa, 3d.; Words, 2s. per 100. Each Carol separately, 1d.
Specimens gratis and post-free to any Choirmaster.

H. E. NICHOL, 4A, Baker Street, Hull.

NEW AND CHARMING PART-SONGS

BY

FREDK. A. CHALLINOR, Mus. Doc., A.R.C.M.

IN BAYLEY AND FERGUSON'S "CHORAL ALBUM."

- | | | | |
|------|---|-----|--|
| No. | | | |
| 255. | THE ROSE IS WEEPING FOR HER LOVE | 3d. | |
| | (Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 303, 1d.) | | |
| 427. | DOWN THE RIPPLING RIVER | 2d. | |
| | (Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 436, 1d.) | | |
| 423. | SUNSET | 2d. | |
| | (Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 437, 1d.) | | |
| 457. | IS MY LOVER ON THE SEA? | 3d. | |
| | (Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 459, 1d.) | | |
| 458. | BREAK, BREAK, BREAK | 3d. | |
| | (Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 460, 1d.) | | |
| 461. | HAIL, GLORIOUS SUMMER | 3d. | |
| | (Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 463, 1d.) | | |
| 480. | THE MIST | 2d. | |
| | (Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 482, 1d.) | | |

These Part-Songs are the inspirations of genius, and ought to be seen by every Conductor.

BAYLEY AND FERGUSON, 2, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

BENEDICITE, OMNIA OPERA. For Chorus and Organ. "One of the most effective settings."—Musical Times.
4d. Specimen free, "Montana," Blackheath, S.E.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

AT THE MANGER

A LITANY OF THE INCARNATION

Words by GERTRUDE H. F. NORRIS

Music (from "The Crucifixion") BY

J. STAINER.

Price One Penny. Words only, price ½d.; or, 2s. 6d. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JESU, THE VERY THOUGHT OF THEE

AN ANTHEM

For Bass Solo, Quartet or Chorus, S.S.A.A., and Full Chorus, S.A.T.B., with independent Organ Accompaniment

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST EDWIN MITCHELL.

Price Threepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S POPULAR PART-SONGS FOR S.A.T.B.

Hail, merry Christmas	...	25th thousand	2d.
A merry Christmas to you all	...	10th do.	3d.
A Happy New Year (5th thou.).	Fairy Revels...	13th do.	3d.
Gaily thro' the Greenwood	...	58th do.	3d.
England's glory (8th thou.).	Forest Echoes	9th do.	3d.
Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow	...	10th do.	3d.

By same COMPOSER :—

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E flat 3d.
Received and acknowledged by His Majesty The King.Baritone Song, "The Winter King" 2s.
"A clever and descriptive song."—Manchester Guardian.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MUSICAL POST CARDS. Nos. 1 to 12.

Sample Packet, 6d., of the MUSICAL POST CARD SYNDICATE,
38, Leamington Road, Westbourne Park, London, W.

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

CHORAL WORKS

PUBLISHED BY

BREITKOPF & HÄRTEL, 54, Gt. Marlborough Street, London, W.

FAUST. A Dramatic Legend, for Solo Voices, Chorus, and Orchestra. English version by WILLIAM WALLACE.

Full Score, 40s.; Orchestral Parts, 49s. 4d.; Extra Parts, each, 1s. 4d.; Vocal Score, arranged by J. HOLBROOKE, 3s. 6d.; Chorus Parts, each, 8d.; Book of Words, 2d.; Concert Guide, 2d.

"This new edition comes at an opportune moment, when the echoes of the celebration at Grenoble are hardly stilled, and when an era of revived interest has been ushered in for the works of the great French composer. Its special appeal to us lies in the fact of its English dress. Mr. Wallace's version appears unencumbered by the original French or German. The aim of the translator has been to provide a text to which the voice parts can be sung exactly as Berlioz wrote them, that is to say to provide a text which should correspond exactly with the accent and note values of the original French. This Mr. Wallace has been able to do, although it was a task beset with special difficulties, chief among which were Berlioz's somewhat loose manipulation of the French language, and the fact that the French translator had himself taken great liberties with the German original. 'The crux throughout,' as Mr. Wallace says, 'has not been to translate a text which can be read, but to provide words which can be sung, and conscientious effort incessantly has been confronted with the fact that this is not a translation of Goethe's 'Faust,' but an English version of a French translation of Goethe's text set to music by Berlioz.' Judged from this standpoint, Mr. Wallace deserves the highest praise for the excellence of his work. He has produced a version which is intelligible, often eloquent, from a literary point of view, and which fits the music like a glove. It is indeed safe to say that no one but a musician could have produced a version so delicately sensitive at all points to the nuances of rhythm and accent; and English singers may well be grateful for the help thus afforded them. Mr. Holbrooke has also done his work well, his preparation of the score and the indications he gives of the orchestration should be helpful to the intelligent student and hearer. The format is Imperial 8vo, and the work is produced with the excellence which characterises all the publications of this house."—The Musical Age, October, 1903.

"This is a new edition, designed to celebrate the centenary of Berlioz, by being new in respect of a revised text, which has been most effectively translated by Mr. William Wallace, and new in the editing of the vocal score, which has been left to the most competent hands and enthusiastic care of Mr. Josef Holbrooke. So happy a combination of talent could hardly fail to produce a work of great significance, and it is not hard to foresee that this version will speedily attain first rank and supersede others that are in customary use. The printing is of the best, and the whole work looks well inside and out. For the greater convenience of conductors and singers the different points to which it may be convenient to return or from which study may begin are printed in unmistakable figures thus: [56], [132], and so forth, so that every aid is given to those who would engage upon a study of this noble and entrancing work. As a tribute to the composer none could have been finer of its kind, and we heartily wish this edition the success it deserves."—The London Musical Courier, October 10, 1903.

"This is quite a splendid edition of the Berlioz Cantata, a work so popular among our leading choral societies. Rarely does one see such white paper and such clear black type, and such an absence of crowding in the notes, the latter result being obtained by the expenditure on occasion of a whole page upon exactly one bar of music. The spacing, too, is perfect. The reading of this score, thus rendered so easy, can therefore be only a pleasure. This edition also boasts a new English version by Mr. William Wallace, which is by no means unworthy of so good an issue. In the first place we may offer our congratulations to Mr. Wallace in that he has refrained from re-composing the music after the manner of so many translators of libretti. It is a curious paradox in respect to certain editions of classic works that, extraordinary pains having been taken to get a perfectly authentic musical text, by the searching in libraries and museums, by examination of manuscripts, comparison of passages and theoretic analyses, the whole thing is then handed over to some wretched hack poet, who proceeds to cover his own incompetence by altering not only time values, but the pitch of notes and whole melodic phrases, to make them fit the metres of his verse. In the present translation, on the other hand, regular metre has been sacrificed to faithful adaptation to the music. Yet the rendering is at once vivid, forcible, and poetic, and makes, when sung, a fine text for the music. Instead of the more usual system of lettering the score for convenience of rehearsal, this work is plainly numbered. This permits as many as 156 references without the use of such hieroglyphics as Aa, Bb, or Zz. The répertoire of our choral societies is restricted more than one thinks by the lack of cheap, legible and well translated editions, and the present production being all this, and much besides, should place one more work within the reach of fully-fledged choral societies."—Music, October, 1903.

THE CHILDHOOD OF CHRIST. A Sacred Trilogy, for Solo Voices, Chorus, and Orchestra.

Full Score, 20s.; Orchestral Parts, 23s.; Extra Parts, each, 1s.; Vocal Score, 3s.; Chorus Parts, each, 8d.

THE FIFTH OF MAY. A Short Cantata, for Bass Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra.

Full Score, 3s.; Orchestral Parts, 7s. 8d.; Extra Parts, each, 4d.; Vocal Score, 1s.; Chorus Parts, each, 4d.

REQUIEM. Grand Mass for the Dead. Latin words. For Solo Voices, Chorus, and Orchestra.

Full Score, 15s.; Orchestral Parts, 26s. 8d.; Extra Parts, each, 8d.; Vocal Score, 3s.; Chorus Parts, each, 8d.

ROMEO AND JULIET. A Dramatic Symphony, for Solo Voices, Chorus, and Orchestra.

Full Score, 15s.; Orchestral Parts, 36s.; Extra Parts, each, 1s.; Vocal Score, 3s.; Chorus Parts, each, 8d.

TE DEUM. For Solo Voices, Chorus, Organ, and Orchestra. Latin words.

Full Score, 20s.; Orchestral Parts, 34s.; Extra Parts, each, 1s.; Organ Part, 1s. 6d.; Vocal Score, 3s.; Chorus Parts, each, 8d.

RESURREXIT. For Chorus and Orchestra. Latin words.

Full Score, 6s.; Orchestral Parts, 9s. 4d.; Extra Parts, each, 4d.; Vocal Score, 1s.; Chorus Parts, each, 4d.

IMPERIAL HYMN. A Cantata for Double Chorus and Orchestra.

Full Score, 3s.; Vocal Score, 2s.

CHORUS OF THE MAGI. For Chorus and Orchestra.

Full Score, 3s.; Orchestral Parts, 5s.; Extra Parts, each, 4d.; Chorus Parts, each, 4d.

HERMINIA. A Lyric Scene, for Soprano Solo, with Orchestra.

Full Score, 9s.; Orchestral Parts, 14s.; Extra Parts, each, 8d.; Vocal Score, 3s.

CLEOPATRA. A Lyric Scene, for Soprano Solo, with Orchestra.

Full Score, 9s.; Orchestral Parts, 15s. 4d.; Extra Parts, each, 8d.; Vocal Score, 3s.

TANTUM ERGO. For Female Solo Voices (S.S.A.) and Female Chorus, with Organ Accompaniment.

Full Score, 1s.; Solo and Chorus Parts, each, 4d.

VENI CREATOR. Motet, for Female Solo Voices (S.S.A.) and Female Chorus, unaccompanied.

Full Score, 1s.; Solo and Chorus Parts, each, 4d.

THE DEATH OF OPHELIA. Ballad for Female Voices, with Orchestra.

Full Score, 2s.; Orchestral Parts, 4s. 4d.; Extra Parts, each, 4d.; Chorus Parts, each, 4d.

RELIGIOUS MEDITATION. For Chorus and Orchestra.

Full Score, 1s.; Vocal Score, 1s.

PRODUCED AT THE BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1903.

THE APOSTLES

(PARTS I. AND II.)

AN ORATORIO

BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS.

Paper boards, 6s. ; cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.

Vocal Parts, 1s. 6d. each ; Full Score and Orchestral Parts (in the Press).

Book of words, with Analytical and Descriptive Notes and nearly 100 musical examples, by A. J. JAEGER, ES.

The right of representation and performance of this work is reserved ; all applications with reference to performances should be addressed to the Publishers.

THE TIMES, OCTOBER 15, 1903.

Dr. Elgar has treated his subject with a fitting sense of dignity and awe, and everywhere his reverence, sincerity, and conviction are clearly manifested. Much of his writing is in the best manner of genuine Church music, much of it is in the right sense mysterious, as it should be. And precisely because it is the direct outcome of conviction so it carries conviction with it. . . . Dr. Elgar has succeeded in a huge task before which most composers might well have quailed.

DAILY TELEGRAPH, OCTOBER 15, 1903.

It is a good omen that at last a man of our own race and nation has come to the extreme front and drawn to himself the wondering admiration of all who profess and call themselves musicians and lovers of the art. There is something impressive in the position now occupied by Elgar. He is not an intriguer. He does not compass heaven and earth making proselytes to believe in his own powers, neither does he trim his sails to catch the varying breezes of popular opinion. Having something to say in the fashion which appears to him best, he says it straight out, and leaves the issue to the Fates. Yet, though sturdily independent, courting nobody, he now occupies the position of a man with whom most people are determined to be pleased. There must be something in him—much more than common—to bring about this result. . . . This remarkable Oratorio is worth any amount of care in the handling. It is not a work of a mere trafficker in musical goods. Its sincerity is unquestionable, the loftiness of its aim cannot be denied, and its strength must be taken into account, whatever may be thought of its methods.

DAILY TELEGRAPH, OCTOBER 16, 1903.

Leaving consideration of method for the greater satisfaction of touching upon evidence of the lofty powers with which the composer is endowed, and by the strength of which he has taken a foremost place amongst the composers of the world—perhaps even more than in "Gerontius," where the subject was less varied and expansive—those powers assert themselves in the new work. . . . Whether he shows us the ineffable gentleness and dignity of Christ, the penitence of Mary Magdalene, the despair of Judas—whether he picture storm or calm, suggests the tragedy of Golgotha or the glory of the Ascension, we are conscious of power, sincerity, and truth.

STANDARD, OCTOBER 15, 1903.

There can be no question concerning the lofty purpose of the composer and his consummate mastery of the resources of his art. The work is the product of fervid imagination controlled and guided by keen intellectual perception, a masterful expression in music of spiritual convictions, and in its essence a sacred music drama permeated with the spirit of the preacher. . . . The keynote of Dr. Elgar's work is lofty mysticism, suggesting the spiritual in a peculiar and often strangely beautiful manner.

MORNING POST, OCTOBER 15, 1903.

The deep sincerity which pervades the work, the splendid technique, the power, and, in many instances, the great charm that are revealed demand immediate recognition before any criticism be passed. . . . As an expression of lofty purpose, as an example of consummate musicianship, and as revealing both imagination and originality there can be but one opinion. The instrumentation of the work is a study in itself.

GLOBE, OCTOBER 15, 1903.

Dr. Elgar's command of every orchestral resource is proverbial, and in "The Apostles" he handles vast choral masses with no less signal success, and his solo writing, if not exactly melodious in the old-fashioned sense, is always dramatic and expressive. . . . Those who know Dr. Elgar's music best will understand how fully he has availed himself of the many opportunities given him by the most moving story the world has ever known, what treasures of musical science he has expended upon it, and with what dazzling resources of orchestration he has enriched it. . . . The work must be pronounced a worthy successor to "The Dream of Gerontius."

PALL MALL GAZETTE, OCTOBER 15, 1903.

A masterpiece; an invaluable contribution to the art of the world; a score of pure gold throughout—a work so great, so remote from the common things of the earth, that to follow the composer into the distant fastnesses of his mind is, at all events, on a first hearing, something of a heroic virtue. He tries one, not because he wishes to compel endurance, but because he has carved out his way, and it is nothing to him whether you follow or not. There is the secret of his wonderful art: it is nothing to him if you take his score or reject it; and there follows the inevitable result that immense indifference invariably conquers those who are eager. Immense indifference, however, implies a sort of personal work which, granted a powerful brain as the origin from which that work springs, makes for ultimate triumph; and such power was certainly displayed to-day. . . . I write in this somewhat ecstatic strain because the work deserves it. . . . And such music as rises to Elgar's—to this great master's—heart is of the finest possible quality; it is of "meaning most decisive."

WESTMINSTER GAZETTE, OCTOBER 17, 1903.

Without any doubt "The Apostles" is worthy of great and admiring attention, a superb instance of English imagination and musical craftsmanship. I yield to none in my satisfaction that we have a composer so able and so masterful that he compels inquiry and commands applause. . . . I find "The Apostles" in some respects in advance of anything Elgar has previously done; as a specimen of mere mastery of material it shows a surer grasp, and though there is the same effort to impress by prodigies of polyphony, which amount to but little in the end, the effort here is more successfully made.

OBSERVER, OCTOBER 18, 1903.

As the days pass since I was one of a closely-packed and deeply attentive audience in the massive town hall the conviction increases in my mind that I was present at the birth of not only a masterpiece, but an epoch-marking work in the history of oratorio. Musically it may be described as a sacred drama on the lines of Wagner's "Parsifal." . . . That the motives are always appropriate may unhesitatingly be said; that the passages in which they are used with special purpose carry conviction is undoubted, and that the composer has gone beyond all forms and reached the bedrock of musical expression is incontrovertible.

SUNDAY TIMES, OCTOBER 18, 1903.

The choral writing in the "Apostles" is among the finest ever written, at any time, by any musician. Its difficulty, as those who know the trend of Dr. Elgar's genius will need no telling, is enormous; but the complexities he so delights in inventing are so obviously the outcome of a desire to express convictions (artistic and spiritual) that none who value sincerity in art would dare suggest that this great representative of British music should curb the fire of his Pegasus, or (to change our metaphor) attempt to trim his sails to the breeze of critical opinion. . . . "The Apostles" is real music—that is to say, music which means something; music which expresses the inner sense of the words to which it is set.

REFEREE, OCTOBER 18, 1903.

I very much doubt, however, if two-thirds of those who were present apprehended the greatness of the music they were listening to. Small blame to them, however, for the work is laid out on the same lines as Wagner's "Parsifal," and the themes have consequently to become familiar before the significance of the music can be wholly understood. That which may be said to have been apparent to all was its spirituality. It is this which gives the music its distinctive individuality. . . . The deep impression made by the work was shown by the momentary silence which ensued after the last note had died away, for although a stupendous tonal climax is worked up, the end is calm and gentle, as the spirit of the faith the music illustrates.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY OF MUSICIANS

BY
TH. BAKER, PH.D.

SOME OF THE SPECIAL FEATURES OF THIS WORK:

1. It contains more and fuller biographies of contemporary musicians than any other similar work.
2. It is illustrated by 300 vignette portraits by the celebrated artist Alex. Gribayedoff.
3. It is a model of typographical clearness and elegance.
4. Pronunciation is given of all names that offer difficulties.

pp. 650. Price, Full Buckram, 20s. net.

DETAILED SPECIFICATION POST-FREE.

J. S. BACH.

THE

WELL-TEMPERED CLAVICHORD

REVISED, ANNOTATED, AND PROVIDED WITH PARALLEL EXAMPLES AND SUGGESTIONS FOR THE STUDY OF MODERN PIANOFORTE TECHNIQUE

BY

FERRUCCIO B. BUSONI.

NOW READY. PARTS 1, 2, 3, AND SUPPLEMENT, EACH, 5s.

The above, published in one vol. (containing the first 24 Preludes and Fugues), bound in boards, 20s. net.

DETAILED SPECIFICATION POST-FREE.

CHARLES WOOLHOUSE, 174, WARDOUR STREET, LONDON, W.,

Sole Agent in Great Britain for G. SCHIRMER, NEW YORK.

Music Rooms, for Teaching, &c., 1s. per hour, 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. (Parties at 1s. 6d. per hour).

THE PHYSIOLOGY OF THE VOCAL REGISTERS

By GOLAN E. HOOLE.

Fully Illustrated. Price 2s. 6d. net.

The Musical Age says: "Mr. Hoole has something to enunciate on the Physiology of the Vocal Registers which has not been said before; the result of long and very careful observation, interesting alike to the scientist and to the vocal artist."

Glasgow: PATERSON, SONS AND CO.

London: 24, Castle Street, Berners Street, W.

THE CROON. Words by Rev. J. CARTMEL-ROBINSON.

"A lullaby of gentle and pathetic character for contralto voice, the phrase, in the minor key of the tonic, at mention of death, being impressive."—Daily Telegraph.

DAS VEILCHEN (The Violet). GOETHE.

"Miss Mallard's music is favourably known to many amateurs, and her setting of Goethe's little story with a moral sustains her reputation as a gifted and accomplished musician. The voice part affords opportunities for effective vocalisation, and the accompaniment possesses musical interest. Miss Mallard has also provided a good English translation to the German words."—Musical Times.

A SONG OF LOVE. Words by Rev. J. CARTMEL-ROBINSON.

"Very prettily written for light soprano or tenor and affords admirable opportunity for the display of vocal flexibility."—Daily Telegraph.

COULD I FORGET. Words by AUGUSTA HANCOCK.

(In Two Keys, D flat and E flat.)

"A charming love song."—Liverpool Post.

DAME DOROTHY. AUGUSTA HANCOCK.

(In Two Keys, E and F.)

"A quaint, old-fashioned song."—Birmingham Gazette.

London: CHARLES WOOLHOUSE, 174, Wardour Street, W.

BENEDICITE in D.

By ARTHUR M. FLACK.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Specimen free from 14, Lausanne Road, Hornsey, N.

AN EASY SETTING OF THE OFFICE for HOLY COMMUNION, in D. By STRETTON SWANN, Mus.B., F.R.C.O. Price Sixpence. A Specimen Copy, post-free, from the COMPOSER, 181, Longley Road, Tooting, S.W.

THE VINCENT MUSIC COMPANY, Limited.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

Nymphs of the Ocean ... 3d.	Under the Trees ... 2d.
The Skaters ... 3d.	The Oyster Dredgers ... 2d.
The Lake ... 3d.	Evening ... 2d.
*Tis Morn ... 3d.	*Sweet to live (38th thou.) ... 2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal) ... 3d.	*Welcome, young Spring! ... 2d.
The River ... 3d.	*The Anglers (14th thou.) ... 2d.
Over the mountain side ... 3d.	The Dream of Home ... 2d.
Soul of living music ... 3d.	Summer and Winter ... 2d.
The Stormy Petrel ... 3d.	*Departed Joys ... 2d.
The Coral Grove ... 3d.	There's beauty in the deep ... 1d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu ... 3d.	Soldier, rest! ... 1d.
Blow, Western Wind! ... 3d.	Woods in Winter ... 1d.
Stars of the Night ... 3d.	Autumn ... 1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men (85th thousand) ... 3d.	*Ben Bowlegs (10th thousand) ... 3d.
Three Children Sliding (12th thousand) ... 3d.	The Carrion Crow ... 3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste ... 4d.	Call John! (6th thousand) ... 3d.
The Snow-white Doe ... 4d.	Three Merry Fishers ... 3d.
	The Cuckoo Clock (just published) ... 3d.

DESCRIPTIVE CHORUSES.

With Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniments.

The Iron Horse ... 4d.	The Ocean ... 3d.
Off to Sea ... 4d.	*The Ironfounders (42nd thou.) 3d.
Jäger Chorus ... 3d.	The Cyclists ... 4d.
The Lifeboat ... 4d.

Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Elmham, Dereham.

Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Fifth Edition.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in E flat. By ALFRED J. DYE.

Voices only, 3d. Organ Copy, 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Seventh Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat.

By WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah,"

"Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

ORCHESTRAL WORKS

PUBLISHED BY

BREITKOPF & HÄRTEL, 54, Gt. Marlborough Street, London, W.

SYMPHONIES.

SYMPHONIE FANTASTIQUE.

Full Score, 9s. ; 34 Orchestral Parts, 22s. 8d. ; Extra Parts, each, 8d.

HAROLD IN ITALY.

Full Score, 15s. ; 31 Orchestral Parts, 20s. 8d. ; Extra Parts, each, 8d.

FUNERAL AND TRIUMPHAL SYMPHONY.

Full Score, 6s. ; 42 Orchestral Parts, 14s. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

ROMEO AND JULIET. A Dramatic Symphony, with Soli and Chorus.

Full Score, 15s. ; 36 Orchestral Parts, 36s. ; Extra Parts, each, 1s. ; Chorus Parts, each, 8d. ; Vocal Score, 3s.

OVERTURES.

*WAVERLEY.

Full Score, 3s. ; 25 Orchestral Parts, 8s. 4d. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

*THE JUDGES OF THE SECRET COURT.

Full Score, 3s. ; 30 Orchestral Parts, 10s. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

*KING LEAR.

Full Score, 6s. ; 24 Orchestral Parts, 8s. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

*ROB ROY.

Full Score, 6s. ; 25 Orchestral Parts, 8s. 4d. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

*BENVENUTO CELLINI.

Full Score, 3s. ; 33 Orchestral Parts, 11s. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

*ROMAN CARNIVAL.

Full Score, 3s. ; 28 Orchestral Parts, 9s. 4d. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

*THE FLIGHT INTO EGYPT.

Full Score, 2s. ; 9 Orchestral Parts, 3s. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

*THE CORSAIR.

Full Score, 3s. ; 26 Orchestral Parts, 8s. 8d. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

*THE TROJANS AT CARTHAGE.

Full Score, 3s. ; 25 Orchestral Parts, 8s. 4d. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

*BEATRICE AND BENEDICT.

Full Score, 2s. ; 24 Orchestral Parts, 8s. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

MARCHES.

FUNERAL MARCH, for the last Scene of "Hamlet." (With Chorus.)

Full Score, 3s. ; 30 Orchestral Parts, 10s. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

MARCHE DES DRAPEAUX, from Te Deum.

Full Score, 3s. ; 32 Orchestral Parts, 10s. 8d. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

*HUNGARIAN MARCH, from "Faust."

Full Score, 3s. ; 29 Orchestral Parts, 9s. 8d. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

TROJAN MARCH, from "The Trojans at Carthage."

Full Score, 4s. ; 29 Orchestral Parts, 9s. 8d. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

CONCERT PIECES.

FESTIVITIES IN CAPULET'S PALACE, from "Romeo and Juliet."

Full Score, 6s. ; 35 Orchestral Parts, 11s. 8d. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

QUEEN MAB; OR, THE FAIRY OF DREAMS, Scherzo from "Romeo and Juliet."

Full Score, 3s. ; 26 Orchestral Parts, 8s. 8d. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

LOVE SCENE, from "Romeo and Juliet."

Full Score, 3s. ; 19 Orchestral Parts, 6s. 4d. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

*DANCE OF THE SYLPHS, from "Faust."

Full Score, 1s. ; 13 Orchestral Parts, 4s. 4d. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

*WILL O' THEWISPS. Minuet, from "Faust."

Full Score, 3s. ; 30 Orchestral Parts, 10s. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d.

VIOLIN SOLO, WITH ORCHESTRA.

*RÊVERIE AND CAPRICE. Romance, for Violin Solo.

Full Score, 2s. ; 15 Orchestral Parts, 5s. ; Extra Parts, each, 4d. ; Edition for Violin and Pianoforte, 1s. 4d.

* These Works are also published for the Pianoforte.

NEW ORGAN COMPOSITION

By DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY.

INTRODUCTION,
VARIATIONS, AND FUGUE

ON THE

"ADESTE FIDELES"

FOR THE ORGAN

BY

ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY

(MUS.D., OXON.).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Second Edition.

NARCISSUS AND ECHO

CANTATA FOR CHORUS, SOLI, AND ORCHESTRA

Price 3s.; Choral Parts, 1s. each. Also

"GOD IS OUR REFUGE" (Ps. 46)

For Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Price 1s.

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN C. SUCH

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.

	Staff.	Sol-fa.
	s. d.	s. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6

ANTHEMS, &c.

All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3

ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries	3 6
Five Concluding Voluntaries	1 6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EBENEZER PROUT'S WORKS ON MUSIC.

Bound, each net, 5s.

HARMONY: Its Theory and Practice. Fifteenth Edition.

The same, SIXTEENTH EDITION. Revised, and largely re-written.

COUNTERPOINT: Strict and Free. Seventh Edition.

DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT AND CANON. Third Edition.

FUGUE. Fourth Edition.

FUGAL ANALYSIS. Third Edition.

MUSICAL FORM. Fifth Edition.

APPLIED FORMS. Fourth Edition.

THE ORCHESTRA

Vol. I.—"The Technique of the Instruments." Third Edition.

Vol. II.—"Orchestral Combination." Second Edition.

AUGENER AND Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

FRANKLIN PETERSON'S Popular Text Books:

ELEMENTS OF MUSIC. Seventh Edition. Bound, net 1s.

INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF THEORY. A sequel to the "Elements of Music," and intended to prepare the student for Professor Prout's Series of Theoretical Works. Bound, net 1s. 6d.

PIANIST'S HANDBOOK. A Theoretical Companion to Practice. Part I. Bound, net 1s. 6d.

Part II. MUSICAL FORM. Bound, net 1s. 6d.

CATECHISM OF MUSIC. Bound, net 2s.

AUGENER AND Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

MUSICAL OPINION (2d.; order everywhere).—

Send 4d. for new number to 35, Shoe Lane, London, E.C.

About 250 cols. interesting Reading and Advertisements. Founded 1876.

GLORIA

TWENTY-FIVE HYMNS

BY

HENRY H. BONNELL

MUSIC BY

SYDNEY THOMSON.

SEASONS AND SUBJECTS.

CHRISTMAS.
EASTER.
WHITSUNDAY.
ANNUNCIATION.
EVENING.
GOOD FRIDAY.

HOLY MATRIMONY.
HIGH CELEBRATIONS.
IN TIMES OF WAR.
PATRIOTIC.
MISSION WORKERS, ETC.
MISCELLANEOUS.

PRICE 50 CENTS.

New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND Co.

Just Published.

FOUR

SONGS FROM VAGABONDIA

COMPOSED BY

THOMAS F. DUNHILL

(Op. 10).

1. The Sea Gipsy.
2. A Rover's Song.

3. The Daisies.
4. A Hill Song.

Price Two Shillings each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW CONCERT SONGS

BY

DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY.

THE LAND OF DREAMS.

(Baritone or Mezzo-Soprano.)

MY PARADISE.

(Tenor.)

Each 2s. net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

NOVELLO'S MUSIC PRIMERS AND EDUCATIONAL SERIES

No. 62.

LESSONS IN HARMONICS

FOR VIOLINISTS

AND OTHER MUSICAL STUDENTS.

With Notes on Sound and Resultants, Elementary Explanations, and Experiments

BY

C. EGERTON LOWE.

Price One Shilling.
In paper boards, 1s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

GREETING

FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

GUSTAV VON HOLST.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW HUMOROUS PART-SONG.

A FROG HE WOULD A-WOOING GO. By

A. B. ALLEN, Composer of "Dickory dock." Price 2d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BACH'S CHRISTMAS ORATORIO IN SIX SECTIONS.

Composed by BACH to be performed in the following manner:—

Section I.—FOR CHRISTMAS DAY.

Section II.) FOR THE TWO DAYS FOLLOWING

Section III.) CHRISTMAS.

Section IV.—FOR THE FEAST OF THE CIRCUMCISION OF CHRIST, NEW YEAR'S DAY.

Section V.—FOR THE SUNDAY FOLLOWING NEW YEAR'S DAY.

Section VI.—FOR THE FESTIVAL OF THE EPIPHANY.

THE ENGLISH TRANSLATION BY REV. DR. TROUTBECK.

Vocal Score, Complete,

Paper cover, 2s. ; paper boards, 2s. 6d. ; cloth, 4s.

Sections I. and II., III. and IV., V. and VI. can be obtained separately ;

each two sections together in one book, price One Shilling.

Orchestral Parts may be purchased, or hired from the Publishers.

"No other work by Bach contains a richer collection of charming and easily comprehended melodies than the Christmas Oratorio."—Spitta's "Life of Bach."

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THREE DANCES FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S "TEMPEST" COMPOSED BY ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

1. Masque.
2. The Banquet Dance.
3. Dance of Nymphs and Reapers.

Pianoforte Arrangement, price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE VILLAGE ORGANIST A SERIES OF PIECES FOR CHURCH AND GENERAL USE EDITED BY F. CUNNINGHAM WOODS.

Book 35.

- | | |
|---|-----------------|
| 1. Berceuse (A major) | John Pulein |
| 2. Cradle Song (C major) | Weber |
| 3. Chanson Triste (G minor) | Tschaikowsky |
| 4. Andantino calmo (G major) | Franco Leoni |
| 5. Minuet and Trio (G major) | S. J. Rowton |
| 6. Be not afraid ("Elijah"). (G major) | Mendelssohn |
| 7. Thanksgiving (B flat major) | Myles B. Foster |
| 8. Minuet and Trio (B flat major) | Mozart |

Will be published immediately.

Book 36.

- | | |
|---|-------------------|
| 1. Twelve Short Interludes | Henry Smart |
| 2. Accompaniments to The Apostles' Creed, The Lord's Prayer, and The Nicene Creed... .. | J. F. Bridge |
| 3. Ditto, ditto | J. Varley Roberts |
| 4. Accompaniments to The Lord's Prayer and The Apostles' Creed | G. C. Martin |

Price One Shilling each Book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE WOOLHOUSE EDITION.

A SERIES OF CLASSICAL AND MODERN COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE

SELECTED, EDITED, AND FINGERED (WITH NOTES UPON THE FORM AND EXECUTION)

BY

ORLANDO A. MANSFIELD.

- | | | | |
|--|-------------|--|--------------------|
| 1. Five Album Leaves, Op. 68 | Schumann. | 7. Variations on an original Air in G | Beethoven. |
| 2. Rondo alla Turca | Dussek. | 8. The Lake | Sir W. S. Bennett. |
| 3. Sonatina in C, Op. 55, No. 1 | Kuhlau. | 9. Capriccio in E flat, Op. 19, No. 6 (Aquarellen) | Gade. |
| 4. Rondino in G | Heller. | 10. Sonata in E flat | Mozart. |
| 5. Two-part Inventions, in C and F | J. S. Bach. | 11. Nocturne in G minor, Op. 37, No. 1 | Chopin. |
| 6. Allegro in G minor (7th Suite) | Handel. | 12. Scherzo in E minor, Op. 16, No. 2 | Mendelssohn. |

COPYRIGHT.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH, NET.

In this edition, while every effort has been made to secure a reliable text, engraved in the best and clearest style, the editor has not only inserted copious fingerings, additional marks of expression, complete metronomic rates, and frequent suggestions for the use of the pedals, but he has endeavoured to indicate the phrasing in such a way as to be perfectly intelligible to the younger student, and at the same time most helpful to the more advanced performer. All musical ornaments and embellishments are printed in full, on additional staves, immediately above the place in the text in which they occur ; while, in a series of footnotes to be found on almost every page, explanation is given of the form of each movement, and attention directed to special points in phrasing, fingering, or general execution. Thus it is confidently hoped that the Woolhouse Edition will not only be regarded as a boon by busy teachers, but found to be indispensable (either for the purposes of study or comparison) to intelligent and conscientious students, especially to such as are entering for musical examinations, the pieces published being such as are to be found on the regulations of the principal examining bodies.

LONDON: CHARLES WOOLHOUSE, 174, WARDOUR STREET, W.
Music Rooms for Teaching, &c., 1s. per hour, 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. (Parties at 1s. 6d. per hour.)

NOW READY.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION

OF

FAUST

(LA DAMNATION DE FAUST)

A DRAMATIC LEGEND

BY

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

THE ENGLISH VERSION BY
PAUL ENGLAND.

TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling; Vocal Parts, Eightpence each; Book of Words (in the Press).
The Full Score and Orchestral Parts may be hired.

Will be published on the 16th inst.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION

OF

THE CHILDHOOD OF CHRIST

(L'ENFANCE DU CHRIST)

A SACRED TRILOGY

BY

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

THE ENGLISH VERSION BY
PAUL ENGLAND.

TWO SHILLINGS.

Vocal Parts, Sixpence each; Tonic Sol-fa (in the Press); Book of Words (in the Press).
The Full Score and Orchestral Parts may be hired.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED
AND
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 730.—Vol. 44.
Registered for transmission abroad.

DECEMBER 1, 1903.

Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.
Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY, ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

Conductor: Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, M.V.O., Mus.D.

THURSDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 3, at 8.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR'S

"HIAWATHA"

Artists:

MADAME SOBRINO

MR. WILLIAM GREEN

MR. FFRANGCON-DAVIES.

BAND AND CHORUS, ONE THOUSAND.

Organist: Mr. H. L. BALFOUR.

Prices: Stalls, 7s. 6d.; Arena, 6s.; Balcony (Reserved), 5s.;
Unreserved, 4s.; Gallery (Promenade), 1s.

HANDEL'S "MESSIAH"

(WITH HANDEL'S ORIGINAL ACCOMPANIMENTS)

FRIDAY, JANUARY 1, 1904, at 8.

Artists:

MADAME DE VERE

MADAME CLARA BUTT

MR. LLOYD CHANDOS

MR. WATKIN MILLS.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC, TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patron: His Most Gracious Majesty THE KING.

President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, K.G.

Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

LENT TERM begins Thursday, January 14. Entrance Examination, Monday, January 11, at 2.

FORTNIGHTLY CONCERT, Saturday, December 12, at 8.

ORCHESTRAL CONCERT, at Queen's Hall, Friday, December 18, at 3.

THALBERG SCHOLARSHIP, for male Pianists. Last day for entry, December 4.

FOUR SCHOLARSHIPS for Orchestral Instruments will be offered for Competition in January. Last day for entry, January 1, 1904.

Prospectus, Entrance Forms, and all further information of—

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The next F.R.C.O. Examination begins on January 4, 1904. The Solo-playing Tests are:—Sonata in A minor, Op. 140 (1st Movement), Merkel (Novello & Co.; Augener & Co.). Fugue in C, from Three Organ Pieces, Op. 7, Max Reger (Augener & Co., No. 5825, p. 5; or, "Cecilia," Book 64). Fantasie Overture, Garrett (Novello & Co.). The A.R.C.O. Examination begins on January 11. This will include the writing of a short essay. The subject will be taken from Sir H. Parry's Studies of the Great Composers (Routledge).

All Candidates, including those claiming exemption from fee, must send in their names for FELLOWSHIP by December 18; for ASSOCIATESHIP by December 22. In the case of New Members, proposal forms, duly filled up, must be sent in before December 8. No names will be entered after the above dates.

The College Library is open daily from 10 to 5. On Saturdays the College is open from 10 to 1.

Members desiring practice on the College organ may obtain particulars on application.

The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, can be hired for Concerts, Meetings, &c.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC. PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

Director: Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bart., D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.

Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P.

Competition for THIRTEEN FREE OPEN SCHOLARSHIPS in January and February, 1904, as follows:—

COMPOSITION	1	FLUTE	} 4 Scholarships to be competed for among these instruments.
PIANOFORTE... ..	1	CLARINET
SINGING	3	BASSOON
ORGAN	1	HORN
VIOLIN	2	HARP
VIOLONCELLO (Dove)
Scholarship)	1

Preliminary Examinations will be held on Wednesday, January 27, 1904, in various local centres throughout the United Kingdom, and the final competition will take place at the College about February 19.

All persons desirous of competing must apply on the official entry forms, which may be obtained, with all particulars, from the College, Prince Consort Road, South Kensington, London, S.W. The last day for receiving these forms, which must be accompanied by an Official Stamped Certificate of Birth, is December 28, 1903.

NEXT TERM will commence on January 7.

THE EXAMINATION for ASSOCIATESHIP (A.R.C.M.) will take place in April, 1904.

Syllabus and official Entry Forms may be obtained from

FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD

OF THE

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC AND ROYAL COLLEGE OF
MUSIC FOR LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

PRESIDENT: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS (SYLLABUS A).
Held annually in March and April at all Centres, and in London and district in November and December also. Entries for the March-April Examinations close February 10, 1904.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS (SYLLABUS B).

Held three times a year—viz., March-April, June-July, and October-November.

Entries for the March-April Examinations close January 29, 1904. Copies of Syllabus A and B will be sent Post-free on application to the Secretary.

Theory papers set in Local Centre and School Examinations in 1896 to 1902 inclusive, can be obtained on application. Price 3d. per set, per year, Post-free.

The Board gives annually Six Exhibitions tenable for two years.

JAMES MUIR, Secretary.

14, Hanover Square, London, W.

Telegraphic address: "Associa, London."

ROYAL MANCHESTER COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Patroness: HER MAJESTY QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

President: Sir W. H. HOULDSWORTH, Bart., M.P.

Principal: Dr. ADOLPH BRODSKY.

The LENT TERM begins on Tuesday, January 5, 1904. Candidates apply on a Printed Form, obtainable from the Registrar. Special Houses of Residence recommended for Students.

Students are required to enter upon a complete Course of Musica Instruction, and are not admitted for a shorter period than one year. Fee for the year £30, payable in instalments of £10 at the beginning of each term.

The prospectus, with Scholarship information and Diploma Regulations, on application.

STANLEY WITHERS, Registrar.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in Durham in March (testamur only) and September.

For particulars, with copies of former Examination Papers, apply to the Secretary of Examinations, or to Dr. Armes, Durham.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Managed by the Corporation of the City of London.
Principal: WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS, Mus. D., Dub., F.S.A., Hon. R.A.M.

Pupils can enter at any time.

Individual tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. Within three minutes of Ludgate Hill, Fleet Street, and Blackfriars Station (District Railway).

110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships, giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Fencing, and Opera. Lady Superintendent has charge of all ladies attending the school. Prospectus and form of entry free on application to
H. SAXE WYNDHAM,
Victoria Embankment, E.C. Secretary.

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE.SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Visitor EDWARD ELGAR, Mus. Doc.

Principal GRANVILLE BANTOCK.

SESSION 1903-04.

The Session consists of Autumn Term (September 14 to December 19), Winter Term (January 18 to April 9), Summer Term (April 11 to June 18).

Instruction in all branches of music. Students' Selected Choir, Students' Orchestra, Fortnightly Rehearsals, and Students' Concerts. Prospectus and further information may be obtained from

ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

President: The Very Rev. FRANCIS PIGOU, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examination, in November and December, 1903, at the following Centres: London, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow, and Belfast.

Annual Membership Subscription, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.

Free register for Organists requiring appointments.

For new Calendar and further particulars apply to

DR. LEWIS, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

LONDON COLLEGE FOR CHORISTERS

(Late LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS),

POLYTECHNIC, REGENT STREET, W.

AND

80, CAMBRIDGE TERRACE, HYDE PARK, W.

Provides Musical Boys with a thorough Vocal and Instrumental Training, together with the educational advantages of a first-class grammar school.

Boys coached for Cathedral and other Choristerships.

SOLO-BOYS supplied for Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, Festivals, &c.

Organists, clergy, and others interested are invited to inspect the College, 80, Cambridge Terrace, near Lancaster Gate (Tube) Station, Praed St. (Metropolitan), and Paddington (G.W.R.) Stations, Wednesdays, 9.30 to 12.30; other times by appointment.

Address, Mr. JAMES BATES, 7, Blomfield Crescent, W.

Telegrams—"Musicomane, London." Telephone—490, Mayfair.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

LONDON.

(Under the direction of The Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)

INCORPORATED 1891.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

PRESIDENT: THE MOST HON. THE MARQUIS OF ANGLESEY.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L. (Principal).

GEORGE PRIOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon. (Registrar).

J. M. BENTLEY, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M. (Chairman).

W. E. THOMAS, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

CHARLES R. FISHER, Mus. Doc., F.G.C.M.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W. Terms moderate.

Hon. Director of Studies: CHURCHILL SIBLEY, Mus. D.

Metropolitan Examinations in all subjects, including the Diplomas of A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., also for the Teachers' Professional Diploma in the Art of Teaching, December, 1903.

Local Theoretical Examination, December, 1903.

Practical Examinations are now being held at the various Centres. Holder of the Victoria College Vocal Scholarship, 1901: Miss Lotti L. Wakelin, L.R.A.M.; 1902, Miss Audrey Willows, L.V.C.M.

Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for competition. Local Secretaries required for towns not represented.

All communications to be addressed as usual to the Central Office.

11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

HUGO GÖRLITZ,

119, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Telegrams—Hugonotas, London.

Telephone—4013 Gerrard.

KUBELIK SEASON, 1903—1904.

Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ.

Mr. HUGO GÖRLITZ is Agent for the Leading Artists of the World, and Sole Agent for

KUBELIK WILHELM BACKHAUS
MARTHA CUNNINGHAM ALICE HOLLÄNDER

MADAME KALLIWODA Miss MARIAN ICETON

JOHN HARRISON (the new English Tenor)

LILIAN FOULIS (Violinist) PAUL GRÜMMER (Violoncellist)

Miss EVALYN AMETHE

HERR HEGEDUS

THE AMSTERDAM ORCHESTRA

THE BOHEMIAN STRING QUARTETTE

DR. RICHARD STRAUSS, Etc.

DR. RICHARD STRAUSS'S AMERICAN TOUR

FEBRUARY to MAY, 1904.

KUBELIK AUTUMN TOUR

OCTOBER 2 to NOVEMBER 21, 1903.

(Under the Sole Management of HUGO GÖRLITZ)

119, New Bond Street, London, W.

RICHARD STRAUSS FESTIVAL.JOHN HARRISON'S SUCCESS.

THE TIMES says:

"The first of the songs were sung in German, with capital expression, by Mr. John Harrison: is a 'Friedensszählung.'"

THE STANDARD says:

"The two principal tenor solos were finely sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE DAILY NEWS says:

"Mr. Harrison, the tenor, sang with a sense of dramatic emphasis one had not expected from him, and at the same time the quality of his voice was good."

THE MORNING POST says:

"Of two tenor songs, one 'The Vision of Peace,' the other from the last act, both are modelled on Wagner; the second is the more striking. The orchestration in the first is heavy, so that the vocalist has a hard fight. Mr. John Harrison sang both extremely well."

THE DAILY GRAPHIC says:

"Two of them well sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE WESTMINSTER GAZETTE says:

"The solo parts of which were taken in first-rate style by Mr. John Harrison."

THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN says:

"Two long solos allotted to the hero were sung by Mr. John Harrison, who earned great applause by his beautiful voice and method, and his sincere and refined dramatic expression. His performances stamp him as an artist of the first rank."

THE GLOBE says:

"Two tenor solos, well sung by Mr. John Harrison."

THE STAR says:

"Both were sung with conspicuous beauty of voice and expression by Mr. John Harrison, who thereby showed himself more than equal to the severest of artistic tasks."

MR. JOHN HARRISON is a Pupil of

MADAME AMY SHERWIN.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

Madame Amy Sherwin has opened a Studio in New Bond Street, for Vocal Culture and for preparing Students for the Concert and Operatic Stage. Full particulars can be obtained by addressing HUGO GÖRLITZ, 119, New Bond Street, W.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS ETHEL BARNARD (Soprano)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Singing Lessons given.
20, Priory Court Mansions, West Hampstead.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano).

"Voice of strikingly clear-ringing tone."—Western Mercury.
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)

Oratorios and Concerts.
Burley Road, Leeds.

MADAME ANNIE HAYMAN (Soprano)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Thorncliffe, Lowfield Road, Stockport.

MISS ANNIE MAPPLEBECK (Soprano Vocalist).

Concerts, Oratorios.
32, Burlington Crescent, Goole, Yorkshire.

MISS ISABEL CLEAR (Contralto)

Guyvers, Maldon,
Essex.

MISS BERYL CLIVE (Contralto)

14, Gladsmuir Road, Whitehall Park, N.

MISS MARGARET CRAWFORD (Contralto)

Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Glencairn, Cane Hill, Purley, Surrey.

MISS THOMASINE DAY (Contralto).

Concerts, Recitals, &c. (Expenses only).
Address, 54, Beaconsfield Villas, Brighton.

MISS KATE GREGORY

(The new Yorkshire Contralto)

(Professional Pupil of Albert Jowett, Esq., Yorkshire Training College of Music, Leeds).

Oratorios and Ballad Concerts.

Terms, &c., apply, Greendyke Lane, Doncaster.

MISS GERTRUDE HEY (Contralto)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Lawn Side, Clarendon Road, Whalley Range, Manchester.

MADAME HURLE-HOBBS (Contralto)

Oratorios, Recitals, Concerts, &c.
Address, 37, Briar Walk, Upper Edmonton, London, N.

MISS ANNIE McBRIDE (Contralto)

Concerts, Oratorios, &c.
129, Fawnbrake Avenue, Herne Hill, S.E.

MISS DOLLY SOPPET, Pro. Dip. I.S.M. (Contralto)

For Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Address, Northallerton, Yorks.

MR. J. G. BLANCHARD

(Principal Tenor, Italian Church, Hatton Garden).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address, 41, Savernake Road, N.W.

MR. FREDERICK E. PARKER, G.S.M. (Tenor).

Concerts, At Homes, &c. (for expenses).
42, Acton Lane, Harlesden, N.W.

MR. WILLIAM D. VINCENT (Tenor)

"Old Italian School."
Concerts, &c., address, 167, Tachbrook Street, Belgrave Road, S.W.

MR. ELLISTON WEBB

(Principal Tenor, Brompton Oratory).
52, Hillcrest Road, Acton, W.

MR. GEORGE STUBBS (Baritone)

(St. Paul's Cathedral).
129, Fawnbrake Avenue, Herne Hill, S.E.

MR. AND MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS

(Baritone, Soprano, and Elocutionists).
Concerts, Lyrical Recitals, Pupils (Resident, &c.). Sharon, Ealing, W.

MISS MARY OULD, L.R.A.M. (Solo Violinist)

For Concerts, At Homes, Lessons, &c.
Oakdene, Kilburn Priory, Maida Vale, W.

MISS EMILY VAUGHAN (Soprano), L.R.A.M.,
Medallist, Society of Arts. Concerts, At Homes, &c. "Fernside," 44, Craven Park, Harlesden, N.W.

MISS HELENA CLEZA, a pure and powerful
Contralto, desires ENGAGEMENTS for Concerts, At Homes,
&c. Apply, 8, Donaldson Road, Kilburn, N.W.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY, I.S.M. (Contralto Vocalist). For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. Address, Vocalist, Armley, Leeds.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

MR. WILLIAM FELL (Tenor), Lay-Vicar of Westminster Abbey. 27, St. Stephen's Mansions, Westminster, S.W.

MR. WILLIAM WILD (Tenor), of the "Sir
Charles and Lady Hallé South African Concert Tour, 1895";
of the London (Queen's Hall) Concerts; of the Richter and Manchester
Gentlemen's Concerts. Pupil of Andrew Black, Esq. Terms, &c.,
Grosvenor Square, Stalybridge, near Manchester.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass), Oratorios,
Concerts, Lessons. CRYSTAL PALACE ORATORIO AND
CONCERT PARTY. Specimen Programmes and terms, 45, Penton-
ville Road, N.

MR. J. W. SENIOR (Solo Bass), Ripon Cathedral, is prepared to accept ENGAGEMENTS for Oratorio, Ballad
Concerts, &c. For terms, apply, 21, Hillshaw Terrace, Ripon.

NEW ŠEVČIK VIOLIN METHOD.

Prof. ŠEVČIK (Master of KUBELIK and KOCIÁN) METHOD
thoroughly taught by

PROFESSOR KOENIG (Of Prague)

(Pupil of Herr Ševčík).

CLASSES and PRIVATE LESSONS. For particulars, apply to
Prof. Herman Koenig, 36, Ainger Road, N.W.

MISS TERESA BLAMY

(SOPRANO).

Oratorios, Concerts.

36, Westwick Gardens, West Kensington, London.

MISS FLORENCE BOWNESS

(SOPRANO).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

Scout House, Newchurch, near Manchester.

MISS LILLIE WORMALD

(SOPRANO).

PROMENADE CONCERTS, QUEEN'S HALL, October 1, 1903.

THE STANDARD says:—

"The singing of Miss Lillie Wormald, a promising young recruit to these concerts, proved entirely to popular taste, the artist deserving the highest commendation for her rendering of exacting songs."

THE MORNING POST says:—

"Miss Lillie Wormald, who made her first appearance at these concerts, possesses a high soprano voice of excellent quality which has been well trained. She sang the difficult Bell song from Léo Delibes' 'Lakmé' with great fluency and was deservedly applauded."

THE DAILY TELEGRAPH says:—

"To the vocal side of the programme Miss Lillie Wormald and Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies contributed, both artists proving successful."

THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN says:—

"Miss Lillie Wormald sang songs by Mozart and various modern composers with that kind of intelligence which stamps her as a genuine artist."

THE BIRMINGHAM POST says:—

"The singer's success could only be described as brilliant; no weaker term would be adequate."

THE BIRMINGHAM DAILY MAIL says:—

"Her voice is a soprano of great brilliance. Rarely have we heard such exquisite and easy vocalisation."

Nov. 28.—GLASGOW ORCHESTRAL UNION CONCERTS (Miscellaneous).

Dec. 1.—LONDONDERRY PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY ("May Queen" and miscellaneous).

Dec. 3.—BIRMINGHAM CITY CHORAL ("Coronation Ode" and "Orpheus").

Dec. 7.—BLACKBURN ST. CECILIA SOCIETY ("Messe Solennelle" and miscellaneous).

Dec. 8.—NELSON ("Hiawatha" and "Coronation Ode").

Dec. 10.—SHREWSBURY ("The Seasons").

Dec. 12.—WORCESTER PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY ("Lay of the Bell").
ETC., ETC.

For terms and vacant dates apply—

MISS LILLIE WORMALD,

18, Hartington Road,

Chorlton-cum-Hardy, Manchester.

Or leading London Agents.

MISS ESTELLA LINDEN

(YORKSHIRE SOPRANO FOR ORATORIO).

(Principal) of Crystal Palace, Queen's Hall, St. James's Hall, Bristol Choral (Mr. Riseley), Sheffield Musical Un. and Barnsley St. Cecilia (Dr. Coward), Cheltenham Fest. Choral, Worcester Fest. Choral, Wolverhampton Fest. Choral, Keighley Musical Un., Stafford Choral, Hull Vocal, Dover Choral, Kettering Choral, Macclesfield Phil., Brighton Sacred Har., Gt. Yarmouth, Pontefract, Leominster, Bishop Auckland, Oldham, Crewe, etc. Speciality, Oratorios. "Efficient and reliable"—vide Press. Recent bookings included 50 different works. 35, Lancaster Road, S. Hampstead, N.W.

MISS

BEATRICE PALLISTER

(SOPRANO).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Broxholme Lane, Doncaster.

MISS AMY SARGENT

A.R.A.M. (SOPRANO),

8, Middleton Road, Camden Road, N.

MISS MARGARET YORKE

(SOLO HARPIST AND SOPRANO). Complete Programmes arranged. Lessons. 187, Sumatra Road, West Hampstead, N.W.

MISS SYDNEY BUSHNELL

(CONTRALTO).

Brabazon House, Belgrave Road, S.W.

MISS FLORENCE A. HAIGH

(CONTRALTO)

For Oratorio, Ballads, At Homes.

"Miss Haigh possesses a rich Contralto voice of great range and sweetness."—Preston Guardian.

"From the moment Miss Haigh had concluded her first song, 'For All Eternity,' everyone was ready for her again. Her recall was emphatic. In the well-known song 'Rocked in the cradle of the deep,' the fine compass of her voice, with its mellow tones, was heard to the greatest advantage."—Cross Journal.

"Miss Haigh excelled herself in the lovely coon song 'My curly-headed baby' (Clutsam). It was the pièce de résistance. Her notation was almost a living characterization of the negro mother wafting her babe to dreamland."—Fleury's Journal.

For terms and vacant dates,

40, Grosvenor Chambers, Deansgate, Manchester.

MISS LUCIE JOHNSTONE

(CONTRALTO).

Permanent address:—

Glenarm Lodge, Rosendale Road, West Dulwich, S.E.; or, c/o Mr. N. Vert, 6, Cork St., W. Telegrams: "Doxologies," London.

MISS ADELAIDE LAMBE

(CONTRALTO).

Queen's Hall and Crystal Palace Concerts, &c.

Address, Holmwood, Roxborough Park, Harrow.

MISS MAUD SANTLEY

(CONTRALTO)

(Of the Royal Albert Hall, the Queen's Hall, London Ballad Concerts, the Adelina Patti, Melba, and Harrison Concert Tours, the Symphony Concerts, Belgium, &c.).

Repertoire of all standard oratorios and works, including: "The Dream of Gerontius" and "Sea Pictures" (Elgar), and "Samson and Delilah" (Saint-Saëns). For vacant dates, address, 60, Margaret Street, Cavendish Square, London, W.

MR. WRIGHT BEAUMONT

(TENOR)

Bronze and Silver Medalist and Certificate, R.A.M.

Address, Roach House, Manchuria Road, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. FRED FALLAS

(TENOR).

A HIGH COMPLIMENT.

"We have heard no better singing this season."

KURSAAL, HARROGATE,

OCTOBER 1, 2, & 3, 1903.

SPECIAL RETURN VISIT.

Harrogate Advertiser, October 3, 1903, says:—

"Those who were present on Thursday evening HAD A RARE MUSICAL TREAT. Mr. Fred Fallas was encored for both his songs, 'Nirvana' and Schubert's 'Sérénade.' In the latter, in which the orchestra accompanied, this tenor singer did the fullest justice to that splendid song. It is often taken too slowly; this fault he avoided. WE HAVE HEARD NO BETTER SINGING THIS SEASON."

Address: Horbury, Yorks.

MR. TOM CHILD

(THE YORKSHIRE TENOR)

Booked: Dec. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 13, 15, 16, 18, 20, 22, 25, 26, 27; Jan. 1, 2, 3, 4, 14, 30.

The Poplars, Calverley, Leeds.

MR. FRANCIS GLYNN

(TENOR),

High Elms, Burgh Heath Road, Epsom.

MR. WALTER LAWLEY

(TENOR)

"Mr. Walter Lawley is destined to make a big reputation."—Huddersfield Chronicle, October 29, 1903.

"Mr. Walter Lawley is undoubtedly a coming man."—Harrogate Advertiser, April 11, 1903.

"Songs rendered with great taste and spirit; was vociferously encored."—Edinburgh Evening News, October 26, 1903.

In Scotland: January 2 (Afternoon), Glasgow; 4, 5, 6, 7, Aberdeen and 9, Edinburgh. Vacant dates either side.

50, Beyer Street, Gorton, Manchester.

MR. ERNEST PIKE

(PRINCIPAL TENOR, Holy Trinity Church, Sloane Street).

For Oratorio, Concerts, &c. 45, Claverton Street, S.W.

MR. HENRY PLEVY

(TENOR)

(Of the Queen's Hall and Crystal Palace Concerts.)

Address: 30, Hamilton Gardens, N.W.

MR. JOS. REED

(PRINCIPAL TENOR),

Trinity College, Cambridge.

Tenor, Madame Clara Butt's Tours, October, 1900; Spring, 1902.

Vacant dates. 55, Chesterton Road, Cambridge.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS

(TENOR).

For vacant dates, apply, 105, North Side, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. WILLIAM A. SHEEN

(PRINCIPAL TENOR, The City Temple).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

For Terms, &c., apply, 71, Alkham Road, Stamford Hill, N.

MR. FRED. AIRETON (L.R.A.M.)

(BARITONE).

Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. JOHN BROWNING

(BARITONE).

Soloist, Leeds Musical Festivals and of the leading English, Scotch, and Irish Concerts. Extensive répertoire of over 100 works.

Season 1902/3, has sung Baritone Solos in sixty works ("Elijah" 12 times, "Messiah" 10), and at forty Miscellaneous Concerts.

Bookings for this Season include: "Messiah" (11 times), "Elijah" (3), "Creation" (3), "St. Paul," "Samson," "Seasons," "Walpurgis Night," "Ancient Mariner," Rossini's "Stabat Mater," "Acis and Galatea," "Daisy Chain," &c.

In Scotland Dec. 14, 15, and 23 (Glasgow, Dundee, and Arbroath), also January and March. Some consecutive dates still vacant.

Address, Marlbro' Grove, Leeds.

MR. JOHN RIDDING

(BARITONE)

Sweetman's Agency, Liverpool; or, 11, Southfield Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

MR. CHARLES TREE.

American Tour POSTPONED indefinitely.

Address, 27, Buckley Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MR. ARTHUR WALENN

(BARITONE)

20, Ashworth Mansions, Elgin Avenue, London, W.

MR. BERNARD FOUNTAIN

(BASS-BARITONE).

MISS ENA FOUNTAIN

(CONTRALTO AND ACCOMPANIST).

Oratorios, Concerts, Masonic.

Mentmore, Southwold Road, Upper Clapton, London.

MR. HERBERT TRACEY

(BASS).

Extensive répertoire. For terms, address, 101, Amesbury Avenue, S.W.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS,
48, DYNE ROAD, BRONDESUR, N.W.
Telegrams:—SOLOIST, LONDON.

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL

(BARITONE).

(Westminster Abbey.)

"ELIJAH" (EAST HAM).—"Of the soloists, Mr. Montague Borwell was by far and away the best. His rendering of the recitatives was especially full of feeling and fervency, and his resonant voice well filled the hall in 'Is not His word.'"—Echo.

"ANCIENT MARINER" (BRIGHTON).—"The quiet, refined, and even graceful methods of Mr. Montague Borwell, the baritone, yielded universal pleasure, for his voice has a particularly musical timbre, and the tact and taste of the experienced artist were ever apparent."—Standard.

"ANCIENT MARINER" (BRIGHTON).—"A conspicuous feature was the refined singing of Mr. Montague Borwell. He treated his several numbers with a smoothness which came as a pleasing contrast to the strained efforts too often heard, and undoubtedly left behind a flattering impression."—Hove Gazette.

"REDEMPTION" (COLERAINE).—"We venture to say few people in the concert-room were unmoved at Mr. Borwell's exceptionally well impersonated treatment of the 'Last Words,' 'My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?' This was indeed one of the outstanding features of the whole performance."—Advertiser.

AND

MISS WINIFRED MARWOOD

(Mrs. Montague Borwell—SOPRANO).

"CREATION" (CLYDEBANK).—"Miss Winifred Marwood sang all her solos with fervour and charm. She has a cultured voice, fresh and resonant, and a good concert-platform style. At the close of the air 'With verdure clad' she had to repeatedly bow her acknowledgments to the enthusiastic applause of the audience."—Clydebank Press.

"MESSIAH" (BOSTON).—"Miss Winifred Marwood possesses a pure soprano voice, most flexible and clear, which was shown to great advantage in the florid style of some of her airs, her voice being flute-like in the trills and beautiful throughout."—Boston Independent.

"MAY QUEEN" (ABERGAVENNY).—"Miss Winifred Marwood, the soprano soloist, who has a voice full, rich and powerful, yet very sweet and tender, as occasion required, and of fine range, associated with dramatic power, clear enunciation, and a charming personality, took the audience by storm, and the very unusual compliment was paid her in the second part of the programme of a double encore, to which she gracefully responded."—Chronicle.

48, Dyne Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MR. HENRY SUNMAN

(BASS).

Licentiate (Artist) of the Royal Academy of Music, of the Gloucester and Cheltenham Festivals, &c.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

"MESSIAH."—TEWKESBURY FESTIVAL, 1903.

"Mr. Henry Sunman, the bass soloist engaged, sang with strength and verve, giving a very rousing rendering of 'Why do the nations.' This, if taken rather in excess of the orthodox tone, certainly suffered nothing in brilliancy on that account."—Gloucester Echo, Sept. 25, 1903.

"Mr. Henry Sunman, by his resonant voice, gave the bass airs with commendable breadth."—Western Press, Sept. 25, 1903.

"Mr. Henry Sunman gave the bass solos in cultured style, and particularly excelled in 'The trumpet shall sound.'"—Worcester Journal, Sept. 26, 1903.

Please address, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

FREDERICK MOORE (A.R.A.M.)

Macfarren Gold Medalist. Solo Pianist. LESSONS, &c.
98, Elgin Crescent, Holland Park, W.

MISS ELLEN CHILDS

(CHROMATIC HARPIST).

Having studied in Paris under the direction of the Inventor, Miss Childs is prepared to give LESSONS on the NEW CHROMATIC HARP (without pedals). For terms, apply, 170, Belsize Road, N.W.; or, care of Messrs. Pleyell, Wolff, Lyon and Co., 79-80, Baker Street, Portman Square, W.

MISS MARIAN JAY

(VIOLINIST).

THE DAILY TELEGRAPH says:—

BECHSTEIN HALL.—"Miss Marian Jay carried through her share of the evening's music with skill and success. She displayed a good, full tone, with plenty of execution, and her readings of chosen works were intelligent and praiseworthy. Of the Rondo from Lalo's 'Symphonie Espagnole,' she gave a remarkably vivacious performance, so earning three recalls to the platform; while the steadiness and care with which she interpreted Bach's Sonata in A major likewise won for her the warmly-expressed approval of her audience."—Nov. 19, 1903.

THE TIMES, says:—

"She is not merely a virtuoso, but an artist."

38, Warwick Road, Earl's Court, S.W.

MISS

MARGUERITE SWALE

PREPARES VOCALISTS for Oratorio, Opera, German Lieder, and Ballads.

VOICE PRODUCTION AND SINGING.

Recommended by distinguished Artists.

F., 120, Great Portland Street, W.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Boys, personally trained and thoroughly reliable, for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, vacant dates, and further particulars, address, Mr. Henry J. Dutton, 17, Alpha Rd., New Cross, S.E.

MR. TANN'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. W. R. B. TANN, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Saviour's Church, Paddington, is prepared to supply well-trained Solo Boys for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

A number of excellent Chorus Boys also available.

For terms and vacant dates, address, Mr. W. R. B. Tann, 55, Warwick Road, Maida Vale, W.

MR. BATES (London College for Choristers) supplies SOLO BOYS for Oratorios, &c. See p. 770, Musical Times.

STEDMAN'S MUSICAL AGENCY

(MRS. JOHN STEDMAN AND SYDNEY BAYNES)

(Established 1877).

Artists for Opera, Theatre, Oratorio, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Choruses, Choir Boys and Girls.
Singing Lessons and Coaching.
38, Berners Street, W.

NATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC, LIM.

Patron: THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH.

Warden: DR. TINDALL, A.T.C.L.

EXAMINATION, 4 Grades, and for Diplomas and Medals, London, December 9. Also Lecture (Warden), "Queens of Song," December 15, at 8. Tickets, 1s. Local Secretaries wanted.

W. J. MOSS, 112, Portsdown Road, W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. Eastfield House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities, Diplomas of L.R.A.M., A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O.; Appointments at College and School of Music, and as English Cathedral and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of seven hundred and fifty. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Piano-forte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS.

Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

DR. ARNOTT, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, Organist to The Honble. Society of Gray's Inn, PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Examinations, and receives Pupils for Piano-forte, Organ, Singing; also, Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition, personally or by correspondence. Scores revised and compositions scored. All letters to The Common Room, Gray's Inn.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., Mus. Bac., Dunelm, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Post. Personal Lessons in Piano-forte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or, at 60, Berners Street, W. Schools attended. Address, 289, High Road, Lee, S.E.

ARTHUR T. FROGGATT, Mus.D., T.C.D., gives LESSONS by POST, and prepares for all genuine examinations. 2, Hampden Villas, Hythe.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., is now making a SPECIALITY OF PREPARING CANDIDATES by CORRESPONDENCE for University, Royal College of Organists, and other musical Exams. LARGE NUMBER OF PAST SUCCESSES. Moderate terms. PERSONAL LESSONS in THEORY and ORGAN (for R.C.O. exams.) are given either at Streatham or in London. 52, Buckleigh Road, Streatham, S.W.

RECENT SUCCESSES.

R. C.O. EXAMS., JULY, 1903:—
F.R.C.O., Two successes; A.R.C.O., Three successes.
DURHAM UNIVERSITY EXAMS., SEPT., 1903:—
Final Mus. Bac.; First Mus. Bac. (3).
Apply, Dr. HARRIS, as above.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and PREPARES CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Latest successes: Mus. Bac., Oxford and Durham, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., &c. Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY, Mus.D., Oxon., 13, Roseleigh Avenue, Highbury, N., continues to PREPARE CANDIDATES for the various Theoretical Examinations. Music of any description revised or arranged. LESSONS in COMPOSITION, by post if desired.

MUS. DOC., DURHAM, 1903.—Two Candidates for this Degree were coached by DR. ATHELSTAN G. IGGULDEN, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., and both were successful. Many other recent successes, including R.C.O. Exams. Thorough preparation by Post for all bona-fide examinations. MSS. corrected and revised. The Dingle, Reigate, Surrey.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM and ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Recent successes: MUS. DOC., DURHAM, 1903; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1903; OXFORD FIRST and FINAL MUS. BAC., 1903, 1902, &c.; ASSOCIATED BOARD, Senior Harmony (Honours), Counterpoint, 1903; DURHAM, 1902, 1901, 1900, and all previous years; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1902; L.R.A.M. (Composition and Pianoforte), 1903, 1902, 1901, &c.; A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, Composition and Pianoforte Teaching); CAMBRIDGE and DUBLIN, MUS. BAC.; L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M.; L.T.C.L., A.T.C.L., and Special Certificates, 1903, 1902, &c. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Terms moderate. MSS. corrected for publication.

Analyses of Classical Works for Examinations.
70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

DR. MARCHANT, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Author of "500 Fugue Subjects and Answers," Novello's Primers, No. 35), &c., PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Musical Examinations by Post. 10, Glebe Crescent, Stirling, N.E.

MR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus.B., F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., makes a SPECIALITY of COACHING for DEGREES. L.R.A.M., 1897-1903, FORTY-ONE SUCCESSSES; A.R.C.M., 1897-1903, ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTEEN SUCCESSSES. Equally good results in R.C.O. and other Examinations. Address, Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond.; Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., Personally or by Correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and all other Examinations. Classes. 25, Palliser Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. PERCY WOOD, F.R.C.O., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post, and Prepares for Examinations. Terms, £1 rs. for ten lessons. 60, Crownhill Rd., Harlesden, N.W.

DR. TINDALL, A.T.C.L., Warden.—MUSICAL TUITION. Society of Church Organists. Diploma Exam. Jan. 19. Members wanted. Write, 112, Portsdown Road, W.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac. (Durham, 1892); L.Mus.T.C.L. (1888). COACHES for EXAMS. Prospectus, &c., 58, Comiston Road, Edinburgh.

MISS ALICIA JEPHSON, several years pupil of the late Maestro Coen, of Florence, formerly with Delle Sedie, of Paris, gives LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION and SINGING. Highly recommended by Delle Sedie, Mascagni of Italy, and Ignor Bonci of Covent Garden. For further particulars, address, care of Messrs. Forsyths, Ltd., Deansgate, Manchester.

VOICES TRAINED (Altos included) and SIGHT-SINGING and the PIANOFORTE TAUGHT, by Mr. W. A. FROST (Vicar-Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral), at 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C. Many of Mr. Frost's pupils have obtained Cathedral and other choir appointments. Latest success (tenor) at St. Andrew's, Queen Victoria Street.

TRAINING OF TENORS.—MR. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS at his residence and at the West-End. For terms, &c., address, 11, Grazebrook Road, Stoke Newington, N. The principles on which MR. DAVIDSON PALMER'S METHOD is based are explained in his pamphlet, "The Tenor Voice and Its Training." Price 1s., post-free, from the AUTHOR, at the above address; or from JOSEPH WILLIAMS, Ltd., 32, Great Portland Street, W.

AN educated MUSICIAN, who is a sound and brilliant pianist, will give some LESSONS in a first-class College or School within the Metropolitan area, in exchange for board and residence. Unmarried. Unexceptionable references. Graduate, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

OXFORD.—NEW COLLEGE, CHORISTERSHIPS.—There will be a TRIAL of VOICES on WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 16. Candidates must have a good ear and good voice, and should be between 9 and 12 years of age. For particulars, apply to the Precentor. Names cannot be received later than December 7.

SCHOLARSHIP.—Musical BOY, about 14. Apply, Headmaster, Grammar School, Atherstone, Warwickshire.

THE ORGANIST of St. David's Cathedral has a VACANCY for a RESIDENT PUPIL. WILLIS Organ, and daily services. Herbert C. Morris, F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., The Close, St. David's, Pembrokehire.

ST. MARGARET'S, Westminster.—SOLO BOY REQUIRED. £25 a year. Must be a good reader. Apply, R. Goss Custard, St. Margaret's, Westminster.

TRENT COLLEGE, Derbyshire.—Two CHORAL SCHOLARSHIPS are offered for competition on December 10. For particulars, apply to the Organist.

ALTO WANTED, at once, for St. Patrick's Cathedral, Armagh. Salary, £80. Copies of testimonials to be sent to Rev. Charles Faris, Chapter Clerk.

ST. MARTIN-IN-THE-FIELDS, Charing Cross, W.C.—WANTED, THREE TENORS and TWO BASSES. Experience essential. Age not to exceed 35 years. Light duties. Salaries, £12 per annum each. Applications, with testimonial (copy), to be sent to the Organist.

BASS WANTED, for a Church in Hampstead. Only Sunday duties: two services. Church of England. Salary, £9. Apply, Mus. Doc., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, at St. Stephen's, Clapham Park. Easy Post. Evangelical. £30. J. C. Elliott, 8, Poynders Road, Clapham, S.W.

WANTED, Professional, experienced ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Suburban Church. Three-manual Organ. Congregational, not choral, services. £70. Address, M.A., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED in January for St. James's Church, Kidbrook, Blackheath. Good organ. Musical services. Efficient choir-trainer essential. Salary, £80. Apply, Rector, Rectory, Kidbrook.

WANTED, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, for St. John's English Wesleyan Church, Llandudno. Salary, £50. Apply, with testimonials (copies), to Rev. Theodore Bishop, St. John's House, Llandudno.

WANTED, for Heathfield School, Ascot, LADY ORGANIST, capable of training choir and teaching pianoforte. Churchwomen. Pedal organ. Apply to Miss Wyatt.

THE ORGANIST of Winchester Cathedral requires additional PUPIL, able to play Parochial Service, for which small stipend is given. Mr. W. Prendergast, Mus. Bac., Oxon., The Close, Winchester.

ORGANIST desires ENGAGEMENT, London or neighbourhood. Experienced Church musician, successful choir-trainer. Excellent references. Letters, first instance, Rowe, 59, Hazelbourne Road, Balham Hill, S.W.

MR. COLLINGWOOD BANKS (late Organist to Christ's Hospital) is disengaged, and is desirous of securing some suitable APPOINTMENT. Address, Northwood, Enfield, Middlesex.

AS ORGANIST and CHOIR and MUSIC MASTER (thorough, with 15 years' experience). Competent also to teach mathematics and English subjects in Grammar or Preparatory School. Highest testimonials from both former posts. References kindly permitted to Evelyn, Countess of Craven, and Rev. H. J. Bidder, St. John's College, Oxford. Chant, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANO LESSONS.—Pupil of FRANKLIN TAYLOR, Esq. (nearly five years), has few VACANCIES. Coach Associated Board Exams. Arranging for Studio, central position, London, from January, when special arrangements. Terms, address, Antoinette, Willing's, 162, Piccadilly, W.

PROFESSOR of SINGING, holding highest musical appointments, and possessing exceptional influence musically and socially, desires YOUNG MAN (resident pupil) to train as ASSISTANT. Almost immediate income. Exceptional opportunity. Write, Maestro, 91, Jermyn Street, S.W.

EVERY ORGANIST should send for DINHAM, BLYTH & CO.'S Specimens and Price List (free) for Lithographing Anthems, Kyries, Hymn Tunes, &c., from twenty-four Copies and upwards. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

MUSIC COPIED and TRANSPROSED, almost equal to printing. 3½d. per page, including paper. Numerous testimonials from well-known singers, &c. Mrs. Harrison, Rossall Beach, Fleetwood.

CHOIRMASTERS wishing something entirely new should obtain TE DEUMS in D and F, by D. MUNRO. Two-piece each.

Sung where hitherto only Chants allowed. Great success. London: NOVELLO and COMPANY, Limited.

WANTED, young, active, and competent TUNER (cyclist), for town and country. Good at the mechanism of Pianos and Organs. Apply, X., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

A LADY (L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M.) wishes introduction to good TEACHING CONNECTION (Pianoforte). Apply, L., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

OLD-ESTABLISHED FIRM of Pianoforte Dealers in the Midlands, wishing to retire from active business, would take in PARTNER, or SELL the BUSINESS outright. Very exceptional opportunity for energetic man, or Firm, with up-to-date experience of the trade. Address, H. C. D., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC STUDIOS.—Having acquired additional premises at 32-34, Wigmore Street, Mr. C. BECHSTEIN has now 16 more STUDIOS to LET to Music Teachers. For particulars, apply to the Manager, Bechstein Hall Studios, 40-32, Wigmore Street, W.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—ORGANISTS can PRACTISE on the Grand four-manual Organ by WILLIS (blown by hydraulic engines controlled from keyboard) in the Concert Hall of the Hampstead Conservatoire. The Hall is warmed by hot water. Specification of the organ, and terms of practice on application to the Secretary, Hampstead Conservatoire, Swiss Cottage, N.W.

N.B.—The Conservatoire is eight minutes by rail from Baker Street, Metropolitan Railway. Trains every ten minutes.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

WANTED, an ORGAN and PLAYER combined. State particulars and lowest cash price, to Belfrage, Merklund, Moffat, N.B.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE. Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell and Son's, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

MODERN-BUILT ORGANS for SALE.—Two Manuals CC to G, and Pedals CCC to F (R.C.O.), £125, complete. Also larger instruments. Apply, EUSTACE INGRAM, Organ Builder, 361, Liverpool Road, N.

THREE-MANUAL ORGAN, 26 stops; Two-Manual Organ, 17 stops. Several others, suitable for Church, &c. Special manufacturers of the celebrated Victoria Model Organs, &c., suitable for Mission Churches, Students, &c., with two manuals and full-compass pedals, from 50 guineas. W. E. Richardson and Sons, of London, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

9 GUINEAS.—AMERICAN ORGAN (list price, 20 guineas), 11 stops, including two knee-stops and the beautiful solo stops, voix celeste and vox humana; two octave couplers, handsome high case; in use about four months; twenty years' warranty; easy terms arranged. Packing and carriage free both ways on approval. Full price paid will be allowed within three years if exchanged for a higher-class instrument. D'Almaine and Co. (established 118 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

ON SALE.—Two-Manual and Pedal AMERICAN ORGAN, by MASON AND HAMLIN. Perfect condition; 12 stops. Price £45 cash. Muscus, 8, Springfield, Sale, near Manchester.

FINE Three-Manual ORGAN for SALE or Hire. 32 stops (5 reeds). Now in West-London Church. For full particulars and appointments to inspect, apply, Gray and Davison, 6, Pratt Street, London, N.W. Specifications and Estimates for New Organs, Reconstructions, Repairs, and Tunings furnished free.

WANTED, a small but good PIPE ORGAN, for Church. Second hand. Must be in excellent condition. E. B. Jeune, Lynnmouth, R.S.O., N. Devon.

FOR SALE.—VIOLONCELLO, by COLLIN-MEZZIN. Maker's name inside. Beautiful tone. Price £15. Mrs. Reid, 10, Arkwright Road, Hampstead, N.W.

BABY GRAND PIANO, by HAGSPIEL.—BURR. Walnut case, Overstrung. Nearly new. 45 guineas. Jarrett and Goudge, 4, Tower Chambers, London Wall, E.C.

PIANO, with NORMAN and BEARD's pneumatic concave PEDALS attached, for SALE. Good order and good bargain. Hall, 48, Carnarvon Road, Stratford, E.

WANTED, a Second-hand VIRGIL CLAVIER. State terms and how long in use to "Clavier," care of Mr. R. W. Pentland, 24, Frederick Street, Edinburgh.

15 GUINEAS.—PIANO, "DUCHESS" MODEL, by D'ALMAINE, solid iron frames to top, Upright Grand (list price, 30 guineas); full compass, full trichord, French check action, &c.; in handsomely carved case, four feet two inches in height; in use only six months; sent on approval, carriage paid both ways, to any part of the United Kingdom; twenty years' warranty; easy terms arranged; full price paid will be allowed if exchanged for a higher-class instrument within three years. D'Almaine and Co. (established 118 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

BROADWOOD.—Two small GRAND PIANOS, one 7½ octaves, overstrung, 65 gns., cost 125 gns.; and SHORT GRAND, 7 octaves, 38 gns., cost 100 gns. Both little over 6 ft., iron framed, little used, and in beautiful condition. Can be seen at Mr. Fieldwick's, Organist of St. John's (Cromer House), Putney.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

F. W. EBRALL,
Organ Builder,
SHREWSBURY.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

ALFRED MONK, ORGAN BUILDER,

Works and Show Rooms: 556, HOLLOWAY ROAD, LONDON, N.

High-class ORGANS, with superior rich and majestic tones, at moderate prices. Organs built and constructed on the most improved principles, of first-class workmanship and well-seasoned materials. Patent improved and reliable Pneumatic Actions. Organs reconstructed, additions, and repairs. Organs taken in exchange. Organs ready made, for Sale or Hire, or payable in five years, £150, £200, £260, £300, etc. Second Hand Organs, £20, £35, £300. Powerful, rich-tone Pipe Organs, from £50. Price lists of Organs, from £100 to £2,000. Estimates and testimonials sent free. Tuners sent regularly to all parts of the kingdom. Inspection invited.

RUMMENS' ORGAN PEDALS FOR PIANOFORTES

INVALUABLE FOR HOME PRACTICE OF ORGAN MUSIC.

Testimonials from Sir GEORGE MARTIN, Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, and many leading Organists.

For particulars, &c., apply, NORMAN & BEARD, Organ Works, Norwich.

W. E. HILL AND SONS

(HIS MAJESTY'S VIOLIN MAKERS)

OF 140, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Have for SALE—

VIOLINS, VIOLAS, AND VIOLONCELLOS

by STRADIVARIUS, GUARNERUS, AMATI, and other celebrated makers, and they guarantee the authenticity of any instrument they sell.

They also undertake the SALE OF INSTRUMENTS on behalf of their owners.

W. E. HILL AND SONS have for generations been engaged in Violin-Making, and undertake the Repairing and Adjustment of any Strung Instruments.

Excellent VIOLINS for beginners, from One Guinea upwards.

STRINGS can be sent safely by Post.

PRICE LIST ON APPLICATION.

Auction Rooms, specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

SHEFFIELD SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION.

WHITSUNTIDE, 1904.

A PRIZE OF TEN GUINEAS is offered in Open Competition for ORIGINAL TUNES for the Whitsuntide Demonstrations of 1904.

Full particulars will be forwarded on application to the Hon. Sec., Mr. ROBERT MOSS, Jun., Monmouth Street, Sheffield.

Trinity College London (INST. 1872).

President:

THE RIGHT HON. LORD COLERIDGE, M.A., K.C.

Warden:

EDMUND H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC FOR TEACHERS.

December 5 is the last day of entry for the next Higher Examinations of the College, which will be held on Monday, January 4, and following days.

Candidates may enter under the newly-revised scheme (Pamphlet Ca) or under the old regulations (Pamphlet C) at their option.

The Examination in the Art of Teaching is also open to all present holders of Diplomas and Higher Certificates on payment of an Examination Fee of One Guinea.

LENT TERM begins on January 15.

The Teaching Department provides for the instruction and training of all classes of Musical Students, as follows:—

1. Full Professional Course in Theoretical and Practical Music, including preparation for Teaching Diplomas or University Degrees.
 2. Special Courses in one or more subjects for Professional or Amateur Students.
 3. Lectures and Demonstrations on the Art of Teaching as applied to music, Choir Training, &c.
 4. School of Pianoforte Technique, with Virgil Clavier lessons and practice.
 5. Post-Graduate Course for the Doctorate of the University of London.
 6. Junior School of Music, introductory to the Higher Curriculum.
- In the JUNIOR SCHOOL pupils are admitted up to the age of 15.

The prospectus of the Teaching Department (including that for the Junior School, the Virgil Clavier Department, and the regulations for Scholarships) and the Higher Examination Syllabuses, may be had from the undersigned.

By order, SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

JUST PUBLISHED

FIVE PART-SONGS

FOR MEN'S VOICES

(T.T.B.B.)

THE WORDS FROM THE

GREEK ANTHOLOGY

IN ENGLISH BY

ALMA STRETTELL, RICHARD GARNETT,

EDMUND GOSSE,

W. M. HARDINGE AND ANDREW LANG

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

(Op. 45.)

GERMAN TRANSLATION BY JULIUS BUTHS.

CONTENTS.

1. Yea, cast me from heights of the mountains (Ja, stürzt mich vom Steilhang des Felsen).
2. Whether I find thee (Ob ich dich fände).
3. After many a dusty mile (Nach so mancher staub'gen Meile).
4. It's oh! to be a wild wind (O wär' ich doch der wilde Wind).
5. Feasting I watch (Staunend bewacht).

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

Also published separately, English words only.

("The Orpheus," Nos. 362—366).

Prices:

Nos. 363 and 365, 2d. each; No. 362, 3d.; Nos. 364 and 366, 4d. each.
Vocal Parts, German words only (in the Press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

John Broadwood & Sons'

LIMITED,

NEW SHORT OVERSTRUNG GRAND

105 GUINEAS.

"MULTUM IN PARVO."

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET, LONDON, W.

THE LONDON MUSIC SCHOOL (LONDON ORGAN SCHOOL).

Established 1865.

22, PRINCES STREET, CAVENTISH SQ., W. (Close to Oxford Circus).
Director and Principal: T. H. YORKE TROTTER, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon.

The School is open daily from 9 a.m. till 9 p.m., and provides a THOROUGH EDUCATION for PROFESSIONAL and AMATEUR MUSICIANS. Lessons may begin on any date, and a single subject taken if desired.

PRIVATE LESSONS are given in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Composition; Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, Violin, Viola, Violoncello, and Double-Bass; all Wind and other Orchestral Instruments; Choir Training, Elocution, and Stage Department; Modern Languages, &c. DAY AND EVENING CLASSES are held in Harmony and Counterpoint, Musical Dictation, Quartet and Ensemble Playing, and in Elocution (Mr. Charles Fry) and Modern Languages.

The School has a Full Orchestra, a String Orchestra, and two Choral Classes.

The CONCERT ORGAN and two other three-manual Instruments are available for practice.

Prospectus on application to the Secretary.

BOSWORTH EDITION.

NOW READY.

OSCAR BERINGER

(Popular Edition, with English Fingering).

NEW

PIANOFORTE TUTOR

2s. 6d. net.

Foreign Fingering, German and English Text, in Two Books, at 2s. each net.

Or, complete, 4s. net.

The Lady: "By far the best I have yet seen published."

The Daily Telegraph: "Valuable work. Clear, and easy to be comprehended."

Mr. Malcolm Lawson:—"The learner is led from strength to strength."

Mr. Stanley Hawley:—"The very incarnation of the modern spirit in teaching—line upon line and precept upon precept."

CELEBRATED

DAILY TECHNICAL STUDIES

Newly engraved, revised, and enlarged, 4s. net.

SCALE & ARPEGGIO MANUAL

Newly engraved, revised, and enlarged, 2s. net.

Recommended by the greatest authorities.

TWO SONATINAS.

1. SONATINA PASTORALE.

(In Three Movements.)

2. SONATINA MARZIALE.

(a) On the March.

(b) By the Watch-Fire.

(c) Homewards.

"By far the best pieces of their kind that have yet appeared."—Vide Press.

BOSWORTH AND CO., 5, PRINCES ST., OXFORD ST., W.
And at LEIPZIG, PARIS, and VIENNA.

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR PRESENTS.

NOVELLO'S LIST OF WORKS SUITABLE FOR ABOVE WILL BE SENT, POST-FREE, ON APPLICATION.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

John Callcott Horsley

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

DECEMBER 1, 1903.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

TO OUR READERS.

THE MUSICAL TIMES will in future be printed on much thicker and finer surface paper. The illustrations, which now form so acceptable a feature of the journal, will thereby be greatly improved in appearance, and the letterpress will stand out with greater clearness. This change, to take place in the January number, would have been made sooner but for the Post Office regulations, which require the letter rate of postage for monthly periodicals.

The time has come, however, when we have decided to make this change, regardless of the increased postage necessitated by the thicker and heavier paper which we propose to use; but no additional charge will be made to Subscribers. Therefore, although the postage of every copy will in future be twopence instead of three-halfpence, THE MUSICAL TIMES will be sent for twelve months—beginning at any month of the year—at the old rate of Subscription: viz., Five Shillings, post free. The price of single copies will remain the same: viz., fourpence.

Another announcement has also to be made, though of a more preliminary nature than the foregoing. The proprietors of THE MUSICAL TIMES intend to offer a series of prizes for various compositions. The details and conditions of this new departure will be made known in our January issue, and will, we feel sure, be looked forward to with interest.

Furthermore, the first number of the New Year will contain a Biographical Sketch, with special portrait, of Mr. Edward German; a fully illustrated article on Chester Cathedral, by 'Dotted Crotchet'; besides other features of interest. As in the past and present, no efforts will be spared to make THE MUSICAL TIMES—the oldest periodical devoted to music in this country—both interesting and instructive to its large circle of readers.

THE EDITOR.

THE CHARTERHOUSE.

'An ancient foundation in the heart of London city. In the chapel . . . the founder's tomb stands, a huge edifice, emblazoned with heraldic decorations and clumsy carved allegories. There is an old Hall, a beautiful specimen of the architecture of James's time—an old Hall? many old halls, old staircases, old passages, old chambers decorated with old portraits, walking in the midst of which we walk, as it were, in the early seventeenth century!'

Readers of Thackeray will recall the above extract from 'The Newcomes,' which describes the Charterhouse, or Grey Friars, the place where dear old Colonel Newcome murmured his 'Adsum,' as he fell back 'and stood in the presence of The Master'—that touching farewell to life described by the great novelist in a passage which for beauty and pathos has not been surpassed in English literature. To the question: 'Do you know the Charterhouse?' ninety-nine out of every hundred Londoners would probably return a negative answer; but nine out of every ten Americans who have visited London would reply to the same interrogation: 'I guess I do!' As one stands on that historic spot in the centre of London's great heart with its ceaseless throb, and enjoys the restful stillness which characterizes the quaint old place, one cannot fail to be impressed with the hoary antiquity and historical interest of the Charterhouse. Let us in the first place take a brief survey of its history, which covers a period of over five hundred years; secondly, attempt to give a description of the venerable buildings; and, finally say something about the distinguished men who, since the year 1626, have held the office of Organist.

Gruesome to relate, the foundations of the Charterhouse may be said to rest upon some 100,000 dead bodies, according to Stow—a statement probably much exaggerated, though it is satisfactory to learn from him that they were all Christian people. In the year 1349 the black death raged so horribly in London that Sir Walter de Manny, a wealthy native of Hainault, purchased from the Hospital of St. Bartholomew thirteen acres of land outside 'the bar of West Smithfield,' and had it consecrated as a burial ground. As no fewer than 50,000 bodies were deposited there in one year, this campo santo was put to good use, if not to the test. Sir Walter de Manny built on the ground a handsome Chapel of the Annunciation, which gave it the name of Newchurchhaw, and in 1371 King Edward III., by letters patent, licensed Sir Walter de Manny to found a house of Carthusian monks. This, one of several religious houses in London, existed for upwards of 160 years. Sir Walter de Manny, who died in London on or about January 15, 1372, was buried in a tomb of alabaster, with his effigy, in the choir of the chapel of the Carthusian Monastery. In his will he instructed his executors to pay a penny to every person attending his funeral. A plan made in the 16th century and still preserved in the archives of the Charterhouse gives in part the arrangements of the monastic buildings, but its chief object is to show the course of the water supply which came from Islington to the Monastery. The course of the pipes, or open culverts,—perhaps a mixture of both—from source to supply is clearly shown in this unique plan. Stow says: 'At the gate of this Charterhouse is a fair water-conduit, with two cocks, serving the use of the neighbours to their great commodity.'

The monastic buildings were added to in the early part of the 16th century. But the monks did not long enjoy the benefits of the enlargement and improvement of their house, as in 1534 the Monastery was 'visited' by King Henry VIII., residence. The room at present assigned to the organist was formerly the Duchess of Norfolk's withdrawing-room, from which designation we get our modern but meaningless term 'drawing-room.' It is not necessary in this brief survey to give in detail the changes of ownership, therefore we may pass on to the year 1611, when Thomas Sutton, one of the richest Englishmen of his day, bought the property for the sum of £13,000. In making this purchase, Sutton—designated by Stow as 'the right Phoenix of Charity in our times'—was animated with benevolent intent. He wished to found and endow: (1) A hospital for eighty 'Poor Men'; and (2) A school for the education and maintenance of forty poor boys. For the carrying out of his scheme letters patent

THE CHAPEL.

(Photo by Messrs. E. T. Bottom and Co., Farringdon Road.)

with the result that, in the following year, Prior Houghton was hanged at Tyburn. One of his quarters, with an arm, was hung over the gate of the Charterhouse to awe the remaining monks into submission to the king, but most of them refused to take the oath. The Monastery at its suppression was valued at £642 os. 4½d.!

The king then bestowed the place on Lord North, who built himself a house east of the Chapel. It was visited by Queen Elizabeth during North's occupancy, and James I. made the Charterhouse his first lodging when he came to London from Scotland on his accession to the throne. In 1565 the property passed into the possession of the Duke of Norfolk, who converted the Little Cloister into a handsome were granted to him in June, 1611, but six months afterwards this worthy benefactor died. We are told that his bowels were buried in Hackney Church, but his body remained in his house at Hackney for nearly six months, when it was removed to Christ Church, Newgate Street. The remains ultimately found their way—two years after death—to the Chapel of the Charterhouse, where, in a vault on the North side, they now rest.

The practical outcome of Thomas Sutton's munificent benefaction is that, at the present time, Charterhouse is the home of fifty-five 'Poor Brothers,' who are there supplied with all things necessary for this life, with the supreme advantage of a mind free from care, and with ample leisure for the pursuit of any particular hobby. The Brethren dine together in their splendid Hall, but other meals are served in their own rooms. Clad in their regulation black cloaks, they attend one of the two daily services in long hair, coloured boots, spurs, or any coloured shoes, feathers in their hats, or any ruffian-like or unseemly apparel, but such as becomes Hospital men to wear.'

Charterhouse School was removed from the

DR. JOHN CHRISTOPHER PEPUSCH.

(From an oil-painting by Hudson.)

Chapel, which, so far as is known, have never been interrupted, except for one month in the year, when the House goes 'out of Commons.' An order of the Governors, made in 1622, reads: 'Brethren are forbidden to wear any weapons,

City to Godalming in 1872. It numbers among its distinguished alumni Addison, Steele, John Wesley, George Grote, the poet Lovelace, Blackstone, Bishop Thirlwall, John Leech, and Thackeray. This great public school is too well known to need further comment; but an antiquarian reference may be made to the dietary of the boys in the year 1740. We learn that on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays their supper was to consist of 'baked pudding, or apple-py, or cheesecake, or gooseberry-py, or currant-py, or cherry-py, or plumb-py, or grape-py, according to the season.' That evening meal of 'pys' must have been a fruitful source of enjoyment to those 18th century young gentlemen. Upon the removal to Godalming the school buildings were sold to the Merchant Taylors' School, but the buildings associated with the Poor Brethren still remain with all their old-world charm and historical environment. The staff includes the Master (to rule over all), the Preacher, the Organist, and the Registrar—all these officials, except the Organist, are provided with residences within the precincts.

Some idea of the venerable buildings, which cover four acres of ground, may be formed from the illustrations which accompany this article. A few words of description may, however, be acceptable. First, the Chapel. Originally built in 1371, this old sanctuary was subsequently enlarged, first by a north aisle built by Sutton, and afterwards by another addition, not now in use, also on the north side of the building. The fantastic details of the woodwork of the Chapel are very curious and interesting. The Communion table, dating from 1614, which rests on thirteen legs, is a fine piece of workmanship. A fragment of Sir Walter de Manny's tomb, discovered in an old wall, is a further proof of the preservative excellence of the colour used in ancient times. The Chapel contains the elaborate and costly tomb of the founder, Thomas Sutton, who is represented by a recumbent figure, surrounded by fanciful monumental accessories. The organ, erected by Messrs. Walker in 1842, stands in the west gallery of the north aisle. Dr. Pepusch is buried in the Chapel, and there is a tablet to the memory of William Horsley, while in the Chapel Cloister (now glazed) are the graves of John Jones and R. J. S. Stevens, and a memorial tablet to John Hullah; all these five musicians were formerly organists of the Charterhouse.

But the most fascinating feature in this group of old buildings is the Guesten Hall. It is a pleasure to visit this noble apartment with so able a cicerone as The Preacher, the Rev. H. V. Le Bas, himself an old Carthusian. The lower part of the hall is undoubtedly mediæval, being an original part of the monastic building, though it was much enlarged and its roof raised by the Duke of Norfolk. The screen—as shown in our illustration—is a most sumptuous and delicate specimen of Jacobean handicraft. A direct successor of the Gothic screen, it stands in a position analogous to that almost invariably occupied in mediæval houses, and which survived during Elizabethan times. It was usually erected as a means of protecting the dining-hall from draughts, but it seldom reached to the height of the ceiling. As at the Charterhouse, the panels of the screen were movable, and thus the gallery could be made to serve for minstrels or spectators. The huge fire-place is another feast for the eye. Its imposing over-mantel includes carvings of cannon, doubtless emblematic of the office held for thirteen years by Thomas Sutton, Master-General of the Ordnance of the North in 1570. The Governors' Room, with its ceiling richly decorated with arms and crests, and its old tapestry on the walls—a typical Elizabethan apartment—together with the fine staircase, adds to the attractive features of the group of venerable buildings which constitute the Charterhouse.

We may now turn to the consideration of the organists of the Charterhouse. As no minute regulations were laid down by Thomas Sutton for the management of his noble foundation, it fell to the Governors to discharge the duty of formulating the necessary statutes. Through the kindness of the present Master, the Rev. Canon Haig-Brown, permission has been accorded for copies to be made of the Governors' Orders relating to the office and appointment of organist specially for this article, these extracts being here printed for the first time. Some thirteen or fourteen years after the Hospital was opened the Governors considered that an organ and an organist were necessary to the carrying out of Sutton's benefaction. Here is the Order of the Governors of July 6, 1626, as set forth literatim :—

We doe desire the said Comittees or any fower of them to take into their consideracon what the chardge will be of havinge an Organ within the Chappell of the said Hospitall and to sett downe what stipend &c shall be allowed yerely to mainteyne an Organist that shall playe upon the said Organs, and teach the Schollers of the said house to sing prick songe and to play upon any instrument for we doe well allowe to have an Organ and an Organist within the hospitall soe that the chardge be not excessive.

This is interesting, for it shows that the Charterhouse Governors of nearly 300 years ago took into consideration not only vocal, but also instrumental music in the educational equipment of 'the Schollers.' Evidently 'the chardge' proved to be not excessive, as five months later the Governors appointed an organist and fixed the amount of his salary. The Order reads :—

7. Dec : 1626. We doe order constitute and ordeyne Cosen to be the Organist of the Hospitall and to have Thirteene poundes six shillings eightpence paid unto him yerely for his fee duringe the tyme of his service as an organist in the howse.

This Order furnishes us with some interesting information that is also new, namely, that the first organist of the Charterhouse was one Cosen (or Cosyn) whose Christian name, as we shall presently see, was Benjamin. Very little is known biographically of this good man, six lines (boiled down from the notice in the inaccurate 'Dictionary of Musicians,' 1824, this again being copied from Hawkins!) in Grove's Dictionary is all the space allotted to him, and his name is absent from 'The Dictionary of National Biography.' He is stated by Hawkins to have been 'a famous composer of lessons for the harpsichord, and he was probably an excellent performer on that instrument. But the name of Benjamin Cosyn is best known in connection with the fine Virginal Book preserved in the King's Music Library at Buckingham Palace, for a full description of which the reader is referred to the article on 'Virginal Music' by Mr. Barclay Squire in Grove's Dictionary, vol. iv., p. 312. In that article John Cosyn is stated to have been a former organist of the Charterhouse, while Hawkins gives William Cosyn. Anthony à Wood is mentioned in both appears that on October 7, 1643, 'the House of Commons sequestered the places of Preacher and Organist, and appointed Thomas Foxleye to officiate the cure, and that he should have the stipends of Preacher and Organist'! Cosyn, then an old man, naturally resented this confiscation of his office and its emoluments, and he thereupon petitioned the Committee. On August 15, 1644, the Committee considered his petition, when it was reported to them that Foxleye 'had accordingly received and had untill about the beginning of this instant August hee was removed.' The Committee further reported:—

Wee also find that there was yeerely allowed to the Organist a Stipend of £13. 6. 8 and 40s. more to buy him a gowne & 40s. more to make

THE GUESTEN, OR DINING HALL.

(Photo by Messrs. E. T. Bottom and Co., Farringdon Road.)

cases as the source of information as to the surname, but he (Wood) leaves the Christian name of the Charterhouse organist blank! However, this new information settles the point. 'But the Christian name of Cosen is also blank in the Order last quoted,' some sharp-eyed antiquary may be led to observe. Stay, gentle reader; we know well your feeling, but may we answer your sceptical observation with another Order of the Governors? :—

7. March 1643. Wee doe also reffer the petition of Benjamin Cosin late Organist of this Hospitall concerninge some allowance to bee made unto him in recompense of the loss of the Organist's place there to the consideraçon of the standinge Comittees for this Hospitall.

Here is the necessary documentary evidence as to the identity of Benjamin Cosyn. It provision of fire & his dyett in the Hall at the Master's table . . . Wherefore Wee taking the poverty ould age and imperfecoons of body of the said Benjamin Cosens into our consideraçon thinke fitt that there bee for the psent allowed for his releefe the yeerely some of £13. 6. 8

Benjamin Cosyn was therefore evidently pensioned. The date of his death is not known, and his name does not appear in the Burial Registers of the Charterhouse.*

Cosyn was succeeded in the organistship of Charterhouse by Nicholas Love. The following

* In mentioning this Cosyn-Charterhouse discovery to Dr. W. H. Cummings, he very kindly sent us the following additional information: 'Benjamin Cosyn was 4th Fellow and Organist of Dulwich College in 1622-3-4. I have some voluntaries (MS.) by him.' Mr. William H. Stocks, organist of Dulwich College, in his valuable pamphlet 'The organ of Dulwich College Chapel' (1891), confirms this by giving the exact dates of Cosyn's organistship at Dulwich—September 28, 1622, to June 16, 1624. Thus, line upon line, is biography made,

'Orders' of the Governors relate to his appointment and to his providing an organ :—

30th Dec: 1661. According to another order of reference from ye sayd Assembly [the Committee] Wee have considered ye petiçon of Nicholas Love to bee chosen Organist of this Hosp^{le} And forasmuch as hee is both of known loyalty to his Matie & ability for ye discharge of ye sayd place Wee doe therefore recomēd him to ye next Assembly as a Person deserving ye sayd employment In Case ye Govern^{rs} shall thinke fitt to restoare an Organ in ye Chappell of this Hospitall.

24 June 1662. Upon hearing another Order of ye sayd standing Comtee wherby Nicholas Love is elected Organist in case wee should thinke fitt to restoare an Organ in ye Chappell of this Hospitall We doe hereby confirme ye sayd Nicholas Love in ye place of Organist To hold & enjoy ye same with all fees

Certain misbehaviour on the part of Mr. Nicholas Love incurred the displeasure of the Master and resulted in this condemnatory Order of the Governors :—

13 Sept. 1688. Wee being enformed by the Mr of this Hospitall of ye indecent behaviour of Mr. Nicholas Love organist to this Hospitall at the Mr^s table, Doe order that the sayd Mr Love doe make a publick acknowledgment thereof at the sayd Table, And further that if the sayd Mr Love shall heereafter behave himselfe uncivilly to the Mr or at the sayd table that then hee bee removed from thence by the Mr to thee Manciple's Table.

Like his predecessor, Benjamin Cosyn, Mr. Love in due time began to feel the burden of Anno Domini. His son, Thomas, appears to have been his deputy for some years—but the Orders

THE PENSIONERS' COURT.

(Photo by Messrs. E. T. Bottom and Co., Farringdon Road.)

profitts and advantages whatsoever heretofore payd unto or enjoyed by Benjamin Couzens ye last Organist And wee doe order ye sayd Nicholas Love to provide an Organ & cause it to bee sett up in ye Chappell of this Hosp^l wch being done, Wee order ye Receivr to pay for ye same.

The next Order is in the nature of a reprimand of organist Nicholas Love :—

4. May 1670. We doe likewise Ordr ye Organist for ye time being in his plude to ye firste Lesson & on all other occaçons to use ye most solemne & grave Musick avoyding what is light as unfitting ye service and place And wee doe require & Ordr that on every Thursday in ye afternoone when ye Scholl^{rs} are come from Schole hee doe teach such of them as hee shall find capable to sing to ye ende they may in some reasonable sort be able to sing ye service of ye Church when occaçon shall require.

relating to Love Senior and Love Junior shall speak for themselves :—

24. June 1710. Having also heard the Humble Petition of Nicholas Love shewing that he has been Organist to this Hospital forty eight years and now in his extream age praying Us to allow that his son Thomas Love may be his Assistant We do in regard of his said age and long service think fit to grant his said Petition.

24 June 1713. Also Whereas ye Place of Organist hath bin sometime void by ye death of Nicholas Love And y^t his son Thomas Love (who by our Licence hath executed the Office of Organist for some years during his father's indisposition & since his death Hath humbly petition'd for ye sd place, We doe therefore choose & appoint ye sd Thos. Love to be Organist in ye Room & Place of his sd. Father, & to enjoy & receive ye Salary

& other perquisites belonging to ye sd Office And do further Order that ye Salary & Allowance for Diet wch his Father enjoy'd be paid to ye sd Thos. Love for the time He hath officiated since his father's death.

In the year 1737 Mr. Thomas Love (who is casually mentioned by Hawkins) apparently departed this life; but it is impossible to give exact dates of death or burial of either of the two Loves, as between the years 1710 and 1739 several leaves of the burial register are missing.

The next organist was a man of mark. The Order appointing him is recorded in these terms:

2. Dec: 1737. Whereas Mr. Love late Organist to this Hospital is dead We do nominate & elect John Christopher Pepusch Dr. in Musick to be Organist in ye room & place of ye sd Mr. Love deceas'd.

besides arranging the tunes and composing overtures for 'The Beggar's Opera' (1727). Pepusch married a rich singer, who brought him a fortune of £10,000. As above stated, he became organist of the Charterhouse in 1737, where he resided in his official apartments for the remainder of his life. He made his mark as a teacher, his pupils including John Travers, Dr. Boyce, and Dr. Benjamin Cooke. Dr. Pepusch gave much attention to theoretical matters; for a paper on the ancient Genera, read by him before the Royal Society, he was elected F. R. S. He died at the Charterhouse on July 20, 1752, and is buried in the Chapel in which he had for fifteen years officiated. Thirteen years after the death of Dr. Pepusch an

THE PREACHER'S COURT.

(Photo by Messrs. E. T. Bottom and Co., Farringdon Road.)

Dr. Pepusch was one of the most remarkable musicians of his time. Born at Berlin in 1667, he came to England about 1700 and fiddled in the orchestra at Drury Lane. In 1710 he took an active part in the establishment of the Academy of Ancient Music, and continued to show great interest in its operations until the day of his death. He became organist to the Duke of Chandos, at Cannons, an appointment in which he was succeeded by Handel. On July 9, 1713, he took the degree of Doctor of Music at Oxford. He soon afterwards became director of music at Lincoln's Inn Fields Theatre; this post he held for many years. He composed music for various theatrical pieces,

Order of the Governors contained this interesting reference to him:—

22 Nov: 1765. Upon the humble petition of Benjamin Cooke Organist of the Cathedral Church of Saint Peter's Westminster praying that he may have leave to erect at his own charge a small Monument in the Chapel of this Hospital to the memory of the late John Christopher Pepusch Doctor in Musick sometime Organist of the Hospital & who lies buried in the said Chapel We Order that the Petitioner be at Liberty to erect a decent Monument in the Chapel with a proper inscription thereon in memory of the said Dr. Pepusch as is prayed by the said Petition.

It is very interesting to find from the above Order that Pepusch's former pupil, who had in the meantime become organist of Westminster Abbey, wished thus to honour his old master. But the proposed memorial ultimately became a more public matter in that the Academy of Ancient Music defrayed the expense of its erection. The tablet, still to be seen in the Chapel, bears the following inscription:—

Near this place lye the Remains
of
JOHN CHRISTOPHER PEPUSCH
Doctor of Music in the University of Oxford
He was borne at Berlin and resided in London highly esteemed, above 50 years Distinguished as a most learned Master and Patron of his Profession
In the year 1737 he retired to the private employment
of Organist to this House
Where he departed this Life
July 20th, 1752. Aged 85.
The Academy of Ancient Music established in 1710 of which he was one of the Original Founders and to which he bequeathed a valuable Collection of Music in grateful Respect to his Memory caused this Monument to be erected 1767.

The successor to Dr. Pepusch was an out-and-out pluralist—a triplis, so to speak—in the person of Mr. John Jones, organist of the Temple Church (in 1749), the Charterhouse (in 1753), and of St. Paul's Cathedral (in 1755)! He died, in the full possession of all three appointments, at his official quarters in the Charterhouse, February 17, 1796, and was buried in the Chapel Cloister. To the biographer the career of Mr. Jones is a barren field. The Charterhouse Registers mention his marriage at Sudbury, Derbyshire, to Sarah Chaloner, or Chawner, before the year 1758, and baptisms of three of their children. His tombstone states that he resided in the Hospital for forty-three years. John Jones was formerly well known by his double chant in D. This composition so took the fancy of Haydn when he heard it sung by the Charity Children in St. Paul's Cathedral in 1792, that he noted it down, though not correctly, in his diary. It appeared in a collection, entitled:—

SIXTY CHANTS single and double composed by JOHN JONES, organist of St. Paul's Cathedral, and by him respectfully inscribed to the Dean & Chapter.
1785.

Printed, for the author, by Longman and Broderip
No. 26 Cheapside and 13 Hay-Market. Price 5s.

There is something in the nature of a Preface to this book that may be quoted:—

The Psalms of David being either Rejoycing Penitential, or Historical, Those Chants which best suit such sentiments are mark'd with an R, P, or H; but where the Psalms Change from Rejoycing to Penitential, in the same Morning or Evening Service Numbers XXX, of both Single and Double Chants are particularly adapted.

The chant in D above referred to appears in Jones's collection in the following form:—

To return to the Charterhouse. At the time of Jones's appointment a new organ was needed, judging from his Order of the Governors:—

2. July 1753. A Scheme for erecting a new Organ in the Chapel being now presented to us by the Master We approve thereof and of the estimate given in with the same amounting to the sum of £190 besides the old organ except with regard to an article of £12 charged for gilding the pipes of such new Organ which we will not shou'd be gilded but handsomely painted in Oil of a proper colour and the said sum of £12 is to be deducted in the price aforesaid.

Upon the death of John Jones another Temple organist succeeded to the Charterhouse appointment in the election of Richard John Samuel Stevens, afterwards Gresham Professor of Music, and composer of the glee 'Ye spotted snakes.' Professor Stevens was also a pluralist, but in a lesser degree than Jones, as he only held two appointments concurrently. His emoluments at the Charterhouse amounted to the yearly sum of £68 7s. 4d. (besides Apartments), an amount made up thus:—

Original salary of organist	..	£13	6	8
Allowance first granted in 1664		2	0	0
" for Beavors*	..	3	0	8
" for Commons	..	50	0	0
		£68	7	4

No Charterhouse organist since Love appears to have received 'Diet or Commons in Kind.' Stevens, who died September 23, 1837, and is buried in the Chapel Cloister, was the last organist to reside within the precincts of the Hospital. No instruction in music was ever given to the scholars by Stevens, or, indeed, within seventy years previously by any of his predecessors. The duties of organist consisted of playing at the Sunday services, on Saturday evenings, and on Saints' Days and their Vigils.

* Beavor, or bever = 'A small repast between meals; a "snack," munchon, or lunch; especially one in the afternoon between mid-day dinner and supper.' (Dr. Murray's 'A New English Dictionary.')

The Governors' Orders, after the death of Stevens, read as follow:—

17. Feb: 1838. The salary of the future Organists of the Hospital be £70 a year & that no apartments or further emoluments be allowed except a room set apart and a fire provided when necessary for his use on those days upon which his duty requires his attendance in the Hospital.

We elect and appoint Mr. William Horsley Bachelor of Music to be Organist of this Hospital in the room of Mr. Richard John Samuel Stevens deceased.

To William Horsley, the glee-writer, succeeded, in 1858, John Hullah, and on the death of the latter, in 1884, Miss Taylor, the present organist, was elected. Space will not admit of detailed references to Horsley and Hullah, both worthy musicians, but they, as well as some of their distinguished predecessors, may form the subjects of future Biographical Sketches in THE MUSICAL TIMES. Suffice it at present to say that a tablet to William Horsley's memory is in the Chapel; and a similar memorial to John Hullah, erected at the instigation of his friend and colleague in the Chapel services, the Rev. H. V. Le Bas, the present Preacher, bears the following inscription, written by the late Rev. Henry Wright Phillott, Canon of Hereford:—

M. S.

JOHANNIS HULLAH, LL.D.

Qui In Cedibus Carthusiani

Primum Cantandi Magister Deinde Organista

Annos XLII Felicissime Explevit

Bonis Artibus Bonisque Literis Imbutus

Hanc Laudem Præ Cæteris Adeptus Est

Ut Musicam Artem Si Quis Alius

Publici Juris Faceret

Natus Anno MDCCCXI Decessit MDCCCLXXXIV

Amici Carthusiani

H. M. P. C.

For valued assistance rendered in the preparation of this article the best thanks of the writer are due to the Master of the Charterhouse, the Rev. Canon Haig-Brown, especially for his kind permission in allowing the extracts to be made from the Governors' Orders; to the Preacher, the Rev. H. V. Le Bas, for practical help in various ways and in reading the proof; to Mr. H. S. Wright, the assistant Receiver, for copying out the extracts from the Governors' Orders; and to Messrs. E. T. Bottom and Co., of Farringdon Road, for the free use of their views of the Charterhouse.

The special supplement portrait of William Horsley is reproduced from an oil-painting by William Owen, R.A., in the possession of Mrs. John Callcott Horsley, and by her kind permission. This fine portrait of the distinguished glee-composer has not hitherto been published.

DOTTED CROCHET.

BERLIOZIANA.

A BIRTHDAY IN LONDON.

Hector Berlioz was born on December 11, 1803. 'Did he spend a birthday in England?' Yes, that on which he completed his forty-fourth year, Saturday, December 11, 1847. 'How did he spend it?' Ah! that is a question not quite so easy to answer. On the Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of that week he conducted performances of 'The Bride of Lammermoor' (an English version of Donizetti's 'Lucia') at Drury Lane Theatre, under Jullien's management. Sims Reeves appeared in this (as Edgar) and created a furore. As no opera performance seems to have been given on the Saturday, Berlioz was free to celebrate his birthday as pleased him best. 'What could he have done in the way of amusement?' Well, he might have visited the Cattle Show—the last day—then held at the Horse Bazaar, King Street, Portman Square. A grand morning concert given by 'Singers of the Pyrenees' at the Royal Adelaide Gallery, Strand, would scarcely interest him, although Miss Sara Flower was one of the attractions of the concert. In the evening the Round, Catch and Canon Club fraternized in vocal harmony at the Freemasons' Tavern; but Berlioz would doubtless find more entertainment in witnessing a French play at St. James's Theatre, or in attending a performance of 'The Taming of the Shrew' at the Haymarket Theatre. But all this is mere speculation, and the reader may be inclined to remark: 'Probably Berlioz passed a quiet evening with his friend Mr. J. W. Davison.' This, too, is a little doubtful, as Davison, except for a brief visit to London for the Gloucester Musical Festival, sojourned in Paris from September 4 to December 8 of that year (1847). On the latter date he wrote from Paris to his friend Desmond Ryan (in London), three days before Berlioz's birthday:—

When you receive this I shall be far hence, in quite another part of the musical world [the latter appeared in the Musical World]; at what time, if ever, you hear from me again, and where, if anywhere, I am now unable to say. Perhaps it may be from the North . . . Good-bye, until our next epistolary shake-hand, which I trust may not be on the other side of eternity—till then, notwithstanding, I am yours

D.

This extract is of a doleful nature; but it should be remembered that Davison, despite his Parisian surroundings, was mourning the loss of his friend Mendelssohn, whose death had taken place a short time previously. As another interesting link connecting Berlioz with England it may be mentioned that he dedicated his Te Deum to 'Son Altesse Royale Monseigneur le Prince Albert'; the dedication of his 'Corsaire' Overture is to 'James W. Davison, Esq.'

AN EXCHANGE OF TOMAHAWKS!

Mendelssohn came into the world five years after Berlioz, and the French composer outlived him more than twenty years. In 1843 Berlioz wished to give a concert of his compositions in Leipzig. He approached Mendelssohn, whom he had previously met in Rome, and received from him the following letter, which we give in Mendelssohn's own French:—

Leipzig, 25 Janvier, 1843.

MON CHER BERLIOZ,

Je vous remercie bien de cœur de votre bonne lettre et de ce que vous ayez encore conservé le souvenir de notre amitié Romaine! Moi je ne l'oublierai de ma vie et je me réjouis de pouvoir vous le dire sous peu de temps de vive voix et dans ma patrie. Tout ce que je puis faire pour y rendre votre séjour heureux et agréable, je le ferai comme un plaisir et comme un devoir.

D'abord en tout cas je vous engage de venir à Leipzig, parceque je crois pouvoir vous répondre de ce que vous serez content de la ville, c'est à dire des musiciens et du public. Je n'ai pas voulu vous écrire sans avoir consulté plusieurs personnes qui connaissent la ville mieux que moi, et tous m'ont confirmé dans mon opinion, que vous ferez un excellent concert ici. Vous ne me dites pas, quelles sont vos intentions; vous me parlez seulement de faire entendre votre musique; mais je présume que cela doit être dans un Concert que vous donneriez vous même. Les meilleurs jours pour cela seraient les lundis ou bien les samedis. Les frais de l'orchestre, de la salle, des Annonces, &c., sont ordinairement de 100 à 110 écus; la recette d'une bonne salle est de 6 à 800 écus, nous en avons eu jusqu'à 1000 & 1100; et comme j'ai dit je ne doute nullement que vous ferez un excellent concert. Mais vous devriez être ici et arrêter le programme et tout ce qui est nécessaire au moins 8 à 10 jours avant le concert; il est impossible de l'arranger sous moins de temps, et votre présence personnelle serait indispensable pour un succès complet. Mais j'espère que cela ne fera pas de difficultés, parceque la chose est la même à Dresden, où vous viez aussi. Or vous pourrez tout arranger ici pour 8 ou 10 jours d'avance, puis partir pour Dresden, y faire la même chose (le voyage ne prend que 3½ heures), et revenir le jour après, si vous êtes pressé.

Mais comme vous ne me dites pas les détails de vos intentions j'ai communiqué votre projet de venir aux directeurs de la Société des Concerts d'Abonnement, qui m'ont chargé de vous demander si vous voulez faire exécuter un de vos ouvrages dans leur Concert pour les pauvres de la ville, qui sera donné le 22 février, et que dans ce cas ils arrangeraient leur programme suivant vos intentions. Je dois vous communiquer cela parcequ'ils m'en ont chargés, mais si vous ne manquez pas tout à fait d'envie de donner le Concert vous même je le vous conseillerai fortement parceque je suis certain que vous vous en trouverez bien. Peut-être pourrez vous accepter la proposition des Directeurs après le Concert, ou les Concerts que vous aurez donné vous même, si toute fois elle vous convient.

Je vous engage donc de venir ici aussitôt que vous pourrez quitter Weimar. Je me réjouis de pouvoir vous serrer la main & vous dire "Willkommen en Allemagne." Si vous ne pouvez pas venir sitôt et s'il y a quelque chose, que je puis faire pour vous en attendant écrivez moi.

Et ne vous moquez pas de mon méchant Français comme vous fesiez à Rome, mais continuez être mon bon ami comme vous étiez alors et comme je serai toujours.

Votre dévoué

FELIX MENDELSSOHN BARTHOLODY.

We believe that this generous letter—now in the British Museum—has not hitherto been published in full. The concert duly took place at the Gewandhaus on February 4, 1843, the programme including the Symphonie Fantastique, and the 'King Lear' and 'Francs Juges' Overtures. Mendelssohn's sister, Fanny Hensel, records the event in her diary in these words:—

Berlioz was at Leipzig at the same time with us, and his odd manners gave so much offence that Felix was continually being called upon to soothe somebody's ruffled feathers. When the parting came, Berlioz offered to exchange batons, 'as ancient warriors exchanged their armour,' and in return for Felix's pretty light stick of whalebone covered with white leather, Berlioz sent an enormous cudgel of lime-tree covered with bark, with an accompanying letter.

Fanny Hensel is not quite correct in referring to the baton exchange as a parting event. It took place at Leipzig, on the arrival of Berlioz, who found Mendelssohn rehearsing 'The Walpurgis Night.' The letter of Berlioz, which accompanied his cudgel-baton was addressed to Mendelssohn in these characteristic terms (translated):—

TO THE GREAT CHIEF, MENDELSSOHN!

Great Chief! We have promised to exchange tomahawks. Mine is a rough one—yours is plain. Only squaws and pale-faces are fond of ornate weapons.

Be my brother! And when the Great Spirit shall have sent us to hunt in the land of souls, may our warriors hang up our tomahawks together at the door of the Council-chamber.

A REMINISCENCE BY HEINE.

'From Berlioz we shall soon have an opera,' wrote Heinrich Heine in 1837. 'The subject is an episode from the life of Benvenuto Cellini, the casting of the Perseus. Something extraordinary is expected, since this composer has already achieved the extraordinary. His tendency is to the fantastical, not united with soul, but with sentimentality; he has great resemblance with Callot, Gozzi and Hoffmann. His outward appearance indicates as much. It is a pity that he has had cut off his immense, antediluvian frisur, his bushy hair, which bristled over his brow like a wood over a steep precipice; so I first saw him six years since, and so will he ever stand in my memory. It was in the Conservatoire de Musique, and they gave a grand Symphony by him [the Symphonie Fantastique, on Dec. 5, 1830], a bizarre sort of night piece, now and then illumined by the sentimental whiteness of a woman's robe, that fluttered to and fro, or by a sulphur-yellow gleam of irony. The best thing in it is a witches' sabbath, where the devil reads mass and the Catholic church music is parodied with the fearfulest and most sanguinary farcicality. It is a farce, in which all the secret snakes we carry in our hearts rear their hissing heads with joy.

'My companion in the box, a frank young man, pointed out to me the composer, who was in a corner of the orchestra, at the extreme end of the hall, beating the kettle-drum, that evidently being his instrument. "Do you see that stout English lady in front of the stage?" said my companion. "That is Miss Smithson; Berlioz has been desperately in love with this lady for three years, and to this passion we owe the wild symphony you hear to-day." And there, in fact, in the stage box, sat the famous actress of Covent-garden. Berlioz gazed at her continually, and every time his eye met hers he would beat away upon his kettle-drum like mad.

'Miss Smithson has since become Madame Berlioz. Since then her husband has had his hair cut off. When I heard his symphony again in the Conservatoire this winter, he again sat as a drummer at the back of the orchestra. The stout English-woman again occupied the stage-box; their eyes met . . . but Berlioz no longer beat so vigorously on the drum!'

FIRST PERFORMANCES IN ENGLAND.

It may be interesting as well as useful for reference to give the dates and places of the first performances of the chief works of Berlioz in England. The following information applies to those given in their complete form for the first time in this country:—

OP.	TITLE.	SOCIETY AND PLACE.	DATE.	CONDUCTOR.
1	Waverley Overture - -	(Società Armonica, Opera Concert Room, Haymarket - - -)	June 1, 1840 -	Mr. Henry Forbes
3	Francs-Juges Overture - -	Ditto - - -	March 30, 1840	Mr. Henry Forbes
4	King Lear Overture - -	(Willy's Promenade Concerts, Princess's Theatre - - -)	Dec. 7, 1840 -	Mr. J. T. Willy
5	Grande Messe des Morts - -	Crystal Palace - - -	May 26, 1883 -	Sir August Manns
9	Carnaval Romain Overture -	(Philharmonic Society, Hanover Square Rooms - - -)	March 15, 1841	Mr. Charles Lucas
14	Symphonie Fantastique - -	(Hallé Concerts, Free Trade Hall, Manchester - - -)	Jan. 9, 1879 -	Sir Charles Hallé
14 bis	Lélio, ou Le retour à la vie -	Crystal Palace - - -	Oct. 29, 1881 -	Sir August Manns
15	{ Symphonie funèbre et triomphale }	Ditto - - -	June 3, 1882 -	Sir August Manns
16	Harold in Italy Symphony - -	(Berlioz's own Concert, Drury Lane Theatre - - -)	Feb. 7, 1848 -	Berlioz
17	Romeo and Juliet Symphony -	(Philharmonic Society, St. James's Hall - - -)	March 10, 1881	Sir William Cusins
18	Tristia; three choruses with orchestra:
	No. 2 - - -	Crystal Palace - - -	March 7, 1891 -	Sir August Manns
	No. 3 - - -	Ditto - - -	March 2, 1889 -	Sir August Manns
21	Corsaire Overture - - -	Ditto - - -	Feb. 28, 1863 -	Sir August Manns
22	Te Deum - - -	Ditto - - -	April 18, 1885 -	Sir August Manns
23	Benvenuto Cellini (Opera) -	Covent Garden Theatre - - -	June 25, 1853 -	Berlioz
24	Faust - - -	(Hallé Concerts, Free Trade Hall, Manchester - - -)	Feb. 5, 1880 -	Sir Charles Hallé
25	L'Enfance du Christ - - -	Crystal Palace - - -	Dec. 30, 1880 -	Sir Charles Hallé
	Rob Roy Overture - - -	Ditto - - -	Feb. 24, 1902 -	Sir August Manns
	Beatrice & Benedict (Overture only) - - -	Ditto - - -	Feb. 10, 1877 -	Sir August Manns

Acts 1 and 2 of 'Faust' and a portion of the 'Requiem' were given under Berlioz's direction at Drury Lane Theatre on February 7, 1848. Parts I. to IV. of the 'Romeo and Juliet' Symphony were played, also under Berlioz, at the New Philharmonic Society's concert on April 28, 1852. M. Padeloup performed the greater part of 'Faust' at his concert on June 1, 1878. Extracts from others of the works tabulated above have been given at various times.

VINCENT NOVELLO.

1781—1861.

(Concluded from page 653.)

The instalment system applied to a biographical sketch has one advantage—an incident or fact inadvertently omitted in previous portions may afterwards be inserted, even at the risk of slight chronological disturbances. Therefore, we may hark back to the year 1829, when Vincent Novello and his wife 'took a pleasant journey together to Germany, for the fulfilment of a no less pleasant purpose.' This expedition, a much more formidable undertaking in those pre-railway days than now, was to present a sum of money, subscribed by lovers of music in London, to Mozart's sister, 'then in poor health and poorer means.' An extract from the kind-hearted musician's diary, dated Monday, July 15, 1829, is too interesting not to be quoted.

A still more delightful day, if possible, than yesterday—Mozart's son came to me at about 11 to conduct us to his aunt Sonnenberg—after a little chat we accompanied him to her house, which was within a few yards of where we resided.—It seems that she had passed a very restless and sleepless night for fear we should not come to see her, and had repeatedly expressed her regret that we had not been admitted when we first called. On entering the room, the sister of Mozart was reclining placidly in bed—but blind, feeble, and nearly speechless. Her nephew kindly explained to her who we were, and she seemed to derive much gratification from the intelligence we conveyed to her. During the whole time, I held her poor thin hand in mine, and pressed it with the sincere cordiality of an old friend of her brother. She appeared particularly pleased that the little present we had brought her should have arrived on her own Saint's day (St. Ann, the 26th of the month). Her own birthday is on the 30th, on which day she will have completed her 78th year. Her voice is nearly extinct, and she appears to be fast approaching 'that bourn from whence no traveller returns.'

Novello and Mozart's son played on the clavi-chord which had belonged to Mozart himself, and the English organist subsequently paid a visit to the widow of the immortal composer. It is no wonder that this visit to Salzburg, with all its associations with the career of Mozart, should have been one of the most interesting incidents in the life of Vincent Novello.

In 1831 he composed a sacred song, the words by Mrs. Novello, entitled 'The Infant's Prayer,' which had an extraordinary vogue, no fewer than 100,000 copies having been sold of this one publication. Its popularity was greatly stimulated by the manner in which the simple strains were expressively sung by his daughter Clara, now the Countess Gigliucci. An interesting sidelight on the propagation of Bach's organ music in England—in which Novello, led on by the red-hot enthusiasm of 'old Sam' Wesley, took a prominent part—is furnished by the following little note, which reached him by hand on a Sunday morning in May, 1832, from his friend Thomas Attwood, organist of St. Paul's Cathedral. Here is the short-notice invitation in facsimile:—

Sunday May 27th 1832

Dear Novello, —

Mendelssohn has just rec'd some Manuscripts of Sebastian Bach which he proposes trying this M^o. Hope you will meet him — young lady

J. P. Attwood

It was doubtless on this occasion that Mendelssohn played the delicious prelude and fugue of Bach, known as 'the little E minor.' Novello, as well he might, took a fancy to this Sebastianic gem, and asked Mendelssohn to give him a copy of it. In reply he wrote:—

As soon as I have a free moment, I will try to write for you the Fugue in E [minor]; but I cannot promise whether I shall succeed, as I fear I do not recollect exactly the distribution of parts in some passages. However, I will try it, and if I do not recollect it, get you a copy from Germany.

At that time Novello was editing his 'Select Organ Pieces,' and, as usual, on the sharp look out for novelties. Upon receiving the transcript of this Bach piece (in 1833) he immediately published it as No. 42 of the series. And this brings out the very interesting fact that the little E minor organ prelude and fugue by J. S. Bach was first printed and published in England before it had appeared in any other country; moreover, this honour can be claimed by the house of Novello through the zeal of its founder. As this edition of the prelude and fugue differs greatly from other printed versions, students will enjoy making their own comparisons.

At the beginning of the piece Novello states: 'From a MS. never before published'; and at the end: 'For originality of subject, masterly treatment of it, refined taste, and pathetic expression, this exquisite fugue has probably never been exceeded, even by Sebastian Bach himself.—V. N.' A foot-note, also by Novello, printed at the end of the first page, is too interesting not to be quoted in full:—

For this extremely rare specimen of Sebastian Bach's extraordinary musical genius, the Editor is indebted to the obliging politeness of his kind friend Mendelssohn Bartholdy, who frequently played it to him, from memory, at the time when there was no copy of the manuscript to be obtained in England. During his visit to Germany this year (1833), Mr. Mendelssohn was so kind as to procure a copy, and very obligingly allowed a transcript of it to be made for the Editor of this work, who had so often expressed his admiration of the composition. The writer of the present note gladly avails himself of this opportunity of expressing his best acknowledgments to a gentleman whom he considers one of the greatest ornaments of the musical art in the present age, for this as well as for other gratifying proofs of his liberal and friendly sentiments towards him.

An important Beethoven event took place in London on Christmas Eve, 1832,—before the Christmas card microbe had germinated—when the great Mass in D was first performed in England. At the home of a zealous amateur, Mr. Thomas Massa Alsage, at Queen Square, Bloomsbury, there assembled together a full band and chorus, conducted by Moscheles. Novello played the organ, his daughter and son (Clara and Alfred) were the soprano and bass soloists respectively, his daughter and son-in-law (Mr. and Mrs. Cowden-Clarke) sang in the chorus, as did also his son Edward Novello, the painter. A copy of the programme of this interesting event is preserved in the Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge.

Nine days after the Beethoven performance the Choral Harmonists Society sprang into existence. This association of amateurs, devoted to the performance of important choral works with orchestral accompaniment, held its first meeting at the New London Tavern, Bridge Street, Blackfriars, on January 2, 1833. Novello, one of the pioneers of the Society, shared the duties of conductor with Charles Lucas, Charles Neate, and Henry Westrop. From an almost complete set of programmes, word-books, &c., of the Society (1833-1851), presented by its leader, the late Mr. J. H. B. Dando, and now in the possession of the present writer, one is able to form an opinion of the energy and enthusiasm of London amateurs seventy years ago, and moreover to pass judgment on the excellence of the music performed by them. For instance, Purcell's 'King Arthur' was given at the London Tavern (to which place the concerts had been removed) on June 26, 1835. The social element appears to have been a feature of these pleasant music-makings, as we find this injunction printed on the programmes:—

The Committee request that Members and Visitors will resume the same seats after tea which they occupied during the first part of the performance.

The eclectic nature of the music performed must have added greatly to the enjoyment of these meetings. Madrigals, Oratorios, Masses, including the Credo from Bach's B minor Mass (in 1838), &c., were sung, Overtures were played, and on May-day, 1838, there was performed 'Grand Concerto E flat (Piano-forte obbligato) Beethoven.' The 'piano-forte obbligato' is amusing. In setting the word-book of this concert the printer uses the figure 6 for a flat sign (♭)—'Grand Concerto . . . (E6) . . . Beethoven.' On February 25, 1839, the Choral Harmonists gave the first public performance of Beethoven's Mass in D in this country. But we must hasten on and rapidly survey the remaining years of Vincent Novello's career.

In 1834 the family removed to 69, Dean Street, where for thirty-three years—till the removal to Berners Street in 1867—the business of the Novello firm rapidly developed. At the Philharmonic concert of March 17, 1834, a dramatic cantata, 'Rosalba,' for six voices, composed expressly for the Society by Vincent Novello, was performed. Later in the year he officiated as one of the organists at the Royal Musical Festival held in Westminster Abbey on June 24, 26, 28, and July 1. On that occasion Sterndale Bennett played the viola in the orchestra, while the rank and file of the chorus included Henry Smart (then of Blackburn) among the altos (all male voices), while John Hullah and G. A. Macfarren lent vocal aid to the basses.

THE NOVELLO WINDOW IN THE NORTH TRANSEPT OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

(Photographed specially for THE MUSICAL TIMES by Mr. Thomas J. Wright.)

From 1840 to 1843 Novello was organist of the Roman Catholic Chapel, Moorfields. According to the list of subscribers to Dr. Joseph Pring's 'Twenty Anthems,' he seems to have held a similar appointment at St. Patrick's Chapel, Soho Square, in the year 1805, but this organistship has not hitherto been mentioned by any of his biographers. After living for a few years at Craven Hill, Bayswater, Novello, owing to the delicate health of his wife, removed to Nice, where he resided from 1849 to 1854. Upon the death there of Mrs. Novello (July 25, 1854) he returned to England, and remained in London for two years, at 27, Porchester Terrace, Bayswater. In 1856 he again sought the genial climate of Italy, and died at Nice on August 9, 1861, within a month of his eightieth birthday.

The word 'industry' must be writ large in estimating the life-work of Vincent Novello. His editing achievements were quite remarkable, especially taking into consideration the constant claims of a busy teacher of music and other regular engagements that must be fulfilled. No one can grudge the credit that is due to him for making known many strains of music that would otherwise have remained hidden and unpublished, at least for many a day. Some of his principal publications have been mentioned in the course of this sketch. To these must be added the editing of eighteen Masses by Mozart and sixteen by Haydn, of which ten of the former and nine of the latter were printed for the first time; The Psalmist, a large collection of Hymn-tunes (1836); Croft's and Greene's Anthems (each two vols.); Boyce's Anthems (four vols.); the Masses of Beethoven, and a large number of Oratorios by Handel and other composers, &c. Keenly interested in the literary side of his art, he was an assiduous collector of manuscripts, many of which he presented to the British Museum on his departure to Italy in 1849. He also presented to the Museum a large collection of his letters, those, for example, written to him by that master of epistolary humour, Samuel Wesley, being of special interest.

The personality of Vincent Novello may well be given in the words of his eldest daughter, the late Mrs. Cowden-Clarke, who records * :—

His manners, when in good health, were social, gay, and lively. Fond of conversation, he talked well and freely, when with those he intimately knew; but he was retiring—nay, shy—with strangers. He had a good deal of English reserve in his bearing towards those whom he met for the first time; though it wore off on acquaintance, and vanished altogether when he took a liking to them. He had a certain quiet pride, common to very modest men; conscious of innate merit, yet averse from self-assertion. With his chosen friends he was easy, genial, cordial. With them he gave way to mirth and good-fellowship; laughed, bantered, punned. He was a great punster; and vied honourably with Charles Lamb, Leigh Hunt, and Henry Robertson,—those masters in the art of punning.

Two years after his death a window to his memory was placed in the North Transept of Westminster Abbey, a sanctuary he loved to visit. We give a photograph, specially taken for this article, of the Novello Memorial window, the subject of which, appropriately enough, is St. Cecilia, the patron saint of Music.

F. G. E.

Occasional Notes.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS OF THE DAY TO—

Sir Frederick Bridge, M.V.O.	-	-	-	December 5.
Charles W. Pearce	-	-	-	" 5.
John E. West	-	-	-	" 7.
Pietro Mascagni	-	-	-	" 7.
Algernon Ashton	-	-	-	" 9.
Wilhelm Kuhe	-	-	-	" 10.
Charles L. Graves	-	-	-	" 15.
Henry R. Gadsby	-	-	-	" 15.
Moritz Rosenthal	-	-	-	" 18.
Edward MacDowell	-	-	-	" 18.
Stephen S. Stratton	-	-	-	" 19.
Charles Fry	-	-	-	" 20.
Alan Gray	-	-	-	" 23.
Hugh Percy Allen	-	-	-	" 23.
William H. Hadow	-	-	-	" 27.
Charles Manners	-	-	-	" 28.
Henry Hiles	-	-	-	" 31.

We are permitted to make a preliminary announcement of an important nature. The Grand Opera Syndicate, in conjunction with Mr. Schulz-Curtius, intend to give at Covent Garden Theatre an Elgar Festival. The Festival will consist of three concerts of Dr. Elgar's works, to be performed on three consecutive evenings—March 14, 15, and 16, 1904. Dr. Richter is to conduct, and as he will bring with him from Manchester his own orchestra and choir, perfection of ensemble, no less than delicacy of detail, will be assured in the various interpretations. The scheme includes performances of 'The Dream of Gerontius' and 'The Apostles,' in addition to an orchestral concert, at which will be produced a new and important orchestral work composed by Dr. Elgar. The success which has attended his 'Variations on an Original Theme' will naturally raise high expectations in regard to this important orchestral novelty. The occasion will be looked forward to with peculiar interest, as the event is one that may be regarded as unique in the history of music in this country.

Dr. Sweeting, in his article 'Dr. Crotch on Bach's Forty-eight' (p. 717 of our November issue), gives a Crotch annotation to the Fugue in G (No. 15), consisting of two words, 'New College.' This prompted Dr. Sweeting to ask the question 'What does this mean?' Mr. J. F. R. Stainer kindly explains the old Professor's enigmatical reference by stating that the three-quarters chime of New College, Oxford, sounds—which may be compared with bar 10 (from the end) of the Fugue in question. Mr. Stainer adds: 'The New College chimes are all of them original. Here they are:—

I always remember them because my father once turned them into a hymn-tune. You have only to repeat the Hour after the Half, and add appropriate harmonies. Try it.'

* Life and Labours of Vincent Novello, p. 62.

Sir August Manns! Hearty congratulations to the veteran conductor upon an honour so thoroughly well deserved. No name in the Honours List issued in commemoration of the King's birthday was received with more satisfaction than that of 'August Manns, Esq., Musical Director of the Crystal Palace.' This satisfaction, be it observed, was not restricted to the musical folk of the country, but was shared in no small degree by numberless persons who have visited the great glass house at Sydenham during the last fifty years, and who have enjoyed the music there provided for them. Sir August was the hero of the evening at the annual dinner (on the 10th ult.) of the Musical Association. In response to the special congratulatory toast of his health, he told us that, on May-Day, 1854, he entered the service of the Crystal Palace Company as sub-conductor, composer, arranger, copyist, librarian, clarinetist, and to make himself generally useful, at the wages of '£3 a week'! He played the E flat clarinet at the opening of the Crystal Palace by Queen Victoria on June 10, 1854, but was discharged six months afterwards! The Directors, however, soon recalled him, and on Saturday, October 20, 1855, he conducted his first concert at the Crystal Palace, the programme stating: 'August Manns, Musical Director.' At this concert, by-the-way, he played two violin solos. Further details of those early days in his English career will be found in the Biographical Sketch of him which appeared in THE MUSICAL TIMES of March, 1898, much of the material for which he very kindly supplied. Sir August Manns has received his Knighthood in the eventide of his life; but may he long be spared to enjoy the honour conferred upon him as some acknowledgment of the splendid services he has rendered for half-a-century, with untiring zeal and disinterested motives, to the cause of music in the land of his adoption.

The outline programme for the Gloucester Musical Festival, to be held in September next, has just been issued. As at present devised the scheme includes the 'Messiah,' 'Elijah,' and the 'Hymn of Praise'—all three necessary props of Provincial Festivals—Brahms's 'Requiem,' Stanford's 'Te Deum,' an Organ Concerto by Dr. C. H. Lloyd, and Elgar's 'The Apostles.' New works have been promised by Sir Hubert Parry and Mr. A. Herbert Brewer, Organist of Gloucester Cathedral and Conductor of the Festival. Mr. Brewer's novelty is to be a short oratorio entitled 'The Holy Innocents.' At a meeting of the Festival Stewards, held on the 14th ult., the Dean of Gloucester vetoed a proposed performance of 'The Dream of Gerontius.'

Dr. Elgar has left England for the Continent in order to take a prolonged rest. On his way to Italy he stayed at Düsseldorf for the purpose of conferring with Professor Julius Butts, the German translator of the words of 'The Apostles,' that work having been selected for performance at the Lower Rhine Musical Festival to be held at Cologne and to be conducted by Herr Steinbach on Whit-Sunday next. 'The Apostles' will also be given in New York during February, and by the Royal Choral Society at the Albert Hall on April 21, 1904.

Performances of 'The Dream of Gerontius' have taken place during the past month in Sheffield (conductor, Dr. Henry Coward), in Manchester (under Dr. Richter), and in New York. Every ticket was sold long before the concerts took place at the two former cities, and the Oratorio was received with extraordinary enthusiasm. At Manchester the composer, who was present at the interpretation of his work, received an overwhelming ovation.

We give a view of the house—indicated by a flag—in which Beethoven drew his last breath. As this historical habitation will soon be a thing of the past, the following account of the closing scene, from the Athenæum of the 21st ult., will be read with interest:—

'The houses in which great men were born or died are naturally held in special veneration. But, like all things human, they pass away in time. One remarkable house was lately doomed to demolition, and by the time these lines are published will have partly or entirely ceased to exist. This was the Schwarzspanierhaus at Vienna in which Beethoven breathed his last on March 26th, 1827. On Sunday, November 15th—the seventy-eighth anniversary, by the way, of the death of the brother, Caspar Carl, whose son was the cause of so much anxiety and sorrow to the composer—there was a gathering in the

THE HOUSE IN WHICH BEETHOVEN DIED.

THE WINDOW OF THE ROOM IS INDICATED BY A FLAG.

two rooms occupied by Beethoven from the autumn of 1825 down to his death. Dr. Lueger, burgomaster of the city of Vienna, was prevented by indisposition from being present, but was represented by Dr. Neumayr, who delivered an address. Herr Reimers, of the Hofburg Theatre, recited a poem specially written for the occasion. But the most impressive part of the ceremony was the performance, said to have been an admirable one, by the Prill quartet players of Beethoven's last Quartet in F, Op. 135, and in the actual room in which the master died. He occupied two rooms in the house, and in the other, in which some of the numerous guests were assembled, part, if not all, of the work was composed. The autograph of the first movement (Allegretto) belongs to Dr. Heinrich Steger, who was present, and brought it with him. The last movement bore the superscription "Muss es sein? Es muss sein," of which words more than one explanation has been given. But over a sketch of the wonderfully pathetic yet peaceful lento is marked "Süsser Ruhe Gesang." Beethoven was in very bad health at the time he wrote the quartet, and it is very possible that the interpretation of "Muss es sein? Es muss sein" by the contemporaries of Beethoven, as an allusion to death, may be correct. If so, the "sweet rest" in his thoughts must have been that of the grave, for by long and painful experience he knew full well that he could no longer hope for it on earth.'

As a sequel to the history of the Hovingham Musical Festival given in our last issue (p. 739), we append a list of the principal works performed at that Yorkshire music-making since its inception in 1887 to the present time. Accompanying the list—which by reason of space is reduced from a longer document—is a photograph of the enthusiastic Founder and

CANON PEMBERTON.

Conductor of the Festival, Canon Pemberton (formerly Hudson). This portrait is reduced from an oil-painting presented to him 'by numerous subscribers on the occasion of the 10th Hovingham Musical Festival, September 18 and 19, 1900.'

WORKS PERFORMED AT THE HOVINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1887-1903.

BACH.—'God's time is the best'; 'O Light everlasting'; Concerto for two violins (three times); Concerto for violin in A minor; Suite in D, &c.

BEETHOVEN.—Mass in C; Symphonies in D, C minor, and F (Pastoral); Violin Concerto (three times—twice by Dr. Joachim); Pianoforte Concertos in G and E flat; Overtures, 'Leonora,' No. 3, 'Egmont,' &c.

STERNDALE BENNETT.—'May-Queen'; Overture, 'Naïads.'

BRAHMS.—'Requiem'; 'Song of Destiny' (twice), &c.

DVORAK.—'Spectre's Bride'; 'Stabat Mater.'

GLUCK.—Overture 'Iphigenia in Aulis.'

GORING THOMAS.—'The Swan and the Skylark.'

GRAY, DR. ALAN.—'The Rock Buoy Bell' (Choral Ballad, written specially); Coronation March (first time); Scena for baritone, 'The Vision of Belshazzar' (first time).

HANDEL.—'Messiah'; 'Judas Maccabæus'; 'Samson' (abridged).

HAYDN.—'Creation' (Part I); Violoncello Concerto.

JOACHIM.—Notturmo for Violin; March in C.

MACKENZIE.—Benedictus (for orchestra); 'Britannia' Overture.

MENDELSSOHN.—'Elijah' (three times); 'St Paul' (twice); 'Hymn of Praise' (three times); 'Walpurgis Night'; Violin Concerto (three times), &c.

MOZART.—Symphonies in G minor, E flat, and C ('Jupiter'); Pianoforte Concerto in A (Köchel 488); Violin Concerto in A; Overtures: 'Figaro'; 'Zauberflöte,' &c.

NAYLOR, DR. E. W.—'The Weird Lady' (Choral Ballad, written specially); Prologue to 'King Arthur' (first time).

NICOLAI.—Overture: 'Merry Wives of Windsor.'

NOBLE, T. T.—Birthday Greeting to Dr. Joachim (words by the Dean of York); Overture to 'The Wasps.'

PARRY, HUBERT.—'Judith' (twice); 'Ode on St. Cecilia's day'; 'Blest pair of Sirens.'

ROSSINI.—Overture: 'Guillaume Tell.'

SAINT-SAËNS.—Pianoforte Concerto in G minor.

SCHUBERT.—Unfinished Symphony, &c.

SCHUMANN.—Pianoforte Concerto (twice); Concertstück; 'Abend-lied' (played by Dr. Joachim), &c.

SPOHR.—'God Thou art great'; Duet for two violins, &c.

STANFORD.—'Revenge' (twice); 'The three holy children' (Part I); 'Te Deum'; 'Last Post,' &c.

SOMERVELL, A.—An Elegy (Contralto and Chorus, written specially), SULLIVAN.—'The Golden Legend.'

TAYLOR, MRS. TOM.—'A Prophecy' (Chorus and Orchestra, first time).

TSCHAIKOVSKY.—Variations for Violoncello.

THOMSON, MISS ALEXANDRA.—'The Battle of the Baltic' (Choral Ballad, written specially).

VERDI.—'Requiem.'

WAGNER.—'Flying Dutchman' (omitting Act I.); 'Siegfried Idyll.' WEBER.—Overtures: 'Der Freischütz,' 'Oberon,' 1813' (first time in England).

WESLEY, S. S.—'The Wilderness' (Orchestrated by the Composer).

WOOD, DR. CHARLES.—'The Song of the Tempest' (Soprano, Chorus and Orchestra, written specially); 'Ethiopia Saluting the Colours' (first time with Orchestra).

The death of Sir Herbert Oakeley, noticed in another column, recalls the controversy caused by his appointment to the Reid Professorship of Music at the University of Edinburgh in the year 1865. The actual contest lay between John Hullah and Herbert Oakeley, the latter being elected—so it is said—by the casting vote of Mr. Gladstone, chairman of the elective body. But it may not be without interest at this distance of time—thirty-eight years—to give the names of the full score of gentlemen who announced themselves to the Court as candidates for the vacant post, but who were not appointed, some of whom may have withdrawn from the contest. Here is the list which we take from The Choral of November 1, 1865:—

1. Edward Osmund Page, Manchester.
2. Francis Dickins, Brighton.
3. John Hullah, London.
4. H. Wylde, Mus.D., London.
5. J. Thorne Harris, Edinburgh.
6. D. C. Hewitt, London.
7. Joseph F. Duggan, London.
8. Ebenezer Prout, B.A., London.
9. G. French Flowers, Mus.D., London.
10. George A. Macfarren, London.
11. S. Austen Pearce, Mus.D., London.
12. Henry John Gauntlett, Mus.D., London.
13. Carl F. Hempel, Mus.D., Perth.
14. John Stainer, B.A., Mus.B., Oxford.
15. William Rea, Newcastle.
16. James Kean, M.A., St. Andrews.
17. Carl Deichmann, London.
18. James Barnhill, M.A., Glasgow.
19. Scotson Clark, London.
20. George B. Allen, Mus.B., London.

The above list contains both grain and chaff. Among the grain, three names will at once attract attention as the subsequent holders of University Professorships of Music—George A. Macfarren, at Cambridge; Ebenezer Prout, at Dublin; and John Stainer, at Oxford. How different would have been their respective careers had they become dwellers in the northern city! Stainer, then a young man of twenty-five, would certainly have been like a fish out of water had he exchanged his Oxford environment, with all its fine traditions of church music, for the cold ecclesiastical atmosphere which then existed in Scotland. 'Tis well Stainer did not go to Edinburgh: a residence there would have gone against the grain.

The historic house of Broadwood is about to remove from Great Pulteney Street to Conduit Street. It was in the year 1732 that the founder of the business, Burkardt Tschudi, a maker of harpsichords, opened the premises that are to be forsaken, thus the location traditions of seventeen years will therefore be uprooted. John Broadwood, a young Scot, born at Cockburn's Path, a village on the Berwickshire coast, came to London, as Scotchmen do, to seek his fortune. He entered the factory of Tschudi, who had a daughter, and by a matrimonial process Barbara Tschudi evolved into Barbara Broadwood. In 1783 John Broadwood became sole proprietor, and the name of Tschudi (or Shudi, in its Anglicised form) dropped out of the title of the firm. Tschudi, through the introduction of Handel, supplied a double harpsichord to the then Prince of Wales, whereby the harpsichord maker was privileged to use the Prince of Wales's crest as the sign of the Great Pulteney Street house, which was known as 'The Plume of Feathers' until the time, about 1767, when houses began to be numbered in London. To think of the great masters of music and others who have passed the portal of the old house in Great Pulteney Street! Let us recall the names of a few: Handel, Mozart (as a boy eight years old), Haydn (said to have composed there), Clementi, Hummel, Mendelssohn, Liszt, and Chopin. And did not Beethoven greatly treasure the pianoforte presented to him, in 1818, by Mr. Thomas Broadwood? Beethoven would allow no one but himself to touch this instrument except Stumpf, his trusted tuner. He had an acoustic apparatus attached to his Broadwood pianoforte in order that he might hear the sounds which he brought forth by the touch of his genius hand. The deafness of Beethoven is one of the most pathetic things in music's history. Knowing all this, one cannot help feeling a sense of regret at the change that is about to be made; but sentiment has to make way for business. The old associations, however, remain with all their interesting memories, and the Broadwood House will have many well-wishers for its continued prosperity in the new surroundings. We may, in conclusion, refer to a Punch drawing—was it not by the inimitable Charles Keene?—which depicted the landlady of a lodging-house showing her rooms to a prospective occupant. 'I see,' said the lady enquiring about the apartments, 'that you have a rosewood piano.' 'No, mum,' indignantly replied the landlady, 'It's a Broadwood'!

Dr. Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius' was produced at Darmstadt on October 19 by the local Musikverein, under the direction of Hofkapellmeister Willem de Haan, and with Fräulein Else Bengell (mezzo-soprano), Herr Oskar Noë (tenor), and Herr Alexander Heinemann (bass) as soloists. The Darmstädter Zeitung in the course of a long notice of the concert says:—

'The Dream of Gerontius' is Op. 38 of the English composer Edward William Elgar, whose numerous compositions have made a very esteemed name for him in his fatherland, a name which is beginning to attract more and more the attention of the musical world abroad. We have in this work to do with a nobly-feeling musician of exceptionally serious tendencies. To be sure, he has been strongly influenced by Wagner's 'Parsifal,' but his remarkable technical knowledge compels admiration, and he frequently displays such depth and strength of musical expression that the listeners are irresistibly attracted by its spell. The orchestral writing is brilliant in its harmonization and glowing in its colouring; the choruses, partly written in the old church style, are extraordinarily effective and frequently of entrancing beauty. In the gruesomely realistic Demon Choruses, however, the composer occasionally crosses the border line of æsthetic beauty. Very deeply and warmly tinged are the solo parts, of which the tenor role specially makes exceptional demands upon the interpreter.

It may be added that during the week that saw the Darmstadt production of the 'Dream of Gerontius,' Herr de Haan celebrated his twenty-five years' jubilee as conductor of the Grand Ducal Court Theatre. Our congratulations to the distinguished musician!

Among the 'Annotations' in its issue of the 21st ult., The Lancet has a paragraph headed 'Music and Madness,' which begins thus:—

By the above heading we do not mean to suggest that Hector Berlioz, whose centenary occurs this year, was mad, but the vague aspirations, the longings, the loneliness, and the horrible visions of insanity were surely never more powerfully set forth than in that master's 'Symphonie Fantastique,' a most powerful rendering of which was given at Queen's Hall, London, on November 12, by Herr Felix Weingartner and the magnificent band under his control.

After giving a description of the Symphony, the 'Annotation'—a much saner thing, by-the-way, than sometimes passes under that name in the concert-room—concludes thus:—

It is not soothing music, but so far as one man can enter into another's brain and convey his sensation to others, Berlioz has certainly made his music a means to so doing. Medical men who have not heard this work should take the first opportunity of repairing their neglect.

This is excellent advice, and should the faculty act upon it when the work is performed by such a rhythmic-gifted conductor as Weingartner, the doctors would certainly feel the pulse of the music.

The good use to which an unselfish collector may put his books is splendidly set forth in the Report for 1902-3 of the Public Free Libraries Committee of the Corporation of Manchester. We learn that Dr. Henry Watson continues to make valuable additions to his Musical Library, and is able to report considerable progress with a card catalogue of the collection, which now numbers nearly 20,000 volumes. The facilities which Dr. Watson has kindly made for the loan of his books are greatly appreciated by the serious-minded students of music of Manchester.

This year Berlioz is to have a centenary.

He died in 1869—just over thirty years ago, and marvellous to contemplate when you look at his scores.

Berlioz—the storm-tossed, the tireless swimmer against adverse currents, the man to whom a pinprick was as a gaping wound—has a centenary.

The character of the many-sided sixteenth artist.

The above extracts are from a so-called 'appreciation' of Berlioz which appeared in the programme-book of the centenary concert recently conducted by Dr. Richter in London. The first three sentences are from the same paragraph, in which we are told that 'Berlioz is to have a centenary' and that he 'has a centenary.' Sentence two is hardly a model of lucid English, and sentence four is intended to apply to Benvenuto Cellini! Poor Cellini! Poor appreciation!

Miss Muriel Foster and Mr. Ben Davies had the honour of singing, and Mr. Leonard Borwick of playing the pianoforte, before the King and Queen, their illustrious guests, and the Court at Windsor Castle on the evening of the 20th ult., during the recent visit of the King and Queen of Italy.

The dog note in our last issue has been quoted in London and provincial journals. The genial writer of 'Musical Notes' in the Birmingham Daily Gazette, in commenting upon the suggestion of eight well-tempered dogs who would bark the scale, says: 'But why only eight? Why not a round dozen to bark the chromatic scale?' Quite so. But should there be any difficulty in obtaining twelve qualified barkists, recourse may be had to the farmyard by inducing a dozen lusty birds to cock-a-doodle-doo the chromatic scale. 'Eggsactly,' will be the natural exclamation of our friend yoked to the Birmingham Daily Gazette.

A Leith correspondent writes:—

The following Wagner story, one that would have delighted the cynical Davison, may be found worthy of insertion in THE MUSICAL TIMES:—

Bismarck was once asked what he thought of the great Richard. 'Well,' he replied, 'he is decidedly a better composer than Goethe, and a better poet than Mozart.'

ALFRED EDWARD RODEWALD.

It is no easy matter to do justice to the memory of Mr. A. E. Rodewald, of Liverpool, who died there on Monday, the 9th ult. Nor can anything be here attempted but a few notes on his services to musical art in this country and on the peculiar kind of influence that he exercised among musicians and others interested in music. The description of him as a 'familiar figure on the Liverpool Cotton Exchange' reminds one that he was not a professional musician. Yet with so much ability and with such quiet singleness of purpose did he, during his nineteen years' experience as amateur conductor of a partially amateur orchestra, follow a sound artistic principle that he gradually—and, as it were, inadvertently—acquired the status of a distinguished musical artist, and came to be recognized as one of the real initiators in the musical life of the country,—as a follower, like Mr. Wood, in the footsteps of Hallé, Manns and Richter—while his personal influence was comparable to no other man's.

Born in Liverpool and educated at Charterhouse, Mr. Rodewald was a thorough Britisher, notwithstanding his German name and blood. Besides pianoforte-playing as an ordinary amateur accomplishment, he acquired in his youth a very fair degree of skill as a double-bass player. The manner in which his Liverpool Orchestra came into existence is characteristic. It originated as a body of amateurs brought together for a philanthropic purpose, in connection with Monsignor Nugent's Free Saturday Evening Concerts, begun and carried on as a counter-attraction to the public-house. In drilling that body of amateurs Mr. Rodewald discovered his talent for conducting, and it was simply by constant reference to genuine standards, instead of the usual amateur nonsense, that he himself advanced and enabled his orchestra to advance until, as the 'Liverpool Orchestral Society' of recent years, they successfully tackled the most difficult scores of Wagner, Tchaikovsky, and Richard Strauss, besides the older classics.

Such great undertakings were only carried out at the cost of somewhat excessive effort and strain. Mr. Rodewald was often much fatigued after one of his Saturday evening concerts and too much excited to sleep. At the time of his death he was engaged in studying the tremendous 'Heldenleben' score, with a view to two performances in the course of the present season. Perhaps he attempted rather too much; but if so he injured no one but himself. Other musicians never derived anything but good from their association with him; and it is scarcely possible to overstate the value of his work in his own neighbourhood in awakening a taste for the best in musical art.

One naturally seeks to discover the secret of his extraordinary success, and enquires whether there was anything in addition to absolute technical ability to account for it. Four such points—apart from technical ability—suggest themselves as having probably had an important bearing on his musical success. First, his complete indifference to the distinction between amateur and professional. He never dreamed of resting satisfied with the inferior standards usually considered sufficient for amateurs. He wanted good stuff properly done, or done in the best possible manner that could be compassed with his resources, and he cared for no discussion or criticism that made allowance for the amateur status. His attitude towards criticism was practically this:— 'We want the music ourselves and we mean to give it to the people. To what extent did we do that on Saturday? With what reservations can you say that we succeeded? Tell us that, and do not bother about the amateur question.' It may therefore be readily supposed that he did not pique himself on maintaining the amateur character of the orchestra, or on maintaining a certain proportion between the amateur and professional elements. He was glad to have the nucleus of capable amateurs; for the rest he simply engaged the best expert assistance that was to be had, and that seemed necessary within the limits of what the Society could afford. Second, he never paid the slightest attention to fashion, but studied and played the music in which he and his colleagues became interested from time to time, without reference to the tastes of society people, who never care much for anything in a concert but the solos. Third, he never attempted to go beyond his own taste, which fortunately was cultivated, and his own sympathies, which fortunately were wide. He never played what he disliked for fear of what people might say about his neglect of a certain composer, or his failure to provide 'something to suit all tastes'; and consequently one never missed in his performances the zest of sympathetic interpretation. Fourth and last, he had no fads or fancies such as musicians find disconcerting. He did everything on broadly intelligible lines, left no one in doubt as to what he wanted, and never made unfair demands on anyone.

THE LATE MR. A. E. RODEWALD.

(Photo by Messrs. Mowll and Morrison, Liverpool.)

Mr. Rodewald's warmest and most intimate friend among the British composers was Dr. Elgar, whose guest he often was at Malvern, while Dr. and Mrs. Elgar were among the most familiar and welcome of visitors at Mr. Rodewald's Liverpool house and at the cottage which he used to take for the summer months at Bettws-y-Coed—a gathering place of musical gods, men, and mice. During Mr. Rodewald's orchestral seasons at New Brighton, Dr. Elgar came, certainly once, and possibly more than once, to conduct a concert of his own compositions, and he dedicated the longer of the two 'Pomp and Circumstance' marches to Mr. Rodewald. Another musician with whom he had a very warm and intimate friendship was Dr. Richter who, in a private letter written since Mr. Rodewald's death, describes him as 'ein Lebenskünstler im besten Sinne.' This one might perhaps translate into 'one that knew how to live.' From the same letter I extract the following interesting details: 'I made his acquaintance,' writes Dr. Richter, 'some sixteen years ago, and the friendship between us became closer in the course of a musical festival at Aachen, where as a volunteer he handled his double-bass effectively enough in the orchestra. But it was in Bayreuth that we became thoroughly intimate. He was one of the most zealous and most intelligent among the frequenters of Bayreuth. I shall never forget the tall, fine fellow, with open-hearted, kindly and loyal nature, that he was.'

With the quotation of that simple but fine and correct description I may well bring these notes to a close, only adding that while Mr. Rodewald lived the artistic life in a whole-hearted manner, never being in the least ashamed of his own tastes and tendencies, he was as far as possible from being narrow or exclusive. Other composers, quite unlike Elgar, Bantock, and the rest of the English but not Anglican group, found in him a warm and genuine friend. He was always liberal and conciliatory and for many years he unconsciously played the part of peacemaker amid the warring elements of the musical world.

ARTHUR JOHNSTONE.

Musick! It is the breath of second birth,
The Saints' employment and the Angels' mirth;
The Rhetorick of Seraphims—a gem
In the King's crown of New Jerusalem.
They sang continually; the exposition
Must needs infer, there is no intermission,
Then come men, have Musick; let them show
In holy writ what alle the angels do;
Then those that do despise such sacred mirth
Are neither fit for Heaven or for Earth.

Church and Organ Music.

ARCHBISHOP PARKER'S PSALTER.

As a sequel to the notes in our last issue (p. 722) on the Evening Hymn, it should be mentioned that a more approximate date can now be given of the printing of this Psalter than that surmised by various authorities on the subject. The Psalter was never actually published, but the Registers of the Company of Stationers contain an entry between the dates 22 July, 1567 and 22 July, 1568, to the following effect:—

master Daye : Recevyd of JOHN DAYE for his lycense for pryntinge of a boke intituled the hole psalter translated into engleshe myter . . . xiiij^d.

If not exactly a model of spelling, the above entry clears up to a great extent a doubtful point. As an additional matter of interest it may be stated that, although Archbishop Parker's Psalter is an anonymous publication, the clue to its authorship is to be found in the anagramic Preface to Psalm 119, of which the initial capitals to the lines make 'Mattheus Parkerus,' as set forth in the following quaint rhymings:—

A Preface to the Pfalme . 119.

Made is this Pfalme: by Alphabete : in Octonaries folde,
A ll letters two : and twentie fet : as Hebrues them have tolde.
T he verbes all : an hundred bee : threefcore and iust fixtene,
T hus framde and knit : for memorie : and elegance some wene.
H ere letters all : so fortely bound : do fiew in myterie :
E ternal health : may fure be found : in scripture totallie.
V erse yokt by eight : Christes riving day : doth figure them in some,
S weete Saboth rest : not here I fay : I meane of world to come.

P erufe this pfalme : so wide and brode : eche verfe faue one is freight
A s still in termes : of law of God : moft ofte by voyces eyght.
R ight statutes, olde precepts, decrees : cōmaundemēts, word, & law.
K nown iudgemēts, domes, & witneffes : al righteous wais thei draw
E nuie no man : Gods worde to painte : in arte by fuch deuife
R eade Hebrue tonge : the tong fo fainte : and caufes be not nife.
U pfold be here : Gods trutthes difcult : right fure vs all to teache,
S o lies of man : all low be thruft : full falfe in glōfing fpeache.

The old Prelate carries out his metrical design as faithfully as he can in his 'two and twentie' letters and verses ('yokt by eight') 'an hundred bee : threefcore and iust fixtene.' He very cleverly gets over the difficulty attending the letter X by omitting the initial vowel at the beginning of each line, and placing it (E) outside a bracket. For example:—

Xtremely Lord, I am purfued : of princes undeferued.
Xactly yet : thy woord I uewd : I them with feare preferued.
E { Xtreme I do ; thy word fo glad : and ioy ther of as mich :
Xeeding Joy : as he hath had : that fpoyles hath found moft rich.

and so on for the whole eight stanzas, in an 'Xtremely' ingenious manner.

NEW COLLEGE CHAPEL, OXFORD.

Mr. John S. Bumpus has kindly sent us the following interesting information concerning New College, Oxford, and its musical associations:—

The following notes supplementary to the musical information concerning New College, Oxford, of which a very able and entertaining account was given in your last issue, may be of some interest to your readers.

The present finely-carved stalls, screen, organ-case, and roof date from 1877, when the Chapel was placed in the hands of Sir Gilbert Scott for a thorough, but at the same time conservative, restoration.* These fittings replaced similar ones of sham Gothic and lath-and-plaster, put up between 1788 and 1794 by James Wyatt, with whom the worthy Warden and Fellows of that date were unfortunately saddled, and whose terrible devastations at Durham, Hereford, Lichfield, and Salisbury well earned for him the sobriquet of 'destructive.'

A coloured plate in Ackerman's 'History of the University of Oxford' (1814) shows the interior of the Chapel as it appeared during the greater part of the last century, and as, of course, many of us can remember it. Photographs, taken before the time of Scott's restoration, may still occasionally be met with.

By-the-way, the subject of the central light of the great West window, representing the Adoration of the Shepherds, was originally designed by Sir Joshua Reynolds as a painting for St. Paul's, when it was proposed that he, and five other Academicians (among whom was Benjamin West) should adorn certain blank spaces in that Cathedral—a scheme warmly approved by George III. and Newton, Bishop of Bristol, the then Dean of St. Paul's, but at once vetoed by Terrick, the Bishop of London, who saw, or fancied he saw, popery in it.

The Chapel was re-opened after Wyatt's 'improvements' on Trinity Sunday, 1794, the anthem selected for the occasion being 'Arise, O Lord, into Thy resting-place,' the composition of Dr. Philip Hayes, the then organist of the College, also of Magdalen and St. John's Colleges, and Professor of Music in the University. Of this anthem I possess Hayes's autograph score. A colophon attached sets forth that 'The organ was privately re-opened on the Monday before, with only the choir organ (all that was finish'd) after several years cessation, on account of the elegant alterations in the Chapel, organ and gallery.' Hayes further informs us that his anthem was composed originally in 1779, and sung at New College on the Trinity Sunday of that year. It was repeated on the same day in 1780, 1783, 1785, and 1786. In 1787 it appears no anthem was sung, 'On account of the Abbey Musick [i.e., the fourth Commemoration of Handel] at which most of the choir were engaged, as well as six of Dr. Hayes's boys, whom he took up.' The words of the anthem were selected from Psalms 132, 134, 96, and 118, with the whole of the Gloria in Excelsis as a finale.

In 1788, New College had a very musical Fellow. This was the Rev. Gilbert Heathcote, second son of Sir Thomas Heathcote, Bart., of Hursley Park, Hants. Mr. Heathcote was a pluralist, so no wonder his name figures in the 'Black Book—an Exposure of the Revenues of the United Church of England and Ireland.' He was not only Vicar of Hursley-cum-Otterbourne, Perpetual Curate of Foscott and Vicar of Andover, Hants, but also Fellow of Winchester and New Colleges, Treasurer of Wells (1814) and Archdeacon of Winchester (1819). He was born in 1763 and died in 1829. He left a considerable quantity of original church music in manuscript. A large volume in my possession, containing services, anthems, chants, rounds, canons, psalm tunes and a complete Burial Service, denotes him a clever man. One of the services in this book—that in G major—was thought worthy, by Sir Frederick Ouseley, of being sung at Tenbury, and I myself heard it at New College, on June 26, 1882, on which occasion the anthem was Mason's 'Lord of all power and might.' Heathcote was a diligent collector and transcriber of church music, and I possess many fine scores of unpublished services and anthems which he copied, or caused to be copied. To most people he is now only remembered as the composer of two or three double chants, which have found their way into almost every collection.

A tradition lingers at Hursley that Heathcote was fond of using long words in his sermons. Being told of this, he once asked a farm labourer in his parish if he knew what was meant by 'Predestination,' and was answered, 'Yes, zur, sommat about the innards of a pig.'

On his appointment to a fellowship at New, Heathcote applied himself sedulously to improving the Chapel services. In my possession is a small vellum-bound octavo, containing rules, in Heathcote's handwriting, for the attendance of the choir at services and practices, together with a list of music as then sung in the Chapel. This book was made for the use of 'the Rev. Mr. Beckwith, Chanter' (i.e., Precentor), who was required, amongst other things, to see that all the music was well kept; also, never to appoint on Sunday evenings services or anthems which were not well known, or had not been previously practised by the choristers. He was, moreover, to inquire occasionally if the choristers were taught to read music, and to sing at sight, and not merely to perform the Chapel music by ear. This Chanter was the Rev. Edward James Beckwith who, in 1797, became Minor Canon, and, in 1811, Succentor of St. Paul's Cathedral. His father, uncle, brother, son and grandson all distinguished themselves in church music.

In the list of music above alluded to, occurs an unpublished Morning Service (Te Deum and Benedictus) in D by John Bishop, organist of Winchester Cathedral and College (died 1737), which was ordered by Heathcote to be sung annually, as before, on the day of the Founder's Commemoration. This is an admirable composition, and merits publication.

Heathcote's second son, the Rev. W. Beadon Heathcote, B.C.L., was also a Fellow of New College, but influenced by the Oxford Movement then just beginning, his musical tastes were formed in a somewhat different school. In 1845 he published a Gregorian Psalter with chants, one of the first things of the kind attempted, and though (like the 'Laudes Diurnæ,' published about the same time by the Rev. Frederick Oakley and Richard Redhead for use at Margaret Chapel, a building now replaced by the stately All Saints', Margaret Street) by no means free from faults, it did a good work in, at least, preparing the ground for something better. Heathcote was Vicar of St. Peter-le-Bailey, Oxford, a plain erection of the Georgian period, which in 1845 he refitted at his own expense with open seats, and presented a handsome font after the model of that in Winchester Cathedral. This church was entirely rebuilt, in 1874, from the designs of Mr. Basil Champneys. Benjamin Rogers, the old Magdalen College organist (1664-1686), was buried in 1698, in the church, demolished to make way for the 18th century building. In 1851-2 Mr. Heathcote was Warden of St. Peter's College, Radley, following the Rev. R. Corbet Singleton, and died in 1862 as Precentor of Salisbury. His are the words of Hymn No. 29, 'Ancient and Modern,' 'O Father, Who did all things make,' confessedly a translation from the Latin.

In New College Chapel, Crotch's setting of Bishop Heber's Hymn, 'Holy, Holy, Holy! Lord God Almighty!' was first sung. This was at the University Sermon preached on Trinity Sunday, 1827, by the Rev. W. R. Crotch, the Doctor's son.

Hezekiah West, who was brought up as a chorister in the Chapel, and who subsequently became a lay clerk thereof, published, in 1823, 'A Set of Chants, with Sanctus and Kyrie Eleison' (Goulding D'Almaine & Co.). This, an oblong 4to, is now a remarkably scarce book, but several of the chants have been reprinted in Bennett and Marshall's Collection (1829) and others.

William Jacobs, who was successively chorister, lay clerk, Chaplain, Precentor, and Sacristan of the College, deserves mention, inasmuch as he was the composer of the excellent and well-known double chant in A, printed for the first time in Bennett and Marshall. He died in 1872, after some years of retirement.

James Lupton was Precentor and Chaplain in 1824. Five years later he went, as Minor Canon, to St. Paul's and Westminster Abbey, at which places, until his death in December, 1873, he was a familiar figure. He will be long remembered for his admirable chanting of Tallis's High Service and Litany. As a composer he did not get beyond hymn tunes, responses to the Commandments, and chants. Several of the last-named are very good, especially one arranged from the middle movement of

* The Chapel was re-opened October 14, 1879 (the 500th anniversary of the Foundation by William of Wykeham). During the restoration the services were held in the church of St. Peter-in-the-East; but the distinguished architect did not live to witness the completion of his work.

Boyce's anthem, 'By the waters of Babylon' (St. Paul's Cathedral Chant Book, 29th morning of the month).

A contemporary of Lupton, as Chaplain of New College, was Thomas Henry Hawes, second son of William Hawes of the Chapel Royal and St. Paul's, and of birchen memory. He subsequently became a Priest-vicar of Wells, and died in 1889, as Rector of Burgh Castle, Suffolk. He appears to have been an industrious and well-informed church musician. Amongst his publications were a Te Deum and Benedictus, Sanctus, Kyrie and Credo in F, two Penitential anthems, and a collection of Psalmody. He wrote some good chants, several of which were printed in the collection made by the late Mr. C. W. Lavington, for the use of Wells Cathedral, in 1855.

Henry Beaumont Walmisley, the youngest son of Thomas Forbes Walmisley, organist of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, and brother of Thomas Attwood Walmisley, the distinguished Cambridge Professor, was a chorister of New College under the organist Dr. Stephen Elvey. On the breaking of his voice he entered King's College School, Strand, where he carried off many prizes. In 1852 he became organist of Holy Trinity, Bessborough Gardens—the first church built in London by the late Mr. J. L. Pearson, R.A.,—and died in October, 1857, at the age of twenty-seven. As a musician he showed great promise, and also possessed poetical and classical talents of a very high order. There is a stained-glass window to his memory in Holy Trinity Church. It was subscribed for by his choir boys, the Minor Canons of Westminster, and by Archdeacon Bentinck, the founder of the church. I have seen a charming portrait of H. B. Walmisley, painted when he was a chorister at New College. This is now in the possession of Mr. Arthur Walmisley, one of his two surviving brothers.

In the 'thirties' and 'forties' Peter Maurice and Henry East Havergal were Chaplains at New College. Maurice, who took the degree of D.D. in 1840, afterwards became Vicar of Yarnton, near Oxford, and died in 1878. He published between 1854 and 1865, four books of selected hymn tunes, the most important of which was 'Choral Harmony'—designed as 'a companion to metrical versions of psalms and hymns,' and very favourably received on its publication in 1854. It went through several editions. Many of the first English Church composers of the day contributed to it, among them being Sir Frederick Ouseley. If I mistake not, Ouseley's fine tune 'St. Augustine,' associated in the editions of 'Hymns Ancient and Modern' from 1861 to 1875 with the Rev. John Marriott's missionary hymn 'Thou, Whose Almighty Word,' first appeared in 'Choral Harmony,' where it was set to the hymn 'The God of harvest praise.' It has since, very regrettably, been removed from 'Hymns Ancient and Modern' and replaced, to my mind, by two inferior compositions. Let us hope that the compilers of the new edition, promised in July, 1904, will see their way to restoring it.

Maurice composed an Evening Service in E, with verses for two trebles, for the use of New College. This was published by Coventry and Hollier in 1829. He gave considerable attention to the subject of chanting, and had a long correspondence thereon with Miss Hackett, following the article contributed by that 'Lady of Crosby Square' to the Harmonicon of 1832. Maurice was an Evangelical, and the otherwise sensible preface to his 'Choral Harmony' is disfigured by an unjustifiable attack on the 'Hymnal Noted'—the labour of earnest, pious, learned men. His letter to the Earl of Derby (Chancellor of the University of Oxford)—'What shall we do with Music?'—was thought an eloquent production.

Henry East Havergal, who also held a chaplaincy at Christ Church, was one of the most enthusiastic and earnest of the musical clergy of his time. When, in 1846, he became vicar of Cople, near Bedford, he devoted himself to the duties of his office, and the general improvement of music in the village and neighbourhood. In his church, an interesting Perpendicular building with some fine brasses, he erected an F organ, which he played during service, and also constructed for his use a chiming apparatus, so that he combined in his person the offices of organist, bell-ringer, and parson. He conducted a musical society at Bedford, and it may be mentioned in proof of his love for music that, at a rehearsal of Crotch's oratorio 'Palestine,' he played the double bass and sang the alto part in the choruses at the same time. In 1847 he printed a handsome, rubricated edition of Tallis's Preces, Responses, and Litany, arranged in four parts instead of five, as erroneously given by Barnard, Boyce, and all subsequent editors, the first-named being, according to Dean Aldrich, 'the first to despoil' these compositions. Appended was a small collection of single chants, transcribed from the Aldrich MSS. at Christ Church, Oxford, of which treasures Havergal made an elaborately-written and illuminated catalogue. His taste in church music, like that of his father, the Rev. W. H. Havergal, was eminently severe. He died in January, 1875.

A TOWN HALL ORGAN.

The following is the specification of the organ recently erected in the Town Hall, Darlston, Staffordshire, by Mr. J. J. Binns, of Bramley Organ Works, Leeds. The instrument, which has been presented to the town in memory of Mr. James Slater by his wife and children, was opened on the 5th ult. by Mr. C. W. Perkins, organist of the Town Hall, Birmingham:—

GREAT ORGAN (9 stops).

	Feet		Feet
Double Open Diapason	16	Harmonic Flute	4
Open Diapason (large)	8	Fifteenth	2
Open Diapason (small)	8	Mixture (3 ranks)
Hohl Flöte	8	Trumpet	8
Principal	4

SWELL ORGAN (11 stops).

Lieblich Bourdon	16	Piccolo	2
Open Diapason	8	Mixture (3 ranks)
Gedact	8	Horn	8
Viol d'orchestre	8	Oboe	8
Celestes (Tenor C)	8	Vox Humana	8
Salicet	4

CHOIR ORGAN (7 stops).

Gamba	8	Flautina	2
Concert Flute	8	Orchestral Oboe	8
Dolce	8	Clarinet (12 notes from
Suabe Flute	4	Orchestral Oboe)	8

(All the Choir Organ stops are enclosed in a separate Swell Box.)

PEDAL ORGAN (6 stops).

Harmonic Bass	32	Bourdon	16
Open Diapason	16	Flute	8
Octave	8	Trombone	16

Manual compass CC to C. Pedal compass CCC to F.

COUPLERS, &c.

Swell to Great.	Swell Sub-Octave.
Swell to Choir.	Swell to Great Octave.
Choir to Great.	Swell to Great Sub-Octave.
Great to Pedals.	Choir Sub-Octave.
Swell to Pedals.	Choir Sub-Octave to Great.
Choir to Pedals.	Tremulant to Swell.
Swell Octave.	Tremulant to Choir.

ACCESSORIES.

Three Binns's patent interchangeable combination pedals to Great and Pedal.

Three	Ditto	Ditto	to Swell.
Three	Ditto	Ditto	to Choir.

One fixed pedal acting on Full Great and Pedal.

Ditto Full Swell

Reversible pedal Great to Pedal.

Balanced crescendo Pedal to Swell Organ.

Ditto to Choir Organ.

Binns's patent tubular pneumatic action is applied to all manual, pedal, and stop action.

Separate wind reservoirs to each Organ, supplied from a main reservoir having six feeders worked by manual or electric power.

The pedals are radiating and concave, "Wesley" pattern.

SYNOPSIS.

Great Organ	9 stops	671 pipes.
Swell	11	781
Choir	7	415
Pedal	6	114
Couplers, &c.	14
	47	1981

Combination and other Pedals and Pistons 14.

The Cornhill Magazine recently had an article on the experiences of a clerical locum tenens in a certain Berkshire village. In regard to an enquiry concerning the choristers, he was told: 'That lad in grey you ask about can sing quite nicely, only he can't read. The boy next to him can read, but he can't sing; the boy on the other side is deaf.' On paying a pastoral visit to an old dame of eighty-three, the conversation turned on sermons and the pulpit generally, when she remarked: 'You are stouter than the vicar, Sir. I was talking to a neighbour the other day, and she said "Mr. — does look so nice in the pulpit; he seems to fill it so"!'!

The annual service of the London Church Choir Association was held in St. Paul's Cathedral on the 19th ult., under the careful conductorship of Dr. Walford Davies. The music specially composed for the occasion included a setting of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E flat by Dr. G. F. Huntley, and an impressive anthem, 'Whatsoever is born of God,' by Dr. Walford Davies. Canon Ainger gave a short address on the employment of the beautiful in the worship of God, and nothing could more appropriately illustrate the preacher's theme than S. S. Wesley's devotional anthem 'Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace,' sung after the sermon. Mr. F. B. Kiddle, organist of Marylebone Church, was at the organ.

Mr. Alfred Redhead is to be congratulated upon having completed, on the 1st ult., twenty-five years' zealous and good work as organist and director of the choir of St. Augustine's Church, Kilburn.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Dr. M. J. Monk, Truro Cathedral.—Festal March, E. T. Chipp.

Mr. Alfred Hollins, St. George's United Free Church, Edinburgh.—Theme, with variations, in G, Faulkes.

Mr. T. Tertius Noble, Owens College, Manchester.—Theme, with variations, T. T. Noble, and Requiem Æternam, Basil Harwood.

Mr. W. G. Whittaker, St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, South Shields.—Symphony No. 5, Widor.

Mr. R. H. Turner, Parish Church, Portsmouth.—Theme in F sharp minor, S. S. Wesley.

Mr. H. C. Tonking, Parish Church, Dudley.—Fantasia in F, Best.

Mr. Rowland Hiles, Parish Church, Bedminster.—Fantasia in C minor, Behrens.

Mr. H. E. Mackinlay, St. Stephen's, Walbrook.—Offertoire in B flat, King Hall.

Mr. J. B. Hallas, Congregational Church, Buttershaw (Opening of new organ).—Idylle at Evening, Dudley Buck.

Mr. Frank Pullein, Parish Church, Wrexham.—Fantasia on 'O Sanctissima,' Lux.

Mr. Henry S. Plummer, St. Mary's, Hornsey Rise.—Fantasia overture, Garrett.

Mr. J. T. Field, Christ Church, Lee Park.—Sonata in G minor, Purcell.

Mr. Roger Ascham, Wesley Church, Pretoria.—Sonata in A minor (Op. 98), Rheinberger.

Mr. J. W. Pearson, S. Paul's, Cliftonville.—Grand Chœur in D, Guilmant.

Mr. Harry E. Wall, St. Michael's, Burleigh Street, Strand.—Toccata in G, Dubois.

Mr. H. Mathias Turton, S. Aidan's, Leeds.—Sonate Pascale, Lemmens.

Mr. F. H. Sawyer, St. Leonard's School, St. Andrews.—Pastorale, Kullak.

Mr. W. W. Starmer, St. Michael and All Angels, Withyham.—Andante in D, Silas.

Mr. A. G. Colborn, Holy Trinity, Stapleton.—Andante con moto, Hoyle.

Dr. E. D. Naylor, St. John's College Chapel, Cambridge.—Choral Prelude, 'Vater Unser,' Bach.

Mr. Handel Hall, Doddridge Congregational Church, Northampton.—Introduction, Variations and Finale on the tune 'Hanover,' E. A. Dicks.

Mr. Maughan Barnett, St. John's, Wellington, N.Z.—Prière, Callaerts.

Mr. A. Brown Thompson, Wesley Church, Wellington Quay.—Introduction and Allegro, F. E. Bach.

Mr. R. Garrett Cox, St. John the Evangelist, Drury Lane.—Fantasia in the form of an overture, Smart.

Mr. Jesse Timson, First Church of Otago.—At Eventide, Dudley Buck.

Mr. Franklyn Mountford, Christ Church, Cradley Heath.—Fantasie Pastorale, Breitenbach.

Mr. W. E. Belcher, St. Philip's, Southport.—Finale from Sonata (Psalm 94), Reubke.

Mr. Thomas J. Crawford, S. Michael's, Chester Square.—Concerto in G minor, Handel.

Mr. James Tomlinson, Public Hall, Preston.—Offertoire, J. F. Barnett.

Mr. Maxfield, St. John the Evangelist, Altrincham.—Prelude in E minor (from a Suite), Borowski.

Mr. J. Matthews, St. Stephen's, Guernsey.—Fantasia, John E. West.

Mr. C. H. Mills, Morningside United Free Church, Edinburgh.—March in B flat, Silas.

Mr. Reginald Goss Custard, St. Margaret's Church, Westminster.—Sonata in D minor (first time), Faulkes.

Mr. H. J. Davis, Christ Church, Bath.—Nocturne in B minor, Lemare.

Mr. Chastey Hector, S. Michael's, Handsworth.—Processional March in A, George Halford.

ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. W. Ashton Alder, St. Catherine's Church, Feltham.

Mr. J. G. Clarke, St. Mary-le-Bow Church, Cheapside.

Mr. Benjamin J. Dale, Parish Church of St. Luke, Holloway.

Mr. William Ellis, sub-organist of Durham Cathedral.

Mr. J. B. Hallas, Buttershaw Congregational Church.

Mr. F. E. E. Harvey, Parish Church, St. Neots.

Mr. Wilfred Layton, the Robert Browning Settlement, Walworth.

Mr. Willie Mallinson, Fermoy Parish Church, Co. Cork.

Mr. Percy H. Mull, St. Paul's Church, Lisson Grove.

Mr. W. H. Phillips, Holy Trinity Church, Bridgewater.

Mr. A. Shuttleworth, Morton Parish Church, Thornhill, Dumfriesshire.

Mr. Clement K. Stuchbery, Mayfield Wesleyan Church, Dalston.

Mr. Robert F. Virgoe, Parish Church, Lavant, Sussex.

Mr. F. W. Wadely, St. Andrew's Church, Uxbridge.

Mr. Harry E. Wall, St. Michael's Church, Burleigh Street, Strand.

WHERE THE 'MESSIAH' WAS FIRST PERFORMED.

Many performances of the 'Messiah' will be given during the next few weeks, therefore we have pleasure in giving a photograph of the place where Handel's immortal oratorio was first performed—the New Musick Hall, Fishamble Street, Dublin, on April 13, 1742. Fishamble Street is one of the oldest thoroughfares in Dublin. In a record of the 19th year of Richard II. (1396) it is called 'Viculus Piscatorius, in parochia Sancti Johannis' (Fish Street in the parish of St. John), but its date may be traced to a much remoter antiquity. It runs at the east end of Christ Church Cathedral from Castle Street to the river Liffey. In former days it often witnessed a gay throng of fashion and aristocracy—the Viceregal cortège, ladies in hoops and feathers, 'white-gloved beaux,' in bag, and sword, and chapeau; while scores of liveried footmen and pages, waiting to call coaches, chariots, and sedan chairs, gave additional animation to a typical scene in the Irish capital during the 18th century. Sic transit gloria mundi might well be the cry of the stones in Fishamble Street to-day, but a visit thereto, even in imagination, recalls a great event in the realm of music. The New Musick Hall, built by a Dublin music-publisher named Neale (or Neal), was opened October 2, 1741. The room held 600 people, and at once took its place as the kind in the Kingdom before; and our Nobility and Gentry, to shew their Taste for all kinds of Genius, expressed their great Satisfaction, and have already given all imaginable Encouragement to this grand Musick.

Handel was delighted with Mr. Neal's Musick Hall. Soon after his first 'Entertainment' he wrote a long letter to Charles Jennens, the compiler of the words of the 'Messiah,' which shows that the great George Frederick was in splendid form on his arrival in Erin's Isle. He says: 'The Musick sounds delightfully in this charming Room, which puts me in such Spirits (and my Health being so good) that I exert myself on my Organ whit more then usual success.' The

THE MUSICK HALL IN FISHAMBLE STREET, DUBLIN, WHERE HANDEL'S
'MESSIAH' WAS FIRST PERFORMED.

(From an old print kindly lent by Messrs. Kennan, Dublin.)

rendezvous for important concerts and assemblies. Within three months of the opening of the Hall Handel arrived in Dublin. He gave his first 'Musical Entertainment' in the new building on December 23, 1741, at which were performed his 'L'Allegro' 'with two Concertos for several Instruments, and a Concerto on the Organ.' Faulkner's Journal of December 26 to 29, 1741, thus records Handel's first appearance in the Emerald Isle:—

Last Wednesday, Mr. Handel had his first Oratorio at Mr. Neal's Musick Hall in Fishamble-street, which was crowded with a more numerous and polite Audience than ever was seen upon the like Occasion. The Performance was superior to any thing of the details relating to the first performance of the 'Messiah' 'in this charming room'—when the Ladies considerably left their hoops at home, and the gentlemen appeared swordless—are too well known to be recapitulated.

The historic Musick Hall, subsequently used by a Musical Society under the presidency of the Earl of Mornington, was added to the premises of Messrs. Kennan, a firm of Dublin ironfounders, established in the year 1773, and, having since been rebuilt, is still in the occupancy of that firm. By the courtesy of Messrs. Kennan we are enabled to give the accompanying view of the old place so interestingly associated with the production of 'Mr. Handel's Sacred Grand Oratorio, THE MESSIAH.'

Obituary.

SIR HERBERT STANLEY OAKELEY.

The death took place at Eastbourne on October 26 of Sir Herbert Stanley Oakeley, formerly Professor of Music in the University of Edinburgh. The second son of Sir Herbert Oakeley, the third baronet, he was born at Ealing, July 20, 1830, and received his education at Rugby and Christ Church, Oxford. He studied harmony under Stephen Elvey, and the organ with Johann Schneider at Dresden. Much surprise was expressed when, in 1865, Herbert Oakeley, an amateur musician, obtained the post of Reid Professor of Music in the University of Edinburgh. Among various criticisms passed upon the appointment, that which appeared in the Revue et Gazette Musicale was one of the most characteristic: 'The vacant chair of music at the University of Edinburgh has been given to Mr. Herbert S. Oakeley, doubtless better known in Scotland than elsewhere.' At the inauguration of the Scottish National Memorial at Edinburgh to the late Prince Consort, in 1876, the Professor was knighted by Queen Victoria at Holyrood; he subsequently received the curious appointment of Composer to the Queen in Scotland. Sir Herbert Oakeley, who did much for the promotion of high-class music in Edinburgh, was a somewhat prolific composer, but he is best known by two excellent hymn-tunes (settings of 'Saviour, blessed Saviour' and 'Sun of my soul, Thou Saviour dear') which have found their way into most hymnals, and by a quadruple chant. He received many distinctions, and in 1891 resigned his Chair at Edinburgh, to the occupancy of which he was succeeded by Professor Niecks. We make further reference to Sir Herbert Oakeley's election to his Professorship on page 792.

MR. SAMSON FOX.

We regret to record the somewhat sudden death of Mr. Samson Fox, which took place at Walsall on October 24, the result of blood poisoning following an operation. He had only recently returned from a tour with his family through Canada and the United States. We cannot do better than reprint the notice of his career which appeared in The Times, at the same time calling special attention to his munificent gift of £46,000 to the Royal College of Music, whereby the present commodious buildings were erected:—

'Mr. Samson Fox was a self-made man. John Thomas North and Alfred Cooke were his companions in his youth, and the trio rose from the position of poor lads to that of rich men. The son of a Yorkshire weaver, he discarded weaving at 10s. a week and became a mechanic, being apprenticed to Messrs. Smith, Beacock, and Tannett at the Royal Foundry in Water Lane, Leeds. He superintended the machinery sheds of the firm at the exhibition in London in 1862. When still a young man, under 30, Mr. Fox joined his brother and another partner in the business of Fox, Brother, and Refitt, at the Silver Cross Works, Leeds, the business being that of making special tools. In 1874, having previously embarked on the manufacture of iron, he started the business of the Leeds Forge Company, making boiler plates, and this business developed into the present great concern in Armley Road, Leeds. He was a man of many inventions, and the corrugated flue was one of them. He also invented the machinery by which the flues for machine and stationary boiler purposes can be most effectually corrugated. Pressed steel frames and plates associated with railway rolling-stock also received his attention, and he took out in all some 150 patents relating to metallurgical and mechanical engineering processes; and in most of these he was more successful than in his venture on water gas, in connection with which his name was associated. Ardently devoted to music, he, at the age of 50, offered £30,000 to the then Prince of Wales for erecting the buildings of the new Royal College of Music at Kensington Gore. This handsome gift was made up to £46,000, of which £1,000 was for the adornment of the vestibule. Mr. Fox served both Leeds and Harrogate in municipal life, and was mayor of Harrogate three years in succession, 1889-91. He represented Harrogate on the West Riding County Council.'

Reviews.

Luigi Torchi—L'Arte Musicale in Italia. (XIV° Secolo a XVIII.) Volume Quarto. Composizioni a più voci. Secolo XVII.

[G. Ricordi and Co.]

The great enterprise on which Signor Torchi has been engaged for some years—the publication of a series of works showing the gradual development of Italian music—is making steady progress. Of the three volumes previously issued, the first and second dealt with the rise of polyphonic vocal music, sacred and secular, while the third was devoted to the works of the early composers for the organ and harpsichord. The volume now before us is in reality a sequel to the second, which contained specimens by the chief composers of the 16th century; this fourth volume is allotted to those of the 17th century.

In his preface Signor Torchi says that the object of the volume is to show the development of the madrigal by Gesualdo, the Prince of Venosa, Marco da Gagliano, and Claudio Monteverde, of all of whom specimens are given. The editor, in the preface to the first volume of the series, tells his readers 'Both in the music and in the text I have scrupulously left in their original state both the form and the substance of the compositions. The scores have been compiled by me precisely from the materials I have found, not modifying nor altering anything. In some places in which it would have been easy to introduce improvements in the notation, I have abstained from it.'

While fully recognising the spirit of reverence for the original which has led Signor Torchi to this decision, we cannot but regret it on practical grounds. Two clefs now entirely obsolete—the mezzo-soprano and the baritone—were in common use in the 16th and 17th centuries; the bass part of many of the madrigals is written either in the baritone or the tenor clef; in others we find four different C clefs for the different voices, and these are by no means always put in the order of their pitch. As an example of the results arrived at, we give an extreme case—a short passage from a psalm for eight voices by Matteo Asola, published in 1599; it will be found on p. 377 of Vol. II. of this collection:—

We suggest to the Royal College of Organists that they should give this passage as a test at their next examination in score playing! The harmony is in reality very simple; but can anything more confusing to read be imagined? We wish that the editor had followed the example set by the late Dr. Chrysander in his edition of Palestrina, and substituted for these irregular and obsolete notations the clefs now used—including, of course, the soprano, alto and tenor C clefs—and printing at the beginning of each number the clef of the original. Even a five-part score, when two of the clefs are the mezzo-soprano and the baritone (as in several numbers in the present volume), is needlessly difficult even for experienced score-readers.

The madrigals of Prince Gesualdo are of great musical interest, and in places very remarkable for the boldness of their modulation. In this respect the five-part 'Dolcissima mia vita' is perhaps the most striking. We quote a short passage, using the modern clefs, and showing at the beginning the original notation, after Dr. Chrysander's method above spoken of:—

The key of the piece is G minor, and at the seventh bar, where our extract begins, the composer has already modulated to A minor! But the abrupt plunge into B minor which follows must, by its daring, have astonished musicians three hundred years ago. Our quotation illustrates also another very common feature of this old music—the unequal length of the bars. Though the normal length here is four minims, the fourth bar of this passage contains six, and the fifth bar only two; in the latter part of the madrigal four minims in the bar, and two are used indifferently, without any change of time-signature. Not less remarkable than the above passage is the close of the madrigal; an extremely chromatic progression on the words 'O morire.'

Of the specimens by Marco da Gagliano, the Bacchanalian Madrigal 'Euoe Padre Lio' is remarkable for its form. It is for five voices, and commences with a tutti in 3-2 time, in plain chords, and with hardly an attempt at contrapuntal writing. Then follow three short duets in common time, the first for tenor and bass, the second for alto and tenor, and the third for two trebles. These duets all abound in passages of more or less strict imitation, and after each of them the tutti is repeated. It will be seen that we have here the old Rondo form with three episodes. Another madrigal by Gagliano, 'Su l'Africane arene,' is a very fine example of pure eight-part harmony for a double choir.

Claudio Monteverdi (sic)—Signor Torchi does not give us his authority for altering the usual spelling of the name—is well known as the first composer that made use of the chord of the dominant seventh without preparation. The specimens here given of his work show more feeling for modern tonality than is to be seen in the music of his predecessors. In the madrigal 'Cruda Amarilli' will be seen at bar thirteen a very fine example of an unprepared dominant ninth leaping to a dominant seventh, also unprepared. A most interesting piece by Monteverdi is a sonata for orchestra on a plain-song 'Sancta Maria.' The orchestra consists of two violins, viola, bass, two cornetti, and three trombones. The style of the music is polyphonic, and considerable contrast of tone-colour is obtained by the alternation and combination of the different groups of instruments.

It is a curious thing that about the same time when Peri and Caccini were making the first experiments in operatic music, many of their contemporaries endeavoured to utilize the polyphonic form of the madrigal as the medium for dramatic expression. This they did by setting to music dramatic poems in madrigal form. The result, from its very nature, cannot be other than unsatisfactory. Three entire specimens of this form of composition are given in this volume: 'I Fidi Amanti,' a pastorella by Gaspare Torrelli; 'L'Amfiparnaso,' a musical comedy by Orazio Vecchi; and 'La Pazzia Senile,' a comic intermezzo or buffoonery, by Adriano Banchieri. It is very curious to find dialogues, solos, choruses, all set in madrigal form. It is unfortunately not in our power to speak of these works in detail, because the words are mostly written in Italian dialects, sometimes with an admixture of Spanish, and we confess our inability to understand much of them. This much can be said, that there is considerable variety of expression in the music. So far as we can judge, Vecchi's work seems the finest. Signor Torchi in his preface is enthusiastic over it, and even compares parts of it, for real comic power, with 'Die Meistersinger.' How far this verdict is correct, we must leave others to judge. We wish Signor Torchi all success in the continuation of his arduous task.

Five Part-Songs for Men's Voices (T.T.B.B.). The words from the Greek Anthology, in English, by Alma Strettell, Richard Garnett, Edmund Gosse, W. M. Hardinge, and Andrew Lang. Composed by Edward Elgar (Op. 45).

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

These five short part-songs (the longest is only 37 bars) are highly characteristic of their composer. There is a certain vein of mysticism (which has been cynically defined as something nobody quite understands) running through the words, which is admirably reflected in the highly original and beautiful music to which they are set. 'Yea, cast me from heights of the mountains' with its vivid contrasts of ff and pppp, striking rhythmic effects, and grim sternness of expression is an impressive introduction. 'Whether I find thee' is light and tender, and 'After many a dusty mile' is similarly dainty in rhythm, and has besides a charming note of naïve cheerfulness. 'It's oh! to be a wild wind' is a quaint short piece—it consists of only nine bars once repeated—very simple and expressive.

'Feasting I watch,' is one of the most important and the longest of the set. The words (by Dr. Richard Garnett, from the Greek of Marcus Argentarius) read:—

Feasting I watch with westward-looking eye
The flashing constellations' pageantry.
Solemn and splendid; then anon I breathe
My hair, and warbling to my harp I breathe
My full heart forth, and know the heavens look down Pleased, for they also have their Lyre and Crown.

These soulful lines afford ample scope for broad, glowing effects—effects which, it is hardly necessary to say, the composer finely realizes in his music. The climax, molto allargando, is splendid.

All the five part-songs are intended for unaccompanied singing, and the top part is a real tenor part, A being the highest note. Although the whole set would bear consecutive performance they are not necessarily connected pieces. It is safe to predict that men's-voice choirs in English-speaking countries—and in Germany, for a German translation is provided—will heartily welcome these notable additions to this branch of musical literature.

Samuel Pepys. A Lover of Musick. By Sir Frederick Bridge.

[Smith, Elder and Co.]

Mr. Pepys, taken up in any way, is an attractive 17th century Englishman. His foibles, his outspokenness, his journeys, his domestic affairs, and a hundred other things, as set down in the inimitable Diary, are themes fruitful in interest. In the very readable and acceptable volume under notice, Sir Frederick Bridge has given us some pleasant peeps into the old diarist's musical life. Pepys not only practised and loved 'musique' with ardent devotion, but he was most anxious to inculcate that love into others of his household. Beginning with Mrs. Pepys, he says:—

'Before dinner making my wife to sing. Poor wretch! her ear is so bad that it made me angry, till the poor wretch cried to see me so vexed with her, that I shall not discourage her so much again, but will endeavour to make her understand sounds and do her good in that way.'

He found a more apt pupil in Miss Mercer, his wife's maid. On one occasion he naïvely records—after he had been singing in the garden with Mrs. Pepys and Miss Mercer—

'Coming in, I find my wife plainly dissatisfied with me, that I can spend so much time with Mercer, teaching her to sing, and could never take the pains with her. Which I acknowledge; but it is because that the girl do take musique mighty readily, and she do not, and musique is the thing of the world that I love most.'

On another occasion Mr. Pepys sang in (or with) the Choir of Westminster Abbey. If this incident had only occurred during the present organistship, how interesting it would have been to know what Pepys thought of Sir Frederick, and the latter could have reported upon the diarist's vocal ability, or debility, as the case might be! Sir Frederick Bridge treats of a congenial subject in a genial manner. The book—which makes an opportune appearance in this bicentenary year of the death of Pepys—is enriched with an excellent portrait and a copy of his song 'Beauty Retire.' It may be mentioned that copious extracts from Pepys's Diary relating to music, with connective comments by the late Dr. Hueffer, appeared in THE MUSICAL TIMES during the first half of the year 1881.

SHORT ANTHEMS.

Blessed be Thou, O Lord God. By C. H. Lloyd.

Deliver us, O Lord, and Lord, we beseech Thee. By Adrian Batten.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

The above numbers of this excellent series of 'short anthems' well deserve wide recognition. Dr. Lloyd's composition is an interesting example of how much effective variety can be included in a short work by a skilled musician. The alternative passages for voices and organ give freshness to the opening portion, and the subsequent entrances of the voices in imitation impart interest to the brief chorus with which the anthem concludes.

The settings of 'Deliver us, O Lord,' and 'Lord, we beseech Thee,' have been edited by Mr. John E. West, who manifestly has fulfilled his task well. The composer, Adrian Batten, was organist of old St. Paul's Cathedral from 1624 to 1637, and judging by the anthems under notice he well merited that distinction. It is amusing, however, to note in the first example this old composer writing a 'false relation' in bars three and fifteen, though nowadays we are not at all squeamish about such things. The influence of the ancient modes is very apparent in the setting of 'Lord, we beseech Thee,' and it imparts an archaic distinction to the music which increases its devotional character.

Sonata in E minor (Op. 15), for Violin and Pianoforte. By Alberto Randegger, Junr.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Mr. Alberto Randegger's Sonata in E minor for violin and pianoforte was introduced at one of the Broadwood concerts last January, and the favourable impression created on that occasion can be fully endorsed now that the work is published. Space does not permit of a lengthy analysis; but attention may be called to a few of the salient points of this original and versatile composition, one that pulsates with brightness and vigorous life. The opening Allegro, given out by the violin—starts quietly enough, but considerable virile force and ingenuity are displayed in its development, special effect being gained by some striking passages of sweeping arpeggi (con arcata larga) for the violin. The Coda too is fine and dignified. The Scherzo (A minor) which follows is an agreeable contrast to the foregoing by reason of its simplicity. Moreover, the Scherzo is further enhanced by the beauty of its Trio (E major), built on a particularly happy diatonic theme. Indeed, the composer clearly proves in this movement that it is still possible to be both pleasing and original in a serious work without the aid of abnormal chromaticism. The Andante (A major) is nobly conceived, and full of rich and artistic colouring. Violinists will revel in its broad and well-written themes. The Finale, carried on somewhat after the manner of a sparkling duologue between the two instruments, brings the whole to a spirited and inspiring climax. If the Sonata demands considerable technical ability from its performers, it must be admitted that Mr. Randegger—himself an excellent violinist—knows how to write, and to write well for his instrument.

Mr. Richard Richards, of Handsworth, writes as follows:—

As a sequel to Dr. E. T. Sweeting's interesting article on 'Dr. Crotch on Bach's Forty-eight,' in the November number of THE MUSICAL TIMES, I venture to send the following description of a book now in my possession, but which formerly belonged to the old Doctor. It is a copy of a full-score of Handel's 'Esther,' the inside of the cover bearing the autograph:— 'Wm. Crotch, 1809. 2, Duchess St., Portland Place.'

Scattered throughout its pages are various corrections—some notes being sharpened, some flattened, &c. At the end of the Allegro of the Overture Dr. Crotch has written:— 'Made from one of his Trios.' The short recit. 'Our souls with ardour glow' is marked 'better out.' The introduction to the air 'Breathe soft, ye gales,' is stated to be 'afterwards used in Alexander's Feast'; and at the entry of the voice he writes the word 'tame.' It is a good thing for Handel's reputation that his critic allows the imitation between the first and second violins in the introduction to the air 'Watchful angels,' to be clever. The beginning of the last chorus, 'The Lord our enemy has slain,' is thus commented upon: 'This sort of accompaniment is clogging, and should not be adopted in giving out of a subject.'

The International Male-Voice Competition to be held in Park Hall, Cardiff, on Boxing-day has in it all the potentialities of an important event. M. Laurent de Rille, the distinguished composer, is coming specially from Paris in order to act as principal adjudicator, and no fewer than nineteen male-voice choirs—including one from Paris!—have entered for the principal competition, the prize for which is £105 and a cup of the value of ten guineas. Many entries, from all parts of England and Wales, have been received for the solo competitions.

FOUR-PART SONG.

Words by ROBERT BURNS.

Composed by H. M. HIGGS.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Allegretto.

SOPRANO.

1. O, were my love yon li-lac fair Wi' That
2. O, gin my love were yon red rose, That

ALTO.

1. O, were my love yon li-lac fair Wi' pur-ple blos-som
2. O, gin my love were yon red rose, That grows up-on the

TENOR.

1. O, were my love yon li-lac fair Wi' That
2. O, gin my love were yon red rose, That

BASS.

1. O, were my love yon li-lac fair Wi' That
2. O, gin my love were yon red rose, That

Allegretto. ♩ = 76.

(For practice only.)

pur-ple blos-som to the spring, And I a bird to shel-ter grows up-on the cas-tle wa', And I my-sel' a drap o'

to cas the spring, And I a bird to shel-ter cas - - - - - tle wa', And I my-sel' a drap - - - - - ter o'

pur-ple blos-som to the spring, And I a bird to shel-ter grows up-on the cas-tle wa', And I my-sel' a drap o' pur-ple blos-som to the spring, And I a grows up-on the cas-tle wa', And I my -

Copyright, 1903, by Novello and Company, Limited.

there, . . . When wea-ried on my lit-tle wing, when dew . . . In to her bon-nie breast to fa', in - there, When wea-ried on my lit-tle wing, . . . my dew In to her bon-nie breast to fa', . . . her there, to shel-ter there, When wea-ried on my lit-tle wing, . . . when dew a drap o' dew, In to her bon-nie breast to fa', . . . in - bird, When wea-ried on my lit-tle wing, my sel', In to her bon-nie breast to fa', her

rall. a tempo.
wea-ried on my lit-tle wing: How I wad mourn . . . when it was to her bonnie breast to fa'! . . . O, there, be-yond ex-pres-sion

rall. a tempo.
lit-tle wing: How I wad mourn . .
breast to fa'! . . O, there, be-yond . .

rall. a tempo. p
wea-ried on my lit-tle wing: How I wad mourn to her bonnie breast to fa'! . . O, there, be-yond

rall. a tempo. p
lit-tle wing: How I wad mourn breast to fa'! . . O, there, be-yond

rall. a tempo.
lit-tle wing: How I wad mourn
breast to fa'! . . O, there, be-yond

Glory to God in the highest

COMPOSED BY

E. MARKHAM LEE.

SIXTEEN VOLUMES NOW READY, BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE 7s. EACH.

424. Abide with me ... R. Dunstan 3d.	724. Blessed be Thou ... E. C. Bairstow 4d.	28. Fear not, O land ... Sir John Goss 6d.
478. A few more years shah roll H. Blair 3d.	400. Blessed City ... A. C. Fisher 4d.	446. Flee from evil ... Rev. W. J. Clarke 3d.
592. Alleluia! now is Christ T. Adams 3d.	262. Blessed is He ... C. H. Lloyd 8d.	553. For a small moment ... J. Stainer 2d.
729. Alleluia! the Lord liveth C. Harris 3d.	284. Blessed is He ... F. E. Gladstone 2d.	254. For ever blessed ... Mendelssohn 3d.
247. All nations whom B. Luard Selby 4d.	292. Blessed is He ... A. C. Mackenzie 4d.	728. Forsake me not ... J. Goss 4d.
113. All they that trust ... Dr. Hiller 8d.	64. Blessed is the man ... Sir John Goss 4d.	198. For the mountains ... L. Samson 3d.
30. All Thy works ... E. H. Thorne 3d.	769. Blessed is the man H. W. Wareing 3d.	273. From the deep I called ... Spohr 6d.
475. All Thy works ... J. Barnby 4d.	206. Blessed is the man Clarke-Whitfield 3d.	227. Give ear, O Lord T. M. Pattison 2d.
503. All Thy works ... G. H. Ely 4d.	286. Blessed Jesu (Stabat Mater) Dvorák 6d.	433. Give ear, O Shepherd A. Whiting 3d.
719. All ye who seek ... H. M. Higgs 3d.	5. Blessing, glory, wisdom B. Tours 4d.	88. Give ear, O ye heavens Dr. Armes 3d.
9. All ye who weep ... Gounod 3d.	378. Bless the Lord ... M. Kingston 4d.	604. Give thanks, O Israel Ouseley 4d.
261. And all the people saw J. Stainer 6d.	374. Bless thou the Lord Oliver King 3d.	741. Give the King Thy W. G. Alcock 6d.
229. And it was the third hour Elvey 4d.	450. Bless thou the Lord C. Bayley 4d.	309. Give the Lord ... C. H. Lloyd 8d.
485. And Jacob was left alone J. Stainer 6d.	632. Blow up the trumpet F. Iliffe 3d.	383. Give unto the Lord H. W. Parker 4d.
658. And Jesus entered H. W. Davies 4d.	97. Blow ye the trumpet Henry Leslie 1d.	2. Glory be to God ... S. S. Wesley 2d.
723. And suddenly there came H. J. Wood 3d.	118. Bow Thine ear ... W. Bird 3d.	341. God be merciful ... A. H. Mann 4d.
675. And the Lord said T. W. Stephenson 3d.	92. Break forth into joy R. Prentice 6d.	49. God be merciful ... S. S. Wesley 3d.
357. And the wall of the city Oliver King 3d.	415. Ditto S. Coieridge-Taylor 3d.	236. God be merciful unto us C. F. Lloyd 6d.
402. And when the day C. W. Smith 3d.	491. Ditto B. Steane 3d.	105. God came from Teman Dr. Steggall 4d.
611. Angels from the realms Cowen 3d.	323. Brightest and best ... E. V. Hall 4d.	128. God is gone up ... Dr. Croft 4d.
751. Angels from the realms E. V. Hall 3d.	340. Bring unto the Lord Gladstone 3d.	605. God is our salvation C. F. Bowes 3d.
642. Angel voices, ever singing E. V. Hall 3d.	98. Brother, thou art gone Sir J. Goss 4d.	131. God is our hope ... Dr. Greene 6d.
597. A prayer for peace ... Crotch 3d.	279. By Babylon's wave Gounod 6d.	101. God is our refuge ... Dr. H. Hiles 6d.
228. Art thou weary ... C. H. Lloyd 6d.	197. By the rivers of Babylon L. Samson 4d.	332. God is our refuge ... A. Foote 4d.
311. As I live, saith the Lord E. T. Chipp 3d.	121. By the waters of Babylon Boyce 4d.	75. God said, Behold Sir G. Macfarren 4d.
333. As it began to dawn Ch. Vincent 3d.	511. Ditto H. Clarke 4d.	473. God so loved the world J. V. Roberts 3d.
498. As Moses lifted up F. Gostelow 3d.	641. Ditto S. Coieridge-Taylor 3d.	342. God, that madest earth A. C. Fisher 2d.
643. As the earth bringeth A. H. Brewer 4d.	742. By Thy glorious death A. Dvorák 4d.	344. God, who at sundry times J. H. Mee 4d.
24. As the hart pants (S.S.T.B.) Gounod 3d.	116. Call to remembrance J. Battisbill 6d.	715. God's peace is peace eternal Grieg 3d.
147. Ascribe unto the Lord Travers 6d.	680. Calm on the list'ning ear Parker 3d.	388. Grant, we beseech Thee Roberts 3d.
309. Ascribe unto the Lord S. S. Wesley 8d.	497. Christ both died E. W. Naylor 3d.	550. Grant, we beseech Thee M. Elvey 2d.
709. At the Lamb's High E. V. Hall 3d.	454. Christ is risen G. B. J. Aitken 3d.	708. Great is the Lord A. W. Marcant 3d.
456. At the Sepulchre H. W. Wareing 4d.	368. Christ is risen ... J. M. Crament 4d.	187. Great and marvellous Dr. Monk 3d.
700. Awake, awake, put on Greenish 4d.	666. Christ is risen ... C. W. Jordan 4d.	517. Ditto ... J. F. Bridge 4d.
56. Awake, awake, put on J. Stainer 6d.	533. Christ is risen ... J. V. Roberts 3d.	243. Great is Jehovah ... Schubert 4d.
149. Awake, awake, put on M. Wise 4d.	307. Christ our Passover E. V. Hall 3d.	602. Great is our Lord M. B. Foster 4d.
759. Awake, awake, put on Stephenson 4d.	370. Christ the Lord ... E. V. Hall 3d.	136. Great is the Lord ... Dr. Hayes 4d.
660. Awake, awake John E. West 3d.	488. Christians, awake ... J. Barnby 3d.	237. Great is the Lord Sir F. Ouseley 6d.
199. Awake, thou that sleepest Stainer 6d.	648. Christians, awake ... H. M. Higgs 4d.	481. Great is the Lord ... B. Steane 3d.
150. Awake up, my glory M. Wise 3d.	445. Cleanse me, Lord G. F. Wrigley 4d.	220. Grieve not the Holy Spirit Stainer 3d.
578. Be glad and rejoice ... B. Steane 3d.	52. Come, and let us return Sir J. Goss 3d.	609. Guide me, O Thou H. Blair 3d.
744. Be glad and rejoice M. B. Foster 3d.	95. Come, and let us return W. Jackson 3d.	427. Hail! gladdening Light J. T. Field 2d.
212. Be glad, O ye righteous H. Smart 4d.	201. Come, Holy Ghost ... J. L. Hatton 4d.	545. Hail! gladdening Light Martin 4d.
567. Be Thou exalted ... C. Bayley 3d.	283. Come, Holy Ghost Sir G. Elvey 4d.	326. Hail, thou that art ... A. Carnall 4d.
440. Before the heavens H. W. Parker 3d.	717. Come, Holy Ghost C. L. Williams 2d.	560. Hail to the Christ ... J. Barnby 3d.
651. Behold, all the earth G. F. Huntley 4d.	293. Come, my soul ... G. C. Martin 4d.	499. Hallelujah, Christ is risen Steane 3d.
598. Behold, God is great E. W. Naylor 4d.	314. Come now, and let us H. W. Wareing 4d.	382. Hallelujah! the Light O. King 3d.
636. Behold, God is my F. C. Woods 4d.	1. Come unto Him ... Gounod 2d.	173. Happy is the man ... E. Prout 8d.
349. Behold, how good (Male) Caldicott 3d.	635. Come unto Me ... G. J. Elvey 3d.	681. Hark the glad sound M. B. Foster 3d.
349.* Ditto (S.A.T.B.) Caldicott 3d.	103. Come unto Me (Bach) J. Stainer 3d.	487. Hark the glad sound E. V. Hall 3d.
419. Ditto Hamilton Clarke 4d.	256. Come unto Me H. R. Coudrey 3d.	345. Hark, the herald angels E. V. Hall 3d.
89. Behold, I bring you J. Barnby 3d.	748. Come, ye children and J. Booth 3d.	444. Hark! what news ... O. King 3d.
296. Ditto E. V. Hall 3d.	334.* Come, ye faithful ... E. V. Hall 3d.	404. Harvest Hymn ... F. Tozer 2d.
348. Ditto J. Maude Crament 3d.	622. Create in me a clean heart P. J. Fry 3d.	377. Have mercy upon me, Kellow J. Pye 3d.
713. Behold, I have given you C. Harris 3d.	688. Crown Him the ... B. L. Selby 2d.	401. Have mercy upon me J. Shaw 3d.
554. Behold, I send ... J. V. Roberts 3d.	356. Daughters of Jerusalem H. J. King 3d.	535. Have mercy upon me J. Goss 4d.
587. Behold my servant J. F. Bridge 3d.	449. Dawns the day ... R. H. Legge 3d.	773. Hearken unto me ... W. H. Bell 3d.
65. Behold now, praise J. B. Calkin 3d.	213. Day of anger (Requiem) ... Mozart 6d.	389. Hear me when I call T. Distin 2d.
631. Behold now, praise F. Iliffe 3d.	682. Day of wrath ... J. Stainer 2d.	146. Hear my prayer ... C. Stroud 4d.
315. Behold, O God ... F. W. Hird 4d.	252. Death and life Walter Parratt 3d.	339. Hear my prayer Mendelssohn 4d.
524. Behold, the days come Woodward 4d.	90. Distracted with care ... Haydn 3d.	442. Hear my words C. H. H. Parry 8d.
652. Behold the Name ... Percy Pitt 4d.	737. Doth not wisdom cry D. S. Smith 3d.	310. Hear, O God ... A. Friedländer 6d.
501. Behold, two blind men J. Stainer 3d.	703. Drop down, ye heavens Stainer 4d.	138. Hear, O heavens P. Humphreys 3d.
143. Be merciful ... H. Purcell 6d.	277. Enter not into judgment Dr. Clarke 2d.	94. Hear, O Lord Sir John Goss 4d.
257. Be merciful E. A. Sydenham 3d.	362. Eternal source ... F. Brandeis 2d.	139. Hear, O Lord ... C. King 2d.
597. Be peace on earth ... Crotch 3d.	628. Except the Lord build H. Gadsby 4d.	162. Hear, O Lord Sir F. Ouseley 4d.
583. Be ye of one mind A. E. Godfrey 3d.	764. Ditto ... Edwards 3d.	203. Hear, O Thou Shepherd Dr. Clarke 4d.
471. Be ye therefore A. S. Baker 3d.	771. Ditto ... Eaton Fanning 4d.	522. Ditto T. A. Walmisley 4d.
693. Blessed are the dead B. L. Selby 2d.	470. Eye hath not seen (S.A.) Foster 3d.	707. He that dwelleth ... J. Booth 3d.
667. Blessed are the pure A. D. Arnott 3d.	584. Ditto (S.A.T.B.) M. B. Foster 3d.	701. He will swallow up death Greenish 4d.
77. Blessed are they ... W. H. Monk 3d.	625. Far be sorrow ... E. V. Hall 3d.	376. Hide not Thy face Kellow J. Pye 2d.
616. Blessed are they ... H. Blair 3d.	329. Far from their home Woodward 3d.	330. Holy Ghost, to earth ... Dvorák 3d.
182. Blessed are they ... Arthur Page 3d.	672. Far from the world H. W. Parker 4d.	111. Holy, holy, holy ... Dr. Crotch 3d.
390. Blessed are they A. W. Watson 3d.	364. Father, hear the prayer F. Brandeis 2d.	246. Ho! every one ... G. C. Martin 4d.
15. Blessed be the God S. S. Wesley 4d.	763. Father, now Thy grace W. Coenen 3d.	366. Ho! every one J. M. Crament 4d.
183. Blessed be the Lord Dr. Heap 6d.	46. Father of Heaven Dr. Walmisley 3d.	412. Honour the Lord ... J. Stainer 4d.
331. Blessed be the Lord C. L. Williams 4d.	384. Father of Life ... S. J. Gilbert 3d.	129. Hosanna ... O. Gibbons 3d.
756. Blessed be the Lord God J. Barnby 3d.	671. Father of mercies John E. West 3d.	43. Hosanna ... Sir G. A. Macfarren 3d.
770. Blessed be the Lord Markham Lee 3d.	768. Father of mercies ... E. V. Hall 3d.	640. Hosanna to the living B. L. Selby 3d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Copyright, 1903, by Novello and Company, Limited.

GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS

COMPOSED BY

St. Luke ii. 14, 11; and a few lines of a Hymn.

E. MARKHAM LEE.

Price Threepence.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Allegro con spirito. ff

SOPRANO. Glo - ry,

ALTO. Glo - ry,

TENOR. Glo - ry,

BASS. Glo - ry,

ORGAN. Allegro con spirito. ♩ = 72.
ff (Trombe.) Gt.
Man. Ped. Man.

ff sempre.

ff sempre.

ff sempre.

ff sempre.

ff sempre.

ff sempre.

Ped. Man. Ped. Man.

GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST.

Extra Supplement.

glo - ry, glo - ry, glo - ry to God in the high - - glo - ry, glo - ry, glo - ry to God in the high - - glo - ry, glo - ry, glo - ry to God in the high - - glo - ry, glo - ry, glo - ry to God in the high - -

Man. Ped. meno f

- est, and on earth . . . peace, peace, good

- est, and on earth . . . peace, . . .

- est, peace, good pp dolce. pp pp Sw. L.H. Sw. Man. soft Ped. 16 ft.

Gt. Clarabella.

will toward men, and on earth . . .

and on earth

peace, good - will toward men, on earth will toward men, and on earth . . .

poco cres. mf

GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST.

Extra Supplement.

p mf p pp molto rit.

peace, peace, good - will to - ward . . . men. pp molto rit.

peace, peace, good - will toward men. pp molto rit.

peace, peace toward men. pp molto rit.

peace, peace toward men. . . .

soft Reed. mf dim. p pp molto rit.

Man.

Allegretto pastorale. p dolce. SOPRANO (OR TENOR) SOLO.

Un-to us is born this day, in the ci - ty of Da - vid, a

Allegretto pastorale. Ch. pp

Sw. p Oboe. Sw. both hands.

Ped.

cres. p dolce.

Sa - viour, which is Christ . . the Lord, un - to us is born this day, in the cres. p ten.

ci - ty of Da - vid, a Sa - viour, which is Christ . . the Lord, f poco rit.

f poco rit.

FULL. p dolce.

Un - to us is born this day, in the ci - ty of Da - vid, a Sa - viour, which is p dolce.

Un - to us is born this day, in the ci - ty of Da - vid, a Sa - viour, which is pp dolce.

Un - to us . . is born this day . . a Sa - viour, which . . is pp dolce.

Un - to us . . is born this day . . a Sa - viour, which . . is

pp

Christ . . the Lord, un - to us is born this day, in the ci - ty of Da - vid, a

pp

Christ . . the Lord, un - to us is born this day, in the ci - ty of Da - vid, a

pp

Christ . . the Lord, un - to us . . is born this day, . . a

pp

Christ . . the Lord, un - to us . . is born this day, . . a

pp

Sa - viour, which is Christ, a Saviour, Christ the Lord.

pp rit.

Sa - viour, which is Christ, a Saviour, Christ the Lord.

pp rit.

Sa - viour, which is Christ, a Saviour, Christ the Lord.

pp rit.

Sa - viour, which is Christ, a Saviour, Christ the Lord.

pp rit.

Sa - viour, which is Christ, a Saviour, Christ the Lord.

Ch. Flutes.

p rit.

(or Organ with Voices.)

Tempo 1mo. ten.

Re-joice, re-joice, re-joice, and be ex-ceed-ing

Re-joice, re-joice, re-joice, and be ex-ceed-ing

Re-joice, re-joice, re-joice, and be ex-ceed-ing

Re-joice, re-joice, re-joice, and be ex-ceed-ing

Tempo 1mo.

Gr. ff

Ped.

Poco meno mosso.

glad, This day hath God ful - filled His promised word, This glad, This day hath God ful - filled His promised word, . . This glad, This day hath God ful - filled His promised word, This glad, This day hath God ful - filled His promised word, This rit.

(or Organ with Voices).

day is born a Sa - viour, Christ . . the Lord! This day hath God ful - day is born a Sa - viour, Christ the Lord! This day hath God ful - day is born a Sa - viour, Christ the Lord! This day hath God ful - day is born a Sa - viour, Christ the . . Lord! This day hath God ful -

mf

Ped.

GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST.

Extra Supplement.

cres.
filled His promised word, This day is born in the ci - ty of Da - vid, a cres.

filled His promised word, This day is born in the ci - ty of Da - vid, a cres.

filled His promised word, This day is born in the ci - ty of Da - vid, a cres.

filled His promised word, This day is born in the ci - ty of Da - vid, a mf cres.

Ped.

f ff rall. a tempo.
Sa - viour, which is Christ the Lord! Re - joice,

f ff rall. a tempo.
Sa - viour, which is Christ the Lord! Re - joice,

f ff rall. a tempo.
Sa - viour, which is Christ the Lord! Re - joice,

f ff rall. a tempo.
Sa - viour, which is Christ the Lord! Re - joice, f rall. Trombe. Gt. a tempo.

molto rall.
re - joice! For un - to us is born a Sa - viour, Christ the Lord.

molto rall.
re - joice! For un - to us is born a Sa - viour. Christ the Lord.

molto rall.
re - joice! For un - to us is born a Sa - viour, Christ the Lord.

molto rall.
re - joice! is born a Sa - viour, Christ the Lord.

Man. Ped.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO ANTHEMS—Continued.

657.	Hosanna to the living	C. W. Jordan	4d.	677.	Just Judge of Heaven ...	Garrett	6d.	520.	O give thanks ...	B. Steane	3d.
260.	How beautiful are the trees	Handel	3d.	614.	Iustorum animæ ...	Byrd	3d.	599.	O give thanks ...	E. V. Hall	3d.
691.	How blest are they	Tschaikowsky	3d.	179.	King all glorious ...	J. Barnby	6d.	596.	O give thanks ...	H. J. King	3d.
321.	How excellent is Thy ...	Cowen	6d.	581.	Kings shall be thy ...	G. C. Martin	3d.	35.	O God, have mercy ...	J. B. Calkin	4d.
615.	How great is the loving J. E. West	3d.	37.	Lead, kindly Light ...	J. Stainer	4d.	698.	O God, my soul ...	F. R. Greenish	3d.
373.	How long wilt Thou	Oliver King	2d.	425.	Lead, kindly Light ...	R. Dunstan	3d.	106.	O God, the King of Glory	H. Smart	4d.
647.	How lovely are ...	C. Salaman	3d.	528.	Lead, kindly Light	C. L. Naylor	4d.	141.	O God, Thou art my God	H. Purcell	3d.
104.	How lovely are ...	Spohr	8d.	589.	Lead, kindly Light	D. Pughe-Evans	3d.	585.	Ditto	B. L. Selby	4d.
539.	I am Alpha ...	J. V. Roberts	3d.	706.	Let all the world	C. W. Jordan	4d.	679.	Ditto	F. Tozer	4d.
766.	I am Alpha ...	Ch. Gounod	4d.	132.	Let God arise ...	Dr. Greene	6d.	34.	O God, Thou art worthy	A. Sullivan	4d.
623.	I am He that liveth	T. Adams	4d.	375.	Let God arise	T. T. Trimmell	4d.	188.	O God, Thou hast ...	H. Purcell	4d.
664.	I am the Resurrection ...	Croft	3d.	346.	Let my complaint ...	E. H. Thorne	3d.	418.	O God, Who hast ...	A. S. Baker	2d.
662.	I am the Resurrection	R. Rogers	3d.	509.	Let not thine hand ...	J. Stainer	3d.	430.	Ditto	A. W. Batson	3d.
268.	I am well pleased	J. Rheinberger	3d.	438.	Let not your heart ...	M. B. Foster	3d.	507.	Ditto	J. V. Roberts	2d.
120.	I beheld, and lo	Dr. Blow	6d.	438.*	Ditto (8 v.)	M. B. Foster	3d.	47.	O how amiable ...	J. Barnby	3d.
280.	I beheld, and lo	Elvey	6d.	226.	Let the peace of God	J. Stainer	4d.	233.	O how amiable	T. M. Pattison	3d.
495.	I came not to call	C. Vincent	4d.	565.	Let the righteous ...	R. F. Lloyd	3d.	347.	O how amiable	Oliver King	4d.
207.	I cried unto the Lord	Dr. Heap	4d.	328.	Let the words of my	A. D. Culley	3d.	752.	O how amiable	E. Fanning	3d.
537.	I declare to you ...	Cruikshank	4d.	494.	Let Thy merciful ears	W. B. Bell	2d.	48.	O how plentiful	T. M. Pattison	3d.
168.	I desired wisdom ...	J. Stainer	6d.	308.	Let us now praise ...	E. H. Thorne	3d.	490.	O Jerusalem, look about	E. Naylor	4d.
230.	I did call upon the Lord	Pattison	4d.	96.	Lift up thine eyes ...	Sir John Goss	6d.	601.	O Jesu! Victim Rev.	J. B. Powell	3d.
758.	If the Lord Himself	Walmisley	6d.	18.	Lift up your heads ...	J. L. Hopkins	13d.	536.	O joyful Light	B. Tours	4d.
117.	I have set God ...	Dr. Blake	6d.	409.	Ditto	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.	543.	O Lamb of God	J. Barnby	4d.
130.	I have set God ...	J. Goldwin	3d.	343.	Lift up your hearts ...	J. Barnby	4d.	251.	O Lord God	Ernest Ford	4d.
420.	I have set God	Hamilton Clarke	3d.	408.	Lighten our darkness	G. R. Vicars	2d.	204.	O Lord God ...	Dr. Clarke	3d.
122.	I have surely built	Dr. Boyce	4d.	595.	Light of the world ...	E. Elgar	3d.	184.	O Lord, look down ...	J. Battisill	3d.
219.	I have surely built	T. T. Trimmell	4d.	393.	Like as the hart	Thomas Adams	3d.	702.	O Lord, my God	Nares	3d.
590.	I heard a great voice	G. F. Cobb	3d.	530.	Lo, God, our God	B. Haynes	3d.	306.	O Lord of hosts	Kate Boudry	3d.
396.	I heard a voice	Sir John Goss	2d.	711.	Look on the fields	C. Macpherson	3d.	45.	O Lord, our Governor	H. Gadsby	3d.
171.	I saw the Lord	J. Stainer	6d.	639.	Look upon the rainbow	T. Adams	3d.	395.	O Lord, Thou art ...	Ch. H. Lloyd	6d.
713.	I was glad ...	C. H. H. Parry	4d.	165.	Lord, how are they ...	H. Clarke	6d.	727.	O Lord, Thou art my God	J. Goss	3d.
114.	I was glad ...	T. Attwood	4d.	391.	Lord, I have loved ...	F. Iliffe	3d.	690.	O Lord, Thy Word	J. F. Bridge	6d.
32.	I was glad ...	Sir G. Elvey	3d.	722.	Lord, I have loved	G. W. Torrance	3d.	588.	O lovely peace	Handel	4d.
79.	I was glad ...	C. E. Horsley	61.	54.	Lord, let me know mine	end Goss	3d.	726.	O love most ...	A. H. Brewer	3d.
379.	I was glad ...	T. T. Trimmell	4d.	351.	Lord of all power ...	J. Barnby	2d.	3.	O love the Lord	Sir A. Sullivan	2d.
119.	I was in the spirit ...	Dr. Blow	6d.	459.	Lord of our life	J. T. Field	3d.	460.	O my heart was glad	A. Carnall	4d.
205.	I will always give thanks	Dr. Clarke	3d.	566.	Lord of life ...	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.	556.	Open to me the gates	F. Adlam	4d.
73.	I will cry unto God	Dr. Steggall	3d.	404.	Lord of the rich and golden	F. Tozer	2d.	380.	O perfect love	J. Barnby	3d.
502.	I will extol Thee	C. M. Hudson	4d.	411.	Lord of the Harvest	J. Barnby	4d.	124.	O praise God	Dr. Clarke	6d.
29.	I will give thanks ...	J. Barnby	4d.	318.	Lord, Thou art God ...	J. Stainer	8d.	40.	O praise God	T. T. Trimmell	4d.
156.	I will give thanks ...	E. J. Hopkins	6d.	434.	Lord, Thou hast ...	A. Whiting	3d.	429.	O praise God	G. C. Martin	2d.
563.	I will give thanks ...	Mozart	4d.	274.	Lord, what love have I	Dr. Steggall	6d.	355.	O praise God	Theodore Distin	3d.
674.	I will give you rain	H. W. Wareing	4d.	267.	Lord, who shall dwell	Dr. Roberts	4d.	479.	O praise our God, ye people	Boyc	4d.
225.	I will go unto ...	Dr. Gauntlett	2d.	335.	Lo, summer comes again	J. Stainer	6d.	14.	O praise the Lord ...	J. Barnby	4d.
591.	I will go unto the altar	C. Harris	3d.	504.	Lo! the winter	B. Farebrother	3d.	683.	O praise the Lord ...	Handel	4d.
137.	I will greatly rejoice	Cruikshank	4d.	350.	Magnify His Name ...	G. C. Martin	4d.	232.	O praise the Lord	T. M. Pattison	3d.
495.	I will lay me down ...	H. Gadsby	3d.	290.	Make a joyful noise	A. C. Mackenzie	6d.	178.	O praise the Lord	Sir John Goss	6d.
209.	I will lay me down ...	Dr. H. Hiles	3d.	108.	Make me a clean heart	J. Barnby	3d.	71.	O praise the Lord ...	Ouseley	3d.
495.	I will lay me down	A. C. Edwards	3d.	431.	Ditto	A. W. Batson	3d.	266.	O praise the Lord	Zingarelli	8d.
739.	I will lift up mine eyes	D. S. Smith	3d.	436.	Man goeth forth ...	A. Carnall	3d.	358.	O praise the Lord	W. G. Wood	4d.
126.	I will love Thee, O Lord	J. Clark	4d.	694.	Man that is born	S. S. Wesley	2d.	166.	O pray for the peace	E. H. Thorne	4d.
394.	I will love Thee ...	Kingston	4d.	222.	Me ye have bereaved	C. Morales	3d.	51.	O Saving Victim (No. 2)	Gounod	4d.
78.	I will magnify Thee	J. B. Calkin	4d.	527.	Mercy and truth are met	J. Stainer	3d.	486.	Ditto	Rossini	3d.
27.	I will magnify Thee	Sir John Goss	3d.	211.	Mine eyes look unto Thee	H. Baker	3d.	492.	Ditto	W. A. C. Cruickshank	3d.
153.	I will magnify Thee	J. Shaw	4d.	500.	Miserere mei, Deus	J. Barnby	3d.	508.	O Saviour of the (Male)	Roberts	2d.
405.	I will magnify Thee	O. King	4d.	665.	Ditto	Novello	2d.	142.	O sing unto the Lord	H. Purcell	6d.
633.	I will magnify Thee	F. Iliffe	4d.	404.	Ditto	J. Stainer	3d.	551.	O sing unto the Lord	Cruikshank	4d.
760.	I will magnify Thee	W. H. Bell	4d.	518.	Ditto	E. Pettman	13d.	8.	O taste and see ...	Sir John Goss	3d.
154.	I will mention ...	Sir A. Sullivan	6d.	765.	Morn's roseate hues	Chadwick	3d.	263.	O taste and see	A. H. Mann	3d.
575.	I will not leave you	B. Steane	2d.	512.	My beloved spake ...	H. Purcell	6d.	87.	O that I knew where I	Bennett	3d.
519.	I will open rivers	E. Pettman	3d.	428.	My God, I love Thee	G. J. Bennett	3d.	772.	O that men would	J. B. McEwen	3d.
371.	I will set His dominion	H. W. Parker	4d.	617.	My God, I thank Thee	E. H. Lemare	3d.	663.	O Voice of the Beloved	H. J. King	3d.
100.	I will sing a new song	Dr. Armes	8d.	10.	My God, my God ...	Mendelssohn	6d.	123.	O where shall wisdom	Dr. Boyce	4d.
608.	I will sing of the mercies	J. Booth	3d.	288.	My God, look upon ...	J. L. Hopkins	3d.	435.	O worship the King ...	E. V. Hall	6d.
134.	I will sing of Thy power	Greene	4d.	353.	My heart is fixed	W. Cruickshank	4d.	135.	O worship the Lord ...	Dr. Hayes	6d.
192.	I will sing unto the Lord	Wareing	3d.	460.	My heart was glad ...	A. Carnall	4d.	158.	O ye that loveth the Lord	Sir G. Elvey	4d.
6.	I will wash my hands	Hopkins	3d.	564.	My heart is inditing	M. B. Foster	3d.	196.	Ditto	H. W. Wareing	3d.
710.	If any man hath not	H. W. Davies	3d.	199.	My hope is in the	J. Stainer	6d.	234.	Ditto	Docker	4d.
53.	If we believe that Jesus died	Goss	3d.	406.	My mouth shall speak	J. E. West	4d.	325.	Ditto	J. Naylor	3d.
453.	If ye love Me	H. W. Wareing	3d.	190.	My soul is weary ...	Dr. Beckwith	4d.	668.	Our Blest Redeemer	E. V. Hall	3d.
544.	If ye love Me ...	B. Steane	2d.	586.	My soul truly waiteth	B. Steane	2d.	392.	Our Father, which art	J. Barnby	2d.
469.	If yethen be risen (S.A.)	M. B. Foster	3d.	295.	My soul, wait thou still	F. J. Read	4d.	303.	Our God is Lord ...	E. Mundella	4d.
58.	If ye then be risen ...	Dr. Naylor	3d.	629.	Nearer, my God, to Thee	T. Adams	3d.	176.	Out of the deep	Dr. Naylor	4d.
61.	In Christ dwelleth	Sir John Goss	3d.	210.	Not unto us, O Lord	H. Gadsby	6d.	240.	Out of the deep	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
619.	In every place incense	J. E. West	3d.	558.	Not unto us ...	John E. West	3d.	242.	Out of the deep	J. B. Calkin	3d.
655.	In heavenly love ...	H. Parker	3d.	592.	Now is Christ risen	T. Adams	3d.	638.	Out of the deep	H. W. Davies	4d.
403.	In my Father's house	Crament	3d.	612.	Now is come salvation	C. Harris	3d.	692.	Out of the deep	G. C. Martin	6d.
102.	In sweet consent ...	E. H. Thorne	3d.	718.	Now know I that the	M. B. Foster	3d.	81.	Plead Thou my cause	Mozart	3d.
278.	In that day ...	Sir G. Elvey	8d.	695.	Now late on the Coleridge-Taylor	3d.	35.	Ponder my words ...	Henry Gadsby	6d.
582.	In the beginning ...	F. Tozer	4d.	673.	Now sinks the sun	H. W. Parker	4d.	300.	Ponder my words ...	F. J. Sawyer	2d.
720.	In the beginning	C. Macpherson	3d.	505.	O all ye people ...	H. Purcell	4d.	745.	Praised be the Lord	C. H. Lloyd	3d.
33.	In Thee, O Lord ...	B. Tours	3d.	506.	O be joyful in the Lord	G. Martin	6d.	159.	Praise God in His holiness	B. Tours	3d.
148.	In Thee, O Lord ...	J. Weldon	3d.	217.	O clap your hands ...	T. T. Trimmell	3d.	521.	Praise, my soul ...	E. V. Hall	3d.
385.	In Thee, O Lord ...	S. C. Taylor	3d.	133.	O clap your hands ...	Dr. Greene	4d.	641.	Praise, O praise our God	B. L. Selby	3d.
338.	In the fear of the Lord	J. V. Roberts	3d.	82.	O clap your hands ...	J. Stainer	6d.	712.	Praise our God	E. V. Hall	4d.
282.	In the Lord ...	Sir R. Stewart	6d.	80.	O clap your hands ...	E. H. Thorne	6d.	70.	Praise the Lord	Sir G. Elvey	4d.
659.	In the Lord ...	C. Macpherson	3d.	686.	O clap your hands	J. L. Hopkins	3d.	172.	Praise the Lord	Sir J. Benedict	8d.
467.	Is it nothing (S.A.)	M. B. Foster	3d.	656.	O come and behold	Longhurst	4d.	137.	Praise the Lord	Dr. Hayes	4d.
571.	Ditto (4 voices)	M. B. Foster	3d.	202.	O come before ...	G. C. Martin	4d.	125.	Praise the Lord	J. Clark	3d.
725.	Is it not wheat-harvest	T. Adams	3d.	241.	O come hither ...	W. Jackson	3d.	59.	Praise the Lord ...	S. S. Wesley	6d.
91.	It came even to pass	Ouseley	4d.	569.	O come, let us sing	M. B. Foster	3d.	561.	Praise the Lord ...	J. M. Crament	4d.
180.	It is a good thing ...	J. Barnby	6d.	12.	O come near to the Cross	Gounod	8d.	577.	Praise the Lord ...	J. H. Maunders	4d.
231.	It is a good thing	T. M. Pattison	3d.	11.	O day of penitence ...	Gounod	3d.	208.	Praise the Lord, O my soul	Mozart	4d.
215.	It shall come to pass	Dr. Garrett	6d.	730.	O death, where is thy	A. Hollins	4d.	21.	Ditto	Sir John Goss	3d.
397.	Jesu, lover of my soul	F. Iliffe	rd.	16.	O give thanks ...	Sir G. Elvey	3d.	381.	Ditto	J. W. Elliott	3d.
455.	Jesu Christ is risen	Oliver King	3d.	144.	O give thanks ...	H. Purcell	6d.	63.	Ditto	Dr. Garrett	6d.
654.	Jesu, Thou joy ...	E. H. Davies	3d.	17.	O give thanks ...	William Rea	3d.	439.	Ditto	T. P. Royle	3d.
548.	Joy in harvest ...	B. Steane	3d.	66.	O give thanks ...	S. S. Wesley	4d.	513.	Ditto	H. Purcell	6d.
7.	Judge me, O God ...	Mendelssohn	4d.	42.	O give thanks ...	Sir John Goss	3d.	298.	Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	Bliss	3d.

molto marcato.
f pp

torn By Au-tumn wild and Win-ter rude! By blest, I'd feast on beau-ty a' the night, I'd molto marcato.

f pp

when it was torn . . . By Au-tumn wild and Win-ter rude! By ex-pres-sion blest, . . . I'd feast on beau-ty a' the night, I'd molto marcato.

f pp

when it was torn . . . By Au-tumn wild and Win-ter rude! By ex-pres-sion blest, . . . I'd feast on beau-ty a' the night, I'd molto marcato.

f pp

when it was torn . . . By Au-tumn wild and Win-ter rude! By ex-pres-sion blest, . . . I'd feast on beau-ty a' the night, I'd molto marcato.

f pp

when it was torn . . . By Au-tumn wild and Win-ter rude! By ex-pres-sion blest, . . . I'd feast on beau-ty a' the night, I'd rall. a tempo.

Au-tumn wild and Win-ter rude! But I wad sing on wan-ton wing, When youthfu' feast on beau-ty a' the night; Seal'd on her silk - saft faulds to rest, Till fley'd a - rall. a tempo.

Au-tumn wild and Win-ter rude! But I wad sing on wan-ton wing, When youthfu' feast on beau-ty a' the night; Seal'd on her silk-saft faulds to rest, Till fley'd a - rall. a tempo.

Au-tumn wild and Win-ter rude! But I wad sing on wan-ton wing, When youthfu' feast on beau-ty a' the night; Seal'd on her silk - saft faulds to rest, Till fley'd a - rall. a tempo.

Au-tumn wild and Win-ter rude! But I wad sing on wing, When youthfu' feast on beau-ty a' the night; Seal'd on her faulds to rest, Till fley'd a - rall. a tempo.

cres. e cres.

May its bloom re - new'd, But I wad sing on wan-ton wing, When youth - fu'
 - wa by Phœ - bus' light, Seal'd on her silk - saft faulds to rest, Till fley'd a - cres. e cres.

May its bloom re - new'd, But I wad sing on wan-ton wing, When youth - fu'
 - wa by Phœ - bus' light, Seal'd on her silk - saft faulds to rest, Till fley'd a - cres. e cres.

May its bloom re - new'd, But I wad sing on wan-ton wing, When youth - fu'
 - wa by Phœ - bus' light, Seal'd on her silk - saft faulds to rest, Till fley'd a - cres. e cres.

May its bloom re - new'd, But I wad sing on wan-ton wing, When youth - fu'
 - wa by Phœ - bus' light, Seal'd on her silk - saft faulds to rest, Till fley'd a - rall. 1st time. 2nd time.

May, when youth-fu' May its bloom . . re-new'd. Phœ - bus' light!

rall.

May, when youth-fu' May its bloom re - new'd. Phœ - bus' light!

rall.

May, when youth-fu' May its bloom re - new'd. Phœ - bus' light!

rall.

May, when youth-fu' May its bloom re - new'd. Phœ - bus' light!

1st time. 2nd time.

THE PRINCIPLES OF VOWEL PRONUNCIATION.

At the first meeting of the Musical Association this session—held at the Royal College of Organists on the 10th ult.—a paper was read by Dr. W. A. Aikin on the 'Principles of Vowel Pronunciation.'

The lecturer began by alluding to the work of the phonologist, in studying and bringing to the notice of the musician the scientific facts upon which the principles of sound-production in the human voice depend. The voice-master has to choose between two alternatives—the empirical and the rational. The empirical succeeds only by securing the faithful imitation of an actual model which must be above reproach. The rational, on the other hand, requires the study of phonology, and an intimate acquaintance with the exact physical and physiological facts which alone can give him a foundation for his teaching.

After referring to the importance of regarding the voice as being compounded of two distinct instruments, the vocal reed and the resonator, he described in detail the anatomy of the throat and mouth in order to show that in their most extended position they act as a 'double resonator'—the lower chamber in the neck being widest below and entering the hemispherical cavity of the mouth through a narrow opening behind the base of the tongue. It is this resonator which is alone concerned in the formation of vowel sounds, and it has the power of adding to every note emitted by the reed a characteristic resonant note which impresses upon the sound an effect which we recognize as a particular vowel. This resonant note owes its character to the shape of its vibrations (quality) and not to their frequency (pitch)—for different individuals possessing resonators of various sizes make resonant notes of different pitches, but they all assume approximately similar positions or shapes for the pronunciation of the vowels.

So much latitude is allowed in this respect that it is necessary to define the position for a particular vowel before anything can be gained by examining its resonance. That selected for the vowel A (Ah) was as follows:—

Mouth open; one inch between front teeth.
Lips at rest upon the teeth; not retracted.
Tongue flat on the floor of the mouth, its margin against lower teeth in front and all round, and its base held down so as to give a view of the back of the throat.
Palate held up enough to prevent nasal sound.
Pharynx, or neck chamber, expanded by following actions:—
Head, neck, and shoulders erect.
Chest well expanded.
Larynx held down without strain.

Investigating the whispered resonances in this position, it was found that the two chambers in the neck and mouth were tuned to the same pitch—that is, in unison—and that a nodal point existed at their junction in the throat, as would be expected in a double resonator whose two chambers were thus in agreement. The pitch in men of average size, including himself, was about C'' (in the treble clef)—variations extending only to a semitone or two above or below. In women he had found it about 1½ tones higher on an average, that is, e''[♯], their variations also being one or two semitones higher or lower, according to size.

The phonological importance of this arrangement lies in the fact that the most favourable condition in a double resonator is when its two chambers are in unison, or simply related.

Dr. Aikin then proceeded to derive the other vowel sounds from this central position of A (Ah)—the U (ōō) and three kinds of O (O¹ = oh, O² = or, O³ = on) by degrees of closure of the orifice of the lips—and E (eh) and I (ee), and other sounds allied to them, by degrees of moving forwards and upwards the back of the tongue—in every case maintaining the same opening of the jaw (= 1 inch). There was thus constructed what he has called the Resonator Scale—upon which the 'lip-closing' vowels occupy the first four notes, starting from the fifth below, and the 'tongue-raising' vowels, the seven notes reaching the octave above, the central resonance of A (Ah) which in this instance is C''.

Thus—

I	II	III	IV	V	VI	VII	VIII	IX	X	XI	XII
U	o ¹	o ²	o ³	A	ū	er	ā	ě	E	ī	I as in the words—

who oh or on Ah up her at ell ail ill eel giving the pitches—

f'	g'	a'	b'	c''	d''	{e''	{f''	{g''	{a''	{b''	{c''
						{c''	{b''	{a''	{g''	{f''

The upper notes refer to the upper or mouth cavity, and the lower notes to the back or neck cavity. Unison is maintained from I. to VI. of the scale—after that the two chambers are divided unequally. For the vowels E (eh) and I (ee) they are related as an octave and a twelfth respectively. These noteworthy phonological relations Dr. Aikin holds to be an explanation of the occurrence in all languages of the clear vowel sounds E (eh) and I (ee), and to support strongly the practice of their pronunciation with an open jaw as taught by the old Italian masters.

Having paid tribute to the classical work of Helmholtz in the field of phonology, Dr. Aikin then drew attention to the fact that his own observations did not always agree with those of that great observer. He had found the shape of the resonator for the vowel A (Ah) different from that described by Helmholtz as 'a funnel increasing with tolerable uniformity from the larynx to the lips' (Ton-einfindungen, Cap. V. 7), which is anatomically impossible—and also a marked difference in resonant pitch between men, women and children, which Helmholtz had found all the same. The latter discrepancy he attributes to the use of artificial aids to the ear, and the absence of a defined pronunciation.

Dr. Aikin draws a distinction between the two functions of the resonator—one to form the characteristic shapes for the vowel sounds, and the other to reinforce the vocal reed notes—and claims for the resonator scale that it is a system by which good positions for the vowels may be acquired, as they always have to be acquired, by education, which will also reinforce the upper partials of the reed notes in a manner possessing the phonological advantages he has described.

Dr. Cummings occupied the chair, and took part in the discussion, as did also Mr. Blaikley, Mr. Carlyle, Dr. Maclean, Dr. McNaught, and Mr. T. L. Southgate.

'HIAWATHA' IN THE COURT OF CHANCERY.

NOVELLO AND CO., LTD. v. BROWN-POTTER AND OTHERS.

In this action, tried before Mr. Justice Kekewich on the 20th ult., the plaintiffs claimed an injunction against Mrs. Brown-Potter, Mr. Adolph Mann and Messrs. Ashton and Co., Ltd., Concert Agents, to restrain them from performing an adaptation of Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast' and 'The Death of Minnehaha' without the consent of the plaintiffs, who are the registered owners of the copyright and performing right in both works.

In December last the defendants were arranging a tour through some fifty or sixty provincial towns, at which it was proposed that Mrs. Brown-Potter should recite selected passages from the two works referred to, while Mr. Mann played, as an accompaniment on the piano-forte, Coleridge-Taylor's music, or an adaptation of it. With a view to obtaining the plaintiffs' consent Mr. Mann sent his manuscript to the plaintiffs, who subsequently gave their consent, subject to certain conditions, which were declined by the defendants, and the negotiations fell through.

While the negotiations were in progress, the plaintiffs noticed in an advertisement that the proposed adaptation would be recited by Mrs. Brown-Potter at Queen's Hall, but the plaintiffs declined to allow it to take place, and it was accordingly abandoned. After the negotiations had failed another attempt was made to perform it at the Alhambra, the defendants, Ashton and Co., Ltd., on that occasion sending the plaintiffs a cheque for the amount claimed for a performance in the Provinces. The plaintiffs, however, declined to accept the cheque, and the Alhambra performance was in turn abandoned.

Towards the end of January this year Mrs. Brown-Potter started on her tour with Mr. Mann as her accompanist, and shortly afterwards it came to the knowledge of the plaintiffs that she was reciting portions of Longfellow's work with musical accompaniments played by Mr. Mann, and they quickly satisfied themselves that the music used on several such occasions was that composed by Coleridge-Taylor.

Messrs. Novello accordingly took proceedings against all the defendants, claiming an injunction, damages and costs. The defendants pleaded that the music used was not Coleridge-Taylor's, and asserted that it was music specially composed for the purpose by the defendant Mann.

Mr. Justice Kekewich after hearing the evidence said that the plaintiffs' case had been supported by several excellent witnesses who could not be suspected of partiality, whereas the defendants' witnesses could not be put in the scale against those of the plaintiffs. As regards Mrs. Brown-Potter he considered that she was so wrapped up in her recitation that she did not trouble herself about the actual composer of the music. As regards the defendant Mann the judge severely criticised the way in which he had given his evidence, and came to the conclusion that notwithstanding his denial of the fact, he was well acquainted with Coleridge-Taylor's music, and that there had been an infringement of the plaintiffs' performing rights by Mr. Mann. He also held that, as it was Mrs. Brown-Potter's tour, and Mr. Mann was only her agent, Mrs. Brown-Potter was liable as well as Mr. Mann. As regards Ashton and Co., Ltd., he held, upon the evidence that they had no interest in the tour except as Mrs. Brown-Potter's agents, but that they had so closely associated themselves with the tour, and had so advertised themselves in connection with it, that the plaintiffs were bound to make them defendants. As however they had now shown that they were only agents he dismissed the action as against them, but made them pay their own costs. As regards Mrs. Brown-Potter and Mr. Mann he granted the plaintiffs the injunction, damages and costs which they claimed.

London Concerts.

TWO BERLIOZ CENTENARY CONCERTS.

The first of the Richter Concerts, now under the direction of Mr. Schulz-Curtius, was given at Queen's Hall on the 3rd ult. Taking time by the forelock, the concert was in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Berlioz. The great conductor brought with him from Manchester his own band (The Hallé Orchestra) of 100 performers, and it is hardly necessary to say that such a concatenation of circumstances was fruitful in result. The programme, entirely Berliozic, consisted of four Overtures—'Carnaval Romain,' 'Beatrice and Benedict,' 'King Lear,' and 'Benvenuto Cellini'—in addition to the Hungarian March from 'Faust' and the ever-welcome 'Harold in Italy' Symphony. The last-named work was played with singular beauty, and Mr. Simon Speelman, in the important viola obbligato, again proved himself to be a true artist.

Nine days later—on the 12th ult., and in the same building—Professor Johann Kruse gave a Berlioz Centenary Concert, with Herr Felix Weingartner as conductor. Rows and rows of empty benches formed a pitiable sight when it is remembered that Weingartner is one of the finest conductors in the world. In regard to numbers the audience was a disgrace to London; but what it lacked in quantity it atoned for in enthusiasm. And who could help being enthusiastic under Weingartner's magnetic influence? What magnificent playing! Rhythm, tone-colour, transparent clearness of detail, poetic insight, and a mighty grip of the music produced results that reached a very high pinnacle of orchestral interpretation. The 'Carnaval Romain' Overture was performed with such verve and delicacy that it was encored with genuine enthusiasm and full appreciation of the merits of Weingartner and his splendid players. The remainder of the programme consisted of the 'Rob Roy' Overture and the 'Symphonie Fantastique,' a clever but insincere work, in addition to 'Cléopâtre,' a scena for soprano and orchestra, in which Mdlle. Palasara sang the solo portion, performed for the first time on this occasion. 'Cléopâtre,' despite its patches of cleverness, does not show Berlioz at his best. As in the purely instrumental selections, the orchestra came forth as conquerors in their admirable accompaniments, and the concert was a triumph of Herr Weingartner's skill.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

Concerning the performance of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' at the Royal Albert Hall on the 5th ult., with which the Royal Choral Society commenced its thirty-third season, it is sufficient to record an interpretation of the popular Oratorio, which again testified to the fine voices of the choir and the refinement with which they sang the less strenuous portions of the popular oratorio. The principal soloists were Madame Albani, Madame Kirkby Lunn, Mr. Philip Newbury, and Mr. Kennerley Rumford. Sir Frederick Bridge conducted with unabated vigour.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The Students' concert at St. James's Hall on the 23rd ult. as usual gave satisfactory evidence of the good work this Institution is doing in training the young idea. An Andante in A from a MS. String Quartet by Mr. Arnold E. T. Bax proved somewhat vague in character, but showed musicianly feeling. Four MS. songs, severally entitled 'But One,' 'Farewell,' 'Sleep,' and 'The Swallow,' by Mr. Montague F. Phillips, deserve to be published. They are well laid out for the voice, are furnished with tasteful accompaniments, and possess considerable charm, which was enhanced by the sympathetic singing of Miss Caroline Hatchard. Miss Violet L. Stewart and Miss Margaret Bennett also merit encouragement for their pianoforte playing, and the vocalists—Miss Verena M. F. Mutter, Mr. David Brazell, and Mrs. Dewhurst gave further proof of good training.

BROADWOOD CONCERTS.

The patriotic spirit which so pleasantly pervades the Broadwood Chamber Concerts at St. James's Hall was prominently shown by the second series, which commenced on the 5th ult., being opened with the first performance in London of a String Quintet in C minor, by Mr. Balfour Gardiner, a composer who was born in the Metropolis in 1877, and has written a considerable number of works, which, however, are little known. The Quintet is written for the unusual combination of two violins, two violas, and violoncello, the second-named instruments imparting a peculiar richness, sometimes approaching thickness, of tone to the middle portions of the harmonies. The chief characteristic of the work, however, is geniality, which, combined with terseness of thematic development, secured the Quintet a hearty reception. This was well deserved, for the music is graceful, flowing and manly, and excites a desire to hear more from this composer. The second viola part was played by Mr. Alfred Ballen, but the other strings were entrusted to Messrs. Phillip and George Cathie, T. Morrison, and Arthur Trew, a body of performers who style themselves the Cathie Quartet Party, of whom we should hear much in the future, for their ensemble was admirable. The vocalist of the evening, Miss Susan Strong, is to be commended for including in her selection three neglected examples by Liszt, severally named 'Schwebe, Schwebe, blaues Auge,' 'Bist du,' and 'Wo Weilt er?'

The second concert, on the 19th ult., was particularly interesting and varied, the concerted music being played by Mr. Henry J. Wood and the Queen's Hall Woodwind Quintet Party, consisting of Messrs. Fransella, D. Lalande, M. Gomez, A. Borsdorf, and E. F. James, by whom beautifully-finished interpretations were given of Mozart's Clavier Quintet in E flat, a sprightly Tarantelle, or rather Saltarello, by Herr Fritz Führmeister for pianoforte and five wind instruments, and two quintets, respectively, a Pastorale by M. Gabriel Pierné and an Aubade by M. Barthe, for flute, oboe, clarinet, horn, and bassoon. Mrs. Henry J. Wood sang an interesting selection of songs composed by no fewer than five British composers, including first performances of 'There comes an end to summer,' by Mr. Cyril Scott, and 'Summer sweet,' by Mr. Josef Holbrooke, both of which deserve wide acceptance. Mr. Cyril Scott was also represented by three of his taking 'Six Pieces for the Pianoforte,' which were crisply and tastefully played by Miss Stuart. Mention is also due of the finished ensemble singing by the Misses K. Cherry, M. Layton, E. Kingsford, and E. Franklin in some of Brahms's trios and quartets for female voices.

THE LONDON CHORAL SOCIETY.—FIRST CONCERT.

The début of the newly-formed London Choral Society at Queen's Hall on October 26 was looked forward to with some interest. The prospectus states that the Society 'is founded on the belief that the ability to develop and appreciate good choral singing is not confined to the North of England. The need for such an organization in Central London has been referred to repeatedly.' The work selected for the first appearance of the choir was 'The Golden Legend.' For executive reasons it was perhaps wise to start the campaign of the Society by selecting a work so well known to singers and players as Sullivan's cantata; but for the purpose of attracting a specially good audience it was not so good a choice. As to the quality of the performance it may be said that it was good, but not particularly so. No doubt as choir, orchestra and conductor get more into touch with one another there will be more life and freedom in their interpretations. The choir of about 240 voices has an excellent tone and is capable of much refinement in execution, and moreover is quickly responsive to the conductor. The string section of the orchestra needs strengthening numerically. The twenty-six players (including only four violas and four violoncellos), although all competent, were not a good balance for the choir or indeed enough for the size of the hall.

The principals were Miss Perceval Allen, Miss Carmen Hill, Mr. Whitworth Mitton, Mr. Frederick H. Gould, and Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies. Mr. Henry Lewis led the band, and Mr. Hedgcock was the organist. Mr. Arthur Fagge conducted.

QUEEN'S HALL SYMPHONY CONCERTS.

How firmly established and widely appreciated are the Queen's Hall Symphony Concerts was emphatically shown by the large attendance at the first performance of the present series on October 31, and again at the second concert on the 14th ult. On the former occasion the Symphony was the E minor of Brahms, which received a very fine interpretation under Mr. Henry J. Wood's direction. Miss Adela Verne gave a legitimate and vivacious rendering of the solo part of Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto, and the first performance in London was given of Mr. Arthur Hervey's tone poems 'On the heights' and 'On the march,' written for, and produced at, the Cardiff Musical Festival of last year. The concert on the 14th ult. is chiefly memorable for the purity, expressiveness, and brilliancy of Herr Kreisler's violin playing in Brahms's Concerto in D, which has rarely received so fine an interpretation. Mozart's delightful Symphony in E flat was also beautifully played, and with Beethoven's 'Coriolan' Overture completed an ideal programme.

THE ALEXANDRA PALACE CHORAL SOCIETY. PERFORMANCE OF PARRY'S 'JUDITH.'

The Alexandra Palace Choral and Orchestral Society is rapidly winning for itself a high position in Metropolitan musical circles. Next to the Royal Choral Society, it is now the largest permanent musical organization of its kind in London. The existence and success of this Society is one of the foundations for hope that after all the conditions of things chorally in London is not so bad as has been dolefully painted. Here we have 500 enthusiastic choralists, wholly recruited from North London, and a competent amateur orchestra of nearly 100 players—which at concerts is augmented by thirty or so professionals. These forces meet for rehearsal in one of the large rooms of the Palace under highly favourable circumstances, and are enabled to give their performances in one of the most commodious halls in London, where there is a magnificent organ and an ample orchestral platform. What more could be desired? An inspiring conductor and an appreciative audience! The former the Society enjoys in the person of Mr. Allen Gill, whose alertness, skill and experience have placed him in the front rank of oratorio conductors. As to the audience, that too seems to be forthcoming.

The mettle of the Society was well tested on the 21st ult. by a performance of Sir Hubert Parry's oratorio 'Judith.' In a work of this type the choralists have splendid opportunities. It is gratifying to report that the Alexandrists rose fully to the occasion. It may be said that the voices did not exhibit the ring and resonance one hears somewhere even farther north. Certainly there was often fine vigour in the attack and a satisfactory assurance in the execution. In short, the whole performance was painstaking and creditable, and proved the capacity of both the choral and orchestral resources. The principals were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Gertrude Lonsdale, Mr. Lloyd Chandos, and Mr. Montague Borwell. The solo parts in the beautiful and pathetic scene with the two children were touchingly sung by two well-trained boys—T. Sampson and A. Ludlow—from Mr. Bates's Training School for Choristers. Mr. George Wilby led the orchestra and Mr. G. D. Cunningham was at the organ. As already stated, Mr. Allen Gill conducted. There was an audience of between two and three thousand.

SOME NEW VIOLINISTS.

The first to appear of several violinists of exceptional ability was Miss Dorothy Bridson, a daughter of the late John Bridson, formerly well known as an excellent baritone singer. This young lady studied for some time at the Cologne Conservatoire under Herr Willy Hess who, it may be mentioned, has now transferred his services to the Royal Academy of Music. Miss Bridson made her début on October 30 at St. James's Hall, supported by the Queen's Hall Orchestra conducted by Mr. Henry J. Wood. She selected as her chief pieces Saint-Saëns's Concerto in B minor and Spohr's 'Dramatic' Concerto, in both of which she made a most favourable impression, and after a brilliant rendering of Paganini's 'Hexen Tanz,' which closed the evening, the débutante was recalled four times. This clever young violinist was heard to still greater advantage at her recital given in the same hall on the 17th ult. On this occasion she was especially successful in her renderings of airs by Tenaglia and Goldmark, and in Wieniawski's 'Carnaval Russe,' rendering the former with admirable breadth of phrasing and warmth of expression, and the latter with great brilliancy. Miss Bridson certainly made her mark.

On the 2nd ult. Miss Marie Nicholls, a native of Boston, Mass., sought London favour and gained it at St. James's Hall by her intellectual and facile playing in Max Bruch's Serenade (Op. 75) for violin and orchestra, which had not previously been heard in England. The work, which bears the impress of being a recent composition, is not of very serious character. The first number, headed Andante con moto, of reposeful character, is succeeded by an Allegro moderato of somewhat violent contrast, the music being suggestive of a hunting scene. It is followed by a Nocturne of feminine character, pensive in expression and possessing a certain wistful charm. The finale, Allegro energico e vivace, is vigorous and has an old-English ring about it, but the work ends quietly. The music is beautifully written, and full justice was done to the sonorous scoring by the Queen's Hall Orchestra.

Mr. Francis Macmillen, the next new-comer, also engaged the Queen's Hall Orchestra to co-operate with him at his first appearance, at St. James's Hall, on the 6th ult. Purity and sweetness of tone are the chief characteristics of the playing by this artist, who also possesses a brilliant technique, but is somewhat lacking in power and warmth of expression. He was heard at his best in Goldmark's Concerto in A minor (Op. 28), in which he played with a firmness and facility indicative of great attainments.

Yet another lady challenged criticism, on the 11th ult., also at St. James's Hall. Miss Irene Penso had previously been heard at one of the Promenade Concerts at the Queen's Hall. For her concert she too engaged Mr. Henry J. Wood and his Orchestra, and brought to a first hearing in London M. Anton Arensky's Violin Concerto in A minor (Op. 54). This work consists of four movements, between which, however, no break is made. The opening section excites expectation, for the themes are expressive, and their treatment terse and interesting. The slow portion is dignified and graceful, but after this the music declines in value. The valse rhythm is adopted for the third movement, the themes of which are weak, and the finale is a somewhat needless repetition of subjects previously heard. Miss Penso not only played with great intelligence and firmness, but her performance was remarkable for neatness and finish.

VARIOUS CONCERTS AND RECITALS.

A fresh series of Saturday and Monday Popular Concerts at St. James's Hall was commenced on October 24. An excellent scheme of music, embracing works in all styles by composers of all European nationalities, has been arranged, and soloists of repute engaged, but the attendances have been small. No new works having been produced, detailed criticism is unnecessary, but it should be said that the concerted music has been played by the Kruse Quartet, comprising Messrs. Kruse, Haydn Inwards, Alfred Hobday, and Percy Such, save on the 14th and 16th ult., when particularly interesting performances of old-world chamber music were given by La Société des Instruments Anciens, of Paris.

The programme of the second Richter concert—Queen's Hall, the 17th ult.—was devoted to Brahms, and consisted of the Academic Festival Overture, Variations on a Theme by Haydn, Symphony in C minor, and the Pianoforte Concerto in D minor, with Signor Busoni as soloist.

Mr. Egon Petri, a pianist of Dutch nationality, made his début in England at St. James's Hall on October 27, assisted by the Queen's Hall Orchestra, conducted by Mr. Henry J. Wood, and followed it by a recital which he gave on the 4th ult. On both occasions the young artist played with great brilliancy and showed a powerful technique, but his readings, although intelligent, fell short of the charm to please.

Mr. Harold Bonarius, who we believe is a member of the musical Grimson family, gave a violin recital on the 2nd ult. at Bechstein Hall, and created a very favourable impression by his refined and expressive playing. Mr. Bonarius has still something to learn, but he is already an artist to whom it is a pleasure to listen.

A new 'Romantic Suite' for violin and pianoforte by Miss Liza Lehmann was performed for the first time at Miss Ethel Barns and Mr. Charles Phillips's chamber concert on the 3rd ult. at Bechstein Hall. The work is so simple and unpretentious in character that it is sufficient to say that its six short movements are severally headed 'First-Meeting,' 'Jealousy and Lovers' Quarrels,' 'Love lies bleeding,' 'Reconciliation,' 'Promise' and 'Happy Ending.' At the same concert Miss Barns played for the first time in London a set of 'Russian and Swedish Folk Melodies' by Max Bruch (Op. 79), for violin and pianoforte. These are four in number and proved brilliant and effective pieces. Mr. Phillips's songs included a clever example of modern vocal art entitled 'Voices of Vision' by Mr. Cyril Scott.

Mr. Donald Francis Tovey also engaged Mr. Wood and his merry men for his concert at St. James's Hall on the 4th ult., when he introduced his Pianoforte Concerto in A, a work modelled on the style of Brahms, but one that proved to be more scholarly than attractive. Mention should be made of Mrs. Henry J. Wood's finished rendering of Mozart's rarely-heard independent scena 'Non temer,' for soprano, clavier obbligato and orchestra.

On the 11th ult. Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies sang at his vocal recital at Bechstein Hall, for the first time in London, Jensen's 'Gaudeamus Lieder' (Op. 40). This work comprises four songs severally entitled 'Ausfahrt,' 'Lied Jahrender Schüler,' 'Altssyrisch,' and 'Die Marchbronner Fuge.' They are all so bright and spirited that they should find general acceptance by baritones.

A considerable number of pianoforte recitals have been given in the past month at St. James's Hall. The public was invited on the 3rd and 12th ult. by Herr Josef Hofmann. On October 28 and on the 10th and 18th ult. by Misses Cornelia Hollosy and Ida Kelen, who played duets on pianofortes with fascinating delicacy, crispness and brilliancy. On the 10th ult. Mr. Archy Rosenthal met with a favourable reception. On the 18th ult. M. Mark Hambourg played with remarkable verve and power. On the 19th ult. Herr Schönberger gave a very enjoyable afternoon, and on the 20th ult. Mr. Newstead created a favourable impression. Mention is also due of Señor Motta, who played most tastefully on the 19th ult. at Bechstein Hall. At the same place Signor Busoni on the 21st ult. also gave a memorable recital of Chopin's music.

Amongst other concerts worthy of record, are the excellent historical recitals of chamber music given for charitable purposes by the Chaplin Trio at Steinway Hall; the admirable concerts held fortnightly at Leighton House; Madame Blauvelt's concert at St. James's Hall on the 9th ult.; and the excellent rendering of Berlioz's 'Faust,' on the 20th ult. by the Finsbury Choral Society, under the able conductorship of Mr. Allen Gill.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

New York, November 10.

It has been my custom to resume my reports to THE MUSICAL TIMES after the summer's rest with a statement of the promises held out by the season before us as a sort of companion piece to the last letter of the spring, which has usually cast a retrospective glance over the season then just ended. This year I must forego the customary venture, for there is already a large budget of happenings to be disclosed. The concert institutions in the large cities east and west are already hard at it, and the peripatetic virtuosi have already crossed and recrossed the country from Hell Gate to the Golden Gate. Madame Patti has come to delight the curious of the generation which knew her not. It is forty-two years since she first left our old Academy of Music, where she made her operatic début in 1859, and there are many persons in New York who can recall the time when her parents sang here, and she, a child of a child, was wont to crawl out of her bed at night, deck herself with bits of gaudy paper, and go through the scenes she had seen enacted by her mother a few hours before. These old-timers have followed her triumphant career with pride largely tintured with affection. It is an interesting and curious coincidence that her singing of 'Home, sweet home,' at the age of nearly sixty-one years should have called up memories of the fact that Madame Anna Bishop was heard in public here as late as 1882, when she was nearly seven years older than Madame Patti is now, and sang at least one of the latter's latter-day numbers, Handel's 'Angels, ever bright and fair.' I can well recall the occasion, and can testify that Madame Bishop at sixty-seven was no less artistic a singer than Madame Patti at sixty, though there was much less beauty left in her voice.

Of the diva's successors three are now touring the country—Mesdames Sembrich, Melba and Nordica. The advance guard of foreign instrumentalists has arrived in the persons of M. Jacques Thibaud and Mr. Harold Bauer, both of whom have been heard in New York. M. Thibaud came as a stranger, but was at once accepted as a prime favourite. The impression which he made on his first appearance, at a concert of the Wetzler Orchestra, will doubtless be deepened this week when he plays at the first two concerts of the sixty-second season of the New York Philharmonic Society, which are to be conducted by his friend and patron M. Edouard Colonne, of Paris.

The coming of M. Colonne, who will spend only ten days in America, marks the inauguration of a new régime in the history of the Philharmonic Society. For the first time in its long and memorable history it is trying the experiment of a series of foreign conductors. M. Colonne is to conduct the first pair of concerts, Herr Gustav F. Kogel, of Frankfort-on-the-Main, the second and third pairs, Henry J. Wood, of London, the fourth, Victor Herbert, of Pittsburgh, the fifth, Felix Weingartner, of Munich, the sixth, Wasili von Safonoff, of Warsaw, the seventh, and Richard Strauss, of Berlin, the eighth. All these men, except Herr Strauss, will visit New York for the express purpose of conducting the Philharmonic concerts, and the experiment will cost a pretty penny, but desperate cases require desperate remedies. There has been a great falling-off in popular interest in the Society's concerts since the death of Herr Seidl, and something noteworthy had to be done to rehabilitate them. In the hope of bringing about such a consummation, a few of its friends, headed by Andrew Carnegie, the president, and E. Francis Hyde, an ex-president, contributed the money, 25,000 dollars or more, to make the engagement of the conductors possible without a draft on the Society's resources. Richard Strauss will also conduct some of his works at the Wetzler concerts, and afterwards direct a Strauss Festival similar to that which enlivened London last season.

A decay, similar to that chronicled concerning our oldest Metropolitan concert organization has also affected the annual festivals at Worcester, Mass., whose directors sought to revive interest by proclaiming that the future of the festivals would depend upon the success of the last, which took place on September 30 and October 1 and 2. The number of concerts were reduced to five, and the only choral works performed were Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' and Tinel's 'Franciscus,' in neither of which, I am told, did the choir distinguish itself. The conductors were Wallace Goodrich and Franz Kneisel, the latter having charge of the instrumental department of the festival, which was the most successful.

There is nothing cheering to report as to the orchestral situation in Chicago concerning which I made mention in my last letter to THE MUSICAL TIMES printed last May. From a report and appeal just issued by the Trustees of the Orchestra over which Theodore Thomas has presided for twelve years, it appears that the sum of 341,273 dollars is still needed to complete the fund of 750,000 dollars on the creation of which the continued existence of the band is to depend. The deficit of last season is to be paid by the old guarantors, who will also assume responsibility for the season just begun 'in order to give time for a last effort to complete the permanent endowment or music hall fund commenced last season.' November 28 has been fixed as the date on which the final decision is to be made. It will be a sad blow to high-class music if this fine organization goes under, and doubtless will end the public activity of Mr. Thomas.

A final note: the New York Oratorio Society, which produced 'The Dream of Gerontius' last March, will repeat it next week and will perform Edward Elgar's 'The Apostles' next February.

H. E. KREHBIEL.

MUSIC IN VIENNA.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Vienna, Nov. 15.

It has gradually become the custom to open our musical season in October. The Concert Society, which has done so much to improve public taste, has commenced its popular Sunday and Thursday concerts, and the more serious and classical the music performed, the greater the attendance; this shows that these concerts supply what is generally wanted. The twelve symphonic concerts (six on Tuesdays, six on Wednesdays) given by the Society are of special importance. Of novelties already given there may be mentioned the symphonic poem 'L'apprenti sorcier,' by Dukas, and Elgar's 'Cockaigne' Overture. The former work, in spite of its excellent technical qualities, is objective rather than subjective; it does not suggest the true deep content of the Goethe poem. Elgar's Overture impresses by its brilliancy, yet the impression created was not so deep as that produced last year by the 'Orchestral Variations.'

The Philharmonic concerts have had an unpleasant experience. Shortly before the concerts commenced, Hellmesberger, the conductor, resigned his post, and the management was thus left in the lurch. The committee sought the services of foreign conductors, and first of all Ernst von Schuch, who achieved great success with a Haydn-Mozart-Beethoven programme. The next conductor will be Sofonoff, director of the Moscow Conservatoire.

The 'Vienna a Capella Choir' has given a programme of old music—a Bach motet, works by Josquin de Près, Orlando Lasso, &c.—under the direction of its diligent conductor, Eugen Thomas.

Serious endeavours have been made within the last few years to promote the cause of music in districts of the city far removed from its centre. For instance, a performance of Handel's 'Hercules' was recently given by the Hietzing Society, composed entirely of amateurs, under the direction of Josef Reiter, a schoolmaster who has become famous as the composer of some male-voice choruses. If this performance did not stand the test of severe criticism, it showed a praiseworthy, ideal aim. Other memorable concerts were those given by Schumann-Heink of Dresden, and by the Berlin vocalist Gertrud Lucky. The Italian tenor Alessandro Bonci attracted a large audience, and a native tenor, Naval, who a few years ago was a favourite with opera-goers, also achieved success.

The Rosé, Prill and Fitzer quartet parties have commenced, as usual, their various series of concerts. The new 'Prager Quartet,' an association similar to that of the famous Bohemian Players, has created a highly favourable impression. A permanent Pianoforte Trio recently established for the production of praiseworthy novelties has made an excellent start.

MANDYCZEWSKI.

MUSIC IN BELFAST.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

For several years past Belfast has enjoyed an annual series of chamber concerts organized by Dr. Lawrence Walker, himself a sound musician and accomplished pianist. Dr. Walker's concerts have now become merged in a new Society called the Queen's College Musical Society, and in the Examination Hall of the College his chamber concerts and lectures on music will henceforward be given. This Society held its first meeting on October 26, when Dr. Henry Hiles gave a lecture on 'Architectural Form in Music,' and on the 10th ult. the same Society gave its first concert, at which the major part of the work fell on the Verbrugghen Quartet. Dr. Walker joined them in Dvorák's Quintet (Op. 8), and Miss McKisack sang a number of songs, all by German composers and with German words, which no doubt speaks well for her catholicity if not for her feeling of nationality.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The concert season proper began on October 27 with the first of the Halford orchestral concerts. The programme included Bruckner's Fourth Symphony (the 'Romantic'), a novelty here. It was well played, but its excessive length and want of charm wearied the audience. Mr. Carl Fuchs was the soloist in Haydn's Violoncello Concerto in D (revised by F. A. Gevaert), which went very well, and was entirely acceptable. Mr. Halford conducted fine performances of Gluck's 'Iphigenia in Aulis' and Mendelssohn's 'Hebrides' Overtures. The second concert, on the 10th ult., was more attractive, and the Town Hall was better filled. For this concert Herr Eugène D'Albert had accepted an engagement, but the production of his opera at Prague caused him to cancel his visit. His place was taken by Mr. Egon Petri, who, in Tschaiakovsky's First Pianoforte Concerto proved himself to be an artist of high attainments. A first performance of Norman O'Neill's Overture, 'Hamlet,' was conducted by the composer. There is so much merit in this work that it ought soon to be heard in London. The composer was enthusiastically applauded and recalled. Other pieces were Bach's Orchestral Suite in D, new to Birmingham, and Schubert's 'Unfinished' Symphony, beautifully played under Mr. Halford's skilful direction. Miss Gleeson-White gave vocal selections from Tschaiakovsky and Verdi.

The first Harrison concert took place on the 2nd ult., when the Town Hall was crowded. The artists were Herr Kubelik (violin), Miss Catherine Goodson (pianoforte), Miss Marian Iceton (vocalist), and Mr. Ludwig Schwab (accompanist).

On the 5th ult. Mr. Max Mossel began his new series of drawing-room concerts at the Grosvenor Rooms. M. Zacharewitsch, a violinist new to Birmingham, was heard in pieces by Spohr, Tschaiakovsky and Sarasate, and with M. Benno Schönberger gave a refined rendering of Beethoven's Sonata in C minor (Op. 30, No. 2). The pianist's principal solo was Schumann's 'Études Symphoniques.'

Mr. William Sewell's Male-Voice Choir and Ladies' Choir gave a successful concert in the Town Hall on October 24; a week later Mr. Joseph H. Adams conducted a performance of his cantata 'A Song of Thanksgiving,' first produced in 1899, and on the 7th ult. the Midland Musical Society, conducted by Mr. A. J. Cotton, revived Rossini's 'Stabat Mater,' with which was bracketed Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast.'

A choral contest in connection with the National Temperance Choral Union was held in the new Central Hall on the 14th ult. The building is one of the finest in Birmingham; the hall seats 2,000 persons, and has a fine organ and well-arranged orchestral platform. Dr. W. J. Reynolds, organist of St. Martin's Church, was the adjudicator. The Portsmouth Temperance Choral Union retained the challenge shield and medals; and in the B division the first prize was awarded to the choir from Bristol, the second going to singers from Ombersley. In the evening the combined choirs gave a concert, with Miss Beatrice Vernon and Mr. John Ridding as soloists.

The 'Savoy' company brought 'Merrie England' to the Grand Theatre on the 9th ult., and remained a week. The opera was well mounted, and good performances were given, under the direction of Mr. Hamish McCunn.

The City Choral Society has decided to give Elgar's 'The Apostles'; we shall therefore have two performances of that work during the season.

At the annual concert in connection with the elementary schools given in the Town Hall on October 30 a choir of 800 children sang, conducted by Mr. J. Wiseman. Mr. C. W. Perkins was at the organ. On the 16th ult. the Sunday School Union began its Annual Festival in the same Hall, when Mr. Thomas Facer had under his baton a choir of 550 voices. The programme, entitled 'The Harvest of the World,' was of a miscellaneous and attractive description.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Meetings have been held at the Imperial Hotel in order to form a musical club of professional and amateur musicians. Most of the leading professionals of the city have become members, and it is arranged that, in addition to social intercourse, there shall be periodical performances of music. At the meeting held on the 10th ult. a String Quartet by Beethoven and Dvorák's Pianoforte Quintet were given.

On the 9th ult. a concert was given by the choir of Eastville Chapel, with Mr. George Riseley at the organ. Under the careful direction of Mr. F. Stone, anthems and choruses were rendered, and solos were contributed by Miss Amy Perry and Miss Maude England.

The second season of the Clifton Chamber Concerts was commenced on the 12th ult. at the Victoria Rooms, and there was a large audience. The executants were Messrs. Herbert Parsons (pianoforte), Maurice Alexander and Hubert Hunt (violins), Ernest Lane (viola), and Percy Lewis (violoncello). A satisfactory performance was given of César Franck's Pianoforte Quintet in F minor and Grieg's Quartet in G minor (Op. 27). Mr. Parsons contributed three movements from the works of Brahms, and Mr. Lewis was much applauded for his interpretation of Boellmann's Variations Symphoniques (Op. 23). Miss Florence Bulleid was the vocalist.

At the Victoria Rooms on the 14th ult. the Bristol Male-Voice Excelsior Choir sang glees with pleasurable acceptance, under the direction of Mr. Slocumbe, and there was a performance upon the organ by Mr. Harry Venn.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Our winter season has at last commenced. On the 2nd ult. the Chamber Music Recitals at the Royal Dublin Society were recommenced by a pianoforte recital given by Signor Esposito, who has not played at these music-makings for the last two seasons. The popular pianist presented a very interesting programme before a large and appreciative audience. Special interest attached to his performance of some pieces by Alessandro Scarlatti which are still unpublished, and which he obtained from the library of one of the Italian Conservatoires. He also played a Suite in four movements composed by himself, in addition to Brahms's Variations on a theme of Handel and Chopin's Sonata in B flat minor. Mr. Charles Marchant gave an organ recital at the same place on the 9th ult. The instrument has been improved during the summer and made less harsh and penetrating in tone. The programme included Bach's choral prelude on 'Komm, heiliger Geist,' Mendelssohn's First Organ Sonata, Wagner's 'Walkürenritt' and Weber's 'Der Freischütz' Overture.

We have had visits from Madame Blauvelt and party, Kubelik and Busoni, and Miss Marie Hall has played at the Pavilion, Kingstown, which was only opened at the beginning of the summer season. The place has been so far a great success; several good bands have been engaged, besides concert parties, and the attendances have been most encouraging to the Company that has erected the building and laid out the grounds.

The Dublin Orchestral Society has been reconstituted, and bids fair to be a really successful organization. A large number of annual subscribers has been secured as well as annual donors of various sums. The first orchestral concert was given on the 18th ult. Special interest was attached to the performance of the 'Burleske' for pianoforte and orchestra by Richard Strauss, as it was the first time an orchestral work by this composer had been played in Dublin. Mr. Archy Rosenthal was the pianist and acquitted himself well in the difficult solo part. Beethoven's First Symphony (two movements), the Notturmo and Scherzo from Mendelssohn's 'Midsummer Night's Dream' music, and the 'Meistersinger' Overture completed the programme. The attendance was very good, and promises well for the success of the Society during the season just commenced.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Mr. Robert Burnett's vocal recital on the 4th ult. attracted a large audience to Freemasons' Hall, and proved an artistic treat of no mean order. Mr. Burnett, who steps out of the beaten path in procuring material for his programmes, sang twenty songs, covering the ground from Handel to Richard Strauss, Edward MacDowell and Granville Bantock. Of hardly less importance were the performances of Miss Mabel Barrons, a young local pianist by whom Mr. Burnett was assisted. In her excellent interpretations, Miss Barrons displayed finished technique combined with artistic insight into the composers' meanings. Mr. George Short was an able accompanist.

Very interesting was the pianoforte recital given in the same Hall on the 12th ult. by Miss Muriel Kerr-Brown, a young and very talented local pianist, pupil of Mr. Della Torre. For two hours she commanded the rapt attention of her audience, and was rewarded with frequent expressions of cordial appreciation.

The only choral music to be recorded is that of Mr. Moonie's Ladies' Choir, which sang with great success in some charming part-songs at the concert of the Young Women's Christian Association on the 4th ult., and the Edinburgh Select Choir, conducted by Mr. J. W. Cowie, which gave a very enjoyable concert on the 11th ult.

At a social meeting held in the Synod Hall on the evening of the 10th ult., Mr. T. H. Collinson, Mus. B., the much-esteemed organist of St. Mary's Cathedral, was presented with a purse of sovereigns and other handsome gifts by the congregation and choir of the Cathedral. The Bishop of Edinburgh in making the presentation spoke in most eulogistic terms of the brilliant services rendered to the Cathedral by Mr. Collinson during his long tenure of the post of organist—a period of twenty-five years.

Miss Helen and Mr. Peter Macgregor gave their annual violin and pianoforte recital on the 18th ult., presenting as chief novelty César Franck's Duet Sonata in A major, which had not before been heard here. It was beautifully rendered and well received, as indeed was all the programme.

The first of Professor Niecks's Four Historical Concerts took place in the University Music-Class Room on the 18th ult., and took the form of a masterly rendering, by Messrs. Arthur Dace and Francis Gibson, of original pianoforte duets, dating from the second half of the 18th century to the present day, interspersed with songs composed by Jensen, artistically rendered by Miss Marion Richardson.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Mr. August Hyllested, the recently-appointed principal professor of pianoforte at the Athenæum School of Music, gave a very successful recital on the 3rd ult. Mr. Hyllested, who studied under Liszt, has achieved distinction as a solo pianist on the Continent and in America, and his initial performance in this city fully justified his high reputation. His programme included somewhat stereotyped pieces by Bach, Beethoven, Schumann, Chopin and Liszt, and in the Chopin numbers Mr. Hyllested was probably at his best. Mrs. Hyllested's fine singing of songs by Gluck, Schumann and Brahms added greatly to the evening's enjoyment. A most enjoyable concert was given on the 12th ult. by Madame Clara Butt and Mr. Kennerley Rumford, assisted by some first-rate instrumental soloists. In addition to many well-known items, the programme included some vocal novelties, the best of which was Mr. W. H. Squire's duet 'The Harbour Lights.'

Under the careful direction of Mr. J. K. Findlay, the choir of St. John's United Free Church performed Handel's 'Samson' on the 18th ult. Although lacking somewhat in volume of tone, the choruses were sung with commendable accuracy and steadiness, and the solo music received adequate interpretation from the Misses Dixon and Dykes and Messrs. Adams and Bain. A small string band, ably supplemented by Mr. Thomas Berry at the organ, gave the accompaniments very effectively.

MUSIC IN GLOUCESTER AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The first of the series of chamber concerts, under the direction of Miss Rosalind Ellicott and Miss Isabel Hirschfeld, for the present season was held in the Guildhall, Gloucester, on October 29. The artists were: Miss Hirschfeld (pianoforte), Mr. Fredericksen (violin), and Mr. J. E. R. League (violoncello). The programme included a Pianoforte Trio in D by Miss Ellicott, which was well received. Miss Mildred Jones made a good impression with her songs, while Mr. Fredericksen and Miss Hirschfeld played admirably Grieg's Sonata in F for pianoforte and violin.

Mr. Riseley's famous Royal Bristol Orpheus Society sustained the whole of the programme at a concert given in Stroud, on October 29, in aid of the funds of the local hospital. A very representative selection of part-songs was given with all the taste and finish for which the Bristol Orpheus has gained a deserved reputation. Mr. Riseley conducted, and the concert was in every respect an artistic success.

Mr. Joseph Bennett presided at the annual meeting of the Gloucester Choral Society, and gave a resumé of the provincial festivals. He promised to make himself responsible as President of the Society for the last concert, and also to deliver a lecture (with musical illustrations) on Hector Berlioz on the day of that musician's centenary. Berlioz's 'Childhood of Christ' has been decided upon for performance at the second of the Society's concerts to be held in December.

Mr. Franklin Higgs, in recognition of his forty years' continuous service in the cause of Music in Gloucester, has been made the recipient of many handsome presentations. Mr. Higgs's father was one of the founders of the Gloucester Choral Society, and he himself has been one of its longest and most active supporters.

A general meeting of the stewards of next year's Gloucester Musical Festival was held on the 14th ult., over which the Dean of Gloucester presided, when it was decided to perform Dr. Elgar's 'The Apostles,' and also that Sir Hubert Parry and Mr. A. Herbert Brewer should be requested to write new works for the Festival.

The concert of the Cheltenham Philharmonic Society has had to be postponed until January 28, in consequence of the new Town Hall not being ready at an earlier date.

The first concert this season of the Cheltenham Musical Festival Society was held in that town on the 17th ult. The first part of Haydn's 'Creation' and Rossini's 'Stabat Mater' were adequately performed. The soloists were Miss Estella Linden, Miss Marguerite Gell, Mr. Philip Newbury, and Mr. Charles Knowles. A capital band was led by Messrs. E. G. Woodward and F. Mann, and Mr. J. A. Matthews conducted.

The Tewkesbury Philharmonic Society has decided to give Smart's 'Bride of Dunkerron' at its forthcoming concert.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A melancholy interest attached to the concert of the Orchestral Society which took place on October 24, in that it was the occasion when the late Mr. A. E. Rodewald (whose lamented death is referred to in another column) made his last public appearance as director of the distinguished Society of which he was the founder. The programme included Wagner's 'Faust' Overture; Dvorák's Symphony in G (Op. 88); the 'Good Friday Music' from 'Parsifal'; and the 'Casse Noisette' Suite of Tchaikovsky. Mr. Plunket Greene was the vocalist, and the audience one of the largest and most enthusiastic in the history of the Orchestral Society. I may say that up to the present no information is forthcoming concerning the future direction of the organization, but Dr. Richter is to conduct a Rodewald Memorial Concert in the Philharmonic Hall on the 5th inst.

The first Società Armonica concert of the season was given on the 4th ult. in St. George's Hall. Spirited performances of the Overtures to 'The Flying Dutchman,' 'Tannhäuser,' and 'Die Meistersinger' were given, and the Misses McCullagh and Mr. Frederick Austin vocally contributed to the programme.

On the 10th ult. the third of the Philharmonic Society's concerts was given, when the long-anticipated performance of Saint-Saëns's 'Samson and Delilah' took place, with Miss Muriel Foster, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Andrew Black, Mr. David Hughes, Mr. T. J. Jones, Mr. Thomas Barlow, and Mr. Fred Owen as solo vocalists. The chorus on this occasion sang with more than their usual care and precision.

Mr. Alfred Ross, one of the most cultivated violinists in this district, played with all his usual skill at St. George's Hall on the 1st ult. The Methodist Choral Union distinguished itself on the 3rd ult. with an exceptionally fine performance of 'Elijah,' with Madame Sadler-Fogg, Miss Maud Turner, Mr. Charles Saunders, and Mr. Fowler Burton as principals. Mr. John Lawson gave a successful concert in the Small Concert Room, St. George's Hall, on the 3rd ult., when the orchestra, under the concert-giver's able direction played a Larghetto of Elgar, the Overture to 'Figaro,' and that to Marschner's 'Hans Heiling.'

Mr. Reginald Goss Custard gave an organ recital on the splendid new instrument in St. Saviour's Church on the 19th ult., and we have had a visit from Kubelik.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The Hallé concerts have opened this year with somewhat unusual insistence on the purely instrumental side of music. Throughout the first four concerts the human voice was never once heard, the only soloists having been Miss Evelyn Stuart, Mr. Kreisler, and Mr. Frederic Lamond. It happened, too, that among the orchestral selections there was nothing of the kind that is popular with the greater public, except the 'Symphonie Pathétique,' given at the second concert. Such austere indifference to popular tastes did not pass without unfavourable comment. After the fourth purely instrumental concert, which was given under circumstances of peculiar depression—on the day of Mr. Rodewald's funeral—and received by the public with more definite coldness than any other Hallé concert in recent years, the murmurs of discontent became much more generally audible. Fortunately, however, at the fifth concert there was absolutely nothing with which any serious fault could be found. Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius' was given for the second time and drew one of the most enormous and enthusiastic audiences ever seen in the Free Trade Hall. Nor was there any serious disappointment in connection with the performance. Slightly defective attack in the Demon Choruses, and slight loss of intonation on the part of the semi-chorus in the latter part—strange to say, not in the early parts, which gave so much trouble at Sheffield—were almost the only unsatisfactory points upon which the vigilant adjudicator could seize. Mr. John Coates, Miss Muriel Foster, and Mr. Andrew Black all nobly justified the choice of soloists, and the instrumentalists gave unflinching response to the conductor's indications.

Notwithstanding the lack of public enthusiasm, there were a good many points of artistic excellence and great musical interest in the earlier concerts. The 'Harold' Symphony was given with extraordinary mellowness and picturesque power at the first, Mr. Speelman once more proving the best possible exponent of the characteristic viola obbligato; at the second the Orchestra gave one of the very best recent examples of their quality in the 'Leonora, No. 2,' and once more did full justice to the virility and fine balance of Dr. Richter's interpretation in the great Tchaikovsky Symphony. At the third, Mr. Kreisler gave a most masterly rendering of the solo part in Brahms's Violin Concerto, his cadenza being by a long way the best ever heard here, and at the fourth, the E flat Concerto by Liszt was played by Mr. Lamond and the Orchestra with more repose and more plastic power—by which I mean due prominence of those lines which ought to be prominent and due subordination of the less important—than ever before here.

The first two Gentlemen's Concerts have indicated that the committee is at present suffering from too great a sense of responsibility as representing the oldest concert institution in the kingdom. Their minds have been running on the obsolete and the obsolescent, and the concerts have been less interesting than usual. The best features were the 'Oberon' Overture and the singing of Miss Agnes Nicholls, who gave the beautiful Micaela air with the same success as at Leeds two years ago. The acoustics of the new Midland Hall proved to be deplorable in orchestral and choral music. On the last day of October Mr. Brand Lane gave his first concert of the season with the Philharmonic Choir, whose madrigal-singing showed improvement in delicacy and good tone when not singing forte, and a long array of London stars. His 'Elijah' performance a fortnight later again packed the Free Trade Hall with an imposing mass of humanity. The soloists were Madame Albani, Mr. Santley, Mr. Ben Davies, and a young local singer (pupil of Mr. Lane) named Dora May, who made a fairly successful début as the contralto soloist, showing more self-possession than most novices, and doing generally well, but for a certain harshness in one part of the register—D to F nearest middle C.

As yet there has been only one concert of the Brodsky Quartet, but that one, which was held on the 4th ult., was interesting both for the masterly rendering of Quartets by Haydn and Schubert, each in D minor, the latter being the most popular of all the Schubert Quartets, with the 'Death and the Maiden' variations, and for the first opportunity in Manchester of hearing Mr. Arthur Friedheim, the new professor of the pianoforte at the Royal Manchester College. In association with Dr. Brodsky and Mr. Fuchs, Mr. Friedheim gave a sound and level-headed performance of Beethoven's B flat Trio—the later one, of course (Op. 97). The same Quartet by Schubert was played again on the following Saturday at the first Schiller concert by the Verbrugghen Quartet, in whose rendering there was plenty of technical power, but too much display and not enough repose. With Mr. Isidore Cohn at the pianoforte, Mr. Verbrugghen gave at the same concert an enjoyable rendering of the 'Rondo Brillante' by Schubert,—formerly very popular, latterly rather neglected—and Mr. Kenneth Carne Ross (baritone) sang effectively in songs by Alessandro Scarlatti, Elgar, Reynaldo Hahn and others. The concert ended with a fearful and wonderful Septet by Saint-Saëns for pianoforte, trumpet, two violins, viola, violoncello and double-bass, which is at least curious as the most extreme case of incongruous styles and incongruous tone-values ever yet offered as a serious contribution to musical art. An interesting pianoforte and vocal recital was given on the 14th ult., in the course of which several vocal pieces and one instrumental, by Graham Peel, were introduced, giving an impression of a young composer with a pretty but as yet small talent.

The performance by the Preston Choral Society on the 4th ult. of Sullivan's 'Golden Legend' and Elgar's 'Coronation Ode' was interesting as showing the progress made by the Society under the conductorship of Dr. Coward, of Sheffield, appointed rather more than a year ago. The excellent work done by the Southport Orchestral Society, conducted by Mr. R. H. Aldridge, was exemplified on the 20th ult., when an orchestra containing about sixty-five per cent. of amateur and thirty-five per cent. of professional talent gave an enjoyable rendering of Dvorák's 'New World' Symphony, Weber's 'Oberon' Overture, Liszt's Rhapsody, No. 2—nearly identical with the No. 12 of the Pianoforte Series—and other pieces, the audience being very large and enthusiastic.

The Guildhall School of Music has instituted an examination for the diploma of Licentiate which will be open to all who choose to enter. The first examination will be held in January next. All particulars may be obtained on application to the Secretary of the School.

MUSIC IN NEWCASTLE AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Under the auspices of the Newcastle and Gateshead Choral Union, the Queen's Hall Orchestra gave a concert on the 18th ult., at which Tchaikovsky's 'Symphonie Pathétique' and 'Casse-Noisette' Suite, and Richard Strauss's 'Don Juan' tone-poem were performed, the last-mentioned for the first time in Newcastle-on-Tyne. Kubelik played to a rather small audience, and M. de Pachmann delighted the members of the Chamber Music Society with his matchless renderings of Chopin.

Mr. McConnell Wood, a local teacher of singing, has lectured on 'The Songs and Ballads of Schubert and Loewe,' and Mr. N. Kilburn delivered an erudite and interesting paper on 'The Chamber Works of Brahms, Dvorák and Richard Strauss.'

The Middlesbrough Musical Union announces 'The Creation' and Dvorák's 'Spectre's Bride' for two of its three forthcoming concerts, and for the other the somewhat novel but commendable idea of a programme chiefly consisting of unaccompanied part-songs and interspersed with performances by the Willy Hess Quartet.

MUSIC IN NORWICH AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The winter musical season in the district was commenced by the annual concert given in aid of the Railway Guards Universal Friendly Society on October 22, which attracted a considerable audience. The vocalists were Mesdames Amy Sherwin and Kirkby Lunn, and Messrs. Charles Saunders and H. Lane Wilson, and Mr. Dettmar Dressel performed some solos on the violin.

The Saturday organ recitals and popular concerts organized under the auspices of the Corporation, and produced under the direction of Dr. Bunnett, have been resumed, and while they are contributing greatly to the raising of musical taste in Norwich, they attract an audience of not far short of a thousand in number weekly.

A concert was given by the City Police on the 17th ult., which attracted a very large audience. The programme was well selected and above the average of usual 'miscellaneous' concerts.

The committee of the Norfolk and Norwich Musical Festival announces two concerts, one on the 3rd inst. and the other in March, under the conductorship of Dr. A. H. Maun. At the first the programme will consist exclusively of a 'Handel' selection, including excerpts from 'Acis and Galatea,' 'Judas Maccabæus,' 'Samson,' and other oratorios and operas. At the second concert Brahms's 'Requiem' will be given.

The Norwich Philharmonic Society is also in full rehearsal for its three concerts, at the first of which, to be held in the month of December, Mr. Plunket Greene, Miss Gertrude Peppercorn (pianoforte), Mr. Dettmar Dressel (violin), and Mr. Bertie Withers (violinello) will appear.

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Since the commencement of the season Nottingham has had the opportunity of hearing Kubelik and Madame Clara Butt, as well as Dr. Richter's Orchestra. The last-named has some claim to special notice, in that Miss Cantelo was on that occasion (the 6th ult.) heard in the solo part of Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto, a performance which those who heard are not likely to forget. At the same performance the Berlioz Centenary was answerable for the inclusion of the 'Carnaval Romain' Overture.

On the 10th ult. Madame Marie Fromm gave her first concert of the season, when she was supported by M. Max Mossel (violin) and Dr. Theo Lierhammer (vocalist). The concert-giver was heard to advantage in Schumann's 'Carnaval,' in addition to pieces by Henselt, Jensen and Saint-Saëns. The declamatory rendering of songs by Dr. Lierhammer was a splendid addition to a very attractive programme. The new organ built by Messrs. Musson and Compton of this city for Emmanuel Church was opened on the 12th ult. by Mr. Haydon Hare, of Great Yarmouth.

The Long Eaton Orchestral Society gave its first performance, with Mr. Robert Radford as vocalist, on the 3rd ult.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Two important musical developments have taken place during the past month. The first is the establishment of a representative and influentially-supported Society devoted to the cultivation of chamber music. The Sheffield Chamber Music Society is the outcome of a movement started a few months ago to provide local lovers of chamber music with opportunities for the hearing of the best of that class of music performed by the leading players. The scheme of the season consists of six concerts, and among the instrumental parties engaged are those led by Mr. Kruse, Dr. Brodsky and Mr. Josef Holbrooke. At three of the concerts the programmes will be performed by local musicians. The membership of the Society, numbering 150 music-lovers, was speedily filled up, and the first concert was given on the 10th ult. The Kruse Quartet (Messrs. Kruse, Haydn Inwards, Alfred Hobday and Percy Such) gave a fine performance of Brahms's C minor Quartet (Op. 51), and that by Beethoven in B flat (Op. 18, No. 6). Professor Kruse played the Adagio from Spohr's Ninth Violin Concerto, and Mr. Percy Such contributed two movements from Boccherini's Sixth Sonata to the accompaniment of Mr. J. A. Rodgers.

The other event alluded to is the acceptance on behalf of the Sheffield University committee of an offer made by Mr. Charles Manners to provide a festival week of high-class opera for bare expenses, the proceeds to be devoted to the University building fund. The Moody-Manners Company has been giving a successful series of performances here, and the offer arose in consequence of some suggestions in a local newspaper respecting the company's repertoire during that visit. The proposal is being warmly taken up in the city. The forces of the two largest of Mr. Manners' touring companies will be combined, and Wagnerian operas will figure prominently in the scheme.

The month's music has included several excellent performances by suburban choral societies. On the 8th ult., at Heeley, the Society connected with Ann's Road Church gave a creditable rendering of 'Judas Maccabæus,' under Mr. Maurice Tomlinson's direction; and on the following evening the Walkley Musical Society performed 'The Creation' in a successful manner under Mr. H. Brown. Haydn's popular work was also given on the 22nd ult. at Oxford Street Chapel, Sheffield, conducted by Mr. Joseph Kaye.

The Doncaster Musical Society had a full programme for its first concert which took place in the Corn Exchange on the 12th ult. Elgar's 'King Olaf' and Coleridge-Taylor's 'Meg Blane' afforded the large and well-trained chorus of the Society scope for effective display, and rarely have Mr. T. Brameld's enthusiastic chorists been heard to better advantage than in these two exacting works. The soloists were Miss Helen Jaxon, Mr. Charles Saunders, and Mr. Herbert Brown.

The 'Dream of Gerontius' was performed by the Sheffield Musical Union on the 17th ult. in the Albert Hall with the greatest possible success. Every seat was sold prior to the concert, the liveliest interest being manifested in this the Society's most ambitious venture. The experiment of limiting the orchestra almost entirely to the city's resources was tried, and the Sheffield Orchestra played the difficult accompaniments creditably. The soloists were Miss Muriel Foster, Mr. Charles Saunders and Mr. Joseph Lycett. The first- and last-named sang with great beauty of tone and the correct devotional fervour. Mr. Saunders was indisposed and therefore sang under trying conditions.

Everything paled, however, before the superb singing of Dr. Coward's 350 choristers. The imposing 'Praise to the Holiest' created a never-fading impression, and in the beautiful 'Be merciful, be gracious' and the closing scene the choral-singing was a marvel of expression and finish. The Demons' Chorus was vividly coloured and dramatic in the extreme. The Orchestra opened the concert with a delightful performance of Schubert's 'Unfinished' Symphony. Dr. Coward conducted, Mr. W. S. Jessop and Mr. J. H. Parkes acting as organist and leader respectively.

Among the musical doings of the month were an orchestral concert given by the newly-formed violin classes in connection with St. Matthew's Schools, at which a juvenile orchestra, numbering fifty, played Mozart's Symphony in G; a lecture at University College on 'Henry Purcell' by Dr. Coward, with musical illustrations; a successful festival of Sunday School children at Attercliffe, where some excellent singing was done by a choir of 100 voices under the direction of Mr. L. Chadwick.

Notice of the concert announced to be given on November 26 by the re-organized Sheffield Choral Union must be deferred till next month.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

LEEDS.

So far as the number of concerts affords any criterion, Leeds has shown a remarkable activity during the past month, for I find I have no fewer than ten concerts—most of which deserve at least a brief mention—to record. First of all, the Leeds Musical Union, which cultivates concerted music for male voices, gave a concert on October 26, the programme of which included a glee by Mr. Bernard Johnson, the Society's conductor, a musicianly and melodious setting of Cowley's 'Awake, my lyre,' distinguished by part-writing of more than common excellence. On the following day the first of the Messrs. Haddock's Musical Evenings deserves mention for the very successful production of H. Lane Wilson's charming cycle of Old English melodies entitled 'Flora's Holiday,' which was sung with piquancy and expression by Miss Evangeline Florence, Miss G. Lonsdale, Messrs. Hast and Denham Price. On October 28 an event of real importance occurred in the admirable performance by the Leeds Philharmonic Society of Parry's 'War and Peace,' in which the soloists were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Madame Kirkby Lunn, Mr. W. Green and Mr. Ivor Foster. For breadth, warmth of feeling, and bigness of style the work seemed to me—sympathetically given as it was under the composer's direction—to be among his most successful compositions, and made a really deep impression. Sir Hubert also conducted his Symphonic Variations, and Sir Charles Stanford the first Act of Schumann's 'Genoveva,' which, since the chances of hearing it on the stage are so rare, one cannot but welcome in the concert-room.

The following evening the English Ladies' Orchestral Society, under Mr. J. S. Liddle, gave a successful concert at Leeds. They included in a generally interesting programme Max Bruch's E flat Symphony (Op. 28) and Parry's genial 'Lady Radnor's Suite,' which the composer conducted.—A concert on the 3rd ult. by a newly-formed Ladies' Caledonian Vocal Society deserves a word of mention. The conductor, Mr. E. P. Stead, has got together a small, but very capable, chorus, whose only drawback is that it is too distinctively Yorkshire to do full justice to the linguistic peculiarities of Scottish Song.—On the 4th ult. the Leeds Choral Union, under Mr. Alfred Benton, distinguished itself by an exceedingly smart performance of the whole of Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha' trilogy. Miss Agnes Nicholls, Mr. Webster Millar and Mr. Charles Tree were the soloists, and the chorus sang with great point and vigour, albeit Mr. Benton was happier in suggesting brightness than in his treatment of the tender episodes.—

The interest of the first Municipal Orchestra's concert, which I mentioned a month ago, was fully sustained at the second concert on the 7th ult., when Mr. William Wallace appeared to conduct a couple of his compositions, one a cycle of 'Four Sea-Songs,' ably sung by Mr. Dan Billington, but owing not a little of their effectiveness to the careful playing of the picturesque orchestral accompaniment. The other was a capital piece of musical humour, a setting of Bon Gaultier's 'Massacre of the Macpherson' for male-voice choir (that of the Leeds Musical Union) and orchestra. The burlesque character of the music, full of comical and appropriate plagiarisms, is in exact keeping with the amusing verse, and, in spite of a rather spiritless performance, was very effective. Another novelty was a set of three very pretty dances for orchestra, entitled 'Faerie Suite,' by Mr. Bernard Johnson. Mr. Fricker conducted Schubert's 'Unfinished' Symphony and other pieces with marked ability, and the concert was exceedingly enjoyable.—On the 10th ult., Miss Clara Winder, a young Leeds soprano, gave her first concert, and made a good impression by her agreeable singing.—At the second concert of the Philharmonic and Subscription series on the 17th ult., Mr. H. J. Wood and the Queen's Hall Orchestra made their first appearance at Leeds, and excited great interest and enthusiasm by their brilliant performance of a programme of which the most important feature was Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony. Richard Strauss's 'Sturmlied' was sung with admirable refinement by the Philharmonic chorus, which did justice to its rhythmic subtleties and nuances of expression.

BRADFORD.

On October 30 the Bradford season may be said to have been begun by the first of the Subscription series of concerts. Dr. Richter conducted a brilliant performance of Berlioz's 'Harold in Italy,' but the feature of the concert which will linger longest in one's memory was the superb playing of Beethoven's Violin Concerto by Mr. Kreisler, who made a triumphant début in the West Riding on this occasion. In this and in Tartini's 'Trillo del diavolo' he showed himself to be a great interpreter as well as a brilliant virtuoso, while his musicianship was, in addition, displayed in the admirable cadenzas which he has written for these works. Like D'Albert on the pianoforte, he made one forget the executant and think only of Beethoven, which is surely praise as high as can be bestowed on an interpretative artist. On the following day the Permanent Orchestra began its operations for the season with a programme of which its most noteworthy feature was Mackenzie's Scottish Concerto, and of this only two movements were played. The soloist was Miss Ethel Bird, a careful player, if not yet a very forceful one. Mr. Allen Gill conducted. On the 9th ult. Miss Marie Lummert, assisted by Mr. Ellenberger, (violin), and Mr. Carl Henrich (pianoforte), gave a vocal recital, her programme showing the breadth and excellence of her taste no less than her musicianship. On the 10th ult. the Old Choral Society, under Mr. J. W. Fitton, gave an interesting performance of Gluck's 'Orpheus,' with Miss G. Lonsdale in the chief rôle, and Miss Ada Becroft and Miss Bradbury in the other parts. In Beethoven's Choral Fantasia the solo part was efficiently played by Mr. E. J. Pickles.

OTHER YORKSHIRE TOWNS.

At Halifax the Choral Society gave, on the 13th ult., with the help of the Hallé Orchestra under Dr. Richter, a most interesting concert of choral and orchestral music. Under the former head came Brahms's 'Song of Destiny' and Stanford's 'Revenge,' both sung with great technical refinement and accuracy, if leaving room for some little criticism on the score of lack of sufficient dramatic expression. Schumann's First Symphony and Tchaikovsky's delightful Suite for Strings were the most important orchestral compositions.—The Halifax Orchestral Society on the 19th ult. gave a programme including Haydn's Symphony in E flat (No. 3), Weber's Concertstück, and the 'Frances Juges' Overture of Berlioz. Miss Senior was the vocalist, and Mr. H. van Dyk was both solo pianist and conductor, and deserves congratulation on the advance made of late by his orchestra, which is chiefly amateur in its composition.

The Wakefield chamber concerts, which are managed by a local amateur, Miss A. C. Clarkson, of Alverthorpe Hall, were resumed on the 11th ult., when the excellent Brodsky Quartet Party played Volkmann's C minor Quartet, and joined Miss Fanny Davies in a brilliant performance of Schumann's popular Pianoforte Quintet.

At Harrogate the indefatigable Messrs. Haddock gave, on the 2nd ult., a 'festival,' consisting of a couple of orchestral concerts, conducted by Mr. Edgar Haddock. Mr. Willibald Richter's highly-artistic playing of Saint-Saëns's Pianoforte Concerto in G minor and of Liszt's Rhapsody for Pianoforte and Orchestra was one of the happiest features of the event, and another was the artistic singing of Madame Siviter. Raff's 'Leonore' Symphony and Schubert's 'Unfinished' were played carefully and with expression under Mr. Haddock's energetic beat.

Miscellaneous.

The annual dinner of the Musical Association was held at the Holborn Restaurant on the 10th ult., the President, Sir Hubert Parry, Bart., in the chair. Excellent speeches were made by the President, Sir Alexander Mackenzie (who announced his intention of joining the Association), Sir Frederick Bridge, Dr. W. H. Cummings (who proposed the health of Sir August Manns, to which the new Knight responded in felicitous terms), Mr. Otto Goldschmidt, and Mr. Clifford B. Edgar, Mayor of Richmond and the worthy Treasurer of the Association. The capable artists associated in the musical selections at this Musical Association feast were Miss Phyllis Lett, a Scholar of the Royal College of Music; Mr. John Thomas, the King's Harpist; Mr. W. Silverwood, and Miss Deborah Ries (pianoforte); while the Alexandra Part-Singers, by their acceptable renderings of male-voice part-music, added to the enjoyment of a very pleasant and successful function.

On the 7th ult. the choir and orchestra of the Goldsmiths' Institute, New Cross, gave their first concert of the season, when they performed Claudius H. Coudery's cantata 'Christ's entry into Jerusalem,' and Spohr's oratorio 'The Last Judgment.' Mr. Coudery's work in its then form was performed some years ago at the Royal Academy of Music, but since that time he has practically re-modelled and to some extent re-written his work, so that this was in reality a first performance of the cantata in its present shape. The choruses are all vocal and effective, and the simple chorale forms a large portion of several of these numbers. The orchestral scoring is effective and the solos are melodious and grateful for the vocalists. The principals were Madame Josephine Simon, Miss Florence Bulleid, Mr. James Gawthrop, and Mr. Daniel Price. Mr. C. J. Smith was at the organ and Dr. C. J. Frost, the head of the music section, conducted. At the close of the work Mr. Coudery was called for and received quite an ovation.

The Berks, Bucks, and Oxon Competitive Musical Festival, of which Princess Christian is President, is being vigorously promoted. Two meetings in furtherance of its commendable aims have recently been held—the first, at Oxford, on the 3rd ult., the second, at Reading, on the 17th ult. At the former meeting Sir Hubert Parry, Professor of Music at the University, presided, and speeches in support of the Festival were delivered by Sir Hubert, Dr. C. H. Lloyd, Mr. W. H. Hadow, and Dr. McNaught. At Reading the chair was taken by Sir Walter Parratt, and among the other speakers were Miss Wakefield, the Rev. Dr. W. Russell, Vice-Principal of Brasenose College, Oxford, and Miss Cecilia Hill, the enthusiastic founder of the Festival and its organizing Honorary Secretary. Miss Cecilia Hill's address is The Cedar House, Salt Hill, Slough.

Preliminary examinations for thirteen free open scholarships at the Royal College of Music will be held on January 27, 1904, in various local centres throughout the United Kingdom. The scholarships to be competed for are as follow:—Composition, one; singing, three; pianoforte, one; organ, one; violin, two; violoncello, one; in addition to four scholarships to be competed for among performers on the flute, clarinet, bassoon, horn, and harp. The scholarships are open to all classes of His Majesty's subjects within the ages stated in the particulars issued to applicants. They entitle the holders to free musical education at the College, and are as a rule tenable for three years. In some cases grants towards maintenance are added. Further information and official forms of entry may be obtained from the Registrar, Royal College of Music, Prince Consort Road, South Kensington, London.

Music has played no unimportant part in Mr. Charles Fry's Costume Recitals given last month at the Royalty Theatre. In 'Julius Cæsar,' for instance, a special and appropriate feature was an ancient song (believed by Mr. Abdy Williams and other experts to be authentic) known as Pindar's 'Pythian Ode,' and composed 474 B.C. This was sung to the accompaniment of a guitar, as most nearly representing a lyre, played by Mr. F. A. Cramer. The incidental music at the Series was played by Messrs. Edward G. Croager and W. F. Croager.

The Dulwich Philharmonic Society opened its eighth season on October 31 at the Crystal Palace by a performance of Sullivan's 'Martyr of Antioch.' The soloists were Miss Lilian Coomber, Miss Bertha Salter, Mr. John Probert, and Mr. Frederick H. Gould. The band and chorus of 320 performers acquitted themselves well, and the general rendering of Sullivan's beautiful cantata was completely satisfactory. It was preceded by a selection from the same composer's incidental music to the Masque in 'The Merchant of Venice.' The organist was Mr. Walter W. Hedgcock, and Mr. Arthur Fagge was at his usual post as conductor.

The song competition promoted by the Barns-Phillips chamber concerts brought forth no fewer than 407 entries. This outpouring of creativeness must have taxed the patience of the judges—Mr. Coleridge-Taylor, Mr. Plunket Greene and Mr. Charles Phillips—who awarded the prize of five guineas to Dr. Ernest Walker, organist of Balliol College, Oxford; the 'highly-recommended' were Messrs. Percy Godfrey, Charles Carter, E. Beck-Slinn, G. von Holst and Miss Margaret Roidy.

The pianoforte manufacturing firm of C. Bechstein has recently concluded the first fifty years of its existence. In accordance with the principles of the Firm, this Jubilee was celebrated quietly and without fuss. Since the foundation of the Bechstein house upwards of 64,200 pianofortes have passed through its factories, at which some 800 hands are employed in preparing the annual output of 4,500 instruments. In London the Bechstein Hall, where 300 concerts are given year in and year out, is well and favourably known.

A testimonial concert to Mr. Robert Newman is to be given by the Queen's Hall Orchestra, conducted by Mr. Henry J. Wood, on Wednesday evening the 2nd inst., at Queen's Hall. The programme contains some of the most popular compositions in the Orchestra's repertoire, and the occasion is one that should attract a large audience for the benefit of Mr. Newman.

Mr. Edgar F. Jacques delivered an interesting lecture on 'The Music of India' at the London Institution on the 5th ult. On the 19th ult. Dr. Aubrey lectured on 'National and Patriotic Songs.' Miss Aubrey was the solo vocalist on the occasion; part-songs were rendered by a quartet choir, and Dr. Leonard Fowles was at the pianoforte.

The West End Hampstead Choral Society is one of the latest suburban organizations that has sprung into existence. The conductor is Mr. H. C. Colles, organist of Emmanuel Church, under whose guidance the new Society may be expected to flourish abundantly.

Messrs. Rudall, Carte and Co. have issued their 'Professional Pocket Book, or daily and hourly engagement Diary for 1904.' This useful and almost indispensable publication needs no commendation to professional musicians.

Sullivan's delightful 'Tempest' music has been an attractive feature at the recent representations of Shakespeare's play at the Royal Court Theatre. Miss Dorothy Firmin, as Ariel, sang 'Where the bee sucks' with peculiar charm.

Mr. John Francis Barnett has completed the full score of his Mass in C, a work written on a large scale and intended for concert performances.

The Rt. Hon. Herbert J. Gladstone, M.P., has been elected President of the Western Madrigal Society, vice Mr. Alexander K. Hichens, retired.

The death took place suddenly on the 12th ult. of Mr. James William Standen, who for many years did valued work for the Royal Society of Musicians.

As we go to press we hear, with regret, of the death of Mr. Julian Marshall, which took place on the 21st ult. at 13, Belsize Avenue, N.W.

Foreign Notes.

ARNHEIM.

A musical festival was held here on October 17 and 18 under the direction of Martin S. Heuckeroth. Among other works performed were Bach's 'God the Lord is a sun and shield,' Handel's 'Ode to St. Cecilia,' Beethoven's 'Choral' Symphony, Mahler's Third Symphony, and, by way of novelty, Jan von Gilse's 'Sulamith' for soli, chorus, and orchestra.

BERLIN.

Professor Siemering's Haydn - Mozart - Beethoven monument to be erected near the Gold Fish Pond in the Thiergarten is to be unveiled next May.

BRUNSWICK.

History repeats itself. On October 25, 1853, Berlioz gave a concert in this city at which a rising artist, Joseph Joachim, made his appearance as soloist. On the fiftieth anniversary of that day, the Hofcapelle gave a concert the programme of which consisted principally of Berlioz's music, and Professor Joachim, the veteran violinist, was invited, and was of course received with boundless enthusiasm.

BRUSSELS.

The Belgian Prix de Rome has been won by Albert Dupuis, aged twenty-four, composer of the opera 'Hans Michel.' The prize is worth £800. Dupuis is at present engaged on an opera entitled 'Ducasse,' which will be produced this winter at La Monnaie.

COLOGNE.

Two choral works were produced for the first time at the first Gürzenich concert: 'Damajanti' (scenes from the Indian poem of that name) by Max Bruch, and 'Das hohe Lied' (The Song of Songs) by Enrico Bossi.

DARMSTADT.

A festival concert was recently given by the Musical Society in honour of Willem de Haan, who has been its conductor for twenty-five years. The programme included his choral ballad 'Arpa,' and Dr. Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius' with the solo vocalists Mesdames Else Bengel and Minna Obsner, and Messrs. Oscar Noé and Alexander Heinemann.

HEIDELBERG.

A three-days' Festival (October 24-26) was held in the new Town Hall under the direction of Dr. Wolfrum. On the first day the programme commenced with Bach's Organ Fugue in E flat, performed by Dr. Wolfrum on the new and powerful organ, and it included among other works Liszt's 'Dante' Symphony and Richard Strauss's 'Tod und Verklärung.' The second concert was devoted to chamber music. The Petri Quartet from Dresden played quartets by Mozart and Beethoven, and Dr. Wolfrum and Professor Julius Butts from Düsseldorf performed Rheinberger's transcription for two pianofortes of Bach's 'Goldberg' Variations. Of other works may be mentioned Dr. Wolfrum's 'Festmusik zur Zentenarfeier der Universität Heidelberg'; Bruckner's Ninth Symphony in D minor, but without the 'Te Deum' as finale, with Richard Strauss as conductor; and that composer's new work 'Taillefer' for soli, chorus and orchestra.

HELSINGFORS.

Madame Aino Ackté-Renvall, who is a native of this city, and who has distinguished herself at the Paris Opera for several years, gave the first concert of the winter season. Giovanni Sgambati gave a concert in which he appeared as composer, conductor and pianist. The programme included his Symphony in D and his Pianoforte Concerto.

MILAN.

The international jury (Messrs. Massenet, Hamerik, Breton, Humperdinck, Alea, Blockx, Campanini, and Galli) has selected the three works to be performed at the Lyric Theatre of this city, after which one of the composers will be declared the winner of the prize offered by the well-known publisher Sonzogno. The names are Franco da Venezia, professor of the Turin Liceo; Gabriel Dupont, of Paris; and Lorenzo Filiasi, of Naples; and their operas, 'Domino azzurro,' 'La Cabrera,' and 'Manuel Menendez' respectively. It is interesting to note that the jury refused to take into consideration operas, however good the music, if they were not based on a good libretto, and vice versa.

MUNICH.

After Wagner, Mozart. It seems as if the order ought to be reversed; as if after the imposing music-dramas of the former the operas of the latter would sound thin and possibly old-fashioned. The musical public here seems to be somewhat of this opinion, for we learn that the Mozart cycle consisting of 'Figaro,' 'Don Juan,' 'Così fan tutte,' and 'The Magic Flute,' which a week after the close of the Wagner cycle at the Prinzregenten Theatre took place at the Residenz Theatre, was not well attended, and moreover that the small audiences consisted principally of foreigners. And yet such an opportunity of hearing these operas is practically unique. Wagner worked on larger lines and made use of a larger orchestra, but the man is to be pitied who cannot appreciate the greatness of Mozart because the means he used were simpler. Since the death of Hermann Zumpe various surmises have been made as to his successor. The matter has now been settled: Felix Mottl, who has long been honourably connected with the Carlsruhe Theatre, has been appointed chief Capellmeister, and he will enter upon his duties next summer at the Prince Regent Wagner Cycle. Mottl, who was stage conductor at the production of the 'Ring' at Bayreuth in 1876, has specially distinguished himself as a Wagner conductor at Carlsruhe, but he also proved himself a zealous partisan of Berlioz; he not only gave the first complete performance on any stage of 'Les Troyens' (Part I., 'La Prise de Troie,' and Part II., 'Les Troyens à Carthage'), in the year 1890, but in 1893 a Berlioz cycle at which the French master's three works for the stage were produced.

PARIS.

M. Camille Chevillard announces his plans for his coming season of concerts. He will give less Wagner, whose works he considers more suitable for the stage than for the concert-room, and the statement below shows that the opportunities of hearing Wagner's music-dramas in this city are neither few nor far between. M. Chevillard intends to cultivate Liszt, and will show his enthusiasm for Mozart by performing five of his symphonies in chronological order. The young French School: de Breville, Busser, Erlanger, Debussy, &c., also Strauss, will figure on his programmes. He also announces a novelty, a Symphony by Vincent d'Indy, the composer's first attempt in that important branch of the art.

In 1861 the Parisians would not tolerate 'Tannhäuser': they hooted and hissed, so that after three stormy performances Wagner withdrew his work. Forty years later—i.e., during the year 1901, forty-four evenings were devoted to the German master, and in 1902, fifty-four out of 224 performances, 'Siegfried,' new to Paris, being given nineteen times. Tempora mutantur, et nos mutamur in illis! It is, however, only just to say that the verdict of 1861 was not purely on musical grounds.

Haydn's 'Seasons' will be performed at the series of Conservatoire Concerts which commenced on the 22nd ult. The entire work has not been given in this city for forty-three years. On the 6th and again on the 13th inst. Berlioz's 'Romeo et Juliette' will be performed.

Massenet's 'Herodiade' was performed at the Gaité (Théâtre Lyrique) on October 21. The work was actually produced at the Monnaie, Brussels, as far back as 1881 (December 19). It was given in Paris at the Théâtre-Italien in 1884 (with Madame Fidès Devriès, the two de Reszke's, and M. Maurel). After that, however, the composer made important changes, so that the work has been practically heard here for the first time. The cast included Mdle. Calvé (Salomé), Mdle. Pacary (Hérodiade), M. Renaud (Hérode), and M. Jérôme (Jean-le-Baptiste). The work, given under the direction of M. Luigini, achieved a brilliant success, and seems likely to have a long run.—'La Flamenca,' musical drama in four acts, libretto by MM. Henri Cain and Eugène and Édouard Adenis, music by M. Lucien Lambert, was produced at the same house ten days later. The scene of action is Havannah, and the period, the Insurrection of 1897.

STUTTGART.

A monument to Franz Liszt has just been unveiled in the Royal Park of this city. The ceremony was to have taken place on October 22, the 92nd anniversary of the birth of the great pianist, but the event was postponed until October 28. The monument, the work of the sculptor Adolf Fremd, displays the head of Liszt in Carrara marble; on the pedestal is represented in relief Orpheus in pensive mood playing on his lyre. The idea of erecting such a monument originated with the court pianist Frau Johanna Klinckerkuss, a former pupil of the master, and in order to carry it out she herself contributed towards the expense, the remainder being raised by concerts which she gave with the assistance of other artists. The ceremony of the unveiling was followed in the evening by a stage performance of the 'Legend of St Elizabeth,' under the direction of Herr Pohlig. Among the distinguished guests who took part in the festivities were Frau Hofrath Klinckerkuss and her family, also Frau Geh. Rath Thode and Siegfried Wagner, granddaughter and grandson of Liszt.

Country and Colonial News.

BRIEFLY SUMMARIZED.

BOLTON.—The Philharmonic Society opened its season on the 11th ult. at the Victoria Hall with a miscellaneous programme including good performances of Haydn's Symphony No. 7, in C, and the Gavotte from 'Mignon' (Ambroise Thomas). The part-songs 'Waterlilies' (Sachs) and 'My love dwelt' (Elgar) and the last-named composer's 'Scenes from the Bavarian Highlands' were sung by the choir with admirable effect. Miss Edith Robinson gave a successful interpretation of Beethoven's Violin Concerto, and the vocalist was Miss Lillie Wormald. Mr. C. Rieșgari was a skilful conductor.

DARLASTON.—The Choral Society, conducted by Mr. T. Johnson, performed the 'Messiah' on the 12th ult. The band and chorus numbered 150, and the solo vocalists were Madame Siviter, Miss Lakin, Mr. J. Whitehouse and Mr. W. J. Ineson. Mr. C. W. Perkins presided at the organ.

DUNEDIN (N.Z.).—The Choral Society, conducted by Mr. Jesse Timson, gave a performance of Costa's 'Naaman,' with full orchestra and chorus, at His Majesty's Theatre on September 4. The solo vocalists were Miss Anita Moss, Mrs. Evans, and Messrs. Bone, Slater, and Thomson.

HANLEY.—The North Staffordshire District Choral Society opened its season on the 19th ult. in the Victoria Hall with Mendelssohn's 'Walpurgis Night' and Bach's cantata 'Sleepers, wake' as the salient features of the programme. The singing of the choir in these works was altogether admirable, displaying fine tone and intelligence, the enunciation being particularly clear. The orchestration, however, lost much of its effect by the substitution of a pianoforte and American organ, although the performers, Miss E. R. Taylor, Mr. Hind, and Mr. W. Sherratt, were fully efficient. The solo parts were in the capable hands of Miss Agnes Nicholls, Mr. Lloyd Chandos, and Mr. Dan Price. Mr. James Whewall, who conducted, deserves much credit for his excellent training of the choir.

INVERCARGILL (N.Z.).—The Musical Union gave a concert in Zealandia Hall on October 9, when the chief feature of the programme was Sterndale Bennett's 'May Queen,' the solo parts in which were undertaken by Miss Amy Murphy, Mrs. Drummond, Mr. A. S. Cookson and Mr. Porteous. The choir sang throughout with much spirit and were also successful in some unaccompanied part-songs, which included 'Phyllis' and 'Music when soft voices die,' by Sir Hubert Parry, and the orchestra was specially effective in the Pageant music in the cantata. Mr. Charles Gray was an able conductor.

NAILSWORTH.—Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' was performed in Shortwood Chapel on the 12th ult. with a chorus of about eighty and a small orchestra supported by the organ (Mr. H. W. Antill). The solos were well rendered by Miss Tabram, Miss N. Tabram, Mr. D. P. Rice, and Mr. P. N. Edmonds. Mr. W. Antill conducted with care.

SMETHWICK.—The Choral and Orchestral Society gave a successful rendering of Cowen's 'The Rose Maiden' in the Town Hall on the 9th ult. Madame Aston, Miss Elsie Millard, Mr. W. Whitehouse and Mr. J. E. Matthews were the principal vocalists, and the band and chorus (numbering 90) were conducted by Mr. W. J. Peters.

SOUTHPORT.—A complimentary concert was given to Mr. J. C. Clarke, Conductor of the Vocal Union, at the Cambridge Hall on the 21st ult. The Union, which is a male choir of sixty voices and has been successful in numerous competitions, sang its most recent contest pieces, and the solo artists who assisted were Miss Edina Thraves, Mr. Ernest Lunt, Mr. J. C. Clarke, Miss Hilda Jenks (violin) and Mr. Edward de Jong (flute).

Answers to Correspondents.

S. F.—(1) Yes. Weber was included in Mr. Joseph Bennett's sketches 'The Great Composers, sketched by themselves,' which appeared in THE MUSICAL TIMES—see the issue of October, 1877. (2) An English version, by J. Palgrave Simpson, of Baron Weber's Life of his father (the composer), was published in 1865, but the two volumes are out of print and can only be procured at a second-hand bookseller's. (3) See the chapter on 'Weber' in Sir Hubert Parry's 'Studies of Great Composers' (Routledge).

HARMONY.—(1) Begin with Stainer's Harmony Primer, and then go on to Bridge and Sawyer's 'A Course of Harmony.' (2) Two hours' pianoforte practice a day is hardly sufficient, but by close concentration during that time you may accomplish much. Many thanks for your kind words of appreciation.

R. L. S. B.—For particulars concerning Dr. Arne's songs 'Rule, Britannia' and 'Where the bee sucks,' see THE MUSICAL TIMES of April, 1900 (p. 228), and January, 1896 (p. 18), respectively. It is more than probable that Handel was acquainted with the strains of Arne. He had a remarkably retentive memory. There is a story to the effect that during a stormy crossing of the Channel, an English sailor was singing 'Rule, Britannia, Britannia rule the waves' when a mal-de-mer Frenchman remarked to him, 'I wish zat Britannia would rule de vaves straight!'

J. B. J.—Dr. H. J. Gauntlett and his wife are buried in Kensal Green Cemetery. The most complete 'Life' of Dr. Gauntlett is the article on him in 'The Dictionary of National Biography'; the references to authorities at the end of that article will be found useful.

ORGAN.—For a brief programme annotation of Lemmens's organ piece 'The Storm,' see Dr. A. L. Peace's 'Programme Notes.' Your own imagination may amplify it if need be. In a concert-room its performance is often received with thunderous applause.

DOUBTFUL.—You ask 'Which is the most scarce in the profession of tenors, contraltos, or basses?' and 'of which voice of the three has the greater scope for success?' We give it up.

D. T.—The best biography of Tchaikovsky in the English language is by Mrs. Newmarch. Enquire of the publisher, Mr. Grant Richards, Leicester Square, whether the book is out of print or not.

D. M. C.—The pianoforte pieces you enumerate are hardly up to the technical standard required for the examination you mention.

T. W.—A Life of the Rev. Dr. J. B. Dykes was written by the Rev. J. T. Fowler in 1897, and published by Mr. John Murray.

W. W. J.—The 'History' of the young lady you mention is quite unknown to us, as is also the Polka named after her; but we do know a part-song entitled 'Phyllis died her tresses black.' You doubtless treasure her photograph.

D. S.—Yes. Messrs. John Broadwood and Sons, Ltd., obtained the 'Grand Prix' at the Paris Exhibition of 1900, the highest possible award for pianofortes.

H. D.—Johann Strauss, Junr. 'The Waltz King,' died at Vienna, June 3 or 4, 1899.

CONTENTS.

	Page
The Charterhouse (Illustrated)	777
Berlioziana	785
Vincent Novello (Illustrated)	787
Occasional Notes (with Portrait)	790
Alfred Edward Rowdell (with Portrait)	794
Church and Organ Music	795
Where the 'Messiah' was first performed (Illustrated)	798
Obituary	800
Reviews	800
The Principles of Vowel Pronunciation	807
'Hiawatha' in the Court of Chancery	807
London Concerts	808
Music in America	810
" Vienna	811
" Belfast	811
" Birmingham	812
" Bristol	812
" Dublin	812
" Edinburgh	813
" Glasgow	813
" Gloucester and District	813
" Liverpool and District	813
" Manchester and District	814
" Newcastle and District	815
" Norwich and District	815
" Nottingham and District	815
" Sheffield and District	815
" Yorkshire	816
Miscellaneous	817
Foreign Notes	818
Country and Colonial News	819
Answers to Correspondents	819
Four-part Song—'O were my love yon lilac fair.'—H. M. Higgs	803

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., LIMITED.

A DAMS, JOSEPH H.—"A Song of Hope." No. 1, in D. For Contralto or Baritone. 2s.

A DAMS, THOMAS—"The hallowed Manger." A Christmas Carol. The words by the Rev. and Hon. R. E. ADDERLEY. 2d. Words only, 2s. per 100.

A NERIO, FELICE—"Christus factus est" ("Jesus once, for our salvation"). Latin and English words. The English words adapted by PAUL ENGLAND. (No. 38. "Cantiones Sacre"). 2d.

BACH CHOIR MAGAZINE:—

No. 35a. Lieblich ist's dem Ew'gen danken (Good it is to thank the Almighty). Psalm 92. For Baritone Solo, Quartet, and Chorus. Edited by H. WALFORD DAVIES. German and English words FRANZ SCHUBERT 6d.

„ 35b. Christ ist erstanden (Christ has risen). Edited by H. WALFORD DAVIES. German and English words FRANZ SCHUBERT 3d.

BATTEN, ADRIAN—"Lord, we beseech Thee." Edited by JOHN E. WEST. (No. 128. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.

BEETHOVEN—Rondo in G major, for Violin (1st to 3rd Position) and Pianoforte. (Book 20. "The Junior Violinist," edited by C. EGERTON LOWE.) 1s. 6d.

BENET, JOHN—"O sleep, fond fancy." Madrigal, edited by JOHN E. WEST. (No. 919. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

BERLIOZ, HECTOR—"Faust" ("La damnation de Faust"). Op. 24. A Dramatic Legend. English Version by PAUL ENGLAND. 2s. 6d.; Vocal Parts, 8d. each.

—"The Childhood of Christ" (L'Enfance du Christ"). Op. 25. A Sacred Trilog. English Version by PAUL ENGLAND. 2s.

BUTTON, H. ELLIOT—Te Deum laudamus, in B flat (Chant form). (No. 644. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1½d.

—Benedictus. Arranged to the 1st Tone, 2nd Ending. (No. 645. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1½d.

—"In My Father's house." Full Anthem, for General Use. (No. 777. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

—"Seek the Lord." (No. 129. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.

CORFE, ROBERT P. C.—The Office for the Holy Communion, including Benedictus and Agnus Dei, in E. 1s.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—"The Atonement." Vocal Parts, 1s. 6d. each.

—"Keep those eyes." Duet, for Soprano and Tenor. 2s.

COWEN, F. H.—Two Pieces: 1. Childhood; 2. Girlhood; for Small Orchestra. Full Score, 6s.; 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello, 6d.; Basso, 3d.; Wind Parts, 3s.

CURRY, REV. A. L.—"The Story of the Cross." 1d.

DAVY, LT.-COL., F. A.—"The Better Land." Song, for Soprano or Tenor. 2s.

ELGAR, EDWARD—"The Apostles" (Parts 1 and 2). Op. 49. Book of Words, with Analytical and Descriptive Notes by A. J. JAEGER. 1s.

—"The Wraith of Odin." Chorus from "King Olaf." (No. 801. Novello's Octavo Choruses.) 4d.

FARRANT, RICHARD—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G minor. Edited by JOHN E. WEST. (No. 641. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

FLETCHER, PERCY E.—"The Old Year's Vision." An Operetta for Schools and Classes. Book of Words, 7s. 6d. per 100.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

HAYDN—"My mother bids me bind my hair." Canzonet for Mezzo-Soprano. Edited by ALBERTO RANDEGGER. 1s. 6d.

HERVEY, ARTHUR—Two Tone Pictures: 1. On the heights; 2. On the march. Full Score, 10s. 6d.; 1st Violin, 1s.; 2nd Violin, 1s.; Viola, 1s.; Violoncello, 1s.; Basso, 1s.; Wind Parts, 14s. 3d.

HIGGS, H. M.—"O were my love yon lilac fair." Four-part Song. (No. 730. The Musical Times). 1½d.

HODSON, H. E.—"The Golden Legend." Dramatic Cantata. Book of Words, 6d.

HOLLOWAY, ARTHUR S.—"My Paradise." Song for Tenor. 2s.

HULBERT, H. H.—"Breathing for Voice Production." (No. 63. Novello's Music Primers and Educational Series.) 2s.; in paper boards, 2s. 6d.

LEE, E. MARKHAM—"Glory to God in the highest." Anthem for Christmas. (No. 779. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

—"I will magnify Thee." (No. 780. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

LOCK, MATTHEW—"In the beginning, O Lord." Anthem, for A.T.B. Edited by HUBERT W. HUNT. (No. 63. Novello's Services, Anthems, &c., for Men's Voices.) 2d.

NAYLOR, E. W.—"And there shall be signs." Anthem for Advent. (No. 778. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

NOVELLO'S CHRISTMAS CAROLS:—

No. 319. The night of Nowell

ARTHUR HENRY BROWN 1d.

„ 321. Whence comes this light

A. HERBERT BREWER 1½d.

„ 322. Gloria in Excelsis (In the field with their flocks abiding)

A. M. GOODHART 1d.

PARRY, C. HUBERT H.—"Voces Clamantium." 1st Violin, 1s.; 2nd Violin, 1s.; Viola, 1s.; Violoncello, 1s.; Basso, 1s.

REED, W. H.—Suite Venitienne. 1st Violin, 1s. 6d.; 2nd Violin, 1s. 6d.; Viola, 1s.; Violoncello and Bass, 2s.

RYLEY, GEOFFREY, C. E.—"The Waits." Carol. 1d.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 138. Contains the following Music in both Notations: "Home, far away." Two-part Song, by MENDELSSOHN; "Night." Kindergarten Game-Song, by PERCY E. FLETCHER. 1½d.

SCHOOL SONGS—Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo; B. Voice parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

A. B.
Book 149.—Nine National and Folk Songs (Grade 2). From the "School Music Review." By Various Composers .. 6d. 3d.

STEANE, BRUCE—"Sing, O heavens." Anthem for Christmas. (No. 781. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

TALLIS, THOMAS—"Hear the voice and prayer." Full Anthem, for Four Voices. Edited by JOHN E. WEST. (No. 776. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 2d.

TONIC SOL-FA PUBLICATIONS:—

ABT, FRANZ—"The Fay's Frolic." A Cantata for Female Voices. 6d.

BERLIOZ, HECTOR—"Faust" ("La Damnation de Faust"). A Dramatic Legend. Choruses and Words of Solos only. 1s.

ELGAR, EDWARD—"The Apostles" (Parts 1 & 2). An Oratorio. Choruses and Words of Solos only. 2s. 6d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES—Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT:—

No. 1327. Ho! every one that thirsteth

G. C. MARTIN 1½d.

„ 1342. O Jerusalem, look about thee. Anthem for Christmas JOHN E. WEST 1½d.

„ 1344. Feasting I watch. T.T.B.B. EDWARD ELGAR 2d.

„ 1345. Come, rosy morn. Trio, for S.S.A. OLIVER KING 1d.

„ 1356. The wraith of Odin (from "King Olaf").. .. EDWARD ELGAR 2d.

TROMAN, THOMAS—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E flat. 3d.

VILLAGE ORGANIST (a Series of Pieces for Church and General Use). Book 36. 1s. (For Contents, see page 834).

WÆLRENT, HUBERT—"Hard by a fountain." Madrigal for Four Voices. (No. 935. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 1½d.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in their proper positions, Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office, 1, Berners Street, London, W., NOT LATER than DECEMBER 19.

THREE extra Supplements are issued with the present number:—

1. Portrait of William Horsley, from an oil-painting in the possession of Mrs. John Callcott Horsley, reproduced for the first time.
2. Anthem for Christmas Day—"Glory to God in the highest"—E. Markham Lee.
3. Christmas Carol—"Whence comes this light"—A. Herbert Brewer.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

PUBLISHED ON THE 1ST OF EVERY MONTH. Price 1½d.
ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, INCLUDING POSTAGE, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW FOR DECEMBER
CONTAINS:—

GENERAL NOTES.
SCHOOL MUSIC IN DUBLIN.
HECTOR BERLIOZ (with Caricature).
LESSONS ON THE RUDIMENTS OF MUSIC.
VOICE-TRAINING EXERCISES IN UNISON, TWO, AND THREE PARTS, FOR SCHOOLS AND CHOIR BOYS.
SHOULD SCHOOLBOYS LEARN THE PIANOFORTE?
THEORY QUESTIONS.
THE SOUTH WALES TONIC SOL-FA CONFERENCE.
COMPETITION NOTES.
SCHOOL CONCERT AT KIMBERLEY.
ANSWERS TO THEORY QUESTIONS.
MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

THE DECEMBER NUMBER CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC:—
"GOD REST YOU MERRY, GENTLEMEN." Unison or Two-part Carol.
TRADITIONAL.
"REJOICE! CHRISTEN MEN." Unison Carol. By ROBIN H. LEGGE.
FOUR ROUNDS: "EARLY TO BED"; "NOW WE ARE MET"; "COME, FOLLOW ME"; and "PETER WHITE."
ELEMENTARY SIGHT-SINGING EXERCISES.
Also, EXTRA SUPPLEMENT, containing "HAIL, HAIL TO WINTER BOLD." Two-part Song. By PERCY E. FLETCHER. (No. 328. Novello's School Songs.) Price 1½d.
The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

HAMPSTEAD CONSERVATOIRE (SWISS COTTAGE).

ARTIST DIVISION.

SCHOLARSHIPS in Singing, Piano, Violin, Violoncello, and Organ will be competed for on January 20, 1904. Candidates' names must reach the Secretary not later than January 16. For particulars, apply to J. E. ROBERTSON WEBB, Secretary.

MUSICAL INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE.

Founded, 1878.] LIMITED. [Incorporated, 1893.
153, REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.

EXAMINATIONS in all branches of Practical and Theoretical Music are held in London and at 150 Local Centres three times yearly. The NEXT EXAMINATION will take place in April: last day of entry, March 5.

The Diplomas granted by the College are those of Associate, Licentiate, and Fellowship.

Local Secretaries are required to fill vacancies. Syllabus for 1904, containing full Regulations, together with particulars of Awards in Medals and Prizes, may be obtained on application to

W. A. PHILPOTT, Mus. Doc., Secretary.

NATIONAL CONSERVATOIRE

INST., 1895. OF MUSIC, LTD. INCOR., 1900.

London: 174, WARDOUR STREET, W.

Warden: Professor ALEXANDER PHIPPS, Mus. Bac. LOCAL EXAMINATIONS, all Towns, in Dec. Two Scholarships awarded; also Gold and Silver Medals, Prizes, &c.

DIPLOMAS, ASSOCIATE, LICENTIATE, and FELLOW, for Teachers, Organists, Vocalists, Pianists, Violinists and Bandmasters. EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT (40 Professors). Also at Conservatoire, Hardman Street, Liverpool. Apply, Registrar.

I, HAROLD VINCENT JERVIS-READ, of Winchester College, in the City of Winchester; Associate of the Royal Academy of Music, HEREBY GIVE NOTICE that I have assumed the name of HAROLD VINCENT JERVIS-READ, in lieu of my former name of HAROLD VINCENT READ, and that I have executed a Deed Poll giving effect to my Change of Name, which is enrolled in the Central Office of the Supreme Court of Justice.

Dated the 20th day of November, 1903.

HAROLD VINCENT JERVIS-READ.

MISS ETTIE SPICE (Soprano)
MISS EMILY TANNER (Contralto)

Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Duets a specialty.

74, Bromfelde Road, Clapham, S.W.

MISS JENNY ATKINSON (Contralto)
"Elijah," Queen's Hall, December 14.
71, Richmond Road, Dalston, N.E.

MISS MARIE BISHOP (Contralto)
Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, &c. Address, for vacant dates, press notices, terms, &c., 31, Great Western Street, Manchester.

ŠEVČÍK'S NEW VIOLIN METHOD.

HERR HEINRICH DITTMAR (Violinist)

Pupil of Professor Ševčík.
Gives LESSONS in this System in London. For Prospectus, address, 60, Berners Street, London, W.

MR. FERDINAND RIPPON (Solo Violinist), for Concerts, At Homes; also Leader of Orchestra for Oratorios, &c. Address, 20 Salisbury Road, Reading.

MISS GWENDOLEN DE ATH
(SOPRANO).

Oratorios, Recitals, Concerts, &c. References kindly permitted to
Dr. G. J. Bennett, Lincoln, and other Conductors.
Apply, 11, Guildhall Street, Lincoln.

MISS FLORENCE HOOLE
(CONTRALTO)

(Of the Queen's Hall Promenade Concerts)
is open to accept Engagements. For terms and vacant dates apply, 78, Broadhurst Gardens, N.W.

MR. CLAUDE ANDERSON
(TENOR). For Oratorios and Concerts.

"Possesses a pleasant tenor voice of considerable flexibility. Sang with expression and intelligence."—Daily Telegraph.
8, Corinne Road, Tufnell Park, N.

MR. CYRIL DARCY
(SOLO TENOR, St. Philip's, Kensington).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
For terms, &c., apply, 5, Durrell Road, Munster Park, S.W.

MR. OTTLEY CRANSTON
(BARITONE)

For Oratorios, Concerts, etc.
Address, 106, Clifton Hill, St. John's Wood, N.W., or, principal Agents.

MR. HENRY BEAUMONT

THE EMINENT ENGLISH TENOR.

For Oratorio. All new and standard works in répertoire.

Engaged: Nov. 2; 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, Battersea Choral ("Faust"); 16, Mile End ("Judas"); 18, S.W. London Choral ("Judas"); 19, Royal Vic. ("Daughter of Regiment"); 20, Bristol Choral ("Golden Legend" and "Cavalleria Rusticana"); 22, 24, 26, 28, Wolverhampton ("Bohemian Girl"); Dec. 1, Gloucester Choral ("Hiawatha"); 2, Ottery ("Faust"); 3, "Maritana"; 4, Exeter Choral ("Golden Legend" and "De Profundis"); 5, Excelsior Hall ("Faust"); 8, Grantham Phil. ("Israel in Egypt"); 10, City Temple ("Elijah"); 11, City; 16, Henley ("May Queen," &c.); 17, Woolwich; 19, Excelsior Hall ("Martha"); 25, Blyth Phil. ("Judas"); 28, Wigan ("Messiah"). 1904 bookings include: Birmingham Choral ("Maritana"); Bristol Choral ("Flying Dutchman"); London Choral ("Martyr of Antioch"); Huddersfield Choral ("Messiah"), &c.

Address, Principal Agents; or, 83, Maida Vale, W.

MR. WILLIAM LLEWELLYN

(BARITONE)

(Royal Choral Society's Concerts; Crystal Palace Oratorio Concerts; Birmingham and Wolverhampton Festival Choral Societies' Concerts, &c.), can accept engagements during the present season for

ORATORIO, WAGNER RECITALS, and CLASSICAL CONCERTS.

Address, R. Norman-Concorde, 82, New Bond Street, London, W.

SALISBURY CATHEDRAL.—There will be a COMPETITION for FOUR CHORISTERSHIPS (Probationers) on Tuesday, December 22, 1903, at 12 noon, at the Organist's House. Candidates must as a rule be between the ages of 8 and 10, but exceptions may be made. Apply as soon as possible, for information as to references required, payments, &c., to Rev. A. G. Robertson, The Close, Salisbury.

WANTED, CONTRALTO, TENOR and BASS for church in N.E. London. Apply, by letter, to Organist, 14, Farnival Street, Holborn, E.C.

ALTO WANTED for St. Jude's, Upper Chelsea.
A Good reader. Communicant. £10 per annum. Letters only, to John Ireland, 62, Limerston Street, S.W.

ALTO WANTED for Holy Trinity Church, Gray's
Inn Road. £10 per year. Apply, Organist.

TENOR WANTED, for St. Stephen's, East Putney.
Capable of solo work. Light duties. £15. Apply, A. R. Saunders, F.R.C.O., Lulworth, West Side, Wandsworth Com., S.W.

BASS WANTED, St. Matthias, Richmond, Surrey.
Salary, £12 to £15. Candidates must be regular communicants of the Church of England, and good, reliable readers. Apply, stating age and qualifications, to H. J. South, Organist and Choirmaster, 7, The Vineyard, Richmond, Surrey.

WANTED, ORGANIST, to assist with organ and choir. Anglican Service. Anthems. Sundays and two practices. Apply, by letter, stating age, salary required, refs., &c., to Vicar, Christ Church, Endell Street, W. C.

TEMPORARY ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER REQUIRED, for the Congregational Church, Winchester, for January, February, and March next: for either month, or for the whole three months. Good 2-manual Organ and good Service. State full particulars to Mr. Dyer, Palm Hall, Winchester.

ORGANIST (Mus. Bac.) desires APPOINTMENT.
Much successful experience in Choir-training. Accustomed to Full Choral Service. Highest testimonials. Private means. A. B. C., care of Messrs. Saward and Co., 188, Strand.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (Husband and Wife) desire APPOINTMENT. Experienced; good testimonials. Beckwith, 53, London Road, Southend-on-Sea.

CHURCH OF ALL HALLOWS BARKING, By the Tower (opposite Mark Lane Station).—PUPIL-ASSISTANT ORGANIST WANTED. 3-manual organ. Excellent opportunities, at the daily practices in the new Choir Room, for gaining experience in training of Choristers. Apply (by letter in the first place), to Organist and Choirmaster, The Clergy House, 7, Trinity Square, Tower Hill, E.C.

VOLUNTARY TENOR and BASS REQUIRED, to supplement the paid choir of above Church. Full choral services, and cantata or oratorio after Evensong on Festivals. Apply, as above.

THE ORGANIST of Salisbury Cathedral will have a VACANCY for a PUPIL after Christmas. Address, C. F. South, The Close, Salisbury.

CHOIR EXCHANGE, 5, East 14th Street, New York.—CHURCH POSITIONS secured for Organists in the United States and Canada.—RECENT APPOINTMENTS through the Exchange: Mr. Charles H. White, from London, to Trinity Church, Bay City, Michigan; Mr. C. P. Landi, from N. Devon, to St. Paul's, Concord, New Hampshire; and Mr. Alfred E. Palmer, from Jedburg, to St. Mark's, Hoosick Falls, N.Y. PUBLISHERS found for Composers' manuscripts and Authors' works. Write, The John E. Webster Company, for Terms.

MUSIC ASSISTANT.—Duck, Son and Pinker, Bath, require a Young Man COUNTER-ASSISTANT. Must know Catalogues. Send photo, and state age, salary required, and references.

TUNER.—Duck, Son and Pinker, Bath, have a VACANCY for a first-class TUNER. Send photo, and state age, salary required, and references.

MUSIC TEACHING CONNECTION with Church Appointment DESIRED, by Organist (Mus. Bac.) with 15 years' experience. Over 4 years in present post. Commission given for stated period on fees from all pupils transferred. Highest testimonials. Amphion, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO ORGANISTS.—Sound TEACHING CONNECTION for SALE. Suit gentleman with degree. Established 43 years. Lowest price, £200 cash. The Post of Organist at the Parish Church will be vacant, and may be had by purchaser if a competent man. Average income, £300. Large Church, very fine Organ; opportunity seldom met with. Address, Dulciana, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN (must be SOLD), excellent chamber, three-manual and pedal, 20 stops, handsome oak case. 7 ft. 8 in. wide, 6 ft. 6 in. deep; the property of an amateur. A low offer will be accepted for sale before Christmas, as chamber it now occupies is to be taken down. Offers, 72, Park Road, Norbiton, Surrey.

ORGAN for SALE.—Two manuals, pedals, and bourbons; 12 stops, CC to G. Williams, 2, St. Jude's Villas, Meeting House Lane, Peckham, S.E. Organs tuned and repaired.

TO ARTISTS and CONNOISSEURS.—"INEXPENSIVE" Two-manual Chamber REED ORGANS (without pedals). Suction system. Five octaves, CC to G. No bogus stops; all stop-knobs drawing on 61 reeds. No half setts. Positively the most perfect Organs of the period. Also built to own wishes, by Snell Brothers. Established, 1864. Nightingale Works, Hornsey Road, London, N.

WANTED, Second-hand PIPE ORGAN (2- or 3-manual). Must be in good order and condition. Send full specification and dimensions, also photo or sketch. State lowest price. Address, R. S., Novello and Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN.—Very valuable Two-manual. Contains twenty-three stops, 820 speaking pipes. Built regardless of expense, and almost entirely of mahogany. Metal pipes of the best spotted metal. Price £300. Organist, 24, Endsleigh Gardens, Gordon Square, London, W.C.

ORGAN (Large Two-manual). Now standing in a London Church. Contains twenty stops, and about a thousand speaking pipes. Must shortly be removed. Price £200. Organist, 24, Endsleigh Gardens, Gordon Square, London, W.C.

PEDAL American ORGANS, One-, Two-, and Three-manual, at bargain prices for cash. A 70-guinea ESTEY for 30 guineas. A 120-guinea for 40 guineas; a 400-guinea 3-manual and pedal MASON and HAMLIN. Also several large Organs and Harmoniums by BELL, SMITH, KARN, ALEXANDRE, &c., at one-third usual prices. Fully warranted. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Stagg, 56, Red Lion Street, Holborn. Established 1867.

ALEXANDRE Exhibition Model HARMONIUM for SALE. 14 stops; 4½ rows vibrators; knee and heel swells. Polished oak case. Cost 35 guineas. Address, 12, Fulham Park Gardens, S.W.

ST. ANNE'S, Soho.—Fridays, December 4, 11, 18, January 8, 15, 22, at 8 p.m. Christmas Day, at 4 p.m. BACH'S CHRISTMAS ORATORIO, with Full Orchestra and Organ. Tickets for body of church and West gallery gratis, by sending stamped addressed envelope to Rector, 28, Soho Square. No tickets required for North or South galleries.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BY
JOSEPH C. BRIDGE,
M.A., Mus.D. Oxon.

On Christmas Night	3d.
Away with grief	3d.
The Merry Christmas Morn	3d.
Holy Night	2d.
Christmas in the fields	2d.
Awake the voice	4d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS by H. R. COULDREY.

Te Deum in B flat (Chant Form) and Benedicite in G, together with Four Kyries (6th Edition)	0 4
Te Deum in D (No. 2), in Chant Form	0 3
Vesper Hymn and Final Amen in G, "Through the day Thy love has spared us" (9th Thousand)	0 1
ANTHEMS—"Come unto me." Treble Solo and Chorus.	0 3
"O Lord my God." Tenor Solo and Chorus (2nd Edition)	0 3
Novello's Octavo Edition, No. 256	0 3
"I was glad." Suitable for Dedication Festivals or Meeting of Choirs	0 3

Orchestral Parts may be obtained in MS.

SONG—"The Organist," in two keys (Dedicated to the late Sir John Stainer, M.A.). Organ and Orchestral accompaniment ad lib. Published by ED. ASHDOWN

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

POSTHUMOUS WORKS

BY THE LATE

ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS (a Thanksgiving for Victory). For Chorus, Strings, Brass Instruments and Organ. Vocal Score, 1s; Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.; Full Score, 7s. 6d.; String Parts, 2s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 6s.; Organ Part, 1s. 6d.

HYMN TUNES:—

The roseate hues of early dawn, 1d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.
Lord of Might, our land's defender, 1d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.
To mourn our dead we gather here, 1d.

PART-SONG:—

Fair Daffodils (S.A.T.B.), 1½d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.

ORGAN:—

Andante espressivo (from the Symphony in E). Arranged by W. CRESER. 1s. 6d.

In the Press; will be published immediately.

THE INCIDENTAL MUSIC TO THE DRAMA KING ARTHUR

WRITTEN BY

J. COMYNS CARR

COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

ARRANGED FOR CONCERT PERFORMANCE BY WILFRED BENDALL.

Vocal Score, One Shilling and Sixpence.
Full Score and Band Parts, MS.

SYMPHONY in E. Full Score and Band Parts
(In the Press).

SONGS (In the Press):—

Longing for home.
Thou wast that all to me, love.
My heart is like a silent lute.

PART-SONG (In the Press):—

Seaside thoughts (S.A.T.B.).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE HALLOWED MANGER. A Christmas Carol. Words by the Rev. and Hon. R. E. ADDERLEY. Music by THOMAS ADAMS. Price 2d. each; Words only, 2s. per 100. London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MUSIC by W. T. BELCHER, Mus.D., Oxon.

Benedicite, omnia Opera	net	0 2
Carol—The Star of Bethlehem	"	0 2
Adeste Fideles, with var. for the Organ, ped. obbligato	"	2 0
Ditto, for Pianoforte	"	2 0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

I wish you a Merry Christmas. Song ... 1/6 or net 0 6
A Happy New Year. Song ... 1/6 or " 0 6

London: WEEKES AND CO., 14, Hanover Street, W.

SUNG BY MISS EDITH EVANS and OTHER LEADING ARTISTS.
DIVINE COMPASSION (OXENFORD). Fine Sacred Song. Splendid press comments. Jos. WILLIAMS, Ltd., London.

GENTLY TOUCH THE WARBLING LYRE. CARR MOSELEY. Words by OLIVER GOLDSMITH. A.T.B.B., or with Contralto. Made great success at Queen Coll. Concert. "Dainty and effective."—Musical World. Novello & Co., Ltd.

ORCHESTRAL SCORING, ARRANGING, TRANSPOSING, &c. Good staff of copyists. Wm. Lane Frost, Avonley, Hatcham Park, London, S.E.

VOCAL SCORES.—WANTED, second-hand copies, Wallace's "Lurline" and "Amber Witch"; Benedict's "Undine" and "Lily of Killarney." State price. Address, Thomas Smith, c/o J. Curwen & Sons, Ltd., 24, Berners Street, W.

CATALOGUE OF SECOND-HAND BOOKS (Antiquarian and Miscellaneous), including a large number of interesting Sets of Instrumental Music by Composers of the Eighteenth Century. Post-free of B. H. Blackwell, 50 & 51, Broad St., Oxford.

SPECIALLY SUITABLE TO THE SEASON OF CHRISTMAS.

THE PRINCE OF PEACE

A SACRED CANTATA
FOR FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND
ORCHESTRA

THE WORDS SELECTED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE

AND THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"No man knows better than Mr. Gaul how to write for voices. . . . 'Thou art the King of Glory,' a singularly fine chorus, worthy of any composer, living or dead. . . . Throughout the work we have spontaneity, elegance, attractiveness, in short, a never-ending charm. This cantata, which completes the octave of Mr. Gaul's cantatas, we hold to be the best. If it prove less popular than the composer's 'The Holy City,' we shall be surprised. Mr. Gaul was engaged on this, his latest work, for about three years, and we believe that all who hear it will agree that the time was very profitably spent."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"In every way worthy the great reputation and experience of its composer. . . . Is indeed a work of a very unusual character, and most probably destined to become more popular than any of his other compositions. . . . Worthy the study of choral societies of every grade."—North Staffordshire Sentinel.

"Admirably written for the voice, enhanced by charm of rhythm and picturesque accompaniments."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

Vocal Score, paper cover	s. d.
" paper boards	2 6
" scarlet cloth	3 0
Voice Parts, for the use of Choral Societies...	each	1 0
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	1 0
Words only	per 100	5 0

Band Parts (the loan of) on application to the Composer,
Gillott Lodge, Edgbaston.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THREE CAROLS FOR CHURCH USE

WITH OBLIGATO ORGAN ACCOMPANIMENTS—viz.:

"ANGELS FROM THE REALMS OF GLORY"

"CHRISTMAS BELLS"

"YULETIDE"

COMPOSED BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

The verses of the above Carols have been carefully varied and suitable symphonies interspersed.

Price Threepence each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

WANTED, VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTIONS of MANUSCRIPT CHANTS, KYRIES, &c., with a view to publication. Will be gratefully received, acknowledged, and returned as quickly as possible, by H. Harris Brown, Wainfleet.

Fifth Edition.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in E flat. By ALFRED J. Dye. Voices only, 3d. Organ Copy, 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Seventh Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat.
By WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EBENEZER PROUT'S WORKS ON MUSIC.

Bound in cloth.

	NET.
HARMONY: Its Theory and Practice. Newly revised and largely re-written, Sixteenth Edition	5 0
ANALYTICAL KEY to the Exercises in the same	5 0
COUNTERPOINT: Strict and Free. Seventh Edition	5 0
DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT and CANON. Third Edition	5 0
FUGUE. Fourth Edition	5 0
FUGAL ANALYSIS. Third Edition	5 0
MUSICAL FORM. Fifth Edition	5 0
APPLIED FORMS. Fourth Edition	5 0
THE ORCHESTRA. Two Vols.	each 5 0
Vol. I.—"The Technique of the Instruments." Third Edition.
Vol. II.—"Orchestral Combination." Second Edition.

AUGENER AND Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

FAVOURITE

GLEES & PART-SONGS

BY

CHARTERHOUSE ORGANISTS.

RICHARD J. S. STEVENS.

Blow, blow, thou winter wind (Sol-fa, rd.)	..	2d.
Do. do. S.A.B.	..	1½d.
From Oberon, in fairyland (Sol-fa, rd.)	..	3d.
Do. do. S.A.B.	..	1½d.
It was a lover and his lass. S.S.A.T.B.	..	1½d.
Sigh no more, ladies. S.S.A.T.B.	..	1½d.
Do. do. S.A.B.	..	1½d.
The cloud-cap't towers. S.A.T.T.B.B. (Sol-fa, rd.)	1½d.
Do. do. A.A.T.T.B.B.	..	1d.
When the toil of day is o'er	..	1½d.
Ye spotted snakes (Sol-fa, rd.)	..	1½d.
Do. do. S.A.B.	..	1½d.
Crabbed age and youth. A.T.T.B.	..	1½d.
Some of my heroes are low. A.T.T.B.B.	Folio, 1s. 6d.

WILLIAM HORSLEY.

Come, follow me	..	1½d.
Come, my friends	..	1½d.
Nymphs of the forest	..	1½d.
Do. do. A.T.T.B.	..	1½d.
See the chariot at hand (Sol-fa, rd.)	..	1½d.
When shall we three meet again? S.S.B.	..	1d.
By Celia's arbour. A.T.T.B.	..	1½d.
Come, gentle Zephyr. A.T.T.B.	..	1½d.

JOHN HULLAH.

County Guy	..	3d.
Song should breathe of scents and flowers	..	3d.
The good morrow	..	3d.
'Twas on a bank of daisies sweet (Sol-fa, rd.)	..	3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

TWO PIECES

1. CHILDHOOD.

2. GIRLHOOD.

FOR SMALL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

F. H. COWEN.

Full Score, 6s.; String Parts, 2s. 3d.; Wind Parts, 3s.
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo (in the press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

FRANKLIN PETERSON'S Popular Text Books:
ELEMENTS OF MUSIC. Seventh Edition. Bound, net 1s.
INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF THEORY. A sequel to the "Elements of Music," and intended to prepare the student for Professor Prout's Series of Theoretical Works. Bound, net 1s. 6d.
PIANIST'S HANDBOOK. A Theoretical Companion to Practice.
Part I. Bound, net 1s. 6d.
Part II. MUSICAL FORM. Bound, net 1s. 6d.
CATECHISM OF MUSIC. Bound, net 2s.
AUGENER AND Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

ANTHEMS FOR ADVENT.

A few more years shall roll	H. Blair	3d.
And God shall wipe away all tears ...	Frederick R. Greenish	3d.
* And He shall purify	Handel	12d.
And Jacob was left alone	J. Stainer	6d.
* And the Angel said unto her	King Hall	12d.
* And the glory of the Lord	Handel	12d.
And there shall be signs	E. W. Naylor	12d.
* Arise, O Jerusalem	Oliver King	12d.
Ascribe unto the Lord	J. Travers	6d.
* Awake, awake, put on strength	A. Borton	12d.
* Awake, awake, put on thy strength, O Zion	J. Stainer	6d.
Awake, put on thy strength	M. Wise	4d.
* Awake, thou that sleepest	J. Stainer	6d.
Behold, the day is come	H. H. Woodward	4d.
Behold, two blind men	J. Stainer	3d.
Beloved, now we are the Sons of God ...	E. H. Thorne	12d.
Blessed are they	H. Blair	3d.
Blessed be the Lord God	C. S. Heap	6d.
Blessed is He who cometh	C. Gounod	12d.
* Come, and let us return (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
Day of anger, day of mourning	Mozart	6d.
Day of anger, day of mourning	C. Gounod	6d.
* Day of wrath	J. Stainer	2d.
* Doth not wisdom cry?	R. Haking	12d.
Drop down, ye heavens	G. A. Macfarren	12d.
* Enter not into judgment	T. Attwood	12d.
Enter not into judgment	Clarke-Whitfield	12d.
Far down the ages now	Arthur C. Edwards	12d.
* Far from their home	H. H. Woodward	3d.
For a small moment	J. Stainer	2d.
For the mountains shall depart	L. Samson	3d.
* From the rising of the sun	F. A. G. Ouseley	12d.
* God hath appointed a day	B. Tours	12d.
* Grant us Thy peace	Mendelssohn	12d.
Hark, the glad sound	E. V. Hall	3d.
* Harken unto Me, my people... ..	A. Sullivan	12d.
He comes, but not in regal splendour ...	W. Crotch	12d.
He is blessed that cometh	Mozart	2d.
Henceforth when ye hear my voice	Mendelssohn	12d.
* He that shall endure	Mendelssohn	12d.
Hosanna	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
* Hosanna in the highest	J. Stainer	12d.
Hosanna to the Son of David	O. Gibbons	3d.
Hosanna to the Son of David	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
How beautiful are the feet	Handel	3d.
* How lovely are the messengers	Mendelssohn	2d.
If a man die shall he live again	Charles Macpherson	12d.
In the beginning was the word	E. H. Thorne	12d.
* It is high time	J. Barnby	12d.
It shall come to pass	G. M. Garrett	6d.
I will look unto the Lord (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
Let our hearts be joyful	Mendelssohn	12d.
Lord, let me know mine end	M. Greene	12d.
* Lord, let me know mine end	J. Goss	3d.
Lord, what love have I?	C. Steggall	6d.
Mine eyes look unto Thee	H. Baker	3d.
My soul truly waiteth	B. Steane	2d.
O Adonai (O Lord and Ruler)	J. Stainer	12d.
O Clavis David (O Key of David)	J. Stainer	12d.
O Emmanuel (O Emmanuel)	J. Stainer	12d.
O God, Thou art my God	H. Purcell	3d.
O Jerusalem, look about thee	E. W. Naylor	4d.
O Lord, Thou art my God	S. S. Wesley	1s.
O Oriens (O Dayspring)	J. Stainer	12d.
O Radix Jesse (O Root of Jesse)	J. Stainer	12d.
* O Rex Gentium (O King and Desire) ...	J. Stainer	12d.
O Sapientia (O Wisdom)	J. Stainer	12d.
Out of the deep	H. Walford Davies	4d.
Out of the deep	G. C. Martin	6d.
* Praise his awful Name	Spohr	2d.
Prepare ye the way	J. M. Crament	4d.
* Prepare ye the way	G. M. Garrett	3d.
Prepare ye the way of the Lord	M. Wise	3d.
* Rejoice greatly	H. Gadsby	3d.
* Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Sion	H. H. Woodward	12d.
Rejoice in the Lord	F. R. Statham	12d.
Rejoice in the Lord	S. Reay	12d.
Rejoice in the Lord	John Redford	3d.
* Rejoice in the Lord	H. Purcell	3d.
* Rise up, arise	Mendelssohn	3d.
* Seek ye the Lord	C. Bradley	12d.
* Seek ye the Lord	J. V. Roberts	3d.
Seek ye the Lord	H. Kinsey	3d.
* Sleepers, wake, a voice is calling	Mendelssohn	12d.
Swiftly the moments (Advent Litany) ...	J. M. Crament	2d.
(Words only, 1s. 6d. per 100.)
Think, good Jesu	Mozart	6d.
* The grace of God that bringeth salvation ...	J. Barnby	12d.
* The great day of the Lord is near	G. C. Martin	12d.
The Lord will comfort Sion	H. Hiles	6d.
The night is far spent	M. Smith	12d.
* The night is far spent	B. Steane	12d.
* The night is far spent	M. B. Foster	3d.
* The night is far spent (Two-part Anthem)...	M. B. Foster	3d.
* The Wilderness	J. Goss	6d.
The Wilderness	S. S. Wesley	3d.
* Thou Judge of quick and dead	S. S. Wesley	3d.
Thy Word is a lantern	H. Purcell	4d.
To Thee do I lift up my soul	King Hall	12d.
Turn Thee again, O Lord	T. Attwood	12d.
Who is this that cometh from Edom? ...	J. Kent	6d.

Anthems marked thus * are to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 3d. each.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

For Advent and Christmas.

ADVENT HYMN

"IN LOWLY GUISE THY KING APPEARETH."

FOR SOPRANO SOLO AND CHORUS, WITH ORCHESTRAL ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

R. SCHUMANN.

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN OF FRIEDRICH RÜCKERT

By THE REV. J. TROUTBECK, D.D.

Price One Shilling. Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

BLESSED ARE THEY WHO WATCH

A CANTATA FOR ADVENT

FOR SOPRANO SOLO AND CHORUS

WITH

HYMNS TO BE SUNG BY THE CONGREGATION

THE WORDS SELECTED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

HUGH BLAIR.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence. Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE TWO ADVENTS

A CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY THE

REV. E. W. BOWLING, M.A.

Rector of Houghton Conquest, Beds.

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE GARRETT, M.A.,

Mus.D., F.R.C.O.

(Op. 23.)

Price One Shilling and Sixpence. Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

BLOW YE THE TRUMPET IN ZION

A CANTATA FOR ADVENT

COMPOSED BY

C. WARWICK JORDAN.

Price One Shilling.

CHRISTMAS EVE

A SHORT CANTATA

FOR CONTRALTO SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

NIELS W. GADE.

(Op. 40.)

Price One Shilling. Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Fourpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ADESTE FIDELES

(No. 33 of NOVELLO'S CANTIONES SACRÆ)

EDITED BY

DOM SAMUEL G. OULD

CONTAINING THE COMPLETE LATIN TEXT

(EIGHT VERSES, NOW PUBLISHED WITH MUSIC FOR THE FIRST TIME)

WITH A

PRELUDE AND VARIED ACCOMPANIMENTS

By the following Composers:—

Preludium by Dr. F. E. GLADSTONE.

I. Strophæ	DOM SAMUEL G. OULD.
II. Strophæ	WILLIAM SEWELL.
III. Strophæ	H. B. COLLINS.
IV. Strophæ	Sir WALTER PARRATT.
V. Strophæ	Dr. A. E. TOZER.
VI. Strophæ	Sir C. H. H. PARRY.
VII. Strophæ	Dr. C. W. PEARCE.
VIII. Strophæ	S. P. WADDINGTON.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

DAY OF WRATH

(DIES IRÆ)

HYMN-ANTHEM FOR ADVENT

COMPOSED BY

J. STAINER.

Price Fourpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Laid out after the model of "The Story of the Cross."

THE

STORY OF THE ADVENT OF JESUS

WRITTEN BY

E. W. LEACHMAN

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. STAINER.

Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

Words only, 3s. per 100.

PART I. The advent of Jesus before His Incarnation.—To create and to illuminate mankind.

PART II. The advent of Jesus at His Incarnation.—To save and to elevate mankind.

PART III. The advent of Jesus since His Incarnation.—To attract and to nourish mankind.

PART IV. The advent of Jesus to receive the Fruits of His Incarnation.—To judge and to claim mankind.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW WORK.

STOOD THE MOURNFUL
MOTHER WEeping

(STABAT MATER DOLOROSA)

ENGLISH TRANSLATION BY

REV. J. MONSELL

MUSIC BY

F. ROLLASON.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

"We know nothing of the composer, but he must be possessed of some courage to produce an English version of the 'Stabat Mater.' The text is translated by the Rev. J. Monsell, D.D. The work is divided into the usual ten numbers, with slight modifications. The opening chorus, 'Stood the mournful mother weeping,' is in F minor, and has a striking and passionate introduction. With the entry of the voices, the treatment is severe, and in the ecclesiastical style, but the expression is modern. The first part is employed in the last chorus, 'When my mortal body, dying,' but then changing to the major at 'Take my soul to Paradise,' and concluding with a well-worked-out fugue at 'To adore Thee, my God.' No. 6, 'Holy Father, let affliction,' is one of the most elaborate numbers. It is for soprano solo and chorus. In this the influence of Dvorák seems apparent, as that of Rossini appears in No. 4, 'For the sins of each offender,' but there is no direct imitation. The composer has individuality, and is a skilled musician. No. 9, 'Make me with His stripes be stricken,' beginning with a tenor solo followed by a solo for bass, and concluding with a quartet, is a fine piece of writing; and the whole composition reveals not only a high aim, but the ability to achieve it."—Birmingham Daily Post.

Published separately:

No. 5. CHORUS (unaccompanied), "JESU, FOUNT OF LOVE,"

Price 1½d.

"No. 5, 'Jesu, Fount of Love,' is a chorus, anthem-like in character. the sensuous harmony of which cannot fail to touch the feelings, if it be well sung, without accompaniment, as suggested."—Coventry Herald.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

AT THE MANGER

A LITANY OF THE INCARNATION

Words by GERTRUDE H. F. NORRIS

Music (from "The Crucifixion") by

J. STAINER.

Price One Penny. Words only, price ½d.; or, 2s. 6d. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

"An effective, bright, melodious composition."—Church Review."An able composition."—Church Times."A gain to music of this class."—Musical Times.

THERE WERE SHEPHERDS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, price Three-Halfpence.

By the same COMPOSER:

THREE CAROLS or HYMNS for CHRISTMAS.

Music and Words, 3d. Words only, 3s. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW EDITION. NOW READY.

The very successful Lent Cantata

PENITENCE

PARDON AND

PEACE

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

The Musical Times, 1/1/99: "An admirable example of a commendable class of Church music. Consists of writing of that melodious and effective nature for which the composer is so widely famed."

Musical Opinion, 1/2/98: "A fine Church composition."

Musical News, 15/1/98: "We have no hesitation in cordially recommending it."

Musical Standard, 5/3/98: "Deserves considerable popularity."

Organist and Choirmaster, 15/2/98: "For the music we have nothing but praise."

Birmingham Post, 5/3/98: "The music is of a high artistic value."

Liverpool Courier, 2/8/98: "A work of great merit in every respect."

Manchester Courier, 9/3/98: "It will doubtless be used in many quires and places where they sing."

Newcastle Leader, 23/2/98: "A well-written work."

Western Morning News, 25/3/98: "A good composition. Striking and original."

Chester Chronicle, 16/4/98: "A beautiful work, very tuneful, and exceedingly effective."

Lichfield Mercury, 4/2/98: "Extremely effective, containing some really beautiful music."

Journal of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, 1/2/98: "A well-written work. We can strongly recommend it."

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

Paper boards, 2s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. Words, 2s. per 100.

* * A Specimen Copy will be sent for six stamps to any Clergyman, Organist, or Choirmaster, on application to J. H. MAUNDER, Hill Top, Belmont Park, London, S.E.

Band Parts may be hired or purchased from Messrs. Goodwin and Tabb, 71, Great Queen Street, W.C.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SIX CHRISTMAS SONGS

FOUR-PART SONGS FOR MIXED VOICES

COMPOSED BY H. HEALE.

- | | | | | | | |
|---------------------------------------|-----|-----|-----|-----|-----|-----|
| 1. Hark! along the street | ... | ... | ... | ... | ... | 3d. |
| 2. We hear the bells on Christmas Day | ... | ... | ... | ... | ... | 3d. |
| 3. Oh! lovely voices of the sky | ... | ... | ... | ... | ... | 3d. |
| 4. So now is come our joyful feast | ... | ... | ... | ... | ... | 4d. |
| 5. It was the winter wild | ... | ... | ... | ... | ... | 4d. |
| 6. Hark! a glad voice | ... | ... | ... | ... | ... | 6d. |

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHORUS OF THE HEAVENLY HOST. Carol, for Christmastide. By J. T. FIELD. 2d. Specimen copy from the COMPOSER, "Montana," Blackheath, S.E.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CALEB SIMPER'S POPULAR CHURCH MUSIC

FOR
ADVENT AND CHRISTMAS.

These favourite Compositions are in demand in all English-speaking countries. The Sale rapidly increases month by month, and has reached over 3,200,000 copies.

IMPORTANT TO CHURCH CHOIRS AND CHORAL SOCIETIES.

The Popular Christmas Cantata,

"THE NATIVITY OF CHRIST,"

Has been scored for Full Orchestra, and the separate orchestral parts are now in print.

This Cantata contains Solos and Choruses, interspersed with Carols. 6th 1,000 now ready. Occupies about 45 minutes, and is a Work that the average Choir can render without outside help.

Price 1s. 6d.; Sol-fa, 1s.

A Choice and appropriate Work for Christmas-tide,

"THE STORY OF BETHLEHEM"

"CRADLED IN A MANGER."

The Words are by the late Rev. T. B. POLLOCK, M.A., and are divided into four parts of Six Stanzas each.

Part I.—THE HOLY CHILD. Part III.—THE SAVIOUR OF THE

" II.—THE MIGHTY GOD. WORLD.

Part IV.—THE PRINCE OF PEACE.

Price 2d. (in both Notations); Words only, 1s. 6d. per 100.

These beautiful verses are very happily wedded to some charming tunes, and the "Story of Bethlehem" is re-told in a way that will commend itself to all.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEM FOR 1903.

"ARISE, SHINE."

This Anthem will be found to be in Mr. SIMPER's best form, and will fully maintain his great popularity. Price 3d.; Sol-fa Edition, 2d.

"RIGHTEOUSNESS AND PEACE." Price 4d.

6th 1,000 now ready. Contains excellent and inspiring Solos for Tenor and Bass, with good, melodious choruses.

AND THOU, BETHLEHEM. Easy. 7th 1,000	3d.
THE MORNING STARS SANG TOGETHER. 6th 1,000	3d.
TIDINGS OF GREAT JOY. 11th 1,000	4d.
WHEN JESUS WAS BORN. 10th 1,000	3d.
GLAD TIDINGS. 8th 1,000	4d.
HIS NAME SHALL BE CALLED "WONDERFUL." 11th 1,000	3d.
IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE WORD. 8th 1,000	4d.
PEACE ON EARTH. 15th 1,000	4d.
UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN. 10th 1,000	3d.
WORSHIP HIM AND SING OF HIM. 20th 1,000	4d.
BE JOYFUL, O EARTH. 9th 1,000	4d.
THE GLORY OF THE LORD. 21st 1,000	4d.
REJOICE GREATLY. 12th 1,000	3d.
BREAK FORTH INTO JOY. 42nd 1,000	4d.
THE HEAVENS ARE TELLING. 15th 1,000	3d.
BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD. 25th Edition	4d.
LET US NOW GO TO BETHLEHEM. 11th 1,000	3d.
WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR. 49th Edition	4d.
SING, O HEAVENS. 31st 1,000	3d.
GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST. 25th Edition	3d.
AND HE SHALL REIGN. 21st 1,000	3d.
THERE WERE SHEPHERDS. 25th Edition	3d.
BEHOLD, I BRING. 59th Edition	3d.

SEVENTY-TWO CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

44th 1,000. Immensely popular. 1d. each.

SIX NEW CAROLS (Nos. 67 to 72) are now added.

67. Tell all the earth.	70. Christmas Bells are ringing.
68. Christmas Chimes.	71. Carol joyfully.
69. In Excelsis Gloria!	72. The King of Glory.

The above Carols are also issued in the following Editions, and should be carefully specified in ordering:—

Book 1, containing 24 Carols (Nos. 1 to 24)	net	1 0
Book 2, containing 24 Carols (Nos. 25 to 48)	1 0
Complete, 48 Carols (Nos. 1 to 48), extra good paper	...	cloth	3 6
Kilbirnie Edition, No. 1 (Carols 49 to 54, complete)	0 4
Cloth boards, gilt lettered (O.N. only)	3 6
Kilbirnie Edition, No. 3 (Carols 55 to 60, complete)	0 4
Kilbirnie Edition, No. 5 (Carols 61 to 66, complete)	0 4
Kilbirnie Edition, No. 7 (Carols 67 to 72, complete)	0 4

VERY POPULAR VOLUNTARY BOOKS.

The New Book (Book 6) is already becoming very popular, the Fourth Edition is now being printed.

(On two staves, with pedal part indicated.)

Each contains Seventeen Pieces for Organ or Harmonium.

Book 1. 16th Edition ... 1s. 6d.	Book 4. 7th Edition ... 1s. 6d.
Book 2. 11th Edition ... 1s. 6d.	Book 5. 6th Edition ... 1s. 6d.
Book 3. 9th Edition ... 1s. 6d.	Book 6. (Just out) ... 1s. 6d.

Organists all over the world are delighted with these Voluntaries, and prospective orders are constantly being received.

A useful and valuable Christmas Gift for Organists.

CALEB SIMPER'S VOLUNTARY BOOK. Containing 85 numbers of his popular Voluntaries (Books 1 to 5 inclusive) in one Volume, bound in cloth, gilt, 5s. net. A handsome Volume for Presentation.

London: WEEKES AND CO., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY CO., 220, Wabash Avenue.

Metzler's Christmas List.

ERE YOU CAME.

MAUDE VALÉRIE WHITE.

New Song for Tenor or Baritone, 2s. net.

ROSES AFTER RAIN. LIZA LEHMANN.

New Song for Mezzo-Soprano, 2s. net.

TILL THE DAWN. PAUL A. RUBENS.

New Song for Tenor or Baritone, 2s. net.

WILL YOU BE MY BUTTERFLY?

KENNEDY RUSSELL.

New Song for Mezzo-Soprano, 2s. net.

PRIMROSE. KENNEDY RUSSELL.

New Song for Mezzo-Soprano, 2s. net.

New Musical Play.

CRICKET ON THE HEARTH. E. RICKETTS.

Produced at the Garrick Theatre.

Song of the Cricket, 2s. net. Puck, 2s. net.

WATER BABIES. F. ROSSE.

The New Musical Fairy Play.

Libretto from Canon Kingsley's "Water Babies," by RUTLAND BARRINGTON. Produced at the Garrick Theatre. Vocal Score, 5s. net. Libretto, 6d. Separate Numbers and arrangements, 2s. each net.

THE ETERNAL CITY. P. MASCAGNI.

Produced at His Majesty's Theatre.

Complete Piano Score, 2s. 6d. net. The celebrated Serenata (words by HALL CAINE), in Keys for all voices, 2s. each net.

UPON THE SNOW-CLAD EARTH.

ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

Carol for Christmas-tide. 3d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

BETHLEHEM. CH. GOUNOD.

The Shepherds' Nativity Hymn.

Chorus with Pastoral Symphonies, 2s. net; Octavo, 3d.; as a Song, 2s. net; Organ Solo, 1s. 6d. net; Piano Solo, 1s. 3d. net; Piano Duet, 1s. 6d. net; Orchestral Parts, 5s. net; Tonic Sol-fa, 13d.; Words only, 2s. per 100.

SEND OUT THY LIGHT. CH. GOUNOD.

Anthem. 6d. net. Tonic Sol-fa, 13d.

SHEPHERD OF SOULS. EDWARD JONES.

From "The Sign of the Cross." Written by WILSON BARRETT. Octavo, 6d.; as a Song, 2s. net; Piano Solo, 2s. net; Organ, 2s. net; Violin (or Violoncello) and Piano, 2s. net; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

CHRISTMAS BELLS. J. M. COWARD.

Song. Written by HENRY ROSE. Sung by Mr. Norman Salmund and Mr. Leo Stormont. 2s. net. Choral Edition, 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.; Words only, 1s. per 100.

LITTLE SONGS FOR LITTLE VOICES.

A. SCOTT-GATTY.

Books 1, 2, and 3, price 2s. 6d. each net; or, bound in cloth, gilt, 4s. each net.

METZLER'S RED ALBUMS. Vocal and Instrumental.

Thirty-one Numbers published. 1s. each net.

TOY SYMPHONIES FOR CHILDREN.

By ROMBERG, HAYDN, and DESMOND RYAN. Complete Scores, Pianoforte, String, and Toy Parts. (Toy Instruments, carefully tuned and regulated, 30s. and 33s. 9d. net per set.) List on application.

METZLER'S ROYAL EDITION. 1s. each net.

Vocal and Instrumental Music. Uniform size.

Acceptable alike to Professor and Amateur.

METZLER PIANO PLAYER.

Only £35 cash.

METZLER PIANO PLAYER.

From the Daily Telegraph, Nov. 13, 1903.

"There is no excuse nowadays for the owner of a pianoforte who allows his instrument to remain silent. The musical household may be no executant himself, but, in accordance with the spirit of the age, his deficiencies are made good by mechanism. Of one kind and another, the piano-player—that is, the inanimate one—has come to us in many shapes during recent years, and now Messrs. Metzler have entered the lists with the rest. The latest dumb pianist is designed on similar lines to many of its predecessors, but Messrs. Metzler claim for it the special advantage of cheapness, coupled with complete efficiency. It stands a compact and not unsightly object in front of the keyboard of the instrument to be operated upon, and two pedals set the necessary roll of paper revolving. That the new piano-player has plenty of expressive possibilities was very clearly shown at a recital given yesterday at the well-known premises in Great Marlborough Street. There the newcomer discoursed sweet music for an hour or more, playing on its own account, and also accompanying the voice and violin. Nothing could have been better than the results of this severe trial. Weber, Moszkowski, and Raff rolled delightfully from their paper reels, while even Wagner, brilliantly paraphrased, had no terrors for the instrument. Clearly the Metzler Piano-Player will take a high place in the field which it entered yesterday, and its comparative cheapness will give it an advantage not enjoyed by all its rivals."

METZLER PIANO PLAYER.

Music Library of over 3,000 compositions. Recitals daily.

METZLER AND CO.,

42, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, LONDON, W.

NOVELLO'S CHRISTMAS CANTATAS.

THE STORY OF BETHLEHEM

A SHORT SACRED CANTATA
FOR CHRISTMAS SERVICES, &c.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
SHAPCOTT WENSLEY

THE MUSIC FOR SOPRANO, TENOR AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS AND ORGAN

COMPOSED BY
JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.
String Parts, 6s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

THE HOLY CHILD AN EASY CHRISTMAS CANTATA

FOR SOPRANO, TENOR, AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORGAN

COMPOSED BY THOMAS ADAMS.

Price One Shilling; Tonic Sol-fa Sixpence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

SLEEP, BABY, SLEEP

CAROL-CHORUS FROM THE ABOVE.

Published separately, price 1½d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.

CHRISTMAS SCENES CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

COMPOSED BY FREDERIC H. COWEN.

Price Two Shillings; Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE COMING OF THE KING

A SACRED CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES
SUITABLE FOR CHRISTMAS

WORDS BY HELEN MARION BURNSIDE

MUSIC BY
MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 8d.
Words only, 5s. per 100.

YULE-TIDE

A CANTATA

COMPOSED BY THOMAS ANDERTON.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Paper boards, 2s.; cloth, gilt, 3s.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS.

JUST PUBLISHED. O JERUSALEM, LOOK ABOUT THEE

BY
JOHN E. WEST.
Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

SING, O HEAVENS

BY BRUCE STEANE.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST

BY
E. MARKHAM LEE.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THOU MUST LEAVE THY LOWLY DWELLING

BY
HECTOR BERLIOZ.
Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE MORNING STARS SANG TOGETHER

BY
GEO. ALEX. A. WEST.
Price Fourpence.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED. HARK! WHAT MEAN THOSE HOLY VOICES

BY ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
(No. 12. LUTE SERIES.)
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

COME, YE GENTLES, HEAR THE STORY

BY
EDWARD C. BAIRSTOW.
Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE NEW-BORN KING

BY
PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

REST, WEARY EARTH

BY
A. M. GOODHART.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

ANGELS FROM THE REALMS OF GLORY

BY
E. VINE HALL.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THERE SHALL COME FORTH A ROD

BY FERRIS TOZER.
Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

ANTHEMS FOR CHRISTMAS.

Angels from the realms of glory	F. H. Cowen	3d.	Mercy and truth are met together (Words, 3s. per 100) J. Stainer	3d.
* Angels from the realms of glory	E. Vine Hall	3d.	* Now is come Salvation	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
* Arise, shine, for Thy light is come	Geo. Elvey	14d.	O come hither	W. Jackson	3d.
* Awake, put on thy strength	F. R. Greenish	4d.	* O come, Redeemer of mankind	John E. West	14d.
Before the heavens were spread abroad	Horatio W. Parker	3d.	* O, Holy Babe	A. C. Mackenzie	14d.
Behold, all the earth lieth still	G. F. Huntley	4d.	O Jerusalem! look about thee	E. W. Naylor	4d.
Behold a star appeareth	Niels W. Gade	4d.	* O Jerusalem, look about thee	John E. West	14d.
Behold, how good and joyful	W. H. Gladstone	1s.	* O sing to God (Noël). (Female voices)	Ch. Gounod	6d.
Behold, I bring	E. V. Hall	3d.	* O sing to God (Noël). (Arranged for S.A.T.B.)	Ch. Gounod	14d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings	Giovanni Croce	14d.	* O Thou that tellest	Handel	14d.
* Behold, I bring you glad tidings	C. W. Smith	14d.	O Zion, that bringest	W. Jackson	1s.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings	Vittoria	14d.	* O Zion, that bringest good tidings	J. Stainer	14d.
* Behold, I bring you good tidings	J. Barnby	3d.	* Rejoice in the Lord	J. B. Calkin	3d.
Behold, I bring you good tidings	J. M. Crament	4d.	* Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous	Alfred Hollins	3d.
* Behold, I bring you good tidings	J. Goss	14d.	Rejoice, O ye people	Mendelssohn	14d.
* Behold my servant	J. Frederick Bridge	3d.	* Rest, weary earth	A. M. Goodhart	3d.
Behold, the name of the Lord	Percy Pitt	4d.	Say, where is He born (Trio)	Mendelssohn	2d.
* Behold the Tabernacle (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	3d.	* See amid the winter's snow	John E. West	14d.
Be peace on earth	W. Crotch	2d.	* Sing and rejoice	J. Barnby	14d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel	S. S. Wesley	14d.	* Sing and rejoice	Basil Harwood	4d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel	C. L. Williams	4d.	Sing a song of praise	Oliver King	3d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel	The Earl of Mar	14d.	Sing, O daughter of Zion	H. Gadsby	14d.
* Break forth into joy	T. Ridley Prentice	6d.	Sing, O heavens	W. Jackson	1s.
* Break forth into joy	Bruce Steane	3d.	Sing, O heavens	Kent	4d.
* Break forth into joy	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.	Sing, O heavens	A. C. Mackenzie	6d.
* Brightest and best	E. V. Hall	4d.	* Sing, O heavens	Bruce Steane	3d.
* Calm on the list'n'ing ear of night	Horatio W. Parker	3d.	* Sing, O heavens	B. Tours	14d.
* Christians, awake	J. Barnby	3d.	* Sing, O heavens	T. T. Trimmell	4d.
* Christians, awake	H. M. Higgs	4d.	* Sing, O Heavens, and be joyful, O Earth	A. Gaul	14d.
Christians, be joyful	Bach	3d.	* Sing unto the Lord	Vincent Novello	14d.
Come and thank Him	Bach	3d.	* That God doth love the world	Bach	3d.
* Come and worship the Lord	Thomas Adams	14d.	* The Angel Gabriel was sent from God	H. Smart	14d.
* Come, ye Gentiles, hear the story	Edward C. Bairstow	14d.	* The Angel said unto them (Two-part Anthem—Sop. and Bass)	A. H. Brown	2d.
* Come, ye lofty	H. Elliot Button	14d.	* The first Christmas (Words only, 3s. per 100)	J. Barnby	3d.
* Crown Him, the Virgin's Son	B. Luard Selby	2d.	* The Grace of God which bringeth salvation	J. Barnby	14d.
Dawns the day, the natal day	Robin H. Legge	3d.	* The hallowed day hath shined upon us	J. Stainer	14d.
Drop down, ye heavens	J. Barnby	14d.	* The hallowed day hath shined	B. Luard Selby	3d.
Fear not, we bring you good tidings	H. Leslie	1s.	* The Hymn of the Angels	John E. West	4d.
* For unto us a Child is born	Handel	2d.	The light hath shined	E. Silas	14d.
* Give the king Thy judgments, O Lord	A. H. Brown	14d.	The light hath shined	C. G. Verrinder	14d.
Glory be to God	Bach	3d.	* The morning stars sang together	J. Stainer	6d.
Glory to God	Bach	2d.	The morning stars sang together	G. A. West	4d.
Glory to God	Handel	1d.	* The New-Born King	Percy E. Fletcher	3d.
Glory to God in the highest	Pergolesi	14d.	* The star that now is shining	Oliver King	14d.
* Glory to God in the highest	En. Markham Lee	3d.	The whole earth is at rest	J. Varley Roberts	4d.
* God so loved the world	J. Goss	14d.	* The Word is flesh become	Ch. Gounod	1s.
* God so loved the world	M. Kingston	14d.	* The Word is made Incarnate	Thomas Adams	2d.
* God so loved the world	J. Varley Roberts	3d.	* There shall a star	Mendelssohn	6d.
* God so loved the world	J. Stainer	14d.	* There shall come a star	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
God, Who at sundry times	J. H. Mee	4d.	* There shall come forth a Rod	Ferris Tozer	3d.
Hail! thou that art highly favoured	Arthur Carnall	4d.	* There shall come forth a star	O. A. Mansfield	3d.
* Hail to the Christ (Carol-Anthem)	J. Barnby	3d.	* There was silence in Bethlehem's fields	J. Stainer	14d.
* Hallelujah! for unto us a Child is born	W. H. Monk	14d.	* Ditto (Unison)	J. Stainer	14d.
Hallelujah! the light hath shined	Oliver King	3d.	* There were shepherds	B. Tours	14d.
* Hark! the glad sound	Myles B. Foster	3d.	* There were shepherds	Myles B. Foster	14d.
Hark! the glad sound	E. V. Hall	3d.	Ditto (Two-part Anthem)	Myles B. Foster	14d.
* Hark! the herald angles sing	E. V. Hall	3d.	There were shepherds	H. W. Wareing	3d.
Hark! what news the angels bring	Oliver King	3d.	There were shepherds	Edgar Pettman	3d.
Hear, King of Angels	Bach	14d.	* There were shepherds	Charles Vincent	4d.
He cometh forth	G. A. Macfarren	2d.	This is the day which the Lord hath made	J. Turle	3d.
How beautiful are the feet (Appendix to the "Messiah")	Handel	3d.	* Thou must leave Thy lowly dwelling (Chorus from "L'enfance du Christ")	Berlioz	14d.
I desired wisdom	J. Stainer	6d.	* Thus speaketh the Lord of Hosts	J. Stainer	14d.
I will set His dominion in the sea	Horatio W. Parker	14d.	Unto us a Child is born	F. Adlam	4d.
* In the beginning	G. B. Allen	14d.	Unto us was born (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
* In the beginning	Charles Macpherson	3d.	When Christ was born to earth	H. Walford Davies	4d.
In the beginning was the Word	E. H. Thorne	14d.	* When Jesus was born in Bethlehem	W. A. C. Cruickshank	3d.
In the beginning was the Word	Ferris Tozer	4d.	* While all things were in quiet silence	Henry J. King	3d.
In this was manifested	F. E. Gladstone	3d.	* While all things were in quiet silence	Oliver King	14d.
* It came upon the midnight clear	J. Stainer	14d.	* While all things were in quiet silence	G. A. Macfarren	14d.
* Jesu, Who from Thy Father's throne	F. C. Woods	3d.	* While shepherds watched	Geo. Elvey	3d.
* Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	J. T. Field	14d.	* While shepherds watched their flocks	J. Barnby	4d.
* Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	E. J. Hopkins	14d.	* While shepherds watched their flocks	W. T. Best	14d.
* Like silver lamps	J. Barnby	14d.	* With all Thy Hosts	John E. West	14d.
* Lo, God, our God has come	Battison Haynes	3d.
Lo, star-led chiefs	W. Crotch	2d.

Anthems marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 14d., and 2d. each.

THE "LUTE" SERIES OF CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS.

*72 Arise, shine	T. W. Stephenson	3d.	*71 Fear not; for behold	F. J. Sawyer	3d.
*95 Arise, shine	F. C. Maker	3d.	*12 Hark! what mean (Carol Anthem)	Arthur Sullivan	3d.
100 Behold! He cometh	Albert W. Ketelby	3d.	*143 How beautiful are the feet	W. A. C. Cruickshank	3d.
216 Behold, I bring	F. Aubrey Owen	3d.	144 Let us now go	A. Kempton	3d.
94 Behold, I bring you good tidings	Fredk. Peel	3d.	203a Let us now go	A. W. Marchant	3d.
225 Behold, my Servant	C. Harris	3d.	131 Rejoice ye with Jerusalem	Arthur Page	3d.
*108 Behold, my Servant	Ebenezer Prout	3d.	170 Sing, O Daughter of Zion	H. Elliot Button	3d.
166 Behold, upon the mountains	A. W. Ketelby	3d.	180 Sing, O Daughter of Zion	Arthur Page	3d.
*50 Blessed be the Lord	J. Barnby	3d.	154 Sing, O Heavens	Coldham Hall	3d.
204 Break forth into joy	F. Aubrey Owen	3d.	*48 Sing, O sing	Henry Leslie	3d.
155 Break forth into joy	J. C. Bridge	3d.	*83 There were shepherds	A. R. Gaul	3d.
*110 Break forth into joy	Seymour Smith	3d.	132 Unto us a Child is born	H. E. Nichol	3d.
*23 Come near, ye nations	Michael Watson	3d.	191 While all things	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
*35 Daughter of Zion	F. C. Maker	3d.	*118 While shepherds watched	G. C. Martin	3d.

NOVELLO'S CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

BRAMLEY, Rev. H. R. } Christmas Carols, New and Old.
STAINER, JOHN

FIRST SERIES. One Penny each.

* 1. God rest you merry, gentlemen	Traditional.
* 2. The Manger Throne	C. Steggall.
* 3. A Virgin unspotted	Traditional.
* 4. Come, ye lofty	Elvey.
* 5. Come, tune your hearts	Onseley.
* 6. The First Nowell	Traditional.
* 7. Jesu, hail	J. Stainer.
* 8. Good Christian men	Old German.
* 9. Sleep, holy Babe	Dykes.
* 10. Good King Wenceslas	Traditional.
* 11. When I view the Mother	J. Barnby.
* 12. The seven joys of Mary	Traditional.
* 13. On the Birthday of the Lord	Dykes.
* 14. What Child is this?	Old English.
* 15. Glorious, beautiful, golden-bright	Maria Tiddeman.
* 16. Waken! Christian Children	S. C. Hammerton.
* 17. A Child this day is born	Traditional.
* 18. Carol for Christmas Eve	Onseley.
* 19. When Christ was born	A. H. Brown.
* 20. Christmas Morning Hymn	J. Barnby.

Tonic Sol-fa, complete, 1s.; separate numbers, 1d. each.

SECOND SERIES. One Penny each.

* 21. Carol for Christmas Eve	Traditional.
* 22. Jesus in the Manger	H. Smart.
* 23. The Holly and the Ivy	Old French.
* 24. The Moon shines bright } rd.	Traditional.
* 25. The Virgin and Child	C. Steggall.
* 26. The Incarnation	Traditional.
* 27. Christmas Day	J. Stainer.
* 28. The Cherry-Tree Carol	Traditional.
* 29. God's dear Son	Traditional.
* 30. See, amid the winter's snow	Goss.
* 31. The Babe of Bethlehem	Traditional.
* 32. In Bethlehem, that noble place	Onseley.
* 33. A Cradle Song of the Blessed Virgin	J. Barnby.
* 34. Christmas Song	Dykes.
* 35. Jacob's Ladder	Traditional.
* 36. The Story of the Shepherd	J. Barnby.
* 37. The Wassail Song	Traditional.
* 38. In terrâ pax	Dykes.
* 39. Dives and Lazarus	Traditional.
* 40. From far away	Dykes.
* 41. Carol for Christmas Day	A. Sullivan.
* 42. The Child Jesus in the Garden	J. Stainer.

THIRD SERIES. One Penny each.

43. What soul-inspiring music	Har. by J. S.
44. In the country nigh to Bethlehem	G. Hine.
45. We three Kings of Orient are	Har. by J. S.
46. Emmanuel, God with us	H. Gadsby.
47. New Prince, new pomp } rd.	C. Steggall.
48. A Babe is born	Har. by J. S.
49. Come let us all sweet Carols sing	F. Champneys.
50. Let music break on this blest morn	J. B. Calkin.
51. Carol for New Year's Day	A. H. Brown.
52. The Angel Gabriel	Har. by J. S.
53. The Shepherds amazed	A. H. Brown.
54. Noel! Noel!	Har. by J. S.
55. I sing the birth	G. C. Martin.
56. Christmas Night	A. H. Brown.
57. The Christmas Celebration	E. Prout.
58. Arise and hail the Sacred Day	A. H. Brown.
59. The Holy Well	Har. by J. S.
60. The Angel and the Shepherds	E. H. Thorne.
61. The Coventry Carol	Har. by J. S.
62. The Morning Star	J. F. Bridge.
63. The Shepherds went their hasty way	J. F. Barnett.
64. I saw three ships	Har. by J. S.
65. Mountains, bow your heads	W. H. Cummings.
66. Luther's Carol	J. Higgs.
67. The Boy's Dream	W. H. Monk.
68. Legends of the Infancy	J. F. Bridge.
69. Let Christians all (The Black Decree) } rd.	Traditional.
70. Immortal Babe (for Christmas Day)	s. d.

The above 70 Carols, complete, cloth, gilt	4 0
Library Edition, with Historical Preface, Rox- burgh binding	7 6
Illustrated Edition, 1st and 2nd Series	7 6
Three Series (cloth, gilt, 2s.)	each 1 0
Words only, complete (cloth, 6d.)	0 4
Words, each Series	0 1½

HELMORE, Rev. T. } Carols for Christmastide. Set to NEALE, Rev. J. M. } Ancient Melodies. One Penny each.

71. Here is joy for every age.	77. From church to church.
72. Earthly friends will change.	78. In the ending of the year.
73. Gabriel's message.	79. Royal day that chastes gloom.
74. Christ was born on Christmas Day.	80. O'er the hill and o'er the vale.
75. Earth to-day rejoices.	81. Good King Wenceslas.
76. Good Christian men, rejoice.	82. Toll! toll! because there ends.
The above 12 Carols, complete
Folio, with pianoforte accompaniment
Treble part
Words only

WENSLEY, SHAPCOTT.—Twelve new Carols for Christmastide. Three-Halfpence each.

83. O holy star	J. Stainer.
84. The shepherds	Eaton Fanning.
85. Hymn of the angels	G. M. Garrett.
* 86. The anthem of peace	J. Barnby.
87. The Desert	Emma Mundella.
88. Bethlehem	Myles B. Foster.
89. Daybreak	Berthold Tours.
90. In the manger	J. Barnby.
91. The Mother and Child	Myles B. Foster.
92. Christ is born	J. F. Bridge.
93. Christmas Day	Battison Haynes.
* 94. Sweet Christmas Bells	J. Stainer.

Complete, 1s. Tonic Sol-fa, 8d. Words only, 2d.

TEN CHRISTMAS CAROLS. Three-Halfpence each.

95. Now join we all with holy mirth	J. Stainer.
96. Softly the night	J. M. Crament.
97. Sleep, Holy Babe	J. T. Field.
98. Now dies in David's City	J. Swire.
99. There dwelt in Old Judea	R. Jackson.
100. Good people, give ear	J. Swire.
101. Carol for Christmas Day	J. T. Field.
102. Ye stars of night	J. Swire.
103. Ring out, ye bells	J. H. Wallis.
104. Two thousand troubled years	J. F. Bridge.

Complete, 1s. Tonic Sol-fa, 8d. Words only, 2d.

STAINER, JOHN (Adapted and arranged by).—Twelve Old Carols. One Penny each.

* 105. Shepherds! shake off your drowsy sleep.
106. Come, shepherds, come! shake off your sleep.
107. Now sing we all sweetly.
108. The good men all of Chastres.
109. Whence comes this rush of wings afar?
110. { Come with us, sweet flowers, and worship. } rd.
111. { Infant so gentle, so pure, and so sweet! }
112. O Night, peaceful and blest!
113. Of the Father's love begotten.
114. We saw a light shine out afar.
115. Christmas hath made an end.
116. Now farewell, good Christmas.

Complete, 1s. Tonic Sol-fa, 6d. Words only, 1d.

MARTIN, G. C. (Harmonised by).—Christmastide Carols. One Penny each.

PART I. (Old Breton Melodies).
116. Hail! Christmas Bells.	119. Glad hymns, with one accord.
117. { O'er her Child the } rd.	120. Outside the city gates.
118. { Virgin weeps. }	121. On Asia Minor's sunny shore
119. { The stars are bright. }	* 122. Across the desert sands by night.
120. On this day was born.
Complete, 6d. Words only, 1d.
PART II. (Old French Melodies).
123. The Shepherds glad.	127. Round the Virgin gently sleeping.
124. Merrily ring the Christmas bells.	128. The Circumcision.
125. The sornbreshadows.	129. In the golden lands afar.
126. Poising bright on golden wing.	130. A Legend of the Flight.

Complete, 6d. Words only, 1d.

BRAMLEY, Rev. H. R. } Christmas Carols, New and Old.
STAINER, JOHN } Arranged for Men's Voices.

Three-Halfpence each.

131. A Virgin unspotted	Traditional.
132. The Manger Throne	C. Steggall.
133. Sleep, Holy Babe	Dykes.
134. Good Christian men, rejoice	Old German.
135. 'Twas in the winter cold	J. Barnby.
136. Good King Wenceslas	Helmors's Carols.
137. Come! ye lofty	Elvey.
138. God rest you merry, gentlemen	Traditional.
139. Listen, Lordings	Onseley.

* * The Carols marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa.

NOVELLO'S CHRISTMAS CAROLS—continued.

140. The First Nowell	Traditional.	*224. On Christmas Morn	A. C. Mackenzie.	1d.
141. When Christ was born	Arthur H. Brown.	225. In the ages past	F. A. J. Hervey.	14d.
142. Jesu, hail! O God most holy	J. Stainer.	226. We sing a song of gladness	J. Swire.	14d.
143. The seven joys of Mary	Traditional.	227. The morn, the blessed morn is nigh	Victoria Grosvenor.	3d.
144. What Child is this?	Old English.	228. Carol, carol, Christians	Mrs. J. W. Bliss.	3d.
145. The Waits' Song (The moon shines bright)	Traditional.	229. O was not Christ our Saviour?	J. Shaw.	14d.
146. The Virgin and Child	C. Steggall.	230. Carol, Christian children	A. Mofat.	14d.
147. The Holly and Ivy	Old French.	*231. There was silence in Bethlehem's fields (S.A.T.B.)	J. Stainer.	14d.
148. The Lord at first	Traditional.	232. Come, all ye Christian men, rejoice	Hamilton Clarke.	14d.
149. The Incarnation	Traditional.	233. Shepherds in the fields abiding	Hamilton Clarke.	14d.
150. The Cherry-Tree Carol	Traditional.	234. Come and sing the wondrous story	J. Varley Roberts.	14d.
151. A Cradle-song of the Blessed Virgin	J. Barnby.	235. The Christmas bells ring loud and clear	J. Varley Roberts.	14d.
152. Jacob's Ladder	Traditional.	236. Bethlehem	J. Varley Roberts.	14d.
153. Dives and Lazarus	Traditional.	237. The birth ever new	Robin H. Legge.	14d.
154. The Wassail Song	Traditional.	238. The old news	Robin H. Legge.	14d.
Complete, 2s. Words only, 2d.

BRAMLEY, H. R. } Christmas Carols New and Old. Two-
STAINER, JOHN } part arrangement by W. G. McNAUGHT.
Three-Halfpence each.

155. Good King Wenceslas.	156. Good Christian men, rejoice.	157. Christmas hath made an end.	158. God rest you merry.	159. The First Nowell.	160. A Virgin unspotted.	161. The Wassail Song.
	162. { I hear along our street. The Boar's Head } 14d.		163. The seven joys of Mary.	164. Hark! how sweetly the bells.	165. The Holly and the Ivy.
Complete 1s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d. Words only, 14d.

FOX, GEORGE—Carols for Christmastide. Set to Music for Little Singers. Three-Halfpence each.

166. Good King Wenceslas.		{ The moon shone	} 14d.
167. I hear along our street.		{ bright.
168. Brightly shone the Eastern star.	178.	{ All you that in this house.
169. As Joseph was a-walking.	179.	Clearly in the East it shone.
170. Hark! what mean those holy voices.	180.	{ Shepherds at the Grange.	} 14d.
171. The Holy Well.		{ These good people.
172. While Shepherds watched.	181.	{ Nuns in frigid cells.	} 14d.
173. God rest you merry, gentlemen.		{ Washerwomen old.
174. Hark! how sweetly the bells.	182.	The Holly and the Ivy.
175. A little robin.	183.	{ How grand and how bright.	} 14d.
176. As I sat on a sunny bank.		{ Hosanna to the living
177. Why in tones so sweet and tender.		{ Lord.
184.	{ Lo! a heavenly form appearing.	} 14d.
	{ The Boar's Head Carol.
	{ In excelsis gloria.
Complete. 2s. 6d.

LEGGE, ROBIN H.—Twelve New Christmas Carols. For Unison Singing. Three-Halfpence each.

185. Praeludium.	186. The Midnight Masse.	187. The bells of Christmas.	188. Pastor Bonus.	189. Rejoice! Christen men.	190. A Children's Carol.	191. Carulla Pastorum.	192. Wassail Song.	193. Kings of Orient.	194. Good Christians all.	195. Cometh the day.	196. Ye Angelus Bell.
Complete, 1s. Tonic Sol-fa, 8d. Words only, 2d.

*197. { The Anthem of Peace	J. Barnby	14d.	224. On Christmas Morn	A. C. Mackenzie.	14d.
{ On Christmas Morn		A. C. Mackenzie.	225. In the ages past	F. A. J. Hervey.	14d.
{ Across the desert sands by night		G. C. Martin.	226. We sing a song of gladness	J. Swire.	14d.
{ Shepherds! shake off your drowsy sleep		J. Stainer.	227. The morn, the blessed morn is nigh	Victoria Grosvenor.	3d.
{ (Words only, 3s. per 100.)			228. Carol, carol, Christians	Mrs. J. W. Bliss.	3d.
*198. { O Babe! in manger lying	J. Barnby.	14d.	229. O was not Christ our Saviour?	J. Shaw.	14d.
{ The Virgin is hushing		(Words only,	230. Carol, Christian children	A. Mofat.	14d.
{ What Child is this?		3s. per 100.)	*231. There was silence in Bethlehem's fields (S.A.T.B.)	J. Stainer.	14d.
{ Darkness fell on the weary earth			232. Come, all ye Christian men, rejoice	Hamilton Clarke.	14d.
199. Holy night! peaceful night!	J. Barnby.	2d.	233. Shepherds in the fields abiding	Hamilton Clarke.	14d.
200. In excelsis gloria	J. M. Crament.	14d.	234. Come and sing the wondrous story	J. Varley Roberts.	14d.
201. When Christ was born	J. T. Field.	14d.	235. The Christmas bells ring loud and clear	J. Varley Roberts.	14d.
202. What Child is this?	J. T. Field.	14d.	236. Bethlehem	J. Varley Roberts.	14d.
203. { There were whisperings	J. T. Cooper.	14d.	237. The birth ever new	Robin H. Legge.	14d.
{ Shades of silent night		S. Gee.	238. The old news	Robin H. Legge.	14d.
204. The Legend of Good Saint Christopher	F. J. Sawyer.	14d.	239. Christmas Eve	Robin H. Legge.	14d.
205. I hear along our street	E. Silas.	4d.	240. The Christmas vision	Robin H. Legge.	14d.
206. In dulci Jubilo	Pearsall.	3d.	241. The Shepherds' Carol	Robin H. Legge.	14d.
207. Caput apri defero	Pearsall.	3d.	242. Mary's Cradle Song	Robin H. Legge.	14d.
208. Holly berries	Westbrook.	14d.	243. The Angels' Carol	Robin H. Legge.	14d.
209. A New Year's Carol	J. Shaw.	14d.	244. Children's Chorus	Robin H. Legge.	14d.
210. { There was silence (Unison)	J. Stainer.	14d.	245. The Holy Quest	Robin H. Legge.	14d.
{ The star in the East (Unison)		H. Leslie.	246. The Five Kings	Robin H. Legge.	14d.
211. A Christmas Carol (Two Parts)	C. Reinecke.	2d.	247. Praise we now the Holy light	Robin H. Legge.	14d.
212. Glad Christmastide	J. Barnby.	14d.	248. Nazareth town in slumber lay	Robin H. Legge.	14d.
213. All things were in silence	J. Barnby.	14d.	249. An ode on the birth of our Saviour	C. H. Lloyd.	14d.
214. This is the month	Hugh Blair.	14d.	250. See, the morning star is dwelling	A. Herbert Brewer.	14d.
215. How peaceful was the night	Hugh Blair.	14d.	251. Christ was born on Christmas Day	A. Herbert Brewer.	14d.
216. There came a little child	R. Jackson.	14d.	252. Christmas Morn	H. C. Havergal.	2d.
217. As with gladness	C. V. Stanford.	14d.	253. The Kings of the East	H. C. Havergal.	2d.
218. One night as I was sleeping	J. Swire.	14d.	254. The Star	H. C. Havergal.	2d.
219. The Golden Crown	J. Stainer.	14d.	255. The Angels' song	H. C. Havergal.	2d.
220. Joy fills our inmost heart	A. C. Mackenzie.	14d.	256. The Holy birth	H. C. Havergal.	2d.
221. Who is this that lies all lowly	Myles B. Foster.	14d.	257. The Humiliation	H. C. Havergal.	2d.
222. See, the Morning Star	E. G. Monk.	1d.	258. Rejoice, O daughter	C. Macpherson.	14d.
223. Carol, carol, Christians	Victoria Grosvenor.	14d.	259. The Virgin and Child (This winter's night)	C. Macpherson.	14d.
 The Carols marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa.			260. The Annunciation	J. Barnby.	14d.
			261. The Message to the Shepherds	J. Barnby.	14d.
			262. Cradle Song of the Blessed Virgin	J. Barnby.	14d.
			263. Gloria in excelsis	J. Barnby.	14d.
			264. Sing the Holy Child-Christ	Myles B. Foster.	14d.
			265. Sleep, baby, sleep	Thos. Adams.	14d.
			266. Noel	A. M. Goodhart.	14d.
			267. What sudden blaze of song	Cuthbert Harris.	14d.
			268. What sudden blaze of song	J. F. Bridge.	14d.
			269. Shepherds, leave your flocks	J. V. Roberts.	1d.
			270. Heavenly music, clearly ringing	J. V. Roberts.	1d.
			271. Silent night, holiest night	J. V. Roberts.	1d.
			272. Angels singing	J. H. Mee.	1d.
			273. Little children	J. H. Mee.	1d.
			274. Blessed Babe	H. W. Wareing.	1d.
			275. Ring the bells	J. Barnby.	14d.
			*276. Sweeter than songs of summer	J. F. Bridge.	2d.
			277. The night in solemn stillness hung	J. G. Smith.	14d.
			278. The Son of Mary, Christ the King	Thos. Adams.	14d.
			279. Hark! all around	W. A. C. Cruickshank.	14d.
			280. It is the day	W. A. C. Cruickshank.	14d.
			281. Mortals, awake	W. A. C. Cruickshank.	14d.
			282. In the field with their flocks abiding	John E. West.	14d.
			283. It came upon the midnight clear	Battison Haynes.	14d.
			284. Royal Bethlehem	W. Montgomery.	14d.
			285. I hear along our street	Arranged by S. H. Nicholson.	14d.
			286. The Child Jesus in the Garden (2nd setting)	J. Stainer.	14d.
			287. The Prince of Peace	A. Herbert Brewer.	14d.
			288. Remember God's goodness	Ravenscroft-Briggs.	14d.
			289. Christmas Tree Carol	H. Davan Wetton.	14d.
			290. Christmas morn	Thos. Adams.	14d.
			291. Child Divine	Thos. Adams.	14d.
			292. A Christmas Song	Thos. Adams.	14d.
			293. A lowly Babe	Alfred Hollins.	14d.
			294. The Blessed Virgin	E. C. Bairstow.	14d.
			295. Christ is born	E. T. Sweeting.	14d.
			296. Christian children, hear Me	E. T. Sweeting.	14d.
			297. Ring out wild bells	E. Vine Hall.	14d.
			298. Christmas bells	W. H. Longhurst.	14d.
			299. In tuneful voices sing	Feris Tozer.	14d.
			300. Shepherds hear, loud and clear	Feris Tozer.	14d.
			301. Not in courts of regal splendour	E. Vine Hall.	14d.
			302. Many hundred years ago	G. C. Martin.	14d.
			303. The Nativity	Charles Erskine.	14d.
			304. A Cradle Song	Charles Erskine.	14d.
			305. As on the night	B. W. Horner.	14d.
			306. It fell upon a winter's day	M. A. Sidebotham.	14d.
			307. The night is dark	M. A. Sidebotham.	14d.
			308. Carol, Carol, Christians	M. A. Sidebotham.	14d.
			309. The loving heart	Charles Erskine.	14d.
			310. I hear along our street	T. R. Matthews.	14d.
			311. In Bethlehem's ancient city	John E. West.	14d.
			312. Can Man forget the Story	A. H. Brewer.	14d.
			313. Who are these from Buzrah faring	A. M. Goodhart.	14d.
			314. Morning dawns, the flocks are feeding	H. Davan Wetton.	14d.
			315. Sweet was the sonnge the Virgin sange	Percy Pitt.	14d.
			316. Now once again our hearts we raise	Arr by A. Webber.	14d.
			317. Three kings once lived (St. John's Eve)	F. H. Coven.	14d.
			318. Once in Royal David's City	H. J. Gauntlett.	14d.
			319. The night of Nowell	A. H. Brown.	14d.
			320. Awake, O earth	A. H. Brown.	14d.
			321. Whence comes this light	A. H. Brewer.	14d.
			322. In the field with their flocks abiding	A. M. Goodhart.	14d.
			323. The Shepherd's Song	John E. West.	14d.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., CANTAB.

In Four Sets. Each Set, complete, One Shilling; or, in Single Numbers, One Penny.

CONTENTS OF FIRST SET.

1. THE CAROLLERS.
2. THE STARS ARE SHINING BRIGHT AND CLEAR.
3. CAROL, SWEETLY CAROL.
4. CHRISTMAS BELLS.
5. A CHILD THIS DAY IS BORN.
6. HARK! WHAT MEAN THOSE HOLY VOICES.
7. THE ANGELS' CAROL.
8. WHILE SHEPHERDS WATCHED.
9. ANGELS FROM THE REALMS OF GLORY.
10. A CHRISTMAS CHIME.

CONTENTS OF SECOND SET.

1. AWAKE! AROUSE! YE CHRISTIAN BAND.
2. RING OUT, SWEET CHIMES.
3. BRIGHTEST AND BEST.
4. HAIL! HAPPY MORN.
5. O LET OUR VOICES.
6. CHRISTMAS EVE.
7. HARK! THE BELLS.
8. CHRISTMAS CAROL.
9. JOYFUL IS THE MORN.
10. NOEL.

CONTENTS OF THIRD SET.

1. O GLADSOME MORN.
2. HOW MARVELLOUS THY WAYS.
3. LET'S MERRY BE.
4. HARK! THE ANGELS SINGING
5. CHILDREN'S VOICES.
6. SONG OF THE SHEPHERDS.
7. A CHILD IS BORN.
8. O SAVIOUR DEAR.

CONTENTS OF FOURTH SET.

1. LIFT YOUR GRATEFUL VOICES.
2. THE BRIGHTEST MORN.
3. CHIMES ACROSS THE SNOW.
4. THE ANGELS' SONG.
5. SONG OF THE FAITHFUL.
6. THE HERALD BELLS.
7. O DAY OF DAYS.
8. COME, YULETIDE GUESTS.
9. THY SERVANTS SING.
10. THE ANGEL'S TIDINGS.

Words of each Set, One Penny, and may be had of the COMPOSER, Cathedral Close, Norwich.

ALSO, BY THE SAME COMPOSER :

A FIFTH SET OF CHRISTMAS CAROLS

WORDS BY

E. OXENFORD

PRICE COMPLETE, NINEPENCE.

Nos. 1, 2, 3, 5, and 6, One Penny each; No. 4, Twopence.

1. RAISE YOUR VOICES.
2. YULETIDE BELLS.
3. HAIL, WONDROUS MORN.

4. IN BETHLEHEM.
5. THE ANGEL'S MESSAGE.
6. THE OLDEN CAROL.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

A VICAR writes:—"I used your excellent music in my last parish. Please send 36 copies 'Goodwill to Men.'"

An ORGANIST writes:—"My choir was delighted with the Harvest Anthem, please send 25 copies of the Magnificat and Nunc Dim. in D."

A VICAR'S WIFE writes:—"My choir is delighted with 'Goodwill to men.'"

CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS

COMPOSED BY

EDWYN A. CLARE.

NEW. GOODWILL TO MEN. 5th 1,000. Sol-fa, 2d. ... O.N. 3d.

One of the most useful and available Anthems. Opens with a strong and lively Chorus, followed by a very expressive Solo with a beautiful change of key. The final Chorus is lofty and spirited, and contains passages for Men's voices, and Sopranos and Altos, which help to work up the chorus to a glorious finish. Choirs delight to sing music written in this style.

BEHOLD, I BRING. 13th 1,000. Very popular ... 3d.

SING, O HEAVENS. 10th 1,000. For Parish Choirs... 3d.

WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR. 10th 1,000. An Easy Anthem ... 3d.

THE PRINCE OF PEACE. 11th 1,000. A very beautiful little Anthem, always greatly appreciated ... 3d.

A SAVIOUR, CHRIST THE LORD. An effective Anthem, with several passages suitable for Bass or Baritone Solos. 5th 1,000 ... 3d.

FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. 15th 1,000. Sung at a Choir Festival. Just reprinted again, and is becoming increasingly popular. 4d.

FOR DEDICATION OR OTHER FESTIVALS.

THE LORD REIGNETH. 8th 1,000. Sol-fa, 2d. ... O.N. 3d.

Contains a sweet movement to the words, "O worship the Lord."

PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 29th 1,000 now ready ... 3d.

Sung at Choral Festivals in Downpatrick Cathedral, also in Wem Parish Church, Salop, this year.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.
New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

A N EASY SETTING OF THE OFFICE for HOLY COMMUNION, in D. By STRETTON SWANN, Mus.B., F.R.C.O.
Price Sixpence. A Specimen Copy, post-free, from the COMPOSER,
181, Longley Road, Tooting, S.W.
THE VINCENT MUSIC COMPANY, Limited.

BREITKOPF AND HÄRTEL,

54, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, W.

CHRISTMAS NOVELTY, PRICE 1S. 6d.

CLARISSE MALLARD'S SONG-CYCLE FOR THE
CHILDRENSONGS, DANCES, AND TABLEAUX VIVANTS. SUITABLE FOR SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENTS, ETC.

"A 'Song-Cycle for Children' on 'The Seasons,' words and music by Clarisse Mallard (Breitkopf and Härtel), can be heartily recommended. It consists of four numbers, one devoted to each season, with chorus in unison. The melodies are simple and attractive, and the verses, more especially of 'Winter,' are an unhackneyed treatment of a well-worn subject."—Musical News, August 29, 1903.

"'Song-Cycle for the Children,' by Clarisse Mallard. 1s. 6d. Some charming little songs, and if performed in the way suggested will prove most popular."—Nonconformist Musical Journal, August 1, 1903.

"Clarisse Mallard's 'Song-Cycle for the Children,' entitled 'The Seasons' (Breitkopf and Härtel), will appeal to young and old alike, the music and words being well written and very taking to boot."—Musical Opinion, August 1, 1903.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S POPULAR PART-
SONGS for S.A.T.B.

Hail, merry Christmas	25th thousand	2d.
A merry Christmas to you all	10th do.	3d.
A Happy New Year (5th thou.).	Fairy Revels...	13th do.	3d.
Gaily thro' the Greenwood...	58th do.	3d.
England's glory (8th thou.).	Forest Echoes	9th do.	3d.
Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow	10th do.	3d.

By same COMPOSER:—

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E flat ... 3d.

Received and acknowledged by His Majesty The King.

Baritone Song, "The Winter King" ... 2s.

"A clever and descriptive song."—Manchester Guardian.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BACH'S CHRISTMAS ORATORIO IN SIX SECTIONS.

Composed by BACH to be performed in the following manner:—

Section I.—FOR CHRISTMAS DAY.

Section II.) FOR THE TWO DAYS FOLLOWING

Section III.) CHRISTMAS.

Section IV.—FOR THE FEAST OF THE CIRCUMCISION OF CHRIST, NEW YEAR'S DAY.

Section V.—FOR THE SUNDAY FOLLOWING NEW YEAR'S DAY.

Section VI.—FOR THE FESTIVAL OF THE EPIPHANY.

THE ENGLISH TRANSLATION BY REV. DR. TROUTBECK.

Vocal Score, Complete,

Paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.

Sections I. and II., III. and IV., V. and VI. can be obtained separately;

each two sections together in one book, price One Shilling.

Orchestral Parts may be purchased, or Hired from the Publishers.

"No other work by Bach contains a richer collection of charming and easily comprehended melodies than the Christmas Oratorio."—Spitta's "Life of Bach."

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

SERVICES.

Te Deum in G. Four Voices	3d.
Te Deum in A.	"	"	3d.
Benedictus in A.	"	"	3d.
Jubilate in A.	"	"	3d.
Benedicite in E and F	2d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G	3d.
Do.	do.	in D	3d.
Communion Service in E	9d.
Do.	do.	in G. For Men's Voices only	9d.

ANTHEMS.

O Lord, Thou art my God. Advent	3d.
In the beginning. Christmas	3d.
Arise, shine, for thy light is come. Christmas	3d.
Do.	do.	Tonic Sol-fa	1s. 3d.
I was glad	3d.
Do.	Tonic Sol-fa	2d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JESU, THE VERY THOUGHT OF THEE AN ANTHEM

For Bass Solo, Quartet or Chorus, S.S.A.A., and Full Chorus, S.A.T.B., with independent Organ Accompaniment

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST EDWIN MITCHELL.

Price Threepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE COMMUNION SERVICE, set to music in the Key of C, by G. F. LE JEUNE. Price Two Shillings. MASS IN C. Price Two Shillings.

By the same Composer:—

Choral March	s. d.
Twenty-four Hymns	complete	1 0
Ditto	separately	0 3

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

GLORIA TWENTY-FIVE HYMNS

BY

HENRY H. BONNELL

MUSIC BY

SYDNEY THOMSON.

SEASONS AND SUBJECTS.

CHRISTMAS.
EASTER.
WHITSUNDAY.
ANNUNCIATION.
EVENING.
GOOD FRIDAY.

HOLY MATRIMONY.
HIGH CELEBRATIONS.
IN TIMES OF WAR.
PATRIOTIC.
MISSION WORKERS, etc.
MISCELLANEOUS.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.

	Staff.	Sol-fa.
s. d.	s. d.
The Ancient Mariner
Do.	(Choruses only)	...
The Lay of the Last Minstrel
Do.	(Choruses only)	...
May Day
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)

ANTHEMS, &c.

All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3

ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries	3 6
Five Concluding Voluntaries	1 6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW ORGAN COMPOSITION

By DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY.

INTRODUCTION, VARIATIONS, AND FUGUE

ON THE

"ADESTE FIDELES"

FOR THE ORGAN

BY

ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY

(MUS.D., OXON.).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TWO SETTINGS of the GENERAL THANKS-GIVING.

No. 1, in the Key of G, for Voices in Unison and Organ Accompaniment.

No. 2, in the Key of C, for S.A.T.B. (Unaccompanied).

By T. EVERARD W. HULTON. Price 2d. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHOIRMASTERS giving Name of Church, can have Free Specimen Copies of NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS and SIX NEW CHRISTMAS CAROLS, also the charming new Christmas Pastorate, THE STORY OF BETHLEHEM ("Cradled in a Manger"). These New Compositions are most attractively written. They are exceedingly pretty, and have that brightness and swing that will ensure popularity, and are full of inspiration and melody. The 4th Edition is already issued of the immensely popular New No. 6. VOLUNTARY BOOK, 17 pieces complete for Organ or Harmonium, Price 1s. 6d., post-free. An Organist writes:—"I have all your Voluntaries, and during my long experience of more than 36 years, I have never seen better." (Over 50 Editions now issued.) Address:—CALEB SIMPER, "Kilbirnie," Barnstaple.

NEW AND CHARMING PART-SONGS

BY

FREDK. A. CHALLINOR, Mus. Doc., A.R.C.M.
IN BAYLEY AND FERGUSON'S "CHORAL ALBUM."

- No.
285. THE ROSE IS WEEPING FOR HER LOVE ... 3d.
(Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 303, 1d.)
422. DOWN THE RIPPLING RIVER ... 2d.
(Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 436, 1d.)
423. SUNSET ... 2d.
(Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 437, 1d.)
457. IS MY LOVER ON THE SEA? ... 3d.
(Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 459, 1d.)
458. BREAK, BREAK, BREAK ... 3d.
(Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 460, 1d.)
461. HAIL, GLORIOUS SUMMER ... 3d.
(Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 463, 1d.)
480. THE MIST ... 2d.
(Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 482, 1d.)

These Part-Songs are the inspirations of genius, and ought to be seen by every Conductor.

BAYLEY AND FERGUSON, 2, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

- | | |
|---------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| Nymphs of the Ocean ... 3d. | Under the Trees ... 2d. |
| The Skaters ... 3d. | The Oyster Dredgers ... 2d. |
| The Lake ... 3d. | Evening ... 2d. |
| *Tis Morn ... 3d. | *Sweet to live (38th thou.) ... 2d. |
| Sweet Spring (Madrigal) ... 3d. | *Welcome, young Spring! ... 2d. |
| The River ... 3d. | *The Anglers (14th thou.) ... 2d. |
| Over the mountain side ... 3d. | The Dream of Home ... 2d. |
| Soul of living music ... 3d. | Summer and Winter ... 2d. |
| The Stormy Petrel ... 3d. | *Departed Joys ... 2d. |
| The Coral Grove ... 3d. | There's beauty in the deep ... 1d. |
| Pibroch of Donuil Dhu ... 3d. | Soldier, rest! ... 1d. |
| Blow, Western Wind! ... 3d. | Woods in Winter ... 1d. |
| Stars of the Night ... 3d. | Autumn ... 1d. |

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

- | | |
|--|--|
| *Three Doughtie Men (85th thousand) ... 3d. | *Ben Bowlegs (10th thousand) ... 3d. |
| Three Children Sliding (12th thousand) ... 3d. | The Carrion Crow ... 3d. |
| A Ryghte Merrie Geste ... 4d. | Call John! (6th thousand) ... 3d. |
| The Snow-white Doe ... 4d. | Three Merry Fishers ... 3d. |
| | The Cuckoo Clock (just published) ... 3d. |

DESCRIPTIVE CHORUSES.

With Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniments.

- | | |
|------------------------|--|
| The Iron Horse ... 4d. | The Ocean ... 3d. |
| Off to Sea ... 4d. | *The Ironfounders (42nd thou.) ... 3d. |
| Jäger Chorus ... 3d. | The Cyclists ... 4d. |
| The Lifeboat ... 4d. | |

Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Elmham, Dereham.
Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE VILLAGE ORGANIST

A SERIES OF PIECES

FOR CHURCH AND GENERAL USE

EDITED BY

F. CUNNINGHAM WOODS.

- | | |
|--|-----------------|
| Book 35. | |
| 1. Berceuse (A major) ... | John Pulein |
| 2. Cradle Song (C major) ... | Weber |
| 3. Chanson Triste (G minor) ... | Tschaikowsky |
| 4. Andantino calmo (G major) ... | Franco Leoni |
| 5. Minuet and Trio (G major) ... | S. J. Rowton |
| 6. Be not afraid ("Elijah"). (G major) ... | Mendelssohn |
| 7. Thanksgiving (B flat major) ... | Myles B. Foster |
| 8. Minuet and Trio (B flat major) ... | Mozart |

- | | |
|---|-------------------|
| Book 36. | |
| 1. Twelve Short Interludes ... | Henry Smart |
| 2. Accompaniments to The Apostles' Creed, The Lord's Prayer, and The Nicene Creed... .. | J. F. Bridge |
| 3. Ditto, ditto | J. Varley Roberts |
| 4. Accompaniments to The Lord's Prayer and The Apostles' Creed | G. C. Martin |

Price One Shilling each Book.

These two books complete Vol. 6 (Books 31 to 36). Cloth, gilt, 6s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW HUMOROUS PART-SONG.

A FROG HE WOULD A-WOOING GO. By
A. B. ALLEN, Composer of "Dickory dock." Price 2d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

With a Portrait of Samuel Pepys, and Musical Illustrations.
Just Published. Crown 8vo. Five Shillings.

SAMUEL PEPYS,
LOVER OF MUSIQUE

BY

SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE,

K.B., M.V.O., Mus. Doc.

King Edward Professor of Music in the University of London.

Enlarged from the lectures recently delivered by Sir Frederick Bridge.

Globe: "It is a very pleasant little book, and will appeal irresistibly to those two very large classes—the lovers of music and the admirers of Pepys."

London: SMITH, ELDER AND CO., 15, Waterloo Place, S.W.

SINGING QUADRILLES

ON

NURSERY RHYMES

THREE SETS, ARRANGED FOR S.A.T.B.

COMPOSED BY

COLLINGWOOD BANKS.

Price Sixpence net each Set.

ALSO:

VOCAL WALTZ

"PRETTY FLOWERS"

ARRANGED FOR TREBLES AND ALTOS

COMPOSED BY

COLLINGWOOD BANKS.

Price, Folio, One Shilling net.

Voice Parts, 1d. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

KEITH, PROWSE & CO.'S
NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE SONG OF THE TEMPEST. Words by Sir
WALTER SCOTT. Set to music for Soprano Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra, by CHARLES WOOD, M.A., Mus. Doc., Cantab. 1s. net.

SIX MORCEAUX MÉLODIQUES, for Violoncello
(also transcribed for Violin), by W. H. SQUIRE. 1. Canzonetta;
2. Danse Orientale; 3. Elégie; 4. Madrigal; 5. Idylle; 6. Harlequinade. Separate numbers (including Pianoforte and Violin Parts) 2s. each net.

ROMANTIC SUITE, for Violin and Pianoforte, by LIZA LEHMANN. 1. First Meeting; 2. Jealousy and Lovers' Quarrel; 3. Love Lies Bleeding; 4. Reconciliation; 5. Promise;
6. Happy Ending. Suite complete, 3s. net.

PIANOFORTE ALBUMS.—THREE LIGHT PIECES, by HERBERT SHARPE. 1. Air de Ballet; 2. Arietta; 3. Invitation to the Gavotte. 2s. net.

JUGEND-ALBUM (Six Bagatelles). Op. 311. In One
Book. By FRITZ KIRSCHNER. 1s. net.

VOCAL ALBUMS.—TWELVE SONGS. In Two Vols.
By LANDON RONALD. Vol. I.—1. An April Birthday; 2. Heart of a Rose; *3. Friend and Lover; 4. A Song of Parting; 5. Were
I the Flower; 6. Dew on the Rose and Lily. Vol. II.—1. A Heavenly Garden; 2. Sicilian Cradle Song; 3. Now I have loved;
4. The Hag; 5. When we met; 6. Suspense. Each Vol. 2s. 6d. net.
Or separate, 2s. each. Two Keys.

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN E FLAT.
Composed by HERBERT E. CRIMP. Price 3d. net.

KEITH, PROWSE AND CO., LTD.,

48, CHEAPSIDE, E.C.;

PUBLISHING DÉPÔT: 42, POLAND STREET, W.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah,"
"Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOW READY.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION

OF

FAUST

(LA DAMNATION DE FAUST)

A DRAMATIC LEGEND

BY

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

THE ENGLISH VERSION BY
PAUL ENGLAND.

TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling; Vocal Parts, Eightpence each; Book of Words (in the Press).
The Full Score and Orchestral Parts may be hired.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION

OF

THE CHILDHOOD OF CHRIST

(L'ENFANCE DU CHRIST)

A SACRED TRILOGY

BY

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

THE ENGLISH VERSION BY
PAUL ENGLAND.

TWO SHILLINGS.

Tonic Sol-fa, Eightpence; Vocal Parts, Sixpence each; Book of Words (in the Press).
The Full Score and Orchestral Parts may be hired.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED
AND
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

PRODUCED AT THE BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1903.

THE APOSTLES

(PARTS I. AND II.)

AN ORATORIO

BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS.

Paper boards, 6s.; cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, 2s. 6d.Vocal Parts, 1s. 6d. each; Full Score and Orchestral Parts (in the Press).

Book of words, with Analytical and Descriptive Notes and nearly 100 musical examples, by A. J. JAEGER, 1s.

The right of representation and performance of this work is reserved; all applications with reference to performances should be addressed to the Publishers.

THE TIMES, OCTOBER 15, 1903.

Dr. Elgar has treated his subject with a fitting sense of dignity and awe, and everywhere his reverence, sincerity, and conviction are clearly manifested. Much of his writing is in the best manner of genuine Church music, much of it is in the right sense mysterious, as it should be. And precisely because it is the direct outcome of conviction so it carries conviction with it. . . . Dr. Elgar has succeeded in a huge task before which most composers might well have quailed.

DAILY TELEGRAPH, OCTOBER 15, 1903.

It is a good omen that at last a man of our own race and nation has come to the extreme front and drawn to himself the wondering admiration of all who profess and call themselves musicians and lovers of the art. There is something impressive in the position now occupied by Elgar. He is not an intriguer. He does not compass heaven and earth making proselytes to believe in his own powers, neither does he trim his sails to catch the varying breezes of popular opinion. Having something to say in the fashion which appears to him best, he says it straight out, and leaves the issue to the Fates. Yet, though sturdily independent, courting nobody, he now occupies the position of a man with whom most people are determined to be pleased. There must be something in him—much more than common—to bring about this result. . . . This remarkable Oratorio is worth any amount of care in the handling. It is not a work of a mere trafficker in musical goods. Its sincerity is unquestionable, the loftiness of its aim cannot be denied, and its strength must be taken into account, whatever may be thought of its methods.

DAILY TELEGRAPH, OCTOBER 16, 1903.

Leaving consideration of method for the greater satisfaction of touching upon evidence of the lofty powers with which the composer is endowed, and by the strength of which he has taken a foremost place amongst the composers of the world—perhaps even more than in "Gerontius," where the subject was less varied and expansive—those powers assert themselves in the new work. . . . Whether he shows us the ineffable gentleness and dignity of Christ, the penitence of Mary Magdalene, the despair of Judas—whether he picture storm or calm, suggests the tragedy of Golgotha or the glory of the Ascension, we are conscious of power, sincerity, and truth.

STANDARD, OCTOBER 15, 1903.

There can be no question concerning the lofty purpose of the composer and his consummate mastery of the resources of his art. The work is the product of fervid imagination controlled and guided by keen intellectual perception, a masterful expression in music of spiritual convictions, and in its essence a sacred music drama permeated with the spirit of the preacher. . . . The keynote of Dr. Elgar's work is lofty mysticism, suggesting the spiritual in a peculiar and often strangely beautiful manner.

MORNING POST, OCTOBER 15, 1903.

The deep sincerity which pervades the work, the splendid technique, the power, and, in many instances, the great charm that are revealed demand immediate recognition before any criticism be passed. . . . As an expression of lofty purpose, as an example of consummate musicianship, and as revealing both imagination and originality there can be but one opinion. The instrumentation of the work is a study in itself.

GLOBE, OCTOBER 15, 1903.

Dr. Elgar's command of every orchestral resource is proverbial, and in "The Apostles" he handles vast choral masses with no less signal success, and his solo writing, if not exactly melodious in the old-fashioned sense, is always dramatic and expressive. . . . Those who know Dr. Elgar's music best will understand how fully he has availed himself of the many opportunities given him by the most moving story the world has ever known, what treasures of musical science he has expended upon it, and with what dazzling resources of orchestration he has enriched it. . . . The work must be pronounced a worthy successor to "The Dream of Gerontius."

PALL MALL GAZETTE, OCTOBER 15, 1903.

A masterpiece; an invaluable contribution to the art of the world; a score of pure gold throughout—a work so great, so remote from the common things of the earth, that to follow the composer into the distant fastnesses of his mind is, at all events, on a first hearing, something of a heroic virtue. He tries one, not because he wishes to compel endurance, but because he has carved out his way, and it is nothing to him whether you follow or not. There is the secret of his wonderful art: it is nothing to him if you take his score or reject it; and there follows the inevitable result that immense indifference invariably conquers those who are eager. Immense indifference, however, implies a sort of personal work which, granted a powerful brain as the origin from which that work springs, makes for ultimate triumph; and such power was certainly displayed to-day. . . . I write in this somewhat ecstatic strain because the work deserves it. . . . And such music as rises to Elgar's—to this great master's—heart is of the finest possible quality; it is of "meaning most decisive."

WESTMINSTER GAZETTE, OCTOBER 17, 1903.

Without any doubt "The Apostles" is worthy of great and admiring attention, a superb instance of English imagination and musical craftsmanship. I yield to none in my satisfaction that we have a composer so able and so masterful that he compels inquiry and commands applause. . . . I find "The Apostles" in some respects in advance of anything Elgar has previously done; as a specimen of mere mastery of material it shows a surer grasp, and though there is the same effort to impress by prodigies of polyphony, which amount to but little in the end, the effort here is more successfully made.

OBSERVER, OCTOBER 18, 1903.

As the days pass since I was one of a closely-packed and deeply attentive audience in the massive town hall the conviction increases in my mind that I was present at the birth of not only a masterpiece, but an epoch-making work in the history of oratorio. Musically it may be described as a sacred drama on the lines of Wagner's "Parsifal." . . . That the motives are always appropriate may unhesitatingly be said; that the passages in which they are used with special purpose carry conviction is undoubted, and that the composer has gone beyond all forms and reached the bedrock of musical expression is incontrovertible.

SUNDAY TIMES, OCTOBER 18, 1903.

The choral writing in the "Apostles" is among the finest ever written, at any time, by any musician. Its difficulty, as those who know the trend of Dr. Elgar's genius will need no telling, is enormous; but the complexities he so delights in inventing are so obviously the outcome of a desire to express convictions (artistic and spiritual) that none who value sincerity in art would dare suggest that this great representative of British music should curb the fire of his Pegasus, or (to change our metaphor) attempt to trim his sails to the breeze of critical opinion. . . . "The Apostles" is real music—that is to say, music which means something; music which expresses the inner sense of the words to which it is set.

REFEREE, OCTOBER 18, 1903.

I very much doubt, however, if two-thirds of those who were present apprehended the greatness of the music they were listening to. Small blame to them, however, for the work is laid out on the same lines as Wagner's "Parsifal," and the themes have consequently to become familiar before the significance of the music can be wholly understood. That which may be said to have been apparent to all was its spirituality. It is this which gives the music its distinctive individuality. . . . The deep impression made by the work was shown by the momentary silence which ensued after the last note had died away, for although a stupendous tonal climax is worked up, the end is calm and gentle, as the spirit of the faith the music illustrates.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

HAWKES & SON'S EDITIONS.

NEW AND SUCCESSFUL COMPOSITIONS FOR LARGE AND SMALL ORCHESTRAL BANDS.

F.O., Full Orchestra; S.O., Small Orchestra; P.S., Piano Solo; E.P., Extra Parts; P.C., Piano Conductor.

	F.O. s. d.	S.O. s. d.	P.S. s. d.	E.P. s. d.	P.C. s. d.
STEWART, LESLIE.—"The School Girl." Selection from the Musical Comedy	5 0	4 0	2 0	0 6	—
FUCIK, J.—"Entry of the Gladiators." March of Triumph	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8
MORET, NEIL.—"Hiawatha." A Summer Idyl	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8
STANLEY, CECIL.—Romantic Suite	6 0	4 6	—	0 8	1 6
1. COURTSHIP. 2. THE WEDDING MORN. 3. THE FESTIVITIES.
JONES, SIDNEY.—"The Medal and the Maid." Selection from the Musical Comedy	5 0	4 0	2 0	0 6	—
BUCALOSSI, E.—"Careless Cuckoos." Plantation Dance	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8
MARIGOLD, M.—"Midsummer." Valse	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8
HOWGILL, RICHARD.—Three Country Sketches. Orchestral Suite (1. Pastorale; 2. Entr'acte; 3. Villagers' Dance.)	6 0	4 6	—	0 8	1 6
PLEIER, LUDWIG.—Karlsbad's Doll Dance. Characteristic Piece	2 6	—	—	0 3	0 8
WILKE, ARNOLD.—"Fête des Papillons." Valse Intermezzo	3 4	2 8	—	0 4	1 0
MEZZACAPO, E.—"Paris." March	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8
RICKETT, EDMOND.—Capricieuse. Valse Moderé	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8
LEHMANN, LIZA.—"In a Persian Garden." Selection from the Song Cycle	7 6	5 0	—	0 8	1 6
LOTTER, A.—"Orion." Valse	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8
GANNE, L.—"La Gipsy." Mazurka	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8
LEHAR, FRANZ.—"Kukuska." Russian Peasant Dance	4 0	3 0	2 0	0 4	—
THOME, F.—"L'Extase." Romance	4 0	3 0	2 0	0 6	—
STECK, P.—"Flirtation." Valse Intermezzo	2 8	2 0	2 0	0 4	1 0
MATT, ALBERT E.—Two Pieces	4 0	3 0	—	0 6	1 0
1. ANGELUS REVERIE. 2. CARNIVAL CAPRICCIETTO.
VOLLSTEDT, R.—"Tanz Geister." Valse	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	—
JONES, SIDNEY.—"San Toy." Selection from the Musical Comedy	5 0	4 0	2 0	0 6	—
MYDDLETON, W. H.—"Ma lit'l Topsy." Two-Step	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 6	—
STARKE, HERMANN.—"With Sword and Lance." March	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8
MYDDLETON, W. H.—"Down South." American Sketch	2 8	2 0	2 0	0 3	—
WRIGHT, ELLEN.—"Violets." Transcription of the Song	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	—
RUBENS, P.—"Kunnin' Kaffirs." Cake-Walk	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8
BLON, F. VON.—"Sounds of Peace." March	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8
PRYOR, ARTHUR.—"Coon Band Contest." Cake-Walk	2 0	1 4	—	0 3	0 8
MEZZACAPO, E.—"Sympathie." Valse	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8
MARIE, G.—Serenade Badine	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8
CAPUA, E. DI.—"E Bersagliere." March	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	—
MYDDLETON, W. H.—"By the Swanee River." American Sketch	2 8	2 0	2 0	0 3	—
BLOCH, JOSEF.—"Suite Poetique." Orchestral Suite.. .. .	7 6	—	—	0 8	2 0
1. SOUVENIR. 2. GAVOTTE. 3. BERCEUSE. 4. MARCH.
No. 4 is the March played as the Pageant Music in Richard II., produced by Mr. Beerbohm Tree, and now being played nightly at His Majesty's Theatre. (Orchestral Score, 3s.)
MEZZACAPO, E.—"Napoli." Tarantella	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8
MYDDLETON, W. H.—"Down South." Barn Dance	2 8	2 0	2 0	0 3	—
NOWOWIESKI, F.—"Under Freedom's Flag." March	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8
BREWER, M. A.—"Lark's Festival." Piccolo Solo	2 0	1 4	—	0 3	—
(Piccolo and Piano, 2s.)
LINCKE, P.—"Frau Luna." Valse	2 0	1 4	2 0	0 3	0 8

HAWKES & SON,

MUSIC PUBLISHERS AND MAKERS OF MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, DENMAN ST., PICCADILLY CIRCUS, LONDON, W.

THE JUST SO SONG BOOK BEING THE SONGS FROM RUDYARD KIPLING'S
JUST SO STORIES
SET TO MUSIC BY EDWARD GERMAN.

Price Six Shillings net.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.
(By arrangement with Messrs. MACMILLAN AND CO., Ltd.)

Just Published.

EDITED BY ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

MY MOTHER BIDS ME
BIND MY HAIR

CANZONET FOR MEZZO-SOPRANO
WITH ACCOMPANIMENT FOR THE PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY JOSEF HAYDN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

SHE NEVER TOLD HER LOVE

CANZONET FOR MEZZO-SOPRANO
WITH ACCOMPANIMENT FOR THE PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY JOSEF HAYDN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NEW CONCERT SONGS
BY
DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY.

THE LAND OF DREAMS.
(Baritone or Mezzo-Soprano.)

MY PARADISE.
(Tenor.)

Each 2s. net.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

NEW SONG
FOR BASS OR BARITONE

BY
JOSEPH H. ADAMS.

(Composer of "Sun of my soul," "The Gentle Shepherd,"
"My Kingdom," "A Song of Hope," "Two Songs," &c.)

THE SPIRIT OF THE STORM

See, how the lightnings flash!
Hark how the thunder crashes!
Over the doomed barque the angry billow dashes!
Vainly for help men pray,
Cowering in wild dismay:
All hope is flown; they sadly own, the mighty deep I sway!

Price Two Shillings net.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

MUSICAL POST CARDS. Nos. 1 to 12.
"Highly ingenious."—Nottingham Daily Guardian.
Post-free, 9d. the Set, of THE MUSICAL POST CARD SYNDICATE,
38, Leamington Road, Westbourne Park, London, W.

Just Published.

KEEP THOSE EYES
DUET FOR SOPRANO AND TENOR

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY THOMAS MOORE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

Price Two Shillings.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

FOUR
SONGS FROM VAGABONDIA

COMPOSED BY
THOMAS F. DUNHILL
(Op. 10).

- | | |
|--------------------|-----------------|
| 1. The Sea Gipsy. | 3. The Daisies. |
| 2. A Rover's Song. | 4. A Hill Song. |

Price Two Shillings each.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Second Edition.

NARCISSUS AND ECHO

CANTATA FOR CHORUS, SOLI, AND ORCHESTRA

Price 3s.; Choral Parts, 1s. each. Also

"GOD IS OUR REFUGE" (Ps. 46)

For Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Price 1s.

COMPOSED BY
EDWIN C. SUCH
Mus. Bac., Cantab.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

NOVELLO'S MUSIC PRIMERS AND EDUCATIONAL SERIES
No. 63.

BREATHING
FOR VOICE PRODUCTION

BY
H. H. HULBERT, B.A. OXON.
(M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., &c.)

PART I.—EXPLANATORY.

THE STUDY OF VOICE PRODUCTION: Breathing, The Action of the Larynx, Resonance, &c.
THE FUNCTIONS OF THE ABDOMINAL MUSCLES.
THE LATERAL COSTAL METHOD OF BREATHING.
THE POSITION OR POSE OF THE BODY.

PART II.—PRACTICAL WORK.

SPECIAL PHYSICAL EXERCISES FOR THE ATTAINMENT OF A CORRECT POSE.
THE LATERAL COSTAL SYSTEM OF BREATHING.
BREATHING EXERCISES: The Method of Internal Chest Expansion;
The Methods of Internal and External Chest Expansion combined;
The Control of the Breath; Chest Expansion by the Abdominal Muscles; Chest Expansion by the Back and Arm Muscles; Special Exercises for the Abdominals to secure a Good Figure, a Graceful Carriage, and a Good Digestion.

EXERCISES ILLUSTRATED.

Price Two Shillings.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

MUSICAL OPINION (2d.; order everywhere).—
Send 4d. for new number to 35, Shoe Lane, London, E.C.
About 250 cols. interesting Reading and Advertisements. Founded 1876.

Just Published.

THIRTY YEARS OF MUSICAL LIFE IN LONDON

(1870-1900)

BY HERMANN KLEIN.

With about 100 Portraits of Musical Celebrities.
12s. 6d. net.

Daily News: "Interesting, because of the glimpses it gives of the giants of music. It has many lively pages, and is valuable as a record of music in London. The portraits are of much interest."

London: W. HEINEMANN, 21, Bedford Street, W.C.

Just Published.

NOVELLO'S MUSIC PRIMERS AND EDUCATIONAL SERIES,
No. 62.

LESSONS IN HARMONICS

FOR VIOLINISTS

AND OTHER MUSICAL STUDENTS

WITH NOTES ON SOUND AND RESULTANTS

BY

C. EGERTON LOWE.

PREFACE.

Although there exist many and varied books dealing with sound in its different aspects, there are none, so far as the author of the present little work is aware, devoted to the subject of Harmonics treated experimentally in a simple and elementary form.

Of all matters connected with music, perhaps one of the most interesting and fascinating is the wonderful power and influence exercised by harmonics in determining what is known as the tone-colour (Klangfarbe) of various instruments and sounds. Students and others who think of harmonics only as peculiar effects produced by players upon stringed instruments, and who have made no attempt to analyse the constituent parts of so-called single sounds (which are compound sounds), can hardly form an idea of the marvellous variety which exists in tone-colour.

Price One Shilling.
Paper boards, 1s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THREE DANCES

FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S "TEMPEST"

COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

1. Masque.
2. The Banquet Dance.
3. Dance of Nymphs and Reapers.

Pianoforte Arrangement, price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SUMMER NIGHTS

(LES NUITS D'ÉTÉ)

SIX SONGS BY THÉOPHILE GAUTIER

SET TO MUSIC

(With Accompaniment for Small Orchestra or Pianoforte)

BY

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

(Op. 7.)

ENGLISH AND FRENCH WORDS.
(English Version by FRANCIS HUEFFER.)

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

GREETING

FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

GUSTAV VON HOLST.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE JUNIOR VIOLINIST

Edited by C. EGERTON LOWE

Book 19.

SONATA IN F MAJOR

(KÜCHEL 376)

FOR

VIOLIN (First to Third Position) AND PIANOFORTE

BY

W. A. MOZART.

Price Two Shillings.

Book 20.

RONDO IN G MAJOR

FOR

VIOLIN (First to Third Position) AND PIANOFORTE

BY

L. VAN BEETHOVEN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THREE DANCES

COMPOSED BY

FRANK E. TOURS.

ARRANGEMENT FOR THE PIANOFORTE,

Price Two Shillings.

ARRANGEMENT FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE (In the Press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PLAYED BY JAN KUBELIK.

VIOLIN MUSIC

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER, JUN.

SONATA IN E MINOR

(Op. 15.)

Price Six Shillings.

SOUVENIR

(Op. 17, No. 1.)

Price Two Shillings.

SALTELLATO-CAPRICE

(Op. 17, No. 2.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHAPPELL & CO.'S LATEST BALLAD CONCERT SUCCESSES.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS NET EACH.

MAUDE VALÉRIE WHITE.

"THREE KISSES."
"LAND OF THE ALMOND BLOSSOM."
"CANZONE DI TAORMINA."
"SLUMBER SONG" (Buon Riposo).

FLORENCE AYLWARD.

"AT REST" AND "EACH ROSE" (Two Songs).
"THE LIFE BEYOND."
"THE SILENT RIVER."
"LOVE'S BENEDICTION."

LIZA LEHMANN.

"LONG AGO IN EGYPT."
"IN THE TASSEL-TIME OF SPRING."
"SOUL'S BLOSSOM."

FRANCO LEONI.

"LOVE'S AWAKENING."
"IN SYMPATHY."
"THE BIRTH OF MORN" (1s. 6d. net).
"THE RETORT."

GEORGE H. CLUTSAM.

"YOU PRETTY ROSE."
"VANITY FAIR."
"A CRADLE SONG."
"RITORNELLO."

W. H. SQUIRE.

"THE JOLLY SAILOR."

GUY D'HARDELOT.

"I HID MY LOVE."
"BECAUSE."
"I KNOW A LOVELY GARDEN"
"AFTERWARDS, LOVE."

TERESA DEL RIEGO.

"REST THEE, SAD HEART."
"THE BREEZE AND THE SCARF."
"LA VIE EST VAIN" (A Song of Life).
"THE WAKING OF SPRING."
"GOD SPEED YOU, DEAR."

NOEL JOHNSON.

"ILLUSION."
"A PROTEST."
"SPRING FLOWERS."

HERMANN LÖHR.

"A SOLDIER OR A SAILOR."
"NELSON'S GONE A-SAILING."
"AT SET OF SUN."

FRANK LAMBERT.

"CARESSANTE."
"GOD'S GARDEN."
"FORETHOUGHT" (1s. 6d. net).
"O LET ME WEEP" (1s. 6d. net).

NEW & POPULAR INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

FOUR DANCES ... from "Merrie England." ... By EDWARD GERMAN.
Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net; Pianoforte Duet, price 3s. net;
Pianoforte and Violin, price 3s. net.

THREE DANCES ... from "Nell Gwyn." ... By EDWARD GERMAN.
Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net; Pianoforte Duet, price 3s. net;
Pianoforte and Violin, price 3s. net.

"IN DAYS OF OLD," Suite of Three Dances. ... By MEREDITH BALL.
(No. 1. Morris Dance. No. 2. Danse Caractéristique (My Lady Barbara).
No. 3. The Satyrs' Revel.)
Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net.

FLOWER SUITE OF THREE DANCES ... By R. K. BENYON.
(No. 1. Dance of the Roses. No. 2. Dance of the Pansies. No. 3. Dance of the Daisies.)
Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net.

SIX MINIATURE DANCES ... By J. M. CAPEL.
Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net.

TARANTELLA, for the Pianoforte ... By MEREDITH BALL.
Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. net.

CHAPPELL & CO., LTD., 50, New Bond St., London, W.

AND MAY BE HAD OF ALL MUSICSELLERS.

THE

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC

TENTERDEN STREET, HANOVER SQUARE.

INSTITUTED, 1822. INCORPORATED BY ROYAL CHARTER, 1830.

Patron: HIS MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE KING.

President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT AND STRATHEARN, K.G.

PRINCIPAL—SIR ALEXANDER CAMPBELL MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., D.C.L., F.R.A.M.

THE ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC offers to students of both sexes (whether amateur or professional) a thorough training in all branches of music under the most able and distinguished Professors. In addition to receiving individual lessons in the various branches of the Curriculum, students have the advantage of attending the Orchestral, Choral, and Chamber Music Classes, and the weekly Lectures on music and musicians. Evidence of their progress is given at the Fortnightly and Public Concerts and by periodical Operatic and Dramatic Performances.

There are three Terms in the Academic year—viz., the Michaelmas Term, from Michaelmas to Christmas; the Lent Term, from early in January to Easter; and the Midsummer Term, from early in May until the end of July.

The Fee for the ordinary curriculum is 11 Guineas per Term.

A large number of Scholarships and Prizes are founded and are competed for periodically.

Students who show special merit and ability receive the distinction of being elected by the Directors Associates of the Institution, and are thereby entitled to the use after their names of the initials A.R.A.M. Students who distinguish themselves in the musical profession after quitting the Institution may be elected by the Directors Fellows of the Royal Academy of Music, and are thereupon entitled to the use after their names of the initials F.R.A.M.

Subscribers have the privilege of attending the Lectures and Public Concerts and of introducing friends in proportion to the amount of their subscriptions.

An examination of persons trained independently of the Academy is held twice a year—viz., during the Summer and Christmas vacations—successful candidates at which are elected Licentiates of the Academy, and are thereupon entitled to the use after their names of the initials L.R.A.M. The syllabus is issued annually at Easter. Last day for entry for the September Examination, June 30; for the Christmas Examination, October 31.

Prospectus, entry form, and all further information may be obtained on application.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

C. BECHSTEIN

Pianoforte Manufacturer

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO

HIS MAJESTY THE KING,
HER LATE MAJESTY QUEEN VICTORIA,

H.M. THE EMPEROR OF GERMANY,

H.M. THE CZAR OF RUSSIA,

H.M. THE KING OF ITALY,

H.M. THE KING OF SPAIN,

H.M. THE KING OF ROUMANIA,

H.R.H. THE PRINCESS LOUISE,

H.R.H. THE CROWN PRINCE OF NORWAY AND SWEDEN,

H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG-GOTHA.

The World's Greatest Pianists prefer the Bechstein Piano to any other

LISZT writes :..... " For twenty-eight years I have now used your Pianos, and they have maintained their superiority. Your Instruments are perfect."

RUBINSTEIN writes :..... " At my Concerts I use BECHSTEIN'S Pianos almost exclusively. C. BECHSTEIN has attained the utmost degree of perfection in the art of instrument making."

VON BÜLOW writes :..... " C. BECHSTEIN'S Instruments are distinguished by their superior quality in every branch of Pianoforte manufacture."

CARL TAUSIG writes :..... " I play in public everywhere only on Mr. BECHSTEIN'S Pianofortes, because I regard them as the very best Instruments I know."

LESCHETIZKY writes :..... " The BECHSTEIN Piano is of the same importance to the pianist as a Stradivarius is to the violinist."

MOSZKOWSKI writes :..... " By BECHSTEIN the last word in Pianoforte manufacture has been said."

EUGEN D'ALBERT writes : " My best teachers and dearest friends are the BECHSTEIN Grands."

SOPHIE MENTER writes : " BECHSTEIN, the King of all Pianoforte Manufacturers."

STAVENHAGEN writes :... " I do not know of any other Pianoforte besides yours which, in tone and touch, affords the player facilities so exquisite and ideal."

JOSEF HOFMANN writes : " The BECHSTEIN Piano possesses greater poetry of tone, and resembles human voice more than any other instrument. It is the realisation of my ideal of a Piano, and only one on which I can express all I feel."

VLADIMIR DE PACHMANN writes : " To me it is the height of joy to play on these Instruments, for alone can I become one with the Piano and revel in pure music and poetry. The beauty of tone of the BECHSTEIN Piano I can only compare with that of a Stradivarius String Quartet."

BUSONI writes :..... " Your Pianos are as regards beauty of tone and evenness, precision and delicacy of touch, the acme of what can be produced in this art."

BECHSTEIN PIANOS

BECHSTEIN HALL—36-40, Wigmore Street, London, W.

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

3 9999 08818 993 9

B. P. L. Bindery,
SEP 27 1904

